Congress votes to kill 51 percent pay raise

Associated Press

WASHINGTON—Congress voted Tuesday night to reject President Bush's pay raise and raise the legislation to President Bush, who signed it hours before a midnight deadline.

Lawmakers were anxious to end the public outcry against the $40,500 increase, which left them feeling, in the words of one representative, like "canon fodder for trash television and talk radio."

First, the House voted to reject the raise by a vote of 380-48. Less than three hours later, the Senate followed suit by a vote of 94-6.

The raise would have become law at midnight without Bush's signature on the resolution rejecting it. Bush had supported the raise but went along with Congress, signing the measure hours after the congressional vote.

The congressional votes also denied large raises for top federal executives and federal judges. Some lawmakers predicted that delaying the raises would accelerate an exodus from government service.

Indeed, Chief Justice William H. Rehnquist said in a statement: "I deeply regret the congressional action, which has prevented the federal judges in this country from receiving a well-deserved pay raise..."

We will not be able to attract and retain the kind of judges we need... unless we pay our judges fairly and equitably." Senate Minority Leader Bob Dole, R-Kan., said Bush told Senate Republicans Tuesday he might ask Congress to approve lesser raises for the judges and executives.

With its votes, Congress rejected raises proposed by a presidential commission and endorsed by then-President Reagan. Senators and representatives would have seen their salaries rise from $89,500 to $135,000.

During its less than 30 minutes of debate, the Senate heard Jesse Helms, R-N.C., a foe of the raise, proclaim that the vote shows the American people that "you can fight city hall and you can take on the Congress of the United States with all its legerdemain and all its legislative ability."

The Senate last week voted 95-5 against the raise, but the wording of that resolution differed from the House version approved Tuesday. Sen. James Jeffords, Vt., who had voted against the raise, voted for it Tuesday.

Jefords said he cast his vote Tuesday to make clear his view that judges are badly in need of a pay raise and because, unlike last week's measure, this vote did not curtail lawmakers' rights to make speeches for fees.

The other senators voting to sustain the raise were Democrats Christopher Dodd of Connecticut, Edward Kennedy of Massachusetts and Spark Matsunaga of Hawaii; and Republicans Frank Murkowski of Alaska and Ted Stevens of Alaska.

Despite the overwhelming House margin, members were clearly torn between their desire for a pay raise and the public scorn heaped upon them for considering the increase.

The chamber applauded loudly when it's Dan Rostenkowski, D-Ill., told colleagues: "Each member of this House, Democrat and Republican, is worth a salary of $135,000 a year."

Approximately 5000 people attended a pep rally Tuesday night in honor of Notre Dame's 1988 National Champion football team at the JACC.

The presentation began with a midnight film of 1988 football highlights, which was met with thunderous applause. Student body president Tim Doyle, who was the master of ceremonies, then introduced the first speaker, South Bend mayor Joe Kernan. "Comments from the South Bend area shares a little bit of this success," Mayor Kernan started, speaking of the team's national title. He then presented the university with a proclamation declaring this "Lou Holtz and Notre Dame football day, week and year."

University President Father Edward Malloy was the next to speak and offered his "Congratulations to this great team, the National Champions of 1988."

Malloy was followed by Bill Parry, the representative for United Press International. Peru presented Lou Holtz with the UPI National Championship Trophy. The actual trophy will stay at the University for a few weeks, after which it will be replaced by a replica.

Father William Beauchamp then presented the Garratt-Pepsi Cola Foundation check for $89,500 dollars. The money will serve as a four-year scholarship for one member of the incoming class of 1990.

The next group to speak were tri captains Mark Green, Andy Heck, and Ned Bolcar. They each praised the team for its achievement, "Rally, page 4

Temps hit record lows; snows hit western U.S.

Associated Press

Idaho National Guard troops Tuesday helped rescue lives- check stranded by 15-foot snow drifts that have buried hundreds of other animals, while the nation's deadly cold snap pushed temperatures to record lows in several states. Some California citrus growers feared the arctic air has caused millions of dollars in crop damage. And in Las Vegas, which dropped to a record low 16 degrees, sheets of ice covered casino fountains and backyard swimming pools. But Mardi Gras revelers didn't let a little cold stop them. Men in mini-kirts pranced through New Orleans' French Quarter in near-freezing weather, as others pitched tents along parade routes.

