Two charged in cocaine bust

By MARK PANKOWSKI

Two Notre Dame students pleaded innocent in Superior Court last week to felony charges of selling and conspiring to sell cocaine to an undercover police officer earlier this month.

Daniel Trung Nuyen, a senior, and Michael James Murphy, a junior, both of 5519 University Park Apartments, are each charged with two counts of conspiring to sell cocaine and two counts of selling the drug, a St. Joseph County court administrator said.

Each charge carries a punishment of 20 to 50 years in prison.

Nuyen and Murphy, who are free on $2,500 cash bond, are scheduled for trial on June 27.

The two are also charged with selling an ounce of cocaine for $1,500 to the same undercover officer on March 4.

Murphy reportedly told police that he and Nuyen had driven to Miami during Christmas break to buy 10 ounces of cocaine from a man they had visited during Thanksgiving vacation in South America, the Tribune reported.

An informant later told the undercover officer that two men wanted to sell a large

Notre Dame Security is seeking two suspects in connection with separate assaults on a Notre Dame student and a Saint Mary's student.

An 18-year-old Saint Mary's student was walking along St. Mary's Road near U.S. 33 around 11:50 p.m. on March 10 when she was grabbed from behind by the suspect and thrown onto the pavement, Security reports said.

The student kicked the suspect and screamed, causing the assailant to flee on foot.

Pasin, Breslin, Tisa elected

By REGIS COCCIA
News Editor

Rob Pasin, Matt Breslin and Tom Tisa emerged as the respective winners in the run-off elections for sophomore, junior and senior class offices.

Voting in the March 8 class elections necessitated run-offs for each class. Results from the March 10 run-off elections were made official shortly before students left for spring break.

Tisa's ticket garnered 460 votes for 40.1 percent, to defeat opponent Don Diebel, whose ticket received 306 votes for 25.8 percent.

"I'm excited about it," said junior Tom Tisa. "We have a good ticket, we worked very hard. We appreciate all those who voted for us and supported us in the election."

Tisa's ticket will meet with current senior class officers to organize a strategy for the next year, he said. "We're going to try to work with (senior class president) Diane (Fitzgibbon) and her people so we can do the best we can," Tisa said.

"It's been a long two weeks," said Tisa. "We're happy it's over but we're also happy we did it."

The newly-elected class officers will officially assume office on April 1, he said.

Diebel, runner-up in the run-off for senior class president, was disappointed but congratulated Tisa. "I think he had a really good campaign and he did a good job rallying the support of the hall presidents," he said.

"We put a lot of work into it. The Tisa ticket certainly did a lot of work, too. I'm happy for them."

Matt Breslin defeated Bill Fitzgerald by a margin of almost 12 percent in the run-off for junior class president. Breslin received 560 votes for 56.1 percent, while Fitzgerald received 439 votes, for 43.9 percent.

"We're all ecstatic about the election results and everybody who helped during the campaign did a great job. Bill's ticket should be commended on a great campaign," Breslin said.

"We're going to try to bring more people into working with the class office," he said. "Basically, we're trying to expand on the ideas of the current officers. The officers this year really did a good job.

Fitzgerald contended voter turnout at the polls might have altered the election results. "We'd like to say we wouldn't feel so bad if the entire class had voted. But they didn't, so
Observer organized to serve community

The Observer Tuesday, March 22, 1988

Today marks the beginning of a new general board of The Observer.

Each year, as the senior writers, editors, and general staff leave, the new staff moves in to determine the newspaper in every way imaginable. Our staff is determined to make needed improvements in order to bring the fairest, most accurate, and widest possible variety of news to the Notre Dame and Saint Mary's community.

Before defining a basic working philosophy for The Observer, it is first necessary to define what a student newspaper is and what its role is in a university environment.

The Observer is produced for students by the students. For many of our readers, The Observer is the single source of news information and a link to the outside world. This puts a heavy burden on The Observer's editors; it is a duty that the editors must and will take most seriously.

Each of the editorial departments serves the newspaper in different ways. When each department's work combines into the actual newspaper, it should present an accurate reflection of the state of affairs in the community. To understand clearly how our newspaper will be a reflection of the community, it is important to examine the individual departments.

The news department's primary responsibility is to report the "who's," "what's," "where's," and "why's" of events that occur in our community. Accuracy is a given. Objectivity is a vital concern, especially when students and administrators that affect them personally. Therefore, all angles of a story must be covered. Consistency is a key, both at Notre Dame and Saint Mary's.

The Viewpoint department acts as a balance for the news department. Student, faculty, administrative, and occasionally parental opinions reflect the attitudes toward the news. For this department to serve students and satisfy the philosophy of our newspaper, a variety of opinions must be published. Whether individuals agree with certain opinions or not, something can be learned by all when hearing a different viewpoint. Viewpoint is a department that reflects the "state of affairs" in the community. This page reflects the concerns of our people, it is a place where opinions actually can make a difference.

The Accent department's primary duty is to enlighten the community to entertaining aspects in our university life. Our new weekend format will give students somewhere to turn to on Friday's to find out what's going on in entertainment for the weekend.

