Iranian group backs captors

BEIRUT, Lebanon- Iranian-backed Hezbollah extremists clashed Sunday with Shiite militia men searching for a kidnapped U.S. marine and declared support for his abductors.

A Hezbollah leader said he believed Lt. Col. William Higgins had been smuggled out of south Lebanon.

"We declare solidarity with, and full support for, the strugglers against America who confront the plots of the great Satan," said a statement from Hezbollah, or Party of God.

"The demands of the Organization of the Oppressed on Earth are just." The Organization of the Oppressed, founded to press on Earth for relief from 163 federal rules and regulations and heard a former governor call for a constitutional convention to restore states' rights.

New Hampshire Gov. John Sununu, opening the National Governors' Association's winter meeting, said that the time had come to press for a new division of authority between the states and Washington.

"There has been an erosion of the fundamental balance struck 200 years ago in Philadelphia," Sununu, the NGCA chairman, said at a news conference before calling the first plenary session to order.

President Reagan was hosting a black-tie dinner for the governors Sunday night, then inviting them back to the White House Monday to hear first-hand of their concerns.

James Miller III, director of the office of Management and Budget, told the governors the Reagan administration had carried out nearly 30 of 80 recommendations the NGCA made 16 months ago to reduce red tape and administrative burdens on state and local governments.

Gore looks forward to primaries

Associated Press

DALLAS- After sitting on the sidelines in Iowa and failing short of his aim in New Hampshire, Albert Gore Jr. has two weeks to show that he, too, is a real contender for the Democratic presidential nomination. Gore Jr. has targeted with a flurry of barbed attacks two rivals were the ones Gore is from the South. With the strengthening of the conventional wisdom that, as in the past, to win the nomination a candidate in either party must first score a success in the earliest contests of Iowa and New Hampshire's. To disprove that thinking, Gore must mount in the two weeks before Super Tuesday a campaign that appeals broadly to Southern white voters - since Jesse Jackson figures to capture most of the black vote. And Gore must do so against the attention that naturally has fallen on the Democratic race's two winners to date - Richard Gephardt, who won in Iowa, and Michael Dukakis, who won in New Hampshire.

It's no coincidence that these two rivals were the ones Gore targeted with a flurry of barbed attacks as quickly as the first Southern debate began in Dallas last Thursday.

Gore and his strategists have long contended he already had "a ticket to Super Tuesday" because Gore is from the South and because he early on decided to forego Iowa's caucus system to concentrate on the delegate-rich states that vote March 8.
ND commeniments could get much worse

Most of last year's Notre Dame commencement was formal and ceremonious. It was a little rowdy near the end, but it was nothing like the graduation ceremony which took place at Georgetown University last May.

Notre Dame's ceremony began quietly. As the band played and the choir sang, the black-robed graduates silently filed into their seats inside the Joyce ACC arena. Honorary degrees were presented. Dignitaries spoke. The hundreds of ND degree recipients waited politely, as they walked through the formalities.

Then the conferral of degrees began. And the solemn scholars broke into bedlam.

The graduating student and College of Science students jumped up and applauded themselves loudly as their degrees were conferred. As Father Ted Shaffer described the natural methods. Classes in Natural Family Industry.

"New Developments in Natural Family Planning" will be the topic of a presentation at 7:30 p.m. in Room 222 Hayes-Healy. Mercedes Wilson, executive director of the Family of the Americas Foundation and internationally known expert in Natural Family Planning, will describe the natural methods. Israeli troops kill two, Palestinians to protest

Associated Press

JERUSALEM- Israeli soldiers killed two Arabs Sunday in clashes in the West Bank. Palestinian organizers called for stepped up protests to coincide with the visit of U.S. Secretary of State George Shultz this week.

The army said soldiers shot and killed the Arabs in separate confrontations in the West Bank city of Nablus and the Deir Ammar refugee camp. Nablus hospital officials said 17 Arabs were wounded.

The army initially reported a third Arab shot and killed in Nablus but later retracted the statement. Nablus hospital officials said the man, Ahmed Abu Salhiye, in his 50s, died of a heart attack after being overcome by tear gas.

The latest deaths brought the number of Palestinians killed by Israelis since the protests began Dec. 8 to 61, according to United Nations figures.

