Associated Press

WASHINGTON - President Reagan acknowledged Wednes- day night that an un- announced secret Iranian initiative "deteriorated" into an arms for hostages exchange between the United States and Iran.

"It was an escalating situation," he said. "It got a little out of control." Reagan said that as "presi- dent, I cannot escape responsi- bility for this." He said he did not know about the complex negotiations between the United States and Iran.

Echoing criticism issued by the Tower commission, Reagan said he did not ask enough questions of his aides to make sure the specifics of the Iran initiative were correct.

However, in remarks prepared for his nationally broadcast response, he insisted that he did not know about the alleged diversion of profits from the arms sale to the Contra rebels in Nicaragua. "As the Tower board re- ported," Reagan said, "what we did not know was that Iran deteriorated in its imple- mentation into trading arms for hostages. This runs counter to my own beliefs, to adminis- tration policy and to the original strategy we had in mind."

"There are reasons why it happened but no excuses. It was a mistake," he said. "Reagan has said before that mistakes were made in the Iran initiative but has not said he committed any of them. He had been urged in advance by Republicans and Democrats alike to make such a statement."

"As the Tower board re- ported," Reagan said, "what we did not know was that Iran deteriorated in its imple- mentation into trading arms for hostages. This runs counter to my own beliefs, to adminis- tration policy and to the original strategy we had in mind."

"There are reasons why it happened but no excuses. It was a mistake," he said. "Reagan has said before that mistakes were made in the Iran initiative but has not said he committed any of them. He had been urged in advance by Republicans and Democrats alike to make such a statement."

"As the Tower board re- ported," Reagan said, "what we did not know was that Iran deteriorated in its imple- mentation into trading arms for hostages. This runs counter to my own beliefs, to adminis- tration policy and to the original strategy we had in mind."

"There are reasons why it happened but no excuses. It was a mistake," he said. "Reagan has said before that mistakes were made in the Iran initiative but has not said he committed any of them. He had been urged in advance by Republicans and Democrats alike to make such a statement."

"As the Tower board re- ported," Reagan said, "what we did not know was that Iran deteriorated in its imple- mentation into trading arms for hostages. This runs counter to my own beliefs, to adminis- tration policy and to the original strategy we had in mind."

"There are reasons why it happened but no excuses. It was a mistake," he said. "Reagan has said before that mistakes were made in the Iran initiative but has not said he committed any of them. He had been urged in advance by Republicans and Democrats alike to make such a statement."

"As the Tower board re- ported," Reagan said, "what we did not know was that Iran deteriorated in its imple- mentation into trading arms for hostages. This runs counter to my own beliefs, to adminis- tration policy and to the original strategy we had in mind."

"There are reasons why it happened but no excuses. It was a mistake," he said. "Reagan has said before that mistakes were made in the Iran initiative but has not said he committed any of them. He had been urged in advance by Republicans and Democrats alike to make such a statement."

"As the Tower board re- ported," Reagan said, "what we did not know was that Iran deteriorated in its imple- mentation into trading arms for hostages. This runs counter to my own beliefs, to adminis- tration policy and to the original strategy we had in mind."

"There are reasons why it happened but no excuses. It was a mistake," he said. "Reagan has said before that mistakes were made in the Iran initiative but has not said he committed any of them. He had been urged in advance by Republicans and Democrats alike to make such a statement."

"As the Tower board re- ported," Reagan said, "what we did not know was that Iran deteriorated in its imple-mentatio
In Brief

The committee set up to discuss the disbandment of the Dancin' Irish has decided on a recommendation to present the case to Vice President-Financial Services Edmund Joyce and Vice President for Student Affairs Father David Tyson. Father Peter Roseca, the chairman of the committee, has declined to comment on the recommendation until he had a chance to meet today with representatives of the Dancin' Irish. Joyce and Tyson will decide on the fate of the group. - The Observer

The 500 Club in Hammond, Ind., whose criterion for membership is the ability to do 500 sit-ups without stopping, now has its first female member and first senior citizen, to boot. Helen Jones, 67, rolled through several categories and free t-shirts will be given to all who finish. - The Observer

Weather

"Heartsfule 5K Run," sponsored by University Food Services, is accepting registrations until 3:30 p.m. today at the NVA offices. The race starts today at 3:30 p.m. at Gate 3 of the ACC, winds through campus and ends at the Center for Continuing Education. - The Observer

Of Interest

"Archeology in Israel: The Last Half-Century" will be presented by Philip King, professor of Old Testament at Boston College, tonight at 8 in the Center for Continuing Education. - The Observer

The Collegiate Jazz Festival is sponsoring a t-shirt poster contest. Submissions are due in the SAB section by 4 p.m. Tomorrow. For more information please call Kevin at 283-2139. - The Observer

The Great Hunger Clean-up is having an organizational meeting tonight at 6:30 at the Center for Social Concerns. People are needed for fundraising, worksites, recruitment committees and dorm representatives. - The Observer

"Lunch On The Lightside," "University Food Service's "Heartsfule'' lunch including garden fresh salads and high-nutrient foods, is offered today at both dining halls. There are even t-shirts with exotic-sounding names. Where else can you buy a "Domer Burger" for more than it would cost to buy a pound of hamburger and a bag of hamburger rolls? - The Observer

The Castle of Tomorrow is the entrance to Fantasyland. Yes, you can even adventure to the jungles on the far side of the lake and watch all sorts of exotic creatures in strange mating rituals. Watch out for the squirrels, though. And Notre Dame, like Disney World, wouldn't let you go hungry. Both we and they have over-priced restaurants serving generic food dressed up with exotic-sounding names. Where else can you buy a "Domer Burger" for more than it would cost to buy a pound of hamburger and a bag of hamburger rolls? - The Observer

Could Notre Dame really be a Disney World in disguise?

There's a couple of sidewalks between long rows of buildings. There's a pretty fountain and lots of people wandering about. There's a big glittering structure in the distance. There's even a souvenir shop and an overpriced restaur-

Sound like Walt Disney World? Yes, a little. Sounds like Notre Dame? Yes, a lot. It's pretty amazing when you think about it.

It's almost like Father Ted had been to Disney World when it first opened and decided he wanted a place just like it. They are one and the same, except that Ted couldn't do too much with the weather.

Look at the cost, for example. Disney World, for one day's admission to the park and meals, will charge you about $60 to $80, depending on how much you eat and which rides you want to go on. The wonder people (are they really?) at Student Accounts charge us about $73 a day to attend this institution and eat its institutional food.

Disney World has Main Street. We have the Main Quad. Ours don't have a trolley car running down the middle of it. We do have golf carts and security cars, and someone sponsored a horse ride there once. On autumn Saturdays we have a big brass band wander around to entertain all the clueless people that have never been here before.

In the end, and behold, at the head of Notre Dame's "Main Street," we have our own version of Cinderella's Castle, our beloved Golden Dome. It's even lit up at night, just like its Florida counterpart. And, just like at Disney World, our castle is the entrance to Fantasyland. Yes, you can too walk through the big wooden doors and find yourself in the magnificent Year of Studies offices, where an assorted cast of strange characters will entertain you and possibly even sing "It's a small world after all." You can even visit the Never-Never Land of St. Michael's Laundry, where little boys never grow up and everything gets lost.

On the right we have Notre Dame's version of Tomorrowland, with huge fountains and sparkling new buildings. Look inside the Space Mountain Memorial Library, where it's too cool and lots of people scream inside the cavernous empty spaces.

On the left is Notre Dame's Adventureland, featuring the Pirates of the Carribean. Walk upstairs through the turnstile and see ferocious pirates crowing over chests of booty as poor peasants walk by burdened with huge piles of books. Then be forcibly dumped into the Notre Dame souvenir shop, with lots of knicknacks that no one ever uses but everybody buys.

Out past the Hammes ride is Frontierland, where all kinds of unsavory characters reside in old-time buildings like Carroll and Holy Cross halls. You can even adventure to the jungles on the far side of the lake and watch all sorts of exotic creatures in strange mating rituals. Watch out for the squirrels, though. And Notre Dame, like Disney World, wouldn't let you go hungry. Both we and they have over-priced restaurants serving generic food dressed up with exotic-sounding names. Where else can you buy a "Domer Burger" for more than it would cost to buy a pound of hamburger and a bag of hamburger rolls?

We even beat Walt to the punch on Epcot Center. We've got Saint Mary's College, with the ultimate in modern buildings, futuristic dress, and an auditorium with strange round things on the walls. We've even got a stream-lined transport system to whisk you between them in picturesque comfort.

Amazing, isn't it? And you thought this was just a college. But it's not. It's a place of make believe, a place with no news broadcasts, no housework, no cares except getting to the next ride before the lines get too long. You don't have to worry about the real world here.

