ND freshmen defy the odds

By SARA MARLEY

More than five students applied for each of the 1,820 spots in the University of Notre Dame Class of 1993.

A record 9,930 applicants vied for a place in the class, which Director of Admissions Kevin Rooney called among the strongest academically in the University's history.

Minority enrollment in this freshman class is the highest ever, 16 percent.

This exceeds the previously set goal of 15 percent by 1991.

Minority representation in last year's class was 13 percent.

The University registered its third consecutive year of record applications, despite a decline in interested students witnessed by comparable universities nationwide.

Rooney credits efforts to increase the number of minorities and women for the rise.

"Almost the entire 1989 applications increase can be attributed to increased minority applications," Rooney said.

The University's decision to increase the proportion of women in the student body also upped the number of applications.

Following that decision, applications jumped from about 6,700 in 1986 to 8,300 in 1987.

465 enter SMC freshman class

Saint Mary's College welcomes 465 freshman to campus this fall, representing 34 states and four foreign countries.

The incoming freshman join the 1,805 full-time students enrolled for the fall semester and come to the College with strong academic backgrounds.

More than a quarter of the students were in the top 10 percent of their graduating classes, and 8 percent finished in the top one-fifth.

Forty percent of the students were also members of the National Honor Society.

A significant development for the College was in the area of minority applications, where that number has tripled since 1986, with 23 minority students at the College this fall.

Mary Ann Rowan, director of admissions, said that the entire College—faculty, staff and students—is pleased with the increase and hope to continue efforts to bring diversity to Saint Mary's.

This freshman class brings with them the desire to participate in student government and activities, as many work club and class presidents.

There was also a prevailing interest in social justice issues, said Rowan, who sees the incoming freshman as a "class of leaders."

Construction continues across ND campus

By KELLEY TUTHILL
Senior Staff Reporter

Construction around campus is progressing on schedule and in some cases ahead of schedule.

Donald Dedrick, director of physical plant, said the top priority right now is the completion of the new wing of Nieuwland Science Hall in time for classes next week.

He said he would like classes to be conducted in the building with minimal disruptions.

The construction of the new $33 million DeBartolo quad, band building and ROTC building are underway, and interior restoration is taking place in Sacred Heart Church.

Construction crews are working on the underground utilities for the new DeBartolo quad located between Notre Dame Avenue and the stadium.

The steam tunnel to the Hesburgh Institute for International Peace Studies is under construction. Dedrick said the tunnel will eventually serve the new Edward J. DeBartolo Classroom Facility and any other buildings in the quad.

A tunnel containing storm and sanitary sewers, electric, telephone and computer capabilities was completed and sealed.

Crews are now restoring the curbs and pavement, which will be finished in time for the first home football game on Sept. 22, said Dedrick.

The foundation for the Hesburgh Institute was laid and the basement walls have been poured, according to Dedrick.

Two floors in the new ROTC building have been poured and presently the stucco floor is being poured, said Dedrick. Some exterior masonry work has begun. This building is being built east of Juniper Road.

The band building, located next to the ROTC building, is almost enclosed, said Dedrick.

He said that the construction is ahead of schedule. A storm sewer is being installed under Juniper Road that will take the rain water from the new quad to the St. Joseph's Lake. The area in front of the Computing Center/ Mathematics Building was excavated to enable the construction of this tunnel.

Interior refurbishing continues in Sacred Heart Church, said Dedrick. The pew have been removed and scaffolding is in place inside. A new lighting and sound system will be installed. Dedrick added that the church will not be used this year.

Additional construction lies in the University's future. Work on the Edward J. DeBartolo Classroom Facility will begin...

Freshmen interested in theater are invited to a party and organizational meeting at Washington Hall Wednesday, Aug. 30 at 7 p.m. Auditions for the October production of Tartuffe will be held Wed., Aug. 30 and Thurs., Aug. 31. The party and auditions are sponsored by the Notre Dame department of Communication and Theater.

All undergraduate students should have a copy of the Academic Code of Honor Handbook. For those who did not obtain one, copies are available in the Registrar's Office, Room 215 Administration Building. All undergraduate students, except seniors, are governed by the procedures outlined in the Academic Code of Honor Handbook. All courses without any seniors enrolled will follow the provisions outlined in the Handbook. Courses with only seniors enrolled will follow these procedures if all the students in the class approve. Courses with seniors and other undergraduate students are governed by the provisions of the Code subject to the discretion of the department offering the course.

The Band of the Fighting Irish is holding auditions. There are openings on all instruments. For registration and complete information, come to the band office in Washington Hall as soon as possible. There will be an orientation meeting in the Hesburgh Library Auditorium today at 4:30 p.m.

