Bush is skeptical of Soviet peace proposal
But the administration has not yet definitely rejected the initiative

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Bush has “serious concerns” with a Soviet-Iraqi proposal to end the Gulf War, the White House said Thursday night, but the administration pointedly did not reject the dramatic initiative that could result in Iraq’s withdrawal from Kuwait.

“The war itself continues,” said spokesman Marlin Fitzwater, acknowledging that Bush had not decided yet whether to open a ground assault that had seemed imminent.

Earlier in the day, Defense Secretary Dick Cheney said allied forces were massing for “one of the largest land assaults of modern times,” a comment that lent urgency to the Iraqi mission to Moscow.

Fitzwater said, “We have had our hopes erased before” but pledged that “we are taking a look at” the Moscow plan. He said the White House would consult with coalition leaders and a flurry of diplomatic calls went out Thursday night from the offices of Secretary of State James Baker III.

Bush himself went to the theater, leaving aides to pour over the announcement from Moscow.

Mozart’s death will be honored by concert at ND

Special to the Observer

The 200th anniversary of the death of Wolfgang Amadeus Mozart will be observed at the University of Notre Dame with a faculty recital of his music Sunday, Feb. 24th at 2 p.m. in the Snite Museum’s Annenbger Auditorium.

The Mozart program, performed by Carolyn Plummer, violinist and associate professor of music, and William Cerny, pianist and professor of music, will include Sonatas for the Piano and Violin in C Major, K. 296, B-flat Major, K. 378, E Minor, K. 364 and B-flat Minor, K. 454. The concert is free and open to the public.

Carolyn Plummer holds a bachelor of music degree from Indiana University and a master of music degree with honors in violin performance from the New England Conservatory. She joined the Houston Symphony Orchestra in 1974, was a frequent soloist and served as assistant concertmaster from 1977 to 1986.

In 1987, she joined the Atlanta Virtuosi chamber ensemble, and last summer she was concertmaster of the Grand Teton Music Festival and a guest artist in the Steamboat Grand Teton Music festival and a guest artist in the Steamboat.

Kuwaitis, other refugees will be allowed to remain in the U.S.

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Bush administration is preparing to let more than 51,000 people who fled war in Lebanon, Liberia and Kuwait stay in the United States temporarily, sources said Thursday.

A new legal status enacted by Congress last year, called temporary protected status, allows people who have fled war to remain in this country until it is safe to go home.

Attorney General Dick Thornburgh is preparing to confer the status to some Lebanese, Liberian and Kuwaiti citizens who do not have other legal means of remaining in this country, said the sources, who spoke on condition of anonymity.

Justice Department spokesman Dan Eberman refused to comment. It could not be learned immediately if the temporary protected status would apply, but law provides for a minimum period of six months and a maximum of two years.

The designation permits those under it to work legally and to apply for permanent residency.

The designations were requested by Undersecretary of State Lawrence S. Eagleburger on the recommendation of the State Department’s Bureau of Human Rights and Humanitarian Affairs, said one source familiar with the decision.

Eagleburger was particularly concerned about the plight of people who fled Libya during civil war that has toppled the military government of Muammar Gadhafi.

Subtle racism, sexism a problem at ND

Last week I received a call from a reporter who was writing a story on the "politically correct" behavior at colleges and wanted to know what the atmosphere was like at Notre Dame. I told him about Students United for Respect and he questioned me on every aspect that led up to the formation of this group.

He asked me what type of racism exists at Notre Dame and wanted to know if there are incidents of racist slurs reported on campus or in the classroom? I thought about what kind of racism and sexism does exist here. Then it occurred to me that I was so quick to deny the blatant racism because some of the behavior that many of us find so repellent is subtle and very few admit that it happens.

When Spike Lee came to visit he talked about the way we separate blacks on college campuses: "They're (athletes) not really doing the harassing, need to wake up and realize that harassment is not appropriate. It is not appropriate to laugh at jokes that poke fun at ethnic or cultural groups. It is a form of racism to dismiss these jokes because it's not the same as sexual stereotypes. No longer should we sit quick to deny the blatant racism because some of the behavior that many of us find so repellent is subtle and very few admit that it happens."

This comment is tough to swallow at first, but then I thought back to the last two years of Bookstore Basketball. Tensions surfaced between black and white students. A few football players expressed their outrage about being treated like gods during football season, and then the "rigger" off-season.

Recently, I heard of a white student who received racially-harassing phone calls attacking her for her involvement with ethnic groups and organizations on campus. Whoever is calling her has to mask his teeth capped by Acer in 21 office visits during a 13-month period. The company reported the carrier delivers gasoline, diesel fuel and kerosene. Central government delegate Allfonso Carrillo said the explosion occurred near a railroad siding outside Córdoba. The pipeline runs from the Atlantic port of Rota, where the United States maintains a naval station.

All of us, especially the ones who aren't doing the harassment, need to wake up and face the reality of what is happening here. We need to speak out and express our disapproval at harassment. It is not appropriate to laugh at jokes that poke fun at ethnic or cultural groups. It is a form of racism to dismiss these jokes because it's not the same as sexual stereotypes. No longer should we sit quick to deny the blatant racism because some of the behavior that many of us find so repellent is subtle and very few admit that it happens.

Notre Dame and wanted to know if there are problems with the white moderate of the '60s. "Shallow understanding of people of good will is more frustrating than abrasive. The misunderstanding from people of ill will," he wrote in his letter from Birmingham Jail. "We who engage in nonviolent direct action are not the creators of tension. We merely bring to the surface the hidden tension that is already alive. We bring it out in the open, where it can be seen and dealt with."

It's time for the students, faculty, administration and staff at Notre Dame to acknowledge the harassment that takes place here and deal with it.

SANTIAGO, Chile (AP) — Passengers clung in icy waters to the wings and tail of a chartered Chilean jetliner after it skidded off the runway of a remote Chilean island, killing 20 people, authorities and witnesses said Thursday.

The small four-engine jet of the Chilean airline LAN was trying to land Wednesday at Puerto Williams on Navarino island when it overshot the runway and crashed into the Beagle Channel, 1,580 miles south of Santiago, airline officials said.

The plane sank within minutes, and some passengers froze to death after they jumped into the icy waters of the channel, which separates the Atlantic and Pacific oceans near Cape Horn, witnesses said.

The 65 mostly American passengers were on their way to an Antarctic cruise organized by a Seattle-based tour company. Seven crew members were also on the plane, and all survived.

On Thursday LAN issued a final list of the dead, including 17 Americans, a Canadian, an Italian and an Israeli.

An initial inquiry of the crash site uncovered no clues to the cause of the crash of the British-made BAe-146, said Chilean air force Cmdr. Herman Baharhona, who heads the investigation team.

"This is a big step forward ... from four or five years ago," said Ladrech.

Last year, for example, French President Mitterrand and German President Kohl drew up a joint resolution calling for increased political unity. The European Parliament was a prime beneficiary of this increased power.

An inter-governmental conference has also been planned to discuss the issue in the near future, Ladrech said. In addition, the economic union to be completed by 1992 is putting pressure on Europe to "catch up" politically, he continued.

There are two possibilities for political integration. First, a central body could be formed in order to protect the interests of all nations. Secondly, a federalist system could be adopted to create a kind of "United States of Europe," according to Ladrech.

A variety of barriers currently restrict the development of this movement, including prevailing nationalist sentiments, he continued. Even elections for the European Parliament, a group of country representatives who address international European issues, depend on varying national election procedures and campaigns and tend to focus on national issues, he said.

In addition, said Ladrech, many fear that if Europe becomes a superpower, the interests of each nation, including social issues, government pensions and environmental concerns, may be neglected.

There are, however, a variety of advantages for the European Community, Ladrech said. Political integration would help Europe protect itself from international pressures. European nations who compete heavily in the international market will avoid becoming an economic prisoner of U.S. and Japanese interests, he pointed out.

The lecture was sponsored by the Kellogg Institute, the Committee of European Studies, ISLA, and the Departments of History, Sociology, Government, and International Studies.

Ladrech: Europe is moving towards greater integration

No clues on cause of air crash that killed 20 people near Chile

She said navy personnel using rubber boats quickly reached the site.

Another reporter said passengers froze to death when they tried to swim 150 yards to a beach.

"Several passengers, in despair, jumped into the water trying to swim to the beach. We who live here would never dare to do that," said Mauricio Carvajal, a radio reporter in Puerto Williams. "The water is like ice, and you may freeze and die in a matter of minutes."