“I live to just go up and down the street and get my picture taken,” said a man in black face corset, garters and goosbumps who declined to be identified.

At least 79 deaths have been blamed on the cold weather since Jan. 31, when frigid air blew out of Alaska and into the lower 48 states.

Schools were closed in parts of Alabama, Colorado, Idaho, Mississippi, New Mexico, Oregon, and Texas. Scattered power outages were reported in several states, including Texas, Utah, Colorado and Mississippi.

Snow fell over parts of New Mexico, Texas, from northern New York state across northern Ohio, the upper Great Lakes, Minnesota and North Dakota.

Record low temperatures were reported in several cities: Alamos, Colo., had 30 degrees below zero; Sacramento, Calif., broke a 106-year-old record low for the date with 36 degrees; San Francisco hit 32; and Milford and Vernal, Utah, had their coldest February days ever with minus 29 and minus 30 degrees respectively.

Boca Reservoir near Truckee, Calif., was 43 degrees below zero, the coldest February reading ever in California, forecasters said.

In Dubois, Idaho, two dozen National Guard troops used front-end loaders to battle snow drifts up to 8 feet high that have blocked city streets since last week.

Panel members support creation of a government ‘ethics czar’

Associated Press

WASHINGTON—Several members of President Bush’s ethics commission supported the idea Tuesday of creating a federal ethics czar with the power and prestige of Judge Learned Hand, who cleaned up baseball in the 1920s. No final recommendations were made at the first meeting of the eight-member panel, but the czar idea was informally floated by Chairman Malcolm Wilkey, a former federal appellate judge, and instantly endorsed by other members.

The two-week-old panel has one month to recommend to the president a legislative change needed to stiffen and standardize federal ethics enforcement. As they debated what issues to address, former Attorney General Griffin Bell, the vice chairman, complained that the welter of existing laws and rules is confusing.

The ethics laws in government now are about like the Roman Empire when Caligula was... (using) small print in high places to confuse the public. I’m confused,” Bell said.

And “like the sumptuary laws in the 12th Century,” they apply differently to different people, depending on whether they serve in Congress, the executive branch, the judiciary or the military, Bell said.

“Some people can do things and other people can’t do the same things,” Bell said. “But no one knows how to act. We should get everyone the same rules if we can.”

Afghan government prepares for life without the Soviet army

Associated Press

KABUL, Afghanistan — The government has armed 30,000 Communist Party members in Kabul and thousands more in towns and villages in case guerrillas attack after all the Soviet troops are gone, a spokesman said Tuesday.

Nab Amani of the Foreign Ministry said the party members would continue their regular jobs but "have been armed to defend their homes," not neighboring towns and cities after the Feb. 15 deadline for Soviet withdrawal. "Party members look on their weapons as their pride," he declared.

A jet transport was packed with 20 tons of food and medicine for the beginning of a U.N. airlift to Kabul. U.N. relief convoys waited to roll into Afghanistan from neighboring Pakistan and Iran.

The chartered Boeing 707 was at the Islamabad airport in Pakistan. In New York, U.N. spokeswoman Nadia Younes said it was held up for under­mined reasons and probably would not leave until Wednesday.

In Moscow, Foreign Ministry spokesman Gennady Gerasimov said at a news briefing that food supplies had improved in Kabul but the fuel shortage was critical. Soviet aircraft began an emergency airlift of flour and fuel last month.

Yuri K. Alexeyev, a Foreign Ministry official, said about 15,000 Soviet soldiers had been killed in Afghanistan, nearly 2,000 more than the Kremlin re­ported previously. This indicated heavy losses during the withdrawal, but Alexeyev said, "It doesn't mean that during the last months we had the bloodiest period of the war in Afghanistan."

At the news briefing in Kabul, Amani said 45,000 addi­tional party members who had finished compulsory military service volunteered for reserve duty or for self-defense and border units. They include 5,000 women assigned to non-combat units, he said.

About 10,000 party members held a rally Sunday. They paraded past President Najib and Politburo members brandishing assault rifles and pledging to defend the Marxist government.

