Candidates debate election issues

By PETE LOFTUS

The four tickets for student body president/vice-president engaged in a debate Thursday, discussing such issues as co-residential housing, students' rights, and relationships at Notre Dame. The candidates for student body president and vice president are, respectively:

- Vinny Sanchez and Melissa Smith
- Sigi Loya and Raja Singh
- Vinny Sanchez and Fred Tombar
- Mark Bettencourt and Kevin Craig

The format of the debate consisted of each ticket making opening statements followed by representatives from The Observer and WVU-MM posing questions, with each ticket having two minutes to answer. The format was then opened to questions from the general public, which was followed by closing statements from each ticket.

The ticket of Loya/Singh emphasized results as a measure of their competence for the candidacy. They cited as their strengths Loya's position as District Four Senator and Singh's as S.U.B. board manager. The ticket promised to offer experience, and "real and tangible answers and results."

The ticket of Sanchez/Smith cited for their qualifications Sanchez's position as chairman of the Judicial Council and Smith's as executive assistant to Student Government. They promised to protect the rights of students, and make efforts to increase social interaction, have more S.Y.R.'s, and establish the option of co-residential housing.

The ticket of Pasin/Tombar felt that their main strength was their broad representation of the student body. Pasin is Junior Class president and Tombar is Grace Hall co-president. They felt that this combination resulted in both a knowledge of the "nuts and bolts" of student government and an awareness of students' needs and concerns.

The ticket of Bettencourt said he and Craig would only result in anti-apartheid boycott. The English team is defying a magistrate's ban on transporting their team to the cricket grounds despite a magistrate's ban on demonstrations.

Police stopped all minibus taxis and most cars leaving the township, removing any youths they found on their way to the five-day test match between the English visitors and South Africa's national team.

A crowd of 2,000 people, mostly students, then assembled at an intersection and were "dispersed peacefully" after tear gas was used, police said. A local anti-apartheid group, the Alexandra Civic Organization, claimed some would-be protesters were beaten and that 30 were injured.

The English team is defying a ban on sports contacts with South Africa, designed to protest South Africa's system of racial segregation.

Police said eight journalists covering the confrontation were briefly detained when they refused to obey an order to leave the area. Police claimed some journalists provided transportation to protesters trying to reach the stadium.

Later, riot police with batons broke up a second protest by more than 100 black youths outside a downtown office building housing the British Consulate. The protesters were chased through the streets even though a British diplomat urged police to let them stay.

South African police use tear gas and clubs on protesters

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP) — Police used tear gas and clubs Thursday to disperse hundreds of blacks protesting a tour by the South African cricket team that defined an anti-apartheid boycott.

A Cabinet minister said continuing unrest is prolonging South Africa's state of emergency and said threats against Nelson Mandela from left- and right-wing extremists are among the factors delaying the ANC's leader's release from prison.

"We want to ensure he walks out of that prison a free man and not only in this country, but as a free citizen," Law and Order Minister Adriaan Vlok told a news conference in Cape Town.

In the township of Alexandra, police arrested at least six blacks, saying they had commandeered minibus taxis to transport protesters to the nearby cricket grounds despite a magistrate's ban on demonstrations.

Soviet reformers say changes not enough

MOSCOW (AP) — Pro-democracy reformers from within and outside the Communist Party said Thursday the decision to renege on its legal claim on power is not enough to end political repression and centralized control.

U.S., USSR make headway in arms control /page 6

"It is necessary to eliminate (Communist) party organizations in the army, the police, the KGB, the courts, in all the state institutions," said Yury Mityunov, a spokesman for a would-be opposition party, the Democratic Union.

Boris Yeltsin, who has pressed for greater reform, cast the only vote against the changes Wednesday in the policy-making Central Committee — because, he said, they did not go far enough.

"I had grounds to vote against, but I think, however, that the platform represents, if not a step then a half-step forward, and that lessens the tension before the (party) congress," late in June, he said in his office near the Kremlin.

A second party should be formed unless the congress renews conservatives from the Communist Party leadership, said Yeltsin, who spoke Sunday to the largest pro-democracy rally in decades, at the foot of Red Square.

Several hundred thousand people rallied to demand that the party abandon its guaranteed leading role in society.

At the Central Committee meeting that ended Wednesday, the party did just that, approving President Mikhail Gorbachev's platform of revoking the power monopoly in favor of a multi-party system.

"The discussion was very hot," Yeltsin said. "The proposals were diametrically opposed. It was not easy."

Mityunov said pressure for reform is moving to the streets, and cited the growing number of angry crowds across the So-
The Bradys are a fine bunch for family TV.

They're back. Tonight marks the return of the Bradys, the Brady family of the '70s. Television might not ever be the same again.

The Bradys are a cult legend in my book. They share the throne of syndication with "Gilligan's Island" and "Leave It to Beaver." They're unmatchable; right up there with Snuffy Stuf from "Sesame Street" and "Mr. Rogers."

I startedkip a beat when I heard they were back. This won't be one of those cheesy remakes with all new actors murdering the characters we know and love. When the Bradys do it, they do it right; the entire original family, even Alice, except for Marcia, is back. (We won't ask what happened to Marcia. We're afraid to. It would be one of those Hollywood "fame leads to drugs, drugs lead to crime, the next thing you know you're in a prison cell next to a woman in comfortable shoes" stories.)