Jose Cardenas, a graduate of Chicago's James Bovens High School, will attend Notre Dame this fall as a recipient of the Gerrits/Pepsi-Cola Foundation's annually awarded scholarship. Cardenas is the third recipient of the $32,000 scholarship, which is awarded to non-athletes who are incoming freshmen at institutions of higher education whose football teams have won the United Press International Coaches Trophy. Notre Dame's did so after its victory over West Virginia in this year's Fiesta Bowl game.

Thomas Morris, associate professor of philosophy at Notre Dame, has been selected as a Howard Foundation Fellow for the 1989 to 1990 academic year. He is one of seven fellows selected nationally from nominated applicants. The focus of Morris's research is that everyone, as a culmination of this research, to write a ninth book, which is awarded to non-athletes who are incoming freshmen at institutions of higher education whose football teams have won the United Press International Coaches Trophy. Notre Dame's did so after its victory over West Virginia in this year's Fiesta Bowl game.

Freshman year is a great time to explore all the facets of college life. There is no need to decide right away what major you're going into (you have two whole years) and you don't have to stay in every club you join. Experiment now while you have the time because time goes by much quicker than you think.

I realize that college life might seem a little overwhelming at first but just give yourself time to get acquainted to your new surroundings, roommates, and classes and in time you will feel perfectly at home. In the words of a previous editor of this paper, "grow to love this community for what it really is, not what you think it might be."

Finally, I want to be one of the thousands who welcome to the Notre Dame/Saint Mary's family. The Observer looks forward to serving you for the next four years and we hope you enjoy the paper. The Observer is published Monday through Friday by the students of Notre Dame and Saint Mary's and we need your help. If you are interested in becoming involved in the paper please feel free to stop by anytime, I or someone else will be happy to answer any questions you may have.

Don't worry if you don't think you can write well. The Observer needs people in all of its departments and writers are only a fraction of our entire staff. Positions, however, do fill up quickly so you should act interested soon. Thank you and good luck. And remember to try and enjoy every minute at Notre Dame because time really goes do fast.

For the second year in a row, no freshmen are being housed in temporary housing, according to the Office of Student Residence.

Last year was the first year in 17 years that freshmen were not forced into temporary housing in study lounges.

Last year, Director of Student Residence Evelyn Reinebold attributed this to the decision to keep Holy Cross Hall open and only a slight increase in class size.

Reinebold could not be reached for comment, but a spokesman for the Office of Student Residences confirmed that no freshmen are living in study lounges.

In 1987-88, the last year to have freshmen in temporary housing, 111 freshmen spent either part or all of their year in study lounges in Flanner, Grace, Pasquerilla East, and Pasquerilla West.

According to Minni Owens, coordinator of housing for Saint Mary's College, 9 freshmen are being housed in temporary housing.

"The rooms that these students are in, however," said Owens, "were built especially for temporary housing and are actually quite nice."

Owens said that the 9 students are living in three separate rooms, each with a bathroom. She added that even when the 9 students leave, the students usually choose to stay in those rooms for the entire year.

190 transfer students to enroll at Notre Dame by CHRISTINE WALSH
Senior Staff Reporter

In addition to the freshman class numbering between 1820 and 1830 students, approximately 190 transfer students will be enrolled at Notre Dame for the 1989-90 academic year.

This year marks an increase in the number of transfers accepted, up from 155 in 1988.

The number of transfer students accepted depends largely upon space available and the current housing situation, according to Susan Joyce, transfer coordinator and assistant director of admissions.

"The feeling of community at Notre Dame was to experience dorm and campus life," said Joyce.

Adjustment to a new school and environment is difficult, and transfers must "face extra trials living off campus," Joyce said.

Being a transfer student is like "entering a movie after it's begun," according to Roland Smith, executive assistant to the president.

Female transfer students are distributed among the dorms across the campus, while many of the male transfers can be found residing in Holy Cross Hall.

The men were given the option to live in Holy Cross, said Joyce, although the dorm is slated to close after this academic year.

Those transfer students living in Holy Cross this year "may not be able to live on campus next year, depending on housing availability," said Joyce.

"Everyone (all Holy Cross residents) will be displaced next year," Joyce said.

According to Joyce, "The feeling of community at Notre Dame... the Notre Dame tradition, the spirit" is what attracts the typical transfer student.

"Obviously academics (are the primary attraction). Students view a Notre Dame diploma as a way of getting ahead. They are looking for a challenge," Joyce added.

