FLYING HIGH

The Notre Dame campus looks spectacular from a Marine Corps T-34B Mentor airplane. The Marines came to campus to give students last flights in an effort to recruit potential Marine Corps pilots. Those students who had the "right stuff" were encouraged to enter a summer training program.

Marines take students on ride above campus

By JOHN O'BRIEN
Senior Staff Reporter

The United States Marine Corps came to Notre Dame last week to recruit pilots by giving students a chance to fly.

The plane rides are part of the Marine Corps Flight Orientation Program, an effort to recruit potential Marine Corps pilots. They were given on Tuesday, March 21 and Wednesday, March 22 at Michiana Regional Airport. Although a military career is not in my future, the Marines gave me a plane ride, too.

The plane used for these flights was a two-seat T-34B Mentor, a fully aerobatic flight trainer that was used primarily in the 1960s, according to Capt. Mark Mitter of the Marine Corps Selection Office in Chicago.

"If you can fly this plane, you can fly anything," joked Mitter.

"The plane rides are for the person who thinks he wants to be a pilot," said Mitter. "It gives them a chance to get behind the controls of a plane and see what flying is really like."

According to Mitter, those students who have an interest in being a Marine would be encouraged to enter a summer training program.

Report ranks ND library 74th out of 105 research libraries

By KELLY TUTHILL
Senior Staff Reporter

In a recent report compiled by the Association of Research Libraries, Notre Dame's library was rated 74 in a group of 105 research libraries in the United States and Canada.

Notre Dame's total library expenditures for 1987-88 were $6,208,325 million. According to the report, only five schools had total expenditures less than Notre Dame's total library expenditures for 1987-88.

"The report said Miller.

"The major flaw with a rating such as this is that it does not take into account how well the library is addressing the needs of the faculty and students, according to Miller.

"We're concerned less with the numerical rating than with how well we're meeting every-..." see TANKER, page 7

How the 'Braves Check Out

1987-88 Holdings of Research Libraries in U.S. and Canada

Top 10 University Libraries

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Library</th>
<th>Rank</th>
<th>Volumes in library</th>
<th>Volumes added</th>
<th>Current serials</th>
<th>Total staff</th>
<th>Total expenditures</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Harvard U</td>
<td>1</td>
<td>11,495,936</td>
<td>3,128,922</td>
<td>102,000</td>
<td>6,319,696</td>
<td>$37,196,490</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>U. of Calif at Los Angeles</td>
<td>2</td>
<td>7,012,163</td>
<td>207,140</td>
<td>74,767</td>
<td>5,740,162</td>
<td>$24,447,376</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Berkeley U</td>
<td>3</td>
<td>7,109,821</td>
<td>195,012</td>
<td>58,681</td>
<td>754,092</td>
<td>$27,254,192</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>U. of Toronto</td>
<td>4</td>
<td>6,208,196</td>
<td>165,787</td>
<td>56,841</td>
<td>54,781</td>
<td>$26,763,650</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>U. of Illinois Urbana-Champaign</td>
<td>5</td>
<td>7,577,066</td>
<td>189,222</td>
<td>92,539</td>
<td>54,781</td>
<td>$18,337,046</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Stanford U</td>
<td>6</td>
<td>5,740,182</td>
<td>161,451</td>
<td>54,781</td>
<td>26,692,650</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>U. of Texas</td>
<td>7</td>
<td>4,588,776</td>
<td>141,803</td>
<td>78,282</td>
<td>26,122,882</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Columbia U</td>
<td>8</td>
<td>5,245,852</td>
<td>140,135</td>
<td>33,918</td>
<td>26,447,376</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Indiana U</td>
<td>10</td>
<td>6,694,275</td>
<td>116,972</td>
<td>75,246</td>
<td>21,288,882</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Michigan State U</td>
<td>11</td>
<td>3,291,739</td>
<td>116,564</td>
<td>56,046</td>
<td>11,516,566</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Purdue U</td>
<td>12</td>
<td>8,201,265</td>
<td>215,216</td>
<td>58,681</td>
<td>8,365,803</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>U. of Notre Dame</td>
<td>13</td>
<td>1,889,717</td>
<td>72,433</td>
<td>15,369</td>
<td>5,265,325</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>U. of Miami</td>
<td>14</td>
<td>2,007,280</td>
<td>50,901</td>
<td>15,369</td>
<td>3,888,455</td>
<td></td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

How others stack up

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Library</th>
<th>Rank</th>
<th>Volumes in library</th>
<th>Volumes added</th>
<th>Current serials</th>
<th>Total staff</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Harvard U</td>
<td>1</td>
<td>11,495,936</td>
<td>3,128,922</td>
<td>102,000</td>
<td>6,319,696</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>U. of Calif at Los Angeles</td>
<td>2</td>
<td>7,012,163</td>
<td>207,140</td>
<td>74,767</td>
<td>5,740,162</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Berkeley U</td>
<td>3</td>
<td>7,109,821</td>
<td>195,012</td>
<td>58,681</td>
<td>754,092</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>U. of Toronto</td>
<td>4</td>
<td>6,208,196</td>
<td>165,787</td>
<td>56,841</td>
<td>54,781</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>U. of Illinois Urbana-Champaign</td>
<td>5</td>
<td>7,577,066</td>
<td>189,222</td>
<td>92,539</td>
<td>54,781</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Stanford U</td>
<td>6</td>
<td>5,740,182</td>
<td>161,451</td>
<td>54,781</td>
<td>26,692,650</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>U. of Texas</td>
<td>7</td>
<td>4,588,776</td>
<td>141,803</td>
<td>78,282</td>
<td>26,122,882</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Columbia U</td>
<td>8</td>
<td>5,245,852</td>
<td>140,135</td>
<td>33,918</td>
<td>26,447,376</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Indiana U</td>
<td>10</td>
<td>6,694,275</td>
<td>116,972</td>
<td>75,246</td>
<td>21,288,882</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Michigan State U</td>
<td>11</td>
<td>3,291,739</td>
<td>116,564</td>
<td>56,046</td>
<td>11,516,566</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Purdue U</td>
<td>12</td>
<td>8,201,265</td>
<td>215,216</td>
<td>58,681</td>
<td>8,365,803</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>U. of Notre Dame</td>
<td>13</td>
<td>1,889,717</td>
<td>72,433</td>
<td>15,369</td>
<td>5,265,325</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>U. of Miami</td>
<td>14</td>
<td>2,007,280</td>
<td>50,901</td>
<td>15,369</td>
<td>3,888,455</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

Source: The Observer

NORTHEAST NEIGHBORS?

ND will not oppose Northeast rezoning

By KENDRA MERRILL
Senior Staff Reporter

Editor's note: This is the third in a three-part series.

The University administration will not take action to change the Northeast Neighborhood zoning, which is not in a multi-family residence.

"For the new zoning ordinance to change, the procedures required, he said. "For the new zoning ordinance to change, the procedures required, he said. "For the new zoning ordinance to change, the procedures required, he said." said Doran. "We would need the neighborhood's support."" said Doran. "We would need the neighborhood's support."" said Doran. "We would need the neighborhood's support." said Doran.

"To my knowledge, the University has no plans to go out and solicit support from the neighborhood to go back to the Common Council and change the zoning to the way it used to be," he said.

"What occurred was a legitimate action taken by the people in the Northeast Neighborhood," said Doran. "The residents didn't subvert..." see ZONE, page 8

The Observer

08/15/59 SPECIAL COLLECTIONS HESBURGH LIBRARY

FRIDAY, MARCH 31, 1989
Sensationalist stories fit a sensational world

Editor's note:

Due to the tremendous influx of news stories this week, today's inside column space is devoted to capsulizing the highlights of the following previously unmentioned items.

Co-ed housing will no longer be considered an option for Notre Dame, say members of the administration. The new residential situation that will be tested includes the construction of a brick wall with girls' dorms on one side and boys' on the other. The measure was sharply opposed by President Emeritus Father Theodore Hesburgh, because it will "make partials pale in comparison." University President Edward Malloy is in favor of the plan, but said he would like to see how it works before making a permanent change.

A bust of former President Ronald Reagan will be designed to replace Mary atop the Administration Building, says Ronald Reagan's press secretary and University officials. The former president said he was thrilled with the gesture saying, "First Gipp's sweater, and now this... was there ever a luckier guy?"

The drinking age may increase once again due to Congressional legislation that would again force states to either increase the legal drinking age, or lose school funds. The proposed bill was introduced by Senator Orrin Hatch from Utah, and if passed would raise the legal age from 21 to 25 years old.

Stanford University scientists working behind closed doors have linked aspartame (also known under the brand name Nutrasweet) to decreased sex drive in laboratory animals. The findings, if verified, could mean that stores will be forced to remove from their shelves all Nutrasweet-containing products, including Diet Coke, Kool Aid, Swiss Miss Hot Cocoa, Crystal Light, and countless other products. University Food Services has decided to stop serving Nutrasweet jello, Sugar-free Fudgescicles, Diet Coke, and Crystal Light.

Early spring ecological samples taken from Lake Michigan have turned up plastic bags filled with mold spores and viruses. Environmental specialists have not yet closed any beaches, but until then, they suggest that bathers "just swim around the stuff."

The An Totall Committee will be meeting early next week to discuss whether or not to cancel the mud pits during this year's spring festival. Although they have always had the pits in the past, officials say that they have received friction between students and members of the custodial staff.

The overall warming of the Earth's atmosphere that has accelerated since the early 1970's, is causing the Swiss Ministry of Tourism to panic. It seems that the snow caps in the Alps are melting, and may never be replenished. Irate skiers have been boycotting the slopes to skinny dip in the Mediterranean.

The Core Curriculum is on its way out. University officials cited that the current curriculum no longer coincides with the academic charter of the University. The new curriculum, said Dr. Emil Hofman, will have no requirements other than the specified 120 credits, and one course each in German, chemistry and marketing.

St. Patrick's Day will never again be held while classes are in session, and all efforts will be made to schedule spring break over the holiday from now on, according to University Relations. The holiday is most popularly used as an excuse to get intoxicated, and generally "party till they puke," and is "in step" with University standards, said Father David Tyson, vice president of Student Affairs.

Editor's note:

Due to the close proximity of this printing to April 1, we the editor do not claim any responsibility for the validity of the aforementioned briefs.
London program will be only flats

By SARAH VOIGT
Senior Staff Reporter

The Notre Dame London Program has rented two new buildings of flats (apartments) for the 1989 and 1990 academic years in an attempt to improve the living accommodations of London students.

According to London Program Director Anastasia Gutting, the Program has experimented with different combinations of living arrangements in the past. Over the last few years the University has housed about fifty students in the West Two Hotel and the remaining thirty in a building of flats about four blocks away.

Gutting said that greater living space and more privacy are a few of the advantages to life in the flats as opposed to hotel life. "Each flat houses six or seven people and each has its own private bathroom, kitchen and living area. There is less crowding in the flats than in the hotel," said Gutting.