Defense Minister Yitzhak Rabin rejected demands that he issue specific guidelines to soldiers to curb the use of excessive force against Palestinian protesters.

Hezbollah militiamen opened machine-gun fire on an Amal patrol near the village in the western sector of the Bekaa valley and the patrol fired back rocket-propelled grenades, said a police spokesman, who spoke on condition of anonymity according to regulations.

When the 30-minute clash ended and the Amal patrol left, Hezbollah gunners pounded Israel's self-designated security zone in south Lebanon with mortars, the spokesman said.

The federal government is raiding state and local revenue sources and dumping unfunded mandates on the states, Buiebe said, and most of the presidential candidates are talking of new federal initiatives in such areas of traditional state control as education, welfare, economic development and criminal justice.

" Begging Congress or the administration to pay attention to federalism is, in my opinion, a waste of time," said Busbee, a Democrat. Court seeks mercy killer's name

Associated Press

CHICAGO - One of the nation's leading medical journals is headed for court in what may be its most serious editorial controversy - the publication of an anonymous article by a doctor who described committing a mercy killing.

The Cook County state's attorney's office wants the name of the doctor, but the Journal of the American Medical Association, citing a state free-press law, says it will be in court Monday seeking to quash the subpoena.

Letters to the journal have been about evenly split on whether JAMA should have printed the anonymous essay.

It's not the first time in recent years the 105-year-old journal, the official publication of the country's largest organization of physicians, has found itself in a clash over its contents.

In 1984, a U.S. army medical expert charged that AMA officials killed a story he had submitted on smoking so they could win favor with politicians in tobacco-growing states.

Two years earlier, the journal was accused of publishing an article on heart medicine to placate a major drug company that was an advertiser.

JAMA officials denied the charges in both cases.

The latest case involves the broader issues of press freedom and mercy killing.

In the Jan. 8 essay, titled, "It's Over, Debbie," a doctor described injecting a lethal dose of morphine into a woman dying of ovarian cancer. He wrote that he did not know the patient, but was asked to check on her and moved by her plea of "Let's get this over with."

AMA officials said they did not verify the incident but believed it was based on fact. The essay did not indicate where the doctor lived or where the incident occurred.

Last week, the Cook County state's attorney's office served JAMA with a subpoena ordering it to name the writer of the article.

AMA attorney Kirk Johnson said the journal would not comply. JAMA officials said their attorneys would file a motion Monday to dismiss the subpoena.

military intervention in Afghanistan.

The treaty to ban U.S. and Soviet missiles ranging from 315 to 3,125 miles was signed by President Reagan and Mikhail Gorbachev at their summit meeting in December in Washington. The treaty is now before the U.S. Senate and the Supreme Soviet for approval. Gerasimov said the Soviets were eager to see the treaty placed in force and had begun withdrawing short-range missiles from East Germany and Czechoslovakia. But he rejected assertions by U.S. officials that the Soviets were holding back on a date for the next summit meeting until the treaty was approved.

"We never stated directly that there is some sort of link," the Soviet spokesman said. Reagan and Gorbachev agreed to meet in Moscow but did not set a date. Redman said holding a summit did not depend on completing the treaty to be the superpowers' arsenals of long-range bombers, land-based missiles and submarines.

Negotiations in Geneva have slowed down over ways to verify the cutbacks and over the U.S. program to develop an anti-missile defense in space.

Shultz discussed verification procedures with Shevardnadze. A joint statement is to be issued after talks Monday with Gorbachev. Shevardnadze is expected to deal with the problem and also compliance with the 1972 Anti-Ballistic Missile Treaty, which the Soviets say prohibits much of the U.S. "Star Wars" program.

Models show off their 'Fashion Savvy'

TAMMY ETTEN

The only thing in this world that separates the men from the women is the ability to do a 360 in Nike sneakers versus five inch heels. It is the world of Fashion Savvy. The world brought to Notre Dame Saturday night by the Black Cultural Arts Festival (BCAF) at the South Bend Century Center.

Sixteen students from the University of Notre Dame strutted on stage and the stuff from participating local clothing merchants to the latest in funk music. Their dancy, highly choreographed presentation earned them the standing room only audience for nearly three hours. Because of the bad weather, the 8:00 performance got off to a late start, but it was a performance worth waiting for.

