Lee's Ribs raided for second time in 2 weeks

By TRIPP BALTZ

A raid of Lee's Ribs conducted by three law enforcement agencies Thursday night netted over 200 Notre Dame and Saint Mary's students. South Bend Police, Indiana State Police and Indiana State Excise Police made 13 arrests in the 11 p.m. raid, according to Sgt. Greg Deitchly.

The previous record bust was of 40 by police relations officer for South Bend Police. Kilgore said that police records show only 20 to 30 patrons in the bar were of legal age.

The citations for being a minor in a tavern were the highest number ever delivered to students in one raid in South Bend history. Of the Goose's Egg more than seven years ago. The tavern was located at the corner of Notre Dame Ave. and Howard St., according to Capt. Patrick Cottrell, who led Thursday's raid on Lee's.

The state excise police Sgt. Greg Detchly also led the raid. Kilgore said excuse officers entered Lee's undercover before the raid. One police officer wore a Notre Dame football jacket. Officers issuing citations referred to a Notre Dame-Saint Mary's telephone directory to check for names on the identification cards students presented.

Arrested on charges of resisting law enforcement was Gale Lighthall, 31, of E. Howard St. Arrested on charges of vandalism and minor in a tavern were rejected by the administration. Acosta said the proposal interfered with the group's efforts to publicize their meetings. "The Observer can release this list at any time," Acosta noted.

Don Montanaro, student body vice president, said, "I wonder if you can get around the conflict of no names of women from SMC by changing your name."

In response to various suggestions from Senate members, Brian Holst said, "I'm not suggesting that we advertise the group. I'm saying that we try to help the problem."

Holst asked, "What about setting up a room under student government that the group could use?"

Student Senator Mike Jaeger said the matter would come under the jurisdiction of Montanaro and the cabinet.

Acosta directed a May 16, 1986 proposal be sent to the administration asking for "the CSC for meetings, a mailbox on campus, announcements in university-owned media, participation in Student Action Night, or at least a number and address in the phone book."

Acosta said his proposal was rejected by the administration. "Father Tyras (the administration) felt the needs of gay and lesbian students on campus could best be met by the counseling center and Campus Ministry," Acosta said.

Grad survey results show engineers paid highest

The 1986 Survey of Future Plans of Notre Dame Graduates took place from mid March through the first week of April of last year, according to Charles Colles, the Coordinator of Analytical Studies. Two thousand and ninety-eight degree recipients responded to the survey, which has Student's trip to Soviet Union brings church metaphor to mind

We hear a confusion of views on the Soviet Union nowadays, even with kremilinologists and Peter Jennings.

First, the news media tells us the Soviet Union is not very different from the U.S. at all, though somewhat entrenched in conservative ways. Fortunately in this last respect, a vigorous young Catholic, Mikhail Gorbachev has come on the scene, who not only has had it with the fogsies, but whose wife supposedly stuns the West as some sort of new Jacqueline Kennedy.

Then from our leading businessmen there is the refrain about how low the Soviet standard of living is. This is often used to justify why we fight wars, plot insurgencies and form alliances against them. Amazing, isn't it, that we make all of this fuss in geopolitics just because we think their standard of living should be higher.

Finally, if we are to believe and the thousands voting AK-47's in this world, the Communist Bloc embraces an epic movement of altruistic heroes about to liberate us from our chains and usher in an age of utopia--if only we'd let them.

In all of this, however, there is one important aspect of this subject to which the media and academics pay surprisingly little attention: the Soviet Union and its bloc behave almost precisely as a church does.

What? Is this guy nuts? A few cards? The obvious question is, How can the Soviet bloc be a church at all if it professes atheism?

Undoubtedly Marx called them the "opiate of the masses" while proclaiming that everything about religion is to be mocked. In fact, his followers continue to do so even in this age of quantum mechanics. Yet, when I visited Russia last year, there were few things about the place that did not fit into this next equation.

First there was the seemingly irreconcilable queue of Soviet citizens waiting for hours in 15 below weather just to view the remains of Lenin. You would have thought they now would have outgrown it all. But on the contrary, they stood in line with insouciant patience. Medieval pilgrims anxious to go upon the relics of some martyred saint could not have been more devout. Then there was the Moscow theatre. Progressive? Trenchant with social realism? First I saw an opera about Alexander Nevsky, a real-life Russian prince of the 13th century, who valiantly defending the poor village virgins in one battle scene after another against the ruthless Teutonic Knights. These vile German invaders howled a frightening pagan chant and gave a man in a goat's horn (imagine the fascist salute!) with a garish white tights (Joe Stalin) gloriously swept them off the stage.

Could anything be closer to the moralities plays of the Middle Ages? I thought.

Finally on a train to Leningrad I happened to glimpse something called the World Marxist Review. It read just like a catechism: "Why must the Capitalists be converted?" "Why are the Kremhn infallible?" "When will the millennial kingdom of the worker's paradise come?"

Finally everything was impeccably reasoned. Numerous Marxist theologians and party congresses were cited to define doctrine. The Kremlin started sounding like the Vatican (or an anti-Vatican), and the Poliburo like some Hegelian college of cardinals.

Almost makes you want to be for being a Capitalist Catholic, doesn't it?
Sandinistas release American 'spy' arrested last month for espionage

Associated Press
WASHINGTON - Sam Hall, an American who disappeared last month in a restricted military area near Managua who later claimed he was on a spy mission, will be released for health reasons to the custody of his brother, Rep. Tony Hall, the Nicaraguan embassy announced Monday.

The decision was taken after a medical checkup and clinical reports on the 46-year-old pris­oner determined he had a condition that could not be cared for properly in Nicaragua, said the embassy spokeswoman, Sarah Porta.

The ailment was not describ­ed.

