Ticket prices skyrocket

BY KELLEY TUTHILL

If you want tickets to Saturday's game against Miami, be prepared to spend a lot of money. Regardless of the scalping policy, tickets are being sold above and beyond face value.

According to various buyers and sellers of Miami tickets, the average price for a student ticket is $50 to $100, and the average for GA's is at least $100. Prices of student tickets continue to rise as various classified advertisements appear for the "best offer" for the tickets.

One student seller said she probably could have received $75 for a student ticket. "I sold it for $55, and I guess that's a lot, too," she said.

Other student sellers said they had bids of $60 and $60 and that they would wait "as long as possible for the highest price."

One student salesman said $80 was his top bid. With regard to the University's scalping policy, he said, "They will come after you." See MIAMI, page 6

Warning fails to halt unrest in Yugoslavia

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia- Communist authorities put more police on the streets and imposed unspecified "urgent measures" in Montenegro's capital Monday, but protests fed by economic crisis and ethnic tension did not stop.

Protest has swept much of southern and eastern Yugoslavia in recent weeks. Police used violent tactics for the first time over the weekend to disperse Montenegrin students and workers demanding the dismissal of local Communist Party leaders.

President Rajko Djindzhevac went on national television Sunday night to appeal for calm, warning of unspecified emergency measures.

Unrest continued Monday in Titograd, the capital of Montenegro 280 miles southwest of Belgrade, and the regional party leadership held an emergency meeting, the official news agency Tanjug reported.

Workers and 2,000 students at Nikola 36 miles north of Titograd, rallied outside a government building and in a steel mill where 2,000 workers were on strike for a second day, Tanjug said.

Police used clubs and tear gas to break up weekend crowds in Titograd and disperse marchers in Niskic who were on their way there.

The Titograd rally was an explosion of anger about hardships resulting from the economic policies of President Chadli Bendjedid. Bendjedid has cost 260 lives or more. No official casualty counts have been issued.

Reliable unofficial reports from police, hospitals and other sources say the weekend uprising against high prices and the economic policies of President Chadli Bendjedid has cost 260 lives or more. No official casualty counts have been issued.

Army helicopters armed with missiles made repeated passes over Bab-el-Oued at low altitude Monday, apparently trying to frighten the protesters.

Monday's demonstration was organized as a "peaceful protest march" by the Islamic fundamentalist Movement for Algerian Renewal, which has made claims of leading the revolt, after the government issued its weekend ultimatum for Bendjedid's resignation.

A marcher reported seeing the body of a teen-ager wrapped in a sheet.
IN BRIEF

Father Theodore Hesburgh, Notre Dame's president emeritus, has been named a trustee of the newly formed Skadden, Arps, Slate, Meagher & Flom Foundation, a financial fellowship of New York City. According to Peter Mullen, also a trustee and partner of the Skadden, Arps, Slate, Meagher & Flom law firm, the new foundation's purpose is to provide nationwide fellowships encouraging careers in public interest law and to support organizations which provide civil legal service to those who otherwise might not be able to afford them.

James Sterba, professor of philosophy at Notre Dame, has been awarded a Fulbright grant to lecture on "Peace and Justice" in the Soviet Union during the 1988-89 academic year. Sterba, a specialist in political philosophy and a member of Notre Dame's faculty since 1973, is only the second of this year's Fulbright program philosophers to be accepted by the Soviet Union. Sterba is a faculty fellow of Notre Dame's Institute for International Peace Studies and author of several books including Morality, War, and Nuclear Deterrence.

'‘The Big Game' is a sort of homecoming

I'm going to a family reunion this weekend. Compared to most students' plans of tail­gaters, parties, and The Big Game (I think we all know which one), a weekend of picnics, grandpa­rents, Great-Aunt Minnie or getting to know my newest first cousin-once-removed-by-marriage hardly sounds too exciting.

Luckily for me, this is a different kind of fam­ily reunion. I'll still get to go to the game, the parties and the tailgaters, but I'll also get to see all my brothers and sisters together for the first time since Christmas, 1986.

Yes, this weekend my family is gathering this weekend at our home in South Bend. My sister and her boyfriend are flying in from Denver and my two brothers will drive from Chicago. My other two sisters, my parents, and myself will all be here waiting for them.

For some it will be the first opportunity to meet Karen's boyfriend and some will meet Sheila and Wayne's six-week-old baby for the first time.

Ours being a sort of "foreign study junkie" family has caused much of the rush in the preparation for the reunion. Shortly after the last reunion, my sister took off for London. She returned in June of 1987 and ten weeks later I embarked on a ten-month stay in Austria.

