Decision to divest to be finalized by Board of Trustees

BY MARILYN BENCHIK
Assistant Saint Mary's Editor

The University of Notre Dame Board of Trustees will meet Nov. 3, and decide the fate of the University's involvement in South Africa. Since the last Board meeting on May 9, IBM, GM and Honeywell have pulled their stocks out of South Africa.

The University has investments of approximately $31.5 million in about 30 companies doing business in South Africa. In its May meeting, the Board authorized divestment from any company doing business in South Africa if that company is not influencing the dismantling of the system of apartheid, or if circumstances warrant this action because of further deterioration of conditions in South Africa.

At this same meeting, the Board also directed its executive committee and its investment committee to review the South African policy at each meeting and report to the full Board.

Donald Keough, president and chief operating officer of the Coca-Cola Co., is also chairman of the Notre Dame Board of Trustees. Keough was elected president of the Board in May, replacing Thomas Carey.

The Coca-Cola Co. announced Sept. 17 it would pull all of its holdings in South Africa in protest of that country's policy of racial separation.

Pat Mullen, vice chairman for the Anti-Apartheid Network, said that he does not think Coca-Cola's divestment will effect the Board's decision.

Robert Wilmouth, chairman of the University's Investment Committee said, "I do not see him (Keough) making any specific changes. He will not steer us down a specific path. The subject will come up for discussion, then the Board can make a careful analysis."

The South African question will be investigated again at the Board's next meeting. Margaret Rose, president for the Anti-Apartheid Network, said that she thinks the Board will decide to divest.

"Perhaps I'm being too optimistic, but given the decision of the United States Catholic Bishop Conference, the South African Bishop Conference and the congressional sanctions against South Africa, the situation does look favorable."

"Some reasons for divestment have been long standing. Black South Africa is calling for divestment," said Rose.

Joseph Mullen, a member of the Anti-Apartheid Network, said, "The increasing corporate investigation is part of a growing trend. However, who I see as being pertinent to this institution's investigation decision are recent moves by the United States Catholic Bishops who voted unanimously to divest Catholic institutions to invest."

"Georgetown, another Catholic University, has voted to divest as well as the diocese of Baltimore. Considering the situation in Catholic circles, these divestments should, in part, give a decisive role to the Board's decision," Merchant said.

Not everyone is as sanguine as Rose and Merchant. According to Pat Mullen, "I hope they will divest now, but considering how occupied the Board is with the election of a new president, they probably won't spend too much time on the matter."
Next ND president should share Hesburgh's philosophy and vision

Way back when, David Letterman posted an imposing calendar to count down the days until Phil Donahue moved his show to New York. Letterman's countdown became famous over the television, however, the suspense was not very great since everyone knew who was doing what and when.

In a more serious way, I imagine many of the old priests and administrators at Corby Hall will be awaiting the announcement of the new University president.

As each day gets a big "X" mark, Notre Dame moves closer to making official who will replace Father Theodore Hesburgh.

While the Observer lacks the academic care of Late Night, the staff has been preparing for who it will be, what challenges and changes will be overcome and how Notre Dame will react to his selection.

A good daily newspaper takes days to produce.

In The Observer's case, the process of collecting and organizing information on the possible choices began a long time ago.

Still, as a friend and longtime Notre Dame priest told me last spring, no one really knows who it will be. Those that don’t aren’t talking, he said, and those that are aren’t.

Rather than speculate on who it might be and try to make a horse race out of a very serious and monumental moment at Notre Dame, I would like to suggest that no matter who it is, Notre Dame will continue to grow and prosper.

Notre Dame Magazine has identified five men as candidates for the job, and all of these men, I am sure that whoever it is, he will do a fine job managing an excellent University.

Last spring, someone handed me a survey asking for student input on the presidential selection. It asked, "What is the most important qualification the new president should possess?"

I said he must be an excellent administrator. It is not enough to be honest, hard-working, fair and so forth. To run this institution, the president must be a strong and effective leader. He must meet the vigorous financial and academic demands which will be placed on him.

First and foremost in my opinion, he must be an excellent administrator. A man must know how to achieve the ends which the University seeks within the Catholic context of Notre Dame.

The president must have the character of the University. He must be a man of compassion, compassion and character who has a strong Catholic faith. For these reasons, I believe the next president should be a member of the Holy Cross Order which as a collective entity embodies the faith and profound spirit of Our Lady's school. Essential to this is that the president be familiar with Notre Dame's unique strengths and weaknesses. Thus, he should be a member of the community of Notre Dame and by nature and experience the leader going along with its present staff since he will have to do so once he assumes office.

As the University has become more formalized, the distance between the administration and the students has widened. The new president must keep in close contact with the students to know their needs. The world changes quickly. Educating Catholic students for this world must be the central component of his philosophy.

The big task Notre Dame faces results directly from its success.

The new president will have to maintain increasingly higher academic standards while upholding Notre Dame's strong Catholic character. The task is much easier to put into words than to do.

But enough of my words, the only man to truly know what type of person the next president must be is the man who has made the presidency what it is.

In a recent issue of America magazine, Father Hesburgh said to those who ask, "What is the most important factor for the future of the whole enterprise?" Hesburgh simply said, "Guard your Catholic character as you would your life."

He continued by stating, "We receive enormous support because we work hard, in season and out, to be what we profess to be- an excellence that is profoundly Catholic."

May the next president share Hesburgh's philosophy and vision. May Our Lady, who guided Hesburgh, guide him.
MBA School Forum to aid student choices

By CARL PUTNAM
News Staff

Information regarding admissions and special programs of 37 MBA schools will be the main thrust of the MBA School Forum today from noon to 4 in the Center for Continuing Education, according to Career and Placement Services Director Kitty Arnold.

The event is designed to help students make a knowledgeable choice of schools. "There is an overwhelming amount of information to wade through," Arnold said.

According to Arnold, the Forum is an informal meeting of students and MBA admissions representatives. The representatives will be able to answer questions concerning admissions, special programs and other pertinent information about graduate school.

Students should ask all about their options before making a choice, said Arnold. She said most students are not aware that they have the option of deferring admission for a year or two should they want to gain experience or financial stability before entering MBA school. Students also have the option of entering a special program such as a combination law and business degree, Arnold said.

According to Arnold, the Forum has met with nothing but praise from students and schools alike. Students gain the opportunity to speak with representatives of such highly regarded schools as Boston College, Stanford and the University of Michigan. Graduate school representatives have found it well organized and "they are always complimentary to the caliber of students," Arnold said.

The MBA School Forum was modeled after several major forums held annually in Chicago, New York and Los Angeles, said Arnold.

All students are encouraged to attend regardless of major or class. Arnold said the schools "don't demand a business degree, but look for a talented and educated person."
Divest
continued from page 1
the divestment issue.”
"The Board meets again in early May or late April, and they are probably more likely to revise if they divest at all," Mullen said.
Mullen said that he was not sure if the Board’s decision would be affected by the recent IBM, GM and Honeywell pull-outs.
"The case has been made over the years that these companies help out South African blacks, or at least some companies make this claim. I’m not sure if IBM, GM and Honeywell did specifically. These companies leave now makes one wonder if they really did care that much, or if they are just not making money in South Africa.

"These pull-outs undermine the argument that has been used to justify remaining in South Africa, this argument being that it is better for American companies to help out instead of chipping out. It proves the profit factor is what keeps companies there, not anything else. This is just the way companies run, and they shouldn’t pretend to be anything else," Mullen said.

Robert Wilmouth, of the National Futures Association in Chicago, said, “There is definitely a split on the Board.
In view of the circumstances
the Board will probably vote to stay with the companies in South Africa. I don’t see any dramatic change in University policy.”

Wilmouth said “The Board will look at the Sullivan Principles to see if they are being applied. They will also investigate the deteriorating conditions in South Africa.”

Wilmouth said “deteriorating conditions” is a vague term, but he said that the Board will consider divestment when conditions have deteriorated to the point where divestment is necessary.

National Commission on AIDS created health catastrophe

Associated Press
WASHINGTON - The National Academy of Sciences,
lamenting “woefully inadequate” federal programs to cope with America’s new health threat, called Wednesday for creation of a National Commission on AIDS.

The prestigious academy, in a major report on the increasing problems of Acquired Immune Deficiency Syndrome, said the only way to avoid health catastrophe in this country is to "perhaps the most wide-ranging and intensive efforts ever made against an infectious disease."

A panel of experts convened by the academy said the nation should be spending about $2 bil-ion annually by 1990, most of it new federal money, in a multi-pronged effort to thwart
the deadly disease.

Research into the nature of the viral disease, treatments and vaccines should get $1 bil-ion a year by the end of the decade, said Dr. David Baltimore, a Nobel laureate who was co-chairman of the study.

“Our committee believes that sufficient areas of need and opportunity exist to quadruple the 1986 AIDS research funding to about $1 bil-
ion in newly available funds,” Baltimore told a news conference. “We emphasized that these funds must be new appropriations, not funds redirected from other health and research efforts.”

An additional $1 billion a year —mostly federal money but with substantial contributions from state and local governments, industry and private sources —
should be spent on education and public health programs, said Baltimore, director of the Whitehead Institute for Biomedical Research in Cambridge, Mass.

These programs would include sex education in schools, efforts to get people at risk of getting AIDS to change their sexual habits, blood screening to identify those infected with the AIDS virus, rehabilitation for drug abusers, and testing
the idea of providing disabil-sive syringes to addicts who refuse treatment, the panel
said.

