Accusations fly in Hiler, Ward debate

Associated Press

ELKHART, Ind. -Rep. John Hiler accused Democratic challenger Thomas Ward of "saving" the Hiler family in political ads, and Ward called Hiler a man who doesn't back up his promises to voters.

The comments came Monday night in the second televised debate between the candidates for the 3rd District congressional seat.

Ward and Hiler discussed taxes, jobs, defense and the environment in the hour-long debate sponsored by the Elkhart County League of Women voters and broadcast by WSJV TV.

The controlled anger that marked the first debate Oct. 17 was in evidence again, "... folks probably think they tuned in to hear the Bears' game," said Hiler, referring to the televised NFL contest between the Chicago Bears and the San Francisco 49ers that followed.

Ward attacked Hiler's record on the environment, saying the family-owned iron foundry in LaPorte had dumped sand containing no hazardous materials and was removed immediately in a cleanup that won praise from the Department of Natural Resources. "I've listened to you savage my family, Tom Ward, and I tell you what, you're dead wrong," he said.

On taxes, Ward said he would raise the amount paid by the wealthiest individuals and corporations, but Hiler said, "I will not vote to raise taxes."

Ward contended Hiler supported a tax increase earlier this year when he approved raising the premium for Medicare health coverage for the elderly. "Why is it you make these promises when you know you can't keep them?" asked Ward.

Hiler renewed a fight from the last debate over campaign contributions from special interest groups. The congressmen produced a check for $218,051, which he said was the amount his campaign had received in such contributions.

Hiler said he would return the money if Ward would do likewise.

Tropical storm threatens El Salvador, Guatemala

Associated Press

GUATEMALA CITY - Hurricane Joan left at least 111 people dead in five countries over the past week and ripped across Nicaragua from the Atlantic coast to the Pacific before it was downgraded to a tropical storm and renamed Miriam.

Forecasts had feared the storm would regain strength and become a hurricane again as it reached the warm waters of the Pacific, but they said Monday that it was sticking too close to the coast to gather force.

The known death toll from the weeklong storm was 50 people in Nicaragua over the weekend, 21 in Costa Rica, four in Panama, 25 in Colombia and 11 in Venezuela. The storm affected all Central American countries except tiny Belize, and left hundreds of thousands of people homeless.

At 4 p.m. EDT Monday, Miriam's center was near latitude 14.2 north, longitude 92.7 west, or about 156 miles west-southwest of Guatemala City. The National Hurricane Center in Coral Gables, Fla. said the storm had maximum sustained winds of 35 mph and was moving west-northwest at about 10 mph.

The Student Senate urged to serve student needs

By FLORENTINE HOELKER

The Student Senate suspended its normal agenda this week to brainstorm on ways that they might improve service to the student body.

Student Body President Tom Doyle expressed concern over the fact that the Senate has not been as productive as hoped, and opened discussion on ways the senate might improve. "Perhaps Student Senate at this point hasn't brought up points it should be addressing," Doyle said.

"There may be many reasons, but perhaps the main one is that you are doing so well in your other positions," he said, referring to those members of the senate holding positions like class and dorm president.

The senate also discussed the early closure of the 24-hour lounge in the Oak Room. Due to low attendance, the lounge reported a loss of nearly $1000. Student telephone directories are completed, and the senate plans to distribute them in the near future.

Among the suggestions from the membership were subcommittees composed of a senator, a class president, and a hall
500 words are a small price to pay for London

Mark McLaughlin
News Editor

They say a picture is worth a thousand words. So what's 500 words? 500 words is all they want for the Arts and Letters London Program application. One lousy essay. You write more than that for even the most blow-off psychology course.

Basically all you have to do is tell them what you can do for London and what it can do for you. What you can do for London I can't tell you. But London can do an awful lot for you.

Living in a foreign country for four or five months gives you experience you can't get from a two-week whirlwind tour. You learn about bankers and zone one passes and Covent Garden and whether Neil Kinnock is a wally or not. You find favorite pubs and favorite plays, if not favorite airports.

After the initial shock of almost getting run over by the cars on the left side of the street, you begin to get a feel for how non-Americans think. You see that America is not as respected there as it is here. You see how American foreign policy affects people an ocean away. You see that there is more to life than American football.

This is all before you even leave London. The A&L Program only holds class four days a week and has extensive travel breaks, so there's plenty of time to hitchhike to Oktoberfest, drop in on Mikhail, and get lost in Spain.

And now it's time to debunk all those rationalizations... Money? Work two jobs this summer, borrow from all your siblings, and beg for more financial aid. No? Okay, much you bring, you will come back broke. And changed. It's worth it.

