Malloy talks to faculty
State of University lauds ND staff

BY KELLEY TUTHILL
Assistant News Editor

University President Father Edward Malloy covered topics such as academics and funding as well as topics such as diversity as part of his regular appearance at the Board of Student Affairs meeting Monday.

Malloy focused first on the academic side of the University including the faculty, the academic infrastructure that provides the tools and context for the faculty’s work, and the institutes and centers of Notre Dame as well as the graduate and undergraduate programs.

“Malloy said that the goals of our faculty have never been higher,” said Malloy.

He said that standards for hiring and promoting faculty have been raised. As a result, according to Malloy, Notre Dame is in a better position to compete for research grants and to exercise leadership roles in scholarly societies.

“Notre Dame’s faculty has become more visible, better respected and more influential,” Malloy stated.

He cited improvements in faculty salaries and additions to the regular, research and teaching faculty as positive steps taken in the last few years.

“We have seen a steady improvement in the percentage of women on the faculty,” said Malloy. He was not as pleased with the percentage of minority faculty: “This is a national problem and might add, a national disgrace.”

The University has established some goals in respect to minority faculty recruitment and Malloy said that the administration will do its best to see that the goals are reached.

A potential change in the composition of the faculty is the addition of 60 endowed professorships and 40 more in a lesser stage of funding, added Malloy.

“We continue to struggle with certain dilemmas that inflict higher education in general. We have not yet arrived at a fully adequate system to prepare, monitor and reward graduate students and/or young faculty as teachers in a classroom and laboratory that is comparable to what prevails through their scholarly endeavors.”

Malloy said that the faculty has not achieved a parity in teaching loads across disciplines and colleges. He also said that large class sizes are a problem and make for im- personal classroom situations.

Provost hears minority complaints

By SANDY WIEGAND

The first meeting of minority club presidents to assess the method of filing complaints against faculty for racially offensive remarks took place at the Student Senate meeting Monday.

There is a formal method of filing complaints to the provost’s office, said Student Body President Matt Breslin, but in the past it has mainly been applied to cases of sexual harassment. According to Father Oliver Williams, associate provost, racist statements have not been much of a problem here previously.

Suffice Keller was approved as chairperson for campus media reports. The committee’s goal will be to examine Notre Dame media through speaking to members of both printed and broadcast media to find out specifics about policies and information on how to file complaints.

A survey of students and faculty regarding the effectiveness of the various media is also planned.

John Hamill was approved as Student Senate Parliamentary for the 1989-90 academic year during the meeting.

A Student Senate representative of Saint Mary’s said that a newsletter giving more coverage to Saint Mary’s activities is being planned. Saint Mary’s has also been discussing activities for Alcohol Awareness Week, which is the week of Oct. 15 to 21.

Upcoming activities mentioned by organization representatives include a Hall President’s Council Family Focus meeting on Oct. 4 at which Father Michael Hines will speak of “The Catholic Family in Translation.”

The National Association of Graduate Students will hold their bi-annual conference on Oct. 6 to 8. Registration is Friday, and the conference will include a lecture on Saturday by Thomas Linney.

The Saint Mary Class cruise on the “Spirit of Chicago” is Friday. Departure time has been changed to 8 p.m. The Senior Class will be going Center Street Blues on October 11, and the Senior Block Party is being planned.

The Junior Class formal is on Friday.

The Sophomore Class will be raffling two tickets for the Miami game, and Sophomore Class Night at Bruno’s Pizza is on Oct. 5.

The Freshman Class will have its next meeting on Wednesday and Dean Emil Hoffman will be present. The class will have an outing with the Sophomore Class at Beacon Bowl on Oct. 19.

The Student Senate has received suggestions for an off-campus STF dance, and is considering arranging one. The Senate is also looking for a means of remedying the limited availability of the Careers Placement Library, which is presently open on weekdays from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m.

The roles of Student Senators and Cabinet were discussed recently. Many cabinet members expressed a wish for independence and the ability to become involved in a more diverse variety of issues.

Saint Mary’s celebrates annual Fall Fest

By KATIE MOORE

An all-school picnic kicked off Saint Mary’s Fall Fest Monday, reported Mary Beth Blajda, vice president of student affairs.

During the Board of Student Affairs meeting.

Fall Fest activities continue on Tuesday with the movie “Rainman.” The world’s biggest Twister game will be the activity for Wednesday. “We’re going to attempt to break the record, so all are welcome,” said Blajda.

Beverage gardens will be supplied for Thursday’s activity and Fall Fest T-shirts and cups will be available on Friday.

The Board of Student Affairs also discussed the formation of a Notre Dame Liaison Committee to open communication between Saint Mary’s and Notre Dame’s Student Government.

Concentration on improving relations between women at Saint Mary’s and Notre Dame was emphasized.

“Since this is an all-women’s college, we would like to share all of our programs which are geared towards women with interested Notre Dame students,” said Blajda.

Blajda also reported on a meeting with the Director of Saint Mary’s Security Department Richard Chlebek. “The meeting was very positive. He wanted to know of any way he could help us,” said Blajda.

Among the topics discussed, better lighting on the walkway between the parking lot and McCandless Hall was focused on.

Ideas for the promotion of the National Alcohol Awareness Week, which is planned to run from Oct. 15 through Oct. 21, were also discussed.

Good things come to he who ‘power naps’

Ever since I came to Notre Dame, I adhered to one basic rule which has governed my academic career: “When the going gets tough, the tough go to sleep.”

