O’Hara, SUFR members compromise after discussion

Demand for social space, use of Theodore’s to be addressed in upcoming meeting

By KATE MANUEL
News Writer

After much discussion at Tuesday’s meeting between Patricia O’Hara, Vice President of Student Affairs, and members of the group SUFR, a partial agreement was made toward filling one of the nine demands that SUFR presented to O’Hara on January 21. O’Hara said that she would act as a liaison for SUFR in setting up a meeting within the next two weeks between members of SUFR and Director of Student Activities Joe Cassidy, to discuss the use of Theodore’s and the allotment of social space in LaFortune.

Several SUFR members expressed concern that contacting Cassidy directly would not be a sufficient solution to their need for meeting space. Members said they had not been effective in conveying minority needs to Cassidy in the past and that they wanted a prompt solution to this problem.

She agreed to assist the students in presenting their concerns to Cassidy after SUFR members began pressuring O’Hara to respond to at least some of their demands.

The compromise came after Cassidy’s presentation of the issue were discussed without solution. Group members began leaving the meeting, expressing disgust as the arguments continued but no conclusions were reached.

Prior to leaving the meeting, one SUFR member said to O’Hara, “You’re going to commit to something tonight. Do you know what I’m feeling?” said a SUFR member.

Another SUFR member said, “You should be a liaison for us. If you knew how frustrated we are, it wouldn’t be that hard to do for us. We have been very respectful, although you have not respected us. We have been very civil, although you have not always been civil.”

“We’ve been talking since I’ve been here. I’m about to graduate and nothing has happened. I’m being disrespected and my people are being disrespected. Do you understand what I’m feeling?” said a SUFR member.

Other demands addressed prior to the compromise were the formulation of a racial harassment policy, autonomy of the Office of Minority Affairs and prerogative of the Director of Minority Student Affairs to select his own assistants, and the proposed multi-cultural center. SUFR reiterated its demand for a racial harassment policy

\[\text{See SUFR page 5}\]

Desert Storm launches 2,600 more air sorties on Iraq

By DAVID KINNEY
News Writer

Some members of the Hall presidents’ Council (HPC) voiced concern about activities planned by the Gulf Crisis Action group for this Friday.

The group has put together a candlelight procession and prayer vigil in remembrance of the United States troops fighting in the gulf, according to Marci Poorman, a Gulf Crisis group member.

The program commemorates the National Day for Student Activism. “It’s an event that we want to be non-partisan, whether you support the war or not,” Poorman said.

The procession begins at 6:30 p.m. on Feb. 1 at the Baggole on the Notre Dame campus and will end at the Grotto, according to Poorman. After a short prayer service, the group hopes to hold an all-night prayer vigil. A women’s dorm and a men’s dorm will be encouraged to send at least two representatives to the Grotto during a specific time in order to pass on a candle, she continued.

Some HPC members raised concerns that the vigil and service might be lost support because of a misinterpretation of the group’s beliefs.

“Our group stands for peace, against the war,” explained Poorman in explanation of the group’s beliefs. “Everyone says that we’re against the war, (so) we don’t support our troops. We really do.

In other business:

• Scott Harris of the Student Union Board (SUN) encouraged hall presidents to inform the dorms about the topic of Spike Lee’s presentation on Feb. 2. “The topic of the lecture is cultural diversity,” said Harris, emphasizing that while racial tensions may be addressed, they will not be the primary focus.

According to Harris, the SUN is working to make the presentation a positive event supporting racial diversity, rather than another factor fostering racial tensions.

• Kelly Fitzpatrick announced that SUN and Travelmore are sponsoring a Spring Break trip to Panama City Beach, Florida. The $199 fee covers the bus trip and seven night’s lodging; a $50 deposit is due Feb. 8.

• Cavanaugh Hall President Mike Carpin announced the Cavanaugh presentation of the play “While the Lights Were Out,” in Washington Hall.

AP Photo

President Bush gestures during a speech before a meeting of religious broadcasters Monday morning in Washington. Bush said the war in the Persian Gulf is against the regime of Saddam Hussein and not the people of Iraq. See State of the Union, page 6.

Members of the HPC discuss activities of Gulf Crisis group

By MONICA VANT
News Editor

Kelley Tuthill has been named Editor-in-Chief of the Observer for 1991-92 by a majority vote of the general board.

Tuthill is a junior American Studies major with a concentration in Gender Studies. She is from Hingham, Mass.

"The next year promises to be an exciting one, with Notre Dame’s celebration of its Sesquicentennial, the 200th anniversary of women at ND, and The Observer’s 25th anniversary. I look forward to guiding the Observer to another year's success." said Tuthill. "I’m sure will be a special year.

Tuthill previously served as News Editor, Assistant News Editor, and News Copy Editor. As a Senior Staff Reporter, she won a national award last year for her news feature on Chinese students at ND.

“Among other things, I am committed to fulfilling our goal of truly being a newspaper that serves both ND and Saint Mary’s,” said she. “I will seek the involvement of Saint Mary’s students in all departments of the paper.”

Tuthill will serve as Editor-in-Chief for 1991-92

By KATE MANUEL
News Writer

The war and TV / page 7

State of the Union / page 6

Night scouts / page 7

Nation’s state of mind / page 6

well as factories on the outskirts of the city,” said Noor Mohammad, 37, a Swede’s tailor. He also said he saw at least 25 damaged vehicles, including a bus, along the desert highway west to Jordan.

“Anyone who now lives anywhere in Iraq must be crazy,” said a Jordanian woman who drove through Iraq from Kuwait. “It is really hell, bombs are falling all the time and there is fire everywhere.”

Operation Desert Storm

The Observer

VOL. XXIII NO. 82
WEDNESDAY, JANUARY 30, 1991

THE INDEPENDENT NEWSPAPER SERVING NOTRE DAME AND SAINT MARY’S

O’Hara, SUFR members compromise after discussion

Demand for social space, use of Theodore’s to be addressed in upcoming meeting

By KATE MANUEL
News Writer

After much discussion at Tuesday’s meeting between Patricia O’Hara, Vice President of Student Affairs, and members of the group SUFR, a partial agreement was made toward filling one of the nine demands that SUFR presented to O’Hara on January 21. O’Hara said that she would act as a liaison for SUFR in setting up a meeting within the next two weeks between members of SUFR and Director of Student Activities Joe Cassidy, to discuss the use of Theodore’s and the allotment of social space in LaFortune.

Several SUFR members expressed concern that contacting Cassidy directly would not be a sufficient solution to their need for meeting space. Members said they had not been effective in conveying minority needs to Cassidy in the past and that they wanted a prompt solution to this problem.

She agreed to assist the students in presenting their concerns to Cassidy after SUFR members began pressuring O’Hara to respond to at least some of their demands.

The compromise came after Cassidy’s presentation of the issue were discussed without solution. Group members began leaving the meeting, expressing disgust as the arguments continued but no conclusions were reached.

Prior to leaving the meeting, one SUFR member said to O’Hara, “You’re going to commit to something tonight. Do you know what I’m feeling?” said a SUFR member.

Another SUFR member said, “You should be a liaison for us. If you knew how frustrated we are, it wouldn’t be that hard to do for us. We have been very respectful, although you have not respected us. We have been very civil, although you have not always been civil.”

“We’ve been talking since I’ve been here. I’m about to graduate and nothing has happened. I’m being disrespected and my people are being disrespected. Do you understand what I’m feeling?” said a SUFR member.

Other demands addressed prior to the compromise were the formulation of a racial harassment policy, autonomy of the Office of Minority Affairs and prerogative of the Director of Minority Student Affairs to select his own assistants, and the proposed multi-cultural center. SUFR reiterated its demand for a racial harassment policy

\[\text{See SUFR page 5}\]

Desert Storm launches 2,600 more air sorties on Iraq

By DAVID KINNEY
News Writer

Some members of the Hall presidents’ Council (HPC) voiced concerns regarding activities planned by the Gulf Crisis Action group for this Friday.

The group has put together a candlelight procession and prayer vigil in remembrance of the United States troops fighting in the gulf, according to Marci Poorman, a Gulf Crisis group member.

The program commemorates the National Day for Student Activism. “It’s an event that we want to be non-partisan, whether you support the war or not,” Poorman said.

The procession begins at 6:30 p.m. on Feb. 1 at the Baggole on the Notre Dame campus and will end at the Grotto, according to Poorman. After a short prayer service, the group hopes to hold an all-night prayer vigil. A women’s dorm and a men’s dorm will be encouraged to send at least two representatives to the Grotto during a specific time in order to pass on a candle, she continued.

Some HPC members raised concerns that the vigil and service might be lost support because of a misinterpretation of the group’s beliefs.

“Our group stands for peace, against the war,” explained Poorman in explanation of the group’s beliefs. “Everyone says that we’re against the war, (so) we don’t support our troops. We really do.

In other business:

• Scott Harris of the Student Union Board (SUN) encouraged hall presidents to inform the dorms about the topic of Spike Lee’s presentation on Feb. 2. “The topic of the lecture is cultural diversity,” said Harris, emphasizing that while racial tensions may be addressed, they will not be the primary focus.

According to Harris, the SUN is working to make the presentation a positive event supporting racial diversity, rather than another factor fostering racial tensions.

• Kelly Fitzpatrick announced that SUN and Travelmore are sponsoring a Spring Break trip to Panama City Beach, Florida. The $199 fee covers the bus trip and seven night’s lodging; a $50 deposit is due Feb. 8.

• Cavanaugh Hall President Mike Carpin announced the Cavanaugh presentation of the play “While the Lights Were Out,” in Washington Hall.

