PTL founder may face dismissal from church

Associated Press

FORT MILL, S.C. - The PTL's new leaders said Thursday that Jim Bakker and his wife would stay on the payroll but must not be active in the ministry, while Bakker's church said he might face dismissal for "moral failure" in a sexual liaison seven years ago.

"The body of Christ is too valuable to be a party to bickering and conflict," the Rev. Jerry Falwell said after the new PTL board held its first meeting in an attempt to restore harmony after the tumultuous disclosures of recent days. "We are determined that Satan will not have a field day.

Meanwhile, the woman with whom Bakker had the encounter told reporters she was "deeply concerned" that churchgoers everywhere should understand the current scandal "has no reflection upon the Lord."

PTL founder may face dismissal from church

Associated Press

"We do not believe there is any evidence of blackmail," the Rev. G. Raymond Carlson, general superinten­dent of the Assemblies of God, said in a statement at a news conference at church headquarters in Springfield, Mo.

"To the contrary, the evidence seems to indicate that effort and money have been expended to cover moral failure. We are deeply sorry to have to say this. We grieve for the impact all this has had upon the entire Christian community."

Carlson said evidence gathered by the presbyters will be sent to the North Carolina Presbytery, which has juris­diction over the South Carolina-based PTL.

"The complete procedure must and will be followed to determine whether resignation or dismissal is in order," Carlson said.

Bakker has offered his resignation to the Assemblies of God, his 2-million­member Pentecostal umbrella organization, but no action has been taken.

The new PTL board agreed at its meeting in Fort Mill, S.C., to have a committee independently audit PTL's finances and determine whether any criminal acts were involved in the alleged blackmail scheme.

A financial statement distributed by Falwell showed PTL assets of $172 mil­lion and total current liabilities of $42.1 million. Other long-term debt was listed at $28.2 million.

The $50 million loan would con­solidate the ministry's short-term debts into a long-term obligation, he said.

"I don't want people under the impres­sion that there goes on everywhere. It does not go on everywhere," Jessica Hahn said outside her West Babylon, N.Y., home Thursday.

Earlier Thursday, a newspaper reported that PTL lawyers had agreed a year ago to pay Ms. Hahn and her representatives $255,000, far more than the $15,000 initially reported.

Bakker resigned as head of the tele­vision ministry last week, saying he had been blackmailed over the liaison and that there was a "diabolical plot" to take over the 500,000-member PTL.

Probe continues investigation of Philly 'cellar of horrors'

Associated Press

PHILADELPHIA - A man accused of holding at least two young women chained in his secret cellar of horrors for torture, rape and killing, and of stock­piling human limbs in a freezer was ordered held without bond Thursday.

Heidnik was arrested after police went to the house and found three young women, naked from the waist down, and two other bodies in the basement.

"We think the momentum is far better next year," he said.

"It's a new beginning," he said. "It's a new start."
In Brief

Notre Dame students Kathleen McKernan, Michelle Lyn LaRose, and Randall David Kron were named finalists in the Thomas R. Keating Scholarship Competition, sponsored by the School of Journalism at Indiana University, Purdue University at Indianapolis, the Indianapolis Press Club and Sigma Delta Chi. Each finalist is eligible for a $1000 scholarship. The winners will be announced in the second semester feature stories and the results of a writing contest. The contest, open to all sophomores and juniors attending college in Indiana, will be held April 4 in Indianapolis.

The LaFortune Student Center, renovated and expanded at a cost of $5 million, will be dedicated Saturday with a Mass, tours, a luncheon and a dedication dinner. Guests of Notre Dame will be members of the LaFortune family of Tulsa, Oklahoma, who have underwritten a major portion of the project, which saw the renovation of 45,000 feet of existing space and 17,000 feet added to the structure. - The Observer

Of Interest

Special parking restrictions will be enforced beginning Tuesday, March 31 to make courts available for the Bookstore Basketball XVI Tournament Games. Parking is prohibited in the Bookstore Lot after 3:30 p.m. on weekdays and after 1:00 p.m. on weekends. The Lyons Court and Stepan Court Lots will be closed to parking from March 31 to April 24 and parking is prohibited at all times. Violation of these restrictions will be towed away at owners expense. - The Observer

“The Celtic Golden Age Revisited” is the title of a lecture to be given by David Dumville of Cambridge University today at 3 p.m. in room 715 of the Memorial Library. The lecture is sponsored by the Medieval Institute. - The Observer

Attention Franco-damors: There will be a French Mass on Sunday at 7 p.m. in Alumni Hall. All francophiles are welcome. Fr. Andre Leveille will be the celebrant. - The Observer

The NROTC Dining In will be held Saturday at the South Dining Hall. Festivities will begin with a reception attended by the students at 5 p.m., followed by dinner at 6 p.m. The Midshipmen are proud to host Vice Admiral Bruce L. Braun of the Navy Department, as guest of honor and principal speaker. - The Observer

An Tostal: The general committee members must attend the general committee meeting on Sunday at 3:30 p.m. in the Library Auditorium. Committee members are asked to bring shirt money. - The Observer

Are you a Non-Computer Person seeking information about computer-related careers? If so, there will be a presentation at 6:30 p.m. on Monday in the Student Affairs conference room on this topic. Interested people should call Counseling and Career Development at 4565 to register. - The Observer

Weather

Quack! Quack! Great day for ducks with a 90 percent chance of light rain. High around 50, dropping to upper 30s at night. Saturday is for the birds as well, cloudy with 30 percent chance of rain. High again around 50. - Associated Press

Letters to the Editor

I guess I have come to expect it. In my position as Viewpoint Editor, I receive many letters each week. Some are serious, some are funny; some deal with politics, some deal with campus events. And most of these letters appear everyday on the Viewpoint page. But, there's also a story behind some of the letters that never make it to print. These are the mysterious letters that rest in a file in the back of my desk. Surprisingly, most letters that comprise this collection are not from angry students or teachers. Most, but not all, come from outside our immediate community.

The first letter that tops my list of favorites was submitted by an anonymous parent of a Notre Dame student. The parent was upset because when she visited the campus and walked into her daughter's room, she was shocked to find her daughter's roommate in bed with her boyfriend.

The parent felt that by boys being in girls' rooms a message was being sent to the community at large; "The message you send by demanding (boys being allowed in girls' bedrooms) is 1. you don't respect the laws of God or the Catholic Church and 2. you have no hormones."

But this situation, which was quite upsetting to the parent, became quite funny after the situation was described in print.

On the other hand, some letters are a little more creative. For instance, I have been in contact with a person who claimed to be God and a person who claimed to be the devil.

When reading the many letters from God, I noticed that each starts out in the same way: "My Dear Sir: As Almighty God, I greet you."

Now, I knew that with my job, I would be in contact with some important people at the University and around the country, but I never expected to receive letters from the Big Guy above.

In writing me, God told me some really personal details about his life here on Earth. He told me that I was not the only one who had been in contact with him. He had also written much of humanity "which consists of mainly of Newspaper Editors and Publishers." In another letter, God explained that his "Son is now on Social Security, with a limited income." He stated that his Son's income consisted mainly of "a small pension check of $250 per month. His Social Security benefit of $489.00 per month." I was surprised that God became so intimate with His financial details. Most earthly people like to keep the salaries they make to themselves, but God was different. He apparently had nothing to hold back.

I really thought I was in good standing with God because of my friends had ever received letters from Him. I felt pretty good about life. After all, it's not every day when someone gets a letter from God.

But, soon my thoughts would change. After God's letter, I got a letter from a man who personally knew the Devil and wrote me to tell me about it.

He said that "people would never believe me when I told them about Lucifer." The author was concerned because Lucifer told him he had a low opinion of the voters in the United States. He told me that he needed my help in spreading the word that the U.S. voters don't have a chance to keep from going to hell. I guess you can say that I was surprised to find myself weighted with the fate of mankind on my shoulders.

But, the devil gave me a way out. By writing this column, and alerting you to this, I think I no longer have to feel the weight of responsibility that the devil left me.

Chris Murphy
Viewpoint Editor

-Think Before You Drink Before You Drive-

In Concert

Neil Diamond
Wednesday April 29th
8:00 pm Notre Dame ACC

Sobering Advice Can Save a Life

Ticket sales for NOTRE DAME & ST. MARY'S STUDENTS will take place this Monday, 9:00 a.m. at the ticket windows located at gate 3 of the ACC (Fieldhouse Dome). Limit of four (4) tickets per student. VALID STUDENT I.D. REQUIRED. No line may form before 6:00 am. (Ticket sales for the public will take place at gate 10 of the ACC- Arena Dome).
Dr. Donald DeMarco speaks on the ethics of high tech parenting and the demise of the family at LaFortune Little Theater last night.

By CATHY STACY
Assistant News Editor

Artificial reproduction has introduced a "consumer approach to sexuality and marriage" which has eroded the notion of fatherhood and assaulted the rights of the family, said Dr. Donald DeMarco in his lecture last evening on the ethical issue of high tech parenting.

"Parenthood becomes increasingly arbitrary and ceases to be an aspect of identity...but one that you can purchase for a price," he said. Though he did not wish "to create the impression that technology is bad," DeMarco presented a critical evaluation of the five current forms of technological parenthood, including artificial insemination, test tube babies, embryonic transfer from one woman to another, extracorporeal gestation and surrogate motherhood.

DeMarco said fatherhood becomes tenuous and hypothetical and mothers are viewed as the victims of pregnancy, citing examples of women who have used surrogate motherhood to prevent the interruption of their careers.

"(People) want a commercial selection, the joy without the responsibility and the pleasure without the pain. They exclude marriage, sexual intercourse, genes, gestation and childbearing and still want to be parents," he said. DeMarco also questioned the vulnerable position we place ourselves in if "we accept uncritically what we are given from the medical world" which hold radically different opinions among themselves. From the very first case of artificial insemination in 1884, doctors have viewed the process as "ethereal" as well as "rape."

Test tube babies represent "a form of reductionism at its very worst - reducing the entire human being (with which one creates) to the smallest parts," he said. The gametes become the parents rather than the mother and father who should "want to love so emphatically that they say we are husband and wife and we are the ones who had this child."

DeMarco finds this threat to the personal reality of mother and father an "assault on the integrity of life, marriage and the family." In the case of surrogate mothers, technology is also "exploitive," and the "real mother" is not the woman who has carried the child for nine months, but the woman "who is married to a man who contributes $10,000 so that she can be known as the mother."

DeMarco said this inability to claim authorship is considered fraud in education and business, and it should be considered even more of a fraud within the context of marriage and family.

