N.D. 23rd, St. Mary's 7th in U.S. News college rankings

By JANICE O'LEARY, Notre Dame Editor

The University of Notre Dame is ranked 23rd among the nation's best universities and Saint Mary's is ranked 38th in the West, seventh among the midwestern regional colleges, according to a U.S. News and World Report article dated Oct. 16.

These findings are based on five areas: academic reputation, student selectivity, retention patterns, faculty quality and financial resources. Much of the data for the rankings was gathered from surveys sent out to the universities themselves.

The highest overall score attainable is 100 percent, which was awarded to the Yale University. Notre Dame received a score of 74.2 percent and Saint Mary's received an 86.2 percent in its category.

When asked what his reaction to the U.S. News study is, Father Edward Malloy, University President, stated, "I believe Notre Dame deserves to be among the top-ranked schools." The added that U.S. News is not rating them just on the fact they can objectively—the study does not include important aspects such as student residential life and the proud religious tradition.

In response to the question, Saint Mary's College President William Hickey stated that he was "quite pleased." He noted that the College's high standing, Hickey said it is "a real feather in our cap."

Grades in academic areas were determined by a one being the highest, and lowest of 4.0.

The mean SAT score for Saint Mary's was a 560, and a 700 math. Thirty-five percent of this year's freshmen were ranked between one and five in their high school class; 80 percent were in the top 10 percent and 96 percent were in the top 20 percent of their class, said Director of Public Relations and Information Richard Conklin.

The mean SAT score for Saint Mary's is a 1025 and 26 percent of the freshmen graduated in the top 10 percent of their high school class and over 60 percent in the top quarter of their class.

Retention rankings were based on the average percentage of freshmen in the classes of 1985-87 who became sophomores at that institution and the average percentage of freshmen for the classes of 1981, 1982, and 1983 who graduated with bachelor's degrees in 5 years," stated the article.

Regarding Notre Dame's retention pattern, Dean of the Freshman Year of Studies Emil Hofman stated, "We lose no more than one and a half percent (of the freshmen) per year." Approximately 93 percent of the freshmen continue to graduate on time, he said.

Ninety percent of Saint Mary's freshmen continue as sophomores and more than 80 percent graduate. Retention "has always been real high, due to the type of services offered to the students," said Peter McLaughlin, public information officer at Saint Mary's.

Novello chosen as first female surgeon general

Associated Press

WASHINGTON—President Bush has nominated Dr. Donna L. Novello, a pediatrician and deputy director of the National Institute of Child Health and Human Development, to be the government's administration officials confirmed Tuesday.

Novello was undergoing routine background checks before her formal nomination, she said, the source, who spoke only on condition of not being identified.

If nominated by Bush and confirmed by the Senate, she would become the first woman to hold the post and would succeed C. Everett Koop, the outspoken pediatrician who stepped down last month after serving as surgeon general for seven years.

Chase Untermeyer, Bush's personal chief, said "there is a candidate in clearance," but refused to confirm or deny that the candidate was Novello.

Her office said she had no comment, but later the institute's press office provided Novello's resume.

Novello, 45, is a native of Puerto Rico. She graduated from the University of Puerto Rico and in 1970 from the university's medical school in the top 5 percent of her class. She is a pediatric kidney specialist.

Novello joined the National Institute of Child Health and Human Development in 1984. She is its deputy director as well as the director of AIDS research.

She was recommended to Bush by Surgeon General David Satcher, Sullivan, secretary of health and human services, the sources said. Her nomination

A leading member of the British House of Commons drew a large crowd to his lecture Tuesday dealing with the past problems, future difficulties and recent development in Northern Ireland.

The荣orable Patrick Duffy, an acknowledged expert on Irish Northern affairs, delivered his lecture entitled "Is Peace Possible in Northern Ireland?" The lecture was sponsored by the Cashwa Center for the Study of American Catholicism.

Duffy, a Catholic Irish descent, shared his views as a participant with sympathies on both sides of the struggle by discussing his heritage, constituency and personal experiences. "I am a Brit," Duffy said, "yet he was quick to speak out against discriminatory

Bush: govt. ready to help quake victims

WASHINGTON—President Bush said Tuesday night that the federal government was preparing to respond to a 6.4-magnitude earthquake area in California and was sending Transportation Secretary Sam Skinner there to assess the damage.

The president, who was in- formed of the earthquake after addressing a Republican governors' dinner, passed out his limousine before entering the White House and told reporters at a distance that "the federal government will do everything it can to help."

Bush said Skinner, who had also been at the governors' dinner, was flying immediately to California.

White House Chief of Staff John Sununu said he had con- tacted the office of California Gov. George Deukmejian.

Bush, in his brief exchange with reporters, said, "There is no assessment yet. ... We will provide assistance in every way we possibly can.

Bush said Deukmejian was "out of the country.

White House spokesman Mar- lin Fitzwater said later that Sununu had authorized use of a U.S. Air Force plane to fly Deukmejian immediately back to California from Frankfurt, West Germany.

Fitzwater said officials of the Federal Emergency Manage- ment Agency — the govern- ment's disaster response agency — were coming to the White House. He added that the advice of staff John Sununu on what to do was "out of the country.

Fitzwater said Skinner would leave "within the hour and "will land as close as he can get.

Fitzwater said FEMA was establishing a command center at its headquarters in Washing- ton, "where they will coordinate all the information and dispatch of whatever support they feel is needed.

"It's a given they will get whatever disaster aid is called for," he said.

