Shultz to work on Afghanistan treaty with Soviet Union

Associated Press

WASHINGTON - President Reagan on Monday directed Secretary of State George Shultz to go to Geneva to sign the "historic accords" by which the United States and Soviet Union will guarantee a peace agreement, dictating the removal of all Red Army troops from Afghanistan.

Reagan called the pact a "triumph" for the U.S.-backed insurgents after a bloody, eight-year war with the Soviet-supported Kabul regime. He said the rebels "can count on our continued support."

The rebels have rejected the peace pact and have vowed to continue fighting. Under a compromise with Moscow, the United States will continue sending weapons to the rebels, while the Kremlin continues providing arms to the Marxist government.

Reagan made the announce- ment in the sun-splashed Rose Garden before a ceremony to congratulate the mens' and womens' NCAA basketball champions.

"This is the first time in the history of the Soviet Union that they have moved by aggression into another country and then had to withdraw," Shultz said later at a White House press briefing.

The peace settlement, negotiated between Pakistan and Afghanistan under the auspices of the United Nations, is to be signed on Thursday.

MIDIAN, Ohio - Hundreds of students demonstrated noisily in St. Peter's Court last night to mark the opening session of the Mock National Convention. Steve Claeys, chairman of the campaign committee, estimated the night's crowd at 300 to 350 people.

"The debate really got going towards the end. It's good to see that lots of people know what's going on" about the issues of the campaign, said Denise Weis, vice chairman of the Mock Convention.

"We wish people would debate more on the issues and less on the ways of discussing the issues," said Weis, referring to a heated debate early in the evening on interpretation.

Mock delegates debate platform planks, rules

Why do parents enjoy family vacations?

It's day three of the three billion-hour vacation. Mom and Dad in Nebraska Cindy's house: the dreaded family vacation. To pass the time the family has engaged in such stimulating activities as counting car colors, license plates, and farm animals. The new task at hand was to catalogue them the best beach of that infamous family vacationmobile: the station wagon. The radio had bombarded my numb ears with another one of those Tiffany Debbie Gibson tunes, when to my horror I realized that both my 13-year-old brother and I knew the words. To make matters worse, the inevitable family squabble broke out because Jeanne kicked Peter in the face while supposedly "shifting" in her seat.

Mom and Dad pretended to ignore the battle that raged in the back seat until it approached the three-minute mark (a practice that they have engaged in quite frequently on this vacation), at which point Dad shouted those long awaited words: "That's it -- I've had it! This is the last vacation you kids are ever ever going on!!" It doesn't mean that it's fourth time I have heard this threat because I don't want to extinguish the hope that maybe this time, Dad will follow through…. Several months later, on the return plane trip from Aunt Jenny's in the hotel. I had to realize Dad's threat has yet to be followed through. It's about time any one of those family bicker sessions. This one is caused by Peter's combination war whoop and chant be used to glorify his victory over my sister all by state.

The flight began after I informed Peter that Professor Baxter, my Pictionary and Other Stupid Games prof, just told us the other day that higher Pictionary scores are inversely proportional to IQ. The customary three-minute argument was followed by the inevitable: the fight which is heard by the entire plane with an added twist, "That's it, this really is the last vacation you kids are going on, and I mean it!!"

I had often wondered why my parents, like others, persisted on often headache-filled trips. They could escape to Tahiti and spend the day swimming on the beach, sleeping and tanning. I was completely baffled because the trips seemed neither exciting nor fun for them until... we bought the luggage carrier. This was purchased to solve the back seat squabbles and make my dad's life much easier. Instead, it created the classic car catastrophe. My family and I had stopped at my aunt's house in Steven's Point, Wisconsin on the way to the North Woods. While my dad went to the gas station, the rest of the family stayed at my aunt's house to learn some fascinating new gardening tips. My father was "cruising along" when he noticed our luggage carrier left off the top of our station wagon and plow down on the four-lane expressway. The four mall trucks were too happy to jockey for a position to hit our poor suitcases. They hit their mark and scattered our clothes all over the highway. My poor father was left to dodge cars and pick underwear from the guard rails.

Alas, this experience did not keep us from the North Woods or any other destination. In fact, we ran out and bought new suitcases as soon as we arrived at home. Gradually, however, I realized that my parents really enjoyed all of the yelling, hassles and catastrophes. They spent time with their children and traveled at the same time.

After our last trip, I began to wonder if they still felt it was worth the battle that had started to grow on me too -- then again, maybe I just haven't been on one in a while.
Chavez speaks at ND in support of boycott

By JIM RILEY
Senior Staff Reporter

Cesar Chavez, president of the United Farm Workers of America, lobbied Workers Monday night for consumer support of the UFW's boycott against fresh California table grapes and announced plans to target specific grocery store chains on the east and west coasts.

"We want to limit the spread of poison in the fields we work on the coasts," Chavez said.

He then outlined the history of the UFW from its early organization attempts through its past boycotts to the current boycott against table grapes.

Chavez said the UFW will soon aim its boycott directly at A&P stores on the east coast and Safeway stores on the west coast.

He said the UFW has had success in the past when it boycotted other grocery stores by sending letters directly to store managers.

"We will focus on the UFW boycott directly at growers," he added.

Chavez said he had not talked to the Notre Dame administration about a boycott of table grapes. "I'm talking to you," he told a student who asked him to remove the grapes from the Food Service.

The UFW currently faces two large fines from court settlements they have recently lost.

