Join the Scouts if you want real fun, adventure.

There was a time when a parent would jump at the chance to join the Boy Scouts. Nowadays, however, declining membership has prompted the organization to turn to television advertising to attract recruits.

The appeal, for me, at least, is that it builds character and encourages traditional values.

The ad campaign is trying to shake the idea that Scouting is boring. If the best advertising is word of mouth, no wonder the organization is looking for members.

Researchers learned that boys ages 10 to 14 think Boy Scouts are nerds. Nerds? If Scouting were nerds, I'd hate to see what cool kids are like.

Today's kids have come a long way from the demure days of my childhood, and we probably have television to thank for it. Boys and girls are bombarded with TV images suggesting that the natural grass is greener on the other side of puberty.

Increased exposure to TV has kept kids at home, but not necessarily for the better. In the convenience of their own homes, they've become lazy and dependent on mindless entertainment. Society has developed an addiction to images that TV serves well. If you don't like what you see, change the channel.

Scouting, however, teaches that the best fun is the kind you work for. For today's kids ever experienced the thrill of climbing a tree, swimming through rapids or the simple pleasures of hiking in the woods and sleeping out under the stars?

The Boy Scouts teaches boys about camping, of course, but it offers a lot more than that. Besides teaching respect for the Great Outdoors, Scouting stresses self-reliance, responsibility, leadership and achievement. It's an outlet for boys with time on their hands.

My year as a Boy Scout were well spent. I never regretted being unable to hang out with local scumbags and smoke or take drugs. Man, square knots and "safety-first" hitches aren't the most exciting things to make, but they made sleeping in a tent easier.

Boys shouldn't be so reluctant to invest some time and energy in Scouting. The payoffs are worth it. If they let themselves have fun as Boy Scouts, they'll be prepared for even greater challenges.

East German leader

Egon Krenz called public protest at home a "sign of the times," Wednesday in Moscow, and said his country, rigidly orthodox until now, would follow President Mikhail S. Gorbachev on the path of reform. Krenz said he and Gorbachev reached "total agreement," one of which was the Soviet Union and East Germany. Many of the hundreds of thousands marching for democracy in East Germany were showing support for "the renovation of socialism," he said. "In this sense, I consider this a very good sign," Krenz said.

Jose Napoleon Duarte, former president of El Salvador and a 1954 Notre Dame graduate, has been suffering from cancer for the past 16 months and may have only a few days to live, an administration official said Wednesday. Duarte, who completed a five-year term in office in June, was admitted to Walter Reed Army Hospital last Saturday. The hospital had no comment on his condition.

The Navy has had a bad week. Starting with the Sunday jet crash that claimed five lives on the USS Lexington and continuing through Wednesday's fire aboard the older USS Monogahela, each day has brought another mishap at sea that has Navy brass shaking their heads — and hoping it's just a streak of bad luck. One civilian specialist on industrial hazards warns that cutbacks in Navy training could lead to more accidents.

INDIANA

A teen-ager playing with flash powder and a can of hair spray lost his right hand when the mixture exploded in a haunted house accident in Elkhart, authorities said Wednesday. Six other youths suffered less serious injuries in the incident Tuesday at a Sluderbacker Park. Police identified the most severely injured youth as Chad Priddy, 14, of Goshen. Police said Priddy was attempting to light a combination of flash powder, a substance used to simulate explosions, and hair spray mist in his hand when the materials exploded.

Ortega ends truce with Contras

MANAGUA, Nicaragua (AP) — President Daniel Ortega said Thursday he will cancel the Contra guerrillas' truce that he declared last week. But he said he would not cancel the elections scheduled for Feb. 25.

"We don't want to give him any excuse to cancel the elections," Ortega said, referring to President Bush.

"We are up to our challenge, we will be conducting campus interviews on November 9th."

White House denounces Ortega's cancellation

WASHINGTON (AP) — The White House on Wednesday denounced Nicaraguan President Daniel Ortega's decision to end a truce with the anti-Sandinista rebels in Nicaragua.

"We have reached out to him many, many times," said White House Press Secretary Marlin Fitzwater. "We're just so out of step with the other democratic countries in this hemisphere and so wildly insensitive to the feelings of others that we shouldn't have been surprised by his behavior.

Ban on use of fetal tissue to continue

WASHINGTON (AP) - A top federal health official said Wednesday he intends to extend indefinitely the current ban on federal money for fetal tissue research because if such tests were successful, "we'd have more abortions."