DeMarco also said it was "too bad" that most people who responded to a recent poll regarding the Baby M case believed that the Stearns should be awarded custody of the child because of their better financial position. Surrogate mother Mary Beth Whitehead, whom they originally believed to be the ideal candidate, developed a bond "incarnate with motherhood" that could not be suppressed by any "technological rhetoric or brain-washing," said DeMarco.

As Baby M celebrates her first birthday today, she does so without a real name, identity or home. The court decision that will decide who her "parents" are is scheduled for March 30.

"Technology can be used to make parents but not mothers and fathers," said DeMarco. Mothers and fathers are not simply qualified by biology, he said, but become persons as the result of "great personal effort." Technology has created a "clash between rational, impatient plans and natural processes."

DeMarco, who is a professor of philosophy at St. Jerome's College in Ontario, will give another lecture titled "Abortion and Compassion" on March 28 at 1 p.m. in the Haggar College Center of Saint Mary's College. This lecture will be preceded by a showing of the film "Silent Scream."

DeMarco's lectures are sponsored by the Notre Dame-Saint Mary's Right to Life Group, the Intercollegiate Studies Institute, Jus Vitea, and the Federalist Society.

‘Consumer approach’ to sexuality erodes family life, says professor

By CATHY STACY
Assistant News Editor

Artificial reproduction has introduced a "consumer approach to sexuality and marriage" which has eroded the notion of fatherhood and assaulted the rights of the family, said Dr. Donald DeMarco in his lecture last evening on the ethical issue of high tech parenting.

"Parenthood becomes increasingly arbitrary and ceases to be an aspect of identity...but one that you can purchase for a price," he said. Though he did not wish "to create the impression that technology is bad," DeMarco presented a critical evaluation of the five current forms of technological parenthood, including artificial insemination, test tube babies, embryonic transfer from one woman to another, extracorporeal gestation and surrogate motherhood.

DeMarco said fatherhood becomes tenuous and hypothetical and mothers are viewed as the victims of pregnancy, citing examples of women who have used surrogate motherhood to prevent the interruption of their careers.

"(People) want a commercial selection, the joy without the responsibility and the pleasure without the pain. They exclude marriage, sexual intercourse, genes, gestation and childbearing and still want to be parents," he said. DeMarco also questioned the vulnerable position we place ourselves in if "we accept uncritically what we are given from the medical world" which hold radically different opinions among themselves. From the very first case of artificial insemination in 1884, doctors have viewed the process as "ethereal" as well as "rape."

Test tube babies represent "a form of reductionism at its very worst - reducing the entire human being (with which one creates) to the smallest parts," he said. The gametes become the parents rather than the mother and father who should "want to love so emphatically that they say we are husband and wife and we are the ones who had this child."

DeMarco finds this threat to the personal reality of mother and father an "assault on the integrity of life, marriage and the family." In the case of surrogate mothers, technology is also "exploitive," and the "real mother" is not the woman who has carried the child for nine months, but the woman "who is married to a man who contributes $10,000 so that she can be known as the mother."

DeMarco said this inability to claim authorship is considered fraud in education and business, and it should be considered even more of a fraud within the context of marriage and family.

DeMarco also said it was "too bad" that most people who responded to a recent poll regarding the Baby M case believed that the Stearns should be awarded custody of the child because of their better financial position. Surrogate mother Mary Beth Whitehead, whom they originally believed to be the ideal candidate, developed a bond "incarnate with motherhood" that could not be suppressed by any "technological rhetoric or brain-washing," said DeMarco.

As Baby M celebrates her first birthday today, she does so without a real name, identity or home. The court decision that will decide who her "parents" are is scheduled for March 30.

"Technology can be used to make parents but not mothers and fathers," said DeMarco. Mothers and fathers are not simply qualified by biology, he said, but become persons as the result of "great personal effort." Technology has created a "clash between rational, impatient plans and natural processes."

DeMarco, who is a professor of philosophy at St. Jerome's College in Ontario, will give another lecture titled "Abortion and Compassion" on March 28 at 1 p.m. in the Haggar College Center of Saint Mary's College. This lecture will be preceded by a showing of the film "Silent Scream."

DeMarco's lectures are sponsored by the Notre Dame-Saint Mary's Right to Life Group, the Intercollegiate Studies Institute, Jus Vitea, and the Federalist Society.
The Observer

Security Beat

Wednesday

11:20 a.m. - An Engineering Professor reported the theft of two computer discs from his office. The victim stated his loss to be $300.

1:39 p.m. - A Morrissey Hall resident reported the theft of a textbook that was removed from his backpack in the lobby of South Dining Hall. Replacement cost of the book is $40.

3:45 p.m. - Security is investigating a hit and run accident that occurred in the DE lot. The victim, a resident of Planner Hall, estimates the damage to his vehicle at approximately $100.

4:30 p.m. - A University employee reported that $80 in cash was removed from her desk drawer sometime last week.

5:45 p.m. - An Elkhart resident reported some vandalism done to his vehicle while he was attending a function inside the ACC. The victim estimated the damage at $111 and a suspect has been identified.

10:35 and 10:40 p.m. - Two female students reported, within five minutes of each other, a male white subject indecently exposing himself between Pasquerilla West and the Memorial Library. The subject is described as being approximately 5 ft. 10 inches, medium build, gray-white hair with receding hairline, wearing a gray parka jacket, blue jeans. Subject was said to be approximately 35 years old. Anyone having any knowledge of this subject, please contact Security.

11:45 p.m. - An Alumni Hall resident reported his backpack stolen from the lobby of the South Dining Hall. However, prior to the report, the backpack was recovered. Missing from the bag were two textbooks and a calculator. Victim estimated his loss at $320.

Thursday

10:46 a.m. - A Morrissey resident reported that his wallet was taken from inside his backpack at the lobby of South Dining Hall. Loss to the victim was $18.

U.S. Marine arrested as spy suspect draws additional espionage charges

Associated Press

WASHINGTON - The Marine Corps has brought additional charges against Sgt. Clayton Lonetree, the first of two Marine security guards arrested on suspicion of spying while working at the U.S. Embassy in Moscow. Investigators now suspect that Lonetree and another guard, Cpl. Arnold Bracy, who worked with Lonetree in Moscow for roughly eight months in 1985 and 1986, had access to espionage-related information developed in its continuing probe of Lonetree.

The sources said Thursday that Lonetree was recruited sexually with Soviet intelligence agents attached to the Moscow embassy's staff. He also had been accused of providing the Soviets with descriptions of floor plans and office assignments for the embassies in Moscow and Vienna.

The sources also said both Bracy and Lonetree became involved sexually with Soviet women who were employed at the embassies, which in turn allegedly led to their recruitment by Soviet agents.

Lonetree had already been accused of passing to the Russians the names and photographs of American intelligence agents attached to the Moscow embassy's staff. He also had been accused of providing the Soviets with descriptions of floor plans and office assignments for the embassies in Moscow and Vienna.

The new count of espionage against Lonetree brings to two the number of such charges pending against the 25-year-old Lonetree. Under the Uniform Code of Military Justice, a conviction on an espionage count carries a maximum penalty of death.

The sources said the new charges were "directly related to the surfacing of Bracy, a 21-year-old corporal who worked with Lonetree in Moscow for roughly eight months in 1985 and 1986."

According to the sources, military and State Department investigators now suspect that Bracy and Lonetree, working together, may have provided Soviet agents access to the Moscow embassy during after-work hours. It appears there were times when the two men were paired as the only guards at the embassy, one source explained.

The Marine Corps said it arrested Bracy last week at the Marine base at Twentynine Palms, Calif., on suspicion of espionage. Bracy and Lonetree, working together, may have provided Soviet agents access to the Moscow embassy during after-work hours. It appears there were times when the two men were paired as the only guards at the embassy, one source explained.

The Marine Corps said it arrested Bracy last week at the Marine base at Twentynine Palms, Calif., on suspicion of espionage. Bracy and Lonetree, working together, may have provided Soviet agents access to the Moscow embassy during after-work hours. It appears there were times when the two men were paired as the only guards at the embassy, one source explained.

Lonetree and Bracy, who were paired as the only guards at the embassy, are now being released while investigators continue their probes.

The Source said Thursday they expected Bracy to appear before a military magistrate on Friday who would decide whether he should remain in custody pending the start of an investigation similar to a civilian grand jury probe.

The Source said Thursday they expected Bracy to appear before a military magistrate on Friday who would decide whether he should remain in custody pending the start of an investigation similar to a civilian grand jury probe.

Stop by for lunch today because the club will be closed this weekend. (both Friday and Saturday)

Notre Dame Communication and Theatre Film Series Presents:

THIS WEEK AT THE SNITE

Individual admission: $1.50

Purple Rose of Cairo (1985) Friday, March 27 at 7:30 & 9:30 p.m., Snite Cecelia (Mia Farrow), a dreamy-eyed, hopelessly deep Depression-era waif, escapes from her dump-y existence and braces husband (Danny Aiello) by spending every free moment at the movies. Purple Rose charts the unusual romance that develops when one day the dazzling star of the latest marine attraction steps off the screen and into Cecelia's life.

The Big Sleep (1946) Monday, March 30 at 7, Snite Bogart and Bacall's screen chemistry is showcased in the thrilling dialogue of this adaptation of Raymond Chandler's hard-boiled classic. Bogart is perhaps the very best of the many screen Philip Marlowe interpretations.

Dangerous (1935) Monday, March 30 at 9 p.m., Snite Bette Davis, playing a former star on the skids, is rehabilitated by Francis Trumm in a good but spruce role in which Davis gives an Oscar-winning performance.

Love and Death (1975) Tuesday, March 31 at 7:30 p.m., Snite Allen, wearing, driving and stars in this very funny film about a militant coward in the land of War and Peace. This spoof of foreign films and Russian literature was applauded from critics despite the resemblance of its plot to Bob Hope's Monsieur Beaucaire.

All films are screened in the Annenberg Auditorium, Snite Museum of Art.
Special Olympics volunteers to be trained for special work

Associated Press

SOUTH BEND, Ind. - The International Special Olympics Committee, having recruited 15,000 volunteers to staff the 1987 summer games, now faces the task of training the volunteers to work with mentally handicapped athletes.

Very few volunteers have worked with handicapped youths, and most ask for help in learning how, said Dr. Bonnie Raine, a director at a South Bend sheltered workshop and a Special Olympics volunteer.

The key simply is learning to recognize the abilities of the competitors, despite their handicaps, Raine said Friday.