Fitzwater said Sununu had "talked to officials at the De- partment of Defense, and they will be prepared to help in any way they can, coordinating our response through FEMA.

Sununu also contacted Vice President Dan Quayle by tele- phone in San Diego. "The vice president was aware of the earthquake. There was no ex- perience of it that far south, however," Fitzwater said.

Quayle is returning to Wash- ington "at about midnight tonight, San Diego time" as originally planned, said Fitzwa- ter. "He wanted to return, was scheduled to return, and we saw no reason to suggest a change of plans," said Fitzwa- ter.

Fitzwater said FEMA would keep Sununu informed. No top officials planned to stay at the White House throughout the night, Fitzwater said.

"Sununu will make a phone call to the president before he leaves with any new informa- tion, but other than we wouldn't expect to have any other activity here tonight," Fitzwater said.

Reporters learned of the earthquake while Bush was just beginning his address at the ballroom in the Capital Hilton, just a few blocks from the White House.

Fitzwater described how Bush was informed after he finished his speech: "We handed him the note just as he was coming off and he read it just as everyone mentioned something to Barbara, "Look at this. It looks like a very serious problem. Do we know anything more about it?"

Bush answered, "I don't know anything more about it."

Fitzwater said FEMA was established a command center at its headquarters in Wash- ington, "where they will coordinate all the information and dispatch of whatever support they feel is needed.

"It's a given they will get whatever disaster aid is called for," he said.

A mile of tape, a 24-hour run, a pie throwing contest, and a 16-foot toboggan horse will raise campus spirit while raising money for charity this Friday, said representatives at Tuesday's Hall Presidents' Council meeting.

The "Quarter Mile" of double-faced tape will be set up from Dillon Hall to the Hammes Bookstore Friday to collect change for the United Way.

A trigan horse constructed by Irish Insanity will be appearing at Fieldhouse Mall on Friday from 4:30-6:30 p.m., said Erich Straub, president of Irish In- sanity. The horse will lead the marching band in a parade around North Quad, and should arrive on South Quad at ap- proximately 6:45 p.m.

Residents of Grace Hall will run in 17-minute shifts for 24- hours on Friday, collecting pledge money for South Bend's Northeast Neighborhood, a representative said.

Pie-throwing enthusiasts can test their skills at 4 p.m. at Lyons Hall's "Cream Your Fa- vorte Lymite," where $1 dollar will purchase a shot at any res- ident of Lyons.

Those interested in the char- ity event should sign up in the dining halls, said the Lyons Hall representative.

Straub stressed that the horse was created as a catalyst to "get some folks to the pep rally" Friday night. Also he said that the theme for half- time festivities during the USC game is "Beach Party," and re- quested students to purchase dinner for the event.

Students remaining on cam­ pus during Thanksgiving will be treated to a free phone call home, said Rich Daly of the Alumni Association. The first annual Holiday Host program will offer other students a chance to have Thanksgiving dinner at the homes of alumni, faculty or staff members.

Britain may release 3 IRA prisoners

Associated Press

London—Britain paved the way Tuesday for the probable release of at least three people imprisoned 14 years ago for IRA bombings. Their release will add to the growing list of prisoners who have been released in recent months.

The Times of London newspa­ per reported that the government said it will release the prisoners after a wave of terror­ ists committed suicide in the original investigation that led to the convictions and life terms will be prosecuted.

In its Wednesday issue, copies of which were available Tues- day night, the paper reported: "A hundred of officers, who were then of relatively junior rank, will face charges after an investigation by ... police into a number of aspects of the original inquiry."

A spokesman at the Home Of­ fice, the government depart­ ment responsible for police, re- fused to comment.

The bombings led to murder convictions of Patrice Conlon and Guildford Four during a wave of terror­ ists, the Irish Republican Army.

The Dublin government, lead­ ers of the Roman Catholic and Anglican churches, and promi­ nent British government figures protested the impending release of the four British Broadcasting Corp. Television, the domestic news agency Press Association and other news reports said at least three of the prisoners probably would be released soon after a Court of Appeal hearing Thurs­ day.

"Circumstances have recently come to the notice of the Direc­ tor of Public Prosecutions which have caused him to con­ clude that it would be wrong for the Crown to seek to rep­ tain the convictions," the pros­ ecutor's office said.

It said its decision will be ex­ planed at the Thursday hear­ ing.

The murder convictions of Paul Hill, Gerard Conlon and Patrick Armstrong, all of Belfast, Northern Ireland, and of Armstrong's English girl­ friend, Carole Richardson, were referred to the Court of Appeal by Home Secretary Douglas Hurd in January.

Faculty quality was used as a measure of instructional quality. U.S. News based their final scores on student/faculty ratios in 1988-89, the percentage of faculty with doctorates in 1988-89, and the "per-student instructional budgets, which reflect salaries during the 1987-88 academic year."

The student/faculty ratio at ND is 12 to 1. Faculty salaries are among the highest in the nation, "better than the top 20 percent," said University Provost Timothy O'Meara. At Saint Mary's, the student/teacher ratio is 13 to 1. Currently, curriculum and faculty programs are in the works, said McLaughlin.

"Financial resources were measured by a school's per-student endowment income during fiscal 1988, its per-student library budget and, where applicable, total per-student funding from state and local governments," U.S. News stated.

