Dukakis sweeps NY win

Associated Press
NEW YORK -- Michael Dukakis swept to a convincing victory over Jesse Jackson in the New York primary Tuesday night and seized control over the turbulent race for the Democratic presidential nomination.

"I love New York," the Massachusetts governor crooned in a victory statement prepared for a hotel rally in midtown Manhattan. "Friends, if we can make it here we can make it anywhere."

Sen. Albert Gore finished a weak third and seemed likely to quit the race on Thursday. He congratulated Dukakis and said the Democratic party was "going to be unified" for the fall campaign.

Vice President George Bush won the Republican primary, with no serious opposition in New York or elsewhere. He told reporters he thought Dukakis was a "good bet," to go on and capture the Democratic nomination and said he was eager to join the battle with whatever opponent the Democrats gave him.

With 76 percent of the precincts reporting, the Democratic vote looked this way: Dukakis had 671,494 or 53 percent.

Tensions remain in Persian Gulf

Associated Press
MANAMA, Bahrain -- A French warship spotted three mines and Iranian speedboats raiding two tankers Tuesday, the day after battles in the southern Persian Gulf in which Iran fired missiles from shore at U.S. Navy vessels.

A marine executive said the gulf appeared "ghostly" from lack of shipping. He and others said commercial vessels were avoiding the waterway, where Iran and Iraq have been at war since September 1980 and the U.S. Navy sank or damaged six Iranian vessels Monday.

They also said the United States gave American flags and registration to 11 Kuwaiti tankers last year and the Navy escorts them through the gulf. President Reagan said things were quieter in the gulf Tuesday and "we hope it continues that way."

U.S. hostages threatened

The Revolutionary Justice Organization made the threat in a handwritten statement in Arabic delivered after midnight to the independent daily newspaper Al-Nahar in Beirut. Included with the statement were two Iranian oil platforms Monday. The official Islamic Republic

Construction benefits found beyond fences

Notre Dame has been building its rich tradition for 146 years. With a little luck, it still has time to do so. But it seems the University of Our Lady has been building up its campus for almost as long.

Construction on campus has reached a surprising rate. It's almost to the point of nuisance. Constricted space in North Dining Hall has forced lines out the doors. North Quad and the areas near Newsland Science Hall and new dorms Knott and Siegfried are unsightly. Students must be wary of mud, gravel and rough-hewn, but fortunately temporary, chain-link fence.

As inconvenient and unsightly as it may be, construction is a necessary evil. One day (maybe when we're all alumni) the Notre Dame campus will be the shining example of structural symmetry its architects envisioned. Gradually, we're getting there.

One only needs to look at some of the existing buildings on campus to see that architectural success can be achieved, without compromising esthetics. The Dome, of course, is the most distinctive edifice on campus and is known worldwide as a symbol of the University. It may lack a little lustre, but most alumni, students and visitors on campus can't help being moved at the sight of the Golden Dome.

Catastrophe almost cost us that night. The original plans were for the administration building which was destroyed by fire in 1879. Seven years later, a dedicated construction corps finished the Dome we know today.

Other buildings on campus are impressive, too. Sacred Heart was one of the first projects undertaken by Father Edward Sorin when he founded the fledgling campus in 1842. Today, sacred heart carries the distinction of being the tallest edifice on campus.

Before his retirement in 1887, University President Emeritus Father Theodore Hesburgh said one of Notre Dame's best moves was building the library that now bears his name. At 14 stories, the Hesburgh Library is an imposing structure and was the largest college library building when it was dedicated in 1963.

The Hesburgh Library houses more than 1.6 million volumes and a large number of the student body on any given day. It's hard to imagine the campus without it. Yet at one time, students conducted research in the Architecture Building. Where would students be today if new dorms like Knott and Siegfried weren't constructed?

In fact, if the University stopped expanding its facilities in 1967, the Mod Quad wouldn't exist today. The campus would have been vastly different.

LaFortune Student Center itself underwent considerable construction in 1986. The renovation took time and, at $6 million, a considerable amount of money. Look at it today - it's a student center Notre Dame can be (and is) proud of.

There is one thing about LaFortune that bothers me, however. The red neon sign on the first floor that says Theodore's drives me (and, I'm told, many others) crazy. Although barely visible during the day, it's obnoxiously bright at night. It glares fuzzily out the window at everyone on the Main Quad. Moreover, it hums constantly. Still, I mean to make light of the situation.