Hall, who was arrested Dec. 12, said at a news conference in Managua 10 days later that he was spying on military in­stallations on behalf of three men named Tinker, Evers and Chance. He also claimed in a CBS-TV interview with Mike Wallace that he was the only remaining member of the Phoenix Bat­tion, which he described as a counter-terrorist paramilitary organization.

Ambassador Carlos Tunner­mann has been instructed by his government to get in touch with Rep. Hall, an Ohio Demo­crat, and 'let him know he can travel to Managua as soon as possible so his brother can return with him to the United States and receive the needed treatment,' Porta said in a statement read to the Associa­ted Press.

Nicaraguan officials said after Hall’s arrest near the Punta Hueso airbase, 13 miles northeast of Managua, that he had maps of the installation in his shoe.

The congressman feared his brother would be put on trial and sentenced to more than the 30 years given to Eugene Hasenfus, another American who was pardoned Dec. 18 and released in an act of clemency last Christmas.

Hasenfus, the sole survivor of an Oct. 5 airplane crash in which three other men were killed, confessed at a trial that he had been smuggling weap­ons to Nicaraguan rebels.

Nicaraguan President Daniel Ortega turned Hasenfus over to Sen. Christopher Dodd, 19, of Connecticut, and to Hasenfus’ wife, Sally, at a ceremony in Managua.

Ortega said the release was "a Christmas message from the Nicaraguan people to the American people and to the United States, a very concrete message of peace.'

The administration con­siders the Sandinista Marx­ist dictatorship in league with the Soviet Union and Cuba and a threat to U.S. security and non-Communist Central Amer­i­can states.

The Nicaraguan government has also said that it is fomenting subversion in the hemisphere and said it is threatened by a possible U.S. military invasion.

Health services van, LeMans mall discussed by Board of Programming

By SHARON HEGG

Availability of a health ser­vices van and plans for the pro­posed LeMans mini-mall were the main topics of the meeting of the Saint Mary’s Board of Governance.

Student Body President Jeanne Heller announced that a health services van has been in operation since Jan. 19 to transport students to the hospi­tal and to doctor appointments.

However, "to obtain the ser­vice, appointments must be made through health ser­vices," added Mary Fisher, judicial commissioner.

Heller also said she met with Jason Lindower, controller and faculty member of the political science department, and John Powers, the presidents of LDNSMC.

"The success rate is the most important than salary," he said.

The success rate is the number of students seeking employ­ment divided by those actually finding it, McCoolster said. This index the Colleges of Engi­neering and Business Adminis­tration were highest with rates of 72.6% and 78.5% respective­ly, while the College of Science had a success rate 52.2% and the College of Arts and Sciences the lowest rate of 31.7%, accor­ding to the survey.

Aquino proves control in permitting protest

Associated Press

MANILA, Philippines: President Corazon Aquino sent Cabinet ministers to join 15,000 protesters marching on the presidential palace Monday, defusing some of the wrath over last week's shootings and proving her control over the military.

She overruled military officers who said they could not ensure her safety.

Aquino lifted barricades around Malacanang Palace and kept soldiers away to allow students, workers and peasants to march to condemn the killing of 12 leftist protesters by marines last Thursday.

She dispatched at least eight of her ministers to lock arms with demonstrators Monday and lead them peacefully to the palace gates.

Her action softened the anger of both left- and right-wing groups, who said her administration could not control the military and was responsible for a street clash bloodier than any during the 20-year Marcos era.

Aquino, who took office 11 months ago when a "people power" revolution sent President Ferdinand Marcos fleeing into Hawaiian exile, wanted to show her sympathy with the demonstrators, officials said.

"You see, all the senior officials of this government are here to make a point, that this government is committed to peace," Dodie Limaoco, manager of the government television station, shouted to the crowd through a bullhorn.

"We can say now that Malacanang is truly for the people," said Leandro Alejandro, secretary-general of the left-wing Bayan (Country) movement, which organized the rally.

"I'm glad it's over," National Affairs Minister Aquilino Pimentel quoted Aquino as saying after the march. She did not meet the protesters.

The rally began in the early afternoon. About 10,000 members of labor, church, urban poor, left-wing and other groups streamed from five directions to converge on a lot behind the statue of national hero Andres Bonafacio.

Organizers said Aquino's abandoning of her pledge to give priority to helping society's downtrodden.

They demanded the resignations of top military and police officers whom they blamed for last week's killings during a demonstration for land reform.

Office workers showered marchers with yellow confetti when they reached Mendiola Bridge. It was there that 12 demonstrators, out of a group of 10,000, were gunned down while trying to break through police cordons. The palace is about 300 yards south of the bridge.

The marchers were joined by about 5,000 supporters.

3,000 Iraqi casualties claimed by Iranians in latest fighting

Associated Press

NICOSIA, Cyprus - Iran said its troops turned a battle area "into a graveyard for the Iraqi forces" Monday, killing or wounding 3,000 of the foe in a push that brought Iran closer to the southern Iraqi port city of Basra.

Iraq said on the other hand that Iran had not advanced "even a single inch" and said the Iranians were retreating. They claimed Iran suffered 2,000 casualties in the overnight fighting and conceded only 30 casualties among its men.

The rival claims coincided with the opening of a pan-Islamic summit in Kuwait, at which Kuwait's ruler, Sheik Jaber al-Ahmed al-Sabah, appealed to Iran and Iraq to end the war.

"God beckons us to mediate and reconcile them," he said.

The Tehran government claimed that Iran launched a counteroffensive to coincide with the conference of 43 Islamic countries in neighboring Kuwait but that the attack was defeated.

The summit of the Organization of Islamic Conference was boycotted by Iran, which accused Kuwait of supporting Iraq in the war,calling the action an unsafe venue.

In Washington on Monday, the State Department said Iraqi forces had not attempted a counteroffensive.

A state Department official, speaking on condition of anonymity, said Iranian troops were keeping up a severe artillery barrage against Basra, Iraq's second largest city with 1 million people.