Missed time? So what. Whether you miss next year's championship football team or next year's Junior Prom and weekend and An Tostal, you still get to see Buckingham Palace, the Mona Lisa, and the Guinness brewery.

Readjustment? Wasn't it Socrates who said the unexamined life is not worth living? Sure, it's tough coming back, when your wardrobe is 90 percent black clothes and you are no longer a legal drinker and everyone calls you a Eurogal. Better that than four years of Notre Dame conformity.

Boyfriend/girlfriend? If you can't last one semester, there's no one anymore. Besides, British accents are sexy, as are French women and Italian men. Some of them, anyway. Scared? Admit it, you're a little nervous at living in a city that had Jack the Ripper and other sordid crimes committed there. Seriously, I think London is a hell of a lot safer than New York. If you don't do anything stupid, you probably will be perfectly safe. Who would mess with a six-foot-two boy carrying a billy club anyway?

Besides, you also get to live in the closest thing to co-ed dorms Notre Dame will ever see, and become close friends with 80 other students. After four months of doing laundry and closing the Prince Alfred's, you do become close friends.

So fill out the application and hand it in this week. 500 words is only half a picture, and you can reel that off in five minutes, right?

And for those of you who are lucky enough to get in, some advice: Bring Visa or Mastercard since you can get cash with them, buy Interrail over there instead of Eurail here, go plumbers. This is all before you ever leave London. The A&L Program only holds class four days a week and has extensive travel breaks, so there's plenty of time to hitchhike to Oktoberfest, drop in on Mikhail, and get lost in Spain.

Vincennes welcomed home

SAN DIEGO - Youngsters cried "Hi, Daddy" and wives and girlfriends waved Monday for the crew of the USS Vincennes in an emotional homecoming from the Persian Gulf that tempered anguish over the downing of an Iranian airliner.

"We're glad to be home, I assure you of that. This is a nice place," said Capt. Will Rogers III, skipper of the Aegis-class cruiser.

After a brief welcoming ceremony featuring William Rose, mayor of Vincennes, Ind., and Rep. Bill Lowery, R-Calif., of San Diego, the 380 sailors poured off the ship into a sea of relatives, friends and Navy colleagues.

One woman held a sign that read, "I love you Beefcake Collins." A little girl waved to her father and said "Hi, Daddy. You're home!" One sailor bolted down the gangway, crying "Hi, Mom," and hugged his mother.

"It's a tragedy that it happened. But I'm glad I'm home and I'm alive," said Petty Officer 3rd Class Steve Hile of Niles, Mich., who got a warm embrace from his girlfriend, Vallita Lawwill.

Monday's return marked the end of a six-month deployment for the crew of the Vincennes, named for a Revolutionary War battle near Vincennes.

The Vincennes accidentally shot down the civilian aircraft over the Persian Gulf on July 3, killing all 290 people aboard.

Navy chaplain Ted Atwood, who visited the crew from Sept. 27 to Oct. 5 and talked frequently with the families of crew members, said many sailors came to grips with the tragedy on the way home.

"When I was on board, I did not see a single depressed sailor," Atwood said. "Of course, the loss of lives is grievous in any situation. I think they absorbed it and they have dealt with it and they have grown beyond that grievous incident."

The official Pentagon report concluded the crew mistook the airliner for an Iranian F-14 fighter jet and said crew members misinterpreted computer and radar data because of stress in their first combat situation. At the time, the Vincennes was engaged in a firefight with several Iranian gunboats.

Rogers also said the fate of the USS Stark, on which 37 sailors died in an Iraqi missile attack, was in the back of his mind throughout the Vincennes deployment.

With 15 days until Election

Dukakis purchased time for the Dukakis stuck to his late­ said Bush would personally

Whales return to starting point; rescuers continue efforts

Associated Press

BARROW, Alaska - Two U.S. icebreakers steamed toward U.S. waters to join the drive to save two stranded whales Monday, while rescuers appeared to lose ground in their efforts to coax the imprisoned mammals toward freedom.

Biologists stopped cutting new breathing holes through the Beaufort Sea ice Monday evening after the whales, apparently spooked by a ship, headed back toward the shoreline where they have been trapped for more than two weeks.

With Eskimo crews providing the backbreaking labor, biologists switched tactics in the frustrating effort to get the whales through the shallow water.

First, they connected a series of intermittent breathing holes to form a single open channel some 600 yards long. Instead of pushing the ice blocks back under the adjacent ice, the Eskimos used long poles to guide the miniature icebergs to the rear of the slush.

The idea was to try to keep the whales from reversing their course toward the nearest icebergs to the rear of the slot. The idea was to try to keep the whales from reversing their course toward the nearest open water.

Initially the strategy worked. The whales would swim back and forth between the edge of the shoal and the rear of the ice-clogged channel.

