NORFOLK, Va. - A huge gun turret packed with gunpowder exploded in flames on the battle­ship USS Iowa near Puerto Rico on Wednesday, killing at least 47 sailors in one of the worst naval disasters since the Vietnam War.

The death toll from the accident, during a gunnery exercise, "could go higher, but we don't know at this point," said Lt. Cmdr. Steve Burnett, a spokesman for the Atlantic Fleet, based in Norfolk.

The number of crewmen injured had not been determined, he said.

Two ships participating in the same exercise collided Wednesday afternoon about 500 miles east of Jacksonville, Fla., causing one minor injury, said Archie Galasso, a civilian public affairs officer at Norfolk.

Another USN Platf, a fleet oiler, nor the frigate USS Tripp was in danger of sinking, Gal­loway said. The ships were not in the same area as the Iowa.

Navy officials were notifying relatives personally of the deaths, Baumann said.

The explosion occurred during a gunnery exercise about 330 miles northeast of Puerto Rico, Burnett said.

The ship's guns were being test fired and the turret was "full of powder," Baumann said. The 16-inch guns can fire 2,700-pound shells a distance of 23 miles.

A gun turret is normally oc­cupied by 27 people, but can hold 60 or 70 people, Baumann said, but, "We don't know how many were in there at the time."

Mark Newton, a former Marine who spent a week as a guest on the Iowa in 1987 and now is curator of the perma­nently docked USS Massachu­setts in Fall River, Mass., ex­plained how a shell is loaded.

After the shell is placed in the gun, a door is opened to the gun room from the powder hoist room, he said. Cylindrical powder bags, containing about 116 pounds of powder, are then rammed in behind the shell and what is called a breech plug is sealed to prevent the leakage of powder gases.

Newton said there were "at least five" stages in the firing process when the explosion could have occurred but would not speculate further.

The training exercise to im­prove fleet readiness began April 13 and involved 19,000 people aboard 29 U.S. ships, 3 allied ships and shore-based aircraft, Baumann said.

There were 1,600 people aboard the ship, including Vice Adm. Jeremiah Johnson, com­mender of U.S. 3rd Fleet.

In Washington, President Bush was asked during a photo session with congressional leaders to comment on the ex­plosion.

"It is a great tragedy and a matter of terrible sadness," he said.

MEXICO CITY-- Ramon Sal­cido Bogorjes, a California winery worker arrested Wed­nesday in the slayings of seven people, told Mexican police he killed his wife and a co-worker because they not be­ing an affair, officials said.

"He was arrested before dawn this morning in a surprise roadblock set up by agents fighting the illicit drug trade," said Vicente Mendoza, a spokesman for the attorney general's office.

Salcido is also suspected of kil­ling two daughters, his mother­in-law and two sisters-in-law in a town in Sonoma County, Calif., was picked up just out­side Guasave, the spokesman said.

The village is near Los Mochis, Salcido's hometown in Sinaloa state about 450 miles northwest of Mexico City.

Mendoza said he did not know Salcido's occupation, but the US Embassy spokesman Bill Graves said the embassy was not certain whether he was an American citizen.

"He has been arrested at the request of U.S. authorities who have asked for his extradition. We are bringing him to Mexico City in the next few days," Mendoza said that Salcido was in the custody of the Sonoma County Sheriff, a branch of the attorney gen­eral's office.

He said Salcido would be taken to Mexico City for an ex­­tension hearing.

Justice Robert Trejo, deputy attorney general, told reporters Salcido drove into Mexico illegally from San Diego last month, border crossing.

Salcido told Mexican police he went on the rampage in a fit of jealousy after suspecting that his wife of five years was having an affair with one of his

NATIONAL BRIEFS

Capitol Records won the right to begin exclusive distribution of a new album by Donny Osmond in a dispute between the record company and another record producer. Former Lt. Gov. Mike Carb, head of Carb Records, had contended he had exclusive rights to distribute the song "Soldier of Love" and other songs Osmond recently recorded. But U.S. district judges said they asks for all of us when a March 6 agreement gave Capitol the right to distribute the new album.

1,000 people packed a synagogue Wednesday to remember Yip Holzman. He was found dead at his home near New Hope, Pa., on April 12. A coroner ruled Tuesday that Hoffman committed suicide with an overdose of barbiturates mixed with alcohol. Friends and relatives said they doubted Hoff- man took his own life.

DOOMSDAY.

No, Doomsday's not the day that the greater part of the California coast falls into the Pacific, but it is the Second Coming -- it's what I have another major research paper due.

Yes, this is the same paper that I intended to start the second week of the semester so it would be ready to publish next week. Ya, sure.

Let the descent into academic hell begin.

Hardly a wasted day goes by, and still I cannot find enough time to do about half of what I should or want to do.

We all take five classes a semester (with exams) and yet most professors would like to believe that theirs is the only one. The History of Rational Thinkers in an Irrational World Laden with Death and War may be a perfectly interesting and inspiring class. But when it comes down to a choice between getting five instead of four hours of sleep a night, having clean underwear, and doing "suggested readings" for my History of Rational... class, sorry to say, I'll usually break down and choose one of the former two options.

And what are "suggested readings anyway?"

Rumors have it that we are all supposed to devour the books on the required reading list (weeks in advance of their assigned dates) and then hander for MORE. Not a bad thing after all, we are together in theory, but who are we kidding? For the most part, required readings tend to be the ultimate in esoteric ramblings. Rarely do I have the opportunity to finish those readings, let alone any extra ones, no matter how fascinating they may be.