The Iranian and Iraqi battle claims were monitored in Nicosia. The two Persian Gulf neighbors have been at war since September 1980.

Iran launched its big ground offensive toward Basra on Jan. 9, saying it was out to destroy Iraq's "war machine."

IRNA quoted a military commander as saying the Iraqis tried to launch a three-pronged counteroffensive Sunday night.

"The enemy had planned in vain to launch counterattacks on the eve of the Kuwaiti summit," the agency said.

Reception to follow
Darling, Teufel plead no contest

Associated Press

HOUSTON - New York Mets infielder Tim Teufel and pitcher Ron Darling pleaded no contest Monday to reduced misdemeanor charges of resisting arrest stemming from an altercation with Hous­ton police outside a nightclub last summer.

As part of the plea bargain arrangement, reached after nearly three hours of discus­sions Monday in a Harris County court, misdemeanor charges against two other Mets players, pitchers Bob Ojeda and Rick Aguilera, were dis­missed.

Teufel, 28, and Darling, 26, were fined $200 each and placed on one year probation.

Terms of the probation were post­immediately known. Teufel and Darling, accompa­nied by their wives and attor­neys, were meeting with proba­tion officers following a brief court appearance.

State District Judge Joe Kegans did not lift a gag order imposed in the case and none of the players could be reached for immediate comment.

The four players were arres­ted last month following a con­frontation with police at Cowboy's nightclub. Police said that the incident began when Teufel left the nightclub's premises with an alcoholic drink, a violation of state law.
Editor's note: The following is an excerpt from a speech delivered at the Martin Luther King, Jr. Celebration in South Bend by Dr. Howard G. Adams on Monday, Jan. 19, 1987.

It is from the perspective of having known and heard Dr. Martin Luther King speak that I wish to address you today. My title is what I see as “The Dilemma of Our Times” which is taken from the theme of this year’s celebration.

Howard G. Adams

guest column

Recently, I was asked by a colleague at Notre Dame, “Why is the celebration of Dr. King’s birth such an important event for black people in America?” I respond: In fact, a black celebration of peace and freedom transcends the barriers including race -so it should not be a holiday celebrated exclusively by blacks. I added also that I could not speak for all black people only for myself. I challenged me to explain this. I told him that I am 46 years old and in my lifetime my right to quality, integrated schools occurred barely 30 years ago; my right to vote, 20 years ago; my right to work where­ever I qualified, 22 years ago; my right to fair housing, barely 17 years ago. And many of these new freedoms can be credited to the work of Dr. King. So for me, January 15 is real, it is special. It is a time for me to reflect, recharge and recommit myself to the challenges that we as a people must work to make America a more just nation.

Now to the question, I will say, “He’s talking about problems of yesterday.” He’s still living in the past.” I say to you, look around you and you will find why I, as a black American, cannot afford to take my freedom for granted you really on! Have to think about several incidents that took place in 1986 to understand why this is so. For example in Pat phia, a black couple’s house was rocked and fire burned while only 100 feet away from this neighborhood. In Queens, New York, a black man was clubbed and his nose was cut off and he was left to die from a group of white teenagers. Most recently in Forsyth, Georgia, a peace­ful, black-owned florist was burned down and he was left to wallow in the sick justice system.

And I really don’t believe Reagan can take his freedom for granted. I don’t even know where to begin re­thinking what he stood for. “A More Just Society” for all to enjoy. A key word in King’s speech for “A More Just Society” was the word freedom. He challenged us through his life, his words and his works that each person must be ever vigilant to preserve his/her own freedom. 2. No price is too high for that freedom. Freedom is denied to anyone, it is denied to all.

To the young people, regardless of whether you are black or white, each one of you must be vigilant on guard over your own freedom of mind; freedom of body; freedom of spirit. Young people, please do not take your freedom for granted. We were blessed with the life of Dr. Martin Luther King. So for me, January 15 is real, it is special. It is a time for me to reflect, recharge and recommit myself to the challenges that we as a people must work to make America a more just nation.

Negotiations with Iran

Dear Editor:

If I don’t even know where to begin re­garding to John Hallissy’s column in the Jan. 23 Observer. It contains so many egregious assumptions and outright fallacies that I almost had to wonder if it was a serious editorial. Yes, the arms sale to Iran is illegal. Was the arms sale to Iran illegal? Yes. The U.S. was in the midst of a boycott of military hardware to Iran at the time the story of the sale was re­ported. The Reagan administration vio­lated that boycott, regardless of the good intentions behind the ban.

It is safe to say that it is unlikely that Lieutenant Colonel Nunez will testify to what he believes actually happened, at least until he is granted sub­stantial immunity from prosecution. So it seems even more unlikely that he will be punished for what he has allegedly done.

“The results of all this? Well, not all the hostages were freed. . . . and Buck­ley is reported to have been tortured to death.” Add to this the recent abduction of four more Americans in Beirut and it is easy to understand a dim failure. I can’t agree that this situation is going to be resolved anytime soon. Iran is a long way from the United States. This will be a test of what the new administration’s finest hours. I do think, however, that if the agreement between Iran and the United States is ever to be effective, it is going to take time. The people in the United States are going to have to be patient and wait for the results.

"In Memoriam"
Needs of Notre Dame community force importance of fund raising

By STAN MOSZCZENSKI

Notre Dame's excellent academic reputation has enabled the school to receive substantial amounts of financial grants over the years. The University believes that these grants have led to a rapid growth rate with respect to both the school's reputation and its campus. The Notre Dame Development Department solicits the grants that Notre Dame receives from corporations and individuals. It is surprising that this department generates so many grants, considering its small size compared to other schools.

Because Notre Dame does not receive aid from the Church, nor state or federal government, fund raising is more necessary here than at a state institution. One area where funding is always needed is that of financial aid for students.

