Two Notre Dame students were accosted Friday by two men as they rode BMX-type small frame bicycles. According to Philip Johnson, assistant director of Security, both incidents occurred just after 8 p.m. and neither woman was injured.

The first incident occurred on the Main Quad between Walsh Hall and the Student Center. The second incident occurred near the Center for Social Concerns and Hesburgh Library, said Johnson.

Johnson said that both females reported that the suspects approached her as she was walking alone, asked for her help, and proceeded to touch her inappropriately.

The victims went to their respective residence halls after the incidents were called security. Johnson said the suspects were last seen riding on their bicycles south toward the Library.

Suspect one is described as a black male, 15 to 20 years old, muscular build, short hair, and wearing a white button down shirt and blue jeans. Suspect two is described as a black male, possibly 17 to 20 years old, muscular build, and possibly wearing a white tee shirt.

Johnson said no arrests have been made at this time. He added that anyone with information about this incident should contact Notre Dame Security at 283-4444 or 219-894.

"For safety it is best not to walk alone after dark. Always walk on well lit, busy pathways or streets. If you cannot find someone to walk with you after dark, contact Security for an escort," said Johnson.

"If you are the victim of any crime, or if you see any suspicious activity, go to the nearest open building or residence hall and immediately contact Security/Police. Additional information about safety and security is available at the Library. Security Office," said Johnson in a press release.

Measles vaccine available at SMC

By CHRISTINE GILL
Senior Staff Reporter

Saint Mary's students who received a measles vaccination prior to Jan. 1, 1980 can be immunized at Health Services today and Tuesday.

The vaccinations will be given by 10 a.m. to 11:00 a.m. on both days at Health Services, located in the basement of Holy Cross Hall, and are of no cost to students.

All students, on and off-campus, who have not had the vaccine are required to get it. Faculty and staff are not required to be immunized.

The vaccinations are a result of the measles emergency declared on Thursday, Sep. 7, at Notre Dame, by the Indiana State Health Department. Although there has not been a confirmed case of measles on the Saint Mary's campus, the immunizations are for those students who did not update their vaccinations as advised by Health Services in a letter to all students at the end of classes last spring.

The free shots are available from noon until 9 p.m. in the concourse of the Hesburgh Library, the Health Center and the Dooley Room of the LaFortune Student Center.

On Friday 3,200 people were inoculated, according to Seager. The most shots were given at the infirmary, followed by the library and LaFortune. Seager said, although waits at all three sites stretched to a half-hour in the middle of the afternoon.

"The students have been very good about going to get their shots, but we need everyone who did not go on Friday to be there Monday to help pull this off," Seager said.

The mass immunization was sparked by a measles emergency declared by the Indiana State Health Department. There have been no confirmed cases of measles on the Saint Mary's campus, but there have been confirmed cases in other states.

No new cases of measles were reported at Notre Dame over the weekend, according to Carol Seager, director of University Health Services.

Vaccinations for all faculty, staff and students born after 1957 but not immunized against the disease since 1980 continue today at three campus sites.

Over 7,000 East Germans leave

This is the first of a three-part series.

Notre Dame was expecting 34 new students from China this year, but so far only 18 have arrived.

"Some are going to be late; they always are," said Arthur Grubert, director of the International Student Affairs Office. He said it will still be another month before an accurate number can be known.

Grubert said some students may be held up because undergraduate students are facing the Chinese government's new military requirement or else they must work in the fields. The Chinese government wants to train their own Ph.D.'s so they only allow post-doctorals to do research in America, said Grubert. He said the Chinese government is still trying to cut back their exchange programs by requiring additional exit visas.

Grubert said the new regulations require a statement by the student's local employer or local police that states that the student in question was not involved in the demonstrations in Beijing last spring.

"If a student was very involved or a leader he or she probably won't get a permit," said Grubert. He said the moderately involved students might get a permit, however.

Notre Dame is waiting for letters from some of the new students and some have already called to say they are not coming, according to Grubert.

"It's not easy to communicate," said Grubert. "There is not total access like in the U.S."

Notre Dame presently hosts 110 Chinese students, and most of them are studying at the graduate level, said Grubert. Prior to the military crackdown in Tiananman Square the "elaboration, excitement, and hope on campus among the Chinese students was unreal," said Grubert.

He said after the massacre, the students could not believe that the government would turn on the nonviolent students in China. At Notre Dame the Chinese students formed the Chinese Student Solidarity Association, said Grubert.

The students here collected information about the pro-democracy movement for those in China who were unable to get unbiased reports. According to Grubert, they communicated through the mail, telephones and facsimile machines.

All of the students were able to contact their families and the message they received from home was universal, said Grubert. "Stay with your academic programs and get your degrees." According to Grubert, families continually

With its parents, the child and do deserve the right to make decisions for their progeny, what would it be better if human beings were relieved of the obligation of their parents and unbiased opinion with regards to religion.