AP Photo

President Bush gestures during a speech before a meeting of religious broadcasters Monday morning in Washington. Bush said the war in the Persian Gulf is against the regime of Saddam Hussein and not the people of Iraq. See State of the Union, page 6.

Members of the HPC discuss activities of Gulf Crisis group

By MONICA VANT
News Editor

Kelley Tuthill has been named Editor-in-Chief of the Observer for 1991-92 by a majority vote of the general board.

Tuthill is a junior American Studies major with a concentration in Gender Studies. She is from Hingham, Mass.

"The next year promises to be an exciting one, with Notre Dame’s celebration of its Sesquicentennial, the 200th anniversary of women at ND, and The Observer’s 25th anniversary. I look forward to guiding the Observer to another year’s success." said Tuthill. "I’m sure will be a special year.

Tuthill previously served as News Editor, Assistant News Editor, and News Copy Editor. As a Senior Staff Reporter, she won a national award last year for her news feature on Chinese students at ND.

“Among other things, I am committed to fulfilling our goal of truly being a newspaper that serves both ND and Saint Mary’s,” said she. “I will seek the involvement of Saint Mary’s students in all departments of the paper.”
I hereby enter my name in the NFL draft.

It is with great pain and a heavy heart that I announce today my intentions to forget my senior year of eligibility and to play my name in the pool for the NFL draft.

After examining closely all sides of the issue, I have decided to beat the Feb. 1 deadline and take my risks with this year's draft.

It is true that I have not played football at Notre Dame, but I have been in close counsel the past few days with Football Coach Lou Holtz. After hearing of my decision, Holtz issued the following statement:

"While I have never actually heard of John O'Brien, I support fully his decision to enter the draft. Though I'm not really sure what he's done for the University of Notre Dame, I'll see you at the combines."

Frankly, I was touched.

While I haven't played organized football since eighth grade, I feel my talents speak for themselves. As long snapping for the St. Catharine's Academy, I had a perfect record against St. Rita. I snapped the ball over the head of the punter on THREE SUCCESSIVE four downs. He recovered the first two and ran them for first downs, but no dice on the third try.

Then, on two successive extra point tries, I snapped the ball over the head of the holder and collided violently into the hands of the kicker. This was a play we called "Not Placement." I believe me, and ND junior Matt Mullarkey—he was the keeper.

As a defensive end in the same game, I batted down one pass and got held by their tight end twice. I played such a great game that Coach Barry urged the team "not to kill him."

It's obvious that I have the credentials to play in the NFL if not start in place of Mike Tomczak. The scouts predict my chances of getting anywhere in the first twelve rounds as "as good as Roseanne Barr's." However, I bear the New England Patriots are interested.

For the scouts, I am packaging myself as a holder who has played in extra points. I'm perfect for the position because I like to sit down and I can get my hands REALLY sticky by spitting on them. Although I've never really been a holder before, I think I've got what it takes.

In the past few days, I have hired a lawyer (some guy named DIAL DRU) and have been in contact with several sports agents, all of whom said they would call me back later. I informed them that I had two conditions for playing in the NFL.

First, I request at least minimum wage. Second, I want a helmet with a shaded sun visor.

All I have decided to wait until later to complete my American Studies degree. I figure I'll have plenty of time to do that later.

So, to all my fellow students and loyal fans, I officially ask for your understanding and support. Oh, and Rocket—if you're reading this—I'll see you at the combines.

The Observer

P.O. Box Q, Notre Dame, Indiana 46556

(219)-239-7471

Tuesday's Staff

News
Joe Mooty
Christopher Bernhardt

Spartan
Rich Kurt

Accent
Page A. Brown
John Fischel

Production
Wandi Cunningham
Lisa Bourdon

Viewpoint
Rich Kukla
Scoreboard
Rene Ferran

The Observer (USPS 599 2-ZQO) is published Monday through Friday during exam and vacation periods. The Observer is a member of the Associated Press. All reproduction rights are reserved.

WEATHER REPORT

Forecast for noon, Wednesday, January 30

WEATHER REPORT

CONDITIONS

Cold front High pressure

Warm front Low pressure

Shower

Thunderstorm

Snow

Sunny

Gusty

Showery Cloudy

Cloudy

FORECAST:

mostly cloudy today with early morning flurries. Highs to middle up to 20s. Partly cloudy tonight and early tomorrow. Lows from the lower to mid teens. Partly sunny and cold Thursday. Highs in the middle 20's.

TODAY AT A GLANCE

Divers found with 366 pounds of cocaine

NEW YORK - Police scuba divers found two

Colombians and 366 pounds of cocaine stowed away in the air pocket of an oil tanker's t r u s s h e l l , w h e r e the men had weathered a five-day voyage, the Customs

Service said. The divers found the men last week soaked and shivering in the rudder shaft of the Bright

Eagle, which was anchored in New York Harbor, special agent Robert Van Etten said Monday. "This particular type of ship has an enlarged rudder housing area and we targeted it for search because of this design," said Van Etten, in charge of the Customs

Service's regional office in Newark, N.J.

American Marine sentenced for desertion

CAMPAUGE, N.C. - A Marine reservist who said he enlisted to help pay for college and did not plan to fight in the war was sentenced to seven months in jail on charges of desertion. Cpl. Greg A. Dawson was convicted by a court-martial and sentenced to seven months in the brig. But the judge suspended the sentence for seven months, subject to dismissal. He is the only U.S. Marine sentenced for desertion.

IN THIS ISSUE

HISPANIC-AMERICAN ORGANIZATION will have its first meeting of the spring semester tonight at Farley

Hall at 7:30 p.m. Open to the community. If you are interested, an organization is now accepting submissions for the Spring

1991 "College Life" and "Summer Fun" issues. If you wish to attend, please come to 311 Administration Building.

VOLUNTEERS ARE NEEDED for Counseling, a service of the University Counseling Center for the ND &

SMC community. If you are interested, an organizational meeting will take place tonight at 6:30 p.m. in room 300 of the Counseling Center.

THE CENTER FOR SOCIAL CONCERNS will be hosting a Hospitality Luncheon this Thursday, January 31, from 11:30 a.m.-1:30 p.m. at the CSC. A smorgasbord of food will be served. All are encouraged to attend. The luncheon will benefit Dumas House.

ATTENTION JUNIORS: this is a reminder that you may pick up the pictures you turned in for the JPW slide show in the JPW office-third floor LaFortune!!

THE ACCOUNTING ASSOCIATION will meet at Farley

Hall at 7:30 p.m. Open to the public.

After examining closely John O'Brien's decision to enter the draft, though I'm not really sure what he's done for the University of Notre Dame, I support fully his decision to enter the combines. I'll see you at the combines.

Lozano to donate 1 million for Hispanic ND students

Special to The Observer

An executive of the nation's largest daily Spanish-language newspaper will endow a $1 million scholarship fund to benefit deserving Hispanic students at the University of Notre Dame. The fund is a gift of Notre Dame trustee Ignacio E. Lozano, Jr., editor-in-chief of the Los Angeles-based La Opinion and a former U.S. ambassador to El Salvador.

Acknowledging the gift, Rev. Edward Malloy, C.S.C., Notre Dame's president, said, "This most generous benefaction by 'Nacho' Lozano addresses two of Notre Dame's foremost priorities—our need for increased endowments for scholarships and fellowships and our desire to increase the opportunities for Hispanic and other minority students to attend the University."

"Through three generations my family has been blessed with the good fortune that has permitted our newspaper enterprise to flourish," Lozano said. "I believe it is now time to share this blessing with young Hispanic men and women of this and future generations who have the opportunity but not the financial means to receive a Notre Dame education, with all the values that this represents."

A native of San Antonio, Lozano was graduated from Notre Dame in 1947 with a bachelor's degree in journalism and joined the staff of La Opinion that same year. He has held positions as ambassador to El Salvador in 1976-77 by appointment of President Gerald Ford and now serves as La Opinion's editor-in-chief since 1953, with the exception of his service as ambassador to El Salvador.

Lozano was named a member of Notre Dame's Board of Trustees in 1983 and was awarded an honorary degree by the University in 1990. He served on an executive planning body and as Orange County, Calif., chairman of Notre Dame's just-completed, $450-plus million "Strategic Moment" fund raising campaign, the most successful development effort in the history of Catholic higher education.

Among his many previous gifts to the University was a contribution to the Jose Napoleon Duarte Scholarship Trust, established in honor of the late Salvadoran president who was also a Notre Dame graduate.

Lozano serves on a number of nonprofit and corporate boards, among them BankAmerica Corporation, the Federal Reserve Bank of San Francisco, Los Angeles branch; Walt Disney Company; and National Public Radio, and his memberships include the Council on Foreign Relations and the Knights of Malta.

Lozano and his wife, Maria, have four children. Jose, a son, is the publisher of La Opinion, and the youngest child, Francis, is a freshman at Notre Dame.

1991 Iceberg Debates to begin

By CHRIS WILKINSON

The third annual Iceberg Debates are scheduled to begin next Tuesday with "big-time athletics" as the first topic of discussion.

The Iceberg Debates were instituted in 1989 to "increase student awareness of key local, national, and international issues" and to encourage student debate within the dorms, according to Suzanne Fitzgerald, public relations director for the debates.

The debates, which begin Feb. 5, consist of six rounds of competition. Representative teams from each dorm participate in each of the first three rounds before eliminations, which are based on debate record, occur.

The fourth round, the quarter finals, is on Feb. 19. The Semi-finals are being held Feb. 27 and the finals are on March 5. Each dorm has a co-ed team which consists of at least two members from the dorm and at least one member of the opposite sex. Fisher and Grace have two teams.