I can just see Mom and Dad now: "Enjoy it, kids. Tomorrow you'll have to go back to sitting in classes." Aw, Mom, do we have to...
Feminists and Church at odds: specialist

By SANDY CERIMELE

News Staff

To be a feminist in the Catholic Church seems to be a contradiction in terms, Sister Regina Coll, professional specialist and assistant director of field education of the Notre Dame Theology Department. She said Wednesday night in the La Fortune Little Theater. Her lecture, titled "Feminist and Catholic: Is It Possible?" was sponsored by the Thomas More Society.

Coll spoke of the perspective of a woman who has chosen to remain within the Catholic Church and also to identify herself as a feminist.

"We are leaving the Church because they feel the message of Jesus is not being carried out," said Coll. She spoke of the world wide acknowledgment of male dominance which has contributed to this movement.

"Feminist liberal theology is a phenomenon rooted in experiences of women's understanding of their subordination, in their questioning the validity of that subordination and finally bringing the Christian message to bear on the whole process," said Coll.

She said this subordination is caused by the non-neutrality of theology. "It rises out of particular cultural, social, economic and political circumstances," Coll said. This results in a patriarchal hierarchy that places women at the bottom, she added.

Coll outlined three problems that have contributed to the subordination of women in the Church. She said women are not called to participate in the decision making process in the Church especially on issues that directly affect them. Secondly, she said, the language of the Church excludes women.

She also said the questionable theology of sexuality unjustly depicts women as objects of beauty, sexuality and motherhood rather than meaningful participants in society.

She said that sound theology has its origin in the thoughts, prayers and search of human experience, and that experience has excluded women.

The language of the bible of feminists metaphors depicting God as a mother and as a housewife which are often overlooked in theological interpretation of God, according to Coll.

She said "the language contributes to negative attitudes toward women, affects psychological development, perpetuates injustice and makes it easy to ignore the presence of women." Coll stressed the importance of realizing the message of Jesus, that others will know us by our love, that hierarchical structures do not exist.

Coll has edited a book titled Women and Religion. She has also written several articles on Christian feminism for contemporary Catholic magazines and has traveled to India and Scotland speaking on this subject.

Feminist liberal theology is a phenomenon rooted in experiences of women's understanding of their subordination, in their questioning the validity of that subordination and finally bringing the Christian message to bear on the whole process," said Coll.

Senior Send-off

Thursday, March 5
5-7 pm
(Before the game)
Alumni Senior Club
FREE FOOD

Do you know where you're going?

The Observer

Thursday, March 5, 1987 - page 3

The news department is now accepting applications for the following positions:

Assistant News Editor
Copy Editor
Senior Staff Reporter

NOTE: Application deadlines have been moved up. Resumes and personal statements are due by Friday, March 6 at 7 p.m. Questions should be directed to Chris Bednarski or Jim Riley at the Observer office (239-5313).

PUBLIC ANNOUNCEMENT

SENIOR FORMAL TUXEDOS

Look around before you rent
Classic Black at $35.00

BEST SELECTION IN TOWN

With best selection of cummerbunds and ties at no extra cost

Pierre Cardin, Bill Blass, Dynasty, Miami Vice, Robert Wagner & more

Miami Vice, Robert Wagner and more

CENTURY FORMAL WEAR

1622 Mishawaka Ave
267-5030

"Who's Evan Piccone?"

SUMMER STORAGE
MISSTER-MINl
WAREHOUSE
CALL 683-1959

Telemarketing Earn $5 and save time
Hours: Monday and Tuesday 9am to 10pm
Sunday 11am to 7pm
Good pay. Short to indefinite positions. Immediate openings.

MANPOWER Temporary Staff Services
220 W. LaSalle
234-0157
Judge bans 31 textbooks because they promoted 'secular humanism'

Associated Press

MOBILE, Ala. - A federal judge banned 31 textbooks from virtually all Alabama public school classrooms Wednesday, saying they illegally promoted "the religion of secular humanism." U.S. district Judge Brevard Hand said in a 172-page ruling that the use of the textbooks by the state violates the U.S. Constitution's prohibition against government establishment of a religion.

"With these books, the state of Alabama has opened itself to mark, and must withdraw to perform its proper non-religious functions," Hand said in the ruling.

The decision came in a class-action lawsuit filed by parents and teachers, sponsored in part by conservative fundamentalists, who challenged in the ruling.

"When you recognize that you are the one in charge of your life, you will be way ahead of most of us worst cases," Hand said.

According to fundamentalists, secular humanism is the elevation of transient human values over eternal spiritual values, and secular humanists believe that humans can handle their own affairs without divine intervention.

Hand defined secular humanism as religion, and said, "The court now considers whether this religious belief system of humanism . . . is involved in a constitutional controversy before this court."

"As already noted, the Supreme Court has declared that teaching religious tenets in such a way as to promote or encourage a religion violates the religion clauses of the Constitution . . . . The facts showed that the state of Alabama has on its state textbook list certain volumes that are being used by school systems in this state, which engage in such promotions."

The judge's ruling went against 17 social studies textbooks, nine history texts and five home economics books, most for use in elementary grades.

"These books are not to be used as primary textbooks, as a textbook that is designed for use without a primary text, or as a teaching aid in any course but may be used as a reference source in a comparative religion course that treats all religions equally," Hand said.

Information and materials for the May 1987 Commencement Exercises will be available in the Registrar's Office (215 Admin. Bldg.) from 8:30 am to 4:00 pm, March 4 through March 13. At that time you will be asked to proofread the way your name and hometown will appear in the commencement program and the way your name will appear on your diploma.

If you intend to participate in the Commencement Ceremony, complete the Commencement Ticket Request Form (see example below) and bring it with you when you come to the Registrar's Office to pick up your commencement materials. The form must be turned in no later than March 13, 1987 or you will not be guaranteed tickets and you will not be included in the ticket lottery should there be one.

Ten (10) commencement announcements will be available for you to pick up beginning March 4. Extra announcements will be available after March 13 at a cost of 10 cents each.

EXAMPLE:

Ticket Selection:
Blanken ONE oval here

COMPLETE THIS

COMPLETE THIS

Return this form to the Registrar's Office (Room 215 Administration Building) by Friday, March 13, 1987. If this form isn't turned in by then, you won't be guaranteed tickets. If you have a buddy's ticket, tell him or her to turn in this form to get in the ticket lottery should there be one.

MAPLE LANE APARTMENTS
Private suburban Setting Just 16 minutes from campus.
You don't have to be Irish to enjoy life at Maple Lane Apartments. Our beautiful setting is reminiscent of the Emerald Isle. Maple Lane provides professors, employees, graduate students and administrator's retreat from campus.
In addition we offer you a special discount:
- New apartments being built through Spring '87
- Pool, Clubhouse, Community Activities
- Washer & Dryer in each apartment
- Intercom entrances
- Reasonably priced gas/heat
- Earthenite Interiors
- Country Kitchens
*call for details about your discount 277-3731
Intelligence analyst for Navy sentenced to life prison term

Associated Press

WASHINGTON - Former civilian Navy intelligence analyst Jonathan Jay Pollard was sentenced Wednesday to life in prison for selling Israel hundreds of secret U.S. military documents in what prosecutors termed one of the nation's worst spy cases.

"No, no," screamed his wife, Anne Henderson-Pollard, and she collapsed to the floor after U.S. District Judge Aubrey Leeper announced the life term for her husband.

His wife, 26, received a year prison term for conspiring authorization of disclosure of classified information we can expect from Pollard in setting the sentence for Pollard's conviction of conspiracy to commit espionage.

"It's clear that his perspective has been so skewed, his view so warped (that) at the first opportunity he is going to go about the business of telling everything he knows to Israel," Leeper added.

In pleading for the court to grant his wife leniency, Pollard, 32, said, "Unfortunately I sacrificed her, inadvertently, but the end result is here on the altar of political ideology."

Now — enjoy a job for MBA's while studying to be one! IIT's MBA with a Management Internship

This full-time, five-semester, day program includes one semester in which qualified students are placed in a paid position with a cooperating Chicago corporation. Through internship you can gain valuable management experience and have the opportunity to advance to full-time employment with your internship company while earning a portion of your expenses.

Your degree will be from IIT, the university uniquely able to equip you for career advancement in the age of technology. This program is open to individuals with an unencumbered degree in any field.

INQUIRE NOW!
Test Haeger
Director of Full-Time MBA Programs
ILLINOIS INSTITUTE OF TECHNOLOGY
School of Business Administration
10 West 31 Street
Chicago, Illinois 60616
312/567-5140

"Knock Out Prices"

City Wide Liquors
3825 North Grape Road, Mishawaka 272-2274

Largest selection of corked wines in area
Call us on your SYR parties for price quotes.

BEER (cases)

Blatz (1851) 24 cans. $4.99
Bud Quarts. $10.99
Red Bull (40 oz.). $9.99

Prices good thru March 8
These are our weekly specials. These are everyday ALDI® low prices.