The students living in the hotel, on the other hand, share coeducational bathrooms that are located outside of the rooms, said Gutting. The hotel only has one kitchen with three stoves for student use.

Gutting cites a future acquisition as another reason for the switch in living accommodations. "It is conceivable that the University will buy residential space in the future. In that event we want to experiment so that we will do the right thing. However, it is all highly speculative."

Which living arrangement do students prefer? Gutting said, "I have found that whatever students have (to live in) they love best."

Paul Gleixner, a hotel resident for the 1988 Fall Semester, said, "The close quarters forced us to interact with each other every day and promoted a more communal spirit. It brought people closer."

Theresa Loomis liked the coeducational aspect of hotel life. "It broke down stereotypes (of members of the opposite sex) so that you got to know people much better. Now if we were offered the option, I would definitely move to a coed dorm," Loomis said.

Jennifer Buehler preferred the flat that she lived in during the 1988 Fall semester. She said, "I liked the sense of privacy in the flat. We also had better bathroom facilities than the hotel did. I think that the move to all flats would be a change for the better because it would promote more unity among all of the London students."

OBUD hopes to increase job's scope beyond just elections

By FLORENTINE HOELKER
Senior Staff Reporter

Although the Ombudsman committee has encountered trouble several times this year in its operations, it has the potential of becoming a more influential and functional organization, according to Victor DeFrancis, a member of the OBUD executive committee.

In fact, OBUD was a much more powerful organization in the 70's, said DeFrancis. In the 70's, OBUD was in charge of many student activities, including pep rallies, and was considered the "eyes and ears of campus," he said.

OBUD even had an information line available, serving as a centralized info center for students, but in the early 80's the organization fell apart due to conflicts with student senate, said DeFrancis.

Its duties were then assimilated by other campus organizations like the Student Union Board. "Right now we're trying to rejuvenate OBUD so that it is somewhat of its old self, more than merely an election-running committee," DeFrancis said. "OBUD is a tremendous untapped resource of the existing student government, and can operate separately from it."

Another problem is the image OBUD has on campus. "OBUD cannot exist solely as an election committee," DeFrancis believes that unless OBUD becomes more like its former self, it will no longer be necessary to maintain the existence of the organization. "OBUD cannot exist solely as an election committee, it will no longer be necessary to maintain the existence of."

"If we don't see cooperation within the next few years (with student government), I don't see why it would be necessary to keep the organization going," he said.

"The same job could be done by the senate or by the judicial board," DeFrancis said.

Another problem is the image OBUD has on campus. "OBUD has the potential to be much more than that."
US asks USSR to limit arms in Latin America

WASHINGTON-Secretary of State James Baker appealed to the Soviet Union today to limit its export of arms and ideology to Latin America.

"We are looking for signs of new thinking," Baker said. "The Soviet Union now has an opportunity to demonstrate it in Central America."

Baker's appeal was in a speech prepared for a conference in Atlantic hosted by former Presidents Carter and Ford.

Baker said the Bush administration was committed to work with leaders of the hemisphere democracies to promote political solutions to armed conflicts.

He cited as an example last week's accord with Congress providing aid for Nicaraguan Contra rebels and support for regional peace efforts.

However, Baker said, "the United States will never support a paper agreement that sells out the Nicaraguan people's right to be free." Nor, he said, "should any other democracy in this hemisphere."

Directing his remarks to the Soviet Union and others who support the Marxist government in Nicaragua, Baker said: "We must send a clear message to others outside this hemisphere: this is not a dumping ground for their arms or their failed ideology."

Baker made no direct reference to the military aid the United States gave to the Contras in their attempt to overthrow the Sandinista government in Managua before Congress ordered a cut-off.

He said the United States supports dialogue between the two sides.

By MAURA KRAUSE
Staff Reporter

A mass and hall blessing will mark the official dedication of Siegfried Hall this Saturday. The Siegfried family, whose 5 million dollar gift went towards building the new dormitory, will be honored through various events all day Saturday.

A mass for the family, their friends, officers of the University and representatives from the board of trustees will be celebrated by University President Fr. Edward Malloy. After the mass, Malloy will bless the dorm and the dedication plaque. "This dedication is more than anything for the blessing of the dorm," said Lisa Hewitt, student chairperson for the event.

A dedication luncheon will be held by the residents of the hall, "to show how much we appreciate the Siegfrieds. It's our way of saying thank you," said Hewitt. "The theme of the lunch is "Oklahoma" because the Siegfrieds are from Tulsa. It is informal with about 225 guests including the women who live in the new dormitory."

Hewitt said the luncheon will also include a slide show presentation by the women of the hall featuring events of the year. Photographs from the construction of the hall, freshmen orientation and the hall's first SYR will be shown.

A reception and dedication dinner in the Concourse and Monogram Room of the JACC will end the activities. The dinner is for the Siegfrieds and their friends.

Robert and Raymond Siegfried, whose gift built the hall, are both graduates of Notre Dame. Robert Siegfried, chairman of R.H. Siegfried, Inc., oil and gas producers, graduated from the University in 1967 with a degree in commerce. Raymond Siegfried graduated from Notre Dame in 1964 with a degree in business administration. Raymond Siegfried is currently chair- man and chief executive officer of NORDAM, Inc., an aerospace and defense manufacturer and also a member of the University's Board of Trustees.

Two youths on moped arrested

Notre Dame Security apprehended two youths for riding a moped recklessly on campus on Tuesday.

The youths will be charged with possession of stolen property, said Phillip Johnson, assistant director of security. The red Honda Espirit was stolen from the city of South Bend, said Johnson.

Two officers who were patrolling the main gate stopped the two youths after they almost collided with a Transtop bus near the main circle, said Johnson.

The officers noticed a broken ignition and questioned the youths about how they got the moped, said Johnson. "The youths could not explain how they got the moped," said Johnson.

Johnson said that initial investi gations suggested that the moped was not stolen. However the following day further investigation showed that the moped was stolen from the city of South Bend, said Johnson.

"Our staff worked with the South Bend police and is bringing up charges against the youths for possession of stolen property," said Johnson. The two male youths are age 13 and 14, said Johnson.

Prison bus

In Guatemala, a national police officer checks a bus loaded with inmates of Pavon prison, who escaped from fellow prisoners who seized the facility. About 100 heavily armed rebellious inmates remained inside with 1,800 others.
Furor in UK erupts over bomb left in plane undiscovered

Associated Press

LONDON- A new furor over airport security broke out Thursday after the discovery that a British Airways jet flew with an explosive aboard for at least two weeks because police on a bomb-detection drill forgot to remove it.

The bar of explosive gelignite was tucked in a seat pocket in economy class of the Boeing 747, news reports said Wednesday night. Authorities would not say when the gelignite was put on the plane.

The incident was particularly embarrassing to British officials trying to tighten security following the Dec. 21 bombing of Pan Am Flight 103 over Lockerbie, Scotland.

The Air Transport Users Committee, a consumer group, called it "the sort of careless error that would make an airline feel ashamed to operate in the country." The governing Conservative Party said the public was always "_thinking" what airlines in Timbuktu are like if this is the best."

The chairman of British Airways, Lord King, said the explosives worked their way through the upholstery and that a cleaner found them Monday after the jet returned to Heathrow Airport from Toronto.

Police Inspector Andrew Nielson said the gelignite weighed less than a pound and was four inches long and less than an inch wide. He said the substance had no detonator, could not explode by itself and "at the very worst it could flare up if ignited by fire."

King said even if the substance posed no danger, "that's not the point. It might have been something that was dangerous."

He promised an investigation, adding, "If heads fall, they fall."

The explosives were brought aboard the plane to test security but overlooked by police Friday, March 31, 1989 The Observer page 5

Scotland Yard said an agreement with British Airways permits the occasional use of its planes for dog training, and King said he would "think twice" about allowing the arrangement to continue.

Asked who was to blame, King said, "The police say they are responsible for it being there. I am responsible for the airline and whatever it's involved in--we don't stand back from that."

Transport Minister Lord Brabazon said he contacted the chief executive of British Airways, Colin Marshall, to express concern over the incident, which was being investigated by police.

Asked why the police did not count the explosives before and after the bomb-detection drill, Brabazon said: "That does seem rather odd, I agree."

Last week, three youths in ski masks sneaked aboard an empty British Airways jumbo jet in a maintenance area at Heathrow, photographed their escape, and gave the videotape to a television network.

Putting his duds in the suds

Sophomore Damian Shiner carries an overflowing laundry bag to LaFortune in order to wash his clothes. Many students who weren't fortunate enough to have their mom do their laundry over Easter spent this week catching up.

Observer classifieds will be accepted from 9am-3pm M-F at the Observer offices, 314 LaFortune.

Summer Programs
ND-SMC Students
Rome
June 18 - July 17
Travel in France, Germany, Switzerland and Italy
ORGANIZATIONAL MEETING
April 3 7:00 pm
351 Madeleva, SMC
Courses offered in
Italian Culture, History, and Italian Language
For more info, contact prof. Black 4460 or 272-3726.

ATTENTION ALL GRADUATING STUDENTS

Measurements will be taken for
Caps and Gowns

Tuesday April 4, 1989
Wednesday April 5, 1989
Between 9:00 - 4:00
at the
NOTRE DAME BOOKSTORE

HOLLYWOOD GLAMOUR
1924 - 1956

Selected Portraits from
The Wisconsin Center for Film and Theater Research
University of Wisconsin
The Snite Museum of Art, University of Notre Dame
April 1 - May 21, 1989

OPENING RECEPTION
Saturday, April 1 from 6 - 9:30 pm
MOVIES OPENING NIGHT:
"Easter Parade," 1948, 7:00 pm
"Tarzan, The Ape Man," 1932, 9:00 pm
BRING THIS COUPON TO THE RECEPTION:
become a member of _The Snite_ and see the movies opening night for free!

The exhibit is sponsored by The Kohl and Richard Cherner Endowment, The John and Ada M. Busch Endowment, and The Alice Tully Endowment for the Arts.
Space chicks ‘look great’ since return to Earth

Associated Press

MONTMORENCI, Ind. — Eight chicks that have hatched since returning to Earth from this month’s space shuttle mission “look great” but it’s too early to tell how their rocket-borne incubation will affect their development, the student who conceived the experiment said Thursday.

The eight space chicks, now mixed with eight chicks from a control group that remained on Earth, are living in small pens at the Baker-Purdue Animal Sciences Center at Montmorenci, about 16 miles north of the West Lafayette campus.

“I’m thrilled with how well they’re coming along,” John Vellinger said. “They look great. Time will tell what differences we’ll see.”

Vellinger, a 23-year-old Purdue University senior, cradled a chick nicknamed with his initials J.V. while the peeping bird seemed oblivious to waiting reporters and photographers.

Plane

continued from page 1

pilot can attend a no-obligation program.