When applying for transfer status, students are largely judged on a combination of grades. The school from which the student is transferring is also considered, said Joyce.

Unlike freshmen, transfer students are selected by individual colleges, which then conduct the primary evaluation of the perspective student.

The most difficult college to enter as a transfer is the College of Arts and Letters, said Joyce. This is because "approximately 40 percent of the freshmen choose to enter the College of Arts and Letters, leaving no room for transfer students."

Only about 35 of the 85 transfer students who are juniors and sophomores were able to get into the College.

Malloy works on ND-Australia, Vatican documents over summer

By JOHN O'BRIEN
Senior Staff Reporter

While many students used the past summer to prepare for college, University President Father Edward Malloy spent much of the summer attending to important matters.

Besides addressing commencement ceremonies at various institutions and speaking with alumni, Malloy also continued work on revising the Vatican document and planning the University of Notre Dame-Australia.

Malloy, along with University Provost Timothy O'Meara and Executive Vice-President William Beauchamp, travelled to Australia from June 27 to July 16 to continue planning of the new university.

According to Roland Smith, executive assistant to the president, Malloy and O'Meara are serving on the new university's planning board and Beauchamp is serving as a consultant.

"They are planning to have the university established by 1992, but I'm not sure how realistic that is," Smith said. "The timetable is the key question," he added.

When established, the University of Notre Dame-Australia will become Australia's first private university, a fact which is causing local problems in Australia, Smith said.

In late June, Malloy received the fourth draft of the document, "The Schema on Catholic Higher Education," which was first proposed in 1985 by the Vatican Congregation for Catholic Education.

In May, Malloy was elected as one of three North American members of a 15-member commission created by a world congress of Catholic educators. The commission was created in order to assist in revising the document.

"According to Malloy, the document is 'supposed to address the question of the role of Catholic higher education, the relationship between the institutions and the local bishop and national groups of bishops, the role of various component parts in the theology department, or the way that science and technology are approached.'

Malloy's review of the April meeting of the congress appeared in the June 10 issue of the Catholic weekly, America. In the review, Malloy wrote that he expected the new draft to be substantially changed as a result of the April meeting.

Among those recommendations were proposals that the document be more "positive, inspirational and future-oriented," and that the "full autonomy and freedom of research and teaching" of Catholic universities be clearly affirmed.

of Arts and Letters, added Joyce.

"The College of Business Administration took the lion's share of transfers," Joyce said.

Although the minimum GPA requirement for a potential transfer student applies with close to a 3.5, said Joyce. Various improvements have been made this year in providing more helpful and extensive orientation and counseling programs for transfers, said Joyce.

"The orientation, organized by Kevin Kane, chair of the student services committee on transfers, has gotten better each year. This year shows how good it (the orientation program) can be," Joyce said.

"Transfers are in no way second-class citizens. They bring to Notre Dame the best of what they have seen before. They make this a more heterogeneous community," said Joyce.

Another factor in the upward trend is the favorable press exposure the University has received with the end of the 35-year administration of University President-emeritus Father Theodore Hesburgh and the first two years of the tenure of University President Father Edward Malloy, Rooney said.

Breslin, Kinkopf set high goals for 1989-90

By FLORENTINE HOELKER
Senior Staff Reporter

The main goal of student government for the 1989-90 school year will be to provide services to students while promoting intellectual life on campus.

Balancing intellectual life and services is the primary purpose of student government, and the current student government will strive to provide both of these things for students, said Student Body President Matt Breslin.

"Our goal is to make sure there is a balance of services from student government, along with a healthy intellectual life," said Breslin. "We plan to continue activities such as the Iceberg Debates, while hopefully improving some services."

One improvement is the Blue and Gold Pages, which is a directory of information for nearly anything imaginable, designed for students, Breslin said. The Blue and Gold Pages will have information like phone numbers of important places on campus, general information on the campus, and will also provide information on off-campus locales.

"A guide like this is good, especially for freshmen who have questions about things they're not quite sure about," said Breslin.

Student government plans to continue efforts to construct a 24-hour lounge, and Breslin said that he and Student Body Vice-President Dave Kinkopf will soon meet with their cabinet to establish other long-term goals.

Over the summer, Breslin and Kinkopf held a meeting on campus with representatives of six other Catholic colleges and universities to create the National Association of Students at Catholic Colleges and Universities.

Kolman named as new ND associate provost

Special to The Observer

Jones left the University to return to her religious community as spiritual director. Before assuming the post on Aug. 1, Kolman was associate academic dean and coordinator of institutional planning at the College of Mount St. Joseph, Cincinnati.