929 N. Eddy
South Bend, IN

3207 Lincolnway West
South Bend, IN

Mon. - Thurs.: 10am - 7pm
Friday: 9am - 8pm
Saturday: 9am - 6pm
Closed Sunday

We welcome cash and credit cards. No checks please.

The Stock-Up Store.
Viewpoint

Judicial Council exists for students’ legal help

The Judicial Council? What’s that you ask? Don’t worry if you don’t know. Not many people do. As this year’s judicial coordinator I’ve had to explain it more than once. It was so embarrassing to have to explain something about it but just numerous times to get around to it. That’s my fault. However, I have been challenged to “demythologize student government” (whatever that means) and will attempt to give you a picture of what the Judicial Council does.

Maria Cintron

guest columnist

The Judicial Council is composed of the judicial board chairperson from each dorm and a judicial coordinator. Our purpose as defined by the constitution is to “promote efforts that will foster a fair and consistent interpretation of the University rules, regulations and democratic procedures.” With that, a lofty goal in mind we published the Students’ Rights Manual which was dis­tributed the past semester to each residence hall on campus. The Students’ Rights Manual provides a concise outline of your rights when accused of a university offense, of a hall offense or of academic dishonesty. It also lets you know what your rights are prior to any judicial hearing.

This year the Judicial Council put together a list of twelve area lawyers who have done something a little more serious (or a lot more serious). My approach to this role has been to help students through what most people wouldn’t consider as one of their favorite things to do. I’ve found being the Undergraduate Student Council a very rewarding and valuable experience.

So, you say, how can I get involved in all this? The judicial coordinator is the only elected member of the current Judicial Council. For this reason, I encour­age all twenty-four members of the council to get involved. For all of you interested in the Judicial Council check out joining you hall judicial board or consider becoming your dorm’s judicial board chairperson. Talk to this year’s chairperson and your rec­tor for more information. They’ll be happy to have you on their board in your halls.

Still hesitant about joining student government? Don’t be! I have found that student government can be as fulfilling and worthwhile as you decide to make it. So if you’re still not totally convinced that student government does much of anything get involved and help develop it into the type of organization you envision.

Maria Cintron is a senior marketing major and judicial coordinator for Notre Dame’s Judicial Council.

---

Miss U.S.A. Pageant cannot live up to goals

What’s the funniest show on TV today? “The Cosby Show”?

“Late Night with David Letterman”?

Good calls. But my vote goes to the annually televised “Miss USA Pageant.”

Carol Brown

on second thought

I missed the “Miss USA Pageant” this year. But I can still tell you the punch line. It’s always the same.

It comes toward the end when a tall, animated Barbie Doll dressed in a se­quined gown, meets Bob Barker on stage for the question and answer ses­sion. No matter from which dorm Barbie hails or which question Bob asks, the answer is as predictable as rain on a Notre Dame football Sat­

day. Barbie gives Bob a soulful stare. Then, inspired, turns to the audience and replies, “I want all the hungry children of the world to have the love they so desperately need and peace for all nations and love for all the people so everyone will love everyone.”

And the ubiquitous halo grows over her flaxen locks as Barbie finishes with a teary-eyed grin and “Thank you, Bob, and I love you all.”

Love me? Excuse me if I’m mis­taken, but Barbie and I haven’t even met.

And all that stuff about hungry children, come on. If Miss USA really wants to cure world hunger why isn’t she down in the trenches with Sister Theresa? Maybe that’s too much to ask, but she could make a great contribution if she only went as far as her cosmetic case. The money she doles out on hairspray could feed at least half of In­dia.

Really Miss USA-page for the world? It’s a touching thought but ex­cuse me again if I missed you protest­ing nuclear arms on the White House steps.

Well, maybe you could have lunch with Gorbachev or send personally autographed picture: s of yourself to the kids. It won’t exactly spread world peace, but I guess we all have our own little peace to give to the world.

Anyway, “The Miss USA Pageant” creates more war than peace in the United States. Have you seen the way guys fight over who should win? Yes, this is the end of the era of the “sensitive man.” But what about the not-so­sensitive male relic? While gawking at the great American tube, he politely picks his tongue off the floor to suggest to his wife that he might gawk over her too if she looked a little more like Miss North Carolina.

Definitely not a good way to go for the Nobel Peace Prize.

That line about everybody loving everybody is great, too. That might have gone over in the 60’s or in a love song, but this is the 80’s and you can get diseases that way.

And, frankly, I don’t see how the Miss USA contest helps anyone love anyone but Miss USA (or maybe Bob Barker). In all fairness, Miss USA isn’t alone in her noble claims. We all have our moments of inspiration. It’s the stuff of interviews and applications. And it’s plagued with words like “grow and en­rich” “broaden my horizons” and “helping others.”

Let’s be honest, Miss USA isn’t up on stage in six-inch spikes and three pounds of make-up and a permanent smile to save the hungry children. She wants a lot of money, a new car, a fur coat, and to travel around the world and to see her face plastered on Vogue magazine.

I once heard a professor ask why she chose to teach. He didn’t respond by speaking of “benefits of higher education” and “the importance of develop­ing the intellect of America’s young minds.” Putting the noble and lofty aside, he simply said, “There are three reasons to be a professor: June, July, and August.”

Carol Brown is a junior American Studies major and a regular Viewpoint columnist.

---

Quality of life raised by industrialization

Dear Editor:

Mary Heilman’s Feb. 19 inside column “Whatever happened to all the steelworkers in Pittsburgh” contained a misstatement of fact that I cannot allow to pass uncorrected. She says “…one could see through them to reveal the social miseries industrializa­tion produced, portrayed in such novels as Speak Black and Hard Times.”

Industrialization did not create social miseries, it solved them. People huddled in the tenements described so poignantly by the shortighted Dickens didn’t exist in the halcyon days before the Industrial Revolution because they died of starvation and disease. The jobs produced by industrialization were the golden reins that pulled the people out of the great American tube, he politely picks his tongue off the floor to suggest to his wife that he might gawk over her too if she looked a little more like Miss North Carolina.

Definitely not a good way to go for the Nobel Peace Prize.

That line about everybody loving everybody is great, too. That might have gone over in the 60’s or in a love song, but this is the 80’s and you can get diseases that way.

And, frankly, I don’t see how the Miss USA contest helps anyone love anyone but Miss USA (or maybe Bob Barker). In all fairness, Miss USA isn’t alone in her noble claims. We all have our moments of inspiration. It’s the stuff of interviews and applications. And it’s plagued with words like “grow and enrich” “broaden my horizons” and “helping others.”

Let’s be honest, Miss USA isn’t up on stage in six-inch spikes and three pounds of make-up and a permanent smile to save the hungry children. She wants a lot of money, a new car, a fur coat, and to travel around the world and to see her face plastered on Vogue magazine.

I once heard a professor ask why she chose to teach. He didn’t respond by speaking of “benefits of higher education” and “the importance of developing the intellect of America’s young minds.” Putting the noble and lofty aside, he simply said, “There are three reasons to be a professor: June, July, and August.”

Carol Brown is a junior American Studies major and a regular Viewpoint columnist.

---

P.O.Box O

Quality of life raised by industrialization

Dear Editor:

Mary Heilman’s Feb. 19 inside column “Whatever happened to all the steelworkers in Pittsburgh” contained a misstatement of fact that I cannot allow to pass uncorrected. She says “…one could see through them to reveal the social miseries industrialization produced, portrayed in such novels as Speak Black and Hard Times.”

Industrialization did not create social miseries, it solved them. People huddled in the tenements described so poignantly by the short­sighted Dickens didn’t exist in the hal­cyon days before the Industrial Revolution because they died of starvation and disease. The jobs produced by industrialization were the golden reins that pulled the people out of the great American tube, he politely picks his tongue off the floor to suggest to his wife that he might gawk over her too if she looked a little more like Miss North Carolina.

Definitely not a good way to go for the Nobel Peace Prize.

That line about everybody loving everybody is great, too. That might have gone over in the 60’s or in a love song, but this is the 80’s and you can get diseases that way.

And, frankly, I don’t see how the Miss USA contest helps anyone love anyone but Miss USA (or maybe Bob Barker). In all fairness, Miss USA isn’t alone in her noble claims. We all have our moments of inspiration. It’s the stuff of interviews and applications. And it’s plagued with words like “grow and enrich” “broaden my horizons” and “helping others.”

Let’s be honest, Miss USA isn’t up on stage in six-inch spikes and three pounds of make-up and a permanent smile to save the hungry children. She wants a lot of money, a new car, a fur coat, and to travel around the world and to see her face plastered on Vogue magazine.

I once heard a professor ask why she chose to teach. He didn’t respond by speaking of “benefits of higher education” and “the importance of developing the intellect of America’s young minds.” Putting the noble and lofty aside, he simply said, “There are three reasons to be a professor: June, July, and August.”

