Dukakis, Jackson disagree

Associated Press

PHILADELPHIA — Michael Dukakis and Jesse Jackson differed Monday over whether any concessions should be made to terrorists holding Americans hostage, while a new survey said Dukakis appeared headed for another big-state presidential primary victory in Pennsylvania.

"You never make concessions to terrorists — ever," Dukakis told reporters during a final campaign swing across the state before Tuesday's primary. Jackson rejected what he called "material concessions" to terrorists but did not rule out political accommodation. He also said he could conceive of situations where he would grant safe passage to hostage-takers and added, "I choose negotiation over blood and confrontation."

"If we are going to deterrrorism, we must address the underlying causes of terrorism," he said after an appearance at a high school in Pittsburgh. "Terrorism does not emerge out of the blue." The candidates agreed that in hostage situations, the government ought to talk to people who could bring about the release of persons being held.

U.S. policy holds that American officials "will talk to any official or group about the safety and release of hostages but we will not make concessions," according to the State Department.

Jackson insisted. "The fact is that our government has talked with terrorists and has negotiated, in some instances successfully. It is good as a policy, but there must be always flexibility in the policy... We ought to take every initiative we can to gain the freedom of the American hostages in Beirut."

Eight Americans are held hostage by Moslem extremists in Beirut. The discussion of tactics for dealing with terrorists was an abrupt shift in a campaign debate which had been focused on economic issues, particularly how to assist Pennsylvania's ailing steel industry.

Dukakis was aiming for his fourth straight primary victory in a contest with 17 delegates at stake.

Vice President George Bush, who could clinch a convention majority with a victory in Pennsylvania, compared his campaign rebound after an Iowa caucus defeat to the revival of Pittsburgh, a once-strapped steel town.

"I know what it's like to be knocked to the canvas," he said, adding that his political comeback was "a parallel to what you demonstrated here."

The latest Associated Press delegate count gave Bush 1,081, 58 short of the 1,139 needed for the nomination at the GOP convention next August. His only remaining rival, former television evangelist Pat Robertson, has 31 delegates.

Would the real UMOC please stand?

Wearing party-hooves over his head and standing before an eg-go-sacked banner, sophomore Phil Marzolf proudly raises his hand in the UMOC salute — his fingers curled to form the letter "U" which stands for "ugly." Marzolf came from behind after a diligent campaign to win the dubious honor.

Phil Marzolf swept to victory in the Ugly Man on Campus competition, easily outdistancing all competition while raising over $500 for charity, said organizer Michele Feic. Feic, who ran the UMOC competition with Martha Wendel, said that the event raised a record $1750. Donations were taken during the week of An Tostal, with candidates receiving a vote for each penny they raised.

Marzolf raised $350.00. Second-place finisher Mike "Coma" Moran took in $338.44, noding out Music Professor Carl "Chip" Slam, who garnerd $311.21. Feic said the money raised would go to the Notre Dame Jane M. Beres Lukemia Foundation. In the past, money has gone to various other charities.

Candidates raised the money by various methods, including going door-to-door and begging at the Senior Bar, said Feic. Marzolf was "really happy to win the award. We felt that we were the underdogs at the beginning, but pulled it out in the end."

Marzolf attributed his victory to the help of his staff of 15 to 20 friends who went door-to-door, see UMOC, page 4

Court to rethink affirmative action

Associated Press

WASHINGTON — A deeply split Supreme Court said Monday it will consider throwing out a key civil rights decision used to fight racial discrimination.

By a 5-4 vote, the justices took the unusual step of extending the scope of a North Carolina racial-harassment case to consider limiting the ability of minorities to sue private citizens for monetary damages.

Critics said the announcement could have a major psychological impact on minorities, raising fears that a newly solidified conservative majority on the court is willing to consider dismantling other civil rights victories.

In other action, the court turned away the first "diâns" case ever to reach it letting stand a ban on sexually explicit telephone message services in Arizona — agreed to decide whether wardens of federal prisons should have sweeping power to say what publications inmates may read.

The court said it will use the racial-harassment case as a vehicle to weigh overturning a 1976 ruling that expanded the right of minorities to sue over alleged discrimination.

Justice John Paul Stevens, in a sharply worded dissent, said minority groups may feel betrayed by the court's willingness to consider dismantling an important civil rights precedent.

He said the action is unwise and will "have a deterrntial and enduring impact on the public's perception of the law..."

Rescue continues on USS Bonefish

Associated Press

NORFOLK, Va. — One of the Navy's specialized electric-submarines wallowed helpless on the surface Monday awaiting a salvage vessel to remove water explosion and toxic fire injured 22 sailors and left three missing.

The 30-year-old USS Bonefish, its remaining crew evacuated to shore bases, floated alongside the frigate USS Starn, who raised $526.00.

The explosion occurred on 26, 1988. Donations were taken during the week of the Navy said.

The explosion triggered a fire that filled the submarine with smoke and toxic fumes. Before nightfall, the Bonefish had removed the 155 foot-long vessel to Mayport, Fla.

It was not known if the Bonefish's 27 crewmen were safe.

The explosion occurred Sunday afternoon in the boat's battery compartment while the Bonefish was submerged on a routine training mission, said Borton.

"I want only to repent, your Holiness," the ex-Nazi pleaded. "Is salvation still available for purchase?"

The Pope flashed a pious look of disgust and whirled, "Suchh! Indulgences are out of the question. The sign on the Vatican steps explicitly says, 'Minors and Nazis not served.'"

Reaching into the Papal Desk, the Pope pulled out a scroll and handed it to the man. "Your cause is not lost, Mr. Waldheim. Take this list of virtues and search. You must find virtue in others to see and feel it in yourself."

