Malloy, pope to meet later this month

By MATT GALLAGHER

University President Father Edward "Monk" Malloy will meet with Pope John Paul II Sept. 12, 1987, in New Orleans to discuss Catholic higher education.

The meeting, at Xavier University, will highlight the Pope's stay in New Orleans, part of his visit to the southern United States next week. Pope John Paul will meet with representatives of all of the Catholic colleges and universities of the United States.

"Each city on the Pope's trip is highlighting a different aspect of Catholic life," Malloy said. "New Orleans has two themes: one is the Black Catholic experience, and the other is Catholic education."

Along with Malloy, the Notre Dame delegation will include Rev. David Tyson, vice-president for student affairs; Dr. Robert Gordon, vice-president for advanced studies; James Murphy, associate vice-president for University relations, and Ann Firth, director of residence life. They will be presenting the Pope with a folio describing education at Notre Dame, Malloy said.

The morning session of the meeting, organized by the National Catholic Educational Association, will stress primary and secondary education in America. The evening session will present American higher education. The Pope will view a short video presentation, hear several brief addresses, and be presented with written statements from each school, according to Malloy.

Malloy, who has had the opportunity to see Pope John Paul II before in Rome, expressed his excitement at the possibility of representing Notre Dame at this program.

"I think," Malloy stated, "if you look at Catholic higher education, the vast bulk of institutions in the world exist in the United States . . . and we think that's what we're celebrating, and this will be our opportunity to do it."

Death of priest ruled a suicide

By CHRIS BEDNARSKI

The death of a priest who taught theology at Notre Dame was ruled a suicide late Monday night by Deputy County Coroner James McMeel.

Father Niels Rasmussen, 53, was found dead in the basement of his home at 602 West Parkwood St. Monday around 4 p.m., said Lieut. Rick Kilgore, public information officer for the South Bend Police.

An associate professor of theology, Rasmussen died of a single, self-inflicted gunshot wound to the chest, McMeel said.

McMeel estimated the time of death as sometime Saturday afternoon.

Investigators still do not know why Rasmussen killed himself, Kilgore said.

The body was found by another professor of theology, who had gone to the house after Rasmussen had failed to attend the formal opening of school mass Sunday morning or his Monday classes, Kilgore said.

After finding the door locked, the other professor obtained a key to the house from a neighbor, entered the house, and found Rasmussen's body in the basement, said Kilgore.

Rasmussen, a member of the Notre Dame faculty since 1979, left a note in a sealed envelope addressed to a friend, McMeel said. The note asked that Rasmussen's body be cremated "in the event anything happened to him," McMeel said.

Police, however, are not treating this as a suicide note, he added.

University President Father Edward Malloy will celebrate a memorial Mass for Rasmussen Friday at 10 a.m. in Sacred Heart Church.

A prayer service will be held for Rasmussen at 4:15 today in the Library Auditorium.

Rasmussen, a native of Denmark, was a Dominican priest by the bishop of Copenhagen in 1963. He received his doctorate in theology from the Institut Catholique de Paris in 1978, traveling to Catholic University in Washington D.C. the following year, where he taught for a year before coming to Notre Dame as an assistant professor.

In 1983, Rasmussen, an expert in Latin liturgies, became an associate professor.

Iraqis claim more hits as gulf war continues

Associated Press

MANAMA, Bahrain

 Rockets fired by an Iranian speedboat started a fire on a Spanish supertanker Tuesday, and Iraq said its planes hit four ships and Iranian industrial targets. Iran claimed it shot down three raiding aircraft.

A convoy of U.S. Navy warships and two reflagged Kuwaiti tankers arrived safely in the emirate's waters, Kuwait and Iraq, which has been at war with Iran since September 1980, are neighbors at the head of the Persian Gulf.

The ships started up the gulf Saturday, the day after rains were renewed in the waterway after a six-week lull. The only incident reported during the 350-mile trip was the rescue of a downed Iraqi pilot.

Iraq reported air raids Tuesday on four ships in the gulf and five industrial and oil targets in its air war on Iran's economy.

Iran reported retaliatory raids on military and industrial targets in Iraq.

In Washington, the State Department said the U.N. Security Council should draft sanctions unless Iran agrees to a cease-fire by the end of the week.

Soviet officials urged that diplomacy be given more time.

"Soviet-American cooperation is not only possible, it is necessary," one said, Vladimir Petrovsky, a deputy foreign minister.

Dispatches from Iran's news agency quoted Prime Minister Hussein Musavi as saying Iran would make its position clear soon on the Security Council truce resolution of July 20. Iraq has agreed to observe the resolution, the official said.

Radio monitors said the 300,078-ton Spanish supertanker Munguia sent a distress signal when attacked by one or two Iranian speedboats 55 miles north-east of Bahrain, an island emirate in the central gulf.

They are among 11 tankers that two shoulder-fired rockets hit the ship, causing no casualties.

A cruiser put out the fire, and the tanker continued down the gulf loaded with 1 million barrels of Saudi crude oil, according to the radio reports and Spanish officials.

It was the second report in two days of an attack on a ship by Iranian speedboats in apparent retaliation for Iraq's renewed air raids.

Gunfire from a speedboat rocked a Kuwaiti container ship early Monday off the United Arab Emirates in the southern Gulf. No casualties were reported.

The convoy's arrival at Kuwait was reported by sources close to the Kuwait Oil Tanker Co., owners of the 81,383-ton Surf City and 79,899-ton Chesapeake City. No news reports were confirmed.

The garbage barge is finally being emptied. The burning of the nation's best-known trash began today after one-ton bales from the garbage barge Motro were broken apart and loaded onto a large barge for millions of dollars. Environmental inspectors from the city and state probed the garbage unit for use of fire extinguishers found inside paper, cardboard, wood and typical commercial garbage. The barge left New York March 22 with commercial waste from New York City and landed near San Diego, Long Island. It toured six states and three countries before finally returning to New York at the beginning of the summer.

The Emerald City of Oz: a real awakening

"Oh dear God, another day of differential equations and behavior management." And so I awoke from out of bed (actually - it's a loft) and dragged myself out of the door to face another day of insane classes, no alcohol, and not enough women. Sigh.

But as I walked across North Quad out to the garage, I called the Barge to life. The Aerobics Center, Stonebenge fountain just went berserk. The water just kept spouting higher and higher, sucking me, cavity, and making the campus with it. I floated as if I were flying. I saw Father Michie riding by on a bike. "Father Michie! Father Michie!" I screamed. But to no avail.

I woke up in a very strange place. All these little people were dancing, cavorting, and doing somersaults around me, singing "It's dead! It's dead!" I thought. No remains of Stonebenge, just the remains of a brown brick building, with strange vapors and silhouettes out. "It's dead! It's dead! The dining hall is dead!"

And then I saw the sign, and a surge of joy transfigured my face.

HPC decides on fund allocation

By NATASHA WILSON
News Staff

The Hall Presidents' Council voted on the distribution of hall activity funds at its first meeting of the school year Tuesday night at Grace Hall. Under the approved plan, the $12,000 allocated by the Office of Student Activities will be distributed equally among the dorms.

Each dorm will get $500, the same amount each received last year. The money can only be used for non-alcoholic events and is not intended for off-campus students.

By approving the $500 plan, the HPC turned down two other proposals to distribute the funds according to the population of each dorm.

One proposal called for the equal division of the funds in proportion to the number of students in each dorm (less than $2 per resident). The other set a flat fee per dorm ($200 - $250) and an equal portion ($1) per dorm student.

The presidents of the small dorms repeatedly voiced concern that the proposals discriminated against their dorms. "For the past three years we have relied on the flat rate for SYR's, study breaks and other housing activities, said Jeff Dorschner, president of St. Edward's Hall. "If we had less, we would be able to have only a few social events each month."

Jamie Froman, head of Carroll, agreed, "smaller dorms need a little help."

However, Terry Lally of Dillon argued that "for larger dorms $500 barely covers a cookout."

Halfway through the council's debate on the allocation, HPC co-chairman Bob Daley requested the group "remember that the money is going toward the whole student body."

After some discussion, the council voted and agreed to follow the precedent of $500 per dorm.

In addition to this income, the residence halls utilize internal revenue gained from student fees to host picnics and various hall parties. Each dorm, however, charges a different amount, according to its own funds, the HPC members said.

In other business, the HPC unanimously approved the Student Activities Board's decision to change its name to the Student Union Board.

Bank operating in LaFortune

By LIZ PANZICA

St. Joseph Bank has opened a branch in the basement of the LaFortune Student Center.

The branch opened during the first week of classes, and an automatic teller machine will be installed within the week, according to a bank employee.

Last year, the University requested bids from banks and credit unions interested in operating in the newly-renovated LaFortune.

The project was then tabled until after Father Edward Malloy became president of the University.

In June, St. Joseph Bank was notified that it was awarded the space.

James Lyphout, assistant vice president business affairs, said the University used the same bids rather than soliciting new bids. "We felt (the financial institutions) gave us good faith bids the first time around, and those who were too low were probably not interested to begin with."