The benefit of such an upbringing would be that it would allow an individual to peer upon the theological environment and develop one’s own effect to attempt meetings with regards to one’s faith. Western theological tradition holds that one of the greatest gifts God has given us is the freedom to choose our own course. Why then does religion not give us the freedom to choose one’s faith. NATIONAL BRIEFS

Retail gasoline prices dropped 1.37 cents nationwide over the past two weeks but wholesale prices rose slightly, signaling a possible pump price increase this fall, an industry analyst from Los Angeles said Sunday. The average retail price for all gasoline grades at full- and self-service pumps was 109.07 cents per gallon on Aug. 3, up 1.02 cents per gallon from Aug. 17, said Lynne R. Brown, director of the Lundberg Survey of 12,000 gasoline stations. Wholesale prices at the wholesale level were 97.75 cents, a slight increase over the previous week, she said.

Major landscaping improvements planned for Mod Quad

BY SARAH VOIGT
Senior Staff Reporter

The beautification of the East Quad, begun on July 24 and slated to be completed October 31, is the first phase in a plan to upgrade and enhance the landscaping on Notre Dame's campus. The East Quad, formerly known as the Mod Quad, includes the area between the Pasquerillas, and Grace and Flanner Towers. David Woods, director of support services at Notre Dame, said that the Maintenance Center began to investigate the possibility of a master landscape plan for campus one year ago.

Woods said that a study conducted last winter by Cole Associates, Inc., a South Bend architectural firm that designed the landscaping between Siegfried and Knott, targeted the East Quad as the best place to begin the renovations.

Woods explained, "The newly finished landscaping between the new dorms made the Pasquerilla's 12 to 20 year old landscaping look old in contrast. Also, some say that it (the East Quad) has been a neglected area of campus. Plus, roughly 25 percent of the student body live in the East Quad dorms."

According to Woods, two student hubs with six to eight benches will be placed at the intersections of the major walkways to encourage students to relax and congregate in the quad. The benches will be built on a raised mound of earth surrounded by new plantings of flowers and shrubs and a wheelchair ramp for handicap access.

In addition, a sand volleyball pit will be built between Grace and Pasquerilla East. Woods said that plans have been signed by hundreds of students to keep the volleyball court set up in the same location last Spring.

The new pit will include a regulation size volleyball court with 10 additional feet of sand on all sides of the court. The court will be flanked by two mounds of grass for spectators to sit and will include a 18 foot by 12 foot grassy picnic area on the far end of the pit. "We construe this court as a model for the future development of coeducational recreational areas on other residential areas on this campus," said Woods.

In addition, six to eight circular bicycle racks will be scattered around dorms in the East Quad. According to Woods, 19 solid steel racks will be arranged in a circle on brick and concrete path around a planted tree. "We hope that this will become the standard for the rest of campus as more students feel secure parking their bikes on campus," said Woods.

Some of the improvements are as simple as paving walkways to accommodate existing traffic patterns. Woods said that new walkways will be laid on diagonals from Grace and Flanner toward the Hesburgh Library.

"The East Quad is just the first of many areas to be upgraded with landscaping on campus," said Woods.

Kinko's sued by book publishers

Kinko's makes multiple copies of copyrighted materials for classroom use, providing updates on recent discoveries in various fields. The textbook publishers claim that Kinko's has violated the 1976 Copyright Act.

Section 107 of the copyright law states, "... the fair use of a copyrighted work, including such use by reproduction in copies... for purposes such as criticism, comment, news-reporting, teaching (including multiple copies for classroom use), scholarship or research is not an infringement of copyright."

A recent press release from Kinko's states that the company has ten full-time co-workers at its national copyright center who contact publishers to obtain permission to copy their materials. According to the press release, they process over 10,000 permission requests each month, and give compensation if it is requested by the copyright holder.

Scott Tagliarino, a public relations representative for Kinko, said that neither verbal nor written permission is actually necessary under the present law.

Tagliarino said that Kinko will not settle out of court because, "they fully believe they are right." He said that the lawsuit has had no effect on business, and has not prompted any change in Kinko's policies.

The case against Kinko will go to court in about a year.

GUATEMALA CITY - The bodies of a university professor who led a teachers' strike and three kidnapped students were found Sunday in a canyon near San Carlos University, police reported.

They said an anonymous telephone caller told authorities where the bodies could be found. Notes attached to the bodies referred to the destruction of the student organization to which the victims belonged.

The victims, all of whom had been kidnapped within the past three weeks, were identified as professor Carlos Humberto Cabrera Rivera, 48, who was abducted Saturday; Carlos Chua Camey, a 35-year-old law student kidnapped Friday; and Victor Rodriguez Jaramilla, 38, a political science student, and his wife, 33-year-old psychology student Silvia Maria Azurdia de Rodriguez, abducted Aug. 23.