It became slightly unbelievable upon my return, as this same sister departed for London again just a few days before I left for Innsbruck. I moved into the dorm less than a week after she got back and she stayed at home. Even though we barely talk only twice, I'm sure that the two of us have four majors, three jobs, and no car. It just doesn't lend itself to a lot of sisterly bonding. I do occasionally bump into her in the dining hall or around campus.

Come Friday all that will change. For approximately thirty-six hours, my five siblings, my parents and I will share a city. I can't even say we'll share a home because my family has outgrown our house--or, maybe more likely, I may share in my dorm here, because somebody else will be sleeping in my bed. My married sister, her hus­band, and their two daughters will stay in their own house.

Despite the physical proximity, we probably still won't see each other at all that much. Oh, we'll have a tailgamer and Mom's famous lasagna after the game, maybe brunch on Sun­day, but there just still won't be enough time.

Being the youngest of such a crew, I am used to our family being spread apart and seldom seeing one another. My oldest brother made the big move to campus when I was eight years old. Except for a few summers, our family has never been quite the same. Another sister came to Notre Dame the next year and went to Innsbruck, creating a precedent three of us would follow.

This was also the cause, however, of our first holiday season apart. I remember talking to a rather upset sister as she talked to us from a phone booth in rainy Madrid on Christmas Day, and I thought how I'd never want to be anywhere else but South Bend on December 25. Nine years later, I was on the European end of that transatlantic phone call.

The family division continued as another bro­ther went to Innsbruck, missing my sister's wedding in the interim. My oldest sister returned and graduated, she declined the plans of the Midwest weren't for her and headed for the mountains of Colorado.

It came as rather a shock to me to discover that we have been apart so long, although I have seen them individually since then. The last year we saw one another was the same year I graduated from high school. So much has transpired in my life since then. I don't even look the same.

There's really no way to catch up on nearly two years in less than two days. None of us would give up our experiences abroad or our independent lives, but no one can restore the closeness that letters and phone calls just can't duplicate, especially with writing habits like mine. I'm going to a family reunion this weekend.

Fire in Lemans evacuates hall

By LISA MONTPETIT
Staff Reporter

Arson is believed to be involved in a fire which occurred at 3:43 a.m. Sunday on the second floor of LeMans Hall, according to Richard Chlebek, director of security at Saint Mary's.

The building was evacuated when smoke from a burning door decoration triggered the alarm, Chlebek said. He added that no injuries were sustained. No suspects are being held at this time, said Chlebek. He said the situation is under an investigation which "will involve interviewing several students to hopefully identify the responsible party.

The fire caused $150 damage to the door and the carpeting, Chlebek said. "We feel this is a serious matter," he said. "Fortunately it involved minor damages and no injury or death. Any time you have a fire in a residential building, especially when it is deliberately set, you always have that possibility of not only loss of property but of life too."

The Crime of the Week is the theft of three battery operated clocks from the North Dining Commons. This theft occurred between 7:30 p.m. on Oct. 6 and 6:00 a.m. on Oct. 7. The clocks were taken from the main lobby and the "D" and "E" dining rooms. These oak trimmed clocks are 13 inches by 13 inches, have black faces and gold colored hands and numerals. The clocks hang approximately eight to ten feet above the floor over the doorways.

Anyone who has seen or knows who took these clocks and where they are now would be greatly appreciated. Please see a member of the security staff to report this or any crime at Notre Dame.

Update: (10/6) 3:20 p.m. Several Notre Dame students reported the theft of bicycles from the bike racks at University Village sometime around 4:30 a.m.

Now you can buy as much Macintosh as you need.

Here's a multiple choice quiz you really can't fail. In fact, it may even improve your GPA.

Should you buy one of our Macintosh Plus personal computers? Or one of our Macintosh SE personal computers?

The answer, of course, depends. If you've been holding out for that ever-elusive combination of high performance and affordability, you'll very likely want our Macintosh Plus. It has one full megabyte of RAM, 128K of ROM. And a double-sided 800K internal disk drive.

Translated, that means the Macintosh Plus can plot a statistical formula or repaginate a report in the time it took you to read this sentence.

But if you truly want to expand your horizons— we suggest the Macintosh SE. It has all the attributes of the Plus, plus a little more. Like one megabyte of RAM, expandable to four megabytes. A walloping 256K of ROM, and where they are now.

The power to be your best.
These days, having an M.B.A. doesn't exactly put you in select company.

Time was, earning an MBA put you head and shoulders above the crowd. But in the push and shove of the current job picture, the opportunity to stand out isn't just anywhere. It's right here. At General Mills Restaurants, Inc. Where we recognize your accomplishments. And more importantly, help realize your potential.

By putting you in a position to make decisions. Assert your leadership. Have an impact. Not five years from now. But right from day one.