The sports page is the most well-read section of the paper. Our coverage of the major sport is complete, yet we are determined to become more consistent in our coverage of the "minor" sports.

The photography department isn't often thought of as an editorial department. Photos appearing in The Observer, however, really do make an editorial statement. Like our other departments, photography reflects the state of affairs at Notre Dame and Saint Mary's.

If the editorial or sports staff are able to fulfill these duties, then we will present an informative and entertaining newspaper everyday. We have a lot of expectations for the upcoming year. I'd like to encourage our readers' input whether The Observer has done something good or bad.

For now, it's up to the 80 plus employees of The Observer to keep the community informed. It is a job that we will take most seriously.

U.S. Army copter crashes during Honduras exercise

Associated Press

WASHINGTON - A U.S. Army transport helicopter participating in a military exercise in Honduras crashed on Monday, and a number of soldiers were reported injured, Pentagon officials said.

The officials, who requested anonymity, said the accident occurred Monday afternoon near the Honduran town of Juticalpa and involved an American UH-1 Huey transport copter. While the initial reports were fragmentary, it appeared that the copter was carrying nine soldiers and that all of them survived, the sources said.

"We have no reports of any fatalities," said one official. "But we do have reports of some injuries and medical evacuations under way."

The sources said the accident did not occur in or near a combat zone and did not involve hostile fire. "It looked like it was mechanical," said one official.

The accident scene was said to be about six miles south of Juticalpa. That would place it 35 miles north of the Honduran-Nicaraguan border and about 60 miles west of the border region where Nicaraguan troops were fighting Contra Guerrillas last week.

The Pentagon sources, who stressed they were awaiting more information from U.S. authorities in Honduras, said it was unclear whether the nine aboard the Huey were all American or whether some of the passengers might have included Honduran troops.

The United States airlifted more than 3,100 army troops to Honduras last week in a warning to the Leftist Sandinista government, after Nicaraguan troops moved into Honduras to attack base camps of the U.S.-backed Contra Guerrillas.

After arriving in Honduras, the American soldiers dispersed around the country for joint exercises with Honduran forces. The exercise areas is near Juticalpa, and a battalion from the 82nd Airborne Division was sent to that site.

The Reagan Administration has made it clear it does not intend to send the U.S. troops into combat with the Sandinistas. Administration sources said Monday it appeared the fighting was ending in any event and that Nicaragua was withdrawing its troops from Honduran soil.

Nicaragua, Contras begin talks; Honduras border now peaceful

Associated Press

TEGUICICALPA, Honduras - Nicaragua withdrew its soldiers from the Honduran border Monday and declared an end to fighting while it holds truce talks with Contra rebels, according to reports from all sides.

The border region remained tense, with Honduran patrols on the lookout for any booby traps left behind by the Sandinistas.

President Jose Azcona Hoyos said the 3,200 U.S. troops sent to Honduras last week after the Nicaraguan army was accused of sending 2,000 men across the border last Wednesday in pursuit of Contras, may not be needed any longer.

"The worst is over and there is peace now in the border region," Col. Reynald Andino Flores, commander of the Honduran army's 101st Infantry Brigade, said by telephone from his headquarters in southern Honduras.

"We are remaining on a state of alert to be ready for anything that may happen," he added, and soldiers are "constantly patrolling the area."

Flores and other officers, some of whom insisted on anonymity for security reasons, said the Sandinistas penetrated an area of about 20 square miles inside Olancho province last week while chasing the U.S. supported rebels in a two-week offensive to evict the Contras from Nicaragua.

About 200 border incidents have been reported in Olancho since the Contras began fighting the leftist Sandinista government in 1979.

President Daniel Ortega and the Nicaraguan government have denied Sandinista soldiers crossed the border. The Contras maintain camps in an area called Bocay, which includes territory on both sides of the border. Nicaragua claims the camps, which the Contras use to store supplies and to stage raids inside Nicaragua, are in Nicaraguan land but the rebels say they are in Honduras.

At Sapoa, a town on the Costa Rican border, representatives of the Sandinista government and Contras began their first direct talks Monday on Nicaragua soil.

The purpose of the negotiations is to work out a cease-fire as required by the peace plan that five Central American presidents signed last Aug. 7.

Defense Minister Humberto Ortega of Nicaragua said the Sandinistas would not fighting during the talks, which are scheduled to last three days, and asked the Contras to do the same.

Contra leader Alfredo Cesar, head of the rebel delegation, called the Sandinista government "constructive" and added: "If they do so, then we also can take the same measures."

Sending four battalions of the 82nd Airborne Division and the Light Infantry to Honduras brought the U.S. military presence in Honduras to more than 6,000 men. They are engaged in joint exercises with the Hondurans, but away from the border combat area.

U.S. and Honduran units have held joint exercises every few months for the last five years.

Some of the American troops practiced military maneuvers at an airstrip only 30 miles all from the Nicaraguan border on Sunday. A U.S. army transport helicopter crashed during an exercise farther from the border, injuring several soldiers, Pentagon sources said in Washington.