"Invariably, financial aid is always going to be number one," said Michael Kenahan, director of foundation and corporate relations at the University.

Financial aid is a number one priority. However, there must be a method of determining what other areas are in need of aid.

Kenahan said, "The way we work here is that the officers of the University determine what we call 'University priorities'."

In order to determine these priorities, officers meet with the deans of the various colleges who present their wants and needs. One example that made the list of needs was the recently renovated LaFortune Student Center.

"Hey, the social life around here stinks," was the outcry coming from the students," Kenahan said. "They'd say 'You go to other universities and they have a great place to hang around.'"

The fact that student input was taken into account illustrated that the 'University priorities' concept does work. Another example of a current priority was also volunteered by Kenahan.

"We need space. We don't have a real modern, state of the art, classroom building," he said.

This lack of space has undoubtedly been noticed by many students and professors in their cramped, overheated classrooms. Consequently, the development department is currently working to raise funds for a new classroom building to be scheduled to be built in the next few years.

There exists a need not only for physical structures, but also for faculty development.

Kenahan stated, "We need support for faculty, because we're losing them. They're going to work for industry because they're getting better salaries and better research labs."

The University stated in its 1982 Priorities and Commitments for Excellence report that faculty development and research expansion were major goals. Obviously, large amounts of financing are required if such goals are to be accomplished.

Such large amounts of financing are not necessarily easy to acquire, however. The development department works ceaselessly, day in and day out, with large corporations in its efforts to secure donations to the University.

"It is a process of cultivation and solicitation," said Kenahan. "In the development department attempts to match Notre Dame's needs with the interests of the companies. The worst part is overcoming the frustration of waiting. You submit the proposal, and maybe six or nine months later you'll get an answer back and hopefully it won't be a form letter saying 'no thanks'."

Many factors can enter into the decision of whether or not a company is interested in Notre Dame. Kenahan stated, "If it is interested, it is a definite plus. Particularly excels in an area in which the company is interested, it is a definite plus.

Of course, there is the possibility that companies also can't, or won't, donate. If a company is experiencing hard times it will cut back donations or eliminate them altogether. At the present time, such a situation exists with companies in America, due to the low price of oil.

There is also the question of why a company would want to donate to a school.

Kenahan reasoned, "They have a vested interest in the success of the place. They're interested in our recruits."

And Notre Dame will continue to do its best to inspire any kind of donation, as the future growth and improvement of the university will depend on this generosity.

Batteries become a Kodak priority

Eastman Kodak's new ad slogan - "Why get copper when you can go for the gold?" - is aiming for a large share of the $2.5 billion battery market. "It has turned into quite a war," noted Dean Witter analyst Eugene G. Glazer. "The battle, however, is marketing, since there is no real clear superiority."

For years, life in the battery market was dull as two players dominated. Union Carbide's Eveready and Duracell enjoyed the peaceful profitability of splitting sales about evenly, with several smaller manufacturers snatching what was left over.

Alex VonderHaar

Business Bits

Then Kodak, observing the growing diversity of electronic gadgets requiring batteries to operate, burst into the picture last July. It has since captured five percent of the market, mostly at the expense of the small makers and Duracell. This has left Duracell and Eveready tied with 45 percent shares.

To differentiate its product from copper-topped Duracell, Kodak banded unique use of gold to give its battery the ability that companies also can't or won't, donate. If a company is experiencing hard times it will cut back donations or eliminate them altogether. At the present time, such a situation exists with companies in America, due to the low price of oil.

There is also the question of why a company would want to donate to a school.

Kenahan reasoned, "They have a vested interest in the success of the place. They're interested in our recruits."

And Notre Dame will continue to do its best to inspire any kind of donation, as the future growth and improvement of the university will depend on this generosity.

The Wall Street Journal recently collected some statistics on its more than two million subscribers. Their median age is 47, but only 13 percent are women. More than nine out of ten buyers are college graduates, and 44 percent work for small businesses. Contrary to what its name might say, the paper has nearly twice as many readers in California as in New York.

According to Everybody's Almanac, Pampers commercials do not appear on French television because of a regulation which forbids the showing of babies' bottoms.

When Schlitz closed its Milwaukee brewery in 1981, the Los Angeles area became the nation's biggest beer producer. Bevan-Busch makes 10 million barrels a year in Van Nuys, Calif. Schlitz and Miller also have large capacity plants in the area.

Surveyed small business owners recently commented on the greatest problems they faced. In order, they were:

1. Cash flow squeeze
2. Liability insurance
3. Finding qualified, motivated employees
(4) Controlling costs

Women executives sometimes have difficulty mingling their careers with their personal lives. A sample asked of the women most affected by this work:

(1) Decision to have children 30 percent
(2) Success of marriage 17 percent
(3) Choice to marry 16 percent
(4) Effectiveness as parent 13 percent
The women of Notre Dame. The phrase still sounds a bit awkward in context of the University's 150-year all-male tradition. When the exclamation of alumnae knocks on a Lyons or Farley door early on a football Saturday morning to see his old room and sighs or frowns at the pile of curly-collared yellow had been tails. Attempts to change the words of the Fight Song to "sons and daughters" were usually boosed or laughed at.

"Notre Dame can't or won't admit women to education a reality, said a 1971 student editorial in the Observer after the decision to admit women to the university was announced. In the fall of 1973, 365 women were admitted to a student body of 6,307 men, and all three editorial boards appeared on campus to report that the "male bastion" of Notre Dame was about to be furnished with female students as the source of most social problems, but the ratio that Notre Dame men and women cite the university as a "realistic representation of the complete woman" is, that is, a realistic representation of the complete woman.

On Dec. 1, 1971, Hesburgh's official 150-year-old Notre Dame would admit women the next fall followed the news of the failed merger between Notre Dame and Saint Mary's. The merger, designed to unify the two new Notre Dame's women and men cite the university as a "realistic representation of the complete woman," that is, a realistic representation of the complete woman.

