24-hour lounge to open Sept. 6

By MARK MCLAUGHLIN
News Editor

Students won't have long to wait for new social space on campus -- plans call for a 24-hour lounge in the Oak Room lounge plans, said Doyle. "We thought it might be better because there would have been no food available, and no access to vending machines," Doyle said. "It's something the students wanted, that's what we'll cover the cost of any damages to the Oak Room," Paese added. Doyle and Paese originally planned to have 24-hour space opened in the Lafortune Student Center. "Lafortune didn't work out," said Paese. "We can't think of anything better, it would have been difficult to keep one area open without affecting the whole building." "Student Activities said the cost of securing the building would be about $10,000," said Paese. "Because of that, and because there would have been no food available, and no access to vending machines, we thought it might be better to talk to University Food Services." It was Hickey's idea to use the Oak Room as 24-hour space, added Paese. "Our task now is to let students know that this is around . . . that everyone knows the service is there," said Paese.

Security names former Police Chief Hurley to investigative post

By MARK MCLAUGHLIN
News Editor

Former South Bend Chief of Police Charles Hurley was named assistant director for police and security services earlier this summer. His new job will include overseeing the investigative and patrol functions of Notre Dame Security, said Hurley. "We really attract the type of people, who will renew the country."

Hurley will also oversee the enforcement of campus speed limits. Security is empowered to issue citations "on any road away adjacent to campus" or on University property, Hurley said. "The job's going well," he said. "I've been around the University all my life, and the (South Bend) police department was involved in some of the comments." see HURLEY, page 3

Police repress striking port workers, others join protest

Associated Press

GDANSK, Poland-- Police converged on strikebound coal mines and a port, activists said Thursday, after more workers joined stoppages and Solidarity denounced official repression of the protests. The government and workers are struggling for the initiative in the biggest labor upheaval since Gen. Wojciech Jaruzelski imposed martial law in December 1981 to crush and then outlaw Solidarity, the first independent labor union in the Soviet bloc. Strikers demand higher pay, better working conditions and that Solidarity be made legal again.

"We condemn and strongly protest these acts," Tadeusz Mazowiecki, a senior Solidarity adviser, said Wednesday of police strike-breaking actions.

Government spokesman Jery Urban was asked by telephone whether the government was getting the upper hand and replied: "There is more and more news about strikes ended, but on the other hand there are new centers of workers' conflicts still appearing." Solidarity founder Lech Walesa declared to young students mill about outside of South Dining Hall in eager anticipation of the soon-to-be-open 24-hour lounge. AP Photo
IN BRIEF

Over the summer... the Board of Trustees added two new members: John Burgee, architec-t and member of the Advisory Council for the College of Engineering; and federal judge Ann Williams, seated on the U.S. District Court, Northern District of Illinois. The Board also established a Standing Committee on Social Values and Responsibilities "entrusted with reviewing those matters of University policy, priority, and programming not normally covered by other committees of the Board." -The Observer

Also over the summer... Father Edward Malloy was named a full professor of theology, one of several faculty members promoted at the annual President's Dinner. Malloy was previously an associate professor. Congratulations, Monk. -The Observer

The Great American Rubber Duck Race, sponsored by Gleaners Food Bank of Indiana, is a statewide event next April we should be able to raise $100,000 for the food bank and give 4,000 contestants a quack at victory. -The Observer

Jack Nicholson was named best actor for "Witches of Eastwick," and Jessica Tandy won best actress for "Bat-taries Not Included!" at Tuesday night's 10th annual Saturn Awards presentation. The best supporting actor honor went to Steve Guttenberg for "The Running Man," and the late Ann Ramsey was cited as best supporting actress for "Throw Momma From the Train." "Robocop," last sum-mer's box-office hit starring Peter Weller and Nancy Al-ien, won five Saturns, including best science fiction film. -Associated Press

"If Americans cannot reclaim their communities from drugs, 'then we're a bunch of quacks,'" New York Yankees outfielder Dave Winfield said Wednesday at a fund raising meeting of his anti drug foundation. Winfield said the job required concerted effort in research, educa-tion, law enforcement and rehabilitation. Young people need positive alternatives and "just saying no is not enough," said Winfield. "Complex problems require com-plex solutions." -Associated Press

The Class of '92 is gathering in college classrooms across the state this fall. Doorns opened Monday at Purdue and Vincennes universities and at Indiana University-Purdue University at Indianapolis. Classes begin this coming Monday at Southern Indiana, Ball State, Indiana State and Indiana universities. Officials at the universities re-port the freshman class at Purdue should total about 7,000, about 2,000 freshmen at Vincennes and about 5,800 at IU in Bloomington. Ruth Vedvik, director of admissions at Ball State, says about 3,850 freshmen will arrive this fall. "We had to close freshman applications last April 1, trying to hold the number to about 3,850 in a student body of nearly 18,000," she said. -Associated Press

We want to know!

If you see or hear of anything you consider newsworthy, let us know. Call The Observer news desk at 239-5300 anytime, day or night.

Questions?

The Observer (USPS 599 3-4000) is published Monday through Friday except during mid and vacation periods. The Observer is published by the students of the University of Notre Dame and Saint Mary's College. Subscriptions may be purchased for $17.50 per year. (Only for newsubscribers) by writing The Observer, P.O. Box C, Notre Dame, Indiana 46556.
The Observer is a member of The Associated Press. All reproduction rights are reserved.

In Brief:

Observers take note: MTV is the one to watch

Kendra Morrill
Assistant News Editor

I want my MTV.

I watched it every day for three months this summer. Now I am going through withdrawal. I've tried putting on my Walkman and watching television, but it just isn't the same.

I don't know exactly what happened this sum-mer, but I feel as though I've regressed about six years, to the age and mentality of the high school sophomore I was when MTV first went on the air and I was completely mesmerized for months by it.

To wake up for work each day this summer, I made a cup of coffee and sat in front of the TV for an hour until I was ready to face the day.

During my lunch break, I just about made it home in time to watch "Remote Control," the MTV game show for college intellectuals who were once (are still!!) couch potatoes.

When my sense of humor was feeling warped, I flipped the channels to MTV to catch an episode of "Monty Python's Flying Circus." I gave up watching the regular station news because the news is always so depressing. But, luckily, MTV has something called Music News, so at least I could keep updated on the world of music, if not the world of reality.

And of course, when I was in the mood for totally mindless and inconsequential mush, I just tuned in to MTV to watch the last 10 or 11 videos that are played continuously every day. I want my MTV.

I may be the only non-junior high school per-son who is so addicted to MTV, but I can't un-derstand why. MTV has something for everyone, programming to appeal to almost every taste.

For the masses of people who appear to like Top 40, MTV is a pop heaven. Once on the "cut-ting edge," the music scene, MTV is now a televised version of the American Top 40. It even has a Top 20 Video Countdown.

For anyone into strange but hilarious British humor, "Monty Python's Flying Circus" is on every night at 7:30 Eastern time (right after "Remote Control"...what a double feature!)