Contributing your marketing or finance savvy to our thriving Orlando-based billion dollar restaurant organization. There's The Olive Garden, fine Italian cuisine set amidst a natural garden setting.
York's, a unique self-service restaurant concept thriving in 100+ locations across 22 states. And of course, Red Lobster. Far and away the leader in satisfying America's growing appetite for seafood.

An eclectic group to be sure. But sharing in common one great opportunity for a few well chosen MBA graduates. So if you're interested in being more than just a face in the crowd, join us Wednesday, October 12th, at 8pm-10pm for our presentation and reception in the Alumni Room at the Morris Inn.

Notre Dame Spirit Week kicks off

By FLORENTINE HOELKER

Two prominent Notre Dame professors, Head Basketball Coach Digger Phelps and a former basketball team captain on Monday night discussed the possibilities of combining excellence in college athletics and academics.

In a lecture titled, "Can a University Excel in Academics and Athletics?" the four-member panel kicked off Spirit Week, a series of activities designed to promote sportmanship on campus.

The panel included Phelps, former Notre Dame Basketball Captain John Zietlow, Prof. Thomas Morris and Prof. George Howard. Nathan Hatch, acting dean of the College of Arts and Letters, moderated the discussion.

The panelists agreed that varsity athletics and academics can successfully be combined. "We need a commitment from the Board of Trustees to get people who can do both," Phelps said.

"I think we've seen in one situation a high priority for athletics and a neglect for academics, and the opposite in other schools, but this University has done an excellent job over the last 30 years of allowing these people (athletes) to get degrees in 4 years," said Phelps.

"Hopefully at ND we've taken a stance at preparing student athletes for the business world, but the most important point is what the athletes have learned from the University and what they can contribute to society," said Terry Moore.

"It is in the best interest of the athlete to diversity themselves in other fields," Jackson said of the problem of college athletes working at their sport to the exclusion of academics.

Speaking from the academic point of view, Morris said athletes often are not challenged academically until they enter college, but that this should not create the misconception of the "dumb jock."

TUESDAY: Spiritual Day
"The Role of Christianity in Athletics" at 7:30 p.m. in the Hesburgh Library auditorium.

WEDNESDAY: Whole Health Day
Videos, posters and brochures stressing the importance of diet and nutrition.

FRIDAY: Roll-out Day
4 p.m.: Campus picnic at Stepan fields.
7 p.m.: Notre Dame-Miami football pep rally at Stepan Center with guest speaker Olympic speedskater Dan Jansen.
8 p.m.: on United Lime shuttle from Stepan courts to Coveleski Stadium for Notre Dame-Miami baseball game.
9:11 p.m.: Student dance in the JACC Fieldhouse, sponsored by 7-Up and featuring "The Groove" and free pizza, Crystal Lite and coffee. Four Italian racing bikes donated by Domani Foods and three complete Fisher stereo systems donated by Tyson Foods will be given away. Students must show ID to register and must be present to win.

SATURDAY: Game Day
9:30 a.m.: Women's basketball scrimmage in the JACC.
1:30 p.m.: Notre Dame Fighting Irish vs. Miami Hurricanes in Notre Dame Stadium.

ND Senate 'needs to take a new direction,' says Doyle

By REGIS COCCIA

The Student Senate needs to take a new direction to start planning and addressing campus issues, Student Body President Tom Doyle told the senate at a brief meeting last night.

"The senate as a body has been somewhat lacking direction," Doyle said, adding the student government cabinet will meet next week to discuss ways the senate can plan for the future. "We'll brainstorm next week, we'll evaluate ideas and hopefully start moving forward as a student senate," Doyle said.

Doyle said he met earlier with Senate Parliamentarian Mike Carrigan to discuss the senate rule and how the senate can address issues of concern to students.

"I think we started off the year well, addressing things like the alcohol policy," said Doyle. "Lately, the focus has been more towards information dissemination."

Doyle said he would like to see the senate give students greater access to it and to discuss issues such as apartheid and divestment, which concern the campus.

If the senate can be more open to student input and discussion, he said, "It becomes more a body of initiative than disseminating information."

"Distributing information to students is an important role of the Hall Presidents' Council," Doyle said. The Student Senate, however, provides a forum for discussing campus issues, he said.

"There really is time for us to sit down and plan things again," Doyle said, noting the student government meeting next week. "Hopefully, some good will come of it."

AIDS protesters to hold rally

Associated Press

WASHINGTON— About 300 AIDS protesters rallied outside the federal health headquarters building Monday in a warmup for a more intense demonstration planned today in which they will try to block entrances to the Food and Drug Administration headquarters in nearby Rockville, Md.

Leaders of the demonstration have said they expect hundreds of arrests in what they bill as a civil disobedience action they hope will be the largest since marches on the Pentagon during the Vietnam War.

