Leaders put blame for accord failure on each other

Associated Press

WASHINGTON—President Reagan and Soviet leader Mikhail Gorbachev blamed each other Tuesday for an inability to strike an arms reduction deal in Iceland, but agreed that too much is at stake to fold the arms control bargaining table.

Reagan, in a nationally broadcast address to the Soviet people, accused Gorbachev of trying to push his country into an expensive new arms buildup. But Gorbachev also said that negotiations cannot be abandoned. He did say, however, the next move is up to the United States. The intercontinental ballistic missile came two days after the in a bittersweet climax to a war that the United States gave up in the space-based missile defense system.

The U.S. defense secretary for international security policy and a member of the Bush administration, said it was not yet clear whether the Soviet Union will meet the limited 1988 deadline to roll back its nuclear arsenal.

Reagan said the Kremlin was being warned not to bypass the distributor and go directly to the company that makes the products.

The products are delivered to the United States government. It was the first time the United States government had been involved in such a deal.

The committee's citation said: "Eile Wiesel has emerged as one of the most important spiritual leaders and guides in an age when violence, repression and racism continue to characterize the world."

"Wiesel is a messenger to mankind; his message is one of peace, atonement and human dignity. His belief that the forces fighting evil in the world can be victorious is a hard-won belief."

In 1944, Wiesel was among 15,000 Jews deported by Germans and Hungarian fascists from his native town of Sighet in what is now Romania. It was a

WIESEL, page 3

Holocaust survivor earns Nobel

Oslo, Norway—Elie Wiesel, who survived the Nazi Holocaust to become the voice of its victims and a champion of dignity for all people, was chosen Tuesday to receive the 1986 Nobel Peace Prize.

The Norwegian Nobel Committee praised the naturalized American author as a spiritual leader in an age of violence and hatred.

"Wiesel's commitment, which originated in the sufferings of the Jewish people, has been widened to embrace all repressed peoples and races," its citation said.

Wiesel, 58, lost his parents and younger sister at Nazi death camps during World War II. He has chronicled the sufferings of the Jews under Hitler and their problems in the Soviet Union today.

"I have devoted my life to a certain cause, the cause of memory, the cause of remembrance, and now I feel that maybe I will have a better opportunity to say the same words. I'm not going to change now, for more people," Wiesel said in New York, where he lives.

"I owe something to the dead. ... That was their obsession, to be remembered. Anyone who does not remember betrays them again."
In Brief

The slide show presentation on former Saint Mary’s College President Sister Madeliva given in Madeliva Hall Tuesday night, was very poorly attended, said Vice President of Student Affairs Sarah Cook at Tuesday night’s Programming Board meeting. Because of Sister Madeliva’s Importance to the history of Saint Mary’s, the presentation will be reshown at a later date. Committee plans to show the movies “Rebel Without a Cause,” “The Graduate” and “The Way We Were” for this year’s Way Up Market. This year’s goal will be $3,800, said Cook, which is approximately $1 per student. Senior Amy Dimberio was announced as the winner of The Observer’s Senior Scoop with President William Hickey and his wife for having the balloon which traveled the greatest distance. Approximately 2,640 helium-filled balloons were released Sept. 7. In celebration of tickey’s inauguration, Dimberio’s balloon was found In Bar Harbor, Maine.

University of Oklahoma linebacker Brian Bosworth has taken back his statement that he put stray bolts in cars while working as a General Motors Corp. plant. The president of the University of Oklahoma, Frank Horton, talked to Bosworth after former co-workers protested his comments. Bosworth denied putting the loose bolts in the cars, according to university spokeswoman Catherine Bishop. Bosworth was quoted in Sports Illustrated magazine’s fall football issue as saying that at a summer job last year at GM’s Oklahoma City plant, co-workers taught him how to throw the bolts in hard-to-reach places so they would rattle.

The model whose face was slashed on a Manhattan street, Martha Hanson, says she was sexually abused as a child and that experience steered her for her career in medicine. Hanson, 25, said she told her mother, her stepmother and fathers about the abuse last year. In February, she asked the newspapers to publish the story. She said she was thinking about telling the story.

Of Interest

“Strategic Choice Models on Latin American Politics,” a Kellogg seminar, will be presented by David Collier today from 10:15 to 11:45 in the Career and Placement Services office. Collier teaches Latin American politics at the University of California, Berkeley, and was the first Latin American to be elected a fellow to the American Academy of Arts and Sciences. He will speak about the tense political situation in Latin America and issues of international and national security.

Post-baccalaureate pre-medical recruiter at Bryn Mawr College, Colleen Kraus, will give an informal talk tomorrow morning from 9:30 to 11 in the Career and Placement Services office. She will discuss the options available for students who have already received a bachelor’s degree.