O'Meara wasn't sure if government funding included financial aid and attributed Notre Dame's rather low ranking in that area to financial aid, if that was the case. "Financial aid is not what it should be," he said, "but tuition is low" for a school of Notre Dame's caliber. The University has just started an analysis of its financial aid programs, O'Meara said. Also bringing down this score is perhaps the library budget. According to O'Meara, the problem is "already being looked into." Both he and Malloy said that Notre Dame has recently made a "dramatic commitment to computing resources," at the library.

O'Meara stated that the rankings have been improved and that they are "much better than three years ago." Previ-ously, they were not well-con-"dered, he added. This is Notre Dame's second year on the list. This is Saint Mary's 3rd consecutive year on the list published by U.S. News. The past, however, Saint Mary's was grouped with all of the small comprehensive colleges. This year the category was divided into regions. This gives Saint Mary's a bit more pre- sence, as it is ranked high among colleges such as DePaul University and Valparaiso University, said Hickey and McLaughlin.

"Any time you receive this type of recognition, it is flattering," McLaughlin said. The surve-""speaks well for our reputa- tion among our peers," he said.

O'Meara concluded that the important questions are: "What is the top bracket of schools? Are these the best schools in the country?" If so, then O'Meara said he was very pleased to see Notre Dame on the list.

position was pushed by Sen. Orrin Hatch, R-Utah, the senator's office said. In addition, she was one of a number of women recom- mended for the job by President Bush's personal physician, Bur­ton Lee, who said he was knocked out of consideration because his views on abortion differ from Bush's.

Novello "would be terrific" in the job, Lee said Tuesday. Novello worked for Hatch in 1982-83, when he was chair- man of the Senate Labor and Human Resources Committee. Paul Smith, a spokesman for Hatch, said he remembered Novello as "a ball of energy. She's got a lot of vitality. She was enthusiastic about every- thing she did. We think she'll be a good spokesman for health issues."

He said she is married to a psychiatrist, Dr. Joe Novello, who hosted a talk show on a Washington radio station and whose brother is Don Novello, the comedian better known as "Father Guido Sarducci." She has served on several government panels, including AIDS and on committees that dealt with women's health issues. She also is a clinical professor of pediatrics at Ge­orgtown University and is a commissioned officer in the Public Health Service.

Although not much is publicly known about Novello's views, her opinions on abortion ap­parently are acceptable to the White House. Untermyer said his office quizzes candidates about their views on the subject "if it's per­tent, and in almost every case there (at the Department of Health and Human Services) it is," he said that includes sur­veys. "The president's position on abortion, and that of the Re­publicans in Congress, and the American people knew that when he was a candidate," Untermyer said.

"Therefore, it is entirely ap­propriate for people being con­sidered for appointments at HHS to be asked if they hold the same views as those of the president of the United States, who would appoint them," he said.

He added: "It is valid and proper and expected that somebody up for consideration for a position at HHS and cer­tain kinds of agencies should be asked that question, because of what has been asked by Congress, the press and members of the public."
U.S. wants chemical weapons

Associated Press

WASHINGTON—The head of the U.S. Arms Control and Disarmament Agency confirmed Tuesday that the United States wants to reserve the right to produce chemical weapons, even as it pursues an international pact on banning the deadly weapons.

Ronald Lehman was asked in a meeting with reporters about recent reports that President Bush has signed an order allowing the continued production of a new generation of chemical weapons for an unspecified period of time.

The reports surfaced after Bush told the United Nations last month that he was proposing that the United States and the Soviet Union cut their existing chemical weapons stockpiles by 80 percent as an impetus to the Geneva negotiations at which talks on curbing chemical weapons are underway.

The president did not mention his decision on production in his U.N. speech.

Bush, as vice president in 1984, carried a draft to the Geneva negotiations proposing that nations signing a chemical weapons treaty cease producing such arms right away and destroy their stockpiles over a 10-year period.

The international talks, in which 40 nations are taking part, resume next month.

An agreed-upon draft of the international treaty calls for the immediate end to the production of such weapons.

Sen. George Mitchell, D-Maine, on Monday criticized Bush's stance on continuing to produce chemical weapons, calling it "a major step backwards" and one that threatens the international negotiations.

According to that criticism, Lehman said the threat of chemical weapons "needs to be addressed and our policy has been to seek a total ban on the production and storage and use of these weapons."

U.S. officials contend Moscow has far greater stockpiles than the United States — an acknowledged 50,000 tons compared to an estimated 30,000 tons for the United States.

Bush proposed a U.S.-Soviet agreement to begin those cuts at once, while the 40-nation treaty was being worked out in which the United States would destroy 90 percent of its chemical weapons over eight years if the Soviets joined the ban.

Kurt Waldheim cleared of WW II crime allegations

Associated Press

LONDON—A government report published Tuesday cleared Austrian President Kurt Waldheim of all allegations he was involved in the executions of British prisoners in Greece while serving as a German army officer in World War II.

A U.N. team of experts led by Assistant Secretary General for Military Affairs and Safety Vicente Fuentes, 42, and former Judge John Advocate, 75, were cleared of all charges.

The Waldheim Parliament investigating body, the Special Committee on Crimes, was dissolved.

In an interview later on Australian television, Waldheim denied the report's findings.

Mr. Bush, who is in Rome today, will meet with the head of the German government.

The Waldheim Roman Catholic Church condemned the clearing of the President of Austria.

Mr. Bush said in his speech in Rome that he wanted to discuss the situation in the Middle East and the United Nations' role in the region.

The Waldheim report was published Tuesday in the Italian language daily newspaper "Il Giornale." It was presented to the United Nations Security Council.