"They're doing what they're supposed to do," said federal whale biologist David Withrow, who said a chipping operation forced the whales toward the shoal.

But when the channel behind them was almost completely filled, the whales reversed course, struggling up through the large slabs of ice and thick slush.

Marines to return to Vietnam

Associated Press

NEW YORK - Three former Marines extended a peace offer to Vietnam on Monday in advance of a mercy mission to that country in which they will look for land mines that might still be in place 20 years after they planted them.

The Americans presented a plaque at the Vietnamese mission to the United Nations saying: "In the hopes of preventing the war, we come to Vietnam once again, this time to help preserve the human life, 11th Engineers January 1989."

While the nine-day trip to be made by six former Marines from the 11th Engineer Battalion, 3rd Marine Division, is a private and, in some ways, sentimental journey funded by an anonymous businessman, it has the blessing of both the U.S. and Vietnamese governments.

The Jan. 9 trip is the latest in a series of moves between the two countries to improve relations. Vietnam, one of the poorest countries in the world, is seeking diplomatic relations with the United States, American aid and investment now banned by a U.S. trade embargo.

A member of Vietnam's National Assembly and a key economic adviser, Nguyen Xuan Vanh, made a rare visit to the United States earlier this month to confer with American businessmen. He also repeated Vietnam's intention to withdraw its troops from Cambodia by March 1990, one of the things Washington is insisting upon before recognizing the Hanoi government.

And just last month, the United States and Vietnam began joint searches for remains of wartime plane crashes in efforts to find the remains of some of the 1,757 Americans missing in action and presumed dead. The United States says it has no evidence that any of the missing are alive but has demanded they be accounted for one way or another as a second condition for establishing diplomatic relations.

At a joint news conference Monday, there was a diplomatic difference on whether land mines and unexploded bombs still threaten Vietnamese civilians. The Vietnamese said the mines had all been cleared at the cost of thousands of civilians killed, particularly from the end of the war in 1975 until 1978 when land was being cleared for farming and housing.

"I can assure you that those mine fields have been cleared," said Ambassador Trinh Xuan Lang, head of the Vietnamese mission to the United Nations.

with television. However, the issues are often hard to find because the media know that people will never read something dirty than something important. So I advise that you find an ardent supporter of each candidate and listen to the pitch. Granted, true followers of each side may be guilty of biased and emotional language. But if you confront them directly on your issues, you will discover how the campaign is run, and one of the candidates may be surprisingly close to what you are looking for.

In the end, do not get put off by all the unimportant issues this year. Recognize that real issues are being dealt with to some extent. None of us wants to vote simply because one man is the lesser of two evils. Although neither of these gentlemen this year is going to knock the world over with his charisma and originality, he has different ideas and are in many ways different. If all of this does not settle the coin, Paul Kane is a Fessor of anthropology and government major.

Italy's not quite South Bend, and my housing accommodations are not at all like my freshman home of Howard Hall. For one thing, my room window overlooks one of the busiest streets in Rome. In the distance I can see the Pantheon, not the Golden Dome.

So far the trip has been fun and exciting and all so new it's hard to remember that, yes, I have to go to class. The nightlife is promising and days certainly aren't dull.

Yet, it is work, adjusting and understanding. It's easy, I've found, to forget that the world does not revolve around the United States or Notre Dame.

This fact became painfully obvious during orientation in Assisi. Assisi allows only residents to drive within the city walls because of its ancient buildings and narrow streets. This meant that I had to trudge up the city's mountainous terrain to our hotel. As I hauled my 106-pound carry-on bag, I couldn't help thinking: "Who would anyone want to build a city on a mountain? Didn't they think how inconvenient it would be?"

No, I wasn't amazed and awed by the countryside or the fact that I was walking on the very same paths as St. Francis and St. Claire. All I could think about was how steep this incline ahead of me was. When I made it to the hotel, I looked at the countryside below and I was so sorry. Instead of noticing the townspeople leaning from the windows and lending their shops, I worried about making a climb.

I have a long way to go, and the road, I'm sure, is not level. Rome waits. It was built on seven hills, not just one. This time, however, I'm ready. I'm buying a pair of hiking boots.

Farley Hall: The 'Experiment' Succeeds

accent writer

A degree of relief is promised in the near future with the completion of Farley Hall, named after Father John "Pop" Farley, late rector of Sorin Hall. The fine Gothic structure, located north of Breen-Phillips, will contain room for 215 students..."

It was more than two score years ago, in January of 1947, that Farley Hall first opened its doors. Originally a freshman dormitory, it brought the number of residence halls at Notre Dame to 13.

