Reagan: union still 'strong'

Associated Press

WASHINGTON - President Reagan said Monday night in his final State of the Union message that the United States was "strong, prosperous, at peace," and he asked Congress to help make his last year in office "the best of eight."

"I don't buy the idea that this is the last year of anything," Reagan said.

The president said he has a full agenda for his final months in power: keeping the economy strong, maintaining peace, tackling social problems, particularly in education, and promoting the spread of democracy worldwide.

Stevenson arrested on alcohol

By DENNIS CORRIGAN
Sports Editor

Notre Dame basketball forward Mark Stevenson was arrested Sunday morning on charges of minor consumption of alcohol by either Irish head coach Digger Phelps or the Athletic Director Dick Rosenthal was out of town Monday and was not scheduled to return until late that night.

Stevenson, 35, also was arrested Dec. 13 at University Park Mall on preliminary charges of theft by deception and plead innocent to a charge of criminal conversion at a hearing Dec. 28. Stevenson will face trial on that charge April 8.

On Sunday, Stevenson was stopped at about 2:30 a.m. after he pulled into North Clincinnati Mall too fast and didn't not pull over for an initial police cruiser, according to a report on WNDU-TV.

A second cruiser pulled him over. A breathalizer test given at the county jail showed Stevenson to be just under the legal limit, the report said.

Minor consumption of alcohol is a Class C misdemeanor.

Stevenson, who is averaging 11.5 points per game for the Irish, practiced with the team Sunday afternoon and was not scheduled to return until late that night.

SMC Prof pleads not guilty

By PATRICK O'CONNOR
Staff Reporter

Not guilty of criminal trespassing was the plea of St. Joseph County Superior Court Monday. The five, members of a group calling itself Pledge of Resistance, must wait until February 1, to be assigned a court date, according to a representative of the county prosecutor's office.

The charge stems from the group's Christmas Eve sit-in held in 3rd District Congresswoman John Hiler's office to protest U.S. support of the Contra Rebels in Nicaragua.

The protest began Dec. 23 at 3 p.m. when Smith and four others gathered peacefully in Hiler's office and refused to leave until they felt assured that Hiler was aware of the severity of the group's intentions, or until they were forced to leave, Smith said.

We were "resisting with our bodies as a means of showing our dedication" to the cause of saving the people of Nicaragua, said Smith.

At approximately 2 p.m. on December 24, after a night of reading statements to Reg Wagle, Hiler's district director, the group was arrested and charged with trespassing, he said.

Hiler, who was not present for the sit-in, eventually made plans to speak with members of the Pledge of Resistance group to discuss the affair.

In a press statement released January 26, the Pledge of Resistance stated that the five would plead not guilty because they believe the Reagan administration "is in violation of international law as defined in the Nuremberg Principles."

Criminal trespassing, a class A misdemeanor, carries a maximum penalty of up to a $5,000 fine and/or up to one year in jail.

Smith, a long time peace activist, has been arrested twice previously in similar situations. In 1985, he was arrested along with 30 other Pledge of Resistance members for staging a similar protest of Hiler's support of Contra aid. The group pleaded not guilty at the 1986 trial.

$246 million raised in Notre Dame drive

By ERIC M. BERGAMO
Senior Staff Reporter

The "Notre Dame: A Strategic Moment" fundraising campaign has raised $246 million towards a goal of $300 million, but some of the campaign goals are far from being fully realized, according to Joseph Sandman, director of development.

"Even though we are close to the goal, we have some key campaign goals that are not near funding," he said.

Over 70 percent of the $10 million goal for the Memorial Library has been attained, Sandman said, adding the money would be used to buy new books and expand current collections.

Also, only 42 percent of the $60 million endowment for undergraduate scholarships has been raised, and a mere 27 percent of the planned $27 million fund for graduate fellowships has been attained, Sandman said.

Still, a large number of the campaign's objectives have been met. "We've come a long way," he said.

Campaign goals for professorships and buildings are "virtually funded," he said.

Facilities that have been funded through the campaign are two new women's dorms, Knott and Siegfried halls, the Ehrmann Life Sciences Building, the Loftus All-Sports Center, the Eck Tennis Pavilion and a new classroom building that construction has yet to see.

Just plain bitter

Snow becoming light Tuesday morning. High 10 degrees. Clear and bitterly cold Tuesday night. Low zero to 5 below. Mostly sunny and not as cold. Wednesday.
Our hearts forever, Superbowl or no

Disappointed football fans of the other 36 NFL teams will dutifully sit down this Sunday to watch the consolation game of the season... the Super Bowl.

Super Bowl Sunday has become an American tradition for sports fans and non-sports fans alike. The event begins a week before kickoff, with exuberant prognosticators telling the public that the game will be the greatest battle since the Trojan war.

Deep inside, they know it will be a blow-out, but it is blasphemous to attack America in its situation. They predict a close, high-scoring game with lopsided action.

The hype continues throughout the week on the lucky Super Bowl network, ESPN and in the towns from where the two teams hail.

We hear what each player has had for breakfast on Game Day, and the quarterbacks of both teams will undoubtedly end up arm wrestling in some Coke commercial, making snide comments about the outcome of the game.

Everyone's attention is on the big game even if their team is out.

So what about the other guys? Isn't it about time there was a real match-up of some greener teams somewhere in the field?

A Super Bowl that featured the Minnesota Vikings and the Cleveland Browns would be a much better game.

Being from Ohio, I have been raised with the Cleveland Browns. Ever since I could say "touchdown," the Browns have been the only team I could root for.

That's what happens when parents brainwash their children... they lose touch with reality. But in football, fans are not part of the real world.

Every day of the "Kardiac Kids" and a disappointing loss to the Oakland Raiders in 1981 to last Sunday's bitter second-time loss to the nasty Denver Broncos, we have suffered.

We suffer because it is the same scenario every year. The Browns have a good season, they play a place in the ever-threatening AFC central division and the team prepares for playoff domination, never considering the fact that the team might lose.

This year was no different.

The Cleveland Plain Dealer printed banners "Touchdown!" and a "Superbowl" pep talk, never considering the fact that the Browns would lose. The hype continues throughout the week on the lucky Super Bowl network, ESPN and in the towns from where the two teams hail.

Everyone's attention is on the big game even if their team is out.

But the beauty of Browns fans and other fans who are faced with similar annual devastation is loyalty.

Ask any Browns fan if he or she has thrown in the towel on the team. Ask Vikings fans if they care about the Super Bowl now that their team and city had the morning taste of glory snatched away last Sunday. Not a chance.

Sure, we will all watch the Notre Dame basketball game and get dragged into the circus of pregame hoopla. We'll drink beer, eat nachos and a view of the world even if their team is out.

But our hearts will be with our teams: the Browns, the Saints, the Vikings, the Oilers, and maybe the 49ers. Once again, but with no less enthusiasm. "Maybe next year..."

Go Browns!
Student financial aid to be subject to taxation

By MATT GALLAGHER
Staff Reporter

Scholarships and grants for room and board are now subject to taxation, says accounting Professor Kenneth Milani. According to Milani, students are now obliged to pay federal taxes on any aid they receive for room and board.

"If the grant is covering tuition, fees, books, supplies, or equipment—no problem. It's not taxable," said Milani. He also said that a student could no longer claim himself as a personal exemption if his or her parents already claim the student.

"It's a double whammy. Room and board is now taxable if the student is claims themselves as exemptions," said Milani.

