Guam law makes abortion a felony

AGANA, Guam (AP) — A bill creating the most restrictive U.S. abortion statute was signed into law Monday by the territorial governor. The measure was hailed by anti-abortion forces, but civil libertarians said it could be challenged in court.

"In my heart, I believe that a fetus is a human being," Republican Gov. Joseph Ada said in signing the bill, which prohibits abortion except when the mother's health or life is endangered.

The law, which passed despite a ruling by Guam's attorney general that it is unconstitutional, makes it a third-degree felony for a person to perform or help in an abortion. Seeking or having an abortion or soliciting someone to have an abortion are misdemeanors.

The law also sets a referendum during the Nov. 6 general election for residents of this Pacific Ocean island about 1,500 miles east of the Philippines to decide whether to keep the law.

In another development in the abortion war, an agreement to end the war, an agreement to end a law by advising women in a public forum of the Planned Parenthood of the anti-abortion Guamani­ans United for Life, said the law is "the ice pick that's going to chip away at the big block of that is Roe vs. Wade."

Benshoof said she immedi­ately violated a provision of the law by advising women in a speech at the Guam Press Club later Monday where to go to obtain a legal abortion.

"I was very specific in my breaking of the law," Benshoof said. The Associated Press is a phone interview. "I said women should go to Honolulu to have an abortion and gave the ad­dress of the Planned Parenthood in Honolulu."

As a reaction to what he would do about a bill being passed through the Senate on Wednesday.

see ABORTION / page 4

Tyson lifts Mexico trips ban

BY SANDRA WIEGAND

The ban on student trips to Mexico has been lifted by Fa­ther David Tyson, Vice Presi­dent for Student Affairs.

Tyson sent a letter to Stu­dent Body President Matt Bres­lin, in response to a recent resolution by the Associated Student Union's resolution, which asked that the Mexico trips be lifted, that he would advise the sponsoring student groups.

Tyson said that trips to Mex­ico will be assessed on an indi­vidual basis and students will have input in the decisions.

Trial begins today for Imelda Marcos, accused of stealing more than $100 mil.

NEW YORK (AP) — While Imelda Marcos has drawn the most attention in the weeks leading up to the start of her trial Tuesday, her co-defendant, Adnan Khashoggi, is hardly a minor player.

Once reputed to be the world's richest man, the 54-year-old Saudi financier is said to have been the main financier and middleman of the Iran-Contra affair, in which pro­ceeds of illegal U.S. arms sales to Iran went to rebels fighting the Nicaraguan government.

Khashoggi's lawyers say his holdings have diminished in re­cent years, but don't dispute that he's still a millionaire sev­eral times over.

Extradited from Switzerland on July 19, Khashoggi posted $10 million bail so he could live in his luxury apartment on Fifth Avenue. He promised to stay in the country to face charges that he helped Mrs. Marcos and her late husband, deposed President Ferdinand Marcos, defraud the Philippine treasury.

Khashoggi, who allegedly posed as the owner of some of the assets as a cover, was in­dicted on charges of racketeer­ing, conspiracy, mail fraud and obstruction of justice.

Imelda Marcos, Aspen, Colo., and Florida. He wears an electronic bracelet to alert authorities if he ventures beyond a prescribed distance.

The trial of Khashoggi and Mrs. Marcos begins Tuesday with jury selection. Both have pleaded innocent.

The Marcoses were accused of stealing more than $100 million from the Philippine treasury to buy real estate and art in New York. Ferdinand Marcos died Sept. 28 in exile in Hawaii.

Khashoggi, who allegedly posed as the owner of some of the assets as a cover, was in­dicted on charges of racketeer­ing, conspiracy, mail fraud and obstruction of justice. However, the Swiss government agreed to extradite him only on the last two charges.

He faces up to five years in jail and a $250,000 fine on each of the two charges of mail fraud and obstruction of jus­tice.

Mrs. Marcos' attorney, Gerald Spence, said Monday he might subpoena former president Ronald Reagan to testify for Mrs. Marcos.

"Certainly the former presi­dent is a potential witness in the case depending on what the prosecution's proof is," he said. "The former president and Nancy Reagan were friends of the Marcoses."

Reagan fought a subpoena to testify for the prosecution at the trial of former national se­curity adviser John Poindexter, who faces charges stemming from the Iran-Contra affair.

But the judge ordered Reagan to give a sworn videotaped statement.

Reagan and his press secre­tary were traveling Tuesday ap­proved before contacting a travel agent, he said, to avoid a situation which forces Student Activities to take a "reactive posture."

"Since the institution requires and collects fees paid by stu­dents, which are primarily ad­ministered by SUB and Student Government, sponsorship by SUB is not available," he said.

see MEXICO / page 4

Heavy artillery

Indian soldiers board a ship at the port in eastern Trinco­malee town, which will take them home. The troops, scheduled to be completely withdrawn by March 24, are returning after 2 1/2 years of unsuccessful military operations against Tamil militants.
Editor's job the stuff dreams are made of

Last night former Observer editors came to me in a dream.

"Alison," they said, looking very sorrily at me, "the AP wire is down and the building is missing and security refuses to confirm whether an investigation of the incident is being launched, the typewriter won't typeset and all the locks have been changed on the office doors."

So what's the problem?

"Now you have to handle everything. And put out a 16-page forum for student thoughts with objective news coverage, thought-provoking Viewpoint pieces, entertaining features and the sports coverage everyone loves by tomorrow morning."

Great. Is that all?

"No. You also have to oversee the sale of ads to offset costs, make sure the Classified program is functioning, kick the computers when there are system errors and just generally act as the IRA officers."

The "Abortion Rights for Wives of Oppressed"

"...and motivated and continue to maintain features and the sports coverage everyone loves by tomorrow morning."
NASAs pilot will lecture Wed.

Special to The Observer
Commander James Wetherbee, Notre Dame's first graduate in aerospace engineering in 1974, will present a Distinguished Alumni Lecture Wednesday, March 21 at 3:30 p.m. in Washington Hall. Wetherbee will show slides and a 20-minute NASA film and also answer questions from the audience.

Wetherbee received his bachelor's degree in aerospace engineering in 1974. He served as pilot on the crew of STS-32, which was launched at Kennedy Space Center in Cape Canaveral, Fla., on Jan. 9, 1990.

In the longest Shuttle mission to date, crew members aboard the Orbiter Columbia successfully deployed the Syncom IV-F3 satellite and retrieved the 21,400-pound Long Duration Exposure Facility (LDEF) using NASA's remote manipulator system. The LDEF, a large 12-sided trunk that had been suspended in space for more than five years, contained 56 experiments sponsored by scientists of many nationalities.

A number of medical tests were conducted as well - including inflight lower body negative pressure, inflight aerobic exercise and muscle performance - to evaluate human adaptation to extended duration missions.

After 173 orbits of the earth in 261 hours, Columbia returned Jan. 20 with a night landing at Edwards Air Force Base, Calif.

Commissioned in the U.S. Navy in 1975, Commander Wetherbee was designated a naval aviator in 1976. In 1981 he trained in the U.S. Naval Test Pilot School in Patuxent River, Md.

He was selected in 1984 by NASA as an astronaut candidate, qualifying him for assignment as a pilot on future space shuttle missions.

The lecture is free and open to the public. However, no tickets will be issued and seating is first come-first served basis.

Observer News Dept. announces staff promotions, new members

Special to The Observer
News Editor Kelley Turhill is pleased to announce the following promotions within the news department of The Observer:

• Sophomore Janice O'Leary will serve as Associate News Editor. She is an English major from Hauppauge, N.Y. She previously served as a Copy Editor, an Assistant News Editor, and an Assistant Viewpoint Editor.

• Sandy Siegward, a freshman, will be an Assistant News Editor. She is a Freshman Year of Studies major from Michigan City, Ind. She previously served as a Copy Editor.

• Sophomore Pete Lofessa will serve as an Assistant News Editor. He is an English major from Maple Glenn, Penn. He previously served as a Copy Editor.

• Freshman Monica Yant will serve as an Assistant News Editor. A student in the Freshman Year of Studies, she hails from Ft. Wayne, Ind. She previously served as a Copy Editor and Business Editor.

• Freshman Paul Pearson will serve as an Assistant News Editor. He is a student in the Freshman Year of Studies, be in from Tampa, Fla. He previously served as a Copy Editor.

• Joe Moody, a student in the Freshman Year of Studies, will also serve as an Assistant News Editor. He is from South Bend, Ind. He previously served as a Copy Editor.

• Cathy Meere will assume the position of Day Chief.

She is a sophomore at Saint Mary's from Valverne, N.Y. She previously served as a Day Editor.

• Erin O'Neil, will serve as a Copy Editor. She is a junior English major from University Heights, Ohio. She previously served as a Copy Editor and Business Editor.

• Yeob Yob will also serve as a Copy Editor. He is a second year law student from Aurora, Colo.

• Kevalen Ryan will assume the position of Copy Editor. She is a sophomore in Arts and Letters from Springfield, Vt.

• Catherine Kane will serve as a Copy Editor. She is a sophomore in Arts and Letters from Watertown, N.Y. She will assume the position of Copy Editor.

• Pete Riebe will serve as an Assistant News Editor. She is a junior from South Bend, Ind.

Riebe serves as director of energy conservation, chaplain to the department of athletics and executive director of Notre Dame's Monogram Club.

Three Notre Dame graduates were selected by the Board of Directors to receive the Alumni of the Year Award this year. Among the recipients is Professor of Psychology at the University of California at Los Angeles, who has been 17 years administering the largest child psychiatry training program in the nation. He was selected in 1984 by the University of California for the William D. Reynolds Award. Established in 1984, the Reynolds award is annually given to a Notre Dame graduate who has given distinguished service to young people.