James Mason, assistant secretary for health at the Department of Health and Human Services, told reporters he has the authority to continue the ban, imposed a year ago by his predecessor, but that he will consult first with HHS Secretary Louis Sullivan.

Sullivan will concur with Mason's decision, according to HHS sources, who spoke on the condition of anonymity. An announcement was expected to be made Thursday.

Scientists argue that research using tissue from aborted fetuses holds great promise in treating Parkinson's disease and other conditions that are now incurable. But conservative supporters of the Bush administration have promised a firestorm of protest if the administration lifts the ban.

"The moratorium should be continued indefinitely," Mason, an opponent of abortion, said at a Health Reporters' Breakfast.

"I'm concerned that the United States government, in sponsoring fetal tissue transplantation, would be encouraging or promoting abortion," Mason said.

Mason's predecessor as assistant secretary for health, Robert Woodson, last year favored use of government funds to finance research and established a special advisory committee on whether it should continue.

Gary Bauer, president of the conservative Family Research Council, welcomed extension of the ban, saying such research raises "deep moral and philosophical questions."

Indiana doctor indicted for performing illegal abortions

ANDERSON, Indiana (AP) - A Franklin physician accused by three former patients of performing unwanted abortions was indicted Wednesday on eight charges, including four abortion-related counts.

A Madison County grand jury indicted Dr. Pravin Thakkar on two counts of performing illegal abortions, one count of attempted illegal abortion, two counts of criminal recklessness, two counts of battery and one count of failing to submit forms to the Indiana State Board of Health.

The indictment alleges that Thakkar failed to file forms with the health agency on an abortion that he allegedly performed in January 1988.

According to the indictment, the charges involve three women. The abortions allegedly were performed Oct. 28, 1983, and Jan. 9, 1988; the attempted abortion was alleged performed in July 1987.

Madison County Prosecutor William Lawler said if convicted on all counts, Thakkar could receive a maximum sentence of 42 years in prison.

Thakkar was arrested at about noon Wednesday and appeared in Madison Circuit Court, where Judge Frederick Spencer entered innocent pleas on his behalf.

Thakkar was then released on $100,000 bond.

He declined comment at the courthouse. His attorney, Jeffrey Lockwood of Anderson, said the indictment brought forth no new allegations.

"We don't see the indictment as particularly significant. It's just an indictment," Lockwood said.

"He's been beleaguered with these kinds of allegations since last November. There isn't anything new in these allegations."

A pretrial conference was set for Jan. 3.

One of the long-term options open to the University would be the closure of Juniper, Hudson said. However, there are no plans for closing the road at the present time.

One of the goals of the plan was to create a “campus atmosphere” along the stretch of Juniper which runs on the Notre Dame campus.

Brick crossings and signs are proposed “to identify to motorists that they are at Notre Dame. We want to develop the roadway as a campus environment,” Hudson.

Hudson noted that crossings will increase with the completion of the new band and ROTC facilities under construction on the east side of Juniper.

Beauchamp indicated that the majority of the land owned by the University that is suitable to be built upon is east of Juniper. Thus, pedestrian crossings will increase rapidly in the long term.

Hudson said the principal safety problem of the Juniper corridor is pedestrian crossings. The current layout of the road permits pedestrians to cross at almost any point they choose. Beauchamp cited frequent accidents involving pedestrians along Juniper.

The improvement plan will “funnel pedestrians into clearly identifiable and clearly marked pedestrian crossing areas,” Hudson said.

Hudson said the closing of most of the 1/2 access points from parking lots onto Juniper will improve traffic safety, with fewer cars turning on and off the road. The plan also calls for the elimination of all parking on the east side of Notre Dame stadium, between the stadium and Juniper.

The University will also install lighting along Juniper and the pedestrian sidewalks and in parking areas.

Hudson said the improvements were intended to improve daily safety and appearance. The plan makes no attempt to deal with the traffic occurring during special events.

Beauchamp cited a “serious speeding problem. The sense among drivers on the road is that it’s a highway.”

Hudson said the improvements would be made over two construction seasons. Formal design for the improvements are to begin immediately, with construction hopefully beginning in the spring of 1990, Hudson said.

It's time to “Leave the Pack Behind”

OSLO, Norway (AP) — Holy box office! What’s a caged crusader to do? After being hit by the summer, he’s the flop of the fall — in Norway, at least.

Despite an extensive promotional campaign here, the megabuck smash movie “Batman,” has been upstaged at the box office by “License to Kill” and “Indiana Jones and the Last Crusade.”

