Buchwald pokes fun at Washington figures

By TRUMP BALZ

EPLAULT, Ind. — Art Buchwald, nationally-synchronized columnist, declared himself one of America’s greatest employers at the Etoe Theatre Wednesday night. "Most everybody in Wash­ington works for me," he an­nounced.

Dishing out the humorous commentary that earned him the 1982 Pulitzer prize, Buchwald poked fun at Washington figures and issues in a lecture titled "On Morality and Ethics."

He praised the organizers for getting the best possible speaker on the subject. "In Washington, I know morality when I see it and ethics when I don’t," he said.

Buchwald, a graduate of the University of Southern California, drew upon the humor columns he has been writing for almost 40 years. "To be a humorist, he said, "you have to have an unhappy childhood." He told the audience to encourage their children to write columns if they have a good sense of humor. "There's a lot of money in it," he added.

Buchwald said he has enjoyed writing about several humorous presidential administrative figures. Ronald Reagan himself did not escape the slings and arrows of Buchwald’s outrageous humor. "I worship the quick-sand he walks on," Buchwald said.

Reagan got the idea for supply-side economics from watching "Tip O'Neil eat a bowl of soup," according to Buchwald. Buch­wald said he has a terrible fear that if the Soviets ever launch an attack, the president will get his little black box, push the but­ton till he's released 8,000 MS missiles, and the only thing that will happen, is the White House garage door will go up.

Buchwald said the American public is down on the media. "Everybody wonders where we got our government secrets from. We get them from the govern­ment." If a Washington reporter says he's stepping out of the office for a leak, it means he's going to pick up a top secret document," said Buchwald.

Buchwald said every institu­tion is under pressure. He recalls having heard about a University president who told his football coach he was going to give one of his athletes a giz, because he was under pressure to improve the academic quality of sports at his school. "He went to the boy and said 'What's two plus two?' and the kid answered four. "Then the coach said, 'Aw, give 'em another chance.'"

Buchwald was touring Notre Dame on his own earlier this week. He said he talked to an Associated Press reporter...

Associated Press

DISHAND, Afghanistan — Communist party chief Najibul­lah threw flower petals at about 1,500 members of a Soviet tank regiment who clanked away in a dusty column Wednesday on their long and well-publicized trip home.

The departure from a parched basin in this region near the Iranian frontier began the withdrawal of about 6,000 of the estimated 115,000 So­ viet soldiers who help the com­munist government fight Mos­lem guerrillas.

Soviet leader Mikhail Gorba­chev promised the pullout in July, during a speech in Vladivostok, Moscow has con­fessed that Afghan govern­ment forces are much stronger now than when it sent the free­tropo to Kabul in December 1979.

Western diplomats in Af­ghanistan say the withdrawal is insignificant, a gesture timed to ward off criticism during annual U.N. debate on the Afghan war later this year.

Soviet officials call it a sym­bolic withdrawal of effec­tive military force. The depart­ure will not be complete, they say, until the United States, Pakistan and other countries stop sup­plying political support and weapons to the Moslem guer­rillas.

Publicly about the withdrawal began immediately after Gorbachev’s announce­ment. In a carefully supervised visit to Afghanistan for about 100 foreign journalists, most of them from the Soviet Union and its East European allies. The seven-day tour was ar­ranged in Moscow by the Soviet Foreign Ministry for nine news­of­ficials.

Visiting reporters are allowed almost no independent move­ments.

Associated Press

AFGHAN, page 3

Attacks strike near Wailing Wall

It was the most serious attack in the city in 20 years and came during three weeks of Jewish observances known as the High Holidays. Mayor Teddy Kollek called it a "large scale disaster.

A medic who was on the scene said on army radio: 'I heard two, three explosions... I heard shouts and windows exploding. There were shattered Injuries, there were smashed limbs, bro­ken hands and legs of those who stood close.'

The wall of emergency sirens and screams of the wounded cut the evening air and a nearby sidewalk was stained with blood. Streets of clothing were strewn about.

The injured, some with their clothes ripped off by the explos­ions, were lifted onto stretchers and carried by soldiers and passers-by to ambulances.

Israel Radio reported at least two attackers threw as many as three Soviet-made hand grenades at the crowd.

Defense Minister Yitzhak Rabin told reporters at the scene, "This was a deliberate act of terror."
Contrary to popular belief
Hesburgh not to blame

The press can be a very powerful tool. In 1960 newspaper mogul William Randolph Hearst and Joseph Pulitzer played a large part in persuading the nation to go to war against Spain. Although certainly not as important, 1985 a commentary from a student appeared in The Observer and persuaded many students the University's president was at fault for the decision of "Louie, Louie" from the band's program.

The story began, according to Assistant Director of Bands Rich Morrison, when a woman wrote a letter to the University president's office, complaining she found the song "Louie, Louie" offensive.

The woman's letter filtered down from the University president's office to the acting director of the band, James Phillips. In consultation with Morrison and Assistant Director of Bands Father George Walschink, Phillips decided the band should stop playing the song while they investigated the situation, according to Morrison.

"The original decision was from the fact that someone found it offensive," he said. The final decision is pending further investigation, he added.

"It was a decision made in (the band's) office," said Morrison.

Many students, however, think the decision to stop playing the song was made by University President Theodore Hesburgh. A Viewpoint column written in the Oct. 8 edition of The Observer stated word was sent from Hesburgh to Phillips that the band could no longer play the "immoral tune."

The fact of the matter is, however, that Hesburgh never gave such an order to Phillips. Hesburgh was born. This led to a letter to the editor in Wednesday's edition of The Observer again blaming Hesburgh.

Morrison claims that a misunderstanding led to some members interpreting Phillips as blaming Hesburgh. Whether there was a misunderstanding or not, the fact remains that for the last week I have listened to my friends berate Hesburgh for what they believed was his decision to ban the song. A column and letter to the editor, even though written without full benefit of the facts, were able to convince many students of Hesburgh's "guilt."

After the Viewpoint column, many students were very upset on Hesburgh's back and blame him for banning the popular song. Although this is not the most important issue to affect student life, two questions still remain. First, was the band misinformed as to who was responsible for banning the song, as some band members and the column writer think? I don't know.

Second, should the band directors discontinue playing "Louie, Louie" just because a complaint was received about it's morality?

I don't think so. Morrison said it is possible the song will be played in the future. It will depend on what Phillips, Morrison and Walschink decide about the offensiveness of the song and whether or not the song can be fit into the band's future routines.

I hope they have all the facts. I allow how people will reserve judgement on their decision until they too get all the facts.

Chris Bednarski
Assistant News Editor
Gene discovered for muscular dystrophy

Associated Press

NEW YORK - Researchers have found the long-sought gene responsible for the most common form of muscular dystrophy, a "historic discovery" that could lead to the first direct treatment of this now-incurable disease.

The Muscular Dystrophy Association, which provided much of the financial support for the research, cautioned that the discovery would not immediately help children with Duchenne muscular dystrophy, an illness that afflicts 20,000 to 50,000 American boys who will not survive beyond their 20s.

"We're extremely encouraged and excited by this historic discovery," said Donald Wood, the association's associate director. "It's a very big step forward in our efforts to conquer this disease, but there is a long way to go to develop treatments."

The discovery of the gene by Louis Kunkel, Anthony Monaco and colleagues at Children's Hospital and Harvard Medical School in Boston caps several years of unusual cooperation by scientists around the world.

