The task is arduous because Blumberg is sentenced. Blumberg obliterated most of the visit would happen before the identifying marks.

Thousands of stolen books, some cutted the case. The student administration hopes to tackle implicit research into the quality of undergraduate education, student representation on the duLac revision committee, cooperation with the South Bend City Government in regards to off-campus student attitude towards the S.U.F.R. movement.

Blumberg was/going to happen," said Pasin. The other charges dealt with the books, saying she'd rather deserves a long stay in prison. In January that Blumberg was taken to the Jail in Atlantic.

"It's going to happen," said Linda Reade, the assistant U.S. District Attorney who prosecuted the case.

She said she did not know when Blumberg, whom she described as a "thief of ND rare books to assist in returns"

Thief of ND rare books to assist in returns

The Independent Newspaper Serving Notre Dame and Saint Mary's

Blanco pledges service to students in address

BY ANN MARIE HARTMAN
Assistant News Editor

Out with the old and in with the new was the theme of the student body address held Wednesday by the newly installed student government president and vice-president, Joe Blanco and Dave Fiorenza.

After accepting the president-ship and vice-presidency from leaders, Rob Pasin and Fred Tombar, Blanco outlined his agenda for the 1991-1992 school year.

According to Blanco, there are three main areas that he hopes his administration will be able to address.

First is the area of service to the student body. "Student government must deal with individual concerns," said Blanco.

He and Fiorenza hope to implemented this plan of student service through an emphasis on student life, further development of a pilot gold program which involves social interaction and projects with peer guidance and counseling; and a continuation of the "Fred Line," a telephone number students can use to voice their campus concerns.

The second item on the Blanco agenda is to increase student input to the administration.

Blanco suggested a continued effort to follow up on the board of trustees reports and to make improvements in this area.

Blanco concluded his agenda in saying that he wants to increase campus involvement in world issues. "Notre Dame is unique and saddled with a reponsibility to the world," said Blanco.

He and Fiorenza plan to propose various national and international programs to the University, as well as to raise funds for the lecture series that Pasin and Tombar established.

Additional areas that the new student administration hopes to tackle include research into the quality of undergraduate education, student representation on the duLac revision committee, cooperation with the South Bend City Government in regards to off-campus student attitude towards the S.U.F.R. movement.

Pasin and Tombar opened the evening's address with words of thanks, but did not relinquish their titles until they passed on their words of wisdom.

Pasin told new leaders to "expect intense highs and intense lows." But if asked to actcept the role of president again, Pasin said he "would in a minute."

Tombar's closing remarks were a plea to all students to have an open-minded towards the S.U.F.R. organization. Blanco said he hopes to refocus students on the message of the S.U.F.R. coalition and clear up misinformed judgements held by students of the organization.

The Independent Newspaper Serving Notre Dame and Saint Mary's

The Torch

The Observer/E.G. Bailey

"Singin' In The Spring"

"The Bone Forest" entertains students with music in the fieldhouse mall Wednesday afternoon. Warm temperatures brought many students outdoors to enjoy the benefits spring weather offers.

DES MOINES, Iowa (AP) — Convicted rare book thief Stephen Blumberg will soon be re-university and college campuses across the nation, at the cost of the mission of the university to teach the truth, according to Charles Sykes, author of "The Hollow Men: Politics and Corruption in Higher Education."

"We have so lost the idea of what education should be," said Sykes during a lecture Wednesday. Schools currently support an "idea of scholarship whose goal is . . . to weigh ideas, but to advance political ideology."

The administrations of many universities and colleges are curtailing students' freedom of speech in attempts to fight racism, sexism, and other types of discrimination on campuses, according to Sykes.

The politicalization of cur-rriculum has also begun to devil, diminishing the concept of a true liberal arts education. This "dogmatic, absolute understanding of human expericence" does not allow for the discussion of the problems of cultural diversity, he said.

Through the speech codes, expulsions, and other sanctions, universities are sweeping the problems inherent in a diverse student body under the rug instead of solving them through debate.

He cited a variety of examples of this problem.

"University of Connecticut has also been trying to inventory the books. The task is arduous because Blumberg is sentenced. Blumberg obliterated most of the identifying marks.

She and one of Blumberg's attorneys, Ray Rosenberg, said the visit would happen before Blumberg is sentenced. Sentencing was originally set for April 26 but both sides will request a delay. On Jan. 30, Blumberg, 42, was convicted of four theft-re-related counts, including one of possessing 21,000 stolen rare books from hundreds of liaries across the country and Canada. Some of the volumes came from Notre Dame.