Although I'm elated that my favorite family has come home, I'm having mixed emotions about the new show. For starters, it's being touted as a drama. I don't think I like the idea of the Bunch taking on topics like euthanasia or Bobby's paralysis. I don't think I like the idea of the Bunch with Alice, the evil force in East Germany, whose own mark is not convincing. Some accuse him of trying to boost his chances in the December elections.

The number of new AIDS cases in the United States rose just 5 percent in 1989 — the slowest increase ever — but the disease is spreading faster among heterosexuals, newborns, women and Southerners. Federal AIDS specialists reported Thursday. A total of 35,238 AIDS cases were reported in 1989 by the national Centers for Disease Control, compared with 32,196 reported during 1988.

The prosecution in Joseph Hazelwood's trial in Anchorage tried Thursday to bar from evidence the results of blood tests on two Coast Guardsmen who tested positive for alcohol and marijuana after the nation's worst oil spill. The former Exxon Valdez skipper's attorneys want the evidence excluded because the two men were assigned to a radar monitoring station that was supposed to track the ship's movements and notify it if anything unusual happened.

Andy Rooney was suspended for three months without pay Thursday, although he denied making racial comments attributed to him in a gay magazine. He was suspended after meeting with CBS News President David Burke. "I guess he (Burke) believes the person who said it," Rooney said, referring to Chris Ruff, the reporter whose interview with Rooney will be published Friday by The Advocate, a bimonthly magazine based in Los Angeles.

The mayors of South Bend, Mishawaka and Elkhart Thursday criticized an Indiana House bill that would require cities throughout the state to begin collective bargaining and binding arbitration -- a move in opposition to Mishawaka's City Hall, the mayors spoke out against a bill that would permit collective bargaining for state employees, university employees, including faculty, non-teaching public school personnel, local police and fire employees, license branch workers and lottery commission employees.

Abortions could not be obtained in public hospitals and doctors would have to perform abortions before about 20 weeks under legislation approved by an Indiana Senate committee Thursday. House Bill 1034, sponsored by Sen. Joseph Corcoran, R-Seymour, was sent to the Senate floor on a 7-5 vote by the Senate Judiciary Committee. But two senators who voted for the bill said they might vote against it on the floor.

HUNTINGTON BEACH, Calif. (AP) — A drifting oil slick threatened miles of beaches and estuaries Thursday after a tanker apparently was punctured by its own anchor and spilled 295,000 gallons of Alaskan crude oil.

But favorable offshore winds held the slick stationary against an onshore current about a mile out to sea from this popular Southern Cali­fornia recreational area. And calm seas eased the effort to skim the oil from the surface.

The 811-foot tanker American Trader, which had been fully loaded with 21 million gallons, lay off the coast surrounded by a floating containment boom and Coast Guard vessels.

The purple slick covered an area measuring 2 1/2 miles by 4 miles, said Coast Guard Lt. Vincent Campano. Three skimmer boats were at work and five more were en route to the area, off the Orange County coastline about 35 miles southeast of Los Angeles.

"Along the shore, booms were laid to protect the environmentally delicate estuaries at the Santa Ana River mouth, Ana­heim Bay, Bolsa Chica Wetlands and upper Newport Bay — all teeming with wildlife," said Biologist Esther Burket said.

"One gets it onto vegetation, it's a nightmare," Burket said.

Six oil-soaked sea birds were cleaned and cared for by volun­teers at a lift guard head­quar­ters. Six other birds were dead.

Curt Taucher, a Fish and Game spokesman, said there was some initial concern about migrating gray whales but that was not the biggest worry. "The concern is for the fur-bearing animals, bar­bar­seals, animals like that," he said.

The broad, sandy beach at this city of 180,000 in northern Orange County, plus Bolsa Chica State Beach to the northwest and Huntington State Beach to the south, draw millions of sunbathers and surfers during a summer.

Routine alcohol and drug tests were given to the ship's captain, identified as Robert Laware, and the first mate, but results were not immediately available, officials said.

There were no formal discus­sions on use of chemical dis­persants, said Roll Mall, deputy regional manager for the state Department of Fish and Game. Damage from chemicals has to be weighed against harm from the oil, he said.

"The further out it goes and the deeper the water, the more likely it is we'll use them," Mall said.

Mindful of the massive Exxon Valdez spill in Alaska last year, California politicians rushed to call for tighter controls on oil shipping and stiffer penalties for spills.

"This is a wake-up call," said Lt. Gov. Leo McCarthy.

The American Trader was chartered by British Petroleum Oil Shipping Co. USA, said Joe Bradstreet, manager of the firm's Los Angeles field office.

The spill began Wednesday afternoon while the tanker maneuvered 1 1/2 miles off Hunt­ington Beach to moor at a nest offloading station for an underwater pipeline leading to a refinery on shore.

Democrats plan to reduce defense spending further

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congressional Democrats seem near a consensus that they can slice $4 billion to $7 billion or more out of President Bush's 1991 defense budget, fight off Bush-recommended cuts in some domestic programs and limit next year's deficit to $64 billion.

They also believe they might be able to find a bit of start-up money for domestic initiatives in such areas as education, child care and nutrition.

But even as they solidify their plans for reworking the $1.23 trillion spending plan Bush unveiled last week, Democrats are still groping for an approach to one of this year's hottest issues: whether to cut the Social Security payroll tax.

Questions are also arising over whether Congress' majority party can successfully write its own budget without Republican support.