And just like ABC News Briefs, MTV's Music News has flashes throughout the day, as well as a half-hour newscast on Saturdays, to keep viewers informed about what's going on in music. The journalism isn't quite as hard-hitting as that of the three major networks, but the news is definitely more upbeat.

Perhaps the best thing about MTV is that if you leave the television for any period of time, within an hour the videos will be repeated so you won't miss anything substantial.

I know the same videos are played over and over again, but it's so exciting to wait for that one video that hasn't been played in a few years, since Martha Quinn and Alka Hurler left. For the video that has just been released and hasn't been overplayed yet.

OK. So MTV is completely mindless. But there are some times when there is no need to think and mindlessness feels pretty good.

I want my MTV.

Question: How do you reach over 12,000 people daily?

Answer: Buy Observer ad space. Call 239-6900.
Aug 25 Thurs  Hot Tub Get-Together at Senior Alumni Club 7-8:30 PM

Aug 26 Fri  Elk's Lodge Gathering
Tunes, Friends, Refreshments
8PM-1AM  Buy tix at Senior Class Office Wed, Thurs, & Fri,
Limited Tickets. Buses leave main circle at 8PM and will run every 1/2 hour. (directions can be picked up in the office.)

Aug 27 Sat  Meet at New Buffalo Beach (not the Dunes)- see signs for directions

Aug 28 Sun  Mass at Grotto w/ Fr. Levie 7 PM
-bring blankets (rain location Knott Hall)

Magritte Renoir Monet Gauguin M.C. Escher

TOMORROW IS THE LAST DAY

of the
ART & LASER PHOTO SALE

* Full Color Reproduction of the Works of over 100 Master Artists
* Fantastic Low Prices: Most Large Prints are 3 for only $12!
* Wide Variety of photographs....beautiful landscapes to high tech., ETC.
* This is Your Last Opportunity to DECORATE INEXPENSIVELY!

Impressionism To Surrealism....
And Everything In Between!

*Contemporary Posters
*Ansel Adams Photos
*M.C. Escher Prints
*Athena Air Brush

AND MORE!

WHEN: Today & Tomorrow 9AM-5PM
WHERE: Notre Dame Room (2nd floor)
LaFortune Student Center

Observer classifieds will be accepted from 9am-3pm M-F at the Observer offices, 314 LaFortune.

Freshmen urged to avoid alcohol

By REGIS COCCIA
News Editor

The problem of alcohol abuse came across loud and clear to about 1,100 freshmen during an Alcohol Awareness Program on Monday, said Emil Hofman, dean of Freshman Year of Studies.

Co-sponsored by Freshman Year and the Office of Student Affairs, the 55-minute program held in Washington Hall was shown three times to accommodate attending freshmen. "Most behavioral problems among college students are those that stem from alcohol abuse," said Hofman, the program's master of ceremonies.

"Our first attempt to address the problem was to talk to the freshmen," he said, adding that a similar, but less effective program was held last year.

"Unfortunately, many of the people who would have benefited did not show up," Hofman said. "Hopefully it deters people from getting involved (in abusing alcohol)."

Speakers included Student Body Vice President Mike Paese, senior Kristen Williams and Kevin Hurley, who was injured in a drunk-driving accident in 1985 and currently enrolled as a freshman.

Grace Hall Rector Father Gerald Lardner, Ann Firth, director of residence life, and Sally Coleman of the University Counseling Center, also spoke during the program.

In his speech, Paese challenged the freshmen to avoid abusing alcohol. "He was very good. Dr. Firth stated the exact alcohol policy. She really gave it to them straight," Hofman said.

Coleman told freshmen of services offered by the University Counseling Center for students with alcohol problems, Hofman said.

Hurley related his own struggle as a victim of drunk driving. "He pleaded with class not to abuse alcohol and not to drive drunk," Hofman said.

"It was a good program and I think the freshmen were impressed by it," he said. "Not many walked out (Monday) and those that did did so because they had particular appointments. I think the students were spellbound."

The Alcohol Awareness Program was planned as part of Freshman Orientation and will very likely be continued in the future, Hofman said. "The immediate thing is to get all of the freshmen to go," he said.

"I think the point was made by everybody that alcohol has a place in social life," said Hofman, "but we must consider what place that is."

"I think it will take a year to go through the cycle," he added. "Because the University is such an attractive place, every year there's something new going on.

Hurley also said he had contact with Notre Dame students in the past. "I worked in my early days in the northeast area of South Bend and I had contact with Notre Dame students then," said Hurley.

"Notre Dame really attracts good people, and I'm looking forward to all that that brings."

Think of your best friend.
Now, think of your best friend dead.

Don't drive drunk.

Happy 21st Birthday to Ted Woodward

Beware the eternal struggle. Hope no one shrouds or dispatches you this year.
Have a great senior year!

Love, Mom and Dad,
Andy, Ned and Anne
Quayle starts solo campaign, meets Bentsen

Associated Press

ST. LOUIS—Republican vice presidential nominee Dan Quayle, on his first solo national campaign trip, delivered an impassioned defense Wednesday of his National Guard service, saying "I'm not looking for any medals" but "I served loyally."

"Nearly 20 years ago, I had no reason to be ashamed of my service. And you know what, I'm sure as hell not ashamed of it now!" Quayle said in prepared remarks to a conference of present and former enlisted National Guardsmen.

Quayle said he "wasn't looking for favors" when he entered the Guard in 1969 and reiterated that "no rules were broken" and no effort had been made to "influence the process" of his admission during the height of the Vietnam War.

"I'm not looking for any medals. And I'm not asking for a pat on the back. But let me say this: I served, I served loyally, and I served to the best of my ability," Quayle said.

The Indiana senator began his first solo campaign swing seeking to shift attention from the controversy that has stalked his candidacy and focus instead on his message of peace, freedom and jobs.

Almost at the very start, he had a good-natured airport encounter with his Democratic counterpart, Sen. Lloyd Bentsen of Texas, who had just warned Southern state legislators not to "risk youthful indiscretion" in someone like Quayle who might someday ascend to the presidency.

Quayle's evening speech to the conference of National Guardsmen in St. Louis was evidently intended as the Senator's answers to his critics. He has tended to view questions about his military record as a slur on his patriotism.

In the speech, he criticized Democratic presidential nominee Michael Dukakis for an "anti-defense attitude."

"One of the worst false impressions Michael Dukakis has put forward is the idea that he stands for a strong national defense," Quayle said. "Maybe he sincerely believes that. But he stands for the opposite, and that position has been clouded over by the distractions of the last few days."

During the day, Quayle kept out of range of reporters and sought to concentrate on campaign issues and the prospective virtues of a George Bush presidency. An aide said Quayle wanted to focus on "things we want to talk about."