Catherine Kane will serve as a Copy Editor. She is a junior in Arts and Letters from Springfield, Vt.

• Freshman Monica Yant will serve as an Assistant News Editor. A student in the Freshman Year of Studies, she hails from Ft. Wayne, Ind. She previously served as a Copy Editor and Business Editor.

• Freshman Paul Pearson will serve as an Assistant News Editor. He is a student in the Freshman Year of Studies, be in from Tampa, Fla. He previously served as a Copy Editor.

• Joe Moody, a student in the Freshman Year of Studies, will also serve as an Assistant News Editor. He is from South Bend, Ind. He previously served as a Copy Editor.

• Cathy Meere will assume the position of Day Chief.

She is a sophomore at Saint Mary's from Valverne, N.Y. She previously served as a Day Editor.

• Erin O'Neil, will serve as a Copy Editor. She is a junior English major from University Heights, Ohio. She previously served as a Copy Editor and Business Editor.

• Yeob Yob will also serve as a Copy Editor. He is a second year law student from Aurora, Colo.

• Kevalen Ryan will assume the position of Copy Editor. She is a sophomore in Arts and Letters from Springfield, Vt.

• Catherine Kane will serve as a Copy Editor. She is a sophomore in Arts and Letters from Watertown, N.Y. She will assume the position of Copy Editor.

- 312-951-0585

In the longest mission to date, qualifying him for assignment as a pilot on future space shuttle missions.

NASA pilots will lecture Wed.

Special to The Observer
Commander James Wetherbee, Notre Dame's first graduate in aerospace engineering in 1974, will present a Distinguished Alumni Lecture Wednesday, March 21 at 3:30 p.m. in Washington Hall. Wetherbee will show slides and a 20-minute NASA film and also answer questions from the audience.

Wetherbee received his bachelor's degree in aerospace engineering in 1974. He served as pilot on the crew of STS-32, which was launched at Kennedy Space Center in Cape Canaveral, Fla., on Jan. 9, 1990.

In the longest Shuttle mission to date, crew members aboard the Orbiter Columbia successfully deployed the Syncom IV-F3 satellite and retrieved the 21,400-pound Long Duration Exposure Facility (LDEF) using NASA's remote manipulator system. The LDEF, a large 12-sided trunk that had been suspended in space for more than five years, contained 56 experiments sponsored by scientists of many nationalities.

A number of medical tests were conducted as well - including inflight lower body negative pressure, inflight aerobic exercise and muscle performance - to evaluate human adaptation to extended duration missions.

After 173 orbits of the earth in 261 hours, Columbia returned Jan. 20 with a night landing at Edwards Air Force Base, Calif.

Commissioned in the U.S. Navy in 1975, Commander Wetherbee was designated a naval aviator in 1976. In 1981 he trained in the U.S. Naval Test Pilot School in Patuxent River, Md.

He was selected in 1984 by NASA as an astronaut candidate, qualifying him for assignment as a pilot on future space shuttle missions.

The lecture is free and open to the public. However, no tickets will be issued and seating is first come-first served basis.
Mom protects girl from media

CHRISTCHURCH New Zealand (AP) — The American mother of seven-year-old Hillary Foretich shielded her from the news media on Monday and swore she would do exactly that as she presses her fight for the girl in an internation­al custody case.

Plastic surgeon Elizabeth Morgan of Washington, D.C., was reunited over the weekend with her daughter and is now back in New Zealand after the mother arrived in New Zealand to discuss the case with her lawyers.

She has accused the father, David Foretich, of sexually molesting the child and in 1987 began serving 25 months in jail for refusing to reveal Hillary's whereabouts.

Foretich denies the charges. He saw his daughter last week for the first time in more than two years and has since returned to his Falls Church, Va., home.

Hillary was spirited to New Zealand 18 months ago to live with her maternal grandpar­ents, William and Antonia Morgan.

Morgan flew from Auckland after being alerted that photo­graphers were waiting outside.

She took a back route to the school Monday afternoon to whisk Hillary home.

Reporters have been ordered not to enter the grounds of the Diplomat Hotel, Hillary's home since mid-1988.

Also Monday, Morgan met her husband, U.S. Court of Ap­peals Judge Paul Michel, at Christchurch Airport. Michel told The Associated Press he arrived in Auckland on Sunday and spent the day talking to his wife's lawyer, Lyn Stevens, and her senior U.S. lawyer Stephen Sachs.

Michel said he will stay in Christchurch for one week before­ returning to Washington.

He said he saw a "good deal of Hillary for nearly a year be­fore she went in hiding."

But by late Monday he still had not seen the child at the center of the bitter custody bat­tle.

"It was outrageous that the bill was signed," she said.

Benschop went to Guan to try to persuade Afa not to sign the bill, but was unable to arrange a meeting with the governor.

ABORTION

continued from page 1

Sorin C.S.C. Award: A South Dakota physician who has worked among the poor in West Africa and Nepal, Heisler directed a hospital in Kenya during the 1984-85 famine. He also worked in Soviet­ian Armenia after the December, 1988 earthquake. A member of the International Physicians for the Prevention of Nuclear War, he is involved in various Third World health projects with So­viet doctors.

The Sorin award was established in 1963 and is annually awarded to a graduate formerly employed by the University who has given long and distin­guished service. Heisler will re­ceive the award June 9 at the All Classes Reunion Banquet.

The Observer is always looking for new faces. Write for News, Accent, Sports or Viewpoint.

The Observer is looking for:

Ad Designers

Must be creative and responsible. If interested, please contact Amy Eckert at 239-3303 or 283-3325.

Senior Formal 1989

Bid Sales

FINAL DAY OF SALES

WEDNESDAY, MARCH 21

6-9 PM

1ST FLOOR LAFORTUNE

* Bid price: $75 per couple

* Room arrangements

* Dinner seating - 5 couples per table

Wonderful Tonight...
U.S. Atty. Gen. will testify in drug smuggling airplane case

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) -- A jury acquitted Hobert Aguilar of an obstruction-of-justice charge Monday but deadlocked on prosecution charges involving the transport of drugs by agents of the United States or with the acquiescence of the United States. "It is the government's present intention to retry all of the counts on which the jury was unable to reach a verdict," Justice Department prosecutor Veronica Hallinan told jurors. Aguilar did not change expression when the jury's verdict was read, but puffed his cheeks as if to release tension. He declined to comment afterward.

Montague said the question of whether a criminal investigation was warranted was up to the attorney general, not the judge. Toliver testified that he wasn't working for the government when he crashed the plane. He said he had disconnected a U.S. Customs Service homing device aboard the plane and then turned it off in another direction with a load of marijuana. He ditched the craft off Grand Cayman Island when he ran out of fuel trying to avoid storms.

Toliver, who is serving a marijuana smuggling sentence in North Carolina, was granted immunity in exchange for his testimony.

The lawsuit was filed by Midland National Bank of Newton, which said it had a $198,000 lien on the plane.

Jury acquits Aguilar on one count, declares mistrial on seven others

"HAPPY BELATED
22ND"

LOVE,
MOM, DAD, Bick, MARIE,
JON, COLLEEN, LOI, LYNN,
KIM, and CASSANDRA

Senate discusses pow-wow

By SANDRA WIEGAND
Assistant News Editor

At the Student Senate meeting Monday, representatives of the Native American Student Association of Notre Dame encouraged student involvement in the club's Pow-wow scheduled for April 1. Stacey Turner said that last year the event received much support from the local community, but little from students at the Notre Dame campus. She described the Pow-wow as "a chance to get to know more about the Native American culture."

The event, which begins at 12 p.m., will include Native American dancing and a chance to buy Native American crafts such as jewelry. In addition to members of the club, Turner said, Native Americans from across the country will participate in the Pow-wow.

In other senate news, a mandatory meeting for students wishing to run for student senator or off-campus co-president will take place at 8:30 p.m. today in the Foster Room of LaFortune Student Center.

20% Discount
TO STUDENTS AND FACULTY

Eye Exams • Large Selection of Frames • All Types of Contacts

Dr. Ronald Snyder
Professional Vision

1635 N. Ironwood
North of McDonald's

277 - 1161

20% Discount
TO STUDENTS AND FACULTY

Eye Exams • Large Selection of Frames • All Types of Contacts

Dr. Ronald Snyder
Professional Vision

1635 N. Ironwood
North of McDonald's

277 - 1161

CHEER CHEER FOR OLD NOTRE DAME

Cheerleading Tryouts
March 23rd and 24th
7:00pm in the Basketball Arena

SHOW YOUR SPIRIT!
Judge denies Contra mistrial

WASHINGTON (AP) — A federal judge on Monday denied a mistrial motion by Admiral Poindexter that was triggered by a reference in open court to testimony Poindexter had given Congress under a grant of immunity.

The information in the reference was "not new at all," said the judge in Poindexter's mistrial trial.

With Rep. Lee Hamilton on the witness stand, prosecutor Dan Webb asked about a document that had been sent to Hamilton in 1985 to try to win the release of Americans held in Lebanon.

"Do you remember ever reported destroying the document?" Webb asked.

"I did," Hamilton said in front of the jury.

In other testimony, Hamilton said the late CIA Director William Casey denied the very existence of the document in congressional testimony — a denial that was not new and a denial that had not been known before.

The congressman, co-chairman of a special congressional committee that investigated the Iran-Contra affair, was referring to Poindexter's July 1987 testimony before the committee, during which he said he tore up the document.

No part of the case against Reagan's national security adviser may be declared a mistrial to Congress, given under a grant of immunity from prosecution.

As soon as Hamilton answered the question on Monday, another prosecutor, Howard Pearl, stood up and Webb quickly said "I see the problem."