"We now owe something like $10 million," he said. "There was a time back there in the 60s when the court judges would have to sign off on anything like $52 million. We never paid a cent.

Teachers demonstrate against Noriega

Associated Press

PANAMA CITY, Panama - Hundreds of teachers demonstrated Monday against Panamanian strongman Gen. Manuel Antonio Noriega as Panama slid further toward chaos in the seventh week of an economic and political crisis.

American business executives, meanwhile, were trying to figure out how they were affected by new U.S. sanctions that cost Panama millions of dollars.

The sanctions prohibit U.S. businesses from making payments, including taxes, to the Panamanian government. Panama virtually bankrupted because of a run on its banks, the freezing of Panamanian deposits in U.S. banks and a variety of American sanctions aimed at forcing Noriega to resign.

Noriega reiterated his claim that the U.S. actions are an attempt to force the ouster of Noriega. "Money that could be used to perpetuate his stay in power." he said.

Noriega repeated his claim that if the U.S. tax sanctions are lifted, the Cypriot government will force the ouster of Noriega.

"We're in a completed state of confusion," President Reagan on Friday invoked a sweeping economic sanctions law against Panama to force the ouster of Noriega, the commander of the 15,000-member Defense Forces and the power behind the civilian government.

The Treasury Department in Washington was expected to issue guidelines this week covering the sanctions, imposed under the 1977 International Emergency Economic Powers Act.

In Washington, White House spokesman Marlin Fitzwater defended the steps as an attempt to deny Noriega "money that could be used to perpetuate his stay in power."
Junior trying to raise support for fund to solve little girl’s murder

By ROBYN SIMMONS
News Staff

The brutal slaying of an 8-year-old girl in Fort Wayne has prompted Notre Dame junior Greg Pierce to stimulate campus interest in a reward fund established by a Fort Wayne radio station.

WMEE-FM created the April Tinsley Reward Fund last week to raise money to award two more dead in West Bank on April 1.

Tinsley was last seen alive on April 1. She was abducted on her way to a friend's house, and her body was found two days later in a ditch in Dekalb county.

According to the autopsy report, Tinsley had been raped prior to her death by suffocation.

Pierce is currently trying to get students interested in donating cash or checks to the fund. "Right now, it's just being publicized to try and get anyone that knows anything (about the murder) to come forward," he said.

"The radio station has done it out of a gesture of goodness; (the family) didn't solicit them," said Pierce. "They didn't establish a dollar amount - it's whatever people feel like giving."

Presently, contributions to the fund are coming mainly from residents of Fort Wayne. "There's been a lot of participation," said Pierce, adding that he did not know the amount currently in the fund.

"In the event that no one is caught, all of the checks will be returned, and the cash will be given to Crimestoppers," he said.

"My wife and I live in that neighborhood," Pierce said. "And we would like to think that our friends and neighbors would band together in support in order to aid the authorities in their search."

"I'd just like to reach out a little to my fellow student body at Notre Dame," he said.

Any students interested in contributing to the fund can contact Pierce between 11 a.m. and 1 p.m. in Room 217 of the Engineering Student Center in Cushing Hall of Engineering.

Israel deports eight people; two more dead in West Bank

Associated Press

JERUSALEM - Israel expelled eight Palestinians from the occupied lands Monday, accusing them of inciting the four months of violence there, and while Israeli troops shot and killed two Arabs from a West Bank village where an Israeli settler girl and two Arabs were killed in a clash last week.

Palestinian leaders condemned the purpose of the expulsions as to appease right-wing politicians and Jewish settlers angered by an army report that said Tirza Porat, 15, was killed by a bullet from another settler's gun.

But Israel television quoted a top military official as saying the deportations were intended as a warning to Palestinians. In the West Bank village of Ral near Nablus, troops shot and killed two Arabs after a patrol was pelted with rocks and bottles, the army said.

Arab doctors said three other Palestinians, including an 11-year-old boy, were wounded in Ral. Hospital officials said four others were wounded in Nablus and one in Jenin, another village near Nablus.

The deaths brought to 143 the number of Arabs killed since riots began Dec. 8 in the West Bank and Gaza Strip, which Israel captured from Jordan and Egypt in the 1967 Middle East war. Two Israelis, Ms. Porat and a soldier, have also died.

FRESHMAN PRE-ADVANCE REGISTRATION PROGRAMS

Pre-advance registration programs will be conducted for freshmen in all college program areas on Tuesday, April 12, 1988.

At each program complete information will be given on the advance registration procedures and on the sophomore year and its relationship to the degree curriculum.

The meeting places for the programs, according to college program area, are as follows:

Smoke on short flights will soon be prohibited

Associated Press

WASHINGTON — The airline smoking ban that goes into effect April 23 on commercial aircraft will apply to any flight scheduled for two hours or less even if delays cause the flight to take longer, the Federal Aviation Administration said Monday.

Congress required the smoking ban on short flights in legislation passed last year. The FAA issued its final rules on the prohibition Monday, although the general outline of the new restrictions has been known for months.

Airlines since the first of the year have complied with a state law in California and banned smoking on flights within the state.

The law enacted by Congress last year prohibits smoking on any flight of two hours or less on jet aircraft as well as smaller commuter planes. Charter flights and those involving travel clubs are exempt from the rules. Charter flights and those involving travel clubs are exempt from the rules.

of convention procedure. Immediately after South Bend Mayor Joe Kernan opened the convention, Mike Jaeger, representing Michigan as delegate chairman, challenged the convention's rules and procedures.