There were about nine soldiers aboard the UH-1 helicopter when it crashed Monday afternoon near Juticalpa, Honduras, said the sources, who spoke on condition of anonymity.
ND Senate votes for Crime Stoppers

By GREG LUCAS
Copy Editor

The Student Senate voted Monday night to join Crime Stoppers, a national network of programs that offers monetary rewards to people who give information leading to an arrest.

According to Student Senator Brian Holst, a "crime of the week" will be published and students will be able to call the number for Crime Stoppers in South Bend with information relating to the crime.

Holst, who introduced the proposal, said The Observer had given him tentative approval for publishing the "crime of the week."

Lieutenant Sam Walsh, director of the South Bend Crime Stoppers program, told the senate that over 1,000 convictions have been made and $2 million of narcotics have been removed from the streets in the last five years as a result of information obtained from the program.

Walsh presented an informational film on Crime Stoppers which reported that the program has averaged a 98 percent conviction ratio nationwide for publicized crimes.

Walsh said he does not know of any other university that employs the Crime Stoppers program. He added, however, that a number of high schools have successfully adopted the program.

Walsh said Crime Stoppers is designed to allay fear of retaliation because an informant is given a code number and remains entirely anonymous.

The potential for a cash reward eliminates the problem of apathy, Walsh said, adding that many informants do not even request a reward.

"The Crime Stoppers program, as far as recovery and convictions, is more important than education, although that is also very important," Walsh said.

Phil Johnson, assistant director of security, also attending the meeting, said that simply publishing Security Beat in The Observer has not generated as many "tips" as was originally hoped for.

Student Body President Pat Cooke and several other senate members questioned the morality of offering a cash reward for something that falls under civic duty. "There is something special about the morality here," Cooke said.

Victor Krebs, chairman for the Committee for Graduate/Undergraduate Relations, said, "This community would be more sensitive than others to education and awareness."

In addition to support from Security and the media, a student board will have to be established to determine the amount of a reward based on the value of the information given, Holst said.

The details of the Crime Stoppers program at Notre Dame will be worked out by Holst, Johnson and Walsh.

In other business, the senate approved the adoption of a revised student government constitution.

The revisions are mainly "cosmetic," according to Holst, who introduced the revised edition.

After some debate, the senate voted to allow the positions of student body treasurer and judicial coordinator to remain in a voting capacity on the senate.

Candidates look for endorsements

Associated Press

Officials in Puerto Rico continued to tally the results of Sunday's primaries, in which Bush rolled up another victory over Bob Dole and Jesse Jackson and Michael Dukakis added to their Democratic totals.

While Bush attended a New Jersey rally with Kean, Republican rival Dole said in Wisconsin that that was the state where he was trying to "get back in the race." Democratic candidates were focusing on Michigan, where Saturday's caucuses are the next big event after weekend contests in Kansas, Texas and Puerto Rico that helped Dukakis and Jackson.

Gephardt and Gore won kind words but no endorsement in meetings with Chrysler Corp. Chairman Iacocca and New York Gov. Cuomo.

Wisconsin's primary 10 days later was shaping up as a further Democratic battleground, two weeks before the big New York primary April 19.

Gore began running television and radio ads in Wisconsin in hopes of making it the state where he demonstrates appeal outside the South. Sen. Paul Simon, who won in his home state last week, was making a minimal effort in Michigan but intended to run ads in Wisconsin. Connecticut holds its primary one week earlier, March 29, and Dukakis was considered the leader, although Gore would like to demonstrate some strength in the Massachusetts governor's backyard.

Jackson campaigned in Colorado, where caucuses are April 4, and in Michigan on Monday.

Republican Dole, also looking to Wisconsin, talked with farmers in the northwest part of the state and renewed his call for Bush to debate him.

Earlier, in Green Bay, Dole accused the Reagan administration of not doing a good job of making its case for aid to the Contras, who are battling Nicaragua's Sandinista regime. Kean's endorsement came as Bush added to a seemingly insurmountable lead in delegates.

Bush picked up the 14 delegates at stake in Puerto Rico's primary Sunday, boosting his total to 788 - nearly 70 percent of the 1,139 he needs to win at the national convention in New Orleans this summer. Dole had 178. Former television evangelist Pat Robertson had 12.

The 31 Democratic delegates from Puerto Rico all ran as uncommitted, and the candidates promised major efforts to woo them in coming weeks.

Tension, violence intensify in Northern Ireland

Associated Press

BELFAST, Northern Ireland IRA gunmen killed a police officer Monday at a checkpoint in Londonderry, the 10th victim in two weeks of heightening tension and sectarian violence. Britain announced a massive manhunt in West Belfast's Roman Catholic ghettos for the killers of two British soldiers caught in an IRA funeral procession.

Northern Ireland Secretary Tom King said in London that the Royal Ulster Constabulary has launched an immediate review of its new policy of keeping a low profile at Irish Republican Army funerals. The policy was aimed at avoiding clashes between police and supporters of the outlawed IRA.

The police officer who was killed Monday, Cllr Graham, 25, was shot in the head in a jeep while at a checkpoint in the Roman Catholic Creggan district of Londonderry, Northern Ireland's second-largest city. He died later in the hospital.

