Police snap students in bar raid
27 Notre Dame students arrested at Commons

Local police raided the Commons bar early Saturday Dec. 2, arresting 27 Notre Dame students for underage drinking and other violations, said St. Joseph's County Sheriff's Department Officer Charles Feirrell.

Conducted by a combined task force of city, county and state agencies, the raid caught a number of underage drinkers from Notre Dame, Saint Mary's and local high schools.

Though the exact number of those arrested was not known, the St. Joseph's County Sheriff's Department reported the issuance of 27 citations for minors in a tavern to Notre Dame students. In addition to those citations, several Notre Dame students were also charged with possession of a false identification.

 Acting on a complaint that students turned away by other bars were entering the Commons, the police raided the bar at 12:15 a.m. and began to check ID's.

For the most part patrons were cooperative and the raid was conducted in an orderly fashion, though some of the students arrested were unruly, according to Feirrell.

All students arrested were charged with a Class C misdemeanor. If convicted, they could face up to a year in jail plus fines and court costs.

Those with no prior arrest had the opportunity to take the Pre-trial Diversion Program. This program lets the accused take six months to one year of probation and perform community service. By choosing the program, students can avoid a court date.

Upon completion of the community service and after paying all monthly fines, the student's record will be expunged and no record of the arrest will appear.

Names of those students who were charged with possession of a false ID were given to the University, though those students charged only with being underage in a bar were not. The Office of Student Affairs declined to release any information about the case, saying only that each case will be reviewed separately.

Conducted by a joint task force, the raid was done as part of a local program called Stop Underage Drinking and Sales (SUDS). Included in the program were the Indiana State Excise Police, the St. Joseph's County Sheriff's Department, the Indiana State Police, the South Bend Police and the Mishawaka Police. Also included was a representative from Notre Dame Security.

Created as part of the governor's task force to reduce drunk driving, SUDS has existed for four years. As part of an overall program to combat underage drinking, SUDS has been raiding parties and bars in an effort to reduce teenage drunk driving.

Because of the presence of the University and the proliferation of drinking among local high school students, the program has been built up in the area and has been quite active, and according to Feirrell, the program has been beneficial.

"It has been a successful program," Feirrell said.

The committee will be concerned with all groups receiving money from the Student Activities Fee.

It will "focus primarily on non-financial aspects of responsibility and serve as a purely informational and advisory arm of the Student Senate," the resolution said.

An amendment proposing that the Office of the Ombudsman be written out of the Student Senate constitution, as its purposes are served by other organizations, was presented at the meeting. The Ombudsman's

The DART video, red apples top Christmas lists

Robyn Simmons
Assistant Accent Editor

It's that time of year again; time to make up a list of Christmas gifts to give to your friends — both naughty and nice. For Christmas 1989, here are a few items that should go under the tree for your friends under the Dome.

1990 HATE MIAMI CALENDAR: We all hate Miami, but we can still hate the Hurricanes. The 1990 Hate Miami calendar counts down the number of days until our next confrontation with Miami (October 20, 1990). The last game is a winner-take-all game with different player to hate each month.

ROCK: No, not the Rocke Memorial, but a real rock. In many third world countries, people wash their laundry by bringing it down to the river and scrubbing it against a large boulder. Until the University installs washing machines and dryers in all of the men's dorms, think hint and a rock and a river might be the best way to get the wash done. However, there is one small problem. The mighty St. Joe may be just a little too polluted to clean. Rumer has it that people fishing in the St. Joseph find that their catch is already cooked.

Mr. SNOWBALL: Remember Mr. Snowman? All you had to do is shave some lube, add syrup, and you had a nice yummy snowcone. Mr. Snowball operates on the same principle (spray is optional). This way you can have snowball fights all year round — just as long as you don't run out of lube. Just make sure you don't hit Father Tyson's window.

DICK ADDIS DOLL: For those of you who hasn't got enough of the Channel 16 Weatherbug, it's cute! He's cuddly! Just pull the string in his back and he'll give you the weather word of the day.

DANCING DICK ADDIS DOLL: For diehard Dick Addis fans, this gift is basically another version of the dancing flowers who are so popular this Christmas season. The Dancing Dick will boogie down to anything except music by Dick Ashley — the original Sing-a-Lumkind.

APPLE: A juicy, shiny, red apple is the perfect gift for that special prof. (And what pickle can you give to your friends under the Dome?)

DART VIDEO: DART video may not have the most soul-stirring items, but that the video was exceptional. It's the perfect addition to anyone's video library.

So there you have it, the hottest gift ideas for Christmas 1989. If all else fails, the Bookstore is always ready and willing to take just a little bit more of your money to invest in your future bookish nephews. Happy holidays and happy shopping!

The last obstacle between Leona Helmsley and sentencing was lifted Monday when a judge refused to set aside her tax evasion conviction. Mrs. Helmsley, owner of many luxury lofts, was convicted Aug. 30 of evading $1.2 million in federal taxes by charging personal expenses to her business empire. By denying a request to overturn the conviction and dismiss the charges, U.S. District Judge Walker cleared the way for her Dec. 12 sentencing.

Sonicon boom set off by a descending space shuttle created ground motion that showed earthquakes may shake Los Angeles skyscrapers more violently than once thought, scientists said Monday. The researchers found that the shuttles' characteristic sonic booms could be responsible for damaging ground motion that could be felt by the Los Angeles area.

Divers managed to block most leaks in an Israeli oil tanker Monday that sank after developing engine troubles and officials hoped to refloat the vessel before its cargo causes an ecological disaster. Up to 60 tons of the ship's 660 tons of heavy oil have polluted the waters off this Mediterranean resort since the tanker went down Thursday after it stalled because of engine problems and was swamped by high seas.

The PLO's campaign to win recognition in the General Assembly as the provisional government of Palestine broke down Monday and negotiations shifted to finding a face-saving retreat, diplomats said. The situation forced the failure to upgrade the PLO to observer-nation status in the General Assembly to shallow support, divisions within the Palestine Liberation Organization and a U.S. threat to stop contributing to the United Nations.

East Germans ‘join’ secret police
Prevent communists access to trial evidence

EAST BERLIN (AP) — East Germans outraged by the corruption of ousted Communist Party leaders tried to storm secret police offices Monday to make certain other criminal trials are not removed. Prosecutors blocked access by the former officials to evidence that could be used against them in the widening corruption investigation.

