ND to open new foreign study programs in Spain, Japan

By KELLEY TUTHILL
Senior Staff Reporter

Notre Dame will offer two new foreign study programs in Nagoya, Japan and Toledo, Spain beginning in the fall semester of 1990.

According to Isabel Charles, associate provost and director of foreign study programs, both programs are a year long and designed for sophomores, although juniors may participate with permission. The Japan program, formerly located at Sophia University in Tokyo, moved to Nanzan University in Nagoya, Japan.

Prior to studying in Japan, students must take one year of Japanese, said Charles. For Spain, students must demonstrate proficiency in Spanish.

The Toledo program will be made possible by an affiliation between Notre Dame and the University of Toledo, with Toledo University to extend its programs to students from Nanzan. Charles said they will continue to purchase tickets for the September 29 show in the JACC.

Freshman Writing Program supported by endowment

By NATASHA WILSON
Senior Staff Reporter

The Freshman Writing Program is the recipient of an anonymous endowment, designed to support both the teaching and the administration of the program.

The gift memorializes Francis (Frank) O'Malley, who was for two generations of students one of Notre Dame's most famous and admired faculty members. The donor of the undisclosed amount is a former student of O'Malley who wanted to honor his professor, said Edward Kline, who will be the first Frank O'Malley Director of the Freshmen Writing Program. Kline, a professor of English at Notre Dame, has directed the program since its inception in the fall semester of 1977.

"The gift will support the salary of the director and will provide a discretionary fund to enrich the program," said Michael Lous, dean of the College of Arts and Letters. "It was also the permit the director to devote all of his time to the Freshmen Writing Program.

Kline said O'Malley would be pleased that the memorial gift will benefit the Freshmen Writing Program. "When I first met (O'Malley) upon joining the faculty, he told me that the most important thing I'd ever do is teach here is how freshen writing," the director recalls. The endowment in fact requires the director to teach one freshmen English course every semester in honor of O'Malley's commitment to instructing first year students.

Kline said the endowment will help enhance and expand several projects of the Freshmen Writing Program. "We are among the pioneers in the United States in using computer programs as a teaching device to review grammar, spelling and other writing skills," he said. "Now we'll be able to purchase additional computer programs on the writing process to complement the material freshmen learn in the writing courses."

The endowment will also support the O'Malley Distinguished Lecture Series and faculty development workshops on the teaching of writing, Kline said. Every semester at least one expert on writing instruction will address the 98 faculty members of the Freshmen Writing Program. The first O'Malley lecture will feature Barbara Weaver, dean of University College at Ball State University on October 9.

Kline said the program will use some of the money to purchase additional resource materials for the program's writing.

U.S. military aid starts arriving in Colombia

Associated Press

BOGOTA, Colombia — The United States on Sunday began shipping a $62 million package of military aircraft and weapons to help Colombia fight its war against powerful cocaine empires.

■ Battle of nerves rages in Medellin's page 5

Also Sunday, President Virigilo Barco freed the chief of the anti-drug effort in Medellin, the headquarters for many of Colombia's drug traffickers. A source said he was ousted for having dealings with drug lords.

Two U.S. C-130B transport planes arrived in the capital today, along with other equipment Washington is sending to Colombia.

U.S. Ambassador Thomas McNamara, at a Bogota military air base where the transports landed, said the big jets "are in excellent condition and should serve the Colombian armed forces for many years."

The commander of Colombia's air force, Gen. Alfonso Amaya Maldonado, said the C-130s "will be used in the fight in which we are engaged ... to re-establish order."

The high-tailed C-130s can take off and land on 3,000-foot runways, even those with no paving, and presumably could be used in raids on remote coca-leaf plantations and clandestine cocaine-refining laboratories. By contrast, passenger jets such as 747s and DC-10s need runways of 9,000-10,000 feet.

Also on their way to this South American country, according to the Pentagon, were five UH-1H transport helicopters, machine guns, pistols, machine guns, rockets and grenades — even bulletproof vests for Colombian officials and judges who prosecute drug traffickers.

The government gave no reason for removing police Col. Antonio Sanchez as chief of a special 4,000-member anti-cocaine force.

See COLOMBIA / page 5

Bomb attack

A Colombian army soldier at a gas station that was bombed early Saturday that killed one person and injured 79. The blast was set next to the newspaper El Espectador. Last week the cocaine cartels declared war on the Colombian government as a result of their efforts to seize cartel members' property.
Three of the four Roman Catholic cardinals who signed an agreement with Jewish leaders to move a convent away from the Auschwitz death camp said Sunday the pact must be carried out. In a statement, the French and Belgian church leaders said Cardinal Joseph Glemp, the primate of Poland, "could only have been speaking for himself" — not for the church — in suggesting a renegotiation of the accord.

"Guys at Notre Dame are so rude. What ever happened to chivalry? Where are the guys who threw their coats over puddles and spent evenings serenading their girlfriends?" a woman was quoted as saying.

"I was getting carried away with this renewed interest in being chivalrous," Donnelly said.

