Flu shots instituted at N.D.

By CARL PUTNAM

Free flu shots will be offered by the University Health Services to all students, faculty and staff for the first time.

The program, new this year, is engineered by Carol Seeger, Director of the Health Center, and Dr. James Moriarty. Flu shots are very important, especially in a campus environment where so many people live in such close contact, according to Dr. James Moriarty, who is instituting the program.

"Flu is not just diarrhea and vomiting," he said. "It is a respiratory disease that causes headaches, coughs, for a period of two to three weeks, he said. "Flu is very difficult to treat. Plan on being laid up for a week."

Moriarty advised all students to avail themselves of the program. People should get flu inoculations annually because see FLU, page 3

Demands to Nicaragua listed

Associated Press

NEW YORK - The White House has compiled a list of demands the Nicaraguan government must accept if the Sandinistas want to prevent a request to Congress for more military aid to the Contras, according to a published report.

The document, published in Sunday editions, said the list includes several conditions that are not part of the Central American peace agreement signed in Guatemala two months ago.

One of the conditions calls for Nicaragua to hold new presidential elections well before those scheduled for 1990, the newspaper quoted an unidentified senior White House official as saying.

Among the other conditions, the Sandinistas must release all of their roughly 2,300 political prisoners, negotiate a cease-fire with the Contras, give the Contras unconditional amnesty that allows them to run for office, put an end to Cuban and Soviet military aid and evict all Cuban and Soviet military advisers.

UAW may set GM strike deadline

DETROIT - Negotiators for the United Auto Workers union met with officials of General Motors on Wednesday but failed to reach a settlement, setting the stage for a possible strike next week.

The meeting, attended by union president Owen Bieber and 11 other union negotiators, met for about an hour with the GM team.

GM spokesman Howard Erickson said the company negotiators would not discuss the talks until a settlement is reached.

But Bieber said the negotiations at the "big table" Friday centered on how the agreement ratified last week by UAW members at Ford Motor Co. could be tailored to GM.

The three-year Ford-UAW contract calls for preservation of 104,000 jobs, except in periods of sales slumps; a 3 percent pay boost in the contract's first year and 3 percent lump sum payments in the last two years; and an extension of a plant-closing moratorium, excluding two plants the company previously announced would be closed.

GM has three times the number of employees as Ford, and some analysts have expressed concern about the nation's top automaker's pattern of a job-security provision after that at GM.

However, some of that concern softened last week after the analysts noted that workers may be laid off during production cuts due to slow sales.

Power outages occurred in numerous areas, and many residents, some in bathrobes, gathered outside apartments and houses, waiting for more shocks. Others, camped out in a downtown parking lot, said they had been there since Thursday.

"We are glad we stayed out here," said a man who identified himself only as Hector. "At least here we feel safe."

Mildred Robbins, 66, of Arcadia, was pronounced dead at 5:14 a.m. on Thursday at Arcadia General Hospital after going into full cardiac arrest, said administrative supervisor Terry Pisenti. Efforts to revive her failed.

Pisenti said the heart attack was attributed to the quake.

"It was pretty terrible," said Mark Rosener, who was on the 16th floor of the Century Plaza Hotel in Los Angeles. "Let me tell you, it does get you up."

The 3:59 a.m. quake was the 22nd aftershock registering more than 3.5 in the San Diego quake, which measured 6.1 on the Richter scale and caused six deaths and more than $100 million in damage.

Sunday shock, centered about two miles west of Thursday's, was felt 40 miles west of Los Angeles in Ventura County and 100 miles south in San Diego. It was followed by three tremors measuring 3.0 or more within four hours.

Worker to be tried in Beauchamp case

FERNDALE, Mich. - The suspect in the slaying of Father William Beauchamp's elderly parents was ordered Friday to be tried on first-degree murder charges, court officials said.

Michael Root, a 47-year-old taxi driver, is charged with murdering the Beauchamps, who were found strangled to death on Oct. 30, 1986.

Judge Robert Anderson, a clerk said.

Linda Nilda Lopez were arrested Sept. 11 at a cabin in rural Mecona County, Illinois, five days after Edward and Marion Beauchamp were found strangled in the cabin they were renting west of the Detroit suburb of Ferndale.

Lopez was arrested along with two on charges of passing bad checks at a grocery store in Morley, also in Mecona County, several days before the police from several agencies tracked them to the cabin in western Lower Michigan.

Lopez remained held Friday in the Mecona County Jail pending arraignment Oct. 14 before Circuit Court.

No bond was set for a man who declined identification. Conviction on either murder charge carries a mandatory life prison term without parole; conviction on the sex charge is punishable by up to 15 years imprisonment, officials said.

Root remained held without bond in the Oakland County Jail pending arraignment Oct. 14 before Circuit Court officials said.

Shut up and listen, I've got something to say

"Shut up and listen!"
Sometimes these words seem to be the only way to get anyone’s attention around here. Everyone is so busy abusing, insulting and degrading each other through columns, letters and personal ads that discussion seems to be nearly a lost art. And the loss of this ability to communicate hurts the University as a place of education.

Education is the primary goal of this learning institution; we may differ in our opinions about the appropriate process for that education or what it is that should be taught, but for the most part we acknowledge that we are here to learn. By education we mean more than just having our heads stuffed full of quadratic equations, Shakespeare and Church teachings. Education is not supposed to be a passive experience. The latin root of the word, "educare," means to lead forth or to draw out. The process of education when understood as a "drawing out" necessi­ tates a free interplay of new and different ideas which are to be taken from others, opposed to criticism and eventually accepted or rejected.