The women of Notre Dame admit the university has experienced a steady growth in women's admissions, with a rate of 30 to 40 percent.

The conversion of Howard into a women's hall and the construction of two new women's dorms will increase the women's admis- sions of the total percent of the years. According to Jones, the number of women graduates from the early years of coeducation, "I think we've added ourselves to the university," she said. "I don't think we've added ourselves to the university," she said.

The women of Notre Dame have evolved from a remarkable novelty on campus to partners in men in learning and achievement. Stereotypes have been the seeds of various attitudes as the female. The women of Notre Dame have evolved from a remarkable novelty on campus to partners in men in learning and achievement.
A woman's place is in the home. Although this adage has been around for years, particularly in a Catholic tradition and known as a "male institution," there is no doubt that the Church plays a large part at Notre Dame, but does this mean that women here are treated differently than women at non-Catholic universities?

Any evaluation of the status of women at Notre Dame has to take into account the history of the University. When addressing the situation here Hesburgh said, "The perspective is that Notre Dame, for 125 years, was an all-male society, totally. no women professors, no women students, no women administrative forces. The question arises of how much the role of women in the Church and in society adversely toward women on campus.

Although women have not been as visible as men in the Church, they have always been present and have played an important role. But this role is often overlooked. "At the beginning of Christianity a woman played the most important role because if it wasn't for women we wouldn't have Jesus Christ," Father Thomas Hesburgh, University president.

At the same time, the attitude toward women in the Church has not reflected the attitudes of the Church surrounding the Church. "Our culture has been dominantly male-oriented," Father Hesburgh, and the Church has adopted that attitude," said Sister Jo Girarrante, nun of the Passionist Order. Charles agreed, saying, "No matter where a woman is there is not the same kind of attitude by a majority of the men that there is toward another man."

The question that follows naturally is how much this attitude is present at Notre Dame, a Catholic tradition and known as a "male institution." There is no doubt that the Church plays a large part at Notre Dame, but does this mean that women here are treated differently than women at non-Catholic universities?

According to Girarrante, "Before women are ordained there needs to be an overall rethinking and redefining within the clerical structure of the Church. We need a grass-roots change to break out of this patriarchal consciousness. We need to redefine what the priestly role means and just ordain the system the way it is so that they will just be buying into some of the problems that already exist."

Hesburgh disagreed, saying, "I think the priesthood is what it is and it's not going to change. What would have to change is the attitude on who could become a priest. But that's not as much a theological problem as an historical, cultural, traditional problem. But of course there are obviously theologians who would disagree with me, including the pope."

After it is decided which changes are needed, there is the problem of how this change will materialize.

Change can come in two ways: as a result of people thinking and making conscious decisions or by women being just plugged into the system. Girarrante said, "Notre Dame has to be put in perspective is that change come from within the existing Church structure, but things will have to be done more as a result of pressure from the outside. "The majority changes come from women who have spoken out," she said.

Hesburgh said that he hopes change will be the result of discussion. He would like to see a recognition of what is right and what is wrong. I think it's precisely a universe in context that discussion and thought is supposed to precede action, and I think our proper role is to set that discussion and change of thinking takes place. That doesn't mean that you can't do other things, but my general idea is that there is not going to be a change in the Church until the thinking changes."

Injuries disarm men's tennis team

By GREG ANDRES
Sports Writer

The Notre Dame men's tennis team travelled to Evanston, Illinois for a showdown with Big Ten rival Northwestern with a gun only half loaded. The result, despite a few near misses, was no bullseye.

In their opening match of the 1987 season the Irish fell 7-2 to the Wildcats. Injuries plagued the Irish, weakening their attack considerably.

The first, third and fifth singles players were absent for the Irish and subsequently victory slipped away.

Sophomores Brain Kalbas and Tony Kahill and junior Paul Daggs were unavailable to man the Irish attack, causing the remaining players to have to move up a position.

Both Irish victories came in three-set battles. Freshman Mike Wallace triumphed, 3-6, 6-4, 7-6, as did junior captain Dan Walsh, 6-4, 2-6, 6-4.

Sophomore Tim Carr, filling in at first singles, lost a tough three-set match, 6-2, 3-6, 6-3. Carr was also involved in a battle at first doubles with partner Dave Reiter, resulting in a 6-4, 7-6 loss.

"The match was not a bad loss," said Head Coach Tom Fallon, "but anytime you have to use your 7, 8, and 9 men you're going to run into trouble." Super Bowl wrapup

Parcells ponders return trip

NEW YORK - CBS's telecast of the Super Bowl drew an average rating of 47.8 in 13 major markets across the country.

Sunday's game between the New York Giants and the Denver Broncos received its highest rating, 56.8, in Washington, D.C. Denver host the second highest rating at 55.7, followed by New York at 53.4.

According to DeCicco, the enclosures are "on track" for success. "We have a good team," DeCicco said. "We're starting to get the balance that we need to be competitive in a dual meet season. Wisconsin is better than Stanford, and Wisconsin is the only team that is going to give Illinois a run for their money. They've got one or two decent epee men, and they've got one or two guys to pick from in the sabre.

They (Wisconsin) is the kind of team that is competitive in any type of tournament where you have less than all three. If you have less than all three, we're going to fence nine-against-nine, we'll kill them."

While the men try to defend their national championship, the women are on a path to try to capture their own national title.

On Saturday, the women knocked off Minnesota in overtime to get to the Super Bowl win. Former Irish coach Charles Higgs-Coulthard went 3-0 unbeaten against the Irish. The only foilist to knock off Renk was junior Yehuda Kovacs. Kovacs went unbeaten on the weekend (7-0) to up his season mark to 9-6. Senior Charles Higgs-Coulthard moved to an 8-1 season mark with a 6-1 showing. After going 3-6 against Stanford, sophomore Derek Holerman went 3-2 against Minnesota, Lawrence, and Wisconsin.

