Police investigating death of baby left in box in school's janitor closet

Associated Press

FERNAND, Ind. - The mourners included the police chief, county coroner, a funeral home employee, but no known members of the family - if the remains of Baby John Doe were last week.

The circumstances of the baby's death and the sequence of events that followed the discovery of the infant are the focus of an Indiana State Police investigation. A brief graveside service was held Tuesday at the St. Ferdinand Church cemetery - a short distance from where the body was discovered last week inside a plastic shopping bag in a janitorial closet at Madonna Hall, a dormitory at Maran Heights Academy.

The baby weighed 5 pounds, 2 ounces and was 18 inches long. Lt. George Lewallen, commander of the state police post at Jasper, said police are interviewing each of the 180 students at the Roman Catholic boarding school for girls.

At this point in the investigation, it is unknown whether the baby was born alive and would have lived given proper care. An autopsy report is expected to be filed with the coroner in the next two weeks. The autopsy was ordered by Dr. George Nichols, Kentucky's chief medical examiner.

Atlantic Treaty Organization allies want the right to match. In the speeches, Soviet leader Mikhail Gorbachev offered to negotiate a solution while the two sides complete an agreement to eliminate their other medium-range missiles from Europe.

"I think it's some degree of movement, it's somewhat different," said a senior U.S. official, who spoke on condition of anonymity. "But we certainly haven't achieved closure. There is a lot of work to be done."

Shultz is unlikely to give the Soviets a final answer when he sees Foreign Minister Eduard Shevardnadze, beginning today and General Secretary Gorbachev, probably on Tuesday.

"We propose to seriously discuss this, try to work out an agreement," the official said. But he stressed the Soviet edge in the 350 to 600-mile range missiles was a serious issue to the West European allies and they must be consulted on the kind of cuts the United States would demand.

"After all, this is a matter of great importance to our allies," the official said. Of all the nuclear arms control issues under negotiations, an agreement to rid Europe of hundreds of missiles in the 600 to 3,000-mile range is the closest to completion.

It would be the first treaty to put a dent in the superpowers' nuclear weapons buildup in the more than six years Reagan has been president.

In lengthy negotiations, the two sides decided basically to dismantle all but 100 warheads each. But the Reagan administration wants the right to match the 120 shorter-range Soviet rockets.

The West Germans have 71 comparable missiles. The United States has none in Europe, but would like to convert some of the 108 Pershing 2 missiles now in West Germany to a shorter range weapon.

The senior official said if the Soviets recognize a U.S. right to match their total equal the U.S. limit would be set below 130. But, he said, "it was not certain, by any means" that the allies would accept a total ban.

Shultz' talks in Moscow are bound to be clouded by U.S. allegations that the Soviets, with the collusion of some American Marine guards, infiltrated the U.S. Embassy with eavesdropping devices.

Shultz said Saturday he would confront the Soviets about "the severe hostile environment they set up." He said he wanted to know "what went on, and what we've done about it since it happened."

But Shultz has also vowed to pursue agreements with the Soviets on Euromissiles and on troop withdrawal in Afghanistan.
What are we supposed to do?
Administration should tell us

It was another lost weekend.
Yes, I, like many Notre Dame and Saint Mary's students, managed to do nothing socially constructive this weekend. Did some An Tostal work, wrote a paper, went to the movies to see Top Gun. That's about it.

But I have come to the stark realization that there is not that much for a couple on a date to do on this campus.

Yes, there are SYRs and formal. The latest rumor on campus is that the administration has taken a dislike to these forms of social activity. Something about an "unhealthy atmosphere." (As if ethyl alcohol weren't enough.) Whether rumors are true or not, and I must say I find them hard to believe, ball dances are only twice a semester. That's if you can get a date.

What else is there? Parties have been pretty much outlawed. The South Bend bar scene is not much to speak of, and if you're not twenty-one it's not worth the risk anyway.