The eight chicks that have hatched since returning to Earth from this month’s space shuttle mission “look great” but it’s too early to tell how their rocket-borne incubation will affect their development, the student who conceived the experiment said Thursday.

The eight space chicks, now mixed with eight chicks from a control group that remained on Earth, are living in small pens at the Baker-Purdue Animal Sciences Center at Montmorenci, about 16 miles north of the West Lafayette campus.

“I’m thrilled with how well they’re coming along,” John Vellinger said. “They look great. Time will tell what differences we’ll see.”

Vellinger, a 23-year-old Purdue University senior, cradled a chick nicknamed with his initials J.V. while the peeping bird seemed oblivious to waiting reporters and photographers.

Plane

continued from page 1

pilot can attend a no-obligation program.

The eight chicks that have hatched since returning to Earth from this month’s space shuttle mission “look great” but it’s too early to tell how their rocket-borne incubation will affect their development, the student who conceived the experiment said Thursday.

The eight space chicks, now mixed with eight chicks from a control group that remained on Earth, are living in small pens at the Baker-Purdue Animal Sciences Center at Montmorenci, about 16 miles north of the West Lafayette campus.

“I’m thrilled with how well they’re coming along,” John Vellinger said. “They look great. Time will tell what differences we’ll see.”

Vellinger, a 23-year-old Purdue University senior, cradled a chick nicknamed with his initials J.V. while the peeping bird seemed oblivious to waiting reporters and photographers.

Plane

continued from page 1

pilot can attend a no-obligation program.

The eight chicks that have hatched since returning to Earth from this month’s space shuttle mission “look great” but it’s too early to tell how their rocket-borne incubation will affect their development, the student who conceived the experiment said Thursday.

The eight space chicks, now mixed with eight chicks from a control group that remained on Earth, are living in small pens at the Baker-Purdue Animal Sciences Center at Montmorenci, about 16 miles north of the West Lafayette campus.

“I’m thrilled with how well they’re coming along,” John Vellinger said. “They look great. Time will tell what differences we’ll see.”

Vellinger, a 23-year-old Purdue University senior, cradled a chick nicknamed with his initials J.V. while the peeping bird seemed oblivious to waiting reporters and photographers.

Plane

continued from page 1

pilot can attend a no-obligation program.

The eight chicks that have hatched since returning to Earth from this month’s space shuttle mission “look great” but it’s too early to tell how their rocket-borne incubation will affect their development, the student who conceived the experiment said Thursday.

The eight space chicks, now mixed with eight chicks from a control group that remained on Earth, are living in small pens at the Baker-Purdue Animal Sciences Center at Montmorenci, about 16 miles north of the West Lafayette campus.

“I’m thrilled with how well they’re coming along,” John Vellinger said. “They look great. Time will tell what differences we’ll see.”

Vellinger, a 23-year-old Purdue University senior, cradled a chick nicknamed with his initials J.V. while the peeping bird seemed oblivious to waiting reporters and photographers.
Business/government relations are changing

By JOHN ZALLER
News Staff

Alfredo Campo, in charge of logistics for the Office of the Assistant Secretary to the Army, spoke about the changing relations of government and business.

"Many government students do not realize just how big the government is," Campo said, stressing the importance of knowing "how the government does business. Acquisition is a buzz word at the Pentagon."

"Acquisition means all of those functions involved in the production and supply of any product beginning with design and ending with disposal," Campo said businesses and the Pentagon alike are looking for people "who are well qualified in the acquisition process, that is, people who are multi-functional."

Campo pointed to the advancements in computer information management. "You can't sit at that terminal and be effective if you don't know everything about the information process. You have to know far more than you did ten years ago. The demand on the person is much greater today," he said.

The twelve-year Pentagon veteran said he sees a change in government/business relations, and that the budgetary pressures on both, along with new computer technology, call for a "streamlining of the process and more business-government cooperation.

"As islands of knowledge become continents of knowledge and islands of technology become continents of technology, we will revolutionize the way we do business."

Campo, a Mexican-born American citizen, was part of the continuing Year of Cultural Diversity series at Notre Dame.

He spoke Thursday at Hayes-Healy Center.

Tanker continued from page 1

Correction

In an article appearing on the first page of Thursday's Observer, incorrect information regarding the distribution of commencement tickets. The tickets will be distributed Tuesday before commencement, and not in mid-April as reported in the article.

See your Balfour Representative

Monday April 3rd & 10th 11-4:30 Hargar College Center Game Room
Special "Junior Moms" Weekend April 8, 12-3 in the Game Room.

Deposit Required

Balfour
A Town & Country Company

Boogie Till You Duke!

Tumatoe and the Power Trio

I Like My Job!

Produced by John Fogerty

Recorded Live at
- Center Street Blues Cafe, Mishawaka
- DeSalo's, Chicago
- The Vogue Nightclub, Indianapolis

Available Now On Warner Bros. Cassette, Compact Discs And Records

9.99 CD and 6.99 tape Tracks

Mon-Sat 10 am - 9 pm
Sun 11 am - 7 pm
1631 E. Edison
277-8338

The Observer
The Anchorage Times won for his editorial Thursday for a series on al­ native Alaskans. The Philadel­ phia Inquirer and Chicago Tribune each won two prizes.

The public service award was “Dan’s body and soul” for a series on al­ coholism and suicide among native Alaskans. The Philadelphia Inquirer and Chicago Tribune each won two prizes.

The Pulitzer Prize for public service Thursday was for a series on al­ coholism and suicide among native Alaskans. The public service award was “Dan’s body and soul” for a series on alcoholism and suicide among native Alaskans.

Barlett received the second such prize for Barlett and O’Meara for their investigation of banks and their relationships with black neighborhoods. Barlett and O’Meara won the Pulitzer for investigative reporting for “The Color of Money,” an investigation of al­ leged racial discrimination by the city’s lending institutions. They won the national reporting prize for a 15-month investigation of the mortgage lending industry.

The Pulitzer for explanatory journalism went to reporter David Hanners, photographer William Snyder and artist Karen Blessen of The Dallas Morning News for their report on a 1986 plane crash and its implications for air safety.

The Pulitzer Prize for national reporting was awarded to The Louisville (Ky.) Courier-Journal for the series “Being Black in Southern Fries,” which was described as “richly compelling” by the judges.

The Pulitzer Prize for editorial writing was awarded to Donald Barlett and James Steele of the Inquirer for their series “The Anchorage Times won for his editorial Thursday for a series on native Alaskans. The Philadelphia Inquirer and Chicago Tribune each won two prizes.

Barlett received the second such prize for Barlett and O’Meara for their investigation of banks and their relationships with black neighborhoods. Barlett and O’Meara won the Pulitzer for investigative reporting for “The Color of Money,” an investigation of alleged racial discrimination by the city’s lending institutions. They won the national reporting prize for a 15-month investigation of the mortgage lending industry.

The Pulitzer for explanatory journalism went to reporter David Hanners, photographer William Snyder and artist Karen Blessen of The Dallas Morning News for their report on a 1986 plane crash and its implications for air safety.

The Pulitzer Prize for national reporting was awarded to The Louisville (Ky.) Courier-Journal for the series “Being Black in Southern Fries,” which was described as “richly compelling” by the judges.

The Pulitzer Prize for editorial writing was awarded to Donald Barlett and James Steele of the Inquirer for their series “The Anchorage Times won for his editorial Thursday for a series on native Alaskans. The Philadelphia Inquirer and Chicago Tribune each won two prizes.

Barlett received the second such prize for Barlett and O’Meara for their investigation of banks and their relationships with black neighborhoods. Barlett and O’Meara won the Pulitzer for investigative reporting for “The Color of Money,” an investigation of alleged racial discrimination by the city’s lending institutions. They won the national reporting prize for a 15-month investigation of the mortgage lending industry.

The Pulitzer for explanatory journalism went to reporter David Hanners, photographer William Snyder and artist Karen Blessen of The Dallas Morning News for their report on a 1986 plane crash and its implications for air safety.

The Pulitzer Prize for national reporting was awarded to The Louisville (Ky.) Courier-Journal for the series “Being Black in Southern Fries,” which was described as “richly compelling” by the judges.

The Pulitzer Prize for editorial writing was awarded to Donald Barlett and James Steele of the Inquirer for their series “The Anchorage Times won for his editorial Thursday for a series on native Alaskans. The Philadelphia Inquirer and Chicago Tribune each won two prizes.

Barlett received the second such prize for Barlett and O’Meara for their investigation of banks and their relationships with black neighborhoods. Barlett and O’Meara won the Pulitzer for investigative reporting for “The Color of Money,” an investigation of alleged racial discrimination by the city’s lending institutions. They won the national reporting prize for a 15-month investigation of the mortgage lending industry.

The Pulitzer for explanatory journalism went to reporter David Hanners, photographer William Snyder and artist Karen Blessen of The Dallas Morning News for their report on a 1986 plane crash and its implications for air safety.

The Pulitzer Prize for national reporting was awarded to The Louisville (Ky.) Courier-Journal for the series “Being Black in Southern Fries,” which was described as “richly compelling” by the judges.
Non-students shouldn't endorse

Notre Dame has recently gone through its annual spate of elections. The seemingly endless political process has reached its conclusion as the students have selected their leaders, at various levels, for the upcoming year.

Something disturbing has occurred that threatens the integrity of the student political system at our school. Several members of the administration, faculty and staff have unwisely chosen to participate in the student electoral process, by means of campaigning for a particular ticket in recent elections.

One incident that brought this problem to light occurred at a recent St. Edward's Hall forum the day before the runoff election for class offices. Head Football Coach Lou Holtz spoke at this forum. At the beginning of his speech, Holtz chose to campaign for a specific ticket in the senior class election, unprompted by the audience.

Holtz's campaigning was in two parts. First, he gave an outright endorsement to this ticket. He mentioned his platform and offered his support of this ticket. Second, he stated that the two members of this platform who were members of the football team would be able to commit the time necessary to fulfill the responsibilities of their office.

Holtz acted correctly in this second part; as their coach, he is the best suited person to judge this. However, Holtz was entirely wrong in endorsing their ticket. It is improper for someone not part of the political system to campaign for a certain candidate. Such campaigning creates an unfair advantage for that ticket. The non-participating campaigner does not have to live with the results of his or her actions; this person is not represented by the people he or she campaigns for. Furthermore, outside endorsements only further confuse the issues brought up in student government campaigns.

In this case, we have a member of the Administration endorsing a student ticket. This is particularly wrong. The persons campaigning are supposed to represent students, not the faculty, staff, and administration. It is not a part of Holtz's role, as an employee of the University, to campaign for student government officials. Holtz was hired to coach the football team; it is improper for him or for any other member of the faculty, staff or administration to use his or her influence and reputation to interfere in a student election. A dangerous precedent has been set. Imagine the chaos that would ensue if Father Malloy, Father Tyson, John Goldrick, and all the other members of the administration, faculty and staff chose to participate in the student elections.