Construction is inconvenient. It is unsightly and it does make walking around campus a real pain, but it yields some terrific results. For now, we just have to put up with it. I'm confident, though, someday we will see the fruits of the current construction labors and, though we complain now, we'll be happy.
Happy 22nd Birthday, ANTHONY EUGENI

Education, porn bill passes

Associated Press

WASHINGTON—The House overwhelmingly passed a multibillion-dollar education bill expanding federal programs for elementary and high school students Tuesday, after attaching a ban on pornographic telephone message services.

The Hawkins-Stafford School Improvement Act, which authorizes $3.3 billion in spending next year, renews all major elementary and secondary education programs. More than half the money would go to the government's compensatory education program for disadvantaged children.

Although the new programs to prevent dropouts and help high school students with weak study skills, money to greatly expand drug abuse education and magnet school programs.

The bill, a compromise between versions passed earlier by the House and Senate, needed Senate approval before heading to the White House for President Reagan's signature.

An aide said the Senate planned to act Wednesday.

Before the 397-1 House vote, many members called the education measure among the most important they would ever pass because it would put the United States back on the road to international competitiveness.

Rep. Philip Crane, R-Ill., cast the only dissenting vote.

"Since 1981, we have moved from a nation at risk to a nation in crisis. I think this proposal will turn that trend around," said Rep. Augustus Hawkins, D-Calif., chairman of the House Education and Labor Committee.

The far-reaching measure, named for Hawkins and retiring Sen. Robert Stafford, R-Vt., was shadowed for weeks by controversy over the dial-a-porn ban added in the Senate by Sen. Jesse Helms, R-N.C. House and Senate negotiators substituted a provision under which the lewd message services would be technologically blocked from telephones unless an adult called the telephone company and requested a subscription.

But in a confusing series of moves Tuesday, the House killed the dial-a-porn compromise and restored the outright ban despite concerns about its constitutionality.

Opponents said it would result in years of litigation during which children could continue to call and hear the pornographic tapes. But others said it would be impossible to block the service from 12 percent of American homes served by older telephone equipment and some said dial-a-porn ought to be off limits to adults as well as children.

The largest single program in the bill is Chapter 1, which pays for tutoring and other services to disadvantaged children at risk of academic failure. School districts could receive basic grants totaling up to $4.7 billion in fiscal year 1989, a $400 million increase over current spending.

The school improvement act also includes the following major programs, with authorizers under the Elementary and Secondary Education Act that would represent the maximum Congress could appropriate:

The media and the advertising industry have a tremendous impact on the way in which Americans view alcohol and alcoholism, according to "Under the Influence," a Student Union Board sponsored lecture by Jean Kilbourne Tuesday night.

Kilbourne, an internationally known media critic affiliated with Wellesley College, has been touring the country lecturing on the role of the media on the public's attitudes towards women and alcohol.

Kilbourne stressed from the start that her lecture was "not a temperance or prohibition lecture," but instead it was simply an examination of the effects of advertising.

The lecture revolved primarily around exposing the myths created by alcohol advertisements and examining the paradoxes between these myths and the real truths about alcohol.

One such myth involved alcohol as a sexual stimulant. Kilbourne said that advertisers mein'en sex link alcohol with sex, but in fact there is a 70-to-80 percent rate of impotency and reduced sex drive among alcoholics.

A main point of the lecture was that although the public rarely spends time closely examining alcohol ads, they still affect us greatly. "What we're led to believe are the effects we most deeply," she said.

She praised Notre Dame for its recent addition of an Office of Drug and Alcohol Education.

Robert Kennedy's files made public

Associated Press

SACRAMENTO, Calif. — More than 2,400 photographs from the assassination of Robert Kennedy were unaccountably destroyed nearly 20 years ago, officials said Tuesday as they opened the public for the first time the long-secret police files.

There was no explanation in the 50,000 pages of documents why the pictures were burned or why such items as ceiling tiles and door jambs from the scene of Kennedy's death were destroyed in the months following the assassination.

California Secretary of State March Fong Eu released the documents, including interviews with 4,000 witnesses and 2,500 photographs from the Los Angeles Police Department files.

The state’s chief archivist said the documents were unlikely to answer the numerous questions surrounding the 1968 assassination because of the destroyed material.