In a report to be published Thursday in Nature magazine, Kunkel and Monaco describe the isolation of a segment of genetic material that makes up about 10 percent of the Duchenne muscular dystrophy gene. This piece of the gene can now be used to isolate the entire gene.

The researchers also report that the gene appears to encode the blueprint for manufacture of a protein in muscle tissue. Duchenne muscular dystrophy is an inherited disease marked by gradual death of muscle tissue. It occurs when the protein is missing or altered.

Scientists had presumed that the defective protein responsible for the disease was located in muscle tissue, but so little had been known about the ailment that scientists had been unable to prove that - until now.

Kunkel and his collaborators found that the gene had produced in muscle tissue a substance called messenger RNA, an intermediate step in the production of a protein by the gene.

Scientists believe that the protein encoded by the gene is a component of a protein produced by the gene, which is critical to muscle growth and repair.

They also noted that the protein appears to be a "very strong candidate" for the disease.

When the physiology is understood, researchers might be able to devise ways to alter or alter the protein to treat the disease.

Scientists had presumed that the defective protein responsible for the disease was located in muscle tissue, but so little had been known about the ailment that scientists had been unable to prove that - until now.

Kunkel said in a telephone interview Wednesday that the next critical step in the research will be to identify the protein encoded by the gene, a straightforward task that could be accomplished within a year.

"When the physiology is understood, researchers might be able to devise ways to alter the protein to treat the disease."
Joe Mamma's Pizza

New Location
1511 Portage, South Bend
101 MAMMA'S PIZZA

Free Delivery

16" Original ONE PIZZA
- Double Toppings-2 Items or More
  - $1.50
  - OFF Plus 2 Qts. R.C. Cola
  - JOE MAMMA'S PIZZA
  - 256-1611 or 232-0677
  - COUPON EXPIRES OCT. 31

13" Original ONE PIZZA
- Double Toppings-5 Items or More
  - $1.00
  - OFF Plus 1 Qt. R.C. Cola
  - JOE MAMMA'S PIZZA
  - 256-1611 or 232-0677
  - COUPON EXPIRES OCT. 31

16" Original ONE PIZZA
- Double Toppings-2 Items or More
  - $1.00
  - OFF Plus 1 Qt. R.C. Cola
  - JOE MAMMA'S PIZZA
  - 256-1611 or 232-0677
  - COUPON EXPIRES OCT. 31

13" Original ONE PIZZA
- Double Toppings-2 Items or More
  - $1.00
  - OFF Plus 1 Qt. R.C. Cola
  - JOE MAMMA'S PIZZA
  - 256-1611 or 232-0677
  - COUPON EXPIRES OCT. 31

2 QTS. R.C. COLA FREE
- With Any (2 Items or More) Pizza
  - Original
  - JOE MAMMA'S PIZZA
  - 256-1611 or 232-0677

1 QT. R.C. COLA FREE
- With Any (2 Items or More) Pizza
  - Standard
  - JOE MAMMA'S PIZZA
  - 256-1611 or 232-0677

3 QTS. R.C. COLA FREE
- With Any 16" Deluxe or Supreme
  - JOE MAMMA'S PIZZA
  - 256-1611 or 232-0677

2 QTS. R.C. COLA FREE
- With Any 16" Deluxe or Supreme
  - Standard
  - JOE MAMMA'S PIZZA
  - 256-1611 or 232-0677

Catagories

Original Pizza

- HOURS: Mon.-Fri. 4pm—Midnight
- Sat. 4pm-1pm; Sun. 4—Midnight
- Delivery Area

Standard Pizza

- ORDER OUR STANDARD PIZZA (FOR 1)
- OR 16" PIZZA
- Try One Slice of Our Original Pizza & If You
- Do Not Agree Our Pizza is the BEST RETURN

Valid On:

- All Coupons Are To Be Presented When Ordering Or Coupon Will Be Invalid. One Coupon Per Order.

Area Details:

- 866 E. 3rd Mishawaka
- 254-1611 or 232-0677
- NOTICE: Trame Delivery

---

SANDWICHES AVAILABLE!

ALL COUPONS ARE TO BE PRESENTED WHEN ORDERING OR COUPON WILL BE INVALID. ONE COUPON PER ORDER.

---

Try One Slice of Our Original Pizza & If You Do Not Agree Our Pizza is the BEST RETURN
Nobel Prize discovery to benefit man facing eye loss in New Albany

Associated Press
NEW ALBANY, Ind. - A Vanderbilt University researcher may have won a Nobel Prize in medicine this week for developing a cell stimulant, but Howard Webb of New Albany says he's the real winner.

Without the cell stimulant developed by Dr. Stanley Cohen and an Italian scientist, Webb would have lost his right eye, his doctor says.

Eye damage caused by a car, consuming the protein that Cohen discovered 24 years ago and a drug made from a machine for cleaning automobile parts sprayied his face.

A cornea transplant failed because a covering, called the epithelium, did not completely grow over the surface of the new cornea.

The transplanted cornea clouded, leaving Webb legally blind in his right eye and in danger of losing the eye altogether, according to Dr. Richard Ellerman.

But Webb, who was the first patient to use the drug in Louisville, put the drug in his eyes four times a day for six days and the covering closed over his cornea.

Ellerman said Webb can now undergo a second transplant with a better chance of success.

House and Senate labor to finish work before adjournment

Associated Press
WASHINGTON - Less than three weeks before a session on the House and Senate rushed Wednesday to adjourn the 99th Congress as legislators began whittling a stack of major legislation, overhaul immigration laws and combat illegal drug trafficking.

Both chambers were in the midst of what promised to be a series of marathon sessions as congressional leaders searched for compromises on sticky issues, rush to wrap up legislative business by Thursday or Friday, two weeks after the original adjournment target of Oct. 3.

The biggest and most pressing item on the agenda was a nearly $576 billion, omnibus spending bill - the largest ever considered by Congress - to meet the funding needs of most government operations and programs for the rest of the fiscal year which began Oct. 1.

Since the beginning of the fiscal year, the government has limped along on a series of stopgap spending measures, the last of which was expiring at midnight Wednesday.

Congressional negotiators settled on the final version of the massive spending bill Wednesday morning, and action by the full House was expected late Wednesday.

However, the Senate was not taking up the measure before Thursday, leaving the government technically broke unless another stopgap bill was put into place.

The way for consideration of the spending package was cleared Tuesday night after bargainers settled on a $201.8 billion worth of military spending, including agreements with the Reagan administration on arms control issues.

The House voted approval Wednesday of the compromise defense budget bill.

The Democratic-controlled chamber passed the bill on a 285-128 vote, meaning only approval by the Republican-run Senate is needed before the measure goes to Reagan's desk.

A Senate vote is expected later this week.

Although the conference finished their work, battles on foreign aid and several other provisions of the money bill were expected in each chamber.

Also awaiting final congressional action was legislation to revise the nation's immigration laws and provide amnesty for illegal aliens who entered the country before 1982.

The House approved the compromise measure, which also includes penalties for employers who hire illegal aliens in the future, on a bipartisan 258-173 vote.

But the legislation, versions of which have died in each of the previous two congresses, still could become tied up by opposition in the Senate.

The Senate, meanwhile, was set to consider a bill to compensate $1.7 trillion anti-drug measure to shore up federal law enforcement, rehabilitation and community efforts as well as provide aid to local police.