Holtz was not alone in endorsing candidates during this election season; several professors also engaged in this practice, and it is equally illegal for them to do so.

In his speech at St. Ed's, Holtz said "It may be unwise for a football coach to get involved in politics." We agree wholeheartedly. It is improper for anyone not involved in a political system to attempt to participate in that system. It should not happen again.

The Observer

P.O. Box Q

Apology made for election error

Dear Editor:

On behalf of the Office of the Ombudsman, I would like to offer this formal apology to the Junior Class Office ticket of John Rumanelli, Michael Faehner, James Butkovich, and Eileen Perkins. According to the by-laws of the Constitution, the Office of the Ombudsman is required to print the names of the candidates running for class office prior to the election in The Observer. We made a procedural oversight and failed to publish the list; the aforementioned candidates brought this error to our attention. The error was completely unintentional, and, in no way, did the Office of the Ombudsman intend to grant an advantage or disadvantage to any of the candidates running for class office.

In future elections, we will make every effort to ensure that this error is not committed again. We would like to thank the candidates for their diligence and patience.

Victor DeFrances
Viewman Hall
March 28, 1989

Public learns from athletes' mistakes

Dear Editor:

I am writing in response to Robyn Simmons' March 14 article, "ND Football Coaches are 'Parents of Human Beings,'" concerning Mike Stonebreaker's and Tony Brooks' recent brushes with the law. I am studying in the Washington semester program from Saint Mary's, and news of the events arrived in D.C. just hours after they occurred. I am certain that I received the news as soon as, if not sooner than, any of my friends here in South Bend. I think that the news would have been reported whether or not football players had been involved. That's the type of news events these days.

Ms. Simmons asks in her article, "If the students who broke the law were just 'ordinary' Notre Dame undergraduates, would the Chicago Tribune be prompted to run a headline like 'Brooks joins Stonebreaker on police blotter?'" Of course they wouldn't. But, what she failed to mention was that the article in question appeared in the Tribune's sports section, which always highlights the activities of sport celebrities, on or off the field. A police arrest, especially that of an athlete, is reproducible. When the media focus on sport celebrities, such unfortunate events are brought to light. Football players, whether they like it or not, are constantly in the public eye. Thus, they come under public scrutiny when they break a law. Laws are created for a reason, and are not meant to be carelessly broken, especially by someone whom people think to be a "god" as the article suggests.

The arrest of Mike Stonebreaker and Tony Brooks serves as reminders that athletes are not "gods," but since they are held in high regard, the public should be made aware of their shortcomings, so that others may learn from their mistakes.

Susan E. O'Connor
(Le Mans Hall
Washington, D.C.
March 16, 1989

Campus Ministry helps out needy

Dear Editor:

I would like to express a heartfelt thanks to the Campus Ministry and the Sisters of the Holy Cross for their kind and generous donations to the Appalac­ha Seminar held over spring break.

It was a most enjoyable experience to learn about a new and different part of America, so often ignored. The donations allowed us to contribute more productively during our stay. We were able to put up walls in a warehouse and make a donation to the center we stayed at.

I encourage students and groups to continue to support the Appalachia Seminar. The greater the donations, the more work that can be done by the willing and able students who take the time and interest to donate their services to this needy and impoverished region.

Tara Coackshill
Walsh Hall
March 30, 1989

P.O. Box Q

Quote of the Day

"We cannot expect to live by our convictions and fully satisfy everyone.'"

-John C. Tormey
Snite series focuses on the Hollywood 'glamour era'

JANICE ARCHER
assistant writer

W hen most people think of their favorite actor or actress, they think of riches and glamour come to mind. The opulent lifestyles of most movie stars are well-documented in gossip columns and magazines. This traditional way of life for those in the public spotlight has been captured in an exhibit at the Snite Museum of Art entitled, "Hollywood Glamour, 1924-1966." The exhibit, running from April 1 through May 21, traces the evolution of the genre of portrait photography. It features 60 black-and-white portraits of movie idols of the period, such as John Wayne, Joan Crawford, and Cary Grant. The gelatin prints represent the work of the finest portrait photographers of the "classic" era of Hollywood, such as George Hurrell, Edward Steichen, and Clarence Sinclair Bull. The exhibit is divided into five groups of common Hollywood portrait formulas: "expressive hands," "dressing up" (costumes), "the smoking section," "stars at rest" and "the direct gaze.

Many other events are connected to "Hollywood Glamour," such as a series of lectures. Brenda Madden, a member of the Snite Museum staff, will lecture on star appeal on April 7 and 21, at 2 p.m. in the Print, Drawing, and Photography Gallery of the Snite. Madden will discuss the enigma of star quality, focusing on 10 movie stars of the thirties. To lend a sense of reality to her talk, Madden will be appearing as her idol and one of the subjects of her lecture, Joan Crawford.

Alexei Pfeckner Ducey, the second lecturer, is director of the Film Archives at the Wisconsin Center for Film and Theater Research. She will be speaking in the Annenberg Auditorium on Thursday, April 13, from 4:15 to 5 p.m. The topic will be "Hollywood in the Heartland."

Pam Falkenberg, an assistant professor of communications and theatre at Notre Dame, will be speaking about "The Hollywood Star System and the Politics of Glamour.

The lecture will take place at the Snite on April 27 at 4:15 p.m. Falkenberg plans to

Cavanaugh play is refreshing humor

CHRISTINE McCANN

Cavanaugh Hall presented its seventh annual production last night with Woody Allen's "Don't Drink the Water." Set in an American Embassy in a communist country, it chronicles the escapades of Axel Magee, the bumbling son of the ambassador, who has been placed in charge of affairs during his father's absence. Unfortunately, a family of American tourists, mistakenly taken for spies, takes over the embassy and chaos ensues.

Nathan Fitzgerald, who plays Axel Magee, does a fine job of using the script to develop his own interpretation of the character. Also to be commended are Roseanne DiBenedetto and Martin Schubert, the American tourists, whose continual bickering and perfect timing provide more than adequate comic relief, and they occasionally manage to carry the show.

Amy Ursano, who plays Barrett, the ambassador's aide, and Kerrie Ann Shannon, the tour group's daughter, have created strong roles and consistently remain in character, as do the majority of the players; this is one of the main reasons that the show is so successful (although the script was well chosen to begin with) and will appeal to all.

There is, as in most productions, an occasional bungled line and nervous stutter; however, a professional attitude embraced by the entire cast and an almost uncanny

MOVIES "Cocktail" Engineering Auditorium, 8, 10:15 p.m.
"Sherman's March" Annenberg Auditorium, 8:00 p.m.

MOVIES "Wall Street" Engineering Auditorium, 8, and 10:15 p.m.
"Tarzan the Ape Man" Annenberg Auditorium, 7 p.m.
"Cocktail" Engineering Auditorium, 8, 10:15 p.m.
"Sherman's March" Annenberg Auditorium, 4 p.m. free.

MUSIC "continuum" Chamber ensemble performing Music of the Schoenberg Circle. Annenberg, 8 p.m. free.
Organs recital in combination with the concert" (costumes), "the smoking section," "stars at rest" and "the direct gaze.

"Hollywood Glamour," such as a series of lectures. Brenda Madden, a member of the Snite Museum staff, will lecture on star appeal on April 7 and 21, at 2 p.m. in the Print, Drawing, and Photography Gallery of the Snite. Madden will discuss the enigma of star quality, focusing on 10 movie stars of the thirties. To lend a sense of reality to her talk, Madden will be appearing as her idol and one of the subjects of her lecture, Joan Crawford.

Alexei Pfeckner Ducey, the second lecturer, is director of the Film Archives at the Wisconsin Center for Film and Theater Research. She will be speaking in the Annenberg Auditorium on Thursday, April 13, from 4:15 to 5 p.m. The topic will be "Hollywood in the Heartland."

Pam Falkenberg, an assistant professor of communications and theatre at Notre Dame, will be speaking about "The Hollywood Star System and the Politics of Glamour.

The lecture will take place at the Snite on April 27 at 4:15 p.m. Falkenberg plans to

Cavanaugh play is refreshing humor

CHRISTINE McCANN

Cavanaugh Hall presented its seventh annual production last night with Woody Allen's "Don't Drink the Water." Set in an American Embassy in a communist country, it chronicles the escapades of Axel Magee, the bumbling son of the ambassador, who has been placed in charge of affairs during his father's absence. Unfortunately, a family of American tourists, mistakenly taken for spies, takes over the embassy and chaos ensues.

Nathan Fitzgerald, who plays Axel Magee, does a fine job of using the script to develop his own interpretation of the character. Also to be commended are Roseanne DiBenedetto and Martin Schubert, the American tourists, whose continual bickering and perfect timing provide more than adequate comic relief, and they occasionally manage to carry the show.

Amy Ursano, who plays Barrett, the ambassador's aide, and Kerrie Ann Shannon, the tour group's daughter, have created strong roles and consistently remain in character, as do the majority of the players; this is one of the main reasons that the show is so successful (although the script was well chosen to begin with) and will appeal to all.

There is, as in most productions, an occasional bungled line and nervous stutter; however, a professional attitude embraced by the entire cast and an almost uncanny
Siskel and Sheen discuss values in American film industry

ELIZABETH EHRET

The Thin Man.

The film will include songs that will discuss how they have been said,

to be free, so all classic movie centric, student government. Campus Ministry, the College of Business Administration. and the Center for Social Concerns, cnerns, student government, Campus Ministry, the College of Business Administration and other departments at the University will sponsor a week-long series, American Values/American Film, in which she will explore the cultural values conveyed through the film industry. It will explore the correlation between the themes in movies and the beliefs of the American public: how much are we influenced by what we see at the movies?

The series includes three films: "Cocktail," "Wall Street" and "Risky Business," which will run tonight, Saturday and Monday evenings, respectively. Actor

Martin Sheen will give a lecture on Tuesday, April 4, at 8 p.m. In addition, there will be a panel discussion with Professor Thomas Morris, an ethicist in the philosophy department; Professor John Houck, an expert on business ethics from Notre Dame; and film critic Gene Siskel on Thursday, April 6, at 7 p.m. All events will be held in the Engineering Auditorium.

Tickets for the panel discussion and the lecture are available at the Information Desk in LaFortune Hall. Public: free, students: $3.50.

Critics and audiences have recognized and applauded Sheen in films such as

"Apocalypse Now," "Catch­

22," "Gandhi" and "Firestarter." Sheen has extensive tiveness, film and television experience. His professional career began in 1969 in

New York with The Open Theatre's production of

"The Connection" and has continued successfully for 30 years, including his soon-to-be released film, "State of Emergency." In his lecture, Sheen will explore the movie industry in a Judea-Christian context and how today's films reflect, or do not reflect, Judeo-Christian values.