State television showed pictures of people joining police at luxurious government guest houses and warehouses in East Berlin and Potsdam to block any efforts to remove documents.

“Officials appealed for calm as people tried to force their way into secret police offices in Erfurt,” the AP reported.

In Leipzig, where about 200,000 people attended a rally calling for a free election, 30 demonstrators were allowed into Communist Party headquarters, including opposition leader Wolfgang Schnur.

The East German government’s official ADN news agency said the group was not invited and that some demonstrators who had surrounded the building were permitted inside later to tour the building.

Parts of the building were sealed to prevent documents from being smuggled out and demonstrators were told not to take part in making sure the papers remained there.

Wolfgang Schwanz, new chief of national security, ordered flights to Romania halted because of reports that sensitive material was being smuggled to the Warsaw Pact army, whose leader, Nicolae Ceausescu, has rejected reform.

Officials said there was no proof documents were being sent through the airway, and a statement earlier that important documents were taken from party headquarters to Schonfeld airport for flights to Romania.

Premier Hans Modrow, who emerged as the leading political figure after the entire Communist Party leadership resigned, was not in East Germany. He led a three-member delegation to the Warsaw Pact summit in Moscow.

At the huge Leipzig rally, the crowd applauded and cheered as speakers called for a united Germany. Demonstrators waved dozens of West German flags in front of the secret police headquarters.

One demonstrator was drapped over a surveillance camera mounted outside the headquarters.

It was the third week that calls for German reunification dominated the Monday night Leipzig protest, and the demands were more pronounced than ever.

ADN reported 60,000 people rallied in Karl-Marx-Stadt, 10,000 in Schwerin and tens of thousands in Dresden.

President Bush indicated at a NATO summit in Brussels that a single German loyal to NATO would satisfy both the German yearning for unity and a nation’s right to self-determination, but refused to say more in a telephone conversation.

“We are not trying to accelerate the process. It’s better to let things move on their own,” the Christian Democrats, one of four parties allied with the Communists, said they were willing to see a united Germany, but the television report said they demanded that Erich Honecker, who resigned as Communist Party chief Sunday along with 20 other senior officials, be permitted inside later to tour the building.

Brigitte Zimmermann, spokeswoman for the party’s far-right governing coalition, a reform-minded group of 25 people, appealed for calm to avoid “anarchy and chaos.”

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — The Hoosier Lottery will change the format of its weekly television game show to improve the odds of winning the top $1 million prize and offer a more generous consolation prize, lottery officials announced Monday.

Lottery Director Jack Crawford said the changes, which will go into effect this Saturday, will reduce the finalist’s odds of winning the top prize in one to 2.7, compared with the old format’s odds of one in four.

Under the new format, the finalist who fails to win anything in the final round will walk away with a $25,000 consolation prize, regardless of whether the player drops out in the game’s last round.

Crawford said the changes were made to respond to viewer comments and to make the show more generous with prizes in light of higher-than-expected lottery ticket sales.

“We feel that those people who participate by buying tickets need to be rewarded with better odds on winning our big prizes and increased opportunities on behalf of the Hoosier Lottery,” said Crawford.

Through six weeks of the game show, only one person has won the top prize. Marilyn Bonavista of Indianapolis did that last Saturday. Crawford said viewers who have written to him in recent weeks want to see more big winners and more prizes awarded.

Under the new format, the show should produce a $1 million winner every three weeks, said Crawford.

With sales of $1 instant lottery tickets averaging 12 million to 13 million weekly, or about twice what was expected, the lottery is “in a position to be very generous,” said Crawford, although he still follows the general guideline of paying out in prizes about 50 to 55 percent of gross revenue.

“We don’t think this will interfere with the prize structure all the time, but every now and then we’ll have to adjust the final decline in sales,” said Crawford.

The lottery, which began to sell tickets Oct. 13, expects to reach 100 million in total sales sometime this week.

Under the new format, the finalist among six game-show contestants could win the $1 million prize on the first, second or third picks of the final round. Under the old format, the $1 million prize could be won only after the finalists progressed through the first two steps of the final round.

The design of the final round will remain basically the same. The player will face a board of numbers and dollar signs, with a dollar sign in the center and under the number three.

However, instead of dollar signs under numbers three and numbers 12 and 13, the player will cover up to six specific prize-winning numbers — $50,000, $100,000 and $1 million.

The fourth number will cover a dollar sign with a slash mark. Pick-up special session on prize numbers and dollar signs at the end.

The player wins a dollar on a matching card.

Czechs reject government, want free elections

PRAGUE, Czechoslovakia (AP) — More than 150,000 demonstrators chanting "They must go!" rejected the new Communist-dominated government Monday and demanded free elections in a roaring show of support for the opposition.

Also on Monday, thousands of tourists from Czechoslovakia freely visited the West for the first time in decades after the government lifted most travel restrictions.

Demonstrators massed in central Wenceslas Square for the first time since Nov. 27, when a nationwide general strike forced the government to grant historic concessions. That demonstration capped 11 straight days of rallies in Czechoslovakia.

Monday's demonstrators waved red, white and blue national flags and applauded opposition demands for elections by July and a second general strike on Dec. 11 if there is no new government by Sunday. "Resign! Resign!" they chanted.

The turnout at the rally and smaller ones elsewhere was a clear signal to the government that the opposition has massive popular support for its demands for real democracy.

They were protesting the new coalition government named Sunday, which brought only five non-Communists into the 21-member Cabinet and left Communists in control of all key ministries. Thirteen were holdovers from the previous Communist Cabinet.

In an indication the government may respond to demands for new ministers, First Deputy Premier Bohumil Urban met with two opposition representatives to negotiate a new meeting with Communist Premier Ladislav Adamec later this week.

Franitek Pitra, the premier of the Czech republican government, asked for more time to consider changes at the public level, postponing an announcement originally scheduled for Monday night.

The governments of the Czech and Slovak republics control key areas such as justice and education in their respective regions.

Eleven of the 17 ministers under Pitra in the Czech republic have submitted their resignations, including the unpopular ministers of education and justice, the state news agency CTK reported.

A parliamentary commission reported on its investigation into police brutality against student demonstrators on Nov. 17. It concluded that police used inappropriate force and seriously injured peaceful demonstrators. It said some police on duty then may face charges of assault and abuse of office.

According to CTK, the report blamed "high political figures" for the repression, which "was one of the decisive reasons" for subsequent mass protests. CTK listed no names.