Police said all had been shot repeatedly.

No individual or group has asserted responsibility for the kidnappings and slayings, and police said they have no suspects.

Associated Press

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa — Mourners on Sunday buried victims of election violence near Cape Town, and activists prepared a mass march to protest alleged police shootings and reported deaths of 29 civilians.

Regional Police Commissioner Phillipus Fourie was quoted Sunday as saying he will lead his officers to stop the march planned for Sept. 17, and an anti-apartheid clergyman said he expects police will use violence to disperse demonstrators.

"It will be solid evidence of what they have done on election night. Because if they would do this in the light of day ... then God knows how they behave in the dead of night in our townships when there is nobody to protect our people," said Rev. Allan Boesak, leader of the World Alliance of Reformed Churches.

Evette Otto, a teen-ager who was five months pregnant when she was killed Wednesday in Kalksteenoentin township, was buried Sunday in her home town of West Beitbeeck, 180 miles northwest of Cape Town. Her mother told a news conference Friday that Evette, 16, was standing on the street talking to friends when a uniformed officer shot her through the chest.

Funerals of those killed in the violence, which began during general voting on Tuesday, are scheduled throughout the week. Activists have asked the nation to wear black armbands and light candles for an hour a night.

Marchers want to protest the deaths of 29 people activists say were killed in election violence, most by police. Activists said 200 people were hurt when white riot squad officers marched through townships, shooting and whipping by-standers as well as stones-throwers. Those throwing stones were protesting the elections, which exclude South Africa's 28 million black majority.

Police say only 15 people were killed and have not acknowledged responsibility for any deaths.

Cape Town doctors on Friday reported treating children as young as 4 years old for gunshot wounds. Attorney General Essa Moosa on Friday said 29 people were killed, including a 12-year-old boy. An ambul­ lance driver has reported taking the body of a 6-year-old girl to a mortuary.

Police have reported using pistol fire, birdshot, buckshot, rubber bullets and tear gas. They reported a handful of injuries, none of them children.

Boesak said the issue of the killings unfortunately has turned into "a numbers game" since Law and Order Minister Adriaan Vlok called Boesak and Anglican Archbishop Desmond Tutu liars for their death toll reports. The clergyman have called for Vlok to be fired.

Republican charges CIA with botching Afghanistan

Associated Press

"The CIA has secretly pursued a wrongheaded Afghan policy for years," the chairman of the Republican Task Force on Terrorism and Unconventional Warfare, Rep. Bill McCollum of Florida, charged in a 2,600-word article in the editorial section of the Washington Post.

The most recent blunder, he wrote, was to allow the supply of U.S. arms while pressur­ing Afghan guerrillas into launching an assault on the Afghan city of Jalalabad near the Soviet border.

At the same time, the Soviet Union had turned its massive arms supplies to its client in Kabul, enabling that government to withdraw the assault.

The siege of Jalalabad has turned into a stalemate that threatens to stall the entire resistance movement.

The key mistake by the Central Intelligence Agency and the State Department was to give control U.S. arms ship­ments to the guerrillas to Pakistan's Inter-service Intelligence, that nation's equivalent of the CIA, McCollum wrote.

"Why the CIA gave ISI its proxy was easier to understand in the beginning," as the United States began to arm the Moslem guerrillas, or mujaheddin, after the 1979 Soviet invasion, McCollum wrote.

"Our Intelligence community had little faith in the mujaheddin's ability to drive out the Soviets; for a relatively small arm we could blocken Moscow's eye and get our own back for Vietnam," he wrote.

But the policy allowed guerrillas around the late Pakistani strongman, Mohammad Zia ul-Haq, to bolster an Islamic fundamentalist whom McCollum compared to Libyan Leader Moammar Gadhafi. The policy supported orbital leaders who had greater support in Afghanistan. In 1976, ISI recruited Golbadin Hokmatyar, who was then a "freerand fundamentalist student leader at Kabul University" and who now heads Hezb-i-Islami, one of seven Afghan resistance parties based in Peshawar, Pakistan, the congressman wrote.

Hokmatyar was acquired by the leaders of the six other parties this summer after guerrillas under his control ambushed and killed 32 lieutenants of the leading Afghan resistance fighter, Ahmed Shah Massoud, who belongs to another party.

The siege of Jalalabad has resulted in a stalemate, in large part because CIA "tacticians were so certain they were right that they turned off the arms supply.

Colombia to extradite three men to U.S.

Associated Press

BOGOTA, Columbia — The Colombian government will extradite three more reputed cocaine traffickers wanted in the United States on charges of money-laundering and drug smuggling, an official said Sunday.