Kurt Waldheim, current Austrian president and former United Nations Secretary General, looked perplexed. But "I'm a politician, your Holiness," he said. "You must direct me to virtuous surroundings. There you can get help."

MBA Club elects first woman President ever

By BRADLEY GALKO
Staff Reporter

For the first time in its history, the MBA association has elected a woman as president for the upcoming year.

Gretchen Grieb, graduate business student in her second year, was elected president of MBA association by the first year students of the college of masters of business administration. Grieb and her opponents were nominated by fellow students “based on their perception of how well she would perform the duties of the office.” The duties of the president include coordinating activities for the college, seeking out more firms to interview at the college, and making a better name for the school, said Grieb.

“Grieb said her future plans are to make the MBA students more "hands-on experience" through business communication programs or workshops designed to help students at "getting up and talking in front of a group of people." Grieb was a member of Notre Dame’s 1985 graduating class which she says gives her "a good idea of how the University works," as well as interactions between students and professors. She described herself as a "fan of Notre Dame" because, she says, "the people it attracts." Al Arevalo, vice-president of the MBA association, and Lisa Phipps, secretary and treasurer of the MBA association, were also elected on April 7 along with Grieb.

Senate OK’s bylaw suspension

By JENNIFER GRONER

In its last meeting of the semester, the Student Senate voted to suspend a provision in the bylaws of the undergraduate constitution that prohibited funding to non-service organizations whose members did not pay dues.

The by-law was formed to ensure that organizations would give an accurate account of the number of their members when applying for funding by requiring members to make a monetary contribution. Because the by-law was passed so late in this year, the senate is allowing non-service organizations to make student activity funding next year without requiring members to pay dues.

Electrician now a martyr

Associated Press

BETHLEHEM, occupied West Bank -- Salim Shaar al-Maskati, an electrician, spent the last afternoon of his life laying new tiles on the family porch and watching the news.

He planned to finish the job the next day, after a morning of throwing stones at Israeli soldiers. But a soldier thought he saw a firebomb in Salim's hand, and the next time Salim crossed the porch, he was carried away with a bullet hole in his head.

On an afternoon two weeks later, members of the family sat at home, sipping strong coffee and talking about the shy, 23-year-old electrician. Bethlehem's first martyr of the Arab rebellion that began nearly five months ago in the large occupied cities.

"This uprising changes everyone," said Salim's father, Khalil. "It turns a sane man into a crazy man. It turns a shy man into an angry man.

The clearest evidence of the change in Salim is in his diary, reviewed by Associated Press, a frayed notepad from a souvenir shop lovingly preserved by his family. It speaks of his growing desperation.

"I don't dream about toys anymore," wrote Salim in an entry directed to his mother, Fatmah, several weeks before his death. "When they killed my friends and my brothers, I grew up a thousand years.

When the violence began Dec. 8, Salim was a good-natured young man devoted to his job, who often stopped at the homes of neighbors after work to see if anything needed fixing, his family says.

"People appreciated him, and his work made him happy," said his brother Mohammed, 21. "He didn't have any great ambitions."

"We ran a clean campaign, but we came in third," said Starn. "But I know that I'm really ugly." Starn said that funds were raised at collections after Glee Club and chorale rehearsal. He noted that most of his donations were just pennies and nickels, not the large (over $100) bills which some of his competitors received.

Starn resorted to other fund raising means, notably including a goldfish in South Dining Hall. "I'll probably be a candidate for the Israeli parliament," said Ram.

Soldiers tighten security

Associated Press

JERUSALEM -- Police arrested Jerusalem wholesalers Monday who were said to be helping the Palestinian rebellion in the occupied lands, and soldiers confiscated identity cards of several dozen Arabs accused of inciting violence.

Military spokesman said a navy patrol craft sank a rubber boat off the Lebanese coast before dawn, killing an undefined number of Palestinian guerrillas. Israeli radio said two guerrillas were in the boat.

Israel radio said loss of their documents would prevent the Gaza Strip Palestinians from entering Israel. It said the Arabs also were ordered to check in with Gaza police twice a day.

At least 173 Palestinians have been killed since riots began -- among the 1.5 million Arabs of the occupied West Bank and Gaza, which Israel captured from Jordan and Egypt in the 1967 war. An Israeli soldier and an Israeli settler also have been killed.

Violence has declined in the past few days and Palestinians are expressing frustration with the failure of underground leaders to provide enough financial aid to offset economic sanctions imposed by the Israelis.

"The Palestinians are asking where is all the money that the underground leaders said it would provide," said Mubarak Awad, an Arab merchant who promotes order and violent resistance to Israeli rule.

He added: "The people are frustrated, but they aren't giving up."

Soldiers ordered shops in Bethlehem and Jerusalem to stay closed Monday afternoon. Underground leaders of the Palestinian Liberation Organization leaders told them to open.

Soldiers in Bethlehem welded shut the doors of six shops that followed PLO instructions. In Jerusalem, police arrested 14 merchants who opened their shops.

Whoever is given an order must follow it," said Avi Cohen, general Jerusalem police official who watched riot police and officers on horseback close the stores on the Street of the Prophets near the walled Old City.

The 14 shop owners could face fines of up to five years in jail. They opened their stores across from the Damascus Gate at 2 a.m., abiding by the PLO order, and police closed them later that morning.

Israeli authorities want Arab merchants to open all day, but leaders of the rebellion have ordered stores opened only in the afternoon. Army instructions Monday were that shops on the Street of the Prophets remain closed.

Cohen said: "Indictments will be handed up in a few days, and the matter will be brought before the court."

A merchant who locked his shop while watched by police said: "There's no law which says when you must open or close."