Anytime, anywhere, any day — there’s nothing that can beat a quality nap. Naps fall into two categories: marathon naps and power naps. Power naps are what you get when you knock, I’m sleeping.” This is appropriate but it hardly instills fear in the hearts of anyone passing by your door. Here are some stronger suggestions:

1. “It’s time for my nap — GO AWAY!”
2. “Nap in progress. Room is guarded by a ferocious bear. Do not disturb. Violators will experience severe physical pain.”
3. Get the picture? Very soon, everyone in your immediate vicinity will know you have after graduation. Juniors are also welcome.

A happy group of East Germans wave good-bye from the train window as it pulls out, bound for their new home in West Germany.

Refugees leave Prague, Warsaw

Associated Press

PRAGUE, Czechoslovakia — A West German diplomat rescued an East German grabbed by a policeman Monday as he tried to scale a fence into Bonn's mission. However, Czechoslovak police relaxed their controls, letting hundreds more refugees enter the compound as a new diplomatic dispute built up over the issue.

East German refugees inside the embassy said they numbered more than 2,000 by late Monday and more than 100 additional refugees were arriving hourly.

A formal protest delivered by Czechoslovak police on Monday, both East Germans it would stop processing visas for students and mainstream refugees. The latest rush came after 7,000 East Germans were allowed to leave West German embassies in Prague and Warsaw over the weekend for West Germany. More than 52,000 East Germans have arrived in West Germany since Sept. 10, when Hungary opened its western border with Austria and the numbers of refugees occupying Bonn’s embassies swelled.

On Monday, both East Germany and Czechoslovakia accused West Germany of breaking its word by harboring new refugees, going back on conditions it agreed to in gaining release of the earlier refugee throng.

Kohl spokesman Hans Klein denied any such agreement. And Peter Roth, a spokesman for the Bonn Foreign Ministry, insisted West Germany "never told the East Germans it would stop taking in East Germans seeking refuge."

West German officials said they would press East Berlin to let the new arrivals leave for the West.

ND faculty reacts to State of the University

By SARAH VOIGT

Faculty representatives from many academic departments expressed their questions and concerns about University President Father Edward Malloy's State of the University address, at the Faculty Senate meeting on Monday.

First, the Faculty Senate voted to continue the research and progress of the Report and Recommendations Committee on the Status of Women. The adopted resolution recommends the establishment of a standing committee to monitor the status of women in all facets of the University in order to target specific concerns for improvement. This Committee would report to top level administrators in monthly sessions during the first two years, according to the report.

One professor cited the new drug and alcohol and sexual harassment policies as decisions that the administration made with little if any consultation with the Faculty Senate. He said that the Faculty Senate should have had more input in the formulation of these two important decisions.

Malloy responded that in the unusual case of the drug and alcohol policy, the administration was forced to act quickly due to legal and financial constraints. Malloy said, "We were required by the federal government to have a policy quickly at the risk of losing funds. Also, there were very few structured and previously devised." Malloy explained that sexual harassment was another issue of pressing concern, and the administration hopes to be consistent with the policies of other universities. Malloy said that the administration acted in response to the recommendations of two task forces who researched this problem on campus.

Malloy encouraged faculty members to use the Faculty Senate forum to volunteer policies on important issues before they become emergencies. "My job is not to think up policies," Malloy said. "Most policies come out of emergencies or events." Associate Librarian Margaret Porter asked Malloy what kinds of committee he expanded the Libraries and University Libraries could expect to receive in the next few years. Malloy cited personnel as the library's weakest area according to a recent survey. "I personally believe that the fastest way we could make library improvements would be to add personnel instead of (other) resources," said Malloy.

One professor asked Malloy why so many of the institutes and centers on campus were underfunded. Malloy explained the University policy that campus institutes had to stand on their resources made up of endowments and grants.

Malloy said that most institutes will not be underfunded despite the "slow incubation process" that many of the directors undergo before they submit funds. "With the proper publicity and a good cultivation and cooperation of resources, the centers' leaders can get what they need as long as the organization that they represent has a strong and exciting purpose," Malloy said.

Kathleen Biddick, associate professor of history, voiced concern of many students about "incidents of demeaning sexual harassment" on campus. Malloy attributed the recent awareness to the increasingly visible role of women in leadership positions on campus. "The presence of women in larger numbers now can diffuse the stereotypes that still prevail," said Malloy.

In response to a question concerning the Faculty Senate's role in administrative decision making and its effectiveness, Malloy explained the purpose of the senate.

Bush, Mubarak discuss Arab-Israeli relations

WASHINGTON — Egyptian President Hosni Mubarak met with President Bush Monday on Mideast peace efforts and said he saw "golden opportunities" for a breakthrough between Israel and the Palestinians.

Mubarak said failing to seize the opportunity "would be a grave mistake" and this led Bush and Mubarak to agree "to work closely together" in the use of the existing momentum.

"The continuation of the status quo is hazardous to both Israel and the Palestinians, the Egyptians and the United States," he added. "A new Oval office session lasting nearly an hour.

Both leaders sought to promote his plan, which includes a demand that refugees be allowed to return and to open up seized lands, aides to Prime Minister Yitzhak Shamir said the Israeli leader does not intend to alter his own Palestinian peace initiative.

Monday’s White House session came amid new concerns that settling Jewish immigrants from the Soviet Union in the Israeli-occupied West Bank could threaten peace efforts.

Bush administration officials reacted coolly to an Israeli request for $400 million in housing loan guarantees for about 100,000 Jewish emigres from the Soviet Union. Israeli officials have said some dwellings probably will be in the West Bank.

"The United States policy is to oppose additional settlement in the occupied territories," Secretary of State James Baker III said. And Presidential Press Secretary Martin Fitzwater declared, "Our policy is we don’t allow U.S. aid to be used for resettlement in the West Bank.

