The Observer

After 27 years in prison, Mandela is released

CAPE TOWN, South Africa (AP) — Nelson Mandela walked through a prison gate to freedom Sunday, setting off joyous celebrations and violent clashes as blacks nationwide welcomed their leader back from 27 years in jail.

"Comrades and fellow South Africans, I greet you all in the name of peace, democracy and freedom for all," Mandela told tens of thousands of cheering supporters who thronged outside City Hall at twilight, many getting their first look at the African National Congress leader.

But he emphasized reaffirmed his commitment to the ANC's guerrilla campaign and called for increased pressure to end white-minority domination — the same cause that resulted in his life sentence on charges of plotting against the government. He also reiterated that talks with the government cannot begin until it lifts the state of emergency.

"I stand here before you not as a prophet, but as a humble servant of you the people," said the white-haired Mandela, who looked much more an elder statesman in his suit and tie than a guerrilla leader.

"Today, the majority of South Africans, black and white, recognize that apartheid has no future. It has to be ended by our decisive mass action," he said in a rousing half-hour speech frequently interrupted by roars of "Viva!"

"We have waited too long for our freedom.

"Violence broke out about the same time Mandela's motorcade arrived in Cape Town from Victor Verster prison and delayed his speech. Police said a black tanker was shot to death by officers, and first aid workers said more than 100 people were injured when riot police...

see MANDELA / page 4

Controversy surrounds student body pres. elections

By PETER LOFTUS
News Writer

Student body president and vice president candidates Vinny Sanchez and Melissa Smith were told by the Student Senate to remove table tents promoting their ticket from the dining halls.

The Senate held an emergency meeting Sunday after more than 100 complaints were filed by the tickets of Rob Pasin and Fred Tombar, and Sid Loya and Raja Singh. Sanchez and Smith had put up the table tents Sunday morning before brunch.

The official wording in the by-laws to the student body constitution is: "Posters are not to be displayed before the Monday morning dining hall walls," according to Matt Breslin, current student body president.

Sanchez and Smith went through, "all of the proper channels" in getting approval for the table tents. Breslin said, "We're not treating this as a violation against Vinny or Melissa," Loya said, "It's not their fault." Loya said that he considered the table tents to be posters.

Sanchez and Smith obtained approval from the Election Committee, Breslin, student activities, and University Food Services to put up the table tents. Smith said.

Pasin said that the vote was not to penalize Sanchez and Smith, but to correct the situation and make it fair for the other tickets. He had been under the impression that the dining halls were "off-limits" to campaigning.

"It's a matter of interpretation" of the by-laws on the Senate's part, Breslin said. "We said that the Senate should have stood behind the original decision of the Election Committee.

Tom Rask, election committee chairman, said that the problem stems from the first election meeting. Rask told the candidates that the Dining Halls were "off-limits," but he never clarified whether that meant only for posters.

The official vote of the question was 7-6 in favor of removal of the table tents. Pasin, Loya, and Sanchez, as voting members of the Senate, each voted in the decision, according to Breslin.

Candiates have used table tents for the past two years, according to Smith. The table tents are "a good way to reach out to the student body and ask for support," Smith said. "They are a traditional medium."

The table tents cost $15 to make, Smith said. The $15 is part of a $125 spending limit set by the Election Committee.

"This puts a little hitch into the election," Breslin said. He speculated that the closeness of the campaign race was a factor in the original filing of the complaint.

"We have four strong candidates," Breslin said. "It will be a close race and people are looking at the rules."

"It's unfortunate that it had to happen at the last minute," Smith said.

In other election news, the ticket of Mark Bettencourt and Kevin Craig has been penalized for an advertisement that Dialogue at Notre Dame magazine ran in The Observer Friday endorsing Bettencourt's ticket.

The ad violated a rule in the by-laws to the student body constitution that prohibits paid advertisements by outside sources, according to Breslin.

Dialogue magazine originally wanted to endorse the ticket of Bettencourt/Craig in one of their own issues, but did not have enough time to print one, according to Matt Schlapp, editor-in-chief of Dialogue.

Schlapp contacted Chris Donnelly, editor-in-chief of The Observer, and paid for a half-page ad that ran in Friday's Observer, endorsing Bettencourt.

see ELECTION / page 4

Anti-Apartheid group builds shantytown

By CINDY PETRITES
News Writer

Students from the Anti-Apartheid Network constructed a shantytown on Fieldhouse Mall last Thursday to raise student awareness of apartheid and to protest the Board of Trustees' stance on divestment of holdings in South Africa.

One of the goals of the shantytown was to "remind students of the immediate problem of apartheid," said John Paul Chekett, president of the Anti-Apartheid Network.

When students' isolation and physical distance from the problem, he said, "It is easy for them to divorce themselves from the issue."

But, on the Notre Dame campus, the issue goes beyond divestment," he added.

The "shantytown," three ply-wood structures spray-painted in red bearing the words, "Free Mandela," "Du Lac Shaped Your Tuition," and "End Apartheid," were meant to simulate the shack homes of blacks living in South Africa.

They were assembled last Thursday morning, with the approval from the Office of Student Activities, to coincide with the meeting of the Board of Trustees taking place that afternoon, said Chekett.

At the Board meeting, Anti-Apartheid Network member, Marni O'Donovan presented a progress report to the Board regarding their 1986 statement on divestment.

In 1986 the Board of Trustees pledged to divest of all holdings in South Africa if the constructive engagement of companies was not working or the conditions in South Africa worsened. The South African government declared a state of emergency one month after the Board's decision, said O'Donovan.

"The purpose of the shantytown was not so much a report on the necessity of divestment as on the credibility of the Board of Trustees," said Chekett. "In 1986 they voted to divest and four years later they still haven't kept their promise."

see SANCTY / page 4
INSIDE COLUMN

Election tainted by absurd rules

Article I of the Student Body Constitution Bylaws, the "Official Election Rules" for the positions of Student Body President and Vice President contains enough regulations to prevent candidates from unauthorized breathing.

The Bylaws regulate the amount of money candidates can spend on campaign materials. Fine. Nobody wants Norman Blandford buying his way into office.

But it also regulates how each ticket spends its $125 allotment.

If Joe Schmoe wants to blow his $125 on skywriting, let him. It's a good indication to voters of how he will allocate Student Government funds.

Joe's under Item 10 in Article I reads, "No skywriting, airplane banners or moving sound equipment allowed." Item nine tells Joe he cannot use computer or "throw-away" paper, or handmade posters.

The Election Committee apparently does not wish to foster initiative. They'd rather see four tickets with standard flyers. They wonder why the student body is undependable in its voting practices.

Candidates who can actually manage to find a small loophole in the Bylaws find their names mud at an Emergency Student Senate.

Sanchez and Smith, for example, obeyed the Bylaws least placing posters on the dining hall walls, and used table tents instead.

Their idea was approved by the appropriate officials, yet they still faced the wrath of the Student Senate because they managed to get around one of the sacrosanct rules of the Constitution.

They have respected fellow candidates throughout the campaign period, and they went through the appropriate channels to ensure table tent placement was not in violation of the rules.

Other candidates complained, however, and happened to be in a position to do something about it.

This demonstrates that sportsmanship on those candidates' parts, and also shows how foolish the election process has become. The Election Committee seems to have traded the hassle of answering post-election whining from losing candidates for headaches about whose approach follows ridiculous rules.

Perhaps campaigning should be allowed to show what they can do in their campaigns, not after they are elected, when it's sometimes too late.

Sanchez and Smith have to suffer this year, unfortunately.

Author's note to the Election Committee: This column is in no way an endorsement of Sanchez and Smith, who should therefore not be subject to any fines or punishments. So there.

---

WEATHER

Forecast for noon, Monday, February 12.

Lines show high temperatures.

---

WORLD

Violence continued in Addis Ababa, Ethiopia, as government troops and secessionist rebels battled for a fourth day Sunday for Ethiopia's Red Sea port of Massawa, state radio said.

The Sunday morning broadcast by the government-controlled station conflicted with an earlier claim by the Eritrean People's Liberation Front that it had captured the city.

The government broadcast did not directly deny the rebel claim but said fighting was continuing around the port, one of only two on Ethiopia's Red Sea coast.

President Bush has turned down an invitation to speak to the Sixth International Conference on AIDS in San Francisco this June either live or on videotape, a White House spokeswoman said.

"I think the president has good reason for not coming," said Stephen Morin of the conference's coordinating force, "neither the people of San Francisco nor the scientific community think much of his AIDS policies." At least 16 groups, including the International League of Red Cross have said they will boycott the conference of 12,000 scientists and policymakers unless the U.S. entrance restrictions are ended.

Six convicts escaped from a Joliet, Ill., maximum-security prison early Sunday, apparently as a result of a security prison early Sunday, apparently as a result of a security prison breakout.