Crowds of shoppers patronized open shops on nearby streets. When asked why the Street of the Prophets was closed, Cohen replied: "You have to ask the Israeli authorities.

Poem: Shakespeare's work or much ado about nothing?

Associated Press

LONDON—by thee or not by thee? That was the question levelled around an Oxford University professor said by William Shakespeare but other scholars rejected as false.

"I'm convinced it is by Shakespeare," said Oxford's professor of poetry, Peter Levi, as he held up a photocopy of the untitled poem at the center of the tempest.

Levi called a news conference Monday-four days after his claim emerged in a London newspaper to introduce a slim page book he has written to prove the poem was written by The Bard.

Counters Professor Stanley Wells, director of the Shakespeare Institute at Birmingham University said: "I do not think for one moment it is by him."

The controversy has spread to the Huntington Library in San Marino, Calif., which has the disputed poem. Some experts claim that the poem has been known of since 1801, and some even think it was written by Shakespeare himself.

"Don't terribly mind what happens to my reputation," said Levi. "It would be a terrible thing to produce not to have printed as a poem of Shakespeare what other people who think are utterly or too silly to notice."

He said he first read the untitled poem when he was chosen as a finalist for the Huntington Library for photocopies of several manuscripts for his Shakespeare biography.

The poem is pasted in the back of a manuscript volume containing a play by John Marston, a dramatist contemporary of Shakespeare, and bears initials that could be "WSH" or "WSK."

"I think it is 'W.' Other-wise why would Marston have written it?" Levi said.

Without that signature I would not have been absolutely certain, but no one disputes that the writing is Marston's and I believe that is the initials of the poem's author.

Asked why the poem had been neglected since Shakespeare died in 1616, Levi commented: "I can't imagine. The verses have movement like the end of "The Tempest." They recall 'As You Like It' and 'Antony and Cleopatra.'

Najib offers to withdraw

Associated Press

KABUL, Afghanistan - President Najib on Monday offered to withdraw Afghan troops from their posts near the Pakistani border if anti-communist guerrillas and Pakistan agree to do the same.

"We are ready to create a non-military line" between Afghanistan and Pakistan, Najib said at the opening of celebrations marking the 10th anniversary of the Afghan revolution that installed a Soviet-backed government.

Najib told an assembly of three small parties loyal to his government that such a withdrawal would allow the estimated 3 million Afghan refugees in Pakistan to return home.

However, the proposal appeared to be little more than a face-saving acknowledgment of the difficulties the Afghan army is having against onslaughts by anti-communist guerrillas based in Pakistan and supplied with U.S. and Chinese weapons.

Soviet troops entered Afghanistan in 1979 to help quell an uprising by a guerrilla front. The Soviet Union has agreed to start withdrawing its estimated 115,000 troops from Afghanistan on May 15 under a U.N.-mediated agreement signed April 15 in Geneva by the United States, the Soviet Union, Afghanistan and Pakistan.

The United States, China and several other countries have been aiding the Afghan guerrillas via Pakistan. The Soviet Union arms the Afghan mili-tary forces. Each superpower has vowed to continue its assistance as long as the other does.

The guerrillas, who were not directly party to the Geneva agreement, have vowed to continue fighting until Najib's government is overthrown.
'Outstanding senior' to be awarded by SMC alumnae group

By LISA MONTPETIT

The Saint Mary's College Alumnae Association will present the Outstanding Senior Award for the first time at the Alumnae-Senior Brunch May 12.

The honor will recognize a student who has exhibited deep devotion to Saint Mary's through her academic success, involvement in student and community activities, and her dedication to the values, spirit and mission of the College, according to Mary Beth Fodor, assistant director of Alumnae Relations.

Nominees will be chosen by senior class members, she said.

During the Fall 1987 meeting of the Alumnae Board of Directors, the need for such an award was discussed and evaluated by the Student-Alumnae Committee, Fodor elaborated.

Just as the Valedictorian and Lumen Christi Awards are concerned with the "mind" and "soul" of Saint Mary's, the Outstanding Senior Award will deal with the "heart" of the College, she said.

shall.

In a separate dissenting opinion, Blackmun said, "I am at a loss to understand the motivation of five members of this court to reconsider an interpretation of a civil rights statute that so clearly reflects our society's earnest commitment to ending racial discrimination and in which Congress so evidently has acquiesced."

The court's majority said the dissenters were making it sound like the court was overturning the 1976 decision. "We have, of course, done no such thing," the unsigned order issued by the majority said. "It is surely no affront to settled law, as we said in 1976, that the law has been more recently interpreted the same way by the same court as in 1976."

The North Carolina case, argued last Feb. 29, now will be held over until the court's next term beginning in October. A ruling is likely in 1989.

Voting to rehear the case were Chief Justice William Rehnquist and Justice Byron White, Sandra Day O'Connor, Antonin Scalia and Anthony Kennedy.

O'Connor, Scalia and Kenedy were appointed by President Reagan, a critic of some high-court rulings he considers too liberal.

Brenda Patterson, a black woman, wants to use a post-
Civil War law to force her employer, McLean Credit Union, to pay actual and punitive damages for alleged harassment. Lower federal courts said the law, the Civil Rights Act of 1866, is designed only to ban racial discrimination in hiring and promotion—not racial harassment.

Ms. Patterson still could charge racial harassment un der a 1964 civil rights law. But the more recent law provides that those who win their case in court may collect back pay not potentially big awards as compensation for emotional and mental suffering. Civil rights groups say the more limited 1964 law may not be a sufficient deterrent to harassment.