Milani said that an average student who gets $3,000 for room and board and $1,000 in room and board aid and earns $2,000 in a full-time summer job is in an additional $384 in taxes paid to the federal government.

Milani also pointed out that this figure does not include any state or local taxes, which might take an even larger chunk of the student's income.

"When Social Security and other deductions are added in, Milani mentioned, this can amount to 25 to 30 percent of the student's income."

"We have to ask if this is equitable," Milani said. "If someone is on a full ride, we're talking about someone who has already strained financial resources. Now we're taking away 25 percent or 30 percent of his summer income."

Kathy Keener-Han, a financial aid counselor in the Office of Financial Aid, who is responsible for educating Notre Dame students about the effects of the new tax laws, stated that a letter was mailed in Dec., 1987 to all students who probably would be affected by the new law.

Enclosed in this mailing was a worksheet which helped people to estimate the impact of the new law on individual cases.

Keener-Han also has planned several workshops next month (the exact dates and times to be determined) to help students assess the influence of the new laws. She also said that Milani would be instructing students in the affects of these new laws; these students would subsequently be available to help others with their tax returns.

Student Senate passes redistricting resolution

By GREG LUCAS
Copy Editor

With student elections on the horizon, the Student Senate worked feverishly Monday night to resolve the jurisdiction problems that will result in the next few years from the numerous changes planned on campus.

In order to accommodate the addition of two new women's dorms, Knott and Siegfried, the Senate passed a proposal altering current senate districts. The resolution, proposed by Senator Mike Carrigan, retains the five districts, increasing the constituencies in all but two of them. It places both Knott and Siegfried in district 2, moves Stanford and Keen form district 2 to district 1, St. Edwards from district 1 to 2, and Carroll from district 1 to 3.

Under this resolution, District 4 and the off-campus district will remain the same.

The seven-district proposal was presented by Senator Sean Hoffman, who argued that the addition of two senators would provide for more congruent districts and promote increased student participation in government. A preliminary vote indicated that the five-district proposal was favored over the seven district one by a count of eight to five. 12 votes were required to pass either proposal.

Senator members generally agreed that some resolution had to be passed before the meetings for next year's interested senatorial candidates begin.

"If no resolution is passed, then Knott and Siegfried will be left unrepresented," Carrigan said.

The simpler five-district proposal passed in a subsequent vote, where four of the members who had supported Hoffman's proposal voted for Carrigan's resolution in order to assure the representation of the new dorms.

Carrigan argued that Hoffman's proposal to tighten and unify the senate districts would not justify the loss of Senator credibility that would accompany increasing the number of constituents. "The district is only as big as you let it be," he said.

Carrigan also questioned why the seven-district system would leave the off-campus district with approximately 500 more students than the other districts.

"I think if we're going to change the number of the senators you have to look at the effects it will have on this body (Senate)," said Steve Wenz, senator.

DAILY DRINK SPECIALS

MONDAY 75 c DRAFT

Featuring: Michelob & Miller Lite

TUESDAY MARGARITAVILLE

$1.00 off all Jumbo Margaritas only $1.95 75 c shots of Cuervo Gold A Jumbo & a shot for only $2.50

WEDNESDAY HOT SHOT SCHNAPPS NIGHT 75 c shots of "Hot Tropical Schnapps" $1.50 Sunburns & Suntans

THURSDAY CORONA NIGHT cross the Border for only $1.25 a bottle

FRIDAY Molson & Moosehead 2 Canadian favorites for only $1.00 a bottle

SATURDAY Our Top Shelf Golden Margarita made with Cuervo Gold & Cointreau $1.00 off - Only $2.95

SUNDAY Pitchers of our famous Margaritas for only $4.90

Shamrock Apartment Motel

MEXICAN RESTAURANTE

DAILY DRINK SPECIALS

MONDAY 75 c DRAFT

Featuring: Michelob & Miller Lite

TUESDAY MARGARITAVILLE

$1.00 off all Jumbo Margaritas only $1.95 75 c shots of Cuervo Gold A Jumbo & a shot for only $2.50

WEDNESDAY HOT SHOT SCHNAPPS NIGHT 75 c shots of "Hot Tropical Schnapps" $1.50 Sunburns & Suntans

THURSDAY CORONA NIGHT cross the Border for only $1.25 a bottle

FRIDAY Molson & Moosehead 2 Canadian favorites for only $1.00 a bottle

SATURDAY Our Top Shelf Golden Margarita made with Cuervo Gold & Cointreau $1.00 off - Only $2.95

SUNDAY Pitchers of our famous Margaritas for only $4.90

South Padre for Spring Break

March 11-20 cost $346

includes hotel accommodations at the luxurious Hilton Resort transportation by Motorcoach (trip must include transportation) free pool deck parties, etc.

sign-ups held

Tuesday, January 26 and Wednesday, January 27 6:00 pm - 9:00 pm

at the Information Desk first floor LaFortune

$100 deposit required at that time no lines before 5:00 pm

Sponsored by SUB

Call Jim 239-7757 or Judy 283-2999 for more info
Fund

continued from page 1

begin on, according to our

ing activities have been used in court because the charges were

dropped weeks before the trial.

charmed scores of women and
demonstration in Washington
D.C., protesting the

said that his job as professor
at

Francisco restaurant while

he was arrested Jan. 11 at a

demonstration was worthwhile
the day they met.

Nicaragua,

but he had a way about

and this arrest

was an unlikely

went to court because the charges were

were used in

court because the charges were

dropped weeks before the trial.

charmed scores of women and
demonstration in Washington
D.C., protesting the

said that his job as professor
at

Francisco restaurant while

he was arrested Jan. 11 at a

demonstration was worthwhile
the day they met.

Nicaragua,

but he had a way about

and this arrest

was an unlikely

went to court because the charges were

were used in

court because the charges were

dropped weeks before the trial.

charmed scores of women and
demonstration in Washington
D.C., protesting the

said that his job as professor
at

Francisco restaurant while

he was arrested Jan. 11 at a

demonstration was worthwhile
the day they met.

Nicaragua,

but he had a way about

and this arrest

was an unlikely

went to court because the charges were

were used in

court because the charges were

dropped weeks before the trial.

charmed scores of women and
demonstration in Washington
D.C., protesting the

said that his job as professor
at

Francisco restaurant while

he was arrested Jan. 11 at a

demonstration was worthwhile
the day they met.

Nicaragua,

but he had a way about

and this arrest

was an unlikely

went to court because the charges were

were used in

court because the charges were

dropped weeks before the trial.

charmed scores of women and
demonstration in Washington
D.C., protesting the

said that his job as professor
at

Francisco restaurant while

he was arrested Jan. 11 at a

demonstration was worthwhile
the day they met.

Nicaragua,

but he had a way about

and this arrest

was an unlikely

went to court because the charges were

were used in

court because the charges were

dropped weeks before the trial.

charmed scores of women and
demonstration in Washington
D.C., protesting the

said that his job as professor
at

Francisco restaurant while

he was arrested Jan. 11 at a

demonstration was worthwhile
the day they met.

Nicaragua,

but he had a way about

and this arrest

was an unlikely

went to court because the charges were

were used in

court because the charges were

dropped weeks before the trial.

charmed scores of women and
demonstration in Washington
D.C., protesting the

said that his job as professor
at

Francisco restaurant while

he was arrested Jan. 11 at a

demonstration was worthwhile
the day they met.