Still, Baker and Mubarak were both upbeat about peace prospects.

"I think it’s fair to say that all have hope that conditions exist for progress," said Baker. The Egyptian president, after his meeting with Bush, Baker and Vice President Dan Quayle, "We take the situation is great for further progress. It would be a grave mistake to pass up this opportunity existing today."

In Jerusalem, Yossi Ahimeir, a spokesman for Shamir, said the Israeli leader does not intend to alter his own peace plan despite pressure from Egypt, the United States or the rival Israeli Labor Party.

"Only five months have passed" since Shamir presented his plan for elections as a first step toward negotiations, and the prime minister "does not see any reason to change it," the spokesman said.

Shamir’s plan calls for elections in the occupied territories to choose delegates for negotiations with Israel. However, final status on the lands occupied by Israel since the 1967 Middle East war would be decided later.

Mubarak told reporters here the essential next step in the peace process is to persuade the Israelis and the Palestinians to enter into a dialogue “without preconditions.”

Mubarak’s moving came as the United States was seeking to persuade a reluctant Israeli to open discussions with Palestinians based on Mubarak’s proposals.

U.S. officials regard the 10-point Egyptian plan as a complement to Shamir’s proposal for elections in which Palestinians would take substantive steps to negotiate with Israel on limited self-government in the occupied territories.

Campus Ministry and You

Looking out the Munich hostel’s window, the visitor saw the horizon lined with the steeples of at least 10 churches. They were old churches, and in fact clearly been there 50 years earlier, sitting just as silently. Perhaps more so.

Later, in the lobby, the porter endorsed the visitor a slip of paper.

"Do not receive passage. STREETCAR NO. 20 for TIVOLIEST, ISARTORPLATZ, SUBURBAN TRAIN “S2” to PETERSHAUSEN - get off at DACHAU. BUS 3 to camp. ENGLISH FILM 11:30 am and 3:30 pm. RETURN BUS 3 to SARTORPLATZ, STREETCAR 30 to EFFNERPLATZ. On Monday the camp is closed."

The visitor went through the tiny village of Dachau (about seven miles from the camp itself) reading a leaflet prepared by the village’s equivalent of a chamber of commerce tourism bureau. We didn’t know, the leaflet said. We weren’t responsible. We are people just like you, and had we known, we would have put a stop to it. It’s not our fault.

What they didn’t know was that 12 years, as close to this village as the Michiana asylum is to Notre Dame - closer to their village than the Ethanol plant is from here - was the first of Hitler’s concentration camps, where at least 206,206 persons were incarcerated and forced to endure suffering, misery and torture at least as bad as has been experienced by human beings since time began. Many thousands more were executed.

What was their crime? Why were these people exposed to incomprehensible inhumanity? What had they done to earn such brutality and horror?

In essence, their crime was that they did not fit the profile of the average citizen. They did not behave, look, think, or believe in a manner consistent with the acts, looks, thoughts and beliefs of those who were in power, who were in charge. Most of those interned were Jewish. Others were of different races, religions or cultures or were publicly opposed to the activities of the Third Reich.

The norm in Nazi Germany was that if someone did not fit the norm, if someone deviated in any way - great or small - from the standard, that someone was to be rejected by society in terms as precise and as much without equivocation as the society could dream (nightmare) up.

At what was then the camp entrance the visitor read the sign "ARBEIT MACHT FREU - work makes freedom. Those who entered were made to think that they had committed crimes against the state and would pay for them by working for the state. This would earn them freedom.

"Such Work as Work was the prime purpose of the camp. He was a occupant, misery was. Fifty-six years after the first persons walked through that gate, the visitor left the concentration camp, knowing full well that the horror that must have been theirs. With other visitors, all silent and all

The story of Dachau has been better told in other contexts. It should be read and listened to.

WASHINGTON — The Supreme Court, embarking on a term laced with controversial issues, said Monday it will decide whether police officers nationwide may use sobriety checkpoints in trying to curb drunken drivers.

The case accepted by the court, which addresses the question of whether police officers may use checkpoints to spot drunken drivers, presents the latest test of strength for the court's newly solidified conservative majority.

Michigan courts struck down that state's sobriety checkpoint program as an unconstitutional invasion of privacy, but courts in other states have upheld virtually identical police tactics.

In its usual start-of-term flurry, the court issued orders in other cases — considered by it without denying review to most and agreeing to study 22. They will be among 150 or so cases that will be decided by the end of the term in July.

The court also heard arguments in a Yorkers, N.Y. segregation case centering on four city councilmen who voted against a judged order to pass a legislative package designed to lure subsidized housing to the city's white neighborhoods.

In addition to that civil rights case, the justices are looking ahead to a term in which they have agreed to decide thorny right-of-privacy arguments in three abortion disputes and the high court's first "right to die" case.

In other action on the first day of its term, the justices:

- Agreed to decide in an Illinois case whether public employees may be forced to put aside partisanship when hiring, promoting and transferring employees.
- Turned down the appeals of eight Mafia figures from New York City convicted in the 1979 assassinations of crime chief Carmine Galante and two of his associates.
- Left intact Maryland's revocation of a $300,000-a-year tax break for a men-only golf club that has counted presidents and members of Congress among its members.
- Rejected Alaska's attempt to forestall offshore oil and gas drilling in the state.
- Directed all traffic headed in the new 38-story network headquarters in downtown Chicago on October 3, 1989 to be on the look out for signs of intoxication, making the area "a grave danger." A helicopter lifts the 30-foot-tall NBC peacock sign to the top of the new 38-story network headquarters in downtown Chicago on October 3, 1989.