The hourlong Prague rally, broadcast live on state radio and television, was a triumphal show of national unity in the fight for democracy. That unity was symbolized at the end, when protest singer Karel Kryl, who has lived in exile in the West for years, and Karel Gott, the nation's best-known officially sanctioned pop singer, led the singing of the national anthem.

The people loudly cheered Civic Forum spokesman Václav Malý when he announced that the opposition hoped to field its own candidates in elections.

"Thanks for your help and support!" Malý shouted. "We need it now more than ever."

"That's it! That's it!" the crowd chanted back in a roaring show of support for Civic Forum, the nation's leading opposition movement, and its counterpart in Slovakia, called Public Against Violence.

Adamec has promised "radical changes" with the new government but has given no specific pledge of free elections.

Chief S&L regulator resigns post

WASHINGTON (AP) — M. Danny Wall, under fire for his handling of what may become the costliest savings and loan crisis in history, resigned Monday as the government's chief S&L regulator.

In his letter of resignation to President Bush, Wall complained he was being made "a scapegoat" for the problems of the entire industry and denounced a "steady stream of one-sided information" from congressional hearings concerning the collapse of Lincoln Savings and Loan Association of Irvine, Calif.

Rep. Henry Gonzalez, D-Texas, chairman of the House Banking Committee, has blamed Wall for allowing Lincoln to remain open until last April even though government examiners had recommended in May 1987 that it be closed. The bailout of the institution is expected to cost taxpayers up to $2.5 billion.

In turn, Wall criticized Gonzalez on Monday, saying he "resorted to corruption of the truth" in trying to force the regulator out.

Wall's departure brought expectations of relief from Congress and the Bush administration.

Gonzalez said in a statement, "I know this was a difficult decision, but I commend him for taking the action so that the air may be cleared and we may move forward in dealing with the savings and loan crisis." He made no mention of Wall's accusations.

Wall's mentor, Sen. Jake Garn, R-Utah, who brought him to Washington in 1975 as his chief aide, said Wall was "a man of unquestionably solid character and integrity" but was "a convenient target for the critics who sought a scapegoat for the serious problems in the thrift industry."

Treasury Secretary Nicholas Brady, whose department oversees Wall's Office of Thrift Supervision, commended the regulator's decision to step down as "public spirited."

Implementation of a campus-wide smoking policy was the focus of last night's Saint Mary's Board of Student Affairs meeting. The Board of Student Affairs discussed the problems of leaving smoking policies to the discretion of individual halls and/or sections. In some halls, resident advisors are left to decide if smoking regulations should be implemented.

Some resident advisors feel this individual discretion can lead to tension between the resident advisors and the residents.

The rights of smokers conflicting with the rights of non-smokers was the main concern of the board. The board did not come to a final decision but resolved to continue the discussion.

Participation in the Drive to Cure Paralysis was also encouraged. The event is being held in Angela Athletic Facility Saturday, Dec. 9. Participants take part in one hour of aerobics for a $1 donation to the drive.

Bush addresses NATO on summit outcomes

WASHINGTON (AP) — Despite European hopes for a summit, President Bush that he doesn’t expect a “peace dividend” to result from reduced East tensions, many members of Congress are pressing for a cut in defense spending on domestic programs as the military budget is restructured.

Washington Post

"Bush and in a buoyant mood as he neared the end of a journey that took him to last week's summit with Gorbatchev. He told reporters that he expects to venture out in a small boat in the storm-tossed harbor in Malta during the weekend, he replied, "Hot dogging"... No. Yes. These charismatic macho, visionary guys. They'll do anything...."

WASHINGTON (AP) — Despite the hope that a summit in Bonn on Monday will help President Bush that he doesn't expect a "peace dividend" to result from reduced East tensions, many members of Congress are pressing for a cut in defense spending on domestic programs as the military budget is restructured.

The president that there can be no such windfall was that the Gramm-Rudman deficit-reduction law requires that he produce a budget for fiscal 1991 containing a short-fall of no more than $54 billion. The deficit for this budget year, which ends Sept. 30, is projected at about $110 billion. Bush will present his proposed budget to Congress on Jan. 22. "There just isn't a lot of, quote, excess money, unquote, floating around around there," Bush told a news conference in Brussels.

The president that the end of trip to a summit with Soviet leader Mikhail Gorbatchev, it is premature to speak as some are at home about a peace dividend, like a lot of mess been out of defense and put it into other worthy causes.

The president that the reason there can be no such windfall was that the Gramm-Rudman deficit-reduction law requires that he produce a budget for fiscal 1991 containing a short-fall of no more than $54 billion. The deficit for this budget year, which ends Sept. 30, is projected at about $110 billion. Bush will present his proposed budget to Congress on Jan. 22. "There just isn't a lot of, quote, excess money, unquote, floating around around there," Bush told a news conference in Brussels.

Although members of Congress are split over the question, many believe it is time to impose deep cuts on the nearly $290 billion defense budget, which comprises about one-fourth of the government's $1.2 trillion annual spending.

They cite three reasons:

• The easing of Cold War tension.
• The need to shrink the deficit.
• A desire to replenish domestic programs that have been held hard by Reagan-era spending cuts.

"The more you cut from the military, the less damage you do to domestic programs to meet Gramm-Rudman targets," Rep. Barney Frank, D-Mass., said.

Frank has been a leader of a group of liberals pressing congressional leaders to slash about $20 billion off the Pentagon's budget and redistribute most of it among health, housing, education and other domestic programs.

But it is not just liberals who want to reduce the Defense Department's coffers. Senate Majority Leader Frank Carlin has begun considering plans to shrink expected savings of $80 billion into $180 billion over the next three to five years.

Such a reduction sounds dramatic, but it's just a fact that do little to change the direction of Pentagon spending which has taken in recent years.

Since 1986, military spending is up 3 percent annually when inflation is factored in, but that doesn't mean the actual amount of money going to the Pentagon has increased each year.
Fighting stalls evacuation of foreigners from Manila

MANILA, Philippines (AP) - Fighting intensified today between rebels and loyal forces in the Makati financial district, where about 2,000 foreigners, including more than 200 Americans, have been trapped in hotels for five days. Efforts to evacuate foreigners held by the rebels appeared to have stalled early today.