Monday's rally was outside the vacant Humphrey Building, which houses the Health and Human Services Department. Because it was on a federal holiday, the building was deserted and surrounding streets were nearly vacant.

A small contingent of police watching as a series of speakers ridiculed the Reagan administration for what they said was a criminally inadequate response to AIDS and castigated the news media for not paying enough attention to the disease.

Police officers and the restaurant manager said this was a unique incident, according to the band members.

They have gang wars often, but usually nothing against uninvolved persons," said Schultze.

This was the first time band members were involved in an incident like this, said Luther Snively, director of University Bands.

"This is really that sort of thing that we hate to get too blown out of proportion," said Snively.

"If you are caught that you are, if you are guilty," said McCarthy, a student, said she would have no sympathy for him, no notification was made on the campus because of the action.

He received an offer of a ticket for $25, but says his sister did not pay more than $25. "I think the whole thing is outrageous and funny. I got all the tickets and I don't even study," said Ramsden.

One buyer who needed a GA's, a senior paid $75 for a pair of GA's. Molly McCarthy, a student, said she has 90 tickets and she thought that the tickets were average. She said that the tickets were worth $75.

John Houlahan "just wanted to do something for some kids," he said. He bought GA's at face value and offered other tickets for $30 to $45. One other student said that the tickets were average.

Crash hurt, but the rich remain rich
Associated Press

NEW YORK - The stock market crash wiped out some of their wealth, but according to Forbes magazine the 400 richest Americans still had a total worth of about $220 billion, enough to cover the federal budget deficit for a year.

Last year's Oct. 19 financial market debacle reduced the fortunes of many of the ultra-affluent 400 and caused 22 former members to be dropped from the list because their fortunes slipped below Forbes' $225 million cutoff.

Still, the average fortune on this year's edition of the annual list comes to $511 million, up $9 million from last year.

The list appears in the Oct. 24 edition of Forbes and is based on holdings as of Aug. 30.

The federal deficit for the fiscal year that just ended was about $130 billion. The total national debt is about $2.5 trillion.

Sam Walton, 76, easily held the No. 1 spot for the fourth year in a row, even though his net worth shrank by a whopping $2 billion following the crash.

Walton, head of the Arkansas-based Wal-Mart discount store empire, scoffs at Forbes' estimates of worldwide wealth, Walton rates fifth behind Japan's Yoshiaki Tsutsumi, $11.9 billion; Taikicho Mori, $18 billion; and Haruhiko Yoshimoto, $7.8 billion; and Canada's Kenneth Cole Irving, $8 billion.

The number of American billionaires nearly doubled in 1987, but Forbes' '86 list has only two additional billionaires, bringing the total to 51. Japan has the second-highest number of identified billionaires with 34.

Runner-up to Walton on the billionaire list is John Wrenn Kluge, the head of Metromedia Co. with a net worth of $3.2 billion.

Next in line are H. Ross Perot, the founder of Electronic Data Systems who wants to overhaul the nation's postal system, with $3 billion; publishers Samuel and Donald Newhouse, $2.6 billion each; Forbes Editor-in-Chief Henry Lea Hillman, $2.5 billion.

Uncorking the adage that "rich people cannot lose," you can lose, billionaires were among those bit hard by the crash. Among the big losers were David Packard, founder of Hewlett-Packard, media magnate Keith Hurd- doch and retailer Leslie Wex- ner.

Bush, Dukakis court Italian-Americans, prepare for debate
Associated Press

George Bush and Michael Dukakis courted the support of Italian-Americans in competing Columbus Day appearances Monday that left plenty of time to polish their lines in private for this week's second and final presidential campaign debate.

It was a day that mixed campaign rhetoric with colorful made-for-television images. Dukakis proposed a plan to make it easier for first-time home buyers to finance their residences before marching in a Columbus Day parade up Fifth Avenue in mid-town Manhattan alongside Gov. Mario Cuomo, New York Mayor Ed Koch and John F. Kennedy Jr.

Bush took a turn at a pool party in a New Jersey neighborhood, bouncing the No. 4 ball in the corner. Italian-American pa­ trons cheered. After that came a speech on crime.

Their daily campaign rounds over, both men hustled back to their political lairs to resume preparations for their prime­ time debate later in the week. Both camps said they expected the 90-minute debate to be held at 9 p.m. EDT Thursday night on the campus of UCLA, and the presidential rivals were flying to the West Coast today to prepare.

The candidates exuded con­ fidence as they began the final four weeks of campaigning.

The vice president, a step ahead in the polls, said he was confident his $1.5 billion in riches. He wants to overhaul the nation's War II boom in affordable housing. "He has no new solutions," the vice president said.

But the vice president got the endorsement of Il Progresso, a New Jersey taboo­ per, which said the "traditional values of Italian-Americans can be found in the electoral program of Vice President Bush."