Carol Brown is a junior American Studies major and a regular Viewpoint columnist.

---

Quote of the day

“Happiness doesn’t come from doing what we like to do, but from liking what we have to do.”

Wilfred Peterson
The Church's position, according to the teaching of St. Thomas (who, by the way, was anything but idle and was never silenced), says that when a man or woman sins in making an error, a false conscience is not enough to excuse him or her, unless that error was not known. If she is not required to know it. If one is obligated to know and act according to something that one is morally unacceptable even if his or her conscience approves, and it is his or her responsibility to make the change in conscience by educating it (through consulting books, appropriate human sources, and above all prayer for supernatural guidance). Hence, it is more than ever, something we would have to believe. In fact, we are told that while it is nothing to reject as true or false are, it is much more, and particularly those who claim to act according to their own self-consciousness of reality, even with our personal, rational judgment of righteousness according to our personal reason, we are not to judge the truths of our faith, and it is more than ever, and particularly with regard to the authority of the Church when concerned with having a truly informed conscience. In the words of Catechism of the Catholic Church, it is our duty to receive upon the degree of sincere certainty we have in facing a moral decision... The Church's authority is a com-

The Church's teaching on campus, through letters, is encouraged. The explanation should be a special and sincere religious text, not only to the successors of the apostles. The magisterium consists of the Pope and all the bishops acting in communion with him. Within the Twelve, Peter was given the special role of guiding and nourishing the flock (it is not the case that everyone is equal in apostolic texts. What has disturbed me most is the many catechumenates and enrichment with regard to the evening's talk is the ap-vegetation, whereby the adherence of for those who claim to act according to their own self-consciousness of reality, even with our personal, rational judgment of righteousness according to our personal reason, we are not to judge the truths of our faith, and it is more than ever, and particularly with regard to the authority of the Church when concerned with having a truly informed conscience. In the words of Catechism of the Catholic Church, it is our duty to receive upon the degree of sincere certainty we have in facing a moral decision... The Church's authority is a com-

The Church's teaching on campus, through letters, is encouraged. The explanation should be a special and sincere religious text, not only to the successors of the apostles. The magisterium consists of the Pope and all the bishops acting in communion with him. Within the Twelve, Peter was given the special role of guiding and nourishing the flock (it is not the case that everyone is equal in apostolic texts. What has disturbed me most is the many catechumenates and enrichment with regard to the evening's talk is the ap-

Football players find time for handicapped

Dear Editor:

On Saturday, Feb. 28, I had the plea-ture of spending time with two groups of special people. The first group was the participants at Logan center. Each week a bunch of mentally retarded folks from town come to a recreation program organized by a group of Notre Dame and Saint Mary students. It's a lot of fun for all involved.

The second group that showed up was the Notre Dame football team. Not only was it a hand full, but over 30 players showed up at a time on Saturday morning when many folks were still in bed. The football players were accompanied by Coach Holtz, and several assistant coaches. This was no mere publicity stop for the team. The players helped out in games, arts and crafts and song along. It was a great day for some 20-pound man holding on his lap, a 70- pound child, who spends most of his time in a wheel chair. I was impressed.

This only reinforced my opinion of the mystique of the football program. It is not only how they play the game, it's how they play it. They are athletes of the highest order and they have won a lot of people happy. Their effort takes on added magnitude when you consider the other demands on their time throughout the year (work-outs, spring mini-camp, season road trips, and the pressure of being in the spotlight)

I appreciate the time they took from their schedule.

Christopher Shine
Off-Campus
Entrepreneurship is alive and well at Notre Dame. Witness to the fact are seniors Kevin Christenson and Scott Morrison, chief executive and executive vice president, respectively, of Adworks, the independent, student-run advertising business on campus. Both students are being featured in the Student Entrepreneur section of the Daily Notre Dame today, a business magazine published in Princeton, N.J., and circulated among universities around the country. The pair were also featured on Channel 16 WNDU news last week, as well as on a recent "Campus Voice," a student-run radio program on the same station. Last week Christenson and Morrison were in Chicago attending the International Conference of the Association of College Entrepreneurs, where they gave a seminar on Adworks for a group of about 100 people. Also speaking at the conference were well-known entrepreneurs as T. Boone Pickens of Mesa Petroleum, Steven Jobs of Apple Computers and Debbie Fields of Mrs. Fields Cookies, as well as other students and entrepreneurs from around the world.

All the excitement about Christenson and Morrison? Here's the story:

Student life began in the fall of 1985 as a small, non-profit poster business under the control of student government. When Christenson took over in April 1986, he said he felt the organization was not performing to its fullest potential, so he and Morrison moved Adworks out of student government and into a business venture. As of now, they have bought an $8000 computer with a laser writer and converted Adworks into an independent, profit-making enterprise.

That summer Christenson sent letters to all student leaders, businesses and organi-cations on campus informing them of the new Adworks and the services it would be able to provide.

"We saw the need, which was to solve a big communication problem between student and the student body," Christenson says. "We sought to enhance student life through the advertising of campus activities... It's incredible how much the social life improves because of this, when we put posters up all over campus, cards tents in the dining halls, etc." "Our main goal," adds Morrisson, "is to serve the student body, to close the gap and help inform the student body on social activities through the most effective, highest quality ads possible and at as low a price as possible (lower than people would be able to get if they went outside)."

But when the two returned to school in the fall, they found themselves facing a big problem: over-demand. "In September," remembers Christenson, "things looked promising. Right away we had to hire a lot of people, organize, manage, etc."

"Yes, we knew we were going to be successful, that were..."

"We knew we were going to be successful, that we were going in the right direction with the company. But we didn't know it would all happen so quickly. One of our biggest problems at first was that we were growing too fast. We were getting too big."

Scott Morrison

going in the right direction with the company," continues Morrisson, "but we didn't know it would all happen so quickly. One of our biggest problems at first was that we were growing too fast. We were getting too big."

So true. The entrepreneurial pair took the new Adworks from $5000 in total sales and eight workers last semester (spring 1985) to $15,000 sales, 70 employees (most of whom are paid) and $1000 profit this past semester. Forecasts for this semester are even better: $20,000 in sales and $2000 to $2500 profit (a conservative estimate).

All this progress was accomplished with a zero dollar starting budget. Student Activities knew them money for the computer and a few early bills, and the rest were paid directly out of their own pockets. For the first semester, no one drew any salary (including Christenson and Morrison) except those on financial aid. All profits were pumped back into the business. Now, Adworks has established a strong base from which it can run itself.

Adworks is structured just like any other corporation.

There is the Chief Executive Office (Christenson), the Executive Vice President (Morrison), various divisional vice presidents, accountants, artists distributors, etc. There is also an outside board of directors which includes Father William Beauchamp, Father David Tyson, two faculty members and two representatives from Leo Burnett, a national adversing agency. Christenson and Morrison will join this group after they graduate this year.

As far as the actual managing of the business is concerned, Christenson markets the organization to outside customers and works on plans for expansion. Morrison watches the daily operations of the business and manages the short-term planning. Both are continually engaged in feedback with each other. Christenson must know how business is today so he can plan for tomorrow, and Morrison must be famililar with the plans for tomorrow so he can direct today's business accordingly.

One of the best things about Adworks, according to Morrisson, is the experience it provides them and other student employees in marketing and management. Adworks also hones their organizational and management skills. Adworks employs people of all majors (accountancy, marketing, art, computer, Arts and Letters, etc.) and all of them can take what they learn in the classroom and apply it as they work, gaining invaluable practical experience while they're at school. "It's just another way in which Adworks serves the students, in giving them training and practical experience."

"People ask me how I can consider myself an entrepreneur if Adworks wasn't my idea or even my name, but what they don't realize is that about 80 percent of acknowledged entrepreneurs are not people with totally new ideas."

Kevin Christenson

Do Christenson and Morrison consider themselves entrepreneurs? As Christenson explains, "People ask me how I can consider myself an entrepreneur if Adworks wasn't my idea or even my name, but what they don't realize is that about 80 percent of acknowled-ed entrepreneurs are not people with totally new ideas."

Debbie Fields didn't invent cookies. That's exactly what we did with Adworks. It was just an expansion of existing ideas to their full potential. It's the entrepreneur who has the vision to see that new potential and the drive to achieve it."

Of course, this entrepreneurial drive for achievement means that Christenson and Morrison put in 30 to 35 hours a week running the business. In addition to carrying 15 credit hours a semester, "It's very tough to work in school with the business," admits Morrison, "but we make it. And we even manage a social life, too."

In the future, Adworks will continue to expand its services to the surrounding community, adding to the present list of clients which includes Wendy's, Brinn's and Academic Advantage, a local scholarship service. Christenson also hopes to spend the summer conducting seminars and marketing the program to other universities across the nation, some of whom have already expressed interest in setting up similar systems on their own campuses. Hopefully the business today will grow even more demand.