“I’ve never seen a file quite this large,” said archivist John Burns. “This is a very unusual murder file (but) I’m not absolute saying that any questions are answered.”

He said the biggest surprise was the amount of evidence destroyed, including the photographs, which were burned three months after the assassination. Their subjects are unknown.

He also said he could not explain why evidence was destroyed, even when police were careful at the outset because they didn’t want “another Dallas,” where Kennedy’s brother, President John Kennedy, was killed.

Burns said he had not had time to examine all the evidence, which he predicted would occupy researchers for years.

The gaps in the material drew immediate criticism.

“Someone should ask the police why they destroyed 2,400 photographs in the most important case they’ve ever examined. . . . We didn’t know about that until today,” said Gregory Stone, a political scientist at the University of Wisconsin and a longtime student of the case.

Among the persistent questions raised by conspiracy theorists and scholars are: Was Sirhan Bishara Sirhan the only gunman? Was Kennedy shot in front or behind? Where were the eight shots or more in the pantry of the Ambassador Hotel? And how close was the gunman whose bullet entered Kennedy’s brain?

The documents released include an admission by police that they destroyed key evidence, including ceiling tiles, a door jamb and thousands of photographs taken there eight shots or more in the Ambassador Hotel kitchen where Kennedy was shot on June 5, 1968.

OSHA falsified inspection report

Associated Press

WASHINGTON — Federal safety inspectors told a Senate committee Tuesday they were instructed in September to generate numbers emphasizing quality over improving the quality of the nation’s workplaces.

Before the first witness was called Monday, Kennedy vowed to show that the decision to let workers die . . . has been supervised and carried out by the highest levels of this administration.

Witnesses before the panel Monday estimated that 40,000 to 70,000 Americans die annually from occupational-related diseases that could be prevented.

Kennedy repeated his charges Tuesday, saying that career OSHA employees were instructed by Reagan administration officials “to generate misleading data that give the appearance of seal as a cover for neglect.”

Michelle Vallon, an industrial hygienist in OSHA’s Irving, Texas, office, told the committee Tuesday that she produced 26 OSHA inspection reports from a three-day visit to a construction site last September.

Vallon said she believed she was told by supervisors to inspect the site because of a large number of subcontractors on the job and her office was under constant pressure to get her bookbag and contents were stolen from the South Dowling Lobby between 8 and 9:30 a.m. Her loss is estimated at $50.

2 Americans hurt in blast

Associated Press

SAN JOSE, Costa Rica - A fragmentation grenade blew up outside the American-Costa Rican Cultural Center Tuesday, wounding two Americans and four other people, Costa Rican authorities said.

Red Cross officials identified the Americans as Alice Feister, a professor at the Cultural Center from the Washington, D.C., area, and Shelly Bartain, a student from California.

Feister was seriously wounded, but "she's expected to pull through," said U.S. embassy spokesman Mark Krischick.

Krischick said earlier Tuesday that the explosion was believed caused by a malfunctioning power line transformer.

A preliminary report prepared by the Intelligence and Security Directorate said the explosion was caused by a fragmentation grenade. Three cars were damaged, the report said.

Herman Garron, the public security minister, told The Associated Press officials had no suspects in the incident. He called the explosion a "terrorist act."

Krischick said Feister suffered a severe artery wound and was operated on immediately at Calderon Guardia Hospital. Feister was reported in fair condition.

Movie unjustly condemned

Dear Editor:

Upon reading William A. Murray's letter of April 19 defending the showing of "The Life of Brian" on campus, one's first reaction, the question which always arises when you don't believe my word, is "Has he seen the movie?" Considering what he says about it, he either has not viewed it or he didn't pay very close attention when he did view it.

First of all, the movie makes absolutely clear that the character of Brian is not intended to be the historical Jesus. Jesus is presented in Nazivity (the Nativity and the Sermon on the Mount) as a completely separate and independent character, acting completely in accordance with what the Bible and sacred tradition say about Him. Therefore, when Mr. Murray criticizes "The Life of Brian" for presenting "Christ's life, crucifixion and resurrection as butts of jokes," he is making a statement which is inconsistent with reality.

Of course, there are obvious parallels between the character of Brian and the life and death of Christ (the resurrection is not referred to at all). But to anyone who has seen, and understood, the movie, it is quickly obvious that these parallels are used not to mock Jesus (or the character of Jesus would have no value), but to mock aspects of religion which need to be mocked: namely fanaticism, secrecy, and humanity's tendency to place emphasis on the wrong things. Brian is a victim of his times. What he tries to say and do are right, but he is surrounded by lunatics. He lives in an insane period of history, not unlike our own, and is treated accordingly.