He said island fishermen using their small boats helped rescue some survivors.

Speaking in Punta Arenas, 250 miles north of the crash site, Baharhona said the island had been sealed off to commercial air traffic so as not to "hamper our work."

Czechoslovakia begins to privatize govt. assets

PRAGUE, Czechoslovakia (AP) — Parliament on Thursday approved the most ambitious plan to return property nationalized by the Communists after they took power in 1948 will be turned back to private owners.

The legislators then immediately moved on to another cornerstone of the government's plan to end its control over the economy — a bill to turn much of industry over to private hands.

As much as $10.7 billion worth of property nationalized by the Communists after they took power in 1948 will be turned back to private owners under the so-called restitution bill approved Thursday. Finance Minister Vaclav Klaus was quoted as telling parliament.

About $714 million would be paid in cash to original owners. The daily Lidove Noviny added. The remaining property would be returned in real estate and in the form of government-issued bonds, the newspaper quoted Klaus as saying.

The bill was approved by the House of the Nation in a repeat vote by margins of 51-10 with four abstentions among deputies from the Czech republic and 45-14 with five abstentions among deputies from Slovakia.

In order to pass, a bill has to receive an absolute majority of all 75 deputies in both the Czech and Slovak sections of the House of Nations. On the first ballot, the Slovaks gave it 36 votes.

The other house of parliament, the House of the People, approved the bill on the first ballot on a vote of 86-25 with 13 abstentions.

The property to be returned to private owners under the restitution bill is only a fraction of the total to be transferred to private ownership as the former Communist countries seek to swiftly develop a market economy.

The second piece of legislation would transfer large enterprises not eligible for return to private owners.

It is not expected to be voted on until at least Friday.
Adworks to sell b-ball team shirts

Special to the Observer

Bookstore Basketball fashion may reach new heights this year with the addition of the Adworks T-shirt package deal.

The package, to be sold Sunday at sign-ups, will include five shirts of any color bearing a standard design for the tournament. They will also feature the team's own name and design.

For teams expecting to play multiple games, Adworks will offer a ten T-shirt package consisting of five white shirts and five dark-colored shirts.

"We want to show our support for the tournament, and our appreciation for what our fellow students want," said Scott Kluge, Adworks' vice president. "Offering something for the players to have as a reminder of this event, with their own personal mark on it, we feel, is a unique idea."

"Our staff is very talented and they're excited about designing team shirts," said Damian Shiner, president. Adworks ad agency is an entirely student-run organization.

Already a four-year sponsor of a team in the tournament, Adworks' desire to increase its support of Bookstore Basketball resulted in the T-shirt project.

Yugoslav republic desires secession

ZAGREB, Yugoslavia (AP) — Croatia on Thursday invalidated all federal laws on its territory and said it would join its pro-independence ally Slovenia in initiating secession from Yugoslavia.

Croatia's parliament, the Sabor, voted overwhelmingly to proclaim the superiority of its law over federal legislation, and unanimously approved a resolution formally starting its secession from Yugoslavia's federation of six republics and two provinces.

The parliament of Croatia's neighboring republic, Slovenia, took similar action Wednesday.

The moves raised the stakes for Friday's scheduled meeting of the federal presidency in Sarajevo. Four previous rounds aimed at settling out Yugoslavia's ethnic, political, and economic differences have failed.

All 340 deputies in the Sabor voted to adopt the resolution that foresees dissolving Yugoslavia, a nation of 24 million people, "into two or more countries."

Any like-minded republics could join Croatia in a new, looser association of states that "fully respect each others' sovereignty," the resolution said. It said the federation should be dissolved in a peaceful manner and republics should emerge with their former borders intact.

Independence moves by prosperous, pro-Western Croatia and Slovenia have set them at odds with the largest state, Communist-ruled Serbia, and threaten the country with disintegration.

There are 9.8 million Serbs, 5 million Croats and 2 million Slovenes.

Officials of Croatia and Slovenia cite Yugoslavia's longstanding inability to solve its deep divisions as reason for their drive toward independence.

Serbia vehemently opposes any plans to change the current federal system. It is backed by the pro-Communist People's Army and the army's Serb-dominated officer corps. Serbia's hard-line President Slobodan Milosevic threatens to alter borders to "protect" ethnic Serbs in other regions should the federation split.

Thrill killer holdups have some storeowners nervous

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — Along the streets where police say a "thrill killer" has slain six people in two holdups, stores are closing early and stepping up security.

Virtually all the detectives in the Sheriff's Department were assigned to hunt down the killer after he struck a second time, shooting three pizza parlor workers Tuesday. The first shootings were at a Quik Stop Market a mile away.

"We are scared — there is no other way to put it," Harold Edwards, manager of the Quik Stop market, told The Sacramento Bee. "I just hope to God they apprehend this individual before he takes any more lives."

A sheriff's official said Thursday that investigators have more than 100 leads but no suspects.

Tuesday's triple homicide occurred a week, almost to the minute, after two employees and a customer were shot in the head at the Quik Stop.

FED pledges campaign to alleviate U.S. ‘credit crunch’

WASHINGTON (AP) — Federal Reserve Chairman Alan Greenspan on Thursday pledged an aggressive campaign to overcome the reluctance of banks to make loans, the "credit crunch" hurting some parts of the country. But skeptical lawmakers complained that the central bank's efforts so far have been late and half-hearted.

Greenspan, appearing before a subcommittee of the House Banking Committee, said that the central bank viewed the reluctance of banks to make loans as the most critical problem confronting the Fed's handling of monetary policy at the present time.

He said that the Fed was working with other banking regulators and the Bush administration and would in a few days unveil a package of accounting changes designed to encourage greater lending.

In addition, he again called on banks to make greater use of their option to borrow money directly from the Fed. Banks have been reluctant to do that for fear that it would raise concerns about their soundness.

A hesitancy by banks to make loans, even to generally credit-worthy customers, has been cited by the Bush administration and private economists as a contribution to the current recession.

The reluctance to lend has several apparent causes, ranging from an over-reaction by bank regulators increasing their scrutiny in the wake of the savings and loan crisis to an excess of caution by bankers faced with steep declines in real estate values.

Rep. Richard Neal, D-Mass., told Greenspan he believed the Fed had been "very late" in addressing the credit problems in New England while Rep. Doug Barnard, D-Ga., asked, "Hasn't there been over-aggressive criticism by regulators of bank loans?"

Greenspan contended that the Fed began moving to offset the credit crunch by lowering interest rates starting last July. He said he believed the changes were "a good deal better than 50-50" that the country could have avoided a recession if consumers had not cut spending and reduced their buying following Iraq's Aug. 2 invasion of Kuwait.

"The trouble is that bankers are going out of business in New England, the economy is being strangulated and we are talking about studying the problem," he told Greenspan.

Kennedy said that the Fed had the power to purchase commercial loans from banks, an idea that has been advanced as a way of freeing up money that banks could use to make new loans.

Greenspan told Kennedy that the central bank had been exploring such a proposal for the past two months. But he indicated the approach contained a number of problems, including the Fed's lack of expertise in commercial loans, and probably would not do much to alleviate the credit crunch.

Saddam: Iraqi forces ‘are ready for the showdown’

NICOSIA, Cyprus (AP) — Iraqi President Saddam Hussein said Thursday that his forces “are ready for the showdown” — the all-out ground war that hinged on the outcome of his foreign minister’s trip to Moscow.

"There is no path except the path that we have chosen," he said in a radio address to his nation. The speech seemed aimed at preparing the Iraqi people for hardships ahead.

But in Moscow early Friday, Kenneth Welk, an American who has lived in Iraq, said Saddam had announced that Iraq and the Soviet Union agreed on steps that could lead to an Iraqi withdrawal from Kuwait and an end to Israeli occupation of the Persian Gulf.

The announcement came after talks between President Mikhail Gorbachev and Iraq’s Tariq Aziz on terms of a Soviet peace plan proposed this week.

Saddam spoke Thursday as his foreign envoy, Adnan hexaid, was traveling to Moscow with Iraq’s response to the plan.

"We will proceed on this path which Tariq Aziz has carried to Moscow," Saddam said, without describing his position on the Soviet plan. Any other course, he added, would lead Iraq and the U.S. to “indignity and darkness.”

"The response is positive," Ignatko told reporters immediately after the Gorbachev-Aziz meeting.

Welk radio said Saddam’s speech, his first since Feb. 10, was taped sometime before dawn.