The announcement came after a weekend of army raids on ranches believed owned by the country's top two drug barons. Soldiers seized property including cattle, tropical birds and swimming pools, the army and the El Espectador daily said.

In Medellin, the nation's second-largest city, a series of attacks linked to drug cartels continued. A bomb damaged a liquor factory, hooded assailants set a city garbage truck on fire, and police defused a bomb at a branch of a government-run savings bank. No injuries were reported.

In western Colombia, assailants killed a foreman and set fire to a ranch of a government official who wanted the confiscated rural property of drug traffickers distributed to peasants.

A National Drug Council official, speaking on condition of anonymity, told The Associated Press the government has signed extradition orders for three imprisoned Colombians.

The three were identified as Ana Helena Rodriguez, 37, jailed in Bogota for allegedly laundering money; and Alberto Orlandez Gamboa, 37, jailed in Medellin, also for alleged laundering. It was not known if the three were notified. Once notified, they have five days to appeal the extradition order.

Eduardo Martinez Romero, charged with laundering millions of dollars of cocaine money for the Medellin Cartel, was extradited to the United States last week after losing his appeal.

An army officer in Medellin, asking not to be identified for security reasons, said the properties seized over the weekend are believed to belong to two of the most wanted drug bosses: Pablo Escobar and Gonzalo Rodriguez Gacha. They are believed to be the No. 1 and No. 2 men in the Medellin cocaine cartel.

"We are going to keep the seizures up," the army officer said.

Last month, after assassins working for the traffickers killed Sen. Luis Carlos Galan, the leading presidential candidate and an outspoken foe of the drug trade, Medellin, where their cartel is based, has offered a reward of $250,000 for information leading to the arrest of Escobar or Rodriguez Gacha.

"We have offered a reward of $250,000 for information leading to the arrest of Escobar or Rodriguez Gacha, who also head the United States' list of Colombians wanted for extradition on drug-trafficking charges."

Drug terrorists have retaliated with incessant attacks on property belonging to the government and the Colombian establishment, especially in Medellin, where their cartel is based.

The Supreme Court is still debating whether Barco's emergency powers are constitutional. If they decide they are not, the government might have to return confiscated property. Soldiers who raided a ranch Saturday in Puerto Boyaca, 95 miles north of Bogota in the notorious Magdalena Medio cocaine lab zone, found fence posts marked GRG, presumably training for the Medellin cartel's "hit squads."

With trend, mutual funds will expand to $1 trillion industry

The many income funds that specialize in government securities, where the risk of default is very slight, could also lose a lot of their appeal if bond prices were depressed by a rise in inflation and higher interest rates.

But most analysts agree that the 1980s mutual fund boom has gone much too far for too long to be regarded as only a temporary growth spurt.

Millions of American investors evidently have concluded over the past 10 years that they want or need professional help in managing their finances. And as demand for that kind of service increased, mutual fund managers were right there waiting, only too happy to meet it.

USSR can learn from U.S.: Yeltsin

Associated Press

NEW YORK — Maverick Soviet politician Boris Yeltsin said Sunday that his country faces continuing economic and social decline and can learn from American democracy while changing its political system.

"We are in an economic and financial crisis, as well as in respect to the American democracy," Yeltsin said on CBS News' "Face the Nation."

Yeltsin arrived Saturday to begin his first visit to the United States, a two-week tour that includes stops throughout the country.

"We have to take what is positive from Soviet experience and what has been positive in the experience of the other socialist countries, positive from America's more than 200 years of democratic experience — the truth that creates a new model of socialism," Yeltsin said through a translator.

"We do need a new model of socialism," he said. "We have to stop being so dogmatic as we were before."

"Socialism is in a crisis and such extraordinary measures of an economic or financial nature are obviously necessary since the standard recently not only has not risen but has actually fallen," he said.

Yeltsin, 58, lost his position as Moscow's Communist Party chief in 1987 after criticizing the slow pace of change under Soviet President Mikhail Gorbachev. But this year, he was overwhelmingly elected to the Soviet Congress, where he is an outspoken member of a radical bloc.

Gorbachev said presently a three day National Association of Foreign Student Affairs (NAFA) conference is scheduled for October. He said various authorities on China will hold sessions for the Chinese students to help them deal with the turmoil in their country.

NAFA also aids in the networking of Chinese students across American campuses. This summer NAFA sent Chinese alerts to keep students posted of the situation and gave Congress and the Senate updates.

foot. A group of youths among them held up a sign saying, "Give it up Erich!" referring to East German Communist leader Erich Honecker.

About 100 feet away, on the American side of the massive border barrier, many East Germans jumped from their cars and danced with joy.

The mass emigration of East Germans to West Germany is the largest since the Berlin Wall was built in 1961 to stem the flow across the border.

East Germany promised to attack the Hungarian decision, announced Sunday, saying Budapest had "directly interfered" in East Germany's internal affairs.