The escapees, including three murderers, were considered extremely dangerous. They had to cut through bars on the segregation cells, break a window, cut bars outside the window and cross a fence to get away.

---

INSIDE COLUMN

The first black student body president of Purdue University's West Lafayette campus won in a landslide election this week. Taurus Richmond of Bellwood, Ill., and his running mate, Tina Muntingly of Greenfield, Ind., received 70 percent of the votes in Wednesday's election, which Richardson said was not based on race. "We achieved a diversified campus touching as many students as possible."
Baker offers Romania $80 million in food aid Sunday

BUCHAREST, Romania (AP) - U.S. Secretary of State James Baker offered Romania $80 million in food aid on a brief visit to Bucharest Sunday morning, but told the country's interim leaders that the United States expects continued movement toward democracy.

"We want to see the institution of a multiparty election," Baker said after meeting with interim President Ion Iliescu and Premier Petre Roman.

Baker is the highest-ranking American official to visit Romania since December's revolution which ousted Communist Party dictator Nicolae Ceausescu.

"Mr. Baker clearly indicated that the United States would restore its former level of American aid as not just humanitarian, but in support of the continuing movement towards democracy and the rights of minorities," Romanian Foreign Minister Ioan Iliescu said.

After his meeting with Baker, Iliescu hailed the United States as "the leader of the world community with medical services," said Barrington.

"We've been talking with Baker that he viewed the visit as the beginning of a new relationship on a new basis," Romanian Prime Minister Ion Iliescu said.

Natural gas and electricity are expected to be included in the early negotiations with a charter member to work with them and get them into a standard first aid class," said Weed.

Barrington said, "Anyone interested in providing assistance to others can be in this group. The group is composed mostly of students, however the faculty and staff are welcome to join."

This organization is one of the most used and least recognized on campus. We are at everything from intramural games to varsity football games," said Barrington.

NAVY ENGINEERING
AN INVESTMENT IN YOUR FUTURE

If you have a GPA, 3.3 and above preferred, then be offered a cost-free, no uniform or summer obligations contract with increases to $55,000 after five years of service. The Navy Engineer, a 6-months graduate level engineering technology and high-cost travel technician. Engineering, math, physics and chemistry majors will be selected. A 3 day paid trip to college campus with full benefits after only 20 years active Navy service

For information call: 1-800-527-6856

NAVY OFFICER You are the tomorrow. You are the navy.
Mandela continued from page 1
fire shot into other groups of black youths smashed shop windows in the city center. South Africans retaliated by hurling bottles at the officers. Hundreds of terrified people waiting to hear Mandela ran for cover as police fired blasts of shotgun pellets.

Clashes between police and celebrating blacks were reported in at least two other areas, including the tribal homeland of Ciskei, where hospital officials said police shot three people to death and wounded 20.

In Natal Province, where ANC supporters have been feuding with a more conservative black group, police said 12 blacks were killed in factional fighting Sunday. It was a harsh reminder of the bitter feuds involving black factions who disagree on the best way to fight for equality.

Elsewhere, hundreds of thousands of blacks danced and juggled through the streets of big cities and impoverished townships, rejoicing at Mandela's freedom.

"Very good news, very good news," President Bush said after Mandela's release. Bush said he telephoned Mandela, told him all Americans were rejoicing at his release and invited him to the White House.

The Rev. Jesse Jackson, speaking at a church service outside Cape Town shortly before Mandela was released, commended the South African government for creating a "courageous step" but said "the pillars of apartheid remain in place."

A thunderous cheer went up as the man who was the world's most famous prisoner walked hand in hand with his wife, Winnie, through the gates of Victor Verster prison in Paarl, 35 miles from Cape Town.

Under a brilliant blue sky, the Mandelas gave clenched-fist salutes to the hundreds of supporters who had waited for hours outside, many of them waving green, gold and black ANC flags and wearing T-shirts emblazoned with a youthful image of Mandela.

Shanty continued from page 1
prisoners, Checkett said that he is definitely pleased, but added that it is equally important to remember that Mandela's release does not end the problem of apartheid.

"It is the imposing of economic sanctions that has resulted in the current improvements of the situation in South Africa," said Checkett, "and they must continue in order to end apartheid once and for all."

FREE TANNING
Company No. 5356023
2779 A 1/2 E 7TH STREET
INDIAN RIDGE PLAZA
EXCLUSIVE NEXT TO VENTURA
GRAND RE-OPENING
Mon-Fri 9:00-5:00
Sat & Sun 9:00-4:00

HAIL TO THE DUCHESS!
Happy 21 Linda.
Love,
Jen, Patty, Kathy
Amy, Judy, Sport, Barb,
Manisa, & Erin

JUNIORS

JPW registration packets (tickets & calendar of events) can be picked up today and tomorrow in the Dooley Room in LaFortune between 2 - 10pm

QUESTIONS? call 239-6028
Mon - Thurs 7 - 9 pm
or Steve X3131

SHANTY (in the spring)
Mandela is free

U.S. applause Mandela's release

Experts examine the future of S. Africa

NEWS ANALYSIS

South Africans must peacefully solve the country's problems and find a way to live together in equality after 40 years of apartheid, leaders say. But the white government and its opponents appear to be far apart, with white racism on a special role in the future despite black objections. "Now there can be no going back. Irreversibly, South Africa has been placed on the path to its new future," The Sunday Times said in an editorial reflecting the opinion of a growing number of South Africans. The search for peace is likely to be long and difficult, changes that would have been unthinkable a few years ago are already taking place.

On New Year's Day, de Klerk's decision to free Mandela and ban black opposition groups after years of armed conflict stunned many whites and blacks. In his speech, he said "Now there can be no going back irreversibly, South Africa"

Mandela has indicated he will not bend on his insistence on equal rights.

LONDON (AP) — Nelson Mandela's emergence Sunday from nearly three decades in prison brought praise from world leaders, but the international rejection was tempered by appeals for swifter progress toward ending apartheid.

As Mandela, 71, walked from the grounds of his prison outside Cape Town into crowds of supporters who had campaigned ceaselessly for his release, the African National Congress welcomed him "in the warm embrace of our people and the national liberation movement."

President Bush said he telephoned Mandela, told him all Americans "were rejoicing at his release" and invited him to the White House.

"I stated to him our desire to see a peaceful evolution toward a totally racially free South Africa, a society without prejudice, a society of one freedom," Bush told reporters in this Garden.

In Atlanta, Coretta Scott King, widow of slain U.S. civil rights leader Martin Luther King Jr., said she was overjoyed by the release of Mandela, "a leader of real stature to represent the Africans who can enter into dialogue."

Johannesburg, South Africa's capital, woke up with euphoria over Mandela's release. "It's a great celebration. People danced in the streets, and we did our best to have a kindred spirit with the people of South Africa," said the Rev. W. Brown Jr. of the New Hope Baptist Church in Evansville, Ind. "We had a mixed congregation. Some of our white brothers came to celebrate with us."

Church services were scheduled in many U.S. cities. India's Prime Minister V.P. Singh called Mandela a "valiant soldier of independence, justice and equality." And French Premier Michel Rocard invited him to visit Paris.

Gahon's chief of state urged other African nations to restore diplomatic ties with South Africa, and Britain said it was time to reconsider international sanctions.

Anti-apartheid campaigners took to the streets to celebrate, including thousands who thronged to London's Trafalgar Square, singing, dancing and waving flags of the newly legalized ANC.

Mandela's release provides a "surge of hope" that should be harnessed to open talks between the government and the black majority, British Foreign Secretary Douglas Hurd said. Hurd's deputy, Foreign Minister William Waldegrave, called Mandela "a leader of real stature to represent the Africans who can enter into dialogue."

Special church services were scheduled in many U.S. cities. India's Prime Minister V.P. Singh called Mandela a "valiant soldier of independence, justice and equality." And French Premier Michel Rocard invited him to visit Paris.

"We didn't want to "dis" you on your 19th Birthday, so here's a little advice:

"Get it!

You love us, Agnes, Andrea & Mary

Wednesday, February 12, 1990

Bush telephones Mandela, invites him to White House

5:00pm

We open Tuesday - Sat.

The MALABAR

Excellent Indian Cuisine

RESERVATIONS SUGGESTED

(219) 277-0115

2019

Fresh Ingredients

No Mass Productions

272-6702

American Food

Chinese, Vietnamese and

5630 University Commons

South Bend, Ind.

South Bend, Ind.

FOR MORE INFORMATION, CALL 272-7653

FREED TANNING

with every Purchase!

FOR DETAILS,
step in to see our salons, or call us at University Commons, St. Rd. 23, South Bend, In.

The Dead line for signing up for Insurance (Perker & Parker), is Friday, February 16, 1990.

You may apply at the University Health Center's Insurance Office.