"Incredible how it's been done in such a short time. I can't imagine what we'll do in the next couple of years."

Kevin Christenson (seated) and Scott Morrison at work in the network's LaFortune Student Center offices.
WANTED

OVERSEAS JOBS: Summer, winter, or year around. Call Al, Ext. 2300.
I. C. M. 3421
NEED YOU TO TRAVEL OVERSEAS FOR THE NATION WIDE BUSINESS.
I. C. M. 3421

PRO TYPE - Quality home care. Proceeding now, reservations necessary. 227. 5523.

TURKLE GREEK ARTS RESERVATION: CONCERT FREE SOLO. CLOSED TO CAMPUS PRIDE, SUN. 2:45 PM. THROUGH FRI. 10:30 AM. THROUGH FRIDAY. 820. 860.

EXPERT TYPING SERVICE CALL MRS. CORSI, 203-7604.

THURSDAYS ARE CAMPUS NIGHT OUT AT THE BISTRO, RIGHT AFTER CURfew. CENTRAL DRAFT. CALL 297-5041 AFTER 4.

TYPING-PROOFREADING 277-5014.

LOST/FOUND

LOST FROM BROOKS WED. MORN- WED. NIGHT: A green AQUA SKI jacket with a grey gray hood. Call ME if you find it. PHOTO TAKEN WAS A GREY JACKET WITH A MUSTARD yellow ball pocket. flashlight and yellow keys. BEIGE WHISKEY HAT. TICKETS ASKED. A WHISKEY BEIGE HAT. TAKE HOME OUR COATS. PLEASE CALL USWEET 277-3086.

LOST: Gray Tweed hat lost in South Dakota. Father's day gift from North Carolina. Gonna really feel like the day of his life. Would you like to pick it up please to campus LOUD & CLEAR. 283-6934.

LOST SOMETHING AT BRADSTREET'S TUESDAY NIGHT? I lost a key chain somewhere between the couch and the bar. On the outside of the menu was a picture of the keychain. Please call Mike WILSON at 286-2472 if you find it. Thanks.

LOST ONE GOLD AND PEARL EARRINGS SOMEWHERE BETWEEN FANILY AND CUSHING. GREAT THERAPY VALUE. PLEASE CALL HEATHER. 284-7060.

LOST MY COPY OF 'MY MISTAKES出于 Michael Heid. Yes, the orange copie sitting in my room. Check it out, but please I CANNOT replace this book. It is an important text. really PLENTY to read and return at your convenience.

Found item. Call 283-6977 and ask for Garret.

LOST ARTWORK IN THE OFFICE. Call 277-6974 if you have found it in the engineering department or at the night deposit. This is a valuable item. If you find it between February 1 and April 1, please keep trying to get it all out of your system, since it has proven to be an interesting item.

LOST: The phone of J. R. the named student. Yes, the orange copie sitting in my room. Check it out, but please I CANNOT replace this book. It is an important text. really PLENTY to read and return at your convenience.

LOST YEARBOOK TO THE TWIN CITIES FOR SPRING BREAK. If you know where she dropped as she takes those 21 shots. Please call THEO at any time.

FOR RENT

Furnished Homes Close to NO East or NO West. Furnished House for Next School Year. 292-5365.

Furnished Home Off Campus for Sale in Champaign. Please Call 411-5345.

FOR SALE

HELPFSPRING BREAK TRAVEL PLANS CHANGED. NEED TO SELL BATTERY OPERATED FISH FINDER. CALL 283-6934.

GOLD FOIL FROG TINY HAT-VERY FINE. CALL 283-6934 FOR APPROX. VALUE. PLEASE CALL 283-6934.

LOST SOMETHING BACK TO SOUTH BEACH CALL MARY TO SERVE. 203-9963. IF YOU FOUND IT PLEASE HELP US GET IT BACK.

HELP: I need to find a hat to go with my Spring Break shirt. Please help me find it. Call 283-5041.

LOST: AN AQUA GREEN CALL MARGARET. 283-1066, GELA KEENAN. Fabruary. Important, please call TIMENTAL beige Field I LOST SOMETHING this hat back to South Beach. It is a Spring Break shirt. Please help find it. Call 283-6934.

HELP: I need to find a hat to go with my Spring Break shirt. Please help me find it. Call 283-5041.

HELP! I need to find a hat to go with my Spring Break shirt. Please help me find it. Call 283-5041.

LOST: I NEED SOMEONE TO TELL ME WHERE I LOST SOMETHING on my South Carolina trip. I was at a beach somewhere and it went missing. Please call Mary at 283-6934.

PERSONALS

CORN-HOUSE. COLD BEER & LUGGAGE. CARRY OUT TO U.S.I. ONE HOUR SOUTH OF CHICAGO. CALL 284-3726 AS SOON AS POSSIBLE.

WINTER CLASSROOM FURNITURE & WINDBLOWERS. CALL 284-3726 AS SOON AS POSSIBLE.

Baseball team prepares for opener

By STEVE MEGARGEE
Sports Writer

Notre Dame and Indiana may play in the same state, but when the two baseball teams meet this weekend at Bloomingston in Notre Dame’s season opener, it will be evident how different the teams actually are. Indiana is counting on strong performances from returning starters and veteran pitchers to make a run at the Big Ten title. Notre Dame, on the other hand, is hoping its underclassmen can help the Irish rebound from last year’s disappointing 22-28 season. “Our talent relies on our underclassmen. Our only senior position players are John Loughran, Scott Rogers, and Mike Gleason,” said Head Coach Larry Gallo. Nowhere will youth be more important than in the pitching staff. The Notre Dame staff appears to have the potential to better last year’s disappointing season 6-25 earned run average. Still, the Irish will have to answer a few questions about the staff to have a strong season.

"Can junior Kevin Chenail return to his freshman form (4-0, 3.22 ERA) after being sidelined last year with a shoulder problem?"

Will underclassmen Brian Piotrowicz, Mike Passalia, and Mike Coffey be able to pitch like they did last fall (one earned run in over 20 innings pitched)?

Will Gleason lead what now appears to be an uncertain bullpen? "Our best pitching relies on our freshmen and sophomore class," said Gallo. "Gleason’s our only senior on the staff, and all we have is three juniors.

"We lack a tremendous amount of experience in innings pitched, but with the staff we have, the majority will be done by sophomores and freshmen. I feel as though we have a really good hitting team, if our pitching comes through, " with guarded optimism I think we can have a pretty good year.

Larry Gallo

Gallo is looking at Chenail, Passalia, Piotrowicz, and Robert Fitz to have starting roles, with Gleason and Eric Madison in the bullpen. Howard, Mike Coffey, Paul Mauck, and Derek Mackenzie could end up either starting or relieving.

"In the fall, Mike Piotrowicz, Brian Piotrowicz, and Mike Coffey looked really good. Tom Howard has had a really good preseason, and he could either start or relieve," said Gallo. "We have about ten guys who can contribute."

If the Irish can answer their questions on the pitching mound, they will look solid in almost every other area. The infield loses 1986 co-captains Shields and Rich Vanthournout, but looks like it could still end up improving over last year. Steve Skupien will start at third base, Pat Pesavento at shortstop, Mike Mosher at second base, and Tim Hutsen and Dan Pelletier will alternate at first base. Loughran, Pesavento, and Mosher all batted over .300 last year.

"At the infield positions, most of them played together last year. The experience itself in the infield will take care of any leadership roles at all," said Gallo. "Ray Stazko is a capable backup who can play almost any position, and Skupien can also play shortstop."

Behind the plate, the Irish are inexperience as well. "We have a really good hitting team, but a few people have a chance to earn the starting catching job. The Irish will probably come down to Chris Flynn, Pat O’Brien, Craig Pavulina, or Don Diebel. Flynn is coming off knee surgery, and looks more likely to be a designated hitter, where Hutton or Pelletier might also find playing time. Notre Dame’s outfield looks like it will be one of the team’s biggest assets. Returning starters Scott Rogers and John Loughran will play left field and right field, respectively.

Senior captain Ken Soos is academically ineligible and will not be able to play center field this spring. In his place, a pair of freshmen Kevin Smith and Pelletier, will probably spend the most time at center. Loughran is a catcher coming off a year where he broke the Notre Dame single season hits record.

"We’re looking for our seniors to provide leadership," said Gallo. "Loughran’s a two-time Academic All-American, and he probably will have the most success this season and career hitting records by the end of the season."

Notre Dame’s all around hitting attack looks even more sound than last year. Six likely starters are coming off seasons where they batted over .300. "We batted .315 or .320 as a team last year. Almost everybody in the lineup has the ability to hit the ball out. Everybody can drive the ball and hit the ball hard," said Gallo. "We can’t go by the way we did last season, though all indications show we’re a good hitting team."