Webb rephrased the question, but Poindexter lawyer Richard Heckler later asked for a mistrial, saying that Hamilton had specifically been instructed not to refer to Poindexter's immunity testimony.

U.S. District Judge Harold Greene denied the motion, saying that Oliver North testified last week that he watched Poindexter tear up the finding.

Greene said Hamilton's testimony was "cumulative rather than harmful."

Heckler suggested the jury might not find North's testimony credible. But Greene also noted that "both the government and the defense referred to tearing up of the finding" in their opening statements to the jury.

"And you have great credibility," Greene said to Heckler.

The information about tearing up the finding "is not new at all," Greene continued.

In November 1986, Hamilton had been chairman of the House Intelligence Committee that met with Poindexter to discuss U.S. arms sales to Iran.

The congressman said the national security adviser made no demands of a U.S. role in the November 1985 shipment of Hawk missiles to Iran. The CIA-assisted delivery was authorized by the Reagan "finding" that Poindexter destroyed hours after testifying before the committee.

Casey, who prepared the finding for Reagan, appeared with Poindexter before the committee.

"Do you remember Casey in that testimony actually telling you there was no finding for that 1985 shipment of Hawk missiles to Iran?" Webb asked Hamilton.

"I do," replied Hamilton. Webb asked Hamilton, "Do you recall whether Admiral Poindexter said he could reveal all the facts?"

"Admiral Poindexter said he could not reveal all the facts," replied Hamilton.

The finding that Poindexter destroyed depicted the U.S. role in Iran arms sales as a straight arms-for-hostages deal, the kind of arrangement the Reagan administration declared it would never allow.

Poindexter told the Intelligence Committee members that the U.S. government didn't learn until January 1986 of the missile shipment, according to notes taken after testifying by a congressional staff.

Hamilton said Poindexter read back a January 1986 presidential finding that did not portray the Iran initiative as a straight trade of arms for hostages.

Violence delays Greyhound talks

DALLAS (AP) — Greyhound said Sunday it will no longer stall talks with striking drivers and replacement drivers stop, but a union leader pledged to meet "any time" to negotiate a settlement.

The first meeting between the two sides broke down Sunday when Dallas-based Greyhound refused to discuss a package that included pay increases of 4 percent to 5 percent, job security and an end to what is known as "driver sampling" — the practice of making new drivers prove their ability to do the job.

"A lot of the problem was the combination of violence and vi­o­len­ce," said company spokeswoman Lynn Grayley. "The only reason we fell behind is we feel that they will be im­mi­da­te­ly (into accepting) a con­tract."

"Maybe if the violence and terrorism and intimidation and all that stopped ... (reopening talks) would have resumed," she said. "Our main concern at this point is the safety of our passengers and employees."

There have been at least 14 shooting attacks on Greyhound buses, 46 bomb threats and numerous other incidents of vandalism or threats during the 18-day-old walkout, company officials said.

Greyhound operates the only nationwide intercity bus service, and the strike has stranded many smaller communities for which buses are the only public transportation.

Unions representing 6,300 drivers and an estimated 2,500 other Greyhound workers walked out March 2 over wages, job security and grievance procedures.

In Tucson, Ariz., the Amalgamated Transit Union's vice president, Jim Hayes, said the union would return to talks "any time, any place," but the striking Greyhound drivers were unwilling to compromise.

"The company hasn't changed a thing," he said. "The company makes one cent per mile for every passenger and that comes out to about $78 million. We're asking for $40 million over 3 years."

The bus company last week began a nationwide radio advertising campaign to counter allegations by striking drivers that newly hired drivers were not properly trained.

"We've hired many new per­son­al­m­en­durs who are profes­sion­ally qualified, thor­ough­ly trained and committed to giving you the quality service you've come to expect from Grey­­hound," the radio spots say.

Grayley, the company spokeswoman, said the new drivers must have two years experience driving a bus or truck, and are certified by the Department of Transportation.

"With so many of the violent episodes that have gone on, people are nervous," she said. "And we don't want them to feel that's going to happen ev­ery time a bus goes out on the road. We want them to know we're doing everything in our power to make those buses safe," she said.

Union leaders say they con­demn the violence and Grey­­hound is the one bailing in ne­go­ti­ations.

"We have continually called for our members to refrain from illegal activity," said Jeff Nelson, spokesman for the Amalgamated Council of Grey­­hound Local Unions in Wash­ington. "But, we are not po­lit­ics."

"This is simply an attempt by the company's so-called nego­ti­ator to stonewall the real is­sue, which is negotiating a con­tract," Nelson said.

During talks in Tucson, Ariz., on Saturday, the union pro­posed a $40 million three-year package that included pay in­­creases of 4 percent to 5 per­­cent and the addition of new drivers to the pension plan.

But the cost would be "three times more than Greyhound could afford," Grayley said.

A union spokesman said the company has offered a plan that included no guaranteed pay raises, but would have made drivers contingent on in­­creased profits and ridership.
Hazlewood loses battle over a word

ANCHORAGE, Alaska (AP) — Joseph Hazlewood's defense lost a legal battle Monday over a single word that could affect how jurors decide whether the Exxon Valdez skipper was drunk when his ship went aground.

The word was "noticeably," and was contained in a legal instruction that told jurors to decide whether Hazlewood was imprudently impaired on the night of the nation's largest oil spill.

Superior Court Judge Karl Johnston removed the word and said he would tell jurors they must only decide whether Hazlewood was impaired.

"There are a lot of people who can mask their impairment," he told lawyers in explaining his decision.

Defense lawyer Dick Madison appeared stunned by the ruling, saying, "This is the first time I've ever heard of this."

Madison said in his years of defending drunken driving cases in Fairbanks, the term "noticeably impaired" always has been included in jury instructions.

"My gosh, it's been around for a long time," he told the judge.

But Assistant District Attorney Sam Adams argued, "All we have to prove is that he was impaired, not stumble-down drunk."

Hazlewood is charged with one felony, criminal mischief, and three misdemeanors, reckless endangerment, operating a vessel while intoxicated and negligent discharge of oil.

His tanker ran aground on Bligh Reef last March 24, spilling nearly 11 million gallons of Alaska North Slope crude oil, wreaking devastation over hundreds of miles of shoreline rich with fish, birds and other wildlife.

The question of whether Hazlewood showed signs of intoxication has been a key element in his trial, with numerous witnesses testifying that the skipper did not stagger, slur his words or show any other evidence that he was drunk.

Three witnesses said they smelled alcohol on his breath.

The judge's ruling came during a discussion of legal instructions which will be given to jurors after attorneys deliver their final arguments Tuesday.

In other rulings, the judge said he would "take judicial notice" of the fact the U.S. Coast Guard had a regulation barring tanker crews from drinking alcohol less than four hours before sailing. But he refused to give an instruction on the point, because the regulation is not state law.

He also refused a proposed prosecution instruction that would have told jurors the Coast Guard's blood alcohol limit for operating a commercial vessel is .04, well below the state level of .10 for drunken driving. Hazlewood's blood alcohol level was below the state limit, but violated the Coast Guard's.

Security Beat

THURSDAY, MARCH 8
11:51 a.m. A Zehn Hall resident reported the theft of a plane ticket from the top of his dresser.

12:08 p.m. Notre Dame Security discovered a truck belonging to a known street dealer had been vehicle-impounded white pushed in the D-2 lot.

1:32 p.m. A professor reported the theft of two books from his office in Speros Hall. The loss is estimated at $90.

5:13 p.m. An off campus student reported the theft of his ID holder and contents from a pocket in his pants which had been placed in an unsecured locker in the men's locker room in the Rockne Memorial.

6:30 p.m. A student in the biology department reported the theft of two new textbooks and a key chain at the Galvin Life Science Center.

SATURDAY, MARCH 10
12:30 a.m. Notre Dame Police cited a South Bend man for Exceeding the Posted Speed Limit. The defendant had been traveling 71 mph in a 40 mph zone in the U.S. 33 Hart.

9:15 a.m. A South Bend woman was cited by Notre Dame Police for speeding on Juniper Road. The defendant had been traveling 56 mph in a 25 mph zone.

SUNDAY, MARCH 11
5:09 a.m. An off campus student reported his car had been vandalized while parked in the B-2 lot. Unknown persons had broken the passenger side window. The vandalism took place between 2:30 and 5:15 p.m.

MONDAY, MARCH 12
8:17 a.m. Notre Dame Police called to the scene of a two vehicle accident in the B-1 lot. No injuries were reported and damages were minimal.

11:16 a.m. Notre Dame and St. Joseph County Police arrested a South Bend man for DWI. The defendant re­ceived additional citations for Driving on Expired Driver's License and Disorderly Conduct.

TUESDAY, MARCH 13
12 p.m. Notre Dame Police were called to the Rockne Memorial and discovered an unoccupied person in the building.

1:00 p.m. Notre Dame Police recovered a chat that had been run over by Notre Dame Police and issued a citation for Failure to Produce Registration. He was then transported to his place of employment.

9 p.m. Notre Dame Security received a call from a resident of a University owned home on Douglas Road stating that he could not get out of his vehicle because of a virtual cat in his driveway.

The cat was removed from the area to allow the resident out of his car.

THURSDAY, MARCH 15
1:48 p.m. Notre Dame Police arrested a South Bend woman for DWI. The defendant received additional citations for False and Fictitious Registration and Ex­ceeding the Posted Speed Limit (56 mph in a 40 mph zone).

FRIDAY, MARCH 16
12:38 a.m. Notre Dame Police cited a South Bend man for Driving While Sus­pended.

2:35 a.m. A resident of South Bend was cited by Notre Dame Police for speeding on Juniper Road. The defen­dant had been traveling 56 mph in a posted 25 mph zone.

