Associated Press

WARSAW, Poland — Solidarity leader Lech Walesa secured a historic deal with the government Wednesday to end the independent trade union’s political and economic violations and give formal status to the movement.

Walesa, representing the opposition, and Gen. Czeszlaw Michalak, the interior minister representing Poland’s communist government, approved the package that emerged from two months of negotiations on political and economic reforms, as the 57 participants in the talks gathered for a final time at the “round table” in the Council of Ministers Palace.

“The is freedom without Solidarity,” Walesa said at the beginning of a 10-minute address to the table in which he explained why the opposition had approved the agreements.

He credited authorities with having shown “readiness for a radical change of the system.”

But he said that behind the “nice words” of communist authorities for the past 46 years there was “dishonesty and violence,” and Solidarity had aimed for “substantial settlements that could be implemented right away.”

Walesa also said the opposition had achieved the “necessary minimum” by regaining the legal status lost after martial law was imposed in December 1981.

The government agreed to restore legal status to Solidarity, the farmers’ union Rural Solidarity and the Independent Students Association.

All had been banned in the martial-law crackdown.

In exchange, the Solidarity-led opposition agreed to participate in June elections to the 460-seat Sejm, or parliament, that guarantee the Communist Party and its allies a 65 percent majority.

But a new 10-member senate to be created would be the first fully democratically chosen legislative chamber in the East Bloc.

Anyone who collected 3,000 signatures could get on the ballot and all the seats would be openly contested.

“We appreciate the efforts of Exxon —we think they were done in good faith. But we think there has to be a much more disciplined management structure,” Cowper said at a Capitol news conference.

President Bush earlier had sent a team of high-level officials to Valdez and determined that federal management of the cleanup wasn’t necessary.

Although Cowper said he didn’t want to be “extremely critical” of Exxon, a letter sent to the Coast Guard by a state environmental official said Exxon was unresponsive.

“Exxon has failed to provide ... the information necessary to make sound planning recommendations regarding the cleanup of oil and the protection of resources,” wrote Lynn Keel, chief of the state Oil and Hazardous Substance Spill Response Section.

Exxon spokesman Henry Beathard said the company disagreed with charges it wasn’t handling the cleanup properly and thought Exxon was the best organization to manage the effort.

“We gathered all the resources and organized the cleanup. We think the most effective and efficient way to carry out this project is (for Exxon) to continue,” Beathard said.

Fired tanker captain Joseph Hazelwood, 42, surrendered to police on New York’s Long Island and a judge set his bail at $500,000, up from a prosecutor’s recommendation of $100,000.

The Coast Guard signed a warrant on misdemeanor charges of operating the tanker while drunk.

These maritime offenses are of such a magnitude that has never been equaled, at least in this century,” Judge Kenneth Robi said as Hazelwood was arraigned.

“He’s got to think about that. We have a man-made destruction that has not been equaled, probably, since Hiroshima.”

Salvage crews pumped compressed air into the 120 million ship and floated it off Bligh Reef, 25 miles from the port of Valdez. From there, it began a 30-mile journey under the control of six tugs to a remote cove off Naked Island for temporary repairs, picking its way through scattered icebergs.

Exxon Shipping Co. President Frank Iarossi said the society walked a few docks in South Korea, Japan and Singapore about accepting the clean up, was set at $500,000.

“The tanker Exxon Valdez was freed Wednesday from the reef that ripped its hull and spilled more than 10 million gallons of crude oil, and Alaska’s governor said the Coast Guard could take over the cleanup from Exxon.

Elsewhere, the captain of the Exxon Valdez surrendered to police and was ordered held on $1 million bond.

Cleanup crews continued to skim mayonnaise-thick oil from Prince William Sound, but progress was slow and the oil had spread over an area larger than Delaware. The animal death toll rose and salmon hatcheries remained endangered.

In Juneau, Alaska Gov. Steve Cowper said he asked the Coast Guard to take over the much-maligned and slowly progressing cleanup effort from Exxon, and that the federal agency had agreed.

Cowper said the Coast Guard should be better able to handle coordination and management of the cleanup than Exxon, which he said was too bureaucratic.

“Maybe that’s been the problem all along. You need a military system to get things done,” the governor said.

Associated Press

Walesa and govt. agree on democratic elections

Cheerleaders named for 1989/90 season

By MICHELLE DALL
Senior Staff Reporter

Three new members were added to the 1989-90 Notre Dame cheerleading squad after try-outs concluded Wednesday night in the Joyce Athletic and Convocation Center.

Six female and five male cheerleaders, as well as one female and one male alternate, were selected from the pool of 36 applicants, according to sophomore Don Gomez, current captain of the men’s squad. As captain, Gomez was not required to try out for the new team.

The 1989-90 cheerleaders include: juniors Brendan Teehan, Nick Farmer, John Ryan, Stephanie Hayashi and Kristin Komaylite; sophomores Don Gomez, Don Stager, Zac Nagle, Kolleen Phelan, Claudia Limardo and Kathleen Kelley; and freshman Jessica Chiappetta.

Sophomores Kevin Suggs and Michelle Paraiso were selected as alternates, and junior Chris Ryan will be the new leprechaun. Ryan was the sole contestant for the mascot position.

According to Gomez, every cheerleader from the 1989-90 season re-applied for a position on the new squad, with the exception of five seniors who will be graduating this spring.

The contestants earned see CHEER / page 5

Solidarity leader Lech Walesa peers out window on a train en route to Warsaw on Wednesday, where he urged his banned union’s leadership to sign an agreement with communist authorities.
Today, the heat can't be attributed to the three gorgeous girls who live there or the fabulous parties held in its confines. It's too damned hot because we can't adjust our thermostat.

In most rooms, temperature can ideally be set around 72 degrees Fahrenheit. Sometimes, our requests are actually heeded, and the temperature dips below the hundred degree mark for a few days. Eventually, however, the mercury gradually climbs back into the nineties, and we're soon left baking in our tropical bodies.

There's no problem in the early autumn or late spring, because the heat's shut off. In December, however, when most South Bend students are bundled up in wool blankets and flannel pajamas, my roommates and I are still sweating off our tank tops and sucking on ice cubes. In fact, it's so hot, we have all of our fans running, trying to keep the tornado winds in the epicenter of the room.

Nighttime is particularly wretched. I sleep on the bottom bunk with a window above my head. Directly behind me, beneath the window, there is a small air conditioner. From October to April, the radiator emits heat—whether we like it or not. Maybe—unbeknownst to any of us—there's actually a way to turn down the thermostat, but we've never quite mastered the technique. Lack of mechanical expertise results in many a hot, sleepless night, and led us to dub the heater the "Torrid Zone." By early morning, cool breezes finally drift through the window, but, alas, they provide no comfort. The heat is still strangely located between the bed and the window, every semblance of a cool breeze is effectively cooked before it reaches me. Even an Arctic wind would thaw in our room.

The radiator not only converts our dorm room into a sweltering sweatbox, but also constantly emits strange gurgling and hissing sounds like a gas leak ready to blow up any day. I've become addicted to the rumbling sounds. The sound of the radiator is science fiction telling me that I'm living in a nuclear weapons facility.