"The Irish are also loaded with depth. Freshman John Flanagan provides help in the outfield. Greg Andrews can play catcher and outfield, and Ed Lund could find himself at either catcher, third base, or the outfield. Dave Yawman and Mike Rotkis will bring extra catching help. Tim Brown can be a backup in the infield, and Jeff Flanagan, Steve Noll, David Legus, and Marc Gambordella add more depth to the outfield." Nevertheless, the Irish will have their hands full with Indiana on the road to open their season, and the Irish are not likely to earn many easy wins on a schedule that includes Tulane and Baylor. Indiana will also have the advantage of having played four games already this season.

"Indiana’s got a very good team. They won 40-plus games last year. They’ve got good pitching, lots of experience, and Ed Lund could find himself at either catcher, third base, or the outfield. Dave Yawman and Mike Rotkis will bring extra catching help. Tim Brown can be a backup in the infield, and Jeff Flanagan, Steve Noll, David Legus, and Marc Gambordella add more depth to the outfield."

Thursday, March 5, 1987 - page 11

The Observer

Sports Briefs

Bookstore Basketball XVI 11:30 registration will be held today at the SAB office (second floor LaFortune) from 3 to 5 p.m. Any team that has not registered should do so immediately. There is a $5 fee per team. For more information contact Steve Wenc at 472-4764.

In women’s interhall basketball action last night, Pasquerella East beat Lewis while Breeden-Phillips beat Farley. The two winners will square off in the championship game tonight.

Interhall wrestling deadline is March 9. Workouts will be held March 9 and 10 from 7:30-8:30 p.m., and a mandatory weigh-in will take place March 10 from 8:30-9:30 p.m. The meet will be held March 11 and 13.

Intramural floor hockey deadline has been extended to March 8. Beginning on March 9, the teams are due then. A captains’ meeting will be held March 12.

The ACHA playoffs will be held at the ACC this weekend. Friday night Kent State faces Michigan-Dearborn at 6:30 and Notre Dame plays Lake Forest at 9. The finals will be played Saturday. Because it is a league tournament, there will be a $1 admission charge for all students.

The ND rowing club will hold a meeting for all members tonight at 9:30 (after the game) at room 127 Nieuwland.

The Heart Lights 5K run is set for today at 3:30 p.m. beginning at the ACC and ending at North Dining Hall. Prizes will be awarded in men’s, women’s and dorm divisions, and t-shirts will be given to all finishers. Registration for those who did not enter in advance will take place from 2:45 to 3:20 p.m. at Gate 3 of the ACC.

The Heart Lights 5K run is set for today at 3:30 p.m. beginning at the ACC and ending at North Dining Hall. Prizes will be awarded in men’s, women’s and dorm divisions, and t-shirts will be given to all finishers. Registration for those who did not enter in advance will take place from 2:45 to 3:20 p.m. at Gate 3 of the ACC.

The ND rowing club will hold a meeting for all members tonight at 9:30 (after the game) at room 127 Nieuwland.

The Heart Lights 5K run is set for today at 3:30 p.m. beginning at the ACC and ending at North Dining Hall. Prizes will be awarded in men’s, women’s and dorm divisions, and t-shirts will be given to all finishers. Registration for those who did not enter in advance will take place from 2:45 to 3:20 p.m. at Gate 3 of the ACC.

The ND rowing club will hold a meeting for all members tonight at 9:30 (after the game) at room 127 Nieuwland.

The Heart Lights 5K run is set for today at 3:30 p.m. beginning at the ACC and ending at North Dining Hall. Prizes will be awarded in men’s, women’s and dorm divisions, and t-shirts will be given to all finishers. Registration for those who did not enter in advance will take place from 2:45 to 3:20 p.m. at Gate 3 of the ACC.

The ND rowing club will hold a meeting for all members tonight at 9:30 (after the game) at room 127 Nieuwland.

The Heart Lights 5K run is set for today at 3:30 p.m. beginning at the ACC and ending at North Dining Hall. Prizes will be awarded in men’s, women’s and dorm divisions, and t-shirts will be given to all finishers. Registration for those who did not enter in advance will take place from 2:45 to 3:20 p.m. at Gate 3 of the ACC.

The ND rowing club will hold a meeting for all members tonight at 9:30 (after the game) at room 127 Nieuwland.

The Heart Lights 5K run is set for today at 3:30 p.m. beginning at the ACC and ending at North Dining Hall. Prizes will be awarded in men’s, women’s and dorm divisions, and t-shirts will be given to all finishers. Registration for those who did not enter in advance will take place from 2:45 to 3:20 p.m. at Gate 3 of the ACC.

The ND rowing club will hold a meeting for all members tonight at 9:30 (after the game) at room 127 Nieuwland.

The Heart Lights 5K run is set for today at 3:30 p.m. beginning at the ACC and ending at North Dining Hall. Prizes will be awarded in men’s, women’s and dorm divisions, and t-shirts will be given to all finishers. Registration for those who did not enter in advance will take place from 2:45 to 3:20 p.m. at Gate 3 of the ACC.

The ND rowing club will hold a meeting for all members tonight at 9:30 (after the game) at room 127 Nieuwland.

The Heart Lights 5K run is set for today at 3:30 p.m. beginning at the ACC and ending at North Dining Hall. Prizes will be awarded in men’s, women’s and dorm divisions, and t-shirts will be given to all finishers. Registration for those who did not enter in advance will take place from 2:45 to 3:20 p.m. at Gate 3 of the ACC.

The ND rowing club will hold a meeting for all members tonight at 9:30 (after the game) at room 127 Nieuwland.

The Heart Lights 5K run is set for today at 3:30 p.m. beginning at the ACC and ending at North Dining Hall. Prizes will be awarded in men’s, women’s and dorm divisions, and t-shirts will be given to all finishers. Registration for those who did not enter in advance will take place from 2:45 to 3:20 p.m. at Gate 3 of the ACC.

The ND rowing club will hold a meeting for all members tonight at 9:30 (after the game) at room 127 Nieuwland.

The Heart Lights 5K run is set for today at 3:30 p.m. beginning at the ACC and ending at North Dining Hall. Prizes will be awarded in men’s, women’s and dorm divisions, and t-shirts will be given to all finishers. Registration for those who did not enter in advance will take place from 2:45 to 3:20 p.m. at Gate 3 of the ACC.
Sorin defeats Stanford for IH title; Otters win for 3rd time in 4 years

By CHRISTIAIN SOULIS
Sports Writer

Sorin Hall was crowned champion of Men’s “A” League Interhall basketball after defeating Stanford Hall, 56-50, last night in the ACC Pit. This victory marked the third time in the last four years the Otters had brought home the title to Sorin.

In winning the championship, Sorin utilized the difficult challenge of having to sweep two games in successive nights from Stanford in this double-elimination tournament.

The Otters utilized the momentum they gained in their come-from-behind victory over the Studs Tuesday night when they took to the court last night. Sorin junior point guard Sean Cullinan, the game’s leading scorer with 14 points, commented on how Tuesday night’s win affected his team’s play last night.

“We gained a great deal of confidence with that first win,” said Cullinan. They’re a great team with guys who’ve been playing together for three years. We came out of the gate strong and were able to build a big early lead. Luckily they just couldn’t come all the way back.”

Sorin substitute Dan Reynolds contributed 8 points in the second quarter, helping the Otters jump out to a 34-19 halftime lead. Stanford, behind the hot shooting of swingman Bill Sullivan, came fighting back outscoring the Otters 15-5 in the third quarter. Sullivan, who led Stanford in scoring with 12 points, and Stud’s team captain Al Martin continued this surge, closing and ambushed him with a mean right. Schneider resorted to grappling when he was in trouble, but he managed to knock the lighting Drew back as the third round ended in a draw.

In the Cruiserweight division, Fred “Earthdog” Ahlholm and Greg “Skid” Rowe ended their war in a split decision to Rowe. In the first round, both fighters traded hard inside punches, with the “Earthdog” taking a slight advantage.

Rowe, who actually is not homeless, was a relentless punching machine. Ahlholm came back at Rowe, but neither could effectively follow their leading strikes. The fight ended with Ahlholm leaning Rowe’s inside barrage and catching an off-balance Rowe with a hard right.

The Independent student newspaper serving Notre Dame and Saint Mary’s is accepting applications for the following position:

Assistant Advertising Design Manager

Please leave a letter of application at the office by Monday, March 9, 1987 at 5 p.m.

Questions should be directed to Michael Whiton

ATTENTION STUDENTS
Shakey’s Special Delivery
Introductory Offer
Medium Homestyle Pan Pizza
1 Topping $7.75
or Large Homestyle Pan Pizza
1 Topping $9.75

Delivery Hours: 5-10 Mon.-Thurs.
5-12:00 Fri.-Sat.
5-10:30 Sun.
277-2910

CORKTOWNE LIQUORS, INC.
1841 SOUTH BEND AVE.
Phone 227-2910

BENGAL BOXERS look good on this weekend!