Nicaragua,

but he had a way about

and this arrest

was an unlikely

went to court because the charges were

were used in

court because the charges were

dropped weeks before the trial.

charmed scores of women and
demonstration in Washington
D.C., protesting the

said that his job as professor
at

Francisco restaurant while

he was arrested Jan. 11 at a

demonstration was worthwhile
the day they met.

Nicaragua,

but he had a way about

and this arrest

was an unlikely

went to court because the charges were

were used in

court because the charges were

dropped weeks before the trial.

charmed scores of women and
demonstration in Washington
D.C., protesting the

said that his job as professor
at

Francisco restaurant while

he was arrested Jan. 11 at a

demonstration was worthwhile
the day they met.

Nicaragua,

but he had a way about

and this arrest

was an unlikely

went to court because the charges were

were used in

court because the charges were

dropped weeks before the trial.

charmed scores of women and
demonstration in Washington
D.C., protesting the

said that his job as professor
at

Francisco restaurant while

he was arrested Jan. 11 at a

demonstration was worthwhile
the day they met.

Nicaragua,

but he had a way about

and this arrest

was an unlikely

went to court because the charges were

were used in

court because the charges were

dropped weeks before the trial.

charmed scores of women and
demonstration in Washington
D.C., protesting the

said that his job as professor
at

Francisco restaurant while

he was arrested Jan. 11 at a

demonstration was worthwhile
the day they met.

Nicaragua,

but he had a way about

and this arrest

was an unlikely

went to court because the charges were

were used in

court because the charges were

dropped weeks before the trial.

charmed scores of women and
demonstration in Washington
D.C., protesting the

said that his job as professor
at

Francisco restaurant while

he was arrested Jan. 11 at a

demonstration was worthwhile
the day they met.

Nicaragua,

but he had a way about

and this arrest

was an unlikely

went to court because the charges were

were used in

court because the charges were

dropped weeks before the trial.

charmed scores of women and
demonstration in Washington
D.C., protesting the

said that his job as professor
at

Francisco restaurant while

he was arrested Jan. 11 at a

demonstration was worthwhile
the day they met.

Nicaragua,

but he had a way about

and this arrest

was an unlikely

went to court because the charges were

were used in

court because the charges were

dropped weeks before the trial.
Don Criqui announced news and sports at WSNB as a Notre Dame student in 1962. Criqui is now a sports broadcaster with NBC.

Expertly has the bizarre ideas about what happens to people who study abroad. My grandmother, for instance, thought that I would come back as Errol Flynn or something, all Deborah and worldly-wise. Wrong. I only came back with the knowledge of how anti-Errol Flynn I am and will always be.

Still other people think you’ll return hating America, with your hair oily and your libido pleated. Maybe some people do. Nobody I know did.

Or people assume that you’ll come back with all these witty anecdotes which will somehow encapsulate the whole experience of way-off-campus life.

I offer the following wittily anecdote as proof that I did not turn into Errol Flynn. It is a story that almost could have happened in Bridget’s. It really did happen in London. The names have been ignored to protect the embarrassed.

I always felt kind of lost in the nightclubs in London.

Kevin Walsh

Behind the Screen Door

Toto, I don’t think we’re in Theodore’s anymore. Maybe it was the lager, but more likely it was the atmosphere. Green, red and blue laser lights flash through the smoke in sync with the skull-numbing thump of the latest Neo-disco-junk. Two gigantic, soft sculptures of a male and a female acrobats hang high over the dance floor in the dark. Both are nauseatingly over-exaggerated, very fat and very naked.

Blondes in black silk by. They are tall and tan and perfectly content in their ignorance of my existence. One perches on the edge of a couch next to an empty space, alone.

I’m thinking, “Hey, I’m in London now and it’s about time I turned on my Errol Flynn act to bag some European belief.”

Very suavely, I sit down next to her.

Once seated next to this vision, all that my mind comes up with are cliches.

“Book, you look just like a really good friend of mine. Can I buy you a drink?”

“What’s a nice dame like you doing in a crummy joint like this? Can I buy you a drink?”

“What’s your sign? Can you buy me a drink?”

While I’m rambling through this verbal K-Mart, the accent here I come.

She says in her sexy European accent, “Um, someone is already sitting there…”

“Yes?” I say, trying to smile mysteriously and wondering if she really is a member of Bananarama.

It is a bad turn of events. Errol Flynn might call it an unmitigated disaster. Why do I care what Errol Flynn would say? He was a homosexual Nazi spy, wasn’t he?

Instead, I try to salvage at least common decency by sticking up for people who study abroad. My grandmother, for example, used to stress the importance of getting into the business.

I figured it was too hard.

How would you describe your responsibilities as a play-by-play announcer?

It’s pretty basic to identify, you make the whole broadcast flow. You set up an analyst who talks about the “why” that’s happening. You also have to be very informed so you can tell your audience things they haven’t heard before about teams they have watched a lot. And it has to do with the style of presenting it.

How do you get that information, those insights that people haven’t heard before?

Talking to them: talking to people that are involved in the games, talking to people who play these teams, just a variety of sources from which you build up a network of information and you bring it all together. For every hour you’re on the air, there’s many, many more hours preparation in broadcasting.

In the second part of this interview, Criqui discusses working with ex-athletes and Notre Dame graduates now working in the broadcasting field.

Fake Flynn foils foreign frolic

ND alumnus ‘sports’ broadcasting skills

CHRISTINE GREGORY

accent writer

Editor’s note: Don Criqui, Notre Dame alumnus and NBC sports broadcaster, returned to Notre Dame to cover the Notre Dame-Kansas basketball game. This is the first in a two-part interview.

Don Criqui came to Notre Dame in the fall of 1958 from Baldwinsville, N.Y. While here, he majored in communication arts and spent much of his time at WSNB, delivering sports broadcasts. (This was before Hemingway style: short, declarative sentences to express yourself in the most valuable, practical thing I ever learned at Notre Dame: how to write and convey people how to communicate on the air.

How else do you think Notre Dame prepared you for your career—not just in terms of skills but in terms of developing yourself and your thinking.

The greatness of a university isn’t the courses. It’s the association with bright motivated people. That’s where the real important thing, because there are so many people, is to fill a need when you go to apply for a job, as opposed to having a resume saying, “I can learn this” and “I’ll do anything to learn that.” That’s not good enough because they want somebody that can help them now. What you can do is find the right place for the right publication and then you can go in with a game plan of how you’re going to help them. In other words, your point of attack when you’re being interviewed should be, “What can I do for you if you hire me?”

Kevin Walsh

Behind the Screen Door

Toto, I don’t think we’re in Theodore’s anymore. Maybe it was the lager, but more likely it was the atmosphere. Green, red and blue laser lights flash through the smoke in sync with the skull-numbing thump of the latest Neo-disco-junk. Two gigantic, soft sculptures of a male and a female acrobats hang high over the dance floor in the dark. Both are nauseatingly over-exaggerated, very fat and very naked.

Blondes in black silk by. They are tall and tan and perfectly content in their ignorance of my existence. One perches on the edge of a couch next to an empty space, alone.

I’m thinking, “Hey, I’m in London now and it’s about time I turned on my Errol Flynn act to bag some European belief.”

Very suavely, I sit down next to her.

Once seated next to this vision, all that my mind comes up with are cliches.

“Book, you look just like a really good friend of mine. Can I buy you a drink?”

“What’s a nice dame like you doing in a crummy joint like this? Can I buy you a drink?”

“What’s your sign? Can you buy me a drink?”

While I’m rambling through this verbal K-Mart, the accent here I come.