State Department: ‘hundreds of questionable killings’ in Israel

Associated Press

WASHINGTON- The Palestinian uprising in the West Bank and Gaza Strip led to a "substantial increase" in human rights violations by Israeli authorities last year, the State Department said Tuesday in its annual report on human rights conditions worldwide.

The report, covering conditions in 169 countries and territories, praised the Soviet Union for "remarkable changes" in the human rights field, including the freeing of all prisoners detained for political or religious offenses.

The section on Israel was one of the harshest on that country since the State Department began issuing human rights reports in the mid-1970s. It said the actions of Israeli authorities "resulted in many unavoidable deaths" among Palestinians since they began their uprising 14 months ago.

The Palestinian uprising caught the Israeli army "by surprise," the report said. The armed forces, "untrained and inexperienced in riot control, responded in a manner which led to a substantial increase in human rights violations," it said.

Shortly after the report was made public, Israeli Deputy Foreign Minister Binyamin Netanyahu defended the actions of Israeli forces.

"Israeli soldiers . . . maintain as best they can, apart from a few exceptions, the standards of proper conduct that no country in the world could maintain," he said in Jerusalem.

In a separate statement, the Israeli army's chief prosecutor defended the legality of Israeli operations, saying Palestinian prisoners were given due process of law.

Since the December 1987 start of the uprising, 374 Palest­inians have been killed and thousands wounded.

South Bend student devises top-ranking computer game

Associated Press

White blood cells are the heroes and viruses the villains in a computer game based on the human immune system and created by a 13-year-old student.

The game titled "Anatomic Combat" has been named a top-10 finalist in a nationwide competition and has won a trip to Washington for its creator, Mike Krier, and his father Bill, professor of English at Notre Dame.

When Mike saw a magazine advertisement for the contest, he was already prepared to begin. "I thought of the game a long time ago, and I thought I could put it down on paper and add details," he said before leaving Tuesday for the final competition in the nation's capital.

"You are a white blood cell in a human's body," read the playing directions. "Using your cytoplasm gun, along with various weapons you will collect along the way, you must seek out and destroy a variety of viruses and bacteria. To complete your mission, you must destroy the King Virus Cluster.

Science class provided Mike with most of the technical information and jargon, such as cytoplasm, the stuff that contains many of the basic structural elements of human cells. "For details I had to fill in, I went to the library," he said.

When he needed a name for the missiles, one of the weapons, a science book description of gamma globulin seemed fitting. Gamma globulin is a blood protein that plays an important role in the immune system's job of fighting disease.

The weapons are used to fight off villains such as Attack Bacteria, Monster Bacteria and Virus Cluster.

The game made the finals probably because it is based on facts and isn't just another fantasy shoot-'em-up, said Mike. "It's real," he added.

In the late development stages, Mike had to share home computer time with his sister, Caitlin, who came home from college on Christmas break and worked on her senior thesis. "He would be up late hacking away at the word processor," said his father, Bill Krier.

Overcoming an eating disorder

guest column

My cry for help resembled a sewage render after a five year war between my mind and body. The ammunition in this war consisted of restrictive eating, obsessive exercise, and purging. The casualties of this war added up to one—myself. The war began as a game. Initially my strategy involved starvation. Of course I never thought of my “great plan to thinness” as being the road to a concentration camp victim or an Ethiopian child. But after six months of boycottting food, I weighed less than a fat cat and felt like a death’s head hawk moth was accounted for by the weight of my bones and brain. I took pride in my “victory” over food, I was eating less and had anorexia. Yet, I couldn’t see the grossness of my body. Somehow the nerves to my brain malfunctioned every time I stood in front of a mirror. I saw a fat person with large hips and fat cheeks. Reluctantly I followed my daily routine of doddging meals. One day a size two pair of pants fell off the hanger—unexplainable. I realized that maybe I should stop. But how? I couldn’t bear the thought of gaining any more fat. Like an alcoholic craving liquor, I craved food. I joined my friends for salads for the normal three meals a day, where my incredible will-power turned me into a hero. My friends saw me eat salads, vegetables, and fruit, and never adding up to more than 600 calories a day. But in my “secret world” I would eat dozens of cookies during a study session. I was starved, my body wanted to store fat, yet my hands shook furiously reaching for the next cookie. I was out of control, the addiction had taken over. Yet, I didn’t seem to care anymore.