"The Life of Brian" is a bawdy movie, and the Pythons are by no means devout Christians. But Christians who are deeply offended by this movie either misunderstand it, or its criticisms apply to them. If the latter case is true, then the "Christians," and not the Pythons, who should be ashamed. We have become like the Pharisees. We are so self-righteous we can't laugh at our own faults.

As far as the movie's being condemned by the Catholic Church, such censorship belongs buried in the post-Vatican II era. It is not appropriate that the Notre Dame and Saint Mary's, as Mr. Murray would have us believe, then we are not centers of higher learning in the full sense of the term.

Likewise, if Mr. Murray and others who share his sentiments don't approve of what Monty Python stands for, no one is forcing them to attend the movies of Graham Chapman's lecture on April 24.

As for us, we intend to enjoy the lecture as we have enjoyed the movies: as devout Catholics with clear conscience, firm belief in the Church and its values, and the ability to laugh at ourselves.

Big Brother receives award

old. When first paired, given their respective backgrounds, Laughlin commented, “We were a little mismatched.” To ease into the relationship, the two initially went swimming and played basketball or other sports in which a lot of talking was not necessary. Now, however, the two even study together. Laughlin has also taken Glen on a Chicago trip and to his home In Omaha.

said, “I am amazed at his confidence and poise. The caseworker said he had developed immensely. He used to be more of a shy young man and wasn’t involved in as many things.”

Wagner stated that, although the two did the “typical match activities’’ for the first year, Mark’s special qualifications were really drawn upon for the second year.

While Mark was in London for a semester, they kept in contact by writing. When he came back, Glen’s needs were different. Mark decided to see him twice a week, rather than once. Now Glen is on the Honor Roll and his mother says his improvement has been 99 percent because of Mark’s encouragement.

At Monday’s presentation, Wagner relayed a few of Glen’s comments. Said Laughlin, “I remember he said that we’re ‘sort of best friends.’”

Laughlin knows that after graduation the two will definitely keep in touch. However, due to post-graduation plans, he does not foresee that he will have the time to devote to involvement in a Big Brothers program elsewhere.

Commented Laughlin, “There are a lot of great Big Brothers and Sisters. Everyone is really deserving—anyone who can devote that kind of time deserves an award.”

Reflecting on why he was chosen, Laughlin pointed to the concentration on academics but also remarked, “I don’t really know for sure, but I know we’ve had a lot of fun together.” Said Wagner, “Mark represents the high-quality, high-caliber students we have volunteering from Notre Dame and St. Mary’s.” It seems the Niland Memorial Service Award could not have a more appropriate recipient.

“Your mother wears army boots!”

I don’t want anyone to get the wrong idea.

We all get a lot from our mothers. I inherited my mom’s thin, white, hairless forearms.

And it’s not that I don’t appreciate all that mothers do, either. Far from it. Motherhood is probably the toughest job in the world, sort of a combination of shortening drapes and being President. I really think that it is a seriously tough gig.

guest column

Fortunately, the accident of my birth forever excludes me from that occupation. I will never bear children and no matter what else is your mother.

As if mothers didn’t already have enough things to worry about, there’s the little matter of Mother Jokes. I’m not talking about vaudeville jokes about mothers-in-law and I’m not talking about some watered-down “Cosby Show” sitcom schtick.

I’m talking about jokes most people find uncomfortable. These are the peculiar genre of comedy jokes usually practiced by playground last-ditch losers in grade school in an all-out effort to sabotage someone’s self-esteem. There is not another single put-down (except maybe another Mother Joke) that can stop an argument as well as “Yeah, so’s your mother.” Keep this in mind.

I think a brief history of the Mother Joke is in order here. The very first Mother Joke was told at Freud’s famous lectures, when he was expounding on his newly discovered “Oedipal Complex.”

Freud was raising an issue about how every boy secretly longs for his mother, when he from the back of the auditorium someone was heard to shout, “Yeah, that’s what your mother says!” Freud was briefly flustered, but returned quickly and brilliantly with the now-famous burst of witty rhetoric, “I know you are, but what am I?”