Chivalry is not dead." I think you're being a little demanding? Besides, chivalry is not always black and white. Women are really charmed with the extra attention.

I was good at making up with some guys would like who aren't moving in with me. I'm hardly accusing my real friend of chivalry is more difficult today — doors that has killed hundreds of thousands. "In the history of political affairs, the most significant single event is the first meeting." Carter said last month in announcing the talks.

Volunteer tutors are needed immediately for elementary and high school "at risk" students, on Mondays, 6:00 to 7:00 p.m., September 11, through December 11. The orientation meeting is September 4, from 6 to 7 p.m. in Room 624 Madison Hall, St. Mary's College. For more information or to volunteer, please contact the Volunteer Coordinator, 351-234-485. Questions? Call Michele Feick at 283-4109.
British, French mark WWII anniversary

Associated Press
LONDON — Britons listened to declarations of war on the radio, swapped stories and went to church to forgive their former enemies on Sunday, the 50th anniversary of Britain's entry into World War II.

France marked the anniversary of its declaration of war against Germany in a brief, subdued ceremony beneath the Arc de Triomphe in Paris.

At 11:15 a.m. in Britain, the British Broadcasting Corp. replayed Prime Minister Neville Chamberlain's radio announcement that Britain had declared war on Germany, exactly 50 years to the minute after it first aired.

"This morning the British ambassador in Berlin handed the German government the final note stating that unless we heard from them by 11 o'clock that they were prepared at once to withdraw their troops from Poland, a state of war will exist between us," Chamberlain told the nation.

"I have to tell you now that no such undertaking has been received and that consequently, this country is at war with Germany."

Also broadcast on radio and television was a speech by Adolf Hitler attempting to justify the war and remarks by 13-year-old Princess Elizabeth — now Britain's queen — expressing sympathy with children evacuated from London for safety from the expected bombing raids.

In Coventry, which endured the longest single bombing raid in Britain during the war, 500 people gathered in a new building next to the ruins of a 700-year-old cathedral to pray for their dead.

Baby panda dies two days after birth

Associated Press
WASHINGTON — The fifth cub born to giant panda Ling-Ling died Sunday after 39 hours of fighting an infection transmitted from its mother, but disappointed zoo officials said they haven't given up hope for a successful birth.

As her human handlers recounted Ling-Ling's latest travails at a news conference, the black-and-white animal sat in her nest cradling apples put there in place of her missing baby.

The never-named tiny cub, weighing only 3.1 ounces, was born prematurely Friday at the National Zoo and taken from its 250-pound mother six hours later because of concern of infection.

Zoo officials said the cub, a male, first began showing signs of strength, but then weakened despite around-the-clock efforts by zoo veterinarians as well as from pediatric experts.

"I thought we'd won," Mitchell Bush, chief veterinarian at the zoo, said the cub's survival was an uphill struggle because of the premature birth and the infection. During most of its 39 hours of life the care given the cub might have caught an infection from its mother, which has had problems with day care.

"Every effort was made to pull this cub through its illness," said zoo director Michael Robinson.

Bush said there had been concern from the start that the cub might have caught an infection from its mother, which has had problems periodically with a kidney infection since 1983 and had a reoccurrence only a week ago.

The tiny cub's chances of survival were reduced further because it weighed only about three-fourths of what a normal panda cub would weigh, officials said.

"Every effort was made to pull this cub through its illness," said zoo director Michael Robinson.

But Mitchell Bush, chief veterinarian at the zoo, said the cub's survival was an uphill struggle because of the premature birth and the infection. During most of its 39 hours of life the care given the cub was similar to what a prematurely born child would receive.

Bush said there had been concern from the start that the cub might have caught an infection from its mother, which has had problems periodically with a kidney infection since 1983 and had a reoccurrence only a week ago.

The tiny cub's chances of survival were reduced further because it weighed only about three-fourths of what a normal panda cub would weigh, officials said.

Three of the four previous cubs born to Ling-Ling also died of infection shortly after birth with the longest-living cub surviving for four days in 1987.

Shenanigans

Notre Dame's Singing & Dancing Ensemble will be holding an interest meeting Wed., Sept. 6th 7:00 p.m. 204 O' Shag For more information, stop by our booth at Student Activities Night or call Julie x2645, Kevin x2325

Student Activities Board Presents

"The Sure Thing" September 5, 6, and 7 $1.00 admission Carroll Auditorium at 9:00 and 11:15 (also don't forget SMC Activities Night - Wed. at 8:00 in Angela) 外务省
continued from page 1
their eyes and ears open for more information.
A meeting about the Toledo program will be held on Tuesday, September 5, at 4:30 p.m. in Room 114 in O'Shaughnessy Hall. Angel Delgado-Gomez, associate professor of Romance Languages and Literature, the on-campus coordinator for the program, will be present to answer questions, said Charles. Charles and students who participated in an experimental version of this program will also be present at the meeting.

Father George Minamiki, associate professor of modern and classical languages, is presently teaching Japanese to the students who are considering traveling to Japan.