Dr. Sheldon Wolff of Tufts University, the other co-chairman, said that until ways are developed to prevent the disease, the best hope of curing it is education. AIDS most commonly is spread by sexual activity and sharing contaminated needles during drug abuse, behavior people can influence, he said.

“People should be told that they can protect themselves against the disease by using condoms during sexual intercourse—either anal or vaginal —with an infected or possibly infected persons, and by not sharing needles and syringes,” Wolff said.

Stopping AIDS cases through education and public health programs will only cost a fraction of the price of caring for patients with the disease, estimated to rise to between $8 billion and $16 billion by 1991, he
said.

The panel said a vaccine to prevent AIDS, or developing safe and effective drugs for long-term treatment, is at least five years away. This means that prevention through education presently is the best way to slow the disease, it added.

Federal education efforts to date have been “woefully inadequate,” the panel said,
more so because the messages have not been frank and clear than because of inadequate funding.

The latest study called for candid educational efforts aimed at high-risk groups, such as sexually active people with multiple partners, teen-agers entering the age of drug and sex experimentation, and ethn­mic minority groups who suffer disproportionately from AIDS.

NATIONAL FLOORISHING "LaFortune"
The undergraduate bar and ballroom in the LaFortune Student Center is finished and ready for business. Called Theodore’s, the party-room will open its doors tomorrow night.
Reagan campaigns to maintain a Republican Senate

Associated Press

President Reagan crusaded for continued Republican control of the Senate on Wednesday, while Democratic challengers in some of the nation's closest races were buoyed by fresh poll results and newspaper endorsements.

In Alabama's bizarre gubernatorial race, Attorney General Charlie Graddick signaled he was considering dropping his write-in candidacy. Graddick, a conservative former Republican who lost the Democratic nomination on a court ruling earlier this year, has been running a distant third in public opinion polls.

As the candidates headed into the final week of campaigning, the Federal Election Commission reported that the Republican National Committee and GOP house and Senate campaign committees have raised more than $225 million since the beginning of the two-year election cycle. That's nearly four times the $57 million reported by their Democratic counterpart committees.

Reagan left Washington aboard Air Force One for a seven-state swing that will end Election Day in California. He made an afternoon stop in South Dakota on behalf of freshman Sen. James Abdnor, who is in a tight re-election campaign with Democratic Rep. Tom Daschle.

On his way west, Reagan stopped in Evansville, Ind., where he accused Democrats of a "naked display of power politics" in awarding a House seat two years ago to Rep. Frank McCluskey. McCluskey's opponent this year is Richard Mcintyre, his rival from the 1984 campaign. Mcintyre and McCluskey split the vote in 1984. GOP state officials had endorsed Mcintyre the winner by a 34-32 margin in the 18-seat Democrat-controlled House.

Reagan's stop in Indiana was his only one dedicated to a House race in a busy fall of campaigning. Both parties agree the Democrats will retain their majority in the new 435-member House that is elected next Tuesday, possibly gaining 10 or more seats in the process.

There are 36 statehouse races on the ballot, as well, with Republicans expected to pick up at least a half-dozen seats.

The main battleground in this year's mid-term elections is the struggle for control of the Senate. Republicans currently hold a 52-47 edge but must defend 22 of the 34 seats at stake.

At the Abdnor rally in economically hard-hit South Dakota, the president renewed his prediction that a second economic boom is at hand, and urged voters to re-elect the "clean-up crew" of conservative Republicans they sent to the Senate in 1980.

But there was encouraging news for Democratic Senate challengers in Georgia and Alabama, two states where Reagan campaigned on Wednesday, as well as Idaho, where he is due later in the week.

In Georgia, a poll conducted for a television station and released Tuesday night gave GOP Sen. Mack Mattingly a 47 percent to 44 percent edge over Democratic Rep. Wyche Fowler. The results of the survey of 300 voters was closer than an eight-point gap that another poll reported earlier in the week.

In Idaho, where GOP Sen. Steve Symms had been locked in a tight race with Gov. John Evans, the governor won the endorsement of the state's largest newspaper, The Idaho Statesman. A poll taken for the paper and a Boise television station reported Evans with a slimmer lead of 46 percent to 45 percent.

In Alabama's close Senate race, incumbent GOP Sen. Jeremiah Denton drew 40 percent support in a new public poll, compared with 34 percent for his Democratic opponent, Rep. Richard Shelby. That poll had a margin of error of 5 percent, suggesting a smaller lead for Denton than earlier surveys turned up.

Alabama's gubernatorial race seemed ready to take an overhaul as a result of a trip Tucker, an aide to Graddick, saying there was a "90-95 percent chance" the attorney general will drop his write-in bid. Graddick won a Democratic runoff in June, but the party certified Lt. Gov. Bill Baxley the winner, saying that Graddick had improperly appealed to Republici ans who crossed over. A federal court agreed.

The two main party candidates in the race, Baxley and Republican Guy Hunt, already were courting Graddick supporters.
OPEC head fired in surprise move; Planning Minister to replace him

Associated Press

RIYADH, Saudi Arabia - Sheik Ahmed Zaki Yamani, Saudi Arabia's long-standing petroleum minister and leader of OPEC, has been fired, the official Saudi Press Agency reported in a terse announcement today.

No reason was given for replacing the 56-year-old Yamani, perhaps the most well-known figure within the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries.

There have been rumors that Yamani was on the outs with the royal family, and King Fahd appeared to undercut him at a critical juncture of the Oct. 6-22 OPEC meeting. But there was no evidence that he was in danger of losing his job.

The surprise announcement issued before dawn in Riyadh said Planning Minister Hisham Naizer had replaced Yamani. Naizer is considered one of the key ministers in this kingdom of 11 million.

The announcement comes between two key OPEC meetings, one that agreed to continue interim production curbs through Dec. 31, and the planned meeting on Dec. 11 in Geneva where the 13-nation oil cartel will have the difficult task of lining up a new production-sharing agreement, or distribution of production quotas among members.

Saudi Arabia is the world's largest oil-exporter and the leading OPEC member. In recent statements Saudi Arabia has made it clear that it will demand an increase in its own production quota of 4.35 million barrels a day. Saudi Arabia would continue insisting that OPEC work out a permanent system for distributing oil-production quotas and that the Saudis be given a bigger share of the total.

But the next day the Saudi government announced that it had dropped its demand for an OPEC agreement on permanent production quotas and said it was now willing to go along with another interim arrangement. The timing of these two statements gave the impression Yamani was being overruled at a key juncture in the OPEC negotiations.

Yamani was one of 12 OPEC oil ministers seized in 1973 as hostages by pro-Palestinian terrorists during a conference at OPEC headquarters in Vienna, Austria. Since then he has always traveled with personal bodyguards.

Happy 21st Birthday to Kevin Fiorito
"Handsome"

Love,
Mom and Dad
Michael Danny
Kathy Jay
David

Career Night
All Juniors and Seniors invited hosted by Procter & Gamble Sales
Foodservice & Lodging products

PRESENTATION POINTS
★ Why a sales career is for you.
★ Why foodservice sales is for you.
★ How you can be a better interviewee.

TONIGHT
6:30 - 8:30 p.m.
Alumni - Senior Club pizza and soft drinks

Sly Smile
Sylvester Stallone beams at a press conference in Los Angeles where he announced he will be the national spokesman for the anti-drug campaign for the Teamsters Union.
Anti-nuclear activist and comedian entertains audience at Saint Mary's

By PEGGY PROSSER

Reading an imaginary pamphlet on the Great Peace March, urging those in the audience to "see the USA - on foot," Barbara George opened her monologue titled "Ask About Nukes and Was Afraid to Know" Wednesday night at Saint Mary's. Sponsored by the Saint Mary's Student Government and the College Peacemakers, George encouraged the audience to "help stop the Trident Missle Test, and get free room and board from your state and federal government."

A graduate of Stanford University, George has trained with Chicago's famed Second City cabaret. She considers herself a "born again active," which came as a result of the anti-nuclear power campaigns in the 1970's. In 1983, she toured the country with a full size model of a Cruise missile on top of her truck.

George donned a lab suit complete with hood and gloves to transform herself into Mr. E. Glow. She then proceeded to give the audience a crash course on radiation, from her "world of illusion lab." She demonstrated the concept of atomic weight and the halflife process using a life-size element chart.

From the viewpoint of a wandering Uranium atom, George presented a geological history of herself and her "radioactive family." She went on to describe the summer that somebody tried to enrich her, by taking her to a university laboratory. Thinking she would spend a million years in a microfilm library, she willingly agreed to go.

Instead, she ended up in the university laboratory, where she "learned about being a woman." Explaining this, she said that scientists talk about radioactive atoms as "mother and daughter atoms," but that scientists snicker about women being hot and unstable.

To this, she replied, "Well, that sounds more like men to me."

As the chauvinistic Mr. P.R. Gamble, George described her appointment as Under-secretary of Waste for the Reagam administration. She took the audience to a convention in Chicago, where Gamble was speaking. At this convention, Gamble said this decade would be known as "the era of the plastic heart." The audience responded with boos and hisses.