Officials of St. Joseph Bank said they would like the branch in LaFortune to be profitable within the first year to year and a half of operating on campus, according to Bart Nagy, assistant vice president of St. Joseph Bank.

The branch has already opened 1,000 new student accounts, and several Notre Dame halls have opened business accounts with the bank.

The main reason the University allowed the bank in LaFortune was for the convenience that it offers the students and faculty at Notre Dame, the University said.

Until the addition of the St. Joseph branch, the only other financial institution located on campus was the Notre Dame Credit Union located on Douglas Rd. The Notre Dame Credit Union was created in 1941 to serve the Notre Dame Community, according to Ruth Kelly, president and chairwoman of the board.

The Notre Dame Credit Union is in no way connected with the University. But, Kelly said she "was disappointed we were not selected (for the LaFortune space) since we have served the University for 47 years."

In 1983 the Notre Dame Credit Union installed automatic teller machines on campus at a cost of nearly one and a half million dollars. According to Kelly, in 1982 a verbal agreement was made with Father Joyce and Brother Kieran Ryan that only Notre Dame Credit Union automatic teller machines would be allowed on campus. Lyphout said he did not know of such an agreement even being made.

Notre Dame Credit Union, however, has had no drop-off in business because of the St. Joseph's Branch opening, according to Kelly. They have lost only about 20 accounts and have opened about 1,000 fresh student accounts. Kelly said no new tactics are planned to combat the competition. "We are going along as usual and marketing a little more."

The new bank's regular hours are Monday through Friday, 10 a.m. to 7 p.m., and Saturday 10 a.m. to 1 p.m.

Police clash with students as Korean universities re-open

Associated Press

SEOUL, South Korea - Universities reopened for the fall term Tuesday and immediately became battlegrounds for police and anti-government students. One campus fight with rocks, firebombs and tear gas lasted three hours.

As students demanded the ouster of President Chun Doo-hwan, leaders of the government and the opposition worked on a timetable for a presidential election and peaceful transition when Chun's term ends in February.

Labor unrest that began in July continued to cripple the country's economic boom, and the government would seek greater benefits for them.

South Korea's trade surplus in August was only one-quarter of the total for August 1986, the huge Seoul National University campus after a rally by 4,000 striking for higher pay, better transport, mining and the country's largest shipbuilding yard, ordered a slowdown by its drivers, and disruption was minimal since most people use buses or the subway.

Labor leaders at Hyundai since South Korea's economic miracle began on the vanguard of protest in the southern port of Ulsan, the country's largest shipbuilding yard, ordered a slowdown by the 24,000 workers after wage negotiations.

Successful governments have cooperated with business and the military dictatorship! began nearly two decades ago, virtually banning strikes and keeping wages low.

The leadership meeting Wednesday was the first between Roh Tae-woo, chief of the government Democratic Justice Party, and Kim Yong-sam, of the main opposition Reunification Democratic Party, since Chun made his concessions.

They had planned the meeting for Monday, but Kim postponed it, demanding progress on demands for release of all political prisoners still in detention. Opposition party officials said discussions were held on the issue.

More than 16,000 Seoul taxi drivers struck on Tuesday. City officials said the action involved 25 percent of the city's drivers, and disruption was minimal since most people use buses or the subway.

Radical student leaders have vowed to topple Chun's government, and the size of the Seoul National University rally indicated strong support.

Students traditionally are in the vanguard of protest in South Korea. They led weeks of demonstrations that caused Chun to agree June 30 to opposition demands for direct presidential elections and other democratic reforms.

Another change promised was less government control of unions. Within days, workers in major export industries began striking for higher pay, better working conditions and free unions.

Soviets seek Pershing removal

Associated Press

WASHINGTON, D.C.- The Soviet Union on Tuesday called on the United States to clear away the "last obstacles" to an agreement banning medium-range nuclear missiles by withdrawing 72 Pershing 1-A warheads from West Germany.

But U.S. officials said the warheads were not subject to negotiations with the Soviets because the missiles that carry them belong to the West Germans.

"We have said consistently that third-country systems are not part of the negotiations," White House spokesman Mari- lin Fitzwater said in Santa Barbara, Calif., near President Reagan's ranch. "We stand by that position."

A State Department official, who demanded anonymity, said the warheads would be withdrawn from West Germany only after the missiles were dismantled.

West German Chancellor Helmut Kohl offered last Wed- nesday to scrap the Pershing 1-A missiles, which have a range of 465 miles, after a U.S.-Soviet treaty is ratified and put into effect.

Both the United States and the Soviet Union welcomed the offer as a step forward. But it is not clear whether Kohl's schedule was acceptable to Moscow or posed a problem in completing the treaty.

At a news conference here Tuesday, a Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister, Vladimir F. Petrovsky, insisted on removal of the warheads, which are under U.S. control.

"If the United States would agree to remove the 72 nuclear warheads, the last obstacles to the double-zero option would be removed," Petrovsky said.

The Soviet official referred to the dismantling of two categories of intermediate-range missiles in what would be Reagan's first nuclear arms-control agreement with Moscow.

In all, 332 U.S. missiles would be withdrawn from West Ger- many, Britain, Italy and Bel- gium while the Soviets scrapped 442 rockets aimed at Western Europe and an addi- tional 121 missiles targeted on China and Japan.

WASHINGTON - Flush with optimism, state officials on Tuesday rushed in their proposals to the federal government to land the “super collider,” a $4.3 billion atom smasher that will mean 3,000 jobs for the state.

To hear them talk, all the 25 competitors were bound to win. Some states made a big production out of it, either in Washington or at home. Others said little and kept details secret until after the 2 p.m. Wednesday deadline for getting proposals to the Energy Department.

A dozen Texas officials held the first news conference of the day’s several at the department and elsewhere after delivering 60 cardboard cartons of documents in a station wagon, rented van.

Sen. Phil Gramm, R-Texas, gave one reason for secrecy - keeping competitors from matching an attractive inducement.

His state plans a $4.4 billion atom smasher, but it is widely supported for the non-polluting businesses it will bring to the winning state.

At least nine states were expected to deliver their solicitation during the day, and three more were expected on Wednesday. Others among the 24 states expected to compete in their documents earlier, stunning fanfare - Utah, for example, sent 36 boxes by Express Mail.

Almost all the states stressed that their sites offered easy access to major universities and airports, and an attractive life-style.

Congress has not yet made a decision on whether to build the supercollider, but it is widely supported for the non-polluting jobs, prestige and spinoff businesses it will bring to the winning state.

The project has no military application whatsoever and no foreseeable practical application beyond training young scientists. Some scientists are worried that it's vast cost will drain federal funds from other worthy research.

Jewish leaders discuss Waldheim visit with Pope

By CHRISTINE MCCANN
Associated Press

CASTEL GANDOLFO, Italy

Jewish leaders on Tuesday told Pope John Paul II of their anger over his audience with Kurt Waldheim, and the Vatican said it would issue a major document on anti-Semitism and the Holocaust.

The Jerusalem representatives termed their historic meeting with the Pope a success, although the pontiff did not directly respond to their anger over his June 25 audience with the Austrian president, alleged to have been involved with deporting Jews during World War II.

The Pope also did not respond to the Jews' questions on the Vatican's lack of diplomatic relations with Israel.

The Waldheim issue was taken up in detail in talks between the Jewish delegation and Vatican officials in the past two days.

"This encounter was a historic one in a very positive way," said Henry Siegman of the American Jewish Congress. "It was the first time the head of the Roman Catholic church engaged in genuine conversations with representatives of the Jewish community."

Rabbi Mordecai Waxman, chairman of the International Jewish Committee for Inter-religious Consultations, said after the papal audience that the relationship between Jews and the Vatican was raised to "a new plateau."

A joint communique said the Vatican delegation in the meetings Monday and Tuesday defended the audience with Waldheim and acknowledged that the church understood Jewish concerns over the meeting with the Austrian president.

Board discusses safety, library hours

By CHRISTINE MC CANN
News Staff

The Saint Mary's Board of Governance discussed campus safety and library hours at its first meeting of the year Tuesday evening.

Because of the recent increase in crime affecting the Saint Mary's Notre Dame community, Vice President Smith Hashagen said the Board might form a special committee. It would "launch a publicity campaign to encourage awareness of personal responsibility," she said.

President Eileen Hetterich asked all students to "please keep a watchful eye out on campus, even for those you might not know."

Hours at the Cushwa-Leighton Library were also discussed. Last year, students circulated petitions which requested that library hours be extended. But no formal proposal was made to the library board, Hetterich said.

A student board will be formed in order to meet with the library administration so that a written proposal might be discussed, Hetterich added.

Further business included the granting of official club status to the Baptist Student Union, the suggestion that Saint Mary's might make a special attempt to help commemorate the celebration of the Marion Year; and a listing of new Board of Governance office hours, which are:

Monday: 14: 6:30 p.m.
Tuesday: 6:00 p.m.
Wednesday: 14: 6:30 p.m.

The office is located on the third floor of the Haggler College Center.
Welcome back, domers and domettes! I'm sure you've had a lot of fun trying to jump start your brains for the past few weeks and you're putting off anything that requires serious brain power until Letterman moves back in at 12:30.