"Both will be highly competitive programs as there is a limited number of students we will be able to accept in each of them," said Charles.

With the addition of the Spain program, Notre Dame now offers eight foreign study programs.

Charles said that there will be several informational meeting for other foreign studies programs. A meeting for the Tianjin, China program will be Tuesday, September 5, at 4:30 p.m. in the satellite room in O'Shaughnessy Hall. Charles said that she doesn't expect any problems with the China program in light of the recent crackdown, but that she would deal with the problem when it arose.

A meeting for the Mexico City, Mexico program will be held on Wednesday, September 6, at 4:30 p.m. in Room 109 O'Shaughnessy Hall. Charles noted that this program is of special interest to those who are concerned with the third world situation.

On Wednesday, September 6, at 4:30 p.m. in the Satellite room of O'Shaughnessy there will be a meeting for the Jerusalem program. Sister Mary Agnata O'Neill who is the on-site coordinator for the program will be present, said Charles. Students who participated in the program last semester will also be in attendance.

WWII continued from page 3
former enemies. The cathedral was destroyed and 568 people died during an 11-hour German raid on the city center on Nov. 14, 1940.
Through a British Broadcasting Corp. hook-up, the worshipers came together with those in a church in Dresden, East Germany, to offer forgiveness to one another. Dresden was bombed and up to 135,000 people killed by the Allies in 1945.

Thirty veterans, including George Booth, the First British serviceman to be captured by the Germans, swapped wartime stories at his housing complex near Leeds, northern England. Surrounded by old photographs, gas masks and other memorabilia, the veterans recounted their experiences.

"It was a very short-lived war for me. It was very frustrating being in a camp without a gun or anything," said Booth, 79. "I am in a unique position, being the first to be captured and, though I don't feel proud about it, I'm not ashamed.”

Booth was the navigator of a Blenheim bomber that crashed into the Kiel Canal only 12 hours after Britain was at war. He was picked up 40 minutes later by a German launch and spent the next six years in German prisoner-of-war camps.

Come and join
The Macri's Deli Family
FUN ENVIRONMENT
WITH OPPORTUNITY TO GROW
Positions Available:
cooks dishwashers busboys hostesses
work days or nights!
Apply in person Located in University Center

Get off to a good start... Buy that special person a flower.
Irish Gardens
is OPEN
Mon - Sat.
12:30 - 5:30
in basement of LaFortune

ELED Majors Meeting
Mandatory
For all current and new students of the Department.
Sept. 7, Thursday at 6:30 - 8:00 P.M.
Science Building, Room 105, Saint Mary's

Be an ambassador of the Admissions Office to your high school as part of the Undergraduate Schools Committee
Application Deadline is September 5th

For More Information...
Call Tim X2346 or Chelsea X3391
Or stop by the Admissions Office (113 Admin. Bldg.)
at national police headquarters in Bogota, speaking on condition of anonymity, said he was fired from the national police in January. He was traffickers.

a crackdown on corruption replaced by back down from the cocaine Monday, September 4, 1989 continued from page 1

Colombia

MIREDELL, Colombia — In the cocaine capital of the world, the new war between the government and traffickers is one of nerves as well as firepower.

As industrial city of 2 million, cracked in lush green mountains, Medellin suffers almost daily bombings and burnings by the benchmen of drug bosses in a war that began with the Aug. 18 assassination of a presidential candidate. But bloodshed since that killing has been limited to unlucky bystanders in the past two weeks. Property, not people, has been the principal target, fear the main weapon. The city continues to function, its shops opening each day and its workers and businessmen filling the streets, factories and offices. But fear and tension is pervasive.

There's no direct confrontation, but instead subversive actions... sporadic and surprising. Mayor Juan Gomez Martinez said. "It's harder to combat them than in a regular war."

The government has arrested thousands of people and seized hundreds of millions of dollars in assets since it declared a semi-automatic rifles. They round up teenagers, throwing them into gunpoint, hustling them down the streets to gathering points and packing them into dumptrucks headed for a volleyball arena.

Most of the violators are ill-dressed, thinner than graduates of Notre Dame, whose glasses are covered by cheap alcohol. They yell and whistle derisively at their military guards, creating... a dim in the tin-roofed arena.

The violators are held until the curfew ends at 6 a.m. Those found to have criminal charges pending are shipped to the police jailhouse. The rest are set free.

"This is just what the city needed. Now there are no more wounded, there is no one dead at night," said an army officer. "Now the people can sleep in peace."

But real peace has remained elusive. The morning after the curfew first took effect Wednesday, a bomb strapped to a juke vendor's bicycle blew up in broad daylight. Several people were injured.

In future years, the director said, the Freshman Writing Program will publish an annual anthology featuring literature written by students in freshmen English courses. He said the contest is to strengthen the audio-visual library.

In 1966, he has been director of the Freshman Writing Program, which was... established nine years ago by the Dean of the College of Arts and Letters, consists of four... divisions: English 109, "Composition and Literature," Freshman Seminar 180, Humanities Seminar 185-186, and, of the 1983-84 academic year, English 195, "Honors Seminar."