Students are chosen to participate on teams on a first-come, first-serve basis. One of the main misconceptions of the debates is that participants need prior debate experience. The debates are designed to increase communication skills and foster intellectual life on campus. Anyone with an interest in public speaking can become involved.

Invitations to judge the debates are sent to faculty members, law students, and history and government graduate students. Those that accept the invitations must attend a seminar to learn how to critique the proceedings.

The winning dorm receives a $500 dollar prize and the traveling trophy.

In rounds one and two, the teams will debate the same topic: "That big-time athletics play a detrimental role in American colleges and universities." All students are encouraged to attend the round one (Feb. 5) or round two (Feb. 7) debates happening in their dorm. There will be questions and answer period during which students can voice their personal opinions.

Robert L. Franklin, M.D. announces the opening of a South Bend office for the practice of PSYCHIATRY and PSYCHOANALYSIS.

Increased self-knowledge generates opportunities to resolve personal, relationship, and career problems. University of Chicago medical faculty member with American Psychoanalytic Association accredited training. Medication used only when indicated. For appointment call 234-5656.

PATHS OF PRAYER

A PROGRAM DESIGNED TO EXAMINE THE MANY FORMS OF PRAYER

PRAYING WITH SCRIPTURE, JOURNALING, LITURGICAL PRAYER, IMAGINATION IN PRAYER, ART AND PRAYER. EIGHT SESSIONS PLUS A MINI-RETREAT. NUMBER LIMITED

Registration required. Call Sister Mary Curran, csc, 239-5242

First Meeting: February 5

Siegfried Chapel, 7 p.m.

Sponsored by Campus Ministry
Priest from Medjugorje speaks about apparitions

By ANNAMARIE ZELL
News Writer

The apparitions of the Virgin Mary in Medjugorje are "too good not to be true," said Father Philip Pavich of the parish in Medjugorje, Yugoslavia. Six local youths claim the blessed Virgin has been appearing to them over the past nine years, calling the world to peace, prayer, conversion and fasting.

There has been a lot of controversy concerning the validity of these visions. Pavich said that there is too much evidence affirming the reality of the visions. He refers to the success of the Master of Divinity Program, Fr. Anne Seckinger's, and Notre Dame theology student Mrs. Elena Malitz, and Notre Dame theology student Mrs. Anne Seckinger.

As director of Notre Dame's Finance Forum, and a social sciences major, Pavich sees many women with all the qualifications it takes to be ordained. Asked what the future for the Catholic church might be, he stated, "I see a new understanding for what it means to be a priest. There will be a whole new range of ministries." Fr. Krieg asserted that the key to understanding the church's job is to recognize which men and women are being called by the Holy Spirit.

In our society, women are assuming new forms of leadership. The conflict that may arise is that strict cultural and sociological patterns still exist. Other societies may not accept women as readily. In the Catholic church, we try to do things differently."

Sr. Elena holds that in principle women should be ordained. "It misplaces the argument to say that women have a right to be ordained. That is one's right; it's a calling." She continued that the Incarnation was not about Jesus becoming a man, but God becoming human.

Mrs. Anne Seckinger supports the inclusion of women to see a renewal of the priesthood. "Women have a whole different perspective and spirituality than men. Our troubled world needs what they have to offer." According to Bob Krieg, the priesthood is dwindling. Despite a decrease, the number of lay people in the world has increased. "People come to each parish as a Holy Cross priest or brother. They're welcome to try it. I'd rather have a whole range of people(men and women) is on the upstairs."

Sponsored by the ladies of Notre Dame and Saint Mary's, the event was moderated by Dr. John Hourick, a Notre Dame business professor.

God gives each person one lifetime. What are you doing with yours?

Have you considered THE HOLY CROSS CANDIDATE YEAR?

A one-year program at Moreau Seminary at the University of Notre Dame for college graduates interested in exploring the possibility of a lifetime of service as a Holy Cross priest or brother. Scholarship assistance is available.

Call or write for information:
Fr. John Coxley, C.S.C.
Congregation of Holy Cross
Box 541
Notre Dame, Indiana 46556
(219) 239-6385

The 1991 MCAT Will Be An All New, Completely Revised Test.

Stanley H. Kaplan

NEED SOME MONEY?
Work Catering-JPW

Sign up in the basement of South Dining Hall this week, or next week.

Mon 10-2
Tues + Fri 10-4
Wed + Thurs 1-7

or call 239-5449

Finance Club

Very important meeting to discuss upcoming events, Finance Forum, and a social event. Wed, Jan 30 6:30 PM Rm 124 Hayes-Healy Questions? Call Derek at 234-3356.

The presentation was sponsored by the Queen of Peace Ministries and the Knights of Columbus.

The second National Medjugorje conference will take place in the JACC, June 14-16.

"Any priest can get in a blue funk," Pavich said. He describes his own "blue funk" as a time when he was "proud, charismatic, anti-Pope, Mary and Church." Pavich concluded with the advice, "Don't judge the priest. Please pray for him. We all need our mother's milk to soften our hearts.

Pavich also advised, "Don't let them rub you of your crosses. Keep the Cross central symbol in our lives, our masses. If Jesus and the Cross are not in then we're all "out.""

Planning on applying to medical school will be facing a completely revised Medical College Admission Test (MCAT). The Association of American Medical Colleges has announced that the new MCAT will measure a broader range of skills. Fortunately, the test makers aren't the only ones making changes. Stanley Kaplan, the first name in MCAT prep, has already designed a brand new course to help students get ready for the brand new test. All our lessons, home study notes, practice tests, and review books are written in the latest MCAT format and content. Does Kaplan preparation work? Over HALF the students in medical school today are Kaplan alumni. New text No problem.
Members of SUFR are angered by 'disrespect'

By CATHY FLYNN
News Writer

Members of Students United for Respect (SUFR) are demanding that Patricia O'Hara, Vice President of Student Affairs, be removed from her position because she has not been handling the racial harassment policy in an appropriate manner.

SUFR
continued from page 1
and expressed discontent with the progress that had been made in formulating such a policy.

A SUFR member said, "It seems to me that the whole handling of the racial harassment policy is terrible. You should ask the students what they want in a racial harassment policy."

Last year the Provost's office formed an ad hoc committee to talk about racial harassment and a racial harassment policy covering discriminatory harassment of any sort was formulated, O'Hara said.

Because the racial harassment policy would be university-wide, affecting students, faculty, and staff, it is in the process of being discussed on all these levels and is working its way to the Academic Council, said O'Hara, who expects the policy to be approved by the Academic Council at its April meeting.

SUFR members expressed concern that discussing the racial harassment policy on all levels was a delaying tactic on the Administration's part and that a racial harassment policy applying to students should be ready for inclusion in next fall's Du Lac.

A SUFR member said, "What I don't understand is why we have to handle all these policies, staff and faculty, when we the students are the ones coming to you? Why not handle these as separate entities? The students want a racial harassment policy now."

"It should have been ready sooner. The ramifications - mental - that we have to go through, there is no reason for that. Don't you realize that in not setting timelines you allow these committees to draw this out indefinitely?" a SUFR member said.

To SUFR's demand that Kenneth Durgans, Director of Minority Student Affairs, be "autonomous" and accountable only to the students, O'Hara responded, "No director of a department is accountable only to those who demand it."

O'Hara added that an assistant to aid Durgans in the office of Minority Affairs had not been hired previously because of a disagreement over the most suitable applicant and that an assistant could not be hired at this exact time because of budget problems within the office.

"Mr. Durgans and I have had a disagreement over the person he had hired as assistant director. The stated educational qualifications for all people in assistant director positions is a Masters. This individual did not have this," she said.

SUFR members said that although they recommended the candidate favorably, the candidate, who was Durgans' first choice to fill the position, had not been rejected because of unfaorable recommendations from dorm rector and other administration members, and because he had not yet completed work on his Masters.

"Those units do not understand us, so how can they tell you who is a valid candidate? If the rec'tor don't know what is going on, then why not ask someone else?" a SUFR member said.

O'Hara said that, although Minority Affairs still has money left in that portion of its budget set aside to pay the salary of an assistant director, that money could possibly be used to correct the fact that the rest of the money budgeted to the office has already been spent, although the money is still six months left in the fiscal year.

SUFR members remained really a sympathetic act, trying to show who is in control of the situation.

Price then reminded the crowd that they had not been invited and he said that O'Hara had refused to attend their student forum because SUFR is not an officially recognized student organization.

"She takes this small technicality and uses it as an excuse not to meet us on our terms," senior Alicia Sierra said. "It is really a symbolic act, trying to show who is in control of the situation."

Students United for Respect gather to speak with members of the administration on Tuesday evening. The meeting, originally scheduled for another place and time, took place in a conference room in LaFortune at Vice President of Student Affairs, Patricia O'Hara's request.

The Observer staffers

The Observer, staff photo

Students United for Respect gathered to speak with members of the administration on Tuesday evening. The meeting, originally scheduled for another place and time, took place in a conference room in LaFortune at Vice President of Student Affairs, Patricia O'Hara's request.

SUCCESSFUL
LATE NIGHT OLYMPICS

THIS FRIDAY
FRIDAY
OPEN SKATING
8:00-9:30PM
MIDNIGHT - 1:30AM
SKATE RENTAL
50 CENTS

ALL PROCEEDS GO TO ST. JOSEPH COUNTY SPECIAL OLYMPICS

Graduate Fellowship in International Studies

Deadline Date: February 1, 1991

The Willard I. Beaulac Memorial Dacor Bacon House Foundation Fellowship will be awarded to a student of the University of Notre Dame, who is a citizen of the United States, for advanced study of international affairs in the academic year of 1991-92 at a recognized institution of higher learning in the United States. The award is made primarily on the basis of academic excellence. It is exclusively for tuition purpose, carries a stipend of up to $10,000, and is for one year of full-time graduate study only.