The library is becoming an increasingly popular spot on weekends. This is social life? Staring at some member of the opposite sex over a biology book or history book? Many students sit around their dorm rooms on weekends. Wow. Miami Vice again. Maybe if you're lucky, there'll be a good movie on network television. Yeah, right.

Speaking of movies, there's the infamous Engineering Auditorium movie scene. But that gets old fast.

I have been accused of picking on our school a bit much in these columns. But there is a point to all this. Really.

The powers that-be seem to think that the consumption of alcohol is not meaningful social interaction. They seem to think that the gathering of many students in a dorm room is not meaningful social interaction. They seem to think that dating is not meaningful social interaction. If that's true, they definitely think that sex or anything close to it is not meaningful social interaction. So what is socially acceptable and meaningful? Books? Movies?

Well, we're college students. At most other schools around the country, and certainly in the media, drinking and parties and dates and yes, even sex are portrayed as the things college students do.

Don't get me wrong. I am not saying that we should do all these things. But that is what our culture tells us is normal. The administrations at Notre Dame and Saint Mary's have chosen to outlaw these activities. If they want to do that, that's their prerogative.

But are we supposed to do it?
I have no clue.
So Father Ted, Father Malloy, Father Tysen, listen up. Goldrick, Cassidy, Lainan, please listen. We don't know what you expect. We know what you don't want us to do, but that doesn't tell us what you do want done. Do you really expect us to sit in the library on Friday nights? Is that normal? Is that healthy?

What is acceptable social activity around here?
It seems that many of the ways that normal college students get together have been taken away here. We realize that we're not supposed to be normal college students. We're supposed to be mature, Catholic, brilliant, workaholics. But we're not. We're not 45, we're 20.

And we're confused.
So administrators, please let us know what you expect. Spell it out. Put it in print. Write a letter to us. Treat us like the socially stunted college students we are.

Please.
Tanker spills deadly cargo of chemicals after derailing

Associated Press

PITTSBURGH - Throughout the city's East End, churches stood silent on Palm Sunday and thick stacks of newspapers sat unsold in the rain while about 16,000 evacuees waited for workers to remove a derailed tanker's deadly chemical cargo.

The tanker was among 34 railroad cars that toppled off the tracks when a Conrail freight train en route to Chicago derailed and plowed into another freight train headed in the opposite direction Saturday afternoon.

No serious injuries had been reported by Sunday, although 16 people were treated at hospitals for breathing problems immediately after the derailment. People living within 2.6 miles of the accident were advised to leave their homes immediately, but were allowed back home Sunday.

Shortly after midnight, however, the chemical began seeping again from the tanker and East End residents were awakened by wailing sirens and police bullhorns.

By daybreak, about 16,000 people had been evacuated, many by city buses to a downtown convention center where the Red Cross and Salvation Army volunteers handed out free coffee and donuts and arranged a Palm Sunday Mass.

"I want to go back home. But I'm scared to go back," said Antoinette Rucci, 43, who spent the night in a chair with her husband and two children.

"I'll never forget this. It was so frightening," said Nancy Weag, 33, as she sipped a cup of coffee.

Phosphorus oxychloride, a liquid used as an additive in gasoline and hydraulic fluid, turns to vapor in the air and can be lethal in heavy concentrations, said Glenn Cannon, the city's public safety director. It also reacts violently with water.

The other railroad tankers were hauling a variety of chemicals, including toxic toluene diisocyanate, a flammable substance that can irritate the lungs, skin and eyes when touched or inhaled.

Gorbachev talks of change in visit

Associated Press

PRAGUE, Czechoslovakia - Soviet leader Mikhail Gorbachev's visit to Czechoslovakia produced disarmament proposals that could please West Europeans, but the trip may have disappointed Czechs, who had hoped it would spur change here.

Gorbachev used a speech in Prague on Friday to propose new talks on limiting short-range nuclear missiles and a 35-nation meeting to discuss reduction of levels of conventional troops, arms and chemical weapons.