 "What we had was an authoritarian situation," Jaeger said, stating he objected principally to the powers held by Mock Convention Chairman Vince Willis.

 "When non-Congressman Ward came, he (Willis) just suspended the convention, putting an end to debate without consent of the delegates." Michael Paetmer, chairman of the rules committee, called the protest a "mockery of a mock convention."

 "It was nitpicking," he said. "I think that may have turned a lot of people off," he added, arguing that most in attendance at the convention were unfamiliar with the procedural points raised. "We had some initial trouble with regard to rules," said Bill Smith, mock campaign manager for Paul Simon. He added that, once this hurdle was cleared, "people were really starting to enjoy the debate."

 "Everyone had a little fire in their eyes," said Mark Bettenbouer, Dukakis' mock campaign manager. He added that the delegates are the people who help create the party platform. Among the issues debated Monday night were education, the environment, social programs, and crime. According to John Farley, mock campaign manager for Jesse Jackson, environmental issues received the most attention in debate.

Debate on the platform plank was spirited, said Colleen Prentice, mock chairman of the Ohio delegation. "This is a great opportunity for students to expose themselves to the issues and arguments from all sides."

Farley said, "I think a lot of conservative sentiment has come up in debate. There is definitely a Notre Dame tinge to the debate."

"I'd say we're going to see a rather moderate platform," said Farley.

Judge orders woman not to have abortion performed

Associated Press

TERRE HAUTE, Ind. – A Vigo County judge permanently barred a pregnant 18-year-old woman from having an abortion Monday, but her attorney immediately took steps to appeal the case directly to the Indiana Supreme Court this week.

Michael Lee Gradison, executive director of the Indiana Civil Liberties Union, predicted the state's highest court would overturn the ruling by Circuit Judge Robert Brown, possibly as early as Thursday.

Brown, without explaining the decision he reached Friday, made permanent a temporary injunction he had issued a week ago in which he barred the woman from having an abortion. The man who claims to be the father of the fetus said he would suffer irreparable damage if an abortion occurred.

He also was seeking a court order establishing his parenthood. Since the case involves a paternity action, the names of the man and woman have not been released publicly.

Attorney Samuel Beecher, who represents the woman, indicated he hoped to appeal the case directly to the Indiana Supreme Court, sidestepping the state Court of Appeals so the matter could be resolved more quickly.

"Under the decisions of the U.S. Supreme Court, a state court does not have any juris­diction to enter a restraining order against a pregnant woman during the first trimester of her pregnancy," Beecher said.

Attorney James Bopp, who represents the man claiming to be the father of the fetus, said he would appeal the decision. No formal request was filed Monday for a Supreme Court appeal, but Brown and attorney for both sides conferred with Supreme Court Administrator Karl Malvany.

The high court wants the appeal to follow routine procedure, Malvaney said. That means a motion to correct errors in the decision must be filed and acted on in the lower court before the Supreme Court entertains a motion to hear an appeal.
New Student Senate holds first meeting

Senior participation in the upcoming Student Government Survey Questionaire on task force reports was debated at the first 1988-89 Student Senate meeting last night.

At this time the hall president and co-president, and as a result, a quorum was not present to vote on any issues, said Student Body President Tom Doyle.

Patrick Murphy, associate professor of marketing, advised Melissa Smith, student government executive coordinator of special projects, that seniors should not be included in the survey so that its statistical soundness could be assured.

After Senate members discussed this issue it was decided to include seniors in the survey so that its statistical soundness could be assured.

The possibility of keeping the senior responding separate is being considered. The question of how the results of the surveys would be compiled was also discussed. Currently, student government is planning to compile the results by hand.

The possibility of using Scantron answer sheets was discussed and rejected because this method would limit student’s ability to voice their opinions.

Because this was the first Senate meeting, those attending were given the opportunity to introduce themselves and comment on their goals for the Student Senate.

New dorms will be ready for next academic year

By KATHLEEN CROOKS

The two new dorms, Knot and Siegfried, which have been under construction this year, will be finished in time for the next academic school year, according to Evelyn Reinbold, director of student residences.

The percentage of incoming freshmen that will be living in the two dorms is not yet known. On campus students were given preference in allocating dorm space. Reinbold said, “Everyone that lives on campus was given a form with the option to be placed in the dorms.”

All applicants for space in the new dorms were placed in one of the dorms. No incoming freshmen have been placed in the dorms yet, although space has been set aside for them.

The new dorms will each have 107 rooms, which will allow for approximately 240 students. The distribution of rooms includes 12 singles, 77 doubles, and 18 quads, Reinbold said.

Maureen Finnigan and her roommate, Christina Valicenti, who are presently residents of Pasquerilla West, have both applied for rooms in the new dorms. Although they have not been notified, the list of students accepted to the new dorms has been posted in the Office of Student Residences.

Finnigan said that she wanted to move to the new dorms because she feels it will be “a good chance to meet new people.”

Applicants were not allowed to specify the room size they preferred on the application, but Finnigan said she assumes there will be room picks similar to other dorms.

The Supreme Court in 1980 ruled that man-made life organisms could be patented, but the Harvard patent is the first to protect a genetic change in a higher life form, the newspaper said.

Licensing rights for the patent are held by Du Pont Co., which financed the research. While Harvard would not discuss its patent, experts said genetically altering a mouse would involve inserting a gene from another animal into a mouse embryo to give the animal characteristics it otherwise would not have.

“This opens the floodgates for a whole range of patents, from fish to house pets,” said Jack Doyle of the Environmental Policy Institute, which supported the moratorium.