Clearly, then, the art of dialogue is essential to Notre Dame's work. Our ability to speak with and, more importantly, listen to each other is the litmus test by which we can judge our suc­ cess as a place of learning.

In order to learn, we must listen. Yet it seems that more and more of us are unwilling to chose our mouths and open our minds. Factionalism is rampant; we talk and associate with others who share our views and from our snug nest of ideology label everyone else as "them."

It is ironic and somewhat surprising that these factions which are at the extremes on this campus employ the very same attitude and methods in dealing with issues like abortion, feminism and homosexuality. The campus "right" (who know that they are right) operate on a level of smugness. Their attitude boils down to, "I know the truth of this issue, and I have nothing more to learn about it. If you cannot see my position then you are a liberal and if you are a liberal you are a fool. I have no time for you or your positions." The left, not to be outdone, responds, "You are wrong, you are very very wrong. The things which you believe are illusions and if you cannot see this you are obstinate and deserve to be attacked and mocked."

There is no room for either of these attitudes in a community which wishes to foster learning and growth.

If someone really believes that they see com­ pellingly wrong in our views and if they wish to see reform, then it is incumbent upon them to polemic and I will not lower myself to your arguments. I will not stoop to personal attack, I will not resort to polemics and I will not lower myself to your standard of debate. My position does not need to be defended by such poor weapons; it stands on its own merits.

Thank you for listening. You can talk now.

Frontrunner Bush tours Europe

Associated Press

WASHINGTON - Polish Solidarity leader Lech Walesa had just lavishly praised Vice President Bush in Warsaw as a man who "deserves to lead a great nation," when Bush was asked how it felt to have the great nation," when Bush was asked how it felt to have the

"The question is, how many relatives does he have in Iowa?" the vice president replied with barely a pause.

"That's the only thing I want to know."

Bush's jocular reference to the state that will pick early delegates to next year's Republican National Convention demonstrated the extent to which his official nine-day visit to Europe occurred against a backdrop of domestic politics.

Bush, who returned home on Monday, will make a formal declaration of his candidacy for the 1988 Republican presidential nomination on Oct. 12.

Bush insisted throughout that the trip was an official one, and the federal government picked up the cost. In London, he uttered a denial that he was behaving in a political fashion while standing a few feet from a video camera hired by his campaign organization.

And he and aides expressed particular satisfaction at the diplomatic outcome of his trip to Poland, where he met with government leaders, church officials and leaders of the banned Solidarity movement over a delicately scripted four days.

But having pronounced the trip a success, Bush said on his final day in Europe on Saturday that he expected to receive some political benefit.

"If the trip had not been successful, if it had been viewed as a massive failure ... there would have been some major political fallout for me," he said.

"There's bound to be some political benefit" the way it turned out, he concluded.

Bush's chief of staff, Craig Fuller, told reporters he believes Bush is helped politically every time he undertakes a foreign policy assignment because it underscores his experience in the field.

Bush's conservative campaign rivals may envy the vice president the dramatic videotape of him and Walesa appearing before thousands of cheering Poles at the balcony of a pro-Solidarity church in Poland.

However, they may also criticize Bush for several elements of his trip:

The prospective agreement with the Soviet Union to eliminate intermediate-range nuclear weapons, which some conservatives already are complaining about.

-Bush's delicate mission in Poland. There, he lent moral support to outlawed Solidarity and Walesa with a series of dramatic gestures, but agreed to help the Communist Polish government ameliorate its foreign debt problem without winning concrete human rights concessions from ruling Gen. Wojciech Jaruzelski in exchange.

the disease changes its "fingerprint" every year.

The risk of developing complications from the injection are extremely low, according to Moriarity. He said the shot does not have the adverse effects it did 10-15 years ago and is 99 percent effective. "I will be first in line to get the shot," he said.

Nevertheless, he conceded certain people should be cautious about getting the shot. Pregnant women, people allergic to chicken eggs (the vaccine is grown inside a chicken egg) and people who have a fever or cold should consult a doctor before taking the shot, he said.

Several types of people are more susceptible to influenza than the general population, according to Moriarity.

Anyone taking drugs that suppress the immune system (such as cortozone), afflicted by allergies or asthma, older than sixty or having a history of being immuno-deficiency are at high risk, he said.

The shots will be administered on Monday, October 12, and Wednesday, October 14, in the LaFortune Lounge in the Father Serin Cathedral Library at 10 a.m. and 10 p.m. People who are not able to take the shot at these times can go to the Health Center to receive their free shots at any time.

Crime in decline: down 20 percent since 1981

Associated Press
WASHINGTON - Americans were victimized by an estimated 34.1 million crimes last year, a decline of three-quarters of a million from 1985 and down more than 7 million from 1984, the government reported Sunday. The survey of about 100,000 people in 50,000 households by the Bureau of Justice Statistics found that the rate of violent crime dropped 6.3 percent last year compared to 1985 and has fallen 30 percent since 1981. The survey counts crimes whether or not they were reported to police and uses the results to estimate the number of criminal incidents nationwide. Criminologists say the five-year downward trend is due to the aging of the baby-boom generation, the movement of people born after World War II out of the age group most prone to commit crimes, those from 15 to 24. As the children of baby-boomers come of age in increasing numbers later this decade, crime levels should begin turning upward because of the "sheer number of children entering their teen-age years," said Marvin Wolfgang, professor of criminology and law at the University of Pennsylvania.

Last year's figures may represent a bottoming out of the decline, which showed some signs of slowing down in 1986, said Alfred Blumstein, dean of the school of urban and public affairs at Carnegie-Mellon University in Pittsburgh.

In the first three years of the decade which began in 1981, the number of crimes fell by nearly 6 million. The number of assaults per 1,000 people fell 7.9 percent last year, while there were smaller declines in the rates of rape, theft, burglary and household larceny.