The proposals were pitched at West Europeans fearful that superpower negotiations to rid their continent of medium-range nuclear weapons would leave NATO vulnerable to Soviet superiority in conventional arms and tactical, or short-range, nuclear missiles.

Gorbachev's three-day visit to Czechoslovakia ended Saturday. He is due to meet with Secretary of State George Shultz in Moscow early this week to discuss progress toward an accord on medium-range missiles.

The Soviet leader spoke in Prague of "a real hope" that Moscow and Washington can reach disarmament accords. He did not mention allegations of spying and counterespionage on each other's diplomats that have cast something of a cloud over Shultz's trip to Moscow.
Surrogate poll shows favor for Baby M judge’s decision

Associated Press

NEW YORK - Almost three out of four Americans support a judge’s decision in the Baby M case to turn the child of a surrogate mother over to her father, according to a poll published Sunday.

The New York Times-CBS News Poll reported that 74 percent of the 1,045 adults interviewed by telephone from April 6 through April 8 said the baby should go to the biological father, William Stern, whose sperm was used. Fifteen percent said the child known in court as Baby M should go to her surrogate mother, Mary Beth Whitehead, according to the poll.

Whitehead signed a surrogacy contract with Stern and his wife Elizabeth, but changed her mind after giving birth. A New Jersey judge stripped Whitehead of parental rights and ruled that Stern should have custody. Mrs. Stern was allowed to adopt the baby, who the Sterns named Melissa. Sixty-nine percent of those polled said surrogate mothers should have to abide by agreements they had signed.

Dorm fire started in prank; 1 student killed, 2 arrested

Associated Press

DOVER, Del. - A fire in a Wesley College dormitory was started early Sunday by a smoke bomb, which apparently was set off as a prank, and an 18-year-old student died when he was trapped in his room by smoke, police said.

Four others were injured, one critically, police said. Two students were arrested in connection with the fire, which started between 2 and 2:30 a.m. in Williams Hall at the downtown Dover campus, according to police.

The smoke bomb was set off on the second floor of the dorm, according to the police report. The device started a small fire, and firefighters evacuated the building.

One room had heavy damage, and the rest of the building was heavily damaged by smoke, police said. It was not known how many people were inside the building.

Graduate School was judged inadequately

Dear Editor:
The March 31 guest column by Christopher Ryan raised some interesting points, but he made some fal­lacious inferential leaps which war­ tant comment. Mr. Ryan, citing 1984 ratings, asserted that his study indicated that in terms of the number of publications, Notre Dame ranked 12lst. Based on these rankings, he then went on to discuss the poor performance of the graduate faculty as a whole.

But does the ranking of one department reflect on the graduate studies as a whole? The answer should be a defintive "no." Moreover, publications are not the only mark of quality faculty. If this were the only criterion of quality, graduate students would indeed suffer.

Finally, while I do not profess to be an expert in economics and, in fact know little about the Department of Economics at Notre Dame, I am cognizant of the fact that in most discipines it is extremely difficult to be published in the top journals.

As a final note, Father Malloy has expressed an interest in improving graduate studies at the University of Notre Dame. Perhaps Mr. Ryan should withdraw his indictment of the graduate faculty unless Father Malloy has an opportunity to actualize his plans.

Men make up for less aid in earning power

Dear Editor:
In response to Chris Julka’s March 25 editorial concerning discrimination against women in hiring, I would like to inform him that women earn less than men make up for less prevalent bias both inside and outside of academia which accurately reflects the quantitative method of evaluation rather than a qualitative one because of its reassuringly tangible nature.

I profoundly resent his use of my status as a Rhodes Scholar to prove the excellence of Notre Dame as an institution while disregarding the very people who are responsible for its achievement. His implication is that Notre Dame undergraduates succeeded despite a faculty which is not "worthy of its alumni, worthy of its undergraduates, worthy of its pay." How exactly does Ryan imagine that the two of us managed to become Rhodes Scholars?
Certainly not because we were able to pick up various journals and publications and discover the "new ideas" written by the prolific faculty of the more illustrious institutions. Had my professors been even more pressured to their education that would have been much more difficult for them to earn because of wage discrimination. I would also like to suggest to Mr. Julka that in the future, he try to demonstrate the abilities of a Notre Dame scholar by researching his material before writing another such poorly-researched, controversial article.

