$20K in hall matching funds suspended

By MONICA YANG

Matching funds for residence halls have been suspended indefinitely as a result of damage caused during a snowball fight, Father David Tyson said in a letter to hall presidents. The matching funds account for over $20,000, which is allocated to the residence halls for capital improvements.

“I cannot see any point in allocating funds for hall life improvement when those funds should be used to defray the cost of repairs to the halls,” Tyson said in the letter, which was delivered to hall presidents during semester break.

Tyson said in the letter that “residence life personnel met with student leaders to solicit their assistance. Apparently, the efforts of these people were insufficient to stem what is approaching a riot.”

This meeting, according to Toohey, was called at 4 p.m. on Oct. 19, the day of the first snowfall on campus. The Office of Student Affairs asked Toohey, HPC Co-Chairperson Diane see SNOW / page 8

ND student falls victim to hit and run

By KELLEY TUTHILL

A Notre Dame graduate student was critically injured in a hit and run accident on Notre Dame Avenue Sunday. The accident occurred on Friday, Oct. 20, at 9:30 p.m., according to Chuck Hurley, assistant director of Security.

Zheong-de Wang is presently listed in critical condition in the intensive care unit at St. Joseph’s Medical Center, said a spokesperson from the center.

Hurley said that a person in a motor vehicle told the officer at the Main Gate that there was a man lying on the road. He said that it was raining fairly hard that evening and the visibility was very low.

When Hurley approached Wang a knife was held to the victim. Hurley said he called for an ambulance and Wang was taken to St. Joseph’s Medical Center.

Security is pursing leads in this case, but Hurley said that no further information could be released.

Arthur Grubert, director of international Student Affairs, said that Wang’s parents are see HIT / page 8

Senior falls 5 stories from balcony during Cancun trip

By KELLEY TUTHILL

Assistant News Editor

Diane Toohey, a Notre Dame sophomore who was on Senior Class Trip to Cancun, Mexico, according to the Office of Public Relations and Information, Toohey was injured at the Hotel Oasis at about 4 p.m. on Thursday, Oct. 26.

She was going to traverse from one room balcony to another. Public Relations said that she fell five stories onto concrete.

Toohey was taken to La Clinica in Cancun and suffered cuts to the head, a possible concussion, and knee and elbow injuries, according to Public Relations.

Toohey was part of a group of over 70 Notre Dame and Saint Mary’s students spending break in Cancun under the supervision of her hall’s staff members, including Mary Ellen Smith, director of student activities who called Saint Mary’s with word of the accident, according to Public Relations.

Smith said that she would make no comment except that Toohey was presently at home with her family in Erie, Penn. Sister Jean Lenz, assistant vice president for student affairs, said that Mrs. Toohey telephoned her office on Monday, saying that her daughter was at home recuperating and hopes to return to school by the end of the week.

Student Body President Matt Breslin said he spoke to Toohey on Sunday. “She sounded real good,” he said. “She knows she’s very fortunate.”

Breslin said she flew home Saturday with her mother and spent the night in a hospital in Erie. Toohey left the hospital on Sunday.

She suffered a concussion, cuts and abrasions on her body and her knee was cut up, stated Breslin.

She said she feels like she has the flu,” said Breslin. He added, “Toohey hopes to come back to school Friday. Breslin said. “She’s looking forward to coming home.”

He said a mass of thanksgiving was held on Sunday in Panama East where Toohey resides. Toohey said she is grateful for the support of the students who have called, according to Breslin.

Candy X-rays ‘ineffective’ safety measure

Associated Press

Most of the nation’s hospitals have pulled the plug on X-ray Halloween goodies, saying the once popular way to detect pins and needles is too costly and is ineffective in preventing poisoning.

“It costs a fortune,” said Rose Ann Soloway, of the National Capital Poison Center at Georgetown University Hospital in Washington, D.C.

“Someone calculated the cost in health care dollars, and it’s an enormous amount of money nationwide,” said Soloway. “It’s money that could be better spent.”

“If candy is going to be tampered with, there’s any number of ways of doing it,” she said. “X-rays can only detect foreign objects, especially metallic objects. X-rays can’t detect chemicals or anything that can be put on or into foods.”

Donna Siegfried, technical specialist for the National Safety Council in Chicago, said hospitals began using X-ray machines to examine Halloween treats in the mid-1970s, when reports of glass and pine needles lodged in guts became more frequent.

But some officials said hospitals are just providing parents with a false sense of security.

“We were concerned that parents who bought candy in the candy store may keep it X-rayed and were told that there was nothing in it,” said Valerie Jones, theMain Gate that there was a person laying on the road. He said that it was raining fairly hard that evening and the visibility was very low.

When Hurley approached Wang a knife was held to the victim. Hurley said he called for an ambulance and Wang was taken to St. Joseph’s Medical Center.

Security is pursuing leads in this case, but Hurley said that no further information could be released.

Arthur Grubert, director of international Student Affairs, said that Wang’s parents are see HIT / page 8

Senior falls 5 stories from balcony during Cancun trip

By KELLEY TUTHILL

Assistant News Editor

Diane Toohey, a Notre Dame sophomore who was on Senior Class Trip to Cancun, Mexico, according to the Office of Public Relations and Information, Toohey was injured at the Hotel Oasis at about 4 p.m. on Thursday, Oct. 26.

She was going to traverse from one room balcony to another. Public Relations said that she fell five stories onto concrete.

Toohey was taken to La Clinica in Cancun and suffered cuts to the head, a possible concussion, and knee and elbow injuries, according to Public Relations.

Toohey was part of a group of over 70 Notre Dame and Saint Mary’s students spending break in Cancun under the supervision of her hall’s staff members, including Mary Ellen Smith, director of student activities who called Saint Mary’s with word of the accident, according to Public Relations.

Smith said that she would make no comment except that Toohey was presently at home with her family in Erie, Penn. Sister Jean Lenz, assistant vice president for student affairs, said that Mrs. Toohey telephoned her office on Monday, saying that her daughter was at home recuperating and hopes to return to school by the end of the week.

Student Body President Matt Breslin said he spoke to Toohey on Sunday. “She sounded real good,” he said. “She knows she’s very fortunate.”

Breslin said she flew home Saturday with her mother and spent the night in a hospital in Erie. Toohey left the hospital on Sunday.

She suffered a concussion, cuts and abrasions on her body and her knee was cut up, stated Breslin.

She said she feels like she has the flu,” said Breslin. He added, “Toohey hopes to come back to school Friday. Breslin said. “She’s looking forward to coming home.”

He said a mass of thanksgiving was held on Sunday in Panama East where Toohey resides. Toohey said she is grateful for the support of the students who have called, according to Breslin.

Candy X-rays ‘ineffective’ safety measure

Associated Press

Most of the nation’s hospitals have pulled the plug on X-ray Halloween goodies, saying the once popular way to detect pins and needles is too costly and is ineffective in preventing poisoning.

“It costs a fortune,” said Rose Ann Soloway, of the National Capital Poison Center at Georgetown University Hospital in Washington, D.C.

“Someone calculated the cost in health care dollars, and it’s an enormous amount of money nationwide,” said Soloway. “It’s money that could be better spent.”

“If candy is going to be tampered with, there’s any number of ways of doing it,” she said. “X-rays can only detect foreign objects, especially metallic objects. X-rays can’t detect chemicals or anything that can be put on or into foods.”

Donna Siegfried, technical specialist for the National Safety Council in Chicago, said hospitals began using X-ray machines to examine Halloween treats in the mid-1970s, when reports of glass and pine needles lodged in guts became more frequent.

But some officials said hospitals are just providing parents with a false sense of security.

“We were concerned that parents who bought candy in the candy store may keep it X-rayed and were told that there was nothing in it,” said Valerie Jones, the Ozone layer needs to be protected too

Substance abuse. We hear a lot about the abuse of alcohol and other drugs, but we don’t hear enough about a substance abuse we are all guilty of: chlorofluorocarbons (CFC’s).

Everyone has heard the ozone layer is being depleted, but goes one ear and out the other. Maybe no one realizes how bad the problem is. Or maybe everyone thinks if they ignore it it will go away, or that someone else will take care of it.

It was discovered in the mid-’70s that the widely used CFC’s would someday erode the upper atmospheric ozone, but “sometime” came a little sooner than predicted. The thinning of the ozone layer was expected to begin over the South Pole, but it hasn’t stopped there. The layer has not just thinned — there is a large hole in the ozone that is widening quickly toward South America, Australia and the USSR in 1984. This hole was larger than the United States and taller than Mt. Everest, and these places are already feeling the effects of the hole. So are we.

I live in New York and I can remember we always had snow at Christmas and sometimes even at Easter. Not anymore. In January, one of the coldest months of the year, I couldn’t even find enough snow in the Catskills to have a snowball fight.

Some effects (or symptoms) of global warming and ozone depletion are terrible natural disasters. We have had several of these recently: Hurricane Hugo, which swept the Caribbean and taller than Mt. Everest, and these places are already feeling the effects of the hole. So are we.

A magazine survey claims that people in Springfield walk faster than their counterparts in 36 other U.S. cities. The results of the survey in the Oct. Issue of Psychology Today were a surprise for all, including the residents of this western Massachusetts city.

Moslem fundamentalist and secular students battled each other with homemade bombs, pistols and iron rods in Khulna,Bangladesh, leaving at least 50 people injured, police said Monday. The clash Sunday was precipitated by the campaign for the Nov. 4 student elections at Khulna College, police said by telephone.

Take a look at the weather forecast for next week. It looks to be a warm and sunny week with temperatures in the mid-70s.

The Accu-Weather forecast for Monday, October 31.

Much cooler today with a 70 percent chance of rain during the day and night. High in the mid 70s. Mostly clear through the night. Low in the mid 50s. Expecting winds throughout the day.

The Soviet Union on Monday said it might cut oil exports by about 76,000 barrels a day in 1990 so the fuel could be used domestically. The Soviet Union suffers erratic domestic gasoline shortages, and Soviet TV has shown farms unable to harvest grain for lack of fuel.

The European Commission in Brussels, Belgium said Monday it has decided to give $444,000 in relief goods to victims of recent typhoons in Vietnam. The three typhoons left 837,000 people homeless, the commission said.