The legislation, which has moved swiftly through Congress, is a popular election-year issue.

Correction

A student was incorrectly quoted in Wednesday's story about the Munchy Company. Rob Very, one of the organizers of the new student food-services on campus, said no contracts are delivered between 6:30 and 7:30 p.m. the day after orders are placed.

Nicolás
N.D.'s next door neighbor specializing in Italian Food
M · F 11am-11pm
Open for lunch
549/N 4:30pm-9:30pm
4705 S. Bend Ave.
South Bend, IN 46635
277-5664

Cut-rate Liquors

Formerly Locke's Liquor World
2128 South Bend Ave. - 277-3611
Across from Yellow Submarine

Bud $7.69 a case
Miller $7.99 a case
Canadian Mist $11.99

NEW!
Now carrying kegs
Old Style $7.19 a case

30 pk $8.59

Store Hours:
9am-10pm Mon-Thurs.
9am-11:00pm Fri & Sat.

Prices effective Oct. 16 thru Oct. 18

Warm or Cold Beer Available

Mist

Open for lunch
Royal welcome

A Chinese youngster greets a smiling Queen Elizabeth with flowers as the queen arrives in Shanghai, in the People's Republic of China. The queen's arrival marks the first time a British monarch has visited that country.

Reagan: U.S. still open for talks despite stalemate with Gorbachev

Reagan has brought home to everyone that the major obstacle to arms control is the president's vision of a strategic defense, Keeny said.

Former U.S. negotiator Gerard Smith, appearing with Keeny at a news conference, said, "We can neither have arms control or we can really have a crash program to deploy defenses. We cannot have both."

Reagan's positive remarks in Baltimore were part of a U.S. campaign to portray the island summit as a success. "We are closer than ever before to agreements that could lead to a safer world without nuclear weapons," White House spokesman Larry Speakes, meanwhile, dismissed as "expected and unexceptional" Gorbachev's criticism of Reagan's stand on the Strategic Defense Initiative at the summit.

Reagan and Gorbachev blamed each other Tuesday for the summit stalemate over "Star Wars" but offered reassurances of their determination to reverse the nuclear arms race at the bargaining table or at a future summit.

Speakes said the administration was pleased that "General Secretary Gorbachev stated that the work that was done in Reykjavik will not go to waste, and the way has now been cleared for further movement toward significant arms reduction."

Buchwald continued from page 1

English major, and came to the conclusion 'today's kids believe they're gonna make it.'

The two engaged in a conversation about fame, Buchwald said. Buchwald asked the English major what he would do if he had to go to work what famous experiences in the play. "I guess I'd go for my master's degree," the student responded.

Buchwald said he is impressed by the civic pride of the people. In Elkhart, the first time he came to the city, an inhabitant asked him, "How do you like Elkhart?"

"I think it's the greatest town in America," Buchwald answered.

The man then added, "You wouldn't say that if you lived here."

Buchwald's lecture was part of the Oaklawn FORUM series, an annual lecture series. His talk was sponsored by Oaklawn, First National Bank and The Elkhart Truth.
Jailed American identifies man who bombed Cuban plane in 1976

Associated Press

MAMAGUA, Nicaragua - A top Sandinista official said Wednesday that an American captured in Nicaragua identified a man he claims is a CIA employee in El Salvador as being involved in the 1976 bombing of a Cuban airliner that killed 73 people.

Deputy Interior Minister Luis Carrion Cruz said Ramon Medina, identified last week by the American, Eugene Hasenfus, as one of two Cuban-American CIA employees working at Ilopango Military Base in San Salvador, actually was Luis Posada Carriiles. Posada Carriiles escaped last year from a Venezuelan jail and has not been found.

Hasenfus, captured after Nicaraguan troops shot down a rebel supply flight Oct. 5, said in a news conference last Thursday that Medina, actually was Luis Posada Carriiles. Medina was captured after the flight and is believed to still be in San Salvador.

Venezuelan officials have denied in-...
Dialogue is vital on campus and around world

The Reagan-Gorbachev summit in Iceland. Hopes soared. At least they were "talking." Maybe the International Year of Peace would at least see a movement toward peace. Force was giving way to Reconciliation. Technological criteria was giving way to Dialogue. At last, Rambo was on the way out.

Bruce Corrie

figure column

The Reagan-Gorbachev summit failed. No one is speaking "American" or the other "Russian." Were their aides tentative or should they have been "interpreters"? If in actuality there was no dialogue, then the summit was not a failure but something that did not exist: a bargaining session. And it's so easy for a bargaining session to be converted to a stage. For genuine peace we need to move from mere bargaining to authentic dialogue. How then do we dialogue? The process of dialogue begins with a realization that we live in a pluralistic world. No one has two or more mutually incompatible ideas. Column space is available to air members of the community and the free exchange of views. This is the problem in a different light. He enlarged the capacity of the human heart to love.

Learning to dialogue is not an easy task. It is a complex process and we need to reflect on this fact. Authentic dialogue takes place in an environment of what Jesus calls "intelligent love." Concern and openness to the other has to coexist with critical and moral judgment. Either by their very radicalism or by a caricature ending either in token sentimentalism or rigid rationalism.

Some of the issues that come up in the process of dialogue has been explored by Raimundo Pandolfo. They can be summarized as follows:

1. Psychological: With what attitudes do you enter into a dialogue? Some common ones are: one of paternalism: "I, the All Knowing, can tolerate the views of you lesser beings!" one of exclusivism: "I am right, so you are wrong," one of inclusivism: "Everything can fit into My framework," and one of parallelism: "Both our views are independent and can coexist."

2. Philosophical: The philosophical issues that arise are related to the basic questions: Who am I and Who are you? How do we see the other? Technical: Do we know enough of the subject we are dealing with? Do we know enough of the other's point of view? Have we the capacity for critical thinking?

The above gives a glimpse of the complexity of entering into dialogue with the other person. It calls not only for concern and effort, but also understanding.

As mentioned earlier, our pluralistic society increasingly confronts us with conflicting views and approaches to a problem. This can be seen of dialogue in politics, in economics and also in religion.

In academica, conflicting theories address the same problem and come out with radically different solutions. In international politics the new countries are challenging the authority of the superpowers. In international economics the South is crying out for available resources and attention is in the North. Within countries, various minority groups are claiming the right to be treated as equals rather than be cast aside.

There is need to fill the gap in our international education: the need to learn how to be able to respond more fully to the query: "Can you help me?"

Rambo is lurking in the shadows. There is a need for people to come to understand each other and communicate with each other. The human spirit has known to rise to such challenges.

The importance of understanding the other was recently raised in a different way. First, Fr. Reschbourg in his recent lecture stressed the importance of American and foreign students discovering each other. Then the McNickle week on campus exposed us to the many cultural groups on campus. Last semester a group of students from different cultural backgrounds got together and shared different approaches to Peace. This is the beginning of the Inter-Student Organization with the help of other groups on campus will explore further ways in which we can improve our dialogue skills. One such meeting will occur on Peace in November. If you are interested in participating in such meetings feel free to contact the Inter-Student Organization located in the Lafortune Student Center.

Bruce Corrie is a graduate student in economics.

Weekend reading

Doonesbury

There are no answers to these questions. Only attempts at answers. We have an obligation to search for solutions and through this hopefully begin to build bridges of communication that could lead to reconciliation.