Since my brain is still in the summer mode and can't really handle a coherent, linear even that word given my amazement that I threw out some random thoughts left over from the summer. That way, you don't have to use precious brain waves and your beloved Sean Rested to see just how tough he really is. In a moment the fences and trenches, it feels that the problems posed should be looked at from a non-partisan standpoint (though the Grateful Shread...I written from a conservative vantage point). Since Mr. Smart's field of study is history, he should realize that our Constitution was written as a flexible document, therefore there are provisions in it for change. If the executive branch's "hands are tied" by a constitutional law, the executive branch can (legally) attempt to change that law through amendment and thus free its hands. On the other hand if the administration chooses to disregard the law altogether, then should we just overlook this and say it was in the country's best interest or should we question the judgment of the people in charge? If we choose to ignore this infraction of the rules, shouldn't we then ignore this infraction of the rules, shouldn't we then ignore this and say it was in the country's best interest or should we question the judgment of the people in charge? If we choose to ignore this infraction of the rules, shouldn't we then ignore this infraction of the rules, shouldn't we then ignore this and say it was in the country's best interest or should we question the judgment of the people in charge? If we choose to ignore this infraction of the rules, shouldn't we then ignore this infraction of the rules, shouldn't we then ignore this and say it was in the country's best interest or should we question the judgment of the people in charge?

The truth is the United States government (at least the executive branch) is supporting the Contras directly because they are anti-communist even though they violate more civil rights than their "oppressors" do. If the Contras could show that they had the support of the Nicaraguan people, I would advocate funding to the Contras but as it stands now I support the elected government of Nicaragua.

The true question is should we allow our elected officials to break the laws of our country. If we do, we may end up like the Soviets-the possessors of an ascendant ideology. We should most certainly find a way to bring the Contras to "free them." While the Sandinistas have been trying to build up the country with numerous social programs, the Contras are content to bomb villages and harm the civilian population whom they are attempting to "free."
Taking a year 'on'

GLUCKOW features writer

While many seniors consider pensions a year off after graduation, two graduates of Wilson College are conducting a project that is somewhat more ambitious.

This week, Dominic Kulic and David Yaskulka visited the Notre Dame campus on the last leg of a cross-country bicycle journey and educational program which they call the Quadroline project.

Though it is less than one year old, the project has already been called the nation's most important and successful endeavor concerning alternative security, nonviolent sanctions, and student leadership. Kulic and Yaskulka, the project's founders, have traveled on bicycles through 33 states, conducting over 40 workshops for students at 25 colleges and universities, and giving dozens of briefings for community activists.

One often expects peace activists to be naive, self-righteous, or extremist — Kulic and Yaskulka quietly avoid these stereotypes with their candid manner and willingness to consider viewpoints which might conflict with their own.

Your goals are very ambitious. How do you react to charges of being too idealistic?

I think that most people who attend our workshops or get a chance to talk to us might perceive us as somewhat practical idealists. We have ideas. But we're looking at a world with certain political conditions and certain practical situations. We want to keep in mind a long-term strategy yet have a strategy that can speak to people in the world right now. A large part of your strategy seems to focus on public awareness and education, why?

I think that one of the underpinning's of democracy is that you can't have any critical participation from citizens if you don't have any kind of critical education. Strategy is part of our politics. That means that, on campuses across the country, we need to be able to make these problems clear to people.

There has been a lot of talk recently about how apathetic this generation of students is. From your experiences, would you say that apathy is a serious problem?

I think that there is a lot of truth to this idea of apathy and we mention it as a problem, but its really an inadequate tag for describing a huge amount of people. It means different things in different places; it means numbness to certain problems. It means economic concerns for young adults coming out of high schools; it means facing a job market with far fewer possibilities; all of these can be translated into terms of "apathy" if you define them that way, but the challenge is to connect with a very live interest in these issues. It doesn't take long to find out that everyone shares a concern with the fact that there is something really wrong with some of the military approaches to dealing with conflicts. Apathy is a symptom, not a general condition.

What is your impression of Notre Dame relative to peace issues?

Notre Dame has one of the best programs beginning in peace studies right now. It also has a large military presence on campus with the ROTC. Traditionally both have been looked at as antagonistic parties, but they also have, if you look at the basic problems, a great common denominator.

You don't think that it is impossible for someone to be in the military and a peace-maker simultaneously?

No, I think that most of the individuals involved in the military, on every level, including students, are genuinely concerned with peace. Whenever we discuss how to create a common defense, the people who have done most of the training have been in the military. In order to know how any kind of peace endeavor should train itself, we need to be aware of what has historically been our only system of defense.

You are trying to share a traditional interest in national security. Very often in providing for traditional thoughts of security, we forget those things which we wish to secure in the first place. For example, if our borders are extremely secure in the military sense and yet there are hungry people on our streets, we have to ask if that security common throughout the society? There is no reason to think that the issues of poverty, homelessness and environmental decay as separate issues from national security.

To all the girls I've loved'

Good morning, Notre Dame! And welcome to "Women in My Life" the talk show where women from my past and future share their intimate feelings about me. Kris Murphy, with you, viewing audience, in order to inflame my already gigantic ego.

Today we're talking with four women, all of whom have played an important role in my heterosexual development.

Our first guest is Mary, my first girlfriend from back in kindergarten. Say "Hi," Mary.

Mary: Hello, Kris. I'm glad to be here. Do you still love me?

Baylor will be eligible for postseason action if the Twins maintain their division lead. Major-league rules hold that if a player is traded, he must be physically present in his new city by midnight Aug. 31 to be eligible for the postseason. Conveniently, Baylor and the Red Sox have been in Minneapolis since Sunday as Boston and Minnesota began a three-game series Tuesday night.

“He’s going to do the Twins a world of good,” said Dwight Evans, one of Baylor’s best friends on the Red Sox. “With him, they’ll probably win their division. I’ve played with a lot of great people; he’s one of the best.”

Minnesota will send Boston a player to be named later for Baylor, who in his 16-year career has participated in five AL Championship Series as well as last year’s World Series.

To make room for Baylor on their 24-man roster the Twins sent pitcher Steve Carlton to their Portland farm team in the Pacific Coast League. The Twins said they will recall Carlton on Wednesday, meaning the 42-year-old left-hander won’t be eligible for postseason play.

Minnesota is his sixth team, all in the AL. An outfielder until arm ailments in the mid-1970s made him a defensive liability, Baylor is perhaps the most successful designated hitter in baseball history. At the time of the trade, he had a .261 career batting average with 331 home runs and 1,236 RBI.

MINNEAPOLIS - Don Baylor, the inspirational leader of Boston’s 1986 pennant drive, suited up Tuesday with the Minnesota Twins, who hope he can provide the same leadership for them as they battle for the American League West title.

“He’s an intimidating force,” Twins Manager Tom Kelly said. “He’s dangerous every time he steps up to the plate. He’s been through these wars and that’s one he’ll always be on teams that win. Hopefully, his track record will continue.

The Twins completed the trade with the Red Sox for the 32-year-old designated hitter just before Monday’s midnight deadline, meaning that Baylor will be eligible for postseason action if the Twins maintain their division lead. MINNEAPOLIS - University of Minnesota quarterback Rickey Foggie was declared ineligible Tuesday by an administrative appeals committee. Foggie appealed by the university last year and had his eligibility restored by the university.

The university’s Assembly Committee on Intercollegiate Athletics has declared Foggie ineligible as it is required to do under NCAA legislation and has authorized an appeal to reinstate the eligibility for 10 of the 11 regularly scheduled football games, sports information director Bob Peterson said.

Peterson said the university planned to appeal to the NCAA staff by Wednesday to have Foggie’s eligibility restored.

If the university is dissatisfied with the staff’s decision, it can take the matter further by appealing to the NCAA eligibility committee.

Gophers Coach John Gutekunst could not immediately be reached for comment.

Foggie, the Gophers’ all-time total offense leader who is preparing for his fourth year as starting quarterback, accepted a loan of $356 from assistant coach Larry Beckah for an airplane ticket to his South Carolina home in February 1985 to attend his grandmother’s funeral.

Foggie paid for the trip six months later, but the loan was considered an extra benefit in violation of NCAA rules.

In addition, when Foggie was interviewed by the Big Ten and NCAA investigators about the travel, he initially failed to disclose accurately the circumstances of the repayment, Peterson said.

An ad hoc committee of the NCAA held a hearing Saturday on the matter. Issues relating to Beckah’s conduct are being addressed within administrative channels at the university, Peterson said.

In a separate incident, Foggie was declared ineligible by the university last year also for accepting an airplane ticket but had his eligibility restored immediately by the NCAA.

The Gophers open their season Sept. 12 against Northern Iowa.

If the university is dissatisfied with the staff’s decision, it can take the matter further by appealing to the NCAA eligibility committee.

Gophers Coach John Gutekunst could not immediately be reached for comment.

Foggie, the Gophers’ all-time total offense leader who is preparing for his fourth year as starting quarterback, accepted a loan of $356 from assistant coach Larry Beckah for an airplane ticket to his South Carolina home in February 1985 to attend his grandmother’s funeral.