Further information may be obtained in 102-B O'Shaughnessy Hall.
Informal consultations

United Nations Secretary-General Javier Perez de Cuellar leaves the U.N. after informal Security Council consultations on Monday. The Secretary-General declined comment on a letter from Iraqi Foreign Minister Tariq Aziz denouncing him and the Council.

Americans speak out on the current state of nation

WASHINGTON (AP) — Ask some thoughtful Americans — a house painter a philosophy professor, an Oregon fishing guide — about the state of the union and what comes through is a twinge of doubt in a land of optimism: "We're in serious trouble," said Mike Mears, Vietnam veteran, criminal lawyer, mayor of the Atlanta suburb of Decatur, Ga. "Five months ago most people didn't know about Iraq and here we find ourselves basically in World War III."

Carl Sagan, famous astronomer, thought going to war was a mistake. "Would the government please to tell us how the errate of Kuwait is a democracy?" he asked, disdainfully.

The war said, is the country in better shape than when you win a kid. "Omaha, Neb, painting contractor Terry McGill, 41, who won a Bronze Star in Vietnam, was not so sure. "Things like 'unethical' come to mind," answered McGill. "Things like 'corrupt, dishonest.' Those are awfully strong words, but our society's slipping."

As President Bush prepared to go before Congress and nation to report on the state of the union, some ordinary and some well-known people were asked their views.

George Nigh had no doubts: America remains a land of opportunity. "Build a two-way bridge from the U.S. to any other country in the world," said the former governor of Oklahoma, now a college lecturer in Edmond, Okla. "You might as well put up a one-way sign because people want to come to America."

Frank Lopresti, 31, of Phoenixville, Pa., who sells pizza slices so big they slop over the sides of paper plates, thought the country had changed since he came to America from Sicily 15 years ago.

Jobs. opportunities are not there as they used to be," he said. "It is the best country you can always work."

And Ben Wattenberg, a Washington expert on population trends, took a dim view of American nail-biting.

Bush gives a reassuring State of the Union speech

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Bush confidently assured Americans Tuesday night that the war against Iraq will be won and the recession at home will end "in first order. We stand at a defining hour," the president said in his State of the Union address.

"For two centuries, we've done the hard work of freedom. And tonight, we lead the world in facing down a threat to decency and humanity," Bush said in a nationally broadcast address to a joint session of Congress.

It was the first wartime State of the Union address since the dark days of Vietnam. Extraordinary security precautions enshrouded the Capitol, a how to threats of terrorism.

He won a long standing ovation when he praised U.S. forces in the Persian Gulf as "truly America's finest" and again when he predicted "we will prevail" over Saddam Hussein.

"As Americans, we know there are times when we must move forward and accept our responsibility to lead the world away from the dark chaos of dictatorship, toward the brighter promise of a better day," Bush said in the 55-minute speech.

The president delivered a new assessment of the war to date. "I'm pleased to report that we are on course. Iraq's capacity to sustain war is being destroyed."

"Time will not be Saddam's salvation."

Shortly before the president spoke, the United States and the Soviet Union issued a joint statement that said a cease fire would be possible if Iraq made "an unequivocal commitment" to withdraw all its troops from Kuwait and took "concrete steps" in that direction. It was the first indication the White House might be willing to accept more than immediate, total withdrawal of Saddam's troops. With America's attention fo-

Ways to clean up oil spills

Mechanical

Floating booms contain the spill near the source or block it from sensitive areas.

Skin boats herd the oil together to be sucked up onto collection barges.

Shrimp of absorbent pads soak up oil on patches and in water too shallow for skimmer boats.

Fire

Oil must be fairly concentrated to burn, and crude is hard to ignite.

Chemical

Cloaking agents cause floating crusts to gather together for easier pickup, or sink to the bottom where it does not burn.

Dispensing agents break spills.

Biodegradation. Chemical agents are also polynomials.

Natural

Wind and wave action emulsify some oil into the water (like shaking salad dressing).

Bacteria naturally consume some crude oil over time.

New "biotremediation" techniques use special bacteria in large quantities to consume crude much faster — first used in open water after the 1990 Megal Bering tanker accident off Texas.

SPRING BREAK '91

ACAPULCO

FROM $459.00

MARCH 11-17, 1991

Air & Hotel PLUS, PLUS......

from CHICAGO on AMERICAN AIRLINES

FOR MORE INFORMATION CALL:

BOB AT 1-800-875-4525

ONLY 14 SEATS LEFT...CALL TODAY!!

Happy Birthday

Bob Slobetnik!

Happy Birthday Mary Murphy

Love, Mom & Dad

Happy Birthday!
TV coverage of war very important in U.S. dissent

NEW YORK (AP) — The satellite and information technologies that will be used in the TV network covering the war with Iraq have become just as indispensable as the voices and images of U.S. dissent.

"It's not just the medium of protest," said Marty Lucas, producer of the Gulf Crisis TV Project. "Nowadays you really need to have a TV camera available or you're going to be left behind."

As the Jan. 15 deadline approached for Iraq to withdraw from Kuwait, the project broadcast a two-hour program of music and news to town meetings, speeches, panel talks, protest songs and demonstrations against U.S. intervention. So far, the Gulf Crisis TV Project has aired on 26 Public Broadcasting Service stations and more than 300 cable television stations. "I would be very surprised if less than 1 million people had seen it," Lucas said.

That's a conservative guess, PBS affiliates that aired the show included New York City, Los Angeles, San Francisco, Philadelphia, Washington, Seattle, San Diego, Detroit, Phoenix, Evansville, Ind., Lubbock, Texas, and Charleston, Ill.

The four shows, compiled from tapes of cable access and independent producers around the country, were barely publicized. "It was a splendid television project," Lucas said. "It worked closer and every night we get a new producer's perspective that we need to hear."

There were reports on oil, arms, politics, and grass-roots organizing, with commentaries from distinguished Philadelphia Attorney Daniel Goldberg, 39, of the PBS' activists, including disabled veterans, more than a network of cable access stations. "Splendid television" is its first time as a TV station.

"What surprised us is when we were able to hook up with WYBE," Lucas said. "WYBE, UHF channel 15, is Philadelphia's second public cable access program. Last June with a full-time staff of eight and a budget of less than $1 million. The project was its first time as a PBS "presenter.""

"We're committed here at the station to making sure that voices which usually go unheard are heard clearly," said Aaron Ezekiel, WYBE's general manager. "Now that the technologies are becoming affordable, it's very important to make sure the widest possible range of voices is heard."

The Gulf Crisis TV Project does not end here, the producer's said.

NORTHERN SAUDI ARABIA (AP) — Each night at dusk, scouts patrol their faces with camouflage paint and leave the haven of their lines to probe for Iraqi weaknesses.

Scouts of the 82nd Airborne Division's 2nd Brigade inch a little farther each night. They're now operating within three miles of the northern border.

"Every night we get a little closer and every night we get a little more of a picture of what's out there," said Lt. Joseph Sacchetti of Philadelphia, a 28-year-old platoon leader of scouts from the 1st Battalion, 325th Infantry Regiment.

The paratroopers' jobs are to gather and assemble bits of information about the terrain and Iraqi positions.

To do this, they arrive at the spot where their methodical, painstaking work stopped the night before, then crawl on elbows and knees to new watch posts further out.

"This is about as close as you can get to the border without paying taxes in the other country," said Capt. Clint Esrey, a public affairs officer who accompanied one patrol.

As they advance, the scouts string razor wire across the desert floor as a defensive precaution. The night masks their movements while they serve as the brigade's eyes and ears.

They have goggles that turn night into day, thermal sights on 7.62-millimeter machine guns to see images of human forms, and a global positioning system that bounces signals off satellites to tell them their latitude and longitude. The system is accurate to within 35 feet of any spot on earth.

"We're nocturnal; darkness is our friend," said Spec. John Bowes, 27, of Red Bank, N.J.

Before they began their night-long mission, the soldiers were reminded they were at war.

"This is no drill," said Maj. Ralph Debus, 39, of Pemberton, N.J., the 1st Battalion operations officer. "This is for real. There are bad guys out there. Shoot to kill."

The sound of rifle bolts sliding back on the cold steel to pull bullets into the chamber heightened the message.

"Did you oil your weapon up today?" Lt. Sacchetti asked one of the men. "Might have to use it tonight."

Scouts are chosen from the ranks for the special duty. Their officers describe them as the best of the infantry: disciplined, smart, stealthy.

They talk with signals. Whispers are rare and they break radio silence only in extreme emergencies.

"A light is like putting cross hairs on your," said Spec. Hiram Sanders, 25, of New York City.

Scouts can call in artillery, air or missile strikes if they get into a jam, but prefer not to attract attention.

"We're not supposed to get into firefight," Sanders said. "Our mission is to snoop."

Scouts return the next morning in dirty camouflage fatigues, fingers and toes numb from the frosty night.

"Volunteers for Israel"

Alex Goldberg playfully gives Israeli soldier Rona Ephraty a kiss after Ephraty helped him put his gas mask on at Tel Aviv's Ben-Gurion airport Monday. The delegation of American "Volunteers for Israel" are in Tel Aviv to express their solidarity with the people.