Every aspect of my life fell apart in the grasp of my addiction. I became afraid to read my school work, for after ten minutes of reading thoughts of a binge consumed me. My concentration level fell, along with my grades. Yet, I didn’t even care anymore.

After five long years the addiction began to take its toll on me. My deep depression and guilt towards others grew overwhelming sense of guilt. I realized how long my actions had been in God’s eyes. I spent most of my day as a hermit; my shame kept me from the light of day. Yet, I still existed. After hours of group discussion I finally felt the guilt and shame lift away. I regained a sense of hope and the desire to live. Admitting to the addiction and the insanity for help fell solely on my hands, but my recovery only came about by establishing a support network. The club. Possibly the most important aspect of Toastmasters is that you are among friends. A Toastmasters meeting is a “workshop” attended by people united for the same reasons—to overcome their fear of public speaking in order to develop skills crucial for proper communication and leadership. While this spirit of mutual support is comforting to the new member, it also makes learning fun. Whatever your goals in life may be, you must be able to communicate. Individuals who can verbalize their ideas so that they are heard, understood, and acted upon, possess one of the primary qualities of leadership. By joining a Toastmasters club, you will embark on a program that will multiply your communication and leadership skills. The Notre Dame chapter of Toastmasters meets Wednesdays from 7:30 to 8:30 p.m. in room 223, Hayes-Healy. I challenge you to take the initiative, and speak up at Toastmasters.

in the midst of a devastating strike, such as that of the Writers Guild over the past summer, people try desperately to make the best of a bad situation. In this summer's sea of dark sets and perpetual reruns, someone had an idea to film a show in Australia, far away from the politics of Hollywood. The result of this voyage is a fish out of water in "Dolphin Cove."

JOE BUOCOL

CBS' newest family drama swims into living rooms nationwide on Saturdays at 8 p.m. "Dolphin Cove" tells of a marine biologist, Professor Larsen (Frank Converse), who, recently widowed, takes his family to Australia where he intends to research the language of dolphins. His son David (Trey Ames) quickly turns to vinegar as his fishy predicament. Katie (Karron Graves) is Larsen's daughter who developed a case of denial in the ocean with Katie. Helpless and speechless, Katie signals the dolphins in a manner that would make Aquaman proud. In a spectacular (and silly) scene, the dolphins leap out of their private pool, over a huge cement wall, and into the ocean to save Allison. Not all the scales on this founder of a show are slimy.

In fact, the character of David and the actor who portrays him, Trey Ames, are the saving graces. David is a delightful character who many of the audience members can relate. He's caring and compassionate to his sister; he's sarcastic yet comforting to his father. In one funny scene, the teacher is discussing great books and asks David to name a great American novel. He replies, "Emily Dickinson." After the students' laughter stops, the teacher asks, jokingly, who wrote Emily Dickinson. David replies, "I suspect her parents did, from time to time." Ames, star of the now-defunct "A Year in the Life" is a superb actor who adds sparkle to the show's murky waters.

"Dolphin Cove" is a dreary, unreal drama that should be harpooned by CBS executives as soon as possible. Without the communication between Katie and her aquatic friends, the show would be bearable; however, as it stands, no treasures will ever be found in this dark "Cove."

Stay Tuned: Dick Van Patten, star of "Eight is Enough," will star in a different type of role in an upcoming episode of ABC's "Growing Pains." Patten will portray a racially prejudiced owner of a restaurant where Mike takes a job. This Thursday and Friday, NBC's "Another World" will explore the subjects of safe sex, loneliness, and date rape as these special episodes deal with the subject of single life.

Two of America's best female authors on campus

In "This is Your Life," three young sisters grow up to become three very different adults. Two of the sisters wear a size 20 dress, yet their similarities end there.

While one gains fame and earns laughs on the "Tonight Show" by making sport of her girlish, the other is lost in a sea of self-loatheing and a hopeless obsession with a man she cannot hope to regain. Her continual awareness that she may never find love in a body which resembles an orchestral percussion instrument leads her into a spiraling despair of sex and neglect.