Freshman Joel Clark remained unbeaten with a 5-0 showing (6-0 on the year), while classmate Colin Gumbs and seniors Brian Mitalo and Alex Punter combined for a 7-4 mark.

ND Alumni Association to sponsor Alumni Board career discussion

By JIM WINKLER
News Staff

In an effort to help students cope with uncertainty about "life after Notre Dame," the Alumni Association announces the annual Alumni Board meeting with students. This year's event will be held Wednesday night from 7:9 p.m. at Theodore's. According to Maria Miceli, '83, assistant director of alumni clubs, the purpose of the program is twofold. "We want to give students a chance to talk to Notre Dame professionals about their career fields of interest and life after Notre Dame, and also to give students a chance to learn about the operation of the National Alumni Board." The event is sponsored by the Alumni Association and SARG, the Student Alumni Relations Group, she added.

-mSARG, led by students Karen Jones and Ed Leonhard, acts as a liaison between alumni and the students on campus. Working with the alumni association, SARG provides information to students about alumni club activities on campus and at home, Miceli said.

Each year, the National Board of Alumni meets at this time and talks with students about the workings of the Alumni Association and career possibilities. The twenty-member board, which always contains at least three alumni who have graduated within the past five years, hopes to enlighten students about the world they will face as Notre Dame graduates.

At Wednesday's gathering at Theodore's, the National Board will meet informally to discuss different career areas, including law, business, computers, accounting, teaching, engineering and architecture.

Each alumna will offer insights into how he or she used the Notre Dame degree to get where they are now. Students will have the opportunity to talk one-on-one with alumni about any of these areas.

Gelfman experiments with tandems at Minnesota Doubles Invitational

By SHEILA HOROX

Sports Writer

The Notre Dame women's tennis team departed for the Minnesota Doubles Invitational last Thursday with four new doubles teams and returned with what they needed most - experience.

Head Coach Michele Gelfman is experimenting with the doubles pairings, looking for the right combinations for the spring season which gets underway in three weeks.

The three-day tournament featured the top four doubles teams from Minnesota, Ohio State, Nebraska, Iowa and Drake. The teams were matched according to their records for the third day.

"We went up there to try out new combinations," said Gelfman. "We're going up there to start out the season by playing in a tournament that takes the pressure off the team situation."

Junior co-captain Michelle Dasso and freshman Alice Lohrer made an impressive first showing at the number-one doubles position. Throughout the tournament they swept five of seven matches, finishing second in Minnesota in the number-one doubles bracket.

In their opening match, Dasso and Lohrer defeated Ohio State's Michelle DeCosmo and Yvonne Lohrer, 6-4, 4-6, 7-6 (17-19 tiebreaker). Interestingly, Alice Lohrer found herself playing against her older sister for the very first time.

"Michelle and Alice played exceptionally well," said Gelfman. "They were aggressive and they pulled out some really tight matches." The remaining doubles teams gained valuable playing time. Experience is essential, especially when the number-two and four teams are a tandem of freshmen.

Stephanie Tolstedt and Rosa Kelly joined forces at the number-two spot. Their weekend was highlighted with a 6-2, 6-1 victory over Iowa's Pennie Wohlford and Susan Evans.

Playing at the number-three position were sophomores Natalie Illig and Julie Sullivan, while Jackie Ubl and Maura Woltz, both seniors, comprised the number-four doubles team.

Coach reprimanded for criticising officials

Associated Press

TOLEDO, Ohio - The Mid-American Conference issued a public reprimand Monday to Vernon Payne, the head men's basketball coach at Western Michigan University for public criticism of game officials.

Payne, a former Indiana University star, was reprimanded for criticism leveled at the conclusion of Western's 62-60 victory over Ball State Jan. 14.

MAC commissioner Jim Lesig said that the comments and action taken by Payne were in violation of the conference code on sportsmanship and the rule prohibiting public criticism of game officials.

"I realize the pressures and frustration involved in coaching the sport of basketball," Lesig said in a statement, "but we must enforce the conference rules if they are to have any real meaning. I have a great deal of respect for Yenn Payne and I am confident that this is an isolated incident that will not be repeated.

North Carolina No. 1

ACC showdown set for Sunday

Associated Press

Despite winning 16 games in a row, many in dominating fashion, North Carolina Coach Dean Smith still isn't convinced his top-ranked team could beat any other team in the nation.

The Tar Heels, now 17-1 after an early season loss at UCLA, returned to the top of The Associated Press' college basketball poll Monday, replacing Iowa, which held the position for the first two days of the season.

Iowa, which was fourth last week, won 89-84 at UCLA on the way home from two games in Hawaii. Their two games last week were Atlantic Coast Conference blowouts, 79-52 over Wake Forest and 92-55 over Georgia Tech.

Iowa received 56 first-place votes and 1,236 points from the nationwide panel of sports writers and broadcasters to easily oust the Hawkeyes, who suffered their first loss Saturday to snap a school-record 18-game winning streak.

North Carolina, ranked second last week, was No. 1 in the preseason poll and the Tar Heels held on for the first week of the regular season. But they fell from the top spot when they lost 85-84 at UCLA on the way home from two games in Hawaii. Their two games last week were Atlantic Coast Conference blowouts, 79-52 over Wake Forest and 92-55 over Georgia Tech.

Iowa received two first-place votes and 1,141 points after a week of drastic ups and downs. The Hawkeyes beat then-No. 5 Purdue on the road, 70-67, and followed that with another big win over Ohio State, the Hawkeyes' 66-58, at Iowa City. Nevada-Las Vegas, 18-1, received the remaining first-place vote and 1,137 points to take third. The Runnin' Rebels, who were fourth last week, won all three of their Pacific Coast Athletic Association games last week.