"The Hungarian government has decided to illegally allow East German citizens to travel to West Germany in violation of international treaty," the state news agency said.

Gorbachev, he said. Hungary decided to suspend the 1969 bilateral agreement with East Germany, a Warsaw Pact ally, saying Hungary should not take into account West Germany's claim to East Germany.

The other refugees had been discussed for weeks by East and West Germany, with Hungary insisting it was primarily a bystander interested in seeing a solution. The Communist "The talks between East and West Germany ended in failure," it did not elaborate.

There are about 60,000 East Germans now in Hungary," Horn said in the television interview, referring to thousands who have not registered with the West German Embassy in Hungary until now. They are foreigners who become asylum seekers, and are considered refugees or asylum seekers. They are not displaced people or political refugees but they are placed in the asylum category under various laws.

Anyone who does not get immediate protection may be placed in a "returnable" category. If they are found to be "returnable," they will be returned to West Germany.

The Hungarian foreign minister, Gyula Horn, suggested on Hungarian TV that tens of thousands of other East Germans now vacationing in Hungary also may choose to leave for the West along with those in the refugee camps. To make the trip possible, he said, Hungary decided to suspend the 1969 bilateral agreement with East Germany, a Warsaw Pact ally, saying Hungary should not take into account West Germany's claim to East Germany.

The other refugees had been discussed for weeks by East and West Germany, with Hungary insisting it was primarily a bystander interested in seeing a solution. The Communist News' "Hungary," said. "The talks between East and West Germany ended in failure," it did not elaborate.

There are about 60,000 East Germans now in Hungary," Horn said in the television interview, referring to thousands who have not registered with the West German Embassy in Hungary until now. They are foreigners who become asylum seekers, and are considered refugees or asylum seekers. They are not displaced people or political refugees but they are placed in the asylum category under various laws.

Anyone who does not get immediate protection may be placed in a "returnable" category. If they are found to be "returnable," they will be returned to West Germany.

Taxes, taxes, and more taxes

Philanthropy is no answer for Joseph Average

Dear Editor:

This letter is a response to Richard lachetta's letter of Sept. 7. He writes about the importance of reducing our individual taxes. His position is that "to ask for money and help for people in need is the proper, moral way." Then says that the government holds "a gun to our heads" and steals the money. He writes that the majority of the tax money does not benefit those who put up with being robbed. I take exception with all three conclusions.

Let me discuss his theses in the order they are laid out. First, one assumes that the best response to needy people is to become more philanthropic and help them. This is one of the conclusions of lachetta's letter. He claims that the government's tax revenues are used to support "them" rather than the "goodness of human nature." He suggests that everyone is only waiting for a reward to succeed on their own, and he relies on the inherent goodness of human nature.

This brings me to the second subject: that of the government's tax revenues. He claims that the tax system is not a reward for the" productive" and that the government is in direct proportion to the degree to which people believe in the social agreement it brings. If you think that you do not need to object to paying for it. But, it helps to understand what one rejects: no more highways; more students; no more college loans; no more Post Office.

Mr. lachetta says that it is unjust for those who make the most money to contribute the most money to all of it on basic necessity. If they do not pay, who pays? Mr. lachetta objects to the government the mandate to enrich the means to satisfy those goals. I think that the purpose of the government is to optimize the situation for Joseph Average, and not for the best players. A system that does too many people is doomed itself.

Graduated taxing pays-off for needy

Dear Editor:

The views expressed by Richard lachetta in his Sept. 7 letter to the editor represent an unfair condemnation of the graduated tax and our tax system in general. A graduated tax does not "punish the productive for being productive"; rather, it recognizes that a given percentage of income is harder for lower income people than for higher income people. For example, a person earning $30,000 a year and spending virtually all of it on basic necessities could suffer serious hardship if deprived of $800, while a millionaire could bear a $100,000 loss with little or no change in his standard of living.

Student loan programs are one example of government social spending which both increases individuals' standards of living and benefits the national economy as a whole (by providing industry with skilled engineers, scientists, etc.). To dismiss all taxation as "stealing" and all social spending as wasteful is to reject the enormous benefits gained in the past through responsible use of government revenue.

MARIGOLD MARKET

Airing at 9 p.m. Tuesdays, "Midnight Caller" presents Jack Killian (Gary Cole) behind his microphone at KKCM, 98.5 FM in San Francisco. With the help of his producer Billy Po (Dennis Dun), Jack hosts an evening radio talk show called "Midnight Caller." Each week's episode places Jack in a situation that takes him away from his microphone to scenarios not often seen on a talk show host. Lieutenant Carl Zymack's (Arthur Taxier) regular presence on the show alerts viewers to the program's mystery, action, and jazzy music. These dark scenarios are lit by colorful flashes of neon and jazzy music.

