Japanese Prime Minister to resign

Associated Press

TOKYO - Prime Minister Noboru Takeshita announced Tuesday he will resign to take responsibility for a loss of public trust caused by a widening political scandal, Chief Cabinet Secretary Keizo Obuchi said.

After a Cabinet meeting, Takeshita told leaders of his Liberal Democratic Party he will step down, Obuchi said in a live television broadcast.

Polls indicate the scandal and an unpopular sales tax, which went into effect April 1, have made Takeshita the most unpopular prime minister since the War II.

"Prime Minister Takeshita announced that he would resign as soon as the budget is passed in order to clarify his responsibilities for the public's distrust in politicians due to the Recruit scandal," Obuchi said.

Parliament is expected to pass the budget by early May.

Takeshita, 65, who became prime minister in November 1987, has denied wrongdoing but acknowledged receiving more than $1 million in what he called legal political donations from the Recruit Co.

News reports over the weekend said he also borrowed $201,700 from the information-publishing giant in 1987, returning the funds a few months later.

ND tuition to increase 9.6%

According to a letter sent to all parents of Notre Dame undergraduates, tuition for the 1989-90 school year will increase by 9.6 percent to $11,315 and room, board and laundry will increase by 6.1 percent to $3,275.

The letter, sent by University President Father Edward Malloy on April 17, said that tuition would increase by 990 and room, board and laundry by 800.

"Compared to other private schools, it's a bargain," said Thomas Mason, vice president for Business Affairs. "On an absolute basis, we're lower than 30 others," Mason said, pointing out figures from tuition rankings of 35 "peer institutions" over the past seven years.

The "peer institutions" surveyed include all Ivy League schools, Boston College, Duke, Georgetown, Northwestern and roughly 20 other private schools.

According to the rankings, Notre Dame has been ranked either 20 or 30 out of 35 schools in terms of tuition over the past seven years. Also, the University has been ranked dead last in terms of room and board costs for the past seven years.

In addition to the increase in undergraduate tuition, graduate tuition will rise 9.7 percent, to $11,905, and tuition for the MBA program will be raised 9.6 percent, to $11,295.

"Parents and students might ask why tuition is increasing by 9.6 percent when inflation is increasing by approximately 5.5 percent," Mason said. He went to cite four main reasons for the difference:

* Faculty salaries. "We made a commitment four or five years ago that the faculty should be in the first quarter (top 20 percent) of the American Association of University Professor," Mason said. He added that keeping the faculty in this quarter adds an extra 1.25

CO-ED HOUSING

By KELLEY TUTHILL and JOHN ZALLER

Editor's note: This is the first of a three-part series on coeducational housing.

78 percent of the students surveyed said they were in favor of coed housing, 17 percent were against, and 5 percent were undecided.

87 percent of the males surveyed were in favor of coed housing, as were 77 percent of the females. In total, 155 males were called and 127 females.

Students showed some concern about their dorm becoming coed, however, with 36 percent in favor, 36 percent against, and 8 percent undecided.

Most survey agreed that coed housing would improve relations between men and women at Notre Dame. 79 percent agreed, 16 percent disagreed and 5 percent were undecided.

In November of 1988 a report to the Board of Trustees on Co-residentiality had similar findings. In their survey, 67 percent of the students surveyed were in favor of co-residential housing. In addition, 90 percent of the students felt that there was a need for improved relations among Notre Dame males and females.

The report listed specific concerns that the students surveyed mentioned. Some students, especially in the older dorms, were concerned about the tradition that their dorms had nurtured over the years. However, the report states that there was "overwhelming support for this change, however, in some of the newer North quad dorms, particularly Siegfried, Knott, and Paquerra East and West."

The report examined peer institutions and how their campuses handled their housing.

The jet had been flying from Texas to Arizona on its way to Mexico. The pilot had signaled the tower for permission to land at the Little Desert, but was told that the runway was closed due to a sandstorm. The pilot then decided to land at the nearest airport, which was located near the Little Desert. The plane was carrying a family of four who had been on their honeymoon. The family was unharmed, but the airport was closed due to the sandstorm. The pilot was fined for violating air traffic rules.

Chinese students begin boycott

Associated Press

BELING: Students at most Beijing colleges exuberantly began a class boycott Monday to press for sweeping demo­ cratic reforms, and they tried through speeches and posters to enlist workers in the cause. Authorities took no open steps to interfere, but sources said more than 10,000 soldiers from outlying counties moved into Beijing over the weekend in preparation for an eventual crackdown.

The sources, who spoke on condition of anonymity, said the troops had been used in the past to quash civil unrest. Some student leaders said they feared imminent arrest.

The exact number of particip­ants in the boycott was not known, but students at a dozen schools with a total enrollment of more than 50,000 said virtually all their classmates were strik­ing.

The boycott was the largest in 20 years of communist rule, even though there were no reports of students joining in others, as the student ac­tivists hoped.

"Now is the time for all stu­dents to unite to fight for democracy," a student speaker at Qingshua University yelled from a banner-strewn balcony. "6,000 wildly cheering listeners. He proclaimed the balcony a "free speech platform" and in­vited orators with all views.

K-Mart bomb victim is ‘cheerful’

The parents of Erin Bower, the 5-year-old injured in last week’s explosion in an Indian­apolis K-Mart, are both from South Bend.

Erin’s father Kevin Bower and her mother Maureen Crowe Bower both graduated from Adams High School in South Bend.

Dr. Frederick Crowe, a trained psychologist and member of the board of the Ameri­can Psychological Association, DeLeon, in a written presentation last December, said it’s absurd to put it mildly, "to proclaim that one needs to go to medical school and take all of their courses" in order to write prescriptions for psychotropic drugs.

In a telephone interview, DeLeon said the Defense De­partment "seems to have made the perfect place for this expansion" of psychologists authority to prescribe drugs because of its training facilities and a high in­cidence of mental health prob­lems in the military.

That’s not how the medical community sees it.