Another errant concept that prevails is that of the "extra-credit assignment." There are only two reasons for offering them: 1) to provide extra work for those who have finished the "suggested readings" and still do not feel fulfilled, and 2) to "help" those who performed less well last time. Though I am naught to do, I am I persuade you to enter that the second reason is the more popular of the two.

Activities make proper balance more difficult

A balance between academics and extracurriculars is needed...

Christine Walsh
Assistant News Editor

We could abolish extra-credit assignments forever if we would only get 4.0's the first time around. In the ideal world we would all just be babies, we would have no trouble understanding anything, and we would not have to read any papers like the New York Times crossword. Unfortunately, this is not nirvana, this is Notre Dame.

Why do we have occasional abysmal showings on tests and turn in late papers? Sometimes it's just not possible to devote our complete attention to a test or paper, even though it might be in the "only class we take."

As members of the Notre Dame community, we students are supposed to take part in voluntary and taxing activities, everything from cleaning up the Northeast neighborhood. Many of us are involved in sports, from football to fencing to Bookseth Basketball. Some of us even work for clubs and other organizations.

These are things that we genuinely interest in, just as much, if not more than our classroom studies.

These activities have one thing in common: They take lots of time.

Give time contraints, a balance between academics and extracurriculars is needed, and neither one should be more important than the other.

In the ideal world we could read suggested readings, do extra-credit assignments for simple academic edification, play varsity soc- cer, and work at the CSC. While this is an impossibility, we can and should strive for a balance. We can plan our time, afford what is afforded, and hopefully learn and accomplish something along the way.

1988-89 band awards announced

By Cathy Flynn
Staff Reporter

Band awards for the 1988-89 season were given out Tuesday at the spring banquet at the Elk's Club in South Bend. "It was a nice surprise," said senior Kent Jaffirs, of the Marching Band, who won the Robert Smith President's Award, and the Blanket award for the 1988-89 season were given out to people who have done a lot, but haven't been recognized." Three points each are earned for each semester spent in either the Marching Band or the Concert Band. Two points are given for participation in the University Band. Blanket awards require the greatest accumulation of points. Seniors Scott Barton, Aileen Goodwine, and Laura Silva won blankets. Steins were awarded to twenty-six members, for the second prize. Forty-seven members qualified for the Sweater Award, which is the third place award on the hierarchy.

Other awards are based on a point system in which points are accumulated according to participation in various bands. "These are the kinds of awards for people who have done a lot, but haven't been recognized."

Sharon Repik was presented with the Gerald Smith Memorial Prize. "Mark Taylor" was presented with a drum major plaque in recognition of his outstanding service to the band.

1988-89 ND part of cable TV series

By ASHOK RODRIGUES
Staff Reporter

As part of a new cable series, the University of Notre Dame is producing several television shows on the issues of social and legal ethics. The series, entitled "Hard Choices," will be aired on the Vision Interfaith Satellite Network. According to Denny Moore of the Department of Public Relations, this network is comprised of organizations representing over 20 denominations.

The whole idea of the series... is that there are societal concerns that not only require a response from society itself, but also require a personal response," said Father Richard Warner, counselor to University President Father Edward Malloy.

Notre Dame's shows, which are produced by Golden Dome Productions, are hosted by local anchorpeople Mike Collins and Maureen McFadden.

Notre Dame's first contribution, which was unveiled Wednesday, detailed the issue of homelessness in America. The program stressed that most homeless people are not outcasts of society, but merely victims of circumstances beyond their control.

David Link, dean of the Notre Dame Law School, was featured on the show. "One of the most urgent (ethical) questions facing American society today is the question of homelessness," he said.

Actor Martin Sheen also appeared on the show. He said that, "if you ask me what the solution is, in all honesty I don't have the vaguest idea, but that each individual had a duty to help solve the problem."

Also partaking in series will be the Trinity Episcopal Parish on Wall Street in New York, and the Lutheran Medical Center. Each contributor will produce four shows for the first part of the series. A show by each group will be aired each week.

"If all goes well, the series will expire at the fall and we will continue to be involved," said Moore. He said that then the University probably will have its own show every week, instead of alternating with other organizations.

According to Warner, the Vision network currently reaches over 6 million households and broadcasts 15 hours a day. The network should reach 20 million broadcasting full time by September, he said.

1988-89 ND student financial aid figures show total of $53 million

By SARAH VOIGHT
Senior Staff Reporter

The amount of financial aid received by Notre Dame students during the 1988-89 academic year will total approximately $53 million, $3.4 million more than the previous year, according to preliminaries figures. The $53 million figure includes the total value of financial aid allotted in the form of federal grants, loans, ROTC scholarships, campus employment and fellowships.

Director of Financial Aid Joseph Russo cites three reasons for the $3.4 million increase in available aid. "As costs (tuition) increase, student eligibility for assistance goes up. Similarly, tuition scholarships such as ROTC, fellowships, and athletic grants also increase when costs rise, according to Russo. Russo also cites an increase in parents' private loans as a reason for the additional available aid. "Many parents are exploring new kinds of financial alternatives to cover the cost of a college education," said Russo.