The 100% OFF CASH AND CARRY

with SMC or ND student ID

10% OFF CASH AND CARRY

with SMC or ND student ID

The best place to shop in the area.

The Clock

South of University Park Mall

New Castle, Ind. 47366

5851 Grape Rd.

The dead line for signing up for Insurance (Perker & Parker), is Friday, February 16, 1990.

You may apply at the University Health Center's Insurance Office.

FOR DETAILS,
step in to see our salons, or call us at University Commons, St. Rd. 23, South Bend, In.

The 100% OFF CASH AND CARRY

with SMC or ND student ID

10% OFF CASH AND CARRY

with SMC or ND student ID

The best place to shop in the area.

The Clock

South of University Park Mall

New Castle, Ind. 47366

5851 Grape Rd.

The dead line for signing up for Insurance (Perker & Parker), is Friday, February 16, 1990.

You may apply at the University Health Center's Insurance Office.
Gambling of all sorts became legally anathema. In crossing dangerous seas to an unproved land, then numbers boldly challenging the might of the century's ideological baggage that limits their willingness to innovate, and thus to give a nation a new people's confidence.

Gorbachev, in gambling, he could find the right people in the Communist Party and keep them there. His risk is that the apparatus now apparently on its way out has so damaged the party's credibility that the people he needs to move those movements and parties given the green light by the Central Committee will be unresponsive.

Politburo member Alexander Yakovlev, a key power adviser in the party's ruling body, told a news conference Wednesday that the Central Committee meeting represented a "crucial and historic" moment for the Soviet Union. The economic crisis, characterized by a huge budget deficit, hyperinflation, currency and empty store shelves, got worse in 1989.

At the same time, addressing the Central Committee on Wednesday, Gorbachev had not reached bottom and the key economic questions now involve the future.

In relieving food shortages, he said, "The era of the master now is the position of our cadre at the center and localities," and he indicated changes at the top were also coming.

"It is necessary to realign forces in the upper echelons of power in order to give more dynamism to perestroika pro­cesses and ensure more firmly the irreversibility of their success," he said.

Next week, the Supreme So­viet parliament will consider laws on ownership of land and other property, perhaps the most important of the other issues. Although the laws have been discussed for months, they remain vaguely worded and could be liberally interpreted by local officials if the leadership wants it that way.

In recent weeks, with the Central Committee plenum promising to be a struggle between "reformers and conservatives, citizens in a few large cities took out their frustrations on local leaders. Popular protests caused party officials to quit in four large cities in the Ukraine, the Urals Mountains and the Ukraine.

On Monday, said the crisis had turned to West Germans' "The federal government is not of the opinion that East Germans in the near future can be insolvent," Klein said, but noted that some individual leaders "fear such extreme possibilities." Klein said the spokesman for East Ger­many's Communist government of Premier Herrmann Honecker denied the nation of 16 million residents is in such dire circum­stances.

"As long as the Moscow gov­ernment exists, East Germany will remain solvent," spokesman Wolfgang Meyer told reporters in East Berlin.

The senior Kohl official also said East Germans have the right to hold free elections, set for March 18, are threatened by the economic dynamic of "perestroika.

"Certain state offices don't exist any more," he said, "and the people in East Germany who doubt that the March election date can ever be reached," the of­ficial said. "The situation cannot be assessed dramatically enough."

An accelerated decline would likely send more fleeing to West Germany, which is finding it hard to absorb hundreds of thousands of East Germans, many of whom already have fled seeking a bet­ter life. Kohl on Wednesday formed a cabinet committee charged with coming up with measures to help the two German states, includ­ing extraordinary efforts to make the West German mark the common currency in an effort to stabilize East Germany's economy. The East German currency is virtually worthless outside the country.

Since the October ouster of hard-line Communist leader Erich Honecker and the opening of the Berlin Wall, reunification has become a major issue of debate. West German Prime Minister Helmut Kohl, now the senior official in a government of the two states, has tried to dismiss fears that the collapse of the German Communist Party would endanger the rest of Europe.

"In an address in the East German capital of Leipzig, West German Foreign Minister Hans-Dietrich Genscher said the two states jointly agree to issue border guarantees to their neighbors to prevent possession of atomic weapons as a prerequisite for unity.

The Communist officials still running the East German gov­ernment, who last week met with Kohl's currency union offer, as well as East Germany's Economic Ministers Committee, which visited Berlin March 4 last week, is gradually getting more funds from the world.

Politicians have pulled the strings. One of the autres' most obvious targets, the tax-hating New Hampshire found a new way to tax-hating New Hampshire bought more than $18.5 billion-and getting about half that amount from state and local governments.

For those who supplied the increasingly legal need, the temptation to play the lottery is clearly there. Never mind that the real odds are ludicrously bad; people still keep buying. And, according to a report prepared exclusively for this column, more than 4,000 lottery offices sold at least one ticket a year last year, according to a report prepared exclusively for this column, more than 5,000 lottery offices sold at least one ticket a year last year.

Lotto players are gambling with their hard-earned money. The state-sponsored numbers game is the single most popular form of legal gambling. The lottery is clearly there. Never mind that lotteries are sold to exploit the country's least sophisticated citizens; never mind that the real odds are ludicrously worse than at any self-respecting racetrack or casino.

Industry experts estimate that nearly half the U.S. population bought at least one lottery ticket last year, investing $18.5 billion-and getting about half that amount from state and local governments.

Around the world, as the country, the moral obligations to gambling have gone down in inverse proportion to the steady rise in taxes. As Robert Mullane, an associate of Bally Manufacturing Corp., a leading supplier of slot machines, services and instant tickets ($1 billion annually, it put to the radio stations in millions of markets around the world. The concept of an immediate payoff has made it hard to absorb hundreds of thousands of East Germans, many of whom already have fled seeking a better life. Kohl on Wednesday formed a cabinet committee charged with coming up with measures to help the two German states, includ­ing extraordinary efforts to make the West German mark the common currency in an effort to stabilize East Germany's economy. The East German currency is virtually worthless outside the country.

Politicians have pulled the strings. One of the autres' most obvious targets, the tax-hating New Hampshire found a new way to tax-hating New Hampshire bought more than $18.5 billion-and getting about half that amount from state and local governments.

For those who supplied the increasingly legal need, the temptation to play the lottery is clearly there. Never mind that the real odds are ludicrously bad; people still keep buying. And, according to a report prepared exclusively for this column, more than 4,000 lottery offices sold at least one ticket a year last year, according to a report prepared exclusively for this column, more than 5,000 lottery offices sold at least one ticket a year last year.

Lotto players are gambling with their hard-earned money. The state-sponsored numbers game is the single most popular form of legal gambling. The lottery is clearly there. Never mind that lotteries are sold to exploit the country's least sophisticated citizens; never mind that the real odds are ludicrously worse than at any self-respecting racetrack or casino.

Industry experts estimate that nearly half the U.S. population bought at least one lottery ticket last year, investing $18.5 billion-and getting about half that amount from state and local governments.
Arguments for legalizing drugs come up short

By Christopher Coury

How long must the ridiculous legalization debate continue? Experts who deal daily with the war against drugs have repeatedly argued that such a policy would be a catastrophic mistake, yet some people still believe that this issue is ripe for discussion. Far too many people believe that legalization is the answer to our drug problem.

Although the arguments favoring legalization appear compelling at face value, when examined they show their short-sightedness. Proponents fail to acknowledge that drugs are more potent, harmful, and addictive than alcohol. Moreover, they also neglect the fact that after Prohibition was repealed, more people were using alcohol in America society. So if drugs were legalized, there would be an increased number of people who used drugs, and consequently, more people who became addicted to them. Legalization would result in an unprecedented need for substance-abuse treatment facilities on a long-term basis.

According to those in favor of legalization, this cost could be met by taxes on drugs and a re-allocation of the current $6 billion being spent on supply-reduction programs, such as border patrols. However, this argument fails to account for the fact that the FDR would never legalize the most potent, addictive and harmful drugs.

Nevertheless, the human desire of experimentation would create a large market for those harder drugs. Thus, the black-market would continue to exist even if some drugs were legalized. Moreover, the traffickers for these drugs would have a much easier time smuggling them than they do today, because no one could spend $5 billion on border patrol and drug interdiction programs in a society in which drugs are legal. In fact, the only changes that legalization would bring would be that more people would use (and abuse) drugs, and people who experimented with drugs would do so with more disregard and personal safety.

The notion that legalization would benefit drug producing countries also overlooks the reason most Colombian farmers grew coca leaves—money. Peasants can earn twice as much by raising coca leaves than by growing coffee plants.