An offbeat but still striking illustration of the Democrats' desire to alter Bush's budget came Thursday when Rep. John Murtha, D-Pa., chairman of the House Appropriations defense subcommittee, brandished a mock Viking battle axe during a visit to the panel by Defense Secretary Dick Cheney and Gen. Colin Powell, the chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff.

"I'm afraid that's the mood of what we're going to have to put up with the rest of this year, because from what I'm hearing from members themselves, Republicans and Democrats, they expect a peace dividend," said Murtha, a moderate Democrat. "Peace dividend" refers to possible savings from cutting back the military in response to a reduced from the Soviet Union and its allies.

Democrats pressed their offensive on other fronts as well. At the Joint Economic Committee, Chairman Lee Hamilton, D-Ind., challenged Bush's claim of having submitted a budget that met his campaign pledge of "no new taxes."

"In the budget, you submitted 33 revenue changes and 20 of them raise revenue, totaling an increase of $13.9 billion," Hamilton told Bush's chief economic adviser, Michael Boskin.

Boskin argued that there were only minor tax increases, and that most of the receipts would come from new and higher fees for government services.

Applications and Job Descriptions are now available at the Office of Student Activities, 3rd floor La Fortune.

As wall space around campus is cluttered with assorted campaign posters filled with varying promises and platforms concerning how to make student life richer here at Notre Dame, the editorial staff of Dialogue at Notre Dame is eager to add its voice to the debate. We strongly support the ticket of Mark Bettencourt and Kevin Craig.

Bettencourt and Craig have worked diligently on and have earned the respect of the members of the Hall President's Council, and in this capacity have listened and responded to the complaints and wishes of the student body.

Bettencourt and Craig boast a substantial record of achievement in their hall, and have not only been active, but effective in their work on assorted campus-wide issues. Bettencourt and Craig have proven themselves effective leaders and managers.

They will fight to enact more positive measures for greater student security, and will propel student government into an ambitious effort to make Notre Dame a national and international forum for wide-ranging dialogue.

We humbly but heartily urge you to vote for Mark Bettencourt and Kevin Craig for Student Body President and Vice-President.
Baker, Shevardnadze make headway

MOSCOW (AP) — The United States and the Soviet Union made headway Thursday toward arms control agreements, and also considered a joint condemnation of Israel's resettlement of Jewish immigrants on the West Bank.

A half-dozen senior U.S. officials made no mention of the Jewish settlers in a briefing summing up more than seven hours of talks between Secretary of State James Baker and Soviet Foreign Minister Eduard Shevardnadze.

The official news agency Tass reported the talks made progress toward treaties to curb long-range nuclear weapons, ground troops, tanks and combat aircraft in Europe, and to ban production of chemical weapons.

Both Shevardnadze and Deputy Foreign Minister Alexander Besmertnykh echoed the positive U.S. appraisal.

While Ramsey and Boehm said they understood that the University must place the image presented during JWP above other social concerns, they said that a formal policy on the weekend regarding what can and cannot take place should be developed.

Leonard agreed that the University's claim that "it's always been done that way" may not be sufficient explanation for the cancellation of such events.

However, Genadiy Gerashimov, the Soviet Foreign Ministry spokesman, said, "It's quite possible that as a result of the Soviet-American talks a common viewpoint will be expressed on this issue, condemning Israel's attempt to resettle immigrants on someone else's occupied territory."

"There are no differences between the United States and us on this issue," he said. A heavy influx of immigrants to Israel has been caused, in part, by the lowering of Soviet emigration barriers and by certain weeks, and activists said 6,000 people gathered in front of the party headquarters in Donetsk on Wednesday with a similar demand.

Reformers in Saratov plan a rally Sunday to demand removal of their party leaders.

Vremya, the main television news program, showed a rally in Donetsk on Thursday where people demanded the resignation of Politburo member Yegor Ligachev, a leading conservative. A commentator said most people at the rally supported Gorbachev.

The official news agency Tass said officials of theitalic merchant fleet decided to return more than 200 Communist political officers on its ships to jobs as mechanics, electricians and navigators, or assign them to shore duty.

Veltain said the party must reform itself, but the current strength of conservatives in the Central Committee, to which he belongs, complicates the task.

U.S., Japan must band together

The U.S.-Japan relationship is becoming increasingly acrimonious. The current mood of mutual suspicion is discernible in a new book in which Japanese parliamentarian Shinitaro Ishihara advocates that Japan "say no" to American trade demands. Correspondingly, U.S. Trade Representative Carla Hill has threatened that she will "clobber" Japanese markets open, if necessary.

Meanwhile, opinion polls in the U.S. suggest that Japan has replaced the Soviet Union as America's chief international nemesis. And in Japan, a Business Week poll indicates that much of the Japanese public believes that the U.S. has begun an irreversible decline.

The ultimate question for Americans and Japanese is whether the current mood heralds the beginning of the end for North Pacific cooperation. According to the former U.S. Ambassador to Japan, Mike Mansfield, the trans-Pacific relationship is the single most important bilateral relationship in the world. Certainly, a breakdown in the relationship could cause a serious crisis for the world's economic system. After all, trans-Pacific trade at $260 billion a year far surpasses trans-Atlantic trade at $170 billion.

It is true that the U.S. and Japan have worked closely together throughout the postwar period. Americans should remember that they have seen one of its most dependable allies. Whether it was during the Korean War or Vietnam conflicts, Japan has consistently backed U.S. initiatives. Japan also has rarely dissented from U.S. policies in international economic organizations or the U.N.