GENE SISKEL

Gene Siskel is a nationally­ known film critic and personality. He joined the Chicago

Tribune in 1969 as a reporter and became the film critic seven months later. He held that position for 17 years and has also co-hosted the highest-rated half-hour weekly program in the Public

Broadcasting System's history, "Sneak Previews." He is now the Tribune's syndicated film columnist and co­ host of another popular film review show, "Siskel & Ebert."

These events were organzized by students Bob Hawkins and Tony Lang, and Dr. Michael Affleck, coordinator of justice and peace programing and education at the Center for Social Concerns. Sheen and Siskel were invited by Affleck.

The American

Values/American Film series stretches to combine film and discussion to challenge our values and beliefs. Although most of us would prefer to believe that the situations portrayed in movies do not in­ exist, we should recognize society's pressures to conform. Status, sex and social enterprises are the

norms in popular American

movies. They

may not reflect what we would like to believe, but they may also challenge our standards of behavior. As Gene

Siskel says, “I believe that the situations portrayed in movies do not in­
exist, we should recognize society's pressures to

conform. Status, sex and

social enterprises are the

norms in popular American

movies. They

may not reflect what we would like to believe, but they

may also challenge our standards of behavior. As Gene

Siskel says, “I believe that the situations portrayed in movies do not in­
exist, we should recognize society's pressures to

conform. Status, sex and

social enterprises are the

norms in popular American

movies. They

may not reflect what we would like to believe, but they

may also challenge our standards of behavior. As Gene

Siskel says, “I believe that the situations portrayed in movies do not in­
exist, we should recognize society's pressures to

conform. Status, sex and

social enterprises are the

norms in popular American

movies. They

may not reflect what we would like to believe, but they

may also challenge our standards of behavior. As Gene

Siskel says, “I believe that the situations portrayed in movies do not in­
exist, we should recognize society's pressures to

conform. Status, sex and

social enterprises are the

norms in popular American

movies. They

may not reflect what we would like to believe, but they

may also challenge our standards of behavior. As Gene

Siskel says, “I believe that the situations portrayed in movies do not in­
exist, we should recognize society's pressures to

conform. Status, sex and

social enterprises are the

norms in popular American

movies. They

may not reflect what we would like to believe, but they

may also challenge our standards of behavior. As Gene
Eighth Holy Cross priests will be ordained in Sacred Heart Church on Saturday, and I wish I knew each of them personally. Each year, I have this same thought about the newly-ordained priests, but I can never find the bridge over untroubled waters that connects my world with theirs. (Surely "untroubled" is the appropriate word here; for, as Thoreau answered when asked on his deathbed whether he had made his peace with God, "I'm not aware that we have ever quarreled.")

Father Robert Griffin

Letters to a Lonely God

In June, I will celebrate my 35th anniversary as a priest. Yet in all that time, I have never preached at a first Mass or given the homily at a priest's funeral. That realization makes me sad, for it seems to mean that even when I get close to another priest, somebody else ahead of me is always closer, and that no priest I know has ever regarded me as his closest friend—though I could point out that two very dear friends I used to have in Holy Cross are now out of the Community.

I would like to be a priest whom other priests lean on. At a distance, I lean on them in my own shy way; for no priest is an island, nor should he want to be. Tomorrow, when the new priests are ordained, I will feel blessed by the fallout of grace that comes to the Church when young men give themselves to Christ, but I will regret not being close to them as an old-timer who should have been out front cheering for them during their years in the seminary.

If I were ever invited to preach at a first Mass, I'm not sure what I'd say. The deepest things I feel as a priest talking to other priests can't be put into words; if they were, they would sound sentimental, like the cards we send to our mothers on Mothers' Day. Laymen suspect priests of forming a closed network of good ol' boys practicing to be Jesus; but that's not so for more than 15 minutes in any priest's life. The priest who carries zeal around like a chip on his shoulder needs to have his burners turned down.

What priests have in common is that each of them has made a commitment to God, and one watches the other out of the corner of his eye, to see whether the other's commitment is fulfilling him or killing him. Whether you're young or old, you can become tired as a priest. Greater love no priest has than this, that he try to lighten the burden on his brother, when that brother is worn out from the baggage he's carrying. Shouldn't a new priest be suffering, she felt she was made it all in her physical country ... death will bridge over untroubled waters Christ, but I will regret not seeing whether he had made his peace with God, "I'm not aware that we have ever quarreled.""

Tomorrow, when the new priests are ordained, I will feel blessed by the fallout of grace that comes to the Church when young men give themselves to Christ.

In June, I will celebrate my 35th anniversary as a priest. Yet in all that time, I have never preached at a first Mass or given the homily at a priest's funeral. That realization makes me sad, for it seems to mean that even when I get close to another priest, somebody else ahead of me is always closer, and that no priest I know has ever regarded me as his closest friend—though I could point out that two very dear friends I used to have in Holy Cross are now out of the Community.

I would like to be a priest whom other priests lean on. At a distance, I lean on them in my own shy way; for no priest is an island, nor should he want to be. Tomorrow, when the new priests are ordained, I will feel blessed by the fallout of grace that comes to the Church when young men give themselves to Christ, but I will regret not being close to them as an old-timer who should have been out front cheering for them during their years in the seminary.

If I were ever invited to preach at a first Mass, I'm not sure what I'd say. The deepest things I feel as a priest talking to other priests can't be put into words; if they were, they would sound sentimental, like the cards we send to our mothers on Mothers' Day. Laymen suspect priests of forming a closed network of good ol' boys practicing to be Jesus; but that's not so for more than 15 minutes in any priest's life. The priest who carries zeal around like a chip on his shoulder needs to have his burners turned down.

What priests have in common is that each of them has made a commitment to God, and one watches the other out of the corner of his eye, to see whether the other's commitment is fulfilling him or killing him. Whether you're young or old, you can become tired as a priest. Greater love no priest has than this, that he try to lighten the burden on his brother, when that brother is worn out from the baggage he's carrying. Shouldn't a new priest be suffering, she felt she was made it all in her physical country ... death will bridge over untroubled waters Christ, but I will regret not seeing whether he had made his peace with God, "I'm not aware that we have ever quarreled.""

Tomorrow, when the new priests are ordained, I will feel blessed by the fallout of grace that comes to the Church when young men give themselves to Christ.

Friday:

It's a Latin Fiesta!

featuring:

SUPER COMBO

PAN AMERICANO

Dance! Balle! Secret Agent Band

Energetic sixties rock! With a twist (and shout)!

Show starts at 9:30 pm

ND/SMC ID Required
Louisiana you are NEAR.

I

Bridget's. $REWARD$-x1142 LOST LOST BUILDING STRUCTURE： COMES W/ WASHING MACHINES AND DRYERS. Location: 401 N. 4th St. Laundry, Local phone: 848-6626, Fax: 848-6626.

Senor Kelly's. See ad.

COME BY SENOR KELLY'S SAT. 10.ences. For TIES! WEEKEND: OPENINGS for adults. Flexible hours, $8.00-$17.00. TYPING ter&tesumes. Residential Homes. Local phone: 848-6626, Fax: 848-6626.

CASH!!

NEED

four teams here could win the state championship. Tennessee win 15 in a row, in including a 72-65 victory over previously unbeaten Augusta in Athens, Ga., for the Southeastern Conference tournament championship. Tennessee's win was record by seniors Bridgette Gordon, Jeri Bassett Frost and Melissa McCray.

Maryland takes a 21-game winning string into the Tennes­see game, its first Final Four appearance. Maryland's top returning player is sophomore forward Vicky Bul­lett. The luck of its offense with a 21.4 scoring average and 8.8 rebounds a game. Maryland's 7-foot-2-inch forward, Jayne Chu. Auburn-Tech-Auburn semifinal will give Clampi an opportunity for revenge. Clampi thought his team was in excellent position to win the game in the regional championship game last year when they led by a dozen points, 31-19.

But you have to play a full game, you can't just play 20 minutes," Clampi said. "We know we can do nothing more than to beat us this year," said Barrmore.

Auburn's loss to Tennessee, its lone defeat of the season, left the Tigers No. 1 national ranking after start­ting the season 28-6.

The Observer Notre Dame office, located on the third floor of LaFortune Student Center, accepts classifieds beginning at 10 a.m. until 5 p.m. Monday through Friday. The Observer Notre Dame office, located on the third floor of Haggar College Center, accepts classifieds from 12:30 p.m. until 3 p.m. Monday through Friday. Deadline for next-day classifieds is 3 p.m. All classifieds must be prepaid, either in person or by mail. Sale prices are in 50 cent intervals.

ASSOCIATED PRESS

TACOMA, Wash. — Louisiana Tech is the defending cham­pion, but top-ranked Tennessee is rated at least the equal of the NCAA women's Final Four, which gets under way today in the Tacoma Dome Friday night.

"They're ranked number one and we're ranked number two," said Lady Techsters Coach Leon Barmore.

"If that's what it means, I don't see why that's right," protested Tennessee Coach Pat Summitt. "I think any of the four teams here could win it.

Tennessee, 33-2, will meet fifth-ranked Maryland, 29-3, in the semifinal game at 8:30 p.m. PST after No. 2 Auburn, 31-1, takes on No. 3 Louisiana Tech, 53-2, at 6 p.m. EST.

The championship game will be played Sunday at 1:10 p.m. PST.

Louisiana Tech, Auburn and Tennessee were in last year's Final Four in Tacoma, with the Louisiana Tech team over­coming a 14-point deficit to beat Coach Joe Ciampi's Lady Techsters.

"Those things tend to stay with you for awhile," Ciampi said.

"I hope we can use that to motivate us this year.

Last year's, the East Region final for the Lady Techsters, was eliminated 94-86 by Tennessee in the East Regional final versus Bowling Green, Ky., last week.

The break lost a 25-game win­ning streak for the 40ers. Summit's Lady Volunteers will take their 27-game winning streak into their fourth Final Four in a row. Summit was selected as the National Coach of the Year for the second time in three seasons.

Tennessee's last loss came 69-67 against Texas in Austin Jan. 31, in a game in which the Lady Volunteers lost their starting front point guard, Tonya Edwards, with a season-ending knee injury.

Freshman Dena Head took over as Tennessee's leading scorer as Tennessee won 15 in a row, in­cluding a 72-65 victory over Louisiana Tech and a 66-51 win over previously unbeaten Augusta in Athens, Ga., for the Southeastern Conference tournament championship.

The luck of its offense with a 21.4 scoring average and 8.8 rebounds a game. Maryland's 7-foot-2-inch forward, Jayne Chu. Auburn-Tech-Auburn semifinal will give Clampi an opportunity for revenge. Clampi thought his team was in excellent position to win the game in the regional championship game last year when they led by a dozen points, 31-19.

But you have to play a full game, you can't just play 20 minutes," Clampi said. "We know we can do nothing more than to beat us this year," said Barrmore.