Dukakis vs. Bush: We all lose

By RICH COGGIANESE

Business Writer

As it appears now, the 1988 presidential election will pit two different economic philosophies against each other: Republican candidate George Bush has the economic philosophy of Ronald Reagan administration. Democrat Michael Dukakis, however, is a Keynesian economist. This will make for some interesting scenarios in the business world. November could very well put the tonerum in the economy over the next four years.

The first, "Massachusetts Miracle" is a fraud. The revival in the Massachusetts economy is due to tax cuts and increased military expenditures. Gov. Dukakis, however, has claimed credit for and promoted this "economic miracle" in Massachusetts.

Massachusetts is just one of the states in the Northeast experiencing great economic expansion. All of New England is experiencing rapid increase in the gross national product. Without the increase in the gross national product, related businesses there, however, the expansion would not have been an economic boom.

Dukakis also has another flaw. He relies far too much on increased taxes. Many people would not look to refer to it as "Taxachusetts." Taxes got so high a person could not afford to buy what he needed to lower tax rates. Gov. Dukakis initially opposed this.

High tax rates on a national level would destroy the economic gains made over the last six years. Instead, Bush would destroy both industry and the consumer who will have to cover over more of the federal government.

As Dick Addis would say, "The weather word for today is stormy." It is obvious that the market has been bouncing around with no real sense of direction. It is because of the investor uncertainty over who the next president will be.

The year in review: a look at 1987-88

By MICHAEL J. FAEHNER

Business Editor

As graduation rapidly approaches, seniors look back on the past four years, the best years of their life. Just like another person, we begin to reflect on the past four years. The school year had its ups and downs in the business world.

After that, "Businessmanics" requires more examination as well. With everything else, it seems like Bush is a believer in supply side because Reagan controls the supply side. A liberal realist who understands it will be politically necessary to run in Ronald Reagan's shadow. During the 1980 Republican primaries, George Bush termed the economic system he has since come to love, "Voodoo Economics." However, as with many other things, Grossman said, "If Reagan were a true disciple, Wall Street will have the same uncertainty about George Bush. A Bush victory will bring a surge to the market but that could quickly become history. The issues, including trade, immigration, the dollar all may spell problems for both Bush and the economy as a whole.

Assuming a Bush victory in November, the market surge will probably last only a couple of weeks (a man whose head is in the shadow of another does not get a long honeymoon). He will have to come out with a real, real economic plan and strengthen the dollar if Wall Street will be happy to see President Bush.

If Dukakis is victorious in November, look for a steady rise in the market. The Wall streets on Wall Street do not look kindly on his tax and spend policies. As wholesale prices climb up next year, a Dukakis victory would probably spell the end for the boom in the market. Investors, then, are really looking at the lesser of two evils for the presidency. Both men raise suspicion about George Bush. A Bush victory would probably cause a little less worry.

Southern Co. led the active list, up in a blizzard of block sales. The market touched a market high from the company's impending quarterly dividends. Volume in the stock surpassed 10 million shares. Nationwide turnover in the stock was high, as the stock traded in those stocks on regional exchanges and in the Midwest market. Shares, 109,037 million shares.

NEW YORK -- Stock prices moved higher ahead in quiet trading Monday as the Dow Jones NYSE industrial index reached new all-time highs for the fourth time this year and Friday in the index, of leading economic indicators for March. Mobil rose to 47 and Exxon was up to 144. Both companies reported first-quarter earnings. But bushing issues were broadly higher as the industry posted a slight gain in mid-April domestic car sales. General Motors rose to 74; Ford Motor to 47, and Chrysler to 23.

Other gainers among the block leaders included General Electric, up to 41; Coca-Cola, up 2 to 39; Procter & Gamble, up 1 to 78; and DuPont, up 1 to 84.

Dear Editor:

In his "Palestine: The Facts and the Myths," (The Observer, April 20) Billy Lerman ventured into one of the most difficult issues in an attempt to justify the current draconian policies Israel is carrying out against Palestinians in the occupied territories. Lerman is an expert in his field. He has written extensively about the situation in the Middle East, including his book, "The Israel-Palestine Conflict," which was published in 1993. He has also been a consultant to various organizations that were carrying out massacres of civilians in 1948. Yes, the Palestinians fled because of the merciless war in 1948. Jewish armed men numbered 360,000; the Palestinian national defense was a poorly armed 2,200 men. People fled for their lives and left behind their possessions. The implication that they were fleeing is incorrect.

Office of Alcohol needs surveys

Dear Editor:

Last week a survey was sent out to a randomly selected cross-section of students to assess levels of alcohol and drug use at Notre Dame. It is essential to the Office of Alcohol and Drug Education to have a large response rate to this survey, and I'm asking students who have received these surveys to take a few minutes, fill them out and mail them back. I'm aware of the quantity of work at this time of year, and also of the number of other surveys that have been sent out, but the information you give us is invaluable.

Again, this is a confidential survey that will never be used to identify any individual or be used for purposes other than research and education. You have the protection of University policy, professional and personal ethics, and federal law to assure this. Thank you for your help.

David Danison, Director, Office of Alcohol and Drug Education

Movie reinforces Christ's message

Dear Editor:

The Viewpoint letter from William A. Murray printed in the April 11 issue of The Observer about Monty Python's "Life of Brian" misrepresents the points of the movie.

Murray states that "the 'movie presents Christ's life, crucifixion and resurrection as butts of jokes.' But the movie is about the life and crucifixion of Vital, not of Christ (who plays only an incidental part in the movie). This distinction is not mere casuistry: "Life of Brian" does not satirize the life of Christ himself, but rather the lives of Christ's contemporaries--in particular, those Jews who were searching desperately for a leader to liberate them from Roman oppression.