One way is through dialogue. If we learn to understand each other's point of view perhaps we could find ways in which we could rise above our differences. Authentic dialogue takes place in an environment of what Jesus calls "intelligent love." Concern and openness to the other has to coexist with critical and moral judgment.

The macho image of Rambo can be contrasted with the image of the skinny, bald headed Gandhi. Both had different approaches to life.

Rambo's solution to a problem was to physically catapult himself into the situation, solve the problem and blow his way clear of the mess. His human concern coexisted with 'force,' but force dominated him. He did not see any other way to solve the problem. His approach could be termed "Peace through Force." Gandhi's approach was different. His approach was "Peace through Reconciliation. Reconciliation." The ingredients for a proper transfer of power is in the non-violent agitation would be strengthened spiritually and intellectually. His non-violent movement addressed both these aspects. The British needed to realize their exploitative nature and leave India. The Indians had to be ready for independence, spiritually and intellectually, His non-violent approach was how the Bhagavad Gita addressed both these aspects. The British had to leave India. The Indians had to be ready for independence, spiritually and intellectually.

The macho image of Rambo can be contrasted with the image of the skinny, bald headed Gandhi. Both had different approaches to life.

The macho image of Rambo can be contrasted with the image of the skinny, bald headed Gandhi. Both had different approaches to life.

The macho image of Rambo can be contrasted with the image of the skinny, bald headed Gandhi. Both had different approaches to life.

The macho image of Rambo can be contrasted with the image of the skinny, bald headed Gandhi. Both had different approaches to life.
Accent
Silent prayers protest Apartheid

MARY ABOWD
features writer

A prayer is spoken as some 50 heads bow in silent prayer. News of an innocent child slain, a group of students beaten by police, a bombed student residence - all reminders of the turmoil that seeps between blacks and whites in South Africa. Someone steps forward to share a reading or an original poem. The intent is like a circuit of concern flowing through the members and uniting them in their cause: the lib- eration of blacks who are oppressed by the apartheid system in South Africa.

Such is the scenario every Friday at noon as members of the Anti-Apartheid Network congregate on the steps of the Administration Building. Although primarily concerned with educating the campus on the current situation in South Africa, the Network has also been trying to convinc the administration of the importance of divestment to help bring about change there.

"We have to keep the South African problem foremost because it is important that Americans realize their role in bringing about change in South Africa," said Network Chairperson Rose Zang.

As one of the founders of the Anti-Apartheid Network, Rose has long been involved in keeping the issue "in the forefront." In the spring semester of 1985, she and her classmates took an interest in their economically disadvantaged peers and the issues such as divestment were discussed. The students started meeting outside of class with other social concern groups to discuss issues. From this loose discussion group grew the organization known as the active Anti-Apartheid Network.

Although many of its leading members have graduated, new leadership has emerged this year and is maintaining the standards and effectiveness of last year's group. "We have made students, faculty and the Board of Trustees aware of Notre Dame's role in South African divestment," Rose said. Without the pressure and pressure on the Network Rose said she doesn't think "the Board would have formulated their policy of divestment," she added.

A recent meeting of Roman Catholic bishops in the United States resulted in two recom-mandations about the South African issue: divestment itself and the initiation of stockholder resolutions to pressure companies doing business in the country. Through the Board of Trustees believes that its investments can help bring about a change in South Africa, Reverend Richard Zang, University Investment Aide, said that the Board's investment policy will be regularly reviewed and changed as the situation in South Africa changes. "We are attentive to the needs of different groups in South Africa, and we are watching with concern the situation there," Zang said.

Since the 1970's, campus groups have struggled to persuade Notre Dame to divest from South Africa and now with the current situation raging, the struggle continues more than ever. Zang said that the Anti-Apartheid Network and the Board of Trustees "have the same goals but different methodologies." Both groups want to see racial injustice eliminated in South Africa but have different means for achieving this goal.

Despite these seemingly polar views, Patrick Mullin, the Net-work's vice-chairperson and engineering representative, said, "We feel strongly about our cause. We have something we would like to see get done and we are going to keep pressuring the administration until they do something about it.

Perhaps this best depicts the drive and dedication of the Anti-Apartheid Network: a group working to help an abused race come to know the meaning of their own word for freedom - Amandla.

Eat less today...
...and remember

MICHAEL RESTLE
features writer

Last week a "meal" and unusual thing happened. World Hunger Coalition here at Notre Dame received an unsolicited donation.

"When I heard, I was really excited," said Laurie Kowinski, secretary of the WHC. Apparently, Irish Head Coach Lou Holtz had been collaborating on an article for The Sporting News and was looking for a check if it were made payable to the Hunger Coalition. "So I signed it and put it in the mail. It was a really neat thing to do."

For those others who don't know much about the WHC at Notre Dame, there will be ample time this week to find out.

Today is the United Nations an-annual World Food Day. This special day was established in 1979 by the Food and Agricultural Organization (FAO). The FAO, the founding of the FAO on Oct. 16, 1945. As stated by the FAO, "World Food Day is about people... especially about those who are unable to grow or buy sufficient food for the well-being of their families. World Food Day provides people...with the opportunity to consider the issues, to take stock and to intensify action."

World Food Day was first observed in 1981 by more than 100 countries and has been an anual event ever since. The WHC at Notre Dame will begin its commemoration of this special day by holding a simple lunch from 11:30 to 1:30 at the Center for Social Concerns. The lunch will include vegetable soup and bread, rice, apples and other such simple foods, most of it donated. A donation of $3 at the lunch will go to benefit the United Nations Children's Fund (UNICEF) which is working developing countries against infectious diseases, malnutrition and illiteracy.

This is the first time the WHC has held a special lunch for World Food Day, but other lunches are often held for Interaeta such as the victims of the recent Mexican earthquake, flood victims, and Viet Nam orphans and others. These usually attract about 100 people, faculty and students, and raise $200-400 for the cause. A similar turnout is expected for UNICEF.

The dining halls will also be offering a similar meal during dinner. The Third World option (by no means the only meal served) will be offered on the left side of the South Dining Hall and is closest to Haggard Hall at North.

Also, the regular 5:15 Mass at Sacred Heart today will be a special liturgy, celebrated by Fr. Austin Collins, dedicated to the cause of world hunger and what we, as Christians, can do to help. A collection will be taken for the St. Augustine Soup Kitchen in South Bend.

The final activity for the night will be a movie, "When the Harvest Comes," at 7:30 at the CSC. The film deals with problems of poverty, hunger and development in South America. A discussion will follow the showing.

The objective of these activities, especially the meals, is not to let people know how it feels to be poor and hunger, because that, of course, is impossible. "All we're trying to do," says Kowinski, "is raise awareness to remind people that the problem does exist and it IS real."

Awareness has been the main goal of the organization since its inception in 1974. It was formed as a response to the crisis in India at the time. In addition to the frequent lunches and coffee houses for various causes, the WHC also sponsors the Wednesday lunch festivities at the Dining Halls. The group also holds discussion meetings, bringing in speakers from various departments, systems and the University who have had some experience in the Peace Corps or other involved in the underprivileged in Third World countries.

Other activities include preparing soup for the St. Augustine Soup Kitchen once a month and assisting other South Bend parishes in putting together Thanksgiving baskets for the poor in this community. The WHC is also planning a retreat for later this year.