"To attempt to provide mili­tary psychologists with prescribing privileges with out accredited medical education and post-graduate clinical practice training…trivializes medical diagnosis and judgment," said Dr. Mel­vin Shabshin, medical director of the American Psychiatric Association.

Dr. Donald Bennett, director of the drug division at the American Medical Associa­tion, said simply, "we think it is inappropriate for psy­chologists to prescribe psy­choactive drugs."

Students from several schools marched around campus and on nearby streets, carrying signs asking for democracy and决心tos publicize their demands for press freedom, an end to offi­cial privileges and corruption, and respect for human rights.

The boycott marks a new phase in the campaign after a week in which the students, mourning the death of former reformist party chief Hu Yaobang, tried to confront the leadership directly.

They marched repeatedly to central Beijing’s Tiananmen Square and tried to storm Communist Party headquarters.

Top officials, who have begun market-style economic reforms but insist China is not ready for democracy, refused to meet with them.

Student leaders stressed Monday they wanted their protest to be peaceful and le­gal, and that they were not seeking to overthrow the gov­ernment or party.

"We’re the students," they said they want Premier Li Peng to resign, along with party leaders.

The Western diplomat, who spoke privately, said Tues­day’s meeting might focus on political reform and plans for the next parliament, whose first meeting is sched­uled for May 25. It is to elect a president as well as a full-time legislature.

Bush joins in mourning for fallen crewmen of USS Iowa

Associated Press

NORFOLK, Va. - Thousands of grieving friends and relatives of the fallen 47 crewmen from the battleship USS Iowa gathered quietly Monday and heard President Bush praise the victims of the fallen 47 crewmen.

"We join today in mourning for the 47 who perished, and in fact, for the 11 who survived," the president told a packed memorial service at Norfolk Naval Air Station. "They all were, in the words of a poet, 'the men behind the guns.'

"They came from Hidalgo, Texas; Cleveland, Ohio; Tampa, Florida; Costa Mesa, California. They came to the Navy as seamen, Marines all fighting to save the ship's banners. Outside, another 2,000 people listened to the service on loudspeakers. The service came a day after the World War II-era battleship ceased to be a home port, its gun barrels scorched and its 1,500 crewmen at the rails in white uniforms and black armbands in memory of their dead shipmates.

"I remember their faces as they rooted at their guns, sweating an honest sweat that comes from young men dedicated to a great cause," he said. "I remember as they talked among themselves, looking so much like sailors of the past, sharing the exuberance of the times and the dreams of the future," he said. "They were the life, the spirit and the soul of our ship. They made the ultimate sacrifice for us."

But with the still-unexplained fire and explosion last Wednesday in the battleship's No. 2 gun turret, he said, "This was my best turret," Moosally said. He said the turret's senior chief, Chief Gunner's Mate Reginald Owen Ziegler of Port Gibson, N.Y., was the most meticulous of men. He was my No. 1 chief of the 84 chiefs aboard.

"Nobody in that turret did anything unless they were qualified," Moosally said.

"Our extensive training paid off," he said. "Besides the firing crew, we also had cooks, engineers, deck seamen, Marines all fighting to save the ship."

The service came a day after the Navy said 45 victims' families would be allowed to see the ship.

"God gave birth to 500 heroes," he said. "Pride on a ship is the most terrifying fear...you have nowhere to run."

"I remember as they talked among themselves, looking so much like sailors of the past, sharing the exuberance of the times and the dreams of the future," he said. "They were the life, the spirit and the soul of our ship. They made the ultimate sacrifice for us."

Capt. Fred Moosally, commander of the Iowa, told the crew of seamen that he remembered the men of turret two.

"I remember their faces as they rooted at their guns, sweating an honest sweat that comes from young men dedicated to a great cause," he said. "I remember as they talked among themselves, looking so much like sailors of the past, sharing the exuberance of the times and the dreams of the future," he said. percent to the 5.5 percent base.

- Student computing: A year ago we made an announcement that the University was committing $27 million over the next five years to computing. This year, two percent raises the increase to 8.3 percent, he said.

- Foreign Study Programs. "We had a problem with such things as the dollar exchange and the cost of doing business in Tokyo and London," Mason said. "We had to add another half of a percent because of that."

- Enhancements. "We had to add about another three-quarters of a percent for everything else in the place, what we call 'enhancements,' said Mason.

In the past, according to Mason, enhancements have been used to hire another professor when one department has had an overload or when extra professors were needed after the College of Business Administration opened up classes to students in the College of Arts and Letters. "A lot of it also has to do with government regulations - EPA-type regulations that the University has to comply with," said Mason.

"When you add all of these factors up, it comes out to about 9.5 percent, which explains the difference from the 5.5 percent inflation rate," Mason said.

Mason attributed the 6.3 percent increase in room and board costs to an effort to improve the buildings on campus.

"We have had a program for six or seven years to spend $2 million a year to renovate the dormitories, but now we want to start on a program of remodeling academic buildings," Mason said.

Mason said that Malloy intentionally sent out the notice early to let students know of the price increase before they left for summer. He said Malloy's "philosophy is to get the information out as soon as possible, even though the Board of Trustees won't approve the increase until it meets on May 5."
Quayle addresses AP before second trip abroad

Associated Press

CHICAGO—Vice President Dan Quayle, embarking on a 13-day trip to Australia and Southeast Asia, vowed Monday to address "head-on ... concerns that the United States is a nation in decline." Before leaving the United States on his second trip abroad since taking office, Quayle addressed the annual meeting of The Associated Press.

He told the newspaper publishers his trip to Asia was designed to underscore the "familiarity" commitment to the Pacific rim trade deficits a sign of malaise.

"If there is a new United States is there to replace us?" he asked. "Pacific? and, if not, who else is there to replace us?"

"An important purpose of my trip is to address these concerns head on. . . ." Quayle said. "The United States is focusing on the region as never before."

"I am so determined to remind the Asian allies "that the current wave of declinism thought in the United States is hardly a new phenomenon." ELaborating, the vice president said, "Books predicting America's imminent fall from world leadership have made the best-seller lists and prophets of American decline have become virtual academic celebrities."