The Jewish masses were ready to follow anyone who appeared powerful enough to be a likely candidate for the prophetic Son of Man. Jesus himself criticized them for this when he expected him to be a political rather than a spiritual Messiah, and when they found that his kingdom was of Heaven and not of earth, they deserted him. Similarly, when Brian proved not to be what his followers had expected, they deserted him.

I would be willing to bet that most of the students who read Murray's view of the film are unaware of the historical background and the biblical evidence underpinning the film. The film does not satirize Christ, but rather those who sought to be his political replacement while he lived in the flesh. The film is a detailed retelling of the life of Jesus, from his birth to his death, and his resurrection as butts of jokes.

Notre Dame Folk Choir broadens its horizons

COLLEEN CRONIN

Those students who have been able to drag themselves out of bed before noon on a Sunday morning and attend mass at Sacred Heart Church have heard the Notre Dame Folk Choir perform. Most people probably didn’t realize who they were listening to, but the Choir is gradually becoming more well known.

Under the direction of Steve Werner who works with Campus Ministry and student co-directors Rob Lofaro and Elizabeth Crummy, the Folk Choir consists of sixteen singers, most of whom are undergraduates. Add to that six Instrumentalists, whose talents are not limited to the trumpet or the cello, and you will get a different sound.

Mr. Werner writes a majority of the choir’s music, but it also performs many of the same traditional songs that are sung at weekly masses. The Choir makes the songs unique through their own combination of singing and music. “There is more harmonization and more creativity,” according to Lofaro, “which gives a fuller sound.”

The folk choir has been in existence for nearly a decade, but it is not yet widely known. To remedy this, some changes have been made. In particular, the Choir has “become more involved in other liturgies on campus.”

In addition to Sunday mass at Sacred Heart, it has performed at the Freshman Orientation mass at the beginning of the year and at the dedication masses for the Rolf Aquatic Center and the Lotus Sports Complex. “The Administration is beginning to recognize us and let us do more things,” commented Lofaro.

Another project “to increase awareness and let more people know about us” is a trip to Ireland. The Choir hopes to make touring a regular event.

Picnic celebrates spring in style

MAGGIE MACDONALD

This is the season when the sunshine and the green grass lure us all outdoors for picnics, baseball and ultimate frisbee... when young minds turn to thoughts of love...and finals. This Tuesday evening the St. Mary’s ward of the Holy Cross will cast aside thoughts of papers and exams. They will focus their attention on per­haps not on love, but on everything their drum picnic in the company of Notre Dame men.

Each section of Holy Cross has selected a section from various ND dorms for this mixer which is sponsored by Holy Cross RA staff and Hall Council. According to Jill Tomko, Holy Cross resident, this mixer was done last year among RA’s from Holy Cross and other dorms.

This year the event will take place on a grander scale. “We decided to go all out this year,” said Tomko. And indeed they have. In addition to a barbecue, the Holy Cross picnic will feature games ranging from volley­ball and “Twister” to “Duck, Duck, Goose”.

There will certainly be hiking and shouting going on in places other than on the Twister dots. Mistaken identity will entertain at the event with a wide mix of songs.

According to bass and guitar player Mike Senkovich, “We do basically...pop...not too little fun songs.” Vocalist Lisa Deversacs, drummer Dave Vreeeland, keyboardist Tray Brown and bass/guitarist Mike Ury will perform such party delights as “Johnny Be Good” or “La Lamba.” A number of Beatles’ tunes and a few originals by Ury.

According to Senkovich, the band will play some pieces like they’ve never been played before. He said, “We’re going to have fun with the songs and we hope that everyone will have fun also. With the music of M竺aken I登ity, and the efforts of the Holy Cross RA staff headed by Patty Quinn, the picnic will be a good opportunity–before the chaos of finals–to enjoy the spring season with friends.

In addition to a barbecue, the Holy Cross picnic will feature games ranging from volley-

Quarterbacks finally taken on NFL draft's second day

Associated Press

NEW YORK - Don McPherson, the Heisman Trophy runner-up, set off a run on quarterbacks on the second day of the NFL draft Monday after the position was virtually ignored the first day.

McPherson, who led Syracuse to an 11-0-1 season, was taken with the 12th pick of the sixth round by the Philadelphia Eagles - the 148th player taken but only the second true quarterback taken during the draft.

The first, Chris Chandler of Washington, was chosen on the third round Sunday by Indianapolis, the 76th pick overall. Earlier, Phoenix had taken Tom Tupa of Ohio State with the 68th pick, but Tupa is regarded primarily as a punter.

Before this year, the latest a quarterback had been chosen was in 1974, when Dallas took Danny White with the 53rd pick.

Altogether, 11 quarterbacks were taken on the second day.

The draft wound up at 5 p.m. EDT after a total of 16 hours, 40 minutes over two days, the fourth longest graduation of the NFL in history.

The fastest was 16:19 in 1981. Last year's was 18 hours even.

McPherson, a 6-foot, 182-pounder with 4.4 speed in the 40-yard dash, might have been taken several rounds higher had he opted to play wide receiver or defensive back.

But he insisted on staying at quarterback despite the contention by some scouts that he was too small and didn't have an arm strong enough for an NFL quarterback.

He would be more likely to fit into the Philadelphia style than that of other teams. The Eagles' starter, Randall Cunningham, is a scrambler. McPherson plays the same way, although he is four inches shorter, 25 pounds lighter and lacks Cunningham's arm strength.

"I'm not disappointed one bit. I knew going into the draft that I wouldn't go in the first couple of rounds because I wanted to go as a quarterback," said McPherson, who said Eagles Coach Buddy Ryan "made it clear to me that he likes me as a quarterback and only that.