Auburn's loss to Tennessee, its lone defeat of the season, left the Tigers No. 1 national ranking after start­ting the season 28-6.
Illinois reaches Final Four despite past NCAA failures

Associated Press

SEATTLE - Illinois arrived at the Final Four Thursday, two hours late according to the clock and at least two years late according to the critics. But that's OK with Lou Henson, whose rather unorthodox thinking says he must be a good coach even if he didn't always win when people expected him to.

Henson doesn't take it personally and insists he doesn't feel vindicated now that, after a pair of embarrassing past two seasons, his team is in the Final Four.

"You have to remember this: they say that about anybody with good teams," Henson said after the Fighting Illini arrived in Seattle.

"If you get to the NCAAs like we have the last nine or ten years and you don't get in the Final Four, sooner or later they're going to say 'Can the coach get them there?'" he said.

Two seasons ago, Henson's team was stunned in the first round by Austin Peay. Last year, it was a second-round loss to Villanova.

For seven straight seasons, the Illini made the NCAA tournament but fell short of the Final Four.

But this year, the team won the Midwest Regional, beating Syracuse 89-86 in the final in Minneapolis to become the only No. 1 seed to make it to Seattle. The third-ranked Illini, 31-4, meet Big Ten Conference rival Michigan, a team they already have beaten twice, in the semifinals Saturday at the Kingdome.

Illinois is making its first Final Four appearance in 27 years, but Henson is making his second. His New Mexico State team lost to eventual champion UCLA in the semifinals in 1985.

The coach discounts his experience as a factor.

"I think the experience of your players and how they play is the key," he said. "The experience of the coaches, I don't think, has a lot to do with it because most coaches know how to handle a team in a situation like this. It's just getting players who have the experience to handle all the hype.

For one week this season, the Illini were the top-ranked team in the country, so they're no strangers to pressure.

"I think we were ranked No. 1 back in January really helped us because we were exposed to a lot of hype at that time," Henson said.

The same day Illinois made it to the top of the poll for the first time since 1963, the team lost guard Kendall Gill with a broken left foot. He missed 12 games, and the Illini lost four of them.

The team is unbeaten with Gill in the lineup.

Golf team finishes third in tourney

Special to the Observer

The Notre Dame women's golf team finished third in a field of five teams at the University of Indianapolis Invitational Thurdsay at the Sycamore Country Club in Indianapolis.

Host Indianapolis won the tournament with a score of 347. DePauw finished second at 366, and the Irish were just behind at 371.

Pete de la Parra of Miami (Ohio) led Notre Dame by only three strokes at 294, while Franklin College rounded out the field at 370.

Carolyn Burke led all Irish golfers with a round of 90 on the 18-hole course. Kerrie Wagner was right on her heels at 91, and Liz Poder was second at 92, followed by Kristin Kolodziej at 101.

At the final round, the Irish were 12 strokes behind the tournament leader, the 15th-ranked DePauw. But Notre Dame coach Joe Henson was optimistic.

"The team is unbeaten with Gill in the lineup.

One of the best films of 1986

Vincent Canby, N.Y. Times

"If Woody Allen made 'Gone With The Wind' it might resemble SHERMAN'S MARCH!"

—People Magazine

Ross McElwee's SHERMAN'S MARCH

An Improbable Search for Love

TONIGHT AT THE SNITE 8:00
INDIANAPOLIS--Dick Versace had been the story that Chuck Person was selfish, brash and cocky. That didn't deter him from making Person the man to lead the Indiana Pacers.

"Every day he works. When I came here and looked at the tapes, that's what I saw. I had heard all the stories, but I decided I wasn't going to listen to all that. I saw a player that I could develop into a good healthy professional," says Versace.

That decision, along with two key trades, appears to be paying off for the Pacers and Versace. Indiana was officially eliminated from the playoffs Wednesday night, a destiny the team started toward by losing its first nine games en route to a 2-6 start before Versace took command.

The Pacers won their first three games under Versace, but the honeymoon ended quickly, followed by losing streaks of five and 11 games. However, victories in five of the last six games have revived optimism for the future.

"The guys have adjusted to the way we want to play and we're happy with the effort of the franchise to turn things around," says Person, who has led Indiana in scoring in seven of its last eight games, including three games with 30 or more points.

Person had 31 in Tuesday's 96-89 victory over Miami, bringing his average for the season to 21.8. The 1986-87 NBA rookie of the Year has led the Pacers in scoring 34 times and been the club's top rebounder 19 times while averaging 6.8 per game.

"I think Chuck is evolving into an All-Star. He's getting the good numbers (points) every night. He's a solid defender. Some nights he'll come out and give you good numbers off the boards," Versace said.

"We've got to max out what he can do and get the other guys to accept him and try to teach him a little bit about how to be a leader, how to deal with the media and how to be concerned with his image," Versace continued. "His image has been exemplary. He's a competitor, he's been a producer.

"He's been a very good leader. You've got to give credit where credit is due. He's been excellent with his teammates and you've got to give the teammates credit too because they're accepting his leadership. They trust him. They like to give him the ball in the crunch." That wasn't the case before Herb Williams and Wayman Tisdale were sent packing in deals that brought Randy Wittman, Detlef Schrempf and LaSalle Thompson to Indiana.

"Just had a lot of offensive-minded people on our squad," Person said. "I don't think we had any selfish players before the trades. It's just the fact that everyone thought they could get the job done, a little bit to blame anyone for trying."

"I don't know how it was before but from day one we've been getting along well, on and off the court," says Schrempf, who has led Indiana in scoring three times and in rebounds five times since coming from Dallas 19 games ago.

"We are counting on him to score a lot of points. A lot of our plays go to him and he's getting a lot of shots. I think everyone is comfortable with that because we know when he's going to shoot, so we can crash the board. And other times, when he gets doubled up, we know he's willing to pass the ball up," Schrempf said.

Person is shooting just over 42 percent and wants to bring his mark up above 50.

"I have a job to do. I know my role on this basketball team and I'm going to go out and try and do it every night. Some nights it's not going to look pretty, some nights I'm not going to play well," he says.

"But my job is to put the ball in the hoop and to lead this basketball team and to hope my teammates have enough confidence in me."

"We know he's capable of playing good basketball," says coach Chuck Person. "He's the team's focus on offense. We know we're going to go to him and we don't have to rush and take bad shots. And if they double team him, he's good at hitting the open man and we're just playing off his potential."

Person likes the club's new attitude and anticipates better days are ahead with the return of 7-foot Steve Stipanovich, who has missed the entire season due to knee problems.

"We're all looking forward to next season. We'll have Skipi back and we're going to have a good draft choice. We're winning and the key to winning is making everyone happy," he says.
Women’s tennis likes March

By VIC LOMBARDI

Sports Writer

The Notre Dame women’s tennis team wishes the month of March would come around more often. The squad (10-4) concluded the month by posting an impressive 7-1 mark and riding a six-game win streak.

Head coach Michele Gelfman hopes to extend the streak as the Irish play host to SIU-Edwardsville today at 4 p.m. and Eastern Michigan on Saturday at 9 a.m. This weekend’s match-ups open a five-match homestand against Midwest region competition.

“We’re on a roll right now,” Gelfman says, “but it’s going to take a great deal of intensity to keep at our pace. The team is playing really sharp. If we win this weekend, I think it’s going to push us right through April. The way we have our schedule arranged right now, it gets progressively harder as we go along. But we have to concentrate on taking them one at a time.”

The Irish will be without the services of Kristy Deran at number-four singles, whose knee-injury has sidelined her for an unknown period. Freshman Tyler Musleh will step into the number-four spot and Kim Büyükseven replaces Deran as Katie Clark’s partner in the number-two doubles position.

“It will take some of the strength out of our singles lineup,” Gelfman says. “But it’s more advantageous to push players up and give them an opportunity to gain some experience. We’ve gone to split practices this week, so everybody had a chance to put more time in.”

As a Division II school, SIU-Edwardsville has won the last three national championships and was the pre-season number-one team in the country. The Lady Cougars (5-6) are led by a pair of three-time singles and doubles All-Americans in Portia George and Christina Bokeland. Last season, the Irish lost to SIU 6-3.

“People tend to underestimate them just because they’re Division II,” says Gelfman, who is 59-38 in her fourth year at Notre Dame. “They are as good as at least seven out of the ten Big Ten teams we’d be playing. George and Bokeland are both seasoned veterans. They’ve been on the team for at least three years and they’re very consistent.”

The Irish are led by number-one singles player CeCe Cahill, whose 19-6 record and number-10 ranking place her in contention for a second-straight NCAA tournament invitation. Cahill will be aiming to avenge last year’s singles loss to George.

In doubles competition, a competitive match-up will pit the Irish number-one team of Cahill and Tracy Barton against the Lady Cougar’s number-one doubles team of Marta Varanda and Barbara Mancini.

REMEMBER....

April 23 is the deadline to apply for the Women’s Tennis Scholarship. The Irish will be without Kristy Deran at number-four singles, whose knee-injury has sidelined her for a month. Freshman Tyler Musleh will step into the number-four spot and Kim Büyükseven replaces Deran as Katie Clark’s partner in the number-two doubles position.

What, likely figured in Sanders’ decision is Oklahoma State’s probe for recruiting violations. The NCAA banned the university from bowl games for three years and from television appearances for two.

Sanders status with the NFL, however, is not clear.

A true junior, he is ineligible for the regular or supplemental drafts without a special exemption from Commissioner Pete Rozelle. Rozelle has granted about six of those exemptions a year for the past 20 years, mostly to players who were never drafted.

The most recent was last year when Pitt’s Craig Heyward was allowed to George the draft with a year of eligibility remaining and was taken in the first round by New Orleans. In Heyward’s case, Rozelle has cited the possibility that if he turned down the request, it might be challenged in court.

Rozelle declined to comment on a request made by Commissioner Rozelle prior to the April 23 regular draft.

Other NFL sources, however, have indicated the league is more inclined to go court to now test its rules against drafting underclassmen.

Oklahoma State’s Sanders decides to pursue pro career

Associated Press

OKLAHOMA CITY — Heisman Trophy winner Barry Sanders notified the NFL Thursday that he is turning pro, hoping to extend a possible best of the league’s policy against drafting underclassmen.

“We have received a request from Barry Sanders for special eligibility to the NFL draft,” NFL spokesman Joe Browne said in New York. In Stillwater, Oklahoma State athletic director Myron Roderick confirmed the junior running back’s request.

After Sanders scheduled a news conference in Denver Saturday.

“He’s through. ... We are declaring him ineligible for 1988,” Roderick said. “We’re 100 percent behind him and we’ll be watching him as he develops as a pro. He’s a great kid and has done a great job for us.”

The Folks Back Home

Happy 21st ANITA MARIE

Love,

The Folks Back Home

STUDENT BUSINESS BOARD is now taking applications for ASSISTANT GENERAL MANAGER

Requirements:

• Sophomore or Junior Business Major
• Available 10-15 hours per week

Responsibilities:

• Assist the Gen. Manager in overseeing the operation of Irish Gardens, The Cellar, & Adworks
• Perform accounting & financial duties
• Participate in special projects

Applications available at the Secretary’s desk (2nd floor LaFortune). Completed applications due same place, by Monday, April 10 at 5 p.m.