Joseph L. Novak
International Affairs

Japan did not act this way because it had to. Rather, it did so out of genuine support for U.S. policy in Asia. In particular, Japan appreciated U.S. resistance to the attempts of the Soviet Union and China to isolate Japan and dominate Asia. It is now clear that the U.S. commitment to defend East Asia was the sine qua non of Japanese independence and economic resurrection.

However, in 1990, all of this seems distant. With the advent of Gorbatchev and the erosion of Chinese influence, the threat from communism is decidedly remote. Around the globe and in East Asia, Cold War alliances are being shropped off.

Today, trade issues, not security concerns, are at the center of the U.S.-Japan relationship. And whereas the U.S. used to back Japan's leading economic partner, Japan has arguably achieved economic superiority. This juxtoposition has led to American resentment of Japan's ability to enter and dominate U.S. markets.

This misplaced resentment of Japan's legitimate success is compounded by the valid complaint that Japan has failed to remove structural impediments to U.S. exports. Structural controls like Japan's strict regulations on government procurement and de facto rules on merchandise distribution have unnecessarily added to Japan's $55 billion trade surplus. Americans are surely correct in their perception that Japan supports free trade at the OAS and Uruguay Round but not free trade in their own market.

To its credit, Japan is actively reforming its internal market while cooperating with the U.S. in many other areas. For example, Japan recently opened up its telecommunications market to foreign bids. Additionally, Japan has acted responsibly as the world's largest creditor and has helped the U.S. by financing the federal budget deficit.

Moreover, Japan has effectively cooperated with the U.S. by raising its development aid allotment. Japan is now the largest aid-giver in the world and according to the 1990 Japanese budget will give more than $10 billion this year. The 1990 budget also raises defense spending by six percent, thus decreasing the need for a defense shield the U.S. can no longer afford.

Clearly, there is a world beyond trade negotiations and the portents are that the U.S.-Japan relationship will continue to evolve towards more cooperation, not less. One of the major factors in such growth will be Europe's continuing political and economic integration. To the extent that Eastern Europe and the Soviet Union become lucrative markets, the primary focus of U.S. alliances will be Western Europe, not the U.S. or Japan.

In the trilateral world of the U.S., Japan, and Europe it will be Europe that will have the largest and fastest-growing market. If the U.S. and Japan are going to compete with this latter day "Holy Roman Empire" they must stop the public bickering and start planning. Far from being potential adversaries, the U.S. and Japan have much to gain by preparing in advance for the Pacific Century.

Candidates express their views on the issues

Pasin/Tombar

An effective student government is predicated on the experiences of each student. We came from two diverse areas of student government, and we will do our best to bring both of these into the student government. Rob was the Sophomore Class President last year and is currently the Junior Class President; he has also served on the student government Budget Committee and two Board of Trustees Reports. These experiences in student government are a knowledge of the hierarchal framework and basic procedures of student government, enabling him to work to abolish student ideas into the state University policies.

Debating whether to offer the ticket to all vertical combinations of students is one of our major positions. We believe that the ticket should come from different classes, because each class has its own philosophy, and the most important function of student government is to represent the students’ body’s interests before the administration.

The Loyola-Singh ticket said that the only ticket to offer the ticket to all vertical combinations of students is one of our major positions. We believe that the ticket should come from different classes, because each class has its own philosophy, and the most important function of student government is to represent the students’ body’s interests before the administration.

Sanchez/Smith

We believe that our diverse experience in student government helps us better understand the needs of the students.

Our participation on the Student Senate this year has given us a valuable team for the student body. After working together in student government for two years, we believe that we have the experience to create change for the student body.

Last semester, for example, we worked with the current Student Body President and Vice-President and the co-presidents of HPC to get back hall matching funds which were not necessary. If all fail to fight, we affirmed for the Student Body their right to be collective bargaining parties for the incident; and we were successful. The matching funds were reinstated.

Our platform presents many ideas and proposals for change. The biggest change we want to make, however, is in the relationship between the administration and the student body. We want to insure that students have a voice in administrative policy-making relating to every aspect of student life.

However, our primary objective reflects your comments and criticism: "Let’s be realistic," and Tombar felt that because of Notre Dame’s "complex" and "hypertension" and alcoholism, and other student government also needs serious consideration.

The ticket felt that women have been seriously neglected by the Student Body and Vice-President. Bettencourt said "as far as I know, she is a male student," and "I am not sure if she is a part of the Student Senate." The Bettencourt/Craig ticket noted that co-residential student government also needs serious consideration.

We invite you the student body to look beyond what each candidate promises. Let’s be realistic, and Tombar said that while ideas are important, ideas are not enough. Let’s be realistic, and Tombar said that while ideas are important, ideas are not enough.

Loya/Singh

The roles of Student Body President and Vice-President involve two separate aspects. First, they are the primary link between the student body and the administration and second, they are the spokesmen of student government, a large student organization.

The ticket felt that there are special skills for each aspect and that you could accomplish one thing at a time. Sigi served as a Student Body Senator and successfully worked for the formation of the new Club New Coordinator Council.

In summary, student government does need representation. The ticket felt that student government also needs good ideas. Feasible ideas that are realistic and feasible are important. many colleges and universities from around the country we can pull these big-name speaker in. And this would stimulate intellectual and political concert here on campus.