Quayle ignored reporters' shouted questions seeking a response to Bentsen's remarks. Bentsen had tried to exploit Quayle's earlier comment that his "youthful indiscretion" was to blame for his vote against elevating the Veterans Administration to a Cabinet-level department.
The Observer

The independent student newspaper serving Notre Dame and Saint Mary's is accepting applications for the following position:

Typists

For further information contact

Jim Winkler
at The Observer (239-5303)

---

New Achievers in Heavy Metal, Swing, Blues and Motown.

- MIT, Structural Engineering. Analyzing and designing bridges. Developed working model of a double spandrel arch bridge. The HP-28S helps him analyze structural stress and geometry. It's the only calculator that lets him do both symbolic algebra and calculus. It features powerful matrix math and graphics capabilities. And HP Solve lets him solve custom formulas without programming. With more than 1500 functions, 32K RAM and both RPN and algebraic entry, the HP-28S is the ultimate scientific calculator.

- University of Virginia, Finance. Studies fluctuating stock and money market trends. Assisted head trader in yen at Chicago Mercantile Exchange. The HP-12C with RPN let him analyze prices, ratios, net present value and internal rate of return. He can even create his own custom programs. The HP-12C is the established standard in financial calculators.

- UC Santa Cruz, Marine Biology. Studies behavior of blue whales and effect of environmental distribution on marine mammals. The new, easy-to-use HP-22S has a built-in equation library with solver. HP Solve lets her enter her own formulas and solve for any variable.

- University of Michigan, MBA candidate. Assisted on pricing projects for GM. The HP-17B offers easy algebraic entry. Plus time value of money, cash flows and linear regression to analyze budgets and forecasts.

---

Bush leads Dukakis in state poll

Associated Press

INDIANAPOLIS--Vice President George Bush surged ahead in Indiana following the Republican National Convention and his choice of Sen. Dan Quayle of Indiana as his running mate, according to The Indianapolis Star Poll released Wednesday.

Bush, the Republican presidential nominee, held a 17-percentage-point lead over Massachusetts Gov. Michael Dukakis in a poll of registered voters.

Also, four out of five voters polled said that questions about Quayle's military record will not affect how they vote in November.

The poll was conducted by the Gordon Black Corp. on Aug. 18-21 for The Indianapolis Star Poll and had a margin of error of plus or minus 3.5 percentage points.

Among other results (which include voters who intend to vote for a candidate as well as those who are leaning toward a candidate) are:

- Of the 905 voters polled statewide, 52 percent said they support Bush; Dukakis was leading by 33 percent.
- Bush leads Dukakis in every region of the state, holding his biggest margin, 61 percent to 28 percent, in the eight-county metropolitan Indianapolis area.
- Of the Democrats polled who said they voted for President Reagan in the past, Dukakis leads 61 percent to 28 percent.
- Bush did equally well with both sexes. He was favored by about half of the men and women who were polled.

Those polled also disregarded the flap over whether Quayle used family connections to get into the Indiana National Guard in 1969 and avoid service in the Vietnam War.

That year, the former Guard commander, Wendell Philippi, was managing editor of The Indianapolis News and Quayle's grandfather, Eugene Pulliam, was managing editor of The Indianapolis Star.

Philippi has said he made a call recommending Quayle. It has since been reported that there already were vacancies in the Guard when Quayle enlisted in May 1969.
Liberalism taints election coverage

Another election year is upon us. We've watched the Democrats whistle "Dixie" in Atlanta and the Republicans be-bop on Bourbon Street; and, despite the inevitable complaints sure to come concerning the excessive length of the campaign and the avoidance of issues by the candidates, we're all going to be interested in whether Mr. Dukakis or Mr. Bush emerges as the winner come November 8. But herein lies the problem: following the campaign between now and Election Day. For how do most of us do that by reading and watching the major media of this country—ABC, CBS, NBC, the New York Times, Washington Post, Time, or Newsweek, to name a few. And what is the trouble with that? It is, simply, that a clear majority of those writing and reporting the news are a bunch of ideologically committed liberals who, knowingly or not, incorporate a liberal bias into their news coverage.

Kevin Smant

on politics

Does that last statement scare you off? It shouldn't, for the evidence to support it exists in abundance. Fifty-four percent described themselves as left of center, and 19 percent right of center. And how have they voted, say for President from 1964 to 1976? Never less than 80 percent voted Democratic: 94 percent for Johnson in 1964, 87 percent for Humphrey in 1968, 81 percent for McGovern in 1972, and 81 percent for Carter in 1976.

Few people now dispute the glaring liberalism of most members of the media. What media defenders argue, however, is that it does not matter; that the news is still presented objectively, and that if anything newsman portray all political figures in a somewhat nega­tive light (owing to the press's acquired cynicism). On the surface, this seems plausible. But certainly facts suggest otherwise. One of the earliest investiga­tions was by Edith Efron, who ex­amined network news coverage of the 1968 presidential campaign. She analyzed actual numbers of words the networks presented both "for" and "against" certain key issues during the campaign (such as U.S. policy on the Vietnam War) and she translated this into the number of words for and against the presidential candidates. As an example. CBS gave Humphrey (the Democrat) 2388 positive words, against 2083 negative. It gave Richard Nixon 320 positive words, and 3300 negative (perhaps this is why Efron titled her book "The News Twisters"). How can this be interpreted, except as an example of media bias against the perceived "conservative" candidate?

Wait, it gets better. In 1984 George Washington University media analysts Michael Robinson and Maura Clancey undertook another comprehensive study of network news reportage of the 1984 campaign. Most significant in their findings was their analysis of the phrases "spin" or ideological tilt put on a story. How can one determine spin? Well, in October 1984 President Reagan took a train trip through western Ohio. This is "hard" news. But when Dan Rather labeled the ride "a photo opportunity train trip, chock full of symbolism and trading on Harry Truman's old turf," this is spin.

So, Robinson and Clancy established specific rules and came up with a good press/total press for all four 1984 presidential candidates. The results should not be surprising. President Reagan got 730 seconds of good press, 7299 of bad; Walter Mondale, by con­trast, received 1339 seconds of positive press versus 1040 of negative; Geraldine Ferraro got 606 good, 606 bad; and George Bush? He got 0 seconds positive—nothing—and 1510 seconds of negative press. So, in that one network one received ten times more negative coverage than positive, and George Bush no positive press at all. Can this be an accident? Come on.

So what should be done? Press freedom in this country is sacred, and it should be. As much as I dislike what Sam Donaldson or Bruce Morton say, I would defend their right to say it. No, the initiative has to come from us, the viewers. Just as we must examine po­litical candidates critically, so we must also watch the evening news critically. Something is not true just because Dan Rather says it is; one need not accept that a "crisis" exists just because ABC does a piece on the "farm crisis," the "AIDS crisis," the "drug crisis," etc.

It is a wonder we can sleep at night with all these crises swirling around us. We must sample a wide variety of media outlets, not just television. To put it simply, we must make up our own minds.