Although RAs caution open windows may invite prowlers or lonely men, my roommates and I take our chances. After all, it would take Spiderman to scale Farley's north side windows.

In 1909:

In 1917: Congress approved a declaration of war against Germany.

In 1987: The Dow Jones Industrial Average closed above 2000 for the first time.

Ten years ago: The U.S. announced support for South Vietnam with economic and military aid to Pakistan because of intelligence reports indicated that Pakistan was secretly building a plant capable of producing enriched uranium for nuclear weapons.

Information compiled from Observer wires and Observer staff reports.

WEATHER

April Showers

Increasing clouds today with highs in the upper 50s. A 60 percent chance of rain tonight with lows in the low 40s. A continued 60 percent chance of rain Friday morning with highs near 50.

WEATHER

ALMANAC

On April 6:

● In 1990: The first modern Olympic games were formally opened in Lillehammer, Norway.

● In 1989: American editor and author Robert Edwin Peary became the first person to lead an expedition to the North Pole.

● In 2007: Congress approved a declaration of war against Germany.

● In 1987: The Dow Jones Industrial Average closed above 2000 for the first time.

Ten years ago: The U.S. announced support for South Vietnam with economic and military aid to Pakistan because of intelligence reports indicated that Pakistan was secretly building a plant capable of producing enriched uranium for nuclear weapons.

MARKET UPDATE

Cleanings for Wed., April 6, 1999

Dow Jones

Industrials Average

Stocks

Market Opened Closed

Mar 6.6 6.59

Currency exchange

Yen 0.71 to 1.31

Precious Metals

Gold $2.30 to $398.60/oz.

Silver 1.82 to $5.83/oz.

Summer Service Project Workshop this Saturday from 10 a.m. to noon at the Center for Social Concerns. All students participating in the Summer Service Projects are required to attend.

Observer Questionnaires should be filled out and turned in as soon as possible if you have not already done so. Thank you to everyone who has turned in the questionnaires.

HPC applications for Secretary and Off-Campus Commission for the upcoming year will be available in the Center for Social Concerns. They can be picked up at the Student Government Secretary's desk, second floor, LaFortune. Call Kerstil at 223-4220 or LaLa at 233-1242 for more information.

Anyone with friends in the Jerusalem Program this semester should contact Lisa Marks at 223-4225 or e-mail her at lmarks@nd.edu. A special package can be arranged.

A meeting will be held in Knott Hall Saturday night at 8 p.m.

Friday Forum at the CSC features Patrick Gaffney on "Communalism, Minorities and Nation States in the Middle East," at 12:15 p.m. in the CSC.

From April to October, the radiator emits heat—whether we like it or not.

Michelle Dall

News Editor
WASHINGTON - The White House on Wednesday accused Soviet President Mikhail S. Gorbachev of failing to put actions behind his rhetorical support for peace in Central America and called on the Soviets to end military aid to Nicaragua.

In a strong criticism that reflected clear disappointment with Gorbachev's much-heralded speech Tuesday in Havana, White House Press Secretary Marlin Fitzwater said continued Soviet activity in Central America will affect U.S.-Soviet relations.

He declined, however, to specify how the administration might express its displeasure.

Fitzwater noted that Gorbachev had denounced the export of revolution, but added:

"While his words about not exporting revolution are welcomed, they are not matched by deeds which would give those words credence."

"Today, we call upon the Soviets to cut off their half-billion-dollar annual military aid to Nicaragua. The Soviets continue to pour arms into Nicaragua, a country whose army is already larger than those of all of their neighbors combined."

A day earlier, Fitzwater had said that Soviet spokesman Gennady Gerasimov's statements against the export of revolution appeared to be a positive sign. Wednesday, however, Fitzwater said that while "we can hold out a little optimism on the basis of the words," the Bush administration still looks for actions to back them up.

U.S. officials had said that Gorbachev's visit this week to the U.S. "clearly would be a good time for him to show signs of new thinking" by moving to withdraw military support from the leftist Nicaraguan government, or to use his influence to push Nicaragua into democratic reforms.

WASHINGTON - Rising prices are forcing young couples to delay one part of the American dream - owning their own home - even as the number of available houses is growing more than twice as fast as the population, the Census Bureau said Wednesday.

Over the decade that began in 1975, median prices for a first home rose 125 percent, from $27,100 to $61,000 in 1985, while the average income of married couples renting their home, and aged 25 to 29, rose only 60 percent, from $12,300 to $22,300, the bureau reported.

The result, Census housing analyst P. John Devaney said, is that couples who used to move from renting to owning in their 30s are now largely delaying the transition into their 30s or later because they can no longer qualify for mortgages on the homes they want.

In 1973 three-fourths of married couples aged 25 to 35 qualified for an 80 percent mortgage, a figure that fell to less than half by 1985, the study found.

Over the same period, the nation's housing stock grew by 26 percent, while the U.S. population rose by just 11 percent, the Census Bureau reported in its new analysis, "Housing in America, 1985-86."

Helping absorb the growing number of available homes are the trend toward second-home ownership and a shrinkage in average household size, from 2.94 in 1975 to 2.69 a decade later.

Divorce and separation, up sharply in recent years, have turned one household into two, Devaney observed. "One in 10 homeowner units is a woman living alone," he said.

In addition, many elderly widows continue to maintain their homes at the same time increasing numbers of young people are postponing marriage.

The Census Bureau report was released just a day after the Federal Home Loan Bank Board reported that consumer mortgage interest rates rose in March to their highest level since just before the 1987 stock market crash.

The bureau said the national average for conventional, single-family loans jumped to 11.36 percent in early March, up from 11.11 percent in early February.

While renters are facing steeper obstacles to owning their first home, the report said that people who already own a house are more able to buy a second home.

The bureau reported that "vacant" housing rose from 2.5 million units in 1940 to 11.5 million in 1985 - meaning the United States has more unused housing than the entire housing stock of Canada.

But that category includes some 5.4 million homes that are seasonal or recreational residences, the report said.

Joe Clair
Anne-Marie Laboe
Kathy Habiger
Julie Bruce
Dan Gore
Brad Luetkenhaus
Anne-Mari Laboe
Gigi Junkins
Sopranos

ENGLISHIZATION
Dinah Domine Singing and Dancing Ensemble
presents the sounds of the
Hollywood Glamour era

| The Annenberg Auditorium
The Smilie Museum of Art

| Notre Dame's
University of Notre Dame
presents the sounds of the Museum of Art

| FORD MERCURY
GRADUATE PROGRAM

$400 REBATE*

Largest Ford Inventory
#1 Selling Ford Dealer in Country
For further information, call Elizabeth

* This is in addition to any present program

SUMMER CAMP POSITIONS
Counselors: 21+, coed, sleepaway camp, Mass., Berkshires. WSJ, arts & crafts, tennis, all land and water sports, drama, gymnastics, ping/pong, for shows, judo, dance, photography, computers, nature, wilderness, model rocketry, guitar, yearbook, woodworking, P.N.,typist. Write: Camp Emerson, 5 Brassie Rd, Eastham, NY 10770 or call 914/779-9408
Long sworn into U.S. Congress

WASHINGTON — Jill Long, who scored a Democratic victory in Dan Quayle’s old congressional district last month, was sworn into office in the House of Representatives on Wednesday, drawing applause and a standing ovation from both Republicans and Democrats.