Evaluation of faculty should be qualitative

Dear Editor:
I was appalled to read Christopher Ryan’s March 31 column concerning the quality of Notre Dame’s graduate program and the quality of the Notre Dame faculty in relation to its pay scale. Although I agree with the contention that the graduate program requires a great deal of improvement if it wishes to compete with the more remonstrous universities, I found his article outrageous and insulting. Furthermore, Ryan’s proposed solution of competition rather than seniority seniority would not only be of very limited effect in improving the graduate program, but would also destroy the excellence of the undergraduate program which he so clearly illustrates with a barrage of statistics. His impressive print material as the primary criterion for professional competence is indicative of an increasing prevalent bias both inside and outside of academia which avidly ascribes to this quantitative method of evaluation rather than a qualitative one because of its reassuringly tangible nature.

I profoundly resent his use of my status as a Rhodes Scholar to prove the excellence of Notre Dame as an institution while disregarding the very

The idea was born last Thanks-giving. After numerous meetings, proposals, revisions and votes, there was approval in early March. The sophomore class had only a few weeks to make their idea a reality. They were faced with sending out letters, reserve rooms, order food, and obtain speakers because of the upcoming "Little Sibs Weekend.

On Friday afternoon, about 45 little brothers and sisters, ranging in age from 12-15, arrived on campus to spend a weekend with their sophomore siblings. This was the first time since 1983 these siblings had the chance to spend a weekend at Notre Dame. That year, there were no set registration policies, the scheduled events were few in number, and the amount of people who showed up doubled the expected amount—that is, almost 1500 instead of 700. The most significant aspect of Notre Dame life seen by the young visitors was the social life and this was before the alcohol policy went into effect. Needless to say, the administration was not eager to see if certain precautions were not taken. Until this year, the Sophomore Advisor and the Student Affairs office had to develop a proposal that would change the minds of those in the Student Affairs office. John Bockman was named chairman of the weekend. He, along with sophomore class officials and council members, took their first attempt at a proposal to the rectors to get some initial feedback.

The apprehensions revolved around the fact that the little sibs might be too young to be on a college campus. Rectors were also anxious about the fact that the flasco of 15 crescent could be replaced if certain precautions were not taken. In fact, they even questioned the need to have a Little Sibs Weekend at all. But the SAC persevered. Rippee, in his own spirit, Indigenous to Notre Dame, could be manifested perfectly in his idea. Members of the SAC rewrote the proposal, entering rectors' comments, input from the sophomore class and research on past Little Sibs Weekends. Both the Student Senate and the Campus Life Council passed it unanimously. It was ready for the Office of Student Affairs. After 45 minutes of review, the proposal was passed. Sophomore Little Sibs Weekend was ready to go.

Although adequate publicity was difficult because of the late approval date, 45 or 50 sophomores showed up for the weekend. In a post-school break, this was fine with the SAC, who considered it the greatest background one could have for organizing the weekend. Other concerns were over the short time limit there was to organize the weekend. One concern was over the alcohol issue. It was decided that the Jazz Festival was the best time for several dorms held SYFs—something no little sib was permitted to attend. Little sibs were also given activities planned, however, that no one thought twice about missing a dance. Friday night, "Indiana Jones and the Temple of Doom" was shown at the Loretto Auditorium. Saturday's events lasted from morning until night.