"All of this naturally arouses a good deal of apprehension among our friends and allies in Asia."

He did not identify any specific planets.

Periodically, he said, waves of pessimism have swept the United States. Yet, he added, such national introspection is healthy because "It's usually a sign of renewal, not of decline."

Quayle said the overall purpose of his whirlwind trip, which will take him and his wife, Marilyn, to Indonesia, Singapore and Thailand as well as Australia, is to show that the United States intends "to play an important role in the Pacific."

In a question-and-answer session with the AP group, Quayle said one of the things he most enjoyed about his first 100 days in office is his involvement in foreign policy.

The vice president, who visited Central and South America soon after he was inaugurated, said most of his trips as senator had been back home to Indiana.

Still, he said, he was "extremely pleased" with the progress of the administration's war on drugs in the Philippines.

From Chicago, Quayle was flying Los Angeles for a 30-minute meeting with former President Reagan before leaving for Australia.

Also on the agenda in Los Angeles was a speech to the American Legion and the annual fundraising events, a reception for the Ronald Reagan Library Foundation and a dinner at which Reagan was to receive an award.

The Supreme Court lets controversial chemical, EPA case die in court

Associated Press

WASHINGTON-The Supreme Court on Monday refused to intervene in the controversy over Alar, rejecting efforts to revive a lawsuit by Ralph Nader and others aimed at forcing Royal Crown Cola to order Alar off the market. Order Alar off the market.

CRITICS of the chemical say it poses a health hazard, particularly to children. Makers of apple juices and sauces say their tests show only traces of Alar in a tiny fraction of their products.

In another matter, the court agreed to decide whether a federal judge has the authority to order higher property taxes to help pay for racially upgraded and imposed the tax hikes. District voters had rejected higher taxes six times before.

The city's schools had been segregated under Missouri law until 1970. In the ensuing three decades, the percentage of black students in the system fell from 30.5 to 67.7 percent.

Clark ruled in 1987 that the school faculties had "literally rotted," ordered them upgraded and imposed the tax hikes. District voters had rejected higher taxes six times from 1981 through 1987.

In the Alar case, some studies show the chemical also called daminozide-can cause cancer in test animals. The EPA has said that it intends to ban Alar, made by United Chemical Co., but that such action could be years away.

The EPA on Jan. 6, 1987, regretted a deal by environmentalists and others, saying it lacked sufficient evidence to order Alar off the market.

The suit, which the justices rejected, was filed by graduates of the University of Missouri in 1973, charging the school property taxes and study of millions of dollars to improve decaying, predominantly black city schools.

Wounded Soviet protesters ask for chemical antidote

Associated Press

Tbilisi, U.S.S.R.- Georgians hospitalized with damage to their central nervous systems asked the government Monday for an antidote to whatever chemical soldiers used when dispersing a protest.

Foreign Ministry spokesman in Moscow denied allegations by Georgian activists that troops used chemical weapons in the confrontation April 9, but the Georgian Communist Party chief confirmed Monday some of the 20 deaths were caused by gas.

The leader, Givi Gumbadze, also spoke on the commission, said at least 700 people were injured. Ira Orzhonikhidze, a third commission member, said 600 of them were poisoned.

The final recommendation begins stating, "Taking into ac­count the nature of the Univer­sity, the input from peer insti­tutions, the attitude of the Rectors on campus and the opinion of the Student Body, we, as the investigating com­mittee, conclude that Notre Dame should implement co­residential housing."

The recommendation came in four parts: Part I. "We suggest that the University begin exploring an experimental basis with the conversion of 4-6 dormitories. Due to the physical structure of these dorms, we recommend the conversion of Siegfried, Knott, and any of the following dorms: Pasquerilla West, Pasquerilla East, Flanner, Grace, Stanford or Keenan.

Part II. We propose that the aforementioned dorms become co-residential section by section basis. (Due to ‘L’ shape of these dorms.)

Part III. The hall staff for the dorms would consist of a Rector and assistant rector of opposite sex, and on every floor a male RA in the male section, and a female RA in the female section.

Part IV. The recommendation begins stating, "Taking into ac­count the nature of the Univer­sity, the input from peer insti­tutions, the attitude of the Rectors on campus and the opinion of the Student Body, we, as the investigating com­mittee, conclude that Notre Dame should implement co­residential housing."

Repression to be addressed worldwide

Kevin Smart
On politics

would also hazard a guess that more states practice political oppression than racial oppression. I don't think that apartheid is a worldwide problem. It certainly has no international "party" seeking to spread it.

So why, then, does the apartheid issue dominate discussion here? Two answers suggest themselves. First, clearly any oppression carried out in a Marxist or leftist state is seen as either necessary, unavoidable, or both. Politicians that proclaim the doctrine of "in loco parentis" and refuse to heed the cries of the Anti-Apartheid Network. Hence, activists can symbolically tweak the noses of the "establishment" while fulfilling one's daily requirement of protesting against racism, oppression, etc.

Ah, what fun. Eventually, of course, some people graduate and go to work in an off-campus job. Those who are still in the academic environment must take up such causes with great seriousness. I certainly do not say that blacks are not repressed in the world. Black rule, are repressive one-party states; for that matter, any country in the world proclaims Marxism-Leninism has plenty of blood on its hands. And we haven't even mentioned psychopaths such as Khadafi or the Ayatollah Khomeini. So, the reenactment seems an inadequate reason for making apartheid a priority.

But, America is so involved in South Africa—American companies have huge investments in that country. It is certainly in the interest of the anti-apartheid crowd. By implication, this means that we apparently lack the ability to make peace with, say, a communist country. But we sell our Vietcong ton upon ton of grain, the Soviets see as indispensable. Wouldn't it be more powerful leverage? Pepsi-Cola has a huge contract to sell its products in the USSR, while strangely enough there are no calls to boycott Pepsi. In fact, the U.S. has economic, cultural, and diplomatic ties with a host of countries that practice some kind of repression. Using anti-apartheid logic, we should be demanding that the U.S. use this "influence" to demand sweeping changes across the globe. Again. It is they who see apartheid should be singled out.