Weather

Boston’s Dennis “Oil Can” Boyd may be a few years away, but it’s never too early to earn the victory for the Red Sox last night. In the National League, the teams are in action tonight.

College friendships easily erased by time and distance

A very large package came in the mail for me last week. The outside was covered with printing in Spanish Inside, amongst a battle of hay, was a birthday present from one of my best friends. The box surprised and excited me, and yet tears ran down my cheeks as I opened it. The gift was from Erin who is studying in London this semester and was in Spain for a travel break. She is the only one of my classmates who is only going to study rather than work. I feel almost as if I’m losing touch and yet am comforted to know that Erin will return from London and take her place in my life again senior year.

But what about after senior year. I have to stop and ask myself. Will occasional letters be all that is left of the friendships I will have worked so hard to nurture for four years here? It seems every time you open the paper, some senior is scared about graduating. Maybe this comes from their sophomore or junior year, when some of their classmates studied abroad and were not the part of their lives they were the year before. Before Erin left I had never been separated from a friend for more than a few weeks. Leaving my high school friends was different: I can easily say that I was never as close to a high school friend as I am to my friends at Holy Cross. The only separations I’ve had from them have been vacations. But after I left the days ended and I back popping the midnight popcorn with them. The time from “The Big Chill” haunts me whenever I think of graduation. Nick, the cynic, says of his college friends, “A long time ago we knew each other for a very short while.” A very short while? I guess I like to think of these four years in terms of quality not quantity. I’m hoping the quality of my friendships here will be enough to stand the tests of time and distance after graduation.

It’s hard to imagine my college days being a “long time ago,” and yet I already feel very removed from my high school years. Years from now photo albums and scrapbooks will bring back great memories, but the only way to truly relive the good times or the bad will be with the college buddies who were there. Notre Dame seems a place well-suited for building these lasting friendships. Although the admissions office takes some abuse, they somehow gather 1,750 students each year that have a great deal in common. There is almost always someone around to share a hobby, a meal or a late-night cram session with.

These usual things are the fringes of friendships that build on the underlying foundations. These foundations are formed by living with and learning with those around you in a way unique to this time in your life. Take advantage of the personalities that surround you as you go about your daily routines. Realize that all too soon scattered letters and phone calls will be the means of keeping friendships alive.

Until then I have something to be thankful for. Thank goodness I’m only a junior and have 19 months to enjoy the wonderful friends I’ve made the last two years. And although I won’t miss my books or classes or studying over October Break, I’ll once again be sampling life without my college companions. Maybe I’ll have time to write some letters.

B UY O B S E R V E R C L A S S I F I E D S

The Observer

The independent student newspaper serving Notre Dame and Saint Mary’s College.

Assistant Viewpoint Editor

Questions should be directed to Scott Boreby by Friday, October 17.

Assistant Viewpoint Editor

The Observer

The independent student newspaper serving Notre Dame and Saint Mary’s College. Subscriptions may be purchased at 44 per year (22 per semester) by writing The Observer, P.O. Box 104, Notre Dame, Indiana 46556.

The Observer is a member of The Associated Press. All reproduction rights are reserved.
UNLOC' victorious in ND library contest

By JON THEISEN

Dorothy Paul-Hoffman was named the winner in the University Libraries' "Name the Automated Catalog Contest," according to Director of Libraries Robert Miller.

Hoffman, a secretary in the Reference Department of the Memorial Library, was awarded "$1.00, "UNLOC," according to Director of Libraries Robert Miller. The automated catalog system is expected to be in operation by May, Miller said, Initial access to books through the use of modems or on campus terminals, expected to be completed from 562 entries in the contest. Three runners-up were also named: Ramul Braham, "CANIC, "Computerized Access to Notre Dame Library; Daniel Dooley, "EDS, "Educational Resource Information Network; and Charles Hohenstein, "SORIN," System for On-line Retrieval of Information. Each runner-up was presented with a certificate for a Domino's pizza, according to the press release.

Miller said in the press release that Robert Groheak, an engineering student, Linda Gregory, supervisor of the University Libraries' Interlibrary Loan Office, and John Lucey, Professor of the University Committee on Libraries, judged the entries.

Reagan

continued from page 1

be held hostage to a non-negotiable demand that the United States forewear once and for all our right to develop a strategic defense" against missiles.

In nearly 11 hours of talks, Reagan and Gorbachev reached agreement on sweeping reductions in long-range nuclear missiles, and medium-range missiles in Europe and Asia. However, the accord unaverted because of Soviet insistence on restricting Reagan's "Star Wars" plan for a space-based missile defense system. Administrations officials stressed Tuesday, as they had ever since shortly after the summit ended, that arms control negotiations are not dead.