King denied charges by Northern Ireland Secretary Norn-thern Ireland Secretary for University graduates with foreign know-how in dealing with foreign marketing American trade and investment efforts back American Companies need your skills and to distribute a questionnaire to others being sought after hundreds of smaller IRA units killed in planned attacks carried out by an army helicopter which hovered over the scene and by TV networks.

Corporals Derek Wood and James Green were surrounded when they drove up to the cortege, dragged them out, and shot dead.

The IRA claimed responsibil­ity for Graham's killing in a clandestine message to Belfast families. He was the 10th person to die since March 6, when British commandos shot dead three IRA guerrillas who allegedly were plotting a car bombing in Gibraltar.

The funeral policy was started Wednesday to services the guerrillas killed in Gibraltar. A Protestant gun­man opened fire and hurled grenades at the Catholic Mil­townton cemetery, killing three people and wounding 12.

King's announcement of a review of the policy stopped well short of demands by leaders of Northern Ireland Protestant parties to return to IRA funerals.

As expectations grew of an imminent wave of arrests in West Belfast, there was also speculation that dozens of IRA supporters who were filmed surrounding and beating the soldiers' unmarked car with iron bars and dragging them out had gone into hiding.

"A massive murder investiga­tion is under way in which all possible resources are in­volved to identify all those re­sponsible," King said of the manhunt in West Belfast.

Three people were arrested Saturday and police sources said Monday that up to 30

Many facets to NASA program

Third, the shuttle accident has not caused a reassignment of engineering responsibility away from NASA to the industry. NASA has always relied on the private sector for the engineering development and production of its major flight projects. NASA is a decentralized management and research operation; it is not in the spacecraft fabrication business. The shuttle accident for, example, is assembled by the Rockwell International Corporation from parts designed and manufactured by them as well as by hundreds of other suppliers—10 percent of which must be small or minority-owned businesses. NASA will continue this prudent policy, but it will likely review in greater depth the critical engineering decisions made in industry. This is one lesson learned (rather the hard way) from the shuttle tragedy.

Fourth, while the shuttle accident was clearly a setback to the space program, NASA is not without its other superb accomplishments. Ironically, the shuttle accident came at the end of a three-day fly-by of the planet Uranus by NASA's Voyager 2 spacecraft, operating on schedule and on course more than eight years after its launch. This almost incredible triumph was soon forgotten by American journalists. I write this because, as a reminder, the data arrived and the press corps scrambled to the door when they heard of a major event in Florida. Advance in science doesn't sell as much advertising in the evening news as human tragedy.

This brings us to a fifth misconception. There is quite a distinction between financial and scientific aspects of its manned space program. The Voyager project has been an astounding success for over 10 years now, returning valuable data from close encounters with Jupiter, Saturn, Uranus, and Neptune. The same Voyager 2 spacecraft is on a trajectory that will take it past the planet Pluto in 1990. It is often forgotten that NASA's planetary science program successfully landed two spacecraft on the surface of Mars in 1976. Yet, astronomers, shuttles and space stations attract more attention; they also require more money, even though they are less than obvious. The president has identified the NASA space station as a major national priority, but it is not clear why it is needed. It was once thought that commercial manufacturing, known as "materials processing in space," would require such a space station, but later analysis has shown that these operations require smaller space platforms and thus not likely to be housed aboard the space station. The space station is suited to a number of technological and scientific projects, but these are demonstrably not the priority of current administration. (Again, it is often forgotten that the U.S. has already flown a scientifically oriented space station; it was called Skylab, and it was eventually abandoned for lack of interest.)

My sixth and final comment regards comparisons of the old and Soviet space programs. The frequently invoked argument "they have a space station, therefore, so should we" is both elliptical and unsound. The Soviets have food shortages, troops in Afghanistan, and the Gulag; clearly we should not feel compelled to follow their lead in these instances. However, we can learn much from the example set by the Soviet space station.

Housing challenges transfer students

accept writer

Every year transfer students, who come from all over the country, must adjust to the Notre Dame college life. Transfer students, with the added problem of finding a place to live off-campus, find the adjustment to Notre Dame even more difficult without the support of a dorm or student neighbors. This unfortunate situation set them apart from the Notre Dame community, often at times in the middle of the line on Washington Street, approximately two miles from campus.

"The packet I was given had no roses on it, so I didn't know how far away I would be living," said Fallon.

This meant that Fallon could not utilize the library at night, and so, when the buses didn't run, Fallon commented that more direction should be given for these students as they come in and must find housing. For instance, Fallon would have liked to have known that many off-campus students live at Campus View and Notre Dame apartments. The neighborhood he lived in had very few students. This made it difficult for him to adjust to Notre Dame.

"I didn't have a home last semester, I had a room to sleep in. I wanted to fit in, but it was hard because I didn't know anyone. I wanted to be a member of the Notre Dame community. This was very hard when I didn't live in a college atmosphere," said Fallon.