She says in her sexy European accent, “Um, someone is already sitting there…”

“Yes?” I say, trying to smile mysteriously and wondering if she really is a member of Bananarama.

It is a bad turn of events. Errol Flynn might call it an unmitigated disaster. Why do I care what Errol Flynn would say? He was a homosexual Nazi spy, wasn’t he?

Instead, I try to salvage at least common decency by saying something descriptively witty. My mind churns and all I come up with is—

“Oh?”

I try to take my time and compose myself. I drink deeply from the pint of bitter that I just paid way too much money for. The world looks distorted and strange through the fisheye bottom of a pint of bitter.

The goddess next to me taps my shoulder again as I stand up. Perhaps she is realizing the error of her ways, saying something devastatingly witty. My mind churns and I really didn’t think I could get into the business.

I figured it was too hard.

How would you describe your responsibilities as a play-by-play announcer?

It’s pretty basic to identify, you make the whole broadcast flow. You set up an analyst who talks about the “why” that’s happening. You also have to be very informed so you can tell your audience things they haven’t heard before about teams they have watched a lot. And it has to do with the style of presenting it.

How do you get that information, those insights that people haven’t heard before?

Talking to them: talking to people that are involved in the games, talking to people who play these teams, just a variety of sources from which you build up a network of information and you bring it all together. For every hour you’re on the air, there’s many, many more hours preparation in broadcasting.

In the second part of this interview, Criqui discusses working with ex-athletes and Notre Dame graduates now working in the broadcasting field.

Fake Flynn foils foreign frolic

E verybody has these bizarre ideas about what happens to people who study abroad. My grandmother, for instance, thought that I would come back as Errol Flynn or something, all Deborah and worldly-wise. Wrong. I only came back with the knowledge of how anti-Errol Flynn I am and will always be.

Still other people think you’ll return hating America, with your hair oily and your libido pleated. Maybe some people do. Nobody I know did.

Or people assume that you’ll come back with all these witty anecdotes which will somehow encapsulate the whole experience of way-off-campus life.

I offer the following wittily anecdote as proof that I did not turn into Errol Flynn. It is a story that almost could have happened in Bridget’s. It really did happen in London. The names have been ignored to protect the embarrassed.

I always felt kind of lost in the nightclubs in London.

Kevin Walsh

Behind the Screen Door

Toto, I don’t think we’re in Theodore’s anymore. Maybe it was the lager, but more likely it was the atmosphere. Green, red and blue laser lights flash through the smoke in sync with the skull-numbing thump of the latest Neo-disco-junk. Two gigantic, soft sculptures of a male and a female acrobats hang high over the dance floor in the dark. Both are nauseatingly over-exaggerated, very fat and very naked.

Blondes in black silk by. They are tall and tan and perfectly content in their ignorance of my existence. One perches on the edge of a couch next to an empty space, alone.

I’m thinking, “Hey, I’m in London now and it’s about time I turned on my Errol Flynn act to bag some European belief.”

Very suavely, I sit down next to her.

Once seated next to this vision, all that my mind comes up with are cliches.

“Book, you look just like a really good friend of mine. Can I buy you a drink?”

“What’s a nice dame like you doing in a crummy joint like this? Can I buy you a drink?”

“What’s your sign? Can you buy me a drink?”

While I’m rambling through this verbal K-Mart, the accent here I come.

She says in her sexy European accent, “Um, someone is already sitting there…”

“Yes?” I say, trying to smile mysteriously and wondering if she really is a member of Bananarama.

It is a bad turn of events. Errol Flynn might call it an unmitigated disaster. Why do I care what Errol Flynn would say? He was a homosexual Nazi spy, wasn’t he?

Instead, I try to salvage at least common decency by saying something descriptively witty. My mind churns and all I come up with is—

“Oh?”

I try to take my time and compose myself. I drink deeply from the pint of bitter that I just paid way too much money for. The world looks distorted and strange through the fisheye bottom of a pint of bitter.

The goddess next to me taps my shoulder again as I stand up. Perhaps she is realizing the error of her ways, saying something devastatingly witty. My mind churns and I really didn’t think I could get into the business.

I figured it was too hard.

How would you describe your responsibilities as a play-by-play announcer?

It’s pretty basic to identify, you make the whole broadcast flow. You set up an analyst who talks about the “why” that’s happening. You also have to be very informed so you can tell your audience things they haven’t heard before about teams they have watched a lot. And it has to do with the style of presenting it.

How do you get that information, those insights that people haven’t heard before?

Talking to them: talking to people that are involved in the games, talking to people who play these teams, just a variety of sources from which you build up a network of information and you bring it all together. For every hour you’re on the air, there’s many, many more hours preparation in broadcasting.

In the second part of this interview, Criqui discusses working with ex-athletes and Notre Dame graduates now working in the broadcasting field.

Fake Flynn foils foreign frolic
The responsibility of AIDS education

Ignorance is not bliss. The Notre Dame and Saint Mary's community, for the most part, is sadly unaware of how to deal with the threat of AIDS. It is the responsibility of students, faculty, and administrators to acknowledge the problem and begin to deal with it effectively.

AIDS is not a disease that affects only homosexuals and I.V. drug users. Recent statistics show that there has been a rise in AIDS and AIDS-related cases in the general public, including children, parents, and college students.

Our community cannot plead ignorance to the threat of AIDS. This ignorance has already contributed to the spread of AIDS and AIDS hysteria. This ignorance has already contributed to preventing AIDS. The Student Health Centers at both Notre Dame and Saint Mary's offer literature regarding responsible measures for safety. Awareness, however, should not be limited to the Student Health Centers.

Notre Dame and Saint Mary's should also increase community awareness of the disease and its implications by implementing educational programs. Such programs could include mandatory physical education classes, dorm discussions, student mailers, and designated counseling sessions.

With that information, members of this community will be better able to make competent decisions about their actions and prevent the spread of AIDS.

A university's mission is to educate. In this it must not fail. Our community cannot afford to put itself at risk because of ignorance. To do so would be deadly.

AIDS: a question

The only 'vaccine' available is education

For many people, the mention of the word AIDS results in reactions like: "I'm not a homosexual or IV drug abuser, so I'm not at risk." "I'm tired of hearing about AIDS... I don't want to hear anymore."

Carol Seager

guest column

However, in steadily increasing numbers, we are coming to realize that AIDS is a deadly disease about which we must all be concerned. Also, the high risk groups continue to be homosexual and/or bisexual males and IV drug abusers. Recent statistics are showing a leveling off of the cases of AIDS in homosexual and/or bisexual males and an increase in the heterosexual population and IV drug abusers.

Each of us, as individuals, has a responsibility to know the facts associated with this deadly disease and to act in a manner which reduces and/or eliminates the potential of becoming infected with or transmitting the AIDS virus.

Recognizing and dealing objectively with AIDS and the threat it poses is extremely difficult. To do so forces us to address, simultaneously, the concepts of death and sexuality. AIDS is a disease with intense moral and physical implications.

One of the most effective ways of controlling the emotional responses to AIDS and reducing the panic which can result is to know the facts. Currently education is the only "vaccine" available for AIDS. The University is very sensitive to this need for information. Consequently, students can have their questions and concerns about AIDS addressed through a variety of methods:

University Health Services has available a large variety of written materials. These materials are available in the lobby along with other health care information. Since these materials were first made available, they have been used in far greater numbers by the students than any of the other pamphlets/brochures.