The other charges dealt with stolen antique windows and other items I have come across," she said at the time.

In "many ways he is a more hardened criminal than many others I have come across," she said at the time.

Federal Judge Harold Vietor denied appeal bond and Blumberg was taken to the Cass County Jail in Atlantic, an official at the sheriff's office said Blumberg has posed no problems in the jail.

In the trial, Blumberg pleaded innocent by reason of insanity, but Rosenberg saying the de-defendant was absurd with Rosenberg history and "lived in a time world, a secret world."

about issues involving even the most subtle of racism or sex.

Michigan's speech code was later declared a violation of the First Amendment by the Supreme Court.

A social worker was prohibited from beginning a program to help homosexuals convert to heterosexuality.

The administration said that this is a speech crime, the university must embrace homosexuals on campus rather than attempt to...
Chain letters bring nothing but sorrow

I've never believed in bad luck, until now. I got a chain letter. It was not a friendly one.

This letter promised good luck if I send twenty copies to other poor, unfortunate souls.

And if I didn't...
The letter went on to describe what happens to people who break the chain.

Within ninety-six hours the curse made its way to me. I added it to the trash.

The curse made me a millionaire in thirty days--I promise to make my new roommateeditor a millionaire in thirty days.

The views expressed in the Inside Column are those of the author and not necessarily the Observer.

Today's Staff:

News
Peter Loubis
Janet Jahn
Steve Martin
Debbie Bynum
Sports
Dave McMahon
Soccer
Rich Mahn
Access
John Harrigan
John Fardell
Michael Whitman
Systems
Phyllis Roman
Brian越大

The Observer (ISSN 599 2-4000) is published Monday through Friday except during exam and vacation periods. The Observer is published by the Associated Press. All reproduction rights are reserved.

Gallery:

TODAY AT A GLANCE

World

Alde predicts quick end to crisis

BROOKLYN - The top aide to Giulio Andreotti, Italy's caretaker premier, on Wednesday predicted a quick end to the political crisis that brought down the nation's 49th postwar government last week. Following the Easter holiday break, President Francesco Cossiga began consultations with political leaders to help him decide whether to turn once more to Andreotti, a six-time premier, to put together a new government.

Andreotti announced his resignation Friday, bringing end to the political crisis that brought down the nation's 20-month-old government. The premier had been sparring with each other for months about domestic issues, but they had lumped along to avoid a collapse during the Persian Gulf War and Italy's six-month presidency of the European Community.

Among the areas the parties have been feuding over are how to hold back public spending and debt, how to fight organized crime, and whether to reform government institutions and the electoral system. RAI state television said President Cossiga would make his decision on a new premier by Saturday.

Indiana

Five week marijuana trial in jury's hands

EVANSVILLE, Ind. — Jurors armed with yellow legal pads full of notes began deliberations Wednesday in the five-week trial of seven people accused in the growing of thousands of marijuana plants on southern Indiana farms. The complex trial, which began Feb. 25, has included 47 witnesses and 262 exhibits of evidence. None of the seven defendants testified. Six of the defendants are charged with conspiring to clone, plant, harvest and process several million dollars' worth of marijuana from the spring of 1983 to the fall of 1985. The other is charged with lying to a federal grand jury about the operation. The marijuana was propagated and grown on three farms near Lafayette, Orwell and Velpus, prosecutors said. Most of it was allegedly processed and distributed in Colorado and Nevada. Jurors heard final instructions from U.S. District Judge Gene Brooks before begin deliberations about 11 a.m. Brooks said the four-woman, eight-man jury would be sequestered if necessary.

CAMPUS

Asbestos removal occurs on campus

NOTRE DAME, Ind.—Notre Dame will remove asbestos from its Computing Center and Mathematics Building beginning Monday, April 8, continuing until June 20. The asbestos was installed during construction of the building 30 years ago to provide fire protection for structural steel beams. Since 1978 the University has monitored the building for airborne asbestos and has found no indication of a health hazard. Due to the location and accessibility of the materials, however, the University has decided to remove them. To ensure the safety of the operation, the removal will take place inside a sealed area which will be made secure. Supervised by Cole Associates, an engineering consulting firm, and by the University's department of risk management and safety.

OF INTEREST

Senior News: Moving to that new city when you graduate in May? Career and Placement Services would like to help you find the new roommate/house-mate that you need.

The Eastman Brass will perform in a guest concert at 3 p.m. on Sunday, April 7, at the Ames Performing Arts Auditorium, in the Snell Museum of Art on Sunday April 7.