About an hour before it was broadcast, Welk said that the missiles in Iraq were going to attack targets in Saudi Arabia. Shortly after the speech, the taps that were announced to an Iraqi withdrawal from Kuwait and an end to Israeli occupation of the Persian Gulf.

The withdrawal begins the second day after the occupation of hostilities.

The withdrawal will take place in a fixed time frame.

After the withdrawal of the United Nations’ economic sanctions against Iraq cease to exist.

After the cease-fire, all prisoners of war or will be immediately released.

The withdrawal will be monitored by countries not directly involved in hostilities, to be entrusted by the U.N. Security Council.

The work of determining details of the agreement continues.

DETAILS OF PEACE PLAN

1. Iraq agrees to a complete, unconditional withdrawal from Kuwait.
2. The withdrawal begins the second day after the cessation of hostilities.
3. The withdrawal takes place in a fixed time frame.
4. After the withdrawal of the United Nations’ economic sanctions against Iraq cease to exist.

Father Nicholas Ayo asserted that the messages of the Gospel contradict the current war in the Middle East in his lecture Thursday, titled, “Peacemaking, The Gospel Imperative.”

"Gospel is an astonishing call to love. It tells you to love your enemies," said Ayo. "The Gospel is so light, it’s blinding. War is so dark, it’s blinding. You are looking at a bright light or a black hole," he said.

In the Gospel, Jesus provides an example for emulating, according to Ayo. "It is impossible for me to imagine Jesus taking someone’s life. For anyone to imagine it, he would have to let go."

Further, Ayo said, "It does not explain whether it is worth taking another person’s life to stop 20 deaths? Is one better than thirty?"

Upon exploring the issue of the Gospel in everyday lives at Notre Dame, one RITS student voiced her concerns involving the contradiction of being both a Christian and a soldier "trained to take lives." The student contemplated that perhaps it was "her place to bring peace within the military."

The lecture was co-sponsored by the Center for Social Concerns and Campus Ministry, the third lecture in a series to form a consciousness and explore the Christian perspective of war and peace during the current Middle East crisis.

"one of the largest ground assaul ts of modern times."

From his exile in Saudi Arabia, Kuwait ruler Sheik Jaber al-Ahmed al-Sabah told his nation in a message that "the hour of salvation is near."

Much of Saddam’s speech was taken up with complaints about the allies, particularly the Arab members of the anti-Iraq coalition, and warnings about the battle to come.

"The Iraqi armed forces ... are ready for the showdown, supported by God and all people of goodwill," he said. "Our dear land and armed forces, in addition to their strong determination for jihad ... are confident of a victorious conclusion to the eye of the battles.""
Iraq avoids linkage for the first time with Soviet proposal

World reacts to Soviet peace proposal

(WASHINGTON) — The Senate Thursday night passed legislation protecting members of the National Guard and other armed forces reserve units serving in the Persian Gulf from mortgage foreclosure and a host of other legal problems.

The chamber passed the measure, an amendment to the Soldiers and Sailors Relief Act of 1940, on a voice vote without dissent and sent it to the House.

"Passage today is the only way to assure these citizen soldiers and sailors that their country will not fail to match their commitment to duty," said Sen. Dennis DeConcini, D-Ariz., chairman of the Senate Veterans Affairs Committee.

"Let the American people know that America has nothing but uncompromising support for each and every reservist, wherever they serve, whenever they serve and however they serve," he said.

Earlier Thursday, Rep. Toby Roth, R-Wis., introduced legislation that would direct the Defense Department to allow immediate members of a family to be exempted from service within the same combat zone.

"Losing one member of a family is a real tragedy. Losing more than one, especially when we could have acted in time to prevent it, is too great a sacrifice for any family," Roth told reporters at a news conference.

Similar legislation sponsored by Sen. John Heinz, R-Pa., was defeated Wednesday. The Pentagon opposes it.

Among the protections afforded the more than 200,000 citizen-soldiers are these:

* An increase in the maximum rental or mortgage delinquency required before an eviction from $150 to $1,200.

* Reinstatement of employer-provided health insurance.

* A prohibition against credit discrimination related to a service members' credit record.

* Suspension of malpractice insurance premium payments for physicians called to active duty until their return to the United States.

* The right to return to the civilian job if called up for more than 90 days.

Accompanying Roth at his news conference was Rep. Albert Sulli­van, the only son of Albert Sullivan, the youngest of the famous five Sullivan brothers of World War II. The five brothers died when their ship, the light cruiser Juneau, was sunk at Guadalcanal.

(NICOSIA, Cyprus) — For the first time, Iraq has agreed to withdraw without linkage to other Middle East issues, including the Palestinian cause, said Saddam Hussein.

"The Soviet-Iraqi plan may contain some points objectionable to the United States and its allies, and its full details are not yet known.

But noticeably absent from the eight main points presented Friday morning in Moscow was Saddam's insistence that pulling out of Kuwait must involve a comprehensive Middle East peace, including Israeli withdrawal from Arab lands it has occupied since 1967.

That has been a mainstay of Iraq's policy since Saddam's peace initiative of Aug. 12, 10 days after his invasion of Kuwait.

At the time, Saddam proposed "that all the occupation problems, and those that have been portrayed as occupation problems in the region, be resolved simultaneously and on the same principles and basis that should be laid by the (U.N.) Security Council."

The Iraqi leader said that should include renunciation and unconditional Israeli withdrawal from occupied Arab lands in Palestine, Syria and Lebanon; a Syrian withdrawal from Lebanon; an Israeli withdrawal from Iraq and Iran and arrangement for the situation in Kuwait.

That condition, unacceptable to President Bush and his allies, has continued to be part of Iraqi peace proposals, including one issued on Feb. 15.

The Revolutionary Command Council, headed by Saddam, said then that an Iraqi withdrawal "should be linked to an Israeli pullout from occupied Palestine and other Arab territories in the Syrian Golan Heights and Lebanon.

"Should Israeli resist, the Security Council is to apply against Israel the same measures applied against Iraq," the Iraqi leadership said in its proposal, which was termed by Bush to be a "cruel box.

To many Arabs, the linkage hinged on an equal application of U.N. Security Council resolutions.

To Iraq and its sympathizers, it seemed unjust to impede negotiations and go to war to enforce resolutions aimed at getting Iraq out of Kuwait while such measures were not taken to enforce Resolution No. 242, which calls for Israeli withdrawal from areas it captured in the 1967 Arab-Israeli war.

Those territories include the West Bank, which was taken from Jordan, and the Gaza Strip, won from Egypt. The occupied territories are home to 1.7 million Palestinians who would like to form their own independent state there, a goal staunchly opposed by Israel.

The eight points of the Soviet plan disclosed in Moscow dropped the demands for linked withdrawal, leaving the door open for possible additions.

The final term announced was that talks would continue between Iraq and Western officials on other "details and specifications," with results on those talks expected to be announced later Friday.

Who are 'students of color'?

Dear Editor:

I would like Vice-President for Student Affairs Patricia O'Hara to please clarify what she means by "students of color." As an international student at Notre Dame, I find this term not only derogatory, but also misleading.

The use of "color" is anachronistic and reminiscent of the term "colored people" used during the Civil Rights Movement of the 1960's. In that way, 'white' is not a color, too subtle, isn't it? As far as "color" goes, if you are going to group Blacks, Asians, Hispanics, and American Indians that is, minorities on the basis of their skin color in America, I prefer to think of an American as an American, but ethnically African-American, Japanese-American, Mexican-American, or whatever. Even among whites you can have German-American, Irish-American people, etc. It would certainly be a much better world if we could all be "color-blind," so to speak, and instead respect each individual's ethnicity and cultural background and treat him/her as a human being worthy of the dignity he/she deserves.

Student challenges SUFR to achieve unity through nonexclusion

Dear Editor:

I wrote an article criticizing the SUFR group, because I feel the organization is counterproductive to achieving less racial tension. I feel I must respond, because of the misinterpretation of an article by Elizabeth Peterson, (The Observer, Feb. 12) and Maureen A. O'Reilly (The Observer, Feb. 17). Before I begin, I must say that before and after I wrote my first article, I had and have had lengthy discussions with active SUFR and BCAC members. I do not liken to the unfair and unsupported accusations that I received in Ms. O'Reilly's letter is fairness not what this is about anyway?

I did not write the first article to ask everyone to feel sorry for me, and say that I have suffered so many injustices. My whole point is that we are equal. I never made any claims or implications that I am any more disadvantaged than minorities. The only claim I made is that I have received no advantages, and SUFR is exclusive in its goals.