Long, who switched parties in 1982 to run for the House, had been defeated by Republican Dan Coats in 1980.

However, in a special election on Tuesday, Long won a seat in Congress for the first time.

The House granted Long’s request to be seated before her certificate of election was completed. Under Indiana law 10 days must pass before such a certificate is issued, and tradition calls for a member-elect to present his or certificate to the House before receiving the oath of office.

“Favorable weather, the spill restricted tanker traffic, and a standing ovation from Congressmen recieving their receipts for graduation caps and gowns in.
500 greet Bowen upon return home

Associated Press

SOUTH BEND - After years of public service as a state legislator, Indiana's governor and the Reagan Administration's top medical adviser, Otis R. Bowen is happy to be back on his Marshall County farm.

"Frankly, we've been in so many hot seats that it's great not to have to reporting to anyone and not to have to set any alarm," Bowen said Tuesday night at Notre Dame's Joyce Athletic and Convocation Center.

Nearly 500 people welcomed Bowen and his wife, Rose, back to Indiana after his three years as President Reagan's secretary of health and human services.

Bowen said he had no intention of running for office or accepting a full-time appointment. The popular former governor, a physician who now lives on a five-acre farm at Bremen, said he would return to his hobbies of fishing, reading and gardening.

South Bend Mayor Joseph E. Kernan presented Bowen with a key to the city and Steven Cramer of Bethel College gave him a gold key to the Otis and Elizabeth Bowen Library. The library - named for Bowen and his late first wife - houses Bowen's papers and memorabilia.

Bowen, 71, was speaker of the Indiana House of Representatives from 1977 to 1979, when he was elected to the first of his two terms as governor.

Cheer continued from page 1

points on the basis of their performance in several areas, including gymnastic routines, stunts, cheers, personality, dance, appearance and spirit. A total of 385 points was possible for men and 335 for women.

Try-outs were held both Tuesday and Wednesday nights. While both men and women participated in both rounds of competition, only female hopefuls were cut after the first round, according to Gomez. Gomez said 18 women were eliminated in the first cut. The remaining female contestants and all the male prospects were then interviewed by six judges before proceeding to the second round.

Judges for the event included current cheerleading coach Maria Majerek; former Notre Dame football player Jim Hum bert; Phyllis Stone and Lisa LaHame, two former Notre Dame cheerleaders; Melanie Dumas, a gymnastics instructor from "Gymnastics Mician"; and National Cheerleading Association instructor Tom Dickerson.

Sophomore Claudia Limardo commented, "There was really a lot of competition. I guess what it really came down to was not cracking under pressure."
Bush proposes $441 million for education

Associated Press

WASHINGTON - President Bush, who campaigned on a promise to be "the education president," on Wednesday sent Congress a $441 million education package designed to reward and promote school improvements.

"We're going to take action -- action to make excellence in education not just a rallying cry, but a classroom reality," Bush said at a Rose Garden ceremony outside the White House.

His "Excellence in Education Act," based in part on campaign pledges, would reward outstanding schools, teachers and science scholars, encourage districts to create magnet schools with special programs, push states to develop new ways to certify teachers, help drug-ridden urban schools and bolster the endowments of historically black colleges.

"These education initiatives don't constitute a cure-all, a quick fix," Bush said. He added later that "I don't have to tell you about the current federal budget situation. Money is tight and we wish that more funds were available to spend on all levels of education."

Administration officials said Wednesday that the money they are seeking for the initiatives would be in addition to the $21.1 billion in spending authority already proposed for the Education Department.

But Education SecretaryLauren Cabaniss said in a briefing that funds for the initiatives "do not come from other programs in the Department of Education." He said, "I don't know where the money will come from but that's another issue. These are new dollars."

Some Congress members questioned whether the proposal would be cost-effective.

"I don't believe we have enough information to -- to show that the money we are going to spend is going to be a major problem for our drug testing programs in different states," Sen. Evan Bayh, D-Ind., said in a letter.

Bush said at a Rose Garden ceremony that the money was to pay for a pilot program to randomly test high school students to catch those who use illegal drugs.

"Investments in education -- action to make excellence in education not just a rallying cry, but a classroom reality -- is the key to the future of our country," Bush said.

Associated Press

INDIANAPOLIS -- Gov. Evan Bayh may look into a federal pilot program to randomly test first-time drivers license applicants for drug use, a White House spokesman said.

"It sounds like something we would want to look at seriously, but we'd like to see the proposal first," said deputy press secretary Phil Schermerhorn.

Sen. Dan Coats, R-Ind., urged Bayh in a letter Tuesday to apply for the program, approved by the Anti-Drug Abuse Act, that permits random drug testing of drivers.

it for the federal government to fund four model drug testing programs in different states.

"Drug abuse continues to be a major problem for our country and our state," the freshman senator said in the letter. "Approximately 10 percent of our population -- 33 million Americans -- use illegal drugs on a regular basis. Even more shocking, however, are the statistics regarding the use of illegal drugs among our youth."

Under the pilot program, states must deny driving privileges to those first-time applicants who test positive for drug use. Driving privileges will be reinstated following three months if testing is required on a regular basis for nine months.

The four states, including one central state, will be chosen by the Department of Transportation.

Bayh considers drug testing for new drivers

Associated Press

THURSDAY, MARCH 30

10:00 a.m. A Notre Dame employee reported vandalism done to a Coke vending machine on the 3rd floor of Dillon Hall sometime during Easter break. Damage estimates are unknown.

TUESDAY, APRIL 2

3:30 p.m. A visitor to Notre Dame reported that an unknown vehicle damaged the driver's door to her vehicle while parked in Red Field lot sometime between 1:00 and 3:30 p.m. Damage estimates are unknown.

WEDNESDAY, APRIL 3

2:30 p.m. A Montgomery Hall resident reported that her books were stolen from an unattended study carrel on the second floor of Hesburgh Library sometime between 11:45 and 4:20 p.m. on 4/3. Total losses estimated at $150.

10:45 p.m. A resident of St. Ed-ward's hall reported the theft of his wallet and jacket from outside the doors of Stayer Center sometime around 9:30 p.m. Total losses estimated at $150.

CRIME OF THE WEEK

The Crime of the Week is vandalism to vending machines on Dillon Hall's third floor. During Easter break, 3/24 to 3/27, an unknown person tried to take money from the dollar bill changer in the Coke and Pepsi machines, causing several hundred dollars in damages. Between 3/30 and 3/31, a suspect turned the Coke machine on its side, causing minimal damage. Several attempts to steal money from the same machines were made last semester, causing extensive damage. Crime Stoppers wants to know who is responsible for this vandalism and will pay a reward for information. Call Crime Stoppers at 284-STOP.