Patrols scout for Iraqi weakness

"OPERATION DESERT STORM"

Wedneday, January 30, 1991

"Juniors"

WELCOME YOUR PARENTS TO JPW IN STYLE WITH ONE OF THESE GIFTS

Rose in Bud Vase $7.00

Fruit Basket $13.50

Flower Basket $13.00

ORDER MONDAY-FRIDAY 4-8pm AT THE JPW OFFICE (3rd FLOOR LAFORTUNE, REYNOLDS HALL) UNTIL FRIDAY, FEBRUARY 8th.

PICK-UP GIFTS ON WEDNESDAY, FEBRUARY 13th OR THURSDAY, FEBRUARY 14th.

FOR MORE INFORMATION CALL 239-6028

ENGINEERING AND MARKETING MAJORS:

JOHNSON CONTROLS

A leader in design and service of building control systems has positions available in technical sales and will be on campus the following dates:

Wednesday, January 30 - 7 to 9 pm.
Reception in the upper lounge, University Club.

Thursday, January 31 - All day
Interviews at the Career and Placement Center.

Interview schedules and more information are available at the Career and Placement center.
University neglects commitment to ethnic students

On Monday, Jan. 21, the celebration of Martin Luther King, Jr.'s birth, a group of ethnic students entered the University of Notre Dame du Lac and Saint Mary's College. It was necessary to reflect the policies of the administration of either institution. The news is reported as accurately and objectively as possible. Unsigned editorials represent the opinion of the majority of the Editor-in-Chief, Managing Editor, News Editor, Viewpoint Editor, Accent Editor, Production Manager, and Saint Mary's Student Commentaries. Letters and columns present the views of the authors. Column space is available to all members of the community and the free expression of varying opinions on campus through letters, as encouraged.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Group calls for peacemaking during crisis

Dear Editor:

We, the members of Pax Christi Notre Dame, are concerned by our own institution's bombing of Iraq. This war violates not only the principles of Christian pacifism, but the criteria of the Just War Theory as well, as outlined recently in two letters by the American Catholic bishops.

The central message of the Gospel, as we understand it, is Christ's call for us to identify with one another, especially with those who suffer. We cannot replace the works of mercy with acts of war. The Allied Forces have bombed Baghdad, a city of four million people, overwhelmingly since Jan. 16. Can people who take Christ's message of love seriously support this action in good conscience? We cannot.

Drew Buscareno
Joe Gress
Kevin Helfferman
Jeff Long
Joe McCarty
Emily Neufeld
Pax Christi Notre Dame
Jan. 24, 1991

Bush's short memory: old and new interventions

Dear Editor:

Thirteen months ago the United States invaded Panama. The reasons the Bush Administration gave were to a) continue patrolling Panama's military base. No new troops still in the country, b) defend the Panama treaties and c) defend democracy.

In the invasion, 24,000 U.S. soldiers attacked and occupied Panama. Between 1990 and 2000 Panamanians (mostly civilians) were murdered in nine days, according to independent sources. Thousands lost their homes—due to 'the precise job' of super stealth bombers and other military interventions—mainly in El Chorrillo (about 200,000 people live in this poor neighborhood). In San Miguelito, more than 5000 persons were imprisoned and huge material damage was caused. The Panamanian Chamber of Commerce asserted that the economic damage of the invasion was at least $1 billion.

After the apprehension of Noriega, Guillermo Endara, the apparent winner of elections held in May 1989, was sworn in as president of Panama on a U.S. military base. No new elections have been held since then, although U.S. troops still continue patrolling Panama's streets, violating Panama's sovereignty and its Canal treaties. Even worse, U.S. financial aid ($120 million) will not be even sufficient to cover part of the damages caused by U.S. troops.

George Bush wrote in his letter, referring to Iraq's invasion of Kuwait: "If armed men invaded a home in this country, killed those in their way, stole what they wanted and then announced the house was now theirs, no one would hesitate about what must be done." Well, Mr. Bush, it is nice, then, that you understand the situation your Administration and others before it have created in Panama and in dozens of other countries around the world. It is not fair to those who suffer and deeply outrages me that the brutal hangman suddenly speaks of "right and wrong," "human rights," and "moral obligation."

Both Noriega and Hussein were in part "U.S. creations," and they both were (or are being) destroyed by the same machinery, with thousands of civilian casualties in the process. An interesting chapter of history will be written when Mr. Bush clarifies his relationships with both of them while he was the director of the CIA. As long as people like him want to impose this form of "New World Order" and "desperately want peace," I have to sincerely say that I am against peace.

Enrique Dussel Peters
Graduate Student in Economics
Jan. 24, 1991
Letters to the Editor

Wednesday, January 30, 1991

Gulf crisis group wants diplomatic settlement

Dear Editor:

Since the massive deployment of United States armed forces, the University of Notre Dame's Gulf Crisis Action Group (GCAG) has been committed to bringing about a peaceful resolution to the conflict in the Middle East. In these days of international turmoil, emotional tensions run high and passions flare. This is a natural response to the present situation in the Persian Gulf, for we as a nation are deeply committed to life. We dread thinking how many lives this conflict will take.

Thus, support for our troops in the Persian Gulf region is imperative. Indeed, patriotism—love and support for our service men and women—is the right thing to do, especially if our country is actively involved in the war and the establishment of a United Nations peacekeeping force in the region.

The GCAG vehemently condemns Saddam Hussein's attack on Kuwait and Iraq's bombing of civilian areas in Israel. In short, we call upon the United States and its allies to bring about a diplomatic settlement. The GCAG has been forced to alter its strategy in order to focus on building public support for our troops. The present war has already cost hundreds of thousands of lives.

The GCAG supports a negotiated settlement that would allow the United States to withdraw its forces and would not cause further harm to the Gulf region. A negotiated settlement would also ensure the safety of our troops and would reduce the risk of civilian casualties.

We call upon our leaders to work towards a peaceful resolution of the conflict in the Middle East. Let us not forget the sacrifices made by our troops in the Persian Gulf region.

Tom Escal
Chad Mohler
Matthew Staffen
Notre Dame Gulf Crisis Action Group
Jan. 24, 1991

Bush has right to pray in reflection

Dear Editor:

Christian Dupont's letter about President Bush's decision to pray in the White House (The Observer, Jan. 23) was perhaps the most condemning of the many letters which I have read in The Observer. I take issue with Dupont's assertions and denunciations.

Dupont writes that Bush's "new world order" is religious imperialism. But the President clearly stated that his prayer is intended to bring peace and stability to the region, to bring our troops home, and to end the war.

Dupont also states that Bush is "pursuing the religious agenda of the United States". This is a false and misleading charge.

Dupont suggests that Bush is violating the First Amendment of the U.S. Constitution, which guarantees the right to free religion. Bush is a private citizen, not a public official.

Dupont's words are not only baseless but also unworthy of the respect that he so freely offers to others.

Tom Esch
Chad Mohler
Matthew Staffen
Notre Dame Gulf Crisis Action Group
Jan. 24, 1991

Viewpoint

War calls for mutual respect among divided Americans

Dear Editor:

I have little sympathy for Saddam Hussein. But what, then, of my friends in the Gulf region? I have little sympathy for those who fight Saddam Hussein. Some will say, "These protesters would oppose any war. They serve no purpose but to demoralize our troops and the region."

In the United States, our government, our principles of free speech, our freedom to dissent from the policies of our government, provide our only real link with truth, with reality, with the world. It is only by fighting our own demons. One philosopher would be to emboi or to be sure that, in that, Students showed lack of understanding at peace rally

Dear Editor:

I'd like to respond to the barrage of pro-war sentiment directed at those of us in Notre Dame during recent days. I will not defend or condone this unfortunate war with which this country is involved. I would certainly fail miserably in adding to the rhetoric both sides have excited. I do want to direct attention to a related issue more directly relevant to this conflict, however.

Our system of government rests upon a system of "checks and balances." It is these checks that our Constitution, proud of the intelligence of the Framers, has established in that contract. The First Amendment to the Constitution is a minimal concession on both sides.

The point is that there is a movement for loss in Vietnam. The legacies of this campaign have continued, and the Cindy's of this country are still searching for peace in Iraq.

We, as a society, must find a way to embroil men into the world order—one more just and peaceful?

Our legal system, too, follows a similar path. It requires both the defense and prosecution engage in debate, in argument, in the weighing of evidence, before a final, true judgment will win out. Thus, it is with my friends also. They represent our public, the capacity to reflect critically upon its actions, to stand up for our nation an informed and sensitive conscience.

Our country measures patriotism. We are asking, why? They are asking, why? They are asking for those who choose to exercise their right to protest.

One such question, regarding whether you are for or against war in the Gulf. People are asking why. They are asking, why? They are asking why to irresponsible leaders around the world who choose to embroil our nations in unjust conflict.

But the proponents of the removal of Saddam Hussein have legitimate reasons behind them. They are fighting a war that is a threat to world peace. We must support the Gulf war effort, and do so, prevent a recurrence. To make our money and support the Gulf war effort with our life, which means that we must ask why? They are asking why to those who choose to exercise their right to protest.

One such question is whether you are for or against war in the Gulf. People are asking why. They are asking, why? They are asking why to those who choose to exercise their right to protest.

One such question is whether you are for or against war in the Gulf. People are asking why. They are asking, why? They are asking why to those who choose to exercise their right to protest.

One such question is whether you are for or against war in the Gulf. People are asking why. They are asking, why? They are asking why to those who choose to exercise their right to protest.
Sing Primo I hear it's going.

The world is full of bears, hands and flowers. Two three-foot bears are centered around the idea that human beings must either reject or be reminded of the suffering of animals. It includes a large table overflowing with a grotesque amount of food and four headless, limbless people. Lysohir and her work have been featured in many ceramic books and magazines, most recently in a book titled, "Artists at Work: Twenty-Five Northwest Glassmakers, Ceramists And Bowlers."