Those students interested in volunteering at The Shelter for the Homeless and have not already scheduled themselves to do so, need to contact one of the following immediately:

Lynn Scott 259-5770 (7pm - 11pm)
United Religious Community 282-2397 (9am - 4pm)
John Gordon 283-1666

Philippine minister says he was not an appointee

Associated Press

MANILA, Philippines - Defense Minister Juan Ponce Enrile, whose criticism of government policies has prompted calls for his resignation, said Wednesday that he was no mere appointee and that he and his associates are committed to President Corazon Aquino.

Mrs. Aquino's vice president and foreign minister, Salvador Laurel, meanwhile, suggested voters be allowed to decide whether presidential elections should be held next year, as urged by Enrile.

"I thought it would be more fair not only to the people, but also to Mrs. Aquino and myself, to know what the people feel about our tenure," Laurel told a news conference.

Enrile, who also was defense minister under President Ferdinand Marcos but helped lead his ouster, has insisted Mrs. Aquino call elections to legitimate her government.

But a recently drafted constitution that is to be submitted to a referendum next year would keep Mrs. Aquino and Laurel in office until 1990.

Mrs. Aquino maintains she won an electoral mandate in the fraud tainted Feb. 7 ballot in which government officials declared Marcos the victor. Marcos fled to Hawaii two weeks later in the face of a military and civilian revolt.

Enrile told a nurses convention Wednesday, "In the final stages of the revolution, we (the military) had complete control almost of the levers of power in the land."

He said, "We decided not to accept that power and wield it, but instead we handed it to a civilian government headed by Mrs. Aquino .... And so, therefore, no one can tell us that they handed to us an appointment of a position because we were holding those positions before any one of them had their positions."

Enrile told the nurses he would resign if Mrs. Aquino demanded but would first have to consult the military - "the people I represent in the government."

In recent weeks, Enrile increasingly has criticized Mrs. Aquino's policies, especially that of seeking a negotiated peace with communist rebels.

Presidential spokesman Teodoro Benigno told reporters Wednesday that Mrs. Aquino believes her position as national leader reflects "the people's mandate" and that she will continue to work with the military. But Enrile says he is not convinced.

ST. JUDE

ST. JUDE

Student, Saint Jude's Hospital and Manor, grew in wisdom and faith with encouragement of all who made her home. St. Jude's is a hospital where the sick find help. I have no stories from the depths of St. Jude's, but I do know that God has given much great power, to whom he has given the gift of faith. Help me in my faith and prayers. Pray for me, and I promise to make your name known and cause you to be invoked. In the name of Our Fathers, Amen.

SHRI HARI HAREM

ST. JUDE

Please see your Campus Placement Office for additional information.

Tomorrow is taking shape at a company called TRW.

E-mail Opportunity Employer
U.S. Citizenship Required

The future is under your fingertips. TRW may hold the keys to your future. Our Electronics and Defense Sector can offer you a seemingly endless choice of opportunities. Opportunities in Microelectronics, high energy laser and high energy laser energy beams communications and scientific spacecraft.

With your ideas, TRW will continue to make firm impressions in the future. Key into tomorrow's technology today.

The Observer Thursday, October 30, 1986 - page 7

Key Opportunities

TRW
Will Be
On Campus:
November 13 & 14

Ironwood liquors
1725 North Ironwood South Bend
272-7144

ND 61
DOMESTIC AND IMPORTED WINES BEERS LIQUOR

Please see your Campus Placement Office for additional information.

Those students interested in volunteering at The Shelter for the Homeless and have not already scheduled themselves to do so, need to contact one of the following immediately:

Lynn Scott 259-5770 (7pm - 11pm)
United Religious Community 282-2397 (9am - 4pm)
John Gordon 283-1666

Philippine minister says he was not an appointee

Associated Press

MANILA, philippines - Defense Minister Juan Ponce Enrile, whose criticism of government policies has prompted calls for his resignation, said Wednesday that he was no mere appointee and that he and his associates are committed to President Corazon Aquino.

Mrs. Aquino's vice president and foreign minister, Salvador Laurel, meanwhile, suggested voters be allowed to decide whether presidential elections should be held next year, as urged by Enrile.

"I thought it would be more fair not only to the people, but also to Mrs. Aquino and myself, to know what the people feel about our tenure," Laurel told a news conference.

Enrile, who also was defense minister under President Ferdinand Marcos but helped lead his ouster, has insisted Mrs. Aquino call elections to legitimate her government.

But a recently drafted constitution that is to be submitted to a referendum next year would keep Mrs. Aquino and Laurel in office until 1990.

Mrs. Aquino maintains she won an electoral mandate in the fraud tainted Feb. 7 ballot in which government officials declared Marcos the victor. Marcos fled to Hawaii two weeks later in the face of a military and civilian revolt.

Enrile told a nurses convention Wednesday, "In the final stages of the revolution, we (the military) had complete control almost of the levers of power in the land."

He said, "We decided not to accept that power and wield it, but instead we handed it to a civilian government headed by Mrs. Aquino .... And so, therefore, no one can tell us that they handed to us an appointment of a position because we were holding those positions before any one of them had their positions."

Enrile told the nurses he would resign if Mrs. Aquino demanded but would first have to consult the military - "the people I represent in the government."

In recent weeks, Enrile increasingly has criticized Mrs. Aquino's policies, especially that of seeking a negotiated peace with communist rebels.

Presidential spokesman Teodoro Benigno told reporters Wednesday that Mrs. Aquino believes her position as national leader reflects "the people's mandate" and that she will continue to work with the military. But Enrile says he is not convinced.
Viewpoint

Business background in many majors

So you are considering a business major. Well, forget it. Do your future a favor and don't even bother.

All of the company presidents that I have questioned regarding majors have said the same thing: a liberal education is the most important asset that an employee can have.

Brian Murray

guest column

One can always get training in a chosen field from an employer. Accountancy is not something that you can learn in eight weeks. Accounting and finance programs that teach a non-business major three years of accounting or finance in only one year. You could earn an MBA. Or you could learn by doing, when you graduate from college and get a business, starting with an unrelated major will double your worth. Your co-workers will have one degree. You will have two. (And since I have never heard of a business major going back to school to get a Liberal Arts degree, chances are that your advantage will never be permanent.)

The first senator that I met my freshman year at Notre Dame was a philanthropist who claimed to have been accepted to law school with a strong business background, an MBA, and a few years of experience.

So you are probably saying, "Brian, not me! I can be a professional Democrat in Washington!"

Most of you are Science, Engineering, and Arts and Letters majors. You are all perfectly well-prepared to be business majors. Learn your field. Get work experience. If you choose to take a law school, get an MBA, or do both.

If you want to take business courses, take the essential ones. Accounting courses are always important. Introductory Finance, Marketing, and Management courses will give you a great overview of the field and assist you in decisions about your business career.

Most importantly, make sure you load your undergraduate courses with plenty of writing and general classes so you will not take graduate school. Philosophy, psychology, history and literature courses are important to develop a well-rounded individual. These courses teach thinking and communication which, regardless of your college major will double your worth. Your business career.

The next question that you probably have is "Brian, you hypocrite, why are you an Accounting major?" Good question. However, I am planning a career in Finance, marketing, or general management. Accounting gives me an analytical base to understanding business. From here I can concentrate on a specific area in business, any specific area that I choose.

If I were to go into Accounting, I would major in English. If I were considering a career, I would major in Engineering for the first year. I do not want to manage people. I would be a Psychologist major.

While you are in school, make sure you prepare adequately to become an individual for any business field and be an interchangeable. A good case could be made for any major. But whatever major you choose it will advance one's potential.

With a little creativity in choosing majors, you will be able to expand your education. It is a well-intentioned, but it is also most assuredly ill-advised.

Well, for those of you who are alcohol related hijinks are not well tolerated. Whether they are college or "townie" antics, they can involve a great deal of lost time, expense and most importantly a lasting criminal record.

The young man in question had apparently been advised to fight the system, to reject offers of pre-trial diversion. I leave to the legal philosophers the question of whether you can or should fight the system. Let them decide how many intoxicated minors can dance on the head of a pin.

For the rest of us, however, let's get realistic. First, this isn't New York City, or Boston, or St. Louis. It is just not as if she didn't have the chance. I could go on with my jacket saga, but I doubt any went to school here because at the time, it was just not "proper" to accept them. Because what is "proper" is not necessarily right, I will not choose to ignore propriety. Instead, I will follow what I think is right and wrong (some consider this a novel concept). If anyone wants to know why I wear my jacket, just ask.

I admire Frese's ability to stand up and express her opinion, but I refuse to throw my jacket away just to satisfy her. If I have never spoken to each other before, and that she could have no possible insight into what I was thinking. It is not as if she didn't have the chance to talk to me. From the context of her letter, she must have followed me for at least two minutes. Solely from her appearance, she described exactly what I must have been feeling. (And what does the fact that I am biding have to do with anything?) If I were to take the same liberties in describing Frese from her letter, I might conclude that she is a militant feminist; one can plainly see the dangers of making such rash generalizations. On the other hand, Frese must have been too busy paging through her thesaurus to notice them.

For the rest of her letter, Frese ex­­presses her opinion on the subject, so that a consensus on this issue could be formed, thereby establishing a level of propriety for this community. I must warn the dangers of imposing proper "guidelines" to govern where laws do not. A simple example will suffice: 75 years ago, black men had the legal right to attend this university, but I doubt any went to school here because at the time, it was just not "proper" to accept them. Because what is "proper" is not necessarily right, I will not choose to ignore propriety. Instead, I will follow what I think is right and wrong (some consider this a novel concept). If anyone wants to know why I wear my jacket, just ask.