Foggie paid for the trip six months later, but the loan was considered an extra benefit in violation of NCAA rules.

In addition, when Foggie was interviewed by the Big Ten and NCAA investigators about the travel, he initially failed to disclose accurately the circumstances of the repayment, Peterson said.

An ad hoc committee of the NCAA held a hearing Saturday on the matter. Issues relating to Beckah’s conduct are being addressed within administrative channels at the university, Peterson said.

In a separate incident, Foggie was declared ineligible by the university last year also for accepting an airplane ticket but had his eligibility restored immediately by the NCAA.

The Gophers open their season Sept. 12 against Northern Iowa.

Foggie declared ineligible

MINNEAPOLIS - University of Minnesota quarterback Rickey Foggie was declared ineligible Tuesday by an administrative appeals committee. Foggie appealed by the university last year and had his eligibility restored by the university.

The university’s Assembly Committee on Intercollegiate Athletics has declared Foggie ineligible as it is required to do under NCAA legislation and has authorized an appeal to reinstate the eligibility for 10 of the 11 regularly scheduled football games, sports information director Bob Peterson said.

Peterson said the university planned to appeal to the NCAA staff by Wednesday to have Foggie’s eligibility restored.

Freshman Steve LaVigne scored the winning goal in overtime to give the Irish soccer team a season-opening 2-1 victory over Loyola (IIl.)

LaVigne’s goal came at the 97:15 mark on a header off a corner kick by junior forward Randy Morris. Morris also scored the game’s first goal at 22:15 off a pass from junior forward Bruce “Tiger” McCourt.

Rich Drab tied the game for the Ramblers at 51:06 on an unassisted goal.

Sophomore Danny Lyons went the distance in goal for Notre Dame, recording 8 saves. The Irish dominated play for most of the contest, as they had eight more corners than the Ramblers. Notre Dame also outshot Loyola, 15-9.

The losing coach was Ray O’Connell, a Notre Dame alumnus. It was also Notre Dame’s first victory in eight meetings three years ago.

Notre Dame also outshot Loyola, 13-9.

Freshman Steve LaVigne also scored the game’s第四三-set shutout in Open history.

Lendl overpowered South African Barry Moir 6-0, 6-0, 6-0, while Navratilova beat Kate Gompert of Rancho Mirage, Calif., 6-1, 6-1.

Top returning player in Division I-A for all-purpose yardage, Tim Brown is in the position to top his second consecutive year with a third. Brown holds the power of the pen in the Heisman race.

“We have no Madison Avenue campaign to get the name of Tim Brown out to people,” says John Heisler, Associate Director of Notre Dame’s Sports Information Department. “Our football program is visible enough so that the statistics take care of themselves. We make people aware of those statistics.

“Tim has got all this attention because of what he did last season, it’s really nothing we’ve done. With our television exposure a lot of people are going to see him play. Nobody creates that, it’s just a built-in advantage that exists here at Notre Dame.”

The Heisman Hype has begun and for the first time in a decade Notre Dame is at center stage. Everyone and his brother may be billed as a Heisman Trophy candidate, but it’ll take three months and eleven football games before New York’s Downtown Athletic Club announces the 1987 Heisman Trophy winner. Until then, Irish fans will remain visible enough so that the statistics take care of themselves.

Athletics blast Yanks, 8-3

Associated Press

NEW YORK - Dwayne Murphy, Jose Canseco and Terry Steinbach homered Tuesday night, leading the Oakland Athletics over the New York Yankees 8-3.

Steve Ontiveros, 8-5, gave up two runs, one of them earned, on four hits in six innings. relievers Dennis Lamp, Greg Cadaret and Eric Plunk finished in the combined six-hitter.

Murphy hit a two-run homer that capped a three-run third inning and gave the Athletics a 5-0 lead. Carney Lansford had an RBI single before Murphy hit his third home run of the season and first since April 20 off Charles Hudson, 9-5.

Canseco's 29th homer in the fifth and Steinbach's 13th in the sixth came off Pat Clements.

Rangers 6, White Sox 4

CHICAGO - Pete Incaviglia doubled home Pete O'Brien to break a 2-2 seventh inning tie, leading the Texas Rangers over the Chicago White Sox 6-4 Tuesday night.

Mariners 5, Orioles 0

BALTIMORE - Scott Bankhead and Billウィルキンソン combined on a three-hitter and Ken Phelps hit a two-run homer Tuesday night as the Seattle Mariners defeated the Baltimore Orioles 5-0.

Bankhead, 8-8, gave up two hits in seven innings, winning for the first time in five decisions and helping end Seattle's three-game losing streak.

Phillips, who has 22 saves in 27 appearances, connected in the sixth following a walk to Gary Matthews, giving Seattle a 4-0 lead.

Rookie John Hayaby, 4-4, was the loser.

Red Sox 7, Twins 0

MINNEAPOLIS - Jeff Sellers pitched a four-hitter and Wade Boggs and Mike Greenwell homered Tuesday night as the Boston Red Sox beat the Minnesota Twins 7-0.

Minnesota's Kirby Puckett singled in his first at-bat for his seventh straight hit, but wound up 2-for-4 and one short of the major league record of 13 hits in three straight nine-inning games.

Brewers 2, Royals 0

KANSAS CITY, MO. - Ted Higuera pitched a one-hitter. Russ Jones' two-out triple in the eighth inning - and the Milwaukee Brewers scored two runs in the ninth against Bret Saberhagen to beat the Kansas City Royals 2-0 Tuesday night.

Higuera retired the first 15 Kansas City batters in pitching his second straight shutout. He lost his no-hit bid when Jones hit line drive down the left-field line just beyond the glove of Rob Deer.

Blue Jays 4, Angels 3

TORONTO - Jesse Barfield's double scored Rob Ducey with one out in the 10th inning to give the Toronto Blue Jays a 4-3 victory over the California Angels Tuesday night.

Braves 4, Pirates 0

PITTSBURGH - Zane Smith pitched a four-hitter for his seventh win in his last eight starts and Ted Simmons hit a two-run homer Tuesday night, powering Atlanta to a 4-0 victory over Pittsburgh that ended the Pirates' seven-game winning streak.

Tigers 6, Indians 5

DETROIT - Pat Sheridan ended an 0-0-35 slump with a two-out double in the 12th inning that scored Darrell Evans from first base Tuesday night and lifted the Detroit Tigers over the Cleveland Indians 6-5.

The American League East-leading Tigers remained one game ahead of Toronto, which beat California 4-3 in 10 innings.

Evans, who had homered and hit a tying single in the ninth, opened the 12th with a single off Don Gordon, 9-2, the fourth Cleveland pitcher. Tom Brookens and Ote Lemon flied out, but Sheridan laced a 1-2 pitch into left field, where Cory Snyder let the ball get past him.

The slow-footed Evans never broke stride and scored standing up.

Playing quarterback in college football can be a bit scary, to say the least. Blitzing linebackers breathe down your throat, and the ones that stay back are usually more than willing to lay a blind-side hit on your favorite receiver.

But in 1987, the Notre Dame coaching staff wants playing quarterback against Notre Dame to be nothing short of nightmarish. And that, in part, is because of an impressive corps of Irish linebackers.

This past Saturday’s scrimmage was a perfect example.

“We let them on their own,” defensive co-coordinator and inside linebacker coach Foge Fazio said of his defense, which dominated the workout with all kinds of pressure on the quarterbacks and plenty of big plays. “We wanted this to be as game-like as possible, like it was Michigan lining up across the line.”

And the Wolverines will have plenty to think about when they try to push the ball over the line of scrimmage against the Irish in less than two weeks.

The making of a Heisman winner

For the past three nights, dozens of students have been flying camped out with pillows, pizzas and radios at Gate 10 of the ACC. I may be going out on a limb, but my guess is that such diligent patience is not for the upcoming Chicago concert.

Across the street from these dedicated fans sits Notre Dame Stadium, quiet until September 19 when Michigan State and ESPN come to town for the first home game of the season. This game brings back fond memories of the Spartans last visit, and my first home game as a Notre Dame student.

Like this year’s opener, it was a night contest with Michigan State. The one play I will never forget from that game occurred on the opening kickoff of the second half. Standing on the Notre Dame seven-yard line, then-sophomore Tim Brown received the kick, slipped through the futile grasps of eleven Spartans, broke to the near sideline and turned on the juice for a 93-yard touchdown.

Last Thursday I stepped up to the counter at the Huddle for a Domerburger and saw that same No. 81 on the cover of the nation’s most prominent sports magazine. Sports Illustrated.

I walked over to the deli and bought a copy. So did my roommate. So, according to the deli, did 500 people on that day and another 400 since then. The deli usually sells 80 copies of SI per week.

I proudly called home and told my parents to buy a copy for posterity, laced the picture to my desk for inspiration as I read my 1,000 pages of government homework, and dreamed how justice would be served if Tim Brown won the Heisman Trophy in the 100th year of Notre Dame football.

Then I began to wonder, ‘What did Tim Brown think when he walked into the Huddle and saw that familiar No. 81 looking back at him?’