BETTCN COURT: "In the next year the one tangible result...would be the creation of the student health department. We've talked at great length with the director of University Health Services Mrs. Carol Seager. We are represented in Student Health Services by a freshmen who so far has been a very interesting person in terms of his way of thinking.

SMITH: "Something that has talked about a lot in the last three years has been the recognition of University Health Services. We ever seen a significant result, although there is something in the works. We have been talking about the infirmary and the Student Health Board. And we've been talking a lot about the Student Senate. We've had complaints all along that Student Senate is an ineffective body, and we've seen some significant progress
this year. This past year Vinny (Sanchez) had a campaign that would allow Student Senate to dissolve the office of the Ombdusmen, which is a body that was designed to represent the worships of student government. What we've seen is that Student Senate does not represent the entire student body. You're represented by members of the hall council, by class officers, and coordinators of various smaller groups on campus, but there's one area where we're lacking, there's no representation from the colleges. We have no academic representation on our Student Senate.

SHOULD THE INFIRARY
PROVIDE BIRTH CONTROL
AND/OR BIRTH CONTROL COUNSELING?

CRAG: "My response to such a controversial question is that I feel counseling is a necessary part of university life, and that should be given from the Infirmary. We have looked into creating a student health department incorporates Student Government. Such a department would look into that question, and the role of the Infirmary as far as birth control and birth control counseling and other pressing health concerns as they arise. The administration obviously controls the Infirmary. As far as distributing birth control,
the administration strongly opposes it... This student health board would work with the administration and possibly reaching a compromise and finding the reason why they oppose it, obviously the Catholic tradition. With cooperation we could be responsive to the needs that arise. The counseling is obviously a need.

SMITH: "That is a very interesting question, whether or not the University should provide birth counseling at the University of Notre Dame. That goes hand in hand with the controversial issue that we've had in the past years, as to whether or not gay-related clubs should be recognized here at the University... I think it goes back, ultimately, to the Catholic mission of the University. And the mission statement of the University is that this is a Catholic institution and therefore the Catholic philosophy and teachings about morality and ethics are going to have to be upheld here.
The present, birth control is not within the mission statement of the University... For that reason, it wouldn't become a really necessary issue and the question is asked whether or not it should be.
And whether or not it should be in whether or not the students want it and need it and feel that it is necessary. If there's not a need out there, then there isn't a purpose for it. But if there is a need, then we need it there,
regardless of the Catholic mission.
The entire student body isn't comprised of Catholic students. We do have significant numbers who are of different faiths and denominations.
And it is for the University to deny them the right to have appropriate health are. For this reason, we need to ask the student body what they think. If this needs to be a referendum on a ballot where people can actually check it off and the whole student body has a voice, then that's what is necessary. If the student body wants to see it, it's something the Infirmary will need to incorporate, so we should have them there. Regardless of the mission. But I have to question first whether or whether or not the student body needs it. And if they do, then we'll get it for the student body, regardless of the Catholic mission.

SINGH: "One of our primary Tenets of our platform is that if the role of Student Government is to press forth with the University in some old traditional formats, to take into account some new things that need to be dealt with. This does not necessarily mean that it should be done in a rush and quick manner like putting something like contraceptives in the University Health Services. However, it should be something that the University, through the Student Government, should be open to looking at, and should be done, as the other tickets
done on the idea of the infirmary.
It is a practical problem and there are a lot of health connotations involved in contraception, especially its use in avoided transmitting diseases such as AIDS. I think that is something that the University cannot deny. And something that as a diverse school with a lot of different cultures and a lot of different backgrounds, it is something that we need to take into account. Our stance on this particular issue, first of all, to gauge whether or not it is an issue, and if it is, it is something that needs to be looked at. And if there was de-made from students, we would do the best within our power to get it there."

TOMBAR: "Let's be honest, birth control at the University of Notre Dame? It's an issue we think about and we laugh about it, but we are here at Notre Dame and Notre Dame is a Catholic institution. And as a Catholic institution, it's Notre Dame's duty to carry out the Catholic mission. That the Catholic Church's position on the birth control issue is very clear. I think that regardless of Rob's (Pasin) or my own personal opinion on the birth control issue, we must look at what this University believes and what the Catholic Church believes. When a student chooses to come to Notre Dame, they choose to come to a Catholic institution. Some of its policies are dictated by the Catholic Church... Knowing the Catholic Church's position on it and knowing that Notre Dame is a Catholic school... Rob (Pasin) and I would not hesitant, that we do not support the option of birth control in the infirmary.

FILL IN: "YEAR OF THE...

SANCHEZ: "Year of Student Rights... Look back to the biggest issue of the year, the Marching Band. It was a deadlock on the snowball fight.... We want to see from now on that our rights are protected, are ensured.

SMITH: "Why is it that rectors take control and... deal with issues when students are fully capable? We're adults here... We're fully capable of dealing with the alcohol policy... We're fully capable of having academic freedom... We're fully capable of having our rights as students ensured."

LOYA: "Year of Intellectual Life... We are all here to become educated. The best way to do that is interaction with the faculty..."

PASIN: "Year of the Poor.
Because this is a Christian university, since we all members of this community, we are called to serve. The goal this year would be to educate and to endow the students with sensitivty to the causes and results of poverty. Many students here are already serve through the Center for Social Concerns in many capacities. However, I Don't think there's enough education about the systemic causes of poverty. Students here, when we graduate from Notre Dame, we are going to be the leaders of the country and the leaders of the world.
In order to fulfill our obligation
as Christians, we have to fully understand how to stop the roots of poverty..."