Emcee Jocelyn Allen, a Notre Dame freshman, told the audience to let go of its inhibitions; it would see the elegant and wild, would answer the calls of the T-shirt adorned with a Negro gentleman's Afro and the free of heart.

The first hour of the show was dedicated to 'In Leisure' where the models showed that stone washed denim is still the rage and can be worn a number of ways, leather is 'hot' and bright cotton in solid colors is 'cool'.

The models' versatility was shown by presenting their fashion sets in a number of ways. The audience saw all sixteen models on the stage only in the opening. The T-shaped runway was indeed overwhelming—but not only with the hottest in fashion, but with some of the hottest looking men and women on Notre Dame's campus.

Senior model Yolanda McCullum has been in the show for four years and choreographed much of this year's presentation. Other female models included Michelle Cage, Lois Conradi, Vivian Crosswell, Danielle Duchatellier, Robin Hotly, Tracy Lawery, and Frances Shavers.

The male models included Calvin Allen, Lionel Coleman, Ray Dumas, Mark Green, Everett Jackson, Andre Jones, Ray Dumas, Mark Green, Michele Cage, Lois Conradi, Vivian Crosswell, and James Suttle.

In the first part of the show, there was very little hope for the men to catch up with the women who played hard to get. But they gave in for the second set: "In Business." These up-and-coming young urban professionals showed that double-breasted suits and matching silk ties and handkerchiefs are the wave of the men's future, as well as skirted long jackets for the women.

The third and fourth sets, "In Elegance," and "In Twilight," gave the lighting crew a chance to strut its stuff and music coordinators a change to show it down.

Despite a few musical gaps, covered skillfully by the models who just made their own music, the first half of the show went rather well. A student band, The Groove, entertained the audience during intermission, keeping anybody with an ear for good music from going to the bathroom. Models Lois Conradi and Michele Cage, also band members, captivated the audience with a very good rendition of Sade's "Sweetest Taboo."

The second half of the show ended well—and the beginning left a little to be desired. A representative from Dendrell's, an Indianapolis designer, showed that her ability to emcee was not near her ability to design.

The second half was again plagued with minor music problems, but this time the models were not given the chance to make their own music. Instead the Dendrell's representative announced her dismay by exclaiming "oh, please" and "we'll get it together in a minute."

Her avant garde line was far from avant garde, while her oriental line was as oriental as the snob carpet in my living room. I did enjoy the bamboo jacket in her oriental line, which was quite avant garde. When emcee Jocelyn Allen reclaimed her chair, the performance reclaimed its validity. In my opinion, as a good student effort to display the talents of some of the men and women on campus, and the exciting clothes of the some of the South Bend clothing merchants.

USA hockey team falls 4-1; knocked out of medal hunt

CALGARY, Alberta - The United States lost its final chance and its chance at an Olympic hockey medal Sunday night in a 4-1 defeat to West Germany. A weak team it had to beat by two goals.

The loss was a bitter disappointment for the Americans, who were seeking their second Olympic defenses after losing seventh. at Sarajevo in 1992. Now, the U.S. faces a real goalie in the consolation round just to match that third-place finish.

The Americans fell behind 2-0 early in the game and never could catch up. A powerless offense battled off by a smothering defense and West German goalie Karl Eidlen, a former member of the NHL new Jersey Devils.

In its entire 60-game exhibition schedule, the U.S. team was 13-7-3-10 and had scored 26 goals in four previous Olympic games. When the offense was needed the most, though, the offense failed.

The U.S. lost out the German team's 3-0, 2-3 record, the tiny West Germans were growing against the only winless teams in the same pool, Austria and Norway.

The Americans started at a disadvantage, needing not just to win but to win by two goals under Olympic tiebreaking procedures for the final berth in the medals round.

As it turned out, that calculation never entered the picture. The West Germans were knocked out by a 2-0 lead on goals by Dieter Hegen and Ron Fischer in the first period and clinched it on third-period goals by Peter Othra and Ron Roege.

West Germany killed off 3:33 of a two-man penalty with six minutes to play as the United States got off only three shots before Scott Fusco was called for slashing to end the man advantage. It could have been worse.