Dear Editor:

Two years ago, during the spring semester of 1988, a group of students initiated a new course at Notre Dame. This course, "Redefining Security," was to utilize a new pedagogy of learning. In the simplest of terms, this new pedagogy can be summarized most accurately as "students-teaching-students."" This was to utilize a new pedagogy of learning. In the simplest of terms, this new pedagogy can be summarized most accurately as "students-teaching-students!"

The pedagogy itself is carried out through a seminar format. In this respect it is not new or original in any way, but what is new about the seminar is the removal of the faculty member from the role of the "teacher" in the classroom. Technically, this may still sound like a seminar, but the difference is a removal of a sub-ordinate hierarchy of authority usually stemming from the role of a faculty member. Under the "new" pedagogy, the emphasis is placed on educating through a shared responsibility equally from all who participate in the seminar.

The heart of this new pedagogy can be stated as "actively practicing democracy by participating in the seminar/course itself." The student realizes that both passivity as activity as a choice for which he/she is responsible. The project cannot simply be passed off to another, rather it must be engaged in and provided for continually by the students.

The course content is pure to the imagination of the students. In the past two years subjects have included: Language, International Relations, Just War Theory, Nonviolence and Alternative Security, Human Rights, Economic Development, World Hunger, Global Environmental Issues, Utopias, the Peace Movement of the 1960's, Feminism, Literary Criticism, Students for Democracy, Vatican Council II, and Pop Art, to name a few.

In order to survive as an educational process, "Redefining Security?" demands student motivation and faculty support. If you are interested in learning more about "Redefining Security?" or if any of these subject areas appeal to your intellectual curiosity, please join us in a brief Information meeting tonight at the Center for Social Concerns at 7:30 p.m.

A plea for justice or death

This is an excerpt from the Plen of the Commonwealth African Nona- tional Congress members who were on trial during my visit to South Africa. Their statement illustrates the true South Africa of the most moving documents I have ever read.

We stand here charged with "terrorism." The original charge against us was treason. After the State had been questioned on our be- half, a new charge was taken. The next allegation was that we sought to overthrow the State. The present indictment still attributes such an intent to us. With due respect, we state that the State referred to is the apartheid state. Our understanding of treason is that it is a crime against the State. I would, for instance, be treasonable to betray the people of the country and to take up arms against this peo- ple. Our people have been treasurably be-trayed. The racist minority regime rules by force, through the barrel of the gun and without a mandate from the people. It has created an apartheid state and, in the past, it has sought to defend it, employs awesome weapons of which it has uncharacteristically unburdened the citizens of this country. One of the results of an official court proceeding against us is the conflict in which the racist mi- nority regime ranged against the people of the country.

We believe that South Africa being in the process of transformation and that no government can justly claim authority unless it is based on the will of the people. We accordingly abhor the apartheid state and, in so far as we have any choice in the matter, we have, in no allegiance whatsoever. We make no apologi- es for seeking its downfall. Now we believe that the state that seeks its demise, whether by international armed conflict or otherwise, should on that ac- count be considered guilty of criminal activities.

The regime therefore stands accused of treason and the people do not and will not withdraw that charge. As for the charge we now face, again we say that it is the State that stands accused. In the defense of its apartheid prac- tices, this regime has brooked no criticism. Most of the International organizations, the organizations of the Commonwealth, have not ad- duced their leaders guided or retracted. Tens of thousands of the regime's political oppo- nents have languished in jail, having been detained without trial. Scores of others are forced to stand trial for so-called crimes against the State. This is called the maintenance of law and order. We call it terrorism.

It is terrorism too when innocent men and women and children are attacked by the regime's police and SADF, and killed while they sleep, in for- eign countries; we think of Mar- seru, Matola, Gaborone and others.

It is terrorism when this country's neighbors are desta- bilized, all in the name of apart- heid. It is terrorism when as- sassination squads, operating in and outside this country, hunt for and eliminate oppo- nents of apartheid. We think of Ruth First, Jeanette Schoon, Pat Ntizimiza, Ruth and others.

It is terrorism when, in the pursuit of apartheid, whole communities are uprooted—when extreme misery and poverty are the lot of certain sections of the population while others enjoy a standard of living which rates with the highest in the world. We say that it is the regime that is guilty of terrorism. It would therefore be terrorism for us to identify with apartheid, or to conduct a sys- tem that forces its youth to take up arms against fellow citizen, to destroy a fellow citizen, to be murdered, defenceless.

Apartheid stands condemned as a crime against hu- manity. It has been declared a crime by the international com- munity and has been rejected in the country. It is rejected as a heresy and a sin by the religious community. Yet it has been allowed to devastate mil- lions of lives in this country.

Moreover, the law of apartheid has no legal effect here in the country. Furthermore, apartheid has not left the legal system and the legal process of this country untainted. With due re- spect to your Lordship and learned Assessors, we have to point out that an official Court in this country cannot ignore the laws to which it owes its exist- ence, nor the body of laws which constitute the apartheid legal system: in other words it is enjoined to apply an unjust legal system.

One facet of the workings of the system, which is manifest in this case, in the course of events whereby we were arrested, detained, inter- rogated and brought to trial.