Russo speculates that the overall amount of financial aid given to Notre Dame's students is comparable to students at other private universities of similar sizes and costs. Russo, however, said that Notre Dame "would not do as well in terms of scholarships. Notre Dame's first contribution, which was unveiled Wednesday, detailed the issue of homelessness in America. The program stressed that most homeless people are not outcasts of society, but merely victims of circumstances beyond their control."

Fish oil helps high blood pressure

BOSTON-- Large doses of fish oil can relieve mild high blood pressure and may work as well as some commonly used prescription drugs, a study concludes. Many claims have been made about the seeming benefits of fish oil on the heart and circulatory system, but convincing data to back up these beliefs have been scarce and many experts remain dubious.

The latest study, conducted on 33 white males, provides some of the strongest evidence yet to support one of fish oil's reputed merits.

Fish oil seemed to work about as well as two mainstays of blood pressure therapy--diuretics and the beta-blocker drug propranolol. However, the amounts taken were much higher than the doses usually suggested by manufacturers of widely ad­vertised brands of fish oil cap­sules. In fact, when taken at the recommended doses, the oil did not change the subject's blood pressure.

Other studies have suggested that fish oil can prevent heart disease by repairing damaged arteries, lowering dangerous high cholesterol levels and slowing the blood's tendency to clot.

At Boston's Beth Israel Hospital, Dr. Richard Paster­nak said doctors should wait for the results of several large studies now under way before making up their minds about fish oil.

Soviet ship aids oil clean-up

Associated Press

SEWARD, ALASKA — A Soviet ship that can skim oil on the high seas joined the war against the nation’s worst oil spill Wednesday, docking in a town named for the man who bought Alaska from Russia for $7.2 million.

The 11,400-ton Vaidogubsky, 425 feet long, steamed 30 miles up fjord-like Resurrection Bay under a cloudy sky, flying the Soviet hammer and sickle from its stern and an American flag from its towering white superstructure.

It tied up at a railroad dock, its decks strewn with heavy equipment, smoke spewing from its stacks.

About 100 yards away, crews unloaded oil-soaked booms and absorbent material from the cleanup at Nuka Bay, one of the most polluted sites on the southern coast of the Kenai Peninsula.

“It’s pretty impressive for a skimmer,” said Coast Guard Petty Officer Ken Safford, who snapped photos as the ship arrived a little before 8 a.m. “It’s huge.”

By midmorning, a stream of tourists were driving up to the dock to take pictures and wave to the crew.

The ship came to Seward for refueling, and probably would not be in port all day, said Coast Guard Capt. Rene Roussel.

The oil spilled March 24 by an Exxon tanker is becoming very thick and difficult to deal with as it weatherizes, Roussel said.

“We don’t know how it (the Vaidogubsky) is going to work in the kind of oil we’re skimming,” he said. “Our goal is to get in the oil. We’ll probably use it in Resurrection Bay for awhile.”

The Vaidogubsky works with two motorboats that drag a boom to corral the oil. Then two pipes working like 100-foot straws dip into the oil and suck it into the larger ship, said Soviet crewman who spoke in halting English.

If there’s not enough oil there to justify its continued use, the Coast Guard will move it “to where the oil is. Nuka Bay is our most likely plan,” he said.

The Vaidogubsky probably will be available for 30 days, Roussel said. It’s unclear who will pay its fuel and operating costs, he said.

Exxon has promised to pay the costs of the total cleanup effort.

Seward this week became the first town outside Prince William Sound to have oil wash ashore, and then have to clean beaches.

The oil that washed ashore near Seward was a tacky-like goop mixed with seaweed, and was cleaned up Tuesday. But more oil was in Resurrection Bay, and still more reported on nearby islands and headlands of the Kenai Peninsula, including at Kenai Fjords National Park.

The oil has been streaming into the Gulf of Alaska from Prince William Sound where the tanker Exxon Valdez hit a reef and spilled 10.1 million gallons of North Slope crude oil.

Skimming in the often stormy gulf has been hampered by high seas because the small boats now in operation can handle seas only to about 5 feet. Seas recently have run as high as 12 feet.

Exxon has about 20 skimmers working in the sound and the gulf.

On the defense

Lawrence Rawl, chairman of Exxon Corp., gestures at a news conference in New York Tuesday. Rawl defended his company’s response to the Alaskan oil spill, blaming delays on indecisive regulatory agencies.

WASHINGTON—Transportation Secretary Samuel Skinner told the Senate Wednesday that industry plans for dealing with a spill of oil from Alaska’s North slope had not developed to the scale of one to zero,” Skinner said of the plan was inadequate.

Skinner, asked to evaluate the plan developed by a consortium of oil companies that ship oil from Alaska’s North slope through the pipeline and Valdez harbor, said the department should not have been approved by the state and should have brought warnings from the federal government that the plan was inadequate.

“The scale of one to 10, it was a zero,” Skinner said of the standby procedures. The secretary told the panel that before the tanker Exxon Valdez hit a reef, everyone had assumed that this would never happen.”

“Don’t think anybody was ready to deal with a spill of this magnitude,” said Skinner, whose department oversees the Coast Guard.

The subcommittee’s chairman, Sen. Max Baucus, D-Mont., complained that there has never been a time when this situation was under control.”

Bush and Hussein talk about Mid-East peace

Associated Press

WASHINGTON—President Bush and Jordan's King Hus­sein agreed Wednesday to strive for "a serious negoti­ating process" for Middle East peace, and the United States said the monarch did not reject an Israeli proposal for Pales­tinian elections in the West Bank and Gaza.