World War II began, not when the Japanese bombed Pearl Harbor, but rather when the Japanese Emperor shouted, “Please record your mother that she left her shoes in the palace last night!” at Franklin Delano Roosevelt.

Which brings us, of course, to the present day. My senior year in high school, I had the distinct privilege of attending an all-male school in New Jersey, that Wordworthian paradise whose actual state slogan is “Your Mother.” It was a good year, but I do know for sure, that these guys came up with would have outright killed or at least blinded the younger members of the Brady Bunch, especially mentioned in connection with their mothers.

The funniest thing that happened all year was on the day when all the mothers came to visit. I stood by and watched as everybody quietly introduced their mothers to everybody else. I watched while kids who had professed intimate relationships with each other’s mothers were introduced and forced to make small talk. I remember our football team’s quarterback’s mother had unknowingly endured a few especially creative adventures: in real life, she was a delicate, upright woman without even a trace of hair on her back. I guess the other guys really had shaved it. Mother Jokes are in danger of extinction, though, “Momma” Bates kind of screwed up the whole thing for everybody. That “Psycho” thing was probably the Mother Joke taken to its perfected extension.

So, don’t forget that Mother’s Day is on May 8 this year. And on that special day, don’t forget to call Mom... if you can pull her off the rugby field long enough.

Aloha, Kauai! My name is Anna... Anna Geiger. I am an American, an American woman, and I have a heart full of aloha and a love for this island and its people.

I came to Kauai because of its unique cultural heritage and its natural beauty. I was drawn to the island by the sounds of the ocean and the smell of tropical flowers on the breeze. I am a true believer in Hawaiian culture and I am dedicated to preserving its traditions.

I am a member of the Royal Hawaiian Carollers, a group of musicians who perform at weddings and other special events on the island. We are known for our beautiful voices and our ability to bring joy and happiness to those we perform for.

I am also a volunteer at the Waimea Valley Botanical Garden, where I help to care for the beautiful flowering plants and trees that grace the garden.

I have been living on Kauai for over 10 years now and I have come to feel like this island is my home. I am proud to be a part of the Kauai community and I look forward to continuing to live here for many more years to come.

Cecile Cahill, a standout freshman on Notre Dame's women's tennis team, has been selected by the Midwest Region Award Committee as the Midwest Region singles champion. Cahill, a native of Humilade, Ill., is included in a select group of eight regional rookies of the year, as selected by the region directors. Cahill will be considered for national rookie of the year honors.

Cahill, currently 37th at number one for the Irish, is ranked 58th among all Division I players in this week's Volvo/ITC Tennis Magazine. Regionally, Cahill is ranked third behind Indiana's Rika Minoki and Kelly Minoki (30-17). On May 10, the top four players in each region will be selected to compete in this year’s NCAA championships.

Wrestling, track sign recruits

Special to The Observer

Five top-flight high school wrestlers have signed national letters of intent to enroll in the University of Notre Dame this fall.

Tim Anderson, a first-team All-American candidate from West Des Moines, Iowa, heads the list. Considered to be the top high school wrestler in Iowa this year, Anderson picked up his second consecutive state championship at Dowling High School in the 132-pound division. His 140-17-2 career record is the winnigest mark in high school wrestling history. Anderson placed first in the national junior (18 and under) championships last year in his weight class.

Anderson will be joined at Notre Dame by a high school teammate, 177-pounder Curt Engler. Engler, a native of Peru, Iowa, compiled a 90-8-1 career record and captured the Iowa state crown last season in his weight division. He also finished third at the 1987 junior national competition.

Heavyweight Chuck Weaver will provide instant help for the Irish in that division. Another first-team All-America candidate, Weaver won the Oklahoma state title as both a junior and senior at Midwest City High School. He rolled up an impressive 130-5-1 record in high school, including a 78 match winning streak.

Mike Sheehy will wrestle at 118 for the Irish after winning the Illinois state title in that division last year. Sheehy compiled a 146-7 record at St. Edward's High School in Elgin, Ill.

Marcus Growens, a 136-pounder from Del City High School in Del City, Okla., rounds out the Irish squad. Growens placed in the always tough Oklahoma state high school tournament four years in a row, finishing second in 1982-83, third in 1983-84 and fifth in 1984-85 during his career. He placed fifth in his division at last year's junior national championships.