CORKTOWNE LIQUORS, INC.
1841 SOUTH BEND AVE.
Phone 227-6805

Send free “God Made Me” poster or, send free poster along with one-week Summer opportunities to Appalachia to:
Brother Jack Henn, Glenmary Home Missionaries, P.O. Box 465818, Cincinnati, OH 45246-5618.

Name ____________________________ Age ______
Address ____________________________
City ____________________________ State ______ Zip ______
Telephone ____________
04/87

Brown, indoor track team look to run wild at IC4A’s

By MOLLY MAHONEY
Sports Writer

On Saturday, the Notre Dame track team will compete against a talented field of 121 teams in the IC4A meet, traditionally a showcase case for the nation’s best.

The Irish hope to improve on last year’s impressive ninth place finish and defeat teams such as Boston University, George Mason, Villanova and Pittsburgh, who will be vying for a place at the top.

Leading the 11-man Irish contingent will be junior speedster Tim Brown, who has qualified in both the 55-meter dash and as a part of the distance medley relay.

“Tim Brown is just a great athlete,” said Irish head coach Joe Piane. “He is a tremendous competitor.”

Known for his heroics on the football field, Brown has proven himself not only as a part of the football he can consistently leave his competition in the dust.

Joining Brown in the 55-meter dash, if the condition of his leg allows, will be junior hurdler Tony Ragusa. Freshman hurdler Glen Watson will also try to continue his success in the high hurdles.

Junior Nick Sparks and Sophomore David Warth will pose a double threat in the 1,000-yard run, and the distance medley relay team of senior Robert Noble, Brown, Sophomore Ken Markritz and freshman Mike O’Connor will try to put another winning combination together against stiff competition.

In the field events, juniors Chris Matteo and Rich Muench have qualified to compete in the pole vault and the triple jump, respectively. Freshman Tom Kraus will take care of the shot put duties.

With a balanced mixture of experience and youth, the Irish stand a good chance to defeat many of the talented East coast teams, but it is a task that will require the best from each member of the team if they are to be successful.

ND AVE. APTS.
Early Bird Special
Now renting for Fall
2 Bedrooms completely furnished
Sign up before break and receive a 10% discount
Call 234-6647
Protected by Pinkerton Security Agency

CORKTOWNE wishes Bengal Boxers good luck this weekend!
Tito Horford, shown here in a preseason warmup drill, will lead the Miami Hurricane basketball team into the ACC tonight in the final home game of the season.

By STEVE MEGARGEE
Sports Writer

Having compiled a 5-5 record so far this season despite the injuries of three key players, the men's tennis team will hope to keep overcoming the injury obstacles this weekend at Madison, Wisconsin.

Notre Dame will face the University of Wisconsin at noon on Saturday, then will play Gustavus Adolphus on Sunday at 10 a.m.

Wisconsin's in the middle of the pack in the Big Ten, and we've been having trouble with Big Ten teams recently, so we're looking for a tough match," said Head Coach Tom Fallon. "We haven't played Gustavus Adolphus in a couple of years, but they usually have a good team. They're a Division II school but pretty strong."

The Irish have had to go without the services of starters Brian Kalbas, Paul Daggs, and Tony Cahill at some point in the season because of injuries. Cahill is still out, but Kalbas and Daggs have now returned to the lineup. Fallon has credited the play of three individuals who have stayed healthy throughout the season - Tim Carr, Dan Walsh, and Mike Wallace - for keeping Notre Dame competitive during the injury-plagued season.

"Carr, our top seed, has played well. Dan Walsh has been alternating between the fifth and sixth seed has had a pretty good year. He beat his opponents from both Ohio and Ohio State last weekend, and he's playing well right now," said Fallon. "Mike Wallace, the freshman, lost his match at Ohio State, but that's the first match he's lost this season."

In this weekend's matches, Carr will be the top seeded player, followed by Dave Reiter, Kalbas, Wallace, Walsh, and Daggs. The doubles teams will be Carr and Reiter, Daggs and Walsh, and Wallace and Sean O'Brien.

"If everyone's at full strength, we're hoping to give them some good matches," said Fallon. "Even with us not having Cahill in the lineup, we may not win both matches, but we'll give them better matches than they think."

FRIDAY: Special Vegetarian Pizzas

Help Prevent Birth Defects
Support
March of Dimes

Sobering Advice
Think Before You Drink
Before You Drive

The Sports Department is now accepting applications for the following position:

Saint Mary's Sports Editor

Questions should be directed to Dennis Corrigan at the Observer office (239-5303). Resumes and one-page personal statement are due by 5 p.m. Sunday, March 8.
New ACHA becomes a positive step in rebirth of hockey

By MIKE CHMIEL
Sports Writer

The Kent State Golden Flashes will face off against the Michigan-Dearborn Wolves in the American Collegiate Hockey Association's first ever playoff game this Saturday in the ACC Fieldhouse.

Following the showdown between the No. 2 and No. 4 teams in the ACHA, the regular season champion Lake Forest Foresters will face the Irish in an attempt to advance to Saturday's final round and capture the ACHA's first two titles.

Notre Dame, Lake Forest, Kent State, and Michigan-Dearborn formed the ACHA last June while sharing a common philosophy educationally, athletically, and financially. Financial concerns have plagued each of the schools in the league and resulted in few, if any, scholarships and little financial aid being made available to hockey players.

The schools which treat hockey as their primary sport and are able to fund scholarships, get the top players each year and easily rise above lesser-funded programs. The ACHA brought four financially-stripped independents together with hopes of giving these hockey programs and players something to shoot for at the end of the season - an ACHA Championship.

"We're very, very happy," Lake Forest Head Coach Tony Pritz said. "We needed a league to give our season some meaning. The league is very important to us."

After the University downsized the Irish hockey team from varsity status to club status, the Irish became a member of both the Central States Collegiate Hockey League before the program moved back to Division I as an independent in 1984. Prior to 1983, the Irish had played in the Western and Central Collegiate Hockey Associations.

According to Boulec, membership in a league was important for the Irish because the hockey team is unable to enjoy the independent status of a football or basketball program which is able to aim for postseason action and a national title. The hockey team "really had no other goal to shoot for," Boulec said.

Notre Dame's desire to form a league and its ability to manage a league with its administrative and public relations staffs spurred interest in the ACHA and encouraged the other schools to join the Irish.

"When you're playing as an independent and without scholarships, there's not really any chance for us to go out and hope to achieve an NCAA tournament bid," Notre Dame Head Coach "Rocky" Smith explained. "As a result, you go all season long, and you're just playing for a record. By having a league, it gives you a little bit of incentive as far as playing, and it also gives you a little something to shoot for at the end of the year." League play involves a home-and-home series for each of the schools. Each series involves back-to-back games on a school on Friday and Saturday night.

The ACHA crowns both a regular season champ and a tournament champ. This year's league action saw Lake Forest taking first with an 8-3-1 record in league and a 15-8-1 record overall. Kent State took second with a 7-3-0 (18-12-0) mark. The Irish wound up in third at 7-3-1 (18-12-1) while Michigan Dearborn finished at 3-7-2 (10-19-2).

"For the first year, we have achieved our goals," Smith said. "We've come to respect one another. We've had very close competition within the league. Everyone in the league has beaten everyone else which is good because you have a lot of parity in the league."

This weekend's ACHA Championships will feature two rounds. A tournament champion will be crowned Saturday night. A League Most Valuable Player and ACHA All-Star team will also be named at an ACHA luncheon tomorrow. While the ACHA teams have enjoyed the competition in their new league and look forward to the season-ending weekend at Notre Dame, there appears to be a general belief that the Irish would like to grow together more as a unit, and we're starting to have something else to shoot for."

According to Boulec, the ACHA's format is more attractive than a four-team league because it is "more viable." Smith also stated that the ACHA will also be able to attend to other housekeeping details such as officiating and statistics. Smith hopes to find more qualified and experienced officials for the league. Smith also hopes to have statistics published in a weekly basis in an effort to help the coaches and promote the league.

"We have survived the first year - we've survived it without a lot of serious problems," Smith noted. "We've had close competition, and if you look outside the scope of our area, our teams have done quite well against outside competition. We've certainly answered a lot of questions that outsiders had."
3:30 p.m.: Heartlights 5k Run, free t-shirts to finishers; prizes in all categories, sponsored by University Food Services and NVA, ACC to North Dining Hall
3:30 - 3:50 p.m.: Computer Mini Course Nota Bene Wordprocessing, Part 2, 108 Computing Center, limit 7, to register, call Betty 239-5004
3:30 p.m.: Basketball ND vs. Miami (Florida), ACC
4:00 p.m.: Theology Lecture "Archaeology in Israel: The Last Half Century," by Rev. Philip King, Boston College, CCE Auditorium
4:15 - 5:00 p.m.: Computer Minicourse
3:30 - 4:15 p.m.: Lecture, by Ali Maxrui, University of Michigan.