After our arrest, we were detained under Section 29 of the Internal Security Act, a pro- vision which is, in practice, used only against the political opponents of the apartheid regime. It is a horrific legal provision and it is widely recognized as part of the Package of the Rule of Law. The Security Police have not taken full ad- vantage of its provisions, it en- ables them to operate in the dark and to extract maximum advantage to the maximum det- riment of their victim. It en- ables them to exert pressure on the detainees such as torture, in- timidation and assault. It ex- poses the detainee to dehumanizing and degrading treatment, lengthy interrogation and months of solitary confinement without even the basic mental comforts such as reading ma- terial, access to family, Friends and legal representation and advice. It is as though the sys- tem is designed to destroy the detainee. It is in fact designed to break him, to force him to produce information which will be used against him at his trial. Having undergone the rigors of Section 29 ourselves, we are not surprised that political tri- als are characterized by a high number of "confessions" al- legedly made by the accused.

We have admitted nu- merous of these so-called con- fessions. The Art stipulates that the detainee should be visited peri- odically by magistrate as well as by other employees of the State. We were so visited. Some of us were also visited by the Judge President of this division. Our experience shows that these visits do not succeed to ameliorate in any substantial way the conditions under which we are kept. It would rather seem that they were designed to put a more humane veneer to barbaric treatment which is in effect sanctioned and counte- nanced by the law. Some of our comrades still bear painful re­ minders of their ordeal; they are still receiving medical and psychological treatment.

There is no doubt that the State is using the section as a terrorist weapon: to exact a ter­ rible revenge on opponents of the regime's sterile and out- dated policies. Eventually, when the victim has been thoroughly broken, he is brought before these courts to put a final stamp of credibility on the ac­ tions of the police. The Court has, therefore, to find the victim guilty of every tool of the oppressor.

The courts have, furthermore, failed to fight the erosion of civil liberties. The judiciary have, by their silence, allowed this erosion to gain momentum and the courts now find themselves befallen of their traditional role of an independent arbiter and protector of individual rights.

The total picture is therefore that of a regime which has treated the courts of this land with disdain. We cannot there- fore have confidence in those Courts, they are not the Courts of the people of South Africa; they are not dispensers of "justice" except in accordance with the guidelines and rules devised by the oppressors. Our ideal is that all shall be equal before the law, that the courts shall be representative of all the people. While, therefore, we find ourselves compelled by circum­ stances to participate in the proceedings in this case, as we intend to do, we have no desire, nor do we find it at all neces- sary, to plead to the charges brought against us in this court.

Finally, we cannot fail to ob- serve that there are numerous political trials before the courts in this country. Hundreds of our comrades, decent, sensitive and intelligent men and women are daily arraigned; they have but one thing in common: they pur- sue the same ideal of freedom which the fathers and grandfa­ thers of today's generation fought and fought for against the Brit­ ish. But they seek something more; they struggle for a new society where discrimination based on the color of one's skin shall be a thing of the past. Hundreds of these noble souls already populate the gaols of this country. Thousands more have suffered severe depriva- tion whilst being held in detention for indefinite periods with out trial, the anguish and despera- tion of it all sometimes driving some of them to adopt extreme measures, such as hunger strikes, in order to draw attention to their plight.

We in this court are but a humble few. We tread a thorny path which is rapidly becoming a highway. We do expect pain, prison and death if need be. But our cause is just. There- fore, and in accordance with the ideals enshrined in the Freedom Charter, we here, to- gether with the rest of the peo- ple of South Africa, black and white—equals, countrymen, brothers and sisters—will strive together, sparing nothing of our strength and courage, until a just and democratic society is achieved. Victory is certain.

"South Africa shall be free." This is the fourth in a series of articles about South Africa. Mike Schadek is a senior gov- ernment major.

Candlestick Park, which opened in 1960, has a capacity of 60,000. At the time of the initial tremor, the stadium was almost full. Mike Pechner, a local meteorologist, said he was walking out of Candlestick Park prepared for its first World Series game since 1962. A few minutes after the first aftershock, an initial tremor hit at about 10:50 p.m. After the tremor, a band was playing on the outfield grass and hundreds of balloons were set to be released as Candlestick prepared for its first World Series game since 1962. The press box in Candlestick Park shifted as the initial tremor hit. There was an earthquake hit and stayed there after the tremor.

The Notre Dame-USC baseball series, dubbed as the South Bend Tribune Irish Fall Classic, will have one aspect alien to college baseball during the regular season. Both teams will be exclusively using wooden bats. Furnished by Louisville Slugger and engraved with the word Notre Dame, the bats could produce a game very different from the normal collegiate game, where the use of aluminum bats offers results in high-scoring contests.

Notre Dame has been working with wooden bats throughout their fall drills. "It helps us in a number of ways," said Murphy. "The wooden bats force you to drive through the ball and use your hands more in hitting. With aluminum, you can have success without doing those things. It also gives all the players in the area an indication of what professional players do with a wooden bat in their hands. Wooden bats are not used in college baseball, primarily because of their added expense in comparison to aluminum bats."

"I think the game of baseball is meant to be played with a wooden bat," Murphy continued. "If you polled college coaches and they had financial backing, they'd say they'd rather be playing wood."

Quake latest of Candlestick curses

Associated Press

SAN FRANCISCO — The earthquake that caused postponement of Game 3 of the World Series Tuesday night was another chapter in the controversial history of Candlestick Park.

The stadium, in which the San Francisco Giants began play in 1960, has been the butt of jokes because of the cold, windy, foggy weather conditions that sometimes assaul the park during the baseball season.

The nation got a first-hand look at what can happen at Candlestick Park during the 1961 All-Star Game, when pitcher Ncu Miller was blown off balance during his windup. The following year, Candlestick Park was opened for the World Series between the Giants and New York Yankees was postponed three consecutive days because of rain. The field eventually was dried by the high-speed rotors of helicopters hovering a few feet above the playing surface.