The Logan Center needs Navy tickets. The NSWC Council for the Retarded is taking the clients of Logan Center to the ND vs. Navy football game. We need donated tickets to go. Tickets will be collected at ND and SMC dorm halls on Wednesday, Thursday, and Friday. Questions? Call Peggy 284-4357 or John 283-1881.

The Women’s Liturgical Choir is looking for female vocalists. They will be holding an open rehearsal at 7 p.m. in Crowley Hall of Music.
ND/SMC relations to be analyzed

BY SANDRA WIEGAND
News Writer

A committee consisting of both Notre Dame and Saint Mary's faculty and students will be formed to analyze relations between the campuses, said Ted Stumpf, a Notre Dame/Saint Mary's relations representative, at the Student Senate meeting last night.

"We will work to find out what is the root of the strained relations," said Stumpf.

He said that the number of representatives for the committee has not been decided, but that he and Maggie Belin, Saint Mary's representative of the Student Senate, will be co-chairs.

"We want to promote Saint Mary's on the Notre Dame campus," said Belin. "We have a lot of things to offer the women, a lot of things geared toward them."

"The stereotypes that have been created have caused the strain," she said.

One of the goals of the committee will be to determine the rolls of each college, and whether they should function separately or jointly. The process by which Saint Mary's obtains football tickets will be discussed in this context.

Suggestions for social activities and implementation of sister dorms between Notre Dame and Saint Mary's were made at the meeting.

Matched funds for residence halls will be frozen this year as the result of the damage from the snowball fight on October 19, said a senate representative. The funds amount to about $20,000.

see SMC / page 8
Detroit confronts annual problem of 'Devil's Night' fires in the metropolis

Associated Press

DETROIT — Fires broke out on the first night of a three-night Halloween-time curfew Sunday as police, firefighters and citizen volunteers tried to keep "Devil's Night" arson under control.

Asked how many fires had broken out, authorities said the mayor's office would compile figures and release them on Monday. No injuries were reported in any of the fires.

Figures were also not available on the number of people arrested under the curfew, said Police Officer John Leavens.

An abandoned home was set on fire twice within 90 minutes, radio station WWJ-AM reported. The second time, the blaze spread to an occupied home.

Several fires were reported in garages on the city's lower east side, according to the station. Firefighters on the east side were so busy that firefighters were called in from the west side.

Police found several cases of dynamite, blasting caps and radio control devices in the garage of a vacant home on the northeast side Sunday night, but weren't sure whether it was connected with Devil's Night, Leavens said.

The police bomb squad took the explosives away for disposal.

Fires are set during Devil's Night, which traditionally lasts three nights, in a destructive celebration of Halloween. The practice drew national attention in 1984, when 810 fires were set in Detroit.

Since then, the number of fires has decreased each year. Last year, there were 229 fires reported, for an average of 76 per night. About 60 fires are reported on a normal night in Detroit, fire officials have said.

The curfew, which allows police to detain anyone under 18, went into effect at 6 p.m. and was to be in effect until 6 a.m. Monday.

Poll: hostages must be freed

Associated Press

NEW YORK — Most Americans favor rapprochement with Iran in exchange for the release of the U.S. hostages in Lebanon, even though they see the Islamic republic as a sponsor of world terrorism, a national poll has found.

Ten years after the Iran hostage crisis poisoned U.S.-Iran relations, 61 percent in the Media General-Associated Press poll said Washington should offer to resume normal ties if Iran got the Americans in Lebanon freed.

Support was somewhat lower for releasing Iranian assets locked in U.S. banks in trade for the hostages' freedom, with 50 percent in favor. And respondents overwhelmingly rejected paying ransom directly to the captors, with 85 percent opposed.

Respondents divided evenly on the idea of direct negotiations with the hostage takers, while most favored indirect negotiations. A majority favored military action, but that fell to a minority if the hostages might be killed in the effort.

EIGHTEEN Westerners, including eight Americans, are held in Lebanon, most by groups believed loyal to Iran. Iran has offered to help free the captives if its assets held in U.S. banks were released.

It is unclear to what extent Iran controls the captors, if at all. In the poll, though, 72 percent said they believed Iran does control the hostage takers, and 79 percent said Iran supports international terrorism.

Iran and the United States have been estranged since Nov. 4, 1979, when Iranian students, apparently with official support, seized the U.S. embassy in Tehran and took 52 Americans hostage.

They were held for 444 days, crippling President Carter's administration and contributing to his defeat in the 1980 election. A rescue attempt failed, killing eight servicemen, and the prisoners were freed only on Jan. 20, 1981, the day of Ronald Reagan's inauguration.

Reagan and now President Bush have labored with another hostage crisis, the Americans captive in Lebanon. Longest held is Terry Anderson, chief Middle East correspondent for The Associated Press, kidnapped in March 1985.

Washington's official position has been that negotiating for the captives' release would encourage more hostage taking. Forty-seven percent in the poll nonetheless favored direct negotiations, while 45 percent opposed the idea. The rest were unsure.

A majority, 55 percent, favored indirect negotiations through a third party such as the Red Cross.

Respondents at first blush supported military action, with 62 percent favoring the use of U.S. forces to try to free the hostages. But if the hostages might be killed in a rescue attempt — something strategists have been unable to rule out — just 43 percent supported it.

Military action was more popular with men and with people who described themselves as conservatives.

‘Military impostor’ sues the U.S. Army for $5 million

Associated Press

LOUISVILLE, Ky. — Ron Ferguson never learned how to salute or put on a military uniform properly, because the only time he spent in the Army was after he was arrested as a deserter and threatened with court-martial.

Ferguson, who has sued the Army for $5 million, says the whole mess began when someone "stole his identity," by taking his name and Social Security number and enlisting.

The Army admits the arrest was in error, but claims it was Ferguson's responsibility to clear up the confusion before it got that far. Ferguson says he notified a recruiter, whose name he can't remember, several years before the impostor deserted.

Now Ferguson, 35, of Louisville, is awaiting a judge's ruling in the case after a non-jury trial earlier this month in U.S. District Court here. The judge has not indicated when he will rule.

After Ferguson's arrest in June 1985, he spent two days in the Jefferson County Jail and nine hours at Fort Knox before his wife, with the assistance of U.S. Rep. Romano Mazzioli's office, got him released.

Ferguson said he was frightened when an officer said he was to be sent to a military prison at Fort Leavenworth, Kan., for court-martial.

"All this was new to me," said Ferguson, who said when he was told to put on an Army uniform, he didn't know he was supposed to tuck his pants into his boots.

"And just because I didn't put it on right, they made me do push-ups."

The calisthenics, along with sleeping on a concrete floor at the jail for two nights, aggravated a back condition, he said.

Asked how many fires had broken out, authorities said the mayor's office would compile figures and release them on Monday. No injuries were reported in any of the fires.

Figures were also not available on the number of people arrested under the curfew, said Police Officer John Leavens.

An abandoned home was set on fire twice within 90 minutes, radio station WWJ-AM reported. The second time, the blaze spread to an occupied home.

Several fires were reported in garages on the city's lower east side, according to the station. Firefighters on the east side were so busy that firefighters were called in from the west side.

Police found several cases of dynamite, blasting caps and radio control devices in the garage of a vacant home on the northeast side Sunday night, but weren't sure whether it was connected with Devil's Night, Leavens said.

The police bomb squad took the explosives away for disposal.

Fires are set during Devil's Night, which traditionally lasts three nights, in a destructive celebration of Halloween. The practice drew national attention in 1984, when 810 fires were set in Detroit.

Since then, the number of fires has decreased each year. Last year, there were 229 fires reported, for an average of 76 per night. About 60 fires are reported on a normal night in Detroit, fire officials have said.

The curfew, which allows police to detain anyone under 18, went into effect at 6 p.m. and was to be in effect until 6 a.m. Monday.

Instead of running an article this week, the staff of Campus Ministry requests that you make a contribution on behalf of the Earthquake victims.

Campus Ministry and You

Bring or mail your offering to:
The Office of Campus Ministry
103 Hesburgh Library

We promise you that 100% of your gift will go to the earthquake victims.

Thank you.

Brought to you weekly by the Office of Campus Ministry and The Observer
Student military pilot crashes into naval ship

Associated Press

PENSACOLA, Fla. — A student pilot making his first landing attempt on an aircraft carrier was “low and slow” before his training jet crashed on the USS Lexington, killing him and four others, the ship’s captain said Monday.

The T-2 Buckeye slammed into the island, the same part of the ship hit by a kamikaze plane in World War II, before cartwheeling across the deck and exploding in flames Sunday afternoon, said Capt. C. Flack Logan.

“It looked like a battle zone,” said Lt. Bruce Adams, a physician and the ship’s medical officer. “There were pieces of aircraft and of metal all over the place. Bodils were spread throughout different areas.

In addition to the five dead, 19 people were injured, Logan said.

The pilot, Ensign Steven Pontell, 23, of Columbus, Md., was the only one aboard the two-seat trainer, a normal situation when aviators make their first carrier landings, Logan said.

Pontell, a 1988 graduate of the U.S. Naval Academy in Annapolis, Md., was a member of Training Squadron 19 at Meridian, Miss., Naval Air Station.

The Navy identified the other dead as Petty Officer 3rd Class Burnori Kigore Jr., 19, of Holly Springs, Miss.; Petty Officer 3rd Class Tommy Garrouete, 30, of Memphis, Tenn.; and Airman Lisa Mayo, 25, of Oklahoma City, all Lexington crew members; and Byron Gervis Courville, 32, of Meridian, Miss., a civilian employee of DynCorp which has a contract to maintain Navy aircraft.

The dead other than the pilot were all on the flight deck, officials said.

The ship was steaming in the Gulf of Mexico in clear weather about 30 miles south of its home port here when the jet crashed.

“As I see it,” Logan said, “he ended up in a position which in naval aviation is known as being low and slow, which is a very terrible place to be when you are coming aboard a ship.”

Landing signal officers radioed the pilot to add power and waved him off, but he did not comply, Logan said. He said an investigation would try to explain why.