For more Information on how to get involved in the WHC, or for answers to those questions you were always afraid to ask, contact Laurie Kowinski, secretary, or Plans Dragem, president.
Talking Heads good pop

DON SEYMOUR
features writer

The Talking Heads' new album True Stories accompanies David Byrne's film of the same name, his debut as director and writer.

Records

True Stories

However, Byrne emphasizes in the jacket notes that, "This is a soundtrack to the movie True Stories, but Talking Heads' versions of songs that appear in the movie." A quick listen confirms the suspicion that the band continues its move into the pop song format started on last year's Little Creatures.

My words may cause some unnecessary apprehension in long-time Heads fans. Although True Stories cannot match Little Creatures' brilliance, from the joyous opening chords of "Wild Wild Life," you know you're onto something important.

For physical and spiritual ends and meanings and resolution with a decision to enjoy the present and keep hope in tomorrow. Slow is searching his soul in for his reason to continue making music.

Lyrical, Sloth honed excellence which made "Poise of Mind" and "Rock is Roll Band" so strong has dulled with time to the point that he utters philosophies existent, glibber in the second side's "A New World" and other pieces. "A man is something that real-it's not what you are, it's what you can feel." What exactly is he trying to say here?

On the other hand, the genius which created "Fore Play" and "Long Time" is at work again. "Hollyann" contains two inter-twined pieces ("The Launch" and "Cool the Engines" on side one and "I'm So Doin' the "Bill in Love" on two) and while both display nagging, problems, they have great potential.

All discrepancies aside, there is something about "Third Stage" that makes it extremely enjoyable and at times, even compelling. Delp has lost his vocal ability in the least. On "Hollyann" he soars into the stratosphere with crisp clarity and tone air-guitarist. The record opens and closes with songs about girls and love. "Amanda," the first single from the album, is pure Boston in both sound and development. The same thing however might have been said about the song if it was released in 1979. It sounds like "More than a Feeling" all over again. In contrast, the album's closer, "Hollyann" seems like it could be a bit younger. Not much, but a bit. The song shows a move toward a slightly different approach. In any case, Scholz must really have stagnated to have his musical style of writing remain virtually unchanged.

Sandwiched between these two songs is a concept album exposing a simple pattern: the excitement of impending exploration and search-

Contrary to the release's title itself, Jamboree centers on a theme of loneliness. Haunting is a good description of what is encountered on the first side. Picture being alone with only the stars and the big sky, and you have the feel of the first few songs. For example, "Fear of dying lonely with my prayer" are repeated on "Fear of God." The feeling of loneliness in the face of eternity flows very easily from this track. You continue on your nocturnal journey until "Michael Rockefeller," which is probably the most readily accessible song on the whole album and will likely be the "hit" from this one. After listening to "Michael Rockefeller" in fact, the remainder of Jamboree sounds forced.

The second side represents a return to the adolescent high spirits of Walking in the Shadow of the Big Man, but it lacks spon-

Contrary to the release's title itself, Jamboree centers on a theme of loneliness. Haunting is a good description of what is encountered on the first side. Picture being alone with only the stars and the big sky, and you have the feel of the first few songs. For example, "Fear of dying lonely with my prayer" are repeated on "Fear of God." The feeling of loneliness in the face of eternity flows very easily from this track. You continue on your nocturnal journey until "Michael Rockefeller," which is probably the most readily accessible song on the whole album and will likely be the "hit" from this one. After listening to "Michael Rockefeller" in fact, the remainder of Jamboree sounds forced.

The second side represents a return to the adolescent high spirits of Walking in the Shadow of the Big Man, but it lacks spon-

Guadalcanal Diary disappoints

W. TODD WATTNER
features writer

Jamboree, Guadalcanal Diary's latest effort, was a bit of a disappointment. Not only did it not transport me to a higher plane intellectually, but it did not get those primitive lusts flowing either. I really didn't expect much cerebral, but based on the group's previous album, Walking

Contrary to the release's title itself, Jamboree centers on a theme of loneliness. Haunting is a good description of what is encountered on the first side. Picture being alone with only the stars and the big sky, and you have the feel of the first few songs. For example, "Fear of dying lonely with my prayer" are repeated on "Fear of God." The feeling of loneliness in the face of eternity flows very easily from this track. You continue on your nocturnal journey until "Michael Rockefeller," which is probably the most readily accessible song on the whole album and will likely be the "hit" from this one. After listening to "Michael Rockefeller" in fact, the remainder of Jamboree sounds forced.

The second side represents a return to the adolescent high spirits of Walking in the Shadow of the Big Man, but it lacks spon-

Contrary to the release's title itself, Jamboree centers on a theme of loneliness. Haunting is a good description of what is encountered on the first side. Picture being alone with only the stars and the big sky, and you have the feel of the first few songs. For example, "Fear of dying lonely with my prayer" are repeated on "Fear of God." The feeling of loneliness in the face of eternity flows very easily from this track. You continue on your nocturnal journey until "Michael Rockefeller," which is probably the most readily accessible song on the whole album and will likely be the "hit" from this one. After listening to "Michael Rockefeller" in fact, the remainder of Jamboree sounds forced.

The second side represents a return to the adolescent high spirits of Walking in the Shadow of the Big Man, but it lacks spon-

Contrary to the release's title itself, Jamboree centers on a theme of loneliness. Haunting is a good description of what is encountered on the first side. Picture being alone with only the stars and the big sky, and you have the feel of the first few songs. For example, "Fear of dying lonely with my prayer" are repeated on "Fear of God." The feeling of loneliness in the face of eternity flows very easily from this track. You continue on your nocturnal journey until "Michael Rockefeller," which is probably the most readily accessible song on the whole album and will likely be the "hit" from this one. After listening to "Michael Rockefeller" in fact, the remainder of Jamboree sounds forced.

The second side represents a return to the adolescent high spirits of Walking in the Shadow of the Big Man, but it lacks spon-
Boston celebrates AL series victory; Rice excited after eleven-year wait

Associated Press

BOSTON - Jim Rice, Boston's usually reliable right fielder, whooped it up and joined in the champagne-popping party last night after helping the Red Sox win the American League pennant.

"This is great, just wonderful," Rice said with a big grin after being joined by champagne by teammates. "It's been a long, long time for me, but it's worth waiting 11 years for."

Rice, whose three-run homer in the fourth inning lifted Boston, took an 8-1 victory over California in the seventh game of the playoffs, admitted, "I haven't been used in the playoffs."

"I've been pressed, but the team came through," said the big slugger, who had only five hits in the seven games against the Angels. "I haven't been at my best, I know."

Rice, who missed the 1972 playoffs and World Series as a rookie because of a broken wrist suffered in September, said he is looking forward to the World Series with the New York Mets starting Saturday night at Shea Stadium.

"It's going to be a lot of fun. May the best team win," he said.

"It's awesome, just awesome," outfielder Dave Henderson, acquired from Oakland in the off season, said.

"It feels great, wonderful," Tony Armas said. "I've waited so long for this."

"We never gave up," Boston third baseman Wade Boggs said. "Every time we were down by two games and then by one, we came back here and said, 'Let's put to- gether a little three-game winning streak', and that's what we did. We won when we had to in Game 4 and we won the last two games here."

"It's almost too much to believe," said reliever Bob Stanley.

"This is the team we wanted, and we've got a miserable personal season. I haven't gotten to play at all. I just got a big thrill coming out of it and the best team won.