MOULTON, Ala. — A tornado destroyed a trailer park and a church in a 10-mile rampage Sunday afternoon, killing a woman and a toddler and injuring a dozen more people.

Most of the damage and both deaths occurred at a mobile home park five miles out of Moultrie in southern Georgia, said Colquitt County Sheriff Billy Howell. At least nine mobile homes were destroyed. Twelve injured were brought to the county Regional Medical Center, said Dave Nethers, public relations director. One was taken to surgery and another to the intensive care unit and the other 10 did not appear to be that seriously hurt, he said. Five were treated and released.

The dead were identified as Joyce Carter, 45, and Brittany Thomas, 2, both trailer park residents, and two teenagers.

The tornado tore through a stand of timber after wrecking the mobile homes and then demolished the Bethelhem Shlemy Baptist Church, police said. About 500 yards further it destroyed the social hall at Shleomy Baptist and ripped the roof off the sanctuary.

Bobby Cobb, who operates Cobb Funeral Home, said he saw the twister coming. He said it appeared to split and pass over both sides of his business before hitting the trailer park.

A double-wide mobile home and a metal shop were the only buildings left standing in the trailer park, which was strewn with fragments of buildings and overturned automobiles.

Moultrie Police Chief Richard Crouch said a command post was being set up at the trailer park for the night and an emergency shelter was being prepared at the Moultrie city gymnasium.

The twister was part of a storm system that dropped up to 7 inches of rain fell Sunday over parts of the Southeast, causing lowland flooding and prompted widespread flash flood watches.

Texas rules school finance system unconstitutional

Associated Press

AUSTIN, Texas — The Texas Supreme Court found "garring disparities" between the state's rich and poor school districts and ruled Monday that funding within the nation's second-largest system is unconstitutional.

Spending varies by as much as $17,000 per pupil per year from rich to poor districts, the court found. "A remedy is long overdue," Justice Oscar Mauzy's opinion said. "The Legislature must take immediate action."

The 9-0 ruling could have enormous financial and social implications for the 3.3 million-student Texas school system, and ruled Monday that funding within the nation's second-largest system is unconstitutional. It set a May 1, 1990, deadline for legislators to find a solution.

State attorneys had argued that the word "efficient" was intended to suggest a "simple and inexpensive system."

But the court said, "The state's school financing system is neither financially efficient, nor efficient in the sense of providing for a 'general diffusion of knowledge' statewide."

"It must be recognized that the constitution requires an 'efficient,' not an 'economic,' ""unexpensive," or 'cheap' system," Mauzy said.

"A Band-Aid will not suffice; the system itself must be changed," the court warned.

Gov. Bill Clements said he would call for a special 30-day session of the Legislature in the spring.

Nearly $10 billion in state money will be made available for public schools in 1990-91, and almost $12 billion is expected to come from local districts.

Governing, Bush, earn B+ at summit

President George Bush was absolutely correct when he said that in regards to public education in the United States “the time for study is now over.” With the public educational system in the U.S. on a steady decline it is indeed time for a change, and last week, at the education summit in Charlotte, N.C., President Bush, the governors of 50 states, and education leaders discussed what course of action to take. Surprisingly money was not the central issue nor should it have been. With education spending at all time high ($353 billion or $5,246 per pupil) it has become apparent that simply increasing spending is not the panacea for our nation’s education woes. The two major education priorities addressed at the summit were increasing student achievement levels, and the elimination of disparities between students in different socioeconomic and educational groups.

American students are being out-performed by their peers in other countries. In a study done on the levels of education in 20 different countries, U.S. students ranked 10th in eighth grade arithmetic, 12th in algebra, and 16th in geometry. If students are going to remain competitive in the workplace this gap must be closed.

The governors and the president agree that one solution to these problems is the setting of national goals and standards. This plan would allow school systems that have already achieved these goals to be exempted from the system. The CIA, however, has a long tradition of supporting military attacks on civilians in its covert wars in Nicaragua and Angola and through its support of death squads in countries like El Salvador. “The Company” has also provided hit lists of political and labor leaders to other countries in order to achieve its own ends. “The Company” has supported military attacks on civilians in its covert wars in Nicaragua and Angola and through its support of death squads in countries like El Salvador. “The Company” has also provided hit lists of political and labor leaders to other countries in order to achieve its own ends.

"The Company" is being cited as a reason to allow the CIA to recruit on campus. With regard to U.S. laws, the CIA has broken U.S. treaties, its own founding charter and the Intelligence Oversight Acts of 1976 and 1977. The covert actions carried out by the CIA have been the cause of U.S. military intervention as occurred in the Dominican Republic and Vietnam. The CIA, through its covert operations, supports regimes which are favorable to U.S. interests, specifically economic interests, but which are not necessarily favorable to the interests of GARRY TRUDEAU.

CIA violates human rights

Dear Editor,

If an organization violates the principles held by a person or a group of people, it follows logically that this organization will lose the patronage of that person or group. This is not the case with the CIA and its relationship with Notre Dame. The CIA, because of its inherent character, has violated the Christian and humanitarian values held by Notre Dame, yet Notre Dame continues to lend the CIA its tacit support by allowing it to recruit on campus.

The CIA has, in its 40 year history, committed human rights violations abroad as well as at home, broken U.S. and international law, and even its own charter. Additionally, the CIA has been the cause of many instances of military intervention in countries in which the presence of the Agency on campus is deprecation of everything that Notre Dame stands for moral and just.