"I think after these propaganda blasts of this week, in which the Soviets will try to blame us for the failure of Iceland, when that wave is past, I think quiet negotiations will go on," White House chief of staff Donald Regan said in an interview on NBC's "Today" show. "I think the process will start again and we'll be back to the bargaining table," he said.

Parachute malfunction

Las Vegas police detectives approach the body of a California man who leaped to his death Monday night in what police say was a bizarre stunt that went awry.

Passengers in the plane believed the man wasn't wearing a parachute, but police say he had a lightweight chute that only partially deployed.
Serial killer preying on drifters throughout streets of Los Angeles

Associated Press

LOS ANGELES - A serial killer apparently has been preying at night on drifters and other lone men on streets throughout the city in a fast-developing case that one detective says has victims "popping up all over the place."

Homicide detectives were trying to determine whether two more bodies found Monday, including the brother of All-Pro tight end Art Monk of the Washington Redskins and another man, have ties to the same killer.

The brother of the late Art Monk, a 30-year-old detective who is in charge of both investigations, said five of the victims in the latest series appear to be drifters.

One notable difference between the two serial killers is the rate of the deaths. The 17 Southside Slayer murders began just over three years ago and have been sporadic, with some killings separated by months of inactivity.

However, in the latest outbreak, the nine killings have all occurred in the past six weeks, beginning Sept. 4. Victims have started popping up all over the place. This is a case that's developing quickly," said Lt. John Zorn, the 30-year-old detective who is in charge of both investigations.

Including a Vacationer from Texas, cannot be classified as transients. An autopsy was scheduled on the body of Emanuel Lofton, said county coroner spokesman Bill Gold. The brother of the 30-year-old Green Bay Packers wide receiver was found in a small park near Los Angeles where he had been sleeping, according to his father.

Lofton's father, 71-year-old John Lofton Jr., said his son had been drifting for eight years, and had been found dead in a park.

The decomposed body of the other victim, known only as John Doe No. 244, also was found Monday, under a freeway overpass near Dodger Stadium, north of downtown.

Violence already haunts their world, said Jonathan Praytor, who works in a hospitality kitchen sponsored by the Los Angeles Catholic Worker near a downtown park used by the homeless.

Nobel continued from page 1

one of the last great deportations in Hitler's extermination of an estimated 6 million Jews.

Wiesel settled in France, where he studied literature, philosophy and psychology at the Sorbonne from 1948-1951. He also worked as a journalist, travelling to Israel to cover the foundation of the Jewish state for the French newspaper L'Arche. He was Paris correspondent for the Tel Aviv newspaper Yediot Aharonot in 1952, and in 1956 he returned for the United Nations. Remaining in the United States, he applied for U.S. citizenship in 1956.

Correction

Judicial Commissioner Maria Cintrón was quoted incorrectly in Tuesday's Senate meeting story. Associate Vice President for Residence Life, John Goldrick, said two out of the four overnight paralegal violations he had made a ruling on had resulted in suspension or dismissal, according to Cintrón.

From the Fighting Irish to the NFL

Joe Montana, quarterback. Football superstar who went from Notre Dame to two Superbowl championships, two Superbowl MVP awards, and the cover of Time magazine. Now he tells his own story: the ups and downs, the conflicts and triumphs of a skyrocket career, with riveting play-by-play action in some of football's most exciting games... as seen by the man on the hot spot.

AudiBles is the first book and the last word on Joe Montana, from the man who knows the story best of all.

My Life in Football

Joe Montana and Bob Raissman

William B. Morrow

U.S. DEPARTMENT OF STATE
U.S. INFORMATION AGENCY
U.S. DEPARTMENT OF COMMERCE

offer

A Foreign Service Career

Representing the United States abroad as a Foreign Service Officer

The Initial Step:
The Annual Foreign Service Written Examination

December 6, 1986

Deadline for receipt of application:
October 24, 1986

You may obtain an application from your Campus Placement Office or by calling
(703) 235-9369 or 235-9377

An Equal Opportunity Employer

APPLICATION DEADLINE
EXTENDED...UNTIL OCTOBER 31

N.D.
Center for Social Concerns
University Ministry

S.M.C.
Office of Justice Education

For more information, call 239-7262
Dear Editor:

You report Father McCallan as saying that only a tiny minority of Catholic theologians support the Vatican teaching on birth control. I have been unable to verify whether that report is accurate. In any case, the statement as it has been published calls for a rebuttal.

First, the term "Vatican teaching" is loaded rhetoric, suggesting that the issue is over the position of a particular power bloc within the Church. The wrongness of artificial contraception has been held by Popes, Bishops and theologians with impressive unanimity for centuries. By any serious standard, it is a teaching of the Church as such.