After the two leaders talked for more than an hour at the White House, the administra­tion expressed satisfaction over Hussein's statement to Bush that "I fully support you and all your efforts." Hussein's visit marked the end of the first round of Middle East diplomacy for Bush, fol­lowing talks earlier this month with Egypt's President Husni Mubarak and Israeli Prime Minister Yitzhak Shamir.

As he had done with the two others, Bush played tour guide for the king. He took Hussein by helicopt­er to Mount Vernon, Va., to visit the home of George Wash­ington overlooking the Potomac River. They returned to the White House the same day and dic­tated from drug merchants and now owned by the Navy. Still alongside Hussein in a Rose Garden ceremony, Bush said, "The time has come to encourage fresh thinking, to avoid starting the same argument and to focus on the difficult but criti­cal issues of structuring a serious negotiating process."

"His majesty committed Jor­dan to this task and I commit the United States to this task," Bush said.

The administration said the next step was to develop Shamir's proposal for the 1.7 million Palestinians in the oc­cupied territories to elect rep­resentatives in negotiate with Israel on limited self-govern­ment.

The United States has en­dorsed the proposal on the con­dition that the elections lead to negotiations on the final status of the territories.

Deputy Assistant Secretary of State Ned Walker told Congress that the United States wants a timetable from Israel by July for the elections.

But he said that "serious dif­ficulties" remain over what kind of elections would be held and that Palestinians would agree to take part.

"The United States should not matter to Israel whether can­didates are card-carrying mem­bers of the Palestine Liberation Organization."

Security tightened at animal labs

Associated Press

INDIANAPOLIS—Security is being tightened at Indiana-Purdue of Indianapolis, or IUPUI, laboratories and against protest by militant animal rights activists, officials say.

Some activists protesting the treatment of laboratory animals have resorted to such tactics as bomb threats, break-ins at research facilities, theft of research animals and arson, says George Stookey, chairman of the IUPUI animal care committee, which oversees wide-ranging studies involving thousands of animals.

"These are really terrorist-type activities," he says. "We take it all very seriously." That Stookey said lab security has been stepped up on the IUPUI campus, which includes the IU schools of medicine and dentistry and the Purdue School of Science.

The added precautions are in response an April 3 fire at the University of Arizona in Tucson. A group called Animal Liberation Front claimed responsibility for the blaze, which caused more than $100,000 damage, and also stole 1,200 animals—including mice that had been infected, as part of an experiment, with a germ potentially fatal to humans.

There have been no reports of threats or lab vandalism locally, but IUPUI researchers are aware of this situation and are concerned, Stookey said.

"Ten years ago it was kind of like it couldn't happen here," said Wendell McBurney, IUPUI research associate and former president of the American Association for Laboratory Animal Science. "Now it can happen here."

"The animal studies are continuing, with as many as 32 million animals used in the United States for research, education or product testing. Perhaps 10 percent are rodents. But many species, including cats, dogs and monkeys, are used.

WASHINGTON—Oliver North, the former Navy lawyer, in an emotional final argument Wednesday, portrayed the former White House aide as a sacrificial lamb, a scapegoat and a hostage, and implored jurors in his trial to come to a decision on "the man behind his face." "Oliver North never wanted to be a hero," said Randall Sullivan.

"He just wants to go home."

But prosecutor John Keker, having the last word, asked the jury to "return a verdict of guilty in each and every count of the 12 charges."

Verdicts were read in the cases of two women and 3 men who will decide North's fate were sent home. They will return to court next Wednesday to hear the deliberations after instructions from U.S. district Judge Gerhard Gesell. During deliberation, the jury will be sequenced for the first time since the Iran-Contra trial began.

In his hour-long rebuttal, Keker said it had been an "unhappy, unpleasant, miserable criminal trial," and dismissed Sullivan's closing argument with a Shakespearean touch: "It was all sound and fury, signaling nothing." "You have heard a lot about courage at this trial," Keker said. "There's another kind of courage: courage, to admit when you are wrong, courage to admit personal responsibility, courage to admit guilt where appropriate. He (North) has not admitted any of those things; it's time for you to do it."

It was one of the two final days for North, a former Marine lieutenant colonel, whose power while he was at the National Security Council was substantial. His face paled and he bashed himself with writing while Keker denounced him; he looked at the jury while Sullivan pleaded for him.

"Governor Reagan may not have held a show trial, Governor Reagan may not have shown criminal behavior," Sullivan said. "Oliver North holds the lives of others in his hands, now puts his life into yours."

The defense was that North's protecting names of people he dealt with by shredding or altering documents, which Sullivan saw as "a reasonable thing to do."

Keker had another explanation: "he was destroying documents deliberately so they wouldn't find what he didn't want them to find." After those deliberations, North's mood brightened and he joined his wife, who was speaking withKeker in front of the jury.

Sullivan, choked with emotion, said he had not admitted any of those things, "I ask you, the evidence, to set him free," said Sullivan. In the spectator section, beside North at the defense table, were his wife and three of his children. They had been present at the trial before, but it was a first for the children. North, with his youngest daughter by the hand and walked with her down the front row of spectators.

North is charged with 12 criminal counts, including lying to Congress and the attorney general, illegally converting traveler's checks to his own use, and making obscene comments.