This semester Fallon lives in the ROTC Building. Next year, Fallout hopes he will be able to live on campus, but he won't know if he can until July. Presumably, he is on a waiting list for all transfer students wanting to live in dorms. He doesn't believe he will have experienced true college life until he lives in a dorm.

"Dorm camaraderie is big at Notre Dame. I would like to have the opportunity to partici­ pate in inter­ hall football and go to SYR's in my own dorm. Dorm life here is like fraternity and I want to be a part of it," said Fallon.

The additional female housing has made one transfer student's dream to live on-campus a reality. Living at home this year, Sophomore Joanna Guilinan is anxious to live at Notre Dame.

"I have received a housing contract so I'm pretty sure I have guaranteed housing next year," said Guilinan.

Guilinan transferred from Indiana University and said that the people she met during her first semester at Notre Dame helped her make an easy transition.

"The people here went out of their way to make me feel welcome," said Guilinan.

Guilinan believes the small size of Notre Dame ensures more opportunities for stu­ dents to get involved. She feels that it was much harder at I.U. to join extracurricular activities because there were too many people trying to join the limited number of clubs and organiza­ tions.

"This summer I am going to have a biology internship. I could never have done that at I.U. Too many people would have been competing for that position," said Guilinan.

The other aspect of Notre Dame that Guilinan liked is the absence of fraternities and sor­orities.

"I was not opposed to Greek life before I experienced it at I.U. But when I was exposed to it, I realized how much I didn't like it. I was like being back in high school where you had to be in the 'in' crowd," said Guilinan.

She is much happier at Notre Dame and said, "I like the people here better. The stu­ dents are more active. They do more than just study and party," said Guilinan.

'The Thorns': no bed of roses

One criticism that people have of shows like "Dallas" and "Dynasty" is that they are so ridiculous. If they're funny, they're funny. The famed "Dynasty" Moldavian massacre has real potential; however, the show never reaches it. The plots are often cliche, containing typical sitcom plots. The theme of the Thorns is the most realistic, but extremely overused.

They have an intercom in every room. The Thorns' attempt to capture the comic spirit of these prime time soap opera; however, there are no roses at the top of this prickly mess.

ABC presents "The Thorns" at 9:30 p.m. on Friday nights. Sloan (Tina Roberts), a wealthy, powerful businessman while his wife Ginger (Kelly Bis­ hop) is very pitiful, nouveau-riche woman.

There are three Thorns children: Chad (Adam Breck), Joey (Lisa Reiffel) and Edmund (Susan Tendler). In addition, there are the maid, Toinette (Mary Louise Wilson); a young nanny named Cricked (Lorie Petty); and Sloan's mother, Rose (Marilyn Cooper).

From the nature of the char­acters, theiroutlandish names, and the rich family set-up, "The Thorns" expects, especially since many of them are viewers of "Mr. Belvedere," a family-oriented show.

ABC's Friday night lineup is probably the best of the three network shows. "Perfect Strangers" is silly and popular. The con­ stantly improving "Full House" follows, and "Mr. Slevedere" is in the middle of an outstanding season and enjoying its highest ratings ever. It is too bad that this comedy lineup doesn't finish with a clever, humorous show.

"The Thorns" is by no means doomed. The writers must make an attempt to refine the purpose of the show. Is it a comedy or a soap opera? If they decide to proceed un­ der the classification "situation comedy," they need a lot more humor. Also, the children must be involved more in the plot­lines instead of simply reacting to their parents problems.

The best advice for viewers: tune into "The Thorns" compe­ tition, "Dallas." It's so ridiculous, it's funny. As for "The Thorns," they need to blossom.

Year and a member of the 1987 National

Calloway plans to leave Indiana

Associated Press

INDIANAPOLIS - Indiana forward Rick Calloway has decided to leave the Bloomington school and may transfer to another university for his remaining year of eligibility, an Indianapolis television station reported Monday night.

The 6-foot-4 junior forward from Cincinnati, who lost his regular starting position for the defending national champions this year after an outstanding NCAA tournament last season, informed Coach Bob Knight he was leaving Monday morning, WISH-TV reported.

The station cited sources who it claimed confirmed the story with Calloway himself. The player could not be reached for comment.

The school had no comment on the report, said Eric Ruden, an assistant sports information director.

Calloway had started four of Hoosiers’ last seven games but did not play in the season-ending 72-69 loss to Richmond in Friday’s first-round game of the NCAA East Regional tournament. He played in 16 of 29 games, starting 19, and averaged 11.8 points, 4.3 rebounds and 29 minutes per game.

The Big Ten Freshman of the Year in 1986-87, Calloway was forced under NCAA rules to sit out a year before using his remaining year of eligibility at another school.

Calloway, playing last year in his hometown, had a season-high 23 points in the Hoosier’s Midwest Regional semifinal win over Duke. He went on to score the winning tip-in in the 77-76 final regional victory over Louisiana State. He earlier had a career-high 13 rebounds in the second-round win over Auburn.

He scored 12 points, just under his season average, in the Final Four victory over UNLV, but broke his right wrist and did not score in the championship game against Syracuse.