MARKET UPDATE

ON THIS DAY IN HISTORY

1887: Susanna Medora Salter became the first woman elected mayor of a U.S. city—Argonia, Kans.

1966: Civil rights leader Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. was shot to death in Memphis, Tenn., where he had gone to support a strike by sanitation workers.

1974: Hank Aaron of the Atlanta Braves tied Babe Ruth's home-run record by hitting his 714th round-tripper in Cincinnati.

One year ago: Secretary of State James Baker began three days of talks in Washington with his Soviet counterpart, Eduard Shevardnadze, to discuss the Lithuanian crisis and arms control issues.

Today's Staff:

News
Peter Loubis
Janet Jahn
Steve Martin
Debbie Bynum
Sports
Dave McMahon
Soccer
Rich Mahn
Access
John Harrigan
John Fardell
Michael Whitman
Systems
Phyllis Roman
Brian越大

The Observer (ISSN 599 2-4000) is published Monday through Friday except during exam and vacation periods. The Observer is published by the Associated Press. All reproduction rights are reserved.

Gallery:

TODAY AT A GLANCE

World

Alde predicts quick end to crisis

BROOKLYN - The top aide to Giulio Andreotti, Italy's caretaker premier, on Wednesday predicted a quick end to the political crisis that brought down the nation's 49th postwar government last week. Following the Easter holiday break, President Francesco Cossiga began consultations with political leaders to help him decide whether to turn once more to Andreotti, a six-time premier, to put together a new government.

Andreotti announced his resignation Friday, bringing end to the political crisis that brought down the nation's 20-month-old government. The premier had been sparring with each other for months about domestic issues, but they had lumped along to avoid a collapse during the Persian Gulf War and Italy's six-month presidency of the European Community.

Among the areas the parties have been feuding over are how to hold back public spending and debt, how to fight organized crime, and whether to reform government institutions and the electoral system. RAI state television said President Cossiga would make his decision on a new premier by Saturday.

Indiana

Five week marijuana trial in jury's hands

EVANSVILLE, Ind. — Jurors armed with yellow legal pads full of notes began deliberations Wednesday in the five-week trial of seven people accused in the growing of thousands of marijuana plants on southern Indiana farms. The complex trial, which began Feb. 25, has included 47 witnesses and 262 exhibits of evidence. None of the seven defendants testified. Six of the defendants are charged with conspiring to clone, plant, harvest and process several million dollars' worth of marijuana from the spring of 1983 to the fall of 1985. The other is charged with lying to a federal grand jury about the operation. The marijuana was propagated and grown on three farms near Lafayette, Orwell and Velpus, prosecutors said. Most of it was allegedly processed and distributed in Colorado and Nevada. Jurors heard final instructions from U.S. District Judge Gene Brooks before begin deliberations about 11 a.m. Brooks said the four-woman, eight-man jury would be sequestered if necessary.

CAMPUS

Asbestos removal occurs on campus

NOTRE DAME, Ind.—Notre Dame will remove asbestos from its Computing Center and Mathematics Building beginning Monday, April 8, continuing until June 20. The asbestos was installed during construction of the building 30 years ago to provide fire protection for structural steel beams. Since 1978 the University has monitored the building for airborne asbestos and has found no indication of a health hazard. Due to the location and accessibility of the materials, however, the University has decided to remove them. To ensure the safety of the operation, the removal will take place inside a sealed area which will be made secure. Supervised by Cole Associates, an engineering consulting firm, and by the University's department of risk management and safety.

OF INTEREST

Senior News: Moving to that new city when you graduate in May? Career and Placement Services would like to help you find the new roommate/house-mate that you need.

The Eastman Brass will perform in a guest concert at 3 p.m. on Sunday, April 7, at the Ames Performing Arts Auditorium, in the Snell Museum of Art on Sunday April 7.

MARKET UPDATE

ON THIS DAY IN HISTORY

1887: Susanna Medora Salter became the first woman elected mayor of a U.S. city—Argonia, Kans.

1966: Civil rights leader Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. was shot to death in Memphis, Tenn., where he had gone to support a strike by sanitation workers.

1974: Hank Aaron of the Atlanta Braves tied Babe Ruth's home-run record by hitting his 714th round-tripper in Cincinnati.

One year ago: Secretary of State James Baker began three days of talks in Washington with his Soviet counterpart, Eduard Shevardnadze, to discuss the Lithuanian crisis and arms control issues.
UNITED NATIONS (AP) — The Security Council on Wednesday adopted a truce resolution that forces a de­feated Iraq to its knees, dem­anding it abolish weapons of mass destruction, renounce terrorism and repair the dam­age of its occupation of Kuwait.