BETTENCOURT: "Year of Change... Look around our world or across the globe.
Things are changing so quickly.
We would hope, in making it
the Year of Change, in conjunction with the administration,
they would allow us... an opportunity to reflect on the way
the world is today. Problems like poverty, ... of racism
and sexism as we enter the '90's..."

Lavish French cuisine offered to superoxy flavored with shallot butter. In the tradition of nouvelle cuisine, the swordfish was accompanied by a sparse portion of steamed green beans, cauliflower and carrots attractively arranged on the plate. Diners with simpler tastes will enjoy the Filet ($16), a tender, flavorful filet mignon cooked to customers' specifications and served with roasted potatoes and grilled onions.

Choosing a bottle of wine from the Carriage House's wine list was an arduous task. The Carriage House has won several awards for the selections on its wine list, which are undoubtedly good, but quality does not come cheaply. Students will probably use three criteria: Dry, white and under $40. These concerns narrow the field considerably, but students can 'settle' for a French wine from the Bordeaux region which costs $16.

Oh, doom and gloom
The time is here
For heart-shaped candies
And bone-numbing fear

Will she assent
When I ask her to be mine?
Or will she laugh and dance
On my cardboard Valentine?

I sent a dozen pansies
And half a case of beer
Surely she can't refuse
A Valentine so sincere

And if she does decline,
If she tosses me on my can,
I've been there before,
And I'll face it like a man.

But I ask why? Why? Why?
Must I languish in singularity
While morons, creeps and dorks
Go out with regularity?

Is it a jinx or maybe a spell?
Am I under an evil hex?
Would someone tell me what ya gotta do
to get just a little... good conversation?
Samples of South Bend's stupendous spots for serious sweethearts

Valentine's Day is coming soon. If you're looking for somewhere to take that someone special, try some of these aunts listed below.

Expensive:

Hacienda: For some good margaritas, salsas, and wet burritos try Hacienda at one of their several locations. For the best atmosphere, try the one near Century Center. It's in a huge old house and you'll feel like you're walking up stairs into the attic of the haunted mansion as the friendly staff send you up to your table. Hacienda does not accept reservations so get there early or expect a wait. Location: 1709 S. Bend Ave., phone: 371-0113.

Paris's: Paris's menu varies from typical Italian restaurant fare. The Arancini, gnocchi, and lasagna are great. All dinner entrees include salad and bread. Reservations recommended. Location: 1412 S. Bend Ave., phone: 232-4244.

East Bank Emporium: The Emporium features great steaks and seafood. The homemade salad dressings and toppings are outstanding. Don't miss the baked potatoes either. Reservations are recommended. Location: 121 S. Niles, phone: 234-9000.

Emporium: For something completely different, I suggest one of Mrs. Prindable's Apples. These are apples of enormous proportions, a little bigger than a softball, covered in chocolate, toffee, or chocolate and white chocolate. These delectables sell for around $12, but are well worth the investment. Marigold Market will also create a Valentine package for you. They can fill a heart-shaped mug or glass with any of their specialty foods, such as Swiss chocolate, heart-shaped truffles or heart-shaped marzipan. For that extra special person, a basket called "The Discriminating Valentine" may just be the thing. Nestled in a basket wrapped in cellophane you will find a box of Joseph Schmidt chocolate truffles, buttercreams, hard raspberry candies and a bottle of Veuve Clicquot champagne. This treat will surely seal your old love or create a new one. And if there is no "special someone" to send you these delectables, there are always "special parents."

Late Night Olympics to help St. Joe’s Special Olympics

BY RICH KURZ
Sports Writer

Have your Friday nights been a little dull lately? Do you need some high excitement sports action to release your frustration after a tough week of classes? Then look no further. NVA has just the thing to cure your woes. Tonight, in the JACC, NVA presents its fourth annual Late Night Olympics to benefit St. Joseph’s County Special Olympics.

Over 1200 people are expected to take part in the “late night sports extravaganza,” said Sally Derengoski, the assistant director of NVA who is in charge of the event.

Such diverse sports as volleyball, water lacrosse, whistle ball and, of course, the obstacle course will be staged, with the first events kicking off at 8:00 p.m. A Celebrity Dunk Tank will operate from 10 p.m. to 2 a.m., featuring Chris Zurich, Troy Ridgley, Joe Cassidy and other campus celebrities.

According to Derengoski, the purpose of the event is twofold. “First, we wanted to create a unique activity for the students,” she said. “Second, we wanted to raise money for the St. Joseph’s County Special Olympics.”

All of the proceeds go to benefit the St. Joseph’s County Special Olympics. In the past three years over $5000 has been raised, and the goal for this year is $2500. A fee was charged to enter teams in the events, and a one dollar charge is required to enter the JACC, which has been dubbed “The Olympic Village” for the night.

Each of the dorms at Notre Dame and Saint Mary’s have been grouped into TEAMS. New tricks will be part of the course, as will the infamous tricycle.

A load of sports fun and excitement will be there for the taking, as well as the chance to contribute to an excellent cause. So face up your sneakers and prepare to compete in the fourth annual Late Night Olympics tonight at the JACC.