Meese considered making Wedtech friend key aide

Associated Press

WASHINGTON- Attorney General Edwin Meese III discussed bringing a long-time friend, E. Robert Wallach, a key Justice Department post a week or so before being notified formally that Wallach was under criminal investigation in the Wedtech scandal, a lawyer for Meese said Monday.

Meese and Wallach conducted job talks concerning the then-vacant post of counselor to the attorney general in "limited discussions held in late March or early April" of 1987, Meese's attorney James Rocap said.

"Meese recalls that he was clearly interested in having Bob Wallach at that time into the department, but that no formal offer was ever ad­dressed to him," Rocap said.

The job of counselor is a po­sition traditionally held by one of the most trusted advisers to an attorney general.

Rocap also said Meese and Wallach had become a subject of the criminal investigation into scandal-plagued Wed­tech Corp.

"Meese was told that Wallach had become a subject of the investigation in April, that investigating event occurred "essentially any substantive discussions of any kind" between the two men, Rocap said.

Meese and Wallach considered installing Wallach on an advisory com­mittee of outside experts in 1985 to examine the adminis­tration of the Justice Depart­ment and suggest possible changes. The commission, ap­pointed the idea of Meese and Wallach, was never created.

The counselor's job was vacant after Kenneth Cribb Jr., a member of Meese's inner circle of conservative advisers, went to the White House early in March 1987 to handle the tragedy inSophia of staff Howard Baker. Cribb is now assistant to the president for domestic affairs.

Business schools out of touch with the real world, says study

Associated Press

DALLAS- The most detailed assessment of the nation's business schools in nearly 30 years found widespread complacency, poor planning and a lack of contact with the business world.

"While both corporate and academic leaders believe busi­ness schools are performing reasonably well at present, they are in danger of drifting casually toward the 21st cen­tury, without careful thought and strategic planning about the roles their graduates will play in the changing world of business," the study said.

The 372-page report released Monday at a national convention of business schools, drew immediate fire from degrees awarded annually.

The report, "Management Education and development: drift or Thrust into the 21st Cen­tury," was commissioned by the American Assembly of Col­legiate Schools of Business, an accrediting body whose 254 member schools award about 65 percent of all business degrees awarded annually.

The report chided schools for preaching long-term planning in the corporate world but doing little planning them­selves beyond the next semes­ter.

Shultz acknowledged that the removal of Soviet troops will not necessarily mean an end to the fighting. Once the Red Army is withdrawn, Shultz said, "then the people of Af­ghanistan have got to work things out. That's their right and their problem. And hopefully, we can get to a period of at least relative stability."

Beginning May 15, the Soviet Union is to begin withdrawing its 115,000 troops, with 50 per­cent of the forces removed over a three-month period. All remaining Soviet forces are to be out by Feb. 15, 1989. Shultz said Soviet Foreign Minister Eduard Shevardnadze has promised to complete the withdrawal by the end of that year, ahead of the original deadline. He said the United States will "push for that and ensure that it happens while hailing the agreement, Shultz said, "the withdrawal of Soviet troops is obviously not the end of the matter."

Nations will continue for the establishment of an interim government. "We know it's not going to be easy, it will be hard," Shultz said.

He said the United States will join the rebels in an attack on But on Capitol Hill, Sen. Gordon Humphrey, R-N.H., denounced the agreement as amounting to a "slow-motion­sellout" of the resistance fighters.

Election process needs improvement

Why are people so afraid of being challenged? Why in a college environment such as Saint Mary's are there people who quell debate and discourage discussion of controversy? Why is it that when people challenge established practice in an institution, their protest is immediately taken as an attack on individuals and is immediately assailed as evidence of malicious intent? This has been the result of the recent Saint Mary's student body officer election. I am not an expert on balloting or fair and just procedures have been neither encouraged nor required by members of our student government in the recent handling of the election. I find myself disillusioned by those who profess to be the leaders of our community because of the recent election. The elections have been over for about a month and, now that the dust hassettled and the excitement has died out, I can finally admit that it was a mistake to assume that, due to human error, the count might be off by two or three votes, at the most. As a result of the recount,11 votes (one of these was found in another person's pile) were discovered for the Reilly ticket which had not been counted. After the recount, I telephoned the Election Commissioner concerning the procedure used to count the ballots and was told that, in theory, this was an obvious procedure, and I was surprised to learn that this was not the procedure followed. The problem is that ballots are how elections work all over the country. Imagine if, in our presidential election, there was no way to ensure that there was one vote cast per person. It would be up in arms because the opportunity for mistakes and cheating would increase a thousand-fold. That is why this verification system is used, to prevent inaccuracy and to give credibility to the electoral process. It is a matter of common sense to ensure that ballots are counted accurately.

The question is one of credibility. People are, by their nature, both fickle and careless. That is why our system of government rests on a system of checks and balances (in this instance, checking the voter list with the number of ballots) to ensure the integrity of the system against human error and human ambition by all parties involved in the voting process.

During the time that they were gathering signatures, the Reilly ticket had not been initialized by a poll worker because a poll worker had not initialized the ballot. This was not a question of procedure but of common sense. It is a pretty important issue, yet, it is not a question of procedure to ensure accuracy in the election. This resulted in the failure of some to check IDs from their vote for student body officers and other students to have faith that their vote may or may not be accounted for. People would be up in arms because the opportunity for mistakes and cheating would increase a thousand-fold. That is why this verification system is used, to prevent inaccuracy and to give credibility to the electoral process. It is a matter of common sense to ensure that ballots are counted accurately.