“I’m excited and happy about it all,” says the senior flanker. “But I really think luck could change very quickly. It’s nice and everything, but there really is no point in worrying about it. I say, ‘Hey, let’s just go out and play some football games,’ and let that tell the story. I’m one for showing how I can play on the field, not talking about it.”

Nothing could be further from the truth. Despite all the great publicity and media hoopla surrounding the top candidates for the Heisman, the Trophy is won on the football field. And for Tim Brown, that is 10 days away.

Once the season begins, there are several important factors in the “making” of a Heisman Trophy winner. Outstanding play on the field is foremost, but it certainly doesn’t hurt to have a great game in one of the first few contests, handle the ball several times per game, and have the ability to break the game open with a big play.

Irish fencer Sullivan helps U.S. to gold at Pan American Games

By MOLLY MAHONEY
Sports Writer

This summer’s Pan American Games in Indianapolis proved to be a showcase for talented American athletes. From the explosive individual performances of Cari Lewis to the team glory of women’s basketball, the focus was on the U.S. contingent.

But it was under a spotlight that Irish senior Molly Sullivan’s skills shined, helping the U.S. fencing team capture the gold and establishing the United States as an Olympic threat.

The United States easily progressed past their competition from Argentina, Mexico and Canada before clashing with the powerful Cuban team for the gold medal.

Coming into the final match relatively equal in strength, it took fine performances from each fencer to accumulate the nine individual sets needed to defeat the Cubans nine to six.

"The United States fencing team was never considered to be strong," said Sullivan, "and we really stressed doing well because we are not always see the results." Persistence has been the key to achieving such results and Sullivan and teammates Katie Hilliard, M.J. O'Neill, Sharon Montaperti and Elaine Cherris have the battle scars to prove it.

Each team member had to compete against fencers from every area of the country, fighting through months of competition on the national circuit in five major meets before emerging as the top five fencers in the country and receiving an invitation to be on the team.

Sullivan, like many of the fencers, has been on junior national teams and has gone to Germany and France on world tours, but found the atmosphere at the Pan Am Games to be unique.

"It was different in many ways," said Sullivan, "like a mini-Olympics with so many people from different countries."

In many ways the games served to prepare the United States team for next year’s Olympic competition. And, because they must often reside in relative anonymity despite their past success, the newly attained gold medal may serve to attract more than just casual admirers.

"We’ve been trying to gain experience for the Olympics," said Sullivan, "and now that we’ve proven ourselves in this hemisphere we hope to get more funding for the program.

Working under Notre Dame fencing coach Yves Aurier while participating in the Pan Am Games, Sullivan continued her individual work as well, gaining experience towards her ultimate goal of making the Olympic team.

And if Sullivan’s abilities and the fine performance of the entire Irish fencing team during the Pan Am Games are a harbinger of things to come, Olympic gold may be a realistic goal for the future.
U.S. may remove warheads

WASHINGTON - If West Germany makes good on its offer to retire its Pershing IAs, mis-saries, the United States will withdraw the rockets' American-owned nuclear warheads from German territory, the State Department said Wednesday.

It declined, however, to specify whether the warheads would be destroyed or stockpiled for future use.

Replying to a barrage of questions about the 72 Pershings, department spokeswoman Phyllis Oakley restated the U.S. position that their future "is not subject to any form of negotiation with the Soviet Union."

"the warheads of the Federal Republic of Germany Pershing IAs are controlled by us, and all of them will be removed," Oakley said. "They are part of our program of cooperation with our West German allies."

After the Pershings became a sticking point in U.S.-Soviet medium-range arms negotiations, West German Chancellor Helmut Kohl last month oftered to remove them in the interests of an agreement.

Korean factions make agreements in first talks

Dec. 20.

They also agreed that the government should not intervene in labor disputes and promised legislation to inty declared June

Roh is his party's candidate to succeed President Chun Doo-Hwan, whose term ends in December.

Chun declared June 30, after weeks of anti-government protest, that he would accept opposition demands for such democratic changes as replacing the electoral college with direct presidential elections.

He also agreed to ease government control over unions, which has made strikes virtually illegal and helped boost South Korea's export-based economy by keeping wages low.

Workers in mining, transpor-

No ideas remain for today's inside column

"Four little Indians going out to sea; A red herring swallowed one and then there were three." - Agatha Christie, "And Then There Were None."

Writing this week's column was akin to being in the novel "And Then There Were None." I had four ideas for the column; each with Pulitzer Prize written all over it. The first was a classic: What could be better than a column about how pretty and intelligent Notre Dame and Saint Mary's women are? I was discouraged to learn that college students are not always as clever as I expected. The second was another classic: "California?" No, I said. "It's in Indiana." "Ohhhhh," she replied. "Hey... I'm from Indiana." "I can't wait to get back to Notre Dame and Saint Mary's," I wrote. "There, the women are good looking and intelligent." That's not a such a good idea," said Editor-in-Chief Kevin Becker, who was reading over my shoulder. "It sounds too sexist." And then there were three. That's all right, I thought. I had a great idea about the trials and tribulations of looking younger than my 21 years. Again it was classic prose: "The dental assistant was cleaning my teeth this summer, attempting to make small talk. "So when do you graduate from high school?" she asked. "Ouch," I said."

This is great stuff, I said to myself. I poured out a few more humorous words. "That's not funny," said Art Editor Mike Naughton, who had walked by my terminal. "You need to exaggerate to make it funny." I'm not exaggerating, I said. And then there were two. No problem, I thought. I'll write about the dating scene at Notre Dame and Saint Mary's-- or the lack thereof. The column would rank right up there with award-winning pieces by Bob Greene, and even (gasp) Mike Royko. I started writing:

"I've been here only a week and already I'm tired of parties," a Notre Dame junior commented the other day.

She's not the only one. Parties seem to be the only social outlet around here. Dating apparently has gone the way of the $10 textbook.

"Somebody wrote a column just like that last year," a reporter reminded me. "And besides, it'll look like you're trying to get a date."

And then there was one. No problem, I said to myself. "I've still got one good idea left. No, a great idea. I'll write about the reasons freshmen give for wanting to work at The Observer."

I began writing, using the answers freshmen gave at Activities Night to the question, "Why do you wish to work for The Observer?"

There were the straight-forward answers: "For the free beer."" There were the complimentary answers: "I want experience working on a paper and besides-- The Observer is great!" There were the not-so-complimentary: "I find it sadly lacking in a firm position against a number of outrageous attacks on student rights. Also, I think commies run it."

The column ended with a pitch for students to come to tonight's open-house meeting, "No matter what your reason," I wrote. "You're not really going to write that," Becker said after I told him my latest idea. "It sounds too much like we're tooting our own horn."

You're probably right, I said.

And then there were none.

Senior chosen CK International President

By LIZ PORTER
News Staff

Scott Bearby, a senior Government/ALPA major, recently became the first Notre Dame Circle K member elected President of the International Circle K organization.

Elected by popular vote, Bearby presented a prepared platform and campaigned for his office at a 600 member convention held in St. Louis last August.

The Circle K organization is the largest organization at the collegiate level devoted to leadership and service development. The main goals of the organization include individual leadership projects.

According to Bearby, the incorporation of leadership development in a social service group is the most appealing aspect of membership in the Circle K club.

Bearby said, "The organization has been very good to me. It has helped me develop my leadership capabilities, while providing me with the opportunity to meet a lot of great people."

Serving as chief executive officer of a non-profit organization, commented Bearby, also presents him with many new career contacts.

Through his new position, he brings recognition to the University of Notre Dame and its Circle K club.

St. Joe Bank, Now Open On Notre Dame Campus

An affiliate of Kiwanis, collegiate CKI clubs function on local, district, national, and international levels. The organization also sponsors special social events, promoting friendship among club members.

Any Circle K member may run for an international office, but experience working with the Circle K organization plays a large role in a candidate's bid for office.

Bearby had the necessary experience, serving as International CKI Secretary in college and having been involved in high school with Key Club.

Acting as International President, Bearby presides over Circle K chapters in seven nations in North America. Satellite groups also exist in South America, Europe, and Asia. North American countries involved with CKI include Canada, the United States, Mexico, Jamaica, and the Bahamas.

Because of long distances, Bearby will not travel in all the international Circle K organizations. He will, however, visit a large number of Circle K districts in the United States and Canada, exchanging information and ideas with other club members.

As well as his correspondence with Circle K districts, he will also serve as the Chairman of the CKI Board of Trustees.

Comprised of twelve students, this board's major projects include club membership development, and activity planning and management.

SMC hall slated for dedication

By SHANNON MCGOWAN
Staff Reporter

The newly renovated Saint Mary's College Science Hall will be dedicated on Oct. 10. At 10:30 a.m. a mass of Thanksgiving will be celebrated in the Holy Spirit Chapel of LaFortune Hall.

Following, there will be a luncheon for special guests in the LaFortune Center, said Mary Gerber, Director of Special Events and Programs.

The formal dedication ceremonies will begin at 1 p.m. with an academic procession and ceremony at the main entrance of the Science Hall.

The theme for the ceremony is "Achievements of Women in Science."

St. Reverend Ernan McMullin of the University of Notre Dame will preside over the dedication.