"That's all about. They're a showcase," she said. "We're showing them what the mentally handicapped can do, not what they cannot do," said Timothy Dillon, director of games operations.

Special Olympics is producing a videotape introduction featuring television actor and writer James Troesh. The 30-year-old Troesh, of Hacienda Heights, Calif., was paralyzed from the neck down at 14 when he was shocked while installing a rooftop antenna.

Raine recruited Troesh, a family friend, to produce the tape in an effort to close the gap between volunteers and the handicapped athletes.

Volunteers will watch the tape before serving in the games to be held in late July on the campuses of the University of Notre Dame and Saint Mary's College. Troesh hopes volunteers who watch the tape will recognize him from his appearances in episodes of the television show "Highway to Heaven," and listen to his message.

The Observer

The news department is now accepting applications for the following position:

Assistant News Editor

Questions should be directed to Chris Bednarski or Jim Riley at the Observer office (239-5313). Applications are due Sunday by 5 p.m.

FOR SALE BY NOTRE DAME CREDIT UNION

AUTOS

79 Pontiac Bonneville AM/FM Cassette, 5 spd. Loaded. $6700
81 Buick Park Ave. Loaded. $5000
83 Ford Escort AM/FM Cassette, 4 spd. Clean. $3000
84 Reliant K Wagon Good condition. $4900
84 Ford Escort AM Radio. Nice. $3650
86 Nissan Pulsar, AM/FM Cassette, 5 spd. $7670

TRUCKS

85 Chevy Astro Cargo Van, Standard Options $8000
85 Ford Pickup, 5 th Wheel 4 spd, Dual Tanks, Trailer Hitch & Brakes. $7670

MOTORCYCLE

84 Harley Davidson, Purple, Great Shape. $3000
65 Elcona

(2 Bedroom)

$3000

Can be seen only by appointment

Sunshine Promotions Presents

HUEY LEWIS and The News

Sunday April 5
7:30 pm Notre Dame ACC
Reserve seats: $16.50

Tickets available at the ACC Gate 10
Box Office or charge by phone
(219) 239-7356

College Briefs

Students at all-female Wheaton College (MA) are mobilizing to oppose preliminary board of trustee decision to admit male students in the fall of 1988. The board's decision, made in response to declining enrollment at the 152-year-old college, was announced after winter break, and was met with much opposition. Student protests have included letter writing, sign carrying, and the creation of a slogan, "Better dead than coed." The board will make a final decision in May.

The Observer

Students at Yale University erected a symbolic Soviet Gulag in front of the administration building. The structure, made of wood and wire and containing tombstones symbolizing victims of Soviet oppression, was built by the Committee for Freedom to coincide with the broadcast of ABC's controversial miniseries "America." - The Observer

Sigma Tau Gamma, a fraternity at the University of Wisconsin-Stevens Point, awarded monetary prizes to its members earning GPA's above 3.0 and to the student with the most improved grades. If chapter members improve their cumulative grade point average, each will receive $10 for each one-tenth of a point increase. - The Observer

Penn State University has been named in a lawsuit involving a former student who became a paraplegic after suffering injuries in an alcohol-related car crash two years ago. The suit also stated that the Sigma Psi Delta fraternity at the Altoona campus served alcohol to the student, who was a freshman at the time. - The Observer

"Strawberry Farm" is a computer game simulating the operation of a 28-acre strawberry farm in southern Minnesota. Developed for a U of Minnesota small fruits class, the game requires students to make decisions involving crop care, the hiring of employees, sales and marketing. - The Observer

Over 2,000 boxes of gelatin were used for a fund-raiser wrestling contest sponsored by the U of Tennessee-Chattanooga's Interfraternity Council. The competition, called "Wello Weslin," consisted of 30 three-minute matches. Each match featured two females and one male. - The Observer financial crisis for this institution. This institution is not in loss of support or firm will not include examina $700,000 audit by a private accounting strongly that the Bakkers salaries and benefits.
Video

should continue to draw Tammy Bakker.

here if it not for Jim and be Christian to cut off the life said, 'All right ... as long as you are all right,'

much Bakker and his wife said.

the last year the ministry revealed how much the evan 810-239-5313.

Japanese sumo wrestler Junichi Mari ready to take a crack at his breakfast of two-dozen eggs at the Harlow Moat Hotel in Essex, England. Mari is making a film on the martial arts with three other wrestlers who also like to start their morning right.

Horrors continued from page 1

(Heidnik) didn't answer the door so we looked in the windows." Soon, she said, Heidnik came out and joked about the odor. "He said, 'What, do I smell? I just burned a piece of meat, that's all.' So, the policeman said, 'All right ... as long as you are all right,'" Ms. Zibulka said.

Preacher continued from page 1

last seven days, there has been no loss of support or fallout," Falwell said. "We anticipate to financial crisis for this institution. This institution is not in critical condition. Falwell said the independent audit by a private accounting firm will not include examination of Bakker's personal finances. The Bakkers reportedly have amassed at least $700,000 worth of real estate and cars. Falwell said the board felt strongly that the Bakkers should continue to draw salaries and benefits.

"This ministry would not be here if it not for Jim and Tammy Bakker. It would not be Christian to cut off the life supply to the couple responsible for this ministry," he said.

Falwell refused to say how much Bakker and his wife would earn. Their combined salaries were $73,800 in 1979, the last year the ministry revealed how much the evangelists were paid.

If Bakker tried to retake the presidency of the group, Falwell said, "the credibility problem that we now have would be an impossible challenge for us and we (the new board) very likely would step aside."

Food aid politics discussed by panel

By MARGARET PFEIL

A panel discussion on the politics of famine assistance to Ethiopia was featured in the final lecture in the Spring series on Ethics and Foreign Policy Thursday night at the Center for Continuing Education.

Jason Clay, director of Research for Cultural Survival, charged the Ethiopian government with politicizing famine assistance given primarily from western nongovernmental and private voluntary organizations.

Passively and actively, Clay said, these agencies collaborated with the government in extending the famine to previously self-sufficient areas by reinforcing the conditions that had caused the famine.

The most significant causes of the famine were not drought or lack of food, according to Clay, rather they were government policies such as resettlement and vilLAGeization. He said, in 1985, at the height of the famine, Ethiopia tripled their foreign currency reserve and exported 200,000 head of live livestock.

In response, Mgr. Robert Coll, executive director of the Interfaith Higher Appeal, disagreed with Clay and said the causes of the famine were not simply political, but were rooted in environmental degradation, overpopulation and war.

Fred Cuny, the chairman of Intersect, a consulting firm specializing in the management of emergency relief, supported Coll's position that the famine was not solely due to political causes.

"There is no such thing as apolitical aid," Cuny said to the audience of 60-70 students, faculty and clergy. "We need to improve decision-making in the system."

Clay said that the people of Ethiopia were forced to sell their grain, including surpluses, to the government and then to buy subsistence grain from western agencies such as CARE. Western food assistance was used as bait to trap people into resettling on the promise of receiving food in areas where, in fact, there was none.

Cuny of Intersect said that Clay's statements against resettlement were not completely justifiable because the U.S. had proposed that as early as 1966 and had been funding that since 1976.

Clay attributed the manipulation of the western agencies to their lack of understanding as manifested in their failure to insist on an independent assessment of the causes of the famine, its effect and the monitoring of food programs.

The agencies are not equipped for research, detailed analysis and project monitoring because they deem these processes too lengthy, expensive and irrelevant, Clay said.

Coll said Catholic Relief Services and the Church Drought Africa Agency knew the causes and anticipated the famine as early as 1982.

The agencies could not get the public to listen and act until 1984. "We were not duped - lives were saved and that is what counts," Coll said.

Furthermore, he said, every responsible agency does have a well-defined program for emergencies encompassing prior assessments, technical assistance, material and financial aid, distribution networks, and evaluation programs.

While they also try to prepare to the best of their ability, it is difficult given their limited funding, Coll said. "Had we access to funds spent for military purposes, maybe we could be more thoughtful."

Cuny said, the aid of the western agencies did not have an impact either way, having arrived mainly at the time that death rates began falling.

The Observer

The independent newspaper serving Notre Dame and Saint Mary's is now accepting applications for the following position:

Assistant Saint Mary's Editor

Resume and personal statement are due by Friday, March 27 at 5 p.m. Questions should be directed to Marilyn Benchik at 284-5365 or 239-5313.

Student Activities Board is now accepting applications for

IRISH GARDENS AND ADWORKS
(Store Manager)

Pick up at 2nd floor LaFortune

Application Deadline: April 3

Rentals

No Deposit 95¢

Ask about our student club membership!

per day (2 day min)

"Early Bird Special"

(blockbuster and Premium Movies -N/A)

Ask about our student club membership!

Curtis Mathes

HOME ENTERTAINMENT CENTER

512 W. Edison
Mishawaka
256-0226
55011 Mayflower
South Bend
288-8348
Rocket carrying satellite explodes

Associated Press

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. - An Atlas-Centaur rocket pitched out of control and was destroyed by a radio signal Thursday about 60 seconds after it lifted off with an $83 million military communications satellite.

The unmanned rocket lifted off in a rain storm and there was a possibility it was hit by lightning. Observers saw what they thought was a lightning flash near the vehicle shortly after it blasted off. The 157-foot booster blasted away from its launch pad into a light rain at 4:42 p.m. EST and quickly darted into a low cloud bank.

NASA launch commentator George Diller said the rocket appeared to be flying normally when he suddenly announced, "We have lost all telemetry data... We appeared to have lost the vehicle."

Later, he reported that the rocket had shot out of control and was blown apart by a radio signal that denoted charges in the vehicle. The destruction was necessary to prevent the rocket from veering toward populated areas.

The explosion came a few miles offshore.

Pothole hunter prowls Indiana highways

Associated Press

WEST LAFAYETTE, Ind. - When Idris Jones drives down a highway, he doesn't avoid the potholes. It's his job to plow right into them.

As the only road roughness tester in the state, Jones logs about 30,000 miles a year in a specially equipped car. Three or four days a week, Jones is on a road somewhere in Indiana, testing the travel lanes of state and interstate highways - in both directions.

Jones was a traveling sales man until he got laid off a few years ago. Fortunately, he said, the Indiana Highway Department Research Training Center in West Lafayette was looking for someone with professional experience behind the wheel.

Sunday, March 29th is
ELIZABETH EDRALIN'S 21st BIRTHDAY
Happy Birthday H.B. Love, (K.F.) Mom

Norm 'Bundle-of-the-week' Muller resigns from laundry

By ROB HENNIG
Copy Editor

Norm Muller, known at Notre Dame for his sports predictions and bundle-of-the-week giveaways, has resigned as director of Saint Michael's laundry and dry cleaning.