The distinctions are subtle. No one argues that the media is persuasive as many of its liberal members might like: Ronald Reagan, demonstrably no more media denying, has still won 44 and 49 states in the last two presidential elections. But the liberal bias exists. The real question is, why, and for how much longer, will members of the media deny it.

Kevin Smant is a graduate student in the history department and a regular Viewpoint columnist.

Doonesbury

We've watched the Democrats whistle "Dixie" in Atlanta and the Republicans be-bop on Bourbon Street; and, despite the inevitable complaints sure to come concerning the excessive length of the campaign and the avoidance of issues by the candidates, we're all going to be interested in whether Mr. Dukakis or Mr. Bush emerges as the winner come November 8. But herein lies the problem: following the campaign between now and Election Day. For how do most of us do that by reading and watching the major media of this country—ABC, CBS, NBC, the New York Times, Washington Post, Time, or Newsweek, to name a few. And what is the trouble with that? It is, simply, that a clear majority of those writing and reporting the news are a bunch of ideologically committed liberals who, knowingly or not, incorporate a liberal bias into their news coverage.

Kevin Smant

on politics

Does that last statement scare you off? It shouldn't, for the evidence to support it exists in abundance. Fifty-four percent described themselves as left of center, and 19 percent right of center. And how have they voted, say for President from 1964 to 1976? Never less than 80 percent voted Democratic: 94 percent for Johnson in 1964, 87 percent for Humphrey in 1968, 81 percent for McGovern in 1972, and 81 percent for Carter in 1976.

Few people now dispute the glaring liberalism of most members of the media. What media defenders argue, however, is that it does not matter; that the news is still presented objectively, and that if anything newsman portray all political figures in a somewhat negative light (owing to the press's acquired cynicism). On the surface, this seems plausible. But certainly facts suggest otherwise. One of the earliest investigations was by Edith Efron, who examined network news coverage of the 1968 presidential campaign. She analyzed actual numbers of words the networks presented both "for" and "against" certain key issues during the campaign (such as U.S. policy on the Vietnam War) and she translated this into the number of words for and against the presidential candidates. As an example. CBS gave Humphrey (the Democrat) 2388 positive words, against 2083 negative. It gave Richard Nixon 320 positive words, and 3300 negative (perhaps this is why Efron titled her book "The News Twisters"). How can this be interpreted, except as an example of media bias against the perceived "conservative" candidate?

Wait, it gets better. In 1984 George Washington University media analysts Michael Robinson and Maura Clancey undertook another comprehensive study of network news reportage of the 1984 campaign. Most significant in their findings was their analysis of the phrases "spin" or ideological tilt put on a story. How can one determine spin? Well, in October 1984 President Reagan took a train trip through western Ohio. This is "hard" news. But when Dan Rather labeled the ride "a photo opportunity train trip, chock full of symbolism and trading on Harry Truman's old turf," this is spin.

So, Robinson and Clancy established specific rules and came up with a good press/total press for all four 1984 presidential candidates. The results should not be surprising. President Reagan got 730 seconds of good press, 7299 of bad; Walter Mondale, by contrast, received 1339 seconds of positive press versus 1040 of negative; Geraldine Ferraro got 606 good, 606 bad; and George Bush? He got 0 seconds positive—nothing—and 1510 seconds of negative press. So, in that one network one received ten times more negative coverage than positive, and George Bush no positive press at all. Can this be an accident? Come on.

So what should be done? Press freedom in this country is sacred, and it should be. As much as I dislike what Sam Donaldson or Bruce Morton say, I would defend their right to say it. No, the initiative has to come from us, the viewers. Just as we must examine political candidates critically, so we must also watch the evening news critically. Something is not true just because Dan Rather says it is; one need not accept that a "crisis" exists just because ABC does a piece on the "farm crisis," the "AIDS crisis," the "drug crisis," etc.

It is a wonder we can sleep at night with all these crises swirling around us. We must sample a wide variety of media outlets, not just television. To put it simply, we must make up our own minds.

The distinctions are subtle. No one argues that the media is persuasive as many of its liberal members might like: Ronald Reagan, demonstrably no more media denying, has still won 44 and 49 states in the last two presidential elections. But the liberal bias exists. The real question is, why, and for how much longer, will members of the media deny it.

Kevin Smant is a graduate student in the history department and a regular Viewpoint columnist.
I in the majority of this film, Michael Keaton is anything but "Clean and Sober." He's in control of lots of money and drives a BMW. He has a high-paying job in a prestigious real estate firm in Philadelphia and lives with his girlfriend. He's just an ordinary guy. But he's one who is addicted to cocaine.

The opening scene shows Darryl Poynter, played by Michael Keaton, waking to another day as a drug and alcohol addict. He is awakened by a phone call from a business associate and snorts coke while on the phone. He asks Darryl where "the money," all $92,000 of it, has gone from the escrow account. This is only the beginning of his problems. Then he shakes his girlfriend and offers her some coke, only to find that she has had a heart attack in the middle of the night.

After the police comb his apartment for drugs and find nothing, he is requested not to leave the area, just in case the girl never wakes up. Despite this, Daryl runs to the nearest airport where his credit cards are rejected and he has to stay in town anyway.

In desperation, he tries one last place for help, a country and western record shop. The sound of Hoagy Carmichael rings in customers' ears. Autographed photos of Dolly Parton, Dinah Shore, T.G. Sheppard, The Beach Boys, The Reflections, Skeeter Davis, Roger Miller, Loretta Lynn and Rosemary Clooney and a display of 45 rpm records in bright yellow, reds and blues line the store's walls.

Daryl jumps out and grabs the buyer. He says, "I hate to give it up. I like the music."

Although Hi-Fi specializes in "oldies," the store sells anything from classical to disco, jazz to country, contemporary to rock.

"Every time an old record leaves the store, I feel like I'm losing an old friend," Broyles said. Hi-Fi sells records, tapes, cassettes and a few compact discs besides James Dean memorabilia.

James Dean fans constitute a lot of Broyles' business, especially around Fairmount Museum Days in September. Five hundred to 600 fans from as far away as Japan, Canada, West Germany, Australia and England have signed a James Dean Fan Log that was started in August 1981.

Broyles has two of the three James Dean classics, the themes from "East of Eden" and "Giant," on display only. She still gets to claim "Bebel Without a Cause.

Broyles said the people who visit her shop make the job worthwhile. A lady from Chicago had an inflatable Paul McCartney doll at home and sent it free to Broyles.

"Otherwise, there are some days where I would like to stay at home," she said. "I would hate to give it up. I like the people and the music."

The backdrop to this family drama is the South Carolina low country near Kiawah Island. Keaton plays a man in love with a beautiful young woman who is in fact a shrimper's wife. Keaton's character is harsh and abrupt, clashing with anyone who intrudes on his mom, who is an art form to hate New York City.

Comicon is a close look at the life of someone who "does not have a drug problem," according to Keaton. It is at times a shocking film and a graphic one, but this is also a moving film of the life of someone who gets swept away by music and free-basing. It is an excellent insight into a problem that plagues so much of the upper crust of American society. It is a film not to be laughed at or ignored and definitely not a film to be missed.