In Norway, even Donald Duck has been more popular than the Batman comic for decades.

Inspired by its worldwide success — the movie has grossed more than $248 million at the U.S. box office alone, and has set all-time opening weekend records in Italy, Spain, Mexico, Portugal and Britain — the film’s distributor hoped to trigger a little Batmania in Norway.

Warner Bros. Norge AS, the movie’s distributor, wallpapered much of Norway with Batman posters and stickers, in its biggest promotion campaign ever in the small Scandinavian country.

“[Batman]” responded Norwegians.

Few had heard of Batman, even under his Norwegian comic book name, Lynvingen, or Lightning Wing. When the comic first appeared here in 1953, Lynvingen was the name chosen because Batman, literally translated, means something like the Fluttering Mouse Man.

Warner Bros. Norge kept the original title, “Batman,” for the movie and set out to make it a household word with a promotion campaign that was unusually aggressive by Norwegian standards.

‘Batman’ meets cool reception in Norway

SMC student gov’t discusses smoking

BY COLLEEN TRAVERS
News Writer

A campus-wide smoking policy for Saint Mary’s students was proposed by senior Missy Stapleton at Wednesday night’s Board of Governance meeting.

"For people who smoke, it can be very irritating," said Stapleton.

The policy would probably be tailored to each of the residence halls instead of to public areas. Stapleton used the example of McCandless Hall, in which students are not permitted to smoke in the hallways or lounge.

The recycling of aluminum cans with containers in each hall section. The program would begin in January and last until March.

Also discussed was a possible joint calendar for all Notre Dame and Saint Mary’s activities, which would help to promote better relations between the two schools.

S&L regulators on the defense

WASHINGTON (AP) — Federal regulator M. Danny Wall defended himself Wednesday against complaints he botched the handling of the nation’s largest savings and loan failure and said “fair play clearly has not been evident” from his congressional critics.

“I’m not saying we’re lily white,” said Wall, in an interview in his office a block from the White House. But he said that he acted responsibly in regulating Lincoln Savings and Loan Association in Irvine, Calif., despite a nearly two-year delay in seizing the institution after field examiners recommended its seizure two years ago.

American Continental Corp., a thrift agency’s examination, supervised by regulators from Washington, which delayed the seizure of the institution until this April.

Michael Patriarca, director of the thrift agency’s San Francisco office, and William Black, counsel in the office, told the committee they had uncovered sufficient losses and irregularities at Lincoln to justify its seizure two years ago on Lincoln without giving him or his senior aides a public forum to respond.

“Fair play clearly has not been evident, much less due process,” he said, adding that it is “more than a coincidence” that the committee postponed testimony favorable to him.

“The public sees silence as being an admission of guilt … I clearly … will be eager to respond to every question that is asked,” Wall said.

The committee is investigating the failure of Lincoln, expected to cost taxpayers between $1.5 billion and $2 billion, and Phoenix, Ariz., millionaire Charles Keating Jr., chairman of Lincoln’s parent company, Continental Corp.

It is focusing on why Wall, as chairman of the Federal Home Loan Bank Board, now called the Office of Thrift Supervision, rejected a 1987 recommendation from his agency’s San Francisco office to take over Lincoln and instead ordered a second examination, supervised by regulators from Washington, which delayed the seizure of the institution until this April.

Wall, in an interview Wednesday in his office a block from the White House, said Wall complained that the House Banking Committee postponed his testimony to allow the salons to be held on Thanksgiving. Wall said he is not aware of any rules that will allow him to be questioned on the witness stand before the committee.

In the past two years, Wall has complained that the committee has been more interested in investigating the problems of the thrift agency than in dealing with the crisis at Lincoln.

Wall said he has been unable to respond to questions from the committee and his senior aides a public forum to respond.

The agreement on the subminimum, an anathema to organized labor that was demanded by Bush, cleared the way for the compromise and was the focus of most of the House debate.

That debate was short and subdued, with lawmakers from both parties finding fault with the compromise, most Democrats said the increase was too small, while conservative Republicans said there should no boost and for that matter no minimum wage.

But gone was the acrimony and political posturing that characterized the fight just eight years ago over a bill Bush ultimately vetoed and the bitter debates on the subject during each of the eight years of the Reagan administration.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The House voted overwhelmingly Wednesday to raise the hourly minimum wage from $3.35 to $4.25 by April 1991 and create a new, lower wage for teenagers with less than six months work experience.

The 382-37 vote on the compromise struck between President Bush and congressional Democrats sends the measure to the Senate, where leaders have promised to pass it before Thanksgiving.