The main speaker for the dedication symposium address is Mary L. Good, president of the American Chemical Society.

She will also be the recipient of an honorary degree in recognition of her many accomplishments, according to Gerber.

Several prominent women scientists will also be present for the dedication.

At 2 p.m. the symposium will begin in Carroll Auditorium. Other participants in the symposium will be Catherine Hurston '61, Terri Monk Hargrave '66, Barbara Spakowski Sliatt '71, and Monica Creamer '72.

A reception follows in the science hall.

At approximately 3:45 p.m. the hours of the science hall will depart from the main lobby. Throughout the building, there will be various exhibits of the Chemistry, Biology, and Physics departments on display.

The holographic works of Douglas Tyler, Assistant Professor of Art, will also be on display.

The cornerstone of the building sums up the spirit of the dedication ceremonies "Great are the works of God to be pondered by all who love them"(Psalm 3:2).

The greenhouse and some of the rooms in the classroom complex will also be dedicated, Gerber said.

Iran, Iraq continue
Gulf ship attacks

Associated Press

MANAMA, Bahrian - Iranian speedboats and Iraq warplanes attacked at least seven ships in the Persian Gulf within 24 hours, and U.S. warships prepared on Wednesday to escort more tankers through the war zone.

The Iraqis reported a fifth day of air raids on Iranian shipping, oil fields and other industrial targets. Iran said its artillery shelled military and industrial installations in southern Iraq, and Iranian planes struck in the northern area of the 730-mile border warfront.

Eighteen attacks on ships have been reported and 13 confirmed since Iran and Iraq, which have been at war since September 1980, resumed their "tanker war" last weekend after a six-week lull.

Shipping executives, speaking privately, said the 13 confirmed attacks in less than a week compare with monthly averages of six in 1984-85 and eight to 10 last year.

Iran's official Islamic Republic News Agency quoted Prime Minister Musavi as declaring Wednesday that a policy of "blow for blow will be pursued in a calculated fashion."

Dispatches from the Iraqi News Agency reported attacks Wednesday on two "large maritime targets," which usually means ships, and an Iraqi attack on a Cypriot tanker Tuesday was confirmed. Iraq's reports do not identify ships attacked.

The latest confirmed Iraqi raid was on the small offshore supply ship Big Orange 14. It was reported sunk by an air-fired missile late Tuesday near Kharg Island, Iran's main oil export terminal in the northern gulf.

One shipping source in the United Arab Emirates, where the vessel was based, said all seven of its Indian and Sri Lankan crew were missing.

Another said five had been rescued, quoting sources close to the owners.

No one answered the telephone at the owner's office.

Two empty Kuwaiti tankers and their U.S. navy escorts reached the sheikdom at the head of the gulf Tuesday. The warships are expected to make the return trip with three vessels that have been loaded and waiting for days.

Iran accuses Kuwait of receiving arms shipments for its neighbor Iraq, whose ports were closed soon after the war began, and since last September has been attacking ships owned by or serving the sheikdom.

Eleven of Kuwait's 21 tankers have been given the American flag so Navy ships can protect them. Convoys began July 21.

Speedboats operated by Iranian commandos fired on a Greek tanker and Cypriot freighter during the day Wednesday after overnight attacks on tankers of South Korean, Japanese and Spanish registry. A speedboat raked a Kuwaiti oil rig container ship with machine gun fire Monday.

No injuries were reported and all the ships either reached nearby ports or continued on their way, according to shipping salvage executives and Lloyd's Shipping Intelligence.

Philippine coup plans divulged

Associated Press

MANILA, Philippines - Conspirators in plots leading to last week's bloody coup attempt discussed killing Americans and burning CIA headquarters in Manila, the government said Wednesday.

A general who commanded the army under deposed President Ferdinand E. Marcos was involved in plotting a military takeover, said the report, prepared by President Corazon Aquino, in a national broadcast Wednesday, said 53 people were killed in Friday's coup attempt, remained at large, and hundreds were wounded, including 12 loyal soldiers, 19 rebel troops and 22 civilians.

The report said intelligence agents learned that Ramas and Honasan planned a "blitzkrieg attack" last June, but it was postponed.

The charges about killing Americans and assaulting the CIA headquarters were in the background part of the report, and it was unclear whether all the alleged plots were part of the same conspiracy and why other plots were postponed.

Maj. Gen. Eduardo Ermita, deputy chief of staff, declined to elaborate.

I It did not elaborate. It named Maj. Gen. Josephilus Ramas, former army commander, as being involved in plotting a military takeover.

Aquino fired Ramas after taking power in a February 1986 civilian-military uprising that ousted Marcos, who fled to Hawaii.

Rust faces charges of hooliganism, illegally crossing the Soviet border and violating international flight rules, and he could get 10 years in prison.

The trial is expected to last three days.

Hoosiers obey limits

Associated Press

INDIANAPOLIS - The 65 mph speed limit that took effect June 1 on rural interstates has had a negligible effect on the number of traffic fatalities in Indiana, a state police spokesman said Wednesday.

State police recorded 17 interstate traffic fatalities from May 29 to Sept. 2, compared with 15 during the same period last year when the maximum speed on all highways was 55 mph.

"There's no way, statistically, that can be significant," Lt. Ken Hollingsworth said.

Hollingsworth said he believes the attitude among Indiana motorists has played the biggest role in keeping the death count down in Indiana.

"We in our state have reason to believe that the public has pretty well accepted the 65 mph limit as a fair speed and that people are going 65," he said.

"Voluntary compliance is playing a large part in this." Although the number of interstate deaths since the speed limit increased is two greater than in the same period last year, the year-to-date count is up by six, for a total of 36 fatalities. However, Hollingsworth said that still is a statistically insignificant increase.

He added that when traffic deaths on all rural roads are considered, the year-to-date number actually has decreased by 13, from 504 last year to 491 this year.

About 850 of the 1,119 miles of interstates in Indiana were affected by the new law, which raised the speed limit from 55 mph to 65 mph on interstates located outside cities with populations of 55,000 or more. Hollingsworth said compliance with the law is evident not only in the fatality figures but also in reports from officers patrolling the highways.

As an example, he noted that a trooper who clocked 100 cars in a central Indiana county recently found only seven exceeding 65 mph and, of them, only two were going faster than 70 mph, Hollingsworth said.

Birth rate, life spans hit new records

Associated Press

WASHINGTON - The nation's fertility rate fell to a record low last year, while life expectancy reached a record high and marriage and divorce rates dipped to the lowest levels in a decade, the government reported Wednesday.

Average life expectancy "in 1986 reached a new record high of 74.9 years," said the Center for Health Statistics, an arm of the Department of Health and Human Services. That was up from 74.7 years reported in 1985.

The highest life expectancy was 78.3 years for white females, up from 78.7 a year earlier. White males saw an increase from 71.8 to 72.9 years.

Black life expectancy rose from 65.6 to 65.5 years for men, but declined from 73.7 to 73.6 years for women, the center's annual summary of vital statistics reported.

The births totaled 3,731,000 down 10,000 from 1986. That represented 64.9 live births per 1,000 women aged 15 to 44, 2 percent below last year and the lowest rate ever recorded in the United States, the report said.

The drop reflects the trend of recent years, as many young people have postponed marriage and families to pursue education and careers.

Social scientists have debated in recent years whether this represents merely a delay in having children or a decision not to have families. Only time will disclose the answer as the children of the post-World War II baby boom pass through their prime childbearing years.

Trends in the number of annual births are affected by two factors, the rate of births among women and the number of women in the childbearing ages.

The Census Bureau has projected that the total number of women in the prime childbearing ages will remain substantially the same through the remainder of this decade.

Turning to marriages, the center reported 2,600,000 in 1986, down about 25,000 from 1985.

That represents a national marriage rate of 10.5 per 1,000 people, down from a peak a year earlier and the lowest rate since 1971, when it was 9.6.

The all-time high marriage rate occurred in the boom immediately following the return of the soldiers after World War II, when 16.4 marriages per 1,000 people were recorded in 1946. The bottom was in 1932 at 7.9.
On my first day back at Notre Dame after a rather brief summer, my sister, her roommate and I ventured to the Huddle for pizza after an exhausting day of moving. At one point I noticed an oddly-dressed character sporting a delusory memento it will be, leading us to think that we were once vibrant and not unjustifiably we would like to cure our pernicious ills? Contrary to prevailing wisdom, the answer is very much in doubt. Many of them, happily, will be accepted by the majority but badly assimilated into the decedence of our genus. Others, unforgivably, will fall victim to the subtle racism that permeates here as anywhere else. We curse them, but expect nothing wonderful.

just say 'nyet'

My sister's friend tactfully replies that she thought it was a good thing to have some diversity among the student body, that not everyone looks and acts so "conservatively." Having precious little energy remaining to chew and swallow, let alone argue, I granted the argument of those neoafacist professors who incomprehensibly have a lower opinion of us than we invariably do. This term has only just begun, but soon the halls of the university will resonate with the incessant pestilential whining of wronged geniuses. If the Almighty is indeed in His heaven, the inviolate sanctity of the grade point average will be preserved.