With the Germans up 2-0 in the third period, the line of Mike Richter deflected a potential shot by Roege and then another. The Americans had their chances in the first period, but came away with only one goal. The United States has played largely because of Friesen's goal-tending and their own bad luck.

A shot by Jim Johansson hit the crossbar, and a shot by Corey Miller was stopped on a brilliant glove save by Friesen. In the second period, the West Germans appeared contained, and they played it well, keeping the Americans off the scoreboard despite being outshot 11-5.

Tennis loses three in weekend matches

By GEORGE TRAVERS

Sports Writer

The previously undefeated Notre Dame men's tennis team came back to reality this weekend.

Despite a gallant effort, the Irish lost to three superior teams in the 1988 Notre Dame Men's Quadrangular. After falling to Northwestern, Iowa and Miami of Ohio, Notre Dame now stands at 5-3.

Coming into this weekend, Bob Bayliss' Notre Dame squad was an impressive 5-0, and had yet to lose a doubles match all year. Bayliss knew his team would be underdogs for the first time this weekend. He thought they were ready, but it was just a case of too much, too soon.

"This was a case of extremely tough scheduling," said Bayliss. "In our first five matches, we were definite favorites, and in the last three we were heavy underdogs." Action at the Eck Tennis Pavilion began on Friday with a match against Northwestern, which Notre Dame lost 8-1. The only Irish winner was senior captain Dan Walsh. In fact, Walsh was the only Notre Dame player to avoid losing a singles match all weekend. In the number-one singles match, Brian Kalbas lost to Matt Armon 6-2, 6-3.

The Irish lost five of the six singles matches, with Bayliss lamenting Bayliss to make a strategic move by resting his top doubles teams for Saturday.

It was more of the same on Saturday. In the opening singles match, Notre Dame lost to Iowa 7-2. Kalbas defeated Iowa's Martin Agurine in straight sets 6-4, 6-3. Walsh came through with the only other Irish win. Mike Wallace lost to Dan Novak 6-3, 7-5. Ryan Wenger and David Kuhlman both lost in three set matches. In doubles action, Bayliss' strategy from Friday failed to pay off, as the Irish lost all three matches.

The most positive aspect of the weekend for Notre Dame was its match against Miami of Ohio on Saturday afternoon. The Irish played an amazingly intense match considering the grueling schedule, losing 6-3.

"We played better as the weekend went on," said Walsh. "After the initial loss we woke up and started to play pretty well" said Walsh.

Once again Kalbas and Walsh won. Senior Paul Dagg was defeated by Miami's Jeff Skolnik, one of the top 10 players in the country, 6-2, 6-2, the country. Bayliss feels Kalbas himself is becoming one of the premiere players in the country.

"If I could say one thing about Brian it would be that he is absolutely maximizing his capabilities," the first-year coach said. "He is an incredibly intense competitor and played excellently considering he reaggravated his groin injury.

"We have a lot of depth and a strong will to win, as was shown in the Minneapolis match," said Bayliss.

Skaters earn America's first gold, silver medals

Associated Press

CALGARY, Alberta- Tomas Gustafson of Sweden set a world speed-skating record and became the Winter Olympics first double gold medalist Sunday, while America still basked in the triumphs of its own two skaters.

Franck Piccard won the super giant slalom and gave France its first ski racing gold since Jean-Claude Killy took the world speed-skating record in 1968, as Killy basked in the triumphs of its own two skaters.

1,500 meters, finished Sunday's 10,000 in fourth place. It was Flaim's third No. 1 finish. America had three medals, but its hockey team failed to stay in contention for another one Sunday night, losing to West Germany 4-1 in a game that decided the third and final team advancing from the B pool into the medal round.

The Soviet Union beat Czecho­lovakia 6-1 in a rematch of the 1984 gold medal game, and Austria met Norway in the other Group B games. Poland's best hockey player, Jaroslaw Morawiecki, became the first athlete to test positive for steroids from urine samples taken in the first week of the Games. Morawiecki was banned from the Games, and Poland had to forfeit a victory over France, costing it any chance of winning a medal.

The Soviet Union and East Germany have 26 of the total 66 medals at these Games, including 12 of 22 golds. The Soviets have 16 medals, East Germany 10.