Muller said he resigned for personal reasons on March 12 and declined to elaborate. "I just had a good time and I really enjoyed you guys. It's time to move on," Muller said.

According to Muller, he arrived at Notre Dame in 1975 as Commander of the U.S. Air Force ROTC detachment here. After retiring from that position, Muller started at Saint Michael's as assistant director in 1978. He took over as director in 1982.

Muller said he currently has no plans other than to "relax for a while."

"To Norm's credit, he did a real nice job of updating the laundry service," said James Lyphout, assistant vice president for business affairs.

Lyphout said the laundry service just was recently transferred to his jurisdiction. Previously, it was under the direction of Father William Beauchamp, executive assistant to the president.

Beauchamp was out of town and could not be reached for comment.

Lyphout indicated applications are currently being solicited for the position. "It is an open position inside the University. I've had several applicants inside the University."
Viewpoint

Students need support when confronted by law

At approximately midnight on Friday, February 28, numerous marauders on horseback conducted a raid upon my house on East Navarre Street. As a result of the operation against our quiet, self-contained party, one out of 100 people cited for underage drinking and one of my housemates was incarcerated on the charge of selling alcohol without a license. The "criminal" was then handcuffed behind his back and first placed in a paddy wagon and then a paint-splattered police car. Four kegs and two taps were confiscated as "evidence" by the police. Numerous guests were harassed and threatened by the police, who came into our house by forcing themselves past two close friends who demanded warrants and evidence of a crime in progress, and who themselves came close to being arrested.

Evan Farley

It is my contention that more crimes were perpetrated by the members of the police force than by the residents of my party. Although I am only a senior government major with little legal experience, I am certain that in this case, the acts were improper and perhaps even unconstitutionally.

In any sense of the word, my house has long been disputed by many concerned citizens and students, yet no legal resolution to the problem has been made in the state of Indiana. I have been informed by a friend, though, that a case was tried in the state of Illinois and the ruling went against the police department.

Second, the definition of "probable cause" in this case was hazy at best. No attempt was made to point out the "offenders" that were in our house nor how the police deemed the party to have the probable cause of having minors present. There is the mere existence of a party becoming a de facto "probable cause" for the investigation of a "crime"?

Third, my arrested housemate was neither read his rights nor permitted to place a phone call. I thought that the reading of rights was guaranteed by law. Furthermore, the reading of rights must rest with the police in establishing intent with respect to the letter of the law. And what about the reading of rights and the allowance of a phone call? Doesn't the presence of such measures constitute grounds for the dismissal of charges? Do the police think that Notre Dame students are second-rate citizens who don't merit proper treatment under the law? Or that we are either too stupid to realize that our rights have been violated, or too meek to expend the time and effort needed to prosecute the case? Whatever is the case, something must be done by us.

Fourth, the conduct of the police was somewhat less than polite. Abusive language was used throughout the raid until the Channel 28 news cameras were turned on. The police then started addressing the guests and residents as "you." When we addressed the police - using phrases such as "with all due respect," - we were not paid attention to and threatened with arrest for "obstruction of justice" or being a "probable cause." I suggest that the arresting officers how much the bar was set for they replied "$50," but upon entering the police station two of us found that it had been changed to $100 and we were informed that we would bring someone who is 21," (both students were 21).

Lastly, would any of us in this case or that of others really stand up in a court of law? The burden of proof by law must rest with the police. Can they prove the charge of "selling" "alcohol" without a license? If cups are sold at a party, does that constitute intent to sell alcohol? What if cups are sold but guests don't have to try to those cups to consume the alcohol? Would that be the same thing? If one asks for money for a cup, is that the same thing as saying, "You must pay to drink alcohol!"? What if donations were asked to help defray the costs of potato chips, while the bar was technically free? There are many scenarios that can be extrapolated from this situation, even though they all rest on technicalities.

Yet isn't that what a criminal case can be thrown out for - technicalities? The burden of proof must rest with the police in establishing intent with respect to the letter of the law. And what about the reading of rights and the allowance of a phone call? Doesn't the presence of such measures constitute grounds for the dismissal of charges? Do the police think that Notre Dame students are second-rate citizens who don't merit proper treatment under the law? Or that we are either too stupid to realize that our rights have been violated, or too meek to expend the time and effort needed to prosecute the case? Whatever is the case, something must be done by us.

Third, my arrested housemate was neither read his rights nor permitted to place a phone call. I thought that the reading of rights was guaranteed by law. Furthermore, the reading of rights must rest with the police in establishing intent with respect to the letter of the law. And what about the reading of rights and the allowance of a phone call? Doesn't the presence of such measures constitute grounds for the dismissal of charges? Do the police think that Notre Dame students are second-rate citizens who don't merit proper treatment under the law? Or that we are either too stupid to realize that our rights have been violated, or too meek to expend the time and effort needed to prosecute the case? Whatever is the case, something must be done by us.

Fourth, the conduct of the police was somewhat less than polite. Abusive language was used throughout the raid until the Channel 28 news cameras were turned on. The police then started addressing the guests and residents as "you." When we addressed the police - using phrases such as "with all due respect," - we were not paid attention to and threatened with arrest for "obstruction of justice" or being a "probable cause." I suggest that the arresting officers how much the bar was set for they replied "$50," but upon entering the police station two of us found that it had been changed to $100 and we were informed that we would bring someone who is 21," (both students were 21).

Lastly, would any of us in this case or that of others really stand up in a court of law? The burden of proof by law must rest with the police. Can they prove the charge of "selling" "alcohol" without a license? If cups are sold at a party, does that constitute intent to sell alcohol? What if cups are sold but guests don't have to try to those cups to consume the alcohol? Would that be the same thing? If one asks for money for a cup, is that the same thing as saying, "You must pay to drink alcohol!"? What if donations were asked to help defray the costs of potato chips, while the bar was technically free? There are many scenarios that can be extrapolated from this situation, even though they all rest on technicalities.

Yet isn't that what a criminal case can be thrown out for - technicalities? The burden of proof must rest with the police in establishing intent with respect to the letter of the law. And what about the reading of rights and the allowance of a phone call? Doesn't the presence of such measures constitute grounds for the dismissal of charges? Do the police think that Notre Dame students are second-rate citizens who don't merit proper treatment under the law? Or that we are either too stupid to realize that our rights have been violated, or too meek to expend the time and effort needed to prosecute the case? Whatever is the case, something must be done by us.

In the protection of our rights - who can help or are just angry enough to do something, please contact me and we will try to do something instead of being chucked back passively by the slaughter by pleading "guilty." The police of this area has posted on their cars the slogan "To Serve and Protect." They have been doing neither. Let's change this.

Evan Farley is a senior government major.

P.O.Box Q

Church encourages acceptance of teaching

Dear Editor:

Steve Hipp's long and elegantly constructed defense of Catholic fundamentalism in his March 4 column suffers from the same peculiarity that all other types of fundamentalism suffer from.

He says that "the Church has (a) divine mandate to preserve, interpret, promulgate and defend the fixed deposit of faith...Being Catholic means...that...one accepts the divine institution of teaching authority of the Church on depositum fidei. This is Catholic Faith." His argument boils down to the following: individual Catholic believers should not exercise their freedom to think in ways that disagree with what the hierarchy teaches, not just because they end up believing it is wrong, but more fundamentally because the very notion that there is something to decide upon is itself "ex-ternal to (and) against the teaching of the Church." This seems to be what some of the picketers outside of the recent abortion debate had in mind when they painted their signs to read "Abortion is not debatable." They did not care whether Burtchaell or Maguire "won" the debate because they did not think that it should have occurred in the first place. Merely having it was, to them, a sign of theological and ethical surrender.

Here is where the fundamentalist flaw resides. The very notion of choice includes the possibility of choosing "against" as well as "for." If one could only choose "for" certain teachings of the hierarchy, for instance, then no notion of choice would be present. But clearly Mr. Hipp thinks that a proper exercise of Catholic Christianity involves choice; he must, since he spends so many pages telling us how to make them properly. That being so, the possibility of choosing "against" the hierarchy is not only present but in fact is guaranteed. Granted that the hierarchy may not wish for individual Catholics to exercise this option, but here that is issue only peripherally. What is more important is that the very Church which Mr. Hipp claims to defend promotes a view here that is different than his. That Church, not his, calls on its members to choose whether its magisterial teachings are valid and appropriate articulations of divine truth, or not. It does not want them to choose wrongly, naturally enough, but it places the ultimate burden of respon-sibility on them when it invites them to decide to accept its teachings. For its sake as well as for its, it would be nice if Mr. Hipp chose to join this Church.

Evan Farley is a senior government major.
Campus bands deserve a compromised policy

Dear Editor —

It is right that a student at Notre Dame is denied the right of exercising his religion by practicing his faith as a Catholic by attending two mass on the Sunday evening of 5:15 p.m. mass at Sacred Heart Church in the mass that wide church because he does not donate $1,000 or more every year and he is not part of the Sorin Society, even though his family contributes $1,000 to pay for his college fees.

This is what happened to me on Saturday, Feb. 28, when a friend of mine, acupuncture student, was denied the mass at Sacred Heart Church for 5:15 p.m. mass. I was only permitted to enter the main body of the church for the first time instead of being an acolyte were needed for the mass. But my friend was denied admission to the church to worship because his services were not needed. Instead, he had to attend mass at the crypt at 5:00 p.m. and then it was already 5:05 p.m.

Do we now have a closed policy on who can attend church? Are the large financial supporters of Notre Dame are invited to visit the campus? Are we ashamed let our students intern and cannot attend mass with these people while giving up the large sum of money to the University?

Do not get me wrong. I am very appreciate of these large sums of money to the Sorin Society. Most of us students would not be here if they did not donate money to the Scholarships and other financial programs that are needed to keep this university running and com-

 Pete's Square where the people are enormous! Do societies and money separate the places and time that we are allowed to pray and worshiped together as a community? Are we, the students and parishioners of Sacred Heart, not the Church of Sacred Heart? It is too bad that the University puts so much money there. It is too bad that the University puts aside their students and Sacred Heart forgets their parishioners when guests visit the University.

We are praying that next year, when the Sorin Society is once again invited, that the University lets the students and parishioners be able to pray and worship them.