Within each dormitory, the rector has been asked to display a poster which contains the national HOT-LINE telephone number for AIDS (1-800-342-AIDS). By calling the number, a student can in a very personal and anonymous manner, ask questions and express concerns.

The St. Joseph County Health Department is a source for information, counseling, and testing. Accessing their services can be done by calling (284-9781) or visiting their clinic (9th floor, County-City Building).

Within the Notre Dame and Saint Mary's community is a Community Action Group whose purpose is to provide support and information to those individuals dealing with the AIDS issue.

The University sponsored a campus-wide seminar which included presentations by counselors, physicians, clergy, and AIDS patients. Counseling is available through the customary campus sources—the Counseling Center, Campus Ministry, Religious Education. In addition, we are currently exploring the feasibility of bringing AIDS education into dorms and, possibly, the classrooms.

Like Notre Dame, colleges and universities across the country are frustrated by the difficulty in getting AIDS information to students. Public meetings (campus wide) are not well attended. Apparently, for a significant number of students, there is a fear of being seen at an AIDS meeting. Written materials, though effective, may often go unread. It is becoming increasingly apparent that the most effective method of communication are those which either insure anonymity (HOTLINE, individual counseling) where discussions can be held in smaller, less threatening groups (dorms, classrooms).

The University's commitment to AIDS education is, in part, the result of actions taken early in 1986 when an interdisciplinary committee was formed to draft a policy. The efforts of that committee resulted in the drafting and, subsequent, endorsement of the University AIDS Guideline which has been in effect since August of 1986. The guideline, which applies to the entire campus community, emphasizes that each case of AIDS must be handled on an individual basis and that all decisions/action must be based on medical and scientific facts.

As individuals we each have a responsibility to seek out the facts about AIDS and conduct ourselves in a manner which reduces or eliminates the risk of contracting and spreading this devastating disease. Simultaneously, the University has a responsibility to assist in the dissemination of information on AIDS and to respond both compassionately and objectively when confronted with the AIDS on the Notre Dame campus.

Carol Seager is the Director of University Health Services. of awareness and action

A call for caring and compassion

It is impossible to read a newspaper, listen to radio or watch television and not be bombarded with the international tragedy that is AIDS. What began as a medical conundrum a scant seven years ago has escalated to pandemic proportions. The uncertainty which surrounds this phenomenon has bred fear and panic. It is conceivable that as many as 1.5 million Americans may be infected with the AIDS virus. Since 1981, AIDS was first reported in the United States, the Public Health Service and the Centers for Disease Control have reported over 40,000 cases of AIDS, of which over 20,000 have resulted in death.

Kevin Worth

guest column

My own involvement with AIDS dated back to 1982. As vice president of Covenant House, an international crisis care facility for homeless and abandoned youth, founded by Father Bruce Ritter in New York, I was concerned with a population that was clearly and tragically at risk. The homeless street youth we served faced served faces harrowed death sentence—many were intravenous drug users, and many were sexually active. Because we had to operate deep in the heartland of our society, drug users, and many were sexually active. Because we had to operate deep in the heartland of our society, we had to face the starting fact that this disease is simply not going away. Whatever the currently, it is clear that few of us will escape the tragic experience of knowing AIDS firsthand—either in the community or in the workplace. What will we do when the unbelievable occurs, and we are forced to confront AIDS—not in the media, but in our own lives? As Christians, what must we do?

Even if we are fortunate enough to escape a personal experience of AIDS, each of us has a civic and religious responsibility to be informed, to be caring and to be compassionate. As Christians, we follow Jesus Christ, who devoted a substantial portion of his public ministry to the poor and marginalized. Jesus told us, "Whatever you do to the least of my brothers and sisters you do to me" (Matthew 25:40). In the faces of AIDS victims, we must see the face of Christ.

Saint Mary's College and the University of Notre Dame enjoy a proud tradition of preparing Catholic men and women, as well as those of other faiths, for positions of leadership in the arts, education, government, religion and the sciences. We have a unique opportunity then, as we venture outside this campus, to bring with us that tradition of compassion and that thirst for justice that is part of the Gospel and is also part of the charism of the pioneer Holy Cross sisters, brothers and priests, and their associates, who started these institutions we enjoy today. Nowhere is the cry for justice and compassion felt more than as a day than for Persons With AIDS.

"In the faces of AIDS victims we must see the face of Christ."

The time I spend with AIDS folk and their families is moments of special grace, and I have learned much. When I was asked to prepare this essay, I telephoned a friend in New York, himself in the throes of late-stage AIDS. "Tell them that we're dying, and that we're scared," my friend said. "Tell them that we need to be loved—a lot."

I share here my experience with AIDS patients and their families so that others might cope with this tragedy when they face it—please God you will never have to. But if you do confront AIDS in family, among friends or in the workplace, perhaps you might remember my friend's words, and my experiences.

AIDS is and equal opportunity disease. While often attributed to gay men, the virus infects men and women, heterosexually, homosexually, and mutually.

Persons With AIDS are persons. As children of God, they have a right to expect our love and concern.

Persons With AIDS fear that they will eventually die. Those faced with terminal illness experience stages denial, anger, "bargaining," depression, acceptance and hope. Our task is to support the Person With AIDS in these various phases, even when behavior seems irrational or bizarre.

Persons With AIDS need spirituality in their lives. I have grown in my own faith by working with AIDS patients and their families. Sharing our spirituality means sharing the strength of our own faith and allows the loving, healing hand of God to be better received.

Persons With AIDS need our care and our compassion. The Gospel challenges us to do nothing less.

Kevin Worth is a seminarian in the Congregation of Holy Cross and a graduate student in the Mastery of Divinity at the University of Notre Dame. He is a member of the Community Action Group (CAG) and a volunteer organization of South Bend professionals concerned about AIDS.

P.O. Box Q

Spring Break help to continue

Dear Editor:

As many of you know, the Alumni Association has traveled with the students to Florida for Spring Break during the last few years. In the past we have provided a number of services that included complimentary long distance phone calls, Coca-Cola products, newspapers and a student locator file as well as reserved basketball courts and trips to spring training baseball games.

We have again been asked by Student Government to continue these programs this year, and it is our hope that we will be able to continue to provide these services—unfortunately a problem has arisen. During the last few years resorts outside of Florida have grown in popularity. So much so that it is now impossible to gauge where our services would be most effective.

We need your help. Please call our office (ND 539-6000; SMC 284-45780) or stop by (201 Admin.; 110 Lemans) and let us know what your plans are for spring break.

Jeanne Martin

Director, Alumni Relations

Saint Mary's College

Charles F. Lennon, Jr.

Executive Director

Alumni Association

University of Notre Dame

January 22, 1988

Quote of the Day

"It is in ourselves that we finally experience the mystery of God."

Garry Trudeau

T. Guzile
Joyner-Kersee honored as Female Athlete of 1987

Associated Press

NEW YORK--Track and field star Jackie Joyner-Kersee, As sociated Press Female Athlete of the Year for 1987, is familiar with the great career of Babe Didrickson Zaharias, with whom she is currently grouped.

"I saw her story on TV," Joyner-Kersee said. "She in spired me.

"It was touching to see her (Babe) live, so I'm a firm believer. And to watch her play golf and tennis.

"Her being a woman, and being so dedicated in what she wanted to do and for her country and for her family. Joyner-Kersee, the world record-holder in the heptathlon, co-performed the long jump and a former broad jumper at UCLA, considered the finest all around woman athlete in the world today.