A 60mm mortar round slammed into a squatter settlement near the Makati Municipal Center at 6 a.m. (11 p.m. EST Monday). Ten people were taken to the hospital, including a 6-year-old girl who died.

Two bombs exploded in the capital late Monday, wounding two people. It was unclear if they were related to the coup attempt, which began Friday and has killed at least 71 people and wounded more than 500.

The U.S. Embassy recommended this morning that Americans living in Makati remain in their homes but avoid upper floors, lest they become targets for snipers.

At least three people were killed in Makati Monday and 15, including one American, were wounded by sniper fire and shrapnel.

Troops loyal to the government of President Corazon Aquino, backed by three armored personnel carriers, began moving under cover of fire toward the hotel district where the foreigners are.

"Are we going to win?" a colonel asked his men at the end of a briefing. "Yes. sir!" they shouted.

I. E. 'Terry' I. T. told his men not to fire unless they were under rebel control.

Capt. Albert Vien, said the insurgents would release the foreigners to dispel suspicions they were being held hostage.

The statement said the foreigners would be free to leave the hotels at 10 a.m. Tuesday, if they would be taken to Manila's airport aboard shuttle buses.

Yes. said the move did not indicate the rebels were about to end their bid to oust Mrs. Aquino.

"That's the farthest thing that we could do," he said. "We pledged our lives to this cause. We will hold the line to the last drop of our blood.

About 400 mutineers from the elite Scout Rangers were holding 22 hostages in the Makati district, where many foreign embassies and residences of foreign diplomats and businessmen.

About 400 rebels continued to occupy Manila's airport on Coloso, 35 miles south of Manila. Their leader refused to surrender and threatened to blow up the base's planes.

President Bush called Mrs. Aquino on Monday arriving back in Washington from the Malta superpower summit and following a visit with NATO allies in Belgium to express concern for the safety of Americans in the Makati hotels.

White House spokesman Martin Fitzwater quoted Bush as telling Mrs. Aquino: "I understand some Americans are in the hotels. . . . Can we get those people out? I'm very concerned about their lives and their safety.

"She assured him they were doing everything possible to protect American lives," Fitzwater said.

EPA proposes restrictions on cancer-linked fungicides

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Environmental Protection Agency called for curbs Monday on the pesticide EPA said promote the spread of the chemical on scores of crops from apples to tomatoes, poses a unreasonable cancer risk.

The EPA proposed eliminating the use of EBDC, a family of fungicides on 45 crops. The agency's continued use on another 10 food products, including grapes, onions and cranberries, "will present an unreasonable risk" to consumers.

The proposed restrictions would stem from agricultural use about 80 percent to 90 percent of the estimated 18 million pounds of EBDCs that are sold annually in the United States, according to government and industry officials.

EBDCs, or ethylene bis(dichloride) benzoate, are a group of pesticides that have been used since the 1950s to control fungi and protect a wide variety of food crops from dental disease. They cause mildew and fungal diseases. The group includes the fungicides maneb, mecozole and mecoprop.

Environmentalists accused the EPA of moving too slowly, noting that no final regulation on EBDCs is likely to be issued until early 1991, and that maintaining the existing rules would allow the EPA to post serious health concerns.

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP) - The Navy outmaneuvered Greenpeace anti-nuclear protesters Monday, crippling their vessels and towing them out of an area where they tried unsuccessfully to disrupt the launch of a Trident 2 missile.

The high seas drama took place in the Atlantic 50 miles off the Florida coast just before the nuclear-powered submarine Tennessee tossed the $26.5 million missile on a test launch of a Trident 2 missile.

The high seas drama took place in the Atlantic 50 miles off the Florida coast just before the nuclear-powered submarine Tennessee tossed the $26.5 million missile on a test launch of a Trident 2 missile.

Three Navy helicopters made life even more miserable for the two men in each of the two Zoarcas by hovering overhead, making absolutely choppy seas even choppy.

Shannon Fagan, a spokesperson for the protesters, said a Navy ship, the 24 foot submarine support ship USS Grap, left two gashes in the hull of the USS Greenpeace, a 190-foot ocean-going tug. She said the largest, about 3 feet long, was stuffed with mattresses to keep water out.

Cmdr. Deborah Burnette, a Navy spokesperson, said Navy officials at the scene reported only one hole about 1 foot in diameter in the Greenpeace hull.

"This is a terrible outrage," said Peter Babouth, executive director of Greenpeace USA. In a statement. "This is an unbridled act of aggression against a peaceful protest in international waters.

Fagan said Greenpeace was considering legal action against the Navy.

Greenpeace had successfully used the ship and Zealand to block a Trident 2 launch attempt July 28. But the Navy was ready for them this time. We were more prepared today because we looked at what they tried to do on July 28, and we used the minimum force necessary today to clear the area," Babouth said.

Once the protesters' vessels were muscled outside the 5,000-yard diameter safety circle, the Tennessee sent the 44-foot missile shooting out of a tube in the deck. It broke the Atlantic surface, ignited and propelled a deadly warhead package to an ocean target several thousand miles away.
Laundry tragedy calls for fresh start

The loss of St. Michael's Laundry and the shortage of coin-operated machines on campus has been the topic of several humorous columns and cartoons in The Observer. But as paper disappears and the in-print approach, the shortage of machines on campus will not seem quite so funny.

Unfortunately, with the loss of St. Michael's laundry service, there are too few machines for the men and women of this campus to use. The Administration has done little to solve the problem in the past few weeks, and seems unlikely to remedy it soon. We recommend two steps to remedy the immediate shortage of machines on campus before next semester. We suggest that those women's dorms that have not enough machines on campus will not seem quite so funny.

First, to remedy the immediate shortage of machines, many of the women's dorms have set aside washers and dryers on campus. But as paper disappears and the in-print approach, the shortage of machines on campus will not seem quite so funny.

Second, we recommend that the University install washers and dryers in all of the men's dorms over the winter break. Many of the women's dorms have set aside washers and dryers for the men, but the shortage of machines in all of the men's dorms over the winter break will not seem quite so funny.

In addition, the old laundry policy was sexist: men's laundry was free, while women paid a $50.00 fee on all male students when they did not use the facility. We recommend that the University install washers and dryers in all of the dorms and remove the fee on all male students when they do not use the facility.

Third, we recognize the need for institutional laundry at Notre Dame, but recommend several changes to the planners of the new laundry facility.