Lysohir just completed a one-week artist-in-residency program at Saint Mary's College. During that time she gave two public lectures and worked with students on her most recent piece called "Bad Manners II." This piece also centers around greed and distinguishing between luxury and necessities. Lysohir's work will be on display in Hammes Gallery until February 22.

The variety of the work is representative of the changing forms and styles that art has gone through in the years past. The work ranges from paintings and drawings to ceramics and sculpture.

The juror of the show was Susan Vissor, a director and curator of the South Bend Art Center. Vissor said after judging the show, "I congratulate Saint Mary's on their obvious high level of serious art instruction and thank them for this opportunity to experience so many fine and stimulating works of art." The variety of the work is representative of the changing forms and styles that art has gone through in the years past. Three winners were chosen from the exhibition. First prize was awarded to Elizabeth Buhr, a 1987 graduate, for her piece called "Red Circle" made of teal blue pigment. Second place went to Kathleen Hogan, a 1988 graduate, for an untitled triptych made with acrylic and oil paints. The third place winner was Jocelyn Desmarais, a 1990 graduate. The piece titled, "It Was a Put On" is made from handmade felt and was worn as part of a performance piece at Redbud Fine Art Workshop.

This exhibit will remain on display in Moreau and Little Theatre galleries until February 22.
Patriots' general manager, Patrick Sullivan, resigns

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP) — An emotional Patrick Sullivan, up to his second day with the New England Patriots, resigned Tuesday night after months of speculation that the team his father founded in 1960.

"I recognized that things are not permanent and I felt very strongly that I wanted to have a role in the organization that was a responsible role," Sullivan said. "When I recognized that I really wouldn't have the responsible role that was important, it was time to move on."

Sullivan, 38, started working for the Patriots when he was seven years old by picking up dirty equipment in the locker room and rose to general manager in 1983. He remained after his father, William H. Sullivan Jr., sold the team to Victor Kiam in October 1988.

Sullivan, who survived several other occasions of job-loss, was in the job by last week, "Now is the time for both parties to part ways and move forward to an exciting future."

"As always, only the best of the New England Patriots now and in the future," he said. "He did not elaborate on the reasons for leaving with six years left on his contract."

But his duties had diminished since Sam Jankovich became the team's chief executive officer. On Dec. 20 and was given complete control of the organization by Kiam.

Sullivan didn't specify what duties he would have had if he remained with the team, but maintained that "it would be inaccurate to say that I was not an integral part of this organization."

"The New England Patriots are grateful to Patrick Sullivan for his three decades of his contributions to the club," Kiam said.

The elder Sullivan, beset by family financial problems, said the team to Kiam in October 1988. "The Sullivan era with footballally really effectively ended in October 1988," he said. "I leave to take a three-year break by Elmire Bennett."

"The most important thing is that we never really said goodbye when he went away," Sullivan said. "I have no idea what he's going to do."

Pat Sullivan said Tuesday night, "He joined the team on a full-time basis in 1976 and had a variety of roles — ticket sales, stadium operations, publicity assistant, and front office general manager and others."

But the 1990 season was the worst in club history, as it lost its last 14 games to finish 1-15. The Patriots' leading their season on Dec. 30 with a 13-10 loss at Giants Stadium, who won the Super Bowl on Sunday.

Sullivan's departure effectively ends his family's input into the organization. His father remains as club president in a largely ceremonial role.

The Observer scrapes together every business day from 10 a.m. to 9 p.m. at the North End, 314-25. Prices must be reported. The charge is 2 cents per character per day, including spaces.

The Top Reasons for Good Parenting

1. "The water balance" club of Dayton is looking for new members.

2. 24-hour day job.

3. Have a long-term, long-term career. Are you the sole resident of room 284-minor with the bald avenge?

4. Go to a class every day.

5. Can always find a special "mover" department.

For Sale

SPRING BREAK 91

Prices start from $375

Call NOW! 277-0250

AdTossa '91

GENERAL Meetings

AdTossa '91

Price: $29.95

Friday 9:00 to 10:00 in the Hurd Library Auditorium

Senior.

Join the back to school teams!" the sports

As the team to Kiam in October 1988, they made over 200 trips to the Super Bowl and were rewarded for their efforts.

HAPPY ENDING

TO UVING

AND TRAVEL

CAT.

TO GO ON UVING

AND TRAVEL

CAT.

TO UVING

AND TRAVEL

CAT.

TO UVING

AND TRAVEL

CAT.

TO UVING

AND TRAVEL

CAT.

TO UVING

AND TRAVEL

CAT.

TO UVING

AND TRAVEL

CAT.

TO UVING

AND TRAVEL

CAT.

TO UVING

AND TRAVEL

CAT.

TO UVING

AND TRAVEL

CAT.

TO UVING

AND TRAVEL

CAT.

TO UVING

AND TRAVEL

CAT.

TO UVING

AND TRAVEL

CAT.

TO UVING

AND TRAVEL

CAT.

TO UVING

AND TRAVEL

CAT.

TO UVING

AND TRAVEL

CAT.

TO UVING

AND TRAVEL

CAT.

TO UVING

AND TRAVEL

CAT.

TO UVING

AND TRAVEL

CAT.

TO UVING

AND TRAVEL

CAT.

TO UVING

AND TRAVEL

CAT.

TO UVING

AND TRAVEL

CAT.

TO UVING

AND TRAVEL

CAT.

TO UVING

AND TRAVEL

CAT.

TO UVING

AND TRAVEL

CAT.

TO UVING

AND TRAVEL

CAT.

TO UVING

AND TRAVEL

CAT.

TO UVING

AND TRAVEL

CAT.

TO UVING

AND TRAVEL

CAT.

TO UVING

AND TRAVEL

CAT.

TO UVING

AND TRAVEL

CAT.

TO UVING

AND TRAVEL

CAT.

TO UVING

AND TRAVEL

CAT.

TO UVING

AND TRAVEL

CAT.

TO UVING

AND TRAVEL

CAT.

TO UVING

AND TRAVEL

CAT.

TO UVING

AND TRAVEL

CAT.

TO UVING

AND TRAVEL

CAT.

TO UVING

AND TRAVEL

CAT.

TO UVING

AND TRAVEL

CAT.

TO UVING

AND TRAVEL

CAT.

TO UVING

AND TRAVEL

CAT.

TO UVING

AND TRAVEL

CAT.

TO UVING

AND TRAVEL

CAT.

TO UVING

AND TRAVEL

CAT.

TO UVING

AND TRAVEL

CAT.

TO UVING

AND TRAVEL

CAT.

TO UVING

AND TRAVEL

CAT.

TO UVING

AND TRAVEL

CAT.

TO UVING

AND TRAVEL

CAT.

TO UVING

AND TRAVEL

CAT.

TO UVING

AND TRAVEL

CAT.

TO UVING

AND TRAVEL

CAT.

TO UVING

AND TRAVEL

CAT.

TO UVING

AND TRAVEL

CAT.

TO UVING

AND TRAVEL

CAT.

TO UVING

AND TRAVEL

CAT.

TO UVING

AND TRAVEL

CAT.

TO UVING

AND TRAVEL

CAT.
Items

continued from page 16

Olympic sports teams was nonexistent," says Scholl, 33, who left his job at an Elkhart ad agency to become Director of Fund Raising for the International Summer Special Olympic Games Committee. "In recent years, we have seen a tremendous increase in (fan involvement), especially in women's sports," he says. "A good example is in women's basketball. They're ranked 19th in the country. As soon as they got ranked, attendance came right up."

"Two years ago, the women's team averaged 200 fans per game," he says. "Last year, they averaged 666. This year, we hope to draw about 1,200 per game. We've got some things coming up that we hope will draw a lot of fans to the games."

Yet sports marketing alone will never do the job. "One thing that I should preface ahead of this entire thing on is that you have to have a good sports program for sports marketing to work," he says. Scholl and his entourage—which consists of one intern, Jim Fraleigh, and a number of student volunteers—have targeted members of the South Bend community and Notre Dame students in their sports marketing.

They would arrange, for example, for McDonald's to hand out free women's basketball tickets to patrons, or if they would have a Boy Scout Night at a hockey game. Or they would give free aqueous bottles to the first 200 fans in attendance at an event. "Nothing is more satisfying for us to see than a large student turnout," he says. "It's critical to us for a lot of reasons. One is because they are the athletes' fans out there. Secondly, we love the atmosphere the students create. They're not afraid to yell out and cheer, while some South Bend residents are."

And yet, as Scholl will concede, his sports marketing has been directed primarily on residents rather than students. "I think I personally have not done enough to extend the invitation to students," he says. "On the other hand, we must be realistic—there are over 100 home dates for paid-admission events, and probably only a few that can include free ones. We also know that students' time is severely limited."

Despite this disadvantage, Scholl says he'll be stepping up marketing toward students in the future. One asset he has this year is his student volunteers—30 strong—who open up the possibilities for spreading the word, and offering ideas, for upcoming events. "Student volunteers are effective because we're students and we know how busy students are," says Anne Dinsbah, a senior student volunteer. "But because of marketing we know how to get students' attention. Sports marketing is new, it's different, and each of the volunteers got a list of different areas that we could work in—table tents, flyers, a 900-number, giving sponsors, door prizes, and we all got to pick what we wanted to work on."

With all this help, Scholl can concentrate on innovative ways of marketing Notre Dame athletics. Besides that, his job is unique in the field of collegiate sports marketing because he doesn't have to direct any of his efforts on football, basketball, or fund raising. "We're fortunate here in that the (football and basketball) programs promote most of the women's basketball at other schools. I don't know of any other school where a person can worry only about Olympic sports." This leads many to the question of whether Notre Dame is laying the tracks for a much larger sports-marketing initiative. Perhaps other universi ties will be in Notre Dame's sit tuation of Olympic sports pro motion—or 10 or 15 years from now."