But, if drugs were legalized, corporations would immediately capitalize on the opportunity for a big buck, and would profit as much as possible for the lowest price. Thus, it is ludicrous to assert that legalization would help the citizens of Andean nations, and even more so that proponents cite this as one of the most compelling reasons favoring their proposal. Obviously the answer to the drug problem cannot be legalization. We must look to programs which have proven effective in recent years: namely, user accountability, treatment, education, and prevention. Although the older “puppy” drug laws have proven ineffective, there has been a nationwide campaign to toughen them, and already some battles are being won at the state and local level. We need to move forward with aggressive new laws which will fight the scourge of drugs, rather than retreat with our legs through legalization.

The time has come for people to stop discussing the ludicrous idea of legalization, and to port the effort against drugs. Some people may think “we need a sober debate on the subject.” In Great Britain, however, there is no debate on legalization— and there aren’t any drug-related stories on the front page.

Christopher Coury is a junior in Notre Dame’s London Program.
University of Notre Dame investment policies

General Investment

The University of Notre Dame community has adopted an investment policy which reflects both its identity as a Catholic university as well as its intention to promote the basic moral values of fairness, fidelity and justice. Notre Dame has taken a stand against poverty, defense of human rights and social justice. One privileged source of identity in this work of ethical discernment is to be found in the established social teachings of the Catholic Church.

There are many ways in which the University can have a positive influence on individuals and the Church. Foremost among these is the wise allocation of the University's resources to support teaching and research. In recent years, the University is an employer, a user of products and services, and a partner in specific social, economic and political orders. In all of these areas there is a moral obligation to adhere to the highest standards of social responsibility.

The starting point of the formulation of an investment policy is the fundamental requirement that the trustees of the University have a moral and legal responsibility to ensure a satisfactory return on investments necessary for the support and growth of the institution as a whole.

Within the parameters of this principle, and as a consideration of its social responsibility in investing, the University of Notre Dame will withdraw from the portfolio of securities from firms whose policies are antagonistic to the values the University espouses, (2) investing in firms that demonstrate a high level of social concern, and (3) influence the performance of firms through the exercise of ownership rights.

It is the responsibility of the Investment Committee of the Board of Trustees to proceed into consideration these basic principles, and prudentially to deliberate on the basis of information and advice provided by the Investment & Finance Committee, as internal sources, at all times keeping foremost in mind the future welfare of the University of Notre Dame.

May 6, 1988

Funding needs accountability

Dear Editor:

Articles reporting and debating the home football television rights contract Notre Dame made with NBC are now making headline news nationwide. The articles uniformly quote Father Beauchamp to the effect that the "bulk" or "majority" of the cash the University will receive will go to fund a student scholarship endowment.

So, there appears to be new, big money going to financial aid.

But was that really the deal? Are not all agreements engaging in this type of endowing by passing through this yapp老旧小区 ground so that we can someday build the new South Africa?

Tom Flood
St. Edward's Hall
Feb. 7, 1990

CFA in 1984. Notre Dame was, according to ABC, one main reason they recently signed a lucrative contract with the CFA. But our university is just doing what any school with the chance would have done, right? Just doing what will probably lead to other big game schools jumping to other networks, with the upperclassmen schools losing out and losing much needed revenue they would have gained then, the CFA deal. Just looking out for number one.

Greed. Quite a concept at the University of Notre Dame. If you go to Mass in almost any chapel on a Sunday, you will hear the virtues of helping your fellow man, following Christ's example, and that there is more to life than money and greed. Therefore, Notre Dame will support the University of South Africa. As it is the importance of greed. Of course, they hope that you and I will follow their "looking out for number one" and keep engaging in this type of endowing by passing through this yapp老旧小区 ground so that we can someday build the new South Africa.

Lou Brenner, Jr.
Third Year Law Student
Feb. 7, 1990
Students moonlight as models

Fashions ranging from casual wear and business suits to evening dresses, leather, and swimwear were displayed in the annual Black Cultural Arts Festival Fashion Show Saturday night at the J.A.C.C. Monogram room. "Umoja III Beauty of Body and Soul" was the title of the program which, under the direction of coordinator Lois Conrad, skillfully combined music, lighting, and various props to show off the clothes of guest designers Queen Topin of Gary and Fuddie Lewis of South Bend. Additional fashions were provided by stores from the University Park Mall, Scottsdale Mall, as well as other South Bend clothing outlets.

Sixteen students from Notre Dame and Saint Mary's served as the models during the high energy three hour performance. An exciting combination of music and choreography added a professional edge to the display of the latest styles. "The end of the show was wild, incredible. Since this was my first year seeing the show I had no idea what to expect. I was definitely surprised," commented freshman Shonda Wilson. Umoja, the Swahili word for unity, served as the theme for the show for the third year. This theme ties into the theme of the Black Cultural Arts Festival, which promotes unity as the key to equality.

Saturday's performance successfully paired the latest trends in fashion with a slick performance of music, dance, and light. This year's show also serves as an integral part of the Black Cultural Arts Festival which began with a gospel performance last week and is scheduled to include a talent show some time next week.
Quantum Leap

Scott Bakula stars as scientist Sam Beckett (multiple images, rear) and Dean Stockwell plays Albert, a holographic observer visible only to Sam, on the new NBC television drama series "Quantum Leap."

Joe BucoLO

To be continued...

Ever want to be someone else? Everyone does at one time or another. Sam Beckett is lucky enough to be a different person every week in NBC's new drama "Quantum Leap."

Beckett (Scott Bakula) makes his leap every Wednesday at 10 p.m. on Channel 16. He's a scientist trapped in an experiment gone haywire. The strange situation flings him into a different person's body (and often into a different era) so that he might prevent something terrible from happening. The show is as outstanding as the premise seems ridiculous.

In one episode, Beckett finds himself in the body of an under­study to the actor who plays Don Quixote in "The Man of La Mancha." What makes the story interesting is that, while he assumes the role of a stranger, Sam does not acquire the inherent talents or abilities of the person. In this instance, he cannot sing. His mission is to prevent the arrogant, stuck­up drunk of an actor from tripping and breaking his leg.

Beckett is thus caught between a rock and a hard place. Sam cannot convince the veteran actor he's too drunk to go on stage. At the same time, if the actor falls, Sam must go on for him and—ugh—sing.

To make matters worse, a new actress joins the cast. She is none other than Beckett's old piano teacher—who had a crush on as a child. She doesn't recognize him because he's in someone else's body. In other episodes, Sam assumes the roles of a disc jockey, a football player, and even a woman. The quality of the show stems from its interesting storylines. The technical­ities of Beckett the show stems from its interesting storylines. The technical­ities of Quantum Leap! is an outstanding piece of fast­paced, quality entertainment. The actors are serious and believable while the writers take viewers on a wonderful adventure each week. For a little fun and a lot of creativity each Wednesday, take the "Quantum Leap!"
Wilkins claims Dunk contest; Hodges takes 3-point title

MIAMI (AP) — Kenny Smith lost the NBA slam-dunk contest by making a shot he should have missed.

Michael Jordan, who gave up dunking to try long-distance shooting, lost because he missed almost everything.

In Saturday night's final round of dunking, Smith tossed the ball high in the air and lost control before boldly dunking it through the net. He earned 47.2 points for the dunk, but if he had missed completely, he would've had another chance.

"It's the only time you get penalized for doing well," Smith said. "I slipped on the takeoff. I had to grab the rim. Unfortunately, it went in.

"Dominique Wilkins' two-handed dunk in the final round earned 49.2 points, more than enough to pass Smith and win the title with 146.8 to 145.1.

Wilkins, who also won the dunk contest in 1985, was impressed by the unheralded Smith's flashy dunks, which included tossing the ball between his legs and off the backboard before the slam.

"Kenny's been holding out on us," Wilkins said. "He lied to us. He said he was just trying to get past the first round.

Jordan switched to the 3-point shooting contest and matched the lowest-scoring round in the five-year history of the event with five points.

Jordan's teammate on the Chicago Bulls, two-time finalist Craig Hodges, won the 3-point contest after three-time winner Larry Bird also was eliminated in the first round.

"It was good for me to get out and feel that type of competition," said Jordan, the dunk champion in 1987-88. "It's different from dunking. I'd like to come back and try it again. If you don't do well, you want to come back and do better."

Smith was the more creative dunker, with several off-the-floor, off-the-glass slams, but he couldn't overcome the power of Wilkins, who at 6-foot-8, is five inches taller than Smith.

"We were both using our creativity out there," Wilkins said.

"People don't realize the degree of difficulty. There's only so many dunks you can do," Smith received 49.8 points for his second of three dunks in the final round. Smith bounced the ball off the floor and the backboard before reverse dunking.

Wilkins, who was going to skip the contest this year until injuries to other entrants allowed him to change his mind, was only .3 behind after scoring 49.7 with a soaring one-hander.

Then came Smith's mistake on the final dunk.

"He'd have won if he'd made the last dunk," Wilkins said.

"He was ahead, but his timing was off a little." Hodges had 19 points and Reggie Miller of the Indiana Pacers 18 in the final round of the 3-point contest after Hodges outpointed Jon Sundvold of Miami 9.7 to 24. second shootout. Hodges and Sundvold tied for second in the semifinals behind Miller.