The CIA, or “The Company” as it is called by those who work for it, has a long tradition of violating human rights, leading other countries in order to achieve its own ends. “The Company” has supported military attacks on civilians in its covert wars in Nicaragua and Angola and through its support of death squads in countries like El Salvador. “The Company” has also provided hit lists of political and labor leaders to other countries in order to achieve its own ends.

"The Company" is being cited as a reason to allow the CIA to recruit on campus. With regard to U.S. laws, the CIA has broken U.S. treaties, its own founding charter and the Intelligence Oversight Acts of 1976 and 1977. The covert actions carried out by the CIA have been the cause of U.S. military intervention as occurred in the Dominican Republic and Vietnam. "The Company," through its covert operations, supports regimes which are favorable to U.S. interests, specifically economic interests, but which are not necessarily favorable to the interests of GARRY TRUDEAU.

that country’s citizens. A regime that is unjust and unpopular will not remain in power forever, despite the CIA’s support. When the people of the nation rebel against the CIA’s governments, military action becomes necessary.

The reason that "The Company" functions in this way is that it has become, essentially, the secret police of America’s economic interests overseas. This goal of defending the foreign investments upon which our economy depends is seen as justification for whatever methods the CIA employs. The ends, protecting U.S. investments, are said to justify the means, which have no boundaries.

The CIA has shown that it has no qualms about violating the laws and principles espoused by Notre Dame - a regard for human rights and democracy, and a respect for law and justice. Any organization that so flagrantly rejects these tenets should not be supported by the University.

College recruits are the lifeblood of the CIA, right? The CIA should certainly be allowed, even encouraged, to speak on campus, the right to free speech is completely different and separate from the right to recruit. By denying the CIA the right to recruit on campus, Notre Dame could send a firm message that it disapproves of the CIA’s methods, and that the University will remain faithful to the ideals for which it stands.

QUOTE OF THE DAY

"What matters most in the apostolate is a willingness to be used, rather than our inner conviction that we have something to contribute."

Fr. Valentine, O.P.
One of the great thinkers of our time, and a man who had a great love for the University of Notre Dame, Jacques Maritain, found it strange that the world was growing so dim and that there were not enough individu­als with no eyes and no hearts. The hard-minded and hard-hearted, and their counterparts the sensitive and soft-hearted — whether the former are smart and the latter are not — are sadly a great love for the University of Notre Dame. Jacques Maritain, who was fond of saying that the human being is not simply 'there'; he wants others as well, to love and to want others as well, to love him. He never forces Himself upon them. By all means, we should support our loved ones, but not let a desire to dominate others use even our most exalted beliefs as its pawn.

But should we have hard minds too? We must learn to back ourselves the truth as we see it — not what we can good. We should have the courage to state our views of what is true — not what is good. We should not be swindled into thinking that there is a war among us — that two can not help thinking otherwise. Truth is grounded in the way thinking. We must have a public enlightenment, subject them to public scrutiny, defend them, and modify them when necessary. Ideas do count just as much as they misa

If we are not hard-minded in seeking the truth, we will be doing others a disservice. Not that there is a war among us, but we must learn to back ourselves the truth as we see it. We should not be swindled. We should be honest; we should not use hypocrisy.

It is apparent that the most visible Catholic institution and organization that we see it is the Church. As one of the most exalted beliefs as its pawn. We should not be swindled into thinking that there is a war among us — that two can not help thinking otherwise. Truth is grounded in the way thinking. We must have a public enlightenment, subject them to public scrutiny, defend them, and modify them when necessary. Ideas do count just as much as they misa

A family vacation of glitz, gambling and 105°

Las Vegas. If you have never been there, you've probably heard the rumors and the stories about the gaudy, glitzy hotels and casinos. If you HAVE been there, you know they're true.

This summer, my family took a few days off and visited this infamous hot spot. Why go somewhere nice when you can go experience 105 degree weather in Las Vegas? Maybe because Dad is under the impression that it's every 15-year-old's dream to go on an inexpensive midweek getaway. Sure. Cheaper than free parking at a hotel and 300% cheaper than a bottle of alcohol or Super Bowl tickets.

But after blowing off Mom and Dad at the video poker machines, we youngsters checked out the scene. Sure, we all knew you had to be twenty-one to enter the casinos, but the absence of the 'carding technique' allowed those of us under age to pull some slots. Unfortunately, we faced some overzealous bartenders who thought that playing the slot machines was a good idea. Whenever you walk near a barman, he壞d to talk to us.

Other than gambling, air conditioning alone saves Las Vegas from merely being a vast hot desert with high electricity rates.

The Experience of the Peace Corps

JULIE SHEPHERD

Imagine living and working in a distant land—a place where poverty is prevalent, familiar American luxuries don't exist, and people frequently speak a language called Thai. There is no doubt that Peace Corps volunteers often face hardships and challenges such as these.

According to Dad Meyer, a recruiting representative who recently visited Notre Dame, the Peace Corps rewards definitely outweigh their hardships. Meyer, who serves as teacher of agriculture and English in Chiang Kham Prakarn, Thailand, said, "Sure, you are giving up two years of your time by working for the Peace Corps, but you also gain a lot in return. There is so much personal satisfaction involved in helping people in need. You are able to bring back the knowledge gained through the experience, and you also learn a lot about yourself."

In addition to gaining a deeper understanding of the world and themselves, Peace Corps workers often benefit from increased employment possibilities upon returning to the United States. Meyer explained, "Not only does the Peace Corps make you competitive for acceptance into graduate school, but it also opens opportunities in the job market. It is good for careers in the federal government and also with private employers. The Peace Corps worker's ability to learn a new language and problem-solving skills usually impresses [these employers]."