"I feel bad for Bill Buckner and him, but it gave me a chance to contribute,"

Stapleton took over for Buck- net at first base when he suffered a strained Achilles tendon in the third inning.
This scene from game six, in which the Mets won in 12 innings, was repeated last night as New York took the seventh game in 10 innings, 7-6, and earned a spot in the World Series.

By JANE SHEA
Sports Writer

The Saint Mary's soccer team won a game on the road and tied one at home this weekend, bringing their record to 5-0-1. Friday the Belles played an away game against Wheaton College and pulled out a 2-1 victory late in the second half. Wheaton took the lead early in the first half, making the score 1-0. But freshman Molly Meenan scored the tying goal with 20 minutes remaining in the second half, and the momentum swung to the Saint Mary's side.

Senior Caroline Knoll then scored the winning goal to give Saint Mary's a 2-1 lead. This was our best game this season," said Head Coach John Akers. "We had good team play. It was an exciting game."

Saturday's home game against the University of Wisconsin-Milwaukee ended in a 3-3 tie.

The Belles were the first to score on a spectacular goal by junior Landry Clement with an assist by Meenan.

The goal was made off a corner kick and was beautiful to watch," said Akers.

The Panthers came right back and scored twice before the half, the second goal was scored by Saint Mary's because they believed that time had already run out.

In the second half the Panthers scored another goal, but the Belles did not quell. "I give our team tremendous credit for staying in the game," said Akers. "They could have given up, but they didn't."

In the final 15 minutes two players scored to give the Belles the tie. Knoll and sophomore Ellem Boyle registered the goals, with assists on both going to Meenan.

Wisconsin-Milwaukee declined the offer to play overtime, so the game ended in a 3-3 tie.

"The team captains showed good leadership," said Akers. "Our team played well together, but Wisconsin had better individual players."

The Belles played again on Oct. 29 against Michigan State, a team they lost to earlier in the season.

"Now that we know we can play against good Midwestern teams like Wisconsin, we should do well in this season," said Akers.

The Belles play again on Oct. 29 against Michigan State, a team they lost to earlier in the season.

"Now that we know we can play against good Midwestern teams like Wisconsin, we should do well in this season," said Akers.
Red Sox continued from page 16

Mauch, whose team had been within one strike of the championship on Sunday, had said after knowing how to win when it had to
losing Game

continued from page 16

teams collapsed under pressure.
Australia in February.
born French
Canada II by more than two utes. New Zealand, skippered by confrontation for first place.
opening round of the elimination
first round carries a one-point

The 12-meter yacht America II (right) leads Brilliant's White Crusader in America's Cup action
last week. Details of yesterday's action appear at left.

Red Sox pitcher this season. He settled into a groove early in the 56-degree right and was never in trouble, striking out three while walking just one.
Clemens gave up a leadoff single to Rupert Jones in the seventh and was relieved by Cal-Schmid. Clemens walked the field to a thunderous ovation and chants of "Roger, Roger." Schmid allowed an RBI double to Doug DeCinces with two out. The Angels, meanwhile, kept up a pattern of misplays that delayed their experience-laden team. Miscues by shortstop Dick Schofield and center fielder Gary Petits made the first seven runs
unearned and gave California right errors in the series, tying for the most ever by one club in

The Angels, meanwhile, kept up a pattern of misplays that belie one's experience-laden
team. Miscues by shortstop Dick
Schofield and center fielder Gary Petits made the first seven runs
unearned and gave California
eight errors in the series, tying

1986

KINGS CELLAR
YOUR CHOICE

BUSINESS TIMES

THE KING SAYS:
Cooler Introductory Thursday only

11/09/86

3 cans for

LEARN MORE

Lemon & Lime
Lemon & Lime

1.75 LITRE
LIMIT 2

PICK UP ONLY

LIMIT 3 CASES

PRICES GOOD THRU OCT. 16, 1986 OR WHILE QUANTITIES LAST

Irish
continued from page 16
schedule - the University of
Lowell, Gordon College, Bentley
College and Holy Cross. Linden-
field looks forward to the chal-

"These are four strong field
hockey schools," she said. "I look for Holy Cross and Bentley,
both Division I schools, to be tough." The games should also provide an interesting contrast of styles. Notre Dame plays a controlled, passing game, while the

have been necessary. The ball
scudded away for a three-base
error, and Henderson trottled home
on Spike Owen's opposite-field,

The Red
within one strike of the onship on Sunday, had said after
knew how to win when it had to
losing Game

continued from page 16

teams collapsed under pressure.
Australia in February.
born French
Canada II by more than two utes. New Zealand, skippered by confrontation for first place.
opening round of the elimination
first round carries a one-point

The 12-meter yacht America II (right) leads Brilliant's White Crusader in America's Cup action
last week. Details of yesterday's action appear at left.

Red Sox pitcher this season. He settled into a groove early in the 56-
degree right and was never in trouble, striking out three while walking just one.
Clemens gave up a leadoff single to Rupert Jones in the seventh and was relieved by Cal-Schmid. Clemens walked the field to a thunderous ovation
and chants of "Roger, Roger." Schmid allowed an RBI double to Doug DeCinces with two out. The Angels, meanwhile, kept up a pattern of misplays that
delayed their experience-laden
team. Miscues by shortstop Dick
Schofield and center fielder Gary Petits made the first seven runs
unearned and gave California
eight errors in the series, tying
for the most ever by one club in 1986

KINGS CELLAR
YOUR CHOICE

BUSINESS TIMES

THE KING SAYS:
Cooler Introductory Thursday only

11/09/86

3 cans for

LEARN MORE

Lemon & Lime
Lemon & Lime

1.75 LITRE
LIMIT 2

PICK UP ONLY

LIMIT 3 CASES

PRICES GOOD THRU OCT. 16, 1986 OR WHILE QUANTITIES LAST

Irish
continued from page 16
schedule - the University of
Lowell, Gordon College, Bentley
College and Holy Cross. Linden-
field looks forward to the chal-

"These are four strong field
hockey schools," she said. "I
look for Holy Cross and Bentley,
both Division I schools, to be tough." The games should also provide an interesting contrast of styles. Notre Dame plays a controlled, passing game, while the

have been necessary. The ball
scudded away for a three-base
error, and Henderson trottled home
on Spike Owen's opposite-field,

The Red
within one strike of the onship on Sunday, had said after
knew how to win when it had to
losing Game

continued from page 16

teams collapsed under pressure.
Australia in February.
born French
Canada II by more than two utes. New Zealand, skippered by confrontation for first place.
opening round of the elimination
first round carries a one-point

The 12-meter yacht America II (right) leads Brilliant's White Crusader in America's Cup action
last week. Details of yesterday's action appear at left.

Red Sox continued from page 16
Mauch, whose team had been within one strike of the championship on Sunday, had said after knowing how to win when it had to
losing Game

continued from page 16

teams collapsed under pressure.
Australia in February.
born French
Canada II by more than two utes. New Zealand, skippered by confrontation for first place.
opening round of the elimination
first round carries a one-point

The 12-meter yacht America II (right) leads Brilliant's White Crusader in America's Cup action
last week. Details of yesterday's action appear at left.
Fall season summary
Youth strengthens Irish baseball

By STEVE MEGARGEE Sports Writer
After last year’s 22-28 season, several people involved with the Notre Dame baseball team took unique approaches to help the Irish improve. If the fall season is any indication, it worked.