Perhaps apartheid's racism is the deciding factor. Racism, after all, is a heinous practice—punishing someone due to skin color is irrational and brutalizes not only the victims but also to its perpetrators. True, but why is racism worse than any other oppression? Growing someone in prison due to his skin color is hateful, but so is imprisoning him due to the political opinions he holds. Repression is repression, its weight is no lighter upon a Soviet dissident in a "psychiatric hospital" than on a black activist in a Johannesburg jail.

ND fails to provide for basic academic needs

Dear Editor:

In response to Ms. Marley's article, "Freshman Year Classes uniformly uninspiring" (April 18, 1989), I can say that I partly sympathize with her argument.

To many students, freshman courses often seem like bad reruns which weren't too popular the first time around; and such courses, sadly, are often taught by professors with better things to do, or by graduate assistants with too much to do (and nowhere to do it, as in the case of the Freshman Writing Program). Notre Dame should provide good teachers. No argument there.

We differ where, early in her piece, she suggests that poor freshmen are alone in this ghastly affair. In fact, graduate students as well as most undergrads suffer from the University's love of rhetoric, sports, and money (pick two) and its failure to provide for its "family's" basic needs. It is also clear that by the time she sinks into the agony of her final sentences, she is missed the point of her own argument: while Notre Dame's athletes are world champion carriers of the Holy Ghost while every spring the ACC hosts what is probably by golly the world's largest Home and Garden Show while Irish president chit chats with another gold leaf donor, frustrated teachers held office hours in LaFortune Student Center, teach classes to disgruntled students like Ms. Marley, and go to work in an underbooked library.

Well, maybe we don't disagree that much.

The best and worst in television

The Writers Strike of 1986 cost many people a great deal of money and almost prevented a new television season. Luckily, the strike ended, and the season that almost wasn’t proved to be one of the best. Looking back, it was a season of fun, fascination, and, of course, great television. Best Comedy: “The Wonder Years” (ABC) has delighted viewers since its start. The show never ceases to portray refreshing, original comedy and wonderful characters. The show’s ratings are proof that America wants quality entertainment.

Best Drama: TV’s smartest drama is CBS’ “Wogeuy.” A cop show with a twist, this series redefines the words “action” and “entertainment.” Its six and seven week plotline format adds an intriguing and realistic dimension to the battle against evil, and the show’s musical guest stars, such as Glenn Fry and Deborah Harry, are only one example of the show’s commitment to creativity.

Best Prime Time Soap: The ratings king and reigning Smartest Drama is a totally new show. The dialogue is natural; the ridiculous glitz of the past has less of a sparkle; the plotlines are original and exciting. The return of Sable Colby more than compensated for the loss of Krystle, and the show has maintained respectable ratings despite its competition and terrible lead-in shows.

The other show that has improved is ABC’s “Full House.” The show no longer relies solely on the cute little girls to survive.

New plotlines and fully developed characters are a refreshing addition to this show and, while it still has a way to go, the show is a wonderful start to ABC’s powerhouse Friday lineup. Other Awards: The You Only Get What You Deserve award goes to “Moonlighting.” The show treated viewers poorly last year so viewers treated the show poorly this year. “Moonlighting’s” ratings have placed a frown upon the Moon this year.

ABC’s highly rated sitcom “Growing Pains” receives the Come On, You Can Do Better Than That award. This once cavy and spontaneous show has fallen into a rut of saccharine commentaries and overdone plotlines.

“The Golden Girls” of NBC receives the We Only Get Better With Age award. The show hasn’t lost one ounce of its wit and charm since it began. These girls entertain audiences of all ages and will continue to be a golden hit for NBC.

Finally, this year’s Get Best! award goes to NBC’s “The Hogan Family.” Supposedly taking place in Chicago, the show presents scenes with palm trees, a cheap set representing O’Hare Airport, and a building with the word “Northwestern” on it to represent the prestigious university. And viewers really supposed to believe that wisecracking David Hogan got into Northwestern, let alone chose to live at home?!

To date, the 1988-89 television season has been an intriguing one; however, there’s more to come. With the nighttime soap cliffhanger “Knots Landing” and the nighttime soap cliffhanger “Knots Landing,” the show presents scenes with palm trees, a cheap set representing O’Hare Airport, and a building with the word “Northwestern” on it to represent the prestigious university. And viewers really supposed to believe that wisecracking David Hogan got into Northwestern, let alone chose to live at home?!

Throughout An Tostal Week, different bands will be entertaining those outside the campus. But the picnic at Stepan Center on Saturday has a special feature for music fans. Billy “Stix” Nicks and the N’s and Outs will be playing on the biggest day of this spring celebration. “Stix” Nicks and the N’s and Outs were fully formed a little over a year ago. Nicks has been working with his current bass player, Dwayne Lightner, for six years. They had been searching for dedicated musicians who were willing to make the strong commitment that being a band member entails. After moving to the South Bend area from Los Angeles, Nicks found it difficult to find musicians who viewed music as more than just a hobby.

“Stix” Nicks and the N’s and Outs were born. “EZ” Wright joined Nicks and Lightner about four years ago as their vocalist, and guitarist Robert Outly and Dan Chamberlain became part of the group shortly after. Last April, Steve Parker, a keyboardist, was added to round out the group, and Billy “Stix” Nicks and the N’s and Outs were born. Nicks, drummer and background vocalist for the group, is a former recording artist. He went into the service in the 50’s and toured Europe with the Third Infantry Division Band. In December of 1965, he joined Junior Walker and the All-Stars after their hit song, “Shotgun.” They made an album for Atlantic Records.

In 1966, a year after the local station WNDU opened, Billy “Stix” Nicks and his Rhythm Rockers played for the TV show “Club 46.” Every Saturday afternoon, viewers heard and watched their band perform Top 40 hits, R&B tunes, and rock songs.