Hodges, who set a record for a single round in the contest with 25 points in the first round in 1986, lost in the finals to Bird in 1986 and Dale Ellis last year.

Hodges said the music plays during the event made it difficult to concentrate.

"The music shocks you when you first start shooting," said Hodges, the NBA leader with a .477 percentage. "My son asked me to get the 3-point trophy after seeing Larry Bird win it, but I told him it wasn't going to be that easy."

Bird, who won the contest in 1986, 1992 and 1998 before missing last year with an injury, had 14 points in the first round and failed to make the semifinals, finishing behind Hodges and Miller's 16 and 15 each by Sundvold and Bob Hansen of Utah.

"I feel like I went to Las Vegas and lost $20,000," said Bird, who failed to shoot the 25 balls allotted for one minute.

"I couldn't believe I didn't get off all the shots," Bird said. "When the horn went off, and I had balls left, I couldn't believe it. I've never had trouble getting off all the shots before."

Jordan's five points in the first round matched the worst round by any player. Delitel Schrempf had five in the 1988 semifinals.

In the Legends Game, Cazzie Russell, who played 12 pro seasons with the New York Knicks, Golden State, the Los Angeles Lakers and Chicago, hit a baseline jumper with 17 seconds left, giving the East a 37-36 lead that held up when Dave Cowens missed for the West in the final seconds.

Wrap up your Valentines in a Special way with elegant bags, fancy giftwrap, tissue paper, mylar, confetti and balloons.

30-50% OFF All Merchandise (Good Thru Feb. 14) For out of town sweethearts we'll ship your Valentine for you.

BOXES PLUS

277-5555 M-F 9AM-7PM SAT 10AM-7PM Between T.J. Maxx and Venture SUN NOON-5:30PM

5818 GRAPE RD • INDIAN RIDGE PLAZA • MISHAWAKA

Write your name on a page of history.

The Observer Be a part of it!

News
Accent
Viewpoint
Sports
Business

Call 239-5303.

The Country Harvester

Valentine Candies, Heart Baskets, Valentine Gift Bags & More

Located in the basement of LaFortune Student Center
12 - 5 Mon - Fri
11 - 2 Sat

DDATES

GOURMET BURGERS & ICE CREAM

DO YOURSELF A FLAVOR

3602 Grape Road • Mishawaka, IN 255-5555

Sundae

99¢

For any size sundae and receive a second one of the same size for 99¢.
Robinson's 29 lead Michigan over Illini; Purdue falls 73-72

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP) — Rumeal Robinson matched his career-high 29 points on Tuesday night, but it was Michigan's frontline—really impressive Indiana coach Tom Herdman—center Terry Mills scored 20 points and four other starters who had added 16 points and a career-high 18 rebounds as No. 15 Purdue (16-7, 5-3) beat No. 12 Illinois (17-5, 7-3) 97-73 in a Big Ten game.

Minnesota 73, Purdue 72
Melvin Newbern's twelfth-foot jumper with 32 seconds left lifted Minnesota over No. 10 Purdue 73-72 on Senior Night. Newbern, who finished with seven points, had the ball away 21 seconds earlier to allow Purdue (14-7, 4-3) to take 63-62 at the 33-second mark.

NCAA tournament

Still the second straight road loss and held to spot on the top seed in the West Regional. They used a 16-2 run to take a 29-27 lead with 2:07 left but then McGhee hit a 3-pointer at the buzzer to force overtime. The Cavaliers (10-12) will play Nova in the second round.

Auction

... Farmers hide your sheep ...

... Mothers hide your daughters ...
SPORTS BRIEFS

Racquetball Club will hold a meeting for anyone interested in playing during second semester. The meeting will be held in 343 Newland on Feb. 13 at 8 p.m. Call x 2334 or x 2274 for more information.

Freshman John Coyle captured first place in the junior division in the inaugural World Championship Qualifying Cross Country Trials Saturday in Seattle. Coyle is now eligible to represent the U.S. in the World Championships March 24 in Paris. More details will appear in Tuesday's Observer.

Equestrian Club will meet at 8:30 p.m. today in 222 in the library. All members must attend.

Off-campus hockey has a game at 10:30 p.m. tonight.

Irish Insanity will meet at 7 p.m. tonight in Montgomery Theatre to discuss plans for the Marquette game.

Sports Briefs are accepted in writing at The Observer in Lafayette. The Observer does not guarantee that briefs will be printed and briefs will be edited for clarity and length. Because of space constraints, no brief may run more than two times.

UNTIL THERE IS NO LONELINESS, NO DESTINATION, NO SICKNESS, NO WAR...

---

MCC continued from page 20

medleys (2:15.26 and 4:52.82).

"As a forecast for our upcoming championships, this meet has made us extremely optimistic," said Welsh. "Far more than half the team swam lifetime bests, a number that was extraordinary. The meet was exciting because of what happened and what we expect to happen."

Next on the schedule for the teams is the Eastern Intercollegiate Championships. The women swim Feb. 22-24, and the men meet the following week, March 1-3.

NBC continued from page 20

Where would this network/university partnership end? A deal in which George-town, Duke, or Syracuse signed with a network for the right to their basketball games suddenly becomes a possibility, and further developments after that might be making NBC executives dream in dollars.

he can guarantee his prospect national exposure for at least six games a year. It's either Notre Dame and the surety of national exposure or State U., and try your luck. As more schools strike deals with networks, this threat to parity grows ever bigger.

The time has come for Notre Dame to reevaluate why it is involved in college football. Surely it has brought it financial gain, but is that why the universe pursues it? Only an idealist would say that college football is not a business, but being at the forefront of a momentous step in the further development of the sport as a money-making endeavor is another matter. When Reverend William E. Reachamp sits as the secretary-treasurer of the CFA, he votes for what's best for college football. But when he is not sitting for the board, he's standing for Notre Dame's interests. By signing the agreement with NBC, Beuchamp and Notre Dame have demonstrated which interest takes precedence.

Is there a "me first" clause in Du Lac?

---

See Castles in the Air

And learn your way around the world

"If you have built castles in the air, now put the foundations under them." ~ Henry David Thoreau

Study in London for $4325 per semester. Includes air fare, resident tuition, field trips, home stay with meals.

Study in Seville, Spain, for $3625 per semester. Includes resident tuition, field trips, home stay with meals. No foreign language proficiency required.

Summer program also available in London.

For further information, write or call:
Institute for Study Abroad Programs
300 Warner Hall
University of Wisconsin-Platteville
1 University Plaza
Platteville, Wisconsin 53818-3099
608-342-1726

---

O'Connor leads Irish at Collegiates

Special to The Observer

The Notre Dame men's track team competed in the Central Collegiate championships in Madison, Wis., finishing fifth against Big 10 and Mid-Atlantic Coast competitors.

"It was our best team showing in five years," said Irish head coach Joe Piane. "Mike O'Connor ran very well for us, taking first in the 1000-meter run and running the last leg in the distance medley relay for two first place performances. The team did really well overall and we were very pleased to finish fifth against some very good competition."

Eastern Michigan captured first place in a field of 25 teams with a total of 141 points. Purdue placed second with 119, followed by Illinois (71) and Michigan State (64). Notre Dame tallied 50.50 points as the fifth-place finisher.

The Irish received top-point performances from O'Connor, who placed first in the 1000-meter run with an indoor personal-best time of 14:12. The Notre Dame distance medley relay team of Shawn Schneider, Lance Decker, Mike Ragan and O'Connor also placed first, with a time of 9:53.48.

Irish teammates Yan Searcy and Glenn Watson added two fourth-place finishes. Searcy's in the 600-meters (1:20.48) and Watson in the high hurdles (7.55). John Cole placed sixth in the high jump with a jump of 2.1 meters.

Notre Dame will take the track again when they travel to the Indiana Intercollegiates in West Lafayette.

---

EDUCATION IN THE COLLEGE OF BUSINESS ADMINISTRATION

A program arranged by Dean John Keane

FOR FRESHMEN WHO WISH TO LEARN MORE ABOUT

A MAJOR IN BUSINESS ADMINISTRATION

6:30 P.M.

TUESDAY, FEBRUARY 13, 1990

ENGINEERING (CUSHING) AUDITORIUM
Defense leads East over West

MIAMI (AP) — The East won Sunday's NBA All-Star Game with a weapon foreign to play-ground basketball defense. The East forced 23 turnovers and held the West to 44 percent shooting in a 130-113 victory. The West's point total was the lowest in the All-Star Game since 1976, when the East beat the West 123-109.

"Rarely do you find defense in an All-Star Game," said Chicago's Michael Jordan, who had five of the East's 16 steals. "And I think our team played great defense."