Little sibs had the opportunity to meet some Notre Dame athletics and cheerleaders. They also had the chance to talk to Theodore's for a box lunch and performance by the Notre Dame cheerleaders. They also attended the fun and games at the ACC, including dodgeball, water balloon toss, relay races, and volleyball. After a couple free hours, during which sophomores took their little sibs to Bookstore Basketball games, the Jazz Festival, the bookstore, or just back to the dorm for a relaxing visit, the group met at the South Dining Hall for a semi-formal dinner. In the afternoon, the featured event was Casino Night (also in the Dining Hall). Participants were supplied with money and given the opportunity to try their luck at blackjack, craps, and poker. The winning team of sophomore and sib each received a $20 gift certificate for the bookstore. Four runner-up teams each received 10 certificates. Throughout the night, the crowd was entertained by the music of Valerie and the Saturday Night Band.

On Monday morning, dawned rainy (or so it was expected), so the mass had been scheduled at 9:50 a.m. Instead, a mass was held in Loretto Hall's chapel. Father Garnder of Grace was the celebrant. The last event of the weekend was a brunch in North Dining Hall. Only one of the events was mandatory. That was Friday night's movie, because the gat­ hindred and intoxicating and the orientation. The only rule that had to be followed was that under no circumstances could the little sibs be at events which included alcohol. Besides, you need a pass to be a "bed-check." clarified Rippee. "We just want to insure that everyone is at least safe at the end of the evening."

In all, the weekend can be considered a success, at least in that the sophomore class officials and council members were pleased with the results. Little Sibs Weekend was ready to go. Sophomore Little Sibs Weekend was ready to go. Sophomore Little Sibs Weekend was ready to go. Sophomore Little Sibs Weekend was ready to go.

Irish fall to UWGB; take 2nd in tourney

Two against one is almost never fair. This weekend, the Irish were faced with a similar disadvantage through much of the championship game, and it meant an early departure from the championship round of the Northern Illinois indoor soccer tournament.

notes. Dame faced Wisconsin-Green Bay in the first game of the championship round, but the Phoenix had little to do with the Irish's early departure. It was no reference who unfortunately played a part in deciding the outcome of the game.

"You can never say a referee won or lost a game," said Irish head coach Dennis Grace. "But we had to play shorthanded one-third of a time."

The Irish were whitewashed for eight-two minutes on the 46-yard mark, while the Phoenix were called for one, one of which was called with only 30 seconds remaining the game. Twice the Irish were left two men short. Notre Dame also was whistled for four times as many fouls as the defending champions.

The penalties helped Wisconsin-Green Bay come back from a 4-1 deficit to send the game into overtime. The Phoenix won 5-4.

"I'm just upset," said Grace. "No one likes to see the game decided by officials."

Notre Dame advanced to the championship round after winning two of three games in its preliminary bracket.

Saturday morning Illinois State jumped on a sleepy Irish squad to hand Notre Dame a 5-2 loss.

For Mize, it was only the second victory of a six-year PGA tour career. The other came in the 1983 Memphis Classic. He had a chance to win last year's Kemper, but he lost to Norman on the sixth hole of a playoff.

Mize had a half-dozen runner-up finishes since the 1983 victory, and questions were being asked about his mental toughness.

He answered them in a strong, firm voice, saving a bogey from the water behind the 15th green, gaining a par from a wobble spot with a last-hole birdie, then beating the best the game can offer.

The victory was worth $162,000 to Mize, who was born and "spent most of my growing-up years" in Augusta. He now resides in Columbus, Ga.

"It's the dream of a lifetime," Mize said.

Andrysiak off the option and waltzed nine yards for the score.

Green led all rushers with 65 yards on 12 carries, and also led in the reception department with four catches for 31 yards. After the second drive, however, the defense took over, stopping the next seven possessions in a row. Three of those drives ended with big defensive plays - a Pritchett hit on fullback Dan Lyons, wingback Sean Fieger and forward Vowo Deweydhental.

With former starting keeper Hugh Brellin graduating, Grace has been concerned about finding a top starting keeper for next season. Mayo played well in the tournament, but according to Grace, Lyons had an excellent series of games.

Notre Dame now moves out for the rest of the spring. Lewis Coord of Chicago will pay the Irish a visit next Tuesday to open the spring outdoor off-season schedule.