In this film, Keaton effectively portrays a cocaine addict in his latest film, "Clean and Sober." Michael Keaton's performance is sobering.

Associate Press

FAIRMOUNT, Ind.--A quick glance through Leo C. and Helen Broyles' record shop can be a little overwhelming.

The sound of Hoagy Carmichael rings in customers' ears. Autographed photos of Dolly Parton, Dinah Shore, T.G. Sheppard, The Beach Boys, The Reflections, Skeeter Davis, Roger Miller, Loretta Lynn and Rosemary Clooney and a display of 45 rpm records in bright yellow, reds and blues line the store's walls.

Posters of Elvis Presley, James Dean, Smokey Robinson, John Cougar Mellencamp and Mick Jagger and such novelty items as Mickey Mouse figures and inflatable Beatles dolls help to cover every musical era.

After a search through the Hi-Fi Stereo Shop, nostalgia jumps out and grabs the buyer. Collectible records from the 1950s, posters, calendars and T-shirts of Fairmount native Dean and photographs of Presley are all for sale.

"A lot of people come in to just look at the walls," said Helen Broyles, manager of the shop. "Some of them don't purchase anything. They are just curious at all of the decorations."

Although Hi-Fi specializes in "oldies," the store sells anything from classical to disco, jazz to country, contemporary to rock.

"Every time an old record leaves the store, I feel like I'm losing an old friend," Broyles said.

HI-FI sells records, tapes, cassettes and a few compact discs besides James Dean memorabilia.

James Dean fans constitute a lot of Broyles' business, especially around Fairmount Museum Days in September. Five hundred to 600 fans from as far away as Japan, Canada, West Germany, Australia and England have signed a James Dean Fan Log that was started in August 1981.

Broyles has two of the three James Dean classics, the themes from "East of Eden" and "Giant," on display only. She still gets to claim "Bebel Without a Cause.

Broyles said the people who visit her shop make the job worthwhile. A lady from Chicago had an inflatable Paul McCartney doll at home and sent it free to Broyles.

"Otherwise, there are some days where I would like to stay at home," she said. "I would hate to give it up. I like the people and the music."

In this film, Keaton effectively portrays a cocaine addict in his latest film, "Clean and Sober." Michael Keaton's performance is sobering.

Comic turns serious

Michael Keaton effectively portrays a cocaine addict in his latest film, "Clean and Sober."
The Observer

Thursday, August 25, 1988

SPORTS BRIEFS

A sportswriters meeting for veteran writers will take place today at The Observer. Fall assignments will be discussed. New writers will meet Monday night at a time to be announced. Questions may be directed to Marty Strasen at 239-5303 or 238-1471. -The Observer

Football ticket forms have been mailed to all students, first-year ticket manager Bobba Cunningham said. Season tickets go on sale Monday (seniors), Tuesday (juniors), Wednesday (sophomores and grad students) and Thursday (freshmen) from 1:30 p.m. to 6 p.m. at Gate 16 of Notre Dame Stadium. The game ticket price is $73.50. Those who do not receive applications may pick them up at the OBUD office in LaFayette Thursday and Friday at 9 a.m.-5 p.m. -The Observer

Warning that professional athletes are not above the law, a judge sentenced Minnesota's Dino Ciccarelli to one day in jail and fined him $1,000 Wednesday for hitting another National Hockey League player with his stick. He is believed to be the first NHL player to receive a jail term for an on-ice attack on another player. -Associated Press

The ND lacrosse team will hold a meeting for anyone interested in trying out for the varsity team Friday at 4 p.m. in the football auditorium of the Joyce ACC. -The Observer

The NDwomen's golf team will hold a nonorganizational meeting today at 6 p.m. in the basement of Walsh Hall. All those interested should attend. -The Observer

VFVI (640 AM) will hold an executive sports staff meeting tonight at 7:30. For further information, call 235-2866.-The Observer

The Lyons Hall Volleyball Tournament will be Saturday, Sept. 3 from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. on Green Field. Each team must pay a $9 registration fee to participate, which will allow a minimum of two girls. Proceeds will be donated to Dining Hall's Guardian Angels who both dine halls at breakfast and dinner. Any questions should be directed to Kris Malaker at x1953 or Rachel Ogilvie at x2893. -The Observer

The ND Rugby club will hold a meeting for all new players today at 5:30 p.m. in room 117 of Hanger Hall. Practice begins Monday at 4:30 p.m. at Stopan Field. -The Observer

The ND Martial Arts Institute will have its first work out Thursday at 5:30 p.m. Friday at Rolee Memorial. All returning members should attend. -The Observer

Baseball roundup

Yankees gain on Tigers, Sox

NEW YORK - Rickey Hen­derson's RBI single with two outs capped a five-run inning in the ninth inning Wednesday and led the New York Yankees over the Oakland Athletics 7-6. The Yankees, 2-6 in games theytrail after eight innings, came back with eight hits in the ninth against three pitchers. Most of the damage was against Dennis Eckersley, who leads the majors in saves. The losing pitcher was Gene Nelson.

Cecilio Guante, 5-6, got the victory. Joe Canseco hit his major league-leading 23rd home run, a two-run shot in the ninth.

Associated Press

Minneapolis - Dan Glad­den and Kirby Puckett each hit run home to highlight a six- run second inning as the Min­nesota Twins defeated Detroit 9-2 when they went on top after the second inning and finished the season series with 11 consecutive victories over the Tigers.

The Twins had five extra base hits in the second, one short of their record for an inning. The Tigers were all singles.

In winning 11 of 12 from the Twins continuing this season, Minnesota players generally give him the impression for the first time in his career as the California Angels in self-defense after Green ripped his shirt and shoved into "rushing and raving" that Tyson and King owed him money.

Tyson failed to appear Wed­nesday at a Harlem police sta­tion where he was to receive a summons charging him with simple assault, a mis­deemeanor.

"The boxer's	publicist said that Tyson had to see a physician because the hand with which he hit Green was hurting him, and that police agreed to postpone Tyson's appearance until Thursday.

"His sin-jury hairline frac­ture to the third metacar­pal-was not serious, according to the manager, Bill Cayton.

McCallery continued from page 12

on films, Elmer Bennett Daimson Sweet and Keith Al­lums are all ticket players. It's going to be a lot of fun coaching this group," said McCaffrey.

"I want a rematch," Green said at a Wednesday news con­ference. "I called to tell him the side of the early morning early enough. I'm sure. All I want is Tyson to make me a challenge,"

Tyson said he slugged Green "He's got a great eye. He's got a great right," Mike Tyson with two

"I wouldn't do him any damage," Mike Tyson said about King. "I wouldn't fight hard in their 1986 bout because I think Mike Tyson hit him with a

Mike Tyson hit him with a

"I don't know," Green said at the meeting. "I can't see their pre­view. It's going to be a lot of fun coaching this group."