Italian-American Cuomo an­ swered for Dukakis, saying, "Then they ought to change their name. From going forward -- people are going backward," he said.

Crash hurt, but the rich remain rich
Pope restricts women's potential

This past weekend I read an interesting article in the Chicago Tribune about Pope John Paul II's recently issued apostolic letter entitled "Mulieris Dignatatem," Latin for "On the Dignity of Women." As a woman, I was truly offended by the Pope's views on the role of women in the Catholic Church and on women's vocational responsibilities. While he claims that women and men are equal and should be treated as such, he fails in further comments to follow through on these claims.

Margaret Egan

It seems that the Pope sees women as best realizing their vocational capabilities through motherhood (childbirth) or through what he calls "spiritual motherhood," which refers to those women who remain celibate in bearing. He believes that the role of women in the Catholic Church and women's ability to be better leaders may vary, but the differences could only add a new dimension to what it means to be a priest. What's more is that the Pope apparently wrote this letter without consultation of other religious leaders. So, this is basically one man's opinion. But as a woman, I feel that my man-things are the leader of the Catholic community, and what he has just claimed will be Church teaching for the duration of his time as Pope.

A unique aspect of being a woman is, indeed, her ability to bear children. But this is not the means, but the object and by no means the most important one. My argument is simple: Pope John Paul II's view of gender equality is just not in keeping with our times. We, both men and women, at this leading Catholic university should question religious teaching which seems so obviously to contradict itself. The woman here make incredible sacrifices for their families which, in most respects, will be used outside of the vocation of motherhood and therefore would not be a prerequisite for personal dignity.

All forms of sexism degrade women

Dear Editor:

"Jerks" was a really appropriate title for Bob McLaughlin and Kevin McKay's cartoon of Thursday, Oct. 6. The last frame read, "Fishing is a lot like scooping chicks; except when you scope, you throw back the big ones." Wow, what nerve! Apparently the two authors were busy making themselves feel good by insulting women in this same way last year when a series of articles about sexism and eating disorders came out in The Observer.

"But it's such a small thing," you might argue. But isn't it a perfect example of the little things around our campus that build up to women feeling ashamed about their bodies and abusing themselves to cope with that shame. I must say that the two doses in the cartoon look like they can't afford to be that picky, but it's too bad that they, or real guys with their attitudes, will miss out on meeting really beautiful women in life who just may not look like Playboy centerfolds. It's your potential loss, but please realize that you're helping to perpetuate devastating attitudes about women that we're all doing our best to overcome.

Cartoon exudes chauvinist attitude

Dear Editor:

I found the "Jerks" comic strip in the Thursday, Oct. 6, Observer offensive, yet unfortunately typical of the prevalent mentality at Notre Dame. The strip portrayed one fisherman saying to another, "Fishing is a lot like scooping chicks; except when you scope, you throw back the big ones." While this establishes that the fisherman is indeed a jerk, one wonders whether the cartoonists (Bob McLaughlin and Kevin McKay) are capable of creating a joke. Reading this sort of sexist tripe is a lot like vomiting, except when you do it, you look silly.

Sexism prevails in offensive cartoon

Dear Editor:

Is there sexism on campus? Yes, I believe there is. This week I saw a characteristic of femininity: "Jerks" by Bob McLaughlin and Kevin McKay which ended: "Fishing is a lot like scooping chicks; except when you scope, you throw back the big ones." Is this a horrible reduction of the human person to a mere object of sexual pleasure? But there is more. On Oct. 6, The Observer printed a comic strip called "Jerks" by Bob McLaughlin and Kevin McKay which ended: "Fishing is a lot like scooping chicks; except when you scope, you throw back the big ones." What is this incredible insensitivity. This is anything but humorous or responsible editing. Are not forms of sexism?

After the Fire, St. Ed's Lives On

St. Ed’s will be forever as­ sociated with that fire, and St. Ed’s houses about 180 residents, making it the second smallest men’s dorm (after Carroll). That’s just fine with the men of St. Ed’s, who cite that fact as one rea­ son for the friendly atmos­ phere they see in this hall. “The small size encourages people to get to know everybody in the hall,” said Hall President Tim Flood. “People will go around and meet more people, and that makes for a better atmos­ phere in the hall. It’s a closely-knit hall. Most of the hall supports all its events, social and athletic.”

Those hall events have sig­ nificantly increased over the last few years. One new event started this year is the St. Edward’s Hall Forum, which features weekly presentations by various faces in the Notre Dame community. Recent speeches have included a Bush-Dukakis debate between former Ohio Governor John Gilligan and law professor Ed Murphy, and University Pres­ ident Emeritus Father Theodore Hesburgh speaking about the U.S. president he has known. Future speakers include University President Father Edward Malloy and Irish basketball coach Digger Phelps. “We were interested in raising the academic atmos­ phere by using social inter­ action in the dorm,” said junior Mark Purcell, who serves as hall academic com­ missioner with sophomore Mike Kazadi. “We’re mixing academic awareness through social events.”