Abortion ruling needs reversal

Throughout most of its history, the United States has had some form of abortion law. Since 1973, the Supreme Court made history with its landmark Roe v. Wade decision, declaring a fetus was not a person since it was not "capable of meaningful life." Thus it was entitled to the same rights as a person outside a mother's womb. We particularly want to thank all the Notre Dame and Saint Mary's students who gave up a day to help in the clean-up fix-up paint-up. An Antostal update: St. Ed’s Charity Carnival a new twist to tradition—having fun and helping others

No matter how old we get, there is always a child inside each of us that has to be let loose every once in a while.

This Sunday, April 21, Notre Dame and Saint Mary’s students have the opportunity to regress back to those simple but sunny childhood years at the first annual St. Edward’s Charity Carnival. This event will take place from 12 noon to 11:00 p.m. at Stepan Center.

Just like old times, the magical atmosphere of a carnival will be recreated through such traditional favorites as wacky clowns and jugglers, lively music, game booths, and carnival goods ranging from hot dogs to cotton candy.

The most important treat from the Charity Carnival, however, is the magic that continues even when the music stops and the booths have been taken down.

The proceeds from the carnival will be sent to charities in South Bend giving younger, in particular the children a chance to perhaps experience the magic of a carnival if not purchase a new pair of shoes or a better education. Thus, at the same time that Notre Dame and Saint Mary’s students are happily reliving the frolicking antics of ten-year-olds, with every carnival ticket they purchase they will also be helping other young kids.

Twenty dorms from both campuses have enthusiastic and creatively agreed to create their own unique booth for the carnival. Tickets needed in order to play these carnival booths will be sold at a separate booth for 25 cents each.

Each dorm will then decide to charge a certain amount of tickets for participation in their booth. The extra money made off each booth, after subtracting construction costs, will be donated to charities in South Bend of each dorm’s choice.

Sam Santo, co-ordinator of the Charity Carnival and assistant rector of St. Ed’s, explains, “There are two objectives to the Charity Carnival. Our primary concern is to raise money for charity. We also, however, want to make this Antostal Sunday fun for Notre Dame and Saint Mary’s students.”

This fun-filled Sunday will be kicked off with an all-campus picnic. As the day proceeds, students can engage in activities such as cake walks, ring tosses, a kissing booth, and dart throwing where they can win prizes like boxer shorts, Notre Dame mugs, plastic Notre Dame footballs, (and kisses), to name a few.

A special booth—a dunk tank—has been donated by St. Eds. Each dorm will receive one half hour in which they will try to entice the greatest amount of participants. The winning dorm will receive a plaque. Warning: rectors, be prepared to take a swim this Sunday.

In addition, there will be a day-long raffle for autographed basketballs and footballs.

Other entertainment will include palm reading, a caricaturist, a tattooist (they will be temporary tattos), and music entertainment from the Glee Club’s Quadraphonics, the Chorale, and even a bagpipe player. WVFI will also be providing music throughout the day and night.

“It’s a great day to take advantage of, especially with your little brothers and sisters for South Bend,” Santo emphasizes. This year being the first for the Charity Carnival Santo also explains, “Participation is important. The carnival can be as fun as people make it.”

Power and Glory a moving tale

ROBYN SIMMONS
Assistant Accent Editor

Southern Mexico during the anti-clerical purge of the 1930’s is the setting for “The Power and the Glory,” a powerful play about the strength of religion and the human spirit. This weekend in Washington Hall, the Notre Dame Communication and Theatre Department presents an adaptation of the Graham Greene novel of the same name, and the result is both moving and spellbinding.

The innovative method in which the company interprets Greene’s novel and Michael Murphy’s performance as the “whiskey priest” on the run is what makes “The Power and the Glory” such a quality product. Murphy plays an irresponsible sordid priest who is a fugitive of the revolutionary government, hiding out in the Sonora desert. Murphy’s character is physically and spiritually exhausted, and Murphy’s hard appearance is quite convincing.

NEW YORK—Lee Mazzi's three-pinch homer off Philadelphia reliever Steve Carlton with two outs in the eighth inning gave the New York Giants a 3-2 victory over the Phillies on Wednesday night.

The Phillies had taken a 2-1 lead in the top of the eighth on Ricky Jordan's run-scoring single, and Kevin McReynolds lined out a two-out single off of Carlton in the bottom of the eighth and Mazzi came on and walked Howard and Angel at the top of the ninth.

Mazzi, pinch hitting for Barry Bonds, then homered to right field. It was his career pinch home—four coming in the Mets.

Kevin Elster of the Mets set a major league record when he played his 33rd career game at shortstop without making an error.

Pirates 4, Giants 3

Benito Santiago hit a two-run home run of Steve Carlton with a single Wednesday as the San Diego Padres beat the San Francisco Giants 4-3.

Curt Schilling, 31, allowed four hits and two walks while striking out six to pick up the win. Mark Davis, ed up to gain his seventh save in seven appearances.

Giants reliever Craig Lefferts retired the Padres in order in the ninth to extend his streak of consecutive outs to 29. The major league record is 31, set by Jim Barr of the Giants in 1972.

Pirates 7, Cardinals 5

Bill Bellard and Tom Prince each drove in two runs on Friday and Pittsburgh capitalized on an Ozzie Smith error for the second straight day as the Pirates beat the St. Louis Cardinals 7-5 Wednesday.

Smith, considered the best fielding shortstop in the game, made a throwing error during a three-run rally by Pittsburgh in the fourth inning. On Tuesday night, the Pirates scored the winning runs when Smith booted a grounder with two outs in the ninth.