The daughters of the woman are tied into the story, and the focus turns to the bind of mother and sisterhood and the proposal of its powerful importance in their lives. Sue Miller has gained a tremendous following over the past two years with the publication of her novel, "The Good Mother," and her most recent collection of short stories, "Inventing the Abbotts." Featuring on the struggle in a woman's life between her loyalties to her daughter and her lover, "The Good Mother" has been hailed as one of the most gripping and important pieces of contemporary women's fiction.

The premise seems interesting enough, but in practice it becomes cliche and absurd. "Flipper" fans can easily predict the dolphins are heroes of the show. Ironically enough, the mammals (Larsen makes it clear they are not fish) do not like the biologist. Katie, on the other hand, becomes their instant friend. In fact, they communicate with her. It is like "Beauty and the Beast" in the deep blue.
The expression "like father, son" suitably describes these men's luck with friends. While dolphins do not respond to Larsen, the Australian boys at David's prep school often mock him; however, David finally befriends Kevin as Larsen becomes acquainted with Allison.

The natural spring water in which these big tuna soak quickly turns to vinegar as the ridiculous communication between Katie and the dolphin progresses. In one episode, a jellyfish stings Allison while she is swimming in the ocean with Katie. Helpless and speechless, Katie signals the dolphins in a manner that would make Aquaman proud. In a spectacular (and silly) scene, the dolphins leap out of their private pool, over a huge cement wall, and into the ocean to save Allison.

The Sophomore Literary Festival features its "Buy one, get one" night as two of today's most critically acclaimed women writers, Sue Miller and Meg Wolitzer, speak on their most recent works in an auditorium tonight at 8 p.m.

Meg Wolitzer, a native of New York, is an engaging writer who has been talented enough to maintain a serious writing career while simultaneously writing "The Dream Book," among other litera ture for children. This creative versatility has won her the unique distinction of having her work compared to Ann Tyler, as well as Beverly Cleary.

In this second printing, mainly on the strength of its release by Touchstone this past summer as a major theatrical release. Unfortunately, the novel's name has been tarnished a good deal by the poor reception of the movie, which was universally panned despite the presence of director Leonard Nimoy.

"Inventing the Abotts" has equaled the accolades of "Mother" and won her comparisons to Updike, Tyler and Fitzgerald as a surveyor of the American middle class. Marriages, affairs and lives often crumble like cheap junk bonds when the inner voices of people and families echo the adult impossibility of childhood dreams still held to.

Grants and scholarships are subject to fed. income tax

By CATHY FLYNN
Business writer

Grants and scholarships are now subject to taxation under the Tax Reform Act of 1986, although loans do not fall under this category. "The law provides for scholarships or grants which exceed the costs of tuition, books and general fees, that excess is taxable," said Carol Shanahan, an IRS official. "The easiest way to get for someone not to have to count for exclusion." The Office of Financial Aid sent out information packets to those students who they thought would be affected by this law. Students have the responsibility to calculate and report taxable income, the pamphlet states. "If we sent out information to someone who doesn't have liability or we missed someone who did, they are still subject to the rule," James Malloy, associate director of Financial Aid, said. There are more packets available in the Financial Aid office for anyone who thinks they might owe one, he said. Dates are important when calculating taxable accounts. Aid must be counted from the Spring of 1986 semester until the Fall Semester 1986, including the Summer Session, if applicable. The calculating sheet included in the packet may be a help to students when they figure out the liability. "If they have any specific questions they should call the IRS." The IRS publishes an informational bulletin called "Publication 529" which can be ordered by calling 1-800-444-3767. Also, any questions can be directed to an IRS official by calling 1-800-444-1040.

Stock market closes up sharply; GM announces dividend and stock split

Associated Press

NEW YORK-Prices advanced broadly on Wall Street today amid a flurry of positive developments, including General Motors' announcement that it was raising its dividend. The Dow Jones average of industrial stocks rose 20.07 to 2,347.14, its highest close since the stock market crash in October 1987.

Jack Baker, a market analyst with Shearson Lehman Hutton Inc., said a variety of factors combined to boost stock prices, including the fact that the increase in the Federal Reserve's discount rate, which he said might be expected to be announced during the morning, did not materialize.

Prices also gained on GM's announcement that it was splitting its stock and sharply expanding the dividend on all three classes of its common stock. While the move was anounced, it was uncertain whether the announcement would affect the stock price positively.