That first year, Farleyites acquired a dubious recognition of having "the healthiest legs on campus," a reputation probably due to the thrice-daily trek to South Dining Hall from what was then Coke, and root-beer machines in the basement during that same winter of 1947-48, Farley's first full year of operation. These temporary services fortunately appeased Farleyites until North Dining Hall opened in 1958.

"Out along the Michigan Trail stands Farley Hall," the 1949 Dome reads, "pride of its new grass and its new green inhabitants under her roof."

These "green" inhabitants included not only the hall's new freshmen but also their new rector, Reverend Theodore M. Hesburgh. And as the men settled into the routines of college life, the grass began to grow, Farley traditions began to take root, and the dorm took on a character all its own.

Father Charles E. Sheedy replaced Hesburgh as rector in 1949, and held that post until the end of the school year in 1952. Perhaps it was he who first had to respond to the question, "Do we follow on-campus or off-campus regulations?" posed by Farley freshmen, apparently still doubtful whether South Dining Hall was within campus jurisdiction.

Reverend Daniel F. Curtin continued the rector rector tradition by distinguishing himself as the rector of "one of the best study halls on campus." Soon after, however, Farley's reputation was short-lived as the stay-hall system. This event was instituted in 1976 to celebrate the 100th anniversary of college life, the grass began to grow, Farley traditions began to take root, and the dorm took on a character all its own.

Farley Week now includes a talent show, hall awards ceremony, and leadership on campus continued with the annual Farley Week. This event was instituted in 1976 to celebrate the 100th birthday of the beloved Sorin rector who "never taught a class, never said Mass at Sacred Heart, but somehow got to know more students than most of his fellow priests.

"Pop" Farley Week now includes a weekly series of activities: a talent show, hall awards ceremony, a dance by the resident assistants, a hall dinner, and culminates in the "Pop" Farley dance.

Even though Farley never knew the women of the hall that bears his name, says Lenz, "his colorful character lends itself well to the character of a hall. But he would be turning over in his grave if he only knew..."

Arbitrator grants 12 baseball players free agency

NEW YORK—Pitchers Jim Clancy of the Yankees and Doyle Alexander of Detroit were among 12 players granted "free agency" in a key ruling by an arbitrator Monday in the 1986 collusion case.

In a 10-2 vote, the National League and American League owners failed to make a deal for players in an attempt to establish a salary cap. The owners had offered to pay $3 million to the players' union, plus $1 million for each year the owners did not agree to a salary cap. The players had been seeking $20 million in salary boosts.

By JANE SHEA
Saint Mary’s Sports Editor

The Saint Mary’s soccer team tied Notre Dame on Oct. 13. Notre Dame went on to lose to Lewis College in play over break.

The Belles had a close game against Notre Dame on Oct. 13. Notre Dame scored in the first half. Teresa Martinov scored the Belles only goal off of a penalty kick. The team was unable to capitalize on other opportunities it had to score. “I was happy with the team’s effort,” said head coach Tom Van Meter. “We suffered some injuries, but we had strong play from the bench.”

Amy Ross and Anne Sweeney could not continue play due to injuries. The game ended in a 1-1 tie. Adrian College forfeited their game to Saint Mary’s Friday because their team was injury ridden. Saint Mary’s played against Lewis College Sunday. The game went into overtime with the score 0-0. The Belles scored in the first overtime period. Lewis came back and scored twice to win the game by a score of 2-1.

Play was even throughout the game. Having been defeated by Lewis’ 0-1 last year, Saint Mary’s was happy with their performance. “I think this was one of our best game’s as a team,” said Van Meter. “Mollie Meehan had her best game of the year.”

Meehan scored the Belles’ only goal in the game. Goalie Lisa Carter also had a good game and made some diving saves which helped keep Saint Mary’s in the game Wednesday. The Belles take on Indiana University at South Bend in their last home game of the season.

SMC tennis wins District title

The Saint Mary’s tennis team captured its second consecutive NCAA District Championship title Oct. 14-16 at Manchester College.

The Belles’ 18-1 regular season record helped it advance to the District competition. Saint Mary’s finished in first place with 31 points, followed by DePaul with 21, Taylor with 19, St. Francis with 13 and Hanover with 10 points.

Sophomore Sarah Mayer’s performance reflected her outstanding season’s play as she defeated her Taylor opponent 6-1, 6-2, in number-three singles. Mayer also teamed with Charlize Zak to win the number two doubles match 6-0, 6-7, 6-4.

“Our doubles match was close all of the way through the second and third games, but we finally got it together to win in the third,” said Mayer. “We really had a great season. We all get along well which makes it easier and makes us more durable.”

The Mayer family’s talent was certainly exhibited that weekend as Ellen was victorious, teaming with Angie Mueller for a 4-6, 6-2, 6-2 win in the number-three spot. Mueller easily defeated her Hanover opponent in the number-five singles match 6-1, 6-2.