ND track meets best in Midwest

By DAVE DIETEMAN
Sports Writer

The Notre Dame men's indoor track and field team traveled to the University of Wisconsin at Madison this weekend to take part in the 1990 Central Collegiate Conference meet.

After a convincing performance at the Third Annual MidwestY放弃邀请赛 at the Third Annual Meyo Invitational at the University of Iowa, the Irish are looking to continue improving against top-notch competition. The Central Collegiate Conference, which is made up of 25 schools from the Mid-America Conference, the Big Ten, the Missouri Valley Conference and several independents, including Notre Dame's traditional Midwestern Collegiate Conference rivals, Loyola and Marquette.

"Illinois is phenomenal. Purdue is outstanding, Wisconsin is very good, and Eastern Michigan is very, very good," remarked Irish head coach Joe Plane. "This is going to be a highly competitive meet."

Other teams of which the Irish must be wary are Illinois State, Bradley, Michigan, Western Michigan and Michigan State.

"We've been running pretty well this season, and our training has been paying off," stated senior sprinting sensation Yan Searcy. "This meet should feature more intense competition than the Meyo Invitational, but I don't want to make predictions. I just want to go out and run."

"I'm really excited to get back," says Guay. "After sitting out eight games and five or six weeks I'm a bit rusty. I'm anxious to get out there, make my first hit, get my first shot on net, and make my first play out there."

"I'm not been proficient with the power play is powerful? "I'm not sure we're any more skilled than (Lake Forest). We may have a little advantage in size and strength, but not much. We're going to try to pick up where we left off last Saturday (with the 3-2 win over Air Force) and round out the season with some wins."
Irish, Cougars eye NCAA tourney

By GREG GUFFEY
Assistant Sports Editor

DALLAS - Two teams battling for an NCAA Tournament berth will meet Saturday when Notre Dame travels to Houston.

This will be a key game for both teams. The Cougars are 16-6 overall and 7-3 in the Southwest Conference, while the Irish are 12-7 following Thursday's 63-49 victory over Southern Methodist.

"They're very similar teams in very similar situations," Houston coach Pat Foster said. "It should be a good matchup." Since Arkansas appears on track for the conference's automatic berth, Houston will need to beat some name teams to get an at-large invitation or hope to upset the Razorbacks in the SWC Tournament. A win over Notre Dame would greatly enhance their appeal to the selection committee.

"I'm sure they'll remember last year up here," Notre Dame coach Digger Phelps said, referring to the 89-80 Irish victory. "But we can't be worried with what they want to do. We just have to worry about ourselves."

Notre Dame leads the series against Houston 4-3. Joe Frederick scored 25 points and LaPhonso Ellis added 21 in last year's game, memorable because the Cougars wore Notre Dame's gold uniforms for the first half until theirs arrived.

Both teams have experienced trouble on the road this season. The Irish are perfect at home, but just 4-7 on the road. The Cougars have lost just once in Hofheinz Pavilion - 82-78 to Arkansas - but have struggled to 6-5 on the road.

"There are few teams that can win on the road in college basketball," Foster said.

This will mark the third time that the teams have played in Houston with the series tied at 1-1. They have met three times in NCAA Tournament play.

All five Houston starters average eight or more points, with guard Byron Smith leading the team at 16.2 points per game. Center Carl Herrara scores 15.2 ppg with 8.5 rebounds followed by forward Craig Ehpperich at 12.5 ppg and 7.5 rpg.

The Cougars have won four consecutive games, including Wednesday night's contest with Illinois.

"We're playing about as well as we've played all year," Foster said. "They [Notre Dame] have a quality player at every position. They've got a halfback that could run off seven or eight wins in a row."

Phelps spent most of the post-game press conference Thursday talking about his special relationship with SMU coach John Shumate.

Shumate played for Phelps at Notre Dame in the early 1970s, but missed his sophomore season due to a blood clot in his lung. He was a first-team All-American in his senior season.

After a seven-year NBA career, Shumate returned as a volunteer assistant to Phelps in 1981-82. He took over as head coach at Grand Canyon College in 1983 and compiled a 58-33 record in three seasons that included nine tournament victories.

At Grand Canyon College, an NAIA school, Shumate turned out two All-Americans and one academic All-American.

He then returned to Notre Dame for two seasons before taking the top job with the Mustangs. He is in his second year with a 20-29 ledger.

Men's tennis to host Notre Dame Quadrangle

Special to The Observer

The Irish men's tennis team will play host to the Notre Dame Quadrangle on Saturday, with play beginning at 9 a.m. at the Eck Pavilion and running into the evening.

Notre Dame (3-1) plays its first match of the day at 9 a.m., facing off with Western Illinois. The Irish also play Southern Illinois at 3 p.m. and Bowling Green at 7 p.m.

The Irish are coming off a pair of victories last weekend, including one triumph over a nationally-ranked team. Notre Dame defeated Illinois 6-3 Saturday at Champaign, then stopped 25th-ranked West Virginia 2-4 the following day at the Eck Pavilion.

Irish winners in the Illinois match included David Dillerica, Chuck Coleman Mark Schmidt and Ron Bonas at singles, and the doubles pairs of Dillerica with Mike Wallace and Coleman with Schmidt.

Against West Virginia, Dillerica won in straight sets over the Mountaineers' Joby Foley, who came into the match ranked 12th in the nation. Dillerica beat the University of Georgia's Al Parker, then the nation's top-ranked player, earlier in the season.