O'Malley died in 1974 after serving 42 years as a member of the Senate's English department, where he specialized in the relationship between religious belief and artistic imagination. His "Modern Catholic Writers" and other English courses were among the most popular classes at Notre Dame, Kline said. O'Malley, he said, was a "perfect gentleman in the 17th century tradition. He was a perfect role model for students."

A scholar of Middle-English, Kline joined the Notre Dame faculty in 1966. An early user of computer technology in language study and teaching, Kline has published articles on the teaching of writing aided by computers. He has served on several University committees and is president of the Indiana Teachers of Writing organization for 1988-89.

Kline's other professional interest is church music. Since 1966, he has been director of music at the Cathedral of St. Matthew's in South Bend, and he served as acting chairman of Notre Dame's Department of Music during the 1987-88 academic year.

If you're going to drink and drive tonight, don't forget to kiss your mother goodbye.
Dear Editor:

I am writing in reference to the Honor Code at the University of Notre Dame. There has been much criticism of the code as being implemented by the administration rather than by the students and therefore not wanted by the students. The major issue is student apathy toward turning in a fellow student who cheats. This is not the goal of the Honor Code. The goal is to make students responsible for their own actions. If all students maintain their own honor, the system works. When you cheat on your own honor, you cheat yourself.

My criticism of the Honor Code is that it does not depend on students' honor, as it should. Professors should not instruct students where to sit, print two or more different versions of the tests, or monitor tests. The University should trust the students more, and put the responsibility on the students. Sure, some students may still cheat and get away with it. But what they get away with now will hurt them later in life. They may get a better grade and get into medical or law school because of it, but what they get out of it now will come back to haunt them. When a patient dies, or you can't answer your kid's calculus question, the A-minus you got on the intro level class will hurt them later in life. They may get a better grade and get into medical or law school because of it, but what they get out of it now will come back to haunt them. When a patient dies, or you can't answer your kid's calculus question, the A-minus you got on the intro level class will hurt them later in life.

Sponsors many activities for children and their families, a Christmas party and magic show, pizza parties, and bowling for kids' sake. The South Bend Jaycees even provide some financially disadvantaged kids with gift certificates at the University Park Mall, so they can buy their families Christmas presents. In addition to the sponsored activities, the matches spend time alone together as well, bowing around or just talking. The organization asks that the matches spend at least five hours together per week.

My little brother, Tabias, and I have been matched for over two years. Before he entered the program, Tabias had never eaten a banana split, never played pool, nor had he been to a bowling alley or movie theater, much less a museum, aquarium, or zoo. Coming from a poor, single-parent family, it was just never possible. The program has not only given Tabias the chance to do all these things, but it has also given him a male influence in his life, something he has not had since his father left. The benefits the program has offered Tabias are obvious. The rewards I have received are more subtle. Big Brothers/Big Sisters makes me realize how much I take for granted concerning my family and my life here under the Dome. It makes me appreciate the opportunities I've had, and inspires me to help the disadvantaged. Finally, it is a great joy to see the wide smiles of a little kid who is happy because he is doing something for himself or his family that he never dreamed was possible.

There is a long list of children waiting to get into the program, they only need to be matched to someone who cares. If you're interested, talk to us Tuesday night.

Norm D. Smith
Vice President
Big Brothers/Big Sisters
September 3, 1989

Honor Code teaches what is important in life.

Dear Editor:

I am writing in reference to the Honor Code at the University of Notre Dame. There has been much criticism of the code as being implemented by the administration rather than by the students and therefore not wanted by the students. The major issue is student apathy toward turning in a fellow student who cheats. This is not the goal of the Honor Code. The goal is to make students responsible for their own actions. If all students maintain their own honor, the system works. When you cheat on your own honor, you cheat yourself.

My criticism of the Honor Code is that it does not depend on students' honor, as it should. Professors should not instruct students where to sit, print two or more different versions of the tests, or monitor tests. The University should trust the students more, and put the responsibility on the students. Sure, some students may still cheat and get away with it. But what they get away with now will hurt them later in life. They may get a better grade and get into medical or law school because of it, but what they get out of it now will come back to haunt them. When a patient dies, or you can't answer your kid's calculus question, the A-minus you got on the intro level class will mean nothing, and you will suffer a different kind of humiliation than a bad grade.

This honor code simply means study for tests, learn as much as you can to help yourself, and then take the grade you deserve. If you cheat and do better on tests that I, but I'll go farther in life because I've learned, while you've just gotten an A. Some students will still say, "So what?" I say they've got a lot to learn about what is important in life.

Scott K. Kluge
Counsel & Hall
May 12, 1989

BROCK W. MCCORMICK

QUOTE OF THE DAY

"It is easy to get everything you want, provided you first learn to do without the things you cannot get."

Elbert Hubbard
Monday, September 4, 1989

The Big Difficult

Sometimes getting into college isn't as tough as getting there

Hollywood has a way of beating a topic to death. It's bad enough when the subject matter is fictitious, but it's even more so when the subject is a human tragedy such as Vietnam. ABC's "China Beach" is only another of Hollywood's attempts to "cash in" on the military incident.