11:33 p.m. Notre Dame Police ar­rested a South Bend man for DWI. The man had been traveling 45 mph in a 20 mph zone on Juniper Road.

SATURDAY, MARCH 17
2 a.m. Notre Dame Police arrested a South Bend man for Driving While Intox­icated and Exceeding White Suspension.

The defendant made an improper turn at the corner of Juniper and Edison Roads. 10:30 a.m. A visitor to the University reported the theft of two tickets from a display in the AACC. The victim's loss is estimated to be $90.

3 p.m. A visitor to the University re­ported his car had been broken into in a fit and run while parked along Juniper Road.

8 p.m. A visitor to the University re­ported someone had broken into their ID holder and contents from his pocket while he was jogging.

SUNDAY, MARCH 18
12:36 a.m. Notre Dame Police ar­rested a Grafton man for Driving Intox­icated. The defendant had been traveling 62 mph in a 30 mph zone on Wel­ly Road.

2 a.m. A visitor to the University re­ported his car had been broken into and numerous items had been stolen from the vehicle. The victim's loss is es­timated at $200.

5:11 p.m. A Grove Hall resident re­ported eight hens were stolen from his unlocked run while he slept. His loss is estimated at $50.

5:11 p.m. A resident of Graa Hall re­ported his portable CD player had been stolen from his unlocked room off line between 1:00 and 5:00 a.m. on March 18.
WORLD AWARENESS SERIES PRESENTS
The Struggle For JUSTICE

TUESDAY
March 20, 1990
7:30pm • 117 Haggar Hall
“Economic Restructuring of Panama”
Prof. David Ruccio
Prof. Michael Francis
Irene Perurena
Francisco Linares

WEDNESDAY
March 21, 1990
7:00pm and 9:00pm
Engineering Auditorium
“Romero”
a film.
10:00pm
Prayer Service Honoring Romero at Siegfried Residence Hall

THURSDAY
March 22, 1990
7:00pm • Montgomery Theatre Lecture and Discussion on Liberation Theology
Fr. Ernest Bartell, C.S.C. Director of Kellogg Institute
8:00pm • CSC
“Life and Death of Archbishop Romero: Significance for the U.S. Church”
Rev. Joseph Nangle, O.F.M.

FRIDAY
March 23, 1990
6:30pm • South Dining Hall (Faculty Dining Room)
Central American Dinner
Reservations Required
call 239-7668

SATURDAY
March 24, 1990
“Romero: A Prophet for our Time”
Commemorative March departs St. Joseph High School at 3:00pm to St. Stephen’s parish.
Vigil and Mass at 5:00pm follows march.

IN Central America
Week Cosponsored by STUDENT and OVERSEAS DEVELOPMENT NETWORK
Two die in boat explosion

LA BAIE, Quebec (AP) — An explosion on a container ship loading aluminum at a wharf in this Quebec town Monday killed two people and injured at least seven, police and company sources said.

Sgt. Maurice Girard of La Baie police said the afternoon blast rocked the town along the Saguenay River about 120 miles north of Quebec City. Some residents thought they had heard an earthquake.

Alcan Aluminium runs the wharf, which is used to service its local smelter. Alcan employee Fernard Leclerc said the two killed were members of the crew of the Pollux, a Norwegian ship.

He said they were loading containers into the ship's hold, where the explosion occurred. Leclerc said seven Alcan employees were injured.

He said he could only speculate about the cause of the explosion. He said the material in the containers — spent linings from the smelting process of aluminum — "can, under certain conditions and if not properly handled, produce toxic gases, including methane."

Girard said the ship wasn't seriously damaged.

MOSCOW (AP) — The Kremlin on Monday sternly warned the breakaway republic of Lithuania not to put up its own customs posts, introduce its own currency or take over Moscow-run factories without permission.

The nationally televised announcement was Mikhail Gorbachev's first concrete step to counter Lithuania's March 11 declaration of independence.

The announcement did not say what would happen if Lithuania ignored the orders.

Despite the harsh words, Lithuanian President Vytautas Landsbergis said in a statement issued by the republic's parliament late Monday, "I think this is an introductory stage of negotiations."

He added that his government agreed with elements of Moscow's statement, including the value of maintaining economic ties between Lithuania and the Soviet Union.

Earlier Monday, a Lithuanian delegation delivered a letter to the Kremlin that promised Soviet interests in the republic would be given "careful consideration."

A spokesman for the Lithuanian nationalist movement Sajudis, Lionginas Vasiliauskas, said in Moscow that 10 trucks loaded with Soviet troops were moved Monday from Kaunas, about 60 miles from Vilnius, to a military post just outside the capital.

There have been unconfirmed reports the past several days that Radio Vilnius had been either jammed or replaced with Russian programs. A loud hum could be heard during a broadcast monitored in Washington Monday night.

"We have reliable information that in the past few days, Radio Vilnius broadcasts to foreign countries have been blocked by Radio Moscow," the broadcast said.

It said Radio Moscow had been informed and that officials there seemed surprised. "This suggests that perhaps the blockade of Radio Vilnius broadcasts abroad was not conducted by Moscow, but rather by the Ministry of Communications of the U.S.S.R."

But so far, no answer from that ministry has been received," the broadcast said.

The Kremlin's television statement accused the Lithuanian leadership of planning to turn over national factories to private owners, bring in a separate currency and put up customs posts on the borders of the republic.

It said the government was concerned especially about nuclear energy plants in Lithuania and had ordered increased security around them.

It accused the Baltic republic of "undermining the war's links" with the rest of the Soviet Union, which it said could have "pernicious consequences" for the national economy.

The government said police, the KGB and customs agents would have authority in maintaining the existing customs situation.

A directive was issued to the government statement contained no such threats.

Mikhail Gorbachev issued the statement late Monday, showing its capital, Vilnius.

Residents said Monday the maneuvers appeared over.

A Soviet spokesman in Moscow said the military maneuvers were not extensive and had been planned long in advance.

But Landsbergis told Lithuania's legislative branch the exercises added to tensions with Moscow.

He said he asked high-ranking Soviet officials Sunday if he would be allowed to advance to future maneuvers. One of the officers replied that he could not make guarantees.

The Bush administration said Monday it would keep an eye on Soviet military activity in the Baltics. The White House and State Department spokesmen urged a peaceful approach to secession and reminded Gorbachev that said force would not be used.

SOMETHING TO THINK ABOUT OVER BREAK...
Census of the homeless masks the casualties of Reaganomics

Dear Editor:

The war on poverty is almost over. Now it is time to do a body count of the casualties. The war on poverty, the trickle-down theory, union busting, elimination of insurance and other benefits. The full-time employee is rapidly becoming an endangered species. Yes, the war is almost over, and government, by joining forces with business, has widened the gap between the rich and the poor, amounting to a privileged victory.

Today, there will be a "token" body count (census) of the homeless. Unlike Vietnam, the count must be understood, the brutality of "Reaganomics" can be masked into a "kinder, gentler nation." By careful orchestration, the count can be made to appear that only the dregs of society, the fringes of lower, but human life forms, were affected.

Fortunately for the nation's budget, most of the vanished human mass have chosen to cloak their invisibility, not wanting to be identified with the stigma of being homeless. This is accomplished by avoiding shelters. In Chicago, for instance, if a body count by 1,000 homeless, the government can save over $4,000,000 in the 1990s. The body count is done by diminishing the popular rhetoric of the vocal minority who believe that the homeless are not entitled to federal funding by $400 per person per annum. Therefore, it is expedient for the government to not identify as many homeless by as much as the vocal minority will accept.

Logically the homeless are surviving without benefit of income.

We believe that the Center for Social Concerns, through the cooperation of the student groups, and their leaders, is oriented toward a particular political persuasion, with a secondary emphasis on the possibility of living a just life.

Wednesday night, Feb. 28, a number of relevant facts about the nature of the CSC as perceived by a number of representatives of individuals were illustrated at a meeting of group leaders. Some of these illuminations were very interesting. It became apparent at the meeting that the image of the Center, held by many students who have not had much direct contact with it, may not be far off base.

The Center serves as a home for many organizations that do an incredible amount of wonderful works in both the South Bend area, as well as on the campus. The problem that arose that evening was that the Center, for all of its groups present, place the least possible emphasis on doing such work as a statement of one's faith. In fact, many were afraid of becoming exclusive by alienating those who do not believe in God or the teachings of the Gospel. The question was raised as to why there needs to be religion present at the CSC. From what we gathered, that answer was a "resounding "no," except on an individual basis. We believe, however, that the mission of the Center for Social Concerns would be more fully accomplished by emphasizing the faith in dealing with issues of peace and social justice.

A time is a time of introspection. We would like people to ponder whether justice or peace issues are separate from religion, or whether they coexist. As well, should the CSC foster such a union, and is it at present working at all in that direction? It is a shame that at this meeting of group leaders it was more important to respect someone's belief than to foster the belief of God in others—especially at a religiously affiliated university. The CSC could be a wonderful place for young people to live out their faith, rather than their politics. If people realize as they work through their faith that politics plays a role, then that is fine, and perhaps inevitable. But to an appreciation of religion to politics denies the importance of God.

Tom Kelly
James Robertson
Veganah Hall
March 4, 1990

LETTERS

Styrofoam products used at ND damage the ozone layer

Dear Editor:

Congratulations to the Environmental Action Club and the Student Senate for passing a resolution calling for the phased elimination of styrofoam from our campus. It is extremely encouraging to see even a small part of the Notre Dame administration endorsing responsible environmental principles.