ATTENTION

FRESHMEN & SOPHOMORES

DEPARTMENT PRESENTATIONS

Thursday 4/6

5-6 Psychology
119 Haggar
7-8 Government
104 O'Shaughnessy
7-8 Art, Art History & 200 Riley
Design

Interested in starting an on-campus geographic club?

GEOGRAPHIC CLUB INFORMATION NIGHT

sponsored by SARG and the ND Alumni Association

TONIGHT IN LAFORTUNE -- SOIRIN ROOM
6:30 PM

Current Geographic Clubs:

Boston
New York
Buffalo
Rochester
Cincinnati
South Carolina
Connecticut
Southern California
Dallas/Ft. Worth
San Diego
Detroit
San Francisco
Long Island
St. Louis
Minneapolis
Washington D.C.
New Jersey
Wisconsin

The Observer
Thursday, April 6, 1989
Israel: Land of chaos and corruption

BY MICHAEL CARRIGAN

The small humble square is an unlikely spot for a holy site. A quiet square closest to the sky, stretching away from the darkened stones. The foundations of the ancient churches impress visitors with both their history, and the importance of the site on which they rest. The square is peacefully alive with shops and vendors. Discarded cans and wrappers are a reminder of the modern age in this seemingly timeless spot.

Like a small hint of rain, a gentle fog glides into the square. Seen its smell divulges the true identity of the cloud. It is not a gentle fog of rain, but the violent, burning ammonia smell of fuel for the ever bit- ter conflict spills into the square as the peace is shattered by shouts and gunshots. Pilgrims and shoppers scurry inside as places are taken by masked protesters and armed soldiers. The public has now been occu- pied west bank, and is also known as the manger square in Bethlehem, a city sacred to a religious faith of the world's holiest of Christ. This spot, one of the world's holiest for Christians.

get started in the business. I served under Roger as an Assistant Sports Information Director for four years (1982-86) and it was the most enjoyable time of my career.

I'm just one of many who have been touched personally and professionally by Roger. Thanks for everything.

Eddie White Indianapolis March 24, 1989

ND foreigner wants change

Dear Editor:

I have just arrived at Notre Dame from China. I am very pleased to be here. I have a great deal of appreciation for such dedicated, loyal and devoted service.

Eddie White Indianapolis March 24, 1989

I saw that many foreign students live with students from the same country. I was further surprised to find that all of the students are from the same country in a big graduate student office. So, I guess that many foreign students only have the chance to practice their English in an English-speaking country.

In China, the school usually appoints a Chinese student to room with a foreign student, so the foreign student can benefit from this. I wonder why the Notre Dame administration cannot do the same as the Chinese college administrations. Let us merge.

Fu-Quan Wang Off-Campus March 31, 1989

Have something to say? The viewpoint page depends on your comments. From its writers. Write down your thoughts and send them to Viewpoint, P.O. Box Q, Notre Dame, Indiana 46556.

Herbert Hoover

"Blessed are the young, for they shall inherit the national debt."
The Bonfire of the Vanities

"A modern day Sodom"

MISSY IRVING
accent writer

Sherman McCoy fancies himself a Master of the Universe. McCoy, the protagonist in Tom Wolfe's riveting and satiric novel, "The Bonfire of the Vanities," takes the reader along on his tumultuous odyssey through New York City—at its grandest and at its most pathetic. It is always intimidating.

Although "The Bonfire of the Vanities" was first published in 1987, it has recently been released in paperback and recommends itself as a thoroughly modern, provocative summer reading suggestion.

McCoy is a young, extravagantly wealthy Wall Street bond trader. He lives with an attractive, yet so-called unoccupied wife, Judy, and an angelic 6-year-old daughter, Campbell, who at tend, "the best schools, with the best girls, from the best families." In addition, he enjoys a secret affair with Maria Ruskin, a wily, adventurous, and gorgeous, Maria Ruskin who, as Wolfe fashions a tantalizing portrait of a modern day Sodom and its culturally bereft inhabitants, to contrast with what he describes as McCoy's occasional longing to return to the chaste and simple Midwest.

Nothing escapes attack by Wolfe's savage wit. The political aspirations and financial aggrandizement that could be realized by a few subtle distortions and coverups of the actual facts of the case result in the district attorney's office engaging in a hastily constituted, incapable perversion of the facts. The tabloid, "The City Light," which circulates the myth that Lamb was an honor student and the victim of a racist plot, is run by snobbish and unscrupulous Englishmen. All the characters converge at McCoy's grand jury hearing to lobby for their own selfish interests and to apply the pressure so that the correct verdict is reached. At this point it becomes readily apparent that all are living various degrees of the same lie, the mantle of integrity and fairness in which they clothe themselves is merely a foil for the actual falsity of their existences.

Wolfe reserves an arresting portrait of a modern day Sodom for McCoy's world, who incidentally don't receive the same rich development Wolfe employs on the male characters, are either "social X-rays, the starved to near perfection" wives of New York power brokers, or "lemon tarts," the young, ambitious second wives or nighttime confessors of the elite.

For the price of $5.95, "The Bonfire of the Vanities" offers exactly what it seeks to. "I don't know if you fully appreciate it or not, but you've broken a very important story with this Lamb and McCoy business. It's, it's sensational, but it's much more than that. It's a morality play. Think of that for a moment, a morality play."

The Vanities

BY THE AUTHOR OF "THE RIGHT STUFF"

Father George Wiskirchen has played a large part in making the Collegiate Jazz Festival what it is today.
Kevin Hatcher (4) and the Washington Capitals beat Philadelphia goalie Ron Hextall (right) and the Flyers 3-2 in NHL playoff action Wednesday night.

In other opening-round games, Chicago, Pittsburgh, St. Louis, Edmonton and New York all won.

---

Kevin Hatcher (4) and the Washington Capitals beat Philadelphia goalie Ron Hextall (right) and the Flyers 3-2 in NHL playoff action Wednesday night.

In other opening-round games, Chicago, Pittsburgh, St. Louis, Edmonton and New York all won.
CINCINNATI-- Orel Hershiser lost his magic and record shutout streak in his first inning of the season and later lost the game when the Cincinnati Reds beat the Los Angeles Dodgers 4-3 Wednesday night.

Hershiser's string stayed at 39 innings and was stopped when Todd Benzinger hit an RBI single with two outs. The run was set up by one of Hershiser's two throwing errors.

Hershiser, who did not allow a hit in his final six regular season starts last year, pitched seven innings and gave four runs, only two of them earned, on seven hits. The Cy Young winner and World Series MVP struck out six and walked one.

Hershiser got nicked again in the third on hard singles by Eric Davis, Benzinger and Paul O'Neill. Ben Oeste opened the fourth with a double and scored when Hershiser fielded a sacrifice by pitcher Tom Browning but threw the ball past the dugout.

Cards 3, Mets 1
St. Louis spoiled Bob Oieda's first start since he nearly severed the middle finger of his pitching hand and Willie McGee drove in two runs, leading the Cardinals past the New York Mets 3-1 Wednesday at New York.

The Cardinals snapped their 11-game losing streak in Shea Stadium and right-hander Jose DeLeon broke a personal nine-game skid against the Mets.