Expos 3, Cubs 2

Tom Foley and Nelson Santovenia hit consecutive home runs in the fourth inning Wednesday night, leading the Montreal Expos past the Chicago Cubs 3-2 and sweep of the three-game series.

The Cubs entered the series with a seven-game winning streak—longest since June 1983.

Denis Martinez, 30, allowed eight hits in eight-plus innings for his first victory since Aug. 24.

Matt Nokes' two-run ninth-inning power spoiled Frank Viola's $7.9 million birthday party Wednesday night and lifted the Detroit Tigers to a 2-1 victory over the Minnesota Twins.

Viola, 6-2, the 1988 American League Cy Young Award winner, agreed to a $7.9 million deal earlier Wednesday, his 29th birthday.

Winner Doyle Alexander, 29, allowed six hits in eight innings and Guillermo Hernandez pitched a perfect ninth, striking out two for his second save.

Athletics 7, Mariners 5

Dave Stewart improved to 4-0 and Terry Steinbach drove in three runs, leading the Oakland Athletics past the Seattle Mariners 7-5 on Wednesday.

Stewart owns the major league's best record after eight games and eight runs and eight hits. He struck out one and walked in six innings improving his mark to 3-0. Last April, Stewart was 6-6 and has won his last 13 decisions in April.

Tigers 3, Twins 2

The Montreal Expos may enjoy knowing each other around, but lately they've been concentrating on efforts on beating up the Chicago Cubs. The Expos won again Wednesday 3-2.

Viola signs contract

Associated Press

MINNEAPOLIS—Frank Viola, the 1988 American League Cy Young Award winner, agreed to a $7.9 million deal with the Minnesota Twins Wednesday after more than two weeks of arduous negotiations.

The three-year contract will give Viola $3.5 million as a revelation of this year's $3.5 million salary, $1.6 million in 1991, $1.7 million in 1992 and $2.8 million in 1993.

Viola, who turned 29 Wednesday, was 9-4 this season with 6.88 ERA after three starts, a big letdown from his 24-7, 2.48 version of 1988.

The deal is essentially the same as the one that made the Los Angeles Dodgers Orel Hershiser the game's highest-paid player.

ND track splits for weekend

BY GREG SHECKENBACH

Sports Writer

Once again, the Notre Dame track team will split up this weekend and attend two different track meets in Indianapolis and Kansas. The long relay teams and middle distance runners will travel to Lawrence for the prestigious Kansas Relays, while most of the other individual competitors will travel downtown for the Indiana Intercollegiate Meet.

This is the first time in a few years the Irish have participated in the Kansas Relays. Recently, the meet has not been as competitive, but this year the meet organizers recruited more of the top teams which should make the meet stronger again.

Notre Dame will send the sprint medley relay team and the 4x1 mile relay team to Kansas with high hopes.

"Both of our relay teams should fair well this weekend," said Head Coach Joe Piane.

"They should challenge for the top three in their races."

The sprint medley relay team consists of Richard Culp, Xavier Victor, Yan Searcy, and Brian Peppard. The experienced 4x1 mile team includes Ryan Cahill, Mike Rogan, Tom O’Toole, and Tom Markewicz. Markewicz, who recently qualified for the National meet in the 10,000 meter race, will anchor the relay team with a much shorter distance than he is accustomed to.

"The shorter distance and faster pace should do worlds of good for Markewicz," stated Piane.

Markewicz agrees with Piane that it will help him running such a short distance.

"It will definitely help my speed in the long run," said Irish co-captain Markewicz. "The quicker pace should prepare me for the competition in the 10,000 meters."

Other athletes traveling to Kansas are Glen Watson in the 110 meter high hurdles, John Cole in the high jump, and David Worsh, Mark Lavery, Kevin Whelan, and Brian Peppard in the 800 meters. Relay members Searcy and Culp will also compete in the 400 meter race. Dan Garrett will abstain due to injury.

"This meet gives us a chance to run some relays we can’t usually run," said Piane. "It also gives our individuals a chance to improve their time or height in a non-qualifying situation."

The Indiana Intercollegiate meet will also offer great competition for the Irish. This, being a qualifying meet, is very important for many Notre Dame athletes.

John Stewart will be looking to qualify for the ICAA javelin competition, while numerous others will look to qualify in their individual events. Bill Hobbs will run a 1,000 while Shawn Schneider will run his first ever 3,000 meter race. Jeff Smith, who has already qualified, will compete in the long jump and Scott Vandenberg will run the quarter mile.

Last year the Irish had eight athletes place in the top three in Indianapolis. This year may not be as successful since many of the top runners are going to Kansas.

Carlton quits after three-year struggle

PHILADELPHIA - Steve Carlton gave up a three-year struggle to remain in the game he loved, telling the baseball world Wednesday he is through pitching after repeated comeback attempts.

The 44-year-old "Lefty" wouldn’t use the word "retirement" in the announcement that came almost a year since his last release.

Even this spring, Carlton - coming off September surgery to remove eight chips from his pitching shoulder - still was trying to show major league teams that he had the same fire that earned him four Cy Young awards.

"My arm hasn’t rehabilitated the way I had hoped," Carlton said in a brief statement issued by the Philadelphia Phillies, for whom he recorded 341 of his 359 career wins.

"I’m still experiencing some pain and I’ve decided I no longer would be active as a player."