A pair of middle-distance runners, Shawn Schneider and Eric Hopp, have signed national letters of intent to enroll in the University of Notre Dame next fall and run both cross country and track.

Solcher will head the standout prep career at Archbishop Ryan High School in Philadelphia this year, his first ever as a member of the harrier squad.

in their past two outings. J.C. Trebus provides the inside scoring while Bill Zedell can put the ball in the hole from the inside or outside.

The 9th seed is Who's Next, who's next for Tofy Swangerman. Joel Rump is the scorer for this team with features four returnees from last year's team which reached the final eight. Steve Niegorski fills the 9th spot and the lane. The tenth seed is Pop A Shot At Senior Bar. This is a revised version of last year's final eight team.

Cahill, currently 37th at number one for the Irish, is ranked 58th among all Division I players in this week's Volvo/ITC Tennis Magazine. Regionally, Cahill is ranked third behind Indiana's Rika Minoki and Kelly Minoki (30-17). On May 10, the top four players in each region will be selected to compete in this year’s NCAA championships.

Cahill, Peltier receive honors

rightfielder Dan Peltier has been named the Midwestern Collegiate Baseball League All-Star athlete of the week for the period ending April 10. Peltier was 10 for 25 with 10 runs scored and three RBI. The Cliffon Park, N.Y., native, went 12 for 20 as the Irish first baseman went from Detroit to clinch a spot in the MCC playoffs, including triple, home run and 11 RBI. He needs just one more double this year to break the single-season mark of 15.

The 11th seed is Put It In The Hole Again, Chief. Dan Nieder­ meyer's quickness and scoring have led this team to date, while John Sheehan can also put it in the hole again and again, chief. The 12th seed is Minahoonies. Self-proclaimed by Pete Graham as "definitely a not crowded favorite," Minahoonies throws around the beef under­neath, while Steve Antonelli is one of the best shooters around in the tournament.

At the 13th seed is Corporate Raiders. Michael Smith places the raiders scoring while Pat Walsh runs the show at point guard for a repeat sweet 16 team. The 14th seed is A Bad Whale, A Bad Buzz and A Tasty Wave. Chris Carlson plays the point and can fill up the hoop, as can forward Mike Shimota. Not a big team, A Bad Dude, plays pesky defense which helps their transition game.

The 15th seed is Kinkels, last year's 4 Fags And A Zahnmebe. Mike Neel and Paul Gruber put up some good scores underneath while Dan Micheli adds scoring punch in the 5-7 range. Opponent today, and the final seed, No. 16, is Swaggart, Bakker and 3 Others. Team winners over Top Gun yesterday, Swaggart and company boast a balanced shooting attack and scappy play.

There you have it, 16 teams. Tied games next week Friday, Saturday and Sunday. Probably cold weather. Probably an upset or two or more. Only one team will go undefeated... that's the only thing you can bet on besides that, anything goes. Because it's Bookstore.

AL roundup

Associated Press

MILWAUKEE—Baltimore tied a major league record with its 28th straight loss from the start of the season Tuesday night as Paul Molitor hit a three-run home run to help the Milwaukee Brewers beat the Orioles 5-0.

The Orioles equaled the losing streaks of the Washington Senators in 1964 and the Detroit Tigers in 1930. Baltimore will go for the record Wednesday night in Milwaukee.

The franchise record for consecutive losses is 14. Once in Baltimore in 1954, and twice when the team was based in St. Louis.

Baltimore, struggling to score runs and with a 36-16 team batting average entering the game, took a 3-3 lead in the first inning, but the Orioles managed only nine singles in field en route to its seventh straight loss under Manager Frank Robinson. Robinson took over for Cal Ripken, Jr., who was fired last week.

White Sox 7, Mariners 2

SEATTLE—Carlton Fisk hit two home runs and the Chicago White Sox beat the Seattle Mariners 7-2 Tuesday night, extending their winning streak to five games.

Starting in the fifth inning with the score tied 2-2, Kenny Williams, Ivan Calderon, Fisk and Harold Baines hit solo home runs in consecutive innings off starter Mark Langston, 0-2.

Fisk homered in the seventh and eighth.

Jerry Reus, 1-1, held the Mariners to four hits in five innings for the victory.