And if all goes well, as it usually does, then we shall end our little holiday upon receiving a nice, pretty piece of paper, and hang on the wall to remind us of those halcyon days before we wallowed in the nasty business of stepping on people five days a week. Is your roommate straight from Hell?

NICK NAUGHTON

The second greatest myth of the twentieth century is that college roommates automatically get along.

According to popular fiction, you and your freshman-year roommate will become best friends, save each other lives, and become the best man or bridesmaid at each other's weddings.

Don't believe it for a second. Putting two or more young adults in a room which would make a dressing room seem extravagant and then expecting them to establish a workable relationship is an act of cruelty of such caliber that it makes animal research seem pleasant.

Unless you and your roommate are the result of a cloning experiment, getting along is a full-time job with bear-traps waiting to be sprung at every point in the day. From that hair dryer whirring at 6 a.m. to the television turned on until after the national anthem on a Sunday night, your roommate is the battlefield for a war of wills and tastes. Only through a process of give and take, caution and compromise can you reach a state of detente where you can even hope to begin thinking like the same sink as you.

To make matters worse, there is a class of roommates that you cannot even hope to get along with - the Roommate from Hell.

No matter how much you bend, no matter how hard you try, you will not be able to get along with this person. At first, you wonder if the fault is yours; you call COURSELINE and ask for tape number 1 - Friendship Building. You call again and listen to tape number 7 - Expressing Negative Feelings. A few weeks later you ask for tape number 50 - Understanding Disability. (There is nothing wrong with your eating habits but at this stage you figure that no advice can make your relationship any worse than it has become.)

A few more days of dormitory distress go by. You realize that there is no answer and call Notre Dame legal aid - you want to know if there is a death penalty in Indiana for premeditated roommates.

Unfortunately, murder is an inadequate solution. You might get into trouble, and roommates from hell have a habit of never ever going away. There is little you can do about a roommate from hell, but the greatest step in confronting any enemy is to find out exactly what you are up against.

In order to determine your roommate reality is straight from Hell, you need to look for clues just as a werewolf with every fingerprint and a vampire must speak in a sloppy Transylvanian accent. The Roommate from Hell has his own distinctive characteristics:

1. The Roommate from Hell is handicapped Austrian athletes

A few days after I began living in the typical Austrian style, to go out for a beer. Though these Europeans were a bit disgruntled about the unavailability of alcohol on campus, they quite quickly decided to make the best of the situation and discovered the cozy confines of the Linebacker Lounge.

By the next morning I was already coming to realize why these Olympians were called "special." My duties as Live-In Host included acting as a transitory living in the same dormitory with my team members, and eating meals with them. During that first breakfast together, I was politely asked by no less than four of the athletes if I had slept well.

I began talking to Liesl, a 24-year-old athlete, who kept offering to walk back to the Coke dispenser to refill my glass. At the end of the meal, Liesl asked if I was finished, and then voluntarily carried my tray to the caddy by the door. By the end of the day Liesl was calling me her "best friend" and asking me to write to her after she returned to Austria.

A few days later Liesl literally gave me the shirt off her back. I was in her room and asked if all of the clothes hanging in the wardrobe were hers. She then pulled out a pretty jade green Benetton shirt, and said that in addition to the team uniform shirt she'd borrowed with her. Liesl then said, quite matter-of-factly, that she was giving the green shirt to me. I tried to protest, but she cut me short by saying I couldn't return a gift. She said she would. I said, "But I didn't change that, so I'll have to accept it."

I think what really got me to the most was when I heard Liesl say that she was so "uberglücklich," a word which can only be translated as "outnumbering.

The nine days weren't all fun and games, though. There were low points, such as the weather. 90 degrees plus is never pleasant, but add to 90 percent humidity, dorks with no air conditioning, and athletes with health problems, and you'll wonder why these games were ever allowed to take place in the middle of a sultry South Bend summer. The Opening Ceremonies, pared down to a polished two-hour ABC production, actually lasted a total of six hours, including the two hours some athletes had to stand waiting for the rest of the participants to assemble in the Notre Dame Stadium.

I also found myself wondering why the athletes got the worst seats in the stadium. After all, the ceremonies were for them, and the colorful uniforms made it possible for even the physically challenged to get a good view of the ceremonies. I found myself thinking about the dedication and sacrifice that goes into wearing a uniform. What they went through that day, I thought. You'd have to be a medallist. "But I didn't change that, so I'll have to accept it."

DETROIT - Tom Candiotti pitched 7 2/3 no-hit innings until Matt Nokes singled for Detroit's only hit Wednesday night, but the Tigers beat the Cleveland Indians 2-1.

Candiotti hurt himself with his own wildness, walking seven and making a wild pick-off throw. A walk and first baseman Joe Carter's error led to a run in the fifth inning, and a walk and Nokes' single made it 2-0 in the eighth.

With Cleveland trailing in the eighth, Candiotti could have been within one out of pitching a no-hitter. But Nokes lined a clean single over second baseman Tommy Hinske's head to score pinch runner Jim Walewander, who entered after a leadoff walk to Darrell Evans.

Candiotti, a knuckleballer, fell to 7-14. One of the victories was a one-hitter against New York on Aug. 1, when Candiotti held the Yankees hitless for seven innings. Candiotti struck out seven.

Detroit's only hit Wednesday came off Candiotti on a two-run opposite field homer in the eighth inning to snap a scoreless tie and lift the Blue Jays to a 7-6 victory over the California Angels Wednesday.

Bell's homer, his American League-leading 42nd, came off a 3-0 pitch from Dave Stieb, and offset a two-run two-hitter by California's George Hendrick in the top of the inning that had tied the score 5-5.

White Sox 5, Rangers 0

CHICAGO - Greg Walker hit a three-run homer and Dave LaPoint combined with Bobby Thigpen on a five-hitter Wednesday night as the Chicago White Sox beat the Texas Rangers 5-0.

LaPoint, 3-2, gave up four hits in seven innings. He struck out three and walked one. Thigpen relieved to start the eighth and allowed a single to Ruben Sierra, who had three hits.

Walker's 24th homer capped four-run sixth inning. Fred Manrique and Jerry Hairston singled with one out off Paul Assenmacher, and Dave Calderon had an RBI single.

Mariners 8, Orioles 6

BALTIMORE - Mickey Brantley drove in three runs with pair of doubles and Dave Valle had two RBI singles Wednesday night, leading the Seattle Mariners over the Baltimore Orioles 8-6.

Yankees 3, Athletics 2

NEW YORK - Jerry Rositer singled home the winning run in the 10th inning after Mickey Tettleton's passed ball allowed Don Mattingly to reach base.

Hatcher left in limbo after bat incident

HOUSTON - A suspension of Houston outfielder Billy Hatcher for using a corked bat would be a serious blow to the Astros' chances of repeating as National League Western Division champions, Manager Hal Lanier says.

Hatcher, one of the few Astros who has hit consistently all season, was ejected in the fourth inning of Tuesday night's 3-2 loss to Chicago after his bat split in two, revealing it had been corked.

Umpire crew chief John McSherry said the bat contained 3-4 inches of cork and had been sent to the league office. Kay Feeney, the league's spokesperson, said it would be several days before a decision could be made on suspension.

"I have to stand up for him because the bat wasn't even his," Lanier said. "I'd hate to have a player of his caliber for any length of time at this stage of the pennant race.

Hatcher is hitting .311, ranks fourth in the NL with 148 hits.

He has 11 home runs and 57 RBIs, and is batting .300.

Tuesday night's loss was Houston's seventh in a row, dropping the Astros farther behind division leading San Francisco.

Lanier said all of his regular bats were broken, so he unwittingly grabbed the corked bat in Tuesday's loss.

Lanier backed Hatcher's story.

"Putting cork in a bat is not going to help a Billy Hatcher at all because of the kind of hitter he is," Lanier said.

"That is one of the bats our pitchers use to play their silly little games to see how far they can hit the ball in batting practice.

"It just happened to be the same model of bat Billy uses and he was out of bats, so he picked it up."

The incident occurred at a time when the league is looking into the possibility that some batters have loaded their bats with cork or shredded rubber to add distance to their drives.

SAN FRANCISCO - Herm Winningham drove in four runs with a home run and a double as the Montreal Expos defeated the San Francisco Giants 7-3 Wednesday.

With the Expos trailing 3-0 after six innings, Winningham hit a three-run homer to cap a four-run seventh and added an RBI double in the ninth.

Pascual Perez, 1-0, won his first major-league game since July 14, 1985. He left in the seventh with runners at second and third and none out. Perez, the former Atlanta pitcher who had retired the first two batters in six-plus innings.

Reliever Andy McGaffigan retired three straight batters to end the threat in the seventh, and Tim Burke pitched the final two innings for his 13th save.

ST. LOUIS - Bo Diaz hit a two-run homer with two outs in the eighth inning, leading the Cincinnati Reds to a 3-1 victory over the St. Louis Cardinals Wednesday at Busch Stadium.

Diaz's homer, his 14th of the season, snapped a 1-1 tie. The hit followed a walk to Buddy Bell by Danny Cox, 9-5, who had retired the first two batters in the inning.