Haig: Woodward's account accurate

Associated Press
HUDSON, N.H. - President Reagan was gravely ill following the attempt on his life in Washington, D.C. on Monday, doctors said Tuesday.

"If you knew the truth, it would make your hair stand on end," said Haig as he left a hospital where he had been treated for a bleeding ulcer.

Haig, campaigning in New Hampshire this summer for the Republican presidential nomination, said he was ''very pleased'' with the author Bob Woodward's depiction of a White House in chaos and a president who was seriously impaired after being shot in the chest.

In his new book, "Veil: the Secret Wars of the CIA, 1981-1987," Woodward wrote that White House aids soon discovered that the smiling and waving president who left the hospital two weeks after the shooting had been acting for the public.

The day after leaving the hospital, Woodward said, Reagan collapsed into a chair, spoke in a raspy whisper and had to use oxygen to recover. During the following days, the president was able to work or attend meetings only an hour or so a day, Woodward wrote.

Sessions to take oath as director of FBI

Associated Press
WASHINGTON - William Sessions, now scheduled to take formal charge of the FBI later this week, said Saturday he felt fine but "a little gray" as he left a hospital where he had been treated for a bleeding ulcer.

Sessions originally had been scheduled to take the oath as FBI director at a ceremony last Thursday but the proceedings had to be postponed when he was admitted into George Washington University Medical Center after becoming ill on an airplane flight.

"I feel fine - a little gray - but I feel good generally," Sessions told reporters as he left the hospital.

He was accompanied by his wife, Alice, who carried a bouquet of yellow roses.

Sessions said his swearing-in ceremony had been rescheduled for 2:30 p.m. Thursday at the FBI building. He praised his doctors and said he intended to follow their advice, which included a special diet and some medication.

Sessions was stricken Wednesday night aboard an airliner on the way from Dallas to Washington and was taken by FBI officials from National Airport to the hospital. There, doctors discovered a previously undiagnosed small ulcer in the upper portion of the small intestine.

Sessions had taken aspirin on an empty stomach, became sick and fainted on the flight from Dallas. Doctors said the ulcer flared up when he took the aspirin.
Reagan hails trade agreement

Associated Press

WASHINGTON - President Reagan hailed a tentative U.S.-Canadian trade agreement Sunday that would eliminate all tariffs between the two countries as a "win-win situation," good for both countries.

"Now, in addition to sharing the world's largest undefended border, we'll share membership in the world's largest free trade area," he said in a statement released at the White House.

Treasury Secretary James Baker and Canadian Finance Minister Michael Wilson said their countries were confident the agreement would be acceptable to the U.S. Senate and Canada's parliament. Both described it as a "win-win situation," good for both countries.

U.S. trade Representative Clayton Yeutter said some tariffs would be dropped upon implementation of the treaty and others would be phased out over five to 10 years.

Baker said the tentative agreement also eliminates other trade barriers and will improve trade in agriculture. He called it a "political signal against protectionism."

Baker described the negotiations, which he said culminated a 100-year effort to reach a trade agreement with the two countries, as "taxing and at times overwhelming." The U.S. and Canadian negotiators had settled on the general framework for the pact linking the world's two largest trading partners just before the midnight Saturday deadline that had been set for submission of the agreement to Congress.

Neither side gave much hope for the agreement, Baker said, "I would characterize it as an agreement in principle. We still have to cross somers and dot ls. We are continuing to clean up loose ends."

The president's statement was released at the White House.

Report accuses State Dept. of illegal propaganda

Associated Press

WASHINGTON - An office within the State Department engaged in an illegal, covert "white propaganda" effort to generate support for the Reagan administration's policies in Central America, according to congressional investigators.

A report was created in 1983, the department's Office of Public Diplomacy for Latin America and the Caribbean at times arranged news media interviews for leaders of Nicaragua's Contra rebels and generated opinion articles opposing Nicaragua's leftist Sandinista government for placement in major media outlets, while carefully concealing its own role in the publicity effort, according to investigators for the General Accounting Office's Congress' investigative arm.

For example, a March 11, 1985 opinion column in the Wall Street Journal on the offensive threat posed by Soviet attack helicopters in Nicaragua was attributed to Rice University professor John Guilmartin Jr. GAO said Guilmartin's status as a paid consultant to the public diplomacy office and the office's collaboration on the article apparently were not disclosed to the newspaper.

The GAO concluded that the activities "were misleading as to their origin and reasonably could be characterized as 'white propaganda,'" within the common understanding of that term, and violated the legal ban on use of federal money for propaganda that specifically authorized by Congress.

In addition, the six-month GAO investigation turned up documents seen by investigators appraising the draft for Congress' Iran-Contra probe, but which were not turned over by the White House under a sweeping request for all documents which could have a bearing on the investigation.

"It makes me wonder what else is still being hidden from Congress and the American people," said Rep. Dante Fascell, D-Fla., chairman of the House Foreign Affairs Committee. Fascell requested the GAO investigation along with House Foreign Operations Committee Chairman Jack Brooks, D-Texas.

The public diplomacy office was set up by the White House in June 1982 to lobby Congress for increased economic and military aid in support of administration policies in Central America and to head off "crippling restrictions" on such aid, according to its first chief, political appointee Otto J. reich. Reich now is U.S. ambassador to Venezuela.

The office has come under previous criticism for its awarding of contracts to International Business Communications, a public relations firm that worked closely with fired White House aide Lt. Col. Oliver North on private efforts to help the Contras.

Teacher strike expected to end

Associated Press

CHICAGO - Teachers considered Sunday whether to accept a tentative contract agreement that would return them to their classrooms, ending a four-week school strike that has been the longest in the city's history.