"China Beach" airs Wednesdays at 9 p.m. It presents a group of young men and women coping with life during the crisis. Dana Delaney stars as Lieutenant K.C. Beckett, the uplifting driving force who keeps her friends sane and calm in the midst of military turmoil. Other characters are Cherry (Nan Woods), an innocent volunteer; Beckett (Michael Boatman), a young man coping with the mental stresses of war; and Lulu (Concetta Tomei), a realistic and strong-willed woman.

One episode presents a disturbed man who wants to return to America. He decides to play off Cherry's emotions by claiming he's a friend of her brother who is missing in action. He tells Cherry her brother is fine and that she'll help him escape, he'll get her in touch with her brother. Cherry takes pity upon the man and, against the advice of K.C. (Mary Helenbergen), decides to help him—until she discovers he's been lying.

Another plotline presents the cast members trying to help Beckett fight depression. They take him to the beach and encourage him to date; but it's a young Vietnamese girl who finally breaks down the emotional walls surrounding Beckett.

In theory—and perhaps even in the brief synopses presented here—"China Beach" sounds interesting; however, the program is actually a bore, perhaps more annoying to the viewers than Vietnam itself. The plots unravel slowly and each episode's climax, if one exists, is evident to only the most careful of viewers.

Another problem with the show is the way it trivializes the situation in which the characters find themselves. They are in the midst of one of history's most brutal and terrifying conflicts; yet viewers may often wonder if they're watching a t.v. sitcom or "thirtysomething..." in camouflauge. So many of the plodding involve romantic relationships and personal problems that one would not be surprised if the characters pulled out some Perrier and wore pajamas.

It's obvious that even the producers are concerned about the show's pacing and intrigue. The difference between a death and a trip—and the action so slow—that wonderful music is used to keep the viewers tuned in. If audiences want good music they should watch "The Wonder Years."

The cast of "China Beach" is a good one. There's little doubt 30 minutes to go before the rage and trauma of Vietnam; however, actors only act out what the terribly dated plot line. The writers and producers seem to have lost the focus of the show. Is "China Beach" a dramatic portrayal of life in Vietnam or an excuse to put good music and current-day issues in an exotic locale?
Evert beats in straight sets

Becker knocks off Pernfors, faces Noah in quarterfinals

Associated Press

NEW YORK — Chris Evert, playing nearly perfect tennis against a teenager who wasn't quite ready for prime time, posted a 6-4, 6-2, 6-2 victory Sunday in the women's singles final of the U.S. Open.

Evert, 37, and the 16-year-old Pernfors, 13, had met before — when Evert beat her in the junior U.S. Open last year. But there the similarity ended.

In rallies that sometimes lasted more than 30 shots, Evert matched the moonballs and powerful strokes of the gunning Swedish teenager, and she was her own with angled and deep shots that frequently kissed the lines.

"I don't know where it came from," Pernfors said. "I haven't seen that form all year."

The only trouble Evert encountered came in the fifth game of the first set when Pernfors had three break points on Evert's service. But Evert hung in, and Seles wasted the opportunities with forehand errors in the net, and capitalized on her first advantage to put the game away.

"I felt if she won that game, she would have gotten back in there," Evert said.

Evert said she felt like Margaret Court, the former Open and Wimbledon champion who was at the peak of her career when Evert first played her at age 15.

"Up until two days ago, I didn't expect to win the match, the way I've been playing," she said.

"When I first saw that I might be playing her, I said, 'Isn't it ironic. It would be my last big match, and I'd lose to her.' Maybe that was fate ... it entered my mind for one second. All those things made me more determined. I concentrated, I moved well, I was pleased it happened today."

Seles, who had said she was worried about the match and might feel sad if she were the one to beat Evert in major tournaments, didn't play close to her own potential.

Seles, a left-hander with two-fisted shots on forehand and backhand, certainly was not the player who beat Evert in the finals of a tournament in Houston two days ago. That match was on clay, this one on a faster hard court.

"I was prepared to win," was Evert's loss. "Seles said, 'I was too prepared, going into the match, that everyone would be on my side. I've never been in that situation, so it was a little strange.'"

Evert said "wasn't missing any balls at all. She was hitting hard on every ball.

Boris Becker again struggled Sunday in the U.S. Open, but he managed to defeat Mikael Pernfors in four sets to advance to the quarterfinals. Becker, the Wimbledon champion, will face Yannick Noah in the next round.
Kansas City punches out Texas in game marred by brawl

Associated Press

ARLINGTON, Tex.—Jim Eisenreich keyed a five-run second inning with a two-run single and Bo Jackson homered for the third straight game. The contest included a record-tying seven hit batters and an eighth-inning brawl.

The Royals won for the 16th time in 19 games and remained 3 1/2 games behind first-place Oakland in the AL West.

The fight erupted when Texas reliever Craig McMurtry, who yielded five runs in the seventh inning, hit Mike Macfarlane in the ribs. It was the fifth batter hit by a Texas pitcher and the seventh in the game, tying the AL record. Macfarlane was ejected after charging the mound.