Junior Jen Block’s singles performances earned her a spot on the all-district singles team, while her combined effort with freshman Marie Koscielski won them all-district doubles honors.

“Marie and I worked and fought really hard throughout the season and now it all seems worth it,” said Block. “This is really a big honor and I’m very happy, especially since this is my only freshman year.”

Saint Mary’s coach Deb Laverie was named Coach of the Year for the third consecutive year and will now lead her team to the NCAA national tournament to be held in Kansas City in May.

Clemens is baseball’s best

Associated Press

NEW YORK - Roger Clemens of the Boston Red Sox is the best player in baseball, edging Walter Hofschild of the Detroit Tigers for the 1987-88 season, according to statisti- cal ranking for past two years.

The rankings, compiled by Eliot Schwartz and released Monday, gave Clemens a 99.775 rating and for the 1987-88 seasons, with Hofschild at 96.135. Frank Viola of the Minnesota Twins was third at 96.097 and Dwight Gooden of the New York Mets was fourth at 95.189, giving pitchers a sweep of the first four places.

Notre Dame's Alex Fernandez was the top non-pitcher, ranking fifth with a score of 94.795. The best possible score of 100 has been reached only once, by first baseman Don Mattingly of the New York Yankees last year.

The rankings, now in their eighth season, are used to de-termine what draft choices are used as compensation for free agents. They also are used to compare players. They combine statistics such as batting average, plate appearances, home runs and runs batted in for hitters, and starts, innings, earned run average and strikeouts for pitchers. The sta-tistics used vary from position to position.

Philadelphia's Mike Schmidt was the top-ranked third baseman in the National League and is the only player to lead his position in all eight seasons. Gary Carter of the Mets, who led at first base NL catcher for seven years, dropped to sixth.

Dante Smith of the St. Louis Cardinals led NL shortstops for the fifth straight season and Ryne Sandberg of the Chicago Cubs led NL second basemen for the fifth straight year. Todd Worrell of the Cardinals was the NL reliever for the second straight season.

Atlanta's Dale Murphy, who led NL outfielders from 1983-87, dropped to ninth. Pedro Guerrero of St. Louis led NL third basemen, followed by Darryl Strawberry of the Mets and Kal Daniels of Cincinnati.

At first base, Will Clark of San Francisco replaced Keith Hernandez of the Mets, who had led for four straight years. Hershiser succeeded Hous-ton's Mike Scott as the top NL starter. The Mets placed four starters in the NL top 10: Gooden (2), Ron Darling (4), David Cone (8) and Sid Fernan-dez (10).

Wade Boggs of Boston led at third base in the American League for the second straight year and joined Clemens as the only American Leaguer to repeat. Mattingly, the top AL first baseman for three years, dropped to second, behind the Royals’ George Brett. Mattingly’s score dropped to 87.

Marty Barrett of Boston and Julio Franco of Cleveland tied for the lead at second base, replacing Johnny Ray of California.

Alan Trammell of Detroit was the leader at shortstop, beating Cal Ripken of Baltimore, the AL shortstop leader from 1984-87. Ripken dropped into a tie for second with Toronto’s Tony Fernandez.

Carlton Fisk of the Chicago White Sox replaced Ernie Whitt of Toronto as the AL’s top catcher. Harold Baines of the White Sox and Brian Downing of California tied for designated hitter, replacing Larry Parrish of Boston, who had led for two years when he was with Texas. Dennis Eckersley of Oakland replaced Mark Ech­horn of Toronto as the top reliever.

In the AL outfield, Evans moved to No. 1. Kirby Puckett of Minnesota was second and Jose Canseco of Oakland was third. Bell dropped to eighth.

precipitating all our extracurricular activities.

In recording a 39-22 record and a 16-game winning streak during Murphy’s first year at Notre Dame last season, the Irish made a name for them­ selves by winging game 5 in the lastinning rallies. In the second game of this series, Murphy’s jugglers pulled the other victory out of their caps. "Trailing 6-1 in the sixth inning, Notre Dame scored four runs off Miami’s freshman phenom Alex Fernandez. Sass tripled home Peltier and Lund, then Mike Rotkis pounded a two-run shot over the right field wall to close the gap to 6-5. Fer­ nandez, a first-round draft pick by the Milwaukee Brewers, came in to play the DH and later game after the Rotkis blast.

Sass singled in freshman left fielder Craig Cunnell for an­ other Irish run in the eighth inning, but the Hurricanes scored single runs in the eighth and ninth to extend their lead to 8-6. But the Irish literally walked away with the victory in the bottom of the ninth. After fresh­ man first baseman Joe Binkiewicz and senior shortstop Pat Pesavento reached base with one out, a trio of Miami relievers walked the next four batters to bring in the winning runs and give Notre Dame its sweep.