The Chicago Teachers Union's House of Delegates was expected to approve the two-year pact, sending the system's 28,000 teachers and other striking employees back to the classroom Monday, said union spokesman Chuck Burdeen.

If approved by the delegates, the contract would be submitted for a rank-and-file vote over the next few weeks, Burdeen said.

The system's 430,000 students would return Tuesday, officials said.

Teachers went on strike Sept. 8, their ninth walkout in 18 years.

The proposed contract, reached Saturday, called for a 4 percent pay raise this year and a 4 percent increase the next year, with the second-year increase depending on additional state funds. The contract also called for some reductions in class size.

The Board of Education, which has insisted it had no money for raises, planned to finance the $43.8 million package largely through layoffs, including teacher layoffs, said board spokesman Robert Sadowski.

"You're asking if teachers are going to be hurt in this process? You bet," he said Sunday.

He estimated that 1,300 full-time and 300 part-time positions would be cut because of the new contract, many of them classroom teachers with the least seniority.

About 100 people would get layoff notices this week, he said.

"This is the cost of the contract they (teachers) wanted," he said.

"Ask (teachers union president) Vaughn who much they think of it. The blood's on her hands, not ours," Burdeen said.

Barred because the threat of layoffs was still speculative. saying many of the positions targeted for layoffs already were vacant.

Moreover, he said the union and the board plan to lobby the Illinois General Assembly for more state funds for Chicago schools when the legislature meets, he said.

KKK holds rally, attracts protestors

Associated Press

EPHRATA, Pa. - Ku Klux Klansmen dressed in traditional white garb burned a 15-foot cross Saturday night in a rally in this quiet township, while hundreds of opponents staged counterdemonstrations.

Klan Imperial Wizard James Farrands of Shelton, Conn., and about 25 other Klansmen lit the cross as about 200 Klan supporters looked on. Meanwhile, about 300 anti-Klan demonstrators and spectators gathered a few hundred feet away, some of them shouting "Death to the Klan!" and "KKK go home!"

About 40 police officers in riot gear stood by as the two demonstrations were held. Although an anti-Klan rally in Lancaster, about nine miles away, attracted some 600 persons who lit candles and said prayers.

Earlier, five anti-Klan protestors were arrested after briefly talking with Klansmen, police said.

About nine groups, including the NAACP and the National Conference of Christians and Jews, supported the anti-Klan vigil.

Press overstepping its boundaries

We've already heard a lot in these pages about presidential politics in this day and age. So what is really going on? Do they have the most current issues? Do they really need to be worried about? Or are we just feeding the same. The irony is that liberals like another liberal is at least partly adversarial, muckraking journalism.

Since Democratic candidates so far have borne the brunt of this media campaign, the issue of Bush's age is being overplayed. Patricia Schroeder won't even be eligible to vote for the president. Joe Biden is a graduate student in law school. But lately, searching for news about the current presidential contest has been like flipping through the latest edition of People magazine. Some recent headlines: Gary Hart has love affair! Donna Rice tells all! Joe Biden plagiarizes Rinckno, Kennedy, et al! Biden cheats on law school paper! Patricia Schroeder won't run, tearfully cites the dread of endless "photo opportunities"!

Patricia Schroeder wept that she feared too many people would try for digging so far into his past and ignoring his pet issues (er -- what were they again?). Hart warned that events ring a bit hollow.

Therefore, you'll excuse me if I don't weep along with Gary and Patricia, or share Joe's anger. Their bitter denunciation of the press is not new.

This is not to say that Mr. Hart has no point. The fact is that the media has not only become a fourth branch of government. Anyone viewing the hostile atmosphere of presidential press conferences, the self-righteousness of the Sam Donaldsons of this world in defending the guy's cherished "role" in questioning governmental officials, can sympathize with those on the receiving end.

The sad truth is that the U.S. Government does not support human rights in Central America. The U.S. Government, in fact, does not know what it supports. Didn't we hold the Sandinistas overthrow the Somoza Dictatorship? The Sandinistas made many promises about how they would repair the Nicaraguan land. As soon as they showed Marxist tendencies, U.S. aid was cut off. And those darn Sandinistas never fulfilled their promises. Enter the Contras. Are they anti-Communist? No, not really. Nicaraguan problem needs a deeper look

Dear Editor:

I feel the need to express my concern over the views presented by Glenn Fogarty in his September 29 column. Mr. Fogarty has presented a succinct, yet erroneous view of the Nicaraguan problem. I use the term "erroneous" because he has failed to look deep into the nature of the conflict, instead choosing to wave the flag of one-sided statistics and rhetoric.

The Sandinista Government of Nicaragua is not perfect, but in the same sense it cannot be cast aside as the "Evil Empire" Mr. Fogarty claims it to be. The majority of his claims against the Sandinistas, such as the scarcity of food and resources, can be traced to the simple fact that the United States is funding an overtly covert war against Nicaragua. This war has put an incredible strain on both the political and the socio-economic status and its people.

I am not making apologies for the actions of the Sandinistas, only asking that they be viewed in the context of the Central American conflict. Mr. Fogarty forms his views from the U.S. State Department reports and Gallup Polls of Central Americans. I have formed my views through living in the region and sharing the joys and sorrows of the people. These people do not exist solely to be cared for by the Sandinistas, but in the same breath, tell of the pain suffered under the U.S. backed dictator ship (they the Sandinistas) overthrow Nicaragua. This war has put an incredible strain on both the political and socio-economic status and its people.