Stanford Invitational). Over-all, I was very pleased. We only had the ball on the ground one time, we only had one thing that could have been an interception and we didn't give up the big play. We had too many penalties, but I am pleased with the way we are progressing.

The defense concluded its mastery when the No. 1 units clashed on three possessions late in the day. The first ended on strong safety George Streeter's break-up of an Andrysiak pass to Aaron Robb. Streeter was then on a sack to finish the next drive and a Stonerback sack halted the third.

"I thought George Streeter (and sophomore free safety) Corry Southall had some great hits out there," Holtz said.

Southall and Streeter played on the first team behind Marv Spence and Stan Smagala at the corner positions in the backfield.

"Terry's really doing a nice job with the ballchuck," Holtz said.

Andrysiak was 8-of-13 passing for 50 yards, and carried the ball 13 times for 21 yards on the ground.

Graham and Steve Belles split time leading the No. 2 offense.

The only other touchdown came when tailback Alonzo Jef- ferson finished off a 75-yard drive on the next-to-last possession of the day with a one-yard dive over the top. Belles kept the drive alive when he sprinted outside on a fourth-and-two keeper from the three-yard line, picking up the needed yardage for a first down and setting the stage for Jeff- son's score.

Placekicker Ted Gradel was good on both extra points.

With the number of allowed spring practices dwindling, Holtz plans to work out today and tomorrow, hold a scrimmages Thursday and practice one more time after Easter before the annual Blue-Gold Game on April 25.

The Notre Dame men's tennis team took to the Courtney Courts yesterday and came away with an impressive win over Eastern Michigan.

The Irish soundly defeated their opponents in singles, 5-1, and doubles, 3-1, on their way to the win. The win raised the Irish record to 16-10.

Both teams had to deal with a fiercely overpowering wind, something not uncommon at Notre Dame. In general, the wind hindered the Eastern Michigan team, which relies on a precise serve and volley game.

The featured match, pitting the top players of both schools, turned out to be the only singles loss for the Irish. Matt Kluman of EMU beat lefty Tim Carr in straight sets 6-2, 6-0. The team of Kolbass and Dancer 6-3, 6-0. In EMU's only doubles victory, Matt Kluman and Greg Kennett squeaked by the Irish tandem of Reiter and Carr 6-4, 7-5.

The wind was aggravating players from both teams. Greg Kennett of EMU explained how it affected his game. "The wind took my toss and cut in on me," he said. "I'm a serve and volley player and the wind forced me to play a baseline game, where our lefty Brian's (Kalbas) strengths."

Notre Dame's Paul Daggs, who defeated Joe Wolf, agreed that the wind played a part in the match. "The wind was a major factor," he said. "In weather like this, patience is important. I think we adjusted very well to the conditions."

Irish head coach Tom Fallon said he feels the solid victory is a good sign for the tough upcoming matches. "The wind bothered Eastern Michigan but it blew on both sides of the net," Fallon said. "I think we're used to it."

The Notre Dame lacrosse team came from behind to take a 11-10 win over Kenyon Saturday.

The Irish held Kenyon scoreless in the last 20 minutes of the contest, and scored seven goals in a row to raise their record to 3-2.

Kenyon had held a 10-8 lead in the third quarter, before Jim Shields and John Olmstead each tallied five goals to lead the Irish attack.

Verkler's Construction pounded Leslie Cheswik, 21-8, behind Irish tight ends coach George Stewart's 9-of-13 shooting and Jim Dolan's 14 rebounds. Head Coach Lou Holtz struggled to an 0-of-9 shooting day, and pulled in punches at analyzing his performance.

"I played terrible," said Holtz. "I set the game of bas- ketball back twemly Rob my performance today. In fact, they tried to bring out a peach basket for me at halftime."

While Holtz played a relatively insignificant role in his squad's victory, another team's star was actually leading his team to a win. Monk Malloy shot 4-of-8, all from well beyond the three-point line, as All the President's Men pounded Leslie Cheswik, 21-8, behind Leslie Cheswik, 21-8, behind Marty "We play hoops in Canada too!"Stras's 14-of-16 shooting. Also on Saturday, Carter Blanche whitewashed Team No. 351, 21-12, led by George Baldwin's 10-of-12 shooting, and Cubs Lose Again won and We May Not... didn't (figure that one out). At any rate, the score was 21-12.