Phillies 12, Cubs 4
Mike Schmidt's three-run homer capped a seven-run fourth inning Wednesday night at Chicago, leading the Philadelphia Phillies to a 12-4 victory over the Chicago Cubs.

Schmidt's homer off reliever Jeff Pico was his second in as many days and the fourth of his career. Ron Jones also homered for the Phillies.

Hersisher's streak ends; Cards edge New York
Twins 12, Yankees 2
Wally Backman's single snapped a fifth-inning streak and sparked an eighth-inning capped by Brian Harper's three-run homer, leading the Minnesota Twins past the New York Yankees 12-2 Wednesday night in Minneapolis.

Harper had three hits and drove in four runs to lead a 17-hit attack. Allan Anderson, last year's American League earned-run average champion, allowed seven hits in seven innings to improve his record to 11-2 since June 24.

Pirates 3, Expo 0
Doug Drabek pitched a two-hitter as the Pittsburgh Pirates beat the Montreal Expo 3-0 Wednesday night at Montreal.

Drabek, the Pirates' top winner at 15-7 last year, held the Expos to Hube Book's single in the first inning and a single by Andres Galarraga in the seventh.

Padres 4, Giants 3
Jack Clark's single keyed a three-run third inning as the San Diego Padres beat the San Francisco Giants 4-3 Wednesday at San Diego.

Angels 6, Chiso 2
Lance Parrish had four hits and Chili Davis hit a three-run homer Wednesday night at Anaheim, Calif., as the California Angels beat the Chicago White Sox 6-2 and snapped a 13-game losing streak dating back to last season.

Royals 2, Blue Jays 1
Danny Tartabull doubled with two outs in the ninth inning and scored on Pat Tabler's tie single Wednesday night at Kansas City, giving the Kansas City Royals a 2-1 victory over the Toronto Blue Jays.

Walt Weiss, who homered three times all of last season, homered twice Wednesday night at Oakland and Bob Welch allowed four hits in eight innings as the Oakland Athletics beat the Seattle Mariners 11-1.

Jerry Blauer put Atlanta ahead with a two-run double in the fourth inning and Gerald Perry added a pair of run-scoring doubles, leading the Braves to an 8-4 victory over the Astros Wednesday night at Houston.

Blauer's two-run double chased starter Bob Knepper after 2 2-2 innings and gave the Braves a 5-4 lead.

Los Angeles Dodgers pitcher Orel Hershiser had his record 59-inning scoreless streak snapped Wednesday at Riverfront Stadium when Cincinnati Reds first baseman Todd Benzinger hit a two-out, RBI single in the first inning.

A's 11, Mariners 1
Braves 8, Astros 4

NHL continued from page 16
Los Angeles. Weak goaltending will doom the Kings and Joey Mullen (51, 31) and Joe Nieuwendyk (51, 31) will spark the Flames past L.A. and into the semifinals.

There Calgary will meet St. Louis. Blues goalie Greg Millen (3.38 GAA) will need an asbesosis jersey to keep the Flames from engining the goalmouth. The Flames will sing St. Louis, while in the other semifinal, the speed of players like Mats Naslund (33, 31) and defenceman Chris Chelios (15, 58) should lead Montreal past the talented Caps and into the finals to face Calgary.

And speed is what will help the Canadiens squeeze by the Flames in seven games in the finals. Coach Terry Crisp's Calgary squad is a very physical team, while Montreal relies on quick, smooth skaters to score goals. Those skaters will stymie the slower Flames and lead the Canadians to their 23rd Stanley Cup title.

Hersisher's streak ends; Cards edge New York

NHL presents tonite:
STEVE KIMBROUGH
Come see why everyone's talking about the great comedy acts at THEODORE'S. They're professional, they're hilarious, and they're only at THEODORE'S -EVERY THURSDAY NIGHT at 9:00 PM.
Don't miss it!
Arizona star Elliott wins Wooden Award

by Wooden himself, during a luncheon at the sponsoring Los Angeles Athletic Club.

"Wow," Elliott said, temporarily groping for words.

"It feels good, with all the great players out there, I don't think you can really name one guy. There are probably five guys out there more deserving than I am.

My coach Lute Olson doesn't think so.

"I think he's the consummate team player. He's at his best when his best is needed," Olson said of Elliott, who averaged 23.2 points a game this season and had 2,353 career points to replace Kareem Abdul-Jabbar (then Lew Alcindor) as the Pacific-10's all-time leading career scorer.

The guidelines for Wooden Award candidates extend beyond the athlete's achievements on the court. To be eligible, a candidate must maintain at least a 2.50 scholastic average and "display strength and character on and off the court.

The winner was announced by Wooden himself, during a luncheon at the sponsoring Los Angeles Athletic Club.

"Wow," Elliott said, temporarily groping for words.

"It feels good, with all the great players out there, I don't think you can really name one guy. There are probably five guys out there more deserving than I am.

My coach Lute Olson doesn't think so.

"I think he's the consummate team player. He's at his best when his best is needed," Olson said of Elliott, who averaged 23.2 points a game this season and had 2,353 career points to replace Kareem Abdul-Jabbar (then Lew Alcindor) as the Pacific-10's all-time leading career scorer.

The guidelines for Wooden Award candidates extend beyond the athlete's achievements on the court. To be eligible, a candidate must maintain at least a 2.50 scholastic average and "display strength and character on and off the court.

The winner was announced by Wooden himself, during a luncheon at the sponsoring Los Angeles Athletic Club.

"Wow," Elliott said, temporarily groping for words.

"It feels good, with all the great players out there, I don't think you can really name one guy. There are probably five guys out there more deserving than I am.

My coach Lute Olson doesn't think so.

"I think he's the consummate team player. He's at his best when his best is needed," Olson said of Elliott, who averaged 23.2 points a game this season and had 2,353 career points to replace Kareem Abdul-Jabbar (then Lew Alcindor) as the Pacific-10's all-time leading career scorer.

The guidelines for Wooden Award candidates extend beyond the athlete's achievements on the court. To be eligible, a candidate must maintain at least a 2.50 scholastic average and "display strength and character on and off the court.

The winner was announced by Wooden himself, during a luncheon at the sponsoring Los Angeles Athletic Club.

"Wow," Elliott said, temporarily groping for words.

"It feels good, with all the great players out there, I don't think you can really name one guy. There are probably five guys out there more deserving than I am.

My coach Lute Olson doesn't think so.
Paperless papers published Rose of using code-name

Associated Press

CINCINNATI--Pete Rose bet heavily on baseball games during the 1987 season under a code-name, two Ohio newspapers said Wednesday, citing unidentified sources.

If true, the Cincinnati Reds manager could be banned from baseball for life if he bet on games involving his own club.

A person referred to in an Internal Revenue Service court affidavit at G-1, whom the Plain Dealer of Cleveland and the Cincinnati Post quoted as saying was Rose--bet $8,000 to $16,000 a day on games during a stretch early in the 1987 season.

Although Rose is not referred to by name in the IRS affidavit, the newspapers said they were told by federal sources the code name "G-1" means Rose.

Rose declined comment on the newspaper reports.