"To have the opportunity to play quarterback is what I'm after." 1988

The victory was worth $100,000 apiece for Norman and Woosnam and they also split a $30,000 bonus for winning the final hole.

Nicklaus and Trevino each received $25,000 in the best-ball, stroke-play tournament in which the final nine holes were televised live on cable for a cost of $12.95 per household.

The "Internationals" beat "U.S." team in sudden death

STAN HUMPHRIES of Northeast Louisiana State University was one of the quarterbacks taken on the second day of the National Football League Draft.

Humphries, a quarterback from Northeast Louisiana, was taken with the 12th pick of the sixth round by the Philadelphia Eagles - the 149th player taken during the draft.

Cunningham and McPherson would also give the Eagles two black quarterbacks, the second time in NFL history that has happened. In 1984, Houston had Warren Moon and Brian Ransom on their active roster.

Two picks after McPherson, Dallas took another quarterback, Scott Secules of Virginia. And later in the sixth round, Monday's picks proved that teams are still looking for players to throw to the receivers drafted at the top of the draft.

Two more quarterbacks went during the seventh round - Mike Perez of San Jose State to the New York Giants and Kerwin Bell of Florida to Miami. Both had been rated much higher before subpar senior seasons, particularly Perez, who is considered a tough-guy kind of leader and once had a roughing-the-rusher penalty called on him.

'Internationals' beat 'U.S.' team in sudden death

Associated Press

SCOTTSDALE, Ariz. - Greg Norman sank an 18-foot birdie putt on the first hole of sudden death to give himself and partner Lee Trevino a stroke victory over Jack Nicklaus and Scotty Logan of the "U.S." team in the best-ball format.

"I knew we had a chance," Nicklaus said. "It was a lot of fun until we bogeyed 17. That killed us. It got them even and it was the first time we hadn't been up on them all day.

The "U.S." team of Trevino and Nicklaus had fired a 4-under 32 on the front nine to take a two-shot lead at the turn with four birdies and five pars.

Their only bogey of the round came on the 17th as Norman and Woosnam parred the hole to tie at 7 under. Both teams birdied the 18th to force the playoff.

"The bogy gave them a chance," Nicklaus said. "It was a lot of fun until we bogeyed 17. That killed us. It got them even and it was the first time we hadn't been up on them all day.

The scene then shifted to the par-3, 186-yard 18th hole on the adjacent but only partly-completed Geronimo course. Under the playoff format, the first birdie won. If nobody birdied, the playoff would be lost. Norman used an 8-iron to get 18 feet from the pin while Nicklaus was 20 feet away and both Norman and Trevino 35 feet shy of the hole.

In the best-ball format Woosnam moved his ball to Norman's mark but missed his putt for birdie. Norman calmly made his for the win before a gallery of 5,000 - many of whom paid $500 to watch the inaugural match.

Nothing close about weekend lacrosse action
Olmstead hits century scoring milestone

"Blowout" was the name of the game for the Notre Dame lacrosse team last weekend. The Irish routed Wittenberg 18-4, then found themselves on the other side of the fence by falling 17-1 to Ohio Wesleyan.

Notre Dame’s record now stands at 10-3. The victory over Wittenberg, serving as more than a game for the reserves, gives the lacrosse program their first ten-win season.

Junior attackman John Olmstead repeated his team-record of nine points in a game by scoring two goals and seven assists against Wittenberg Thursday. Senior tri-captain Wittenberg, serving as more than a game for the reserves, gives the lacrosse program their first ten-win season.

Senior tri-captain Pete Gillin scored his first goal of the year while freshman Mark Brady netted his second goal of the year and freshman Chris Rowley added an assist.

Olmstead’s nine points against the Tigers gives him 101 for his career (86 goals and 43 assists). He joins an elite group of five players to have scored over 100 points and still has a year to go. The others: Joe Franklin ’86 (145), Bob Troechi ’85 (143), Steve Pear­ sall ’84 (125) and Tom Grote ’86 (122).

The Irish close out their season at home this week with games against Michigan State and Ohio State. They play the Spartans at 3:30 on Wednesday and then take on the Buckeyes on Saturday at 1:30. Wins against those two opponents would give the Irish the Great Lakes Lacrosse Association title, which they won in ’85 and ’86. Michigan State won the conference last year on their way to the NCAA Western bid, although Air Force all but has this year’s NCAA reserved Western berth locked up.

The victory over Ohio Wesleyan as the Irish were out­matched in nearly every phase of Saturday’s game. Senior goalie Matt McQuillan came up with a season-high 18 saves as only five of Wesleyan’s 40 shots did not reach the goal.

The Battling Bishops, who fell 17-1 to the Irish, were outscored 15-2 in the second half and couldn’t control the ball or keep it away from their offense," Olmstead said. "We went in knowing we didn’t have much of a chance to win and that might have affected us. It should have been a much closer game.

The Wittenburg game gave several of the Irish reserves and freshmen the chance to bask in the scoring limelight. Sophomore Vinnie Vitale and freshman Pete Gillin scored their first goals of the year while freshman Mark Brady netted his second goal of the year and freshman Chris Rowley added an assist.

The Montreal Canadiens know why the Boston Bruins seem to have a lock on their NHL playoff series. The Bruins just haven't been able to find the key.

"We have to find a way to beat Reggie Lemelin," Montreal coach Jean Perron said of the Bruins goaltender. "He has played very good, and the entire Boston team has been playing with discipline and waiting for their chances."

Lemelin stopped 22 shots Sunday night as the Bruins took a 2-1 lead in their best-of-seven Adams Division championship series with a 2-0 victory. The playoff shutout was the second in Lemelin's 10-year career, the first for the Bruins in postseason over Montreal since 1978, and now Boston is poised to do something it hasn't done for even longer. The Bruins have not beaten the Canadiens in a playoff series since 1943.