Irish win four on Texas trip

By STEVE MEGARGEE
Assistant Sports Editor

A trip to Texas over Spring Break produced mixed results for the Notre Dame baseball team last weekend.

While the pitching staff showed signs of improvement, the Irish failed to "get a manager" hitting from all but three players in the nine game trip. The Irish won two of nine games in the trip and ran their record to 10-11; 4-9 in conference.

"We were really encouraged," said first-year Irish coach Pat Murphy. "We can see that all our work is paying off, and we're headed in the right direction.

"We were counting on our hitting, and all of a sudden our pitching came through," continued Murphy. "We look pretty tough now."

Murphy had no reason to complain with the play of Tim Hutson, Dan Pellett or Pat Pesavento. The three lefthanded hitters continued to lead the team like they have all season. After 16 games, Hutson, a senior first baseman, is batting .429 with six home runs and 27 runs batted in, sophomore outfielder Pellett is batting .440 with 19 RBI and 20 runs scored and senior shortstop Pesavento has scored 19 runs with a .356 batting average.

"Those are the three guys we're counting on," said Murphy. "We know at the beginning of the year these guys were going to hit, and they haven't disappointed us at all."

The Irish opened the Texas trip with a doubleheader split with Schreiner on March 12. Schreiner (11-19) won the first game 4-0 behind Joby Hill's three-hitter, while Brian Piotrowski and Mike Harmon combined to pitch a six-hitter in a losing effort. Notre Dame rebounded to take the second game 19-2 behind homers by Pellett and Pesavento. Junior second baseman Mike Moshier had four for-5 with two runs and six RBI, and James Sax went 3-for-4 with three runs. Kevin Chenault allowed just one run in four innings to pick up the win.

St. Edward's (11-18) edged the Irish two days later by a 5-4 score in 11 innings. Notre Dame held a 4-0 lead after two innings, but St. Edward's whipped away with one run in the fifth, three in the seventh and a final run in extra innings to earn the victory. Pesavento, sophomore Ed Lund and senior captain Steve Slupien each had two hits for the Irish.

The Irish came back the next day with a doubleheader sweep of Texas Lutheran (15-6). Pellett and Hutson each had two hits to win the first game 7-3, and Hutson recorded five RBI in an 8-2 second-game victory. Mike Harmon, working in relief, won the first game, while Mike Pasazlla and Tom Howard combined on a six-hitter in the second game.

Notre Dame played again on March 18, and Incarnate Word (18-10) handed the Irish a 10-2 whipping. Incarnate Word was led by a six-run third inning and the five hit pitching of Michael Gonzalez.

The Irish were doing the whipping in their next game, spoiling the season-opener for Ivy League school Cornell with a 16-2 rout. Pellett and Hutson hit back-to-back homers in the eighth inning. Hutson's blast, the sixteenth of his career, broke Henry Valenzuela's school record for career homers.

Irish golfers win triangular

Special to the Observer

The Notre Dame golf team defeated Embry Riddle and Flagler College in a triangular meet over break. The Irish were led by Pat Mohan with a round of 73 at the Riviera Country Club in Daytona, Fla.

"It was an excellent victory on their home course," said Irish coach Noel O'Sullivan. They were waiting to ambush us, but we came out smoking," said Mohan.

Notre Dame won with a score of 307, followed by Embry Riddle with 312 and Flagler with 315.

The Irish did not fare as well in the Palm Coast Intercollegiate tournament, finishing 11th out of 24 teams.

The University of North Florida won the competition with a score of 804. The Irish totalled 970.

Dick Connelly led the Irish with a 223 and teammate Pat Mohan followed for the Irish with a 244.
Rivers scores 32 as Irish beat Dayton 72-59

DAYTON, Ohio - With time ticking down in the first half of the Notre Dame basketball team's regular season finale at Dayton on March 12, the Irish were clinging to a 27-26 lead team's 'war room' to watch CBS' selection show. Phelps smiles when Notre Dame is shown. He says he stood up from his seat to get to Chapel Hill, N.C., to play Southern Methodist. "We're happy to be going to Chapel Hill. That's something people thought we wouldn't make," Phelps says. "We're not disappointed to be going to Chapel Hill. That's something the media warned about. We never once said that we wanted to play here, because if you do and then you don't, then you start the tournament off with a disappointment before you play." The good news for Phelps is that for the first time in three years he has tapes of his first-round opponent. Two years ago, Phelps had no tapes of Arkansas-Little Rock, and last year he had to scramble to get tapes of Tennessee State. By the time Phelps goes home for the night, he's watched two SMU games.

Monday, March 14 At a noon press conference, Phelps talks more about SMU. He praises the Mustangs' quickness and perimeter game now that he's had time to review tapes. Phelps is also suffering from a back injury he sustained in Saturday's win over Dayton. He says he stood up from his familiar crouch on the sideline and pulled something. He is undergoing treatment on it while preparing his squad. Later Monday night, the team holds its annual banquet where senior guard David Rivers is named the team's MVP for the fourth year. Rivers is also inducted into the $2,000 point club and wins the free-throw shooting, assists and captain's awards. Co-Captain Gary Voce also receives a captain's award and the rebounding award.