I admire Frese's ability to stand up and express her opinion, but I refuse to throw my jacket away just to satisfy her. If I have never spoken to each other before, and that she could have no possible insight into what I was thinking. It is not as if she didn't have the chance to talk to me. From the context of her letter, she must have followed me for at least two minutes. Solely from her appearance, she described exactly what I must have been feeling. (And what does the fact that I am biding have to do with anything?) If I were to

Dear Editor:

While I was in traffic and mis­dem­onor court this morning representing clients of my own, I had the unpleasant occasion to witness a Notre Dame student being fed to the wolves by long distance.

The student had been charged with public intoxication and had been sub­­ject to some terrible legal advice and was about to make a serious mistake. Apparently, some law students have been advising Domers how to lose time, expense and most importantly a lasting criminal record. It's a freebie. Take advantage of it. Yes, it costs you a nominal service fee. It costs you some time. But even worst thing is a large bale of hay and a small criminal record. If it's freebie. Take advantage of it.

There was a time in society when a drunk driving conviction or a public intox­ica­tion conviction or a drunk and disorderly record was simply a bale of hay and a little world. That time is past. It may return, but not during your minority.

Now, we live in an era when this kind of "minor" criminal record will effect your ability to get into graduate school, certainly medical school, probably business school, and possibly even your school. Pre-trial diversion can wipe out this kind of record, and I would strongly suggest that you take advantage of it!

Oh, yes. One final word of free advice. Even if you own one, don't bother dressing up in a suit to appear to screw the system. That judge sitting there has seen a thousand others just like you, and a suit is not going to convince him that you are a person.

You broke the law. Know your rights. Protect your rights, but stand up and take it like a person.

Lawrence J Clifton
Stutsman, Stevens, Leone & Clifton

Jacket wearer explains the origin of saying

Dear Editor:

Last Monday (before break) I returned from lunch to discover the phrase printed on the back of my jacket was not as if she didn't have the chance. I could go on with my jacket saga, but I doubt any went to school here because at the time, it was just not "proper" to accept them. Because what is "proper" is not necessarily right, I will not choose to ignore propriety. Instead, I will follow what I think is right and wrong (some consider this a novel concept). If anyone wants to know why I wear my jacket, just ask.

I admire Frese's ability to stand up and express her opinion, but I refuse to throw my jacket away just to satisfy her. If I have never spoken to each other before, and that she could have no possible insight into what I was thinking. It is not as if she didn't have the chance to talk to me. From the context of her letter, she must have followed me for at least two minutes. Solely from her appearance, she described exactly what I must have been feeling. (And what does the fact that I am biding have to do with anything?) If I were to

Dear Editor:

While I was in traffic and mis­dem­nor court this morning representing clients of my own, I had the unpleasant occasion to witness a Notre Dame student being fed to the wolves by long distance.

The student had been charged with public intoxication and had been sub­­ject to some terrible legal advice and was about to make a serious mistake. Apparently, some law students have been advising Domers how to lose time, expense and most importantly a lasting criminal record. It's a freebie. Take advantage of it. Yes, it costs you a nominal service fee. It costs you some time. But even worst thing is a large bale of hay and a small criminal record. If it's freebie. Take advantage of it.

There was a time in society when a drunk driving conviction or a public intox­ica­tion conviction or a drunk and disorderly record was simply a bale of hay and a little world. That time is past. It may return, but not during your minority.

Now, we live in an era when this kind of "minor" criminal record will effect your ability to get into graduate school, certainly medical school, probably business school, and possibly even your school. Pre-trial diversion can wipe out this kind of record, and I would strongly suggest that you take advantage of it!

Oh, yes. One final word of free advice. Even if you own one, don't bother dressing up in a suit to appear to screw the system. That judge sitting there has seen a thousand others just like you, and a suit is not going to convince him that you are a person.

You broke the law. Know your rights. Protect your rights, but stand up and take it like a person.

Lawrence J Clifton
Stutsman, Stevens, Leone & Clifton

Doonesbury

Garry Trudeau

Quote of the day

"I would rather sit on a pumpkin, and have it all to myself, then to be crowded on a velvet cushion."

Henry David Thoreau

Write us

Doonesbury

Garry Trudeau

Quote of the day

"I would rather sit on a pumpkin, and have it all to myself, then to be crowded on a velvet cushion."

Henry David Thoreau

Write us

Chris Julka

in plain english

Some people's ideological prejudices make them reject Star Wars out of hand, but they are, as nothing more than a convenient means to attack an ideological enemy, like the President said. If this is amazing, however, it is that many asume automatically that to support this I am not lumping the majority of their authors. It is precisely because it was violated, the status quo could not be expected to remain automatically conservative and superfi-cial limitations treaty were violated, in the other hand, the status quo could be enforced precisely because such a treaty is so conservative and superfi-cial.

It is precisely here, however, where Star Wars could become the disarmament activist's dream, for an anti-ballistic missile system would very clearly be a means of enforcement. Above all, in contrast to the means of nuclear weapons, the nuclear disarmament treaty, this particular one would not make any claims to nuclear weapons of mass destruction.

All of this sounds nice and may be so, you may be saving Star Wars which is the name of a science fiction film after all - really feasible? This is not the place for a technical argument. Even with the appearance of a Star Wars as something totally divorced from nuclear disarmament, as well as proponents of policies of the superpowers, even if at a bilateral level. This need not only benefit the West, but could be in his interest.

Chris Julka is a junior American Studies major and a regular Viewpoint columnist.
Giannetto's

Home of the Original

Stuffed Pizza

Announcing the Opening
Of Our 2nd Location!

We wish to express our thanks for your continued support.

Corner of Notre Dame
& South Bend Ave.
South Bend
232-6696

Centre of 13th St.
& Spring St.
Michigan
259-1948

The New York Deli & Cafe

NEW YORK DELL & CAFE

Featuri
Homemade soup, New York slice, homemade breakfast, fresh salads, bagels and... features.

Join us for breakfast, lunch, and dinn:

FRESH SALADS

The Observer

The New York Deli & Cafe

New York Deli & Cafe

Join us

for breakfast, lunch, and dinner.

RIBS & BLUES

Michiana's home of the Blues
Featuring LIVE Blues Wed., Fri., Sat.

"Generous and open hearted
whether it's ribs or blues or rhythm and blues you'll find good things going on."
Gail Carson
South Bend Tribune

MENU HIGHLIGHTS

Lg RIB TIP DINNER .. 6.30
Mini RIB TIP DINNER .. 4.45
Lg RIB DINNER .. 7.35
Small RIB DINNER .. 5.25
SLAB DINNER .. 14.25

Bring in this coupon for $1 off

237-9132
3201 Western Ave., South Bend

Great re to stop in at M

Unique Sandy

- Italian sausage
- Italian meatball
- Beef and company
- and many

Soups, Salads, Apps

Beer and Casual Atmosphere

PLUS

Football Catering
3 foot or 6 foot Special Boxed

Large Satellite

6502 Grap University

Mishawaka
277-72

Mon-Thurs
Fri-Sat
Sunday
The Fondué Parlor

Taste the Romance of Romance

Two Specials:
- All you can eat Seafood Dinner
- Fondue Bar

Two Specials:
- All you can eat Seafood Dinner
- Fondue Bar

Try our Cheese Fondue with red and natural evenings

Discount Coupon

This coupon entitles you to your choice of one menu item of your choice and some of its selected items at half price.

The Fondué Porter

120 Center Old Spanish Building
272-5478

BARKLAY'S IS BACK & BETTER THAN EVER!
The Selection is Incredible!

Still serving the famous BBQ Ribs and Prime Rib with an extensive new menu offering Fresh Seafood and other Specialties...

BARKLAY'S
Roadhouse & Raw Bar
272-5478
US 31/33 North (Just N. of Cleveland Rd.)

Mr. & Mrs. America

PITCHER OF SOFT DRINK & ORDER OF BREADSTICKS

With purchase of any Large Monster, or Large Sicilian or any 16" or 20" round pizza. Minimum of 2 toppings. Not good with any other discount or promotion offer.

RESTAURANT & LOUNGE
1633 LAKE STREET
NILES, MICHIGAN
616-583-7474

a Notre Dame, Saint Mary's Tradition for over 30 years.

JUST ASK ANYONE!
Kottke's strummin' his stuff

BRIAN PETERS
features writer

Leo who? Kottke . . . a rather unusual name to try to pronounce. Let's make it easy. Just say "cooky." It's close enough.

It stretches too far for rock 'n' roll has jumped to the '80's. The Brits, however, are not dominated by the standard American bands that also has some Caribbean flavor running underneath and could easily find a home at a square dance. This blend of styles forms the base for lyrics that celebrate everyday life in the face of frustration and bitterness will soon disappear.

This is not exactly deep stuff, but then again neither are the melodies that take you places by the power of their words and music. It's a shame that Sweet's vocals lack of originality could have been compensated partially by bringing the vocal features to the forefront, but when the lyrics are as unoriginal as "Shout," it is not clear what the listener is shouting about, if anything.

In a sense, it is at this point where Glant is flawed. The melodies here show great promise, but have little substance. There are plenty of hooks, but little resolution or complete differences between the tracks. No one song really rocks out, and neither is there a notable slow number or ballad. Every track sounds too much like the other for this LP to have any real distinction.