The production of styrofoam cups, containers, and other goods is a major cause of the depletion of the ozone layer over our atmosphere. The fluffly, the Oak Room, and most other food oriented services on campus use styrofoam cups to serve items like coffee, hot chocolate and hot tea.

The purchase, as well as the production, of styrofoam, is environmentally immoral. Unlike the controversy over divestment from South Africa, the elimination of investment in styrofoam products has no immoral side consequences. Switching from styrofoam to other substitutable, recyclable products would only affect the management of these businesses and possibly, increase the cost of a cup of coffee or coca.

I’m anxiously awaiting University Food Service’s positive response to this resolution. I encourage all students to look ahead to Earth Day, April 22, 1990 where they can get involved and make an environmental difference on our own campus. Who says you can’t change the world?

Styrofoam products used at ND damage the ozone layer

Watts Hagedons
Morissette Hall
March 1, 1990

Critics inaccurately understand ads regarding the homosexuality issue

When dealing with the subject of homosexuality, Warren cannot read a good advertisement and get it right, what confidence can we have in his related opinions on sin and redemption, or such lesser topics as the role of genes in the development of complex social behaviors, the relevance of animal models, or the professional integrity of the proceedings of the American Psychiatric Association? Do the policies of Campus Ministry on this topic have a cognizant advocate?

Edward Manier
Professor of philosophy
March 14, 1990
Tuesday, March 20, 1990

Taking each day as it comes

Sophomore Marty Sprunck returns to ND after a draining battle with cancer

CINDY PETRITIS
accent writer

he had decided to call his project, "A Day in the Life of a Domer." And it was to complete a sunny day in April of last year, that, as a freshman, Marty Sprunck left his room in Flanner, grabbed his jump rope, hopped on his bike, and rode over to the Pearce Memorial Fountain, the perfect place to observe typical Domers on a typical spring day. When he arrived at the fountain, Marty was out of breath. Later that day as he climbed the steps of the Administration Building to interview "Monk" Malloy, he was so winded that he had to stop. How strange, he thought. Probably allergies. Later that week after feeling short of breath while checking marks over, Marty went to the infirmary to check it out.

After two hours in the waiting room, the doctor called Marty in. But without even hearing a professional's explanation, Marty could see for himself that something was terribly wrong. "It looked like part of my right lung was missing," recalls Marty. After draining the fluid on his lung—the initial problem—the doctor sent Marty to St. Joseph's Hospital for tests. A few days later he discovered that he had non-Hodgkin's lymphoma, and a tumor the size of a large orange in his chest.

200 miles away in Minneapolis, Minnesota, Julian and Mildred Sprunck, Marty's parents, were sleeping when the phone rang. It was Marty making his regular biweekly check-in to say that the news this time was not regular: this time Marty's parents learned that their son had been diagnosed with cancer.

"I don't know how I functioned," Julian Sprunck told their local Minnesota paper, describing that 11:30 drive to Notre Dame. "You reel, literally reel from shock, disbelief, denial, bewilderment, confusion, anger, and helplessness at the fact that your cancer has struck your son."

After returning to Minnesota, Marty spent four weeks at St. Mary's Hospital, part of the University of Minnesota, undergoing chemotherapy for Non-Hodgkin's lymphoma, a cancer which strikes the lymph nodes and can spread to other parts of the body. But after those grueling four weeks, on May 29, Marty's X-ray showed miraculously, that the tumor was gone. Thus, Marty, though 20 pounds lighter, weak, and almost completely bald, was no longer in danger of dying. He was cured, or so he thought.

As the end of June, Marty's doctors suggested the possibility of a bone marrow transplant, a procedure in which the patient's own malfunctioning bone marrow is first "knocked out" by massive doses of chemotherapy and radiation. Then, either marrow from a healthy donor, or in Marty's case from the patient himself, is transfused in hope that it will take over and resume the function of producing blood cells.

Though the process is long and painful—"of those two weeks, I remember about five minutes. I was so doped up," says Marty—without it Marty's doctors suggested that the odds ran between 75 and 80 percent that the cancer would return. In addition, without the transplant he could look forward to chemotherapy every month, long hospital stays, and giving himself injections. With the treatment, his chances for total long-term remission could increase up to 80 percent. Marty chose the transplant. Following a week-long battery of tests at the Masonic Cancer Center in Minnesota, Marty underwent the bone marrow harvest on August 7, a process Marty remembers as "pretty painful." Two massive doses of chemotherapy a day off, and four days of radiation then readied Marty for the bone marrow reinfusion on August 17. Marty has very little memory of those two weeks. "I remember having to sit in the radiation room like this,—" Marty hugs his knees to his chest—and they taped me up so I wouldn't move." He smiles. "This caused a big problem when I had to go to the bathroom."

Ten days later, the fatigued news came. On August 27 Marty had a white blood cell count, a sign indicating that the marrow transplant was successful. "I was even ahead of schedule," Marty says. "They normally don't expect a white blood cell count for three weeks."

Then began what Marty described as "the long waiting game." Bone marrow transplant patients can only go home after maintaining a steady blood count of at least 2000 for three consecutive days. But for two weeks the cycle remained: Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday, Friday, Saturday, Sunday, 2000, Marty was frustrated. Sitting in his hospital room, his walls plastered with U2 posters, balloons, cards, and pictures of friends, he was eager to go home. Finally, after two more weeks in the hospital, making it a total of 35 days, the doctors gave Marty the go-ahead. But going home didn't just mean sleeping in his own bed and staying up late. It also meant solid food. The first thing Marty ate: a hot dog with mustard and ketchup. Every time I go to a Twins game, I have to get a hot dog with mustard and ketchup. But that hot dog was the best I ever had. Even if I only got one-half out of it," says Marty.

Returning in January to the life he left nine months ago as an aerospace engineering freshman, Marty (now a first semester sophomore) is readjusting to life as a Domer. While once he waited for his white blood count to rise, now, bringing up his graying in a few classes and finding a date to Sophomore Formal are among his biggest concerns. And though he will have to wait on getting involved in extracurriculars—he played the role of the priest in last year's Notre Dame production of "Twelfth Night"—he admits that what he enjoys about Notre Dame is "just being here."

Has the experience changed Marty? "Not really," he says. "People ask me, 'Did you ever think you'd die?' But I never did. Having that attitude really made a big difference. I think now, I don't plan ahead as much as I used to. I just take every day as it comes."

Marty feels that, for the most part, the disease is behind him, though he does have constant reminders. He must have a chest X-ray every six months to monitor his progress. He says, "Every now and then I think it (the cancer) is something I have overcome. Then I look in the mirror and see, well, it's still there."

Losing his hair has been an experience in itself for Marty. "People ask me, 'Wasn't it horrifying to lose your hair?' And I think it's kind of funny," he says. "Take one time when I was shopping in downtown Minneapolis, and a man mistook him for a Nazi skinhead. The man, a passenger in a car, started hurling obscenities and was on the verge of getting out of the car to attack Marty when, luckily, the driver sped away. 'He would have gotten at it with me right there,' Marty recalls.

Marty's black French paratrooper beret and fluorescent green smiley-face button have become symbols of a new way of life for Marty, who is a familiar face about North Quad. He feels that the smiles-face with moving googley eyes is a symbol, which captures the spirit of Marty, as it reflects the positive attitude which has, with the support of many friends here at Notre Dame, pulled him through many tough moments. Marty that has been the toughest?

"The hardest part of the whole experience was leaving that silver dog was the best I ever had."

Sophomore Formal are among the first memories of Marty's parents. With giving himself injections. With the treatment, his chances for total long-term remission could increase up to 80 percent. Marty chose the transplant. Following a week-long battery of tests at the Masonic Cancer Center in Minnesota, Marty underwent the bone marrow harvest on August 7, a process Marty remembers as "pretty painful." Two massive doses of chemotherapy a day off, and four days of radiation then readied Marty for the bone marrow reinfusion on August 17. Marty has very little memory of those two weeks. "I remember having to sit in the radiation room like this,—" Marty hugs his knees to his chest—and they taped me up so I wouldn't move." He smiles. "This caused a big problem when I had to go to the bathroom."

Ten days later, the fatigued news came. On August 27 Marty had a white blood cell count, a sign indicating that the marrow transplant was successful. "I was even ahead of schedule," Marty says. "They normally don't expect a white blood cell count for three weeks."

Then began what Marty described as "the long waiting game." Bone marrow transplant patients can only go home after maintaining a steady blood count of at least 2000 for three consecutive days. But for two weeks the cycle remained: Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday, Thursday, Friday, Saturday, Sunday, 2000, Marty was frustrated. Sitting in his hospital room, its walls plastered with U2 posters, balloons, cards, and pictures of friends, he was eager to go home. Finally, after two more weeks in the hospital, making it a total of 35 days, the doctors gave Marty the go-ahead. But going home didn't just mean sleeping in his own bed and staying up late. It also meant solid food. The first thing Marty ate: a hot dog with mustard and ketchup. Every time I go to a Twins game, I have to get a hot dog with mustard and ketchup. But that hot dog was the best I ever had. Even if I only got one-half out of it," says Marty.

Returning in January to the life he left nine months ago as an aerospace engineering freshman, Marty (now a first semester sophomore) is readjusting to life as a Domer. While once he waited for his white blood count to rise, now, bringing up his graying in a few classes and finding a date to Sophomore Formal are among his biggest concerns. And though he will have to wait on getting involved in extracurriculars—he played the role of the priest in last year's Notre Dame production of "Twelfth Night"—he admits that what he enjoys about Notre Dame is "just being here."

Has the experience changed Marty? "Not really," he says. "People ask me, 'Did you ever think you'd die?' But I never did. Having that attitude really made a big difference. I think now, I don't plan ahead as much as I used to. I just take every day as it comes."