The list of superstar performers Nicks has played with is extensive. During 1966 and 1967, he appeared all over the country. He performed in the Apollo Theater in New York with the Spinners, at the Regency in Chicago with the Temptations, and in Washington with the Top 10 at the Howard Theater. Nicks also worked with Marvin Gaye for seven days at the Apollo.

Nicks has done several benefits and specialty shows. He has toured with Wilson Pickett, and in June 1966, they did four shows in Shea Stadium with “Batman’s” Adam West and Frank Gorshin in a vaudeville-type variety show. Also in 1966, he played in a benefit for the United Negro College Fund, along with Sammy Davis Jr. and Louis Armstrong.

Nicks and his new band are a perennial favorite on campus. Locally, they have entertained at the Holiday Inn of South Bend, and they regularly play at the Center Street Blues Cafe. They have played at the Alumni-Senior Club, and sang at Theodore’s on St. Patrick’s Day. Saturday’s appearance for the An Tostal celebration is sure to attract many music fans who wish to see a performance by an artist with a rich and exciting musical past, and his band of the future.

MIWKILWE—Rob Deer hit a two-run homer with two outs in the ninth inning off Jeff Reardon to give the Milwaukee Brewers a 5-4 victory over the Minnesota Twins Monday night.

Deer had taken a 3-2 lead in the top of the ninth when Dan Gladden homered and Kent Hrbek hit a sacrifice fly off reliever Dan Plesac.

Gary Sheffield singled in the ninth and scored on Deer’s home run. Reardon got his 0-1 and Plesac, 1-0, pitched 1-3 innings for the victory.

The Brewers took a 3-2 lead off Frank Viola in the sixth inning when Dave LaPoint, 1-0, allowed three hits and struck out four in two innings.

Ken Mattingly hit a three-run double to defeat the Detroit Tigers 10-7 in Monday night’s game.

Philadelphia Phillies beat the Houston Astros 8-4 Monday night. Greg Harris, 1-0, pitched four innings of one-hit relief for the victory.

With the score tied 1-1, the Phillies scored three runs in the third inning. Juan Samuel led off with a single and moved to third on Harris’ single and scored when reliever Bob Forsch, 1-1, balked. Mike Schmidt singled in Harry and, after a single by Ricky Jordan, Darren Dalton singled in another run.

Forsch had relieved starter Jim Clancy, who gave up four runs in two innings as the New York Yankees beat the Cleveland Indians 6-3 Monday night.

Dave LaPoint, 2-2, allowed three runs on five hits in six-plus innings. Lee Guetterman pitched 2-1 innings and Dave Righetti got the last two outs for his second save.

Bob Forsch, 1-1, gave up two runs on two hits and two walks in an inning as the New York Islanders beat the Chicago Blackhawks 2-1 Tuesday night.

The Islanders had never allowed more than two runs in Forsch’s previous two starts against the Leafs.

Irish track takes Kansas trip
Kevin Watson leads crew at 90-degree Kansas Relays

By GREG SCHECKENBACH
Sports Writer

Last weekend, the heat of competition hit a new peak for the Notre Dame track team. If it was not the tough competition of the Kansas Relays, it was the blistering 90 plus degree weather that limited the Irish track team. The weather may have been very hot in Lawrence, but not one particular runner burned up the track and made it even hotter. Junior Glenn Watson took second place in the 110-meter high hurdles with an outstanding time of 14.24 seconds. This was only .12 seconds off his personal best. In other action, Minahoonies clinched the meet. Although it finished third, Mark Laverty crossed the line sixth with a personal record of 1:31.62.

The relay team was the only disappointment for the Irish. Although it finished fourth, Pete DiGiovanni, an Irish student, set and noted that few fouls go. On the jump ball, there was some pushing. "I didn't want to get too involved in the game," said referee Mike Pearl, "so I let some fouls go. On the jump ball, there was some pushing. We told the players if anything happened, everyone involved would be kicked out." In other action, Mialakhovas is now down to the third. Bad and the Laundry. The Bishops were able to finish first. The incident involving the crowd might have stemmed from a controversial jump ball call earlier in the contest where some pushing occurred. Irish win two at Grace after losing 5 straight in tourney

BY MARY GARINO

After a disappointing weekend, the Notre Dame softball team got back on track by winning two against Grace College Monday night.

After losing five straight in the windy City Classic over the weekend, Notre Dame beat Grace 6-0, 4-2 to raise its record to 24-20.

In Monday's first game, Barb Mooney and Missy Linn combined to hold the Irish to one hit, a 6-4 shutout. Rachel Crossen went 3 for 3 with an RBI. In the second, she batted a three-run homer.

In the second game, the Irish escaped with a 4-3 win in extra innings, when Crossen doubled home the game-winning run in the eighth, Missy Linn went all the way to improve her record to 18-13, allowing just three hits.

Notre Dame went into the windy City Classic competition having won seven of its last eight games, but lost all five games it played. Among the losses was a defeat under the hands of Loyola, a team the Irish had beaten three times earlier this year.

Notre Dame opened the weekend tournament, which was held in Chicago, with a game against Wisconsin-Green Bay on Friday. The Phoenix had defeated the Irish twice previously this season, and the results were the same this time around. Phoenix pitcher Jody Radley held the Notre Dame players to just five hits and one run over seven innings to take the victory with a final score of 2-1.

The only highlight of the game for the Irish was the performance of freshman second baseman Laurie Sommerlad, who was 5 for 5 and scored the lone run for the team.

Notre Dame hoped to bounce back in the second game of the Classic against Loyola, whose record had been 1-29. The Ramblers had other ideas, however, and surprised the Irish to raise their record to 2-2.

In the bottom of the fifth, with the Irish leading 3-0, Loyola scored three runs to tie the game and added two runs in the bottom of the sixth to record the win. The game was terminated to six innings due to a time limit.

Barb Mooney started the game for Notre Dame and lasted for 4 1-3 innings before being replaced by Linn. Linn took her second loss of the day after she allowed three hits and two earned runs. The final score was 5-0.