The plane flipped upside down before a wing hit the island just below the control tower, the captain said. The wing tip broke off and remained embedded in the superstructure when the Lexington docked Monday.

The jet’s fuselage then smashed into the side of the island, but the ship showed little evidence of the accident other than the wreckage of the plane, still upside down, covered with orange and white parachutes.

It hit at the feet of Airman Dee Votolato of Houma, La., who was inside a glittering hotel Tuesday, October 31, 1989 The Observer pages.

Nutritionally Balanced Food

The dead other than the pilot tower, the captain said. The jet hit at the feet of Airman Dee Votolato of Houma, La., who was inside a glittering hotel Tuesday, October 31, 1989 The Observer pages.

BEIJING — Less than a year ago, Chinese and U.S. officials gathered at a glittering hotel and celebrated 10 years of friendship with dumplings and alcohol.

Then came the Chinese army attack on Tiananmen on students and of metal all over the place. Bodils were spread throughout different areas.

In addition to the five dead, 19 people were injured, Logan said.

The pilot, Ensign Steven Pontell, 23, of Columbus, Md., was the only one aboard the two-seat trainer, a normal situation when aviators make their first carrier landings, Logan said.

Pontell, a 1988 graduate of the U.S. Naval Academy in Annapolis, Md., was a member of Training Squadron 19 at Meridian, Miss., Naval Air Station.

The Navy identified the other dead as Petty Officer 3rd Class Burnori Kigore Jr., 19, of Holly Springs, Miss.; Petty Officer 3rd Class Tommy Garrouete, 30, of Memphis, Tenn.; and Airman Lisa Mayo, 25, of Oklahoma City, all Lexington crew members; and Byron Gervis Courville, 32, of Meridian, Miss., a civilian employee of DynCorp which has a contract to maintain Navy aircraft.

The dead other than the pilot were all on the flight deck, officials said.

The ship was steaming in the Gulf of Mexico in clear weather about 30 miles south of its home port here when the jet crashed.

“As I see it,” Logan said, “he ended up in a position which in naval aviation is known as being low and slow, which is a very terrible place to be when you are coming aboard a ship.”

Landing signal officers radioed the pilot to add power and waved him off, but he did not comply, Logan said. He said an investigation would try to explain why.

The plane flipped upside down before a wing hit the island just below the control tower, the captain said. The wing tip broke off and remained embedded in the superstructure when the Lexington docked Monday.

The jet’s fuselage then smashed into the side of the island, but the ship showed little evidence of the accident other than the wreckage of the plane, still upside down, covered with orange and white parachutes.

It hit at the feet of Airman Dee Votolato of Houma, La., who was inside a glittering hotel Tuesday, October 31, 1989 The Observer pages.

Nutritionally Balanced Food

The dead other than the pilot tower, the captain said. The jet hit at the feet of Airman Dee Votolato of Houma, La., who was inside a glittering hotel Tuesday, October 31, 1989 The Observer pages.

BEIJING — Less than a year ago, Chinese and U.S. officials gathered at a glittering hotel and celebrated 10 years of friendship with dumplings and alcohol.

Then came the Chinese army attack on Tiananmen on students and of metal all over the place. Bodils were spread throughout different areas.

In addition to the five dead, 19 people were injured, Logan said.

The pilot, Ensign Steven Pontell, 23, of Columbus, Md., was the only one aboard the two-seat trainer, a normal situation when aviators make their first carrier landings, Logan said.

Pontell, a 1988 graduate of the U.S. Naval Academy in Annapolis, Md., was a member of Training Squadron 19 at Meridian, Miss., Naval Air Station.

The Navy identified the other dead as Petty Officer 3rd Class Burnori Kigore Jr., 19, of Holly Springs, Miss.; Petty Officer 3rd Class Tommy Garrouete, 30, of Memphis, Tenn.; and Airman Lisa Mayo, 25, of Oklahoma City, all Lexington crew members; and Byron Gervis Courville, 32, of Meridian, Miss., a civilian employee of DynCorp which has a contract to maintain Navy aircraft.

The dead other than the pilot were all on the flight deck, officials said.

The ship was steaming in the Gulf of Mexico in clear weather about 30 miles south of its home port here when the jet crashed.

“As I see it,” Logan said, “he ended up in a position which in naval aviation is known as being low and slow, which is a very terrible place to be when you are coming aboard a ship.”

Landing signal officers radioed the pilot to add power and waved him off, but he did not comply, Logan said. He said an investigation would try to explain why.

The plane flipped upside down before a wing hit the island just below the control tower, the captain said. The wing tip broke off and remained embedded in the superstructure when the Lexington docked Monday.

The jet’s fuselage then smashed into the side of the island, but the ship showed little evidence of the accident other than the wreckage of the plane, still upside down, covered with orange and white parachutes.

It hit at the feet of Airman Dee Votolato of Houma, La., who was inside a glittering hotel Tuesday, October 31, 1989 The Observer pages.

Nutritionally Balanced Food

The dead other than the pilot tower, the captain said. The jet hit at the feet of Airman Dee Votolato of Houma, La., who was inside a glittering hotel Tuesday, October 31, 1989 The Observer pages.

BEIJING — Less than a year ago, Chinese and U.S. officials gathered at a glittering hotel and celebrated 10 years of friendship with dumplings and alcohol.

Then came the Chinese army attack on Tiananmen on students and of metal all over the place. Bodils were spread throughout different areas.

In addition to the five dead, 19 people were injured, Logan said.

The pilot, Ensign Steven Pontell, 23, of Columbus, Md., was the only one aboard the two-seat trainer, a normal situation when aviators make their first carrier landings, Logan said.

Pontell, a 1988 graduate of the U.S. Naval Academy in Annapolis, Md., was a member of Training Squadron 19 at Meridian, Miss., Naval Air Station.

The Navy identified the other dead as Petty Officer 3rd Class Burnori Kigore Jr., 19, of Holly Springs, Miss.; Petty Officer 3rd Class Tommy Garrouete, 30, of Memphis, Tenn.; and Airman Lisa Mayo, 25, of Oklahoma City, all Lexington crew members; and Byron Gervis Courville, 32, of Meridian, Miss., a civilian employee of DynCorp which has a contract to maintain Navy aircraft.

The dead other than the pilot were all on the flight deck, officials said.

The ship was steaming in the Gulf of Mexico in clear weather about 30 miles south of its home port here when the jet crashed.

“As I see it,” Logan said, “he ended up in a position which in naval aviation is known as being low and slow, which is a very terrible place to be when you are coming aboard a ship.”

Landing signal officers radioed the pilot to add power and waved him off, but he did not comply, Logan said. He said an investigation would try to explain why.

The plane flipped upside down before a wing hit the island just below the control tower, the captain said. The wing tip broke off and remained embedded in the superstructure when the Lexington docked Monday.

The jet’s fuselage then smashed into the side of the island, but the ship showed little evidence of the accident other than the wreckage of the plane, still upside down, covered with orange and white parachutes.

It hit at the feet of Airman Dee Votolato of Houma, La., who was inside a glittering hotel Tuesday, October 31, 1989 The Observer pages.
4,000 hold rally for quake victims

Associated Press

OAKLAND, Calif. — There was no parade for baseball's world champions on Monday, just a muted rally in which the Oakland Athletics' triumph mingled with memories of this city's recent tragedy.

More than 4,000 fans of the A's, who completed a four-game sweep of the San Francisco Giants on Saturday, joined in the rally in Jack London Square. It began with music and a flag procession. A moment of silence planned for victims of the recent earthquake was forgotten in the excitement.

"The longer you have to wait for something, the more it means to you," said A's Manager Tony La Russa. "Nobody likes the reason we had to wait so long to be the world champions, but I know it means a great deal to all of us."

Each of the players, standing in front of a banner that read, "Oakland's World Serious," spoke briefly to the crowd.

A few minutes earlier, workers clearing battered vehicles from a crumpled section of Interstate 880 removed the car in which the last survivor of the freeway's collapse, longshoreman Buck Jim, was trapped for four days.

He remained in serious condition but continued to show slow improvement, said a spokeswoman for Hiltz Hospital. Thirty-nine people died in the accident.

There had been plans for a more traditional parade and ceremony at City Hall if the A's won the World Series. But those plans were canceled after the 7.1 magnitude quake struck Oct. 17, a half-hour before the originally scheduled third game at Candlestick Park.

The game was postponed until 10 days later, and the A's quickly ended the Series by winning the third and fourth games at Candlestick.

Many of the buildings along the planned parade route remained roped off, still too dangerous to enter, and the ornate City Hall is so badly damaged it may never reopen.

The rally, though small and tame compared with the parade after the San Francisco 49ers' Super Bowl victory last January, signaled another step toward recovery by the Bay area.

"People now are trying to find hope," said the Rev. Cecil Williams before his sermon Sunday at Glide Memorial Church in San Francisco. "Some people don't want to face the trauma, they don't want to face the pain. I'm hoping this will be a learning experience."

Bay area companies, hoping to bring back tourists and conventioners, are mounting advertising campaigns to show the world that San Francisco and Oakland still stand.

"We've had our natural disaster, we don't want an economic disaster," said Shelby Allen, vice president for marketing for the San Francisco Convention and Visitors Bureau, which is kicking off its pitch Thursday.

Hall, which owns 10 hotels in the Bay area, is launching a similar campaign in six newspapers across the country starting Tuesday.

"We're doing a lot because the world thinks we've stumbled into the bay. We're trying to project the image that the city is not in rubble," said Charles McElroy, general manager of the Hyatt-Regency in San Francisco.

In Oakland, a coalition of business groups called Celebrate Oakland hired three ad agencies to put together a campaign to show that the city is returning to normal. The Port of Oakland also is running ads headlined "Oakland Can Take It" in trade magazines.

"We've taken some licks, but we're on our way back," the ad says.

Recovery efforts also are continuing with donations from around the country.

A big truck rig carrying disaster relief supplies donated by the people of Evansville, Ind., was unloaded in Los Gatos for quake victims in that city, the Santa Cruz Mountains and Watsonville.

The American Society of Plastic and Reconstructive Surgeons, holding its annual meeting in San Francisco, asked each of the 2,000 attending doctors to donate $100 to help quake victims.