Despite encountering several problems with rainy weather, the Irish are nearing the end of the fall season with a 2-1 record and several successful Blue-Gold intrasquad games. The Irish continue their fall season with a game against Tri-State 2 p.m. today at Lake Brien Field.

Three players leading the way for Notre Dame have been freshman pitchers Mike Coffey and Brian Piotrowicz and freshman first baseman Dan Peltier. Along with Jeff Flanagan, Michael Flynn, Ed Lund, Tim Reardon, Mike Rotkis, Kevin Smith and Dave Yawmyn, they represent a freshmen class with great potential.

"From what they’ve shown so far, they show a lot of promise and potential," said head Coach Larry Gallo. "It’s one of the better freshman classes we’ve had so far."

Piotrowicz and Coffey have been particularly effective in sharpening up the Irish pitching staff. Piotrowicz has allowed only one run in 16 and 2-3 innings pitched and recorded 15 strikeouts, and Coffey has a 1.50 earned-run average in five games.

Just ask junior Kevin Chenall about the improved pitching. The ace of the rotation for the last two years, he was injured throughout last season. He had his injury diagnosed by Dr. Arthur Pappas, the doctor who worked on Boston Red Sox star Roger Clemens over the off-season. But with the addition of the two freshmen, even Chenall is worried about his role on the staff.

"I got to start worrying about my own job as far as playing with all the pitchers that are getting healthy," said Chenall. "I kind of push you when you realize there’s some one there to take your spot if you don’t get your act together."

Judging from the fall, I think the pitching is looking good. The starting rotation is solid, and I’m sure we’ll find some good relievers with Mike Hamson and John Gleason."

Peltier used some practice in the summer to his advantage with his impressive fall statistics. Peltier has 11 K’s in 22 at bats.

"I played in a summer league with competition similar to this, and I did pretty well, so I was hoping I’d do well here," said Peltier. "From what I’ve seen we’ve done fine. The pitching’s done well, and the hitting has been good. The Blue-Gold games are a good test for us."

Fellow infielder Pat Pesavento participated in the Cape Cod League over the summer. His team, the Kettleers, led by Gallo, reached the finals after a 45-game season.

"I saw great competition in the Cape Cod League," said Pesavento. "Guys from Arizona, UCLA and Florida State, and guys you saw in the College World Series were in that league. It was compared to Class AA ball."

Junior Steve Skupien also has added punch to the Irish infield, with a .424 average, two home runs and 10 RBIs during the fall.

ND defends NSC title after Rolex qualifiers

By SHEILA HOROX Sports Writer
The Notre Dame women’s tennis team will end its fall season by competing in the Rolex Qualifier tournament and the North Star Conference Championships over October break.

The Irish will travel to Madison, Wisc. for the Rolex Qualifier, held October 16-18. It is a regional tournament consisting of 64 open-draw singles and 32 doubles. Only the top two finishers in singles and doubles will advance to the Rolex Nationals played in February.

The Notre Dame players have received invitations to compete. The Irish will send their top four singles players, junior co-captain Michelle Dasso, freshmen Stephanie Tolstedt and Alice Lohrer, and senior co-captain Tammy Schmidt. The teams of Dasso and Tolstedt and Lohrer and Natalie Tillig will represent the Irish in doubles.

Several Top 20 teams will participate in the tournament, including Indiana, Wisconsin and sixth-ranked Northwestern.

Head coach Michele Gelfman only expects her team to play to the best of its ability.

“We’ve got to continue doing the things we’ve worked on during the fall,” said Gelfman. “We’ve got to be intense and tournament tough. We need to start ripping through some people.”

The teams the Irish are hoping to rip through will be here Oct. 24-26 for the North Star Conference Championships. The Irish are seeking their fourth consecutive NSC title and only Marquette is expected to provide any real competition.

Marquette is the only NSC team the Irish have faced this year. Two weeks ago they handed the Warriors a 6-3 defeat in Milwaukee.

More than just the title is at stake for the Irish at the tournament.

“It establishes the fact that we’re a growing program and we’re able to keep pace with some good teams,” commented Gelfman. "The NSC Championship is not an end-all, be-all for our fall season. It’s just another step in becoming a better team.”

Assistant Coach Steve Simone discusses strategy with the women’s tennis team. Sheila Horox previews the team’s matches over fall break in her story.
Bloom County

Campus

11:30 a.m. - 1:30 p.m.: Simple lunch, $3, sponsored by the World Hunger Coalition and the CSC. Proceeds benefit UNICEF. In the CSC.

3 - 6 p.m.: Kellogg Institute Colloquium: Leslie Arriaga, Dept. of Political Science, University of California, Berkeley; Herta Deckerman, advisor, The Argentine Ministry of Economics Research Fellow (CONICET); Alejandro Mitala, Professor of Economics, Universidad de Chile, Santiago, 258 Fitzpatrick Hall.

3:30 - 5 p.m.: Computer Minicourse, MacWrite. Limit 12. 108 Computing Center. Free and open to the public; to register, call Betty at 239-5604.

5:15 p.m.: World Food Day Mass celebrated by Father Austen Vickers, Sacred Heart Church.

5:45 - 6 p.m.: Kellogg Institute Colloquium: "The Business of Hunger," sponsored by the World Hunger Coalition and the CSC.

6 p.m.: Graduate Organ Recital: David Lines, Sacred Heart Church.

10 - 11:00 p.m.: Radio talkshow, Dinerama house, where Notre Dame students and ex-offenders live; seniors Jaime Cantorna, junior Kristen Williams and ex-offenders John Nueler and Tony Harris, host Lynne Strand, WVFI-AM 840, calls accepted at 239-6400.

8 p.m.: Graduated Organ Recital: David Lines, Sacred Heart Church.

Dinner Menus

Notre Dame
Spaghetti with Meatballs
Sweet & Sour Pork
Vegetable Cheese Stuffed Peppers
Grilled Pastrami & Swiss on Rye

Saint Mary’s
Turkey Cutlet & Gravy
Pork Chow Mein
Swedish Pancakes

Deli Bar

The Daily Crossword

Focus On America's Future

SAB PRESENTS...

A STREETCAR NAMED DESIRE

Wednesday Oct 15

Thursday Oct 16

Engineering Auditorium

7:00, 9:45, 11:30

No food or drink permitted in Auditorium

ACROSS
1 Seed
6 Doctor
11 Walters of TV
13 Holmat or Mike
15 Lift out
16 Point in an orbit
17 Incentive payment
18 Sawyer of TV
20 Terminus
21 Pouches
22 Spectator
24 Maggots
26 Skillet
27 Vipers
30 Fossils
32 Candid
34 Espirit de corps
36 Paid athlete
37 Cut of meat
39 Pond do — 40 Set fire to 42 First name in mystery
43 Adam of rock
44 "Wizard of Oz" dog
45 6 on the phone
46 Uncle of note
48 Moved slowly
51 Engrossed
54 Quiche
56 Ingredient
58 Newman Pyle
59 For that reason
61 Ridicules
63 Labors
64 The — seat (position of control)
65 Depots
66 Vaticinators

5 Before
6 Public lift
7 Flung
10 — Blip?" (old song)
16 Sported amphibian
17 Early garden
18 — up (appears suddenly)
19 Increase
20 Tolkien’s land
21 A Williams
22 Tennis star
23 Cart unit
25 Misplaced
26 — diem
29 Scheme
29 Faction
30 Roasting rod
31 Jason’s ship
32 Ballyhoo
34 Wire measure
35 Wallet items
36 — Trueheart
37 Vipers
38 Tijuana gold
39 For that reason
40 Tiptoe
41 Charged atom
42 Attain fame
45 Approach
50 Listen to 52 Wharves
53 — Troushart
54 Summer Pr.
55 Mountain pass
57 Strange
58 Ashtray’s waterfront
60 Genetic letters
62 Hotel sound
Sports

It's New York and Boston in the World Series

Mets do it again, down Astros, 7-6

Associated Press

HOUSTON - Ray Knight keyed a three-run 16th inning yesterday and the New York Mets survived one last Houston Astros' rally to win their third National League pennant, 7-6. In the longest postseason game ever.