"The guys realize the game’s not over," said Murphy. "Just because we’re Notre Dame, it’s all about." You work inning by inning to overcome your opponent, and that’s what they did." Peltier went 5-of-8 during the series. During last spring’s Midwest Collegiate Conference tournament, he went 4-of-4 against Evansville’s Andy Benes, who was chosen by San Diego as the first pick in May’s draft.

"He can hit anybody, he can go to pro baseball right now and hit," said Murphy. "He loves the game, loves to compete and he’s an Academic All-American. What more can you say about Dan Peltier? He’s what Notre Dame is all about.

Trip has ups and downs for Irish volleyball team

By MOLLY MAHONEY
Sports Writer

The Notre Dame women’s volleyball team received some good news and bad news during their October break. The good news was that they have survived a rollercoaster road trip and managed to tally the program’s first two victories over top 20 teams. And the bad news? It’s six-match winning streak was over after dropping a heart breaker to San Jose State and two disappointing losses to Minnesota and Iowa.

The Irish, seemingly on a roll after defeating Kentucky which was then ranked 7th in the nation, chose the good news first. Beating 19th-ranked Pacific in five hard-fought games, 8-15, 15-7, 16-14, 15-12 and 15-12.

And their momentum almost took them past 12th-ranked San Jose State as well but the Spartans won the tough five-game match 15-10, 10-9, 12-15, 4-15 and 10-15.

This was the cue for the bad news to arrive on the scene. Notre Dame lost sunny Cali to No. 9 Stanford. Stars Warren Beatty and Faye Dunaway.

The Notre Dame women’s volleyball team lost to the Cardinal 3-1.

The matches against Big-Ten teams were in stark contrast to those the Irish played while on the west coast. The matches against Big-Ten teams were in stark contrast to those the Irish played while on the west coast.

Notre Dame lost two matches as offensive production went to a halt and Minnesota capitalized on the Irish errors to win the match and raise their record to 15-5.

The matches against Big Ten opponents were in stark contrast to those the Irish played while on the west coast.

It dropped the Hoosiers to 5-1-1 for the season and 3-1 in the Big Ten, knocking them out of the weekly Associated Press rankings after being ranked No. 14 last week.

“We’ll have to go easy on him, see how he progresses,” Mallory said of Schnell during his weekly teleconference on Monday. “It’s kind of wait and see. He’s got some swelling and he’s not moving well.

“It’s kind of a day-to-day, gradual thing. In the meantime, he’ll get a lot of treatment. My understanding is we can’t do a whole lot with him early in the week.”

Indiana’s only points against Michigan came on a pair of first-half field goals by kicker Pete Stoyanovich, yet the Hoosiers trailed the Wolverines only 7-6 at the intermission before a series of “ridiculous” defensive break-downs led to the second-half rout. Mallory said.

“What was irking the way we gave up big plays. They didn’t knock us around.”

But when you look at the three big plays they gave us, we just gave ‘em 21 points. That’s just ridiculous.

It’s better than that, the defense didn’t play that shabby,” Mal­lory said. “It was those darn big plays. It was just ridiculous that we would allow them to do what they did.

The Hoosiers, which had been one of the nation’s top running teams, were held to 89 yards on the ground.

BLOOMINGTON-Indiana’s first loss of the season cost the Hoosiers a national ranking and, more importantly, put the status of injured quarterback David Schnell in question.

Dave Schnell in question for Saturday’s game against Iowa, Coach Bill Mallory said Monday.

Schnell suffered a muscle bruise in the lower back area and was replaced by quarter and backup quarterback Tom Bolyard during Indiana’s 31-16 loss at Michigan on Saturday.

Bears edge 49ers in big NFC battle

Associated Press

CHICAGO - Dan Hampton and Steve McMichael led a defense that set up all of Chicago's points and shut down Joe Montana, Roger Craig and the rest of the league's leading offense as the Chicago Bears beat the San Francisco 49ers 16-0 Monday night.

Chicago's victory, which made them 7-1 at the midway mark, ended the 49ers' 11-game road winning streak, one short of a league record the 49ers tied a year ago.

It was mostly the work of the front four - Hampton, McMichael, Richard Dent and Al Harris, which almost completely shut down San Francisco after Montana hit Jerry Rice with a 23-yard scoring pass on San Francisco's first possession.

The 49ers, who got 97 yards on that initial drive, added just 180 more in the remaining 31/2 quarters. And Craig, who entered the weekend as the NFL's leading rusher with 764 yards, was limited to three carries for minus-2 yards in the first half and finished with just 30 yards on 10 carries.