Two Big Ten teams, Indiana and Purdue, tied for fourth with 985 points.
Men's volleyball vies for club supremacy

After a big win in its opening match of the season, the Men's Volleyball Club is looking forward to a busy week that will feature early contests with some of Notre Dame's major opponents.

The Irish will take its 1-0 record to Grand Valley State, where it will face Miami of Ohio at the ACC Cup on Friday at 7:30 p.m.

"If Miami of Ohio does well this year, they'll go 'vasto,' said Irish club president John Sullivan. "There's about 45 teams in the Midwest, and only three are 'vasty.' They're one of the top club teams."

During the weekend, Notre Dame will play in a tournament at the University of Michigan which includes the 16 top teams in the Midwest. The tournament will give the Irish their first look at Michigan, Michigan State, and Wisconsin, teams that usually battle Notre Dame and Miami (Ohio) for club volleyball supremacy in the Midwest.

"It's like our pre-season NIT tournament," said Sullivan, "but every match we play there does count on our league record. If we can win that, our season's going to look really good."

In Notre Dame's opening match last Wednesday at 8:30 p.m. in the C.C.P. the Irish cruised past the University of Toledo, 15-2, 15-4, 15-9.

"We had a pretty good job of getting these kids to understand some of the things we have to do and this a big step in their development," said McCann.

Freshman forward Anthony Corbitt (9.3 ppg., 4.7 rebounds) and senior guard Pat Eilers (8.3 ppg., 4.5 rebounds) will be able to do so and bowed out to Windsor, Canada, where the Irish lost two of three matches.

"Everything is starting to come together now that we have a chance to look forward to. In the first season there wasn't anything to look forward to because there weren't any regular season matches," said Sullivan. "We also doubled our practices on the first week of the semester."

In last weekend's Governor's Cup tournament at Crystal Mountain, a sister combination led the women's Ski Team to a first place finish, while the men's team settled for second place.

In one race, Kathy Skendziel placed third, while her sister, Mary Beth, finished fifth. Mary Beth got her revenge in another race as she beat her sister to take second. Maureen Connaughton from Saint Mary's placed fifth in another race. Each race in the women's bracket included about 50 people.

Sophomore transfer student Pat Eilers led the way for the men's team, placing fifth, and C.B. Thomas also placed among the top ten. Jeff Parker and Eric Kowalski also contributed for the Irish.

"We knew we had a good team," said men's co-captain Joe McBride. "The University of Michigan has a really exceptional team. They beat us out, but the girls just beat out Michigan's girls team."

The Ski Teams go right back to Crystal Mountain this weekend for a two-day tournament featuring several schools from Michigan.

"We'll ski against a lot of the same schools we went against last weekend," said McBride. "It will give us a chance to get the University of Michigan back."

Snow prevented the Women's Track Club from competing in a meet that would have included the defending national champions (Texas) last weekend, so the Irish instead had an intrasquad meet in preparation for a competition that will include the defending Canadian champions Western Ontario.

Notre Dame will compete in the Can-Am Games this weekend at Windsor, Canada, Several Big Ten and Mid-American Conference schools, and many Canadian teams will also be participating in this meet.

"Every meet we have both indoors and outdoors is a big meet," said Head Coach Dan Ryan. "It's a Division I schedule both to keep the cross country runners at a varsity level and also because their goal as a club is to achieve Division I status. They are looking to be Division I schools."

Ryan said times were fairly slow at the intrasquad meet because of the nature of the event. "This time we couldn't have a meet because there's not that aggressiveness in an intrasquad meet that you have when you're competing against some of the better schools in the country," said Ryan.

Wrestlers fall to Nebraska; Geneser returns victorious

By CHRIS KILEY
Sports Writer

Faced with the task of overcoming a twelve point deficit due to forfeitures, the Notre Dame club was unable to do so and bowed out to Nebraska 36-12 on Saturday.

"I saw some good things out there today," said Head Coach Fran McCann. "There were a lot of positive aspects in the match, so I'm happy regardless of the score!"

Winners for the Irish were Andy Radenbaugh at 118 pounds, Pat Boyd at 142 pounds, and Chris Geneser at 167 pounds.

Freshman forward Anthony Corbitt (9.3 ppg., 4.7 rebounds) and senior guard Pat Eilers (8.3 ppg., 4.5 rebounds) will be able to do so and bowed out to Windsor, Canada, where the Irish lost two of three matches.

"I think our fouls shooting has improved," continued Phelps. "(We have) just a few more things we have to do and this a good time to do them."

While Dayton certainly is no team to overlook, the Notre Dame coaching staff has found themselves planning pound, and Chris Geneser at 167 pounds.

"I've watched so much film that I've got (Dayton's) Dan Christie running the break with the mat with a 9.5 decision and improved his record to 19-2." for tour tough games in success.

"We have a season to look forward to. In the first week of the season there wasn't anything to look forward to because there weren't any regular season matches," said Sullivan. "We also doubled our practices on the first week of the semester."

In last weekend's Governor's Cup tournament at Crystal Mountain, a sister combination led the women's Ski Team to a first place finish, while the men's team settled for second place.

In one race, Kathy Skendziel placed third, while her sister, Mary Beth, finished fifth. Mary Beth got her revenge in another race as she beat her sister to take second. Maureen Connaughton from Saint Mary's placed fifth in another race. Each race in the women's bracket included about 50 people.

Sophomore transfer student Pat Eilers led the way for the men's team, placing fifth, and C.B. Thomas also placed among the top ten. Jeff Parker and Eric Kowalski also contributed for the Irish.

"We knew we had a good team," said men's co-captain Joe McBride. "The University of Michigan has a really exceptional team. They beat us out, but the girls just beat out Michigan's girls team."

The Ski Teams go right back to Crystal Mountain this weekend for a two-day tournament featuring several schools from Michigan.