David Ragan
Flanner Hall

Women in minority due to disparity in pay

Dear Editor —

I am writing in response to Chris Julka’s inside column of Wednesday, March 25 concerning sex discrimination. Julia’s states, “A few thousand dollars may seem a lot to me now, but I am sure when I am 50 years old I will barely notice the difference and will probably just laugh. The last time I could have taken such a frivolous worldly thing so seriously now (Ha!).”

It is very likely that he will not miss the “few thousand dollars” and be in the position to laugh about the situation since he will most likely be making a “few thousand dollars more” than his sister in the same job. Even if he and his sister do not pursue similar career goals, comparing his salary with women — in the same field clearly reveals discriminatory pay differences.

When comparing the salaries of workers aged 30-44 with five or more years of college, women continue to receive considerably less pay than men. While men have an average salary of $36,216; female lawyers make an average of $26,319 while male lawyers enjoy an average salary of $71,045; female physicians have an average salary of $41,216 and their male counterparts make an average of $71,045; female physicians make an average salary of $41,216 and their male counterparts make an average of $71,045.

Average women to this day continue to work for less pay and do not receive any job promotions or recognition for doing the same work.

Julia’s statement is often used by women’s rights groups to show the disparity in pay. Helen Pask Off-Campus
Interview:
The Georgia Satellites hand The Obser
(but keep their hands to them)

Despite his band's sky-rocketing success, Dan Baird of the Georgia Satellites had a down-to-earth talk with The Observer.

KEVIN WALSH
features writer

The Georgia Satellites is an Atlanta-based band playing decidedly non-Top 40 garage-choo-choo rock 'n' roll. Their self-titled debut album on Elektra has, along with the album's smash rebel yell single "Keep Your Hands To Yourself," been in the Top Ten for quite a while now. The unique raw guitar of Rick Richards coupled with angst-laden vocal deliveries Dan Baird's assertive vocals give the group an interesting sound in the vein of Lynyrd Skynyrd, The Rolling Stones, and George Thorogood.

Thursday afternoon, the Observer inter­viewed Baird and dis­cussed a band that is serious about its music but little else. The Georgia Satellites will open for REO Speedwagon Saturday night at the ACC.

Observer: Why did you name the band the Georgia Satellites?

Dan Baird: Okay, this will come about through the fact that our tshumi...original rhythm section—David Michaelson on drums and Keith Christopher on bass. Now David thought it would be great, because he's got a sick sense of humor, to name the band Keith and the Satellites. It just had a sound to it that he liked. And we all went, "Okay, we'll use that one for a while." You know figure, bands don't last. Keith quit about nine months later, and, um, we had to drop the Keith from the name, obviously and the "and" as well. So we were just left over with the Satellites and we kept that for a long time.

Anyway, the band took a little hiatus and our road manager went to England and he said, "Well, there's a band over here called The Georgia Satellites—and I know what I'll do, I'll call them The Georgia Satellites." And that's the name.

Observer: What worked out neat, DB: Well, that's the way it is. It's funny. It means like...you either like it or not, there it is. As they say in Amadeus, "Well, there you have it.

Observer: What do you see as the reason for your popularity? You had a Top Ten album, a Top Ten single, even a Top Ten MTV video and what do you see as the main reason behind that?

DB: Uh...chance. Circum­stance, chance, the lack of a rock 'n' roll record at the time we put ours out. There's a lot of pop records out; there weren't any rock 'n' roll records at the time that we came out, and just every now and then it just sounds good.

Observer: Do you think the record company had anything to do with it?

DB: Oh yeah. They really put a good push behind it and all that stuff, you know, when you see those people up at the Grammy's thanking their record companies, that's why. Cause it's like without those guys you can't do anything.

Observer: How has the tour with REO Speedwagon been so far?

DB: It's been alright. You know we just get out there and do our show and then...boom. It's must be pretty tough to go out there and you're not in a club. You're in a theatre, you're not in a club. It's a weird thing, but you do have to pay attention to where you are.

Observer: Otherwise you're only gonna get like the first few people around you, and you're gonna fall flat quickly.

DB: Do you ever feel as if you're caught between superstar-dom and cult status?

DB: Well, it's real weird. I mean it's like either one just kind of...you know, just completely out of reach six months ago. I don't know. I think rock 'n' rollers are gonna look like us and stuff like that and they're gonna see all of that stuff. It's just getting out there and, you know, in New York and Los Angeles, there's a buzz on you. You know, and it's like you're a known quantity and things like that, but out in the Midwest you have to kind of go and kick the door in, one city at a time. The best way about doing that is going out and playing with a band that draws a lot of people. Hopefully they're a rock 'n' roll act or they have some­thing like that and you can go out, do your show, and get 25 or 50 percent of the people that are out there to like you. Maybe most of them have a thing called "Keep Your Hands" or something like that and you know they like it and they know and they warm them up the whole idea of like "This is a band. They have a record. You might like this record. Go buy this record.

Observer: What bands influenced you as far as the record goes?

DB: Oh, there's so many. You wanna get into all that.

Observer: Of the Georgia Satellites could be one band, that they are not, what would they be?

DB: Oh, The Faces. Yeah, Rod Stewart and the Faces would probably be the band that would be, you know it's like the Stones. I don't know. It's like you've got bands like the Stones and the Faces and Lynyrd Skynyrd and then you can go back to Johnny Burnette and it's like you start looking at him as the leader and then you can go forward to the replacements, even though they're winners, they're different units, we have something in common, I think. I hope. I see someone call me the New Fun Band and I think, you know, it's kind of wordy. I don't know why I made the statement that I really admire. You know and it's like that which X, Item X, you know it's like here we're gonna take a chance on, you know get like 'tis weird, or have some fun or laughin', you know, whatever. It's not like we're gonna do we're gonna do it, but because of everything we feel and believe...SLAM! BLAH BLAH BLAH!

Observer: Who are you also following today? But the whole idea...

DB: Um, a band called the Brian Haney, out of Los Angeles, Jason and the Scor­chers, Dwight Yoakam, and uh, all the right bands, you know.

Observer: What do you think of the whole image you have as the new rock bands?

DB: Yeah, the new party rock band.

Observer: You're a party rock band?

DB: I'll call them party rock band.

Observer: Okay, what's the party rock band? Ahh, that's okay. I mean it's like in that's why you wanna hit it with us. If you wanna dig a little bit deeper there. I like to think there's more there. You know, it all depends on what people are willing to pull out of it. It's much like, you know, without being pretentious, you wanna say, 'Oh, I studied a book.' You can read it for the story or you can get into a little bit deeper or you can try to see how it applies to your life. BLAH BLAH BLAH. It's, like, the band's d--- right, obviously you can't do right all the time, but when the band is d--- right, which is a pretty good amount of the time, it's like everybody's there, everyone's looking like playing the same chords and doing the same robot sounds. You know playing the same way, everybody's just trying to make it look immediate as possible.

O: What's next for the Georgie Special?
DB: That'd be next year. March 1st of next year is the penciled date. I want to get all the mileage out of this record that we can. A lotta bands put out some really great songs on their record. It doesn't click immediately. They have to get back into the studio and cut a second record or a third record and finally that material starts getting pushed and it's like some of their best songs on the first record were the least. It's like, no way, baby. I don't want to be like 'We get one hit off this one, let's go.' So since I want 'em to put a little push on "PICK ME!", I think to see what happens here.

W: Well, I wish you luck, I think you'll make it.
DB: Well, we have kind of made it, I think, as far as selling "A Bunch O' Records." But as far as making something, that's gonna last, that's just much more important. Time will tell. I'm hoping to be in that kind of category, but you know that's pretty pretentious to put yourself in.

Q: What's the line between pretentiousness and ambition?
DB: Well, I don't know. It's like the Emperor's New Clothes. You know, it's 'Aren't I just looking marvelous?' It's one of those things that you can't tell until the time comes around, how many people does this really emotionally affect? Does it stand up? Is it more popular 25 years from now than it was when it came out? Say like the Velvet Underground. Here's a band that as years go by they just keep getting more popular. What can you even bands like even as weird as like The Doors had that huge resurgence at the end of the '70s. Music that lasts. It is more important than selling. "A Lot O' Stuff." It's not. It's, I mean, what's that's nice. But is it not personally important. I'm too young to remember how many records we sold when I'm 30. I'll be saying 'God, that's embarrassing' or "God I'm glad I did that." Boom.

---

The Observer/Jennifer O'Donald

Steve Daner, Martin Shubert, Nick Rossel, and Mike Knotz display their 'dirty and base' humor in the Cavanaugh Hall Production of 'A Gap In Generations.'

"A Gap in Generations," Cavanaugh puts on a 'dirty' play

DOUG ANDERSON features writer

Cavanaugh Hall’s production of "A Gap In Generations" is currently playing at Washington Hall. Last night’s performance played to about 70 people—an audience which was akin to a junior varsity football game, with only friends and relatives in attendance. The show, which benefits the Andy Sowder Memorial Scholarship Fund, continues through Saturday, with performances at 7:30 nightly.

The play is an adaption of the 16th century Commedia dell’arte style. Featured is a group of travelling players which moves into a town and transforms itself into a number of characters who act out a story. They call themselves the Affamati Company and tell the story of two families: the House of Di Besignosi and the House of Di Scarelli. Both families feature aging fathers who wish to pass on a legacy. The show, which moves into a town and transforms itself into a number of characters who act out a story. They call themselves the Affamati Company and tell the story of two families: the House of Di Besignosi and the House of Di Scarelli. Both families feature aging fathers who wish to pass on a legacy.

W: "You're right now. It's just like he's just off and somethingYourself," and just whip something up.

DB: You wanna say, 'Oh, I studied a book.' You can read it for the story or you can get into a little bit deeper or you can try to see how it applies to your life. BLAH BLAH BLAH. It's, like, the band's d--- right, obviously you can't do right all the time, but when the band is d--- right, which is a pretty good amount of the time, it's like everybody's there, everyone's looking like playing the same chords and doing the same robot sounds. You know playing the same way, everybody's just trying to make it look immediate as possible.

Q: What's the line between pretentiousness and ambition?
DB: Well, I don't know. It's like the Emperor's New Clothes. You know, it's 'Aren't I just looking marvelous?' It's one of those things that you can't tell until the time comes around, how many people does this really emotionally affect? Does it stand up? Is it more popular 25 years from now than it was when it came out? Say like the Velvet Underground. Here's a band that as years go by they just keep getting more popular. What can you even bands like even as weird as like The Doors had that huge resurgence at the end of the '70s. Music that lasts. It is more important than selling. "A Lot O' Stuff." It's not. It's, I mean, what's that's nice. But is it not personally important. I'm too young to remember how many records we sold when I'm 30. I'll be saying 'God, that's embarrassing' or "God I'm glad I did that." Boom.