She received her bachelor's degree in mathematics in 1968 from Ohio Dominican College in Columbus, her M.Ed. in religious studies in 1975 from Boston College and her Ph.D. in higher education in 1987 from Loyola University, Chicago.

Previously, Kolman was involved in institutional planning at Elmhurst (Ill.) College and Loyola, Chicago.

From 1980 to 1983 she was dean of students at Saint Xavier College in Chicago and held that position and other administrative posts at Albertus Magnus College in New Haven, Conn., from 1972 - 1980.

SMC government begins new year

By CHRISTINE GILL
Senior Staff Reporter

College diversity, security department relations and increased participation of student organizations will be among the issues the student government will be covering this year.

Lisa Catanacci, student body president and chairman of the Board of Governance, said these are areas of concern expressed in a survey of student leaders last semester.

Increased communication with the security department, including the issues of security procedures and parking regulations, was a prominent topic and will be a focus of the governmental boards when they meet this fall.

Continuing college diversity and increasing student support of the athletic teams are also goals the student leaders will work toward.

The major difference in student government this year is the change of the title of the Programming Board to the Board of Student Affairs (BSA).

Although the positions included on this board remain the same, with the addition of a Health Commissioner and Campus Clubs Commissioner, the change in name also reflects efforts to include the total student lifestyle into student government at Saint Mary's.

Vice President for Academic Affairs, Mary Beth Blagila, is the head of BOSA, which also includes the Student Activities Board.

Saint Mary's Academic Council, led by Deirdre Milon, vice-president for Academic Affairs and College Relations, will continue to make decisions about academic programs and policies.

The governing bodies begin the fall semester with meetings on Sept. 4 for BOSA and Sept. 6 for the Board of Governance.

Welcome to Notre Dame. This is the weekend to find your way around your new surroundings. If you've visited here before you already know what a beautiful campus this is. If not, then take advantage of the free time you have this weekend to stroll around and explore.

Enjoy the warm weather while it lasts, for arctic cold is only a few short weeks away. It you've never experienced a South Bend winter there is really no way to describe it for you except to say that words such as freezing and arctic cold don't do it justice.

This is your home away from home. No matter what your background or where you've come from you are now a part of a unique community - the Notre Dame family. You are now officially a "Domer."

Just what is a "Domer?" Ask ten different seniors and you'll get ten different answers. Being a Domer means being a part of the best Catholic university in the world. It means an opportunity to develop your values and beliefs. It means a chance to explore who you are and to change what you don't like about yourself.

Of course, there's more to it than that. As a Domer you are now a part of a close knit group of students and alumni who stick together long after graduation. Start this weekend to go out and make new friends for you will find that many of your new friendships will last a lifetime.

Dave Bruner
Viewpoint Editor

Start in your dorm with the people in your section. These are the people with whom you will be 'up till 3:30 discussing nuclear proliferation and health technology or maybe just last Saturday's date. Long after this group has moved apart you will still consider yourselves something of a fraternity or a sorority.

Though graduation may seem far away, a senior will tell you that the time goes by quickly. One day you're sitting in Freshman chemistry and wondering if you'll ever turn twenty-one and the next you're applying to medical school and wondering all the time where.

Noire Dame abounds with opportunities to get involved - Non-Varsity Athletics, Student Government, The Observer, community service projects, and many others. Find out what interests you and get involved. No one can study 24 hours a day. Outside activities can be a way to have fun, to learn something new, to meet new people and to keep your sanity. Don't wait until your senior year to decide that you want to participate in all the many extracurricular activities which can be found under the Dome.

Above all, remember that you are the newest members of the Notre Dame community, a membership which will last a lifetime. You've earned it, so be proud.

Dear Class of 1993:
I am happy to welcome you to Notre Dame on behalf of the faculty, staff and administration of the University. You are now part of the rich heritage and tradition of Notre Dame. I am sure that each of you will bring a distinctive contribution to the life of the campus as we approach the celebration of our sesquicentennial.

You have already displayed during the course of your high school career many outstanding attributes. All of you were scholars but in addition many of you were leaders of your student bodies in many student-oriented activities. I hope that you continue this involvement at Notre Dame. I also encourage you to consider participation in many of the social service projects available on campus.

Hickey invites freshmen to get involved

Dear Class of 1993:
As you begin your first year at Saint Mary's, I challenge you to take advantage of the wonderful opportunities awaiting you. Persevere. Take strides forward and grow as a total person. Soon these few short years will be past. Let them be well spent so that when you leave, you will set out with confidence toward making our world a better place.

Alcohol Policy Be sure to read this stirring sermon put out by the administration, because its rules are enforced. Remember, a dry campus is a happy campus.