...student government felt that making an issue of unfair voting procedures was an embarrassment to the school and would make student government a mockery."

The only recourse the Reilly ticket had was to call for a revote election and proceed to count the ballots and to get the signatures necessary to do so. During the time that they were gathering signatures, the Reilly ticket stated that student government officials no revote petition. The problem with verifying voters and ballots, as stated by the Election Commissioner, is that the number of voters with the number of ballots, to state that ballots were invalid. These ballots were discovered for the Reilly ticket which had not been counted.

Alternative social events prove successful

TAMMY J. ETEN Accent writer

The South College Mock Commencement, Mr. Stanford Contest and Reeman Recital were "successful" social activities not only for the sponsoring dorms and participants—they were also successful for the Office of Alcohol and Drug Education. Although not publicized as being sponsored by the Office of Alcohol and Drug Education, these social events were funded, in part, by the office as being non-drinking events. They are part of the objectives of the office to provide events on campus where alcohol is not the main focus.

"They can have (posters) of alcoholic beverages, but no alcohol can be present," said Dan Rice, spokesman for the office. "There have always been dorm traditions, but the office wants to use its funding to "stimulate or seed something that can grow."

A campus-wide picnic with performing bands, volleyball and other picnic events is scheduled for this Sunday. Also scheduled for this month (the Friday of All Hallows) is "Domestock '88"—a campus band bash.

Seminars to train RA's and seminars which deal with women and alcohol issues are in the workings for the fall.

"We're not talking about chin-chinkin', but real nuts and bolts alcohol issues," said Dan Rice. "What's it to confront an alcoholic problem face-to-face? What's it to have an alcoholic problem, or to have a friend with one?"

The office has already begun a poster campaign to help publicize the office's existence and location. The controversial posters say that "Drunkenness isn't funny anymore" when an intoxicated person spills a con- versation between a group of sober students. They also con- done "straight messages" about alcohol.

"Peterson has already talked to every rector on campus concerning their ideas about alcohol education. He has also talked to people who have faced alcohol issues in their lives. Such as recovering alco- holics and children of alcoholics.

In addition, he has scheduled a seminar for adult children of alcoholics and dysfunctional families for Wednesday, April 20, which will provide a forum for students to learn about the nature of alcoholism as a family disease.

Danton also wants to begin having 12 step, open Al- coholics Anonymous, Al-Anon, and Adult Children of Al- coholics meetings on campus to sit and easily attend. This week and next, the office is sponsoring a three part workshop which will give atten- diers a chance to participate in a question and answer forum as well as role playing alcohol occurrence. The workshops will also serve to recruit and train people who are interested in becoming members of the Student Intervention Team, said Helen Janss, member of the team.

The Student Intervention Team, which was formed last spring, is trained in providing alcohol information to stu- dents, faculty or staff who are concerned about a friend's drinking, as well as performing informal interventions, she said.

An informal alcohol intervention is one in which the family member, friend or spouse per- forms the intervention himself, after being given advice by a member of the intervention team, Janss said.

All in all, it looks like the Of- fice of Alcohol and Drug Educa- tion is fulfilling its promises.

Home sweet home

SOUTH BEND and Notre Dame are so boring. There's nothing to do. Is that so?

I'm tired of hearing what a drag it is to live in South Bend. Everyone wants to move on to the big time, someplace glamorous, someplace exotic, someplace sophisticated like New York, Chicago or Los Angeles. In Notre Dame where have we that we don't have? Pollution, crowds, indifference.

So make your home town look good by bringing them on your new home. As small and backwards as South Bend may seem, interesting people can always find plenty of interesting things to do. It's not the where that matters. What about the beautiful parks of South Bend? Howard Park, Leeper Park, St. Patrick's Park, Bendix Woods, and also the East Race—where you can go rowing, tubing, canoeing and kayaking, play Frisbee golf, or just enjoy the green scenery and the pleasure of taking a breath of air.

You shouldn't have any time to even think about getting bored. Most of the people who say they are bored with South Bend can be found on any given night dancing, laughing and drink- ing at the fairly popular bars in the area. (New people, of course, are 21 or over.) What about our campus?

We are all taken by the stereotype of South Bend as a dull, backwards town. People don't realize that South Bend is often- rits much larger than their own home towns. These people, who enjoy complaining about their South Bend, probably had the same things said about their own home town. They now find it necessary to make their home town look good by bringing them on their new home.

It's a community of nation-wide importance which sup- ports thriving education, business and entertainment. Yet, this caring community also fosters a sense of com- raderie and pride.

What about our sports and special events? Our football team, especially, who took us to the Cotton Bowl, our interhall sports, Book Store Basketball, Antostal and the Regatta. So much spirit flows throughout the Notre Dame community because of such activities.

The weather, believe it or not, also adds interest to our community. It forces the members to dress for all seasons, enthralling their wardrobes and, thus, making the campus more interesting to observe.

Sophistication in big cities? What is sophistication? There's nothing so- phisticated in leading the nation in crime rates. What is sophisticated in having so many buildings — glass and steel and stone — so that a person cannot see the sky above? No, more and bigger doesn't necessarily mean better.

So maybe South Bend and Notre Dame aren't so boring after all.
INDIANAPOLIS Junior forward Rick Callaway said he had no regrets about transferring from Indiana to national champion Kansas because he no longer felt like a fourth-stringer playing there no longer was fun.