Bush’s signature then would trigger the first increase in the minimum wage since January 1981 and end an eight-year political stalemate between the majority Democrats in Congress and two successive Republican administrations.

That stalemate has kept the minimum wage at $3.35 an hour since January 1981. The compromise provides a 45-cent increase to $3.80 next April 1 and another 45-cent jump a year later.

It also creates for the first time a subminimum “training wage” that would allow employers to pay workers from 16-19 years old 85 percent of the prevailing minimum wage for their three months in the work force. The subminimum could be paid for an additional three months provided the youths were in certified training programs.

Beneficiaries of the compromise will be roughly 4 million Americans who, according to government figures, work at the minimum wage. Congressional researchers say two-thirds of them are women and between 25 percent and 33 percent of them are heads of households. Eleven states have laws mandating minimum wages higher than the current federal floor; a few of them already are at the $4.25 level.

Suspend the culprits, not matching funds

Notre Dame has many traditions it is proud of, but the annual campus snowball fight is not one of them. On Oct. 19, a group of students decided to hurl snowballs at each other and several residence halls. The frolic ended with six broken stained glass chapel windows and several new matches on the books.

Vice President for Student Affairs Father David Tyson responded to the vandalism by indefinitely suspending $2,000 in residence hall matching funds. He said that allocating funds for hall life improvement was pointless when those funds must pay for repairs. The incident is regrettable, and Tyson has a valid point, but suspending matching funds in this case is unfair.

Many dorms had made hall improvement purchases with the belief that the University would provide two-thirds of the bill. Expel them from the dorms. If necessary, dismiss the student body. Not all students, and certainly not all dorms, participated in the snowball fight. Siegfried Hall, for example, ended with six broken stained glass chapel windows and twelve snowballs through Dillon Hall's windows.

Not all students and, certainly not all dorms, participated in the snowball fight. Siegfried Hall, for example, was deprived of $1,100 in matching funds for a piano for its chapel. It seems unlikely that women in Siegfried would toss snowballs through Dillon Hall's windows. Many students did not have enough to leave windows unbroken. So why punish all students?

Nobody expected snow in October, but everyone knows that snow fights occur the night of the first snow. The Office of Student Affairs should have publicized warning weeks before, not call a meeting with Student Government hours before the fight. With time, student leaders could have planned a strategy to prevent damage to University property.

Vandalism is senseless, no matter what the weather. The first snowfall is no excuse to break windows. Anybody who aims at a window with a snowball is asking to be punished — and should be.

That's why the University should not hold the student body responsible for damage; it should go after the students who threw the snowballs.

The Office of Student Affairs can deter residence hall damage by publicizing the punishment vandalism can expect if they are caught.

Let students who deliberately break windows foot the bill. Expel them from the dorms. If necessary, dismiss them from the University. But don't make the entire student body suffer.

That's why the University should not hold the student body responsible for damage; it should go after the students who threw the snowballs.
Dr. Prieto serves Mexican-Americans

Diane Schible Accent Writer

His dream developed in 1943 when he visited a migrant labor camp near Mexico City. The experience of talking with the Hispanic workers and studying at the University of Notre Dame where he became chairman of the Department of Family Practice at Cook County Hospital. He was also appointed president of the late Mayor Harold Washington.

He overcame hardship and discrimination in his dedication to serve the Hispanic community. Throughout his career, optimism was kept alive by his love of life in God, and his desire to serve masking.

Dr. Prieto's message is intended for all those interested in vocational, medical education, cross-cultural studies, and the role that faith and commitment play in our present society. It will also prove helpful for all students but especially Mexican-Americans fearful of entering the medical profession.

Father Hesburgh commented on the book, "Jorge Prieto is one of those unusual people who have made a difference. Throughout his life, there emerges a strong faith, a total dedication to the poor, unfortunate, and a hope that somehow, with God's grace, he could make his dreams come true.'

Harvest of Hope will be released in September 1989.

Kerr leads Flyers over Red Wings; Blues, Flames triumph

Flyers 5, Red Wings 5

DETROIT (AP) — Tim Kerr scored his second goal of the day to even the score after the Detroit Red Wings tied the Philadelphia Flyers 5-5 Wednesday night.

Kerr took a pass from Ilkka Sinisalo and beat goalie Glen Hanlon from the faceoff circle 49 seconds apart midway through the third period to give Detroit a 5-4 lead. Ken Wregget, the Flyers’ starting goalie, was removed from the game after giving up an unearned goal to the Red Wings.