The stadium was built after the Giants played their first two seasons at San Francisco at Seals Stadium, a former minor league park. Candlestick was built at Candlestick Point, which juts into San Francisco Bay about five miles south of the center of the city.

It has long been renowned for strong winds which blow in from left field, accompanied by chill, moisture and occasional dense fog. Major league players have complained about the conditions since the park was built. A routine fly ball with the wind blowing at Candlestick can become a difficult chance.

The city-owned stadium has been a subject of political debate for years, with several proposals made for building a park elsewhere in the city. The latest idea is to construct a park in the China Basin area, about three miles north of Candlestick, adjacent to the west shore of the bay.

A bond issue seeking support for a new stadium is being put before the voters next month.

Giant owner Bob Lurie, who has been courted by San Jose and Santa Clara, about 40 miles to the south, has said the Giants will not play in Candlestick when their lease expires after the 1994 season. When Lurie reached agreement with the city last summer for the China Basin park, a $115 million project, the city said it would allow him to move after next year if voters reject a stadium construction bond issue. They did so in 1987.

The stadium seated 42,500 when built and was virtually open behind left field, where the winds begin to blow heavily most afternoons at mid-game. It was double-decked all around in 1972 to increase capacity.

Mr. Paul Murray of the IBM CORPORATION will be on campus to discuss career opportunities for Electrical Engineers/Computer Science, Mechanical Engineers and Chemical Engineers in the New York, Mid Hudson Valley Region (East Fishkill, Poughkeepsie, Kingston, and Sterling Forest) The session is scheduled for October 19 7-9 pm rm. 106, Cushing Hall of Engineering

Troy Murray, shown here sending Montreal's Stephane Richer airborne, assisted on the tying goal late in the third period last night as the Chicago Black Hawks came back to fight the New York Rangers to a 3-3 deadlock.

Lemieux, Penguins defeat Leafs

PITTSBURGH — Randy Gilhen scored with 3:34 remaining and Mario Lemieux had the second goal of the game.

Gilhen then scored his fourth goal of the season into the empty net — also had two assists as the Maple Leafs came back with a power play at 3:52.

Pittsburgh's Lemieux then scored his fourth goal of the game.

The Maple Leafs took the lead when Paul Brown scored on the first shot before 12:19 and Marios converted a power-play chance at 18:38.

Flames, Nordiques tie 8-8

The Flames' Gary Roberts off for roughing in the final minute, Calgary (4-1-2) rallied with a 5-7-4 victory over the Quebec Nordiques.

With the Flames' Gary Roberts off for roughing in the final minute, Calgary (4-1-2) rallied with a 5-7-4 victory over the Quebec Nordiques.

Doug Gilmore scored with a quick shot from the left faceoff circle at 19:42 and then fed Paul Radkevich on an ensuing faceoff for the tying goal at 19:49 on a wrist shot from the top of the slot.

Three other teams have scored two goals within four seconds, most recently Toronto last December. The shortest time ever between goals is two seconds, accomplished by St. Louis and Boston in 1987.

The Nordiques, helped by two five-minute powerplays when the Flames' Jiri Hrdina and Theo Fleury were ejected for drawing blood on high-sticking infractions, led 8:3 with 12:25 remaining.

Stars 6, Islanders 6-5

Larry Murphy set up five goals, including two each by Mike Gartner and Neal Broten, as the Minnesota North Stars remained the NHL's only unbeaten team with a 6-3 victory over the New York Islanders Thursday night.

Minnesota is 5-0-1 and has scored 26 goals, while allowing 16 in its best start in seven years. The North Stars also beat Islanders 6-5 in the season opener.

The North Stars broke it open with three goals in the first period and had half of Minnesota's four goals in the second period.

The North Stars broke it open with three goals in the final 7:36 of the middle period, including Dave Gagner's power-play score with one second remaining in the session. The Islanders' Randy Wood had been ejected with a match penalty for attempting to injure Curt Giles, creating the man-power edge.

Hawks, Rangers 3

Greg Gilbert's wrist shot off a pass from Troy Murray with 3:21 to go gave the Chicago Black Hawks a 3-3 tie with the New York Rangers Tuesday night.

Boxing Club gains experience for Bouts

The Boxing Club held its novice tournament last Friday at the Joyce ACC. Although the name of the tournament suggests that the boxers don't have previous experience in the ring, the boxing was of high quality.

"All the fighters really used their fundamentals," said Club president Doug Bichlem. "A lot of times when they get in the ring for the first time, fighters forget to think, but everyone used what they learned well."

Mike Kamrad
Club Corner

The fights kicked off with the 130 lb. class as Chris "Ned" Sneddon took on Shane Mickey. The bout was well fought by both fighters, but Sneddon was able to use his left hand well to propel him to victory.

"It was a lot of fun," said Sneddon. "I have a lot to learn before the Bengals. Since I started though, I've learned a lot about the fundamentals."

At 138 lb., Craig Tierney won over Kevin Prendergast. David Iveson defeated David Neubauer at 145 lbs. and at 150 lbs., Pat Lefloe beat Joe Kerrigan. In the latter bout, the two fighters battled each other evenly until Lefloe was finally able to use his reach advantage to gain the victory.

At 152 lb., Mike Murray won against Alan Rodriguez and Pat Murphy beat Craig Gyffy at 158 pounds. Goffey was hurt in the second round, but managed to hold off his opponent's back and pull out the win.