"We're confident this is our year," Lemelin said. "We're going to do it. . . . We're creating a new era."

The Adams Division series resumes Tuesday night at Montreal. In Sunday's other game, Washington beat New Jersey 4-1 to tie the Patrick Division series 2-2. That playoff resumes Tuesday night at Landover, Md.

Lemelin replaced Andy Moog in goal after Montreal won the first game of the series.

MINNEAPOLIS - The Baltimore Orioles, who have lost their first 18 games, shuffled their roster Monday by calling up three players from Class AAA Rochester and sending outfielder Jim Traber and pitcher Oswaldo Peraza to the minors.

Pitcher Bill Scherrer, third baseman Craig Worthington and outfielder Keith Hughes will officially join the Orioles Tuesday in time for a night game against Minnesota.

A roster spot still must be cleared and Orioles general manager Rollie Hensond said another move would be made Tuesday. He said a trade was possible, and there has been speculation pitcher Scott McGregor, 0-3 with an 8.56 ERA, might be released.

Hensond said he had not talked in the past week with the New York Mets about center fielder Mookie Wilson, who has asked to be traded.

The Orioles are the poorest-hitting team in the majors at .181 and their 6.01 ERA is second-worst to Minnesota's 6.36.

"We're in a situation where we're trying to find solutions," Hensond said.

Schererr, formerly with Cincinnati and Detroit, has four saves in tied games, including three in the last four.

Worthington is batting only .234 but has hit four home runs, including three in the last four games. Hughes is batting .306.

S M C track takes 8th at District

By KRISTINE GREGORY
Sports Writer

The Saint Mary’s varsity track team placed eighth at district Saturday at Huntington College in Indiana.

The District meet is a large invitation to competition in which the top qualifying runners advance to the national meet. The Pacers achieved this privilege, but many placed in the top six on Saturday.

Senior Cathy Kennedy placed eighth in the 1500 meter run with a time of 5:22.7. She also finished a respectable sixth in the 800 meter run.

Teammate Jacque Benchik placed sixth in 900 meter run. The 1600 relay team of Kelly Streit, Maggie Dadsy, Cathy Kennedy and Mary Cassady took an impressive third with a time of 4:32.9, which was just short of the required standard time.

The Irish certainly have the potential to turn themselves into a solid team.

“Being competitive looks very bright for the future,” said O’Sullivan. “Youth will develop into maturity, and hopefully that will turn into the staying power we need to do well for an entire tournament.”

Notre Dame will close out the regular season this weekend when they travel the same five Gold Team members to the Midwestern Invitational in Lake Geneva, Illinois. Once again the Irish will go up against fifteen of the top schools from the Midwest.

Golfers start fast but fade away on last day

By CHRIS FILLIO
Sports Writer

Last Saturday after the links had cleared, the Notre Dame golf team had settled comfortably into the fifth place spot among fifteen of the top schools in the Midwest.

Unfortunately for coach Noel O’Sullivan’s Irish linksters, the competition had other plans for the Irish at the Spartan Invitational at East Lansing, Mich.

“We can be very competitive for two-thirds of any tournament, I have to feel good,” said O’Sullivan, “and the team feels good as well.”

But several top contenders saved their best rounds for last and pulled away from Notre Dame and the rest of the pack.

This year there will be no excuse.”

The Irish put up some good numbers for the Spartan Invitational and posted a 78 stroke average for the tournament.

But once again the Irish were dogged by bad weather.

Winning the tournament was Bobby Kloska of Illinois with a 212, which will send representatives to the Penn Relays, as already mentioned. The rest will attend the Ball State Invitational at Ball State.

Coach Piane stated that the emphasis this weekend will be on individual performances, rather than team scores.

Lakers defend title

Associated Press

INGLEWOOD, Calif. - Last January 24, Los Angeles Lakers won the NBA Championship.

Coach Pat Riley persevered through the seasons, and the club would repeat as titans this season, becoming the first team in history to win three straight titles in eight years to match such a feat.

Now, it’s put up or shut up time, and Riley has some fresh ammunition to fire up his troops as they begin their quest for a second straight title.

A round-table discussion was aired on CBS Sunday afternoon, in which none of the network’s so-called expert commentators picked the Lakers to win the title, despite their NBA-best 42-20 regular-season record.

“That’s OK,” Riley said, referring to the opinions of Tom Heinsohn, Billy Cunningham and Billy Packer, all of whom talked the Boston Celtics to win the title, and Hubie Brown, who selected Detroit. "People are basing their opinions on his story."

“We don’t have anything to lose this year. Nothing. The only thing we have to lose is to lose a great opportunity. It’s a great opportunity, one that took us a long time to get."

The Lakers officially open defense of their title Friday night when they entertain the San Antonio Spurs in the opening game of a best-of-five series. Game Two will be Sunday night, with the series then moving to San Antonio for a third game on May 3 and a fourth game, if necessary, on May 5.

What if the Lakers don’t win the title?

“There are no consequences,” Riley said. "None. They won’t lose their respect, their identities, their money, their rings, their pride; if they don’t get the job done."

Several of the best golf teams in the Midwest will be featured in our annual midwestern Invitational below.