Johnson, the game's most valuable player, scored 22 points. "We talked a lot about the defensive end and to make sure we matched up on transition," Daly said. "They don't have to play hard on defense, but they're willing to do it because they're great competitors."

The East, with no player scoring more than 17 points, was balanced on defense as well as offense. Jordan and Isiah Thomas of Detroit made things difficult for the West guards, and the East's interior defense, led by Patrick Ewing of New York with five blocked shots, was outstanding.

The West's starting front line — Akeem Olajuwon of Houston and Los Angeles Lakers A.C. Green and James Worthy — missed 25 of 28 shots. The 7-foot Olajuwon even had a shot blocked — by Charles Barkley of Philadelphia in a one-on-one situation. "That's one of those plays where if you block it it's good, if you foul it's good, and if you get dunked on it's embarrassing," Barkley said.

The East may have been limited to scoring more than 17 points, but they also had five MVP-type performances. "That's all about an hour together at Sunday's NBA All-Star Game," Johnson said. "Sometimes it's not about winning games. Just being here, you won. I lost the game, but I didn't lose the fun.

Johnson hit four of six 3-pointers, grabbed six rebounds and handed out four assists in the West's 130-113 loss. He established All-Star single-game and career records for 3-point baskets and edged Michael Jordan, Patrick Ewing, Robert Parish and Isaiah Thomas of the East in the MVP voting.

"I never thought I'd win in a game like this," said Johnson, a 10-time All-Star who has five world championship rings, two NBA Most Valuable trophies and three playoff MVP awards. "I was here to have a good time and give the fans a good show, but never imagined I'd wind up winning," said Johnson, only the third MVP to come from a losing team and the first since 1977.

"Sometimes it's not about winning games. Just being here, you won... I lost the game, but I didn't lose the fun.

Johnson hit four of six 3-point attempts to set the single-game All-Star record. He now has five career 3-pointers in nine All-Star appearances, tying him with Thomas, who made one of one on Sunday. "He surprised me a few times with some of those threes," said Jordan, who started the game matched against Johnson on defense. "We played them (Lakers) last week and he hit three. I didn't think he could shoot from there."

The East got the time for the afternoon, taking a 42-23 lead after one period. The West rallied, but never got closer than nine points in the final quarter. Johnell felt the key to the game was that the East reserves played as well as the starters. "Once you get down 20 points, it's hard to come back," he said.

Johnson joined Julius Erving (1977) and Bob Pettit (1958) as the only players to win MVP in a losing team.

"You don't want to get hurt and you don't want to get embarrassed. Those are my two most important goals in this game."

The East stars' 54-percent shooting helped their defense by making it difficult for the West to get its fast break going.

"I thought if we were going to win it would have to be with quickness and running," West coach Pat Riley said. "But we didn't get the chance because they shot too well."

In the lowest-scoring All-Star Game since 1982, the West played some defense too. Magic Johnson, the game's most valuable player, scored 22 points and also made a tenacious attempt to guard Barkley.

"One time Charles picked me up and threw me out of the lane and said, 'You don't belong here,'" Johnson said. "I said, 'I apologize but you're my assignment.'"

MIAMI (AP) — Magic Johnson was a little stunned. Even he didn't realize he could win in defeat.

The Los Angeles Lakers guard walked away from the NBA All-Star game with most valuable player honors Sunday, capturing one of the few major awards that's escaped him in 11 years. He grabbed six rebounds and lost the team. West's point total was the first since 1977.

Johnson said it was all about a good time and give the fans a good show, but never imagined he'd wind up winning.

"That's all about an hour together at Sunday's NBA All-Star Game," Johnson said. "Sometimes it's not about winning games. Just being here, you won. I lost the game, but I didn't lose the fun.

Johnson hit four of six 3-point attempts to set the single-game All-Star record. He now has five career 3-pointers in nine All-Star appearances, tying him with Thomas, whom he won with one of one on Sunday. "He surprised me a few times with some of those threes," said Jordan, who started the game matched against Johnson on defense. "We played them (Lakers) last week and he hit three. I didn't think he could shoot from there."

The East got the time for the afternoon, taking a 42-23 lead after one period. The West rallied, but never got closer than nine points in the final quarter. Johnson felt the key to the game was that the East reserves played as well as the starters. "Once you get down 20 points, it's hard to come back," he said.

Johnson joined Julius Erving (1977) and Bob Pettit (1958) as the only players to win MVP in a losing team. He dedicated the award to his mother and father.
Zadra leads Irish to ‘inspired’ home-and-home sweep

By KEN ZYSAC
Sports Writer

Left wing Lou Zadra and the Notre Dame hockey team had something to prove in this past weekend’s home-and-home series against Lake Forest.

Zadra and the Irish responded to the challenge with two spirited performances which resulted in victories over the Foresters on Friday night at the Joyce ACC and Saturday night at Lake Forest.

Zadra, who had been in Irish coach Ric Schafer’s proverbial doghouse after a poor showing earlier in the season, was handed the last laugh.

Notre Dame hockey team had scored a shorthanded goal; Freshman Greg Selby gave Notre Dame a 2-0 first period lead, and Bankoske put Notre Dame in the doghouse once again.

The Irish defense prevailed, however, and freshman Tom Miniscalco added an exclamation point with an empty net goal in the game’s final seconds.

That was a pretty exciting hockey game, wasn’t it?” Schafer asked rhetorically after the win. “It was everything you could ask for in a college hockey game. All that and a happy ending as well.”

The Irish took control early the next night against Lake Forest. After Bankoske tallied twice and Kuehl once in the first period, freshman defensemen Dan Sawyer scored on a slapshot from the point to give Notre Dame a 4-0 lead early in the second period.

With a little help from the officials, the Foresters climbed back into the game. Lake Forest converted on a pair of 5-on-3 power plays to come within 4-3. Schafer was not all pleased with the officiating at that point.

“There came a time in the third period when the referee was doing his part to stage a comeback,” Schafer said. “I was handing out penalties like the government hands out cheese.”

But Zadra arrived once again to save the day. On yet another Lake Forest power play, he scored a shorthanded goal which staked the Irish back to a two-goal lead. Freshman Sterling Black added an insurance goal, and Bankoske put the icing on the cake with his third goal of the game and the icing on the cake with his third goal of the game and the Irish travel to St. Cloud State to play two games against the Huskies this coming weekend.

three-goal game of the season did not go unnoticed.

“That was perhaps David’s best game of the season,” stated Schafer. “But because he scored goals. He was everywhere on the ice, and he really made other people stand still and watch him.

“I’m happy to say we’re playing well again. Regardless of what happens at St. Cloud next weekend, I’ll be happy if we continue to play this well.”

The Irish take control early the next night against Lake Forest. After Bankoske tallied twice and Kuehl once in the first period, freshman defensemen Dan Sawyer scored on a slapshot from the point to give Notre Dame a 4-0 lead early in the second period.

With a little help from the officials, the Foresters climbed back into the game. Lake Forest converted on a pair of 5-on-3 power plays to come within 4-3. Schafer was not all pleased with the officiating at that point.

“There came a time in the third period when the referee was doing his part to stage a comeback,” Schafer said. “I was handing out penalties like the government hands out cheese.”

But Zadra arrived once again to save the day. On yet another Lake Forest power play, he scored a shorthanded goal which staked the Irish back to a two-goal lead. Freshman Sterling Black added an insurance goal, and Bankoske put the icing on the cake with his third goal of the game and three-goal game of the season did not go unnoticed.

“That was perhaps David’s best game of the season,” stated Schafer. “But because he scored goals. He was everywhere on the ice, and he really made other people stand still and watch him.

“I’m happy to say we’re playing well again. Regardless of what happens at St. Cloud next weekend, I’ll be happy if we continue to play this well.”

The Irish take control early the next night against Lake Forest. After Bankoske tallied twice and Kuehl once in the first period, freshman defensemen Dan Sawyer scored on a slapshot from the point to give Notre Dame a 4-0 lead early in the second period.

With a little help from the officials, the Foresters climbed back into the game. Lake Forest converted on a pair of 5-on-3 power plays to come within 4-3. Schafer was not all pleased with the officiating at that point.

“There came a time in the third period when the referee was doing his part to stage a comeback,” Schafer said. “I was handing out penalties like the government hands out cheese.”

But Zadra arrived once again to save the day. On yet another Lake Forest power play, he scored a shorthanded goal which staked the Irish back to a two-goal lead. Freshman Sterling Black added an insurance goal, and Bankoske put the icing on the cake with his third goal of the game and Phelps upbeats during tough times
Irish faced with tough schedule for final eight contests

BY GREG GUFFEY
Assistant Sports Editor

HOUSTON - Notre Dame men's basketball coach Digger Phelps still has the towel in his hand. And he has no intention of throwing it in.