---

The Observer/Jennifer O'Donald

Steve Daner, Martin Shubert, Nick Rossel, and Mike Knotz display their 'dirty and base' humor in the Cavanaugh Hall Production of 'A Gap In Generations.'

"A Gap in Generations," Cavanaugh puts on a 'dirty' play

DOUG ANDERSON features writer

Cavanaugh Hall’s production of "A Gap In Generations" is currently playing at Washington Hall. Last night’s performance played to about 70 people—an audience which was akin to a junior varsity football game, with only friends and relatives in attendance. The show, which benefits the Andy Sowder Memorial Scholarship Fund, continues through Saturday, with performances at 7:30 nightly.

The play is an adaption of the 16th century Commedia dell’arte style. Featured is a group of travelling players which moves into a town and transforms itself into a number of characters who act out a story. They call themselves the Affamati Company and tell the story of two families: the House of Di Besignosi and the House of Di Scarelli. Both families feature aging fathers who wish to pass on a legacy. The show, which moves into a town and transforms itself into a number of characters who act out a story. They call themselves the Affamati Company and tell the story of two families: the House of Di Besignosi and the House of Di Scarelli. Both families feature aging fathers who wish to pass on a legacy.

W: "You're right now. It's just like he's just off and somethingYourself," and just whip something up.

DB: You wanna say, 'Oh, I studied a book.' You can read it for the story or you can get into a little bit deeper or you can try to see how it applies to your life. BLAH BLAH BLAH. It's, like, the band's d--- right, obviously you can't do right all the time, but when the band is d--- right, which is a pretty good amount of the time, it's like everybody's there, everyone's looking like playing the same chords and doing the same robot sounds. You know playing the same way, everybody's just trying to make it look immediate as possible.

Q: What's the line between pretentiousness and ambition?
DB: Well, I don't know. It's like the Emperor's New Clothes. You know, it's 'Aren't I just looking marvelous?' It's one of those things that you can't tell until the time comes around, how many people does this really emotionally affect? Does it stand up? Is it more popular 25 years from now than it was when it came out? Say like the Velvet Underground. Here's a band that as years go by they just keep getting more popular. What can you even bands like even as weird as like The Doors had that huge resurgence at the end of the '70s. Music that lasts. It is more important than selling. "A Lot O' Stuff." It's not. It's, I mean, what's that's nice. But is it not personally important. I'm too young to remember how many records we sold when I'm 30. I'll be saying 'God, that's embarrassing' or "God I'm glad I did that." Boom.

---

The Observer/Jennifer O'Donald

Steve Daner, Martin Shubert, Nick Rossel, and Mike Knotz display their 'dirty and base' humor in the Cavanaugh Hall Production of 'A Gap In Generations.'

"A Gap in Generations," Cavanaugh puts on a 'dirty' play

DOUG ANDERSON features writer

Cavanaugh Hall’s production of "A Gap In Generations" is currently playing at Washington Hall. Last night’s performance played to about 70 people—an audience which was akin to a junior varsity football game, with only friends and relatives in attendance. The show, which benefits the Andy Sowder Memorial Scholarship Fund, continues through Saturday, with performances at 7:30 nightly.

The play is an adaption of the 16th century Commedia dell’arte style. Featured is a group of travelling players which moves into a town and transforms itself into a number of characters who act out a story. They call themselves the Affamati Company and tell the story of two families: the House of Di Besignosi and the House of Di Scarelli. Both families feature aging fathers who wish to pass on a legacy. The show, which moves into a town and transforms itself into a number of characters who act out a story. They call themselves the Affamati Company and tell the story of two families: the House of Di Besignosi and the House of Di Scarelli. Both families feature aging fathers who wish to pass on a legacy.

W: "You're right now. It's just like he's just off and somethingYourself," and just whip something up.

DB: You wanna say, 'Oh, I studied a book.' You can read it for the story or you can get into a little bit deeper or you can try to see how it applies to your life. BLAH BLAH BLAH. It's, like, the band's d--- right, obviously you can't do right all the time, but when the band is d--- right, which is a pretty good amount of the time, it's like everybody's there, everyone's looking like playing the same chords and doing the same robot sounds. You know playing the same way, everybody's just trying to make it look immediate as possible.

Q: What's the line between pretentiousness and ambition?
DB: Well, I don't know. It's like the Emperor's New Clothes. You know, it's 'Aren't I just looking marvelous?' It's one of those things that you can't tell until the time comes around, how many people does this really emotionally affect? Does it stand up? Is it more popular 25 years from now than it was when it came out? Say like the Velvet Underground. Here's a band that as years go by they just keep getting more popular. What can you even bands like even as weird as like The Doors had that huge resurgence at the end of the '70s. Music that lasts. It is more important than selling. "A Lot O' Stuff." It's not. It's, I mean, what's that's nice. But is it not personally important. I'm too young to remember how many records we sold when I'm 30. I'll be saying 'God, that's embarrassing' or "God I'm glad I did that." Boom.
Sports Briefs

In the NHL last night, Boston shut down Edmonton 4-1, Calgary beat Winnipeg 3-1 and Philadelphia edged Quebec in overtime 3-2. Vancouver stayed alive in the race for the final playoff spot as the Smythe Division and allowed the N.Y. Islanders' drive to the playoffs, 5-2, but Los Angeles beat Buffalo 5-3 to stay eight points ahead of the Canucks. -Associated Press

In the NBA last night, New Jersey surprised Chicago 109-107, Indiana edged Boston 106-103 and Houston handled Portland 119-104. In a battle of division leaders, Atlanta beat Dallas 120-112, Denver downed Seattle 123-113, San Antonio beat Phoenix 124-115 and the L.A. Lakers downed Detroit 128-111. The L.A. Clippers had the night off. -Associated Press

The An Tostal ultimate frisbee tournament will have an organizational meeting Tuesday, March 31 at 7:30 p.m. at 125 Newfoundland for those interested in forming teams. For more information contact Pat Dunne 283-1562. -The Observer

The Observer

Sports Briefs are accepted Sunday through Friday. Write The Observer offices on the third floor of LaFontaine Student Center on the day prior to publication. -The Observer

The Observer Noone Drive office, located on the third floor of LaFontaine Student Center, will accept the final copy of the newspaper by 5 p.m. Monday and Friday. The Observer's Manager of News, Tom Kita, will be at the office from noon to 5 p.m. on Monday and Friday. Deadline for next-day classifieds is 3:30 P.M. All classifieds must be prepaid, either in person or by mail. The charge is 10 cents per five characters per day.

Friday, March 27, 1987 - page 12

Joan Kroc sells Padres

Associated Press

SAN DIEGO - San Diego Padres owner Joan Kroc has agreed to sell the team to Seattle owner George Argyros, who put the Mariners on the Mariners this week, for $140 million. Argyros said his purchase of the Padres will satisfy his desire to stay in the baseball while allowing him to keep a closer eye on his real estate interests in Southern California and spend more time with his family in Newport Beach.

Word that Argyros was buying the team rekindled speculation that the Padres would be bought by a group of former agent outfielder Tim Raines, but Argyros downplayed the suggestion.
Gelfman is looking for the Irish tomorrow at 11:00 a.m. Sunday. Spring as it hosts Indiana State courts for the first time this key weekend women's tennis action.

By SHEILA HOROX
Sports Writer

The Notre Dame women's tennis team plays on its home courts for the first time this spring as it hosts Indiana State tomorrow at 1:00 p.m. and Michigan at 11:00 a.m. Sunday. Head Coach Michele Gelfman is looking for the Irish to play a more aggressive style of tennis, though she notes that does not entail trying to out-gun their opponents.

"We need to play an intelligent rather than power game," said Gelfman. "We need to use a variety of shots, be a little more patient and play percentage tennis." The Irish have not faced Indiana State under Gelfman's tutelage, and last year's 5-4 loss to Michigan was decided on a third-set tiebreaker. Lohrer said "Our game,"...
Radio stations direct raps at NCAA rules

Associated Press

INDIANAPOLIS—Some local radio stations are having fun playing songs that poke fun at the NCAA's rule barring mention of players' names in any public context apart from news or sports.

Among the latest is a ditty being played on WZPL-FM called the "NCAA Rap," written and recorded by the station's morning traffic reporter, Steve Stiles.

It spoofs the NCAA rule by rapping the names of the basketball players of the University of Nevada-Las Vegas, the opponent of Indiana University Saturday at the Final Four in New Orleans.

The lyrics are:

Here's a little song for the N-C-double-A;
'Cause they're trying to tell us what we can and can't say
Put a player in a song and then they can't play.
What is this, Russia or the U-S of A?

So here's the starting lineup of U-N-L-V:
We're gonna sing it to you now and then we'll just see.
Gary, Graham's a good player, but his name's in this song;
Freddie Bank's, a hot guard, but, oops, not for long.
Gerald Paddio has a strange last name.
Now he's in this song and can't play in the game.
Finally, then, Armon Gilliam and the fast Mark Wade,
If we hadn't sung 'em then they could have played.

So, hey, N-C-Double-A, you think you've got guts,
Take U-N-L-V on, and then we'll know you're nuts.
Better do it 'em now and stop this flush.
'Cause the Indiana Hoosiers are going to kick their butts.

Also Thursday, radio station WENS-FM, which pulled its

"Bobby Knight Bop" from the air earlier this week at the request of the university, came up with a new tune, "In the Superdome," which features new lyrics to the tune "In the Ghetto."

Written and sung by morning show co-host Mark Patrick, the song's lyrics include:

In the March skies, before a red Final Four chair can be flung, the "Bobby Knight Bop" is already sung on the radio, N-C-A-A cries, 'cause if there's one thing that they don't need, it's another IU song for the fans to sing in the Superdome.

Red and White's counting on a three-point shot, we'll call him by name but they don't understand, N-C-A-A.

They're just little worms. So it's Coach Tarkanian against Coach Knight, big ears and a towel, against a red sweater tight in the Superdome.

Center Roy Seikaly has been the driving force behind Syracuse's path to the Final Four.
Top-ranked Nevada Las-Vegas, the Hoosiers' opponent in Saturday's NCAA semifinal, traded the neon lights of their home city Wednesday for the treats of Bourbon Street with the blessing of Coach Jerry Tarkanian.

And studies are no match for Cajun cooking and jazz in the French Quarter for Indiana. However, isn't making the trip until Friday. "We're going to let the kids enjoy themselves tonight," Tarkanian said at a Wednesday news conference. "Starting tomorrow we will definitely keep our team under close scrutiny.