If Iraq accepts the truce reso­lution, it would take effect im­mediately. The U.N.-ordered trade embargo on Iraq would be lifted in stages. U.N. peace­keeping troops would replace allied soldiers.

Iraq’s U.N. envoy called the resolution “outrageous” and “one-sided,” but he said his government had yet to decide on compliance. Under pressure, Baghdad has accepted all previ­ous council resolutions since its defeat in late February.

“Iraq now has a clear choice,” declared Sir David Hannay, the British amba­sador. “It can, by accepting this resolution and by implementing it rapidly and honestly, turn its back on the errors and crimes of the recent past, or it can perpetuate the suffering ... for a further period until it becomes intolerable.”

A provisional truce has pre­vailed between Iraqi and allied forces since late February.

The United States led efforts to squelch moves for a separate council resolution demanding that Iraq respect the lives of Kurdish and Shitte peoples who rose up at the war’s end. Thou­sands have reportedly died as Saddam Hussein crushed those rebellions.

The resolution, the longest and most complex in U.N. his­tory, demands the U.N.-super­vised destruction of Iraq’s chemical and biological weapons, nuclear weapons-grade materials, and ballistic missiles with a range of more than 90 miles. That would leave Iraq unable to fire missiles into Israel, as it did during the war.

The truce maintains the U.N. embargo on conventional arms sales to the Baghdad govern­ment, but the ban will be re­viewed periodically.

The truce holds Iraq liable for injury, damage and loss of property stemming from its Aug. 2 invasion and occupation of Kuwait, including damage to the environment. It says Bagh­dad must return all booty and documents taken from Kuwait.

Iraq also must renounce ter­rorism and expel any terrorist groups from the country.

U.S. Ambassador Thomas Pickering said the resolution was “tough, but it is fair.” He held out a frail olive branch, saying, “If the people of Iraq will work with us ... and mili­tary tension recedes, the inter­national community can turn to assisting with the reconstruc­tion of Iraq, as well as of Kuwait.”

The Security Council ap­proved the resolution Wednes­day by a 12-1 vote. Two na­tions, Yemen and Ecuador, ab­sented. Caba voted “no.”

The 10 non-permanent mem­bers are Austria, Belgium, Cuba, Ecuador, India, Ivory Coast, Romania, Yemen, Zaire and Zimbabwe.

Fighting ended Feb. 28 be­tween Iraqi and allied armies after Saddam Hussein’s forces were driven from Kuwait. But the destruction of much of the Iraqi ruler’s army encouraged revolts by Kurds in northern Iraq and Shiites in the south.

France urged the Security Council to get involved in ef­forts to halt the civil war, but Pres­i dent Bush said Wednesday he had no intention of peri­mit­ting U.S. forces to intervene in Iraq’s civil strife. “I do not want to see us get sucked into the internal strug­gle in Iraq," Bush told re­porters in Florida, where he was vacationing.

Iraq on Wednesday an­nounced that the capture of the northern city of Sulaimaniyah — the last sizeable town held by the rebels — and a rebel speaker in Syria confirmed the city had fallen.

The spokesman, Kamal Fund of the Patriotic Union of Kur­distan, also said government troops had recaptured Zakho, on the Turkish border. Iraqi authorities had announced cap­ture of the town on Monday.

International relief officials say up to 3 million civilians have fled their homes in north­ern Iraq, and many fled to the rugged northern mountains, where they face hunger and ex­posure.

At the United Nations, Iraq’s Ambassador Abdul Amir al-An­bari was harsh in his denuncia­tion of the truce approved Wednesday. “It is the most outrageous violation of the U.N. Charter,” he said. “The Security Council has by far exceeded its author­ity, it has acted illegitimately, and I believe it is so one-sided that it is going to destabilize the re­gion rather than introduce peace into it.”

But asked if he meant to say that the Baghdad government would not accept the measure, he replied: “No, I am not going to say that.”

The Iraqi envoy suggested that Iraq might try to modify the resolution’s terms. “I believe it is, in a way open,” he said. “For example, the question of compensation. What is the mechanism, the procedures, the laws, as well as the percentage to be taken from the Iraqi oil revenues, all these are points for negotia­tions, because they are not fixed in the resolution.”

He said Iraq reserves the right to seek reparations from the United States and its coal­i­tion allies. He hinted at re­verse at the International Court of Justice on border, dis­armament and embargo issues.

The United States, Soviet Union, China, Britain and France, which hold permanent council seats with veto power, set out the wording of the text before submitting it to the other 10 council members.