Lyrically, Inside breaks no new ground. Most of the songs concern relationships between men and women, but there is a lot of rough love - stuff along those lines. A great album combines thoughtful lyrics with innovative or insightful music. Inside is strong in both departments, making it more fluff than anything substantial.

It's a shame that Sweet's smooth, clear voice is not featured more prominently on the album. The music lacks of originality could have been compensated partially by bringing the vocal features to the forefront, but when the lyrics are as unoriginal as "Shout," it is not clear what is going on. There is a notable slow number or ballad. Every track sounds too much like the other for this LP to have any real distinction.

Lyrically, Inside breaks no new ground. Most of the songs concern relationships between men and women, but there is a lot of rough love - stuff along those lines. A great album combines thoughtful lyrics with innovative or insightful music. Inside is strong in both departments, making it more fluff than anything substantial.

It's a shame that Sweet's smooth, clear voice is not featured more prominently on the album. The music lacks of originality could have been compensated partially by bringing the vocal features to the forefront, but when the lyrics are as unoriginal as "Shout," it is not clear what is going on. There is a notable slow number or ballad. Every track sounds too much like the other for this LP to have any real distinction.

Lyrically, Inside breaks no new ground. Most of the songs concern relationships between men and women, but there is a lot of rough love - stuff along those lines. A great album combines thoughtful lyrics with innovative or insightful music. Inside is strong in both departments, making it more fluff than anything substantial.

It's a shame that Sweet's smooth, clear voice is not featured more prominently on the album. The music lacks of originality could have been compensated partially by bringing the vocal features to the forefront, but when the lyrics are as unoriginal as "Shout," it is not clear what is going on. There is a notable slow number or ballad. Every track sounds too much like the other for this LP to have any real distinction.

Lyrically, Inside breaks no new ground. Most of the songs concern relationships between men and women, but there is a lot of rough love - stuff along those lines. A great album combines thoughtful lyrics with innovative or insightful music. Inside is strong in both departments, making it more fluff than anything substantial.

It's a shame that Sweet's smooth, clear voice is not featured more prominently on the album. The music lacks of originality could have been compensated partially by bringing the vocal features to the forefront, but when the lyrics are as unoriginal as "Shout," it is not clear what is going on. There is a notable slow number or ballad. Every track sounds too much like the other for this LP to have any real distinction.

Lyrically, Inside breaks no new ground. Most of the songs concern relationships between men and women, but there is a lot of rough love - stuff along those lines. A great album combines thoughtful lyrics with innovative or insightful music. Inside is strong in both departments, making it more fluff than anything substantial.

It's a shame that Sweet's smooth, clear voice is not featured more prominently on the album. The music lacks of originality could have been compensated partially by bringing the vocal features to the forefront, but when the lyrics are as unoriginal as "Shout," it is not clear what is going on. There is a notable slow number or ballad. Every track sounds too much like the other for this LP to have any real distinction.

Lyrically, Inside breaks no new ground. Most of the songs concern relationships between men and women, but there is a lot of rough love - stuff along those lines. A great album combines thoughtful lyrics with innovative or insightful music. Inside is strong in both departments, making it more fluff than anything substantial.

It's a shame that Sweet's smooth, clear voice is not featured more prominently on the album. The music lacks of originality could have been compensated partially by bringing the vocal features to the forefront, but when the lyrics are as unoriginal as "Shout," it is not clear what is going on. There is a notable slow number or ballad. Every track sounds too much like the other for this LP to have any real distinction.

Lyrically, Inside breaks no new ground. Most of the songs concern relationships between men and women, but there is a lot of rough love - stuff along those lines. A great album combines thoughtful lyrics with innovative or insightful music. Inside is strong in both departments, making it more fluff than anything substantial.

It's a shame that Sweet's smooth, clear voice is not featured more prominently on the album. The music lacks of originality could have been compensated partially by bringing the vocal features to the forefront, but when the lyrics are as unoriginal as "Shout," it is not clear what is going on. There is a notable slow number or ballad. Every track sounds too much like the other for this LP to have any real distinction.

Lyrically, Inside breaks no new ground. Most of the songs concern relationships between men and women, but there is a lot of rough love - stuff along those lines. A great album combines thoughtful lyrics with innovative or insightful music. Inside is strong in both departments, making it more fluff than anything substantial.

It's a shame that Sweet's smooth, clear voice is not featured more prominently on the album. The music lacks of originality could have been compensated partially by bringing the vocal features to the forefront, but when the lyrics are as unoriginal as "Shout," it is not clear what is going on. There is a notable slow number or ballad. Every track sounds too much like the other for this LP to have any real distinction.

Lyrically, Inside breaks no new ground. Most of the songs concern relationships between men and women, but there is a lot of rough love - stuff along those lines. A great album combines thoughtful lyrics with innovative or insightful music. Inside is strong in both departments, making it more fluff than anything substantial.

It's a shame that Sweet's smooth, clear voice is not featured more prominently on the album. The music lacks of originality could have been compensated partially by bringing the vocal features to the forefront, but when the lyrics are as unoriginal as "Shout," it is not clear what is going on. There is a notable slow number or ballad. Every track sounds too much like the other for this LP to have any real distinction.

Lyrically, Inside breaks no new ground. Most of the songs concern relationships between men and women, but there is a lot of rough love - stuff along those lines. A great album combines thoughtful lyrics with innovative or insightful music. Inside is strong in both departments, making it more fluff than anything substantial.

It's a shame that Sweet's smooth, clear voice is not featured more prominently on the album. The music lacks of originality could have been compensated partially by bringing the vocal features to the forefront, but when the lyrics are as unoriginal as "Shout," it is not clear what is going on. There is a notable slow number or ballad. Every track sounds too much like the other for this LP to have any real distinction.

Lyrically, Inside breaks no new ground. Most of the songs concern relationships between men and women, but there is a lot of rough love - stuff along those lines. A great album combines thoughtful lyrics with innovative or insightful music. Inside is strong in both departments, making it more fluff than anything substantial.

It's a shame that Sweet's smooth, clear voice is not featured more prominently on the album. The music lacks of originality could have been compensated partially by bringing the vocal features to the forefront, but when the lyrics are as unoriginal as "Shout," it is not clear what is going on. There is a notable slow number or ballad. Every track sounds too much like the other for this LP to have any real distinction.

Lyrically, Inside breaks no new ground. Most of the songs concern relationships between men and women, but there is a lot of rough love - stuff along those lines. A great album combines thoughtful lyrics with innovative or insightful music. Inside is strong in both departments, making it more fluff than anything substantial.

It's a shame that Sweet's smooth, clear voice is not featured more prominently on the album. The music lacks of originality could have been compensated partially by bringing the vocal features to the forefront, but when the lyrics are as unoriginal as "Shout," it is not clear what is going on. There is a notable slow number or ballad. Every track sounds too much like the other for this LP to have any real distinction.
The Feelies feel good

MARY JACOBY
features editor

Some albums seem to unfold in time, probing deeper and deeper into the listener's consciousness with each spin on the turntable. The best albums may initially seem the most disposable albums -- on the first listen.

\section*{Records}

\textbf{The Feelies -- The Good Earth}

The Feelies' new album, \textit{The Good Earth}, is an example of this phenomenon. On the first listen, all the songs seem to blend together in a pleasant -- but not clearly defined -- fog of gentle rhythms and droning vocals. It requires the investment of some time, however, to recognize the intricate beauty of the Feelies' music, which is simple yet somehow strangely uplifting, considering the sedate vocals and dis- gusted power of the beat.

\section*{The Feelies}

\textbf{Ciccone Youth (aka Sonic Youth) -- "Into the Groove/Flurbin' Up" (New Alliance Records) Ciccone Youth is Sonic Youth in disguise. If you like songs about murder and ghosts and if you like people who play their guitars with screwdrivers you'll like Sonic Youth. If you don't like those things forget it. This single is only, a good introduction to the band. You already know the song right? Wrong. It starts off with a drum machine at high speed and breaks into harsh major chords and vocals that make Madonna's bouncy tune into more of a threat than a come-on. An occasional blast of guitar noise breaks through the mix sounding like a dentist's drill stuck on a raw nerve. Madonna's voice actually surfaces four of five times before being sucked back in by the ever-present drum machine. You can even dance to it, sort of. Guaranteed to scare you away from your Madonna records forever.}

\textbf{The Miracle Legion -- "The Backyard Until She Talks" (Millenium Records) The Miracle Legion play light guitar-and-drum rock 'n' roll. So what? you say. "Who doesn't?" Well you've got a point but these guys aren't singing about a six pack and being real lonely on a Saturday night. Instead they've managed to be enigmatic without sounding pompous. "In the backyard" seems to be all the singer's mother although he never says so. Lyrics like "The world was so big and I was so small your voice was always... the loudest of all" sure sound like he's talking about his mother. But it could be his father or his girlfriend or his alcoholic grandma. The mood is sad without being sentimental and the music is great. The guitars are crisp and loud, the drums are sparse and mean and the whole song turns on a great hook. It isn't a miracle but it is a great single.}

\section*{Independent label finds}

\textbf{KRIS MURPHY}
features writer

\textbf{Willing to work a little? Willing to spend a few bucks? These singles are hard to find but they're all worth the trouble. All have been released within the last year and all are available by special order from Trackz right here in South Bend.}

\textbf{R.E.M -- "Femme Fatale" (Giveway records) R.E.M. has a way with slow songs. "Perfect Circle," "Camera" and "Pale Blue Eyes" are all lilting, ethereal, majestic...}

\textbf{The Good Earth} is a happy sort of album in an enigmatic, contradictory way: major chord music with a toe-tapping drum beat dragging along Glen Mercer's wiggly, seemingly passionless voice. The music's depth becomes apparent on repeated listens. The muted vocals complement quiet rhythms that hide some of the Feelies' best music. The Good Earth is a densely textured album with unassuming chord progressions that hum along crisply, leaving the listener with the feeling that something nice has brushed up against him and slipped away like a breeze.