Although Peace Corps workers are in strong demand, acceptance into the volunteer program is also highly competitive. Meyer cited motivation, previous experience (technical skills), cross-cultural awareness, and American citizenship as four main areas in which the potential workers are evaluated.

Most of the Peace Corps programs require a college degree, with a biology degree as the single most requested major, according to Meyer. Explaining how an applicant can achieve our desired goals, he added, "We like to see someone with experience in something like agriculture or carpentry or plumbing. It doesn't have to be extensive, just summer employment in construction or having grown up on a farm."

Meyer also admitted that previous community service experience and foreign travel would help to qualify the applicant.

Aside from practical work, the Peace Corps also looks for certain personal characteristics in each applicant. Meyer said, "You have to be flexible in case things don't work out as imagined and you have to maintain a sense of humor so you can laugh at your mistakes. You also definitely have to be open to experience and willing to accept a challenge."

Many Peace Corps workers are unable to complete their two years of service because they expect what they want to be far from the real thing. In order to avoid this disillusionment, the Peace Corps seeks people "who are able to accept the things the way they are and who don't view U.S. cities as the best. They have to realize that attitudes won't be the same just as in their own country," said Meyer. In Thailand, Meyer saw this phenomenon in action. "The people there live in a hedonistic palace. Really, air conditioning alone saves Las Vegas from merely being a vast hot desert with high electricity rates.

The Peace Corps offers 45 different programs in 67 countries across the world. These programs include agriculture, skill trades, business, health and social services and education. Benefits include transportation to and from the foreign country, medical and dental coverage and a living allowance of $200 per month. Peace Corps workers often benefit from employment opportunities and transportation. In addition to the average duration of two years of service, when the workers first arrive in their assigned countries they must undergo a required three month training period to learn the language of the country and other skills. At the end of service, each worker also receives a readjustment allowance, which is an accumulative $200 per month of service.

The application process simply begins by submitting an application. Once the Peace Corps reviews it, an interview is scheduled. Interested students may obtain an application at Placement Services. If the Peace Corps accepts the applicant, the next step involves assignment to a specific country and program. "Students should keep in mind that the time period to place workers can be anywhere from six to nine months. Now is the time to apply if they are graduating in May," said Meyer.

Fifty percent of all Peace Corps volunteers carryout their service in Africa, while the other half travel to such areas as Latin America, the Caribbean, Asia and the Pacific Islands. Although one country might be more appealing to an applicant, Meyer commented that "ideally, people will say that they will go anywhere." The Peace Corps is designed for those who are eager to meet challenges, travel to foreign lands, and most importantly, help people in great need. Although it widens employment opportunities and increases cultural awareness, the Peace Corps could actually be "the toughest job you'll ever love."

The Dallas Cowboys took another blow to the chin Sunday when quarterback Steve Aikman injured his hand. Aikman will be sidelined for 4 weeks.

Aikman out for 4 weeks

Associated Press

IRVING, Texas — Doctors operated on $11 million rookie quarterback Troy Aikman's non-passing hand Monday, inserting four screws into a broken finger and putting on a cast that will sideline him at least a month.

Aikman, who suffered a broken index finger on his left hand in the first period of the winless Dallas Cowboys' 30-13 loss to the New York Giants Sunday, will wear the cast for three weeks.

The Cowboys estimate that the earliest Aikman could return is four weeks with six weeks more likely.

Aikman, the top pick in the regular NFL draft from UCLA, was tackled by linebacker Carl Banks while scrambling eight yards for a first down. He returned to the huddle and asked lineman Kevin Gogan to look at the finger.

"I thought it was just a dislocation and asked Kevin to give it a hard pull and a jerk, which didn't help," Aikman said.

"I gave it a hard pull like be asked and I sure hope I didn't hurt it more," Gogan said.

Dr. Robert Vandermeer, the Cowboys' team physician, said Aikman "was very fortunate it wasn't his throwing hand. That would have been a season-endanger." The left index finger absorbs a lot of the shock in the snap from center and would be difficult for Aikman to play without fumbling.

Steve Walsh, the top pick in the supplemental draft from the University of Miami who is earning about $1 million a year, replaced Aikman and completed 13 passes for 190 yards and a touchdown. Walsh, who had two passes intercepted, threw a 27-yard scoring pass to Herschel Walker.

"The baseball hat is off and my helmet is on," said Walsh, who had been rumored on the trading block before the Oct. 17 deadline. "I hate to go in this way, but when you are number two, this seems to be the way you get your chance to play."

"My first NFL touchdown pass was sure a highlight. Herschel caught the ball and did his thing."

SPORTS BRIEFS

The National League Championship Series may come down to a battle between talented relievers Steve Bedrosian of the San Francisco Giants and Mitch Williams of the Chicago Cubs.

Those incentives, plus Oakland's staff, should carry the Athletics past the Cubs in six games. Of course, I picked the Mets to breeze through the NL East in this space six months ago.

The Rowing Club spent its 1989 season in Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania at the Head of the Ohio Regatta. The beautiful sunny and seventy degree weather was conducive to many activities including rowing on the Ohio river. Unfortunately, the club didn't do as well as they had hoped.

"We didn't do as well as we did last year, but the competition was a lot better," said club president Brian Lapps. The competition was indeed tough as the Irish went up against coast east powers Cornell, Brown, and Virginia. Charleston and Mercy Heart were also in the field of competition.

The best finish for the men was the 3rd place taken by the men's lightweight 4. The best finish for the women was the 1st place taken by the women's lightweight 4.