The anti-Iraqi coalition has considerable means to pressure Bagh­dad into accepting the truce. U.S.-led allied forces now occupy a strip of land in south­ern Iraq that equals about a fifth of that nation’s territory.

Gene Carroll

United Mine Workers of America

“The Pittston Strike”

Thursday, April 4

at 8:00 pm

Center for Social Concerns

Talk and discussion of Appalachia Mining Struggles

sponsored by the CSC

UN’s Cease-Fire Resolution

Key conditions that Iraq must agree to under a new Security Council resolution declaring a permanent cease-fire in the Persian Gulf War:

• Iraq must destroy its chemical and biological weapons and ballistic missile systems with a range of more than 150 kilometers (93 miles) under U.N. supervision and forswear future development or acquisition of such arms or of nuclear arms.

• An arms embargo on Iraq remains in effect.

• Confirms previous decision to relax bans on sending food to Iraq.

• Trade ban remains in effect until Iraq has complied with the disarmament provisions.

• Iraq is held liable for damage resulting from its invasion and occupation of Kuwait. A fund drawing from Iraq’s oil revenues will be created to pay claims.

• U.N. military observers are to monitor a demilitarized zone reaching six miles into Iraq and three miles into Kuwait.

• Iraq must declare that it will not “commit or support” international terrorism.

• Iraq and Kuwait must respect boundaries set in 1963 treaty.

• Iraq is called on to cooperate with the Red Cross in repatriating Kuwaitis and others detained during the war.

UN Observer
Yugoslav army sends more troops to Croatia

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia (AP) — The federal army deployed more than 1,000 troops Wednesday in the republic of Croatia as Yugoslav Prime Minister Slobodan Milosevic declared an end to escalating tensions between Serbs and Croats.

Tanks and other armored vehicles took up positions in northern and western Croatia, where ethnic Serbs have rebelled against central government authority.

The eight-member federal presidency met for a third day to try to resolve the dispute between Yugoslavia's two most populous republics. But the session, which was attended by the presidents of the six republics, failed to produce any apparent results.

Serbian nationalists and Croatian police clashed in Priboje National Park on Sunday, leaving two dead and at least 21 injured. The police moved into the parking lot to drive out Serbs who had set up two day camps.

The conflict has lasted for years, with thousands killed and hundreds of thousands displaced. The United Nations has estimated that about 150,000 people have been killed and 1.6 million displaced since the war began in 1991.

The conflict has also caused a humanitarian crisis, with thousands of people left homeless and without food, water and medical care.

The situation is likely to remain tense as the parties continue to negotiate a solution to the conflict.

Meanwhile, the United Nations has launched an international effort to bring about an end to the conflict.

Security briefing

MONDAY, APRIL 1

2:34 p.m. A Flanner resident reported the theft of two textbooks from the sixth-floor study lounge in Flanner Hall.

3:30 p.m. A Flanner resident reported the theft of two textbooks from the eighth-floor study lounge in Flanner Hall.

5:05 p.m. A Flanner resident reported the theft of two textbooks from the ninth-floor study lounge in Flanner Hall.

1:10 a.m. A Flanner resident reported the theft of two textbooks from the fifth-floor study lounge in Flanner Hall.

TUESDAY, APRIL 2

10:09 a.m. A Kawasaki resident reported the theft of clothing from the Washington Hall laundry room.

2:52 p.m. A faculty member reported the theft of equipment from his automobile while parked in front of the first-floor study lounge.

4:48 p.m. A Grace resident reported the theft of two textbooks from the fifth-floor study lounge in Flanner Hall.

5:56 p.m. A University employee reported the theft of a baseball bat from a helmet and baseball bat case in the first-floor study lounge.

WEDNESDAY, APRIL 3

5:15 a.m. Security cited a suspicious person looking into Flanner Hall.

11:30 a.m. A Flanner resident reported a suspicious person looking into Flanner Hall.

12:30 p.m. A Flanner resident reported a suspicious person looking into Flanner Hall.

1:05 p.m. A Flanner resident reported a suspicious person looking into Flanner Hall.

1:10 p.m. A Flanner resident reported a suspicious person looking into Flanner Hall.

12:30 p.m. A Flanner resident reported a suspicious person looking into Flanner Hall.

2:24 p.m. A Flanner resident reported a suspicious person looking into Flanner Hall.

Resident Returns

NEW & OLD LOGAN VOLUNTEERS
COME CAMPING WITH LOGAN CENTER THIS WEEKEND!

Where - Camp Eberhart
When - Meet at Logan Center 9:00 am Sat. (will be usual van pick-ups) Return by 3:30 Sun.