Following a 93-82 loss to Houston Saturday afternoon in Hofheinz Pavilion, Phelps wrote two phrases on the blackboard: "We will be fine. You've got to believe." We just have to stay in a positive frame of mind," Phelps said. "We're just trying to keep our heads above the water and fight to get in the tourney."

The loss to the Cougars dropped the Irish to 12-8 with eight games left in the season. Notre Dame is perfect 6-0 at home and just 4-8 away from the Joyce ACC.

The remaining games - three on the road and five at home - will be crucial for the Irish. And they will not be easy. Notre Dame hosts Marquette Wednesday and then travels to Syracuse for a nationally-televised game Saturday afternoon. The team returns home to host DePaul the following Tuesday and then entertains Georgia Tech on Feb. 28 before returning home for a big game with Mississippi March 3. The season ends with Kentucky on March 5 at the JACC and a contest at DePaul on March 10.

One person who is convinced that Notre Dame belongs in the NCAA field is Houston coach Pat Foster.

"They're good enough to be there," Foster said. "They're certainly one of the best 64 teams in the country. They're probably solidly in the Top 40 in the country."

The strength of the Notre Dame schedule could play a role in determining its fate. The Irish have played or will play nine teams in last week's Associated Press Top 25 - Missouri, Duke, Syracuse, Louisville, LSU, LaSalle, UCLA, Georgia Tech and Indiana.

Even with that, the Irish will need some big victories in the next few weeks to solidify their tournament hopes. The weekend games were a homecoming for the Texas Express of sophomores Elmer Bennett and Daimon Sweet.

Bennett was a Texas Mr. Basketball at Bellaire High School in Houston, while Sweet received All-American recognition at Central High School in Beaumont.

Bennett scored 10 points and dished out three assists in a 63-49 win over Southern Methodist Thursday, and had 11 points with seven assists in the loss to the Cougars. He played 32 minutes in Saturday's game.

Sweet tallied six points against the Mustangs and then equaled Bennett's total of 11 with Houston. Sweet scored the 11 points in just 13 minutes of action.

Notre Dame seniors Joe Fredrick and Keith Hobinson should end their careers with more than 1,000 points. If successful, they will become the 32nd and 33rd Irish players in Irish history to surpass the 1,000 mark.

Fredrick has 959 career points with Hobinson at 944. Even with that, the Irish will need some big victories in the next few weeks to solidify their tournament hopes.

Fredrick has also pulled down 622 career rebounds. Austin Carr (1968-71) leads the Irish in career scoring with 2,260 points.

The weekend games were a homecoming for the Texas Express of sophomores Elmer Bennett and Daimon Sweet.

Dame put one more run together, reducing the margin to 70-64 with 4:38 left, but the Irish could get no closer. The Cougars hit 11-of-14 free throws in the last five minutes to solidify their victory.

The Irish will host Marquette at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday.
Solid as Larock: Boilermakers defeat Irish wrestlers 17-15

By STEVE MEGARGEE
Associate Sports Editor

In its quest to win the first Shillelagh trophy ever awarded for wrestling, Notre Dame got caught between Larock and a hard place.

As Saturday's match at the Joyce ACC came down to the heavyweight division, Purdue sent in 29-year-old freshman Larock. Benford. The 228-pound Superboiler subdued Notre Dame's Chuck Weaver 16-4 to give Purdue a 17-15 victory.

Benford, a staff sergeant with the U.S. Marines, has a 6-0 individual record at Purdue since earning eligibility this semester. "We had everything cleared with the NCAA," said Purdue coach Mitch Hull, whose team improved to 6-3-2. "It's a full-time student taking 12 credits. He came out of high school weighing just 155 pounds."

Irish coach Fran McCann knew that his team would be in trouble if the Boilers still had a chance by the time the heavyweights took the mat. "They had a 30-year-old ex-Marine going against a 19-year-old kid," McCann said. "Our ordinary kid, your ordinary freshman, I'll tell you that."

Notre Dame (0-7) came into the match ranked 24th in the nation and looking to get back to .500 for the first time since last month's ill-fated California trip. Also at stake was the Shillelagh, a trophy that has been awarded to the ND-Purdue football game since 1957 but never before had an involvement with the two schools' wrestling programs.

After the first five matches, it looked to most observers as though Notre Dame would maintain its position in the Top 25. The Irish had won four of those lighter weight categories to take a 12-3 lead.

Notre Dame's early momentum came as no surprise to either coach. "The match went exactly as I figured it would go," said Hull. "We've got a really strong group of heavyweights, but we're young in the lighter weights. That's where Notre Dame's strength is, in the lighter weights."

McCann, who said before the match that whoever got the most bonus points would come away with the victory, did not get major decisions from any of Notre Dame's three big guns - Andy Radenbaugh, Pat Boyd or Mark Gerardi.

Radenbaugh beat Purdue's Gabe Zirbelrock 7-3 at 118 pounds, Boyd defeated Aaron Moran 6-1 at 142 and Gerardi beat Chris Lominski 9-5 at 167. A wrestler must win by eight points to earn a major decision, which gives a school four team points instead of the three points given for an ordinary victory.

"Our kids didn't work hard enough for bonus points," said McCann. "We had enough of a margin, but it didn't feel like we were hungry enough."

Sophomore 126-pounder Gabe Zirbelrock had 15-6 lead in a heated match that ended tails off. Then, they come here and wrestle like they're just trying to get by."

Despite taking a 15-6 lead after seven matches, the Notre Dame wrestling team lost to Purdue 17-15 Saturday at the Joyce ACC. The Irish were ranked 24th in the nation heading into the matchup with the Boilermakers.

Marcus Gowens and junior 150-pounder Todd Layton also got victories for Notre Dame in the early going. After Purdue's Dave Walter beat Irish 155-pounder Todd Tomazic, Gerardi won the 167-pound match to give Notre Dame a 1-6 lead.

That's when Purdue made its move. The Boilermakers swept the final three matches, two of them coming on major decisions. Mike McHenry, the third-ranked 177-pounder in the nation, whipped Notre Dame's Curt Engler 15-6. In the next weight division, Purdue's Eric Schulze topped Steve King 7-4 in a heated match that ended with the two wrestlers exchanging unpleasantities. That set the stage for Benford, who left his mark, and Weaver, on the JACC mat.

"(Benford) might be the best in the Big Ten from what I've seen," said McCann. "I'm disappointed because we had a really good week of practice, and the guys had worked their tails off. Then, they come here and wrestle like they're just trying to get by."

---

Christmas in April 1990

ATTENTION STUDENTS

Off Campus Sign - ups:
February 12 - 16 in North and South Dining Halls during lunch.
February 12 - March 5 at LaFortune information desk.
On Campus Sign - ups:
Now - March 5. Look for posters in respective dorms.

“Christmas in April 1990” will take place on April 7, in the Washington Street neighborhood.

This project needs your support!

QUESTIONS??? Please call:
Karen Croteau X1367
Isabel Navarrete X1314
Lora Mangan X1314
Bob Schelbel X2544
Tyson finds out he's not invincible

TOkyo (AP) — Four days before he fought Buster Douglas, a bored Mike Tyson told a news conference: "No way I can lose."

He was wrong. While Tyson still believes he's the heavyweight champion — even after he was knocked out by Douglas in the 10th round Sunday — the previously invincible heavyweight now has to deal with a loss, albeit a disputed one for now.

Tyson, who watches films of great fighters of the past, may now look to those former champions as he plans to regain the title.

"Greater fighters than I have lost," Tyson said Sunday night. dark glasses covering his bat­ tered face and a closed left eye.

The end of the fight was a scene to boggle the mind. As he hit the canvas in the 10th round, Tyson's mouthpiece popped out 18 inches into the air. He grabbed for it and put it in his mouth — backwards.

The hardest part is coming from losing to show how tough you are," Tyson said at a news conference where World Boxing Council and World Boxing Association officials said Iron Mike wasn't lost yet.

"Because referee Octavio Meyran fouled up the count when Douglas was knocked down in the eighth round, the result was suspended pending meetings of the two organizations' executive committee."

As of now, however, the International Boxing Federation considers Tyson a loser and Douglas a champion. The IBF sanctioned the early afternoon fight, but had no representative present because the Japanese Boxing Commission does not recognize Tyson left the Tokyo Dome without comment, but he returned about six hours later for a news conference.

"Perhaps his bruised psyche was somewhat soothed by his belief he had knocked out Douglas in the eighth round and that he has yet been declared a loser officially by the WBC and WBA."

"I've lost before," Tyson said. "There's nothing wrong with losing. I can handle it, but I want to lose fairly. I had him out before he had me out.

Tyson was in trouble along the ropes late in the eighth round when he nailed Douglas with a right uppercut. Douglas went down, but got up when Meyran's count reached nine.

Meyran, however, mistakenly started his count at one instead of picking up the timekeeper's count at four.