The Mets' extra-inning rally was their second of the game as they erased a 5-0 deficit in the ninth inning and took a 4-3 lead in the 14th before the Astros' Billy Hatcher hit it in the bottom of the inning with a home run that hit the screen attached to the left-field foul pole.

New York will open the World Series at home tomorrow against Boston, who won the American League playoff series. It may take that long for the Mets to come down from their pennant clincher, a game that provided brilliant pitching and clutch hitting and saw the Astros' dream finally die with the winning run on base.

Astros left-hander Bob Knepper held the Mets to two hits before they rallied in the ninth, while Mets pitchers shut out the Astros from the second until the 14th.

Associated Press

bedeviled Angels fall to Red Sox

Associated Press

BOSTON - The Boston Red Sox, with pitching ace Roger Clemens leading the way, thrashed the California Angels, 8-1, last night to win Game 7 of the American League playoffs and earn a trip to the World Series.

Boston completed its comeback from a last-strike 5-1 deficit in the series in surprisingly easy fashion and put a crushing end to the season for the Angels, who also lost in the big-game Jimmy Haselman-ignited drama, and also re-routed Mauch's plans for his first World Series in 25 years of managing.

The Red Sox, aided by two crucial errors, knocked out John Candelaria in the fourth in taking a 7-0 lead. They then cruised into their World Series showdown with the New York Mets, who won the National League pennant earlier in the day by beating Houston in six games. Game 1 will be Saturday night in New York.

ND field hockey falls to talented Michigan State team, 5-1

By DAN COYLE
Sports Writer

The Notre Dame field hockey team went into Wednesday's game against Michigan State, hoping to even its record at 5-5 and head into its Boston trip on a high note. The Irish left Carter Field on the short end of a 5-1 score, disappointed as a team though encouraged by several fine performances.

The Spartans put an early danger on Irish hopes within the first three minutes. Michigan State's sharp passing and successful speed created opportunities and quick shots by Colleen Nelly and Stephanie Alan, who converted them into the first two goals of the game. Corinne DiGiacomo replied for the Irish, knocking home a Benet Deberry wraparound pass at the six-minute mark to put Notre Dame within reach at 2-1.

The turning point in the game was midway through the first half, when DiGiacomo was hit in the knee by a Spartan stick. She did not return to the game. Michigan State gained momentum, scoring twice more before the end of the first half.

Though the ball was on the Irish side of the field for most of the second half, Michigan State scored only once more in the contest. Notre Dame's defense, led by Benet Deberry, Mary Jean Beetzl, and Caroline Berezny, was matched up against Michigan State's Mary Joe Cullen, shut down its leading scorer. Sophomore Kristin Sweeney continued to impress Underhill with her improving play at halfback, and senior Bernadette Suplik stepped in when DiGiacomo was injured, contributing a fine, husky-voiced game to the Irish effort.

But if Holtz hadn't heard enough bad news from the doctor's office this week, junior safety Brandy Wels was down Tuesday with torn knee ligaments and will be in a cast for at least six weeks.

Holtz, therefore, has little choice but to go with some of his younger players. For some the spark this new transition could generate in his team, however, Holtz is just glad for the chance to reward some of his players who have worked hard. "I say this from the bottom of my heart," said Holtz. "Despite all the adversity, and despite everything that has gone against us, this football team went out (Monday, after the loss) and worked with an honest and sincere effort to get better. Things are going to get better for this team. I have no doubts about it."

As for any sudden youth movement on the Irish, Holtz won't even look at his watch until next week - when Notre Dame has an open date. Only then, after a week to evaluate his team, will Holtz make any drastic changes with next year in mind.

New faces to aid struggling Irish

By DAN COYLE
Sports Writer

New York's Jesse Orozco and Gary Carter (above), elated over Tuesday's extra-inning victory, celebrated once again last night as the Mets from behind beat the Houston Astros, 7-6

By DAN COYLE
Sports Writer

Is Lou Holtz setting his watch ahead to 1987 already?

That's what many Notre Dame fans will be asking themselves this Saturday when a few new faces show up on the field for the Irish in their game with the 5-1 Air Force Academy.

Yes, freshman tailback Anthony Johnson will start and, yes, freshman fullback Braxton Banks will share time with regular Ferrell Taylor. Also, freshman defensive tackle Jeff Alm should see more time in his back up role to Robert Banks. Okay, throw in those two rookie defensive backs the Holtz has labeled second-string, Stan Smagala and Pat Terrell probably will see only a couple of sets at the most, anyway.

But if Holtz isn't giving up his shattered ship yet, then what is he doing, you ask?

The answer: Holtz has decided it's simply trying to patch together a team that suffered a season's worth of surprisingly-serious injuries this week and, at the same time, light a fire under a team that he feels has worked too hard to let the disappointments of the past couple of weeks break its collective back.

Johnson, the 6-1, 220-pound freshman who already has picked up 109 yards on 22 carries this year, will make his first start in place of the injured Mark Green. Green, who suffered a deep thigh bruise in the midst of his practice this week but should be able to play if needed. Banks, meantime, has continued to impress coaches in practice enough to warrant some playing time.

All of the other aforementioned rookies, and perhaps a few other inexperienced players not mentioned, are simply stepping up on the depth chart to fill in the second-string jobs the surgeon's knife. Both senior split end Alvin Miller and freshman tackle John Candelaria in the fourth in taking a 7-0 lead. They then cruised into their World Series showdown with the New York Mets, who won the National League pennant earlier in the day by beating Houston in six games. Game 1 will be Saturday night in New York.

In case anybody's wondering about the Notre Dame quarterback situation this week, Holtz has once again reaffirmed Steve Beuerlein as his starter. Apparently junior signal-caller Terry Andryszak, who did not attempt a pass and played only three series last week after being named the starter, will continue on in his previous role as a back up. On Tuesday, however, Holtz did hint that the issue could get cloudy again as Steve Belles continues to play well in practice.

"With the quarterback situation, you try to get chemistry," said Holtz. "A Heisman Trophy candidate, is not always possible, so you just want a quarterback who understands the right play and utilize the weapons we have on our football team. At the present time, Steve Beuerlein gives us the best plays in the most opportune times and is the most consistent doing that."

"Beuerlein is the number-one quarterback. But I do think we will see some of Steve Belles before this season is over as well."

Holtz leaves little doubt about his mental attitude and that of his 1-4 club, when asked by inquirers. "Are we embarrassed? - no," said Holtz in a tone that would be described as emphatic. "We're upset, yes. Frustrated, yes. Disappointed, yes."

"But am I embarrassed? There ain't no way in this world. You just get people act like you should be embarrassed, but I can't be when I see the young men work. I can't say anything negative about the players. I can say a million negative things about the coach, but not the players. We're all tired of losing."