Kansas announced Friday that the 6-foot-6 former Big Ten freshman of the year would transfer there for his remaining year of eligibility after having sat out a season under NCAA rules. The announcement came a few hours after Coach Larry Brown's statement that he would remain at Kansas for the upcoming season.

"I came to Kansas for the playing time," Callaway said in a statement. "After a long hard thought, I decided Kansas would be the best place for me to continue my education and my athletic career," he added.

Forums: One tip coming during the Hoosiers' championship drive a year ago, Callaway was sent to the bench by Coach Bob Knight during this past season. After he never played in Indiana's first-round NCAA tournament game, Callaway announced his intention to transfer.

"I've been wanting to transfer for a long time," Callaway said. "A lot of people think I'm leaving just because Coach Knight is gone, but that's not the case. I'm leaving because I wasn't playing as much as I thought I should be playing. But that was not the main factor. That was part of doing my high school thing. I just couldn't stand it."
Streaking Sandy Lyle gets jacket, respect

Associated Press

AUGUSTA, Ga—Sandy Lyle had this one last chore to do before departing Augusta. "I've got to stop by the (Augusta National Golf) Club this afternoon and pick up my blazer," he said Monday.

It's a green one, the one he had in mind when he prowled through Augusta's shopping malls a week ago, the one he won in such dramatic fashion Sunday with a last-hole birdie put on the 18th hole at Augusta National.

It's the famed green jacket that goes to the winner of the Masters.

Lyle, a low-key Scot, is the first British subject qualified to wear that famous blazer. He donned one immediately after signing the scorecard that made him the 52nd Masters champion since West German Bernhard Langer did it in 1985.

With it goes one of the most famous titles in sports, the label: "Masters champions." That combines with his 1985 British Open crown and current hot streak to place Lyle at the peak of the world golf.

Does it place him ahead of American Greg Norman of Australia and Seve Ballesteros of Spain as golf's leading player?

"It's a game," Sandy said with a shrug. "I've never thought of myself as being ahead of them. Everyone has strengths where they're playing well. I'm just having one right now.

His current streak is the most productive in at least three seasons on the American PGA Tour. He's won two tournaments in a row, Greensboro and the Masters, and is the first player to accomplish consecutive triumphs since West German Bernhard Langer did it in 1985.

Lyle now goes to Hilton Head Island, S.C. for this week's Heritage Classic.

The Blues have the Blackhaws up against the wall but they're not counting them out. "They're a heck of a hockey team and with Denis Savard on the ice, Chicago has proven it can come back," St. Louis goalie Greg Millen said after the Blues edged the Blackhaws 5-4 Sunday. But Chicago wing Duane Sutter said "unless we start playing aggressive hockey and quit taking a lot of bad penalties, we'll be heading back for our homes."

The Jets have tried to intimidate the Oilers, but the strategy has backfired. "They're going to try to intimidate guys like Jari (Kurri), but he's been around for a long time and has won Stanley Cup rings," Edmonton star Wayne Gretzky said after the Oilers rallied to win Game 4 of the Smythe series 5-3. Kurri's second goal of the game came while Paul MacLean was serving a five-minute penalty for slashing him.

The Whalers are trying to be the third team in NHL history to win a playoff series after trailing 3-0. Hartford staved off elimination night with a come-from-behind 7-5 victory. The only teams to come back from a 3-6 deficit in the playoffs were the 1975 Islanders and the 1942 Maple Leafs.

The lacrosse team will finally get to play in Edward J. "Moose" Krause Stadium Wednesday night at 6:30 when they host Lake Forest. The Irish beat the Foresters 11-6 last weekend.

Team members say they are excited to play in the stadium because of the quality of the field and seating capacity for fans. The first two home games were played on Alumni Field because of conflicting events.

Mary Cassidy and Kathy Kennedy finished second with a time of 4:24.9. "I was very pleased with the relay team's performance," said head coach Larry Szeczkowski. "Their time was only 1.5 seconds off of the school record which shows just how much they have improved."

Freshman Kelly Streit came in third in the 100 meter dash with a time of 13.4 seconds. She also placed sixth in the 200 meter dash with a time only 3 seconds off of the school record.

Maggie Dafay placed third in the 400 meter hurdles with a time of 1:38.1. Jenee O'Neill captured fourth place with a throw of 91.4 meters in the javelin while junior Becki Davis jumped 30 feet, 4 inches to record a fifth place finish in the long jump.

Overall, we are steadily improving," said Szeczkowski.

The Washington Capitals are having another playoff nightmare. Twice in the last three years, the Capitals were one game away from winning a playoff series. Both times, they lost three straight and were eliminated.

The Capitals are on the verge of losing another playoff series this year after blowing a three-goal, third-period lead in Game 4 against Philadelphia. The Flyers now lead the best-of-seven series 3-1.

"We have to try to rebound from this," Washington right wing Mike Gartner said after the Capitals' 5-4 overtime loss. "I'm upset and disappointed. We are in a must-win situation again."

Game 5 will be played Tuesday at the Capital Centre in Landover, Md. In other playoff games, it's New Jersey at the New York Islanders, Hartford at Montreal, Buffalo at Boston, Toronto at Detroit, Chicago at St. Louis, Winnipeg at Edmonton and Los Angeles at Calgary.

Women's soccer awaits status varietas

The Women's Soccer Club made its farewell appearance on the second-place finish in its own six-team tourney. The Irish women's soccer program will become a varsity sport beginning in the fall under the direction of men's coach Dennis Grace. The second-place showing left returning team members optimistic about the fall season.