Texas starter Kevin Brown and reliever Jeff Ballard, 15-7, who had lost his last four starts, allowed all the Chicago runs in the first four innings.

 Athletics, Brewers 0

Carney Lansford doubled and singled and Walt Weiss drove in two runs to support the combined eight-hit pitching of Storm Davis and Gene Davis. Davis, 16-6, left the game in the seventh inning after twisting his right knee.

White Sox 4, Orioles 2

Melido Melendez went 4-for-4, including a single that started a five-run rally in the sixth inning. The Yankees won their fourth straight game, tying their longest winning streak of the season.

 Athletics, Brewers 0

Eisenreich keyed a five-run rally in the sixth inning. The Yankees won their fourth straight game, tying their longest winning streak of the season. California, which trails Oakland by 4 1/2 games in the American League West, has lost four in a row and 10 of 14.

 White Sox 4, Orioles 2

Melito Perez hit two batters in the first inning, including a single that started a five-run rally in the sixth inning. The Yankees won their fourth straight game, tying their longest winning streak of the season. California, which trails Oakland by 4 1/2 games in the American League West, has lost four in a row and 10 of 14.

White Sox 4, Orioles 2

Melito Perez hit two batters in the first inning, including a single that started a five-run rally in the sixth inning. The Yankees won their fourth straight game, tying their longest winning streak of the season. California, which trails Oakland by 4 1/2 games in the American League West, has lost four in a row and 10 of 14.

Chicago 5, Angels 2

Don Mattingly went 4-for-4, including a single that started a five-run rally in the sixth inning. The Yankees won their fourth straight game, tying their longest winning streak of the season. California, which trails Oakland by 4 1/2 games in the American League West, has lost four in a row and 10 of 14.

Chicago 5, Angels 2

Don Mattingly went 4-for-4, including a single that started a five-run rally in the sixth inning. The Yankees won their fourth straight game, tying their longest winning streak of the season. California, which trails Oakland by 4 1/2 games in the American League West, has lost four in a row and 10 of 14.

---

Tickets

continued from page 12

Sunday.

Any Notre Dame or Saint Mary's students who have not received their season ticket and run-starved Orel Hershiser.

Expos 4, Dodgers 0

Kevin Gross pitched a six-hitter and Montreal capitalized on four Los Angeles errors in the first two innings to defeat the Dodgers and run-starved Orel Hershiser.

Braves 8, Cubs 5

The Chicago Cubs saw enough of Atlanta's Jeff Blaster over the last two weekends to last them for a long time. The Braves' third baseman had three singles and two in three runs, including a key two-run single in a five-run fourth inning that carried Atlanta to an 8-5 victory over the Cubs Sunday.

---

ATTENTION PRE-LAW SOCIETY:

There is an important meeting tonight at 6:30 in the Library Auditorium for SENIORS preparing for the LSAT and Law School.
Giamatti continued from page 12

Zane, medical examiner for Barnstable County, said Giamatti, an overweight chain-smoker, might have suffered his first heart attack at some point several years ago without realizing it.

His death was caused by constrictive coronary heart disease, Zane said.

"The manner of death is natural," Zane said.

Giamatti, a former president of Yale University, died after being stricken at his summer residence in Edgartown, Mass., on the resort island of Martha's Vineyard.

Vincent, a former CEO of Columbia Pictures, and Giamatti were close friends.

Vincent had flown the commissioner to Martha's Vineyard only hours before Giamatti became ill.

"This is a terrifically tragic day for me," Vincent told NBC on Saturday. "I lost a great friend, I lost a partner, and it's difficult to talk about the future. I will be happy to serve as interim commissioner.

Coca-Cola bought Columbia in 1983 and Vincent continued as head of the company. He also was made an executive vice president of Coca-Cola, but resigned last July after he was assigned to non-entertainment areas.

"I know something about running things properly," Vincent said in a recent interview. "I have a background as a chief executive. I have experience dealing with the government."

The executive council, authorized by baseball rules to assume responsibility for the commissioner's office when needed, delegated authority to Vincent following a conference call.

A search committee may be formed to consider candidates as the new commissioner. For election, a vote of three-quarters of the major-league clubs is required.

COME JOIN THE FUN AT THE ANNUAL

ACTIVITIES NIGHT

SEPTEMBER 5, 1989

JACC FIELDHOUSE

7:00 p.m. - 10:00 p.m. (Enter through Gate 3)

SPONSORED BY THE STUDENT ACTIVITIES OFFICE, CENTER FOR SOCIAL CONCERNS, NON-VARSITY ATHLETICS

Giamatti continued from page 12

Zane, medical examiner for Barnstable County, said Giamatti, an overweight chain-smoker, might have suffered his first heart attack at some point several years ago without realizing it.

His death was caused by constrictive coronary heart disease, Zane said.

"The manner of death is natural," Zane said.