Also Friday, Four Flags and a Zahmie, defeated the Lollypop Kids, 21-13. "And don't let anyone tell you that Monk can't play. He's got quick hands, a solid jumper, rebounds well and plays good defense," I think his team can make some waves.

Dethounge picked up its third victory despite only actu- ally playing one game. The team won its second game by forfeit Saturday and should be well-rested heading into a dif- ficult third round confrontation with Head-Faced Daddies, which locked SSE and the Lollipop Kids, 21-13.

Grand Illusion dethroned Four Little Kings, 31-8, behind Marty "We play hoops in Canada too!"Stras's 14-of-16 shooting. Mize claims Masters title with spectacular playoff shot

Associated Press

AUGUSTA, Ga., Larry Mize, a native son of this old southern city, turned back two stars of international golf with a spectacular pitch-in birdie that won a sudden death playoff yesterday in the 51st Masters golf tournament.

Mize won the coveted green jacket that goes to the Masters champion with a pitch from about 30-40 yards to the right of the 11th hole, the second of the sudden death playoff.

Mize played the shot to the fringe, then stood frozen in fascination as the ball took off, running straight into the cup. That eliminated Greg Norman of Australia, while Seve Ballesteros of Spain bogeyed the first sudden death hole to drop out.

"It's a dream come true," Mize said. "I've dreamed of winning the Masters, but I never dreamed of winning it like this - beating two of the greatest golfers in the world."

The ball disappeared into the hole like the flash of a cotton-tail rabbit ducking into its burrow.

The quiet, soft-spoken Mize leaped high into the air, then went hopping around the green, raising both hands in elation and clapping them to his head. "Reporters have asked me all week if I ever dreamed of winning the Masters. I did," Mize said.

It was the climax of a struggle in which six men either led or shared the lead at one time or another. And it beat the two dominant figures in golf today, Norman, the flamboyant "Great White Shark," and Ballesteros, the Spanish master who has won this championship twice and owns a couple of British Open titles.

They were Mize's playoff partners after all three finished the regulation 72 holes in a tie for the top at 285, only three shots under par on the Augusta National Golf Club course.

Mize birdied the 72nd hole from about three feet to finish a 71 and was the first in the clubhouse.

Ballesteros was next, and he saved par from a bunker to set up the playoff. He, too had a 71.

Then came Norman, the outstanding player in world golf last year, who moved into a tie with a 20-foot birdie putt on the 17th, then parred the 18th to complete an erratic 72 that included six birdies and as many bogeys.

The ninth playoff in Masters history began on the 10th hole. Ballesteros was eliminated there. He 3-putted for bogey, missing a 5-footer. Mize had chance to win it all, but he left a 10-12 foot birdie attempt hanging on the lip of the cup. He tapped in. Norman, who had missed a birdie from about 20 feet, also made par and they went to the 11th.

Mize and Norman both drove the fairway.

Mize pushed his approach far, far to the right and turned his back on the shot while it was in the air.

Norman, the current British Open title-holder and perhaps the most feared competitor in the game today, also put his approach to the right, on the fringe.

Defense sparkles again in 2nd Irish scrimmage

Spring Football '87

"I thought the hitting was excellent as always," said Head Coach Lou Holtz, after watching his defensive corps dominate for the second consecutive time this spring. "Our defense is getting much better at rushing the passer, and I think they're really progressing well."

Junior quarterback Terry Andrysiak led the No. 1 offense past the goal line on the second possession of the day, with sophomore tailback Mark Green capping a 75-yard drive against the No. 2 defense. Green took a pitch from see GREEN, page 8

The defense stifled the offensive attack for much of Notre Dame's football scrimmage. Marty Strasen has the details at left.