(Special arrangements can be made - if you need to get back early)

Ques.- Janet 284-5090
Sally 283-3783

Summer Storage

RESERVATION

* APPROX 2 1/2 MILES NORTH US 31-33

Master Mini Warehouses

Welcome by 295 radio

Spend a WEEKEND AROUND THE WORLD

Japan, Hong Kong, China,
Nepal, India, Thailand

16 Semester credits in various subjects
Open to all ND-SMC students

Special Presentation:
Sunday, Nov. 16
6-8:00 p.m
Carroll Hall, Saint Mary's Videos, slides and Indian snacks

3:20 p.m. A Flanner resident reported the theft of property sustained by a visitor.

3:30 p.m. A Flanner resident reported the theft of clothing from the second-floor study lounge in Flanner Hall.

3:45 p.m. A Flanner resident reported the theft of clothing from the second-floor study lounge in Flanner Hall.

7:30 p.m. A Flanner resident reported the theft of clothing from the second-floor study lounge in Flanner Hall.

SECURITY REPORT

LAST CALL

Spend a SEMESTER AROUND THE WORLD

Japan, Hong Kong, China,
Nepal, India, Thailand

16 Semester credits in various subjects
Open to all ND-SMC students

Special Presentation:
Sunday, Nov. 16
6-8:00 p.m
Carroll Hall, Saint Mary's Videos, slides and Indian snacks

3:20 p.m. A Flanner resident reported the theft of property sustained by a visitor.

3:30 p.m. A Flanner resident reported the theft of clothing from the second-floor study lounge in Flanner Hall.

3:45 p.m. A Flanner resident reported the theft of clothing from the second-floor study lounge in Flanner Hall.

7:30 p.m. A Flanner resident reported the theft of clothing from the second-floor study lounge in Flanner Hall.

SECURITY REPORT

LAST CALL

Spend a SEMESTER AROUND THE WORLD

Japan, Hong Kong, China,
Nepal, India, Thailand

16 Semester credits in various subjects
Open to all ND-SMC students

Special Presentation:
Sunday, Nov. 16
6-8:00 p.m
Carroll Hall, Saint Mary's Videos, slides and Indian snacks

3:20 p.m. A Flanner resident reported the theft of property sustained by a visitor.

3:30 p.m. A Flanner resident reported the theft of clothing from the second-floor study lounge in Flanner Hall.

3:45 p.m. A Flanner resident reported the theft of clothing from the second-floor study lounge in Flanner Hall.

7:30 p.m. A Flanner resident reported the theft of clothing from the second-floor study lounge in Flanner Hall.

SECURITY REPORT

LAST CALL

Spend a SEMESTER AROUND THE WORLD

Japan, Hong Kong, China,
Nepal, India, Thailand

16 Semester credits in various subjects
Open to all ND-SMC students

Special Presentation:
Sunday, Nov. 16
6-8:00 p.m
Carroll Hall, Saint Mary's Videos, slides and Indian snacks

3:20 p.m. A Flanner resident reported the theft of property sustained by a visitor.

3:30 p.m. A Flanner resident reported the theft of clothing from the second-floor study lounge in Flanner Hall.

3:45 p.m. A Flanner resident reported the theft of clothing from the second-floor study lounge in Flanner Hall.

7:30 p.m. A Flanner resident reported the theft of clothing from the second-floor study lounge in Flanner Hall.

SECURITY REPORT

LAST CALL

Spend a SEMESTER AROUND THE WORLD

Japan, Hong Kong, China,
Nepal, India, Thailand

16 Semester credits in various subjects
Open to all ND-SMC students

Special Presentation:
Sunday, Nov. 16
6-8:00 p.m
Carroll Hall, Saint Mary's Videos, slides and Indian snacks

3:20 p.m. A Flanner resident reported the theft of property sustained by a visitor.

3:30 p.m. A Flanner resident reported the theft of clothing from the second-floor study lounge in Flanner Hall.

3:45 p.m. A Flanner resident reported the theft of clothing from the second-floor study lounge in Flanner Hall.

7:30 p.m. A Flanner resident reported the theft of clothing from the second-floor study lounge in Flanner Hall.

SECURITY REPORT

LAST CALL

Spend a SEMESTER AROUND THE WORLD

Japan, Hong Kong, China,
Nepal, India, Thailand

16 Semester credits in various subjects
Open to all ND-SMC students

Special Presentation:
Sunday, Nov. 16
6-8:00 p.m
Carroll Hall, Saint Mary's Videos, slides and Indian snacks

3:20 p.m. A Flanner resident reported the theft of property sustained by a visitor.