"We will have them available for the press, because I think that's a learning experience for them." Knight, speaking from the Indiana University campus in Bloomington via a teleconference that included the Final Four coaches, said his policy throughout his coaching career has been to arrive at a tournament site the day before the game. "It has been my policy for 22 or 23 years," he said. "Our kids are still in class. They go to class today and tomorrow. They'll miss a little class on Friday. We'll get there on time to work out on Friday. That's just the way we've always done it."

Forecasters have made the top-ranked Running Rebels a slight favorite over Indiana and say UNLV will capture the championship Monday. "I don't think we should be favored," Tarkanian said. "I just have great respect for Indiana. I thought all year long they were an outstanding team. I find it hard to believe that we're the favorite, I just hope all the people who say that know something."

Knight, going for his third NCAA championship and needing a victory to become the winningest coach in Big Ten history, isn't worried about the underdog role. "We've been there as an underdog before," said Knight, who had to get past favored UCLA in the 1979 NCAA semifinal before defeating Michigan in the championship game. He also upset North Carolina in the 1981 title game.

"I'm not really concerned with being favored or being underdog," he added. "I think there has to be a lot of talk relative to who do you think will win the first game. That's what makes it interesting for so many people."

Syracuse Coach Jim Boeheim had a simple way to figure who would win. "I think you have to be good. I think you have to play well," he said. "Maybe, you have to be a little lucky."
New Pizza Twin Packs from Pizza Hut® Delivery!

Now you can enjoy your favorite pizza twice as much. Get two 14" Family Size Pizza Hut® Pizzas in our new Twin Packs, delivered hot and fast to your door for just $10.99. A SAVINGS OF OVER $6.00!

And what's more, you know Pizza Hut® quality goes into every pizza we deliver. Pizza Hut® Delivery is going all out to bring our best —

Our Pizza Twin Pack Offer!

Two 14" Family Size Pizza Hut® Pizzas For Just $10.99! SAVE OVER $6.00

Now save on toppings, too. Additional toppings at $1.29 per topping covers BOTH pizzas. For two 14" Family Size Pizzas you pay only: (With Coupon Below)

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Toppings</th>
<th>Price</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Cheese</td>
<td>$10.99</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>1 Topping</td>
<td>12.28</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>2 Toppings</td>
<td>13.57</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>3 Toppings</td>
<td>14.86</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Supreme (6 Toppings)</td>
<td>14.86</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Super Supreme (9 Toppings)</td>
<td>16.15</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

For Fast Delivery Call: 232-2499

Limited Delivery Area

Two 14" Family Size Pizzas!

$10.99

SAVE OVER $6.00

Valid only at participating Pizza Hut® Delivery units in South Bend, Mishawaka and Osceola. Not valid for dine-in or carryout. One coupon per party per delivery. Not valid in combination with any other Pizza Hut® offer. Offer: $15. charge on all returned checks.

Call: 232-2499

Two 16" Party Size Pizzas!

$13.99

SAVE OVER $8.00

Valid only at participating Pizza Hut® Delivery units in South Bend, Mishawaka and Osceola. Not valid for dine-in or carryout. One coupon per party per delivery. Not valid in combination with any other Pizza Hut® offer. Offer: $15. charge on all returned checks.

Call: 232-2499

* 1987 Pizza Hut, Inc. One coupon per party per delivery. Limit one coupon per delivery. Not valid in combination with any other Pizza Hut® offer. Offer: $15. charge on all returned checks. Offer good only on regular menu prices through 4/16/87.
Hamilton leads So. Miss. to title in 84-80 win over LaSalle in final

Associated Press

NEW YORK - Derek Hamilton scored 10 of his 17 points during a 16-4 streak that lifted Southern Mississippi to the state's first Division I postseason basketball championship, an 84-80 decision over La Salle on Thursday night in the 56th National Invitation Tournament final.

In the third-place game, Nebraska dowied Arkansas-Little Rock 76-67 in overtime.

Hamilton had two 3-point goals during the spurt that gave the Golden Eagles, 23-11, a 59-48 lead with 10:13 left. Hamilton had three 3-pointers for the game and Casey Fisher had 18 points on six long-range shots for Southern Miss, which had 11 3-pointers.

La Salle, 20-13, had three comebacks that fell short in the closing minutes, led by freshman star Lionel Simmons, who had 34 points. But ultimately the Explorers had 42 points and 18 rebounds in the semifinal and final, was named most valuable player of the tournament. Hamilton, Tarr, Simmons, Derrick Vick of Nebraska and James Dawn of Arkansas-Little Rock made the all-tournament team.

Southern Mississippi led 39-34 at halftime, but it could have been much worse for the Explorers, who missed 15 of their first 18 shots. Still, La Salle trailed only 11-6 at that point despite going more than five minutes without scoring.

The Explorers, who trailed by as many as 11 points in the first half, came back after halftime to go ahead 44-43 with 17:06 remaining. Keys started the 16-4 spurt with a basket before Hamilton scored the Golden Eagles' next eight points to make it 55-46 with 11:22 to go.

Spring continued from page 20

are back, the same squad that has calculated wind velocities with its slide rules and then sank halfcourt shots two years running.

And don't worry, Lou, you're on a team. In fact, your team includes Jim Dolan, last year's tournament MVP. And Coach, you play the Esophagus Constrictors Tuesday at 4 a.m.

Last year's champions, Lee's Big Roundhouse, is back minus Dolan, according to Wenc. And Tom Rehder will sub for Dolan and each other. Steve Beuerlein and Mike Kovalinski return to Lee's. Their opponents in last year's final, Leone's Stallions, is back intact.

Other squads which appear to be early favorites are The Brothers of Manhood featuring Tim Brown, Joel Williams and Donald Royal. Former Mr. Bookstore Lou Nanni will replace his brother Chris, now a varsity walk-on, on Tequila White Lightning. Former Irish basketball player Jeff Peters and future Irish football player Tony Rice have hooked up on a team called Carte Blanche. Former Irish basketball player and current graduate assistant coach Tom Shubin is back with Top Gun, while Scott Hicks is on 4 Slammers Jamma.

And yes, University President-elect Monk Malloy will play Bookstore again on a team called, what else, All The President's Men.

Is it Tuesday yet?

One quick word on this weekend's NCAA Final Four. It would be interesting to see UNLV take on Providence for the championship. The Runnin' Rebels and the Friars were the two leading three-point shooting teams in the NCAA this year. If those two met Monday night, there would be 19 feet, nine inches (or 21 feet, depending on what you're measuring) of wasted space at either end of the court.

Applications are now being accepted for the following positions at Theodore's until Friday, April 3rd:

- General Manager
- Programming Director
- Promotions Director
- Reservations Manager
- Catering Manager

Applications are available at the Office of Student Activities 301 LaFortune Student Center

LOYOLA SUMMER SESSIONS

Day or evening classes • Wide array of courses in Business, Arts and Sciences, Education, Nursing • All summer courses applicable to regular Loyola University degrees • Classes at the Lake Shore, Water Tower, and Medical Center Campuses. Special this summer: Art and Archaeology in Mexico.

FIRST SESSION
(6 weeks beginning May 16)
Registration by mail or in person: MAY 11, 9:00 - 12:00
1:00 - 6:00
SECOND SESSION
(6 weeks beginning June 29)
Registration by mail or in person: JUNE 16, 10:00 - 1:00
Figure. 10:00 - 6:00
All in-person registrations in the Georgetown Room of the Marquette Center, 820 North Rush Street, Chicago
Telephone 312/370-3011 or complete the coupon below to receive a copy of the 1987 Bulletin of The Summer Sessions. The Bulletin includes complete course listings as well as information on how to register by mail or in person.

LOYOLA. REAL VALUES FOR YOUR MONEY.
The Irish lacrosse team travels to Geneva, N.Y. to face Colgate tomorrow. Steve Megargee

By MOLLY MAHONEY
Sports Writer

Friday, March 27, 1987 - page 18

Track hosts ND Invitational after sending eight to Tuscon

A Short Presentation followed by a Question and Answer Session

ENGINEERING JUNIORS

DON'T JUST STAND AROUND... PLAN AHEAD

ENGINEERING

GRADUATE SCHOOL

STARRING

DR. MARLEY

DR. MUELLER

(Sponsored by Office of Engineering Research and Graduate Studies College of Engineering University of Notre Dame)

TUES. MARCH 31

7:00 P.M.

Room 224, Cushing

The Observer / Robert Jones

Bomb continued from page 20

Monroe, and has made 93 of 230.

UNLV, with Freddie Banks and Gerald Paddock leading the way, has thrown up 746 bombs, making 40 percent. Banks made 142 and Paddock 85.

The Runnin' Rebels, coached by Jerry Tarkanian, are on the outside of their first NCAA crown. The Irish lacrosse team travels to Geneva, N.Y. to preview the action beginning on page 20.

The Irish will take to Monogram track this Saturday at 1:00 to open the outdoor season.

by Bobby Knight

'We want to win the whole thing. All you can do is win every game.'

'We can't win but we can't lose,' said Head Coach Joe Plane. 'We have no limit the number of people we can enter in an event and it gives the team the chance to see what they can do in events they might not normally participate in.'

The sprinters will carry the largest burden for the Irish this meet. And strong performances from Nobles in the 800-meter run, Searcy in the 400-meter dash, and freshman Glen Watson, who will lead the contingent of Irish hurdlers, will also be keys to a successful meet.

'We have a decent team,' said Plane, 'and this meet will be our first chance to prove it.'

MAPLE LANE APARTMENTS

Private suburban settings just 10 minutes from campus.

You don't have to be Irish to enjoy life at Maple Lane Apartments. Our beautiful setting is reminiscent of the Emerald Isle. Maple Lane provides professors, employees, graduate students, and administrators a retreat from campus.

In addition we offer you a special discount.