Secondly, in regard to the views of theologians, those of other ages have a unanimous view. By mid-century, St. Thomas Aquinas could be no more timely contribution to this topic than the encyclical. Such is often the case with writing on controversial topics. The issue of artificial contraception is here. Is there one topic that is more timely?

Finally, it must not be overlooked that, during the last fifty years, when the pressure in favor of artificial contraception has become particularly strong, every Pope to deal with the topic has reaffirmed the Church's position: Pius XI, Pius XII, Paul VI, and John Paul II. This unanimity on the part of the pastors who, in God's providence, have been commissioned to give the Church its supreme direction is far more impressive that a dubious "majority opinion" of theologians.

Edward D. O'Conner, CSC

Peaceful actions are a voice for memorial

Dear Editor:

I note with interest that on Friday the University will dedicate a new Peace Memorial. It is a fine idea to work for peace. Our government is presently waging an illegal war against the government of Nicaragua, a war which bears no rational relationship to our national security or our national interest.

If we are to work for peace in our times, as Father Flanagan has suggested, we might begin by speaking out against United States aid to the so-called "Contras." I urge that, as we pray for peace on Friday afternoon, the University administration make a public statement rejecting this undeclared twilight war on Nicaragua. It would require some courage, but there could be no more timely contribution to the cause of world peace.

Re: Isaac McDaniel, G.S.B.

Hard work is the only cure for writer's block

Don't you just hate writer's block? There is one thing that does it. It is the time when I sit down at the computer console ready to take on the world with a hard-hitting editorial, and realizing that my mind has gone totally blank. It's kind of a text pattern on your thoughts, complete with the annoying hum that goes with it.

It is a fact that most people find writing to be easy; fewer that find it difficult. It is those who think writing is hard who are the best writers. They are the writers who are reporting the news and writing the novels we read. They are the Red Smiths, the James Kirpichs and the Art Buchwalds. They are the James Micheners and the Hermann Woukas.

I myself believe that writing is hard. It takes thought and concentration to write well. I make mistakes, as do all of us when we write. We may interpret the topic incorrectly, or not be as accurate as we should be. All reporters and all writers have made these mistakes in their lifetimes. To admit to these mistakes is to admit that writing is not easy. To stand back and criticize, while not admitting that we too can make those same mistakes, is to admit that writing is easy. A few professors at this university should consider that when grading those next term papers.

Whenever an article I have written is printed, I read it over and always find numerous places where I could have made certain points clearer or find another word that would have been more specific. I will do the same with this article and will likely to find places where I could have written better. At age 75, Carl Sandburg said that he would become a good writer if God gives him another "ten years." John Steinbeck wrote in a letter to his editor: "Sometimes I have felt that I held fire in my hands and spread a page with shining, but I have never lost the weight of clumsiness, of adhering inability." If those great writers felt writing was hard, then truly it is. You may become the most acclaimed writer of your time. You may be the "great" writer, but your feeling that you could have written a sentence that would have more easily conveyed what you meant. It takes many years to become a good writer. If you have started down that path to being a good writer, I know that it is going to be a hard journey, but writing is the hardest art of all. Don't let anyone tell you that it is a piece of cake. Guess what? I think I just got past that writer's block.

Eric Bergamo is a Junior government major at Notre Dame and is a regular Viewpoint columnist.

Bill Glavin of the Newhouse School of Journalism for The Catholic University says this about writing, "Bad writers think that writing is easy; good writers think writing is hard."

Writing is hard. It takes a lot of thought and struggle to put out an editorial, or a news article or a features article. It is a fact that most people find writing to be easy; fewer find it difficult. It is those who think writing is hard who are the best writers.

Write to us

Viewpoint Department
P.O. Box Q

Donoosbury

Garry Trudyne

Quote of the day

"The only way to have a friend is to be one."

Ralph Waldo Emerson

(1803-1882)
These are the lyrics from ‘Louie, Louie’:

Louie, Louie

Three nights and days, me sailed the sea
Me see Jamaica moon above
Me take her in my arms and then
I sail the ship all alone

I think I'll make her mine

A little girl's wailing, she asks for me
Me casts a ship across the sea
I sail the ship all alone

I think I'll make her mine

From the lyrics, we can see that the song has a sexual connotation, which is why it was banned in many places. It is not a safe or healthy song to consider in a political or historical context.

The song 'Louie, Louie' is a classic example of a song that was once popular but is now considered inappropriate due to its sexual content. This shows how societal norms and values can change over time, and how certain songs that were once acceptable are now considered offensive or inappropriate.
The French exercise in utility

So, did you pick up a game of hoops or take a jog around the lakes today to clear your mind after Economics or work off last night's Domino's? Even if you're not a Domer, I wouldn't be surprised if you had.