Another event to start at St. Ed’s recently is the St. Ed­ ward’s Hall Players program. Since its inception in the 1986-87 school year, the Players have presented two drama productions on campus. The Players debuted with “Love, Sex and the IRS,” in 1987, and then performed “The Odd Couple” last winter. The Players have 60 mem­ bers, including about 20 St. Ed’s residents. They are re­ sponsible for everything ex­ cept the actual playwriting in their productions, which will continue with a yet-to-be­ determined play next semes­ ter.

“Father Mario (Pedi) was the rector my freshman year, and we used to do a play every year,” said the senior Duane DiFranco, the original organizer of the Players. “We started to still have plays every year after Fr. Mario left, so we formed the club. It’s going very, very well.” Current rector Father Gene Gorski, a former rector at Brother Hall, is in his second year at St. Ed’s. He brought many of his former Howard residents with him after that hall was converted to a wo­ men’s dormitory.

Gorski’s arrival has produced many new ideas for the Sunday liturgies. Under commission­ ers Terry Brady and Tom Hassett, the liturgi­ cal commission has added unique programs for the Ad­ vent and Lenten seasons. Last year, a special Christmas Mass was held that featured the talents of the expanded St. Ed’s choir headed by Jayne Stayer.

So even after the fire, the St. Ed’s community continues to thrive not just because of the history that comes from a structure listed on the Na­ tional Register of Historic Places, but also because of the spirit and new ideas being produced every year by the 180 men of St. Ed’s Hall.

LIVING beneath our Golden Dome, surrounded by the trees and peaceful lakes, it is easy for us to forget that life for others is not as wonderful. As we stress over our mid­ terms and worry about the Miami game, it is difficult to understand that in other parts of the country people are fighting day to day to sur­ vive.

The Center for Social Con­ cerns conducts seminars in­ over fall break that strives to help less fortunate people living in the Appalachian Mountains. Students in the seminar participate in a vari­ ety of activities, from spend­ ing time with the mountain people to visiting centers for elderly people and abused children. Physical work can entail such jobs as home repair, gardening and farm maintenance.

The program has a record high enrollment of 102 stu­ dents this fall, over twice the number of students who at­ tended last semester. Dr. Mi­ chael Affleck, the co­ordinated of this seminar, believes that the increase is due to an awakening of the spirit and new ideas being pro­ duced every year by the 180 men of St. Ed’s Hall.

Farley eyeing championship

By ARTHUR GOLLWITZER
Sports Writer

Farley continued on the road to the women's Intercollegiate football championship Sunday afternoon with a tough 12-0 win over Lyons.

Farley's quarterback, Colleen McGills, had a hand in both touchdowns. The first was on a 10-yard pass, and the second a quarterback keeper. The game was a defensive struggle as both defenses were strong. The key play was on the first possession when Farley's quarterback, Colin McGills, threw a pass to receiver Jennifer Block, who is out with a knee injury, giving Farley a 6-0 lead at halftime.

The game's key defensive play was provided by Kim Lowski, who, with Lyons on the quarterback keeper, intercepted a pitch. This set up a touchdown for the Belles to go up 6-0. The Belles' defense was dominant throughout the game, limiting Lyons to only a few yardage gains. The Belles' defense was complemented by a strong and efficient offense.

Jennifer Block, who is out with a knee injury, gives Farley a 6-0 lead at halftime.

The win improved Farley's record to 6-0, leaving it as the only undefeated team in the league. Lewis 16, Howard 8: Lewis advanced its record to 6-0, good for second in the standings, by defeating Howard, which won its opener but has dropped three straight, fell to 1-3.

Booster Committee

The game was a defensive struggle, with both teams managing to keep the score low. The Belles' defense, led by Lowski, was able to force Lyons into four turnovers, including two interceptions and two fumbles. Lyons was held to only 102 total yards of offense, with only 17 passing yards. The Belles' defense was led by Lowski, who had two interceptions and a fumble recovery.

The Belles' offense was equally dominant, with quarterback Colin McGills throwing for 168 yards and two touchdowns. The Belles scored on a 2-yard run by Valarie LaManna and a 10-yard pass from McGills to receiver Jennifer Block. The Belles' defense was complemented by a strong and efficient offense.

Wheaton hands Belles first defeat

By MARY KATE COYLE
Sports Writer

The Saint Mary's tennis team traveled to Wheaton last weekend and lost for the first time this season, 6-3. The Belles went into the match with a 17-0 record after defeating Saint Francis on Sunday, 6-3.