New apartments being built through Spring '87

Pool, Clubhouse, Community Activities

Washer & Dryer in each apartment

Intercom entrances

Reasonably priced gas/heat

Eaithone Interiors

Country Kitchens

call for details about your discount 277-3731

models and clubhouse open daily
Today

Bloom County

Beer Nuts

Campus

FRIDAY
12:15: 1:15 p.m.: Friday Forum: "Authority and Democracy" by College of Arts & Letters Assistant Dean Alvin Neiman, soup and bread for $1 or bring brown bag. Center for Social Concerns, Multipurpose Room
7, 9, 11: 11:30 p.m.: Movie: "American Graffiti," $1.50, Engineering Auditorium
7:30 & 9:30 p.m.: Friday Night Film Series: "Purple Rose of Cairo," directed by Woody Allen, Annenberg Auditorium
SATURDAY
8 a.m. - 3 p.m.: Indiana Tailored Testing Program, Engineering Auditorium
8 a.m. - 3 p.m.: Western resort
9 a.m. - 12 p.m.: Northern Indiana Regional Science and Engineering Fair, judged by Notre Dame AFROTC Cadets. Sponsored by South Bend community School Corporation, Stepan Center
1 p.m.: Lecture: "Abortion and Compassion," by Prof. Donald DeMarco, St. Jerome’s College, Ontario. Sponsors: NDSCMC Right to Life Group, Intercollegiate Studies Institute, Ius Vitae, and the Federalist Society, Haggar College Center
1 p.m.: Tennis, NDW vs. Indiana State, Courtney Courts
1 - 4:30 p.m.: ND Track Invitational, Carter Field
7 & 9 p.m.: SMC Opening Reception for Senior Comprehensives II. All Galleries
8 p.m.: ROE Speedwagon Concert, All seats $15.50, ACC

Dinner Menus

Notre Dame

Egg Rolls
Cheese Ravioli
Baked Cod with Lobster Sauce
Grilled Tuna Melt on Rye

Saint Mary's

Apple Pancakes
Cod Parisienne
Shrimp Jambalaya
Deli Bar

The Daily Crossword

ACROSS
1 Minute quantity
41 Door part
7 Sacred statue
14 7 Sacred statue
18 Rented
27 Boat part
32 Hasty
41 Vice for Mides
51 5 More of quote
62 Title
70 Time
72 Makes tea
77 Mound
78 More of quote
79 Skin condition
91 Door part
92 Table
93 Tilt
94 Compensate
97 Slight color
98 Deep gorge
99 Mound
100 Instrument
101 Mound
102 Time
103 Table
104 Tilt
105 Mound
106 Table
107 Tilt
110 Table
111 Tilt
112 Table
113 Tilt
114 Table
115 Tilt
116 Table
117 Tilt
118 Table
119 Tilt
120 Table
121 Tilt
122 Table
123 Tilt
124 Table
125 Tilt
126 Table
127 Tilt
128 Table
129 Tilt
130 Table
131 Tilt
132 Table
133 Tilt
134 Table
135 Tilt
136 Table
137 Tilt
138 Table
139 Tilt
140 Table
141 Tilt
142 Table
143 Tilt
144 Table
145 Tilt
146 Table
147 Tilt
148 Table
149 Tilt
150 Table
151 Tilt
152 Table
153 Tilt
154 Table
155 Tilt
156 Table
157 Tilt
158 Table
159 Tilt
160 Table
161 Tilt
162 Table
163 Tilt
164 Table
165 Tilt
166 Table
167 Tilt
168 Table
169 Tilt
170 Table
171 Tilt
172 Table
173 Tilt
174 Table
175 Tilt
176 Table
177 Tilt
178 Table
179 Tilt
180 Table
181 Tilt
182 Table
183 Tilt
184 Table
185 Tilt
186 Table
187 Tilt
188 Table
189 Tilt
190 Table
191 Tilt
192 Table
193 Tilt
194 Table
195 Tilt
196 Table
197 Tilt
198 Table
199 Tilt
200 Table
201 Tilt
202 Table
203 Tilt
204 Table
205 Tilt
206 Table
207 Tilt
208 Table
209 Tilt
210 Table
211 Tilt
212 Table
213 Tilt
214 Table
215 Tilt
216 Table
217 Tilt
218 Table
219 Tilt
220 Table
221 Tilt
222 Table
223 Tilt
224 Table
225 Tilt
226 Table
227 Tilt
228 Table
229 Tilt
230 Table
231 Tilt
232 Table
233 Tilt
234 Table
235 Tilt
236 Table
237 Tilt
238 Table
239 Tilt
240 Table
241 Tilt
242 Table
243 Tilt
244 Table
245 Tilt
246 Table
247 Tilt
248 Table
249 Tilt
250 Table
251 Tilt
252 Table
253 Tilt
254 Table
255 Tilt
256 Table
257 Tilt
258 Table
259 Tilt
260 Table
261 Tilt
262 Table
263 Tilt
264 Table
265 Tilt
266 Table
267 Tilt
268 Table
269 Tilt
270 Table
271 Tilt
272 Table
273 Tilt
274 Table
275 Tilt
276 Table
277 Tilt
278 Table
279 Tilt
280 Table
281 Tilt
282 Table
283 Tilt
284 Table
285 Tilt
286 Table
287 Tilt
288 Table
289 Tilt
290 Table
291 Tilt
292 Table
293 Tilt
294 Table
295 Tilt
296 Table
297 Tilt
298 Table
299 Tilt
300 Table
301 Tilt
302 Table
303 Tilt
304 Table
305 Tilt
306 Table
307 Tilt
308 Table
309 Tilt
310 Table
311 Tilt
312 Table
313 Tilt
314 Table
315 Tilt
316 Table
317 Tilt
318 Table
319 Tilt
320 Table
321 Tilt
322 Table
323 Tilt
324 Table
325 Tilt
326 Table
327 Tilt
328 Table
329 Tilt
330 Table
331 Tilt
332 Table
333 Tilt
334 Table
335 Tilt
336 Table
337 Tilt
338 Table
339 Tilt
340 Table
341 Tilt
342 Table
343 Tilt
344 Table
345 Tilt
346 Table
347 Tilt
348 Table
349 Tilt
350 Table
351 Tilt
352 Table
353 Tilt
354 Table
355 Tilt
356 Table
357 Tilt
358 Table
359 Tilt
360 Table
361 Tilt
362 Table
363 Tilt
364 Table
365 Tilt
366 Table
367 Tilt
368 Table
369 Tilt
370 Table
371 Tilt
372 Table
373 Tilt
374 Table
375 Tilt
376 Table
377 Tilt
378 Table
379 Tilt
380 Table
381 Tilt
382 Table
383 Tilt
384 Table
385 Tilt
386 Table
387 Tilt
388 Table
389 Tilt
390 Table
391 Tilt
392 Table
393 Tilt
394 Table
395 Tilt
396 Table
397 Tilt
398 Table
399 Tilt
400 Table
3/27/87

Yesterday’s Puzzle Solved:

The Observer

Notre Dame and Saint Mary's newspaper

Be a part of it.

SAB presents:

American Graffiti
7, 9:15, 11:30
$1.50

TONITE and Tomorrow

EG Auditorium
Absolutely no alcohol allowed

Focus On America's Future

EG Auditorium
Absolutely no alcohol allowed
Sports

Rivers undergoes surgery to correct complications from auto injury

By DENNIS CORRIGAN
Sports Editor

Irish basketball guard David Rivers underwent surgery Thursday for complications stemming from the auto accident he was involved in last summer, according to Athletic Department spokesman John Heisler.

Surgeons at St. Joseph Medical Center had determined that tissue that had been twisting Rivers’ bowel. Rivers had been admitted to the Notre Dame infirmary Tuesday complaining of flu-like symptoms. Wednesday, he was admitted to the Medical Center for x-rays and diagnostic tests that determined the true nature of the symptoms.

“Rivers wasn’t an emergency situation,” Heisler said. “He’s been unannounced, and he’s resting comfortably.”

Rivers will be in the hospital for five days following the hour-long procedure.

Balanced scoring sought as Irish lacrosse faces Colgate

By STEVE MEGARGEE
Sports Writer

Sporting a 1-2 record after a season opening trip to the East Coast last weekend, the Notre Dame lacrosse team will try to get into the win column with a win over Colgate tomorrow at the Garden in New York.

The Notre Dame-Colgate matchup at 11 a.m. will be the first game of a doubleheader hosted by Hobart College. Hobart will face future Irish opponent Ohio Wesleyan in the second game.

“Colgate’s an explosive team that can also shut off their opponents with a good zone defense once they get ahead,” said Irish head coach Rich Heisler.

They have balanced scoring from their attack and midfield.

The Red Raiders have used this strategy to win their first two matches of the year, a 14-3 triumph over Radford and a 14-7 victory against Ithaca College.

The Irish are hoping to grab an early lead tomorrow by getting balanced scoring of their own—a plan that worked well in Notre Dame’s first three matches.

“All of our goals were assisted, so we’ve done a good job of finding the open man,” said O’Leary. “That’s what we need to do because we’re not going to have the one star player.”

Even though the top scorers from last year, Tom Grote and Joe Franklin have graduated, the Irish may have found a star player on offense in senior John McLachlan.

In Notre Dame’s first three games, McLachlan has garnered eight goals and nine assists.

McLachlan has seventeen points in three games, and it’s mainly because he’s been the open man or has found the open man,” said O’Leary.

O’Leary is expecting the competition from the Red Raiders, who return seventeen of nineteen lettermen from last year, to be similar to that of Notre Dame’s three opponents last week.

The Irish dumped Radford, 12-3, then fell to Washington and Lee, 13-10, and Virginia, 7-4.

“Colgate’s similar, but maybe a little more aggressive,” said O’Leary. “We have to work hard at coming up with the ground balls and keeping control of the ball.”

The Irish are hoping to have John Burtis, who was injured for the first three contests, back in action tomorrow.

The junior midfielder is currently questionable for the Colgate match.

Basketballs fly as Bookstore tournament opens

Spring is definitely here. No, not because the baseball season is around the corner, a fact that causes sports writers to swoon in ecstasy. Spring is here because of something that happened right here at Notre Dame late Tuesday night.

I was walking toward parking lot D6 around midnight with a friend, and we passed by the Lyons basketball courts. It was raining fairly well and the night was chilly. But the time and weather weren’t about to to disrupt the two games taking place on the Lyons courts.

Dennis Corrigan
Sports Editor

“They must be crazy,” my friend said.

It’s that time again. The time when Notre Dame is transformed into one big court. The true hallmark of spring under the Dome, the Bookstore Basketball Tournament, is celebrating its sweet 16th this year with the biggest field in its history - 652 teams.

The large field has caused a tradition to be broken. When the tourney kicks off Tuesday afternoon with the annual Hall-of-Fame game, 30 other games will be played as well. That’s the first time any other game has been played the same day as the Hall-of-Fame game. Tournament director Steve Wenocur has had schedule two days of preliminary round games to handle the large number of squads.

The Hall-of-Fame game features the return of a crowd favorite from a few years ago. The Epsomagus Constrictors see SPRING, page 17.