The Phillies said they would retire his uniform number, 32, in a July 29 ceremony.

Club President Bill Giles said Carlton is "not officially retiring, according to him, but we’re going to honor him anyway."

Giles said that if someone wanted Carlton, he might try another comeback.

"But he feels it’s not going to happen, at least in the major leagues, although you never know when somebody’s going to call," said Giles.

He said Carlton apparently "still has a glimmer of hope that Japan might be interested."

National League spokeswoman Kay Feeney said Carlton remains technically a free agent, because he was released by his last club, the Minnesota Twins. She said he would not go on a voluntary retired list since he belongs to no club.

Giles said he thinks Carlton really is finished pitching this time.

"In fact I tried to talk him into retiring two or three years ago," Giles said. "But he thought he could still pitch."
Irish sweep SW Michigan; Linn shuts down Roadrunners

By MARY GARINO
Sports Writer

The Notre Dame softball team was not very neighborly Wednesday when it played host to Southwest Michigan College. The Irish whipped the Roadrunners in both ends of a doubleheader, 6-0 and 8-4.

Notre Dame raised its record to 22-15 with the two wins over SW Michigan. In the first game, Megan Fay led a ten hit attack with an RBI double in the first inning to steal second. Martinez's three runs in the fifth to give Notre Dame an 8-6 lead. Northwestern then elected to intentionally walk James Sass to get to the plate. Ruth Kmak in the first inning. The Irish exploded for seven runs on seven hits in the bottom of the sixth inning. Dawn Boucl, who finished the game a perfect 3 for 3 at the plate, led off with a double and scored. Mary Verardi also scored for the last Irish run. Freshman Missy Linn allowed only three hits in seven innings to improve her record to 17-1. Linn struck out four and walked only one on en route to the victory.

Notre Dame wasted no time scoring in the second game. Once again, the game was started by Fay who started the team off when she reached for a high pitch and drove it up the middle to score Ruth Kmak in the first inning. The Irish exploded for seven runs on seven hits in the bottom of the second to put the game out of reach. The big hit for the team was provided by Kmak, who launched a single to right field with the bases loaded, scoring three runs. Later, two other players scored on Roadrunner miscues. Dawn Boucl scored in the bottom of the sixth to bring the Irish total to nine runs. SW Michigan scored its lone run in the top of the seventh.

Barb Mooney evened her record to 4-4 with a complete game performance. Mooney scattered eight hits and allowed only one run, unearned. Irish head coach Brian Boucl was pleased with her effort. "For Barb to pitch a full game is really great," he said. "She's pitching more and more each time, and she's getting stronger. She's made a big improvement." In the second game, the Notre Dame defense was at its best. The Irish turned three double plays in the game, a team record. Mary Verardi was particularly outstanding, making three stellar catches in left field.

"We played really well defensively," Boucl noted. "Everyone got in the games and I'm pleased with the way they responded."

Both games were played without umpires. Coaches from each team substituted for umpires by mutual agreement.

Notre Dame will face a tough challenge this weekend when it participates in the DePaul Tournament in Chicago. The Irish will open play on Friday with a game against Wisconsin-Green Bay, a team that has already beaten the Irish twice this past season.

Also on Friday Notre Dame will play Loyola an hour after the Wisconsin game. Loyola holds a less than respectable record of 12-19, and Notre Dame was responsible for three of those losses.

Notre Dame will continue to play on Saturday with a game against the host team, DePaul, which is 26-12 record.

MONTREAL – Bobby Smith scored on a backhander at 12:24 of overtime Wednesday night, giving the Montreal Canadiens a 3-2 victory over the Boston Bruins and a two-game lead in the Adams Division finals. Smith came out from behind the net to the right of goal tender Reggie Lemelin and swept the puck past Lemelin's glove, giving the Canadiens their third overtime victory in six playoff games this year.

The Canadiens, seeking revenge for last year's five-game loss to the Bruins in the Adams final, won the first two games at home. Games 3 and 4 will be played in Boston Friday and Sunday.

Montreal goaltender Patrick Roy extended his season-long unbeaten streak at the Forum to 29-0-4 by making 27 saves.

Flyers 4, Penguins 2

Tim Kerr scored a first-period hat trick as the Philadelphia Flyers beat the Pittsburgh Penguins 4-2 Wednesday night, burying the Patrick Division finals at one win apiece.

The Flyers shrugged off a 27-minute delay resulting from a pre-game power failure to score two first-period power play goals - both by Kerr - and surge into a 3-1 lead for the second straight game.

But unlike Pittsburgh's 4-3 victory in the opener, there was no comeback this time as the aggressive Flyers keyed by Ron Hextall's clutch goal tendering short-circuited the Penguins' NHL record-setting power play, limiting them to one man-advantage goal in right chances.

Yelovich leads new but too few Irish receivers

By STEVE MEGARGEE
Associate Sports Editor

A couple of faces in new places, and not enough faces in general, have worked for the Notre Dame receiving corps this spring.

Notre Dame receivers coach Tony Yelovich, one of the new faces, has liked what he has seen of the receivers so far.

"There's been a steady progression," said Yelovich, who has moved over to the receivers after working for three years as the offensive line coach. "We're not close to where we want to be, but they've worked hard and the attitude's been super."

The biggest name among the receivers has been Raghib "Rocket" Ismail, another person whose role on the team has changed since last year's national championship season.