Says Scholl has to think about this before he answers. "I think schools are going to concentrate on one or two programs where they'll really put a lot of effort," he surmises. "I don't think you'll find a lot of schools that will actively promote Olympic programs in addi tion to the two main ones. Football puts us in a very unique situation." And so another Notre Dame story is reduced to its essence tials—Irish football. Sports marketing here is in its promi nent position because of what football gives to the University—revenue to improve the quality of life for its stu dents.

Scoreboard

NBA STANDINGS

EASTERN CONFERENCE
American Division
Atlanta 31 63 .353
Boston 29 65 .346
Chicago 29 65 .346
New York 27 67 .397
Philadelphia 25 68 .286
Toronto 25 68 .286

Central Division
Charlotte 27 66 .297
Detroit 21 72 .250
Indiana 21 72 .250
Milwaukee 21 72 .250
Washington 21 72 .250

Midwest Division
Chicago 27 66 .297
Indiana 26 71 .268
Milwaukee 26 71 .268

Western Conference
Northwest Division
Denver 27 65 .297
Golden 12 79 .150
Los Angeles 14 77 .182
Portland 13 79 .164
Seattle 14 77 .182

Pacific Division
Phoenix 18 73 .730
San Antonio 19 72 .730
Sacramento 15 75 .672
San Diego 10 82 .526
Seattle 15 75 .672

NHL STANDINGS

PACIFIC DIVISION

West Coast Conference

NEW YORK

DETROIT

WASHINGTON

TAMPA BAY

CHICAGO

COLUMBUS

IMPERIAL

NHL LINESCORES

WASHINGTON

3. Washington 3 3-0-2 2-1-2-2 8-2-1 8-2-1

3. Columbus 4 3-0-2 2-1-2-2 8-2-1 8-2-1

3. Imperial 4 3-0-2 2-1-2-2 8-2-1 8-2-1

3. Tampa Bay 4 3-0-2 2-1-2-2 8-2-1 8-2-1

NEW YORK

3. New York 3 3-0-2 2-1-2-2 8-2-1 8-2-1

3. Washington 4 3-0-2 2-1-2-2 8-2-1 8-2-1

3. Tampa Bay 4 3-0-2 2-1-2-2 8-2-1 8-2-1

3. Columbus 4 3-0-2 2-1-2-2 8-2-1 8-2-1

CHICAGO

3. Chicago 3 3-0-2 2-1-2-2 8-2-1 8-2-1

3. New York 4 3-0-2 2-1-2-2 8-2-1 8-2-1

3. Washington 4 3-0-2 2-1-2-2 8-2-1 8-2-1

3. Tampa Bay 4 3-0-2 2-1-2-2 8-2-1 8-2-1

COLUMBUS

3. Columbus 3 3-0-2 2-1-2-2 8-2-1 8-2-1

3. New York 4 3-0-2 2-1-2-2 8-2-1 8-2-1

3. Washington 4 3-0-2 2-1-2-2 8-2-1 8-2-1

3. Tampa Bay 4 3-0-2 2-1-2-2 8-2-1 8-2-1

IMPERIAL

3. Imperial 3 3-0-2 2-1-2-2 8-2-1 8-2-1

3. New York 4 3-0-2 2-1-2-2 8-2-1 8-2-1

3. Washington 4 3-0-2 2-1-2-2 8-2-1 8-2-1

3. Tampa Bay 4 3-0-2 2-1-2-2 8-2-1 8-2-1

TAMPA BAY

3. Tampa Bay 3 3-0-2 2-1-2-2 8-2-1 8-2-1

3. New York 4 3-0-2 2-1-2-2 8-2-1 8-2-1

3. Washington 4 3-0-2 2-1-2-2 8-2-1 8-2-1

3. Columbus 4 3-0-2 2-1-2-2 8-2-1 8-2-1

CHICAGO

3. Chicago 3 3-0-2 2-1-2-2 8-2-1 8-2-1

3. New York 4 3-0-2 2-1-2-2 8-2-1 8-2-1

3. Washington 4 3-0-2 2-1-2-2 8-2-1 8-2-1

3. Tampa Bay 4 3-0-2 2-1-2-2 8-2-1 8-2-1

WASHINGTON

3. Washington 3 3-0-2 2-1-2-2 8-2-1 8-2-1

3. New York 4 3-0-2 2-1-2-2 8-2-1 8-2-1

3. Tampa Bay 4 3-0-2 2-1-2-2 8-2-1 8-2-1

3. Columbus 4 3-0-2 2-1-2-2 8-2-1 8-2-1

NBA NO BOX TALE BOXES

EKRAN

1. Dallas 12 33 7-3-1 1-0-0 690 690 1-0-0

2. San Antonio 10 32 6-3-1 1-0-0 690 690 1-0-0

3. Portland 8 30 4-4-1 1-0-0 690 690 1-0-0

4. Houston 8 30 4-4-1 1-0-0 690 690 1-0-0

COLLEGE

1. St. John's 10 32 6-3-1 1-0-0 690 690 1-0-0

2. Marquette 10 32 6-3-1 1-0-0 690 690 1-0-0

3. Temple 8 30 4-4-1 1-0-0 690 690 1-0-0

4. Massachusetts 8 30 4-4-1 1-0-0 690 690 1-0-0

TO: STUDENTS CONCERNED ABOUT THEIR STATUS IN THE FACE OF A POSSIBLE UPCOMING MILITARY DRAFT

A group of faculty members is in possession of relevant information and eager to be of assistance to students for the clarification of issues and formation of conscience through confidential conversation.

The Office of Campus Ministry will function as a liaison between students and faculty in this issue and will maintain files as required for possible future draft proceedings.

Contact Campus Ministry, 103 Hesburgh Library, 239-7800 for further information and appointments.
Pistons’ Thomas will miss rest of season

AUBURN HILLS, Mich. (AP) — Isiah Thomas had bones in his right hand fused on Tuesday and the surgeon who performed the operation said it is unlikely the Detroit Pistons guard will play again this season.

"I suppose if his wrist is real solid and the bone is real sturdy, he could play sometime in May, but I’m a little nervous setting him loose on a basketball court until I’m convinced he’s ready," Dr. Kirk Watson said.

Thomas, 29, underwent a 45-minute operation at Hartford Hospital Tuesday morning and then headed back to Detroit. Thomas, selected the most valuable player in the NBA finals as Detroit won its second championship in nine months, will have a cast removed, Watson said, after a 13-week recuperation, and can’t play basketball for eight weeks after the cast is removed, Watson said.

That 15-week recuperation period is three weeks longer than the one that Pistons officials had hoped for.

Dr. Benjamin Paolucci, the Pistons’ team physician, was slightly more optimistic that Watson.

"It is anticipated that his return to basketball might be as early as the first week in May after the 13-week recuperation," Paolucci said Tuesday.

The deterioration of Thomas’ wrist also has caused some minor arthritis, but that may clear, Watson said.

"I would not have wanted him to wait until June to undergo surgery or the arthritis might have been much worse," Watson said.

The operation involved taking a graft from Thomas’ forearm and fusing the scaphoid bone, one of eight small bones in the wrist, to two other bones to keep it from rotating and further damaging ligaments.

Watson performed similar surgery on Adrian Dantley in 1983, and he came back to lead the NBA in scoring in 1984.

Watson said he was “very pleased” with the operation and expressed confidence that Thomas will come back strong.

Thomas decided to have the operation when, after being examined by Watson, he performed poorly against Boston last Wednesday. The wrist had been bothering him for about nine months.

“He has a very, very high threshold of pain,” McCloskey said at the time. "He just couldn’t go on.”

Thomas, who has averaged 20 points and 9.8 assists in 10 NBA seasons, was averaging a career-low 16 points a game at the time.

He will miss a scheduled start in the NBA All-Star Game on Feb. 10. Thomas and Chicago’s Michael Jordan were picked as the guards for the Eastern Conference team.

The Pistons are 3-0 since replacing Thomas on the roster with former Piston John Long.
Author of "Squeeze Play" speaks on women and sports writing

By CHRIS COONEY
Assistant Sports Editor

For Jane Leavy the issue of women reporters in men's locker rooms has little to do with physical nakedness.

"Nudity per se isn't the issue," said Leavy, who spent five years surveying the scene as a sportswriter for the Washington Post. "It's with being seen for what you are. Vulnerability is the issue."

Leavy, speaking on "Sportswriting: A Woman's Place" Tuesday night, said that while most men readily talk to women reporters in locker rooms, the reluctance some players feel centers not on exposing body parts but on revealing their true selves.

"In the era of 'personality journalism,' reporters have the ability to undress the celebrity on the page," said Leavy.

Male athletes seem especially willing to tell women reporters about aspects of their personal lives, an openness Leavy sees as an advantage that women journalists have over their male colleagues.

"The truth is male athletes tell women things they would never tell men writers," Leavy said.

Leavy stated that women usually ask athletes different types of questions, eliciting different pieces of information.

"Athletes get tired of competing with male writers who can't possibly know as much as they do but are determined to prove that they played ball too," said Leavy. She added that in covering games, men's and women's stories are essentially the same.

Leavy began working for the Post's sports section in 1979, when there were few women sportswriters. She noted that the over 400 women sportswriters in the United States today still face challenges.

"In sportswriting, gender is a double-edged sword," said Leavy. "It can work for you and it can work against you."