"We were at a disadvantage going into the match, without our number one singles player, Jennifer Block, who is out because of illness," said coach Deb Laverie. "This moved everyone up a flight.

Mayer sisters, Sarah and Grace, finished fourth in doubles, but the No. 2 team of Charlene Szajko and Sarah Mayer won.

"I was disappointed because our goal was to be undefeated," said Laverie. "I do think it may be a blessing in disguise, for it may bring about the good motivation we need to have going into state.

The Belles have shown that they are team that has the skill and competitiveness needed to be a winning team. The first test will come when the Belles go to Anderson to compete in the state competition this weekend.

"If we all give 100 percent we can do it," Sarah Mayer said. "If some only give 99 percent, we won't be able to win it. I think it's important that we all go in there with positive attitudes.

The Belles travel to Manchester College today to complete the regular season.

Zahn heads into the last week of the season with a 2-0 record. Pangborn 20, Carroll 6: Pangborn tallied its first win of the season with a 20-6 win over Carroll. Pangborn led 10-0 at the half to lead Sorin to victory over an injury-laden St. Ed's squad.

"It was a great game during the game and our quarterback has been out since the first game," said Steve Schmidt, St. Ed's captain. "We've been an average team all season.

Sorin remains unbeaten at 3-0-1 and St. Ed's falls to 3-1.

Eagles win NFC East battle

Associated Press

PHILADELPHIA - Randall Cunningham threw for 369 yards and three touchdowns as the Philadelphia Eagles beat the New York Giants 24-13 in the NFL Monday night game, and barged into the thick of the NFC East Division race.

Cunningham completed 31 of 41 passes as the Eagles, 3-3, moved into a tie with the Giants and the Washington Redskins, one game behind the surprising Phoenix Cardinals.

The Eagles scored a six-game losing streak against the Giants, and won Monday night appearance in seven years.

The Eagles defense was led by end Reggie White 2½ sacks and constant harrying of Giants quarterback Phil Simms by tackle Jerome Brown and end Clyde Simmons.

The Giants took a 3-0 lead 8:33 into the game on a 47-yard field goal by Raul Allegre. The drive to a first down at the Philadelphia 32 was triggered by a pair of 16-yard completions from Simms to tight end Mark Celestine and wide receiver Phil Harris.

The Eagles went ahead 7-3 with 2:28 left in the second period on a 12-play, 80-yard drive, capped by Cunningham's 4-yard pass to John�� Giles. Cunningham completed eight passes in the drive, including 12 yards to Keith Byars and 19- and 17-yard throws to Cris Carter.

The Giants then drove to a first down at the Eagles' 18, but Simms was intercepted and Philadelphia took over at its 7.

Cunningham directed a 10-yard touchdown pass to Gary Beatty and a 31-yard field goal. Cunningham completed passes of 34 and 12 yards to Jimmy Giles, run 93-yard drive, capped by a 4-yard touchdown pass to Byars to make it 14-3 with 25 seconds left in the half.

The Eagles made it 17-3 on their first series of the second half. The Eagles announced they would move to the ball to the Giants' 10.

NFL may extend trade deadline

Associated Press

PHILADELPHIA: The time frame to consummate the controversial trade with the Indianapolis Colts for offensive guard Ron Solt might be extended beyond the NFL's Tuesday trading deadline.

The Eagles acquired Solt from the Colts last week for a 1989 first-round draft pick and other, undisclosed draft choices.

But Solt refused to report to Philadelphia without a $400,000 bonus to bring his new five-year, $2.6 million contract to his original demand of Indianapolis, $3 million.

"The window of time allowed for Solt to report to the Eagles is extended beyond tomorrow's trading deadline per agreement between the two clubs," Eagles President Harry Gamble said Monday night.

Gambe also denied the Eagles were considering trading Solt to another NFL team, as rumored.

The Eagles contend that if Solt fails to report and take a physical, they are entitled to the return of the draft picks. The Colts have said the deal stands, whether or not Solt reports.

Solt is on the Eagles roster, although he is not being paid. He was deactivated for the Monday night game against the New York Giants.

ND impressive at powerful regatta

The Rowing Club competed in the Head of the Rocks Regatta last weekend in Rockford, Illinois. Out of the 17 teams that participated, Notre Dame placed very well in nearly all the categories where the Irish were represented. Some of the big-name schools that participated were Wisconsin, Cincinnati, Iowa, Northwestern, and Chicago. Along with the universities, Notre Dame also competed against the highly touted Milwaukee Rowing Club.

In the men's divisions, the Irish were very consistent by taking fourth in both the open four and open eight person boats, and a sixth place in the lightweight four-person boat.