Montana was 13 of 28 for 168 yards, but was just 4 of 16 for 44 yards before leaving the game in favor of Steve Young for San Francisco's final series.

The Bears had just four sacks, but were constantly in Montana's face, particularly at key moments, including a stand that allowed just one yard midway through the fourth quarter after John Taylor's 30-yard punt return had put the ball at the Chicago 35. Mike Cofer's 51-yard field goal attempt then fell far short. They also held the 49ers without a first down after their own fourth down-and-inches try at San Francisco's 45 fell short with 2:31 left.

Chicago's only touchdown, on Jim McMahon's quarterback sneak with 3:38 left in the half, came after the Bears got field position at 49ers 27 following consecutive sacks by Hampton and McMichael.

Rockne and George Gipp are smiling.

"This was a win by the Notre Dame spirit," said Lou Holtz. "That's all it was. It was a win by the spirit of a group of guys who just refused to fold. You can't pick out a hero. Notre Dame was the hero today." Pre-game anticipation for this matchup, swirling with visions of revenge and reemergence into the ranks of the elite, also.

This performance matched the hype.

This game was No. 1 vs. No. 2, Catholics vs. Convicts, 58-7 begins to engulf the hype. By the time the last players leave Soldier Field, everyone is looking forward to the Notre Dame Moment and a game with this much hype and the results as clear as day - a win by the Irish.

But this was a great football game. There were some missteps by both teams on the field. Often "big" Game-Of-The-Century matchups fail to performance which does not knock off the No. 1 team and match the hype. Having a great chance at the national title.

By the time the last players left the locker room, nightfall had begun to engulf the Stadium where the Irish had just fought their way into Notre Dame legend. But you could still see the results as clear as day - a Notre Dame Moment and a 6-0 Irish football team.
Defense

"It took us a while to get a feel for the wishbone (offense)," said senior defensive end Frank Stams, "but once we did all that was left to do was execute."

And execute they did, as the defense led by junior linebacker Michael Stonewocker's team-high 12 total tackles erected a roadblock that virtually stalled the Air Force attack in midstride.

"Whenever we get there on the 46-yard line and don't make fourth down and come up a yard short, then you have to give credit to the Notre Dame defense," said Falcon coach Fisher DeBerry.

"I really believe that the most improved part of the Notre Dame program is their defense," DeBerry continued. "Their defense is playing as good as any Notre Dame defense I've seen. Their defense might be the unsung part of their football team."

The Irish allowed Dowis only 46 yards passing the entire game and completely shut down his replacement, Lance McDaniel.

And after letting Dowis scramble to a 15-yard gain early in the first quarter, the game and completely shut the offense down in the second half.

"We knew Dowis was quick and knew he'd run that play in the All-American Bowl," said Holtz. "He's got to be acclimated to the score."

The Notre Dame hockey team lost 2-1 over Tuesday break, losing on "Tuesday night," a season-high seven goals to Rice (Ho kick), in a home game at the JACC against Alaska/Fairbanks.

Notre Dame hockey coach Ric Schafer decided to want to keep his players' acclimated to the tough schedule tonight at Alaska/Anchorage. "I coached up a coach to put my team, especially the younger players like a game against the first half of the season," said Schafer.

But that was all the offense Notre Dame could muster as the Rice gave a goal to end the first period, in the second period and in the third to make the final count 2-0. "Obviously, we'd like to win them all," said Schafer, in his second year as Irish mentor.

"But we knew what we were up against in Western Michigan. They're a heckuva team and we just couldn't keep them down for very long." It's "almost unfair of me as a coach to put my team, especially the younger players like the freshmen, way up to a situation like that. But that's the caliber of competition we're going to be seeing all year. I thought we played well, all things considered."" Friday night the Irish knocked Rice (Huerta kick) into a situation like that. But that's the caliber of competition we're going to be seeing all year. I thought we played well, all things considered."" Friday night the Irish knocked Rice (Huerta kick) into a situation like that. But that's the caliber of competition we're going to be seeing all year. I thought we played well, all things considered."

After 1-2 trip, ND hockey set for home opener

"I think we might have gone in a little bit intimidated," said Schafer. "Both teams were bigger and faster than we were, especially Western Michigan. It's something I'm sure we'll get used to as time goes on.""(Goalie Walsh and Sundon played just super in the St. Cloud State series. He was definitely the shining star of the game. We're going to need him to play well if we're going to tough against the majority of our schedule."

Although Notre Dame hockey fans may not be accusted of being a "faithful" one, a "faithful" one start tomorrow night, Schafer expects a good turnout for the 7:30pm game.

"Yeah, we used to play them six or eight times a year when I coached up there," said Schafer of Alaska/Anchorage. "One year, 1980, they beat us. But they beat us with a row. The game certainly won't be a breather for us. We'll better be ready to know it's a school night and all, but hopefully we'll get a pretty good-sized crowd for the home opener."