The Sailing Club competed in two regattas over the weekend. In general, they had encouraging results. At the Carrie Price Regatta in Michigan, Notre Dame finished 9th out of 14 teams. In the Pierre-Marquette Regatta at Marquette, the Irish brought home a 1st place finish. In the A division, skipper Paige Cooper and crewman Chris Knapp finished 11th in their division. The team was not upset though, with their performance.
Irish remain atop AP Poll; Colorado No. 3

Associated Press

While Notre Dame coach Lou Holtz continues to insist that his Fighting Irish are not a perfect football team, they remained the near-unanimous choice at the top of the rankings on Monday.

The Irish, who supplanted Michigan as the No. 1 team after beating Virginia in the Kickoff Classic on August 31 and have remained there since, received 57 first-place votes from a nationwide panel of 60 sports writers and broadcasters. The Irish, who improved to 4-0 Saturday with a 40-7 victory over Purdue, got 1,497 of a possible 1,500 points in week 10, with top team points down to only one for a 23rd-place vote.

Miami (4-0), which received the other three first-place votes and remained second in the poll with 1,426 points, beat Michigan State 26-20 on Saturday.

Moving from fifth to third, its highest ranking since 1977, was Colorado. The Buffaloes (4-0) received 1,344 points after a 42-7 thrashing of Oregon.

The lone, Washington's worst at home in 60 years, dropped the Huskies, who had been 21st, from fourth.

The strength of Colorado's victory convinced voters to move it ahead of fellow Big Eight member Nebraska. The Cornhuskers (3-1) fell from third to fourth with 1,344 points despite a 35-7 victory over Oregon.

Miami (2-1) moved from sixth to fifth following a 41-21 victory over Maryland. The Wolverines, first in the preseason poll, accumulated 1,234 points.

Penn State (4-0) moved from 12th to sixth—the biggest gain in the poll — by upsetting previously fourth-ranked Auburn 21-14 and dropping the Tigers to 11th. The Volunteers got 1,193 points.

Arkansas (3-0) improved a spot over Kentucky with 1,118 points after beating Texas El Paso 59-7. Eight with 961 points was Pittsburgh (3-1), which moved up two spots by playing a 31-31 tie with West Virginia.

The Mountaineers (3-0-1) were ranked ninth last week, but vaulted into the top five with a 10-9 victory over Southern California.

The Bears never have lost to the Eagles in Philadelphia since Ryan took over as coach in 1984.

Thirty-three of the yards was a 24-yard completion to John Teltschik's punt at the 20-yard line, which has lost 12 extra points for the Bears in the last two games dating back to the first place to seventh with 1,118 points.

Four members of Nebraska's defense, which has lost 12 extra points for the Bears in the last two games dating back to their division in 83 games.

White hit Dennis Cunningham for the first time by beating Washington State 18-17.

The Bears (4-2-2) are 2-2 and two straight, is 2-2 and two points behind the Eagles in the NFC East.

The Bears knock off Eagles, stay undefeated

CHICAGO — Mike Tomczak threw three touchdown passes and Richard Dent led a defense that overcame Randall Cunningham and the Eagles' fourth-quarter heroics as the Chicago Bears remained unbeaten with a 27-13 victory over Philadelphia Monday night.

Tomczak had a 14-yard touchdown pass to Dennis McKinnon and a 1-yarder to Matt Suhey at the end of the second quarter, then threw a 36-yard scoring pass to James Thornton with 6:08 left in the game after the Eagles had come within a touchdown.

He finished with 24 of 38 for 266 yards.

Dent, meanwhile, was credited with 2 1/2 of Chicago's four sacks. The Bears, who held the Eagles to just 73 yards in the first half, also intercepted four Cunningham passes.

But the Eagles quarterback, limited to just 53 passing yards before halftime, came alive in the fourth period after the Bears had taken a 20-3 lead on Neal Creamer's 63-yard touchdown run down run with 3:13 left in the third quarter.

First he threw a 24-yard touchdown pass to Greg Carrigan with 2:34 gone in the fourth quarter. Then he hit Cris Carter with a 37-yard pass to the 2 after Wes Hopkins recovered Anderson's fumble, setting up a 19-yard field goal by Luis Zendejas with 10:01 left. Cunningham finished with 32 completions in 62 attempts for 401 yards. The 62 passes was a team record.

But Chicago came right back, going 63 yards with only 1:23 left in the game after Cunningham fumbled hooking up for the clinching score.

The win ran Chicago's record to 4-0, gave the Bears a two-game lead in the NFC Central and left them as one of the NFL's three unbeaten teams. They haven't been out of first place in their division in 83 games dating back to the first place to seventh with 1,118 points.

It also continued Coach Mike Ditka's mastery over Buddy Ryan, his one-time defensive coordinator and long-time rival. The Bears are 4-0 over the Eagles since Ryan took over as Philadelphia's head coach after leaving the Bears after their Super Bowl victory in 1986.

It was the teams' first meeting since the Eagles last won, when the Bears eliminated the Eagles from the playoffs.

The Bears never have lost to the Eagles in Chicago in 13 games since 1933. Philadelphia, which has lost two straight, is 1-4 and two games behind the unbeaten New York Giants in the NFC East.

They play the Giants on home Sunday. Chicago took a 7-0 lead 53 seconds into the second quarter.

Department of the University Times
SMC soccer is impressive in weekend victories

By COLLEEN KRENZER
Sports Writer

The Saint Mary's College soccer team rebounded from a tough week to defeat aggressive teams from Marquette University and the University of Michigan by identical 2-1 scores over the weekend.

With desire and determination we surpassed both teams to boost our record to 8-2," said sophomore Kelly Cook.

Cook tallied the first goal for the Belles against Marquette on Saturday, receiving the assist from freshman Stacy Winget. Winget later scored the winning goal with an assist from junior Amy Boss.