On Saturday, the Irish were pounded for nine runs by the host team, DePaul, whose record going into the tournament was 25-12. Notre Dame came close to victory on Sunday with an early morning game against Drake (9-25 entering the tournament). Drake jumped out to an early 2-0 lead, but the Irish scored one run in both the second and third innings to tie the game. The battle went into the sixth inning with both teams scoring a run before Drake put another run on the scoreboard in the seventh to win the game.

Ruth Knak had an RBI and also scored a run with a 1-2-for at the plate. Sommerlad had another good game, going 2-for-4, and Rachel Crossen and Mia Faust were both 1-for-2.

One hour after the Drake game, Notre Dame lost to the defending national tournament champion, Northern Iowa, by a score of 2-0.

"Actually I was very pleased with our effort," said Notre Dame coach Joe Sperrybrook. "We've eliminated the concern of the DePau game, all the games were close. We played with the top teams in the area, the teams that have a full complement of scholarships."
Flames sweep Los Angeles, Blackhawks beat St. Louis

CHICAGO—Steve Larmer scored on a rebound with 4:19 to play Monday night and give Chicago a 3-2 victory over the St. Louis Blues and bring the Blackhawks within one game of the Norris Division title.

Chicago leads the best-of-seven series 3-1 with Game five to play Monday night and give the Hawks a 3-2 victory over the Blues. The Hawks converted a power play goal from the point on a power play and the Hawks held off a 3-on-2 break by Bernie Federko, Brett Hull and Peter Zezel. Federko passed to Hull, who shot it across to the left side to Zezel, who fed it back to Federko waiting in front of the net.

Federal passed the puck in the right side while goal tender Alain Chevrier, expecting a shot from Zezel, was guarding the left side.

But Chicago, which had six power plays but scored only on the last one, tied it again at 15:48, when Bob Bassen passed to Keith Brown at the right point. Brown fired a slap shot that deflected off two St. Louis players before hitting the left post and bouncing in.

Despite some early shakiness, Chevrier continued his outstanding play for the Blackhawks, stopping 25 shots, including a save on a power play goal at 9:41 of the third period on a pass from Doug Gilmour to give the Flames a 4-2 lead.

Defensiveman Steve Duchene kept the Hawks in it with his second score of the game, a shot from Zezel, who fed it back to the third on which Gretzky made his second assist of the game.

Gary Roberts closed the door on the Blues by scoring an empty-net goal with three seconds remaining.

Chicago Flames won 5-3 Monday night and swept the Smythe Division finals from the Los Angeles Kings and Wayne Gretzky, who became the all-time NHL playoff goal-scoring leader.

The Flames, who had the NHL's best record in the regular season, earned a berth in the Campbell Conference finals against either Chicago or St. Louis. Chicago defeated St. Louis 3-2 and leads the series 3-1.

Mullen scored his second goal 4:58 into the third period from 25 feet in front of the slot on a pass from Doug Gilmour to give the Flames a 2-1 lead.

But defensemen Steve Duchene kept the Hawks in it with his second score of the night, a power play goal at 8:41 of the third on which Gretzky made his second assist of the game.

Gary Roberts closed the door on the Blues by scoring an empty-net goal with three seconds remaining.

KIRKLAND, Wash.—Seattle Seahawks' first-round draft choice Andy Heck, an offensive tackle from Notre Dame, says it may be time for offensive linemen in the NFL to get paid as much as the players they're supposed to block.

But the second offensive lineman taken in the draft says he's not going to echo the salary noises being made by the first one picked, Tony Mandarich, an offensive tackle who has said he wants to make more money than UCLA quarterback Troy Aikman.

Aikman was the first player taken in the draft. Mandarich was the second.

"I really don't know that much about what the salary structure is like, what offensive linemen make or have made or should make," Heck said Monday. "I'm just going to leave that up to the guy who is going to represent me."

Heck, the 15th player chosen overall Sunday, said: "I just want what's fair. I really have no idea what that is. Right now, I haven't been given it that much thought."

Due to a 6-foot-6, 315-pound Mandarich in the first round after Dallas went for Aikman with the No. 1 selection, Aikman signed a six-year, $11.017 million contract.

"Something I would think about that would make sense to me is defensive linemen," he said. "They are generally paid a little bit more than offensive linemen." He said he didn't think an offensive lineman is expected to play at the same level as a defensive tackle, that guy, maybe he should be paid at the same level.

Indiana's Edwards indicted
Associated Press

BLOOMINGTON, Ind.—Beleaguered former Indiana University basketball star Jay Edwards was charged Monday with two preliminary misdemeanor battery charges for an alleged attack on a woman at a Bloomington apartment.

Edwards, 20, of Indianapolis told Bloomington police Edwards slapped her twice and punched her at a party Saturday night at Jack son Heights apartments. A doctor's report said Ms. Irish suffered a bruised forehead.

Edwards admitted slapping Ms. Irish once, but said she had rushed him. "It's going to hurt me, more bad publicity," Edwards said. "I'm going to get out of Indiana, period."

Edwards was named in an arrest warrant issued Monday by Monroe County Court Judge Douglas Bridges. Bond was set at $500.

Edwards, contacted in Marion at the home of his mother, Rosemary Edwards, said he first met Ms. Irish on Saturday at the apartment of Indiana teammate Lyndon Jones. "I don't know if she was drunk or something, but she rushed me. I just slapped her once and that was it. They pushed her off of me, and that was it. The next thing you know, I come home and it's all over TV," he said.

Mrs. Edwards said she planned to hire an attorney and that she and her son would return to Bloomington to "clear this up."

"It's all a frame-up," Mrs. Edwards said. "They were doing nothing but in Lyndon's apartment. There were five boys there. They're all wit nesses."

Edwards said Jones would corroborate his story. There was no answer at Jones' apartment Monday afternoon.

But Chicago, which had six against either Chicago or the Blues were unable to convert on the power play and the Blackhawks held off a final surge in the last minute when St. Louis pulled goaltender Greg Millen.

St. Louis made it 2-1 midway through the second period on a point. Brown fired a slap shot goal 4:59 and the Blackhawks held off a 3-on-2 break by Bernie Federko waiting in front of Wayne Gretzky, who became the all-time NHL playoff goal-scoring leader.