"We're pretty excited," Club Secretary Jane Titerton said. "We're excited about going to varsity status because that shows a lot of improvement. We think we can do well."

The Irish downed Purdue 4-2 in the opening round and then turned back Loyola 2-0. Notre Dame just missed the championship round to Marquette 2-1.

"This was definitely a strong tournament for us," Titerton said. "The defense was trouble some and the offense was really working against Purdue. We're really happy."

Michelle Spring, Kate Titerton, Karen Logsdon and Kathy Dominick played their final game for the Irish against Marquette.

The Irish now stand 3-5 for the spring campaign and host Saint Joseph's today at 2:30 at Normandy Field in Mishawaka. They host Purdue-Calumet Wednesday and face Lake College and McHenry College on the road this weekend.

St. Joseph's swept a doubleheader from Notre Dame by scores of 3-1 and 15-8 last week. Marie Liddy led the Irish with three hits in the first game and Jane Daly added two hits in the nightcap.

Saint Mary's blanked the Irish 10-0 in the first game of a doubleheader but Notre Dame rallied to win the second contest 8-6 in extra innings. The Irish trailed 6-0 before tying the game at 6 in the sixth inning. Meg Payt also hit a three-run homer during that rally.

That Irish streak didn't last long as McHenry College swept two games from them Saturday by scores of 2-0 and 5-1. Once again, the Irish bats went silent in the losses.

The Equestrian Club placed third in a field of 10 teams in its own show last weekend.

Paul Kelly qualified for regional competition with a second place finish over the fences in the advanced division. The regionals will be Saturday at Purdue.

In other results, Kerry Sheedy won two firsts in the novice division and Theresa Weithman finished second. Larissa Wenning was first in beginning, while Georgie Guido took second over the fences in novice.

In a show at Ball State recently, Peggy Sullivan took first in the intermediate division and Paul Kelly was second over the fences in advanced.

Baseball

The Irish have no time to lose. They travel to Purdue this afternoon for an American record five balks Sunday. It's bad for the game of baseball, and umpires called it that way during the weekend.

Milwaukee's Ted Higuaera, who committed two balks last season, was also flagged three times Sunday.

"This year's balks are a big problem for pitchers," Higuaera said. "It's hard to concentrate. I don't understand it." Some pitchers are so worried that they've gone to full windups with runners on third base, rather than risk going to a set and balking home a run, as Baltimore's Mike Boddicker did twice during the weekend.

Those windups also have more runners trying to steal home, as Minnesota's Dan Gladden did successfully Friday night.

Speedsters such as Vince Coleman, Tim Raines and Rickey Henderson are also taking advantage, timing a pitcher's set position and getting an even bigger jump.

The change in requiring a full stop is sudden. Many pitchers don't mind too much, as long as the balk calls don't come at crucial times.

IT DIDN'T COME EASY FOR THEM EITHER

By STEVE MEGARGEE
Sports Writer

Notre Dame's offensive line was so effective last season that it almost took over the glamour role of the team.

Fifth-year seniors Tom Freeman, Chuck Lancaster, Rehder and Byron Spruell helped carry the Irish to wins over Southern Cal, Boston College and Navy. The line was named the most valuable player by CBS in the USC game. The experienced unit commanded so much respect that Lanza and Spruell were named the team's co-captains.

By now it's back to square one for the Notre Dame offensive line. With the four seniors all gone, the unit is undergoing a spring of adjustment.

"They (the seniors) set an example for us," said offensive line coach Tony Yelovich. "What we have to do now is improve day in and day out.

"It's learning the system and fundamentals," Yelovich continued. "It'll be a gradual process. Each day goals are set to improve the fundamental areas, and we strive to improve every day in those areas.

A couple of changes within the line have drawn the most attention this spring. Junior Andy Heck, last year's starter at right end, was moved to tackle at the beginning of the spring drills. He now is practicing at both tackle and tight end.

In another switch, sophomore Tim Grunhard, who played guard last fall, has been working at center this spring. "It's still uncertain what's transpiring with Heck," said Yelovich. "We're hoping by the latter part of this week to put together an entire unit.

"Grunhard's going through a transition period," Yelovich continued. "There's a good possibility it could be a permanent move."

The sophomore from Chicago, Ill., worked as the team's long snapper last year, and he practiced some at center early last season when Lanza was injured.

"I just have to adjust to working with the guards at center rather than being a guard, which means I have to work on my steps and lose a couple of pounds to improve my quickness," said Grunhard. "It really doesn't matter to me what position I play as long as I can help the team. I feel comfortable at both positions.

"Right now we have some really good players who are younger and really need the time to develop," said Grunhard. "They're not quite sure of their assignments now, but the technique will come if they keep that intensity."

Mike Heldt and Dom Prinivil also have been working out at center for the Irish this spring.

"Every position is still open for an individual to accept the challenge," said Yelovich. "We'll be closer to deciding after the next several scrimmages we have set up."

Contenders for starting spots include returning starter Jeff Pearson, junior Marty Lippincott, sophomores Dean Brown and Ted Healy and freshmen Ryan Mihalko, Peter Rausch, Tim Ryan and Winston Sandri.

Mihalko and Ryan both are new to the offensive line. Mihalko was a fullback last season, while Ryan played linebacker.

Yelovich has had players switching between guard and tackle during the scrimmages in hopes of finding the lineup that will work most effectively.

"We're looking to see who's going to blend in," said Yelovich. "We are moving them around to see how an individual would adapt to a particular position, whether he's better in the side as a guard or as a tackle or center."