Alumni Clad in blue and gold plaid pants and Notre Dame paraphernalia, these former students are best identified by their vociferous rah-rah spirit. Often found in flocks outside the bookstore, the alumni may try to torment you by showing their exhausted families their former haunts in your room.

American Studies Program Often dubbed as the easiest major at Notre Dame, AMST majors receive a broad-based, diverse education, ranging from courses like "The Frisbee and Middle America's Post-Modern Consciousness: A Meeting of the Minds," to "Human as Pop Hero.

An Tostal Notre Dame's spring fling before the bell of second semester finals week. This is the weekend of the mud pits, chariot races and jello wrestling.

Archies (ARK-ees) Mysterious creatures who sleep most of the day, and only venture forth at night to toil on design projects.

Beer Goggles 1. The phenomenon which makes members of the opposite sex appear more attractive in proportion to the amount of alcohol ingested. 2. An excuse.

Benders Residents of the booming metropolis known as South Bend. Keep your South Bend slams to a minimum though—Father Sorin could have just as easily founded this fine institution in Gary.

Bookstore 1. No, you can't buy condoms at the bookstore. Also the place for students to buy their books and start their collection of Notre Dame sweatshirts. 2. The place where flocks of alumni and enthusiastic fans go to buy Notre Dame paraphernalia. 3. Basketball tournament The name of the springtime basketball extravaganza involving almost everyone on campus including Lou Holtz and Monk Malloy.

BP An abbreviation for Breen-Phillips Hall. Located on North Quad next to Farley Hall, its indistinguishable neighbor.

"Brare Also known as the Theodore M. Hesburgh Library. Rarely populated by students aside from exam week and only then if the streakers are coming. As a general rule, the first two floors are for social studies, we think the third floor is the Bat Cave, and we've heard that the other floors are for academic warriors.

Bridge's One of the two bars near campus most frequented by Domers. Bridge's is the bar with the "We love Lou" sign painted on the outside wall. Often referred to as a bar for "beautiful people."

CCE Located across from the Morris Inn, the Center for Continuing Education looks like the house in the great Hitchcock movie "North by Northwest."

CHEGS These zany people are chemical engineering majors. Often found on the 12th floor of the library hunched over their periodic tables, these students have the luxury of easy classes and great looking calculators.

Choke Room The technical name of this pay cafeteria is the Oak Room. The Oak Room's food always manages to taste better than the food in the South Dining Hall's, yet both come from the same kitchen.

Circus Lunch While dubbed by some critics as "Lunch on a Stick," it is actually one of the better special meals offered by the dining hall, such as "Swamp Night (Maalox delight)."

Common Sense A monthly rag thrown together by people who are anti-everything. Look to Common Sense for anything but its nameake.
The Commons. The other of the two most frequented bars near campus. The proprietor Paquette created quite a stir when he installed condom vending machines in the wash- room. He would say to say that the people who go to the Commons is everyone else that is not going to The Commons. The uncommon meet at The Commons.

Comp Math. The little building behind the library where most of your classes are. Usually, there are a few dozen students that have been absorbed into the Universal Commons.

Crunchy. An adjective describing those students who dress like they've just raided a Third World country. It's perfect for you. Those who find themselves among the elite group participating in this 'Great Books' program tend to excuse any lack of GPA by re-mining their peers that they could have followed the American Studies path had there not been any witnesses. They instead chose this higher plane of existence.

Duck Island. The island in the middle of campus and its competitive interhall football team.

Du Lac. The handbook of Notre Dame's basketball coach, Digger Phelps'. fashion sense is amazing. Check out some photos of him from the 1970's. He probably forgot to send their pictures the way they should appear.

Eastman. A pungent aroma that permeates the Notre Dame campus when the wind blows from the direction of the ethanol plant in town. Students claim the aroma smells like everything from stale beer to french toast.

JACC. The Joyce Athletic and Convocation Center. Hosts such talented groups as the Moose, Ferris, and Frank Sinatra.

K-9 corps favored method of the South Bend police to break up Off-Campus parties. They reserve tear gas for extreme cases.

Life in Hell. A cartoon with a purpose. Primarily a comic strip, it is. The part of the weekly magazine that has the highest circulation rate. Read. Find out that you have a 20-page research paper due in a class that you haven't attended since Spring Break.

Lofts Center, The Taj-Holz

Meatless cheeseburgers. Yes, we know it is an oxymoron, but the dining hall served these mystery patties during Lent last year. So be on the lookout for creative cooking on the meatless Fridays in Lent. You never have the opportunity to feel tempted. Big Brother even feeds you the "right" food.