John Chabot made it 4-3 for the Red Wings with 17:46 of the second period. Detroit, 4-6-3, is in last place in its division.

Blues, Whalers 3

HARTFORD, Conn. — Brett Hull scored two goals and added two assists, leading the St. Louis Blues to a 3-2 victory over the Hartford Whalers Wednesday night.

Hull now has a league-high 13 goals. His first goal, at 16:31 of the second period, snapped a 1-1 tie. Rod Brind’Amour, Tony Hrkac and Peter Zezel also scored for the Blues.

The Whalers opened the scoring on Dean Evason’s wrist shot from the left circle at 17:02 of the first period. But Brind’Amour scored five minutes into the second period. The Blues gained the lead at 16:31 of the period. Hull took a pass from Gordie Roberts, skated down the right boards and cut toward the net before backhanding the puck past Mike Liut.

Hrkac’s third-period goal gave the Blues a 3-1 lead. Hull scored his second goal at 7:50 of the third period when he put in a rebound of Zezel’s shot.

Zezel scored the Blues’ final goal at 15:10 on a breakaway. Ron Francis and Pat Verbeek scored 17 seconds apart in the game’s final three minutes for Hartford. Francis’ goal was his 219th, tying Blaine Stoughton for the all-time lead.

The Whalers’ third-period goal was the first of three goals in a span. The Blues maintained the lead for the league lead with Brett Hull of St. Louis at 19 goals.

Soccer

This year’s championship game will be played on Sunday at 6 p.m. and is sure to draw a large, enthusiastic crowd. The city’s renowned St. Louis Soccer Park holds 6,000 in its main field.

An additional attraction to the weekend is the playing of the United States World Cup qualifying game. The U.S. team plays El Salvador at noon in front of a national television audience, via ESPN. The weekend has the potential for much excitement.

The Irish have performed well this season with a tough schedule. Coach Grace and his team know they can compete with anybody this season. Also, the team is on a roll, having won four of its last five games. Things can change somewhat though, because it is playoff time. The intensity will be up a notch and hopefully the Irish will respond in a positive fashion.

Wilander eliminated in Paris Open
Edberg, McEnroe, Chang all advance in tournament

PARIS (AP) — Mats Wilander struggled to a 6-3, 6-3 victory over Jonas Svensson of Sweden in the opening round of the Paris Open tennis tournament Wednesday.

 Fellow Americans Michael Chang and Aaron Krickstein moved into the third round. Chang ripped through Henri Leconte of France, 6-1, 6-2, while Krickstein gained a victory over qualifier Ronald Agner of Halll, 6-3, 5-7, 6-4.

Also in the second round, Sweden's Stefan Edberg, the No. 2 seed in the tournament, edged Olympic gold medalist Miloslav Mecir of Czechoslovakia, 7-6 (9-7), 6-4, and Swiss Jakob Illeskow downed Martin Jaite of Argentina, 4-6, 6-3, 6-4.

Mats Wilander was not as fortunate. His slide from top continued as he was eliminated by Alberto Mancini of Argentina, 7-6 (8-6), 6-1.

The third-seeded McEnroe played erratically. He jumped to a 5-1 lead over Svensson in the first set then struggled with his serve before taking it 6-3. He had four aces but also five double faults.

"That's been the most disappointing part of my game throughout the year," McEnroe said. "Sometimes I get in a groove and then other games I miss quite a lot."

After breaking Svensson in the first game of the second set, McEnroe served but had to go through five deuces before going up 2-0.

He held then until 4-1, then the pair exchanged service breaks until Svensson lost his at 3-5, giving McEnroe the match.

Mancini wasted two match points serving at 5-2 but double faulted on one and netted an easy volley on the second.

Mancini and Wilander played a baselilng game on an indoor surface. In the first set the only difference after more than 62 minutes of play was in the tiebreak when Mancini took two consecutive points after 8-8. He passed Wilander on a service return then had a serve-and-volley that ended the set in the Argentine's favor.

"I had a chance in the tiebreak," Wilander said. "When I started winning I began to play a more defensive game. I didn't expect to play better than I did. But when you keep on losing that's not encouraging. But that's the way it goes."

Mancini had beaten Wilander twice this season, including a wipe-out in the Monte Carlo Open semifinal which Mancini won by beating Boris Becker in the final. Wilander, who ended the Argentine's favor.

Central State, Nebraska: bullies from different divisions

BY STEVE MARGAREE
Associate Sports Writer

It was the kind of game that would have made Ardith West and the Houston Cougars feel proud.