No cut can be singled out, because they are all good. But the titles -- "On the Roof," "Let's Go," "Slipping into something..." Two Rooms," "The Good Earth" -- all suggest a sense of movement. If you like songs about the loudest of all ancestors, you'll love the Feelies' new album. If you don't have much chance of making it, you'll still find the fun and the fact that they care about the MUSIC. So do yourself a favor, buy some records by groups you've never heard of. You'll like what you hear more than you think and you'll support what rock 'n' roll was all about in the first place. Independence.
Sports Briefs

The Observer - Thursday, October 30, 1986 - Page 14

Corryell has had enough

Associated Press

SAN DIEGO - San Diego Chargers Coach Don Coryell resigned Wednesday following a meeting with team owner Alex Spanos, a Chargers spokesman said.

"I feel a change would be beneficial to the Chargers," said Coryell, 61.

Coryell was in his ninth season with the Chargers, who are 3-1 in the regular season. The team has lost seven straight games.

Chargers spokesman Rick Smith said Coryell would be replaced by Al Saunders, who was named assistant head coach at the end of last season.

Coryell is the only coach to win more than 100 games at both the professional and collegiate level.

In 14 years as an NFL head coach at St. Louis and San Diego, Coryell was 114-86, including playoff games.

Classifieds

NOTICES AVAILABLE, 287-4802

TIPTOP/SCREWING CALL DOLLARS 277-6111.

EXPERT TIPWELL SERVICE, CALL 277-1141.

JAZZ, NEW WAVE, CLASSICAL, THE BOSTON CIRCUS, and more.

TICKETS (ANY LEVEL) (ANY MATERIAL) 277-1114 ANYTIME FOR assure any concert, please call Dan 308-8131.

FOR SALE

Finding calculator in 254 CUS.

PLEASE CALL Dan 277-1141.

LOST - II class ring blue $15.00 inside loose stone. Call Tim 200-3692 or 277-1062.

LOST: Good wallet with something secured to it. Drop Tim 211-8177 or, please call Bruce 234-3375.

FOUND: Guy's watch in 2D parking lot. Call Dan at 277-4177 to claim.

For sale Apple IIe, maineconvise

NEED 4 PENN ST. TX. -15- 38010 AFTER 5.

NEED 10 4 ST. TX. OR TO ST. FRU. CALL PAUL 175.

FOR RENT

Two room furnished apt. private en-

room

4-0-0-0-0-0-0-0.

WANTED

Student Spring Break Representative for Colleges Tour & Tennis. Earn $100 per trip to any 6-7 college cities. Call Ade 608-603-6021.

NEED 8 PENN ST. XIII 210-0501.

PARENTS, STUDENTS, INSPECTORS, CAN¬

INFORMATION FOR 3851, PAUL 410-0547.

FOLLOW DIRECTIONS TO THE CENTER, CALL 277-3939.

WANTED

277-1752 4-0-0-0-0-0-0-0.

LOST: A gold necklace with 3 charms on it, also a $20 bill from it, on a chain, in the area of 310-8-8-0-0-0-0-0.

LOST: Found near my home. Strange looking, silver watch, also on a chain. Call Dan 277-1141.

FLICKER WATCH watch box with brilliant blue stone on the face, round silver strap. Call 234-3375.

FOUND: Make sure you type the street of origin correctly! In 2D, 2474-2522.

FOUND R.P. BEFORE BREAK, CALL TO IDENTIFY, 1412

Last: A brown handkerchief bandanna was found on the floor of 211-8177.

ORGANIZED CRIME AND WHITE COLLAR INVESTIGATION (503) 368-4500.

WANTED: PLEASE HELP ME, I HAVE A HAPPY HALLOWEEN...

FOR SALE

WYFF AM radio will air Saturday's Notre Dame-Navy game live from Memorial Stadium in Baltimore with Frank Mastor and Sean Pieri calling all the action. Studio host Rudy "B" Bertone will update scores and provide highlights as lights throughout the evening. Coverage commences at 6:30 p.m. with the pre-game show featuring "College Football This Week" with Brian Broderick and Sean Munter and "Irish Review."

The Rockne Memorial is offering the following safety courses:

Red Cross Lifesaving is offered Sundays noon to 3 p.m. in the classroom of Rolf's Athletic Center. Cost is $10.

Anyone interested in CPR, Lifeguarding, or Advanced First Aid should attend a sign-up session on today between 4:30 and 7:30 p.m. in room 218 Rockne. The Lifeguard council has prerequisites.

For further information contact Bro. Louis Hurcik at 253-6521.

Sports Briefs are accepted Sunday through Friday. In The Observer offices on the third floor of LaFontaine Student Center before 3 p.m. on the day prior to publication. -The Observer.
San Diego pitcher is arrested again for possession of pills

Associated Press

SAN DIEGO - San Diego Padres pitcher Lamarr Hoyt was arrested Tuesday night at the San Ysidro border crossing by U.S. customs agents when he allegedly tried to bring hundreds of illegal pills into the United States, a Customs spokesman said.

Mike Fleming, public affairs officer for the U.S. customs Pacific Region, said Hoyt was stopped as he walked across the border from Mexico about 7 p.m. PDT. According to Fleming, an inspector got suspicious when he noticed a bulge in Hoyt's clothing and took Hoyt to a secondary inspection area for a pat-down search. The search revealed two plastic bags in Hoyt's groin area containing 322 Valium tablets, 169 Quaaludes, and 30 unidentified tablets, Fleming said.

This was Hoyt's third run-in with the law this year. The former Cy Young Award winner was detained at the border in February after U.S. Customs agents found illegal pills on him. Also in February, San Diego police stopped Hoyt and cited him for carrying marijuana cigarettes and a switchblade.

Field hockey takes victory

By MARGOT MACHECA
Sports Writer

The Notre Dame field hockey rebounded from its last five games when it traveled to Valparaiso yesterday and tallied a 2-1 victory over the Crusaders. With the win, the Irish raised their season record to 6-9-1 including a 2-0 sweep of Valparaiso in both of the meetings between the two teams this fall.

In the first period, junior forward Ann McGlinn scored the first Irish goal on an assist from senior Steph Giggetts. Just before the half ended, Valparaiso scored on a breakaway to tie the match at 1-1.

Giggetts knocked in the final and deciding goal on a feed from sophomore link Christine Sweeney to secure the victory for Notre Dame.

Head coach Jill Lindenfeld liked what she saw in her team's performance and contributed the low score to player losses on the forward line and a strong defensive showing for the Irish.

"The team played a great game on a lousy field, but we did not have Cortine DiGiacomo, our leading scorer," noted the coach.

Despite a broken nose from an earlier match, co-captain Mary Wagner did contribute yesterday to add needed strength on offense.

The Irish also had to make up for the loss of junior Benet DeBerry, the team's most dominant defensive player.

"We did not have Benet today, but the links played very well," remarked Lindenfeld. "The whole team really had to drive and hit the ball hard on a field with very thick grass."

Although the Irish controlled the ball for practically the entire game, they missed many opportunities to improve their score.

"We totally outshot Valpo and we had thirty penalty corners, but we could only capitalize twice," noted Lindenfeld. "Our defense played their usual strong and consistent game."

In the final home game of the season for the team, the Irish face Albion College on Cartier Field at 3:30 p.m. Monday. There will be both varsity and junior varsity contests between the two schools.

Following the Albion matchup, Notre Dame will have only one regular season game before traveling to Kentucky for the Midwest Regionals.
Rushing game boosted by Taylor's recovery

By TERRY LYNCH
Sports Writer

Sometimes there are injuries, and then there are just plain nightmares. Just talk to Pernell Taylor, and he'll tell you all about it.

Imagine this scenario. You are an all-everything running back and linebacker at your high school. You live in LaFayette, Calif. Colleges are actively seeking you left and right, offering scholastic opportunities beyond the local water district. You are looking forward to playing all over the country with a football every week and then in the fall semester. The weather is warm and sunny. The bowl is not all that far away. Life is grand.

You decide to take Notre Dame up on its offer. A good decision, or so you think. You have chosen a fine school, and one that isn't averse to playing with football on Saturdays in the fall. Life is still grand, as you take off in a big jet plane. Two weeks into summer practice, before your first class, your knee decides life isn't so grand anymore. In fact, it pretty much disintegrates.

The weather is cold and rainy, and the Dunes aren't your idea of a beach. What are you going to do?

"After the injury happened, I had the option of missing my first year and coming back to start over a year later," says Taylor.

"I missed my first week of school because of the hospital, but I wanted to stay here and get the first year of academics finished. I talked to my parents, and I thought it would be better if I stayed and got the work out of the way.

"It was tough just to sit back and watch the games, but I couldn't do much about it."