Monk Malloy. President of the University of Notre Dame. Monk Malloy is a resident of Sorin Hall and can be seen burning up the courts at Morley Basketball. O.C. Denotes 'Off-Campus' and includes any located outside the bounds of the Notre Dame and St. Mary's campus. Fraternity members on weekends, this expression refers to a search for a fulfilling group activity on campus. The current membership is about 185. Any search formates have been exhausted.

P.E. 1. One of the most re- strictive classes you will ever take. New students enter the College of Business Administration. Emile the legendary chemistry professor retired from teaching in '77 but continues to serve as the dean of the Freshmen Year of Studies. Emil intelligence reads Friday morning quizzes were the base of existence for many a freshman.

Parsnips. Another term for fat students. Not all of them are fat, just not all of them are slim. They're probably the exception to the popular campus adage: "right and wrong at this University go hand in hand!" Not all do. The concept of relieving academic stress in football season is these are extreme and contribute to campus social life.

Parrish. 1. The name of one of the students who is known to have integrated a particular set of directions can be heard in South dining hall over the interhall flag football team. The lower-level P.E. aerobics studios is located near the Joyce Rock Center. Both are located near the swimming pool.

Pit. The social snack bar located in the basement of the Library. This is frequented at least every half-hour by every library goer with a sense of priorities. Serious study is secondary; snacking and complaining about the five twenty page papers is due tomorrow that one hasn't even begun to research yet. Real students are rarely glimpsed here. 2. The lower-level P.E. aerobics Torture chamber in the Joyce Rock Center.

Passion Pit. All用来 Every 24-hour- long area on campus takes on the title of 'Passion Pit' at 3:00 A.M. on weekends. Couples with some sense of what is morally right and wrong at this university find their way to these two-sex dance areas and be seen. Keep all four feet on the floor, folks, we don't want to scandalize the security guards!

Parsnips. Another term for fat students. Not all of them are fat, just not all of them are slim. "The concept of relieving academic stress in football season is extreme and contribute to campus social life."

Rent-a-cop. Term of endearment used by students to refer to campus security. This is not a term that should be used illegitimately. Rent-a-cop. Term of endearment used by students to refer to campus security. This is not a term that should be used illegitimately.

Rock. Short for the Rockne Memorial, located on South Quad. This tribute to the legendary Knute Rockne houses sports facilities such as a football stadium and swimming pool.

Sandy. Model of the ancient ruin over in England, this peace memorial adorns North Quad and is a tribute to Notre Dame men who gave their lives in World War II. A particular set of directions can be heard in South dining hall over the interhall flag football team.

Shuttle. These can be picked up in several spots on campus. They are perfect for you. Those who find themselves among the elite group participating in this 'Great Books' program tend to excuse any lack of GPA by re-mining their peers that they could have followed the American Studies path had there not been any witnesses. They instead chose this higher plane of existence.

SMB. 1. Abbreviation for 'Screw My Body'. If pronounced Smick, refers to any student of Saint Mary's College. Stonehenge. Modeled on the ancient ruin over in England, this peace memorial adorns North Quad and is a tribute to Notre Dame men who gave their lives in World War II. A particular set of directions can be heard in South dining hall over the interhall flag football team.

Saint Mary’s joins NCAA Division III ranks

Special to The Observer

Saint Mary’s College will compete at the NCAA’s Division III level in each of the school’s seven varsity sports beginning this fall, according to athletic director Jo-Ann Nester.

Previously, Saint Mary’s had competed as a member of the NAIA. The Belles will fulfill their present scheduling commitments by maintaining a dual NCAA/NAIA membership for the coming year.

Nester said the switch resulted from a desire for a more consistent level of competition with an emphasis on scheduling schools more comparable to Saint Mary’s in terms of structure of their academic and athletic programs.

“As an NCAA Division III affiliate, we now have the opportunity to compete in a non-scholarship division, among schools with athletic and academic philosophies similar to ours,” Nester said. “This kind of peer scheduling clearly will allow our teams to be more competitive in post-season play at the district, regional and national level.”

Saint Mary’s received written verification of its acceptance in a letter from the NCAA. The membership is effective Sept. 1.

Irish earn many honors during summer break

Special to The Observer

Winning the Midwestern Collegiate Conference tournament in most unusual fashion, the Notre Dame baseball team advanced to the NCAA tournament this spring for the first time since 1970.

Notre Dame lost to host Fresno State 9-8 in the first round, falling to hold a ninth-inning 8-6 lead. Notre Dame later defeated Portland in extras in the second round, then fell to Fresno State 11-4.