Tuesday, March 15 The squad practices this afternoon and leaves for Chapel Hill in the evening.

Wednesday, March 16 The Irish hold a closed practice at North Carolina Central in nearby Durham. Later in the afternoon, the Irish have an open practice at the Smith Center.

Thursday, March 17 Game day. With the Irish scheduled to play at 7 p.m., Phelps had scheduled a walk through for the noon practice. Phelps cancels the walk through to keep his team loose. After the Irish lose to SMU, Phelps acknowledges that losing Rivers and Voce will hurt more than just on the court.

"These are two sons I'll never forget," Phelps says. "David has been very special for Notre Dame, and Gary has developed into a fine player. He made himself a player. They've had great careers. 'They're gentlemen off the court. They'll make it, even after basketball. I'll miss them.'"

Phelps leaves the team's managers calling to schedule a flight out of Chapel Hill. The Irish leave Friday morning.
Women finish off Dayton 77-64

DAYTON, Ohio - Two teams were playing for the last weekend of break and came away with their 20th win of the season. One guaranteed a postseason, the other left the court for the last time.

The Notre Dame women's basketball team ended its 1987-88 campaign with a 77-64 win over the Lady Flyers of Dayton on March 12. Despite their 20-8 record, the Irish did not receive a bid to the NCAA or NWIT nation-leading .535 field goal percentage. Feeling pressured to a close in fine fashion, Irish fast break. Freshman assistant sports editor

Botham, Notre Dame's senior post player, was 13-for-18 from the field and 6-for-7 from the foul line. Freshman guard Karen Robinson opened the half with six quick points, including four in an 11-0 run. Irish forward Mary Robinson had a double double with 12 points and 11 rebounds.

As the Dayton zone moved out to cover the outside shot, Bunek found Robinson open underneath as the Irish fast break. Freshman guard Karen Robinson opened the half with six quick points, including four in an 11-0 run.

The break continued to work for the Notre Dame minutes later when Gavin, with her back to the Irish basket as she shot off two Dayton defenders, drilled a no-look over-the-head pass to Robinson for a 42-29 Notre Dame lead.

The Lady Flyers closed the game 33-36 and off to cover the outside shot, Bunek found Robinson open underneath as the Irish fast break. Freshman guard Karen Robinson opened the half with six quick points, including four in an 11-0 run.

Colorado Springs — Fredrick Singleton led Colorado to a 3-1 win over Air Force in its annual spring trip. Singleton scored a hat trick against the Tigers, including a goal against the Air Force goalie that was his first collegiate goal.

Air Force Coach Tom Lanahan praised Singleton's performance, saying, "He was definitely surprised against Air Force to keep Notre Dame's hopes alive."

The Irish opened the trip with a 15-3 drubbing of the Wildcats Friday in a West Regional semifinal at Seattle. In the other West semifinal, the No. 1 seeds—Kansas State, 26-6, faces Michigan, 1983-84, is the next opponent for Loyola.

Loyola Coach Lute Olson is brimming with confidence. "We've never been in this situation before, and we're ready to take on the challenge," Olson said.

On the court, Loyola has been hitting on all cylinders. "Our offense is clicking on all levels," Olson said. "We're playing well defensively, and we're getting solid contributions from all our players.

Loyola's defense has been a key factor in its success. "We've been able to hold teams to low-scoring games," Olson said.

Loyola is one of the favorites to make the NCAA Tournament. "We're confident we can make a run at the national title," Olson said.

Loyola's 1988-89 schedule includes games against some of the best teams in the country. "We're ready for the challenge," Olson said.

Mustangs buck ND out in first round of NCAA's

Armstrong leads SMU to 85-73 win

By DENNIS CORRIGAN
Sports Writer

CHAPEL HILL, N.C. – Notre Dame ran into a wild Mustang in the first round of the NCAA Tournament, a pony which bucked the Irish right out of the tourney.

SMU’s Kato Armstrong scored 29 points, 19 in the second half, as the Mustangs trotted by the Irish 85-73, ending their season at 20-9.

Armstrong single-handedly kept the Irish at bay. Every time the Irish got close, Armstrong would hit, usually over either Jamere Jackson or David Rivers.

With the score tied at 41 at the 16:46 mark of the second half, Armstrong bottomed a jumper to put SMU up 54-41. At the 8:07 mark, Armstrong took over the show.

With SMU leading 57-56, Armstrong canceled a jumper. After Rivers hit from 16:10 close to 59-58, Armstrong scored again and was fouled by Jackson. The ensuing free throw put the Mustangs up 62-58. Rivers and Gary Vose hit short jumpers to knot the score at the 6:21 mark, but Armstrong ended the run, and Irish hopes, with a driving shot to put SMU on top for good at 64-61.

The Mustangs and Irish traded hoops to put the score at 66-64, but Armstrong hit from inside the three-point stripe, and the Irish never got closer. SMU finished off the game with long passes over the press which led to easy slams.