Dinner Menus

Notre Dame
Roast Top Round of Beef
Pettucini Alfredo
Pepperoni cheese Grinder

Saint Mary's
Turkey cutlet & Gravy
Port chow Mein
Deli Bar

The Daily Crossword

Yesterday's Puzzle Solved:

SAB presents:

Dead Zone
7.91
$1.50

Stand By Me
7.91
$1.50

EG Auditorium
Absolutely No Alcohol Allowed

Opening Act: Michael Todd from Minneapolis

"He'll be doing a benefit show at The Comedy Store in L.A. in May. He is going to be cutting an album; "If I Wanted Your Opinion, I'd End It Down Your Throat.""
The semifinal round of the 57th annual Bengal Bouts were fought last night at Stepan Center.

The Observer/Georg Kaha

Mike Szynanski highlights the action at left, and a list of results appears on page 14.

Irish set for emotional battle with Horford, Miami

By TERRY LYNCH
Sports Writer

There's something about these two schools that just doesn't mesh. Maybe it's the weather. Maybe it's the history of cheap-shot-filled football wars. Maybe it's Jimmy Johnson's hair spray. Whatever the source of hatred between Notre Dame and Miami, there's probably going to be a lot of emotion on the court at the ACC for a visiting basketball team with a 14-15 record.

In their inaugural 14-14 season last year, the Miami Hurricanes faced a powerful Notre Dame team and ended up being crushed, 123-77. Playing with mostly freshmen and walk-ons, Miami head coach Bill Foster could only sit and watch while the Irish seniors and David Rivers got to the 100-point mark with 8:45 to play. Undaunted, the Hurricanes faithful continually ridiculed the Irish throughout the game with chants of "58-7, 58-7." In a nutshell, there's a lot of emotion when these schools lock horns. And that emotion usually is hatred. "For us, it's the last game for Hicks and Royal," said Head Coach Digger Phelps. "It's a chance for them to say goodbye to the people who've been a big part of their lives for four years."

"It's also the last year for our student body seniors. We should play with a lot of intensity and it should be an emotional game." For Miami, the big story all year has been their 7-1, 245-pound recruiting coup, Tito Horford. Horford, who migrated from Houston to LSU to Miami last year, finally found a home on Foster's squad. Officially listed as a freshman, the LaRomana, Dominican Republic, native is averaging 14.7 points per game while dominating the Hurricanes rebounding totals, averaging 10 per game. While Horford has been plagued all year with charges of inconsistency, Phelps sees a lot of potential in the Miami center.

"Tito Horford could be the next Patrick Ewing in college basketball," said Phelps. "They've played a little over 500 games between them this year and he's the only player to play 40 minutes a game."

"Tito has had a big impact on our post scoring. Whether it be the hook shot or the baseline jumper. Their size causes real problems." The scoring leader for the Hurricanes, however, is not Horford. Sophomore forward Eric Brown holds that distinction, averaging 16.2 points per game. Brown, a 6-4 sophomore from Brooklyn, was voted the team's MVP last season. Brown also shot a very efficient 79.4 percent from the free throw line, and scored 56 percent from anywhere on the court. Perhaps the most dangerous player on the Hurricanes, however, is sophomore Kevin Presto. The 5-11 guard scores 11 points per game.

"We've been working on meeting the cutoff times for nationals all season, so I think we're well prepared for it."

Most of the swimmers' positive attitude stems from their 5-4 season record, an improvement over past years. In addition, the team ended its season on a positive note, placing fourth at the Grand Rapids Invitational, where Saint Mary's totaled over 200 points.

We posted our best times at that meet," said Mannon. "Ending our season like that was a real plus for us.

Fish told me that some changes in the team's season schedule helped the team to improve as well.

"This year we swam teams that were more in our league, more at our level," she said. "We had more tri-meets, too, which gave us some more competition. Our times went up and we benefited a lot from that."

While the Belles' first aim is to reach the finals in as many events as possible, their ultimate goal is to finish in one or more events at Nationals, their optimistic attitude could result in their achieving an even greater end, receiving All-American or Academic All-American honors.

SMC swimmers head for NAIA meet in Milwaukee

If positive mental attitude has anything to do with success, the Saint Mary's varsity swim team stands a good chance of a strong showing at the NAIA Nationals, which will take place on Friday and Saturday at the Walter Schroeder Aquatics Center in Milwaukee.

Ten members of the team qualified for the competition by meeting certain time standards during the regular season. The swimmers will represent Saint Mary's in seven events.

Senior Margaret Mannon, juniors Meghan Rafferty and Jennifer Veselik, and freshmen Erin Lafreniere and Anthony Derailer will swim in the 200-yard medley, while the team of Juckniess, Rafferty, Tierney and senior Mary Fisher will swim the 200-yard freestyle relay, the Belles' most promising event.

"Our 200 free relay has a really good time," said Head Coach Nancy Jo Kuzmitz. "They qualified at 1:49.83, and there is a good possibility that they could make it into the top 12."

Fisher, the Belles' team captain, is equally hopeful for success in this relay.

"This year our qualifying time in the 200 freestyle relay was even lower than it was at nationals last year, so I think we have a really strong chance of getting to the finals in this event," she said.

Three Saint Mary's swimmers have qualified for individual events. Mannon and Tierney made it into the optional time in the 100-yard breaststroke, completing the event in 1:17.11, respectively. Rafferty qualified for the optional time in the 100-yard backstroke, which she swam in 1:08.02. The swimmers are quite prepared for the event, according to Kuzmitz, who is eager to attend the competition.

"We're ready for this big meet," she said.

By MIKE SZYNANSKI
Sports Writer

The semifinals of the 57th annual Bengal Bouts were fought last night at the Miami Hur­ricanes' home court. The Derailer's Jimmie Johnson and the Hurricanes' Jimmy Johnson's hairspray. The battle of the Bouts, between Super Heavyweights Pernell "Big Train" Taylor and Anthony "The Derailer" Johnson ended in split decision for Taylor. Johnson, a south­paw who had all of two days to train, impressed Taylor with his quick right hand. "He doesn't throw his right that much," said Taylor, "but he throws it with power. He tagged me with it a few times. I was hesitant because he was a southpaw, and it was hard to get a job in when he made a move with the punches." Johnson's reaction to the fight was concise. "I enjoyed it, but I don't want to do it again."

Both fighters missed punches early, dancing around for position. Taylor did know Johnson down with a hard left.

The Heavyweight semifinal between Neil "Mad Dog" Mac­Donald and "Rockin' Rob" Merkle turned out to be the brawl that set off the crowd to its frenzy. Both fighters, who were true "heavy" weights, fought vigorously and at times used their hands too.

MacDonald came out swinging, knocking the headgear off of Merkle. Merkle didn't change his headgear and replied "Take this, you son of a bch," said Taylor, "the best man will win."

The Miami Hurricanes will play Furman in the final on Friday night in a great left-right combination while dominating the Hur­ricanes rebounding totals, averaging 10 per game. While Horford has been plagued all year with charges of inconsistency, Phelps sees a lot of potential in the Miami center.

"Tito Horford could be the next Patrick Ewing in college basketball," said Phelps. "They've played a little over 500 games between them this year and he's the only player to play 40 minutes a game."

"Tito has had a big impact on our post scoring. Whether it be the hook shot or the baseline jumper. Their size causes real problems." The scoring leader for the Hurricanes, however, is not Horford. Sophomore forward Eric Brown holds that distinction, averaging 16.2 points per game. Brown, a 6-4 sophomore from Brooklyn, was voted the team's MVP last season. Brown also shot a very efficient 79.4 percent from the free throw line, and scored 56 percent from anywhere on the court. Perhaps the most dangerous player on the Hurricanes, however, is sophomore Kevin Presto. The 5-11 guard scores 11 points per game.

"We've been working on meeting the cutoff times for nationals all season, so I think we're well prepared for it."

Most of the swimmers' positive attitude stems from their 5-4 season record, an improvement over past years. In addition, the team ended its season on a positive note, placing fourth at the Grand Rapids Invitational, where Saint Mary's totaled over 200 points.

"We posted our best times at that meet," said Mannon. "Ending our season like that was a real plus for us.

Fisher told me that some changes in the team's season schedule helped the team to improve as well.

"This year we swam teams that were more in our league, more at our level," she said. "We had more tri-meets, too, which gave us some more competition. Our times went up and we benefited a lot from that."

While the Belles' first aim is to reach the finals in as many events as possible, their optimistic attitude could result in their achieving an even greater end, receiving All-American or Academic All-American honors.