The image of Robin Williams screaming "Good morning, Vietnam!" has become a popular and familiar one. In the film, he is a wildly likable host who, for years, has been the talk show host. However, in real life, police are involved in most of their investigations.

In one episode, Jack falls in love with an attractive night club singer. After a few tense radio waves of this relationship, Jack's show airs at midnight, where most people are asleep; however, people seem to call Jack in the middle of the night, when tuned in to see the chairs fly away from him. It is a dark, driven show, full of intense drama.

The second problem radiates from the flashing switchboard at the station. Jack's show airs at midnight, when most people are asleep; however, people seem to call Jack in the middle of the night, when tuned in to see the chairs fly away from him. It is a dark, driven show, full of intense drama.

"Midnight Caller" has more sparkle and excitement than any other program. The show's music includes a wide range of styles, from jazz to classical, and the lyrics are often humorous. The show's themes are centered on the human condition and the search for meaning in life. The show's characters are complex and nuanced, with each episode featuring a new mystery or challenge for Jack to solve.

If McDonald's offers your palate, then you'll find relief at Marigold Market, best described as a "Yuppie" supermarket. It boasts an array of prepared gourmet foods as well as the ingredients to prepare your own gourmet extravaganza. From croustous to crab meat, the Marigold Market satisfies your every gourmet craving.

The Marigold Market is a full-scale gourmet food store that can aid you in cooking at home or in the dorm. The market offers gourmet ingredients such as fresh herbs, stir-fry sauces, and caviar. To prepare an out-of-the-ordinary breakfast, you may purchase Norwegian Beef Pancake mix or Irish oatmeal. Furthermore, an entire corner of the store is dedicated to wine. In fact, I was satisfied with pastries, a cart in the store near the cash register holds imported sweets like Toblerone chocolate from Switzerland and English toffee. They include delectable combinations such as paté, apricot, bread, and fruit or a cookie. The sandwiches range in price from $4.95 to $6.95. The Marigold Market is located next to Chi Chi's on Cleveland Road and across from University Park Mall. A pilgrimage to the market is well worth the trip.

"Midnight Caller" is a dark, driven show, full of intense drama. It entertains—and often educates—its audience. Now if Jack could only coin a catchy opening phrase: "Good morning, San Francisco?" Nah.

... Our palates were unprepared for the ecstasy they were about to experience during dessert...
Hulbert wins BC Open in playoff

Associated Press

ENDICOTT, N.Y. — Mike Hulbert purred the first playoff hole on Sunday to beat Rob Estes and win the H.C. Open for his second PGA Tour victory. Hulbert, whose other win was the Federal Express-St. Jude Classic in 1996 and the 31st-year-old pocketed $90,000 for the playoff victory.

Both finished with 16-under-par 282 and each had an opportunity to win the tournament on the final hole of regulation but missed long birdie chances.

Steve Elkington matched the course record at the En-Joie Golf Club on the 62 that gave him a 68. Estes, who shot 68, Saturday, put himself in trouble with his drive on the first playoff hole, a 288-yard par-4. He pushed it to the right of the fairway and behind a stand of trees. He saved himself momentarily by hitting his second shot just right of a bush and inside a little gully.

After taking a drop, Estes followed with a near-perfect chip shot that rolled about eight feet past the hole. He missed the par putt just wide.

Hulbert, who managed a final-round 6-under par 65, fired off six birdies on his approach shot, landed on the left fringe of the green, just a few feet away from a moat. But he was able to two-putt for birdie.

Hulbert trailed Estes by three strokes to start the final round and he started the day with a bang with back-nine for four consecutive birdies to pull into a tie with Estes. Dave Eichellberger and Elkington.

Estes purred the first four holes and landed the lead with consecutive birdies on Nos. 5 and 6, a par-4. He pushed to 16 under with a birdie on the 11th hole, but that ended his scoring.

Eichellberger joined the group at 16 under but a bogey on 14 and a double bogey on 15 put him back into third, where he tied with Zach Zoeller.

Eichellberger made 10 birdies and a bogey en route to his record round, which matched the course record set by Steve Elkington in 1985 and Jay Deling in 1985.

Kingdom runs fastest 100 meters in history

Associated Press

BARCELONA, Spain — Roger Kingdom overcame a slow start and ran the fastest 110-meter hurdles in history, spurring the United States eight-man relay team in its second consecutive title in the rain-drenched World Championship track and field meet Sunday.

Kingdom’s clocking of 12.93 seconds, however, cannot be submitted for a world record, because he was aided by a wind of 2.51 meters per second, well over the allowable 2.0.

Still, his time was faster than his world-record of 12.92 he set Aug. 16 at Zurich, Switzerland, and the wind-aided 12.93 by Renald Nehemiah at Champaign, Ill., on June 1, 1979.