Gustafson, a 1984 gold medalist in the 5,000, won at the same distance last Wednesday in Olympic record time and set a world record in winning Sunday's 10,000 in 13 minutes, 48.20 seconds. The old mark was 13:48.51 by Geir Karstad of Norway.

"How do you describe hap­piness?" he asked after his first gold medal. "I will have to write a poem." Piccard, who already had a bronze in the downhill, challenged Mount Allan's super giant slalom course where others showed caution on the icy, steep hill.

He got such a rough ride, he cracked his helmet open when he hit a gate near the start and slammed his poles into the snow at the finish, fearing the worst. But he was a winner by more than a second over Hel­mut Mayer of Austria, and he spoiled the return to action of downhill gold medalist Pirmin Zurbriggen and the debut of Italian ace Alberto Tomba.

The Soviets won another gold medal Sunday when their wo­men's cross-country relay team prevailed, tying East Germany with six golds. Four of the Soviet golds are in cross­country skating, where they have won nine of 15 medals of­fered so far.

America's next good chance for a medal is Monday when sprints and Bonnie Blair of Champaign, Ill., renew her rivalry with East German Christa Rothenburger in the 1,500 meters.

Gustafson beat Michael Hadschief of Austria, a bronze medalist at 1,500 meters, by 7.91 seconds. Leo Visser of Hol­land, second behind Gustafson in the 5,000, won the bronze.

Piccard's gold was the first in the Olympics for the French men since Killy won three golds in Grenoble before dissension ripped the team apart and destroyed it in the mid-1970s.

"I made lots of mistakes in the upper part, but by the bot­tom of the race, I was skiing better," Piccard said.

Piccard, a non-winner in five seasons on the World Cup tour, shattered and churned his way through the course, ending in 1 minute, 36.66 seconds. Mayer was 1.3 seconds behind for the silver, and Lars-Boeje Erikkson of Sweden won the bronze.

the women's combined.

With spring-like tempera­tures lingering in the Rockies, Brian Boitano and Eric Flaim were America's men for all seasons. Boitano with a gold in figure skating, and Flaim won a silver in speed skating.

And, while Americans could not match the mighty Soviet bloc in medals, they at least had something to talk about be­sides the weather.

"I got one for the USA," Boitano said Sunday, one day after his victory. "The thought has occurred to me that if we leave with no more gold medals, at least we've got this one." Flaim, who won his silver in France, costing it

Boitano wins duel of Brians

Associated Press

CALGARY, Alberta-A flat thrust in the air by an elated Brian Boitano and the pain that punched the face of Brian Orser told it all.

"It's the ultimate," Boitano said after he beat friend and skating opponent Orser for the gold medal Saturday by a razor-thin edge. In straight time the Canadian lost an Olympic title to an American.

The bronze went to up-and-coming Soviet skater Viktor Petrenko.

Orser, choking back his disappointment at a news conference, put on a brave face.

"Sure I'm disappointed," he said, "but now I have to focus on Budapest and defend my world championship."

The dramatic showdown of freeskating, performed to each man's choice of musical music and battle colors, with Boitano wearing blue and Orser donning red, capped 10 years of competition. Boitano had lost the last two encounters at Skate Canada last fall and at the 1987 world championships.

The buildup had been intense for a faceoff billed as "The Battle of the Brians," and it clearly weighed heavily on both men. During warmups in the last group for Saturday's long program, both were careful to avoid looking at each other, zipping their eyes with angry stares.

"This whole week was exhausting, like a competition I've ever experienced," said Boitano, 24, of Sunnyvale, Calif. "It was pressure at its ultimate."

When he stepped on the ice, Boitano said, there was a voice saying, "This is it. This is it. And then there was another voice saying, 'Just treat it like another competition. It was a kind of a fight, a tug of war and an exhausting fight."

again. Tim Osburn scored at 14:02 of the second period, and Joe Mocnik followed with a power play goal less than four minutes later, and the Wolves led 5-2 with one period to play.

Schafer thought the loss of sophomore wings Bruce Guay and Tim Kiehl, who both were sidelined with injuries, might have had something to do with Notre Dame's scoring problems.

"We sorely missed their presence," said Schafer. "They represent 41 of our goals this season. We played well enough defensively, but Dearborn played well. They played with a lot of emotion, and they're a good hockey team."