I get angry when I read claims that SUFR is not trying to achieve racially exclusive goals, because it is so blatantly untrue. The request for supplementary scholarships for minority students is in itself racially exclusive. I do not care if every other goal of the organization is reasonable, which is also not true; I will not support the group.

The group SUFR creates anger, which in turn creates blindness. SUFR creates a disturbance that makes it hard to see the goals that would benefit this University. If SUFR wants support of its goals, it must make itself more representative of the whole university. SUFR must refocus, to downplay the racial importance of the group. More can be achieved if everything is not all black and white.

I stated before in my first column that I believe in a unity of others, especially those of the nation as a whole. Although Mr. Peralez expresses pride in his Hispanic culture, he also states that Hispanics are kowtowing (bowing) and being proselytized (converted) to black leadership. How can he believe for one minute that Hispanics, or any other person, would follow a cause that they did not believe in. Furthermore, they would not concede to participating in an organization where everyone's leadership abilities were not employed.

If Mr. Peralez were truly the proud minority he claims to be, he would never make some dumbfounded, racist remarks towards blacks. In addition, if he is not the racist he appears to be, we can only conclude that his comments were made out of sheer need for attention. We would like to conclude by emphasizing that the SUFR group is individual opinions and not those of an entire community or nation. We also feel that it is important to state that we are not members of SUFR.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Peralez unable to speak for all Hispanics

Dear Editor:

We are writing in response to a letter by a Hispanic student felt compelled to pronounce a Hispanic opinion concerning SUFR. (Observer, Feb. 15). Being Hispanics ourselves we feel he has no right to speak on behalf of the entire Hispanic community, thus, we would like to express our individual opinions concerning his unimpressive and contradictory generalizations.

First of all, he states that "blacks have chosen suspicious conditions for bell raising" because of the war in the Middle East. This statement does not carry any weight. Where would we be without the Civil Rights Movement that reached its height during the Vietnam War.

Mr. Peralez seems to feel that learning only comes from a structured classroom curriculum. A blind view obviously relates to his idea that Notre Dame has compromised its standards. Allowing his admission to the University. Of course, we all realize that ignorance is bliss, which accounts for Mr. Peralez' living in oblivion. SUFR can make itself more representative of its goals. Do not exclude me from this University. If Mr. Peralez wants support of its goals, he must make itself more representative of the whole university. SUFR must refocus, to downplay the racial importance of the group. More can be achieved if everything is not all black and white.

I stated before in my first column that I believe in a unity of others, especially those of the nation as a whole.

DOONESBURY

QUOTE OF THE DAY

"The best remedy for a short temper is a long walk."

Jacqueline Schiff
Dear Editor:

Our University's alumni, faculty, and students are doing themselves on being members of the "Notre Dame Family." But what is the Notre Dame Family? It is a heritage, a tradition, a history. It is a foundation, a belief, and a commitment to our students. It is a place where we strive to live up to the legacy of those who have come before us.

African American representation in the University's student body is a crucial aspect of this heritage. It is a reflection of the unique nature of Notre Dame's mission and its commitment to providing a diverse educational experience for all students.

The study cited by the Director of Student Affairs in the recent report on student demographics highlights the need for continued efforts to enhance African American representation. The report shows that African American students make up only 11.0% of the student body, which is significantly lower than the percentage of the general population.

The University's commitment to diversity is evident in its efforts to recruit and retain African American students. However, there is still work to be done to ensure that African American students have equal access to educational opportunities and resources.

The demand for diversity in higher education is not new. It has been a persistent issue for many years, and the University has made strides in addressing it. But there is still much work to be done.

We must continue to advocate for increased representation of African American students at Notre Dame. This is not just a matter of diversity, but a matter of ensuring that all students have the opportunity to succeed and thrive in the Notre Dame Family.

Sincerely,

Pedro Villegas

A South Bend Review

By ROBYN SIMMONS
Assistant Accent Editor

Perhaps the management of the Polo Club felt they had a good thing going with South Bend's new restaurant, but this city has seen more promising places.

The Polo Club, a "fine dining establishment" located at 1345 N. Ironwood, just does not have the atmosphere, excellent service or any sign of outstanding food to keep customers satisfied.

With prices equivalent to those of Tipppecanoe's, one would expect quite a bit from this new competitor, but it just seems to fall short. A limited menu may be expected at such an establishment, but in itself, the food is nothing to write home about.

The regular choices of veal, steak, fish or chicken are executed in what appears on a menu promising "European Cuisine," but the chicken stir fry makes a surprising appearance. (I never considered that European cuisine would feed me unexpected food)

The appetizers had more appeal than the rest of the menu; the sautéed mushrooms come highly recommended and were generously portioned. It would have been even better had the correct silverware been placed on the table with the appetizers, which shouldn't be too much to ask of a fine dining establishment that makes the pretense of serving sherbert to "cleanse the palate."

I would prefer to refrain from commenting on the salad, but I'll just mention that the salad dressing could not be more disguise the amount of brown sauce present on the plate.

The dessert choices were surprisingly disappointing, mainly because carrot cake seems pretty typical and the other two choices were the lemon torte and the black forest cream torte. You can't win if you're anti-torte or want something other than carrot cake, which was actually pretty tasty.

My companion and I are still wondering why we were both certain that our waiter called the choices on the dessert menu "low-calorie." The management certainly hadn't had a stand-up routine before that point in the evening, so it seems unlikely it would start then.

The atmosphere of the Polo Club definitely wasn't designed by Ralph Lauren. The effect of a very square room with a lot of dusty rose, brick, wood and brass with a really odd mirror is that of a banquet hall.

The restaurant has more than one room with plenty of seating, but these surroundings just aren't that attractive. The attitude of the management makes the restaurant out to be something mighty great, but the attitude doesn't match up with service or style.

The Polo Club isn't such a bad place, it's just not special. Mediocrity doesn't make it when you want a nice dining experience in South Bend. The $15 average price of a main course is outrageous, but there are restaurants in the same range in this city that are more pleasing with the food, aesthetics and service.
Gina’s offers the best pizza you can get in the South Bend area--plus they deliver

By JENNIFER SOUKUP
Accent Writer

The next time you get the urge to order a pizza, instead of calling Domino’s or Pizza Hut, try Gina’s instead. You won’t be disappointed.

Located at 1740 South Bend Avenue, Gina’s is new to the area and relatively unknown. This is unfortunate.

The original Gina’s is located in Niles, Mich., where it has been turning out pizzas for almost 20 years. The South Bend store opened three months ago and is hoping for similar success. I must admit, I was worried when we pulled up to a former gas station, but journalistic curiosity got the better of me.

The place itself is small and very sparsely decorated, with only two booths, one bench, a cooler, and a phone that looks like a pizza cook tossing a pie. The lack of ambience is not a problem for the owner, as it is primarily a take out/delivery operation.

Fortunately, the real allure of a restaurant is in the decorating, but in the food. The pizza is fabulous. The dough and the sauce are homemade, and the sausage is specially made from Gina’s recipe. Everything is amazingly fresh. We’re not talking assembly line pizza here. The toppings, including the cheese, are generous and leave little crust at the edge.

They offer one creation called “Our Famous Everything.” The menu claims “full portions of ten toppings,” and they are not kidding. We saw one of these monsters before it was delivered. It was a pizza to be reckoned with, capable of calming even the worst study-induced hunger with ease.

In addition to pizza, Gina’s also offers sandwiches, including Italian sausage, strobboli, and an “Original Seapoorch,” which features turkey, ham, pepperoni, onions, cheese, lettuce, and mayonnaise. They also have items such as garlic bread, bread sticks, and Pizza Gretel, another Gina’s original.

The best part is that everything is available for delivery, except for a lone order of bread sticks or garlic bread. The prices are competitive, with a large combination pizza costing $13.98. The average delivery time is 25-35 minutes, depending on the volume of business.

Gina’s is open until midnight every night, but the last orders are taken twenty minutes before closing. They will accept student checks. (Off campus students may have to show a school ID to get check writing privileges.)

This is one of the better pizzas, and certainly the best pizza available with delivery, that I have ever had. My room has a new pizza delivery number posted near the phone. Their slogan is “Everybody Loves Gina’s.” Well, they have certainly made a believer out of me.
Dear Mr. President: I saw you on television last Sunday, walking on the beach at Kennebunkport, and decided you look credible as a beach-walker. Beachwalkers are born to walk tall, otherwise, all that convergence of earth, sea, and sky can leave them looking like a shipwreck, or like J. Alfred Prufrock, measuring out his life with coffee spoons. Prufrock, humiliated by his vision of Neptune's daughters, does not have the image a President needs: "I grow old... I grow old... I shall wear a three-piece suit and walk upon the beach..."