Traffic remains a major problem that may be getting worse, with 1-880 partly closed and the San Francisco-Oakland Bay Bridge still closed.

Bette Midler wins lawsuit against advertising agency

Associated Press

LOS ANGELES — Entertainer Bette Midler should get $440,000 from an advertising agency that imitated the Grammy-winning singer's voice in a TV commercial, a federal jury ruled Monday.

The U.S. District Court jury, which began deliberating Friday, decided that Young & Rubicam violated Miss Midler's rights by imitating her voice.

In a statement given reporters, the agency called the award "unfortunate but bearable."

Miss Midler testified, "I don't do commercials," and said one of her former backup singers was hired to perform the song "Do You Wanna Dance?" for a 1986 Mercury Sable car commercial after she turned down a request from Ford Motor Co.

Miss Midler also filed a $10 million lawsuit against Ford, but U.S. District Judge Wallace Tashima ruled Thursday there was insufficient evidence to proceed against the car company.

Miss Midler's attorney, Peter Laird, said he hoped "national advertisers and advertising agencies will think twice in the future before they disregard the rights of artists."

Laird told the jury his client never agreed to sing in the commercial, and she never would have.

"The agency 'took what they couldn't buy from Midler,'" he said.

"She had the right to say no. That right was taken away from her," Laird said.

LIVE! THIS SATURDAY NIGHT! 8 P.M. MORRIS AUDITORIUM
GO AND SEE IT! — It is full of the bile of human-kindness and the black wit that has looked at man and preferred the housely... it is also hilariously funny.
—Clive Barnes, New York Times

H e seems to have penetrated the man's soul... unquestionably the most successful one-man production of the American theater.
—Elliot Norton, Boston Herald American

W hat makes the portrait so remarkable is that the world changes, Holbrook changes his Twain with it."
—Richard L. Coe, Washington Post

D eeper, richer and more uncanny than ever now... a flawless characterization. The two hours spent with him is a rare theatrical experience.
—Douglas Watt, New York Daily News

HAL HOLBROOK

in "MARK TWAIN TONIGHT"

Welcome to South Bend by WSBT-TV 22 South Bend Broadcasting
STUDENTS, AFTER CHEERING NOTRE DAME TO VICTORY, CAP OFF THE DAY WITH THE PERFECT EVENING! RESERVE SEATS NOW at $23.00. ON SALE AT MORRIS AUDITORIUM OR CHARGE BY PHONE (219) 284-9190

The University of Notre Dame Office of the Provost presents:
Preservation Hall Jazz Band
of New Orleans
Tuesday, October 31 8:00 p.m.
Washington Hall

SOLD OUT

Tickets available in advance at Student Center Box Office 2.
MasterCard and Visa accepted
KGB protesters clubbed by police

Associated Press

MOSCOW — Helmeted riot police wielding truncheons reportedly charged and clubbed demonstrators Monday night after a candlelight vigil outside KGB headquarters in memory of Stalin's victims. Scores of protesters were knocked to the ground, beaten and dragged into police buses.

About 40 people were detained, the official Tass news agency said, in what was the harshest crackdown on protesters in Moscow in more than 11/2 years. Tass said the protesters were "trying to create as much disruption as possible, to display anti-Soviet posters and shout anti-Soviet slogans."

The clashes took place on some of central Moscow's busiest streets and were especially jarring because of the more permissive political climate instituted under President Mikhail Gorbachev's wide-ranging reforms.

About 1,000 Soviets converged on KGB headquarters at Pushkin Square after dusk to mark the unofficial "Day of the Political Prisoner" and mourn the millions who were wrongly imprisoned or killed under Joseph Stalin.

The hour-long protest, in which two rows of people holding flickering candles lined up on three sides of the building, proceeded peacefully. It had been organized by the Memorial Society, which seeks to commemorate those who suffered unjustly under Stalin, and the Democratic Union, a self-styled opposition to the Communist Party.

At the end of the demonstration, a splinter group of about 500 people, mostly young men, marched off in the direction of Pushkin Square, a favorite rallying site for human rights activists.

Chanting, "Shame on the KGB!" and "The KGB is the enemy of the people of the Union," the group was confronted without warning by riot police two blocks from Pushkin Square as they passed out leaflets to home-bound commuters.

The white-helmeted police, armed with long black rubber truncheons, formed a line, then waded into the protesters, clubbing at least four of their leaders to the ground, then dragging them into nearby buses for detention.

The demonstrators retreated, then formed again and headed to Gorky Square, the main thoroughfare leading to Pushkin Square. The riot police and other uniformed officers sealed off the square and split the protesters into two groups.

On Gorky Street, riot police again charged the demonstrators, taking about six into custody. As the protesters were dragged to the back of the police car, one demonstrator shouted: "Shame! Shame!" Several passers-by spat at a police car.

Another group of demonstrators, gathered on the southeast side of Pushkin Square, was also repeatedly charged by riot police, who ignored the dozens of television camera teams and foreign reporters who blocked the way.

Police formed a flying wedge to charge young people gathered under a Gorky Street archway, and dozens were seized bodily and dragged away to the waiting buses.

This was the roughest treatment of an unsanctioned demonstration in Moscow since December 1987, when about 200 bicyclists in civilian clothes roughed up Jews who staged a protest demanding the right to emigrate on the eve of Gorbachev's departure for his Washington summit with Ronald Reagan.

The 6 p.m. protest outside KGB headquarters began quietly as dozens of rural units of the KGB surrounded the demonstration and directed traffic at Pushkin Square. At the center of the square is a statue of Felix Dzerzhinsky, founder of the KGB.

The demonstrators held candles and signs saying, "Shame on the KGB Executuors!" and "Down with the KGB!"

Indian leader finds hostility in elections

Associated Press

NEW DELHI, India — The main opposition leader, barely able to file in time Monday because of a bomb threat and other delays, accused the governing party of "masterminding a plot" to keep him out of next month's elections.

Analysts say the parliamentary elections Nov. 22 and 26 may be the closest since India gained independence from Britain 42 years ago.

Vishwanath Pratap Singh, leader of the Janata Dal party, filed his nomination papers in the Fatehpur district barely half an hour before the deadline on a day filled with delay and diversion.

He had been airborne 28 minutes when his plane, part of the government-run Vayudoot Airlines fleet, returned to New Delhi because of a bomb threat. Singh conducted a protest at the airport before hitting the media. After a three-hour delay, in which no bomb was found but a technical problem was reported, the plane again took off for Kanpur, the nearest airport to Fatehpur.

After that, Singh had to drive two hours to reach Fatehpur in time to file his papers, he said. The 58-year-old opposition leader is former Prime Minister Rajiv Gandhi who has served him as defense and finance minister, claimed Gandhi's governing Congress Party was responsible.

"It is a defeat of the government," said N.C. Jain, a Janata Dal official. "He reached Fatehpur barely 30 minutes before the nominations were to close, but he did it."
Snow
continued from page 1

Tooley and Breslin to discuss the possibilities of preventing the fight, which usually occurs they try to stop the first snowfall on campus.

The Administration offered me a comment, said Hanley, adding that it wanted the students to be concerned about stopping the fight. Hanley and Tooley then called presidents of halls normally involved in the annual fight, asking them to help discourage negative sentiments.

"As far as we were concerned, that was all we could do," Hanley said.

Hanley and Breslin said they were concerned by Tyson's comment that their efforts were unsuccessful. They said little advance warning and no administrative suggestions was not sufficient to stop the fight.

The University did issue a special bulletin on Oct. 19 to all halls, stating that "any individual involved in throwing snowballs...will face serious disciplinary consequences."

"Further, the student body as a whole is being held accountable for any damage done to University property," Director of Housing Affairs K. Tyler said in the bulletin.

South Campus President Brian O'Keefe said Tyson's reaction is more than harsh. "I think he

SMC
continued from page 3

Since many dorms have already made purchases with their allotments, it is possible that the money does not cover them will come from Student Activities funds, decreasing the number of social activities for all students.

Film
continued from page 1

to change Hollywood's predominant attitude against hiring blacks and minorities in starring roles. The 32-year-old actor is interested in making his own films. He has had trouble in the past portraying a one-sided character and believes in full character development. Epstein would like his movies to have a message.

The Quarter Mile, a fund-raiser sponsored by United Way was cancelled last Friday as the result of the snowball fight, and has been rescheduled for this Friday, a Student Senate representative said.

Hall Presidents Council Co-Chair Diane Toohey, who was injured during the senior class trip to Cancun when she fell from a fourth floor balcony, is recovering from a concussion, a knee injury, and cuts and bruises, according to Matt Breslin, student body president.

The actor describes himself as an "African American," and has shared his singing and acting talent in the Broadway production of "Maggie Flynn," "The Me Nobody Knows," "Lost in the Stars" and "Via Galactica."

"The right choice was there when I needed it. I made that choice, and now I'm a physician. My alma mater may be just right for you. It's your choice."

Unidad Autónoma de Guadalajara School of Medicine
Guadalajara, Mexico

The International Choice
For your free video preview call: 1-800-531-5494
30 mil. pensions at stake
Supreme Court decision expected by July

Associated Press

WASHINGTON — Federal protection for 30 million American workers' pensions could be at stake in a dispute the Supreme Court agreed to resolve Monday.

The justices said they would decide what authority the Pension Benefit Guaranty Corporation, a federal agency, has to order employers to revive scraped pension plans.

A federal appeals court limited such authority by setting aside the agency's order that LTV Corp. and its subsidiary, LTV Steel Co., restore three pension plans with unfunded liabilities of $2.3 billion.

Government lawyers say the ruling, if not overturned, could make the agency "an open-ended source of industry bailouts" and spark a financial crisis similar to the one facing the government's insurance program for the savings and loan industry.

The justices' decision is expected by July.

Marcos contends Reagan approved plea bargain

Associated Press

NEW YORK — President Reagan personally approved a plea bargain offered to Ferdinand and Imelda Marcos three days before they were indicted in October 1988, Mrs. Marcos' attorney says in court papers.

The papers add detail to reported failed negotiations just before the deposed Philippine leader and his wife were charged with siphoning more than $100 million out of their country's treasury and into the United States.