Call 2804 233 5762 or 272-0QSB.

WELCOME BACK JUNIORS!!

One sportswriters meeting for veteran writers will have its first work out Thursday at 5:30 p.m. Friday at Rolee Memorial. All returning members should attend. -The Observer

The Observer news office is located on the third floor of LaFayette Student Center, across from the Notre Dame Bookstore. Questions can be directed to the Observer news office at 239-5117. -The Observer an accident. "I'm doing this so our kids don't get a ticket," said Mr. Lyons.

I SHOULD HAVE LISTENED

"WELCOME BACK JUNIORS!!"

"Come out and see us... My God! Don't forget... whatever."

While Green was 2-for-4 at the plate, he was 2-for-4 with two walks and two bases on balls.

"I love you all. I love you all," Nelson, 7-5.

"I think this is all we're going to get," Nelson said.

The losing pitcher was Gene Nelson. -The Observer

Mccaffrey continued from page 12

on films, Elmer Bennett Daimson Sweet and Keith Al­lums are all ticket players. It's going to be a lot of fun coaching this group," said McCaffrey.

"I want a rematch," Green said at a Wednesday news con­ference. "I called to tell him the side of the early morning early enough. I'm sure. All I want is Tyson to make me a challenge,"

Tyson said he slugged Green "He's got a great eye. He's got a great right," Mike Tyson with two

"I don't know," Green said at the meeting. "I can't see their pre­view. It's going to be a lot of fun coaching this group."

Call 2804 233 5762 or 272-0QSB.

WELCOME BACK JUNIORS!!

One sportswriters meeting for veteran writers will have its first work out Thursday at 5:30 p.m. Friday at Rolee Memorial. All returning members should attend. -The Observer

The Observer news office is located on the third floor of LaFayette Student Center, across from the Notre Dame Bookstore. Questions can be directed to the Observer news office at 239-5117. -The Observer an accident. "I'm doing this so our kids don't get a ticket," said Mr. Lyons.

I SHOULD HAVE LISTENED

"WELCOME BACK JUNIORS!!"

"Come out and see us... My God! Don't forget... whatever."

While Green was 2-for-4 at the plate, he was 2-for-4 with two walks and two bases on balls.

"I love you all. I love you all," Nelson, 7-5.

"I think this is all we're going to get," Nelson said.

The losing pitcher was Gene Nelson. -The Observer

Mccaffrey continued from page 12

on films, Elmer Bennett Daimson Sweet and Keith Al­lums are all ticket players. It's going to be a lot of fun coaching this group," said McCaffrey.

"I want a rematch," Green said at a Wednesday news con­ference. "I called to tell him the side of the early morning early enough. I'm sure. All I want is Tyson to make me a challenge,"

Tyson said he slugged Green "He's got a great eye. He's got a great right," Mike Tyson with two

"I don't know," Green said at the meeting. "I can't see their pre­view. It's going to be a lot of fun coaching this group."

Call 2804 233 5762 or 272-0QSB.

WELCOME BACK JUNIORS!!

One sportswriters meeting for veteran writers will have its first work out Thursday at 5:30 p.m. Friday at Rolee Memorial. All returning members should attend. -The Observer

The Observer news office is located on the third floor of LaFayette Student Center, across from the Notre Dame Bookstore. Questions can be directed to the Observer news office at 239-5117. -The Observer an accident. "I'm doing this so our kids don't get a ticket," said Mr. Lyons.

I SHOULD HAVE LISTENED

"WELCOME BACK JUNIORS!!"

"Come out and see us... My God! Don't forget... whatever."

While Green was 2-for-4 at the plate, he was 2-for-4 with two walks and two bases on balls.

"I love you all. I love you all," Nelson, 7-5.

"I think this is all we're going to get," Nelson said.

The losing pitcher was Gene Nelson. -The Observer

Mccaffrey continued from page 12

on films, Elmer Bennett Daimson Sweet and Keith Al­lums are all ticket players. It's going to be a lot of fun coaching this group," said McCaffrey.

"I want a rematch," Green said at a Wednesday news con­ference. "I called to tell him the side of the early morning early enough. I'm sure. All I want is Tyson to make me a challenge,"

Tyson said he slugged Green "He's got a great eye. He's got a great right," Mike Tyson with two

"I don't know," Green said at the meeting. "I can't see their pre­view. It's going to be a lot of fun coaching this group."

Call 2804 233 5762 or 272-0QSB.
Four indicted in Bloom-Walters agent scandal

Associated Press

CHICAGO - Three agents and Cris Carter of the NFL's Philadelphia Eagles were indicted Wednesday on charges ranging from racketeering to perjury following an investigation of illegal payments and threats used to sign dozens of athletes.

New York-based agents Norby Walters and Lloyd Bloom are accused of offering threats used to sign dozens of athletes cash, cars, clothing and trips in exchange for agreements allowing contract negotiations.

Also indicted was agent Dave Lueddeke of Sherman Oaks, Calif. U.S. Attorney Anton Valukas said 43 college athletes who signed with Walters and Bloom, many of whom subsequently became pros, avoided prosecution with pretrial agreements to perform community service and to reimburse a portion of their scholarships.

The group also agreed to testify if the case goes to trial and includes NFL players Ron Morris of Chicago, Ronnie Harmon of Buffalo and Paul Palmer of Kansas City plus Brad Sellers of the NBA's Chicago Bulls. "We considered things like their age...their backgrounds, the amount of money involved and any prior record," Valukas said.

Valukas said when inducements of cash or goods failed, Walters and Bloom resorted to threats.

In one 1987 phone conversation, the indictment charged, Walters told Seattle Seahawks linebacker Tony Woods -while Woods was still a student at Pitt: "This is my life on the line...Now it's your life on the line...your reputation, your business...your family, your brother, your school, everything is going to be tainted and tainted bad.

"It's gonna be terrible for you.''

Walters and Bloom, the original targets of the 18-month investigation, were indicted on charges of racketeering, mail fraud, wire fraud and extortion.

The telephone at Walters' World Sports & entertainment Inc. office in New York went unanswered Wednesday.

Attorney M.L. Trope, who is representing Bloom, said Wednesday, "Lloyd Bloom is a kid who...did not commit any crime. He'll vigorously fight to vindicate himself.''

Carter, who left Ohio State with a year of eligibility left and ended up with the Eagles in a supplemental draft, was charged with obstruction of justice stemming from a $5,000 payment. Lueddeke did not immediately return a telephone call to his firm, Pro-Line Sports.

Walters, 58, and Bloom, 29, both face 10 years in jail and $2 million in fines. Lueddeke, 37, faces 15 years in jail and $750,000 in fines. Carter, who has agreed to cooperate with authorities, faces 10 years and a $500,000 fine.

Welcome Back Students!!