In the past ten years or so, Americans have become extremely conscious. There's more awareness of the many positive benefits one can receive from following a daily regime of eating well, exercising regularly, and liminting vices such as alcohol and cigarettes.

I have found, though, that is phenomenon has yet to fully reach and influence most of us. Americans here eat balanced meals and balance them well into their day, but they do not exercise as a rule and consume more alchoholic beverages and smoke more than Americans.

Mary Berger

C'est la Vie

In this country renowned for its cuisine, one can find few faults with the food and meal planning from a nutritional point of view. Breakfast is very light: bread and coffee or tea. Lunch is the hot, main meal of the day: usually meat or fish and vegetables, while dinner is another light meal: pasta, egg, or a cheese-filled pastry for instance, and perhaps vegetables. Bread usually accompanies every meal with cheese and either fruit or a sweet dessert is eaten after lunch and dinner.

From an American stomach's point of view, there Is never enough food. But if the French people can thrive on such a regimen, this seemingly sparse amount must be sufficient. By French Standards, Americans are a bit gluttonous and quite overfied. I overhearn once a person say we Americans are not healthy because we eat so much.

But, do we Americans have consumed all of those calories? We burn them off!

Whether it be a walk after dinner, a aerobics class before work, or a stop at the gym during lunch, many Americans take the exercise to time. Not only does a good workout help keep us in shape, it also relaxes us and relieves the pressure of our worries.

Here, some people do participate in team and individual sports such as soccer or go to a gym but they are a minority. Physical education classes are rare in school curriculums and even more rarely are they mandatory.

One of my professors told a story of her grade-school days when her P.E. class was scheduled between two academic classes. She told us that she hated having to change her clothes, run around or play games and get sweaty, and then change her clothes again for her next class. So, her father wrote a note excusing her from class. Imagine if she went to Notre Dame and had to skip in a swimming class at the between an 8 a.m. class in the Engineering Auditorium and one at 10:10 a.m. in the Library!

It is true that the French do not need to burn as many calories as we Americans, but they could benefit from the stress-relieving aspects of exercise.

I am sure living here is as stressing as life in the United States.

In the states, students are faced with SAT's and ACT's as they prepare for college. Similarly, in France, high school seniors must study for hours to pass the Baccalaureate exam, and I have been told that great pressure accompanies this test.

Likewise, single parent families and women in the work force are present in this society just as in America. The problems of abortion, unemployment, and other worries also concern the French as much as they concern Americans.

So, how do the people cope? The leisurely two-hour lunch that everyone takes is very relaxing. Quite often, families go to their homes in the country on weekends and find respite there. Sometimes there are no worries at all and people find it to relax, but exercise does not seem to be a very popular one.

If one wishes to exercise here, he can consider his walk to the bakery or local cafe as enough and can't see why we Americans spend so much time wearing ourselves out exercising and suffering so we can feel good and look better.

CHRISTI HOLTZ
features writer

Saint Mary's football players combine a spirit of competitiveness with a sense of fun.

CHRISTI HOLTZ
features writer

Athletics are an Important part of Notre Dame/Saint Mary's community. Intramural and club sports give the students a chance to continue participating in a sport that they have played previously. The opportunities to play on Tuesdays and Thursdays of every week. Anyone who lives In the dorms are eligible to play on their respective teams and find an opportunity to continue playing the sport they love.

Notre Dame men coach the women in flag football, and play continues Into early November. Games are usually played on Tuesdays and Thursdays of every week. Anyone who lives In the dorms are eligible to play on their respective teams and find an opportunity to continue playing the sport they love.

Notre Dame men coach the women in flag football, and play continues Into early November. Games are usually played on Tuesdays and Thursdays of every week. Anyone who lives In the dorms are eligible to play on their respective teams and find an opportunity to continue playing the sport they love.