Marcos died Sept. 28. His wife awaits trial at U.S. District Court in Manhattan.

Mrs. Marcos' lawyer, Richard Hibey, said in the papers filed last month that government lawyers conceded to what government lawyers contended is a "follow-on" arrangement. Under it, LTV agreed to make up any benefits lost to employees because of the pension plans' termination — those benefits not covered by the federal insurance program.

The result was employees continued to receive the same benefits they did before the plans were terminated, and payment of unfunded pension liabilities shifted to the PBGC.

The trial of Mrs. Marcos started the meeting by advising us that the president was aware that the meeting was taking place, and what would be conveyed to us during the conference had the president's full knowledge and approval," Hibey said.

While the personal attention of the president in a criminal case is unusual, White House involvement can be expected in sensitive matters that carry implications for U.S. foreign policy, government spokesmen said.

"It's not usual for the White House to be involved in the conduct of cases. It's not usual for the attorney general to be involved in the handling of criminal cases," Dave Runkel, Justice Department spokesman, said Monday.

"But there are those times when issues do rise to the level of the attorney general or the White House."

Runkel and Reagan's spokesman, Mark Weinberg, declined to comment on the Marcos case because it is pending in the courts.

Marcos, who died Sept. 28, and his wife were charged in a racketeering indictment Oct. 21, 1988, three days after the meeting described by Hibey.

The trial of Mrs. Marcos and her other co-defendants, including Saudi financier Adnan Khashoggi, is scheduled to begin March 14.
Witches at N.Y. Center for the Strange predict future

Each year at Halloween, the center, which claims to be a non-profit organization involved in researching and publishing a list of predictions based on a poll of 300 watches.

Associate research director Lewis Scott insists these are not cackling types on brooms, but instead include a New York real estate tycoon, several members of Congress and the wife of a television evangelist.

In addition to predicting that Chicago will replace Paris as a center for haute couture, Koch will become a diplomat and raw fish will be an even faster food than hamburgers, this year's survey finds that:

• Vice President Dan Quayle will write a book of rhymes for preschoolers.
• Geraldo Rivera will claim he was captured by visitors from outer space.

There will be nationwide shortages of herring, bananas, billboard balls and Marilyn Quayle posters.

A new book will claim that Zsa Zsa Gabor was born and raised in Houston.

• The Japanese will market a line of large laptop computers for obese traveling executives.

The Strange people claim a track record. In previous years, they predicted Richard Nixon's resignation, new Farferts for Eastern Europe and low raitings for Pat Olzaj's talk show, they say.

But a look at predictions from 1987 does not inspire confidence.

Remember when British Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher appeared in a Jane Fonda workout video? No? Remember when Michael Jackson tried to adopt Jim and Tammy Bakker, or when Oliver North started a chain of military summer camps? Maybe you were out of town that week.

Or maybe ... you were in the strange zone.

---

Security Beat

MON., OCT. 23
10:30 a.m.: A resident of New York reported that his car had been vandalized while it was parked in Red Field between 1 and 3:30 p.m. on Oct. 21. Damage is estimated at $500.

3:30 p.m.: A Mississippi woman was cited by Notre Dame Police for Disregarding an Automatic Signal at the corner of Anderburg and Notre Dame Avenue.

7:48 p.m.: Notre Dame Police cited a South Bend man for Exceeding the Speed Limit and for No License in Possession. The defendant had been traveling 35 mph in a 30 mph zone on Notre Dame Avenue.

TUES., OCT. 24
12:07 a.m.: Notre Dame Police cited a Yoakum resident for Disregarding an Automatic Signal at the corner of Juniper and Don Rd.

9:15 a.m.: A visitor to campus reported that his wallet had been taken from his pocket while he attended the Notre Dame Open men's tennis tournament.

His loss is estimated at $114.

WED., OCT. 25
5:06 a.m.: A Notre Dame alumnus reported that the low school had been broken into between 3:45 and 5:06 a.m. at this time, no items have been reported missing.

---

The University Directories are in!!

Off campus and graduate students, please pick them up at the secretary's desk on the 2nd floor of LaFortune.

On-campus students contact your RA or Hall President.

---

The Observer

Tuesday, October 31, 1989

Witches at N.Y. Center for the Strange predict future

Each year at Halloween, the center, which claims to be a non-profit organization involved in researching and publishing a list of predictions based on a poll of 300 watches.

Associate research director Lewis Scott insists these are not cackling types on brooms, but instead include a New York real estate tycoon, several members of Congress and the wife of a television evangelist.

In addition to predicting that Chicago will replace Paris as a center for haute couture, Koch will become a diplomat and raw fish will be an even faster food than hamburgers, this year's survey finds that:

• Vice President Dan Quayle will write a book of rhymes for preschoolers.
• Geraldo Rivera will claim he was captured by visitors from outer space.

There will be nationwide shortages of herring, bananas, billboard balls and Marilyn Quayle posters.

A new book will claim that Zsa Zsa Gabor was born and raised in Houston.

• The Japanese will market a line of large laptop computers for obese traveling executives.

The Strange people claim a track record. In previous years, they predicted Richard Nixon's resignation, new Farferts for Eastern Europe and low raitings for Pat Olzaj's talk show, they say.

But a look at predictions from 1987 does not inspire confidence.

Remember when British Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher appeared in a Jane Fonda workout video? No? Remember when Michael Jackson tried to adopt Jim and Tammy Bakker, or when Oliver North started a chain of military summer camps? Maybe you were out of town that week.

Or maybe ... you were in the strange zone.

---

Security Beat

MON., OCT. 23
10:30 a.m.: A resident of New York reported that his car had been vandalized while it was parked in Red Field between 1 and 3:30 p.m. on Oct. 21. Damage is estimated at $500.

3:30 p.m.: A Mississippi woman was cited by Notre Dame Police for Disregarding an Automatic Signal at the corner of Anderburg and Notre Dame Avenue.

7:48 p.m.: Notre Dame Police cited a South Bend man for Exceeding the Speed Limit and for No License in Possession. The defendant had been traveling 35 mph in a 30 mph zone on Notre Dame Avenue.

TUES., OCT. 24
12:07 a.m.: Notre Dame Police cited a Yoakum resident for Disregarding an Automatic Signal at the corner of Juniper and Don Rd.

9:15 a.m.: A visitor to campus reported that his wallet had been taken from his pocket while he attended the Notre Dame Open men's tennis tournament.

His loss is estimated at $114.

WED., OCT. 25
5:06 a.m.: A Notre Dame alumnus reported that the low school had been broken into between 3:45 and 5:06 a.m. at this time, no items have been reported missing.

---

The University Directories are in!!

Off campus and graduate students, please pick them up at the secretary's desk on the 2nd floor of LaFortune.

On-campus students contact your RA or Hall President.

---

The Observer

Tuesday, October 31, 1989
The Observer is the independent newspaper published by the students of the University of Notre Dame, Indiana. It does not necessarily reflect the policies of the administration of either institution. The news is reported as accurately and objectively as possible. The following is a list of the editorial staff: Editor-in-Chief, Managing Editor, Executive News Editor, Viewpoint Editor, Sports Editor, Arts & Features Editor, Opinion Editor, Photo Editor, Business Manager. Comments, letters, and the inside column present the views of the authors. Column space is available to all members of the community and the free expression of varying opinions on campus, through letters, is encouraged.

Militarism vs. religion: the great ND paradox

By Kurt Mills

Our Dame is a great place to be. Yet, at the same time, it is one gigantic paradox. It is schizophrenic to the point of psychosis. There are many reasons, but I will talk only about one. This concerns its identification as a Catholic university and its actual practices. More specifically, there is a fundamental and contradictory tension between assigning itself with Christianity and with the militarism and violence it promotes.

Militarism and violence, you say, what is this guy talking about? About the fact that ten percent of the undergraduates at Notre Dame are in ROTC. Well yes, you say. ROTC is a big thing here, but is it necessary? After all, we need a strong defense in order to defend our nation which God has chosen as special, and since this is true, as an institution associated with Catholicism should do what ever it can to further this effort.

What arrogance, and what a total distortion of the "true" message of Jesus which people here believe they follow. Whether one sees Jesus as a historical figure or as something more, the message to which he brought was pacifism, pure and simple. It was the other cheek. It was love.

Our Dame hardly advances these causes by advocating and benefiting from the teaching of killing and mass destruction. It's not just the army and see the world. It's Join the army and learn how to napalm the people of the Soviet Union. The university directly benefits from this instruction in violence. It gets significant amounts of money—millions of dollars—from ROTC scholarships which might not get otherwise, and ROTC provides instructors, thereby relieving Notre Dame's financial burden even further. What a great deal.

At the same time, let us look at the flip side—the teaching of peace rather than war. The degree of attention given to peace studies is for an M.A.—about twenty-five people or so. There is, in a word, a concentration in peace studies in which about one hundred and fifty students participate—less than two percent of the undergraduates, and even this program is not accorded nearly the same status as ROTC. Why? Well, among other things, money. Notre Dame does not make money off of these people in the same way it does with ROTC. If the Federal government decided to change its massively skewed priorities and decided it was a good idea to support students in the peaceful resolution of conflicts and violence, it thought it was important enough to fund it. I know it's a fantasy, but we all wonder if Notre Dame would be more than happy to take the money and set up a real major in peace studies. As it stands, this contradiction glares as a testimony to the power of money.

Moving away from money, and back to Catholicism, I am sure that many people at this very conservative institution will be shocked to find out that Jesus was a radical. Yes, you heard me right, a radical. Love thy neighbor, as well as thy enemy, is a radical concept. How many people here, or anywhere, follow this? Not many. An even more radical concept, nonviolence—total, absolute nonviolence. I will bet some of you feel sort of uncomfortable hearing this, and that's good. If any of you out there who consider yourselves Christians are not at least attempting to lead a non-violent life, how can you say that you follow Christ? The message is clear—do not harm other people. By the same token, a university which professors to be Catholic cannot condone the teaching of murder. The Catholic Church, in a self-righteous proclamation, has decided that abortion is murder and therefore immoral. I wonder, then, why they do not totally and absolutely condemn all other violence and murder, and the teaching thereof.