Giamatti, a former president of Yale University, died after being stricken at his summer residence in Edgartown, Mass., on the resort island of Martha's Vineyard.

Vincent, a former CEO of Columbia Pictures, and Giamatti were close friends.

Vincent had flown the commissioner to Martha's Vineyard only hours before Giamatti became ill.

"This is a terrifically tragic day for me," Vincent told NBC on Saturday. "I lost a great friend, I lost a partner, and it's difficult to talk about the future. I will be happy to serve as interim commissioner.

Coca-Cola bought Columbia in 1983 and Vincent continued as head of the company. He also was made an executive vice president of Coca-Cola, but resigned last July after he was assigned to non-entertainment areas.

"I know something about running things properly," Vincent said in a recent interview. "I have a background as a chief executive. I have experience dealing with the government."

The executive council, authorized by baseball rules to assume responsibility for the commissioner's office when needed, delegated authority to Vincent following a conference call.

A search committee may be formed to consider candidates as the new commissioner. For election, a vote of three-quarters of the major-league clubs is required.
I'm afraid you've got cows, Mr. Farnsworth.

The Observer

GARY LARSON

THE FAR SIDE

ACROSS
1. Yearn
2. Ornamental scheme
3. Small pond
4. Irregular
5. Fowl ingredient
6. Star comedians
7. Site of the Taj Mahal
8. Adolescents
9. Take part in a winter sport
10. At that time
11. Oolong, e.g.
12. Cravat
13. Those against
14. Small pond
15. Irregular
16. Pilaf ingredient
17. Rivercourse
18. Prefix for penultimate
19. Site of the Taj Mahal
20. Adolescents
21. Take part in a winter sport
22. At that time
23. Oolong, e.g.
24. Coral island
25. Bogus
26. Series of disasters
27. Radical
28. Spelling contest
29. Guide
30. Spelling contest
31. About two and a half hours
32. Put in sod
33. Passe
34. Put in sod
35. Opposite of sweeter
36. Mint's cousin
37. Arid
38. A Geriawan
39. Prison term
40. Exon
41. Arbor
42. Famed woman of Troy
43. Mapa
44. Otherwise
45. A Kennedy
47. Caused to remember
48. Put up a struggle
49. Radial
50. Notions
51. Put away
52. Young child
53. Group of musicians
54. Shoshonean
55. Fiji
56. Advocate
57. Low-lying fields along a watercourse
58. Las Vegas look
59. Trail's partner
60. Tucson
61. Judges
62. Adverb
63. Aerie, e.g.
64. Adverb
65. Lascivious look
66. Trial's partner
67. Advocate
68. Tavern
69. Winter sport
70. Aerie, e.g.

DOWN
1. Appropriate
2. Foolish one
3. Hospital ship
4. River to the North Sea
5. More compact
6. Stat for Gooden
7. Those against
8. Japanese seaport
9. Put up a struggle
10. Eloquent public speaker
11. Position Mel Ott played
12. 43,560 square feet
13. Tilt
14. Spelling contest
15. Those against
16. Statistic
17. Hospital ship
18. Prefix for penultimate
19. Coral island
20. Mongrel
21. Series of disasters
22. Spelling contest
23. Guide
24. Dirt
25. Overdecorated
27. Layer
28. Special offering
29. French being
30. Asian
31. Put in sod
32. Overdecorated
33. Overdecorated
34. Overdecorated
35. Overdecorated
36. Overdecorated
37. Overdecorated
38. Overdecorated
39. Overdecorated
40. Overdecorated
41. Layer
42. Special offering
43. French being
44. Asian
45. Put in sod
46. Put in sod
47. Put in sod
48. Put in sod
49. Put in sod
50. Put in sod
51. Put in sod
52. Put in sod
53. Put in sod
54. Put in sod
55. Put in sod
56. Put in sod
57. Put in sod
58. Put in sod
59. Put in sod
60. Put in sod
61. Put in sod
62. Put in sod
63. Put in sod
64. Put in sod
65. Put in sod
66. Put in sod
67. Put in sod
68. Put in sod
69. Put in sod
70. Put in sod

ANSWER TO PREVIOUS PUZZLE

GREAT JOB ON FALL MALL

The Student Union Board would like to thank

Kristine Male
Laura La Velle
Emily Chua
Colleen Timons
Marty Hull
Carole Ruff
John Van Markin
Joe Adams
Missy Dillon
Catherine
Megan
And Especially Kara Lenahan

THE FAR SIDE

GARY LARSON

COMICS

CALVIN AND HOBBES

BUZZ MC FLATTOP

MICHAEL F. MULDOON

Things that go bump in the night.

The Observer

page 11
Irish soccer loses first two games of season

Associated Press

BLOOMINGTON — Freshman Ben Brutocao, stepping into the upper left corner late in the first half Sunday to lead No. 2 Virginia to a 2-0 victory over Notre Dame in the Addidas-Metropolitan Life Soccer Classic.

Freshman Brad Agoos had worked free and attempted a shot from the box but the ball hit the goal post and was deflected in by the Irish goalkeeper. The ball was knocked back by the goalkeeper and John Maessner and Richie Williams added second-half goals for the Cavaliers, with senior back Jeff Bynum assisting on both scores.