Notre Dame men coach the women in flag football, and play continues Into early November. Games are usually played on Tuesdays and Thursdays of every week. Anyone who lives In the dorms are eligible to play on their respective teams and find an opportunity to continue playing the sport they love.
Sports Briefs

The Notre Dame basketball team will conduct tryouts for the "walk-on" position tonight from 9-11 p.m. That is a change from the previously reported time of 8-10 p.m. All students interested should report, dressed to play, to the athletic center. Try-outs will be held at 8:45 if you have any questions, contact Rkick Cilkinson in the Basketball Office. - The Observer

The ND-MSCA scuba club will hold a meeting tonight at 7:30 in room 218 Rockne Memorial. The remaining open positions for the club will be filled then. Please show up at 7:45 and perhaps re-interest in learning how to dive are welcome. - The Observer

Officials for co-rec basketball are needed by NVA. Applications available at the NVA office, or call 235-6100 for more information. - The Observer

The ND rowing club will hold a general meeting for all varsity rowers tonight at 8:30 in room 123 Newberry concerning the trip to Philadelphia. Bring your checkbooks. - The Observer

Sports Briefs are accepted Sunday through Friday in The Observer offices on the third floor of LaFayette Student Center before 3 p.m. on the day prior to publication. - The Observer
Interhall soccer action heats up as teams drive for playoffs

By GEORGE TRAVERS
Sports Writer

As the NVA Interhall Soccer League finishes its regular season, the best teams prepare to battle for the championships. Every playoff team will be in a dogfight for the right to call itself champion.

In the North American Division, Fisher was the first team to clinch a playoff spot. It beat Cavanaugh in a dramatic shootout on Monday. It appeared Fisher had the game in hand, but Cavanaugh scored with only 14 seconds left to force the shootout. It appeared Fisher had the game, but it was not to be. The score was 1-1. Fisher then had the game won, but Cavanaugh scored with only 14 seconds left in regulation time, to tie the score at 1-1. Fisher then won the game in the shootout. The other North American Division team in the playoff will most likely be the winner of Holy Cross 'A' and Alumni. Both teams are 3-1 and will battle for the final spot today.

Tom Schlesser, stopper for the Fisher squad, feels his team will be ready to face any team. "Our defense has been awesome," Schlesser said. "We have done a good job at limiting our opponents' scoring opportunities. If we can combine our defense with an offense and midfield we can be unstoppable. We're confident we can take it to anybody."

There is a three-way logjam in the West Coast Division for the two playoff spots. Zaper has given up only two goals all season. Led by forward Tommy Walker and halfback Steve Kranz, the Hoobers defeated the Grace 'A' team earlier this year. Grace 'A' is also very strong and has its eyes on a championship. Spanked by goals from Dave Gullott and Tom Loftus, it toppled Notre Dame 'B' by a 2-0 score in its final regular-season game. Coach Jack Lee feels his team has a good chance at getting all they way. "Our defense and fan support have gotten us this far," he says. "Now if we can score some more goals and get some strong play at midfield we could surprise a few people."

The Eastern European Division is dominated by the Off-Campus Spellphs. They will bring their 5-0 record into the playoffs after beating Stanford, 1-0, last Wednesday. The Spellphs have not been scored on and are confident they can win. The two teams fighting for the final playoff spot in this division are Stanford and Dillon 1. Dillon has a crucial make-up game after breaks against Pangborn that it must win to get into the playoffs. Stanford has had an up-and-down season. With a 3-2 record following a loss to the Off-Campus Spellphs last week, they can only hope that Dillon 1 losses to catapult it into the playoffs. Spellphs coach Dave Thompson sees sweeper Norb Knapke could play a crucial role in the playoffs. "We would like to get more goals than we've been getting," he says. Our ball control has been great but more balls in the net is a must. Once you get into the double-elimination playoffs, all teams are pretty equal."
Hurricanes remain on top in AP college football poll

Associated Press

Miami, Alabama, Nebraska and Michigan retained the top four spots in The Associated Press college football poll yesterday, while North Carolina and Southern Methodist joined the Top Twenty for the first time this season.

In addition, defending national champion Oklahoma climbed from sixth place to fifth.

Unbeaten Miami easily held on to the No. 1 spot for the third consecutive week, after routing West Virginia 54-14 last Saturday for its sixth victory.

The Hurricanes received 56 of 59 first-place votes and 1,175 of a possible 1,200 points from a nationwide panel of sports writers and sportscasters.

Alabama, 6-0, collected two first-place votes and 1,099 points after ousting Memphis State 37-0, Nebraska, 5-0, which beat Oklahoma State 30-10, got 1,018 points, and Michigan, 5-0, received 966 points after defeating Michigan State 27-7.

North Carolina, 4-0-1, moved among the elite at No. 18 after ousting Wake Forest 45-30. SMU, 4-1, came in at No. 20. Tied with Baylor, according to the pre-season poll.

Penn State, 5-0, received the other first-place vote, but dropped from fifth to sixth with 892 points after having to rally to beat Cincinnati 23-17.

Auburn, 5-0, remained No. 7 with 861 points after beating Vanderbilt 31-9, but Arkansas and Southern California, ranked eighth and ninth last week, suffered their first setbacks of the season and dropped into the Second Ten.

Iowa, 5-0, beat Wisconsin 17-6 and vaulted from 10th place to eighth.