When it was showroom, Armstrong took the game over.” Irish head coach Digger Phelps said. “We tried David with Chapel Hill Notebook, page 12 and Jamere on him, and he shot over them. We couldn’t crack their momentum.

More frustrating for the Irish was that they had their game plan going. They had shut down the Mustang transition game for most of the contest and had their big men, Carlton McKinney and Glenn Puddy, in foul trouble. The Irish, meanwhile, were getting the ball inside to Vose, who finished with 24.

And while Rivers didn’t have one of his better games, he finished 7-of-13, and Jackson had a career-high 20 points. To top it off, the Irish shot 68 percent in the first half, but trailed mainly because of 11 turnovers. In the end, there was too much Kato.

“It came down to us stopping Armstrong,” Phelps said. “We cut the lead a few times and he just scored. I told David before the game that Kato would be juicy to play him because David gets the exposure Kato wanted.

Armstrong, however, simply said that was a ‘good game for him.’

“I wasn’t juiced, I was just ready to play,” Armstrong said. “We had a couple of days off and we were just ready to get back to playing. That was what we were looking forward to.

“Our conference is a conference that you may not hear much about, but there are a lot of good players. This wasn’t the best game I’ve had. It was a good game for us.

Terry Thomas added 17 for the Mustangs, while McKinney had 13.

Irish turned away from post-season play

Women finish at 20-8

By DENNIS CORRIGAN
Sports Writer

After the Notre Dame women’s basketball team defeated Dayton 77-64 to end the season with a 20-8 record, the Irish found themselves in the world of all places the outside looking in.

With the Mustangs’ NCAA Tournament and NIT selection committees invited their invitations to join SMU were extended. The Irish weren’t on either guest list.

“I’m disappointed,” said Head Coach Duane Megginson. “I didn’t expect an NCAA bid, but those who don’t get in should go to the NIT.”

In that regard, Notre Dame was hurt when DePaul, a North Star Conference rival which beat the Irish twice, was not extended an NCAA bid. Instead, the Blue Demons were invited to the Women’s NIT which gets underway later this week in Amarillo, Texas.

“The biggest problem, I guess, was that (the NIT),” McGraw said. “The whole midwest didn’t fare well.”

McGraw also expressed surprise that Villanova, which beat Notre Dame 56-55 and finished its regular season at 20-7, made the NCAA tourney.

“All we heard was strength of schedule,” McGraw said, “and we had the 25th toughest schedule. They let Villanova in, and our schedule was tougher than theirs.”

Notre Dame’s chances of making post-season tournaments may improve when the Irish begin play in the Midwestern Collegiate Conference next season. For now, though, McGraw, who was named the NSC’s Coach of the Year after bringing the Irish back from a 12-15 season a year ago, isn’t so sure.

“We lose a lot of leadership,” McGraw said. “I don’t think (the MCC) will help. Sandy (Botham), Mary (Gavin) and Kathy (Bunek) were second-teamers for us.”

IrishITEMS: In addition to McGraw’s selection, Botham was named a first-team all-NSC squad, while Gavin and Heidi Bunek were second team selections.

Notre Dame hosts tournament; Purdue leads the way

Sunday, March 15 -Bids are announced and Purdue, as expected grasps the top seed in the Midwest bracket.

Purdue head coach Gene Keady expressed his desire to "fill our house at Purdue with Black and Gold." Hoping Notre Dame fans would sell their tickets to the Boilermakers’ boosters since the Irish are shipped to Chapel Hill.

Tuesday, March 14 -Most of the eight teams and their en- therage arrives in South Bend, occupying spaces in over 10 local hotels. Six media tables are set up in the basketball arena. Three on each side of the court to accommodate over 250 media members.

Wednesday, March 15 -The top-seeded Boilermakers open today’s open-to-the-public practice session. Practice sessions consist mainly of shooting drills. Purdue head coach Gene Keady, like his experienced team, appears loose and relaxed before the press discussed Purdue’s Tournament woes of late.

“This tournament is the fun part of the season. If we get past this year it won’t ruin my summer. Whatever we do from now on is frosting on the cake.”

Purdue’s opening-round oppo- nent, Fairleigh Dickinson, is led by Head Coach Tom Remmers who resembles a stand-up act in his post-season press conference.

On facing the No. 1 seed close to its turf: “I’m just happy to be here. I was born in Brockport, Pennsylvania and when you’re from Brockport you’re just happy to be anywhere.

On his senior forwards: “They’re like bookends. Sometimes they hold us together, sometimes they just collect cash.”

Thursday, March 17 -None of the first round games causes much of a stir. DePaul defeats Wichita State in an all-out blowout, and the other games are only mildly contested. Memphis State defeats Baylor 73-49 and leaves Bears coach Gene Iba in a less-than-merry mood.

“I’ve never been around a place where a guys goes up and gets hit so much and the refs act like nothing happened,” he says after the game.

Perhaps they would have had a brighter outlook if he had seen the halftime show, which featured three-time defending champion Memphis State Pom Pon Squad. Street Musburger could very well have made the most astute judgment of his career when he named this squad of southern belles the most entertaining halftime show in college basketball. It’s no wonder the Tigers have