Grant and scholarship money would be provided by "junk bonds," he told me. "The sky-high interest and debt load the merged companies would have to pay certainly would force slashing the research and development that not only built our firm, but keep us competitive." Research and development is a key foundation of all high-tech companies, since products typically have a life cycle of no more than 18 to 24 months.

The bottom line is that further consolidation in the fragmented high-tech industry is desirable--and desirable. But shareholders should see something for their efforts and be wary of those that may substitute today's debt for tomorrow's equity. Congress' role would seem to be a simpler one: until then, let's hope that shareholders get the data to compute this in areas, guys, please bust out. Meet new, mellower McEnroe

Former No. 1 tennis player looks to regain consistency

Associated Press

As John McEnroe approaches his 30th birthday next week, he says he no longer feels the fire and spark that display every time he plays a tennis match. And perhaps, he says, a group of people who’ll come out and want to see me yell at an umpire, said McEnroe, is the top attraction in the $300,000 Volvo Carpet tennis tournament that began Tuesday.

"But I hope they come out on the way I play tennis and on my personality," McEnroe said. "The tide has run out. For a lot of years, I had the crowd against me."

"People now still like to see me play, but they feel more comfortable with me. They feel like they know me a little better."

McEnroe left the tennis circuit while he was on top, to marry and begin a family. He took six months off in 1986, and the break made him step back and take a look at his priorities.

"I wished I could have a natural life like Magic Johnson, who loves basketball or Pete Rose loves baseball, but I never could," he said.

"I like to compete and win, but I don't have the burning love of it," he said. "And that kept me from being a little bit better. But it has helped me keep a perspective on where I was. I wasn't comfortable being No. 1."

"When I look back - and it's easy to look back - if I was No. 1, I again, I would handle it differently and enjoy it much more. Instead, I felt there was nowhere to go but down."

Since his break, however, McEnroe hasn't had the luxury of looking down from the top.

He reached the finals of five tournaments in 1987 but didn't win any. He won in Tokyo and Detroit in 1986, reached the semi in Los Angeles and San Francisco, and finished the year ranked 11th. A quarterly final appearance last month in No. 1 was lost, but to where he's wired, Lendl, pushed his ranking to 6th.

Lendl is said still trying to find his game.

"If I don't feel I'm 100 percent," he said, "and that's more important at this moment than ever."

"If that fire isn't burning, the flame has sort of dimmed a bit.

"It doesn't seem quite as important. I've been through it all so many times before, and it's sort of difficult to psych yourself up. That's what's separat- ing me from other players."

Lendl is seeded No. 1 in the six-day Volvo Carpet tournament at the University of Illinois Circle Pavilion.

John McEnroe is one of a host of top-flight players competing in the Volvo Carpet tennis tournament. The 30-year-old New Yorker has mellowed in the last couple of years, but the new attitude has not improved his tennis so far.

During Tuesday's Maxwell Award ceremony, Heisman Trophy winner Barry Sanders denied published reports that he had announced his decision to stay at Oklahoma State next year.

Sanders still not announcing if he'll stay at Oklahoma St.

Associated Press

PHILADELPHIA—Heisman Trophy winner Barry Sanders refused Tuesday to confirm or deny a report in his hometown newspaper that he had decided to return to Oklahoma State University for his senior season instead of opting for the NFL draft.

Sanders was in Philadelphia to pick up the Maxwell Football Club trophy as the outstanding collegiate player of the year. The Philadelphia Eagles' Randall Cunningham, quarterback of the NFC East champions, received the Maxwell's Bert Bell award as the outstanding pro player of the year.

In Tuesday editions, the Wichita (Kan.) Eagle-Beacon quoted the 5-foot-8 Sanders as saying: "I'm planning on returning (to Oklahoma State). Right now I'm in school getting ready for next season and some exams." But in Philadelphia, the Heisman Trophy winner said: "I don't remember saying that. I've done a thousand interviews this year. I can't remember what I say."

Sanders shattered 20 NCAA records last season, gaining 2,628 yards and scoring 39 touchdowns for an average of 323 and 3.5. Sanders told The Associated Press Sunday that he had made his decision but was not ready to announce his intention.