Notre Dame's defense for the first 20 minutes consisted mostly of long balls from the back as they fought a methodical Virginia attack. But the Irish settled into a tighter passing game that brought some good scoring chances.

Virginia's offense was able to break up that passing game, forcing the unfettered Irish back into a defense relying mostly on the line. Virginia, which had never won in Bill Armstrong Stadium before this weekend, boosted its record to 2-0 and went into a Tuesday match against Longwood in Farmville, Va.

Notre Dame fell to 0-2 and next meets Detroit on Wednesday.

In another Classic action, Brilliant saves by goalies Juergen Sommer of Indiana and Kevin Johnston of St. Louis ensured a 1-1 tie for the top-ranked Hoosiers and No. 12 Billikens Sunday afternoon.

Neither Indiana nor St. Louis mounted much of a threat in 30 minutes of extra time as both defenses played cautiously.

Ken Snow staked host Indiana to a 1-0 lead with 11 seconds to play in the first half, but the lead lasted just 2:16. With barely two minutes gone in the second half, junior forward Dave Toural evened the score for the Billikens with a 16-yard blast.

Both teams had chances to end it in regulation. Sommer turned away a 10-yard shot from St. Louis midfielder Johnny Johnson with less than three minutes left.

Then, in the waning moments of regulation, Snow's brother Steve found the end of a booming Sommer punt just 5 yards out, and Johnson made a spectacular save on Snow's header from three seconds left.

The defending national champion Hoosiers, now 0-1-1, took 21 shots at Johnston and forced the unranked Irish back on both scores. But the Hoosiers were unable to break out that passing game, mounting much of a threat in the second half, junior forward Ward Toural evened the score for the Billikens with a 16-yard blast.

Tickets sales this week Special to The Observer

Distribution of season football tickets begins Tuesday at the Joyce ACC ticket office, with students getting first shot at 50-yard line seats.

This year's prices for the five-game home season are $150 for students and $77 for Saint Mary's students. All applications must be accompanied by student identification cards.

Ticket windows will be open from 1:30 p.m. to 8 p.m. Tuesday, September 4, 1989

From Notre Dame to Montana, Peltier's still a hit

With thoughts of grandeur and the dream come true of a professional baseball career ahead of him, Dan Peltier, simply dressed in a short-sleeved shirt and slacks, stepped into the airplane at Albany under a sunny June sky.

When the former Notre Dame baseball star stepped out of the plane in Butte, Mont., it had been snowing. In fact, the game he was supposed to attend Friday night had been snowed out.

"It was crazy," smiles Peltier. "I thought they had sent me to hell.

Though it was not quite like hell, he was not as lucky as many of his counterparts who had been assigned to more accommodating climates like Florida and South Carolina. Instead, Peltier found himself amid a frosty flurry for his first minor league game.

Peltier didn't expect that.

But it was that matter, almost nothing that happened this summer could have been expected, except maybe that he would be playing baseball.

Who would have thought that he would need a snow-blower more than a bat when he arrived in Butte?

Who would have thought he would be leading the entire rookie league with a .405 batting average?

Who would have thought he'd be assigned to Butte?

Who would have thought that he would need a snow-blower more than a bat when he arrived in Butte?

Scott Brutocao

Sports Correspondent

Who would have thought he'd break his collarbone from a fly ball hitting him in the back?

That's right. A routine, practice fly ball hit him in the back. The same exact type of ball that Peltier smoked around for the last three years at Notre Dame; the same type of ball around which Peltier formed his smooth and natural swing; the same type of ball that Peltier was hitting into submission in the Pioneer League.

That disastrical fly ball sailed innocently through the air and pelted the center fielder with his back turned. Before he could react to the "heads up!" warning from the gallery the ball had swatted him in the back. Not very fair play, right? So it would seem. But even such a disastrous injury as a broken collarbone turned out to be just one more stop on Peltier's baseball yellow brick road.

Consider that Peltier rejected the initial offer made by the Rangers. Not to be defeated, the franchise boosted its offer and included a signing bonus, at which time Peltier accepted. And one can be fairly sure that the offer amounted to more than $24 and trinkets.

Next on Peltier's chain of good fortune was a veritable ransacking of the Pioneer Rookie League, sending the Rangers' front office into a frenzy. And just as he was landing the league in batting average, the Good Ranger of the Southwest came down upon him with a minor (although painful) injury that sent him home two weeks early to enjoy the company of his friends and family before going back to school.

With the imprint that the ball entrenched on Peltier's back, he was given the day off. And that was followed by a guaranteed spot on the 1990 Ranger spring training roster as well as his tuition paid for at Notre Dame.

But not every situation was ideal for the Irish slugger. He'd get stationed in Butte, which necessitated him to bring a parka instead of suntan oil. But even in this, Peltier has found a trace of enthusiasm.

"It was alright," he says casually. "Pretty nice. Nice country, anyway."

That's the way, Dan.