The IRS affidavit quoted unidentified government informants who said Rose frequently bet at race tracks.

U.S. attorney D. Michael Crites declined comment on the reports or whether the government is investigating Rose.

While Rose has denied betting on baseball and using cookies, he has admitted Rose frequently bets at race tracks.

The newspapers also reported the document indicated that Paul Janszen, a friend of Rose's, urged Peters to pay a $50,000 gambling debt the bookie owed Rose and Janszen.

The Plain Dealer said U.S. District Court records show Janszen became an FBI informant and began wearing a wireless microphone in April 1986 and that federal agents taped at least four conversations about the debt. Janszen's lawyer, Merlyn Shiver, denied Rose had any connection with the bookie.

"If we are unable to complete play Friday and make the cut, we could be in trouble," Hardin said. "We'll just have to wait and see."

So will the starting field of 80 of the world's finest players and a gallery of about 40,000. Kite is on the short list of players most likely to be in title contention over those last nine holes.

Delany takes over Big Ten

Associated Press

CHICAGO--James E. Delany, named commissioner of the Big Ten Conference Wednesday, called for fresh ideas to keep sports from overpowering the academic life of student-athletes.

"At this unique time in college athletics, all is not well," said Delany, a 41-year-old law professor whose first year as Ohio Valley Conference commissioner ended last month.

"I think it's important to find a better balance," he said. "There's got to be a way to make sure education is first. And I don't think that's the case in all institutions today."

Delany will take over July 1 for Wayne Duke, who is retiring after 18 years as commissioner.

"He is a person of unquestioned integrity, who has demonstrated exceptional ability," said Stanley O. Ikemery, president of the University of Illinois and head of the Big Ten governing board. "We look to him to provide leadership not only to our conference, but to the polls--or the national level as well." "If the pressures of big-time sports, television and national championships can be too much for some young men who enter college to play football or basketball, Delany said. "There has been tinkering with NCAA rules ... but in my opinion there has not been reform," said the new Big Ten commissioner, who played varsity basketball at North Carolina and twice made it to Final Four competition.

Masters take aim at Augusta

Kite predicts softer greens will favor aggressive golfers

Associated Press

AUGUSTA, Ga.--"It's a different course this year," Tom Kite said of the site for the 39th Masters. "The first of golf's four major annual tournaments has not been moved from the Augusta National Golf Club, but the splendid old place is just not the same, in Kite's view. The weather is different, the greens are softer if the threat of rain becomes a reality. The greens could be softer if the threat of rain becomes a reality. The greens could be softer if the threat of rain becomes a reality. The greens could be softer if the threat of rain becomes a reality.

"If we are unable to complete play Friday and make the cut, we could be in trouble," Hardin said. "We'll just have to wait and see."

So will the starting field of 80 of the world's finest players and a gallery of about 40,000. Kite is on the short list of players most likely to be in title contention over those last nine holes.

"If we are unable to complete play Friday and make the cut, we could be in trouble," Hardin said. "We'll just have to wait and see."

So will the starting field of 80 of the world's finest players and a gallery of about 40,000. Kite is on the short list of players most likely to be in title contention over those last nine holes.

So are defending title-older Sandy Lyle of Scotland, British Open champ Seve Ballesteros of Spain, a revived Greg Norman of Australia and American hopes Curtis Strange and Mark Calcavecchia.
Fifth-year senior and tri-captain Ned Bolcar will be a key figure in the Notre Dame linebacker corps in 1989. Molly Mahoney takes a look at the linebackers at left.
ND fencing teams foiled in bids for national title

By CHRIS FILLIO
Sports Writer

While the 1989 NCAA fencing season is now over, thoughts of what could have been will remain for some time in the minds of the Irish. For the men's squad, it was a fourth-place finish behind national champions Columbia, while Penn State and Penn came in second and third, respectively.

The women's team took third as the Wayne State Spartans also defended their title, with Columbia taking second place. Nevertheless, both results were disappointing—and shocking—to say the least.

"Obviously I am disappointed, more for the kids than for myself," said Irish head coach Michael DeCicco. "It's possible that they may have let something slip through their fingers."

For the women especially, the loss was tough to handle. While they were able to defeat eventual national champ Wayne State on two different occasions this year, the losses simply did not go in their favor. In the loss to Columbia, which decided the right to fence WSU for the first place, the Irish suffered a key setback when a simultaneous touch was called against them. As a result, they tied Columbia in bouts but lost in the tie-breaker. Wayne State went on to dispose of Columbia in the final, winnimg its second straight national championship.

"Everything seemed to be going like clockwork, until we lost that simultaneous touch," senior captain Janice Hynes said. "I'm very hopeful with some seniors and retain several "...

Sophomore sabreman Leszek Nowosielski placed fifth overall, making him a second-team All-American. Classmate Dave Kirby finished 17th, just missing the final round of 16 by a single touch. Both fencers had strong showings over the season and will undoubtedly continue to be a potent force next year.

In the epee competition, team captain Ted Fay took 12th in the country. Senior Ted Holeman was 30th in his first year at the NCAA tournament. "I feel bad for Yehuda because the gold medal was one of the few goals he had left to accomplish," said DeCicco. "Following his first lost bout, he struggled and couldn't return from that initial setback. Unfortunately, the Penn State fencer who won the gold is someone that Yehuda has beaten several times in the past."

In men's foil, senior Yehuda Kovacs took seventh and garnered All-America honorable mention. Junior Derek Holeman was 30th in his first year at the NCAA tournament. "I feel bad for Yehuda because the gold medal was one of the few goals he had left to accomplish," said DeCicco. "Following his first lost bout, he struggled and couldn't return from that initial setback. Unfortunately, the Penn State fencer who won the gold is someone that Yehuda has beaten several times in the past."

Sophomore sabreman Leszek Nowosielski placed fifth overall, making him a second-team All-American. Classmate Dave Kirby finished 17th, just missing the final round of 16 by a single touch. Both fencers had strong showings over the season and will undoubtedly continue to be a potent force next year.

In the epee competition, team captain Ted Fay took 12th in the country. Senior Ted Holeman was 30th in his first year at the NCAA tournament. "I feel bad for Yehuda because the gold medal was one of the few goals he had left to accomplish," said DeCicco. "Following his first lost bout, he struggled and couldn't return from that initial setback. Unfortunately, the Penn State fencer who won the gold is someone that Yehuda has beaten several times in the past."

In men's foil, senior Yehuda Kovacs took seventh and garnered All-America honorable mention. Junior Derek Holeman was 30th in his first year at the NCAA tournament. "I feel bad for Yehuda because the gold medal was one of the few goals he had left to accomplish," said DeCicco. "Following his first lost bout, he struggled and couldn't return from that initial setback. Unfortunately, the Penn State fencer who won the gold is someone that Yehuda has beaten several times in the past."

In men's foil, senior Yehuda Kovacs took seventh and garnered All-America honorable mention. Junior Derek Holeman was 30th in his first year at the NCAA tournament. "I feel bad for Yehuda because the gold medal was one of the few goals he had left to accomplish," said DeCicco. "Following his first lost bout, he struggled and couldn't return from that initial setback. Unfortunately, the Penn State fencer who won the gold is someone that Yehuda has beaten several times in the past."