Yankees 7, Twins 6

MINNEAPOLIS—Rickey Henderson, Bobby Meacham and Mike Pagliarulo drove in two runs each in a six-run second inning that carried the New York Yankees past the staggering Minnesota Twins 7-6 Tuesday night. Athletics 8, Angels 3

OAKLAND—Oakland’s Dave Stewart survived three balks and seven California hits in seven innings to beat the Angels 8-3 Tuesday night.

Reliever Rick Honeycutt got the first out in the eighth, and Dennis Eckersley finished up for his sixth save in six save opportunities.

Red Sox 7, Tigers 3

DETROIT—Roger Clemens struck out 11 in eight innings as the Boston Red Sox beat the Detroit Tigers and Jack Morris 7-3 Tuesday night.

Clemens struck out at least 10 for the third time in four starts and leads the American League with 44 strikeouts.

Blue Jays 12, Royals 3

TORONTO—Jose Barfield hit a grand slam to cap a seven-run third inning and Jim Clancy tied a club record with 12 strikeouts, leading the Toronto Blue Jays over the Kansas City Royals 12-3 Tuesday night.

Rangers 3, Indians 0

CLEVELAND—Jose Guzman pitched six shutout innings and Larry Parrish drove in two runs with a bases-loaded single Tuesday night as the Texas Rangers beat Cleveland 3-0.

The loss was only the second in the last 13 games for the Indians, who at 11-3 are off to their best start since 1966.

Guzman, 2-1, struck out three and walked one and allowed only four singles in six innings.

Don't Leave School Without It!
Phillies top Mets for fourth time

Associated Press

NEW YORK--Mike Schmidt and Lance Parrish each hit two run-scoring singles, Von Hayes doubled twice and drove in two runs and Don Carman pitched a seven-hitter Tuesday night as the Philadelphia Phillies routed the New York Mets 10-2.

Schmidt, who entered the game batting just .199, went 3-for-4 in a 14-hit attack. He started a four-run fourth inning with an RBI double and his run-scoring hit in the fifth made it 6-1 and chased Bob Ojeda, 2-1.

Ojeda had pitched 15 consecutive scoreless innings before the Phillies put together five singles in the fourth. Ojeda, angry with home plate umpire Bob Davidson for two balk calls, threw his glove into the first-base stands as he exited into the Mets' dugout after being knocked out of the game.

Carman improved his record to 2-1.

Reds 8, Giants 0

CINCINNATI--Dennis Rasmussen pitched a four-hitter and Nick Bassey drove in four runs with a single and a homer Tuesday night to lead the Cincinnati Reds to an 8-0 victory over the San Francisco Giants.

Rasmussen, 1-1, struck out four in his second career shutout.

Pirates 3, Cardinals 1

PITTSBURGH--Brian Reimink went 4-for-6, including a two-run homer.

PHILADELPHIA--Ron Guidry, who had won his seventh straight decision by pitching a seven-hit shutout and Barry Bonds doubled, singled and drove in a run as the streaking Pittsburgh Pirates beat the St. Louis Cardinals 3-0 Tuesday night.

Expos 9, Cubs 1

CHICAGO--Dennis Martinez pitched a six-hitter and Tim Wallach homered as Montreal beat the Chicago Cubs 9-1 Tuesday night for the Expos' fourth straight victory.

Martinez, 2-2, struck out five and walked none en route to his first complete game.

Brewers 5, Astros 4

HOUSTON--Ted Simmons' three-run eighth-inning home run powered the Atlanta Braves to a 5-4 victory over the Houston Astros Tuesday night.

Simmons' game-winning hit came after Gary Roenicke reached on an error by shortstop Rafael Ramirez and Dale Murphy singled.

Padres-Dodgers, rain

LOS ANGELES--Tuesday night's game between Los Angeles and San Diego was postponed by rain, marking only the 13th time that a game at Dodger Stadium has been rained out since the Dodgers began playing there in 1962.

Los Angeles' Fernando Valenzuela and San Diego's Jimmy Jones, the schedule pitchers for Tuesday night, have been rescheduled to start Wednesday night.

W MU hammers Irish 28-10

Associated Press

KALAMAZOO, Mich.--Dale Horngisto and Bob Reimink each drove in six runs as Western Michigan bombarded Notre Dame 28-10 in college baseball Tuesday.

Horngisto hit for the cycle in going 5-for-7 at the plate, while Reimink went 4-for-6, including a two-run homer.

John Hemingway also went 4-for-5 with two RBI.

The Broncos scored eight runs in each of the second and sixth innings.