Some will say that it is not the responsibility of the University to outlaw certain form of knowledge, to engage in consciousness by not allowing ROTC on campus. In addition, many will argue that the University exists to train people in their chosen vocation, and that to deny ten percent of the undergraduates what they want to learn is irresponsible. On the first question, I might agree to a point. It is definitely not the role of education to censor ideas, whether they come in the form of reading violence or a movie like The Last Temptation of Christ. If it allows training in violence, however, I would say that, by definition, Notre Dame cannot be a Catholic university.

On the second point, it is the job of the University to outlaw certain form of violence. I hope that all students will agree that the University should take sensible action in this regard.
How to call Plato for a philo paper

JOHN BLASI
accent editor

"People shouldn't be afraid of cemeteries. Cemeteries are consecrated ground. Evil spirits cannot be called up on consecrated ground."

CAMPUS:
At the Snite:
- Huie's Sermon/God's Arg about the edges of existence
- Sorcerer (1977)
- Devil Candle, an oil with a cloth. astral candles
- Personal candle an oil in the front of the al

LOCAL:
- And what would Halloween be but Hades Haunted House in
- Old Studebaker Park in
- At Cushing:
- Young Frankenstein at 8 p.m. to 10 p.m.
- Nightmare on Elm Street at CHICAGO:

- Hades Haunted House in area's scariest and is trave
- Tired of burning the candle at both ends...
tional for the proposal spell. Simply light all the candles, allow them to burn, and say, "Shine with favor upon the one I love and light the path to the altar." Similar ceremonies can facilitate the breakup of another's love affair, help to dispel rumors, and even assist in winning a lawsuit.

Not only that, candle wax can prove extremely adept at predicting the future. A few drops of wax in a dish of cold water can reveal what the future holds in store. A little interpretation regarding shape may be necessary. If the wax takes the shape of an anchor, a loved one is true. A pair of trousers signifies temptation close at hand. Psychic energy at this time of year is extremely potent. Students who find their GPA's are running away from them at this time might discover that a few minutes spent over symbolic candles are worth a few hours at the library.

Calendar

with the perfect costume to hit one of the there are quite a few other festivities to p.m.
10:00 p.m.
without haunted houses? Due to the art the lights were on. The room was pitch black. I looked up in the balcony and there, in the center of the very last row, I saw the shadow of a person! Really!

Many of the numerous Notre Dame alumni have related this story, as it is a rumor that has been around Washington Hall for years. Notre Dame has its own supposedly haunted building, just as any town or community does. But, is Washington Hall supposedly haunted, or is it really haunted?

The rumor of Washington Hall being haunted began back in the 1920s. For months, students living in the Hall heard peculiar noises coming from the locked band room — noises like someone playing a tuba or a trumpet. The band room was locked, however, and when opened,
no one was inside.

People have speculated that the phantom is George Gipp (he slept on the steps of Washington Hall on a cold night and became fatally ill), or a Cavalry soldier slain by Indians (the campus is built on hallowed Indian burial grounds.)

After the spectral trumpeteer passed on, other ghosts took its place. These ghosts slammed doors on windless nights and flushed all the toilets at once, after all the students were in bed (they had a curfew back then.) One man claimed he saw a ghost on a phantom horse outside climbing the steps to the second floor.

The ghost sightings were not just a 20s fad, either, because in the 60s the ghostly claims were still going strong.

One student turned off the lights on stage and was then unable to turn them back on — there was something, or someone, keeping the switch in the "off" position.

In addition, before the Washington Hall renovations, one room in the hall was painted black. A student sleeping in the room awoke with the feeling of not being alone in the room. In the moonlight coming through the window, he saw a figure, ten feet tall, standing in the window.

Even as recently as 1985 the haunting has been reported. A group of students with a Ouija board set up on stage and asked the ghost if he (it?) wanted to speak with them.
The pointer darted to "No" and "Goodbye" and stopped. When the students asked why, the pointer moved back and forth between the letters "S" and "G," moved to "Goodbye" again, and stopped. The students fled.

Once out of Washington Hall, they looked back and saw that a security guard had just woken up. They had been warned just in time.

Is this ghostly figure a figment of active alumni imagination, or is someone truly there? Maybe this year we will find out.
Baton Rouge, La. (AP) — The letters make the loss of privacy worthwhile for Chris Jackson.

Only the second freshman ever named a college basketball All-American, Jackson suffers from Tourette's syndrome, a nervous disorder that can cause victims to twitch, gesture, grunt or shout involuntarily.

Jackson seemed almost embarrassed last year when knowledge of his illness accompanied national attention given his basketball exploits. He averaged 30 points a game for Louisiana State University and twice topped 50 points in a game, breaking records set by Oklahoma's Wayman Tisdale when he was a freshman All-American at Oklahoma in the 1982-83 season.

Going into his second season at LSU, Jackson is flooded with letters from other victims of Tourette's syndrome.

"I've had a lot of feedback on it — a lot of kids, a lot of parents write me telling me about their kids," he said.

"Grown men have told me they were afraid to go outside for years. One man told me, 'You're doing so much. I'm not afraid to go out anymore.' I read one letter, a kid's mama wrote and said he read the article in Sports Illustrated. She said he was reading about some of the things I do, and that encouraged him to try to do more."

He said there is now an organization devoted to providing information on Tourette's syndrome.

"They showed us a film with a guy, every second he was moving, talking, spitting, making signs. They told me I have a mild case. I'm kind of lucky. People have it worse than I have," he said.

Opponents sometimes misinterpreted his involuntary gestures for hot-dogging and thought he grunted spontaneously.

Meditation can help control the symptoms, but work different ways on each person and have different side effects, he said.

"I'm on some new medication prescribed by a specialist in Houston — Prozac in the morning and Prolixin at night. It doesn't have some of the side effects of the medicine I was using," Jackson said. "It's working pretty good."

"The last medicine made me gain weight and retain water. I felt bloated all the time. This makes me lose weight, which I prefer. I feel quicker and stronger. I'm 168 this year, and I got up to 188 last year. I felt drowsy at night. These don't make me drowsy at all."

Mediation is a common problem for victims.

Jackson was told he had a mild case. I'm kind of lucky. 'I'm always nervous before something. That's all I knew it was — habits.' That's all I knew it was — habits.'"

"When I got in high school, the coach took me to a doctor, and that's when I found out there was a name for what I had. I felt a lot better. I knew I wasn't the only one in the world, and I knew there was something I could do for it."

A common theme in the letters he gets from other victims is that they feel better knowing they are not alone, he said.

His worst time was during his senior year in high school when recruiting got truly ugly, he said. Rumors circulated that he was almost a hostage of his mother, being auctioned off to the highest bidder. He denies those rumors but admits his mother tore up the first letter she read.

"I didn't know what to do," he said.

"When you get upset about something, that's when it really gets you. In high school, I was under so much pressure for a high school kid, and I didn't know what I wanted to do. That's when it was worst."

"I've gone to a doctor, and I was reading about it — a lot of kids, a lot of parents write me telling me about their kids," he said.

"I went to a doctor, and he gave me some medicine. He told me I was going to have some "habits.' That's all I knew it was — habits.'"

"When I got in high school, the coach took me to a doctor, and that's when I found out there was a name for what I had. I felt a lot better. I knew I wasn't the only one in the world, and I knew there was something I could do for it."

A common theme in the letters he gets from other victims is that they feel better knowing they are not alone, he said.

His worst time was during his senior year in high school when recruiting got truly ugly, he said. Rumors circulated that he was almost a hostage of his mother, being auctioned off to the highest bidder. He denies those rumors but admits his mother tore up the first letter she read.

"When you get upset about something, that's when it really gets you. In high school, I was under so much pressure for a high school kid, and I didn't know what I wanted to do. That's when it was worst."

"I'm white, I're nervous before something. That's all I knew it was — habits.' That's all I knew it was — habits.'"

"When I got in high school, the coach took me to a doctor, and that's when I found out there was a name for what I had. I felt a lot better. I knew I wasn't the only one in the world, and I knew there was something I could do for it."

A common theme in the letters he gets from other victims is that they feel better knowing they are not alone, he said.

His worst time was during his senior year in high school when recruiting got truly ugly, he said. Rumors circulated that he was almost a hostage of his mother, being auctioned off to the highest bidder. He denies those rumors but admits his mother tore up the first letter she read.

"When you get upset about something, that's when it really gets you. In high school, I was under so much pressure for a high school kid, and I didn't know what I wanted to do. That's when it was worst."

18 apply for free agency

New York (AP) — Mark Langston ended his brief stay with the Montreal Expos Monday when he was among 18 players who filed for free agency on the first possible day.

Langston, acquired by the Expos from Seattle on May 25, is seeking at least $3 million per season and is the most-talented starting pitcher eligible among the 117 players eligible for free agency.

"The chances of him going back to the Expos are, well, I wouldn't say none but say very slim," said Art Tellum, Langston's agent.

First baseman Nick Esasky of the Boston Red Sox was the first player to declare free agency, filing with the Major League Baseball Players Association at 9:05 a.m. Monday when he was among 117 players eligible for free agency.

Others filing included pitchers Jeff Reardon and Shane Rawley of Minnesota, right fielder Floyd Bannister and Steve Crawford of Kansas City, catcher Gary Soto of the San Diego Padres and pitcher Ted Power of St. Louis, first baseman Pete O'Brien of the Chicago Cubs, outfielders Frank Tanana of Detroit and Walt Terrell of the New York Yankees, and outfielders Rick Leach of Texas and Lee Mazzilli of Toronto.

Also filing Monday were outfielder Dave Collins of Cincinnati, pitcher Randyophyl, pitcher Rich Blom of Houston, infielder Tim Teufel of the New York Mets and outfielder Carrefa Martinez of San Diego.

Player representatives eligible have until Nov. 13 to file.

Two players who would have been eligible for free agency had their options for 1990 exercised on Monday: George Bell of Toronto at $2.1 million and infielder Tim Foy of Montreal at $335,000.