So freshman year rolls by, you've suffered through all of the hassles, and now you're ready to play. Or so you would like to think. After major surgery, the knee starts to heal, but it takes its toll.

"When sophomore year came, the knee was fine, but the muscles around it in my leg were weak, so I decided not to risk playing on it," says Taylor.

So you sit around for a second season. You still haven't found anything that quite resembles the Pacific Ocean in northern Indiana.

But things begin to look up after the long wait ends. For Taylor, that happened last year. Finally, he was able to play football, although sparingly.

"Maybe the biggest break for Taylor came last November, when Lou Holtz was announced as head coach. And to a fullback, an incoming offensive coach means more time on the field and more responsibility. And if you haven't played much in three years, it means a heck of a lot more fun.

"I loved it," says Taylor about how he reacted to the new offense Holtz brought with him.

"Last year, the fullback was a glorified fullback. This year the fullback touches the ball on almost every play.

"Now you don't know who's going to get the ball, so that opens up the hole for the fullback."

Running backs coach Mike Stock has watched Taylor bounce back and try to adjust to the new offense. So far, Stock likes what he has seen.

"Pernell hadn't played football in two years," says Stock. "It takes courage to step back out onto the field after that. He's had some peaks and valleys. "With the new offensive philosophy, we wanted him to adjust himself to the various things we wanted him to do. It was a learning experience, but as time wore on, his confidence came."

It's the kind of confidence that has Taylor leading all Irish rushers with 209 yards on 50 carries with two touchdowns. It's the kind of confidence that makes even the Dunes look like a California beach.

Pernell Taylor (46) has overcome injuries to become Notre Dame's starting fullback. Terry Lynch features the leading rusher for the Irish in his story at left.
Big Ten championship is in doubt, according to conference leaders

Associated Press

EVANSTON, Ill. - Michigan and Ohio State are back on top in the Big Ten football race, threatening a return to their 1970s domination of the league. Not so, chagrined most Big Ten coaches yesterday in their weekly telephone interview.

Back in the 1970s, the Big Ten was represented in the Rose Bowl solely by Michigan and Ohio State.

The championship monopoly was broken up by Iowa in 1982 and 1983, and by Illinois in 1983.

So far this season, Michigan is undefeated and ranked third nationally. No. 17 Ohio State has climbed back into the rankings with six straight victories.

The two teams are tied for the Big Ten lead with 4-0 records. If Ohio State defeats No. 11 Iowa this Saturday, the championship probably will be decided when Michigan and Ohio State meet Nov. 22.

Could the two powers be heading for another period of conference domination?

"I don't think Iowa would agree," Ohio State coach Bo Schembechler said.

"Both of these teams have always been in the race except for us in 1984. I'm not surprised that we're there now. But there are four games to go and I'm not as confident as I was in the 1970s," Ohio State's Earle Bruce, who takes his Buckeyes to Iowa on Saturday, was cautioned with his reply.

"School's still out," said Bruce. "We'll know more after this week. Iowa provides a tremendous challenge for us."

McNamara finishes second again as Lanier cops top skipper honors

Associated Press

HOUSTON - Hal Lanier of the Houston Astros, who learned his managing skills from St. Louis Whitey Herzog, yesterday matched an honor won by his old boss by being named The Associated Press Manager of the Year.

Lanier guided the Astros to the NL Western Division title in his first year as a manager after five years as a coach for Herzog, who was manager of the year in 1985.

Lanier received 35 votes and was a runaway winner over Boston's John McNamara in nationwide voting by sports writers and broadcasters, which took place before the playoffs.

McNamara, whose Red Sox lost to the New York Mets in six games.

"Whitey taught me how to run a pitching staff and I think that is a major part of managing," Lanier, who was the Cardinals' third-base coach in 1980, said. "I think I added to that a knowledge of the game, the talent we had and what we could do and couldn't do.

Lanier said his 10-year major league playing career, five years as a minor league manager and five seasons of watching Herzog, had prepared him for the challenge.

Lanier also was a manager of the year. The Astros almost doubled their stolen bases from 1985, stealing 163 compared to 90.

That was a key to the Astros' charge to their first divisional crown since 1980, when Manager Bill Virdon was named manager of the year.

Set continued from page 20

working hard at it. The practices are tough, but we're much happier with our play. If we keep improving, 'the sky is the limit.'"

Lambert, however, feels that it is better to take it 'one game at a time.' This weekend, the team will go back on the road facing Northern Illinois and Marquette.

Women's Interhall football is tight with playoff competition coming

By JOHN MONYAK
Sports Writer

The women's Interhall football playoffs start tonight at 8 at Purnell Field. The post-season tournament should prove to be an exciting one with no clear-cut favorite having emerged among the field of four which includes Farley, Breen-Phillips, Pasquerilla East, and Lyons.

Farley, Breen-Phillips, and Pasquerilla East finished the regular season with seven wins each and tie for first place with each posting a 6-1 record. The tie-breaker was determined by adding the total points scored in the games between the three teams.

Farley came out on top, with Breen-Phillips second and Pasquerilla East third. The fourth team, Lyons, finished 4-3 losing to all of the three top teams but winning the remainder of the games on their schedule.

The first game tonight will feature Farley vs. Lyons at 7 p.m. Farley will be the heavy favorite as they possess an explosive offensive attack with talented quarterback Mary Lou Armeida who runs the option and passing plays with equal skill.

Coach Dave Hanes of Lyons calls Almeida, "the key to our team." Hanes also cites running back Suzanne Lambert, however, feels that it is better to take it 'one game at a time.' This weekend, the team will go back on the road facing Northern Illinois and Marquette.

Women's Interhall football is tight with playoff competition coming

By JOHN MONYAK
Sports Writer

The women's Interhall football playoffs start tonight at 8 at Purnell Field. The post-season tournament should prove to be an exciting one with no clear-cut favorite having emerged among the field of four which includes Farley, Breen-Phillips, Pasquerilla East, and Lyons.

Farley, Breen-Phillips, and Pasquerilla East finished the regular season with seven wins each and tie for first place with each posting a 6-1 record. The tie-breaker was determined by adding the total points scored in the games between the three teams.

Farley came out on top, with Breen-Phillips second and Pasquerilla East third. The fourth team, Lyons, finished 4-3 losing to all of the three top teams but winning the remainder of the games on their schedule.

The first game tonight will feature Farley vs. Lyons at 7 p.m. Farley will be the heavy favorite as Farley possesses an explosive offensive attack with talented quarterback Mary Lou Armeida who runs the option and passing plays with equal skill. Farley coach Dave Hanes calls Almeida, "the key to our team." Hanes also cites running back Suzanne Lambert, however, feels that it is better to take it 'one game at a time.' This weekend, the team will go back on the road facing Northern Illinois and Marquette.

Women's Interhall football is tight with playoff competition coming

By JOHN MONYAK
Sports Writer

The women's Interhall football playoffs start tonight at 8 at Purnell Field. The post-season tournament should prove to be an exciting one with no clear-cut favorite having emerged among the field of four which includes Farley, Breen-Phillips, Pasquerilla East, and Lyons.

Farley, Breen-Phillips, and Pasquerilla East finished the regular season with seven wins each and tie for first place with each posting a 6-1 record. The tie-breaker was determined by adding the total points scored in the games between the three teams.

Farley came out on top, with Breen-Phillips second and Pasquerilla East third. The fourth team, Lyons, finished 4-3 losing to all of the three top teams but winning the remainder of the games on their schedule.

The first game tonight will feature Farley vs. Lyons at 7 p.m. Farley will be the heavy favorite as Farley possesses an explosive offensive attack with talented quarterback Mary Lou Armeida who runs the option and passing plays with equal skill. Farley coach Dave Hanes calls Almeida, "the key to our team." Hanes also cites running back Suzanne Lambert, however, feels that it is better to take it 'one game at a time.' This weekend, the team will go back on the road facing Northern Illinois and Marquette.

Women's Interhall football is tight with playoff competition coming

By JOHN MONYAK
Sports Writer

The women's Interhall football playoffs start tonight at 8 at Purnell Field. The post-season tournament should prove to be an exciting one with no clear-cut favorite having emerged among the field of four which includes Farley, Breen-Phillips, Pasquerilla East, and Lyons.

Farley, Breen-Phillips, and Pasquerilla East finished the regular season with seven wins each and tie for first place with each posting a 6-1 record. The tie-breaker was determined by adding the total points scored in the games between the three teams.

Farley came out on top, with Breen-Phillips second and Pasquerilla East third. The fourth team, Lyons, finished 4-3 losing to all of the three top teams but winning the remainder of the games on their schedule.

The first game tonight will feature Farley vs. Lyons at 7 p.m. Farley will be the heavy favorite as Farley possesses an explosive offensive attack with talented quarterback Mary Lou Armeida who runs the option and passing plays with equal skill. Farley coach Dave Hanes calls Almeida, "the key to our team." Hanes also cites running back Suzanne Lambert, however, feels that it is better to take it 'one game at a time.' This weekend, the team will go back on the road facing Northern Illinois and Marquette.
Burtnett’s status secure until finish; President doesn’t want to disrupt

Associated Press

WEST LAFAYETTE - Coach Leon Burtnett’s future at Purdue will be decided at the end of the football season, says Athletic Director George King, refusing to put additional pressure on a team that has lost six straight games.

"I can’t give you a definitive statement right now," King said. "I don’t want to get into the game of speculation because I don’t think that’s helpful to the program."