The next fight was an exhibition between club officer Dave Cane and novice Shane McNeely. Cane used his experience well as he was constantly on the move and slipping in punches. Kukobak held his own showing good style and form.

The day's best fight was in the 160 lb. division where Tim Tryvand of the Joyce ACC took on Tom Tryvand, who had the help of his Bengal Bout champion brother in getting ready for the fight, used a very aggressive style while Tryvand took advantage of his reach. The aggressiveness of Tryvand eventually proved to be the deciding factor in the fight.

The rest of the tournament saw Mike Couton defeat Mike Rubino, J.P. McNelie down John Rapchinski, Justin Moran over Mike Folgia, Pat Walsh beating Chris Sullivan, and at the 178 lb. division, Greg Cooper win a decision over John Donahoo.

The good fights in the novice tournament should prove to carry over to next spring's Bengal Bout, and provide the spectators with a good display of boxing. The fans present at the novice tournament got a small taste of what is to come in the future.

The Rugby Club had a disappointing weekend against Kalamazoo College as the A side lost 26-13 and the B side was dropped 7-6. In the A side game the Irish came out flat again.

"I don't know what's wrong," said president Mike Smigget. "We just can't seem to get up for the beginning of the game."

Notre Dame fell behind 16-3 at the half with Sean McNamara scoring the Irish points on a penalty kick. Less than a minute into the second half the Irish had another defensive breakdown and fell behind 20-3. Notre Dame rallied to play well for the rest of the half, but it was too little too late.

"We just didn't adapt fast enough and we had problems of our own," said Smigget. "Our forwards played pretty well, but we had a lot of trouble with their backs."

The Sailing Club traveled for the first weekend to compete in the Ohio State Regatta. The Irish finished 5th out of 15 teams that included Midwest powers Michigan, Michigan State, and Western Michigan. The A division was skipped by Patti Losinske with Paige Cooper and Paul Matler splitting time at the crew in the 6th place finish for the weekend. The B boat finished in 2nd with Lisa Fox at skipper and Laura Sullivan as the crew. The Irish missed 4th place by only a few points.

The next big weekend for the club is the Area Eliminations on the weekend of November 5th. There is a possibility of rain in the Midwest and the top three from each one will compete in the Midwest Collegiate Sailing Association Championships the following weekend.

Davies always ready when the secondary needs a boost

By KEN TYSIAK Sports Writer

In speaking of his increased playing time with the Notre Dame football team, junior safety Greg Davis sounds like a preacher exhorting his congregation to live a holy life.

"You never know when you're going to get the call," says Davis, speaking of his role as a reserve coming off the bench to relieve D'Juan Francisco and Pat Thomas. "You have to be ready at all times."

"I didn't play very much last year, but the other defensive backs help me out a lot because they're so confident in my ability. It's not like there's any pressure on me when I come into the game," he continued.

In a defensive secondary, confidence in the abilities of your teammates is crucial to success because everybody is responsible for their own man or zone. Fellow junior Todd Lyght, who starts at cornerback, is one of those who is in Davis's confidence corner.

"Greg fits in well in the secondary," says coach Lou Holtz. "He's one of the strongest hitters we have in the defensive backfield. Greg really likes to express himself by making a big colli­sion with a receiver on the field."

One of those big collisions in practice early in the year left Greg with a broken thumb. But he did his best to practice every day despite the pain. Lyght thinks Davis proved a lot to his teammates this spring as he kept teeth and taking the injury in stride.

"Greg showed a lot of toughness by coming to practice while he was injured and catching the ball with a cast on. He really set a good example for our younger players by showing them that you can practice when you are hurt," says Lyght.

Davis modestly downplays his bravery. "The injury wasn't really that bad," he says. "It was only difficult to catch and grab with the injured hand."

Greg's persistence earned him a spot as backup to safety D'Juan Francisco, and when Francisco went down with a painful leg cramp with the Irish clinging to a tenacious lead late in the Stanford game two weeks ago, Davis got his call from coach Lou Holtz. He re­sponded by causing a fumble with a big hit on a Stanford re­ceiver and forcing the Cardinal to punt with an important third down tackle.

"It felt good to make the big plays and help the team," says Davis. "I want to contribute to the team the best that I can and hopefully if I get the chance to start some time in the future, I'll be ready."

Davis and his fellow defensive backs had better be ready for their next two games. USC and Pittsburgh both have red­shirt freshman quarterbacks who are coming into their own. This Saturday, the Irish will have to contend with Todd Marinovich, who has been giv­ing PAC-10 opponents fits this season.

Davis says that to be successful against the Trojans, the Irish secondary will have to "be very physical and stay with our receivers and hopeful­ly if I get the chance to start some time in the future, I'll be ready."

With the improvement of Greg Davis, Irish fans should worry a lot less about their favorite team getting burned in the secondary. "Greg has really matured a lot this year," says Todd Lyght. "He is becoming a dominant player in the secondary."

Defense dominating in IH football

Cavanaugh, Morrissey remain unbeaten teams

By CHRIS FILLO Sports Writer

In the fourth week of men's interhall football action, all seven games resulted in shutouts, including one score­less tie.

Goals in the Leavy Division were both decided by a 6-0 score. Cavanaugh continued its bid for a fourth season by downing the once mighty Stanford Studs with but a single score.