Jack Kennedy in his wind-breaker, and Bobby Kennedy barefoot and shirtless, looked at home on the beach. That's why they were good-looking because they were good-looking with coffee spoons.

I dare to eat a peach? I shall wear the sands at San Clemente, wearing a three-piece suit and bottom of my trousers rolled./ The sky can leave them looking like the sands at San Clemente, so I have a favor to ask.

Mr. President, you may never see this letter, unless you subscribe to the Observer, serving Notre Dame and Saint Mary's. I'm not sure what you have heard about my criticism of your war, but to be honest, the dropping of all those bombs leaves me ashamed as a patriot.

As a way of supporting the troops, must I pray that those bombs hit their target, and make a blind act of faith that children are not becoming the victims of a holocaust? It makes me sick to think of our young people as part of a fighting machine that is blind to and mindless in the damage it does.

If you remember the last book of the Bible, called the Apocalypse, you have a vision of four Horsemen against Saddam is to bring this planet the risk of the nuclear winter. The truth may be that we could have nailed him with sanctions.

As a Yalie, Mr. President, you must know that New England is the Abolition movement in Boston sparked the flame leading to the war which freed 4 million slaves. Prescott, the Harvard historian, justified the rape of Mexico by the Spanish: the conquerors, in their rage for gold, brought an end to the human sacrifices which made the religion of Mexico barbarous.

Mr. President, if an army of Christian crusaders zealous like the abolitionists united against slavery started to shed blood in the street in their war to bring an end to abortion? You'd probably remind us on television: "We're not revolutionaries in a banana republic. Ballots, not bullets, are the American way."

Civil war is no answer to our domestic crimes and national sins. Foreign wars against cities that are not our own is no answer to the crimes that are committed abroad against other nations.

What do you think would happen to this country if a peacekeeper were elected to serve in the Oval Office? At our backs would we continue to hear the Horsemen of the Apocalypse hurrying near?

Mr. President, you must dream of Flanders fields where poppies blow between the crosses, row on row. Shake-speare wrote, "Uneasy lies the head that wears a crown." May God bless you and Mrs. Bush.

Women's tennis hosts three matches

By RICH SZABO
Sport Writer

After consecutive losses to William & Mary and Indiana, two top tennis programs, the Notre Dame women's tennis team will try to bounce back this weekend, hosting three matches at the Eck Tennis Pavilion.

On Saturday, the Irish (6-2) play host to Iowa at 10 a.m. and then face Penn at 9 a.m. Sunday and Minnesota at 2 p.m.

Said Irish coach Jay Loudermilk, "I think it's important to have a strong showing because we went 1-2 last weekend and finished losing the last two. I think everyone was a little down after the Indiana match.

"With three matches in two days, it's very important that we have a good weekend. The next match after this is against Northwestern, and they are ranked third in the region, so that will be a big match for us. I think this weekend will have a lot to do with how we play the next couple weeks after that.

"I think we'll be alright, but it's important to get back to winning and we'll have to show a lot of depth against this weekend's opponents. We have a back specialist on Friday and the weekend is going to be a little easier on our bodies as well.

"If we are short-handed, then we'll have to play extremely well."

Loudermilk said Iowa is next to a strong match for Indiana, so they are a strong team. LSU has received votes in the current poll, and Minnesota also fell 6-3 to Indiana. All three teams are talented and the matches should be very competitive.

Coming off consecutive losses and playing three matches in two days, a squad hurt by injuries, the Irish will have to be focused on the weekend.

"The way we lost to William & Mary made it tough to bounce back against Indiana," Vitale said. "We might not have been mentally ready. Hopefully, if everyone can stay healthy, we'll do well. We want to play better this weekend, to redeem ourselves."

With many big matches coming up on the Irish the remainder of the season, a strong performance this weekend would provide a tremendous confidence boost for the team in its quest for an NCAA tournament bid.

"From here on in, we can't lose the big matches," Ann Bradshaw, a doubles specialist, said. "We have to break the top 20 if we want a tournament bid. It's not like we're there and have to worry about losing it. We have to earn it.

Grace, Cavanaugh to meet in IH hoops final

By MARK McGrath
Spons: White

If you are looking for excitement and action, go watch the interhall basketball finals on Sunday in the 51 Center.

The first semifinal matched Grace against Morrissey, with Grace earning a 54-48 win.

This was a spectator's dream. Grace had Demetrius duRose and Bryant King and Morrissey had Derek Johnson and Dorsey Lewis.

The game plan for Grace was to work the ball inside to DuRose. After drawing the defense of Morrissey in, he would look to dish the ball outside for the shot.

Morrissey presented a different look. Morrissey coach Ed Johnson wanted to spread the scoring around but could not forget about Lewis-who finished with 25 points.-and Johnson.

The two teams traded baskets for most of the first half. It was not until the final two minutes of the half that Grace first took control, taking a 28-24 halftime lead.

The second half presented the fans with more of the same action.

"Demetrius was the key tonight. He was able to control the fans with more of the same," said Morrissey coach Ed Johnson.

"It was a good game," said Grace coach Mark Sloan.

"Our passing was excellent and we were shooting well."

The second semifinal put a key on against flanker. Cavanaugh was able to earn a 51-41 win.

"It was a good game," said Ray Griggs. "Both teams played aggressively."

Both teams presented very similar game plans, wanting to spread the scoring around.

Cavanaugh wanted to make sure that Griggs made an impact and stayed out of foul trouble.

Flanner was without his best player, Zak Nagle, who was out with a sprained ankle. Flanner missed his rebounding on both ends of the court.

Cavanaugh was down 8-2 early when coach Bob Gerber called a key timeout. After the timeout, the game was all Cavanaugh. DuRose finished the first half with a 26-17 lead.

"We're counting on everybody. Flanner was without their best player. It's a key."

Cavanaugh was 26-17 lead. Cavanaugh was able to earn a 51-41 win.

"It's going to be a sad day on Saturday for me, too. It's going to be so close, and I think that after four years, you don't always feel that way, but with them, it's been a great experience all four years."

But first, there is the task at hand, making the NCAA Tournament. And to do so, the Irish must win Saturday against Old Dominion. Notre Dame cannot afford to lose any more games if it hopes to earn its first-ever bid.

"I would hope we get a bid in the tournament," Davis said. "It would be real disappointing if it didn't come through. It would be like working four years for nothing if we didn't get one."

The Monarchs (13-18) have fallen upon hard times this season. They were 21-10 in 1989-90—including a 62-62 victory over the Irish last season—and participated in the NCAA Tournament.

Three players average in double figures for Old Dominion, with guard Derik James (19.3 points per game) and two reserves. The Monarchs are 20-8 overall in the season. Notre Dame junior forward Jackie Kenney (13.4 ppg, 4.5 rpg) and sophomore Stephanie Gilmore (15.4 ppg, 3.9 rpg) will have a formidable front line.

The Monarchs are 20-8 overall in the season. University and Notre Dame in that they have good athletes but not a lot of size. "We're worrying about our own. That's what has been successful most of the time this year. We can't really get too concerned with what they're going to do. We just have to play our game."

And forget just for a moment, the significance of the game. For as Mcgraw said, "There's so going to be a lot of teary eyes on Saturday."

Gwynn signs $4 million extension

NEW YORK (AP) — Baseball owners pushed "victory" in salary arbitration on Thursday despite left-hander Paul Gibson's win over the Detroit Tigers.

At the same time, San Diego outfielder Tony Gwynn agreed to a three-year, $12.25 million contract extension that makes him the 40th $3 million-a-year player and the third-best paid in the game.

The owners have a 9-6 lead with only two arbitration cases left unsettled. But they consider salary arbitration an overall loss because almost all players bid raises even if big differences go against them.

Gibson was awarded $565,000 by arbitrator Stephen Goldberg instead of the team's offer of $350,000. Gibson made $150,000 last season, when he was 5-4 with a 3.05 ERA in 61 relief appearances.

"I would hope we get a bid in the tournament," Davis said. "It would be real disappointing if it didn't come through. It would be like working four years for nothing if we didn't get one."

The Monarchs (13-18) have fallen upon hard times this season. They were 21-10 in 1989-90—including a 62-62 victory over the Irish last season—and participated in the NCAA Tournament.