In a small-college matchup last Saturday, NAIA school Central State (Ohio) was leading Lane College (Ky.) 101-0 early in the fourth quarter.

That's when Lane players figured out the one way they could keep Central State from scoring - they quit.

Central State coach Billy Joe was given the football by the Lane team with 11:20 left in the game. The handing over of the game ball to the winning coach is generally the procedure when a team chooses to throw in the towel.

Lane, an NCAA Division III school, fell behind 60-0 at the half in falling to 1-6-1 on the season, while Central State upped its record to 7-2.

Central State, an NAIA school that awarded an honorary doctorate to heavyweight champion Mike Tyson earlier this year, kept its starters in the game for part of the second half.

For an undefeated team that was selected by many to win the national title this season, Nebraska certainly has gone about its business quietly.

That stands to happen when your schedule has been a smorgasbord of passties from various conferences (Oregon State of the Pac-10, Minnesota of the Big Ten, Utah of the Western Athletic Conference), and the entire second half of the Big Eight.

The third-ranked Cornhuskers finally get a chance to make a name for themselves Saturday when they visit Big Eight rival Colorado for a probable Orange Bowl berth.

The second-ranked Buffaloes have had quite a few more obstacles to reach this opportunity, passing early-season tests against Texas, Washington and Texas A&M.

But the best-known figure associated with Colorado football is former quarterback Kord Blood, whose death earlier this fall has inspired the Buffaloes to their Cinderella season.

By the end of the week, people like Colorado quarterback Darian Hagan and running backs Eric Bieniemy and J.J. Flannigan or Nebraska quarterback Gerry Gowdowski and running back Ken Clark finally should start receiving some acclaim outside the Big Eight geographical region.

Some conference races already look pretty cut-and-dry. The winner of the Michigan-Indiana game Nov. 11 should win the Big Ten. The victor in the Southern Cal-Arizona contest that same day might also be going to the Rose Bowl.

Other conferences have much murkier situations. In the Southeastern Conference, undefeated Alabama has road dates ahead with Louisiana State (perhaps the best 1-6 team in college football history) and arch-rival Auburn. Tennessee, Florida and Mississippi are right behind the fourth-ranked Crimson Tide with one conference loss each.

Virginia visits North Carolina State this Saturday, with the winner taking control of the Atlantic Coast Conference.

If N.C. State wins, the conference title is far from over; the Wolfpack has a road game with Duke the following week.

The ACC standings now have all three of those teams with one conference loss, and Clemson just behind with two defeats. Virginia and N.C. State both lost to Clemson. Duke lost to Virginia, and Clemson was defeated by Duke and Georgia Tech.

The Southwest Conference standings are pretty misleading at this point. Texas is in the conference with a 3-0 league record, but the Longhorns have not yet to play Texas Tech, Houston or Texas A&M. Arkansas and Texas A&M each have one conference loss.

After spending much of the season compiling head-to-head statistics in front of small-time audiences, Indians running back Anthony Thompson finally got a chance last weekend to bolster his Heisman Trophy candidacy with an impressive outing on national television.

Thompson instead probably saw his chances of winning the award disappear as the Sooners thrashed by Michigan 38-10. Thompson gained 90 yards on 30 carries against a strong Wolverine defense. Those are good stats, but not Heisman-type numbers, especially when your team loses by four touchdowns.

Emmit Smith gets a similar opportunity this weekend when the Florida Gators visit Auburn in an ESPN-television game Saturday night. Auburn's running defense is good, but not quite as good as the 1988 defense that did not allow a single back to have a 100-yard game during the regular season.

Former Tennessee tailback Reggie Cobb burned Auburn for more than 200 yards earlier this season, and Florida State freshman backup tailback Amp Lee gained 110 yards on 10 carries for the Tigers this season.

Smith will need to gain at least 100 yards Saturday to maintain a decent chance at the Heisman, and if he does that and the Gators pull an upset, he just may have a shot at a share, or at least a close finish.

This year's Heisman race remains so wide open that it would come as no surprise if Sports Illustrated comes out with an article nominating Johnny Bailey, college football's all-time leading career rusher from Division II school Texas A&M, for the award.

In past years, Sports Illustrated has highlighted small-college players for the Heisman, but not this year. The junior from Penn State, Pa., could emerge as a favorite.

The Observer
Thursday, November 2, 1989
NEW YORK (AP) — Frank Robinson, who guided the Balt­timore Orioles to one of the greatest turnarounds in base­ball history, was selected American League Manager of the Year on Wednesday.