To learn more about
THE HOLY CROSS FATHERS AND BROTHERS
Stop by and visit our display
ACTIVITIES NIGHT '88
TUESDAY, AUG. 30th 7 -10 pm
STEPAN CENTER or contact
Fr. John Conley, CSC
Vocations Director
Box 541 Notre Dame, IN 239-6385

The Observer

The independent student newspaper serving Notre Dame and Saint Mary's is accepting applications for the following position:

Day Editors

For further information contact
Jim Winkler
at The Observer (239-5303)

TEAM SPIRIT SPOKEN HERE.

Now you can wear your school mascot on your favorite athletic-styled shoe and enjoy the comfort of full-grain garment leather!

When it comes to quality, comfort and spirited good looks, we speak your language.

Team spirited shoes.

J.C. PENNY

Buy them here:

For information on screened logo shoes (your school or others) call 1-800-999-SHOE.
Rebuild
continued from page 12

is working with the first team at the other guard spot. Mike Heldt and Tim Ryan, both sophomores who played a combined total of just over 36 minutes last year, are competing for the starting slot at center.

"I think we're getting better fundamentally," said Holtz.
"We're starting to become a unit. (Sandri) has had a good fall. We have two good centers, and even though they're young,
they're having a good battle."

The young offensive line will be up against a vastly more experienced Michigan defensive front. Led by Outland Trophy candidate Mark Messner, the Wolverines' defensive line is rated as the third best in the country by The Sporting News.

The Seminoles are the top choice of Athlon, College & Pro
Football Weekly, Inside Sports,
Lindy's and Street & Smith's.

The magazines can't seem to come to a decision on where Notre Dame will finish. The Irish are ranked as high as fifth by College & Pro Football
Weekly and Inside Sports, but are nowhere to be found in Athlon's Top 20 forecast.

More conservative estimates have Notre Dame ranked 12th by Lindy's and UPI, 13th by The Sporting News, 17th by Street & Smith's and 20th by Sport.

Besides saying Michigan has the best offensive line, The Sporting News states that Auburn has the top defensive line, Texas A&M the standout linebackers, Clemson the best defensive backfield, Texas
Tech the number-one wide receivers and Notre Dame the strongest offensive backfield.

Meet Spuds McKenzie
On The Playing Field
Fri-Sat
Aug 26, 27
1636 N. Ironwood between Edison & S.R. 23

FREE DELIVERY!!!
271-0SUB
- Live remotes w/ WAOR-WZZP
- Live Band on Sat Night
- Sub eating contests
- Give away's all weekend long
- Big Screen T.V. Fri & Sat nights

Now an eating and drinking establishment

WELCOME BACK STUDENTS!
Drop by and SEE WHAT'S UP
We are open and READY TO GO
Every Wed-Sat 9:00-2:00 am
$2 Nightly cover

LIFETIME CLUB MEMBERSHIPS $25

Membership cards & application forms available at the club during our business hours and in the Student Activities Office, 3rd floor LaFortune.
Already registered? Check if your card is ready when you drop by.

The Observer
The independent student newspaper serving Notre Dame and Saint Mary's is accepting applications for the following position:

Copy Editors

For further information contact
Regis Coccia or Mark McLaughlin
at The Observer (239-5303)
DINNER MENUS

Notre Dame
- Roasted Top Round
- Tarragon Chicken
- Mushroom Stroganoff
- Devonshire Sandwich

Saint Mary’s
- Baked Sole
- Italian Lasagna
- Cherry Swedish Pancakes
- Deli Bar

COMICS

Far Side

Gary Larson

---

New York Times Crossword Puzzle

ACROSS

1. Complain
2. Confess
3. Minus
4. One
5. Complain
6. Center
7. March plants
8. Expressed
9. Pink was one
10. "Oh!"
11. Smoked
12. V P. under .E. F.
13. Yorkshire city
14. Whistling
15. Post Office
16. "South Pacific"
17. Verne's skipper
18. Type of price
19. Sal Maglie was one
20. "Wilder's Town"
21. Mona's relatives
22. Atlantic bird
25. Prefix with center
26. Ned
27. March plants
28. Expressed
29. Pink was one
30. "Oh!"
31. Smoked
32. V P. under .E. F.
33. Yorkshire city
34. Whistling
35. Post Office
36. "South Pacific"
37. Verne's skipper
38. Type of price
39. Sal Maglie was one
40. "Wilder's Town"
41. Mona's relatives
42. Atlantic bird
43. Prefix with center
44. "South Pacific"
45. Whistling
46. Post Office
47. "South Pacific"
48. Verne's skipper
49. Type of price
50. Sal Maglie was one
51. Prefix with center
52. Ned
53. March plants
54. Expressed
55. Pink was one
56. "Oh!"
57. Smoked
58. V P. under .E. F.
59. Yorkshire city
60. Whistling
61. Post Office
62. "South Pacific"
63. Verne's skipper
64. Type of price
65. Sal Maglie was one
66. "Wilder's Town"
67. Mona's relatives
68. Atlantic bird
69. Prefix with center
70. "South Pacific"
71. Whistling
72. Post Office
73. "South Pacific"
74. Verne's skipper
75. Type of price
76. Sal Maglie was one
77. "Wilder's Town"
78. Mona's relatives
79. Atlantic bird
80. Prefix with center
81. "South Pacific"
82. Whistling
83. Post Office
84. "South Pacific"
85. Verne's skipper
86. Type of price
87. Sal Maglie was one
88. "Wilder's Town"
89. Mona's relatives
90. Atlantic bird
91. Prefix with center
92. "South Pacific"
93. Whistling
94. Post Office
95. "South Pacific"

DOWN

1. The Ubangi joins it
2. Wards off
3. Kind of control
4. Put to the test
5. Ran, as a stream
6. Mona's men
7. Rabid follower
8. Private teacher
9. It always attracts
10. It's a sin to tell-
11. "... woodman, beechen tree!": Campbell
12. Kind of bike
13. Heathrow arrival
14. Rye fungus
15. Dispensers of T.L.C.
16. July 15, e.g.
17. Rye fungus
18. Made beloved
19. -diem
20. Horne and Nyman
21. Reasonable
22. Press adjuncts
23. "Mom! The kids at school say we're a family of Nerdenthols... Is that true?"
24. Refer to
25. Raise a nap
26. Fictional Silver
27. Made beloved
28. -diem
29. Horne and Nyman
30. Reasonable
31. Press adjuncts
32. "Mom! The kids at school say we're a family of Nerdenthols... Is that true?"
33. Refer to
34. Raise a nap
35. Fictional Silver
36. Made beloved
37. -diem
38. Horne and Nyman
39. Reasonable
40. Press adjuncts
41. "Mom! The kids at school say we're a family of Nerdenthols... Is that true?"
42. Refer to
43. Raise a nap
44. Fictional Silver
45. Made beloved
46. -diem
47. Horne and Nyman
48. Reasonable
49. Press adjuncts
50. "Mom! The kids at school say we're a family of Nerdenthols... Is that true?"
51. Refer to
52. Raise a nap
53. Fictional Silver
54. Made beloved
55. -diem
56. Horne and Nyman
57. Reasonable
58. Press adjuncts
59. "Mom! The kids at school say we're a family of Nerdenthols... Is that true?"
60. Refer to
61. Raise a nap
62. Fictional Silver
63. Made beloved
64. -diem
65. Horne and Nyman
66. Reasonable
67. Press adjuncts
68. "Mom! The kids at school say we're a family of Nerdenthols... Is that true?"
69. Refer to
70. Raise a nap
71. Fictional Silver
72. Made beloved
73. -diem
74. Horne and Nyman
75. Reasonable
76. Press adjuncts
77. "Mom! The kids at school say we're a family of Nerdenthols... Is that true?"
78. Refer to
79. Raise a nap
80. Fictional Silver
81. Made beloved
82. -diem
83. Horne and Nyman
84. Reasonable
85. Press adjuncts
86. "Mom! The kids at school say we're a family of Nerdenthols... Is that true?"
87. Refer to
88. Raise a nap
89. Fictional Silver
90. Made beloved
91. -diem
92. Horne and Nyman
93. Reasonable
94. Press adjuncts
95. "Mom! The kids at school say we're a family of Nerdenthols... Is that true?"