It was a title that belonged to Zaharias for more than two decades, including 1985, when competing in track, she won two Olympic gold medals and one silver, and was chosen AP's Female Athlete of the Year. This year, Joyner-Kersee, 25, will try and match the Babe's two Olympic golds in the Seoul Olympics and then go on to the long jump and high jump.

In ballyhooing by a nationwide pool of 244 sports writers and broadcasters, she received 128 first-place votes, and 56 and a total of 808 points, with points allotted on a 5-3-1 basis.

West German Steffi Graf, the world's top-ranked women tennis player, moved from Feb. 17 to 27 of 77 matches, including the French Open, finished second with 533 points. She had 108 firsts, 82 seconds and 26 thirds.

Third was another tennis player, Martina Navratilova, the 1983 and 1986 Female Athlete of the Year. Navratilova, the only player to beat Graf in 1987--in the Wimbledon and U.S. Open--has been hampered with a bad back for much of the year.

Late Night Olympics entries are due. See your dorm reps for details. The Observer

Any freshman interested in becoming a student manager should attend an organization meeting tonight at 7:30 p.m. in the JACC. Interested students should meet the managers' office at 221-3642 after 2:30 p.m. weekdays if you have any questions. The Observer

Anyone interested in forming a women's lacrosse team call Heidi at 377-38. The Observer

Squash players interested in playing in the Mutual Benefit Companies 1986 Chicago Open should call Steve at 239-34 or Dan, 1-29, to sign up. All levels of players are welcome. The Observer

A Gymnastics Invitational will be held at YSU Saturday, Jan. 30, at 1 p.m. Practice for club members is mandatory for the weekend. Monday's practice is at 4:30 p.m., Tuesday through Friday practices are from 4:46-6 p.m. The Observer

Classifieds

NOTICES

MATERIALS-TYPE R271-274 THE NIGHT
277-1081 SAT.

SALVATION ARMY TELEPHONE SERVICE. CALL MRS. COOK, 333-7009.

TIFFANY AVAILABLE

NOTE: Sells 6 & Basics. You need basis in Pasadena. 802 Howard (310-278-3340)

TIFFANY SERVICE 223-2554

TIFFANY AND CO. Delightful 2 BR. 2 BA. $175.00. 314 N. VERMONT AT 7TH. CALL 462-6633.

SEND YOUR VALENTINE SOME HAND-CUTTED, CHOCOLATE DECORATIONS TO YOUR ROOMMATE. DIAL 587-6735 FOR DETAILS.

LOST/FOUND

LOSE. 9 WOMEN'S CLAS'S RING. IF FOUND PLEASE CALL 284-1820.

FOUND. (225) Gold ring in Madison Ave. 224-4921.

FOR RENT

PERFECTLY REMODELED 3 BEDROOM 2 BATH. WOOD FLOOR, CRISPY COMFORTS-HEALTHY-quiet place to spend the winter. 409 5th St. 2B. 310-326-9511

PERFURISHED HOUSE NEAR SMOKEY JIMES

1805 262-3564

APARTMENTS FOR RENT. This home is ready for others at May 15th. Call 475-2051.

HOUSE RENTS$490.00 1 BED. W/D IN UNIT-10550 SANTIAGO. 534-8955. JUST 9 MILES FROM WEST LA HEAT-LIGHT-SHARED.

PERSONALS

WAVERLY, CO: HOUSE, COLD BEER AND LOVERS CARRY OUT TO A 7 8 5 U.S. 1, ONE BLOCK NORTH OF HOLT. CALL 681-1255.

NEWSPAPER WANTED

Needed to work per your request. Call 434-5276. Ask for Ms. Blue. 2-25 p.m. May 28

WANTED

CANDIDATES FOR SKV SCHOOL AND ARE DESIRED TO APPLY FOR A POSTMENT AT A SAT. TO A SAT. AT 1-12.

Job interviews. Job opportunities to be held in your area. Call 463-5988. M-F 2-5 p.m. Evening appointments on Tuesday and Thursday.

SUMMER JOB INTERVIEWS: Average earnings $3,500. Gain valuable experience in a sales, advertising, and public relations selling yellow-page advertising for the National Telephone Directory. Call 703-501-0001. Apply in person only. For interviews contact Mr. Murray. Roommates needed 3 blocks from campus. 280-2952.

NEEDS RECOMMENDATION LETTERS FOR APPLICATION TO VARIOUS SCHOOLS.

FACE NEEDED TO BE A WOMAN! Must be between the ages of 21-40. Looking for someone who is popular, well dressed, and who can speak in a convincing way. Contact in care of 1104-8th st., South Bend, In. All replies will be confidential.

NEED A ROOMMATE FOR FALL! Must be a female. Rent $80. Call 434-5275.

NEED TO USE SOUTHCOURT-12 CALL 5034 430-2959

NEED TO USE 238-3333

Perfect home for a 28 year old single woman. House is located on Madison Place. For more information, call 434-5276.

NEED TO RIDE TO THIS WEEKEND CALL 3930

FOR SALE

For Sale, Smith Corona Typewriter Call 463-5275

PAINTER CARDS, PAPERS, PAINTERS CAPS, PAINTER CAPS. SAIL OR SHORE IS SELLING IRISH PAINTER CAPS, PAINTER PANTS. NO CAPS. NO PAINTER CARDS.

NEED TO USE SOUTHCOURT-12 CALL 5034 430-2959

NEED TO USE 238-3333

For Sale, Smith Corona Typewriter Call 463-5275

PAINTER CARDS, PAPERS, PAINTERS CAPS, PAINTER CAPS. SAIL OR SHORE IS SELLING IRISH PAINTER CAPS, PAINTER PANTS. NO CAPS. NO PAINTER CARDS.

Joyner-Kersee honored as Female Athlete of 1987

DennisGrace, Notre Dame's soccer coach, has been appointed to the adidas Soccer Advisory Board. The board was instituted three years ago for the purpose of promoting soccer and consists of the most successful and respected soccer personalities in the world. As a member of the board, DennisGrace will consult with clubs, test products and represent adidas at special events. The Observer

Late Night Olympics entries are due. See your dorm reps for details. The Observer

Advanced conditioning classes will be offered to all students from Feb. 1 to March 12. The sessions will be on Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday evenings in the Loftus Sports Facility. A physical examination is recommended. The Observer

BookstoreBasketallXVIIICommission applications can be picked up at the desk on the second floor LaFortune. Any sophomore interested in the position should turn in an application today. Interviews will be conducted from January 27-28. Any questions, call Steve Wenci at 271-0763. The Observer

The Observer Note: The Observer is a weekly newspaper published by students at Youngstown State University. It is distributed on campus and in Youngstown. The newspaper is supported by advertising revenue and subscription fees.

The Observer Note: The Observer is a weekly newspaper published by students at Youngstown State University. It is distributed on campus and in Youngstown. The newspaper is supported by advertising revenue and subscription fees.
Kuhns bombs for three

BY THERESA KELLY
Sports Writer

Lisa Kuhns makes the most of her opportunities. Kuhns, a junior guard on the Irish women's basketball team, has had some tough breaks and some lucky breaks, but throughout, she always makes the best of them.

After starting all six games this season, the sharpshooter had her own backcourt buddy suffer an injury at DePaul last week, Kuhns found herself starting for the Irish against Michigan State. She scored eight points and pulled down four rebounds, doing what the Irish want her to do - hit the long jumpers.

Kuhns has shot 25 of 57 from three-point range this season, the only member of the Irish who has hit from afar. "Lisa gives us an added dimension with her range," says Irish head coach Muffet McGraw. "No one else on the team can shoot like she does. Just being on the floor, teams have to guard her, which extends the defense.