Robinson took the Orioles from last place in the AL East with a 54-107 record in 1988 to second place and an 87-75 mark this year, only two games behind Toronto. It was the third-best one-season turnaround ever.

He got 23 of 28 first-place votes and 125 points on a 5-3-1 ballot. Kansas City's John Wathan got one point. Robinson was also The Asso­ciated Press' Manager of the Year.

The Orioles, rebuilt this year around a mostly rookie pitching staff and only one proven star, shortstop Cal Ripken, almost became the first team to go from last place to first in one season.

After last year's miserable showing, Baltimore was ex­pected to finish in the basement of the AL East again this sea­son. Instead, the Orioles moved into first place early in the sea­son and stayed there for much of the year, before being over­taken by the Blue Jays.

Robinson, a Hall of Famer who played with the Orioles from 1966 to 1971, was pro­moted from coach to manager in 1988 after Baltimore began the year with six straight losses under Cal Ripken Sr. They went on to lose their first 21 games, the worst start in baseball his­tory.

This year, the youthful Ori­oles played like confident veterans, and Robinson — impatient and temperamental in his pre­vious stints as manager — led the transformation.

At the All-Star break, after several feuds with umpires, Robinson threatened to resign. But a meeting with AL president Bobby Brown helped settle the situation, and Robinson stayed.

 Rookie pitchers Gregg Olson, Bob Milacki, Pete Harnisch and Dave Johnson kept the Orioles winning, while catcher Mickey Tettleton had an All-Star sea­son. Baltimore set a record for the best defense in a full season and the fans appreciated the effort by setting an attendance record.

A couple of days after the season, the Orioles and Robin­son also got a parade for their efforts.

Toronto caught the Orioles on Sept. 1, and the teams bat­tled down the stretch. Balti­more went into a season-end­ing, three-game series at Toronto trailing by one game, but the Blue Jays rallied to win the first two games and clinch the division title.

Just after the season ended, the Orioles announced that Robinson would be back next year.

The Orioles' record equaled that of the 1982 San Francisco Giants as the best for a team managing its No. 1 pick in the draft. Robinson, 54, who became baseball's first black manager in 1975, had a career record of 649-706. Before taking over the Orioles, he managed in Cleve­land (1975-78) and San Fran­cisco (1981-84).

UNIVERSITY OF NOTRE DAME
Irish may surpass record unless Navy, SMU stage upsets

Unless Navy or SMU is ready to play a game for the ages sometime in the final two weeks, Notre Dame will close its home schedule by setting up a school record for consecutive victories.

Notre Dame won 21 consecutive games between 1946 and 1948. Dating back to last year, the Irish have won 20 in a row, with the last loss coming to Texas A&M in the 1988 Cotton Bowl. Seven of the wins have come against top 10 teams.

Irish coach Lou Holtz realizes the difficulty of that accomplishment, especially considering the schedule.

"Notre Dame is not a team that says he is making no big deal about the record to his players," said Holtz, who enters this week with the 150th of his 20-year coaching career. "I told the football players that they are the team of your life when you want to sit back and look back at your career. You don't want to evaluate your career when you're a youngster or in the middle of your senior year. You just sit back and when it's over, look back and see what you've accomplished."

Holtz surprised a few people at Tuesday's weekly press conference when he publicly lighted up the topic of bowls.

"We're not a team that is central to the topic of bowls," Holtz replied that when somebody brought up the topic.

"I definitely feel we should have the opportunity to play in a bowl game," said Lyght. "We're all looking forward to playing in a particular bowl game. Some guys have preference for whose bowl game they want to play. I personally want to play in the Sugar Bowl against the champion of the Southeastern Conference."

Lyght recorded his seventh interception of the season last weekend and is living up to his season billing. The Sporting News had rated the junior from Flint, Mich., as the top corner back in the nation last season.

"If we ever have an All-American on our football team, it's Todd Lyght," said Holtz. "Seven interceptions is almost unheard of for a corner back. He plays as well as any defensive back, not only that I've coached, but that I've observed." Lyght, who did not have a single interception last season, says the change partly results from a change in his philosophy on pass defense.

"Last year, I concentrated more on not letting the receiver catch the ball," he said. "Now I'm concentrating on making a half away. That attitude has improved my game tremendously."

The Irish also have seen improvement from the backfield position the last few games. Raghib "Rocket" Ismail has gained 200 yards in 24 carries since moving into the backfield on a more regular basis in the Air Force game.