Three players average in double figures for Old Dominion, with guard Derik James (19.3 points per game) and two reserves. The Monarchs are 20-8 overall in the season. University and Notre Dame in that they have good athletes but not a lot of size. "We're worrying about our own. That's what has been successful most of the time this year. We can't really get too concerned with what they're going to do. We just have to play our game."

And forget just for a moment, the significance of the game. For as Mcgraw said, "There's so going to be a lot of teary eyes on Saturday."

Men's track hosts Alex Wilson invitational meet

By HUGH MUNDY
Sports Writer

For the second time this season, a national caliber track-and-field meet comes to Loftus Sports Center as the Notre Dame men's track team hosts the fifth annual Alex Wilson Invitational.

The event, named in honor of the longtime Irish track coach and two time Olympian, begins Saturday morning with preliminary events and continues throughout the day. It features teams from throughout the eastern United States, including national powers George Mason, Villanova and Penn State.

Notre Dame head coach Joe Piane is looking forward to his team's final regular season meet.

"This is a great opportunity for athletes from across the country to qualify for NCAA's," he said.

Piane is equally optimistic about the prospects of Irish athletes.

"We should get a few more guys qualified for the ICAs, mainly in the distance events," he said.

The meet will feature several highly-regarded runners, including Olympian Jim Spivey, who will compete at 3,000 meters. Irish captain Ryan Cahill, also entered in the 3,000 meter run, will be making a bid to improve on his NCAA qualifying time of 8:07.

Cahill believes the meet will provide Notre Dame with momentum going into next week's NCAA Championships.

"This is a great meet," he said. "The caliber of competition will definitely help our guys run fast."

One Irish athlete who needs no help running fast, Raghib "Rocket" Ismail, will once again compete in the 55 meter dash.

Robert Morris' season ends as suit thrown out of court

Pittsburgh (AP) — Robert Morris College's lawsuit against the NCAA was overturned Thursday by a county judge who upheld the school's ban from postseason play, beginning with next week's Northeast Conference tournament.

Robert Morris is believed to be the first school to seek a court order allowing it to play in the 64-team NCAA tournament.

Following a daylong hearing, Allegheny County Common Pleas Judge John L. Musmanno ruled the college didn't prove its punishment for rules violations was too harsh compared to recent penalties imposed on Nevada-Las Vegas, Illinois and Missouri.

"It's over, and we'll survive," athletic director Robert McFee said. "But this is a disappointment.

"It's frustrating and disappointing," said school president Edward Nicholson, who said an appeal was unlikely.

Coach Jarrett Durham, who contends the NCAA treats marquee-name teams such as UNLV differently than smaller schools that don't deliver big TV ratings, declined to comment.

Robert Morris was barred from the 1991 NCAA tournament last May after an internal investigation disclosed a trustee helped pay a student loan obtained by senior guard Andre Boyd. Former athletic director Robert Miller assisted in arranging the loan.

Boyd, a Proposition 48 casualty, paid his own way to school arranging the loan. Dr. William Amos Jr., made three payments of $355 each in violation of NCAA rules.

Robert Morris also was placed on two years' probation, was banned from live TV this season and was stripped of two scholarships in 1991-92. The school must return $88,145 in 1990 NCAA tournament revenue.

The NCAA infractions committee ruled the violations were major because Robert Morris gained substantial competitive advantages by allowing Boyd to play. Boyd initially was barred from playing this season, but was reinstated after the college argued he wasn't aware he had broken any rules.

Following the NCAA ruling, Robert Morris also was placed on two years' probation, was banned from live TV this season and was stripped of two scholarships in 1991-92. The school must return $88,145 in 1990 NCAA tournament revenue.

The NCAA infractions committee ruled the violations were major because Robert Morris gained substantial competitive advantages by allowing Boyd to play. Boyd initially was barred from playing this season, but was reinstated after the college argued he wasn't aware he had broken any rules.

Robert Morris didn't initially appeal the NCAA decision, citing the high court's unlikely prospect of winning a reversal. But the school changed its mind after the NCAA reversed a ruling that barred UNLV from defending its national championship.

Musmanno's decision means Robert Morris (16-11) ended its season with Thursday night's regular-season game at Mount St. Mary's. Most of the Colonials' players attended the court session before leaving for the game.

"This is going to have an impact on our recruiting and our program ... it (an NCAA violation) always does," Nicholson said. "We're trying to upgrade our program, and this is a setback.

Unlike schools that committed major violations uncapped only after NCAA-initiated investigations, Robert Morris drew major sanctions despite conducting its own probe and turning itself in, McFee said.

"We did things the right way, and look what happened," he said. "I think that sends the worst kind of message."

David Berst, the NCAA's enforcement director, said the threat of legal action by member schools won't discourage them from trying to maintain clean programs.

PITCHERS, catchers report to camps

(AP) — Baseball returned Thursday as Eric Davis, Bobby Bonilla and plenty of pitchers and catchers started spring training on schedule. Even Steve Howe was there, but Bo was too. So were'so and Jim Palmer.

"Everything is sunny in Florida and Arizona as 15 teams opened for business with just a minor hitch or two. Come was the dark clouds that kept camps closed all last year because of a 32-day lockout.

"There seems to be a lot of anxious energy to get going," New York Mets manager Bud Harrelson said in Port St. Lucie, Fla., where about 100 fans watched David Cone, Mackey Slate and others work out through the outfield.

Officially, only pitchers and catchers were supposed to show up Thursday, and then just 11 in in a "No Trespassing" sign was merely report, the march of the low minors gets underway.

"It's not just the usual pulled muscles," Royals trainer Nick Swartz said Thursday. "He's not in the mild category.

Jackson is to report to the Royals' camp in Haines City, Fla., along with the position players. He will undergo therapy and do exercises, but is likely to miss the first part of the exhibition schedule.

"He was pretty upbeat, not real down," Royals manager John Wathan said after a telephone conversation with Jackson. "I guess disappointed is the right word.

There were a few other go.

The Minnesota Twins, who moved their training site from Orlando to Fort Myers, Fla., this year, aren't quite ready to move in yet, the clubhouse and batting cages at the Lee County Sports Complex are not finished, so all players will be crammed into the minor-league headquarters for about 10 days. Newly acquired Jack Morris, Kirby Puckett and Kent Hrbek were among the Twins at the new location on Thursday.

At the New York Yankees' camp in Fort Lauderdale, Fla., where last year's lockout reigned, a "No Trespassing" sign was posted above the players' locker room entrance, pitcher Pascal Perez was absent. The reason: that catch-all cause, visa problems.

DENVER (AP) — Kevin Duckworth had 25 points and 14 rebounds as the Portland Trail Blazers defeated Denver 122-111 Thursday night for the Nuggets' seventh consecutive loss.

It was the fourth victory of the season for the Trail Blazers over the Nuggets, the first series sweep ever for Portland over Denver.

Clyde Drexler had 19 points and eight assists for the Trail Blazers, who halted a three-game road losing streak and improved their overall record to 43-10. The Pacific Division leaders made only 43 percent of their 107 shots, but Portland's defense kept Denver at bay.

Orlando Woolridge led the Nuggets with 20 points and 13 rebounds. Michael Adams, back in uniform after missing five games with a pulled hamstring, was 4-for-14 from the field and scored 12 points, 13 under his average.

Lakers 106, Mavericks 92

DALLAS (AP) — Magic Johnson had 21 points, 12 assists and eight rebounds as the Los Angeles Lakers avenged an earlier loss to Dallas.

It was Johnson's ninth triple-double this season and 132nd of his career. He scored 10 points, 12 rebounds and 17 assists against Houston on Tuesday night.

Los Angeles held Dallas to a club record-low output in building a 52-29 halftime lead. Dallas' previous low was 31 against Houston in 1981.

Rodman 49, Jazz 48

DALLAS (AP) — Dennis Rodman had 16 points, 14 rebounds and 17 assists as the Detroit Pistons held off the Utah Jazz.

Rodman was 7-for-9 from the field and scored the last 11 points of the game. He also had five rebounds, an assist and five steals in the final 4:40.

Harden 33, Celtics 110

BOSTON (AP) — John Stockton's 25 points, 10 assists and 10 rebounds helped the Utah Jazz to a victory over the Boston Celtics.

The Jazz had 28 points in the first quarter, 57 in the first half and scored the last 11 points of the game. They held the Celtics to 11 points in the fourth quarter.