Those extended defenses open up the Irish inside scoring game, the team's strongest point.

Kuhns says that when she is on the court, she looks to shoot from long range. "I'm aware of it (the three-point line)," she says. "I look for the long shot. That's what I'm out there for. I don't concentrate on it so much that I screw myself up, but I look for the three, too.

Kuhns was averaging just under eight points in 15 minutes of playing time per game. With the starting job, she will be looking to the bucket even more.

An injury forced Kuhns to sit out the entire 1986-87 season. She tripped over one of the wires strung across campus to keep people off the grass. But as she is apt to do, Kuhns made the best of the situation. "Sitting out definitely helped my play this year," says Kuhns. "I made the most of a bad experience. I learned a lot, and I think I gained experience just by watching.

But nothing can take the place of playing, as Kuhns and the rest of the Irish will find out when they host Marquette tonight.

"They (the Warriors) look pretty good," said Irish assistant coach Liz Feeley. "I'm sure they'll run on us, and they are scrappy on defense.

"We don't want to look past them to Tennessee. They're a good team," Feeley said. 'We're bigger and quicker, but they are still a real threat to us.'

The game begins at 7:30 tonight in the Joyce ACC.

Gelfman sets Irish tennis pairs

By STEVE MEGARGEE
Sports Writer

The Notre Dame women's tennis team left last weekend's Gopher Doubles Invitational having found just what it was looking for - three set doubles partners.

Notre Dame competed in the tournament with Minnesota, Drake, Northwestern, Iowa and Southwest State in an event where finding set doubles partners for the regular season was more important than winning matches. Each doubles pair played seven matches during the three-day event.

"The nice thing about this tournament is it wasn't geared toward finding a particular flight winner," said Notre Dame coach Michele Gelfman. "It was geared to switching doubles teams around. You had to, and setting your doubles teams.

After switching her doubles teams after the tournament's first day, Gelfman liked what she saw the rest of the way. The tournament started with freshman Ce Ce Cahill paired with senior captain Michelle Dasso, sophomore Stephanie Tolstedt matched with classmates Alice Lobher and junior Natalie Illig paired with freshman Kim Pacella.

On the second day, Gelfman kept the Cahill-Dasso team, but also formed Tolstedt-Pacella and Lober-Illig doubles pairs.

"They were much more productive with the partners they played with the second and third days," said Gelfman. "I was extremely pleased with Pacella and Tolstedt. They worked really well together. I think Cahill and Dasso played extremely well. They lost to Minnesota and Northwestern. They played their two hardest matches the first day and after that they had no problem at all."

With the Irish open their dual match season this weekend at Yale with Wake Forest and Brown, Cahill and Dasso will form the top-seeded doubles team. Tolstedt and Lober-Illig will be the other two doubles teams, with a challenge match Wednesday determining which pair gets seeded second.

This way Notre Dame's second consecutive appearance in the Gopher Invitational, but Gelfman thought the Irish needed this pre-season doubles tourney more this year.

We felt it was more important this year because we had changes in the lineup with and people injured in the fall (Lohrer who were coming back in the spring," said Gelfman. "Compared to where we were in the fall, we're 300 percent better. We're more confident with our strategies now," Gelfman said.

"We're still a work in progress," Gelfman added. "The way we've been playing the last two weeks we'll be the other two doubles teams, with a challenge match on Wednesday determining which pair gets seeded second."

This way Notre Dame's second consecutive appearance in the Gopher Invitational, but Gelfman thought the Irish needed this pre-season doubles tourney more this year.

We felt it was more important this year because we had changes in the lineup with and people injured in the fall (Lohrer who were coming back in the spring," said Gelfman. "Compared to where we were in the fall, we're 300 percent better. We're more confident with our strategies now," Gelfman said.

"We're still a work in progress," Gelfman added. "The way we've been playing the last two weeks we'll be the other two doubles teams, with a challenge match on Wednesday determining which pair gets seeded second."

This way Notre Dame's second consecutive appearance in the Gopher Invitational, but Gelfman thought the Irish needed this pre-season doubles tourney more this year.

We felt it was more important this year because we had changes in the lineup with and people injured in the fall (Lohrer who were coming back in the spring," said Gelfman. "Compared to where we were in the fall, we're 300 percent better. We're more confident with our strategies now," Gelfman said.

"We're still a work in progress," Gelfman added. "The way we've been playing the last two weeks we'll be the other two doubles teams, with a challenge match on Wednesday determining which pair gets seeded second."

This way Notre Dame's second consecutive appearance in the Gopher Invitational, but Gelfman thought the Irish needed this pre-season doubles tourney more this year.

We felt it was more important this year because we had changes in the lineup with and people injured in the fall (Lohrer who were coming back in the spring," said Gelfman. "Compared to where we were in the fall, we're 300 percent better. We're more confident with our strategies now," Gelfman said.

"We're still a work in progress," Gelfman added. "The way we've been playing the last two weeks we'll be the other two doubles teams, with a challenge match on Wednesday determining which pair gets seeded second."

This way Notre Dame's second consecutive appearance in the Gopher Invitational, but Gelfman thought the Irish needed this pre-season doubles tourney more this year.

We felt it was more important this year because we had changes in the lineup with and people injured in the fall (Lohrer who were coming back in the spring," said Gelfman. "Compared to where we were in the fall, we're 300 percent better. We're more confident with our strategies now," Gelfman said.
Irish youngsters star at TAC

By MIKE SULLIVAN
Sports Writer

The Notre Dame men's track team competed in their second meet of the season this weekend at Bloomington, Indiana. At the TAC (The Athletics Congress) meet where there are no team scores, Notre Dame placed eighth. We have no team standing individual performances.

Freshman Jeff Smith placed second in the long jump with a leap of 23 feet 11 inches. Classmate John Cole took first in the high jump with a jump of 6 feet 3 1/4 inches. Sophomore Yan Seary raced to a first place finish in the 600 meters with a time of 1:22.90. Junior David Worth apparently had the 800 meters wrapped up with a 1:52.45 but was disqualified for a lane violation. The event was then run off by Scott Seary, Worth, and freshmen Rob Harris and Richard Culp, placed first with a time of 1:39.90. Their victory qualified them for the NCAA indoor championships to be held in March at Princeton University.

Heyward said he has not signed a contract with any agent, although he said he had met with agent Bruce Allen of Phoenix, and Mike Gottfried did not know of any agent, although he said he had met with agent Bruce Allen of Phoenix, and Mike Gottfried did not know of any agents. "I plan to petition the NFL," Heyward told Pittsburgh television stations Monday. "My reasons for doing that (are) being a father and coming from a family of eight. You know, a low-income family. I think the decision that I'm going to make is the decision for me," Heyward told WPXI-TV.

Heyward said he has not signed a contract with any agent, although he said he had met with agent Bruce Allen of Phoenix, and "a lot of other agents." Heyward said Pitt Coach Mike Gottfried did not know of his decision despite a meeting with him only hours earlier. "His decision was to per- suade me to come back and to finish the educational part of it but I am very disappointed," said. Heyward said he has not signed a contract with any agent, although he said he had met with agent Bruce Allen of Phoenix, and "a lot of other agents." Heyward said Pitt Coach Mike Gottfried did not know of his decision despite a meeting with him only hours earlier. "His decision was to per- suade me to come back and to finish the educational part of it but I am very disappointed," said. Heyward said he has not signed a contract with any agent, although he said he had met with agent Bruce Allen of Phoenix, and "a lot of other agents."