KISS’ latest offer ‘heavy metal tedum’

The press release for the new KISS album Crazy Nights says that KISS has delivered another album of the ‘oversexed, supercharged music that their fans have been clamoring for.’ Unfortunately for Kiss and its fans, this just isn’t true.

KISS is oversexed in the hackneyed way that most metal bands are. That means you get a picture of Paul Stanley revealing his bikini briefs on the album cover and lyrics like “You’re looking nasty and I’m in too deep/You’ll be real happy to be losing sleep.”

If state sexual posings were enough to make a great heavy metal band, Kiss might still be as big as they are the music on Crazy Nights being supercharged, bands like Metallica, Slayer, and Motorhead have changed the heavy metal format from sluggish, slow-moving jams to mile-a-minute, molar grinding thunders. This new hybrid of punk and heavy metal makes bands like Whitesnake and Kiss seem extremely tame in comparison.

Even if one doesn’t compare Crazy Nights to the new Metallica album, it still sounds tame. This is probably due mostly to producer Ron Nevison, a man who learned the trade by engineering some of Led Zeppelin’s later albums. He then resurrected the career of Heart by bringing in outside writers and making them sound like Mr. Malarkey with a female vocalist. Kiss has done its own production for the past several years, and the decision to bring in Nevison seems to indicate that Kiss is attempting to reach the same audience that has made such hard-pop glam groups as Bon Jovi and Poison some of the most popular bands in America.

In light of all this, the songs on Crazy Nights make perfect sense. The first single is slippery, “Crazy, Crazy Nights,” and it has a catchy hook, lyrics that belong in a beer commercial. (You are my crowd/This is our music/We love it loud etc.), and a minimum of nasty screaming or guitar soloing. Short it’s a Bon Jovi song.

Later on you get “Good Girl Gone Bad,” a car sex song just like Bon Jovi AND Poison. Kiss again goes to please the more serious metal heads with “No, No, No” in which they rip off Van Halen’s “Get Up” which was a rip-off of speed metal in general.

Guitarist Bruce Kulick runs up and down the fret-board as fast as he can, and drummer Eric Carr hits his toms relentlessly in search of the elusive Alex Van Halen sound, but that only means that “No, No, No” ends up sounding like Van Halen. For a band like Kiss, once the most easily recognizable band in the world, being generic is sad indeed.

In fact “generic” is the key word to this whole album. Generic production, generic playing, generic ripped jeans and leather and generic lyrics like “Turn on the night/I can’t wait/I can’t wait any longer” all add up to one boring album. Boring is only a step above generic metal and band can’t afford to be. This is especially true when Metallica and their ilk are causing audiences to completely desert the auditorium and each other and are recording sales with every release.

Even worse, Kiss used to be an original (if goofy) band capable of writing compelling tunes like “Rock and Roll All Night” and “Stutterer.” This was a rumor this summer that Kiss was going to put its make-up back on and go spitting blood and fire. It might have been stupid, but at least it was funny. It could have rescued them from the heavy metal tedum where they now reside. Skip Crazy Nights, and get your money back from your local Sunline or Destroyer instead.

Another story out there is that Kiss has rescued them from the heavy metal tedum where they now reside. Skip Crazy Nights, and get your money back from your local Sunline or Destroyer instead.

How to find the broker who fits your needs

This is the second in a series of investment tips for Notre Dame students. The first part of this series discussed the investment opportunities available to the small investor in the stock market. This part of the series will focus on the choices of brokerage companies and how these differences influence a new investor's choice of brokers.

If a potential investor has funds that are ready to be invested, the first step is to decide with whom to place the funds. One of the most common ways to do this is to employ the services of a stockbroker. The most decisive an investor faces is one of choosing either a full-service broker or a discount broker. A new investor must examine the advantages and disadvantages of each.

A full-service broker is employed by a firm such as E.F. Hutton or brokerage firm Wholihan McKinnon. These firms are full-service because they offer a wide range of investment services. An investor with money will have no trouble meeting with a full-service broker. As a new investor, you would want to find somebody trusted and somebody who will work with you to meet your investment objectives.

Many new investors will be referred to a stockbroker by a friend. This is usually a wise move. The novice will be provided with the advice and confidence to proceed.

An investor pays approximately three percent commission on the standard stock purchase. Any investor, however, can use the resources of a full-service brokerage regardless of experience. These resources include the research reports that assist brokers in making recommendations. These include information on bonds and mutual funds, as well.

Other services provided by full-service brokerage firms include the capability to invest in limited partnerships, Individual Retirement Accounts (IRA) and insurance. The chief competitors of full-service brokerage firms are discount houses. These firms, such as Schwab and NationsBank, charge less commission than their counterparts.

No. 7 LSU, No. 19 Florida 10

David Browndyke kicked a 24-yard field goal, with 5:33 remaining to snap a 10-10 tie. Florida had a chance to tie it, but Robert Green was wide right on a 57-yard field goal attempt with 15 seconds remaining.

No. 9 Ohio State 10, Illinois 6

Tom Tupa ran five yards for a touchdown and Matt Frantz kicked a 22-yard field goal to give Ohio State a 16-10 lead early in the second quarter. Illinois dominated after that, but managed only Scott Mori's 11-yard passing score to Anthony Williams. Illinois reached the Ohio State 30 in the final minute before running out of downs.

No. 2 Nebraska 30, South Carolina 21

Keith Jones rushed for 129 yards and scored two fourth-quarter touchdowns on 3-yard runs for Nebraska. Todd Ellis followed scoring the final two of 35 and 89 yards as South Carolina built a 21-13 lead midway through the third quarter.

No. 6 Auburn 20, N. Carolina 10

Jeff Burr threw two touchdown passes in the third quarter, including a 2-yarder to Vincent Harris to tie the game and 1:18 remaining, to enable Auburn to overcome North Carolina, which led 10-3 midway of the period. Burger completed 11 of 12 passes for 124 yards in the decisive quarter.