Laundry service should be optional for both men and women. We realize the necessity for institutional laundry but fail to see the necessity of imposing a $50.00 fee on all male students when some do not use the facility.

In addition, the old laundry policy was sexist: men's laundry was free, while women paid a $50.00 fee on all male students when they did not use the facility. We recommend that the University install washers and dryers in all of the dorms and remove the fee on all male students when they do not use the facility.

Furthermore, as some of the men's dorms do not have space for a sufficiently large laundry room to accommodate their residents, we suggest that the new facility include coin-operated machines on the premises.

In the meantime, let's hope the University installs us new laundry machines for Christmas.
Dear Editor:

I believe that more political activity is needed on our campus in order to prepare us for the challenges and difficulties of the future. Thus, I have outlined a few suggestions which I believe, if implemented, will increase diversity and political activity on our campus.

More than eighty percent of all the students at Notre Dame were varsity athletes in high school. This is an amazing statistic, but it is not so without its possibilities being well organized and excellent. Yet, with so many former athletes attending our school, how is it possible for other less aprehensive extracurricular activities to flourish?

One of the former high school varsity athletes participated in other activities, aside from athletics. These activities were necessarily secondary because of time constraints. This may not have been true for all people, myself included, but it is true that for most high school varsity students, as the weekend arrives, they usually either use their extra time to blast away in athletics or spend time on their other school activities.

Admitting fewer students whose primary high school extracurricular activities are sports will diversify the student body and increase participation in non-athletic activities. Athletics is important, but I do not believe it deserves the primary role that it plays at Notre Dame. If we are going to be prepared for life after college, we should be exposed to a variety of extracurricular activities, not just different sports. It is because the University is afraid of having a politically astute student body that they admit so many former athletes?

Next, I suggest that the provost lighten the class load five to four or lessen the credit load. Furthermore, the weekends we do not have to take five classes. Why do these teams have to set limits on their time off? The grants we have learned outside of school.

A day reconciliation between East and West would come. Today, Kennedy would not pause to glory in the game, but would instead speak of the opportunities that present themselves. The peaceful integration of East and West and the United States could help the major catalyst of these changes— Mikhail Gorbachev.

It is this failure to do more, to stand up for American ideals, that is most frustrating when one views the current political activity of foreign policy.

Meanwhile, unlike Eastern Europe, the situation in Central America is deifying for the worst. On Nov. 11, the El Salvadoran Leftist organization, F.M.L.N., launched a bloody offensive that has left hundreds dead. Included in these deaths were six priests and two women nuns. After they have been murdered, most probably by right-wing death squads. President Carter has uttered barely a word even though elements of the El Salvador Army could have involved in the murders. This lack of moral leadership would not have been duplicated by Robert Kennedy. At the height of the Vietnam conflict, Senator Kennedy urged American disengagement, something he probably would advocate for the U.S. in El Salvador. Senator Kennedy simply could not countenance the use of American power directly or indirectly, in an infamous speech, in illustrating the current American foreign policy.

It's not too shabby to have a Notre Dame team and Lou Holtz will prevail. Nevertheless, the Saturday night game will make us feel as if we were heroes somehow happening. I think that all Notre Dame fans expected what I am going to relate, but not from the Notre Dame perspective. As the score started to change, the Miami band started to play the Notre Dame-Miami game.

Yes, Miami has a very good team, so does Notre Dame, but Miami was coached, organized and played the better game. The Irish will come back and beat us, but will not be able to recreate the Notre Dame team and Lou Holtz will prevail.

Dear Editor:

Will the real Notre Dame fan please stand up and take a look at this? On your way up, smile at Lou Holtz and that fabulous Irish team and say thank you. I am so proud of this team and Lou Holtz and this University. I come back to Notre Dame in November.

Surely, Notre Dame, with its administrators, professors, coaches, student body and alumni, is the best football team in the country and yes, Notre Dame is the big game—what an experience for a parent such as myself.

Each and every football player should be proud of where he is, where each team member has been, and where each of you are going.

It's not too shabby to have a 23-1 record. Although, I must say that it sounds much better. The only way the Irish can beat the Irish and me is to win the Rose Bowl. Look straight games is to start right now.

I've followed the Irish every year since Johnny Lujack and to "the Irish" I say this: I am in awe of your attitude and your perpetual spirit. Thank's Notre Dame. Let's start all over and do it again! "Go Irish!!!"

"Steel Magnolias" depicts women as survivors

MICHELLE BERNINGER - accent writer

"Steel Magnolias" is about women. This Herbert Ross Film perhaps even sets the stage for a new trend in the strength of "female bonding," for a change. Although quite an odd combination, Dolly Parton, Sally Field, Julia Roberts, Daryl Hannah, Olymnia Dukakis, and Shirley MacLaine work to give us an outstanding portrayal of friendship and loyalty which supports them through the cyclic rhythm of life - birth, marriage, and death.

"The film also asks 'which is the stronger sex?' by presenting the lives of these women and their relationships with men - not one being ideal."

On the surface, "Steel Magnolias" is about survivors and their abilities to maintain strength and even a sense of humor in the face of adversity. Despite their individual hardships, the women are always able to find something to laugh about.

The film also asks "which is the stronger sex?" by presenting the lives of these women and their relationships with men - not one being ideal. Along with being depicted as sources of loneliness and tragedy, the men in their lives are also shown to be weaker when life's challenges get toughest.

For instance, Field's character, M'Lynn, reveals one woman's courage in dealing with the sickness, and eventual death of her beloved daughter, Shelby (Roberts). Whereas the men turn their backs on adversity as a way of coping, M'Lynn remains with Shelby until the bitter end, representing the warm-hearted, yet iron-willed "steel magnolia." Even at her daughter's grave, M'Lynn is comforted not by her husband or son, but by her four female friends.

Unlike Parton, who has little difficulty revealing her own personal Southern charm through her part as an affectionate, witty hair salon owner, Hannah meets the challenge of deviating from her beautiful, woman-roles of the past. She must play a lonely, strictly religious outsider who hides behind thick horn-rimmed glasses and a brown hair for most of the film.

MacLaine's performance as the ill-tempered, cynical Oscar, adds the humorous element to the plot. Although Oscar is the brunt of most jokes, she, too, is not without the kindness that binds her to the others. The close camaraderie that the six share bridges the boundaries of reputation, along with age and social status.