The freshman from Wilkes-Barre, Pa., moves from split end to flanker. Antwon Lark and Tony Jacobs is playing baseball. We're limited with depth when they're gone. If we have an injury, then it really becomes a serious situation."

Recruits Ray Griggs, a 6-3, 190-pounder from Crete-Monee, Ill., and William P卡尔德, a 6-5, 210-pounder from Fort Knox, Ky., will arrive in the fall to help solve Notre Dame's depth problems at receiver.

Freshman Walter Boyd is listed as the second-team flanker. Antwon Lark and Tony Smith are battling for the second spot at split end. None of these receivers caught a pass last season.

"They're still going through a learning process and adjusting to the offense," said Yelovich. "We'd like to have moved a lot faster progression-wise."

Yelovich, who had worked as a collegiate offensive line coach for more than 20 seasons, is happy with the switch to receivers coach. For Yelovich, coaching itself is the most important thing.

"I really enjoy it, this is an area for me to broaden my scope," said Yelovich. "Anytime you have a chance to coach, it's enjoyable, no matter what position it is you're coaching."

Freshman Raghib Ismail leads the Irish receiving corps in spring drills. Assistant Coach Tony Yelovich has taken over the job as Ismail and Pat Eilers are among the likely starters.

Underclassmen dominate as Irish edge Wildcats

By STEVE MEGARGEE
Associate Sports Editor

Led by a group of four underclassmen, the Notre Dame baseball team overcame a sub-par performance to defeat Northwestern 10-8 Wednesday at Jake Kline Field.

Freshman first baseman Joe Binkiewicz drove in three runs for the Irish. Craig Counsell, another freshman, scored two runs, while catcher and classmate Jason Martinek scored a run with one RBI. Sophomore Mike O’Neill hit a key triple during Notre Dame’s six-run rally in the fifth inning.

“Guys like Binkiewicz, Martinek (Cory) – their toughness is a real positive for us,” said Irish coach Pat Murphy. “I’m a little disappointed about our senior leadership of late, but it’s nice to be saying this after we’ve beaten a Big Ten team.”

Notre Dame (28-7), ranked 23rd by Baseball America and ESPN, plays Tri-State today at 3 p.m. at Jake Kline Field.

Wednesday’s game started with one Irish freshman turning in a disappointing performance. Starting pitcher Brian Conway walked five batters and allowed three runs before leaving in the fifth inning.

“He pitched like a freshman,” said Murphy. “I thought he was more mature and could handle it, but it was his first start against a Big Ten team, and he didn’t have his stuff.”

Northwestern’s Joe Perona hit a solo homer in the second inning to open the scoring. Conway walked three of the next four batters after Perona’s blast, but the Wildcats left the bases loaded. Northwestern left 11 runners on base in the game, including five in the first two innings.

The Irish tied the score in their half of the second inning when Mike Mohr’s bunt scored James Saus from third. Mohr reached first on an error and was on second when Saus scored. “We gave away a lot of baselines and a lot of outs,” said Murphy. “We didn’t execute on bunts, we popped up a couple of bunts and misread plays in the outfield.”

Conway’s control problems helped Northwestern regain the lead in the fourth. After walking one batter and hitting another with a pitch, Conway gave up a run-scoring single to Tim Bube. Northwestern added another run on a 2-5 lead.

Tony Livorsi replaced Conway after Bube’s single, and the sophomore left-hander allowed only one earned run in his stint of 4 1/3 innings. Livorsi, who had been working mostly in short relief, recorded a complete game victory over Saint Louis before picking up a save.

“He’s proving to me that he can throw a third pitch for a strike,” said Murphy. “When he only had one or two pitches, batters could get to him the second time around the lineup. ‘He doesn’t throw the ball very hard, but now he keeps them off balance a little longer.’

Notre Dame managed only two hits in the first three innings, as Northwestern changed pitchers almost every inning. It is a common practice of Big Ten teams to rotate pitchers and use one-batter, one-inning games in order to have them all rest for the weekend games against conference opponents.

The Irish, who are keeping April 30th (the day the final rounds of the NCAA softball tournament are being played) as their game day, won 10-8 and advance in the tourney.

The Notre Dame baseball team overcame an early surge by Northwestern to defeat the Wildcats 10-8 at Jake Kline Field Tuesday.

Summer camp dream is still alive

Conscious Party upset by Nods

By HEATHER ATKINSON
Saint Mary’s Sports Editor

All hopes of advancing to the next round were shattered for eight teams during the Women’s Bookstore Basketball games yesterday.

Conscious Party, a team picked to do well at the start of the tournament, was defeated in a close game with the Nods. The lead exchanged hands several times throughout the game but the Nods managed to pull ahead near the end and defeated their opponents, 21-17.

Several of the teams won their preliminary and first-round games easily. The Traveling Sleighbells dominated their entire contest, slaughtering The Female Falcons, 21-0. Kristin Swenerton led the team with seven baskets.

Ryan’s Rabbles Rousers, decked out in matching green T-shirts, took an early lead over Five under Five under 5’3”. Ruth Pilas set the pace for her teammates with her nine baskets and led them to a 19-6 victory.

“We’ve Got It, Put It Through took an early 6-0 lead and slayed The Hard Lickos, which had trouble with the quickness and accurate shooting of its opponents, losing by a final score of 21-3.

Tony’s Tigers kissed their chances of advancing goodbye as Four Freshmen With Lips defeated them 21-5 in the preliminary round.