3:30 p.m. A Flanner resident reported the theft of clothing from the second-floor study lounge in Flanner Hall.

3:45 p.m. A Flanner resident reported the theft of clothing from the second-floor study lounge in Flanner Hall.

7:30 p.m. A Flanner resident reported the theft of clothing from the second-floor study lounge in Flanner Hall.

SECURITY REPORT

LAST CALL

Spend a SEMESTER AROUND THE WORLD

Japan, Hong Kong, China,
Nepal, India, Thailand

16 Semester credits in various subjects
Open to all ND-SMC students

Special Presentation:
Sunday, Nov. 16
6-8:00 p.m
Carroll Hall, Saint Mary's Videos, slides and Indian snacks

3:20 p.m. A Flanner resident reported the theft of property sustained by a visitor.

3:30 p.m. A Flanner resident reported the theft of clothing from the second-floor study lounge in Flanner Hall.

3:45 p.m. A Flanner resident reported the theft of clothing from the second-floor study lounge in Flanner Hall.

7:30 p.m. A Flanner resident reported the theft of clothing from the second-floor study lounge in Flanner Hall.

SECURITY REPORT

LAST CALL

Spend a SEMESTER AROUND THE WORLD

Japan, Hong Kong, China,
Nepal, India, Thailand

16 Semester credits in various subjects
Open to all ND-SMC students

Special Presentation:
Sunday, Nov. 16
6-8:00 p.m
Carroll Hall, Saint Mary's Videos, slides and Indian snacks

3:20 p.m. A Flanner resident reported the theft of property sustained by a visitor.

3:30 p.m. A Flanner resident reported the theft of clothing from the second-floor study lounge in Flanner Hall.

3:45 p.m. A Flanner resident reported the theft of clothing from the second-floor study lounge in Flanner Hall.

7:30 p.m. A Flanner resident reported the theft of clothing from the second-floor study lounge in Flanner Hall.
Adworks, Notre Dame's student-run advertising agency, has announced its 1991-1992 Executive Board. The officers for next year are Tim Stahl, President; Molly Flecker, Vice-President; Anna Covelli, Production Manager, and Andy Iff, Financial Manager.

Stahl, a junior accounting major, said that as president, his duties are to "oversee all operations, set prices, and oversee the finances." He added that Flecker, a sophomore accounting major, "will assist the president and be responsible for hiring" while she is vice-president.

By JOSEPH ADAMS
News Writer

Covelli, a marketing major, was named production manager. Stahl said that her main responsibility will be to "trim the staff to make it more efficient and reliable" in order to prevent past financial problems.

Iff, who is currently an account executive at Adworks, will "stop the problem with accounting" as financial manager. Stahl said that the Iff's promotion was an opportunity for Adworks to "further exploit him."

Stahl foresees a bright future for Adworks, noting that during the past year it "posted a book profit upward of $500." This profitable operation is a change from last year, when Adworks ran into financial difficulties and posted a loss. Stahl said that these problems resulted from the accidental payment of bills which were not theirs and the failure to collect payment for services. However, he said that improved accounting methods will prevent future problems.

"I can understand why people have shied away from us," said Stahl, adding that the University "doesn't use us as much as they should." He noted that people "are getting their product," and that Adworks will produce "anything you can print."

Stahl said that Adworks is "a tremendous opportunity for people to get involved" and that they are currently looking for typists and artists.

ND athletes encourage area children

By JENNIFER HABRYCH
Assistant Saint Mary's Editor

"When I was young, I was small and no one wanted to pick me to be on their team, but to me I could play with anyone," said Molly Flecker, a sophomore accounting major, said that as president, she is vice-president.

"When things start to get you down, and you can't see the light in the end of the tunnel, take time to look at the good things, and use that strength to carry you on," said junior football player Derek Brown.

With motivation, a positive attitude and determination, you can accomplish things you may have never dreamed possible, he added.

The speakers also stressed that it is easy to lose sight of your goals. Drags and dropping out of school may be tempting, but they are not the answers.

"When things start to get you down, and you can't see the light in the end of the tunnel, take time to look at the good things, and use that strength to carry you on," said junior football player Derek Brown.

With motivation, a positive attitude and determination, you can accomplish things you may have never dreamed possible, he added.

The speakers also stressed that it is easy to lose sight of your goals. Drags and dropping out of school may be tempting, but they are not the answers.
L.A. mayor adds to police commission

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Mayor Tom Bradley's latest pick for the Police Commission won City Council approval Wednesday despite complaints the appointment was part of a campaign to oust Police Chief Daryl Gates.