Other Notre Dame winners against West Virginia included Coleman and Andy zurcher at singles and the doubles pairs of Coleman with Schmidt and zurcher with Ryan Wengert.

NOTES - Kevin Ellery did not play in Thursday's game because of the need to rest a bad back. The Mustangs were 0-11 in three-point field goals.

The Mustangs outscored the Irish 33-32. Moody Colles was not even at half capacity with 4,225 fans. Notre Dame hit 18-of-26 free throws. Saturday's game will be televised nationally by NBC. The Cougars are 6-2 in televised games.

ND wrestlers battle for Shillelagh

By STEVE MARGEGEE Associate Sports Editor

Having proved last weekend that it could compete with the best teams in the country, the Notre Dame wrestling team now is out to maintain that level of confidence and performance the rest of the season.

The Irish (6-7) host Purdue 7:30 p.m. Saturday at the Joyce Center. The Boilermakers have wrestled well this year, but are not in the class of Big Ten counterparts Ohio State and Indiana. Notre Dame defeated Ohio State and fell to Indiana last weekend in a pair of matches with Top 10 opponents.

"We wrestled well, but I still don’t think we’re wrestling up to our abilities yet," said Irish coach Fran McCann.

That weekend split has given the Irish an added dose of confidence this week, according to McCann.

“Our practices have been going great, and they really feel good about themselves," he said. "They’re upbeat, and you like to see those things in this point in the season."

Notre Dame will need plenty of confidence against Purdue, which traditionally has given the Irish all kinds of problems. Notre Dame defeated the Boilermakers 23-15 last year, the first Irish victory over Purdue since the 1967-68 season. Purdue leads the all-time series 16-2.

"It’s going to be a tight match," said McCann. "It could go either way. The way the matchups are, it could come down to the team that gets the most bonus points winning the match.

Purdue (5-3-2) is looking for their first win this season after a 177-pound Mike McHenry to produce some bonus points Saturday. McHenry is ranked third nationally in his weight class.

"He has all the ability to win the NCAA title," said McCann. "Their upper weights are their strongest. We'll have to build up a big lead early."

The winner of Saturday’s match will be awarded the Shillelagh Trophy. The Shillelagh has gone to the winner of the annual Notre Dame-Nebraska dual meet in each of the last 31 seasons. The Boilermakers have wrestled well this year, but are not in the class of Big Ten counterparts Ohio State and Indiana.

Notre Dame defeated the Boilermakers 23-15 last year, the first Irish victory over Purdue since the 1967-68 season. Purdue leads the all-time series 16-2.

"It’s going to be a tight match," said McCann. "It could go either way. The way the matchups are, it could come down to the team that gets the most bonus points winning the match.

Foresters next for ND
Hockey team welcomes Lake Forest

The Notre Dame hockey team must find a way to motivate itself this weekend in facing a Lake Forest team which has lost to the Irish twice already this season.

Notre Dame defeated the Foresters 6-3 at home and 5-3 at Lake Forest on November 24 and 25, respectively. The two teams will face off once again Friday night at 7:30 at the Joyce A.C. and Saturday night at 8:30 EST time at Lake Forest.

Despite this previous success against the Foresters, Irish coach Rick Schaefer does not think his team will have any trouble getting fired up for this weekend's series.

"We've been humbled a few times this season," says Schaefer. "We haven't been overwhelmed like last year, but we do need to win and this weekend we won't take anybody lightly."

The Irish are coming off last weekend's split with Air Force which brought their record to 15-11. Notre Dame lost 6-3 to the Falcons in the first game of the series before gaining revenge in a 3-2 victory this past Saturday night. Schaefer hopes to build on that victory this weekend against an opponent that could surprise the Irish.

"We have a good rivalry with Lake Forest. They are a good Division III hockey team. Are they as powerful as Wisconsin or Air Force? No. Are they capable of beating us? Yes," cautions Schaefer.

Notre Dame will be without the services of standout senior defenseman Kevin Markovitz (2 G, 14 A), who will sit out the series with a thigh contusion. Freshman Darren D'Amato, who saw his first action last weekend against Air Force, will replace Markovitz in the lineup.

Senior winger Bruce Guy will return from a shoulder injury which forced him to miss several games earlier in the past month. He should add some offensive spark to a team which has averaged less than three goals coming to Ohio State last season.

"Ohio State has probably the best overall, balanced team," said DeCicco. "And their women's team will go in quite a challenge. Hopefully our men can put it all together this weekend, that they know not to take these teams too lightly."

Ohio State in particular has already proven its merit this year. With an undefeated record in the Midwest, the Buckeyes soundly drowned the men's team of Wayne State, 23-4, earlier this year. In addition, the women of Ohio State were narrowly edged by the Tarheels by a 9-7 margin.

"It goes without saying that Wayne State is a perennial powerhouse in the Midwestern ranks," said foil captain Joel Clark. "And for the Buckeyes to do a number on them like they did, well that certainly does bode well for the Irish."

"There's definitely a storm on the horizon, and its name is Ohio State." Clark continued.

In addition, the remaining upcoming competition cannot be overlooked by any means. Past experience has shown that teams like Oberlin and Cleveland State will boast a fence or two who could just do enough damage to the Irish to come away with one in the "w" column.

"I'd rather give him time to recover than to just do it right now," said DeCicco. "We go into this with a lot of information and the Buckeyes have the potential to be a challenge. Hopefully our men can take advantage of that."