Ricky Walters has averaged over seven yards per carry over the last three games with 29 carries for 205 yards.

These last few games also have seen the Irish backs, particularly Walters, being more physical than they had previously been in their running game.

"We're running harder," said Holtz. "We're becoming more aware of what the backfield entails. When you run out of blockers, you have to take people with you and get an extra couple of yards. When the game's over, you're a fullback or tailback, you sit in the whirlpool, not go to the game."

Youth proving to be key to Irish 'tennis teams'fall success

Despite changes, losses women excel

The Notre Dame men's soccer team will be "hungry hunters" going into today's MCC Championships. The Irish will try to claim a second consecutive MCC Championship and garner its spoils—an automatic berth to the NCAA Tournament. The Irish take on Xavier today in the first round of play in St. Louis, Mo.

Irish seek to repeat as MCC champs to earn NCAA bid

It has been said that a hungry hunter hunts best. If such proverbial logic holds true, then only the best can be expected from the Notre Dame men's soccer team at this weekend's MCC championships in Saint Louis. All indications point towards a hungry group of Irish soccer players.

Nevertheless, winning this tournament will take more than just the proper attitude. The field is strong and the Irish will have to play their best soccer of the season to emerge as champions. The stakes are high with the winner receiving an automatic bid to the NCAA tournament.

A year ago, the Irish surprised many by taking the MCC title in an impressive three-game sweep. They crushed Detroit 6-0, then upset top twenty-ranked Evansville and St. Louis by identical 2-0 scores. This feat gained the Irish an at-large bid to the NCAA tournament, with an overall record of 17-3-2. Much has changed in a year's time.

As defending MCC champs, the Irish currently have an overall record of 9-6-3, yet boast an MCC North Division record of 5-0-1. The only impurity in their conference record was a 2-2 tie with Marquette on Sept. 24. The Irish handed the other division opponents, Detroit and Loyola, four defeats in four games.

In the MCC tournament, the two divisions, North and South, play-off against each other according to seeds. The Irish have the No. 1 seed in the North followed by Marquette, Detroit and Loyola. In the South, top seed and nationally top rated Evansville is followed by St. Louis (ranked in the top 20), Dayton and Xavier.

Thus, Notre Dame squares off against Xavier at 11:00 a.m. On paper, the Irish are the superior team. Coach Dennis Grace knows this yet, hesitates to broadcast it. "They are a competitive team. They played a competitive schedule," said Grace. "I hope our team isn't looking past Xavier and ahead to St. Louis and the revenge factor. If so, we will get beat."

The "revenge factor" Grace speaks of refers to the 2-0 loss St. Louis handed the Irish in their first regular season game. The Irish players must leave such venture-like thoughts behind if they expect to be alive for the second, and semi-final round.

Should the Irish defeat Xavier, they will play on Friday against, most likely, the St. Louis Billikens. This game would prove to be quite a heated match up. The host Billikens would be favored to win, yet the same scenario did not prevent the Irish from beating them 2-0 in last year's MCC championship game.

Psychology 101 with Professor Holtz

There it was. In black and white. In newspapers all across the Lou Holtz teleconference area.

"I'm not sure our team can be adequately prepared to play," Holtz said about the possibility of playing in a bowl game.

"On numerous occasions, Holtz has seemed not sure our team can be adequately prepared to play," Holtz said about the possibility of playing in a bowl game.

"While I personally still hope the team goes to a bowl, I'm afraid that perhaps questioning whether it is in everyone's best interest this year. Better to have thought through the pros and cons of a decision in advance and decided where our values lie in this instance than to have unhappily done what was expected of us."

"I'm delighted that someone would open a discussion about the relative merit of money and national ranking as they sometimes conflict with sound educational and humanistic values," Howard said. "And another play, with some concealed motive? I asked. Perhaps not this time, said Dr. George Howard, a nine-year president in the department."

When Notre Dame tennis coach Bob Bayliss was able to lure No. 11 Southern California to South Bend, the intent was to be competitive with the Trojans as well as provide the Irish women's tennis community with the opportunity to observe this perennial collegiate tennis powerhouse for the first time.

Yet, a young Irish squad took the Trojans to the brink of an earth-shaking upset before bowing to USC in the last match of the day—the No. 1 doubles team—5-4.

"The Southern California match was a great night for Notre Dame tennis," said Bayliss. "We had an outstanding crowd and the match showed that people would pay money to see great tennis. The freshman really distinguished themselves. They will be heard from in the future."