The 30-year-old Sanders was asked why he would want to return to Oklahoma State, which has been suspended for three years from bowl games and for two years from television appearance because of recruiting violations.

"It's my intent to get a degree," he said. "A lot of times I think I'm not old enough to go out in the world." Sanders has been urged by his father and by his brother to leave college and turn pro.

NOTRE DAME STUDENT NIGHT
The neverending story

Day Three: Our students anticipate a full-fledged day of activity to fulfill their need for excitement and entertainment.

Act Three: We find our students boarding the Trampos bus at the N.D. Library and they look dubious.

Colleen: "I'm glad that we bought our movie tickets from the Student Activities office. The money we save can be used on some new pants and compact discs."

Bob: "Pay, check this out! There is a hotline on board the bus and she is giving us some free popcorn at the mall movie theatres until the end of the trip."

Jessica: "I'm so glad that we bought our movie tickets from the Student Activities office. The movie we saw can be used on some new pants and compact discs."

Bob: "Hey, here we are. Everyone off and let's head to the music stores so I can get some music."

Will our stars find their student night as exciting as they think it will be? Tune in tomorrow as we hear about their student night. This script is brought to you by Trampos, the get up and go people.

Svet captures gold in women’s slalom

Associated Press

BEAVER CREEK, Colo.—Mateja Svet gave Yugoslavia its first-ever skiing gold medal Tuesday by winning the women’s slalom at the World Alpine Ski Championships and beating Vreni Schneider and Tamara McKinney.

Svet finished a comfortable six-tenths of a second ahead of Schneider, the runaway leader on the World Cup women’s circuit. McKinney settled for the bronze medal—her second medal after winning the gold in the combined last Thursday.

Svet, just four-hundredths of a second behind McKinney after the first run, was considerably faster than McKinney on the second run. Her second heat clocking of 56.86 was third-best of the run.

“I was sure of my victory at the finish area,” Svet said. “Both Tamara and Vreni were very strong. I was not afraid at all, however.”

McKinney, 26, of Olympic Valley, Calif., could manage no better than the ninth-best run with a combined last Thursday of 1:32.57. She placed third Tuesday in the women’s slalom event of the World Alpine Ski Championships. McKinney had won the gold in last week’s women’s combined event.

Svet, 26, finished with an aggregate time of 1 minute, 30.88 seconds. Schneider had an aggressive second run of 46.04 to move from eighth to second place at 1:31.49. It was the second silver medal of the championships for the 24-year-old Swiss ace.

McKinney, 26, of Olympic Valley, Calif., could manage no better than the ninth-best run of the afternoon, 47.58, and slipped to third at 1:31.56.

Blanca Fernandez-Ochoa of Spain was fourth in 1:31.75, and Ingrid Salvenmoser of Austria took fifth in 1:32.57.

Gretzky is All-Star Game MVP in his Edmonton homecoming

Associated Press

EDMONTON, Alberta—Steve Yzerman and Gary Leeman scored 14 seconds apart in the second period as the Edmonton Oilers beat the Wales 9-5 in an NHL All-Star game Tuesday night marked by Wayne Gretzky’s triumphant return to Edmonton.

Gretzky, the darling of Edmonton fans for 10 years before his trade to the Los Angeles Kings last summer, had a goal and an assist to help the Campbell Conference break a four-game losing streak against the Wales. It was only the third victory in 13 All-Star games for the Campbell Conference since the present format was established in 1975.

Gretzky was named the game’s most valuable player, his second All-Star MVP.

With his first-period goal, Gretzky tied Gordie Howe’s All-Star record of 10 goals. Howe did it in 23 games, while Gretzky only needed nine games for his record-slaying performance.

Gretzky and Jari Kurri, who Calgary’s Joe Mullen scored a goal barely more than a minute into the game. Mike Ridley at 9:35 scored for the Wales.

Leeman at 17:35, the second All-Star record of 10 goals.

and running back Dorsey Levens of Syracuse, N.Y., Northeast Offensive Player of the Year. Levens rushed for 1,300 yards and scored 22 touchdowns, seven in one game.

Nebraska received a commitment from the Far West Offensive Player of the Year, running back Derek Brown of Anahiem, Calif., who rushed for 2,301 yards and scored 30 touchdowns in 13 games.