"We needed that win," said Murphy. "I was just trying to stay down on it and not hit it over the goal."

McCourt then put the game out of reach at the 10:50 mark when he took a cross from Roner and beat Wisconsin keeper Bob Roppiasch on the right side.

The Badgers, ranked sixth in the region, fell to 8-4 for the season.

"The kids are ready for a break," said Grace. "They've had four games in nine days. They need the break to regroup."

IRISH ITEMS - Among the 212 fans braving the cold and rain were five who won the halftime Notre Dame Credit Union shootout. They were senior Tom Cramer, juniors Sean Moloney and Dave Hult, sophomore Dave Devine and Mike Gordon, the older brother of wingback Dan Gordon.

NFL action off the field too

Associated Press

Pickets in Philadelphia closed the gates to the stadium and only 4,074 fans entered through a combination of mounted police as thousands of union members supporting the NFL strike demonstrated at game sites on Sunday.

In Detroit, seven people were arrested for disobeying a court order not to interfere with people entering the stadium.

Supporters demonstrated without arrest in other NFL cities, including Denver, Atlanta, Cincinnati, Washington, Buffalo, New Orleans and Pittsburgh.

In Philadelphia, three dozen trucks, tractor-trailer rigs and vans stopped bumper-to-bumper on the street next to Veterans Stadium 45 minutes before game time, paralyzing traffic. One truck had a sign that said, "Teamsters Don't Like Scabs."

One car was attacked by pickets and its windshield smashed and radio antenna ripped off.

The game, which normally would draw about 80,000 people, was attended by only 4,074. Police said about 1,500 pickets were outside the stadium.

In Detroit, only 4,919 fans showed up for a game that had an advance sale of 40,000. At least seven people were arrested, given citations and released for disobeying the orders of police directing traffic, authorities said.

Pickets from several unions joined strikers outside the Louisiana Superdome where fans showed up to watch the third game between L.A. and the smallest crowd in the team's 21-year history.

DETOUR - The Detroit Tigers took advantage of one of the most collapses in baseball history to win the American League East title Sunday, beating the Toronto Blue Jays 1-0 behind the six-hit pitching of Frank Tanana.

The Blue Jays lost their last seven games of the season, including three in a row in this season-ending series in Detroit, squandering a lead over the Tigers that was three-and-a-half games on Sept. 26.

The Tigers, who got a home run from Larry Herndon in the clincher, finished the season two games ahead of the Blue Jays and avoided a one-game playoff that would have been held here Monday if the Blue Jays had won.

Tanana, 15-10, pitched his third shutout, walking three and striking out nine. Herndon put the Tigers ahead with a two-run home run in the eighth.

The Blue Jays also won the division, becoming the first American League West champion since Oakland in 1981 to make the playoffs.

Reggie Jackson played his last major league baseball game yesterday in the Oakland A's win over the Chicago White Sox. The day also highlighted the action yesterday, the final day of the 1987 regular season.

Cubs 7, Expos 5

MONTREAL - Dave Martinez hit a two-run triple and Rafael Palmeiro added solo homers, leading the Chicago Cubs to a 7-5 victory over the Montreal Expos Sunday.

Andre Dawson managed only a single in four at-bats as he helped the Cubs to their first major-league win since Jim Fister in 1977 hit to 50 homers.

Giants 5, Braves 4

SAN FRANCISCO - Bob Brenly led off the 10th inning with his 18th homer, leading the division-champion San Fran­cisco Giants to a 5-4 win Sunday over the Atlanta Braves.

Brenly's homer off reliever Jim Acker, 4:49, capped a day in which the Giants hit four home runs for a new team record of 30. The previous mark of 29 was set in 1982, when the club won its only pennant in San Francisco.

The Irish men's tennis team hosted the Notre Dame-Fall Invitational over the weekend, and although West Virginia entered as the top-ranked team, the Irish were a good team last season. Bob Raylyss was pleased with the weekend's events.

In doubles competition, the Irish teams netted three of the four semifinal spots, but eventually lost to Michigan (with an impressive 6-1, 6-1 in the third set). Dan Walsh was the other Irish team to make the long drive from Virginia and the wet weather a non-factor.

Virginia was on top 26-25, followed by West Virginia's Mancini, who qualified for the NCAA's last year in both cross-country and the 10,000-meter run. His time of 24:18.2 was seven seconds better than his time of a week ago on the same course.

"Danny ran real well," said Raylyss. "Scherer is a great runner, but Danny made it work for us." Behind Garrett was sophomore Mike O'Conner (sixth place), junior Ron Markset (fourth), and then Kearns and Mulvey (third and fourth respectively).

According to Mulvey, the team feels they have still better performances ahead of them. "I think we can surprise a lot of people." The women's cross country team finally achieved something at the Notre Dame Invitational Friday that has alluded them in past meets - a good overall team effort.

The Irish finished fifth in the inaugural 10-team event by placing their top five runners in the top 35. More importantly, the time gap was only 1:26.26 seconds quicker than last week at the National Catholic Championships.

"I was pleased," Irish coach Rick Mulvey noted. "The time spread was better between first and fifth place. We shortened that up a lot." Virginia took first place in the tourney with 30 points. The Cavaliers were paced by Patty Matava who won the meet with a time of 17:59.4. Hilldale was second with 70 points, Kent State third at 77, Ball State fourth at 106, and Notre Dame fifth with 117.