On the Viewpoint pages your opinions "add up"

Over 500 letters to the editor and 30 columns appeared last year in Viewpoint. Join the growing number of people who feel their thoughts and opinions do make a difference.

Write us at: P.O. Box Q Notre Dame, IN 46556

A deeply romantic...and sexy love story

She is the most mysterious, independent, beautiful, angry person he has ever met.

He is the first man who has ever gotten close enough to feel the heat of her anger...and her love.

Get Ready for October Break!

Try out this week's specials:

Wed: Imports $1.00

Thurs: Pre-Jamaica PJ Party

Fri: Lunch 11:30-1:30

The Observer

Wednesday, October 15, 1986 - page 10

Griffin's return helps Irish defense

BY ERIC SCHNEUERMANN

Sports Writer

With the Notre Dame football team struggling in a season of return to a campaign with a shortage of defensive linemen, and a return of nose tackle Mike Griffin after a year's absence because of injury has been welcomed one.

With the 1986 season five weeks old, Griffin has returned to his starting nose-tackle slot and has contributed 15 solo tackles and nine assists while helping the Irish become more consistent up front on the defensive line.

Saturday against Pitt, Griffin came up with the first blocked field goal for the Irish, blocking Jeff Van Horn's 36-yard attempt in the second quarter. It was the first block for the Irish since Brandy Wells did it last year against Michigan State.

Griffin broke his ankle during last fall's preseason drills and had to sit out the entire 1985 season as well as spring practice.

"It was sort of a freak accident during a drill with the offensive linemen," says Griffin. "My foot got caught in the grass or some-thing, and I broke back seas in my ankle. I had to have seven stitches and a plate put in during surgery."

Griffin had been looking to come back in six weeks, but left off in 1984, when he recorded 40 tackles for his first season as a sophomore. In fact, Griffin made a big impact as a freshman, playing in 10 of the team's 11 games, and finishing second to first-linebacker Mike Kovalak in tackles among first-year players.

"I was looking for a good football program coming out of high school," he says. "and I felt it was important to come to a place like Notre Dame where they'd push me to get an education. I didn't expect to get a chance to play much defense on a freshman. I just was looking to help out on special teams or something, but an injury to (since graduated) John Autry opened the door for me."

"I thought I had a pretty good froshman year. The only problem was that I started the season at 254 pounds and I weighed only 225 pounds when I went home after the Liberty Bowl. I didn't play as well as I would have liked my sophomore year, though."

The ankle injury halted any plans for an improved Junior campaign, however, and pushed Griffin's career back a year.

At first they thought I could come back in six weeks, he says, "but the bones didn't heal very well, and the rehabilitation process back, forcing me to miss spring practice."

"Sitting out the season was the toughest part. I had a lot of friends that were seniors, and I had to watch all the away games here on TV. But there wasn't a lot I could do. I wore a portable bone-healing stimulator 18 hours a day, but besides that there wasn't much to do but wait."

"So wait he did, and when fall practice started under the new coaching staff - which included defensive line coach Joe Voyer - he was ready.

"I was a little rusty when I came back in the fall, but we had some long practices so I had a lot of time to work some of that rust off," Griffin says.

Sophomore Marty Ullipncoft had played nose tackle during spring drills, so Griffin found himself in a fight to regain his old starting position.

"Marty had played in the spring, and he started the Michigan game at nose tackle," says Griffin. "But they moved him to offense after that and I moved back up."

"My ankle hasn't really been a problem at all. There was some pain after two-a-days during the preseason, but it hasn't bothered me since. I still don't think I've played all that well, though. I've just got to work a little harder, I think the defensive line as a whole has done a decent job, but we aren't yet where we have to be."

With six tough games remaining, Griffin and his Irish teammates will be looking to close that gap.

Campus

12:10-1:00 p.m.: Closed Meeting of Alcoholics Anonymous, Holy Cross House
3:30 p.m.: Field Hockey, ND vs Michigan State, Carter Field
3:30-5:00 p.m.: Computer Minicourse, Nota Bene Wordprocessing, Part 2, Irmit 7, O'Neill Computing Center: Free and open to the public. To register call Betty at 239-5604
4:00-6:00 p.m.: Kellogg Institute Public Lecture "Strategic Choice Models of Latin American Politics," by David Collier, Kellogg Fellow, 222 Hayes-Healy
4:20 p.m.: Physics Colloquium, "Quantum Electrodynamics: 1938-1959, An Historical Perspective," by Dr. Silvan S. Schweber, Brandeis University, 118 Nieuwland Science Hall
7:00 p.m.: Wednesday Night Film Series, "His Girl Friday," 1940, BW, 95 minutes, Howard Hawk's, USA, O'Shaughnessy Hall Loft