Michigan was the only other school to receive a commitment from more than one regional Player of the Year. The Wolverines attracted quarterback Doug Muirgrave of Grand Junction, Colo., Midwest Offensive Player of the Year, and lineman Ninif Ag­hakian of Arlington Heights, Ill., Midwest Defensive Player of the Year.

Michigan, brother of Oregon quarterback Bill Muirgrave, set single-season Colorado state records by passing for 3,147 yards and 44 touchdowns. The 230-pound Aghakian, a native of Iraq, had seven sacks among his 77 tackles.

Lineman Mike Wells of Arnold, Mo., Midwest Defensive Player of the Year, is headed for Iowa. He made 77 solo tackles and assisted on 40 others.

Wide receiver Pedro Cherry of Windsor, N.C., Offensive Player of the Year in the Mid­Atlantic region, has committed to Auburn. He caught 69 passes in 1,196 yards and 13 touchdowns. With 25 career interceptions, he could wind up at defensive back.

The Mid-Atlantic Defensive Player of the Year, outside linebacker-end Mark Williams of Forestville, Md., has committed to Ohio State. His 96 tackles included 18 sacks; he also recovered seven fumbles and blocked a punt.

Quarterback Kenny Fielder of Niceville, Fla., Offensive Player of the Year in Dixie, is headed for Florida State although his uncle, former Al­abama quarterback Walter Lewis, recently was hired by college basketball," Williams said. "It will not happen again. There's a fine line of being good and being physical. Play in the Big Ten is physical. From the waist down contact is allowed in the paint and that's how the game is played. I saw that when I first came into the league three years ago.

Bill Frieder of 10th-ranked Michigan said he could see trouble coming.

"The Big Ten traditionally has good depth and size, and we play so hard," said Frieder. "We get players from Detroit, Flint and Chicago and they seem to play so physical. Maybe it's the coaches. Maybe it's the officiating. The officials seem to let things go. We have to call the games closer."

Frieder said that the rough play hurts Big Ten teams when Robert Parish, another playoff-walking-wounded veteran, has appeared in every Big Ten game.

But Larry Bird's continued ability to completely dominate a game and make his teammates look good and make his team soon will be evident again.

Just in time for the playoffs and the who-is-the-best comparisons with Magic Johnson.

Irish meet Phelps' old team in Madison Square Garden

By PETE SKIKO
Assistant Sports Editor

NEW YORK-- Notre Dame men's basketball head coach Digger Phelps returns to New York this weekend. With Fordham, the Irish face the team he began his collegiate coaching career with in 1968. The Rams, tonight at 8:30.

While there won't be much room for sentimentality in Madison Square Garden as Notre Dame officials salvage a road loss to the 10-10 Rams, we've got to beat the teams we're supposed to beat and maybe a few that we're not-- whatever it takes to get to St. Louis.

The Notre Dame-Fordham match-up is the second game of a Madison Square Garden doubleheader. Iona takes on the Dayton Flyers in an opening game.

Fordham is riding a three-game winning streak heading into tonight's game, but the Rams are running into an opponent with which they have had little luck over the years. After steering the Rams to a 36-2 record and a third-place finish in the NCAA East Coast Conference in the 1979-80 season, Phelps came to Notre Dame and his teams have wreaked havoc against his old school.

The Irish lead the series 15-5, and with Phelps carrying a 13-4 record into tonight's matchup, Notre Dame has won the last six meetings, including last year's 64-59 victory at the Joyce ACC.

Fordham is led by 6-5 senior forward Joe Paterno (29 points per game, 5.5 rebounds per game). Paterno ranks fourth on the Rams' all-time scoring list and is clearly the class of his team.

Junior center Danny O'Connor (10.6 ppg, 8.0 rpg) will take up the middle and is the only other Ram to average above double figures in scoring. Damon Lopez (5.4 ppg, 5.2 rpg) is the other post spot, and the backcourt consists of senior Fred Quarlevel (3.0 ppg, 1.3 rpg) and freshman Jean Prilouasse (7.2 ppg, 1.8 rpg, 73 assists).

Head Coach Nick Macarchuk can usually get his team up for a game, and that's not only true for his St. Louis Rams. Tonight, the Irish, and that's not only true for his St. Louis Rams.