The Flames, who had the NHL's best record in the regular season, earned a berth in the Campbell Conference finals against either Chicago or St. Louis. Chicago defeated St. Louis 3-2 and leads the series 3-1.

Edwards said Jones would corroborate his story. There was no answer at Jones' apartment Monday afternoon.

Edwards, contacted in Marion at the home of his mother, Rosemary Edwards, said he first met Ms. Irish on Saturday at the apartment of Indiana teammate Lyndon Jones. "I don't know if she was drunk or something, but she rushed me. I just slapped her once and that was it. They pushed her off of me, and that was it. The next thing you know, I come home and it's all over TV," he said.

Mrs. Edwards said she planned to hire an attorney and that she and her son would return to Bloomington to "clear this up."

"It's all a frame-up," Mrs. Edwards said. "They were doing nothing but in Lyndon's apartment. There were five boys there. They're all witnesses."

Women's tennis falls short against Indiana

By CHRISSY SPEAR

The Notre Dame women's tennis team dropped its record to 1-5 this weekend with a 3-0 loss to the Hoosiers in Bloomington. The women were unable to win even a set against the eighth-ranked Hoosiers. All five players ranked in the top 75. Katie Clark came closest at number three, challenging Stephanie Reece before falling 7-5, 6-4. Reesie is No. 30 on the collegiate charts.

"I thought we played as well as we could be," said the formidable Notre Dame head coach Michele Gelfman. "We would have been short-handed to take a match or two, but we couldn't close it out."

"Katie played an excellent match but couldn't come up with the big points when she needed them. They're not eighth in the country for nothing."

In the rest of the matches, no Irish player could muster more than four games from their opponents. At the number one doubles position, Cecah Cahill and Tracy Barten, currently ranked ninth in the nation, fell 8-4 to network. Kelly Mulvihill 6-2, 6-1. The Reesie-Mulvihill combination is the second best college doubles pair in the United States. "This is the type of team we have," said Gelfman. "We've had some defensive errors and great strategy. Their team played consistent, solid tennis."

The meet showed Notre Dame the type of play required in order to be competitive with nationally-ranked teams. Next week the Irish may upgrade their schedule to include as many as 12 of the top 20 teams in the United States.

Gelfman feels her team has made steady progress towards becoming a national contender.

"If we had played all teams like Indiana, we would have gotten frustrated and lost," said Gelfman. "Overall, we've had an excellent season, beating many teams we had consistently lost to."

Gelfman added that her team, now on par with most of the Big Ten schools, will have to add more scholarship players if they want to reach Indiana's level.

"We'll get there," Gelfman said.

The Heisman Trophy runner-up from Southern Californi­a was the second player taken in the NFL draft—on the second day. Peete expected to go in the first round, he said on Saturday. But when the draft resumed Monday, the second day, Peete said he was taken by the Detroit Lions and had taken another quarterback, Jeff Francis of Arkansas, with the fourth pick of the second round, by the Denver Broncos.

"I went from devastated to disappointed," said Peete. "I maybe have lost 500,000 or more people by being taken on the second round, by the one agent estimated."

Peete's selection came on a day when teams began their annual search for sleepers after taking most of the blue-chip players in the first few rounds.

In other words, it was a day for the question marks and kickers. For one thing, the EL Paso, taken by Green Bay on the sixth round; Pete Stogner, the one-time All­America soccer player from Indiana, taken by Miami on the seventh, and Kendall Trainor of Arkansas, on the ninth by the Cardinals, who have spent a decade looking for someone reliable to put the ball through the uprights.

Also among those chosen was Byron Sanders of Northwe­stern, who was taken by Chicago on the ninth by the Detroit Lions, in the first round. Sanders is the older brother of Barry Sanders, the Heisman Trophy winner from Oklahoma State who was the third player taken—by Detroit—in the first round. The last player, taken by Minnesota, when the draft ended at 5:17 p.m. after 16 hours and 56 minutes over two days was wide receiver on the sixth round; who was academically ineligible last year.

Sessello used its 10th round pick on Derrick Fenner, a former North Carolina running back who led the Atlantic Coast Conference in rushing in 1986 but who was the second pick of the 10th round.

Denver, meanwhile, took wide receiver from the University of Miami fullback who suffered a severe knee injury two years ago.

Considered before the injury a possible first-round choice, Bratton was taken by the Miami Dolphins on the sixth round a year ago.

“Lately, everyone has been playing very well,” said club president Jim Lammers. “We don’t have one good player, but many players are a good team.”

Earlier in the spring season, Notre Dame lost a tight match to Bowling Green in which they came out to be the toughest match of the season. Bowling Green was the top-ranked team in the Midwest, where Notre Dame was not even ranked. The Irish nearly duplicated the David and Goliah story, but came up one point short in their upset try against the Ohio state champions.

Also in the spring season, Notre Dame played sixth-ranked Purdue. The Irish were successful in taking away the state championship from the Boilermakers in another close match, 11-10. By beating Purdue, Notre Dame can claim the unofficial state championship of Indiana.

With the performance that Notre Dame has played, the team could be ranked at the beginning of next year. Although the Irish are losing 12 seniors, next year should be nearly as successful.

“Since juniors make up most of the second team, we should do very well next year,” said Lammers. This Saturday, Notre Dame will take on Michigan State, which is ranked eighth, at 1 p.m. behind Stepan Center.

The last match of the season was for the Irish and they will decide whether they have a winning season or not.

The Squash Club recently had an INSLO tournament at the D level in which ten participants competed. The tournament, which used to be a qualifying round for higher tournaments, was held just to see who had the chance to compete at higher levels. In the finals, Markus Kipn beat Steve Guthrie in what was the last match of the year.

The Crew Club will be travelling to the University of Wis­consin on Saturday, April 29 to participate in the Midwest Sprint. It will be the final race in the club’s season.

According to club president Brian Lapp, virtually all teams in the Midwest will be there.