The powerful Kingdom thought he had broken the world record for the second time this year. He did not learn that the wind was too strong until he was about halfway around his victory lap. The clock ran over his shoulder.

Colin Jackson of Britain informed him.

Jackson finished in 12.95, marking the first time two high hurdlers went under 13.00 in the same race.

"Before the start, we had a head wind," Kingdom said. "What’s why when I finished and saw I had done I couldn’t believe it."

Sullivan captures Havoline 200

He trailed by just 1.22 seconds when the leaders made their first scheduled pit stops at the start of lap 16. He came out of the pits in the lead as Sullivan was involved momentarily by the car of Al Unser Jr., hitting a wall on the straight. Then Sullivan was slowed by a back-marker with mechanical problems.

Andretti’s Chevrolet-powered Lola then dashed off to leads of up to 22.7 seconds before he pitted again on lap 30, giving way back to Lendt.

He was able to race off to a lead of 24.84 seconds, about one-third of a lap, before making his final fuel and tire stop on lap 38, coming back onto the track still in charge by 3.37 seconds and apparently certain he could make it to the finish.

Among the drivers having problems in the early going were two-time CART champion Bobby Rahal and four-time Indianapolis 500 winner A.J. Foyt, both going out with engine problems.

Becker won $300,000, while Lendi earned $150,000.

Becker became the first German to win the American CART race and the second of fans who rooted home Graf the previous day shouting, “BORIS, BORIS.” Becker stood at the baseline with his hands raised high after winning the title. Then he threw his racket into the crowd as photographers stormed the court.

The West German nearly was ousted in the second round, when he was down two match points to Derrick Rostagno.

Results mixed for new coaches as NFL season opens

Associated Press

The red carpet went out for five new coaches in the NFL on Sunday. Bud Carson and George Seifert got the royal on Sunday. Bud Carson and George Seifert got the royal treatment, but the rug was pulled out from under Jimmy Johnson and two others.

Guided by the precise hand of Bobby Hebert, the New Orleans Saints handed the Cowboys a 28-0 loss in Johnson's first game as a pro coach. It was Dallas' first regular-season loss by shutout since 1985. Carson launched his coaching career at Cleveland with a 51-0 victory over the Pittsburgh Steelers, for whom he used to be defensive coach. It was the most lopsided loss in Steelers history.

Seifert, meanwhile, guided the defending Super Bowl champion San Francisco 49ers to a 30-24 victory over the Indianapolis Colts in his first game since replacing the retired Bill Walsh. In his debut with the 49ers, Walsh threw for 10,000. Tony Dorsett, who held out until Thursday, came into the game in the fourth quarter and led the Cowboys on a scoring drive with runs of 18, 3, and 5 yards before he blasted 2 yards into the end zone with 3:01 left in the quarter. Sanders finished with 71 yards on nine carries.

Eagles 31, Seahawks 7
Randall Cunningham passed for 240 yards and two touchdowns, leading Philadelphia over Seattle. The Eagles defense, which scored one touchdown, held the Seahawks to 171 yards.

Dickerson joins elite group of running backs

Associated Press

It was the 91st game of Dickerson's career, breaking the record of 98 by Jim Brown for the fewest games needed to reach 10,000 yards. It's a great honor to get the yards, to get them as quickly as I did as a rookie player back there, said Dickerson, who finished the game with 106 yards on 19 carries, raising his career total to 10,021.

But it's a lot tougher to get yards now. The defenses are all so big and fast and quick.

The game was stopped briefly after Dickerson reached 10,000 yards, and he was given the ball.

Miami begins post-Johnson era in big style with rout of Badgers

Associated Press

Jimmy Johnson and Steve Walsh are in Dallas. But Miami’s attack looks very much the same.

Craig Erickson, Walsh’s replacement at quarterback, threw four touchdown passes Saturday as the third-ranked Hurricanes routed Wisconsin 51-3 in their first game under coach Dennis Erickson.

Quarterback Erickson started slowly, connecting on only one of his first 10 passes. But the junior eventually found his rhythm and finished 17-of-37 for 281 yards and a touchdown.

Erickson told reporters, “I didn’t feel any pressure.”

“Just getting the first game out of the way is a big relief because now you’ll ask me some different questions,” he reported.

Auburn 55, Pacific 0

Alabama’s native son caught four long touchdown passes and set a Southeastern Conference record for receiving yards in a game with 263. The old mark of 239 was set by Carl Anthony of Florida in 1969.

Auburn’s Reggie Slack completed 9-of-10 passes for 252 yards and four touchdowns in limited playing time. Auburn is 1-0, while Pacific fell to 0-2.

Tennessee 24, UCLA 6

Redshirt freshman Chuck Webb rushed for 134 yards on 22 carries and scored two touchdowns. Webb’s scoring runs of 2 and 10 yards in the third quarter gave the Volunteers, 2-0, a 21-0 lead.