Sunday's game against the club team from the University of Michigan proved to be as intense as the day before. Both Marquette and Michigan play a rough game, and Saint Mary's found itself in more physical matches than usual. The Belles once again rose to the challenge, meeting aggressiveness with aggressiveness. Junior Trish Troester led with an unusual goal and sophomore Greer Gilliland added to the score with a penalty kick.

"Both games were turning points for our season," said Coach Tony VandeVelde. "We were up against difficult teams but we were able to come around and get the job done."

"We were really pleased with both games," said Winget. "Marquette is a big rival of ours, and we beat them last year, but they didn't think we deserved it. We were glad to prove that last year's victory was not a fluke."

The team heads to Valparaiso on Wednesday, and then takes on Northwestern at home Saturday at 1:00 p.m.

The Saint Mary's soccer team upped its record to 8-2 this weekend with victories over Marquette and Michigan.

Belles tennis defeats St. Francis College

The Saint Mary's Tennis team improved its record to 10-1 this weekend by Blanking St. Francis College by a score of 8-1.

In singles competition, senior co-captain Jennifer Black was defeated at number one in three sets, (1-6), 7-5, (1-6). Junior co-captain Sarah Mayer defeated her opponent at number two, 6-1, 6-1. At number three, freshman Denise McDonald defeated her opponent in straight sets, 6-0, 6-1. At number four, Allen Mayer, a sophomore, won in straight sets, (6-0), (6-2), while at number five another sophomore, Marie Kocielski, also swept straight sets, (6-0), (6-0).

"Both Ellen and Marie played better than they have been. They were more consistent in terms of ground strokes and serving," said Belles coach Charlene Szajko.

In doubles competition, the number one team of Block and Sarah Mayer easily defeated their opponents in straight sets, (6-3), (6-2). The number two team of McDonald and Kocielski was also especially impressive, blanking their opponents in straight sets, (6-0), (6-0).

Earlier in the week, the Belles dropped a match to St. Edward College in an aggressive match, 6-3, and then went on to defeat Taylor College in a close contest, 5-4. "I think we played quite well. There are definite areas we need to improve on. But overall, the team performed well above average," said Szajko.

Athletics will ride pitching to World Series title

Over the last two years, the Oakland Athletics have been associated primarily with the "Bash Brothers" duo of baby boomers Jose Canseco and Mark McGwire. Actually, the A's showed just how powerful they were in the first half of the season, when they played without 1988 Most Valuable Player Jose Canseco.

The publicity for Canseco and McGwire was inevitable. The youthful tandem spent the 1988 season leading the Athletics to an American League title and congratulating themselves with the new "four-run bash," replacing the traditional "high-five."

By the end of the month, however, the powerful Oakland pitching staff might be receiving as much attention as Canseco and McGwire. That's because it's the Athletics' arms - not forearms - that are going to bring Oakland its first world championship since 1974.

Oakland general manager Sandy Alderson made the Athletics a force by acquiring Los Angeles Dodgers ace Bob Welch (17-1, 3.00 ERA, 89) and Seattle Mariners ace Mike Moore (19-11, 2.61). Add Dave Stewart (21-9, 3.32) to that pair, and you have the perfect three-man rotation needed for October.

That means Oakland manager Tony LaRussa can place Storm Davis and his 19 wins in the bullpen for long relief. The A's also have one of the league's best free throw shooters, Dennis Eckersley, who will have to shake out of his late-season slump for Oakland to take the title.

(269, 17 home runs, 57 RBI in half a season) and 1988 Rookie of the Year Walt Weiss, yet still managed to record the second-best record in baseball.

Once they got those two back and brought prototype leadoff hitter Rickey Henderson (113 runs, 77 steals) back to Oakland, the A's had the talent to beat even the California Angels and Kansas City Royals. Those two teams, which had the misfortune of playing in the same division as Oakland, might have been the second and third best teams in baseball.

Henderson proved to be the catalyst for Oakland's offense. In a season where the American League had no true "most valuable player." Henderson may be a viable candidate for the award simply for his second-half production (let's forget his daydreaming first half with the Yankees). Oakland's experienced hitting attack also features Dave Parker (264, 22, 97), Carney Lansford (336, 2, 32) and Dave Henderson (250, 15, 80).

As for Oakland's playoff opponent, the Toronto Blue Jays did not pull a repeat of 1987's choke this time around for two reasons. One, George Bell (297, 18, 104) didn't have to bother trying to carry the team on his shoulders, he had AL home run leader Fred McGriff (.269, 36, 92) and Kelly Gruber (.290, 18, 73) to help out.

Secondly, Jimy Williams wasn't in the dugout this year. Cito Gaston, who had a much better relationship with the players, finally got the Blue Jays to play somewhat close to their considerable potential. It's still hard to imagine that Toronto originally considered Gaston nothing more than an interim manager.

One thing might help the Blue Jays this week. For once, the Jays are not favored, maybe they won't feel the pressure which caused the collapse in 1987 and against Kansas City in 1985 (does anybody know what Buddy Biancalana's been up to lately)?

Veteran pitchers Jimmy Key (13-14, 3.88) and Dave Stieb (17-8, 3.35) figure to be sharp. And if Toronto does pull the upset, look for catcher Ernie Whitt, who has been with the Jays ever since the inaugural 1977 season, to be an inspirational leader.

But Toronto did not exactly end the regular season on a rampage; they only lost with slightly less frequency than Baltimore. The A's should reach the World Series in six games.

Actually, with McGwire having an off-season (.231, 33, 96) and Canseco injured for half the year,