Marty feels that, for the most part, the disease is behind him, though he does have constant reminders. He must have a chest X-ray every six months to monitor his progress. He says, "Every now and then I think it (the cancer) is something I have overcome. Then I look in the mirror and see, well, it's still there."

Losing his hair has been an experience in itself for Marty. "People ask me, 'Wasn't it horrifying to lose your hair?' And I think it's kind of funny," he says. "Take one time when I was shopping in downtown Minneapolis, and a man mistook him for a Nazi skinhead. The man, a passenger in a car, started hurling obscenities and was on the verge of getting out of the car to attack Marty when, luckily, the driver sped away. 'He would have gotten at it with me right there,' Marty recalls.

Marty's black French paratrooper beret and fluorescent green smiley-face button have become symbols of a new way of life for Marty, who is a familiar face about North Quad. He feels that the smiles-face with moving googley eyes is a symbol, which captures the spirit of Marty, as it reflects the positive attitude which has, with the support of many friends here at Notre Dame, pulled him through many tough moments. Marty that has been the toughest?

"The hardest part of the whole experience was leaving that silver dog was the best I ever had."
 Classifieds

NOTICES

WANTED

LOST/FOUND

FOUND:

THE OBSERVER, March 28, 1996
The University of Notre Dame

Glee Club

SPRING CONCERT

Wednesday, March 21, 1990
8:15pm
Washington Hall
Free Admission • All tickets at the door
Next season's schedule might be tougher

By GREG GUFFEY
Sports Editor

RICHMOND, Va.—Notre Dame must face the toughest schedule in the country this year, and it appears that season may be even tougher.

The Irish will meet at least 13 teams that finished in the top 25 in this season's NCAA Tournament. Twenty-six dates are set with the remaining games yet to be determined.

Notre Dame will open the season in the Dodge Big Apple Invitational in New York City. The Irish will play home games against St. John's, Duke, La Salle, Indiana, Southern Cal, Virginia, Boston College, Rutgers, Creighton, Portland, De Paul, Dayton and Maryland.

Notre Dame will play at UCLA, Missouri, St. John's in New York and Virginia. But the Irish will face four teams that made the NIT last year, and will also be challenged by teams that missed the tournament.

Notre Dame will play at UMASS, Missouri, St. John's in New York and Virginia. But the Irish will face four teams that made the NIT last year, and will also be challenged by teams that missed the tournament.

"When he drives in a lot of key situations, he will make it happen," said John Starks, director of Notre Dame's basketball program. "We know when to drive. He knows the other people well."

"I found a seam I could drive through," said forward Keith Crotty. "I went outside, inside and then used the foul line to send the Irish back into the game."

"Crotty showed his composure under pressure, hitting 8-of-9 free throws in the last three minutes," said Sydney Wulf. "We knew his moves and what he was going to do, but Notre Dame coach Keith Robinson said it was like a matter of us breaking down.

"Crotty was saving a lead to 44-41 with 9:51 left, and he struggled with his shooting as the Cavaliers finished the contest. He hit just 2-of-4 from the floor.

"When we saw a seam I could step into, I got in and shot," said Crotty. "I just kept looking for the seam, and I had to hit it fast if it was there. I was always looking to penetrate."

In the second half, Crotty went outside, inside and then used the foul line to send the Irish back into the game. When Notre Dame scored seven straight points to cut the lead to 44-41 with 9:51 left, Crotty had missed his only three-point attempt of the game.

With the lead again three points, Crotty moved towards another driving layup, drew the fourth foul on Ellis and hit the free throw for a six-point lead. The Irish never got closer than those six points.

Crotty scored eight of the Cavs' last 14 points as the team went from 20-10 to 44-41. The Irish were up 28-18 at the half, but Virginia had a 28-18 halftime lead and was second in scoring in the season's ACC tourney that marked the 17th time an Irish team had won the tournament.

"We wanted to play the diamond to slow them up, said John Crotty. "We wanted to go back to man-to-man. Notre Dame exploited it for a while."

"We came out hard and looked to attack," said Virginia's John Crotty. "The diamond took the zip out of their offense. It seemed like they'd never faced that before and it confused them. It was effective for us."

Crotty led both teams with 28 points and orchestrated the Irish defense, setting a slow tempo that worked because Virginia hit its shots and dominated on the boards.

Bennett led Notre Dame with 17 points, while Daimon Sweet added 14.

PHILOSOPHY

POLITICS &

ECONOMICS

A CONCENTRATION FOR STUDENTS MAJORING IN PHILOSOPHY, GOVERNMENT, OR ECONOMICS DEALING WITH THOSE AREAS IN WHICH THE THREE DISCIPLINES OVERLAP.

THE PROGRAM IS DESIGNED TO FOSTER DISCIPLINED INTELLECTUAL DISSERE and INTERCHANGE AMONG THEORETICALLY REFLECTIVE STUDENTS AND FACULTY IN THESE THREE DISCIPLINES.

FOR DETAILS SEE PROF. E. A. GOEBELL, 314 O'SHAUGHNESSY (239-6377)

INTERESTED STUDENTS SHOULD COME BY AS WILL REQUIRE REGISTRATION TO RESERVE A PLACE

DEMAND OFTEN EXCEEDS THE PLACES AVAILABLE

Virginia forward Bryant Stith was second in scoring in the game with 21 points against the Irish, complementing teammate John Crotty's 28.

Virginia continued from page 20

fool their way back into the game.

Crotty ended with 28 points and orchestrated the Irish defense, setting a slow tempo that worked because Virginia hit its shots and dominated on the boards.

Bennett led Notre Dame with 17 points, while Daimon Sweet added 14.

Virginia will meet center Keith Robinson said it was like a matter of us breaking down.

It was a also a matter of Crotty breaking out of a shooting slump at the wrong time for Notre Dame.

"When we saw a seam I could step into, I got in and shot," said Crotty. "I just kept looking for the seam, and I had to hit it fast if it was there. I was always looking to penetrate."

In the second half, Crotty went outside, inside and then used the foul line to send the Irish back into the game. When Notre Dame scored seven straight points to cut the lead to 44-41 with 9:51 left, Crotty had missed his only three-point attempt of the game.

With the lead again three points, Crotty moved towards another driving layup, drew the fourth foul on Ellis and hit the free throw for a six-point lead. The Irish never got closer than those six points.

Crotty scored eight of the Cavs' last 14 points as the team went from 20-10 to 44-41. The Irish were up 28-18 at the half, but Virginia had a 28-18 halftime lead and was second in scoring in the season's ACC tourney that marked the 17th time an Irish team had won the tournament.

"We wanted to play the diamond to slow them up, said John Crotty. "We wanted to go back to man-to-man. Notre Dame exploited it for a while."

"We came out hard and looked to attack," said Virginia's John Crotty. "The diamond took the zip out of their offense. It seemed like they'd never faced that before and it confused them. It was effective for us."

Crotty led both teams with 28 points and orchestrated the Irish defense, setting a slow tempo that worked because Virginia hit its shots and dominated on the boards.

Bennett led Notre Dame with 17 points, while Daimon Sweet added 14.

Virginia will meet center Keith Robinson said it was like a matter of us breaking down.

It was a also a matter of Crotty breaking out of a shooting slump at the wrong time for Notre Dame.

"When we saw a seam I could step into, I got in and shot," said Crotty. "I just kept looking for the seam, and I had to hit it fast if it was there. I was always looking to penetrate."

In the second half, Crotty went outside, inside and then used the foul line to send the Irish back into the game. When Notre Dame scored seven straight points to cut the lead to 44-41 with 9:51 left, Crotty had missed his only three-point attempt of the game.

With the lead again three points, Crotty moved towards another driving layup, drew the fourth foul on Ellis and hit the free throw for a six-point lead. The Irish never got closer than those six points.
Dickerson says it's time to retire

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Eric Dickerson, the seventh-leading rusher in NFL history, says he will not be back with the Indianapolis Colts next season and intends to retire.

"I'm through with football, and the Colts know it. So I'm telling you, I'm finished," Dickerson, 29, said in an interview broadcast Monday on WFYI-TV's "Indianas Tonight" show.

Jim Irsay, the Colts' general manager and son of owner Robert Irsay, said through a spokesman on Monday that the team expected Dickerson to fulfill his contract obligations.

"We don't make it a point to discuss our players' contracts," spokesman Kirby Kelley said of Dickerson's obligations.

Dickerson has said his contract expires after the 1990 season.

Irsay called Dickerson's statements "a slap in the face."

"Before we made the trade with the Rams to obtain Eric, he gave us his assurances he would play out his contract," he said. "We are tremendously disappointed by his actions."

During the 20-minute interview, taped last Thursday at his Los Angeles home, Dickerson, who has spent 2 1/2 seasons with the Colts, said he has lost interest in playing football.

"Right now I really don't love the game that much," he said. "I don't love it like I did at one time. But rather than stay in Indianapolis and take the pounding that I'm taking, I'd rather quit."

"I mean, it's like taking a revolver and putting a bullet in it and spinning it around and sticking it to my head, and sooner or later a bullet is gonna come out and kill me. And that's the chance I'm taking," he said.

"I just can't do that. I like my health. I'll take my health, and no amount of money in the world can buy my health."

Dickerson has gained 11,226 yards, 10 behind O.J. Simpson, and has rushed for more than 1,000 yards in each of his seven NFL seasons. He holds the single-season record of 2,105 yards, set with the Los Angeles Rams in 1984, one year after he set the rookie record with 1,808 yards.

The Observer page 15

For Student American Express Cardmembers.