In men's foil, senior Yehuda Kovacs took seventh and garnered All-America honorable mention. Junior Derek Holeman was 30th in his first year at the NCAA tournament. "I feel bad for Yehuda because the gold medal was one of the few goals he had left to accomplish," said DeCicco. "Following his first lost bout, he struggled and couldn't return from that initial setback. Unfortunately, the Penn State fencer who won the gold is someone that Yehuda has beaten several times in the past."

In men's foil, senior Yehuda Kovacs took seventh and garnered All-America honorable mention. Junior Derek Holeman was 30th in his first year at the NCAA tournament. "I feel bad for Yehuda because the gold medal was one of the few goals he had left to accomplish," said DeCicco. "Following his first lost bout, he struggled and couldn't return from that initial setback. Unfortunately, the Penn State fencer who won the gold is someone that Yehuda has beaten several times in the past."

In men's foil, senior Yehuda Kovacs took seventh and garnered All-America honorable mention. Junior Derek Holeman was 30th in his first year at the NCAA tournament. "I feel bad for Yehuda because the gold medal was one of the few goals he had left to accomplish," said DeCicco. "Following his first lost bout, he struggled and couldn't return from that initial setback. Unfortunately, the Penn State fencer who won the gold is someone that Yehuda has beaten several times in the past."

In men's foil, senior Yehuda Kovacs took seventh and garnered All-America honorable mention. Junior Derek Holeman was 30th in his first year at the NCAA tournament. "I feel bad for Yehuda because the gold medal was one of the few goals he had left to accomplish," said DeCicco. "Following his first lost bout, he struggled and couldn't return from that initial setback. Unfortunately, the Penn State fencer who won the gold is someone that Yehuda has beaten several times in the past."

In men's foil, senior Yehuda Kovacs took seventh and garnered All-America honorable mention. Junior Derek Holeman was 30th in his first year at the NCAA tournament. "I feel bad for Yehuda because the gold medal was one of the few goals he had left to accomplish," said DeCicco. "Following his first lost bout, he struggled and couldn't return from that initial setback. Unfortunately, the Penn State fencer who won the gold is someone that Yehuda has beaten several times in the past."

In men's foil, senior Yehuda Kovacs took seventh and garnered All-America honorable mention. Junior Derek Holeman was 30th in his first year at the NCAA tournament. "I feel bad for Yehuda because the gold medal was one of the few goals he had left to accomplish," said DeCicco. "Following his first lost bout, he struggled and couldn't return from that initial setback. Unfortunately, the Penn State fencer who won the gold is someone that Yehuda has beaten several times in the past."

In men's foil, senior Yehuda Kovacs took seventh and garnered All-America honorable mention. Junior Derek Holeman was 30th in his first year at the NCAA tournament. "I feel bad for Yehuda because the gold medal was one of the few goals he had left to accomplish," said DeCicco. "Following his first lost bout, he struggled and couldn't return from that initial setback. Unfortunately, the Penn State fencer who won the gold is someone that Yehuda has beaten several times in the past."

In men's foil, senior Yehuda Kovacs took seventh and garnered All-America honorable mention. Junior Derek Holeman was 30th in his first year at the NCAA tournament. "I feel bad for Yehuda because the gold medal was one of the few goals he had left to accomplish," said DeCicco. "Following his first lost bout, he struggled and couldn't return from that initial setback. Unfortunately, the Penn State fencer who won the gold is someone that Yehuda has beaten several times in the past.
CAMPUS EVENTS
7 p.m. Career and Placement Services presents "Juniors: How to Fill Out the Profile Form," by Mr. Paul Reynolds, Room 121 Newlund Science Hall.
7 p.m. InterVarsity Christian Fellowship Bible Study "Psalm 6," 317 Lewis Hall.

LECTURE CIRCUIT
4 p.m. Peace Institute lecture "Low Intensity Warfare," by Michael Klare, Room 106 Law School.
4 p.m. Law lecture "Gender and Moral Theory," by Onora O'Neill, Room 115 Law School.
4:15 p.m. AT&T Visiting Scholar series "Breaking the Cycle of Disadvantage by Building on Our Successes," by Lisbeth B. Schorr, Harvard Medical School, Hesburgh Library Auditorium.
7:30 p.m. Friends of the Snite Museum film "After the Thin Man," Annenberg Auditorium.

MENUS

Notre Dame
BBQ Pork
Baked Stir Fry
Fried Chicken
Baked Ziti

Saint Mary's
Pork Loin Roast
Spaghetti
Cheese Fondue
Deli Bar

CROSSWORD

ACROSS
1. Oscar's reproductive structure
5. -- la vista!
10. Environmental hero
14. Leaft Hurl hero
15. Magistrate in Sparta
16. Cob or Drake
17. Recording artist pans an actor
20. Shaped like a bripole
21. Truman's lost Secretary of State
22. Kind of verb: Abram
23. Dom. of seven Henrys
31. -- girl?
32. Source of a fragrant rose
34. "Cars," 1994 song
35. Screen hero meets TV personage
36. Black bird
40. On the hefty side
41. First in Frankfurt
43. Some clergyman
44. Nobel Prize winner in Chemistry: 1920

DOWN
1. Areas in trucks
2. Newspaper notice, for short
3. -- poly
4. Meat and vegetable stew
5. Mohammed's fight from Mecca
6. Footless creature
7. Haggard novel
8. Indian weight
9. Symbol of comfort
10. Bert Convy and Dick Clark
11. Detroit products
12. Bread spread
18. Time long past
24. Make amends
25. Moral
28. Hebrew dry measure
29. Leading
33. Hosp. group
34. Author of "The Last Voyage"
35. Get all gussied up
36. Abounding in trees
37. -- feathers
38. Most tractable
39. "Pope"
40. Secretary of State
41. "--Able"
42. Concert
43. Word in a New Year's song
44. Nobel prize
45. Nobel prize
46. Nothing, in Nice
47. Actress Lupino
48. School in Mars
49. Kafka's "A" -- American
50. Flowering shrubs of the honeyulice family
51. Actor teams up with a singer
52. Alaskan statesman
53. Egg-shaped
54. One of the Penes
55. Eyetooth
56. Broadway musical: 1954
57. Unexciting

ANSWER TO PREVIOUS PUZZLE

ACROSS
1. Able
2. B-G connection
3. A
4. Golf
5.--
6.--
7.--
8. --
9. "--Able"
10. --
11. --
12. --
13. --
14. --
15. --
16. --
17. --
18. --
19. --
20. --
21. --
22. --
23. --
24. --
25. --
26. --
27. --
28. --
29. --
30. --
31. --
32. --
33. --
34. --
35. --
36. --
37. --
38. --
39. --
40. --
41. --
42. --
43. --
44. --
45. --
46. --
47. --
48. --
49. --
50. --
51. --
52. --
53. --
54. --
55. --
56. --
57. --
58. --