Hawks 101, Knicks 91

NEW YORK (AP) — Shawn Kemp scored 24 points and pulled down 18 rebounds to help the Seattle SuperSonics defeat the New York Knicks.

The Sonics, who never trailed, snapped a three-game losing streak despite playing without leading scorer Derrick McKey, out with an injury, and newly acquired center Benoit Benjamin.

The loss dropped New York's record to 43-10. The Knicks had 26 points, hit two free throws by Matt Nover and Patrick Ewing 19 points and 15 rebounds for the SuperSonics.

Heat 104, Bullets 90

LANDOVER, Md. (AP) — Miami won its second road game in 1991 and fifth of the season as Glen Rice scored 27 points to lead the Heat past Washington.

Rice scored 12 points in the third quarter to give the Heat the lead, then scored seven in the final 5:08 to help Miami hold off the Bullets' comeback.

Seikaly scored 24 points and Sherman Douglas had 20 for the Heat, who are 5-2 on the road.

Both Washington and Denver were in action last night, and both lost. The Bullets fell to Miami 104-90, while the Nuggets lost their seventh straight, 122-111, at the hands of the Portland Trail Blazers.

Iowa upsets Hoosiers; Arizona rolls

BLOOMINGTON, Ind. (AP) — Iowa rallied from a 16-point deficit in the second half and beat No. 4 Indiana 80-79 in overtime Thursday night on James Moses' tip-in at the buzzer.

Indiana, which missed six straight free throws that could have won the game in regulation, took a 77-74 lead on two free throws by Matt Nover and three straight by Calbert Cheaney with 2 minutes left in the overtime.

But Iowa's Troy Skinner hit four foul shots to give the Hawkeyes the lead with under a minute to go, and Cheaney, who finished with 26 points, hit two more free throws for the last.

Indiana lead with 30 seconds left. After an Iowa timeout with 8 seconds to go, Arie Earl missed one shot and Chris Street missed another on the rebound before Moses' winning tip.

Indiana (22-4, 10-3 in the Big Ten), led 50-36 minutes into the second half before the Hawkeyes (16-8, 7-7) rallied behind Val Barnes and Earl, who finished with 19 points each.

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) — Khalid Reeves hit five of Arizona's nine 3-pointers and the ninth-ranked Wildcats' balanced scoring smothered California 100-63 Thursday night to tighten their Pac-10 Conference lead.

Reeves, a reserve freshman guard, and Brian Williams each had 19 points while Matt Mittlebach and Ed Stokes scored 13 apiece as Arizona (21-5, 10-3) made the Golden Bears (11-13, 7-8) their 60th consecutive victim at McKale Center, the nation's longest current home winning streak.

The Wildcats' defense and height advantage overpowered Cal as Arizona repaid the Bears for an 85-78 loss last month at Berkeley.

Arizona jumped to a 49-30 halftime lead and put the game away with a 12-2 run at the start of the second half, fueled by two jams, a layup and a jumper by Williams.
Swimmers ahead of MCC pack

By BECKY WOOD

Day One of the Midwestern Collegiate Conference Swimming and Diving Championships saw seven meet records broken, including four by Evansville, but Notre Dame took an early lead.

The Irish men tallied 290 points over second place Evansville (179), St. Louis, Xavier, Butler, and Loyola, while the Notre Dame women scored 324 points, well ahead of St. Louis (189), Evansville, Butler and Xavier.

Senior co-captain Brian Rini edged out freshman Kevin Flanagan in the 500 freestyle and improved his own meet record by over two seconds, 4:40.10. Divers Sean Hoyer and Jenny Kipp both won the 1-meter diving events.

The Evansville women claimed the 200 freestyle relay and K. Watson, Tricia Berger and Jennifer DeDoming set three meet records in the 500 freestyle, 50 free and 200 individual medley.

St. Louis' Jennifer Chase swam to victory in the 400 medley relay and touched out the Notre Dame women. St. Louis also set a meet record in the same relay, 4:07.64. The other meet record was set by Butler's Paul Newsom in the 50 freestyle, 21.52.

MCC preliminary and finals competition continues at Rolls Aquatic Center on Friday (11 a.m. and 7 p.m.) and Saturday (10 a.m. and 6 p.m.).

around a bad team overnight, Mendes said Ismail remains "an option" for the Patriots, who have the top pick in the draft. "If you look around the league at successful teams," he said, "you win with Cadillac. And this guy I would certainly put in that class."

Ismail called the workout "pretty good" but reminded reporters that his exclusive status at the workout does not necessarily translate into his being the No. 1 pick. "There are a lot of other people out there," he said. The Patriots, who finished 1-15 last season, have not said whether they plan to select Ismail or trade down in the draft.

"We’re still busy assessing opportunities and the avenues we have and want to take the one that’s best for the team," Mendes said.

Ismail missed the NFL scouting combine earlier this month in Indianapolis because it conflicted with the Central College Championships, a regional track meet in which he ran the 55-meter dash in a school-record 6.07 seconds, qualifying for next month’s NCAA meet.

His speed should overcome any size or strength deficiencies in the minds of many NFL scouts, who saw no reason to watch him work out in the weight room.

"Not many people are going to hit him," Pittsburgh Steelers special teams coach and former Notre Dame assistant George Stewart said. "His speed is outstanding. I'd put him in the neighborhood with Bo Jackson."

Scouts from the Chicago Bears, Cincinnati Bengals, Kansas City Chiefs, Atlanta Falcons, Detroit Lions, Green Bay Packers, Washington Redskins, Miami Dolphins, Los Angeles Raiders, New York Jets, Cleveland Browns and Dallas Cowboys also attended the workout.

Irish finish up home slate with two games against Falcons

By RICH KURZ
Sports Writer

The Notre Dame hockey team (15-13-1) hosts its last two home games of the season tonight and tomorrow night at 7:30 p.m., against a foe who is quite familiar to the Irish. This weekend will mark the third and fourth times the Irish play the Air Force Falcons (7-13-1) this season.

And if the games at the Joyce ACC, where the Irish have won 13 times in 15 games, are anything close to the games the two teams played in Colorado Springs three weeks ago, then Notre Dame hockey fans are in for a treat.

The Irish split the two games with the Falcons, coming back to win Saturday's game behind the stellar goaltending of Greg Russo (19-7-10) as Notre Dame seized a 21-18 home loss to Indiana (5-21-18) as Notre Dame seized a 21-18 home loss to Indiana (5-21-18), but were knocked out of the NCAA Regionals with a 3-1 loss to Air Force.

Junior left wing Lou Zadra thinks these games will be as exciting as those at Air Force.

"The Falconi are quick, and they check a lot. They should be a tough test for us," Zadra said.

Notre Dame coach Rick Schafere also expects two more hard-fought games this weekend.

"It's another matchup with two even teams," he said. "I'd like to change that." Zadra—tied with David Bankoske and Mike Caiazzo for the team lead in goals with 19—thinks the Irish are primed to break loose against the Falcons, wins that could prove to be extremely important.

"We're definitely focused for both Friday and Saturday night's games. We want to come in and win big," he said. "We're still in contention for the (NCAA) tournament. These are big games." The Irish power play, which has been on a roll lately, could be a deciding factor in these games. "It's been really efficient. It just keeps improving," said Zadra.

Both Zadra and Schafere think the Irish are ready to step up their level of play another notch going into the home stretch of the season.

"It's time for a grand finish. We're four games from hanging our skates up until October. It would be nice to finish strong," said Schafere. Zadra said, "We're hitting our peak.

NOTES—This weekend will mark the final home appearance for Irish seniors Chris Oien and John Giaa, the only two seniors on the Notre Dame roster. . . . Notre Dame has begun talking to the CCHA about possibly joining the conference. The discussions are currently in an "exploratory stage," according to Schafere. . . . Junior center David Bankoske needs only one assist to tie former Irish All-American Greg Meredith for 10th place on the career assists list for Notre Dame . . . After this weekend's games, the Irish travel to Anchorage, Alaska to participate in the Jeep/Eagle Independent Hockey Tournament March 9-10. Alaska—Anchorage, Alaska-Fairbanks and Alabama-Huntsville are entered in the tournament which will go a long way to determining the lone independent representative to the NCAA playoffs.

Wrestlers drop season finale to Hoosiers, 21-18

By DAVE DIETEMAN
Sports Writer

The Notre Dame (4-8-1) wrestling team wrapped up its regular season last night with a 21-18 home loss to Indiana (5-8).

The loss, however, does not close the book on this year's Irish squad, who are preparing for next weekend's NCAA West Regional meet.