For more information, call: Dam @ 239-8040 or Molly @ 283-4976

What likely figured in Sanders’ decision is Oklahoma State’s probation for recruiting violations. The NCAA banned the university from bowl games for three years and from television appearances for two.

Sanders status with the NFL, however, is not clear.

A true junior, he is ineligible for the regular or supplemental drafts without a special exemption from Commissioner Pete Rozelle. Rozelle has granted about six of those exemptions a year for the past 20 years, mostly to players who were never drafted.

The most recent was last year when Pitt’s Craig Heyward was allowed to George the draft with a year of eligibility remaining and was taken in the first round by New Orleans. In Heyward’s case, Rozelle has cited the possibility that if he turned down the request, it might be challenged in court.

Rozelle declined to comment on a request made by Commissioner Rozelle prior to the April 23 regular draft.

Other NFL sources, however, have indicated the league is more inclined to go court to now test its rules against drafting underclassmen.

associated press

OKLAHOMA CITY — Heisman Trophy winner Barry Sanders notified the NFL Thursday that he is turning pro, hoping to extend a possible best of the league’s policy against drafting underclassmen.

“We have received a request from Barry Sanders for special eligibility to the NFL draft,” NFL spokesman Joe Browne said in New York. In Stillwater, Oklahoma State athletic director Myron Roderick confirmed the junior running back’s request.

After Sanders scheduled a news conference in Denver Saturday.

“He’s through. ... We are declaring him ineligible for 1988,” Roderick said. “We’re 100 percent behind him and we’ll be watching him as he develops as a pro. He’s a great kid and has done a great job for us.”

The Folks Back Home

Happy 21st ANITA MARIE

Love,

The Folks Back Home

STUDENT BUSINESS BOARD is now taking applications for ASSISTANT GENERAL MANAGER

Requirements:

• Sophomore or Junior Business Major
• Available 10-15 hours per week

Responsibilities:

• Assist the Gen. Manager in overseeing the operation of Irish Gardens, The Cellar, & Adworks
• Perform accounting & financial duties
• Participate in special projects

Applications available at the Secretary’s desk (2nd floor LaFortune). Completed applications due same place, by Monday, April 10 at 5 p.m.

For more information, call: Dam @ 239-8040 or Molly @ 283-4976

What, likely figured in Sanders’ decision is Oklahoma State’s probation for recruiting violations. The NCAA banned the university from bowl games for three years and from television appearances for two.

Sanders status with the NFL, however, is not clear.

A true junior, he is ineligible for the regular or supplemental drafts without a special exemption from Commissioner Pete Rozelle. Rozelle has granted about six of those exemptions a year for the past 20 years, mostly to players who were never drafted.

The most recent was last year when Pitt’s Craig Heyward was allowed to George the draft with a year of eligibility remaining and was taken in the first round by New Orleans. In Heyward’s case, Rozelle has cited the possibility that if he turned down the request, it might be challenged in court.

Rozelle declined to comment on a request made by Commissioner Rozelle prior to the April 23 regular draft.

Other NFL sources, however, have indicated the league is more inclined to go court to now test its rules against drafting underclassmen.
ND softball starts busy homestand

By MARY GARINO
Sports Writer

The women's softball team proved that it could make an impact in the Midwestern Collegiate Conference as the Irish split a doubleheader on Wednesday against defending MCC champs, Detroit.

The only thing that the players knew heading into the matchup was that they would have to play well, and they did. They took the first game by a score of 2-0, and were nipped in the second game, 6-5.

Missy Linn continued to pitch extremely well for the Irish, collecting the win in the first game. Linn did not strikeout, but she was effective enough to record the win.

The most important result of the doubleheader against Detroit is that Notre Dame (9-7) gained confidence, and learned that it can compete with established programs...

ND Irish, collecting the win in the first game. Linn did not strike out, but she was effective enough to record the win.

The only thing that the players knew heading into the matchup was that they would have to play well, and they did. They took the first game by a score of 2-0, and were nipped in the second game, 6-5.

Missy Linn continued to pitch extremely well for the Irish, collecting the win in the first game. Linn did not strike out, but she was effective enough to record the win.

The most important result of the doubleheader against Detroit is that Notre Dame (9-7) gained confidence, and learned that it can compete with established programs.

The second game exposed the weakness of the Irish team, the lack of pitching support behind Linn.

“We can't afford to pitch Missy Linn every game,” Boulac said. “We're hoping that Barb Mooney comes around, or Amy Rachkowski.”

The Hoyas are the defending Big East outdoor champions and have captured the Big East indoor title the past two years, so they are accustomed to winning big meets. With athletes such as John Trautman and Dan Dachelet, who won the Meyo Mile and the 1,000 meters, respectively, in this winter’s Meyo Invitational at Notre Dame, the Hoyas present a formidable opponent for the Fighting Irish.

The second game exposed the weakness of the Irish team, the lack of pitching support behind Linn.

“We can't afford to pitch Missy Linn every game,” Boulac said. “We're hoping that Barb Mooney comes around, or Amy Rachkowski.”

The Hoyas are the defending Big East outdoor champions and have captured the Big East indoor title the past two years, so they are accustomed to winning big meets. With athletes such as John Trautman and Dan Dachelet, who won the Meyo Mile and the 1,000 meters, respectively, in this winter’s Meyo Invitational at Notre Dame, the Hoyas present a formidable opponent for the Fighting Irish.

According to Coach Joe Piane, in order to be successful the Irish need to score in the field events.

“All of the contests will be...”

DiLucia continued from page 20

hens, he would be the first Irish player since 1982 to make the trip. The last Irish player was Mark McMahon, who went 27-2 that year and fell to the eventual champion in the first round. Bayliss believes that DiLucia has a good chance, yet must keep everything in perspective.

“Every year losing streak, including a 2-7 loss at the Eck Pavilion. On paper, the Cardinals look to be more than a formidable opponent.

“They are competitive and extremely well-coached,” said Bayliss. “They will fight us tooth and nail. They are not any more talented than we are, but they believe they can win. They have a great attitude on the court.”

Men's track ready for Hoyas

By KEN TYSIAC
Sports Writer

The Notre Dame men’s track team travels to Georgetown this Saturday for a dual meet against one of the best teams in the east. This will be the first competitive outdoor meet for the Irish this spring, and it should be a good one.

Most importantly, however, the Irish need to score in the middle distance events. In addition to Trautman and Dachelet, Georgetown boasts an NCAA qualifying two-mile relay team, so they have six excellent athletes in their middle distance lineup. Plane feels that if his strikers can score in these events, they will be in good shape this weekend.

Notre Dame appears to be pretty healthy entering this meet, Mark Lavery, coming off an Achilles tendon injury, and Ron Markezich look good in practice, according to Plane.

“Ron Markezich looks fantastic,” says Plane. “Ron may be in better shape than any middle distance runner I’ve had in 15 years.”

“I’ve always felt that if our team could stay healthy, we could be a very good team,” says Irish co-captain Van Searcy. “I had a rough indoor season myself, as far as injuries go, but I’m ready to go this weekend.

“As a team, we are looking strong. David Warth and Mark Laverty will be tough in the 800 meters, Pete Demos is coming on strong in the hurdles, and two of our javelin throwers, Ron Regency and freshman John Stewart, both qualified for NCAA’s last weekend in their first meet.”

“We may have a tough time replacing Rusty Setzer and Raghib Ismail (now in spring football practice) in the sprints, but Tracy Sims has been running well lately and should help pick up the slack. Xavier Victor and Jeff Smith could go at least 24 feet in the long jump, which will give us a boost, and of course, Ron Markezich is going to be incredible this spring.”

“They are competitive and extremely well-coached,” said Bayliss. “They will fight us tooth and nail. They are not any more talented than we are, but they believe they can win. They have a great attitude on the court.”
Irish lacrosse faces Wooster following win over Air Force

By PETE LaFLEUR
Sports Writer

The Notre Dame lacrosse team seeks to continue its winning ways when it opens its Midwest Lacrosse Association schedule Saturday at Wooster College in Wooster, Ohio.

The Irish (3-3) have won three straight games and will be trying to maintain the intensity which propelled them past Air Force Wednesday in a game that had NCAA tournament implications. That win placed Notre Dame at the head of the race for the NCAA Western bid, with key games still to come in the last week of the season against Michigan State and Ohio State.

"After beating Air Force, we're back to 'ground zero.' And we've got a leg up on the tournament, so we're ready to roll," said Irish head coach Kevin Corrigan. "But we can't afford to have a letup. Wooster will be as competitive as all our games have been."

The Irish hold a 6-1 series advantage over the Fighting Scots and have won the last four games, including a 14-4 win last season. But according to Corrigan, the Scots have the potential to give the Irish problems.

"Wooster is not real deep, but they have six good defensive players who will give us a lot of trouble," he said. "They have a lot of young players with a lot of speed, which could be a problem. We'll need to get up on them early."

The Irish will again look to their defense to set the tone. The Notre Dame defense has held every opponent under 10 goals this year, averaging just over seven goals allowed per game. And according to senior tri-captain Kevin O'Connor, the defense is increasing its expectations.

Corrigan agreed with O'Connor that the defense can continue to hold down the opposition.

"We'd even like to lower our sights on goals allowed," Corrigan said. "We've proven we can hold teams down and now we'll try to turn the heat up a little bit."

"We've been playing well defensively, and hopefully we can take advantage of those opportunities (and transfer them) to the offensive end."

The Irish offensive end will again look to their leading scorers at attack, senior tri-captain John Olmstead (13 goals and four assists) and junior Brian McHugh (11 goals and six assists). Limstl will enter the game with 124 career points and is poised to pass 1984 graduate Steve Pearsall (125) into third place on the all-time Irish scoring list.

The Irish midfield will be led by the improved play of junior Mike Quigley. Entering the season, Quigley had 20 career points, but he has already tallied 14 points this year, including six goals and four assists in the last two games.

The Irish will return home and will host Ohio Wesleyan, one of the top teams in the country, on April 22.

Baseball

continued from page 20

Piotrowicz has emerged as the ace with a 1.91 ERA and 3-2 record, including Wednesday's 10-inning performance against Chicago State.

"I've been really pleased with Piotrowicz because he's improving with every outing," said Murphy. "Madsen's kind of tucked right now, Pasilla is very good when he's on, and Conway's a freshman who's just learning."

"Conway had better grow up in a hurry because he's going to get a bunch of starts," said Murphy, who holds a 2-1 record with a 5.06 ERA, is the only lefthander in the regular rotation. Junior outfielder Dan Peltier, senior outfielder James Sass and senior shortstop Pat Pesavento continue to lead the Irish at the plate. Sass has been particularly effective recently, batting .355 with 15 RBIs in his last six games to raise his average to .390.