The biggest difference, Leavy noted, is that the women can never become "one of the guys" as male reporters can. However, Leavy feels this separation gives the women the perspective journalism requires and prevents them from falling into the "reverence" that "has always been a really big problem in sportswriting."

Leavy added that some sports figures go out of their way to accommodate female writers.

Leavy, who wrote her graduate thesis at Columbia on Notre Dame graduate Red Smith, considered by many the best sportswriter in America's history, moved to the Post's Style section in 1984 after tiring of the extensive travel involved in sports journalism.

In 1989 she quit the paper and wrote her first novel, "Squeeze Play" about the experiences of a female journalist covering a professional baseball team in Washington D.C. Norman Lear is planning to make the book into a movie.

Part of "Squeeze Play" centers around ethics and journalism and the power Leavy felt as she persuaded sports figures to talk about their private lives. Leavy often worried that she was betraying the athletes by printing the personal issues they discussed.

But while reporters must respect an athlete's right to privacy, Leavy feels they do have a responsibility to talk to the press and paying public.

American Express Announces A Great New Travel Program.

Now students can get the Card and get 3 roundtrips on Continental Airlines, for only $129 or $189 each.

There's only one way to cover a lot of territory without spending a lot of money. And that's by getting the American Express Card. It's the only card that offers an exciting new travel program exclusively for students—including three roundtrip certificates on Continental Airlines.

Just look at the map and pick the place you'd like to visit. If it's on your side of the Mississippi River, you can use a certificate to fly for only $129 roundtrip. Or, you can cross the Mississippi for $189 roundtrip.

You have your pick of more than 50 cities in the 48 contiguous states. And you can fly almost anytime—because there are no blackout dates. But you must make your reservations within 14 days of the day you leave. And the maximum stay is 7 days/6 nights and must include a Saturday night.

In addition to this great travel program, you'll also enjoy all the benefits of Cardmembership as well as other exclusive student privileges. They include a quarterly magazine filled with information and advice on articles on summer jobs, career possibilities, and discounts from leading retailers.

But remember, there's only one way to get all this—and that's by getting the American Express Card. Just call us (have your bank address and account number on hand). What's more, with our special student offer, it's easier to get the Card now while you're still in school than it may ever be again.

So get the Card. And get ready to cover new territory on either side of our Great Continental Divide.
CAMPUS

4:30 p.m. Seminar, "II and T Cell Repertoire in Antigen-Free Mice," Dr. Nico Bos, New York University, the Netherlands. Room 146, College Life Science Building.

7:00 p.m. Film, "Shock Corridor." Annenberg Auditorium, Snite Museum.

7:00 p.m. Workshop, "How to Research Companies." By Marilyn Rice, assistant director of Career and Placement Services. In the Notre Dame Room, LaFortune.

9:00 p.m. Film, "High School." Annenberg Auditorium, Snite Museum.

9:30 p.m. AnTostal General Meeting #2. Hesburgh Library Auditorium. Anyone interested in making AnTostal "01 The Best Ever" should attend.

LECTURES

4:30 p.m. Lecture, "Enemy Images," Dr. James Skelly, Peace Scholar at New York University, the Netherlands. Room 146, College Life Science Building.

7:00 p.m. Lecture, "From the Oral Poetry of Traditional Africa to the Oral Poetry of Africans in America," Dr. Nico Bos, University of Gronigen, The Netherlands. Room 146, College Life Science Building.

7:30 p.m. Lecture, "AnTostal: Working on Yourself," Dr. James Skelly, Peace Scholar at New York University, the Netherlands. Room 146, College Life Science Building.

MENU

Notre Dame
Barbeque Ribs
London Broil
Ribs
Noodles Romanoff
Mice

CROSSWORD

ACROSS
1. Unit of capacitance
2. Actor Everett from South Bend
3. Lip
4. Small egg
5. Scottish philosopher
6. 5 Depth in the Family author
7. Comansoed
8. Sandalwood tree
9. Loose pel
10. Protests no
11. 41: Air
12. Bismal
13. Hair color
14. Former French coin
15. 5 —— So Easy!
16. Rendstatt song
17. Old musical note
18. Malaysian ribbon
19. Goes into a rage
20. Pacific nervously
21. 50 Goes into a rage

DOWN
1. Watch pocket
2. Watch pocket
3. Anatomical wrinkle
4. 41: ——
5. Thickness
6. Dance step
7. The Accidental Tourist star
8. Special nurse
9. Negligent
10. Spiritual goal
11. Zen Buddhism
12. Exchange premium
13. Lord’s Jockey
14. Meet a bet
15. Numerical suffix
16. Chest murmur
17. Kind of vein
18. Weight
19. Kind of van
20. Chomsky or Santa Fe

ANSWER TO PREVIOUS PUZZLE

ACROSS
1. Unit of capacitance
2. Actor Everett from South Bend
3. Lip
4. Small egg
5. Scottish philosopher
6. 5 Depth in the Family author
7. Comansoed
8. Sandalwood tree
9. Loose pel
10. Protests no
11. 41: Air
12. Bismal
13. Hair color
14. Former French coin
15. 5 —— So Easy!
16. Rendstatt song
17. Old musical note
18. Malaysian ribbon
19. Goes into a rage
20. Pacific nervously

DOWN
1. Watch pocket
2. Watch pocket
3. Anatomical wrinkle
4. 41: ——
5. Thickness
6. Dance step
7. The Accidental Tourist star
8. Special nurse
9. Negligent
10. Spiritual goal
11. Zen Buddhism
12. Exchange premium
13. Lord’s Jockey
14. Meet a bet
15. Numerical suffix
16. Chest murmur
17. Kind of vein
18. Weight
19. Kind of van
20. Chomsky or Santa Fe

CALVIN AND HOBBES

CALIN AND HOBBES

WHO WOULD LIKE TO
SUMMARIZE WHAT WE JUST READ? CALVIN, HOW ABOUT YOU?

SORRY! I’M HERE AGAIN TO RECOOPER.

THEY CAN TRANSPORT MY
SUGAR TO SCHOOL, BUT THEY CAN’T CAN MY SPIRIT? MY SPIRITS ARE FREE! I MIGHT BE INảnh PROEPRIETOR, BUT I’M NOT DOING ANYTHING.

BIL WATTSNER

SPELUNKER

JAY HOLSTER

THE FAR SIDE

GARY LARSON

Although history has long forgotten them, Lambini & Sons are generally credited with the Sistine Chapel floor.

TIX ON SALE TOMORROW FOR INDIGO GIRLS

10 AM AT LAFORTUNE INFO DESK $8.00 ND/SMC STUD. W/IDS $10.00 NON-STUDENT

CONCERT: VALENTINE’S DAY 7:30PM AT STEPAN CENTER
Notre Dame rebounds to beat Dayton Flyers 73-67

By SCOTT BRUTOCAO
Assistant Sports Editor

DAYTON, Ohio—Fighting in stead of flinching, the Notre Dame men’s basketball team traveled into a hostile University of Dayton Arena Tuesday night and beat the Flyers 73-67, leaving one coach grinning and another gupping.

"We had a great game tonight, we bounced back tonight," said a beaming Irish head coach Digger Phelps. "We did a lot of good things tonight, and they came back and they've got a lot of mind and a lot of heart."

Meanwhile, second-year Dayton coach Jim O'Brien was surprised by Notre Dame's ability to handle Dayton's usually pestering press.

"The main factor was that they beat the tempo we were not allowing us to get much out of our press," said O'Brien, who saw his team score five of the last six points since he has been coaching the Flyers. "If you're not scoring, you're not getting into your press."

The victory for Notre Dame came on the heels of Saturday's 68-67 loss to 19th Virginia in which the Irish squandered an eight-point lead with 1:40 remaining in the game. "We just couldn't get the advantage of what they gave us, and a lot of teams won't do that."

Notre Dame shot 52 percent from the field for the game to outscore the Flyers 35-27 in the first half and led 43-32 at the half. The Irish led by as many as 17 points in the second half. "It was that point that probably hurt us the most," said Irish guard Chip Phelps, who was held scoreless for 1 1/2 years. Before Scholl was here, sports marketing was an afterthought. "So it's nice to win scholarship money?"

"It was a big confidence booster," McGraw said. "It's the bench. They came in and played well and they contributed."

It's not pretty but 19th-ranked Irish hoostopers defeat Xavier 74-50

By FERREN BRENAN
Sports Writer

Notre Dame's 74-50 victory over Xavier last night was not a beautiful sight to behold.

The Irish women didn't come close to displaying the form which has them in the Associated Press' No. 7 position. The team has scored in single digits in each of its first two games of the season.

If you're not scoring, you aren't getting into your press."

The victory for Notre Dame came on the heels of Saturday's 68-67 loss to 19th Virginia in which the Irish squandered an eight-point lead with 1:40 remaining in the game. "We just couldn't get the advantage of what they gave us, and a lot of teams won't do that."

Notre Dame shot 52 percent from the field for the game to outscore the Flyers 35-27 in the first half and led 43-32 at the half. The Irish led by as many as 17 points in the second half. "It was that point that probably hurt us the most," said Irish guard Chip Phelps, who was held scoreless for 1 1/2 years. Before Scholl was here, sports marketing was an afterthought. "So it's nice to win scholarship money?"

"It was a big confidence booster," McGraw said. "It's the bench. They came in and played well and they contributed."

It's not pretty but 19th-ranked Irish hoostopers defeat Xavier 74-50

By RENNE BEER
Sports Writer

Notre Dame's 74-50 victory over Xavier last night was not a beautiful sight to behold.

The Irish women didn't come close to displaying the form which has them in the Associated Press' No. 7 position. The team has scored in single digits in each of its first two games of the season.