Apply for the American Express Card. Then get ready to take off. In search of adventure, action—or just simply to escape. American Express and Northwest Airlines have arranged these extraordinary travel privileges on Northwest—exclusively for student Cardmembers:

- CERTIFICATES VALID FOR THE PURCHASE OF TWO $118 ROUNDTRIP TICKETS—to many of the more than 180 cities in the 48 contiguous United States served by Northwest. Each certificate is good for a six-month period, and they will arrive within six weeks after you receive the Card. Current Cardmembers will automatically receive their $118 certificates by March 15, 1990 provided they are still full time students.*

- 10% OFF ANY NORTHWEST FLIGHT—with your own personalized discount card, valid through January 1991 on all Northwest and Northwest Airlink flights. (This discount is not applicable to the $118 student certificates and other certificates, promotional or special status airfares.)

- 2,500 BONUS MILES TOWARDS FREE TRAVEL—when you enroll in Northwest's WorldPerks® Free Travel Program.

AND NOW BECOMING A CARDMEMBER IS AS EASY AS A TELEPHONE CALL. Just pick up the phone, call 1-800-942-AMEX, and talk to us. We'll take your application and begin to process it immediately. (If you have your banking information handy, like your account number and bank address, it will help speed the process.) Keep in mind that our Automatic Acceptance Program makes it easier for you to become a Cardmember now, as a student, than it will ever be again.

And remember that as a Cardmember you'll enjoy all the exceptional benefits and personal service you would expect from American Express. So don't miss out on a world of great experiences. Pick up the phone. Apply for the Card. And start packing!

Only for Student American Express Cardmembers.

18 roundtrip airfares on Northwest Airlines. It's not just a great price. It's a great experience.

Apply Today

1-800-942-AMEX

*If you are already a student American Express Cardmember and have a question about this program, please send your written question, a copy of your student ID and class schedule to American Express, P.O. Box 19295, Amon Student Marketing, Greensboro, NC, 27425. First is for roundtrip travel on Northwest Airlines. Tickets must be purchased within 24 hours after making reservations. Fares are nonrefundable and no itinerary changes may be made after purchase. Seats at this fare are limited and may not be available when you call. Travel may be subject to certiﬁcate expiration dates and must be completed within 60 days of certiﬁcate issue date. Travel must be between cities to which Northwest does not have published routings. City fuel surcharges not included in fare from Boston ($2.50), Chicago ($5.00), Denver ($2.00) and Florida cities ($2.00). Certain blackout dates and other restrictions may apply for complete offer details, call 1-800-942-AMEX. ©1990 American Express Travel Related Services Company, Inc.
Lacrosse gets battered by brawny opponents over break

By DAVE DIETEMAN

The Notre Dame men's lacrosse team hit the road over spring break, and then proceeded to get rocked, suffering three defeats by a combined score of 57 to 13. The Fighting Irish, now 2-3 on the season, began break with a 13-5 reversal at the hands of the Villanova Wildcats in the Philadelphia Lacrosse Classic. Bright spots for the Irish were two goals by senior attacker Brian McHugh, now seventh on the all-time scoring list, and one goal by senior co-captain Dave Carey.

Next for the Irish was the Loyola Tournament in Baltimore, Maryland, where the Irish took on host team Loyola in the first game. Loyola, ranked second in the nation, throttled the Irish 18-3, despite the strong effort of the Notre Dame defense, already embarrassed by the onslaught it had suffered at Villanova.

As in the match against Villanova, the silver lining in the clouds for the Irish were Brian McHugh and Dave Carey. McHugh, with one goal tallied, showed why he is steadily climbing the Notre Dame lacrosse all-time scoring list, and Carey again chipped in a lone goal to support the Irish cause.

In the Consolation match, Notre Dame battled and fell to Adelphi, by a score of 16-5. Adelphi, who had been ranked fifth in the nation in 1989, and currently resides in the Top 10, simply overpowered the Irish. Again, senior Brian McHugh came through for the Irish with a goal. Yet the high-score for the Irish was sophomore attacker Mike Sullivan, who beat the Adelphi goalkeeper for three goals.

Despite the buffetings of goals which the Irish surrendered on their three-game swing down the Atlantic coast, the Irish defense performed well. Freshman goalkeeper Chris Parent made many very good saves, but he and the Irish defense repeatedly encountered difficulties in clearing the ball, putting Notre Dame at a significant disadvantage.

"Against teams this good, you simply must control the tempo of the game," noted second-year head coach Kevin Corrigan. "But when you play all defense, it is very hard to control the tempo. These losses were the fault of the Irish defense, already embarrassed by the onslaught it had suffered at Villanova. Our defense was not bad, but for as much of it as we played, I can honestly say we did not do a lot of it, but those rankings don't mean anything. Really, our defensive problems were offensive problems. We didn't have the ability to play against some goals. Really, our defensive problems were offensive problems. We didn't have the ability to play against some goals."

The Observer page 17

Arizona assesses lockout losses

PHOENIX (AP)—As players returned to Arizona for an abbreviated spring season Monday, cities around the state began adding up the cost of baseball's 32-day blackout. Some of the eight Cactus League teams planned to begin workouts Tuesday and start playing a five-game schedule.

Bob Howard of the Scottsdale Giants said the Giants would play three others games in Scottsdale Stadium, he said. "If you're trying to figure the loss, you could take the 14-game season as being an average and say you were going to salvage four-fifteenths of the season, but it really depends on who's your opponent and whether they give you any weekends," Howard said.

Jeffrey Wiseman, a lawyer, who serves on the Cactus League Task Force, said other factors would determine the amount of loss.

"One of the major variables is a lot of the clubs that are16 who normally stay here through March when we have spring training games have decided to return home," he said. "This is the month when everybody starts gathering up their belongings and gets ready."

The task force has estimated the worth of spring training in the state at about $160 million annually. Other estimates range downward to about half that amount.

Robert Brinton, director of the Arizona Commerce Bureau, said the state figured the absolute value of spring training to Arizona as revenue which could be offset by tourists who visited the hot spot during the baseball season but says that now that the state has rebounded from the absence of baseball.

A survey found about one-third of the group of Mesa's winter visitors were baseball fans. "The answer for 27 percent was, 'No baseball! We're out of here,'" Brinton added.

The Chicago Cubs have been training here for more than 30 years and represent the biggest spring training attraction in the nation, drawing 126,000 fans last year. The California Angels train at Mesa's Gene Autry Park before moving to Palm Springs, Calif., about mid-March for home games, and the Milwaukee Brewers, who play in nearby Chandler, room in Mesa, leading to an estimate of $37.5 million for baseball's impact in Mesa.

However, Brinton said the city had projected a loss of $6 million to $10 million for a spring training wipeout. He said he expected the loss to be about $5-$10 million and that some baseball will be played.

NCAAs continued from page 20

"Mark lost to a couple of kids earlier in the year that he shouldn't have, and that hurt him in the national rankings, but those rankings don't mean a whole lot. I think he can beat anybody he believes he can beat, and he wrestled a great tournament (in the Regionals)," says McCarthy.

King, meanwhile, edged Greg Gardner of Florida State. King is the University by a 6-5 score in the 190-pound championship. King's record is now 18-3, and McCann says he wasn't surprised that the defending champion came through with a win.

"I felt Steve had a legitimate chance to beat Gardiner because he had beaten him earlier in the year. Could he have lost to Steve once, but Steve's a freshman, and you never know what to expect from a freshman," says McCarthy.

McCann said he was disappointed that Radenbaugh and Gowens didn't perform better in their Regional finals but says that now that they are qualified, they have to be confident in their abilities. If they are confident, perhaps they will even surprise themselves in the NCAA championships this weekend.
Women's basketball left bidless
NCAA tourney selection committee 'snubs' 23-6 Irish

BY CHRIS COONEY
Assistant Sports Editor

The Notre Dame women's basketball team did everything this year to make it look as if the Irish didn't deserve to be overlooked by the NCAA Tournament Selection Committee. They won the Midwest Collegiate Conference Tournament in Mishawaka, Ind., and then ran off 12 straight victories, including a 67-66 defeat of Ohio State. They received bids from the Big Ten. But when the Selection Committee met on Monday to make their decision, the Irish were one of the teams that didn't get a bid.

The Irish have been the No. 1 team in the Associated Press poll for most of the season, and they've made it clear that they are deserving of a bid. They've won 18 of their last 20 games, and they've been the only team in the country to beat both Stanford and UCLA. They've also been the only team to reach the NCAA tournament last year. But this year, they were one of the teams that didn't get a bid.

The Irish have been the No. 1 team in the Associated Press poll for most of the season, and they've made it clear that they are deserving of a bid. They've won 18 of their last 20 games, and they've been the only team in the country to beat both Stanford and UCLA. They've also been the only team to reach the NCAA tournament last year. But this year, they were one of the teams that didn't get a bid.

The Irish have been the No. 1 team in the Associated Press poll for most of the season, and they've made it clear that they are deserving of a bid. They've won 18 of their last 20 games, and they've been the only team in the country to beat both Stanford and UCLA. They've also been the only team to reach the NCAA tournament last year. But this year, they were one of the teams that didn't get a bid.

The Irish have been the No. 1 team in the Associated Press poll for most of the season, and they've made it clear that they are deserving of a bid. They've won 18 of their last 20 games, and they've been the only team in the country to beat both Stanford and UCLA. They've also been the only team to reach the NCAA tournament last year. But this year, they were one of the teams that didn't get a bid.

The Irish have been the No. 1 team in the Associated Press poll for most of the season, and they've made it clear that they are deserving of a bid. They've won 18 of their last 20 games, and they've been the only team in the country to beat both Stanford and UCLA. They've also been the only team to reach the NCAA tournament last year. But this year, they were one of the teams that didn't get a bid.
Tuesday, March 20, 1990

CAMPUS

Tuesday

5 p.m. High School Track Classic. JACC Fieldhouse. Sponsored by Notre Dame Communication and Theatre.