Bookstore action surprises the round of 32 Monday in

By FRANK PASTOR
Assistant Sports Editor

There must be something special about reaching Bookstore Basketball’s round of 32. It brings out the best in some participants and the worst in others, as evidenced by Monday’s events.

Killer Bees, a team composed entirely of law students, rallied from a 20-point deficit to upset the highly-regarded Rainmakers 22-16 to advance to the round of 22 Monday in Bookstore Basketball XVIII. Todd Leeson, who scored six points in the contest, converted a steal into a layup to tie the score at 20 before his team took control.

“We didn’t give up,” said Mike Luxum, who also contributed six baskets. “We were able to hold them (Rainmakers) to one shot each (Rainmakers) to one shot each

Killer Bees last played in the Bookstore tournament two years ago when they reached the round of 64 before losing to eventual champion, The Brothers of Manhood. The Brothers of Manhood boasted varsity athletes Tim Brown, Donald Royal and Joel Williams on their roster.

MSA’s shocked All About Dassin Coa 21-18 in the second upset of the day, despite 10-of-18 shooting by Todd Lyght in the losing effort. Unseeded Fertilizers also beat the odds in exposing Naked Gunners 22-20 behind Mike Lakey’s nine baskets.

Murphy’s Men learned Monday that it was disqualified from the tournament for using an illegal player. George Ritchey, who scored nine points in Murphy’s Men’s 21-18 victory over The Mephistophelian Meatuuses, was ruled ineligible by the Bookstore committee when it was determined he had played for another team earlier in the tournament.

The Mephistophelian

Meatuses were granted a victory by forfeit and will continue play in the tournament. Gauchos, a team made up of Stanford freshmen, soundly defeated Kent’s Getting Married 21-13 in a game marred by several fights. Kelly Bullo shot 10-of-17 from the field to lead Gauchos.

“My fellow teammates set awesome picks for me and left me wide open,” said Bullo. Plus, the more shots I made, the more the crowd got into the game and that gave me confidence.”

Unfortunately, the crowd played more than a support role to the Bearers. With the Gauchos clinging to a 6-4 lead early in the first half, Kent Graham got a pick on an opposing player. Pushing and shoving ensued, precipitating a melee in which fans stormed the Stepan 4 court.

Lacrosse falls to Ohio Wesleyan, prepares to battle Michigan State

By PETE LAFLEUR

The Notre Dame lacrosse team looks to forget Saturday’s 18-3 to Ohio Wesleyan as they travel to East Lansing, Michigan today for a game with Michigan State Wednesday.

The NCAA tournament’s western bid will be on the line as the Irish (7-4) attempt to improve on their 8-2 series advantage over the Spartans (5-5). Michigan State routed Notre Dame 16-5 in East Lansing two years ago under similar tournament circumstances. The Spartans went on to capture the western bid that year. But the Irish are entering this game with a different attitude than in 1987, according to senior tri-captain John Omsdale.

“When we played them two years ago, we had the attitude that we would simply go up there and win. Basically we took for granted the importance of the game,” Omsdale said.

“But now we know what type of team they have and we know it won’t be easy. But we also know that if we win this game we have a very good shot to go to the NCAA’s.”

The Irish are in the NCAA tournament “driver’s seat” largely due to a March 29 win over Air Force that launched the team on a seven-game winning-streak. Michigan State, meanwhile, has likewise beat the Falcons, but the Spartans have also lost to Kenyon and Denison, both teams that the Irish beat.

The Irish beat Michigan State 10-7 at Loftus Sports Center last season but shared the league title with

Streeter, Pritchett go in 2nd-day draft

By STEVE MEGARGEE
Associate Sports Editor

After spending a lot of anxious moments during the past two days, George Streeter received the ultimate reward for his patience.

The Notre Dame strong safety, who expected to go in the fifth or sixth round of the NFL draft, did not hear anything until the 11th and next-to-last round of the draft. But when the call finally came, the Chicago native learned he would return home as a member of the Bears.

“This is the place I wanted to play,” said Streeter, a 211-pounder. “This is a team that’s definitely going to be in the playoffs the next few years and probably in the Super Bowl for a couple of those years.”

Linebacker Wes Pritchett, who led the Irish with 117 tackles last season, is now a member of the Miami Dolphins in the sixth round as the NFL draft closed Monday.

In Sunday’s draft selections of Notre Dame players, Seattle took Andy Heck in the first round, the Los Angeles Rams chose Frank Slams in the second round, and the Bears picked Mark Green in the fifth round in Sunday’s draft selections of Notre Dame players.

Chicago’s selection of Streeter ended a puzzling two days for the Notre Dame defensive back. By Monday afternoon, Streeter wondered whether he would even receive the all-important telephone call.

“The whole draft was pretty weird and what I’m finding out is there were a few teams with holding information from me,” said Streeter. “There weren’t too many safeties drafted. There were quite a few cornerbacks, but not a lot of safeties.”

In this “weird” draft, as Streeter termed it, some players who ranked ahead of Notre Dame’s two-year starter in last month’s NFL scouting combine never got selected.

Streeter knew he went to either the Bears or the Los Angeles Raiders.

“A lot of teams talked to me, and they were the most interested,” said Streeter, who played more minutes than any other Notre Dame defensive player last fall. “As it got later and later in rounds, I knew I wasn’t going to the Raiders because they didn’t have any late-round picks and the Bears had a lot.”

The selection by the Bears still came as a presented surprise to Streeter’s mother.

“Mother war in tears,” said the graduate of the Public League’s Chicago Julian High School. “She kind of thought that I’d end up in California, and at first it worried here. I’ve got a few friends in Chicago, and they are quite happy today.

“They told me, ‘Hey, we’re not drafting you to be a token. We’re expecting you to contribute,’ ” said Streeter. “They’re one of the only physical teams in the league. The style of play I have is conducive to the Bears, and they don’t have many defensive backs.

Chicago had stressed its need for defensive backs before the draft. The Bears chose Clemson cornerback Donnell Woolsey in the first round, but the only safety they took before Streeter was fourth-round pick Markus Paul of Syracuse.