Western Michigan established team records for hits (27), breaking the mark of 25 set against Toledo on May 7, 1982 and runs scored (28), eclipsing the record of 26 set twice.

J.D. DeMarre, 2-6, earned the victory despite allowing four runs, three of them earned, in 2 2/3 innings of relief.

Irish starter Mike Passilla, 2-4, pitched one inning, allowing seven runs.

Western Michigan is 17-11, while Notre Dame is 25-17.

Notre Dame has allowed a total of 72 runs in its last five games.

Purdue 18, Butler 0

WEST LAFAYETTE, Ind.--Purdue's Mike Galle hit a grand slam and Mike Drum threw a two-hitter to shut out Butler 18-0 in college baseball Tuesday.

Drum improved his record to 3-2. Butler's Scott Johnson collected both of the hits off him. Bob Kent, 1-6, took the loss for Butler, 7-17.

The 16-23 Boilermakers' Jeff Simmons' game-winning hit came after Gary Roenicke reached on an error by shortstop Rafael Ramirez and Dale Murphy singled.

Juan Samuel and the Philadelphia Phillies appear to have the Mets' number this season. The Phillies dumped the Mets 10-2 Tuesday, their fourth win in five tries this season against New York.

Top Guns upset in Bookstore
TWL gets top seed in Sweet 16

By PETE SKIKO
Assistant Sports Writer

It was a day for the favorites Tuesday as Bookstore Basketball XVII rambled through to the round of 16 with nearly all the top seeds going virtually unscathed.

The lone casualty was a Tom Sluby-less Top Guns squad, which was shot down by Jimmy Swaggart, Jim Bakker, and 3 Other Guys Caught for Lane violations. Mike Caballero, Kevin Whelan and Ed Cosgrove each had five points for the winners.

Other than that upset, the pretenders have been weeded out as the Sweet 16 prepares to commence (seeds are listed on page 13).

"I'm kind of surprised that 15 of the top 16 have made it this far," said Tournament Commissioner Mike Manning. "Considering all the freshman talent that we couldn't account for going into the tournament, I think that the fact that there was only one upset was an upset in itself. It's interesting to see how our seeds work out from here on in."

In what Manning called an unavoidable situation, one team, Ministers Of Fat was forced to play twice as a result of a forfeit by Four Brothers. The Miners had played with Todd Lyght, who had already been declared on another squad, against Debi Thomas, Dan Jensen... in the round of 64. All of Four Brothers had played, the violation was discovered, and in keeping with tournament rules Four Brothers was disqualified and Debi Thomas... got a shot at Ministers of Pain.

The Ministers won that 4-0 before Four Brothers, were then forced to play again at 6:15 against Minahoonies in the round of 32. Minahoonies, behind Pete Graham's six points, made short work of The Ministers, 21-9.

In another action, Al Martin won 7-6 as I'll Play, No 1 Wont demolished Yo...What Up? 21-14; Sean Cullinan and Chris Nanni combined to shoot 18-for-26 as Tequila Lightning showed its vintage late form in a 21-15 win over Swaggart, Reagan and Three Other Guys; Pop A Shot at Senior Bar's Ralph Ferrara scored ten points in his team's 21-16 victory over Johnny Hanley.

A courtside guide to the Sweet 16
You can't hide from it any longer. It's been going on for nearly a month now, beginning with 666 teams. That means over 3300 players ranging from book store staff to local weathermen, school ball workers, law students, varsity coaches and even a University President. And now its coming to a close with 16 teams still in the running to walk off with all the marbles on Sunday.

At Stepan, Lyons and the Bookstore, the crowds have been growing bigger and bigger each day as the field narrows. And they'll only continue to grow as the week goes on. The only question really besides "Who'll win it all?" is "Where is the sun?"

Aren't we in April? Isn't this An Tostal week? "Who'll win it all?" is the question on everyone's mind, Jeromone and the Bunch of Miners blasted pass Wonder Woman, Isis and Charlie Angels 21-6. But it would be a mistake to think that it's going to be easy. The Women's Bookstore Basketball Tournament features, in order of conferences:

- The No. 2 seed is Lou's 2 Qbs and 2 Blind Guys. No tricks in this name. At last year's Blue-Gold Game, Lou Holtz asked visiting senior Kent Graham and ineligible freshman Tony Rice if they would play on his Bookstore team in 1986, and a possible championship team was born.