The women fared a little better in the regatta. They grabbed an impressive second place finish in the lightweight four person boat along with two fourth-place finishes in the heavyweight four-person boat and the open eight-person boat.

The high point of the regatta was in the mixed eight person boats. Notre Dame rowed to a second and fourth-place finish in this highly competitive race.

... The Sailing Club participated in a regatta at Purdue University last weekend. They performed outstanding on a day that wasn't very pleasant for sailing.

Overall, Notre Dame tied for second place with Purdue. Ohio State won the 13-team regatta by destroying all other competitors.

The duo of Paige Cooper and Juli Peleva won the "A" Division, while Watts Huggins and Theressa Herman were runners up in the "B" Division.

Next weekend the Sailing Club is scheduled to compete in a regatta at Ohio State University, but might not attend because of some trivial football game.

SMC volleyball squad falls in straight games

The Saint Mary's volleyball team didn't put up much of a fight Saturday against State University, which ran away with the match in three straight games.

In this year, in tournament play, the Belles defeated the Tri-State Team, which is one of the best in the district. Revenge was on their mind as they shut out the Belles in the first game 15-0.

Saint Mary's retalied by jumping out to an early lead in game two but the Belles just couldn't hold on as Tri-State prevailed 15-9. Game three didn't prove to be any better for the Belles as they suffered a 15-5 loss.

"Defense was our biggest problem," commented sophomore Melissa Phillips. "After the first game we just couldn't pull ourselves together. Our confidence was low and everyone was frustrated."

The Belles will have a chance to rectify themselves as they take on Bethel College this week.

blockers and more importantly, those waiting at the 10-foot line where her kills landed.

Senior outside hitter Kim Thompson added to the offensive onslaught with 23 kills and also played well off the net contributing 19 digs for the Wildcats.

But with strong performances from many teammates, the Irish held onto the momentum gained from four consecutive home wins to take the upset and move up to fourth in the Midwest Regional poll after being ranked sixth last week.

"We've got good momentum right now," said Lambert. "I know they can win. Now they have to know because feeling like they can win is knowing how."

Irish now fourth; Miami still No. 1

Associated Press

After a win on the road in Pittsburgh, Notre Dame climbed to No. 4 in the Associated Press college football poll. Miami, UCLA and Southern Cal remained in the top three spots.

The Irish replaced Auburn, which fell eight spots to 12th after a 7-6 loss to LSU.

Indiana's Hoosiers, ranked in The Associated Press college football poll for the first time this season, welcome the national exposure but can't forget the years of struggle it took to get it, Coach Bill Mallory said Monday.

"We've never forget where you've come from and how you got where you are. You have to remind the younger players, too, who haven't gone through the things these other players have to be aware of what's gone into putting this program where it is today," Mallory said.

"Never allow that attitude of complacency to sit in. That'll cut your throat quicker than anything."

Since the start of the 1987 season, Indiana's 12-4-1 record is the best among all Big Ten teams, and the Hoosiers are no longer sneaking up on their opponents. Mallory said.

"I know the teams we play aren't surprised anymore. They're all cranking up for us on the field. As we go along, people will begin to realize this."

UCLA remained No. 2 for the fifth week in a row by beating Oregon State 38-21. The Bruins received one first-place vote and 1,601 points.

Southern Cal, which had the remaining three first-place votes and 1,012 points, was third for the third straight week following a 42-14 victory over Oregon. The loss dropped the Ducks out of the Top 25 for the first time.

No. 18 Notre Dame, a 30-20 winner over Pitt, took over the fourth spot with 932 points. Florida State defeated Georgia Southern 38-10, its fifth straight victory since being routed by Miami, and climbed from sixth place to fifth with 817 points.

Under normal circumstances, a football game between Notre Dame and Miami could be stereotyped as a matchup of the size of the Irish versus the speed of the Hurricanes.

In that case, then Miami coach Jimmy Johnson believes this game is a definite exception to that rule.

"When you compare Notre Dame's times to Miami's man per man, you'll find them faster at Notre Dame than at Miami," said Johnson in a teleconference Monday.

That certainly would shock anyone who saw Miami dominate Notre Dame 24-0 last season at Miami's Orange Bowl. When Hurricane receivers Michael Irvin and Warren Williams weren't busy running past the Irish secondary to turn short passes into long gains, the Miami backs were outrushing Notre Dame for 149 yards.

But Johnson points to the Notre Dame press guide as all the evidence he needs to argue that things are different this time around.

"I ran it in and out year anyone who knows about football knows Notre Dame is as talented a team as there is in the country," said Johnson.

"The difference this year is they have great speed Tony Morisse, 6-0, 230 pounds," said Jimmy Johnson. "The French also have great speed. Tony Morisse, 6-0, 230 pounds."