DOWN
1. "--
2. "--
3. "--
4. "--
5. "--
6. "--
7. "--
8. "--
9. "--
10. "--
11. "--
12. "--
13. "--
14. "--
15. "--
16. "--
17. "--
18. "--
19. "--
20. "--
21. "--
22. "--
23. "--
24. "--
25. "--
26. "--
27. "--
28. "--
29. "--
30. "--
31. "--
32. "--
33. "--
34. "--
35. "--
36. "--
37. "--
38. "--
39. "--
40. "--
41. "--
42. "--
43. "--
44. "--
45. "--
46. "--
47. "--
48. "--
49. "--
50. "--
51. "--
52. "--
53. "--
54. "--
55. "--
56. "--
57. "--
58. "--

COMICS

BLOOM COUNTY

CALVIN AND HOBBES

BLOOM COUNTY

BERKE BREATHED

THE FAR SIDE

GARY LARSON

American Values / American Film

Discussion with

Gene Siskel

on Thursday has been cancelled.
Refunds available at LaFortune Information Desk
Possible rescheduling to be announced
Just in Time gets disqualified as Bookstore XVIII continues

By GREG GUFFEE
Assistant Sports Editor

Just when it looked like all five players on 4 Guys With a Putter and the American Studies Major didn’t have a future, justice stepped in.

The puck was dropped on Just in Time, as preliminary action continued at Bookstore Basketball XVIII. Just in Time defeated 4 Guys With a Future and American Studies Major 21-8, but tournament officials realized after the game that the winners had used an illegal player.

Jim Finisher played for We Dribble But Skiko Scores in its 21-8 win Monday afternoon and then subbed in for Just in Time Wednesday. He was subbing for Jim Karrels, who could not make it in time.

Finisher signed in as Karrels and hit all baskets, but tournament officials came to the realization that he had played for another team earlier in the tourney. After the game, officials awarded the win to 4 Guys With a Future and An American Studies Major.

“I thought I could play for another team as a substitute. I didn’t know the rules explicitly,” Finisher said after the game.

“It’s kind of a cheap way to win,” Karrels said. “I didn’t know we were struggling in the tourney,” said Leo Levine, a member of the team that advanced. “It will be fun to play another game.”

I It was the first time an illegal player had played this year, although tourney officials caught a few that had played on another team’s second game.

There were several close games Wednesday, as 29 other teams advanced out of the pre-eliminary round.

One Jerk Too Many downed A Girl Who’s Got Two Swords, a Girl Who’s Always Wet and 3 Non-Varsity Athletes 22-20. We Always Lose in the First Round finally won, defeating Five Short Guys Who Like To Be on Top 21-12.

John Tower may not be the Secretary of Defense, but he took out some frustrations on opposing teams Wednesday, especially John Tower’s Drinking Buddies, who shut down Charles Bronson, Salmon Budiklie and 3 Other Guys With a Death Wish 21-12, while John Tower, Keith Tower and 3 Other Guys With No Shot routed Salmon Budiklie and 4 More of the Ayatollah’s Homeboys 21-10. Rise and Fall of the Tower Commission made it 3-of-3 by see TOURNEY / page 11

ND tennis weather elements

By CHRIS COONEY
Sports Writer

Who ever said wins had to be pretty? Certainly not the Notre Dame men’s tennis team, which had to struggle through sickness, rain and an unfamiliar surface in order to defeat Purdue 5-4 on Tuesday.

Mike Wallace. In addition, West Lafayette knowing they would be without the services of No. 1 player Dave DeLucia was “worst-case scenario” just in time, as preliminary studies Major didn’t have a future. Five players on 4 Guys With a Putter, the Chicago, winning the first game 13-2 and losing the second 5-0.

In the first game, junior Dan Pettler became the all-time RBL leader with 131 in his career. Pettler set the record in the fifth inning, when he singled to center to score Pat Pesavento from second base.

It took Pettler 125 games to break 1988 graduate Tim Huston’s record of 131. Huston set the record in 160 games.

“I can’t believe that there can be too many better hitters in any other college anywhere than Dan Pettler,” said Irish head coach Pat Murphy. “He’s undoubtedly one of the top players that ever played here at Notre Dame, and I think he’ll go on and have a good career someday, but he’s still got to improve, and he knows that.”

Pettler’s single in the fifth was not only a record-breaker, but also the beginning of a massive offensive outburst by the Irish, who now own a 16-4 record. In that inning, the Irish scored 10 runs, a season record.

After setting record that the fifth, the Irish would not score again. In the second game, the Irish could only muster five hits, all singles, without a run.

“In the second game, we didn’t play with much enthusiasm,” said Murphy. “We didn’t hit the ball the way we had to.

We got complacent. The first game took three hours; the second game went by quick. We see SPLIT / page 9

ND tennis weather elements

Canada en route to another Stanley Cup

Sports Writer

Last year at this time it appeared as though the Capstan Blues and Montreal Canadiens would breeze through the Stanley Cup playoffs and collide head-on in the Finals. Neither team survived past the quarterfinals. For the first time in years, the Edmonton Oilers drank champagne from the Stanley Cup.

But this year it will be a different story. Montreal and Calgary are head and shoulders above the rest of the league. Both teams boast stingy defenses and fast-paced offenses and have benches deep enough to give opposing coaches nightmares.

Here’s how the NHL playoff picture shapes up:

Patrick Division: The Philadelphia Flyers own the league’s best power play, and goalie Ron Hextall (3.23 goals-against average) is always a threat to give opposing coaches nightmares.

The Hartford Whalers should be easy first-round prey for Montreal unless the trio of Kevin Dineen (45, 44), Ron Francis (39, 48), and Ray Ferraro (42, 35) catch fire. Montreal’s superior skaters will harass the Whalers and then take advantage of Buffalo’s goal-scoring woes to advance to the Stanley Cup semifinals.

Nordis Division: The league’s weakest division is sizzling the Blues as St. Louis, which went 13-4-2 in its last 18 games, continues to skate well. In the first round, St. Louis should easily dispose of the slumping Minnesota North Stars, who will play without injured leader scorer Dave Gagner (35, 43).

Meanwhile the Detroit Red Wings and the Chicago Black Hawks will square off in a meeting of two teams that fizzled at the end of the season. Superstar Steve Yzerman (60, 90) and winger Gerard Gallant (39, 54) should power Detroit past the woeful Black Hawks, but they won’t slow down the Blues, who have beaten Detroit three straight times. The home ice advantage won’t save the Blues against the Blues, who will unceremoniously dump Detroit into Lake Michigan for a season-ending bath.

Smythe Division: Wayne Gretzky (54, 114) should lead the Los Angeles Kings past his former Edmonton Oilers teammates in a first-round shootout. The Oilers, led by 100-point scorers Jarri Kurri and Jimmy Carson, simply aren’t the same now that Gretzky is gone, and will give up too many goals to win this grudge match, which should go seven games.

Calgary’s first-round opponents will be the Vancouver Canucks, an excellent defensive team which is led by its goalie tandem of Steve (30 points) and Kirk (30.6 GAA). Vancouver lacks the offensive firepower to beat Calgary, however, and the Flames will advance to the next round.