"We'll ski against a lot of the same schools we went against last weekend," said McBride. "It will give us a chance to get the University of Michigan back."

Snow prevented the Women's Track Club from competing in a meet that would have included the defending national champions (Texas) last weekend, so the Irish instead had an intrasquad meet in preparation for a competition that will include the defending Canadian champions Western Ontario.

Notre Dame will compete in the Can-Am Games this weekend at Windsor, Canada, Several Big Ten and Mid-American Conference schools, and many Canadian teams will also be participating in this meet.

"Every meet we have both indoors and outdoors is a big meet," said Head Coach Dan Ryan. "It's a Division I schedule both to keep the cross country runners at a varsity level and also because their goal as a club is to achieve Division I status. They are looking to be Division I schools."

Ryan said times were fairly slow at the intrasquad meet because of the nature of the event. "This time we couldn't have a meet because there's not that aggressiveness in an intrasquad meet that you have when you're competing against some of the better schools in the country," said Ryan.

Wrestlers fall to Nebraska; Geneser returns victorious

"I saw some good things out there today," said Head Coach Fran McCann. "There were a lot of positive aspects in the match, so I'm happy regardless of the score!"

Winners for the Irish were Andy Radenbaugh at 118 pounds, Pat Boyd at 142 pounds, and Chris Geneser at 167 pounds.

Geneser, who had been sidelined for several matches because of a knee infection, made a victorious return to the mat with a 9.5 decision and improved his record to 19-2. for tour tough games in success.

The Irish women's swim team had to overcome several obstacles we've established as far as the Sports Writer Dayton, Marquette, and Connecticut are concerned. We've had four losses since the regular season and all those games are something we really need right now.

Just how much Notre Dame are disappointed with the loss against round-robin rival Dayton. The Flyers are coming off a victory last week over Detroit, 74-69. Noland Robinson, a freshman guard from Williard, Ohio, struck for a career high 19 points to share Dayton scoring honors with senior point guard Dan Smith. Senior forward Anthony Grant followed with a steady 14-point effort.

Grant leads Dayton with a .528 scoring average, grabbing 6.3 rebounds per game. Christie, a three-point threat with a 15-point average from behind the arc, had 12 points against the Irish. Tom Mooney notched his seventh, as the two teams tied the third period tied 33-33. Four minutes into the third period, Kent State scored a controversial power-play goal, which brought the wrath of Head Coach Lefty Smith.

Kevin Stoughterwas fending his record to 10-1. Despite drop­ping two to Wisconsin, junior Geof Rossii notched seven wins to go 8-2 on the year, while Brian Quinn and Steve Rawlings went 3-0. Freshman Danny Yu wen, and up his record to 4-1.

The epee squad also provided another pleasant surprise for the Irish as the opener went 29-7 following three losses against Stanford. Seniors Tim Vaughan (8-1 on the year) and John Haugh (6-1) led the squad with six wins. Assistant Coach Greg Lambert said, "It was a learning experience. We learned what to do and not to do in that style of play, and we had to cope with tough circumstances."

The style of this meet was similar to that of the Midwest Invitational and NCAA Championships.

Now the Irish are preparing to face Cleveland State and St. Bonaventure on the road this weekend before hosting their final home meet against Ball State.

Swim teams battle to set records

Over the weekend, the Notre Dame men's and women's swim teams not only competed at the ACC championships but also had to contend with inclement weather and had logits.

Despite such adverse conditions, the Irish were able to set some personal records. For the men, sophomore Tanya Kne recorded a time of 2:16.4 in the 200-yard butterfly and fellow sophomore Monica Smith saw her best time of the 200-yard breaststroke.

For the men, Pat Bradley established a new personal best of 2:17.9 in the 200-yard breaststroke. Assistant Coach Greg Lambert led the teams in place of Head Coach Tim Collins, who had to leave due to a death in the family. Lambert looked at the positive aspects of the meet. "We had some very good personal performances this weekend," he said. Lambert's was a tough weekend, but went smoothly considering all that happened.

Not only was Notre Dame facing strong teams from Ohio State, Wisconsin, and Penn State, but the team also was late in arriving because of the bad weather and stayed in a hotel an hour away from the meet.

"It was a learning experience. We learned what to do and not to do in that style of race, and we had to cope with tough circumstances."

Fencing teams use balance to extend streaks

By MIKE CHIEMI

Sports Writer

The Notre Dame men's and women's fencing teams continued their winning ways over the weekend in Wisconsin as each notched wins to remain unbeaten.

"The men and women fenced well," Irish head coach Mike DeCicco said. "They fenced well against the Wisconsin team, and their momentum carried them through the Minnesota and the Chicagoas that were also on our schedule."

The Irish head coach Lefty Smith had plenty to yell about at Kent State this weekend. Disputed goals in both games made things tough on his team.

Irish rally for series split

By CHRIS DALLAVO

Sports Writer

The Irish hockey team survived injuries, illness, questionable officiating, disputed goals and numerous penalties as it rallied for an overtime victory Saturday, and a weekend sweep, at Kent State.

Round one Friday night featured a total of 28 penalties as the Irish fell, 6-0. Captain Mike McNeill led the Irish with two goals and an assist in the third period and tied 3-3. Four minutes into the third period, Kent State scored a controversial overtime tally by Mike Lehner, to prevent a Kent State sweep, as the Irish prevailed, 2-1. The only goal of the first two periods was scored by McNeill, his twelfth, which leads the Irish.

Tough defense and rough play marked the third period, as both sides spent their time going through the revolving door of the penalty box. Lukenda lost his shut-out with 1:01 left to play on a goal which once again was disputed. The Irish refused to fold, however, and Lehner won the game (5) seconds into overtime. Matt Hanzel and Tim Kuehl assisted on the decisive goal. "After having all of the injuries and illness that we have had," Smith said, "we were very pleased that we were able to come back and win."