Kentucky coach was intercepted twice.

“We had a lot to worry about in our first game and we think that’s why we showed promise in our first down. We felt Hawley could be our first down,” Claiborne said.

“We feel that we didn’t have the best part of the football game,” he said.

Kentucky had four turnovers and was penalized nine times for 65 yards while Indiana had 11 penalties for 105 yards.

The Kentucky coach was particularly pleased with the play of linebacker Craig Benzingier, who led the team with 18 tackles, two coming in a goal-line stand that preserved the victory.

“We thought he had a heck of a game,” Claiborne said.

Benzinger was involved in stopping Indiana quarterback David Schnell on Kentucky’s 6-inch line on a third-down play, and on the next play tackled tailback Anthony Thompson for no gain.

“The goal-line stand was a big, big play,” Claiborne said, “but on third-down Benzingier (Ron) Robinson and (Tony) Missick made the play by stopping Schnell on the option play.”

“If not made, there would have been no fourth down because they would have scored,” Claiborne thought quarterbacw. Maggard showed promise in his first start. Magsgard completed eight of 15 passes for 131 yards and was intercepted twice.

“Maggard made a couple of mistakes on the interceptions and a couple of bad reads in the option,” he said. “But that was his first game and we think with work he’ll continue to get better.”

Claiborne said the Wildcats also need to improve on the kicking game.

“We didn’t have any blocked kicks, we almost had three blocked,” he said. “We called the kicking coverage was good with the exception of one punt.”

“We also wasn’t pleased with the running game, except for tailback Alfred Rawls’ 107 yards on 18 carries. The Wildcats amassed only 130 yards on offense.

“We didn’t feel the running game went nearly as well as we need it if we’re going to be a successful football team,” he said. “Touchdowns run that well on first down. We felt Rawls did break out a few times. We didn’t feel like we blocked as well as we should have on the corner.”

Block had 15 carries for 32 yards, but fumbled the ball away twice.

“The last two games,” he continued, “I guess after he lost the fumble early in the game he may have become tentative with the ball,” Claiborne said.

Michigan St. 24, Nebraska 7

Michigan State’s Jim Mandich ran for 156 yards and scored two touchdowns for 117 yards and a touchdown and caught 4 passes for 17 yards in a 24-19 loss to Mississippi.

Shawn Moore threw two touchdown drives for 117 yards in a 24-19 loss to Mississippi.

Irish soccer drops two to Wisconsin squads

The Notre Dame women’s soccer team couldn’t escape Wisconsin over the weekend. Better make that couldn’t escape the Wisconsin. Wisconsin-Milwaukee edged the Irish 2-1 on Friday, and third-ranked Wisconsin-Madison trounced them 6-0 on Saturday.

Head Coach Dennis Grace, however, was upbeat about the trip.

“It was a fantastic trip in a lot of ways,” Grace said. “We played two fantastic teams, we played hard, and I feel very good about how we came out of it all.”

“I make the schedules, and we knew exactly what we were getting into. I had no problem with that fact that we were playing one of the top teams in the country on the road, or that we put our backs against the wall.”

Grace’s very young team is still in the building stage, this being the team’s second season with varsity status. Five freshmen and three sophomores started for the Irish in Wisconsin.

“We’re not excited about losing 6-0, but I definitely think we came out very positive,” Grace said.

“We learned a lot. It’s important to know that you can go to it, and you can win with the games, or you can be a winner, by developing and growing.”

The Irish fell 2-1 to UW-Milwaukee, a game of which Grace said: “We had a good chance of winning.”

“They were absolutely incredible,” Grace said. “They were bigger, they were faster, they were technically and tactically better. Now that we’ve seen them, I think it’s kind of things we can aspire to. We knew ways in which we can grow and develop. We have an excellent future here, and that’s something we’ll build on.”

After three road games to start the season, the 1-2 Irish host Minnesota Wednesday.

Will the team be glad to turn to Moore Krause Stadium?

“Getting away brings a team together, gives them a sense of camaraderie,” Grace said. “but it was a long bus ride home.”

Special to The Observer

The Notre Dame Volleyball team participated in the Gonzaga Invitational last weekend, playing in a 3-3 record in their first weekend of competition.

Against Montana, the Irish started the season on a positive note, sweeping the matches by a score of 15-13, 15-7, 15-10. The Irish were led by freshmen Alicia Turner and Jessica Firebelkon, who banged out 13 kills apiece.

Coach Lambert liked what he saw in the first match. “I felt we played a great first match,” he said. “We played with every player’s, especially that of our freshmen, that we felt we had a good grasp of our system.”

Freshman Alicia Turner continued to impress throughout the match. In her second college match, which the Irish dropped 10-15, 7-15, 15-11, 15-17 to Portland, she smashed the Irish.