"Virginia is a very strong team," Ryan said. "Hilldale is second in the NAIA, and Kent State and Ball State are strong Mid-American Conference teams. Ball State beat us because they packed better at one and two. I think we can beat them at the end of the year." Junior co-captain Theresa Kearns led the hardwood runners with a time of 18:46.6, good enough for fourth place. She finished between Matava, who was third in the nation last year, Malone's Marquita Stoklo, the 5000m NAIA defending track champ, and Hilldale's Gina Van Lant, the NAIA cross country champ.

"She's running excellent times," Ryan said. "She's learning to run with the front runners, and she's running with national champions." The Irish men's team placed fourth in the second Irish finisher in 20th place with a clocking of 19:35.4. She was followed by Julia Merkel in 26th at 19:53, Kathleen Luhman in 34th at 20:00.3, and Wendy Murray in 36th spot with a time of 20:12.4.

"We had very strong performances at one through five," Ryan said. "The times were slow today because of the rain and the wet grass." Ryan says the Irish are beginning to pick up the slack left by Mike Keane, who formally one of the top finishers, went out with a stress fracture.

Irish fare well in Fallon tourney

The Irish men's tennis team hosted the Notre Dame-Fall Invitational over the weekend, and although West Virginia entered as the top-ranked team, the Irish were a good team last season. Bob Raylyss was pleased with the weekend's events.

In doubles competition, the Irish teams netted three of the four semifinal spots, but eventually lost to Michigan (with an impressive 6-1, 6-1 in the third set). Dan Walsh was the other Irish team to make the long drive from Virginia and the wet weather a non-factor.

Virginia was on top 26-25, followed by West Virginia's Mancini, who qualified for the NCAA's last year in both cross-country and the 10,000-meter run. His time of 24:18.2 was seven seconds better than his time of a week ago on the same course.

"Danny ran real well," said Raylyss. "Scherer is a great runner, but Danny made it work for us." Behind Garrett was sophomore Mike O'Conner (sixth place), junior Ron Markset (fourth), and then Kearns and Mulvey (third and fourth respectively).

According to Mulvey, the team feels they have still better performances ahead of them. "I think we can surprise a lot of people." The women's cross country team finally achieved something at the Notre Dame Invitational Friday that has alluded them in past meets - a good overall team effort.

The Irish finished fifth in the inaugural 10-team event by placing their top five runners in the top 35. More importantly, the time gap was only 1:26.26 seconds quicker than last week at the National Catholic Championships.

"I was pleased," Irish coach Rick Mulvey noted. "The time spread was better between first and fifth place. We shortened that up a lot." Virginia took first place in the tourney with 30 points. The Cavaliers were paced by Patty Matava who won the meet with a time of 17:59.4. Hilldale was second with 70 points, Kent State third at 77, Ball State fourth at 106, and Notre Dame fifth with 117.

"Virginia is a very strong team," Ryan said. "Hilldale is second in the NAIA, and Kent State and Ball State are strong Mid-American Conference teams. Ball State beat us because they packed better at one and two. I think we can beat them at the end of the year." Junior co-captain Theresa Kearns led the hardwood runners with a time of 18:46.6, good enough for fourth place. She finished between Matava, who was third in the nation last year, Malone's Marquita Stoklo, the 5000m NAIA defending track champ, and Hilldale's Gina Van Lant, the NAIA cross country champ.

"She's running excellent times," Ryan said. "She's learning to run with the front runners, and she's running with national champions." The Irish men's team placed fourth in the second Irish finisher in 20th place with a clocking of 19:35.4. She was followed by Julia Merkel in 26th at 19:53, Kathleen Luhman in 34th at 20:00.3, and Wendy Murray in 36th spot with a time of 20:12.4.

NEW YORK - There was some good football, some mediocre football and enough bad football for a full show of "Football Follies."

It was Strike Sunday in the NFL, a kaleidoscope of, picket lines, empty seats, strange plays, unlikely heroes and goats.

"We've just witnessed a bit of history, I suppose," Bengals Coach Sam Wyche said after his team lost 16-9 to San Diego in a game marked by fumbles on three of the first eight plays.

In most places, the "crowds," were hardly that, kept away by pickets or the prospect of B-team football.

And where members of the A-Team showed up, they didn't always fare that well.

The biggest hero among the picket-line crossers was the Cowboys' Tony Dorsett, who tied a 22-year-old team record with five touchdown passes in the 47-6 rout of Buffalo.

But St. Louis and New England, with veterans back, lost to Washington and Cleveland, which had none.

Dallas didn't bother to use Danny White, who started the season as the No. 1. The Dolphins' Mike Renfro in his 38-24 win over the New York Jets.

Two previously unbeaten teams, the Redskins and Buffalo, had their smallest-ever crowds in the last home game at RFK.

Irish volleyball tops Hawkeyes

By BRIAN O'GARA
Sports Writer

After dropping a tough contest with Northwestern last Wednesday, the Notre Dame volleyball team rallied back for to win nine-straight games and three matches and improve its record to 10-3.

The Irish concluded their hectic week of four matches in four days with an impressive sweep of Iowa, 15-10, 15-8, 15-9, Saturday evening in the Joyce Center. We're delighted to come home.

"It's been a long road trip this past month," said Head Coach Art Lambert, "and we're delighted to come home. We didn't play as well as we are capable, but I think the players were a little weary and I'm delighted to win the match."

"It was not an artistic success, but it was a good win for us."

Iowa jumped out to a 2-0 lead in the opening game before the Irish rallied to take a 5-2 lead behind a kill and service ace by sophomore Kathy Cunnigham and several Hawkeye miscues. Iowa stayed close to Notre Dame by finding the gaps in the Irish backcourt, but junior Mary Kay Waller teamed with Kathy Baker and Maureen Shea for two blocks before ending the first game with a service ace.