*Leading the team was junior Doug Giorgio with 76-78-76 for 230. Close behind Giorgio was senior Pat Molan who had the low round for the Irish at 73 and combined it with 77-79 to finish at 231. Senior captain Dick Connolly had a rough start but helped out with two more sub-eights rounds at 84-76-79 for a 236. Freshman Paul Noll started well at 78 but had 80-85 to end up at 243. Fifth man for the Irish was Bobby Kloska who was impressive in his first outing as a member of the Gold Team, with a 82-81-80 for 244. All the top finishers managed to outdistance the Irish with the help of superb final rounds. Illinois took the honors at 891, powered by the one-two punch of its top two golfers, who were co-medallists at 217. The Iowa Hawkeyes were a distant second at 905, while Wright State came in third at 912. The Irish total for the three rounds was 907. The future looks quite good for O’Sullivan. He feels that the Irish certainly have the potential to turn themselves into a solid team.

Irish defenders go in draft
Figaro to Chargers, Wells to Bengals

By MARTY STRASEN
Sports Editor

A pair of Notre Dame defensive players were selected on the final day of the two-day NFL draft in New York on Monday.

The San Diego Chargers selected inside linebacker Cedric Figaro in the sixth round, 152nd overall, and the Cincinnati Bengals took defensive back Brandy Wells in the ninth round, 226th overall.

Those selections brought Notre Dame's representation in the draft to five players. Heisman Trophy winning receiver Tim Brown was the sixth overall pick by the Los Angeles Raiders on Sunday. Offensive linemen Tom Rehder and Chuck Lanza were chosen back-to-back in the third round. Rehder went to New England and Lanza was taken next by Pittsburgh.

Rounds six through 12 were completed Monday.

Figaro will move from outside linebacker to inside linebacker when rookie camp starts later this spring. Charger linebackers coach Mike Haakechek said, "Although he played outside linebacker for Notre Dame, he possesses good size and speed and we feel he can make the transition to the inside linebacker position." Haakechek said of the 6’2, 246-pound Figaro, "From what we have seen, he's a tough, physical, aggressive style of football and has the attitude necessary to fill that position."

Brandy Wells

Figaro said he expected to go earlier in the draft, adding that an ankle injury suffered this past season might have made some doubts about his ability to play in the NFL. "I understand there were a lot of questions about my ankle and everything," said Figaro, who sprained the ankle against Alabama and did not start the next week at Penn State. "But my ankle's fine now. I say it's about 80 percent, but I'm ready to play."

Wells was impressed with his team's performance. "For instance, I knew, before we even got there, how fast the runway was for long jumpers."

Smith, who has also done the triple jump and run the 200 for the Irish, is looking forward to the Penn Relays this weekend. The meet, held at the University of Pennsylvania, may feature long jumper Carl Lewis as he prepares for the Summer Olympics. "To be in the same field as Carl Lewis would be an honor in itself. I hope to do well."

There were two individual winners for the Irish at Indiana. Senior Tom Mick took first in the hammer throw, with a distance of 190’4”. Fellow senior Brian Driscoll won the javelin, with a throw of 199’.

Another standout for the Irish was senior Rick Mulvey, who took second in the 3000-meter steeplechase with a time of 9:13.55. Mulvey had to over-come a bit of bad luck, as he clambered into a barrier during the race.

Irish track 5th at Intercollegiates

By BILL STEGMIEER Sports Writer

The Notre Dame varsity track and field team placed fifth in the Indiana Intercollegiates this past weekend. Indiana State took first place and the host Hoosiers of Indiana came in second.

The Irish finished third and Ball State did not qualify for the meet.

"I understand there were a lot of questions about my ankle and everything," said Figaro, who sprained the ankle against Alabama and did not start the next week at Penn State. "But my ankle's fine now. I say it's about 80 percent, but I'm ready to play."

"They told me they were interested in me as an inside linebacker," he said. "I have no problems with that. At this point I just want to play football. It's a relief that this is all over with."

Wells will be reunited with former Irish assistant coach and current Bengals assistant coach Mike Stock in Cincinnati. "He (Wells) has got good speed and provides fine coverage," Stock said. "He's also an outstanding special teams player. He's a hard, aggres-sive hitter and we feel he has a very good chance of making the team."

Wells often was called the hardest hitter on the Notre Dame squad at both safety and corner-back. But he was kept out of four games with a knee injury his junior year and missed another two starts this past season.

Irish play Big 10 at Jake Kline Field

By STEVE MEGARGEE Assistant Sports Editor

Having won five of its last six games at Jake Kline Field, the Notre Dame baseball team will try to continue its home field fortunes this week in two contests with intra-state rivals.

The Irish face Purdue this afternoon at 2:30 p.m. before entertaining Indiana at 3 p.m. on Wednesday. "I don't think it makes a difference to these guys where they play," said first-year Irish coach Pat Murphy. "I like to play at Jake Kline Field. It's my favorite field, but it doesn't matter to these guys."

The Irish, which currently holds a 25-20 record, will have to chances to put a halt to a 20-game losing streak against Big 10 opposition. "It's tough to play Big Ten teams in the middle of the week because they have more depth," said Murphy. "I'm kind of tired of hearing about how many consecutive games we've lost to Big Ten teams because it's not indicative of our program." Don't be surprised if we knocked one of these teams off."

Purdue, a participant in last year's NCAA Tournament, defeated Notre Dame 11-7 on April 13 at West Lafayette. In that game, the Boilermakers rattled Irish pitching for nine runs in the first two innings. Notre Dame rallied with five runs in the ninth, and the game ended with the tying run at the plate. That victory by the Boilers snapped a six-game Irish winning streak.

The Boilers have had winning seasons for the last four seasons under 11th-year coach Dave Alexander. Purdue has compiled respective records of 27-27 and 36-34 over the last two seasons, both of which have produced second-place finishes in the Big 10 for Purdue.

Notre Dame linebacker Cedric Figaro was drafted in the sixth round of the 1988 NFL Draft. Figaro was the 152nd pick overall. Marty Strassen has the details at left.