Seattle traded pitchers Randy Johnson, Scott Holman and Gene Trani to Montreal for Langston, who made $1.3 million this season. The Expos have said they want to retain him but last week withdrew their offer.
ND hockey splits weekend games

By STEVE MEGARGEE
Associate Sports Editor

In a weekend that saw plenty of goals and a lot more defense, the Notre Dame hockey team opened its season by splitting two games with the Rochester Institute of Technology at the Joyce A.C.

The Irish scored in the first period to take a 1-0 lead in the opening game. Robert Copeland scored the second Irish goal on a power play at 3:19 of the period, with freshman Curtis Janickie recording the assist. After RIT answered that six minutes later with Todd Person's second goal of the evening, second-period scores by Notre Dame's Michael Carney and Lou Zdra tied the game at 4-4.

"That second period was as good as any practice or scrimmage we've had all year," said Schaefer.

With both teams falling to take advantage of third-period scoring opportunities, RIT's Charlie Forlesius finally gave the Tigers a 5-4 lead with 2:05 remaining.

Another penalty cost the Tigers. On a power play situation, David Bankoske, last year's 10-26-2 campaign a little more hockey savvy," I said to myself. "You had me nervous." It was a nemesis for us last year. But the Tigers have a little more youth but not of less than three minutes. With both teams failing to take advantage of third-period scoring opportunities, RIT and Notre Dame are tied at 5-5 after an overtime period with Notre Dame winning the game in a span of less than three minutes.

"I'm glad to see that we have a pair of short-handed goals in our win Friday. That was a nemesis for us last year. But the Tigers have a little more youth but not of less than three minutes. With both teams failing to take advantage of third-period scoring opportunities, RIT and Notre Dame are tied at 5-5 after an overtime period with Notre Dame winning the game in a span of less than three minutes.

"I'm glad to see that we have a pair of short-handed goals in our win Friday. That was a nemesis for us last year. But the Tigers have a little more youth but not of less than three minutes. With both teams failing to take advantage of third-period scoring opportunities, RIT and Notre Dame are tied at 5-5 after an overtime period with Notre Dame winning the game in a span of less than three minutes.

"I'm glad to see that we have a pair of short-handed goals in our win Friday. That was a nemesis for us last year. But the Tigers have a little more youth but not of less than three minutes. With both teams failing to take advantage of third-period scoring opportunities, RIT and Notre Dame are tied at 5-5 after an overtime period with Notre Dame winning the game in a span of less than three minutes.
Men capture conference title again

By MARY GARINO
Sports Writer

They did it again. For the second year in a row, the men’s cross-country team captured the Midwestern Collegiate Conference championship, beating out seven other teams for the title.

The Irish won in impressive fashion, placing six runners in the top ten to edge second place Loyola by eight points, 27-35. The meet, held Saturday in Milwaukee, ended up as a battle between Notre Dame and Loyola, a team the Irish defeated earlier this year at the National Catholics, when Notre Dame finished first and Loyola took third.

Head coach Joe Piane and the rest of the Irish runners anticipated that Loyola and Notre Dame would be the dominant teams, which proved to be correct as runners from the two teams made up nine of the top ten finishers. But Loyola was unable to upset the Irish.

“We knew it would be a dual meet between Loyola and us, and that’s the way it turned out,” said Piane. “It was a good meet, though, and a good preparation for the NCAAs.”

Mike O’Connor continued to lead the Irish as the MCC Championships as he has done all year for the team. O’Connor was the third overall finisher in the race, following two runners from Loyola.

Freshman J.T. Burke placed fourth, and Pat Kearns was close behind in fifth. Kearns continues to post good numbers as he struggles to come back from injuries.

Loyola took the sixth spot in the race, but Notre Dame’s Tom O’Rourke came in seventh to complete the Irish scoring and secure the victory.

“I was pleased with our top seven runners, but I am also confident that our fourth, fifth, sixth and sevenths can run better,” Piane said.

Marquette was a distant third in the meet, with a total of 100 points. The rest of the field of eight squads accumulated over 100 points each.

The Irish victory at the MCC Championships was the second triumph for the team over fall break. On October 21, the Irish hosted Southern California and had an easy victory, trouncing the Trojans 17-44.

O’Connor, Burke, O’Rourke and Kearns were the top finishers in the race. Southern Cal averted a sweep by taking the fifth and sixth places, but Ryan Cahill placed seventh to round out the Irish scoring. Notre Dame had seven runners across the finish line before USC had a third finisher. Southern Cal’s much-touted Fredson Maytek did not present any challenge for the victory, and the Irish paid the Trojans back for last year’s defeat.

“They had beaten us the year before, so the guys wanted to prove something,” Piane said. “Our kids were really very fired up.”

The USC meet and the MCC championships both served as valuable experience and confidence boosters for the Irish as they head into the NCAA District IV meet in two weeks. The meet qualifies four teams for the NCAA championships, held on November 20. Notre Dame has placed in the top ten in the country in the past two years with strong performances in the NCAAs, and the Irish would like to repeat that success.

Irish disappointed with MCC showing

By BARBARA MORAN

Sports Writer

The women’s cross country team had a bittersweet midsemester break, taking both a strong win over Marquette in a dual meet at the outset of break and a tough loss to Dayton at the MCC championships last weekend.

The Irish had a decisive win over MCC rival Marquette, beating the Warriors by a score of 18 to 44. Only one Marquette runner finished in the top five, with Notre Dame capturing the top two spots. Irish runner Lucy Nusrala placed first overall, with teammate Amy Blaising second. Both Blaising and Nusrala were awarded All-Conference honors.

“Should have won,” said the coach. “We just didn’t run well. Dayton had a better team last year, but they beat us more convincingly this year. They beat us by two points last year, but Dayton finished with a total score of 35, while the Irish ended up with 57 points. Lucy Nusrala again finished first for the Irish, taking fourth overall. The other top ten finisher for Notre Dame was Amy Blaising, who took ninth overall. Both Blaising and Nusrala were awarded All-Conference honors.

“We should have won,” said the coach. “We just didn’t run well. Dayton had a better team last year, but they beat us more convincingly this year. They beat us by two points last year, but at least we competed last year.”

“I’m not really sure why we ran so poorly,” said Connelly. “We were certainly well rested. Dayton just beat us. They’re not a better team in terms of talent, they just wanted it more than we did.”

Cutting Edge Review Sharpens Study Skills

CHICAGO—Viewed by the industry as the most progressive CPA review program in the country, Conviser Duffy continues to make unprecedented achievements in applying accelerated learning techniques.

Michael J. Duffy, National Program Director, feels that the learning method used by their lecturers “eliminates the mental block that inhibits most students’ natural learning ability. As the student becomes more relaxed, his or her ability to recall increases.

Duffy feels that his program exercises the ability of the CPA candidate to both visualize their goal (passing the CPA exam) and realize it. How? By learning to do the following:

—Create a relaxed study environment —Make the mental associations upon which visual learning depends —Rehearse and immediately reinforce information
—Organize and group ideas
—Interact with the lecturer

The above points are neatly tied together with Conviser Duffy’s live/video presentation, comprehensive textbooks, workbook, tape make-up facilities and unconditional guarantee.

Says Duffy, “Preparing for the CPA exam is serious business and it takes a serious commitment from both parties to succeed.” All this is powerful news for the accountant who wants to gain his certification with the most professional streamline review on the market.

Further information may be obtained by phoning 1-800-274-EXAM.
Baseball squad falls to USC, 8-1

BY STEVE MEGARGEE
Associate Sports Editor

Bearing a lineup almost entirely different from that which reached the NCAA tournament last year, the Notre Dame baseball team felt the sting of Southern California in the Irish Fall Classic at Covelles Stadium.

Aside from Joe Binkiewicz at first base, Cary Mee at second, captain Ed Lund at catcher and Brian Piotrowicz as the starting pitcher, none of the players on last year's Irish starting lineup were returning starters at their positions. This year's Irish will be entering this spring with virtually a brand-new team.

The inexperienced Irish team compiled five errors and managed only six hits off a very sound USC pitching staff.

"Our youth showed," Notre Dame coach Pat Murphy said after the Oct. 21 afternoon contest. "The credit goes to USC. That team, like Miami last year, will be in the College World Series. You can't beat teams like that every time."

Notre Dame developed a reputation last season for knocking off the nation's elite, starting with the winning of a berth to Miami during the regular season.

Texas and Miami each were ranked among the nation's top five teams before playing Notre Dame, and both eventually reached the College World Series.

But the only surprising element of this contest, sponsored by the South Bend Tribune, was that it even came off at all. Regularly scheduled for the nights of Oct. 19-20 (the two days before the Notre Dame-USC football game), those contests got postponed by the unseasonal snowfall.

The exhibition contest finally was played on a sunny Sunday afternoon, the day after the football game.

USC wasted no time getting on the scoreboard, with Brett Jenkins hitting a towering two-out solo home run to left field off Piotrowicz in the first inning.

The Trojans added a single run in the second inning.

Notre Dame then kept the game close, with freshman pitcher David Sinnes holding USC scoreless for the next three innings.

USC put the game away with a four-run outburst in the sixth inning. The Trojans had only two hits in the inning, but they took advantage of a Notre Dame fielding error and four walks allowed by Irish pitchers.

Damon Buford, the son of former major leaguer Don, delivered the key blow, a bases-loaded double that scored Mike Robertson and Corey Aurand.

Following the game, Boone Robertson (2-for-2, 2 RBI) was named as USC's most valuable player for the game and Mike Bokits (2-for-3) received the same honor for Notre Dame.

Mike Bokits

The Irish scored their only run in the eighth, when pinch-hitter Jason Martinez hit a sacrifice fly that scored Mee, who had led off the inning with a double.

USC added two runs in the ninth, as the Irish committed two errors.

"Three of Notre Dame's errors came from the third base position. Following the departure of Pat Pesavento last spring, Murphy moved third baseman Mike Coss to shortstop and had Craig Counsell go from the outfield to third base. Counsell committed two errors, and replacement Mike Rooney had one of the ninth-inning miscues.

"We've got a problem at third base," said Murphy. "We don't have a solid third baseman. We're going to rectify that problem really quick."

Sophomore Brian Conway and freshmen Pat Leahy, Chris Michalak and Alan Walania all had turns on the mound after Sinnes left the game in the sixth inning. Both Walsh and Roberto were impressed with the performances of Sinnes, Michalak and Walania.