One of the biggest preseason questions marks on the Notre Dame football team has been the offensive line. Graduation has left the line scrambling to fill holes this season. Steve Megargee looks at the progress the inexperienced line has made this spring at left.

ND baseball team sweeps Xavier

By GREG GUFEFF
Sports Writer

The Irish baseball team moved within striking distance of a Midwestern Collegiate Conference tourney bid with a four-game sweep of Xavier last weekend. In fact, the Irish practically control their own fate.

Capitalizing on consistent pitching and hitting, Notre Dame dominated the Musketeers and improved to 23-13 overall, 6-2 in the MCC.

The Irish swept the first doubleheader from Xavier Saturday by scores of 14-2 and 13-4, and then came back Sunday to win 6-1 and 7-4. The squad has won six games in a row and 14 of its last 17.

The Irish could practically be assured of a spot in the tourney with a split against Detroit this weekend and they could clinch a spot with three victories in the four-game series. Even with the recent success, first-year Irish coach Pat Murphy isn't ready to pop the cork on the champagne just yet.

"I'm not satisfied," Murphy said. "I'm not going to just sit back and say we've won more games than they did last year. We want to work and improve to get better.

"This team has decided they want to be good. They have worked hard and they still have a lot of work to do. Through preparation, they make it happen on the field. I'm happy for them."

The Irish pitchers left Murphy happy against Xavier. Mike Passasilla and Brian Piotrowski threw complete-game victories for the Irish, while Erik Madsen and KevinChenail started and got the wins in the other two contests. Madsen improved his record to 6-2 and notched five strikeouts in one inning of work.

The Notre Dame hurlers surrendered only five walks the entire weekend. That left the staff with only 79 walks in 333 innings of work.

ND lacrosse nips Kenyon, stretches win streak to six

Mike Passasilla delivers to a Wisconsin batter earlier this year. The Notre Dame swept two doubleheaders from Xavier this weekend to take the lead in the MCC. Greg Guffey has the details at right.

GAMBIER, Ohio-Juniors John Olmstead scored a goal with 12 remaining in a second period of overtime to give the Notre Dame lacrosse team an emotional 7-6 victory over the fourth-ranked Herd.

The Irish stretched their record to 8-1 and extended their winning streak to six games. Olmstead, who also scored in the fourth quarter, continues to lead the team with 27 goals and 61 assists. He has become the sixth all-time leading scorer for the Irish with 86 career points.

Notre Dame had their hands full with Kenyon's zone defense and were outscored, 3-0 after three quarters of play. The Irish fell behind, 3-2 after three periods, and trailed briefly early in the fourth quarter.

Olmstead scored a close game-winning goal on a fan yelled, "Hey ref, if you had one more eye you'd see he was offside.

Locally for the Irish, umpire Jim Jenkins had two fully functioning eyes. Otherwise the team might have been staring at a 7-2 record and the dismal realization that their season had lost much of its significance.

"I think the victory over Kenyon was more important than we really thought beforehand," senior tri-captain Art Brady said. "By beating them it has put us in position to do something whereas, if we had lost, the final games wouldn't mean as much."

The team's hopes of being the best team in the Midwest are still alive as is their shot at the NCAA Western playoff berth. Air Force is still the favorite for any rebuttal and the Irish were still alive.

"He (Jenkins) had a lot of guys to make that call," said Olmstead. "Martin was definitely in the crease," senior tri-captain John McNicholas said. "It was great for us to have an intimidating ref out there that make that call in overtime in front of their fans.

Kenyon continued to slow down the play in the second overtime, but the Irish were able to use the little extra time to get two goals.

Defensiveman Doug Spencer was in position to make the "in the crease" call. No Kenyon players dared to of­fer any rebuttal and the Irish were still alive.

"It was a great look at the whole play," Olmstead said. "The goalie came out to play me and I saw an opening and shot it over his shoulder. It was a great look by Lano."

Lano hit me with the ball and he was absolutely sitting around," Olmstead said. He also rose to the occasion to make the "in the crease" call.

Senior goalie Matt McQuillan, Olmstead's roommate, also rose to the occasion to keep the Irish in the game. In the third quarter the Notre Dame hurleders surrendered only five walks the entire weekend. That left the staff with only 79 walks in 333 innings of work.

Top teams rolling through Round 2

As Bookstore Basketball wades through the round of 36, the win get tougher and the contenders begin to stand out farther and farther from the rest of the pack.

Several teams made their own statements that they planned on staying in the tournament for a few rounds.

One of these was Pop a Shot at Senior Bar, a team comprised of three members of last year's final eight squad, New Order. After a sluggish first half, Pop a Shot went on to drain Fill It Up, 21-13, behind Ralph Ferrara's 5-for-6 second half shooting. Ferrara has been surprised at the tightly competitive early rounds so far.

"I guess you can't count on taking it easy early on any more," said Ferrara. "I at halftime, but we started playing pretty consistently in the second half.

"We've been playing together for three years now and have a good sense of where the other guys are going to go on the court. The only differences we have are that we picked up Steve Byrum, lost Tim Crawford and changed our name."

Pop a Shot looks to be in form to at least duplicate last year's performance, as does Put It In the Hole Again, Chief, who is out to prove that last year's final 16 finish was no fluke. Chief buried five Chips in Search of...21-3. Also, Air Dogppers, featuring former Leones' Stal­lar Gary Saase, was a senior with a Job...21-7. Saase shot seven-for-eight and had 11 rebounds on the day.