Wichita State, the eventual winner of the West II Regional, went on to capture the national championship.

Notre Dame, which closed the season at 48-19-1, received an automatic bid to the NCAA’s by taking the MCC tournament. It required an all-day, all-night effort by the Irish.

After losing 16-1 to Detroit in the double-elimination tournament, Notre Dame defeated Saint Mary’s 10-6. The Irish then faced Dayton in a game that did not begin until 1:38 a.m. because of rain delays.

The Irish prevailed 20-4 over the Flyers in a game that did not end until well after 4 a.m. The Fighting Irish won the NCAA title in extra innings, then took the championship by winning three games the following day. Notre Dame eliminated Evansville 11-2, then swept another doubleheader from season-long nemesis Detroit.

In all, Notre Dame won four games in a time span of 22 hours to earn the trip to Fresno.

Notre Dame outfielder Dan Peltier, who batted .453 with 15 home runs and 90 runs batted in, was a consensus first-team All-America selection. Peltier and pitcher Erik Madsen each earned second-team Academic All-America honors.

Peltier now is a member of the Texas Rangers organization, which selected him in the third round of the professional draft in May. The Detroit Tigers selected shortstop Pat McGowan in the fourth round.

Baseball players were not the only Notre Dame athletes to earn honors over the summer.

David DiLucia of the men’s tennis team competed in the NCAA tournament, where he was eliminated in the first round. DiLucia, who posted a 38-9 singles record, was named Region IV Volvo Tennis Rookie of the Year. Teammate Dave Reiter was named to the Volvo Tennis Scholar Athlete team.

Reiter had a 3.56 cumulative grade point average as a government major, while earning a career singles record of 62-51.

Theresa Rice of the cross country team was named a first-team at-large Academic All-American by the College Sports Information Directors of America. Rice, an all-conference runner for the Irish, received a $3,950 cumulative grade point average while pursuing two degrees in modern languages and medieval studies. Rice is currently working toward her Ph.D. at Notre Dame in medieval philosophy.

Ron Marzeczk, who qualified for the NCAA cross country championships in the 5,000-meter run by setting a school record in the event, was forced to withdraw from the race due to a stress fracture in his leg. Marzeczk was seeded second in the NCAA field.

The Observer
Jay Louderback: After coaching the Iowa State men's and women's tennis teams the past three seasons, Louderback debuted as the Notre Dame women's coach this year. Louderback has a 10-year career coaching record of 264-179. Before his tenure at Iowa, Louderback led the program at his alma mater Wichita State.

Muffet McGraw: Despite an injury to top player, Heidi Bunek, McGraw led the Notre Dame women's basketball team to the NIT in her second year at Notre Dame. McGraw, a former player and assistant coach of the Notre Dame men's golf team, Schafer is a third-year head coach trying to bring the program back to the stature enjoyed a decade ago. The Irish posted a best-ever 27-4-2 record in Schafer's debut season of 1987-88. Notre Dame slumped to 10-26-2 last season facing a much tougher schedule.

Tim Welsh: After coaching both the men's and women's swim teams at Johns Hopkins for eight years, Welsh is entering this fourth year holding the same positions at Notre Dame.

Plenty of athletic facilities available for active students

Special to The Observer

From racquetball courts to golf courses, from skating rinks to swimming pools, the Notre Dame-Saint Mary's campus has the athletic facilities to fit the needs of any sports enthusiast.

The quads are available in the fall and spring for various activities, and there are plenty of indoor athletic shelters worth a visit during the winter months.

Here is a list of facilities available to students on both campuses:

- Edmund P. Joyce Athletic and Convocation Center (JACC) - The double-domed Joyce ARC, located east of the football stadium, contains more area than the Houston Astrodome.
- The South Dome houses the basketball arena used by the men's and women's basketball teams, the volleyball team and the Irish wrestlers. The hockey team's home ice is located in the North Dome, also known as the Fieldhouse. The JACC Auxiliary Gym, known as The Pit, is between the domes.
- The building also contains basketball, handball, racquetball, squash, tennis and volleyball courts that usually are open to the public; the reservations are required for most of the courts.
- For those interested in fighting Irish sports history, the Sports Heritage Foundation, located on the second floor between the domes, is home to many awards, photographs and momentos from Notre Dame's history.

Rolf's Aquatic Center - This three-year-old nastatorium, located at the east end of the JACC, features a 50-meter pool which is usually divided into three sections during recreational swimming times.

The diving section features three one-meter and two three-meter springboards. The recreational swimming section is 25 yards in length and has eight lanes for swimming laps. The final section is used for water basketball and water polo.