Dinner Menus

Notre Dame

- Oven Fried Chicken Parmigiana
- Individual Beef Pot Pie
- Seafood Cantonese
- Hot Open Faced Cheese Sub
- Philadelphia Steak Sandwich
- Baked Fish with Sweet & Sour Sauce
- Fried Chicken Parmigiana
- Individual Beef Pot Pie
- Seafood Cantonese
- Hot Open Faced Cheese Sub

Saint Mary's

- Philadelphia Steak Sandwich
- Baked Fish with Sweet & Sour Sauce
- Eggplant Parmesan
- Philadelphia Steak Sandwich
- Baked Fish with Sweet & Sour Sauce
- Eggplant Parmesan

---

The Daily Crossword

ACROSS

1. Eros
2. Earthy deposit
3. Track shape
4. Stormed
5. 12 doz.
6. Bank or field
7. Legends
8. Certain for gestic form
9. Hive
11. Actress Swenson
12. Go separate ways
13. Female ruff
14. Shipshape
15. Relating to an arm bone
16. Female ruff
17. Insect
18. Courtcrier's word
19. Stormed
20. Kind of cat
21. Not excessive
22. Grass genus
23. Lair
24. Hawaiian goose
25. Shortly
26. Room
27. Praise highly
28. Tree of Lebanon
29. Omega's cousin
30. Knight
31. Not excessive
32. Ocean hazard
33. "Mash" actor
34. Dig deeply
35. Yoked animals
36. Track shape
37. Sister
38. Colored
39. Sought congers
40. Colored
41. Puccini opera
42. Closet item
43. Label
44. Math. branch
45. Author of "Republic"
46. Roofing stuff
47. Donate
48. Pledged things
49. Fireplace shelf
50. Ejected
51. Bridge term
52. Depict
53. Robor or Sparks
54. Aspiration
55. Obliterate
56. Aspiration
57. Make a speech
58. Pouch
59. Boast
60. Unusual
61. Soviet range
62. Fast fliers
63. Certain plaintiff
64. Certain
65. Certain
66. Pipe part
67. Macaw
68. Part of an hourglass figure
70. Reef material
71. Noble lit.
72. Corner
73. Healthy
74. Arnaz
75. Kind of sch.

DOWN

1. "Mash" actor
2. Earthen deposit
3. Tree shape
4. Stormed
5. Jillion of TV
6. Bank or field
7. Certain for gestic form
8. Certain for gestic form
9. Hive VIP
11. Actress Swenson
12. Go separate ways
16. Female ruff
18. Courtcrier's word
22. Grass genus
24. Hawaiian goose
26. Room
27. Praise highly
28. Tree of Lebanon
30. Knight
32. Ocean hazard
33. Paysh
34. Dig deeply
36. Alliance
38. Letters
39. Certain
40. Certain
42. Closet item
43. Label
44. Math. branch
45. Author of "Republic"
46. Roofing stuff
47. Donate
48. Pledged things
49. Fireplace shelf
50. Ejected
51. Bridge term
52. Depict
53. Robor or Sparks
54. Aspiration
55. Obliterate
56. Aspiration
57. Make a speech
58. Pouch
59. Boast
60. Unusual
61. Soviet range
62. Fast fliers
63. Certain plaintiff
64. Certain
65. Certain
66. Pipe part
67. Macaw
68. Part of an hourglass figure
70. Reef material
71. Noble lit.
72. Corner
73. Healthy
74. Arnaz
75. Kind of sch.

---

Save your breath.

Plant a tree to make more oxygen.

Give a hoot.

Don't pollute.

Forest Service, U.S.D.A. [logo]

---

SAB PRESENTS...

A STREETCAR NAMED DESIRE

Wednesday Oct 15

Thursday Oct 16

Engineering Auditorium

7:00, 9:15, 11:30

No food or drink permitted in Auditorium
Sports

Red Sox even series with 10-4 win

Associated Press

BOSTON - The Boston Red Sox, behind rookie right-hander John Candelaria, won their first playoff game since 1986 and are one victory away from reaching their first World Series in 25 years.

The Red Sox had lost their first two playoff games at home, but they defeated the Minnesota Twins 10-4 in Game 6 of the American League Championship Series Wednesday night at Fenway Park.

Candelaria pitched seven innings and allowed one run on five hits. He walked two and struck out three. The win was his first in the majors.

The Red Sox improved to 5-1 in the playoffs and have a 3-3 tie in the best-of-seven series.

Candelaria, who was making his first major league start, was named the game's most valuable player.

"I tried to stay calm and keep my confidence up," Candelaria said. "I knew they were a good team and I knew I could do it."