The film has quite a story behind it as well. For the screenplay, writer, Robert Harling. "Steel Magnolias" was written as a way of dealing with his grief after the loss of his sister to diabetes. By filming in Harling's hometown of Natchitoches, Louisiana, Tri-Star Pictures was able to capture the people, events, and aura of the close-knit community which narrated the story. Many people who had been a part of Harling's sister's life were cast to replay events from their own pasts before the camera.

You may want to put yourself on the back near the end of the movie because you have not yet shed a tear watching this supposedly bittersweet film. Not so fast. In a climactic funeral scene, Field portrays the helplessness of a mother who has just lost her child so effectively that within minutes the audience is sobbing.

Despite its sadness, "Steel Magnolias" offers optimism. Through Hannah's character, Annelle, Harling even gives us a new, hopeful outlook on death. Above all, the film makes the audience see that things aren't as bad as they seem, and that you can succeed.

Homely Annette Dupuy (Daryl Hannah) is hired by the southern charmer Trudy Jones (Dolly Parton), owner of a beauty salon.

Furs' new album: Missing the needed balance of lyrics and music

BRIAN GRUNERT - accent writer

Since the release of their self-titled debut album, the Psychedelic Furs have evolved stylistically from a sometimes harsh, sometimes brooding punk style to a melodic brightness, characteristic of their recent material. Along with their musical development, the band's lyrical advancement has been invigorated by the talents of singer Richard Butler.

After five albums and hit singles such as "Pretty in Pink" and "Heartbreak Beat," the Furs have established themselves as one of the premier bands on the college scene as well as in the rest of the music industry. However, Book of Days, the band's most recent effort, falls short of the standards they have set for themselves by earlier accomplishments.

The songs "Torch," "Parade," and "Mother-Son" are good examples of this old aggressiveness, emphasizing the guitar playing John Ashton. However, Ashton is far less innovative than in past years, and his luckier performance wreaks whatever potential these tunes might have.

Although many of the tracks on Book of Days are sluggish musically, Butler provides solid lyrics for the album. His style of poetic abstraction is especially prevalent in "Wedding," "I Don't Mine," and "Should God Forget." Butler continues to write in broken sentences, utilizing obscure plays on words, and assuming an attacking, self-righteous stance. Without specifics, he is able to relay his message.

Unfortunately, the musical repetitiveness detracts from and alienates the abstractness of Butler's words and the raspiness of his voice. The interplay between bright melodies and obscure lyrics is obliterated, and eventually the vocal and lyrical styles become part of the overall monotony.

Two bright spots on the album are "House" and the title track, "Book of Days." "House" is reminiscent of some of the Furs earlier material, lively yet gentle. "Book of Days" shows off a bit of experimentation as Ashton plays an acoustic guitar, a perfect playground for Butler's absorbing ideas. These two tunes seem to have the delicate balance of music with lyrics that is missing in the rest of the songs.

Despite flashes of variety and innovation, Book of Days is not an exciting step in the development of the Psychedelic Furs. It is either a regression or an insignificant step in a new direction that is met with stale indifference.

Baseball winter trade talks heat up

NASHVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Free agents Robin Yount and Mark Davis held off making decisions Monday, putting several possible deals on hold at baseball's winter meetings.

The Chicago Cubs said they were taking Yount, a first-round pick by Chicago, requiring a definite deal, while rumors and a minor left off a complete list of players and owners.

It remained uncertain, however, whether free agents Yount and Davis would announce their plans.

Yount is being wooed by big offers from Milwaukee, California, San Diego and the Cubs. He has played his entire career with the Brewers and they, along with the free-spending Angels, appeared to be the favorites to get him.

"We don't have anything to say way one or the other right now," Angels general manager Mike Port said. "Everyone except us was going around yesterday saying we had him." If the Angels get Yount, they are rumored to be interested in packaging Devon White and Sammy Sosa for Garvin Davis and the cash.

"We don't have anything to say way one or the other right now," Angels general manager Mike Port said. "Everyone except us was going around yesterday saying we had him." If the Angels get Yount, they are rumored to be interested in packaging Devon White and Sammy Sosa for Garvin Davis and the cash.

When Larry Yount did business by telephone from Arizona, the agents for Davis came to Nashville. Alan and Randy Hendricks met Monday with San Diego general manager — and newly named vice president — Jack McKeon to talk about Davis, the National League Cy Young winner, staying with the Padres.

"We don't have any timetable," Alan Hendricks said. "We'll try it all, as lawyers say, with all deliberate speed.

Philadelphia, the team Davis started with, has entered the big-bucks bidding and has thrown in another incentive — the chance for Davis to become a starter. Davis was a success starter in the minors but struggled in that role in the majors. Now a successful reliever, Davis may want another chance in someone else's bullpen.

The Yankees are anxious to get Davis and, if they can't get him, perhaps sign free agent Jeff Reardon. The Yankees are interested in Chicago White Sox reliever Bobby Thigpen, but wouldn't make a deal until settling on their situation with Davis and Reardon.

Fencing

The Irish will next travel to State College, Pa., on January 19 for the U.S.F.A. Collegiate Open.

One bright spot out of the weekend was the fine results from the Saint Mary's men, who are the national champions for fencing experience," said Marx of the North Carolina native. As if he isn't busy enough already, Irish assistant fencing coach Mike Curtin, one of the best, knocked off some noteworthy names, including former Irish standout All-American Mark Glass and 1985 world champions and former Irish standout All-American, the latter presently a teammate of Marx's with the Escrime du Lac fencing club.

"Maybe I was angry (about the Irish performance)," said Marx, whose last competition came in the 1988 Seoul Summer Olympics, "I haven't fenced like that in eight years. It really felt good.

The next challenge for the versatile Irish coach will come this weekend as he will meet even tougher competition in a North American circuit event in Louisville, Ky.

Miami 2nd in AP poll, but not yet satisfied

CORAL GABLES, Fla. (AP) — The University of Miami moved two steps closer to its third national championship this decade.

After the Hurricanes (10-1) improved two places to second in Monday's Associated Press poll to No. 2, first-year coach Dennis Erickson quickly assessed his team's chances of overtaking No. 1 Colorado.

"We're excited about that," Erickson said, "because it puts us in a position where, if we focus in and take care of business at the Sugar Bowl against Alabama, we've got the opportunity to win the national championship.

"If we're able to beat Alabama ... and Notre Dame were to beat Colorado, then I would say that because of where we're ranked right now, our chances are pretty good."