Classmate John Cole took first in the high jump with a jump of 6 feet 3 1/4 inches. Sophomore Yan Seary raced to a first place finish in the 600 meters with a time of 1:22.90. Junior David Worth apparently had the 800 meters wrapped up with a 1:52.45 but was disqualified for a lane violation. The event was then run off by Scott Seary, Worth, and freshmen Rob Harris and Richard Culp, placed first with a time of 1:39.90. Their victory qualified them for the NCAA indoor championships to be held in March at Princeton University.

Heyward said he has not signed a contract with any agent, although he said he had met with agent Bruce Allen of Phoenix, and Mike Gottfried did not know of any agents. "I plan to petition the NFL," Heyward told Pittsburgh television stations Monday. "My reasons for doing that (are) being a father and coming from a family of eight. You know, a low-income family. I think the decision that I'm going to make is the decision for me," Heyward told WPXI-TV.

Heyward said he has not signed a contract with any agent, although he said he had met with agent Bruce Allen of Phoenix, and Mike Gottfried did not know of any agents. "I plan to petition the NFL," Heyward told Pittsburgh television stations Monday. "My reasons for doing that (are) being a father and coming from a family of eight. You know, a low-income family. I think the decision that I'm going to make is the decision for me," Heyward told WPXI-TV.

Heyward said he has not signed a contract with any agent, although he said he had met with agent Bruce Allen of Phoenix, and Mike Gottfried did not know of any agents. "I plan to petition the NFL," Heyward told Pittsburgh television stations Monday. "My reasons for doing that (are) being a father and coming from a family of eight. You know, a low-income family. I think the decision that I'm going to make is the decision for me," Heyward told WPXI-TV.
Campus

Tuesday

12 p.m.: Brown Bag Seminar, "Opposition Journalism Under the Chilean Dictatorship," by Rodrigo Arias, Kellogg Institute, 131 Decio.
3:30 p.m.: Aerospace and Mechanical Engineering Seminar with R.C. Armstrong, MIT, Room 303, Fitzpatrick Hall.
3:30 p.m.: Chemical Engineering Graduate Seminar, "Effects of Hyperlipidemia on the Biochemical Response to Stretching by Aortic Smooth Muscle Cells," by Dr. Joseph Grande, Mayo Clinic, Rochester, Minnesota, Room 256 Fitzpatrick.
4 p.m.: Justice Education Film, "Wasn't That a Time! The Weavers," Stapleton Lounge.
4:15 p.m.: English Department Lecture, "The Self-Mythology of Jenkyn Alyson in Chaucer's Book of Wicked Wives," by Professor Jane Chance, Rice University, ETS Theatre, Center for Continuing Education.
7 p.m.: Presentation, "Marketing, and Arts and Letters seniors interested in sales or management," by Alumni, Room, Morris Inn.
7 p.m.: Mandatory orientation meeting, Big Brothers and Big Sisters, Room 4340, Campus Center.

The Daily Crossword

ACROSS
1 Grandiose
2 Latin dance
3 Mountain pool
4 Enclosed 5 Ancient 6 "It's a sin to tell —"
17 Very rarely
20 Stem
22 Famous
23 Whites
25 Dallas school letters
26 Did over
29 Ingested
30 Court stroke
32 Delete
33 Tropical parrots
37 Pub choice
38 Idle period
41 Once Clay
42 Painted surface
43 Horse stride
44 Wise word
45 Oolong s.p.
46 Pyle and 48 This side of:
49 Cowboy show
51 Chest
54 Intel
55 Glacial ridge
59 Just before too late
62 Olive garden
63 Arthur's aide
64 Monogram part: abbr.
65 A Redgrave
66 Geoffrey of 67 Whole
68 DOWN
1 Swelled heads
2 Quart part
3 Whale
4 -shaped
5 Neander–
79 God of war
80 Who? Hawaiian
81 Raw metal

Dinner Menus

Notre Dame

Hearty Beef Vegetable Soup
Italian Beef Sandwich
Sweet & Sour Pork
Roasted Turkey
Petrucci Alfredo

Saint Mary’s

Fried Chicken
Vegetable Quiche
Beef & Vegetable Stir Fry
Deli Bar

Comics

Bloom County

Berke Breathed

Far Side

Gary Larson

Calvin and Hobbes

Bill Watterson

S.U.B. presents:

EVIL DEAD

8 and 10 p.m.
Wednesday and Thursday
$2.00

Cushing Auditorium

STUDENT COMMISSIONER APPLICATIONS

are being accepted until Feb. 1. They are available at the secretary's office, 2nd floor LaFortune. Call 239-7757 or stop by the S.U.B. office for more information.

Available positions: Board Manager, Campus Entertainment Commissioner, Special Events Commissioner, Mode Commissioner, Cultural Arts Commissioner, Services Commissioner, Musical Entertainment Commissioner, Ideas and Issues Commissioner, Publicity Commissioner, Controller, and Business Auditor.
Fencers whip opponents, extend winning streaks

By SCOTT BRUTOCAO
Sports Writer

Over the weekend, the undefeated Notre Dame fencing team took its act to Madison, Wisconsin, where both the men and the women whipped five Midwestern universities.

Both the men's and women's teams were undefeated on Saturday, January 23, extending their winning streaks to 84 and 50, respectively.

The men's team, under the leadership of longtime coach Mike DeCicco, defeated Minnesota (24-3), Purdue (25-2), Lawrence (32-2), Wisconsin (19-8), and Chicago (34-2), for a perfect 5-0 record. DeCicco's overall record coaching the men is 511-40, for a 97% winning percentage.

The women's team, guided by 1981 Olympic coach Yves Auriol, defeated Lawrence (16-0), Minnesota (14-2), Wisconsin (12-4), and Purdue (15-1), to make Auriol's overall record a perfect 56-0 coaching the women's team over three years.

Efforts by the men's team were highlighted by four undefeated fencers in the saber division. Junior captain Tim Collins and sophomores Dan Vo posted 8-0 records, while senior Jim Reilly and freshman David Kirby turned in identical 7-6 records.

The sabremens did this despite the absence of freshman Lezlek Nowosielski, who was in Canada, and classmate Chris Bauger, who was in New Jersey, as they were participating in Olympic trials. Nowosielski competed for a spot on the Canadian fencing team, while Bauger tried for a spot in the U.S. Junior Olympics.

"I was pleasantly surprised at the convincing victories," said DeCicco. "It shows the depth of this squad, especially since some of our best fencers did not compete."

In the epee event, the Irish were able to overcome junior Todd Griffe's absence with an impeccable 10-0 performance by seniors Doug Dudinski and Yves Auriol.

"We needed someone to pick up the slack without Griffe on the trip," said DeCicco. "Dudinski had an outstanding weekend. His improvement augurs well for the future success of this team."

Senior Yehuda Kovaes led the way in the foil division, with a 9-1 record, improving his season record to 17-3. Sophomore Joel Clark and Colin Gumbs had excellent weekends, both posting 6-0 records.

For the women, senior Molly Sullivan and sophomore Anne Barreda led the way. Barreda went 12-0 to raise her season record to a phenomenal 27-0, while Sullivan went 11-0 to raise her season record to an equally impressive 26-0.

Barreda hopes to represent the United States in the World Junior Olympic Championships this year, while Sullivan is currently ranked fourth in the U.S. as a junior.