Notre Dame is No. 2 and golden again

Irish edge 'Canes, boost title chances

A season of hype came down to three hours and 42 minutes of football.

The defending national champions came down to one play with 45 seconds left on the clock.

And when Steve Walsh's pass came down in the end zone, down with it fell Miami's 36-game regular-season winning streak, No. 1 ranking and recent dominance of Notre Dame football.

The Notre Dame defense came down as well, rushing onto the field to celebrate the 31-0 victory that gave birth to hopes of the next Irish national championship and pushed Lou Holtz's squad to No. 2 in the nation.

"This was a win by the Notre Dame spirit," said Holtz after the Oct. 15 contest that boosted the Irish to 6-0 and ended the frustration of humbling Notre Dame losses to the Hurricanes in 1985 (58-7) and 1987 (34-0). Notre Dame improved to 3-0.

"This was a win by the spirit of a group of guys who refused to fold," Holtz continued. "The spirit of Notre Dame was something we talked about all week and I congratulate our players... It was a great victory. Indeed. Notre Dame just competed as hard as anything I've ever seen."

Not many college football games receive the hype this game received. Even less are able to live up to such a billing.

This one did.

Notre Dame led the whole way. But Walsh, who completed 31 of 47 passes for 342 yards, a career high for the Heisman Trophy candidate and the most passing yards by a ND quarterback, rallied the Hurricanes to within a point of Irish victory.

Second half keys ND over Falcons

The post-Miami letdown that everyone feared and dreaded never came. Air Force was thinking upset and trailing the second-ranked Irish game by just a touchdown at halftime.

1. "I won the football game, and that's what we wanted," said Holtz. "I thought that in the second half, we dominated the game. We fought for our lives in the first half. At halftime, this was a real football game."

The game appeared to change direction in the first drive of the second half. The Falcons, 5-3, had scored on a three-yard run by fullback Andy Smith with 3:57 left in the first half and threatened touchdowns of the second-ranked Irish.

"We had to go back out there in the second half and make something happen," said DelBelly. "If we could have stopped them two and gotten the football all, we have given our team the confidence and momentum it needed.""}

Miami's 36-game regular-season winning streak was ended.

The upstart Fighting Irish finished down a low Walsh pass and rejecting another.

"I know Walsh was throwing right over the line and I'm a tall guy so I thought I might have a chance to get one," said Alm. He did.

"Tony Rice airin out it like he's never done before, hitting Rocket Ismail and Ricky Wat­ters to set up Irish touchdowns.""Today proved we really do have a good offense and a good defense- we're a complete foot­ball team," said Rice.

"Pat Terrell swooping under a tipped Walsh throw and racing for paydirt, then stopping the most important pass of the 68 throws that day on the two­point conversion."

I can go home (to Florida) and smile again," said Terrell.

A bevy of forced turnovers for the Irish and Hurricanes alike. A plethora of clutch plays by the Irish and Hurricanes alike. Outstanding college football by the Irish and Hur­ricanes alike. Another one in the win column for the Irish, and only the Irish.

Week of hype ends with big win

It was The Big Game with The Big Hype. But after 60 minutes what mattered most was that it was The Big Win.

Several pictures come to mind when one recalls the events of Oct. 15, 1988.

• Frank Stams drilling previously-unstoppable Miami quarterback Steve Walsh and forcing two fumbles. "I just want to get back there and touch him and see if he's real," said Stams before the game. He did.

• Jeff "Tree" Alm's limbs pulling down a low Walsh pass and rejecting another.

I was The Irish who did all the burying in the opener of the two-game series. Notre Dame held a 2-1 lead after six innings, then took advantag e of six unearned runs in the seventh to take control.

Right fielder James Sauss and second baseman Mike Mosier led Notre Dame with three hits apiece, while centerfielder Dan Pettier and catcher Ed Lund each added two hits.

Junior Erik Madsen recovered from a rocky start that saw him hit the first three, and four of the first six. Miami batters to stop the plate. The senior right-hander allowed just one run in seven innings to earn the win. Mike Coffey gave up one run in two innings to finish for the Irish.

Joe Grahau, who recorded a 13-5 record for Miami last season, gave up six runs on five hits and a walk in four innings to lose his fourth of the year.

"We're a long way from where we want to be," said Murphy. "We're a long way from where we want to be, but it's an indication of what these guys can do.""}

But long after the videotapes become foggy and unclear after incessant playing, images of a proud football team, student body and faithful following will remain. For Oct. 15 was a day for the spirit of the University of Notre Dame de Lac. You can be sure Father Sorin, Knute