Ron Robinson, 7-3, gained his fourth straight victory for Cincinnati with relief help in the final three innings from Frank Williams and John Franco, who gained his 25th save.

It was the second straight win for the Reds, who had dropped nine of their previous 11 contests. By winning, third-place Cincinnati moved five games behind the NL leaders.

NFL brings back old clock

Associated Press

NEW YORK - NFL owners bowed to pressure from coaches Wednesday and scrapped the experimental 40-second clock, reinstating the old 30-second clock for the regular season and playoffs.

In a vote taken by computerized teletype, 13 teams voted to retain the clock and 15 voted against it. Under NFL by-laws, any new rule must be approved by 21 of the 32 teams.

Under the experiment, approved by the owners last spring, the 40-second clock was started as soon as the whistle blew to end the previous play. After timeouts, teams had 25 seconds to put the ball into play.

Are the Irish ready for those games? Last year all but one of the tight contests slipped away.

"I think our players learned what it takes to compete week in and week out against the schedule we play," Holtz said. "I hope the USC game (a 38-27 Irish comeback victory in the last game of the season) proved to them what it takes to win the close games against good teams."

Yes, the returning Irish players have been there before. For some, the 24-23 Michigan triumph in Notre Dame Stadium was a game Notre Dame really won. Replays clearly showed that tight end Joel Williams landed inbounds with the potential game-winning touchdown even though an official said otherwise.

For others, the Irish defeat was a case of veteran placekicker John Carney not coming through under pressure, as his 46-yard field-goal attempt in the waning seconds fell wide left and short. In any case, another tough Notre Dame schedule in 1987 should mean at least a few more of those nail-biters.

In preparation for the opening game, Holtz began holding practice on the astroturf of Carter Field on Wednesday.

In addition, some of the Irish reserves (the prep team) are wearing the numbers of Michigan starters and running Wolverine plays against the Irish first teams.

"You never know how they're going to play on the turf front of 106,000 people," Holtz said. "They've been doing well on grass (scrimmages) in front of 54,000 no-shows."

The last scrimmage of the season is slated for Friday afternoon in Notre Dame Stadium, and is completely closed.

Under the old rule, which will be back in use for the final week of the exhibition season, teams had 30 seconds to snap the ball after the referee signalled it ready for play.

Proponents of the 40-second clock, led by Tex Schramm of the Dallas Cowboys, argued that not only did it speed up the games but that they seemed better paced.

Women's cross country strong heading into Purdue Triangular

By THERESA KELLY
Sports Writer

Running across the golf courses of the Midwest is not everyone's idea of a good time, but the Irish women's cross country team does just that, training hard and racing against some tough competition.

Coach Dan Ryan has already seen improvement in what is only the second year of varsity competition for the Irish.

"We've got our top seven runners returning," said Ryan. "Plus the addition of several strong freshmen and some good walk-ons."

Last year's team leaders, Julia Merkel and Kathleen Lehman, are back to improve on last season's impressive performances. Freshman additions to the team are Jenny Ledrick, Renee Kaptur, and Teresa Lemanski.

"We're really strong and deep," said Ryan. "The team has strong individuals, but our depth may be the deciding factor in all the meets." The first test of that depth comes this weekend at the Purdue Triangular.

"We're up against some tough competition with Purdue and Illinois State," said Ryan. Both teams finished among the top fifteen in last year's tough district meet.

"This weekend will be a good indication of what to expect for the season," said Ryan. "This will take the place of our time trials, so we'll find out a lot about the team."

Ryan says the team is greatly improved, but the schedule is also tougher than in 1986. "We've dropped the dual meet with Detroit and added Ball State, plus the Notre Dame Invitational, which includes Michigan State, Virginia and top teams from the NAIA and Divisions I and II."

But the toughest race for the Irish will, as always, be the District Meet. The district includes Wisconsin (number two in the nation last year) and Iowa (ranked No. 14 nationwide). A goal for Ryan's team is to finish in the top fifteen at District.

Another battle will be for the North Star Conference championship. Ryan expects the Irish and the Blue Demons of DePaul to run a close race for the title. "DePaul has two outstanding individuals, twin sisters who are great runners. I expect our depth to overcome the strength of those two."

With good reason, Ryan is enthusiastic about the upcoming season. "I've seen significant improvements over last year. The girls came in to practice in shape and ready to go. We worked with them from there, and everything is going really well."

Top seeds successful

Edberg of Sweden, No. 3 Mats Wilander of Sweden and No. 5 Miloslav Meir of Czechoslovakia.

In women's play, top-seeded Steffi Graf downed Bettina Fulco of Argentina 6-0, 6-3. Connors served extremely well against Rive, ranked 101st in the world. The five-time U.S. Open champion got 89 percent of his first serves in during the match, including 96 percent in the final set.

"I played quite well," he said. "I just wanted to keep my mind on my business."

Notre Dame gets away with win

By PETE OKKO
Sports Writer

The Notre Dame soccer team opened its season at Loyola on Tuesday, narrowly escaping in overtime by the score of 2-1. The outcome was a little too narrow for Irish Head Coach Dennis Grace.

"Hey, we'll take the win," said Grace, in his fourth year as the Irish mentor, "but we'll certainly have to play with a lot more intensity than that if we're going to compete this year. We were definitely up and down. We had two or three goals by the time we got our first goal, and then we let down after we did score."

The win came by virtue of freshman Steve LaVigne's goal seven minutes into the extra session on a nice feed from junior Randy Morris. Morris opened the scoring at the 22 minute mark with the assist going Bruce "Tiger" McCourt, the 12th leading scorer in Notre Dame history. Loyola tallied early in the second period to tie the game, and that's the way it stayed until LaVigne fired home the game-winner.

To Grace, however, the win was but consolation for his squad's relatively lackluster performance.

"In competitive soccer, teams are most vulnerable to a letdown right after they score or right after they are scored upon," explained Grace. "We definitely eased up after we got the early goal. Essentially, we sat back, watched the game, and hoped they (Loyola) wouldn't score. You can't do that and expect to win against a good soccer team. Loyola gained confidence with every minute that we didn't score. Loyola taught us a lot—hopefully next time we'll do the teaching."

Grace realizes, however, that it is early in the season and that he played the limit of 18 players during the course of the game, many of them freshmen.

"Not only did I play 18, but all 18 were in by halftime," said Grace. "At the half, one of the coaches told me that we had played the limit already and I was trying to give a lot of the younger guys a chance, and that might have cost us."

"But I don't anticipate that we'll contribute to the letdowns. But I do see that there are a lot of problems similar to those as the season wears on. The veterans know what's expected of them, and the freshmen need that experience."

Randy Morris and the Notre Dame soccer team defeated Loyola in the season opener Tuesday. Pete Skiko has the details at left.

"Hail to the victors . . . ."

One of the Notre Dame second-string linemen was humming the Michigan fight song after starting quarterback Terry Andrysiak fumbled a snap and the defense recovered. That was in a pre-season loss.

But in less than two weeks—nine days to be exact—it's not going to be a second-string lineman. And he's not going to be humming, either.

In front of some 106,000 people at Michigan Stadium next Saturday afternoon, 11 hungry Wolverine defenders will be lining up to take their shots at Andyramiak, a quarterback with a lot of weight on his relatively untested shoulders.

"The consistency of Terry Andrysiak will go a long way toward determining whether or not we're going to have a successful year," Holtz said. "He's shown good control of the offense so far (this fall). There are still a few things to work on and sharpen up, but he has established himself as our number-one quarterback."

The senior started one game last season and one during his sophomore year, and has completed 52 of his 91 career passes.

And although Michigan Stadium is not the friendliest of places to begin a tenure as Notre Dame's number-one quarterback, Andrysiak has an interesting viewpoint on the welcoming he will receive nine days from now.

"I'm really looking forward to it," he said. "The pressure of playing there might get me away from the pressure of playing for Coach Holtz in practice day and day out. They really pick you to death around here."

But the keen eye Holtz has been keeping on his top signal-caller seems to be paying off. Andrysiak has been solid in both fall scrimmages so far, completing most of his passes and running the option well.

"It's really hard to tell how much better you're getting when they're always after you to keep at it," Andrysiak said. "But I feel confident."

"The big thing for me right now is keeping things under control and that's what we'll concentrate on, he added.

If Irish strong safety George Streeter has his way, Notre Dame's opposition will be utilizing a lot of ice and tape after 60 minutes when he -and Southall take the field at the top spot at strong safety.

"We'll have a different crew out there this season," said Streeter. "But they are playing well together and they have come to understand the system very well in the past year."

"To play defensive back, you have to have the physical ability to do it, and maintain concentration on your job. We know what we have to do and have the physical ability to do it, and maintain concentration on your job."

"Streeter will be returning to the strong safety position that was good, but we have to keep working harder on that aspect of our play."

Streeter is welcomed by the passing of his sophomore year, and has completed 52 of his 91 career passes.

Over the last few years, Notre Dame secondaries have been in the shadow of exceptional Irish defensive line and linebacking squads. With added depth and a hard-hitting backfield, this year's defensive backfield should leave its own mark on Irish fans, as well as Irish opponents.