Burtnett says he knows "there are some people out there who are out to get me," but he has no intention of quitting.

"You can print this ... I will never resign from Purdue University," said Burtnett, who two years ago was the Big Ten coach of the year but has come under increasing fire as Purdue slipped to 1-4 this season. As the Boilermakers prepare to play Northwestern in Evanston Saturday, they are trying to avoid becoming the first team in school history to lose seven straight games in a season.

Despite Purdue’s problems, Burtnett appears to have the support of President Stephen C. Beering and King.

"Nothing will happen until the season ends, then an evaluation will take place the kind of evaluation that we do every year for every coach in every sport. Then we’ll go from there," said King.

Burtnett confirmed Tuesday that $400,000 is "in the ballpark" of what it would take to pay off the salary and perks for the remaining four years of his current five-year contract.

But Burtnett, 19-32-1 in his four seasons as head coach after serving five years as an assistant under Jim Young, has no intentions of it coming to that.

"I love Purdue and I love the program," he said. "I know they’re not happy we’re losing, and I’m sure not happy we’re losing. We’re all in the same boat there.

"My job just happens to be one that I’m judged on every Saturday by 76,000 people, very few of whom have ever had a football suit on but are experts in our field."

"But they can always fire you. You’re hired to be fired. They get us all eventually. And if they want me bad enough and are willing to pay off four years, they can get me. I have no control over that, so I don’t worry about it." Burtnett said 80 percent of spring practice was devoted to the running attack, but injuries have decimated runners and blockers.

"This is not a true test of this football team because of all the people we’ve lost," Burtnett said. "I’m not saying we would have won the Big Ten, but the outlook would have been a lot different."

Burtnett said he has lost nine key players for the season, some to injuries, several because of academic shortcomings and two due to expulsion from school.

SCMC improves to 16-5 going into tourney

By DEIRDRE FINN
Sports Writer

The Saint Mary’s volleyball team raised its record to 16-5 on Tuesday, defeating both Marion and Manchester Colleges. The Belles beat Marion in three out of four games, 13-9, 13-5, 8-15, and 15-4. The team’s second win came in three straight games, as the Belles defeated Manchester, 15-12, 16-14, and 15-7.

Senior Julie Schroeder, and sophomore Margaret Feldman, led the Belles in kills for the day, scoring 12 and 10, respectively, for the first match and 17 and 9, respectively, in the second match. Schroeder also aided Saint Mary’s, totaling six service aces for the day.

These wins bring the Belles’ league record to 9-1, their only league loss to Huntington College earlier in the season. The team leads the district in passing percentages with a .920 average per game.

In addition, the Belles are ranked third in the state for most blocks per game.

Schroeder leads the league in this category, while senior teammate Mary Reidy ranks third.

The Belles faced stiff competition this weekend in the Saint Mary’s College Volleyball Invitational, in which eight colleges and universities will participate.

Two exceptional teams the Belles will be facing are Illinois Benedictine and Franklin Colleges. Illinois Benedictine ranks first in the nation in the third division NCAA. The team has a 26-5 record, with one loss to the Belles earlier in the season.

Franklin is also a seeded team, with a 25-5 record. It leads the Southern League and is undefeated in league matches.

BUY
OBSERVER CLASSIFIEDS

THE ALUMNI SENIOR CLUB

Come dance to the music of THE URGE-

Moosehead, Molson $1

Friday: Fright Night Halloween Party
The Daily Crossword

ACROSS
1 Promenade 5 Used a cipher 10 Great deal
14 Bulling 15 Place of origin 17 Bentley novel
20 Feeds the cat 21 Divorce 22 Tennis term
23 Sharp pain 26 Edges 29 Burning test
31 God of love 33 Stage whispers 37 Medieval poem
38 Make into law 40 Volcano output 41 Sidney Sheldon novel
42 Ship's bottom 46 Hindu lute 47 Bitter vetch
57 Wood sorrel 58 Army off. 62 El. antelope
66 John D. Mac- Donald novel 70 Sword 71 Ingenuity
72 One: Ger. 73 Remain 74 Outmoded 75 Woodwind
79 Unique

A Week of Halloween Movies in the Engineering Auditorium

Thurs. PSYCHO 7:00, 9:15, 11:30 $1.50

Fri. & Sat. NIGHTMARE ON ELM STREET 7:00, 9:15, 11:30 $1.50

SAB Presents
Irish soccer team defeats Valpo despite unimpressive performance

By PETE SKIKO
Sports Writer

Despite a somewhat lackluster performance, the Notre Dame men's soccer team struggled past Valparaiso yesterday, grinding out a 1-1 victory at Valparaiso.

With the win, the Irish pushed its record on the season to 11-6-1, and maintained its dominance over the Crusaders in regular season play. Notre Dame has won all five contests played between the two schools. But third-year Head Coach Dennis Grace was not particularly excited with his squad's manner of play.

"We'll take the win," said Grace, "but this was definitely one of our poorest performances of the year. This was a team which we should have shut out, and the game was close in the first half when Valparaiso shouldn't have even been in the game. I suppose if we're going to play a game like that I'd prefer that we play it against a relatively easy opponent, but I'd rather not see it at all."

Sophomore Joe Sternberg opened the scoring for the Irish early in the first half off of a pretty feed from Bill Gross in the corner. After the Crusaders scored shortly thereafter to tie the game, Bruce "Tiger" McCourt tallied near the end of the half to give the Irish a 1-2 halftime lead.

In the second half, an outnumbered Valparaiso squad couldn't get anything going, and watched as sophomore Randy Morris gave the Irish some breathing room and a 3-1 lead by poking in a Pat Murphy centering pass. Later, with about a minute left in the game, McCourt, Notre Dame's leading scorer, got his second goal of the season off of a feed from Morris, to provide the final margin of victory. Grace, however, has been part of Michigan, can pick up the pace as they head into the home stretch of the season.

"I told the guys before the game," said Grace, "that I wasn't happy with their attitude going in and it showed on the field today. I think they might have had their minds on the (Florida) Inter­national Tournament (weekend) so I'm not overly concerned, but I'm sorry they should have played better today."

The Irish face the U.S. Naval Academy tomorrow and the Sunblazers of Florida International in Miami on Sunday. Both games begin at 1 p.m.

Clemens and Carter head AL-dominated list of all-stars

Associated Press

NEW YORK - Boston Red Sox pitcher Roger Clemens and California center fielder Eric Davis were named All-Stars in baseball's American League, the New York Times reported Tuesday.

Clemens, 24, continued to lead all American League starters in strikeouts and was named to the AL team for the fifth consecutive year. He has 10 victories and 17 complete games this season. He got 51 votes and 141 first place votes.

Davis, 25, led the American League in batting average with a .328 mark and was named to the AL team for the first time. He has 30 home runs and 96 RBI, stole 20 bases and was named the American League's most valuable player.

Davis had 47 votes and 104 first place votes.

Also picked for the AL team were Seattle pitcher Randy Johnson, New York Yankees pitcher Jim Abbott, Minnesota pitcher Bert Blyleven, Oakland pitcher Dave Stieb, Kansas City reliever Dan Quisenberry and Chicago White Sox catcher pole Burkett.

The National League picked Glenn Braggs of the Los Angeles Dodgers, third baseman Todd Worrell, catcher Gary Carter, pitcher Don Sutton, pitcher Tom Seaver, pitcher Tim Leger and pitcher John Smoltz.

Morin makes smooth transition as Notre Dame keeps improving

By KELLY TOWNSEND
Sports Writer

Today the Notre Dame volleyball team will be playing host to Bradley University. This is the first meeting with Bradley this year, after defeating them at the Bradley Tournament in September. Coming off a very successful road trip over break, the Irish are now starting the second half of their season.

Setting up the Irish attack tomorrow will be senior outside hitter Kathy Morin, and in this case, "setting up" is more than just an expression.

"Kathy has been working hard on her defense and her spikes," says Coach Lambert. "She is a versatile player. I'm pleased with her progress."

After a switch from rightside hitter last April, Kathy has worked constantly on improving her setting ability. As a rightside hitter Kathy totaled 138 kills last year and 225 digs. Her switch came after injuries to both Jill Sugilich and Mary McLaughlin.

"At first I was uncomfortable, but now I like it," says Morin. "The game is totally different. I'm in control of the ball and get to be in on most of the plays. I still come in an hour before practice to work on my skills."

Her control has helped the team so far this year, with Notre Dame being 11-3 over Ohio State, Valparaiso, Indiana, and Illinois State. Morin has been with the team since Coach Art Lambert arrived at Notre Dame. She has taken on a leadership role in Lambert's building process and is excited about this year's performance.

"We're finally playing the way we should be," says Morin. "We're beating teams that last year we said 'we should have.'"

The strongpoints of the team are the blocking and serving. Faults that Lambert has found are weak passing, low consistency of play and a poor transition from offense to defense. Over the past few weeks he's been working on a new transition.

"The serving and blocking are good," says Lambert. "A good serve is an important weapon. It makes it easy for the middle to get into position. The transition has not been good. The girls are not used to it and they are not concentrating on it. The next three weeks will be tough and they can only get used to this system. We're tired from last week, but they are recovering now."

"Our transition is slow," agrees Morin, "but we've been Marvin Lett and the soccer team rolled to a win over Valparaiso yesterday. 4-1. Pete Skiko has all the details in his story at left.