Cavanaugh plowed 75 yards for a touchdown in the fourth quarter on a one-yard scamper by senior two­way man Troy Beale. Quarterback Chris Fox fueled the drive with connections of 42 and 23 yards to Roger Pak and Dave Richardson, respectively.

"The defense played a great ballgame," said coach Ken Cotter. "They really rose to the occasion."

Defensive standouts included Beale, John Nihaus, Filip Molloy and Kyle Sullivan, hold­ing Stanford to one first down, which was converted on a pass interference call.

In the other division game, Alumni bested Zahm with the same 6-0 score. In the Parsegian Division, Off­Campus beat Keenan and Dillon topped Flanner, both by a 14-0 score. Morrissey completed the shutout circus with a 6-0 vic­tory over Grace.

"We played from the heart in this one," says Morris­sey head coach Dave Shaw, "and Grace was a tough team to beat."

Morrissey drove the length of the field with some big ground gains by Brian Doherty, who also punched it in for the touchdown. Holding Grace to zero points, Morrissey remained among the unbeaten elites.

Play in the Rockne Division saw Fisher down St. Ed's, 7-0, with a rare occurrence of the often-elusive extra point. The Pangborn Violence and the Sorin Otters battled to a score­less tie.

On Wednesday, men's inter­hall football will return to Cartier Field, with four games slated to be played under the lights. At 7:00 p.m., Alumni faces Holy Cross. The Vermin will meet the Otters at Carroll squares off against Sorin at 8:00 p.m., in a game which should help shape the playoff picture. Dillon will pit its unde­feated record on the line against Keenan in the 9:00 p.m. game. The final game of the evening will pit Flanner against unbeaten Morrissey at 10:00 p.m.

ND men's soccer to host DePaul

Observer Staff Report

Having ended a six-game winless streak earlier this week, the Notre Dame soccer team looks to continue winning ways at 3:30 p.m. Wednesday with an afternoon match against DePaul at Alumni Field.

The Irish are coming off a 9-2 Monday home victory over Valparaiso that improved their record on the year to 6-3-5. Notre Dame has defeated DePaul, 4-2-1, every time in the nine-game history between the two Great Lakes Region schools. Tim Green and Randy Stedman held the Blue Demon scoring attack, while goat­keeper Rich Horwath has posted a 2.31 goals against av­erage.

Former Irish goalkeeper Danny Coughlin coaches the DePaul squad.

In Monday's victory over Valparaiso, the Irish ended a three-game scoring drought in impressive fashion. Freshman Kevin Pendergast led the Notre Dame effort with a hat trick, and sophomore Kenyon Meyer recorded two goals and one as­sist.

Tom Connaghan, Mitch Kern, Paul Kaemmerer and Peter Sanchez also scored goals in the win over Valparaiso.

The Irish had not scored a goal in over a week prior to the Valpo contest, losing 4-0 to Santa Clara and having score­less ties with Cal. State-Los Angeles and Akron.

Notre Dame will conclude its homestand at 7:30 p.m. Friday with a match against Midwest Collegiate Conference rival Loyola at Kuehne Stadium.

Notre Dame senior goat­keeper Danny Lyons could break the school's career ap­pearance record in Friday's match. John Milligan currently holds the record of 60 appearances from 1978-81.

Lyons had played in 57 games entering this week.

San Francisco earthquake postpones World Series

Associated Press

SAN FRANCISCO — The World Series was postponed Tuesday night when an earthquake shook northern California shortly before gametime, damaging and forcing evacuation of Candlestick Park.

A decision on when and where Game 3 of the first-ever Bay Bridge series between the Oakland Athletics and the San Francisco Giants will be played will be made as soon as possible Wednesday. A section of the Bay Bridge itself collapsed.

Baseball commissioner Fay Vincent said there were cracks in the stadium and the extent of damage would not be known until later in the night. No major injuries were reported.

One possibility was that the series would be moved back to Oakland, where the A's won the first two games Saturday and Sunday.

A section in the upper stands in right field separated by about six inches, and several cracks ran down the concrete aisle and broke off. Fans were carrying them home as souvenirs.

"The people two to three rows in front of me had big pieces of metal several feet, still fell on their heads," said David Gazzetti, a city council member at large.

"The lights were just rocking back and forth, and I thought," said island manager Tony La Russa. "Then right away I realized what was happening."

"You can't stop concrete," Oakland outfilder Dave Henderson said, "Forget the World Series."

"I try to be a big tough guy," said 6-foot-3 umpire Eric Gregg, "but I was scared senseless. I couldn't fit under the table and finally just had to stand under some arcehes."

Oakland slugger Jose Canseco was shaking when the tremor hit. He said he looked at fans waving yelling and thought, "Jeez, look at that. They still want us to win an earthquake."

An hour after the earthquake, it felt, about two-thirds of the sellout crowd of 60,000 were still in the stadium, evacuating the upper deck around 5:40 p.m., 10 minutes after the game was scheduled to start and moments after a second aftershock was felt at the ballpark.

The power in the stadium was knocked out and phone lines were disturbed.

"The gas couldn't be started because a power transformer is out," Vincent said.

"We have to wait for the power back on. We are not going to start the game under any circumstances," ABC, which was on the air Thursday night when the network was doing its pre-game show when announcer Al Michaels said, "There's an earth..." and the picture was lost.

At Candlestick Park, a reported 1,000 people were hit by falling debris and were being treated. None of the injuries was said to be serious.

However, a 30-foot section of the San Francisco-Oakland Bay Bridge collapsed and there were several critical saves late in the Notre Dame defense's make excluding its mistakes.