7 p.m. Film, "Blue Velvet." Annexberg Auditorium. Sponsored by Notre Dame Communication and Theatre.

7 p.m. Film, "A Farewell to Arms," Room 206 Architecture Building. Sponsored by School of Architecture.

8 p.m. Spring band concert. JACC Arena. Sponsored by department of music.

LECTURE CIRCUIT

Tuesday

3:30 p.m. "Microstructure and Reactivity of Catalyst Particles," Lanny Schmidt, University of Minnesota, 356 Fitzpatrick Hall. Coffee at 3 p.m., Chemical Engineering Conference Room. Sponsored by department of chemical engineering.

ANSWER TO PREVIOUS PUZZLE

ACROSS
1. A French brandy
2. Intelligent
3. Musical composition
4. Pink
5. Pocket
6. One not included as a member
7. Tall, Comb. form
8. Foreign
9. Japanese statesman
10. Japanese statesman 1841-1909
11. Foreign
12. Name of Russian soldier
13. Pouch
14. Appellation of Athena
15. Chris of tennis
16. Static heart
17. Angelic
18. Famed film mine
19. Famous
20. Chalks
21. Suffit with host or priest
22. Cab
23. British bishop's headress
24. suffix with host or priest
25. British bishop's headress
26. Musical composition
27. Musical composition
28. Musical composition
29. Musical composition
30. Musical composition
31. Musical composition
32. Musical composition
33. Musical composition
34. Musical composition
35. Musical composition
36. Musical composition
37. Musical composition
38. Musical composition
39. Musical composition
40. Musical composition
41. Musical composition
42. Musical composition
43. Musical composition
44. Musical composition
45. Musical composition
46. Musical composition
47. Musical composition
48. Musical composition
49. Musical composition
50. Musical composition
51. Musical composition
52. Musical composition
53. Musical composition
54. Musical composition
55. Musical composition
56. Musical composition
57. Musical composition
58. Musical composition
59. Musical composition
60. Musical composition
61. Musical composition
62. Musical composition
63. Musical composition
64. Musical composition
65. Musical composition
66. Musical composition
67. Musical composition

DOWN
1. Disable
2. Edison's middle name
3. Kind of admiral
4. Plant diseases
5. Annealing ovens
6. Gardner and namesakes
7. For country
8. E-Stimulator
9. One of the weasels
10. Stores
11. Ballet
13. Roentgen's discovery
14. At which point
15. Bearcats
17. One of the weasels
18. At which point
19. At which point
20. At which point
21. At which point
22. At which point
23. At which point
24. At which point
25. At which point
26. At which point
27. At which point
28. At which point
29. At which point
30. At which point
31. At which point
32. At which point
33. At which point
34. At which point
35. At which point
36. At which point
37. At which point
38. At which point
39. At which point
40. At which point
41. At which point
42. At which point
43. At which point
44. At which point
45. At which point
46. At which point
47. At which point
48. At which point
49. At which point
50. At which point
51. At which point
52. At which point
53. At which point
54. At which point
55. At which point
56. At which point
57. At which point
58. At which point
59. At which point
60. At which point
61. At which point
62. At which point
63. At which point
64. At which point
65. At which point
66. At which point
67. At which point

MENUS

Notre Dame
Fried Fish Boats
Egg Foo Yung
Pasta Bar
Hot Ham and Swiss Hoagie

CALVIN AND HOBBES

DO YOU HEAR ME, CALVIN? I MEAN NON.

THE FAR SIDE

GARY LARSON

SPELUNKER

JAY HOSLER

The Observer
Virginia ends Notre Dame's season with 75-67 triumph

Cavaliers control game early, starve Irish rally in 2nd half

By THERESA KELLY
Sports Editor Emeritus

RICHMOND, Va.—It seemed that the University of Virginia men’s basketball team played a near perfect game in the first round of the NCAA Tournament Friday. Or maybe it just looked that way because it seemed the Notre Dame team didn’t show up.

The Irish team that trounced third-ranked Missouri at the Joyce ACC and edged Syracuse in the Carrier Dome was back at the hotel when Virginia beat Notre Dame 75-67. Everyone who said the Irish didn’t belong in the tournament said, “I told you so.”

The Irish were looking for a rematch with the Orangejemen, who had beaten Coppin State in the first evening game. But it was the Cavaliers who were to battle Syracuse—and lose—Sunday. Virginia dominated the luck-luster Irish in the first half, especially on the boards. Despite a height and weight advantage, Notre Dame was outrebounded 18-8 in the first half including 10 offensive boards.

Baseball team wins College Baseball Classic

By KEN TYSIAC
Assistant Sports Editor

The Notre Dame baseball team capped a 6-1 Spring Break road swing on Saturday with a 6-5 triumph over Air Force in the championship game of the College Baseball Classic in the Seattle Kingdome. Junior first baseman Frank Jacobs blasted a solo home run in the bottom of the 11th inning to power the Irish to victory and improve the team’s record to 10-4 for the season. Reliever Kevin McCann struck out Air Force’s three batters in a scoreless 12th inning to record the victory.

“The Kingdome tournament was indeed a real addition for our program,” Irish coach Pat Murphy said. “We’re still not a good ballclub, but we’re coming in our own order, and the light at the end of the tunnel.”

Cooffey and the rest of the pitching staff have had a lot to do with Notre Dame’s recent success. The team ERA is down to 2.98 after the weekend’s action.

The Irish reached the finals by winning two of their first three games in the tournament. They needed extra innings to escape with a 4-3 victory over Air Force in their first tournament game on Saturday and worked overtime in the nightcap, an 8-4, 11-inning triumph over the University of Washington.

Sophomore designated hitter Matt Krause, fighting with the bases loaded in the bottom of the 13th inning to give Freshman right-hander Dan Sinnes his first collegiate victory in the game against Air Force. Sinnes pitched 4 3/3 innings of scoreless relief to earn the win.

Latter that same night the Irish scored four runs in the top of the 11th to defeat Washington as relievers Tony Livorsi, David Legus and Chris Michalsik combined to shut out the Huskies over the final five innings. Michalsik raised his record to 2-0 with the win in a game that lasted until 3 a.m.

The Irish rose at 8 a.m. for a clinic the following morning and were understandably slug­gish in a 4-2 loss to Duke at 3 in the afternoon. Notre Dame could only manage four singles in the loss to the Blue Devils, but still managed to bounce back against Air Force the next night to win the championship.

Notre Dame won three games in St. Louis the previous week­end, defeating the University of St. Louis 10-2 on Saturday, March 10 and pounding Bradley 10-2 and Northern Iowa 6-1 on March 11. The Irish ripped out a total of 22 hits in those three convincing victories.

Jacobs, who performed des­ignated hitter duties in the Irish, was basically a two-team race between Northern Iowa and Notre Dame. The Irish took second place.

Maryland March 22-24.

Defenders had dominated matches. Sophomore fres­her Steve King delighted McCann by winning the championships at 190 pounds.

By virtue of their victories, Boyd, Gerardi and Krauskopf advanced to the NCAA Championships, which will be held at the University of Maryland March 22-24. Senior Andy Radasbaugh and sopho­more Marcus Gerardi were also overlooked by the NCAA committee, page 18.

No Bid!
After winning the MCT tour­nament, the women’s basketball team was overlooked by the NCAA committee, page 18.

Wrestlers qualify five to NCAAs

Squad places second in West Regional Championships

By KEN TYSIAC
Associate Sports Editor

Five Notre Dame wrestlers qualified for the NCAA cham­pionships on Saturday, March 10 as coach Fran McCann’s Irish wrestling squad took second place in the NCAA West Regional Championships at Lantz Gym at Eastern Illinois University.

The Irish took second place overall in the Regional, which was basically a two-team race between Northern Iowa and Notre Dame. The Panthers won the Regional with 96 1/4 points, while Notre Dame finished in second place with 67 3/4 points. Illinois State (36 3/4 points) was a distant third.

Three Irish wrestlers won in­dividual championships at the Regional. Senior Pat Boyd con­quered the 142-pound division, junior Mark Gerardi raised his record to 34-5 by dominating the 167-pound division and freshman Steve King delighted McCann by winning the championships at 190 pounds.

By virtue of their victories, Boyd, Gerardi and Krauskopf advanced to the NCAA Championships, which will be held at the University of Maryland March 22-24. Senior Andy Radasbaugh and sopho­more Marcus Gerardi were also overlooked for the NCAAs as they gained at-large bids by finish­ing in second place at 118 and 126 pounds respectively in the Regional.

“I thought we wrestled a de­cent tournament,” said McCann. “Our goal was to get as many people to the NCAAs as possible. We figured we had a shot at getting between five and seven guys in, but unfortu­nately Todd Layton tore knee cartilage and was only at 70-75 percent of his potential and Todd Tomaszek got to the semis but lost a critical match to a wrestler from Northern Iowa.”

Layton lost to T.C. Dantler of Northern Illinois in the first round in the 150-pound division, while Tomaszek dropped a one-decision to champion Jamie Byrne of Northern Iowa at 138 pounds. Boyd, ranked third in the country at 142 pounds by Amateur Wrestling News, de­feated Bret Helmkaempf of Drake 9-3 in the championship match. Freshman 157-pound oppo­nent Jeff Chumbley of Missouri Southern and 184-pound Mark Krause of Southwest Missouri State by scores of 23-3 and 19-5 respectively in his first two matches.

Gerardi fought back from a 5-deficit to score a 12-8 tri­umph in the 167-pound match. The El Cajon, California native is ranked 13th in the nation, but McCann says that his ranking is deceiving.

see NCAAs / page 17