"Everybody gave their best effort," Schafer continued. "I'm disappointed with the loss, but not with the effort. They might have a little more skill than we do right now."

113-run to tie the score at 47-47 with 13:14 to play in the game. With the score still tied at 57-57, the Irish outscored the Warriors 14 to 2 to take a 71-59 lead and put the game away.

Notre Dame clinched the win with a barrage of free throws down the stretch. For the game, the Irish connected on 33 of 43 free throws, a stat that left McGraw pleased.

"It was a great day for us at the line," McGraw said. "It was much better than we had been shooting."

The Irish continue their road swing with a game at Valparaiso on Thursday.

Kuhns, Gavin lead the way as Irish conquer Marquette

By GREG GUFFEY
Sports Writer

It was a team effort for the Irish during their amazing 20-point win over Marquette last Saturday. Lisa Kuhns poured in a career-high 32 points to pace the Irish to a 79-69 victory, their career-high 15 points, but McGraw said it was her leadership that got the team going. "She played with a lot of intensity," McGraw said. "We were flat and complacent in the first half, but she really got everybody going in the second half. She thought she could pick some of the slack up."

Not only did the Irish complete the season sweep of the Warriors, but they kept alive their NCAA tournament hopes. The win improved their record to 17-4. "It looks a lot better if we win by 20 points," McGraw said, "but we were on the road and they take that into account.

We think that if we win the next four games we will get it." McGraw controlled the opening tap and then controlled the entire first half. The Warriors twice built leads of seven and 29-19. The Irish cut the advantage to 36-33 at the half on a Kuhns three-pointer with 2:09 left. "We let them score at will," McGraw said of the first half. "We didn't have any intensity. I was not pleased at all with the first half. That's when things happen when you beat a team 37 points earlier in the season and you're expecting to win again. You're expecting it to happen without working for it." In the second half, Burton took control. She scored the first six points of the second half to give the Irish a 39-36 lead. Gavin added a basket and Kuhns a three-pointer to lead the Irish to their fifth straight win.

The Warriors then went on a 12-4 run to take the lead back, 41-40, but the Irish scored the final four points of the period to go into the half with a 45-41 lead.

Mary Gavin (10) scoring a season-high 15 points, the Bluejays' senior women's basketball team defeated Marquette 79-69 on Saturday at Marquette. Notre Dame next plays at Valparaiso on Thursday.

UM-Dearborn snaps hockey team's streak in sweep

By STEVE MEGARGEE
Sports Writer

Michigan-Dearborn goalies Mike Klavon and Dave Church stopped just about everything that came their way last weekend.

By the end of the Wolves' series with the Irish hockey team, they had stopped Notre Dame's 14-game winning streak and its chances of gaining the American Collegiate Hockey Association regular season title, as well.

Klavon recorded 37 saves on Friday night and Church followed with 34 saves on Saturday, as the Wolves swept Notre Dame 3-1 and 4-6 at Dearborn.

The Wolves' regular season ended with a 10-4-1 overall mark, the best in school history.

Senior goalie Mike Klavon took a perfect 10-0-0 record into the final game of the season. Klavon, who started at forward last season, is averaging 13.5 points and 8.3 rebounds. The Wolves didn't play against the Irish in the second game.

The Wolves, who averaged 6.9 goals a game going into the season, sport a 10-1-1 season record and a 22-13-3 mark overall.

"It was a hard-fought game," Church said after the first 12 minutes. "The defense played pretty well most of the time, but we made a couple of mistakes they jumped on," said Schafer. "It was a hard-fought series."

The Wolves took several shots from close range during the final two periods, but Klavon managed to make the save every time. Although the Irish outshot Dearborn 23-9 in the final two periods, the Wolves outscored Notre Dame 2-0 during that time.

"A lot of things didn't happen without working for it," said Church. "We just need to get back to where we were when we defeated Kansas."

"We were in a groove after we beat Kansas, then we went into a holding pattern for two weeks with Mark Stevenson," Phelps says. "Now we want to get back to where we were when we defeated Kansas."

"We just need to get Steven­ son back to playing the way he was before his suspension, and get a little more consistency from our inside game, and we'll be fine."