"It's been a tough year," said Notre Dame coach Frank McCann. "Tonight was the same old thing—we've lost six meets this year and we've lost six meets this year. We've got the wrestling team wrapped up its schedule, that's just the way it goes.

"But we're not finished yet. We've got the NCAA Regionals next week, and we feel good. All the guys wrestled for seven minutes tonight, and I'm really pleased with that."

The Irish started the night on the right foot, as freshman Chris Jensen (12-14), who has been plagued by injury since Iowa, came from behind to stun the Hoosiers' Chris Russo (19-7-10), 6-4, in the 118-pound match.

Russo took Jensen down with a 2-point near fall, but Jensen escaped and Russo took him down again as Russo jumped out to a 4-1 lead after one period.

Jensen opened the third period with an escape and was quickly awarded a bonus point for Russo's stalling penalty. Behind 4-3, Jensen rallied to take a 1-point lead with a takedown in the match. The final margin of victory, thanks to over one minute of riding time, was 6-4.

"Jensen is still hurting," noted McCann. "He showed a lot of courage and a lot of heart in coming back. It was good for him, because it will help his confidence before the Regional meet."

Marcus Gowens (21-7) led throughout his 4-3 victory over Dave Nieradka at 126 pounds (16-9) as Notre Dame seeded 5-0 setback at Iowa, came from behind to stun the Hoosiers' Chris Russo (19-7-10), 6-4, in the 118-pound match.

Sophomore Kyle Cadman (13-3), however, fell to Indiana's Lou Silverman (14-11) at 134 pounds, and Jamie Boyd (13-15-1) with a pin at 158 pounds as the Irish quickly fell to Hoosiers, 21-18.

Women to face Old Dominion

Seniors reminisce with last home game this Saturday

By RENE FERRAN
Sports Writer

Saturday is the last home game for seniors Karen Robinson, Krisi Davis, Sara Lieblicher and manager Mike Caputo as the Notre Dame women's basketball team faces Old Dominion at 2 p.m.

And as the senior members of this year's women's basketball program recalled their most memorable experiences, one in particular come to their respective minds.

It was on their West Coast swing this year. The team was sightseeing in San Francisco the day before the Stanford game, and it stopped to look at the Golden Gate Bridge from the overlook. Stairs led down to the beach, and several players ran down into the water. Let Lieblichner describe the rest:

"The players just go, take my socks and shoes off, and I see this guy walking towards me, so I look up, and then I do a double-take. Here comes this guy, naked, walking straight at me … I start looking around, and every single person on this beach is naked, and not only that, but they're all male. It was a nude gay beach."

Experiences like these helped breed deep bonds between these diverse personalities.

"Looking back, it's amazing to think that I didn't know those people, and in the last three- and-a-half years, we've become real close friends," Davis said. "Those two will be my closest friends from now to forever."

"The people I've met through basketball have opened up so many doors for me," Lieblicher said. "I've made so many friendships that I think I've never regretted."

"Among the team, we still talk to each other, we're still really close, we're proud of each other. We want to do the best we can, and we're proud of each other," she added.

Watching Robinson, Davis and Lieblicher walk towards each other on the court at the last home game, it's easy to understand why they were so close. The three seniors are most proud of, building the program to a level it has reached ranks high.

"We've had lots of ups and downs, and we've been successful," Robinson said. "We've seen the program turn around since I've been here, and from here on it's only going to get better and better."

"We've definitely made some big strides since my freshman year," Lieblicher said. "I'd like people to think of us as a hard-working group, one that overcame a lot of adversity through the years."

This is the first group of seniors which played all four years under Coach Muffet McGraw, a smile on her face when she reflected on the past time together.

"There's still time on the clock. It's going to be a particular hard to see them go," McGraw said. "The program has grown so much because of them."

Irish look to upset No. 18 Redmen

By KEN TYSIA
Associated Press

The Notre Dame men's basketball team will try to pick up right where it left off in Wednesday's 87-67 overtime victory over DePaul in Saturday's 77-72 win over Syracuse at the Garden.

The Irish (11-16) already came through with a gutsy performance to reach the regional level against the Blue Demons, and will look to do it again when they meet Coach Lou Carnesecca's Redmen. St. John's (16-6) has lost four of six before Wednesday's 77-72 win over Syracuse at the Garden. The big gun for the Redmen will be forward Malik Sealy, who average 23 points and 7.5 rebounds per game and is a genuine threat to score inside and outside.

"John's is obviously going to be in our sights," Irish coach Digger Phelps said. "Malik Sealy can just take the game over, it seems that every team we play has someone like that."

Sealy's fellow teammates provide adequate support. Point guard Jason Buchanan (12.1 ppg, 5.5 apg) is a proven playmaker and scorer. Center Robert Werdann (10.8 ppg, 7.2 rpg) can get the job done inside, and Billy Singleton and Shawnde Scott are a genuine threat in terms of the roles in the Redmen offense.

"They have balance with those four—Buchanan, Werdann, Singleton and Scott," Phelps said.

The Irish, meanwhile, will continue to look for the Texas Express duo of Elmer Bennett and Daimon Sweet to do most of their scoring. Bennett, a 6-1 guard, scored 21 points before fouling out against the Blue Demons and averages 14.7 ppg. Sweet, meanwhile, is the team's leading scorer at 15.9 ppg. He was named a second-year career-high 22 against DePaul.

"When Bennett fouled out, Daimon Sweet just stepped up and we just said, 'go as far as you can,' said (Keith) Tower," Phelps said. "Our kids were just determined to win that one."

Senior Tim Singleton, who is second on the team in scoring, will be reunited with the 1970-71 Fordham team which he coached to the East Regional semi-finals in the 1970-71 NCAA play.

"It's going to be real exciting," Singleton said. "It's a matter of wanting to see it happen."

6 boxers defend titles in Bengal Bouts

By ROLANDO DE AGUIAR

Boxing for Bangladesh Mission, page 17 in the 61st annual Bengal Bouts will begin fighting this weekend at the Joyce A.C.

Bengal Bouts, founded by Dominick Napotano, have been fought since the 1930s, and have become something of a legend in the South Bend area, and are an essential piece of Notre Dame tradition. Now organized by the Boxing Club, the event raises thousands of dollars each year for the Holy Missions in Bangladesh.

Among the fields of boxers, six champions return to Bengal Bouts. Though the number of fighters is down from last year's total of 102, Boxing Club President Mike Trainor sees an improvement in the boxers' level of skill.

"There is a lot of quality in the fighters this year," said Trainor. "We just don't have the numbers, which makes for a good tournament."

The 170-pound weight class will undoubtedly be one of the most exciting, led by Trainor, the defending champion. Two more experienced fighters have transferred to Notre Dame, and each will challenge Trainor for his title.

Scott Mulcahy, a transfer from West Point, boxed in the NCAA tournament last year, and reached the regional level. A transfer from Chicago, Lou Hall, is another surprise. Having boxed for two years, Hall also could threaten Trainor's title.

"My weight class will definitely be interesting," said Trainor. "There are some really good boxers among the fighters."

Kerry Wate returns as champion in the 165-pound class. Wate won titles in both his freshman and sophomore years, and will look to three-peat as a junior.

However, another Trainor will be trying to stop Wate's string of titles. Returning from a year off from Bengal Bouts, Mike Trainor's twin brother Tim will compete in the 165-pound class. Tim was kept out of last year's action by a separated shoulder.

Other returning champions include Body Armenta, a junior 150-pounder, Kevin Max, a 185-pound senior, Jim Hawkins, at 193, and John Saffred, the senior competing at 140 pounds.

The money donated to Bangladesh is very important to the mission's very survival.

"They need the money badly," Trainor said. "When we send it to them, they have usually put it to good use."

Bengal Bouts will begin Sunday afternoon next to the ice rink at the A.C. at 12:30. Approximately 10 fights will occur that afternoon, and an evening doubleheader will occur on Sunday night beginning at 7:30.

On Wednesday, February 20, semi-final bouts will be fought at 7:30 p.m., and the finals of the Bengal Bouts will March 1 at 8:00.

This weekend's game will be Notre Dame's 2,200th game. The Notre Dame-St. John's match-up will be preceded by a 6 p.m. battle between Dayton and Fordham.

Phelps will be reunited with the 1970-71 Fordham team which he coached to the East Regional semi-finals in the 1970-71 NCAA play.

"The Irish are back in the Garden since 1974," Phelps said. "It's going to be exciting, but we just want to see it happen."