Murphy also is impressed with the play of first baseman Joe Binkiewicz, who is batting around .300 as a freshman, and several of the team's role players.

"Binkiewicz is doing a great job. Frank Jacobs is making an unbelievable commitment playing both baseball and football. Pat Eilers has been very good and Cory Mee has done everything we've asked of him," said Murphy. "Jason Martinez is really hitting in the clutch for us against lefthanded pitching, and Tommy Allen's been a great role player."

The Irish will again look to their leading scorers at attack, senior tri-captain John Olmstead (13 goals and four assists) and junior Brian McHugh (11 goals and six assists). Limstl will enter the game with 124 career points and is poised to pass 1984 graduate Steve Pearsall (125) into third place on the all-time Irish scoring list.

The Irish offensive end will again look to their leading scorers at attack, senior tri-captain John Olmstead (13 goals and four assists) and junior Brian McHugh (11 goals and six assists). Limstl will enter the game with 124 career points and is poised to pass 1984 graduate Steve Pearsall (125) into third place on the all-time Irish scoring list.

The Irish will return home and will host Ohio Wesleyan, one of the top teams in the country, on April 22.
FRIDAY, MARCH 31
Noon Notre Dame Women's Softball vs. Wisconsin/Green Bay.
6 p.m.-9:30 p.m. Slate Museum Gala Reception Opening "Hollywood Glamour, 1924-1966" exhibition, Museum Atrium.
7 p.m. ND Communication and Theatre Film "East Parade," Annenberg Auditorium.
9 p.m. ND Communication and Theatre Film "Taranza the Ape Man," Annenberg Auditorium.

SUNDAY, APRIL 2
9 a.m. Notre Dame Women's Tennis vs. Eastern Michigan,
Courtney Courts.
4 p.m. Notre Dame Department of Music, "Continuum," Twentieth Century Music Ensemble, Annenberg Auditorium.
8 & 10:30 p.m. "Cocktail," Engineering Auditorium.
8 p.m. ND Communication and Theatre Film, "Sherman's Man," Annenberg Auditorium.

SATURDAY, APRIL 1
9 a.m. Notre Dame Women's Tennis vs. SIU Edwardsville, Courtney Courts.

DINNER MENUS

Notre Dame
Meatless Cheeseburger
Swiss Steak
Batter Fried Perch
Rotelli & spr. veg.

Saint Mary's
Turkey Cutlet
Pork Sukiyaki/Rice
Manicotti
Deli Bar

NEW YORK TIMES CROSSWORD

ACROSS
1 Stylish
5 Hooked nail
16 Deuce
17 Start
19 To — and a couple
20 Dealer's hope
24 Hot
26 Pitch against 33 Poor girl at the ball
34 Port in Uruguay
35 Ares' sister
36 The — Cuban province
37 Othello's ensign
39 Abarone
40 Group of eight
41 See 27 Across
43 Mephisto prince
44 Frequently, to
45 Actor Baldwin
46 Successful
director's rewards
48 Rent
53 Upper crust
54 French waters
56 Dies —
57 Star part
58 Soprano Gluck
59 Trapper's trophy
60 Le Peu at La
Medicamere
61 Track event

DOWN
1 Deerstalker, e.g.
2 Spud
3 Pierre's notion
4 See 27 Across
5 Floral bract
6 Former title for a
Turkish official
7 Besides
8 Uneeding
9 Bogusman
10 Caustic
11 Red-fleshed fish
12 Identity
13 Cookies
14 Crazed
15 Cookies
16 Insane

ANSWER TO PREVIOUS PUZZLE

Newspaper of record, 1897-1971: "The Observer"

Bloom County

The Far Side

American Values / American Film

Discussion with

Martin Sheen
Tues, April 4

Gene Siskel
Thurs, April 6

Panel Discussion with all events at Cushing Auditorium sponsored by

College of Business Administration, Departments of English, American Studies, Sociology, Comm. & Theater, Marketing, Educational Media

Student Government
Sports

Baseball team on road again with four games at St. Louis

By STEVE MEGABEE
Associate Sports Editor

Don't be surprised if a few Notre Dame baseball players start waxing nostalgic during their four-game series at Saint Louis this weekend.

The Cardinals are in about the same stage as Notre Dame teams of years past. After a string of losing seasons, new Saint Louis coach Bill Hughes is trying to transform the program under difficult circumstances.

Notre Dame (2-6 in the Midwest Collegiate Conference, 1-5 overall) faces its MCC rival in doubleheaders both Saturday and Sunday at Sauget Field.

"They have a new coach and a lot of enthusiasm," said Irish coach Pat Murphy. "Our philosophy is not to worry about the opponent and just do what we do well, and everything will work out."

That advice certainly has worked for Notre Dame. In Murphy's first year, the Irish recorded a 15-22 record for their first winning season since 1982. Hughes' task at Saint Louis may be even more imposing. Billiken baseball has been an also-ran the last two years, as Saint Louis has posted a combined record of 18-49. Saint Louis held a 5-10 record heading into Thursday's doubleheader with Chicago State. Eighth-ranked Oklahoma State swept a three-game series from the Billikens last weekend.

Senior first baseman Phil Kuminick leads Saint Louis in batting with a .386 average, and he also has hit four home runs with 13 runs batted in. Junior outfielder Tom Stegman has a .321 average, and senior outfielder Mike Miller bats .295 with 14 RBI and a team-leading five stolen bases.

Hughes also works as the Saint Louis Cardinals' batting practice pitcher, and the Billikens' pitchers have looked like they enjoy working prac­tice to their opponents too many times this season. Saint Louis pitchers have turned 12 doubleheaders this season, ranking eighth among Big East opponents.

Scott Hollrah, a righthanded freshman reliever, leads the Saint Louis staff with a 1-0 record, two saves and a 3.21 ERA.

Notre Dame will throw its regular rotation of Brian Hughes, Erik Madsen, Mike Passilla and Brian Conway at Saint Louis this weekend.

DILUCIA makes mark for ND tennis

By BOB MITCHELL
Sports Writer

MUNCIE-Where would Notre Dame tennis be without superstar Dave DiLucia? Thankfully, Head Coach Bob Bayless does not have to answer that question. Yet one can't help but think that it is like the Boston Celtics without Larry Bird—hanging on for dear life.

No. 1 singles player Dave DiLucia has left a Wayne Gretzky-type impact on this year's squad. Not only has DiLucia posted an impressive overall record of 31-8 (19-4 in dual matches), but he has led the Irish to five victories over teams that defeated the Irish last season.

"I don't like to talk about freshmen, but David has earned it," said Bayless of his No. 1 player who has not lost a complete match since Feb. 4. "You can't put a freshman in a position as DiLucia. He's the thinker, the inspirational leader and the team's catalyst.

Illini player Earvin Small was asked to name something he has never been able to do.

"Understand Coach Henson," replied Small.

Theresa Kelly
Sports Editor

It's possible that the rest of the team has the same problem, and that's why the Illini are in the Final Four. But that's not really true. Henson has done what he does best: coach and give his players their due. The Illini have taken advantage of some of the best in the country to keep themselves at the top of the list.

Henson has always been known for his ability to get the best out of his players. This season, he has done it again. The Illini are 23-0, and Henson is 8-0 in his first season at the helm.

No one can deny that the Illini are one of the best teams in the country. And they are one of the few teams that have been able to consistently win every game they play.

The Illini have taken care of business on the court, and they have done it with style. They have been consistent throughout the season, and they have shown that they can play well in the postseason.

The Illini have a chance to do something special this season. They have the talent, the experience and the desire to take their program to the next level. And with Henson at the helm, they have the leadership they need to do it.

Illinois' Henson finally doing more with talent

Lou.

Everyone knows what those three letters have meant to Notre Dame football, but another Lou is making waves (but not permanent waves—yet) in the world of college basketball.

Lou Henson, the be of infamous hair, been accused of doing the least with the most talent as many times as anyone, and I do mean anyone... Digig Phelps this season did a lot with a little, but Henson, finally, has done a lot more with a lot more.

I grew up in central Illinois, and I've got a twang to prove it. I've also got a permanent place in my heart for the Illinois basketball team, stemming from the days of Ken Norman, Erem Womb, Doug Altenberger and the ultimate underachiever, Bruce Douglas.

It was a time when the Illini could have dominated the Big T- but they had a tendency to choke in big games problem, my dad likes to say, was that "Lou started coaching."

The preseason rankings would come out, and the Illini would be in the middle of the bottom ten on everyone's poll, because they'd get five stars for frontcourt, five for backcourt, five for bench depth and a one-and-a-half for coaching.

Now, no one is saying that Lou Henson is a terrific coach, but this year, he has the team to overcome any inadequacies the coach might have. But it hasn't been easy.

Illini player Earvin Small was asked to name something he has never been able to do.

"Understand Coach Henson," replied Small.

Theresa Kelly
Sports Editor

It's possible that the rest of the team has the same problem, and that's why the Illini are in the Final Four. But that's not really true. Henson has done what he does best: coach and give his players their due. The Illini have taken advantage of some of the best in the country to keep themselves at the top of the list.

Henson has always been known for his ability to get the best out of his players. This season, he has done it again. The Illini are 23-0, and Henson is 8-0 in his first season at the helm.

No one can deny that the Illini are one of the best teams in the country. And they are one of the few teams that have been able to consistently win every game they play.

The Illini have taken care of business on the court, and they have done it with style. They have been consistent throughout the season, and they have shown that they can play well in the postseason.

The Illini have a chance to do something special this season. They have the talent, the experience and the desire to take their program to the next level. And with Henson at the helm, they have the leadership they need to do it.

Illinois' Henson finally doing more with talent

Lou.

Everyone knows what those three letters have meant to Notre Dame football, but another Lou is making waves (but not permanent waves—yet) in the world of college basketball.

Lou Henson, the be of infamous hair, been accused of doing the least with the most talent as many times as anyone, and I do mean anyone... Digig Phelps this season did a lot with a little, but Henson, finally, has done a lot more with a lot more.

I grew up in central Illinois, and I've got a twang to prove it. I've also got a permanent place in my heart for the Illinois basketball team, stemming from the days of Ken Norman, Erem Womb, Doug Altenberger and the ultimate underachiever, Bruce Douglas.

It was a time when the Illini could have dominated the Big T- but they had a tendency to choke in big games problem, my dad likes to say, was that "Lou started coaching."

The preseason rankings would come out, and the Illini would be in the middle of the bottom ten on everyone's poll, because they'd get five stars for frontcourt, five for backcourt, five for bench depth and a one-and-a-half for coaching.

Now, no one is saying that Lou Henson is a terrific coach, but this year, he has the team to overcome any inadequacies the coach might have. But it hasn't been easy.

Illini player Earvin Small was asked to name something he has never been able to do.

"Understand Coach Henson," replied Small.