Angela Athletic Facility - Located north of McCaffery Hall on the Saint Mary's campus, Angela includes basketball, racquetball, volleyball and indoor tennis courts, and also has a carpeted jogging track around the courts.

Weight machines, fitness and gymnastic equipment also are housed in the facility while more basketball and tennis courts are just outside the building.

The facility is open to all Saint Mary's and Notre Dame students upon the presentation of a student ID. Reservations are required for the racquetball courts.

Eck Tennis Pavilion - This indoor facility, completed in the fall of 1987, is the home court for the Notre Dame men's and women's tennis teams. Located east of the outdoor Crowley Courts, the Eck is country club quality, housing six clay court and an observation deck.

Court time can be reserved in 75-minute blocks by calling 239-6929. The facility is currently open 8 a.m. to 5 p.m., but will stay open until 11 p.m. beginning in September. Fees are $1 for students, $2 for faculty and staff and $4 for alumni and guests.

Lofts Indoor Athletic Facility - This new facility east of Jake Kline Field houses an artificial-turf football field (Meany Field), a six-lane, 300-meter track, tennis courts, a weight room, a light apparatus room, a swimming pool, the field hockey artificial surface and the Irish wrestlers. The hockey team's home ice is located in the North Dome, also known as the Fieldhouse. The JACC Auxiliary Gym, known as 'The Pit,' is between the domes.

The building also contains basketball, handball, racquetball, squash, tennis and volleyball courts that usually are open to the public; the reservations are required for most of the courts.

For those interested in fighting Irish sports history, the Sports Heritage Foundation, located on the second floor between the domes, is home to many awards, photographs and momentos from Notre Dame's history.

Meet the major names in ND sports

Special to The Observer

These are some of the major figures who will lead the University of Notre Dame Athletic Department in the 1989-90 school year:

Father E. William Beauchamp: Beginning his third year as Notre Dame's executive vice president, Beauchamp heads the faculty board in control of athletics. This body is responsible for overseeing Notre Dame athletics.

Richard Rosenthal: A former two-time Notre Dame All America basketball player, Rosenthal is in his third year as Notre Dame athletic director. Rosenthal's first two years at the position have seen the women's golf, soccer, softball and track teams gain varsity status.

Rosenthal helped Notre Dame land a lucrative cable television package with Sports Channel America last May.

Yves Auriol: In four seasons as Notre Dame women's fencing coach, Auriol has guided his squad to one national team title and two national individual titles. The Frenchman coached the United States Olympic teams in 1980, 1984 and 1988.

Bob Bayliss: Since replacing Tom Fallon, who led the Notre Dame men's tennis team for 35 seasons, Bayliss has significantly upgraded the Irish schedule.

Bayliss led his team to 19-9 record last season that included three victories over nationally-ranked opponents, and freshman David DiLucia reached the NCAA tournament.

Brian Boulac: A former tight end on the Irish football team, Boulac coaches the women's softball team and serves as assistant athletic director.

The softball team finished 31-23 in its inaugural season last spring.

Kevin Corrigan: After barely missing an NCAA tournament berth in his debut season, Corrigan enters his second year as the Notre Dame lacrosse coach.

Corrigan, the son of former ND athletic director Gene Corrigan, was an assistant coach at Virginia for two years before coming to Notre Dame.

Mike DeCicco: This 1949 ND alum doubles as coach of the national power men's fencing team and academic advisor for all Notre Dame athletes.

Much of the credit for Notre Dame's high graduation rate among its athletes goes to DeCicco, who assists more than 500 athletes.

In 28 years as the Irish fencing coach, DeCicco's teams have won national championships in 1977, 1978 and 1986.

Donnie Grace: The 36-year-old Grace led the Notre Dame soccer team to its first NCAA tournament appearance last fall without the benefit of a single scholarship. In the past two years, Grace's Irish hold a 1-0-1 record against rival Indiana, the 1988 national champion.

Grace also assisted the women's soccer team in its inaugural season last year.

Lou Holtz: Famous for restructuring the football programs at North Carolina State, Arkansas and Minnesota, Holtz has done his best repair job yet at Notre Dame.

In just three seasons under Holtz, the Irish have gone from a 5-6 season to a national championship. Holtz also has guided the Irish to consecutive appearances in New Year's Day bowls, coached a Heisman Trophy winner in Tim Brown and has led the Irish to a 31-30 grudge-match victory over arch-rival Miami.

Holtz also has coached at William and Mary and had a one-year stint as head coach of the National Football League's New York Jets.