"I just fair play," Tyson said. "I thought legitimately he was out." A loss would be the 23-year-old Tyson's first since he was beaten by Henry Tillman in the 1984 Olympic Trials and box­

Meyran said Iron Mike wasn't lost yet. Because referee Octavio Meyran fouled up the count when Douglas was knocked down in the eighth round, the result was suspended pending meetings of the two organizations' executive committee. As of now, however, the International Boxing Federation considers Tyson a loser and Douglas a champion. The IBF sanctioned the early afternoon fight, but had no representative present because the Japanese Boxing Commission does not recognize Tyson left the Tokyo Dome without comment, but he returned about six hours later for a news conference.

"Perhaps his bruised psyche was somewhat soothed by his belief he had knocked out Douglas in the eighth round and that he has yet been declared a loser officially by the WBC and WBA."

"I've lost before," Tyson said. "There's nothing wrong with losing. I can handle it, but I want to lose fairly. I had him out before he had me out.

Tyson was in trouble along the ropes late in the eighth round when he nailed Douglas with a right uppercut. Douglas went down, but got up when Meyran's count reached nine.

Meyran, however, mistakenly started his count at one instead of picking up the timekeeper's count at four.

"I just fair play," Tyson said. "I thought legitimately he was out." A loss would be the 23-year-old Tyson's first since he was beaten by Henry Tillman in the 1984 Olympic Trials and box­

Meyran said Iron Mike wasn't lost yet. Because referee Octavio Meyran fouled up the count when Douglas was knocked down in the eighth round, the result was suspended pending meetings of the two organizations' executive committee. As of now, however, the International Boxing Federation considers Tyson a loser and Douglas a champion. The IBF sanctioned the early afternoon fight, but had no representative present because the Japanese Boxing Commission does not recognize Tyson left the Tokyo Dome without comment, but he returned about six hours later for a news conference.

"Perhaps his bruised psyche was somewhat soothed by his belief he had knocked out Douglas in the eighth round and that he has yet been declared a loser officially by the WBC and WBA."

"I've lost before," Tyson said. "There's nothing wrong with losing. I can handle it, but I want to lose fairly. I had him out before he had me out.

Tyson was in trouble along the ropes late in the eighth round when he nailed Douglas with a right uppercut. Douglas went down, but got up when Meyran's count reached nine.

Meyran, however, mistakenly started his count at one instead of picking up the timekeeper's count at four.

"I just fair play," Tyson said. "I thought legitimately he was out." A loss would be the 23-year-old Tyson's first since he was beaten by Henry Tillman in the 1984 Olympic Trials and box­

Meyran said Iron Mike wasn't lost yet. Because referee Octavio Meyran fouled up the count when Douglas was knocked down in the eighth round, the result was suspended pending meetings of the two organizations' executive committee. As of now, however, the International Boxing Federation considers Tyson a loser and Douglas a champion. The IBF sanctioned the early afternoon fight, but had no representative present because the Japanese Boxing Commission does not recognize Tyson left the Tokyo Dome without comment, but he returned about six hours later for a news conference.

"Perhaps his bruised psyche was somewhat soothed by his belief he had knocked out Douglas in the eighth round and that he has yet been declared a loser officially by the WBC and WBA."

"I've lost before," Tyson said. "There's nothing wrong with losing. I can handle it, but I want to lose fairly. I had him out before he had me out.

Tyson was in trouble along the ropes late in the eighth round when he nailed Douglas with a right uppercut. Douglas went down, but got up when Meyran's count reached nine.

Meyran, however, mistakenly started his count at one instead of picking up the timekeeper's count at four.

"I just fair play," Tyson said. "I thought legitimately he was out." A loss would be the 23-year-old Tyson's first since he was beaten by Henry Tillman in the 1984 Olympic Trials and box­

Meyran said Iron Mike wasn't lost yet. Because referee Octavio Meyran fouled up the count when Douglas was knocked down in the eighth round, the result was suspended pending meetings of the two organizations' executive committee. As of now, however, the International Boxing Federation considers Tyson a loser and Douglas a champion. The IBF sanctioned the early afternoon fight, but had no representative present because the Japanese Boxing Commission does not recognize Tyson left the Tokyo Dome without comment, but he returned about six hours later for a news conference.

"Perhaps his bruised psyche was somewhat soothed by his belief he had knocked out Douglas in the eighth round and that he has yet been declared a loser officially by the WBC and WBA."

"I've lost before," Tyson said. "There's nothing wrong with losing. I can handle it, but I want to lose fairly. I had him out before he had me out.

Tyson was in trouble along the ropes late in the eighth round when he nailed Douglas with a right uppercut. Douglas went down, but got up when Meyran's count reached nine.

Meyran, however, mistakenly started his count at one instead of picking up the timekeeper's count at four.

"I just fair play," Tyson said. "I thought legitimately he was out." A loss would be the 23-year-old Tyson's first since he was beaten by Henry Tillman in the 1984 Olympic Trials and box­

Meyran said Iron Mike wasn't lost yet. Because referee Octavio Meyran fouled up the count when Douglas was knocked down in the eighth round, the result was suspended pending meetings of the two organizations' executive committee. As of now, however, the International Boxing Federation considers Tyson a loser and Douglas a champion. The IBF sanctioned the early afternoon fight, but had no representative present because the Japanese Boxing Commission does not recognize Tyson left the Tokyo Dome without comment, but he returned about six hours later for a news conference.

"Perhaps his bruised psyche was somewhat soothed by his belief he had knocked out Douglas in the eighth round and that he has yet been declared a loser officially by the WBC and WBA."

"I've lost before," Tyson said. "There's nothing wrong with losing. I can handle it, but I want to lose fairly. I had him out before he had me out.

Tyson was in trouble along the ropes late in the eighth round when he nailed Douglas with a right uppercut. Douglas went down, but got up when Meyran's count reached nine.

Meyran, however, mistakenly started his count at one instead of picking up the timekeeper's count at four.

"I just fair play," Tyson said. "I thought legitimately he was out." A loss would be the 23-year-old Tyson's first since he was beaten by Henry Tillman in the 1984 Olympic Trials and box­
Houston pins Irish with one more loss on the road
Poor shooting once again fatal for road-weary ND

By GREG GUFFEY
Assistant Sports Editor

Houston - The arena change, but the luck remains the same as the Notre Dame men's basketball team. The Irish dropped another road contest Saturday afternoon, this time by a 93-82 count in Houston before 7,700 fans in Hofheinz Pavilion.

The Irish, at 11-9 in the last four road games, dropped Notre Dame to 12-8 and also created a loss for the Irish from the Joyce ACC. They are just 2-3 in those first and second rounds of the tournament. You have to go out and grab one of those teams.

The Cougars improved to 17-4, not all of them have been approving ones. "Surprise. Shock. A disappointment," head coach Press-upchurch said. "We're not all of them have been approving ones. "Surprise. Shock. A disappointment," head coach Press-upchurch said. "We're to beat people on the road."

Houston placed six players in double figures, led by guard Byron Smith with 24 points and five assists. Joining Smith in double figures were Craig Upchurch and Derrick Daniels, with 15 point each enhancing their chances of an at-large berth in the NCAA Tournament. Winning the title in the Southwestern Conference tournament would give

ND swimmers dominate MCC

By JANICE ARCHER

Domination was the key word in this weekend's Midwest Collegiate Conference swimming meet. Notre Dame men's and women's swim teams swept their squads took first place by large margins, setting new conference records and breaking another.

"The meet was swimming at its most pure," said Irish coach Tim Welsh. Tim Welsh was named Coach of the Meet in the women's division. It was contested at a higher level than ever before, and was exciting for the swimmers from the point of view of the meet place."

Evidence of the level of performance can be found in the list of MCC records set this weekend. In the men's meet spanning three days, 25 record breaking events were set.

"Each of the three nights were remarkable," Welsh said. "We had enormous enthusiasm, and our performance continued to get better over the weekend."

The men won their division with a score of 966, they set five new conference records.

Second-place finisher Evansville followed with 524.5 points. Dave Thomas recorded an NCAA best time in the 200-yard freestyle (1:46.91), and took first place in the 50 freestyle with a time of 1:21.66. Thomas also was on the winning 400 freestyle relay team, combining with Tom Penn, Jim Birmingham and Mike Messaglia to set a record time of 3:15.15.

Diver Ed Veomoe captured both the 1-meter and 3-meter diving events, scoring 313-2 and 313-2, respectively.

Dame hockey went 2-0-0 in its conference opener, with 11 each. Sophomore Jenny Kipp dominated the diving events by taking the 1 and 3-meter events, with record scores in both competitions of 360 points.

Sophomore Mike Tyson gets KO'd by Buster Douglas... but will it stand up?

Magic

East beats West, Johnson named MVP in losing cause.

Sweep

Notre Dame hockey sweeps Lake Forest