ANSWER TO PREVIOUS PUZZLE

1. Umbrella
2. Wards off
3. Kind of control
4. Put to the test
5. Ran, as a stream
6. Mona's men
7. Rabid follower
8. Private teacher
9. It always attracts
10. It's a sin to tell-
11. "... woodman, beechen tree!": Campbell
12. Kind of bike
13. Heathrow arrival
14. Rye fungus
15. Dispensers of T.L.C.
16. July 15, e.g.
17. Rye fungus
18. Made beloved
19. -diem
20. Horne and Nyman
21. Reasonable
22. Press adjuncts
23. "Mom! The kids at school say we're a family of Nerdenthols... Is that true?"
24. Refer to
25. Raise a nap
26. Fictional Silver
27. Made beloved
28. -diem
29. Horne and Nyman
30. Reasonable
31. Press adjuncts
32. "Mom! The kids at school say we're a family of Nerdenthols... Is that true?"
33. Refer to
34. Raise a nap
35. Fictional Silver
36. Made beloved
37. -diem
38. Horne and Nyman
39. Reasonable
40. Press adjuncts
41. "Mom! The kids at school say we're a family of Nerdenthols... Is that true?"
42. Refer to
43. Raise a nap
44. Fictional Silver
45. Made beloved
46. -diem
47. Horne and Nyman
48. Reasonable
49. Press adjuncts
50. "Mom! The kids at school say we're a family of Nerdenthols... Is that true?"
51. Refer to
52. Raise a nap
53. Fictional Silver
54. Made beloved
55. -diem
56. Horne and Nyman
57. Reasonable
58. Press adjuncts
59. "Mom! The kids at school say we're a family of Nerdenthols... Is that true?"
60. Refer to
61. Raise a nap
62. Fictional Silver
63. Made beloved
64. -diem
65. Horne and Nyman
66. Reasonable
67. Press adjuncts
68. "Mom! The kids at school say we're a family of Nerdenthols... Is that true?"
69. Refer to
70. Raise a nap
71. Fictional Silver
72. Made beloved
73. -diem
74. Horne and Nyman
75. Reasonable
76. Press adjuncts
77. "Mom! The kids at school say we're a family of Nerdenthols... Is that true?"
78. Refer to
79. Raise a nap
80. Fictional Silver
81. Made beloved
82. -diem
83. Horne and Nyman
84. Reasonable
85. Press adjuncts
86. "Mom! The kids at school say we're a family of Nerdenthols... Is that true?"
87. Refer to
88. Raise a nap
89. Fictional Silver
90. Made beloved
91. -diem
92. Horne and Nyman
93. Reasonable
94. Press adjuncts
95. "Mom! The kids at school say we're a family of Nerdenthols... Is that true?"

STUDENT BOOK SALE

4PM-8PM

Drop off date: WED AUG 24

Sale date: THURS AUG 25

Pick up date: FRI AUG 26

Room 108 LaFortune Center

STEPAN MALL

THURS AUG 25

9AM-5PM

Lofts, Plants, Rugs, Furniture, Posters, Pillows, Refrigerators,

Anything You Need To Furnish Your Room!

REFRIGERATOR RENTAL

AT STEPAN MALL

THURS AUG 25

12PM-5PM

Cleanest, Cheapest way to rent

While Supplies Last!!
Students to pay to see six sports

By MARTY STRASEN and PETE SKIKO
Sports Staff

Students will have to pay to see Notre Dame volleyball, women's basketball, men's soccer, baseball, wrestling and hockey games this school year, first-year ticket manager Bubba Cunningham said Tuesday.

Flushing student ID's at the entrance is no longer enough, as $2 will be charged for admission to all home events at 11 a.m. each for volleyball, women's basketball, men's soccer and wrestling, Cunningham said.

An "all-sports pass" is available for $10, he added. The pass will allow students to attend as many of the above-mentioned games as they wish to see. Passes are available at the ticket office on the second floor of the Joyce Athletic and Convocation Center.

The decision to charge for these events was made at a year-end meeting in the spring, Cunningham said.

"We think these are competitive sports, and that there is a value which goes along with that," said Cunningham. "A lot of the coaches are happy about it because it puts higher value on what these teams are doing. They've been doing this a long time, and some great athletes here besides the football and basketball players."

"We went round and round with the idea for hockey last year," Cunningham continued. "Mic Schaler (the Irish hockey coach) really wanted us to charge. We agreed with him, but decided not to do it last year."

Reactions among the other affected coaches ranged from satisfaction to surprise.

"I would certainly think that we're worth a dollar," said women's head basketball coach Mufett McGraw. "The administrators always hoped that we'd be a revenue-producing sport and we've always drawn fairly well from the student body.

"The only way we're going to start producing any revenue is if we start charging at the gate," she continued. "I think students would be willing to pay a dollar to see us play."

"I'm behind the athletic department, however they want to run their programs," noted head basketball coach Pat Murphy, also coming off his 10th year here. "I know I have an input (in departmental decisions), but it's not my place to hope that on such matters."

"The funds raised by student admission prices will help offset the budgets of the teams and improve the level of commitment through future scholarships," Rosenthal said. Notre Dame approved additional scholarships for many of its varsity sports this school year.

"It's a very modest fee," Rosenthal said. "We sure don't want to price the tickets over the students' heads, but at the same time you have to realize that the cost of college athletics is rising every year. If you're going to get is people with a genuine interest in the sports."

"We don't call them 'non-revenue' sports or 'minor' sports anymore," Cunningham added. "They're varsity sports, and they provide great entertainment. They are revenue sports, but some will obviously draw more revenue than others.""

The amount of revenue coming in will now depend partially on the number of students who decide to pay the price for games. Will attendance decrease because of a dollar or two?

"I don't think it will," Cunningham said. "At least I hope it doesn't."