After the game, Boone was 2-for-2, 2 RBIs and was named as USC's most valuable player for the game and Mike Bokits had 2 RBIs and 2 for 3.

The Irish committed two errors, and replacement Mike Rooney had the ninth-inning miscue.

"The longer you have to wait for something, the more it means to you," A's Manager Tony La Russa said. "Nobody likes the reason we had to wait so long to be the world champions, but I know it means a great deal to all of us."

The 1989 Athletics, La Russa said, are among the best teams in baseball history, including the 1975 Cincinnati Reds and the 1927 New York Yankees.

Each of the players, standing in front of a banner that read, "Oakland's World Series Champions," spoke briefly to the crowd.

Michael Lamb

Chief, Section on Social and Emotional Development, U.S. Dept. of Health and Human Services

The Changing Roles of Fathers

Wed., Nov. 1, 1989
4:15 PM
Annenberg Auditorium,
Smith Museum of Art
Bo concerned about Boilermakers

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP) — See if this sounds familiar. A stoic Bo Schembechler strides into his weekly press luncheon Monday, his brow furrowed and concern on his face.

After all, his team is 6-1 overall and unbeaten at home in the Big Ten. Michigan's next opponent is Purdue, which has lost six straight despite a valiant comeback attempt at home last Saturday against Michigan State.

This is no time to relax, Schembechler said of the Boilermakers, who scored 21 points in the final 6 1/2 minutes against Michigan State. "I always figure if I get nervous, the kids do the same thing," he said. "We cannot afford to lose a game."

No. 5 Michigan beat Indiana 38-10 on Saturday, giving it six straight victories despite a 4-0 in the Big Ten. Michigan's next opponent is Purdue, which has lost six straight despite a valiant comeback attempt at home last Saturday against Michigan State.

Schembechler said he expects the Boilermakers (4-3, 0-3) to start freshman quarterback Eric Hunter, who adds his scrambling ability to Purdue's run-and-shoot offense. "I think we had better prepare for a scrambling quarterback. If we don't, it's a mistake," Schembechler said. "Michigan State couldn't catch him, he's so quick."
Nebraska.

Florida State back where it began

Florida State is back where it started in The Associated Press college football poll. The Seminoles were sixth in the preseason rankings, but dropped out of the Top 25 after losing their first two games. However, they have won six straight and are back up to No. 6 in Monday's poll.

Saturday's 24-10 victory over Miami moved the Seminoles up three places in the rankings. Miami fell from No. 2 to No. 7 after losing for only the second time in its last 56 regular-season games.

The victory put Florida State back into contention for a major bowl bid and probably ended Miami's bid for the national championship.

Meanwhile, Notre Dame strengthened its grip on the top spot by routing previously unbeaten Pittsburgh 45-7. The Fighting Irish, who have won the last two games, are ranked for the first time this season. Virginia, which improved to 7-2 after beating Illinois, Southern California and Tennessee, is back where it began.

The Boulder Buffaloes are ranked fourth while Nebraska, which remains undefeated, is No. 20. Florida State and Miami are next, followed by Illinois, Southern California and Tennessee.

Illinois stayed No. 8 after beating Wisconsin 32-9. Southern Cal rose one spot after blanking Stanford 19-0 and Tennessee went from No. 11 to No. 10 following its 45-39 victory over Louisiana State.

Arkansas, which beat Houston 42-39, leads off the second set. Auburn is 12th, followed by West Virginia, Pittsburgh, Arizona, Penn State, Houston, North Carolina State, Florida and Texas A&M.

Auburn beat Mississippi State 14-0. West Virginia downed Boston College 44-30, Arizona State.

When you start your career, there's nothing like initial success.

Exciting opportunities exist at IBM!

IBM is recruiting 1989/1990 graduates for openings in Programming, Math (W/CS options), MIS, Engineering and Technical Sales (BS/MS).

Meet with IBM Managers
At Our Career Information Day
Tuesday, November 7, 1989
LaFortune Student Center
Notre Dame Room
12:00 noon-5:00 pm

There is no formal presentation, so feel free to stop by anytime during the event. Please bring 4 copies of your data sheet/resume and transcript, if available. Dress is casual.

An equal opportunity employer in the eyes of the national press, and thus in the eyes of the nation, the Irish were the villains here. Forget about USC's Golden Boy, Todd Marinovich's taunting, and finger-pointing at the Notre Dame defense, when the Trojans were winning. Forget about the Trojans' singing of the Notre Dame fight song at halftime, when the Trojans were winning. Forget about the Trojans whining about the Irish team of inciting the brawl. Forget about the Trojans' short-handed first half, but Notre Dame came out to play in the second half with more determination, "that was the game. And forget the fact that the Notre Dame players weren't the only ones out there fighting. Notre Dame accepted responsibility and was trashed for it. The Trojans came out wearing halos, securing the Irish team of inciting the brawl. It takes two, to tango, fellows. The bashing wasn't only in Sports Illustrated. From Malcolm Moran's column in the New York Times, Oct. 25: 'The fact that should alarm those in the administration building beneath the Golden Dome is that in spite of years of effort to achieve its arrogance and projection rate of athletes, the football program created the appearance of being too much like Those Places where the only thing wrong with a 19-game winning streak is that it hasn't reached 20.' Nothing has changed at Notre Dame except the team is tougher. It's had more to overcome, and more to live up to.

Tunnel vision shouldn't affect the outlook on the game. Don't let the program festivities outshine the game itself. Not just caught the right defense where their cornerbacks were up and their safety was on the other side of the play. We were lucky and guessed right.
Dame. I said a long time ago Notre Dame and Miami are on a different plain.

Whatever plain Notre Dame is on, they certainly got there on the strength of The Irish run. And then ran some more. In fact, they run a strong -- running plays, a staggering low nine passes to extend Division I's longest winning streak to 23 games, one shy of the Notre Dame record of 21 games. The Irish marched for 310 yards against a Panther defense that was ranked tenth in running defense, allowing a mere 92 yards per game. Tony Rice went 1-for-7 passing on the day, not completing a pass until the six-yard pass that set up the second quarter.

"We can't continue to throw unless we start to throw the ball," said Holt. "We know we have to throw the ball and not be one-dimensional."

Running has been the mainstay of the Irish offense all season, and it may not have to change in the eyes of Tim Grunhard, who drove his Pitt defender into the Notre Dame hand so that he cut his arm on a tuba.

"If we get that kind of performance each week from the line we did vs. Pitt, we'd be glad," said Grunhard. "We don't get the hype but the guys across the line who won the battle."

Perhaps what allowed the Irish to shine in their matchup against their third Top 10 opponent of the season was the bend-but-not-break Irish defensive squad. The "Evil Eleven" held the 16th-rated collegiate offense to 302 net yards. More impressive was the fact that Irish stymied Panther redshirt freshman quarterback Alex Van Pelt, who was eighth in passing efficiency at 146.5 entering the game, to a 13.3 (480) performance for 170 yards. The Irish defense pinned Pitt in the end zone with 6:07 tall in the first quarter and recorded their third safety of the season when Van Pelt lost his footing.

The Irish defensive line turned in an effective pass rush, utilizing an increased number of stunts and blitzes to disrupt Van Pelt and the entire Panther offense. Notre Dame did not record any sacks, but had five tackles for loss totaling 26 yards. The defense also had three tackles for loss on the three by defensive tackle Jeff Alst.
Notre Dame stays unbeaten with two wins

Big comeback drowns hopes of Trojan upset

By STEVE MEGARGEE
Associate Sports Editor

For all the excitement Notre Dame and Southern California created on the field in a 28-24 Irish victory, all the talk afterward concerned two incidents in the tunnel leading to the locker rooms.

The travesty everybody will remember came before the Oct. 21 contest, when lightadioed as Southern California players tried to enter the tunnel as the Irish were running punting drills in the end zone. The episode had Irish coach Lou Holtz saying he would quit if such an event occurred again.

"I sincerely apologize to Southern Cal," said Holtz. "I promise this will never happen again at Notre Dame regardless of who was at fault."

But the Trojans also made a big mistake in that fateful Notre Dame Stadium tunnel, while both teams were exiting the field at halftime. And that error might have been what propelled the Irish to their seventh consecutive victory over Southern Cal.

With a 17-7 halftime lead over the nation's top-ranked team, the Trojans felt they had cause for singing. So the taunting Southern Cal players apparently broke into a rendition of the Notre Dame Victory March.

"They were taunting us, and that woke up a sleeping giant," said offensive guard Tim Grunhard.

Tony Rice and the Notre Dame defense were the major figures in break out of their slumber. Rice compiled 71 of his 99 rushing yards in the second half and scored the winning touchdown on a twisting, diving 15-yard keeper with 5:18 to play.

Irish boost mark to 8-0 after week of adversity

By BOB MITCHELL
Sports Writer

After a week full of battles perhaps their toughest opponent of the season—the media—the top-ranked Fighting Irish were just glad to be playing football again. And after a week of trying to preserve a gentleman-like image, the Irish let out all their frustrations on the seventh-ranked Pittsburgh Panthers.

Simply put, the Panthers were in the wrong place at the wrong time. The Irish put forth their finest complete game to date and trounced the Panthers 45-7 at Notre Dame stadium in front of the usual sellout crowd of 59,075.

"Pitt is a fine football team," said Holtz, holding to form. "This is the first time we played a complete game as a complete team. I thought our football team played well and they played together. It was just one of our days. Pitt had an extra week to get ready for us, but we did have an advantage. The week we had seemed like a good month."

Barring the first six minutes of the game when the Panthers, utilizing a no-huddle offense, marched 68 yards to draw first blood in this battle, Notre Dame dominated. As far as Pittsburgh is concerned, their highlight film might as well end after the first drive. It was all Irish after that. The game was so one-sided that Panther coach Mike Gottfried suggested that his team totally reevaluate itself.

"Notre Dame just whipped us in every area," said a dejected Gottfried, who looked like he had been to hell and back again by this time. We unraveled and we played inconsistent. We made so many mistakes. We self-destructed. I don't want to take anything away from Notre Dame, but we just didn't have it today."