Waller continued to harass the Hawkeyes at the start of game two with several kills to put the Irish up 5-2. Iowa battled back to tie the score at 6-6, thanks to too many misplaced Notre Dame kills. After Lambert called his troops together for a timeout, the Irish quickly got their act together and jumped ahead 9-4.

Iowa's Ellen Mullarkey held off the eventual Notre Dame win with a solo block on junior Janette Bennett's kill at game point, but a moment later Bennett, known for her thunderous kills, out-flushed Mullarkey and tipped the ball to open spot in the Hawkeye defense and gave the Irish a two-game lead.

Iowa jumped out to another 2-0 lead in the final game of the evening and the two teams battled to an 8-8 tie before Notre Dame got its act together and led 14-8. She and Waller teamed for two quick points as the Irish ran away with the game and the match with a 15-9 in the third game.

Bennett led the Irish in kills with 16, while Cunningham added 13 kills and 13 digs. Shea and Waller led the defense at the net with 11 blocks each. "Iowa is not a formally predictable team," said Lambert, "so it was good for us to play them. We had to adjust often and be on our toes all night."

Soccer team wins in OT, 4-2

By PETE GEGEN
Assistant Sports Editor

The Irish soccer team overcame a 1-0 halftime deficit to defeat Wisconsin 4-2 in overtime Friday night.

Forward Greg Kohs and Bruce "Tiger" McCourt both scored in the second overtime period to give Notre Dame its 11th win on the season without a defeat of Irish soccer one.

In a cold, windy, rainy first half it appeared Notre Dame would dominate the game. The Irish controlled the midfield, and they scored the first goal of the game when midfielder Rolfe Behrje headed home his fifth goal of the year on a direct kick by forward Randy Morris.

Morris assisted again on a goal that he scored with 10 minutes left in the half. He fed a perfect pass to midfielder Joe Sternberg, who volleyed home his 12th goal of the season.

"I'm not looking for assists," said Morris. "What's happened is different people playing different roles on the team, and after three or four games it all started to fall in place. Tiger and Joe Sternberg have been scoring the goals and I've been getting the assists."

The second half was a different story as Wisconsin took charge of the game and had the Irish chasing the ball.

"They wanted it very badly," said Irish head coach Dennis Grace, who was feeling the effects of the flu. "I usually yell at the players at the half, but that time I didn't and they were just all over us the second half. I have to take the blame for not getting the players ready."

Wisconsin's Steve Rose headed a corner kick off an Irish defender to cut the lead to 2-1 at the 22:49 mark. Twenty minutes later Irish stopper John Guignon was whistled for tripping in the penalty box on a tackle. Andy Recteau, the Irish leading scorer, took the penalty kick and beat Irish keeper Dan Lyons with a rocket to the nearcorner.

The Irish argued that and several other calls in the second half, much to the displeasure of the referee, who whistled 27 fouls on Notre Dame in regulation time to Wisconsin's 11.

No scoring occurred in the first 10 minutes of the second overtime period, Murphy substitute Brian Science, a regular play midfielder Kurt Roemer hit a corner to the far post. McCourt headed the ball to see SOCCER, page 11

Rosenthal takes a look at the future of ND athletics

By DENNIS CORRIGAN
Sports Writer

Editor's note - This is the third of a three-part interview with Notre Dame Athletic Director Dick Rosenthal. In this final installment, Rosenthal talks about some of the issues facing Notre Dame athletics.

Q: Going along with the questions of a new stadium, Gene Corrigan said that until something happens with the stadium, Notre Dame is going to have to develop more home games. Is that more of your thinking at these early stages?

A: There are lots of reasons for us to want to have a strong priority in scheduling more home games in all of our sports. Obviously, the more time we spend at home the less time we take our students away from classes. That's of major import to a university and to our kids. Secondly, the more events we have on our campus the more recreational and entertainment we provide to the community - primarily to our surrounding community.

I don't know what the spillover effect is of just the football program. I saw a study that Penn State did when they move their program to the community and I am absolutely convinced that the economic effects of this program are immense. I don't have any statistical information, but annually somewhere between 50-100 million of economic activity was caused in the area by reason of just the first 24 hours.

Having more events here has an economic benefit. It's a true statement that we raise more money by playing at home than on the road.

Q: We've talked about how there are more women coming to Notre Dame. Can you see adding more women's programs to our existing ones?

A: I would suspect that for us to live up to our responsibilities to our total constituency, that we're going to be expanding the offerings menu of opportunities to both women and men.

I think it's a truism that women are still in developing stage. Women at this university are doing everything here. We didn't have women for the first 100 years plus of our existence. There probably will be further development in a number of sports - which are rapidly developing intercollegiate sports - and track which we don't even compete in except cross country. Those areas that need to be looked at, and we have to find ways to support them if they are indeed beneficial to our student body.

"I may well be that in the life of intercollegiate athletics that we will be doing some things differently and may be not doing everything we currently do. We're currently making an analysis of this very issue within the department. We're looking at not only what we do but at what needs exist in our current programs. We're also assessing other opportunities so that we can have kind of a blueprint for where we'd like to go in the future. Chances are if we know where we'd like to go we may even get there.

Q: Turning quickly to some of the issues that have been discussed in previous years, there has been a big debate nation­ally about Notre Dame joining a conference. What are your views on that?

A: We are today looking at limited conference affiliation. Pure and simple our two major revenue producing sports, football and basketball, substantially generate all the revenues to support all the athletic programs here. It would be financially perhaps suicidal if not incredibly difficult for us to consider taking either one of those two major revenue producers and abandoning our independent status and putting them in a current conference. I must say that if it is a dynamic...