Miami will play in the Sugar Bowl on Jan. 1 against Alabama (11-1), which fell from second to seventh following a 30-20 loss at Houston Saturday. The Buffaloes (11-0) will play in the Orange Bowl against Notre Dame (11-1), which moved up one spot to fourth. Michigan (10-1-1) sits in No. 3 and will play No. 12 Southern Cal in the Rose Bowl.

If Miami loses and Notre Dame wins, the Fighting Irish stand to win their second consecutive national championship.

Miami finished No. 1 in 1983 and 1987 and No. 2 in 1986 and 1988. The Hurricanes' only stumble this year was a 24-10 loss at Florida State. They ended Notre Dame's 23-game winning streak with a 27-10 victory Nov. 25.

Miami received four first-place votes and 1,407 points, while Colorado received 55 first-place votes and 1,552 of a possible 1,500 points.

Michigan received the other first-place vote and 1,374 points. Notre Dame's point total was 1,323.

Roundout the Top 10 are Florida State, Nebraska, Alabama, Tennessee, Auburn and Arkansas.

Florida State, winners of nine in a row since opening the season with two losses, moved up one place to fifth, after beating Florida 24-17 Saturday. Nebraska, which was idle last week, moved to No. 7 to No. 6. Tennessee remained eighth after beating Florida 24-17 to the Vikings at Minnesota.

They are 6-7, under .500 for the first time since December 1983.

A year ago, the Bears were 12-4.

"We've got 18 or 19 kids who are freshmen or sophomores. We're a little different. They don't respond the same way the veterans did a couple years ago," Ditka said.

But he said he doesn't regret any personnel decisions.

"These are the guys we want to go to the well with," he said.

For Chicago to make the playoffs for a sixth consecutive year, the Vikings and Green Bay Packers must lose and tie atop the NFC Central — which would virtually have to collapse.

While the Notre Dame wrestling team could not avoid thinking of what might have been, the actual results from last weekend's Las Vegas Invitational weren't too shabby either.

The Irish finished seventh in the prestigious tournament, equaling their performance of a year ago. Boyd placed second in the 142-pound division, Mark Gerardi was fourth in the 167-pound bracket and Andy Raubenberg was fifth at 174 pounds.

"I think this was the toughest competition this tournament has ever had," said Irish coach Fran McCann. "A lot of the smaller schools that there have been replaced with bigger wrestling schools."

Despite the tough field present in Las Vegas, the Irish almost placed in the top five. If Boyd and Raubenberg both had finished on the podium and by a single point, Notre Dame would have finished no worse than fifth.

Facing Arizona State's Townsend Saunders, the nation's top-ranked 142-pounder, Boyd led 4-1 before losing 9-8. Raubenberg tied Clemson's Donnie Heckel, ranked fourth in the country among 118-pounders, 1-1, then lost 1-0 in an overtime period. Gerardi also lost in a close match.

"Andy and Mark wrestled great tournaments, and both were eliminated in close matches," said McCann. "But we have to win those close ones if we're going to be a really great team."

Arizona State won the Invitational, followed in order by Oklahoma State, Nebraska, Indiana, Iowa State and Michigan. The Irish finished ahead of traditional powers Edinboro, Lehigh and Indiana State.

Notre Dame dropped one notch to 16th in the latest Amateur Wrestling News poll. Oklahoma State is ranked first, with Arizona State, Oklahoma, Iowa and Nebraska rounding out the top five. The Irish face Nebraska, Oklahoma and Iowa this season, and host the latter two teams.

In the individual rankings, Boyd is third among 142-pounders and Raubenberg is eighth in the 118-pound division.

Notre Dame opens its dual meet season Sunday at 2 p.m., when the Irish host Illinois at the Hoosier Dome. The Irish, who were No. 14 in the latest national wrestling poll, are No. 14 in the latest NCAA poll, and No. 25 in the Amateur Wrestling News poll.

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) -- Injuries and illness seemed to felt more relieved than disappointed about losing Heisman Trophy by 20 points to Houston's Andre Ware.

"The women need our help and in this case, we've been. We've won some games that way," Meyer said. "But, as long as we're fighting and doing our best, it's what they pay me for, frankly, and it's what they pay us for."

Irish look to rebound against Indiana's talented freshmen

BY GREG GUFFEE
Assistant Sports Writer

BLOOMINGTON - Indiana's newest freshman class is quickly showing why many publications ranked it as the best in the country.

The Hoosiers have streaked to a 3-0 record with the aid of seven freshmen, who compose one of the most highly-touted classes in coach Bob Knight's tenure at Indiana.

An experienced Notre Dame men's basketball team (1-1) can end that win string tonight at 8 p.m. in Assembly Hall. The game will be televised locally by WJTV-28.

The Hoosiers have three freshmen scoring in double figures. Calbert Cheaney averages 16.7 points followed by Greg Graham at 16.0 and Lawrence Franklin with 11 at 11.3 points and 7.7 rebounds. Rounding out the septet are last year's Indiana Miss Basketbowl Pat Graham, Chris Lawson and Todd Leary.

"If you start three you have to have confidence," said Notre Dame coach Digger Phelps, who was in a similar situation last year with five freshmen. "If you get athletes that can play, it doesn't matter what grade they're in."

A freshman has been the leading scorer in all of Indiana's victories. Cheaney scored 20 points in a 77-66 win over Miami (Ohio), while Greg Graham had 24 in a 79-68 win over Kent State. Pat Graham scored the game-winning basket in last Saturday's 71-69 triumph over Kentucky in the Big Four Classic. Pat Graham, who did not score a point in the first three-three-pointers for nine points.

Sophomore forward Eric Anderson is tied with Cheaney for team scoring honors at 16.7 points per game. The 1988 Illinois Mr. Basketball had an amazing 21-25 field goals and 8-9 free throws.

"He could have played as a senior in high school," Phelps said. "He's a complete player. He's as good as a front-line player as there is in the country because he's consistent."

The women's swim team broke ten university records as the Irish placed third at the National Catholic Meet, finishing 100 yards behind Villanova by only two points in a meet that was so close it was a championship meet for the first time. But as the women's team squeaked into the last three-weekend's National Catholics, the Irish look to improve on last year's fourth place finish. The men's squad was no better than a strong third place and sealed the meet victory for the Big Four Original.

The individual highlight for the women's team was sophomore Tanya Williams, who tied the two-day old record with the aid of 9.7 yards breaststroke. She became consistent for the first time. The Irish had the lead briefly during the second day of the competition, but Villanova proved too strong.

The women's team finished third at a new university record with the aid of 5-0 record, fourth place at the pool in Bloomington since a 73-7 victory over LaSalle was third. The Irish has captured six of the last eight meets and has a 14-7 victory over the last eight. Joe Fairman scored 23 points to place the Notre Dame to a 94-74 victory over Louisville in the Joyce ACC.

Fredrick and fellow co-captain Jamere Jackson will need to pick up in good games against the Louisville Cardinals. Successful last Saturday in Louisville, Fredrick scored just 13 points on 5-of-13 shooting.

"I think Jamere and Fred picked too quick against Louisville," Phelps said. "You still have to stay in a rhythm even if you play great. You weren't in their shooting or they were over-anxious."

Joining Fredrick and Jackson in the starting lineup will be senior guard Tim Singleton, forward Keith Robinson and Tim Alexander. Singleton had a team-high 15 points against the Cardinals.

"They're very tough at home," Phelps said. "Just have to get back in the rhythm."

NOTES - Sophomore Keith Robinson, who was named to the ACC team, decided to leave Notre Dame. He did not dress for either of the last two games against San Francisco or Louisville. Adkins, who averaged 0.7 points as a freshman, told Phelps he plans to transfer.

Tickets for all remaining home games are now on sale at the Gate 10 box office at the Joyce ACC. Singleton is now fifth on the all-time list with 246...Indiana is shooting 52.5 percent from the field.

Swim teams end season in style

Men take first, women third at National Catholics

Irish head swimming coach Todd Yeich was excited at last weekend's National Catholic Meet as a measure of the swim team's success for the first semester.

If the results are any indication, the Irish are heading in the right direction.

Both the men's and women's teams went into the meet at Fordham University in New York City with one main goal: to improve on last year's fourth place finish, by not one point, but not one point away with it was victory, while the women's squad made a strong third place showing.

The men's team squeaked past last year's champion Villanova in their only two points in a meet that was so close it was decided on the last event.

The lead changed hands three times over the three-day meet, with Notre Dame on top going into the last race, the 400-yard freestyle relay.

The Irish had to place third or better to retain the title, but after three legs of the race, the team was no better than fourth. The last Irish swimmer, Jim Birmingham, saved the meet with a strong performance and gave the Irish third and salvaged the meet victory.

The men's meet was so close that had any Notre Dame swimmer finished one place lower, we wouldn't have won," noted Welsh. "Since everyone scored, it was a true total team victory."

The remarkable fact about the Irish victory is a testament to the strong field in the overall meet was that no Notre Dame swimmer won an event, despite setting six new universi deral records. "It's obvious from the meet that the men's team needs power to advance," said Welsh. "Winning a championship meet without winning an event is like a football team winning without a touchdown. It can happen, but you can't count on it every time."

The total Irish placed 16th, while Villanova settled for second with 678. LaSalle was third with 674. Georgia Tech finished 12 team points behind.

The women's team gave an impressive performance by scoring 883 points, placing third behind champion Villanova and last year's winner, Boston College. The Irish had the lead briefly during the first two days of the competition, but Villanova proved too strong.

The women set ten new university records as they won six events, the most in the three years of the National Catholic Meet.

The individual highlight for the Irish was the effort of freshman Tanya Williams, who won three races in meet record times. She also became the first Notre Dame swimmer ever to qualify for the NCAA national championships with her first place finish in the 200-yard butterfly.

In recognition of her performance, Williams was given the Outstanding Women's Swimmer title for the meet.

Becky Wood came close to qualifying for the NCAAs, missing by one second in the 200-yard breaststroke.

The women's team was as successful as its men's. "The women's team was awesome," said Welsh. "They had some work to do, but they did a great job."

Fencers dominate in weekend matches

Despite the impressive results from this past weekend's fencing season openers at Northwestern University, there are still some doubts as to the true potential for this year's squads.

The men's teams disposed of Illinois (20-0), North Carolina (18-9), and the Air Force Academy (21-6) quite handily while the women all lost to ranked opponents from North Carolina and the Air Force Academy, both by 15-1 scores.

However, the coaching staff was less impressed with the overall performance of the Irish. "We didn't fence well this weekend because we didn't have the depth," said assistant coach Mike Marx. "They didn't adjust to the opponents' level. It's time to get back to the basics."

Irish head coach Mike DeCicco, who was not present for Friday night's matches, was somewhat more positive with the results.

"When someone looks at these scores, of course the numbers are important," said DeCicco. "But I'd rather look bad winning than to look good losing."

While the Irish are arguably one of the best teams in the nation, DeCicco downplayed that aspect, choosing rather to focus on the need for improvement and team competitiveness.

"Right now we are a good team, but certainly not from a national title contender," said DeCicco. "There's some work to be done before we head back-to-back with the Gaels of Columbia and the Penn State."

Very little criticism can come from any observers regarding the women's team. Once again and as expected, senior Captain Anne Barreda led the charge with a spotless 5-0 record. She also defeated Baron O'Brien who was a conference tourney champ.

"We don't have anyone else on the team who fences quite as well as Anne," said coach DeCicco. "She knows just what to do when she goes into a match. And then she does it. She's just that good."

ishes with a 6-0 mark, while Rachel Haugh (6-0) and Lynn Lynn had a 5-1 mark and is shooting 6-2 over the weekend.

Because of the ties for the men's team, the Irish are currently shooting 6-2 over the weekend.

Note: For men of the foul squad was the fencing of freshman Noel Young (7-0) and junior Phil Leary (5-0), while freshman Jeff Rea is 4-1.

If you're a top fencer like Noel, you're not going to let another good fencer challenge you," said DeCicco in response to Noel's performance in the team as a whole. The closest Young came to a loss was his 5-3 winning margin over Illinois' Colelski.

AbdiAbdi of Illinois returned to his fine form as he coasted to a 6-1 mark on the day in leading the Irish saber team. James Tallaffer also turned in a fine performance of 6-1.

Chris Barger is 7-2, while brother Ed is 3-1, the only fencer Irish to defeat flyer Shimon Sarraf, a thorn in the side of the sabre- funded fencers. He's as good at foil as he is at epee.

Epeeist David Calderhead got his first win in a first bout. But after a brief chat with assistant coach Mike Marx, he left it.