The political maneuvering came one-month after the March 3 videotaped beating of black motorist Rodney King and a day after Bradley told Gates he should resign for the good of the city.

The council voted 10-2 in favor of Stanley Sheinbaum after hours of questioning that focused on Sheinbaum's ability to be objective. Sheinbaum has a long association with the American Civil Liberties Union.

The Police Commission, minus Sheinbaum, was to meet Thursday in executive session to discuss Gates, "among other things," Commissioner Dan Garcia said Wednesday night. He refused to be specific.

The commission has the power to fire or discipline Gates.

Councilman Hol Benson was most vehement in his objection to Sheinbaum, saying he was concerned about "the inability for anybody to get a fair hearing to this commission." If we are going to have a railroad job ... to railroad the chief and place him on administrative leave and hang him as the Lynch mob has been trying to do, I'm not going to be a party to that," Benson said.

Asked for his definition of a police commissioner's job, Sheinbaum said: "It is to have a voice in Police Department overall policy ... It is to hold the police chief to his own standards.

The Police Commission, which is investigating the King beating, was reduced to three members earlier this year when two members resigned rather than comply with new financial disclosure requirements.

Under the City Charter, the civilian board can fire the chief of police if it has hard evidence of wrongdoing. The mayor cannot fire Gates and his civil service protection makes it almost impossible to get rid of him.

During the hearing, it was disclosed that Gates received superior ratings qualifying him for merit raises over the past several years. His most recent raise came in January.

Gates has refused to quit. He has been chief for 13 of his 42 years with the department.

Gates said he would be willing to leave if two blue-ribbon citizen panels conducting top-to-bottom reviews of Police Department training and procedures determine he has been derelict in his duties.

Discussion of Our Lady to be held Saturday

A discussion titled "A Tribute to Our Lady: Notre Dame Our Mother," will take place Saturday, April 6 at 9 a.m. in the University of Notre Dame's Hesburgh Library auditorium.

The discussion will be chaired by Dolores Tantoco-Stauder, Notre Dame librarian.

Edward Galvin, John Matthews Professor of Law at Notre Dame, will give a lecture titled "Do Whatever She Tells You.

Anthony Trozzolo, Hesburgh Professor of Chemistry at Notre Dame, will speak on "The Seven Sorrows of Our Lady.

Frank Reilly, Bernard Hark Professor of Business Administration at Notre Dame, will speak on "Notre Dame, Our Mother." Paul Fish, a Notre Dame graduate and member of Sacred Heart Parish, will speak on "Our Lady of Lourdes: Two Perspectives.

Sister Margaret Baertsch, S.N.D., Campus minister for the Diocese of Fort Wayne-South Bend, will speak on "The Blessed Virgin Mother.

Another "Tribute to Our Lady" discussion is planned for May. Further information may be obtained by calling Tantoco-Stauder at (219)239-6904 or 234-7287.

Brass ensemble to perform Sunday

The Eastman Brass will perform in a guest concert Sunday, April 7, at 2 p.m. in the Annenberg Auditorium in the Snite Museum of Art.

The program, entitled "Four Centuries of Brass," will include "Voluntary" by Shostakovich, "Quartet in E-Flat Major," Op. 12 by Felix Mendelssohn and "Americana," a mix of four songs arranged by Verne Reynolds; "Barnum & Bailey's Favorite" by Karl King, "Bellote Bateauque" by Scott Joplin, "Come Where My Love Lies Dreaming" by Stephen Foster, and "Tiger Rag," a traditional rag.

The members of Eastman Brass — Barbara Baller and Charles Geyer, trumpet; John Marcellus, trombone; Verne Reynolds, horn, and Don Harry, tuba—are all on the faculty of the Eastman School of Music at the University of Rochester.

Eastman Brass has traveled extensively throughout North America since it was formed in 1964. The ensemble has appeared on CBS Sunday Morning with Charles Kuralt and has performed in major universities and concert series in the U.S. and Canada.

The ensemble also toured Israel, and, under U.S. State Department auspices, Central and South America. The Eastman Brass was also heard nationwide in their own 13-part series on National Public Radio.

Admission for the concert $5 for the general public and $2 for students and senior citizens.

Uhu movement to meet in Chicago

The convention will feature civil rights attorneys, activists, and community leaders from throughout the country representing the Black Power Movement, the Chicano and Native American Movement Movements, and the white solidarity movement. Various workshops and panel discussions will be held on the theme, "Self-determination is the highest expression of democracy for the African community."

The two-day event will begin each day at 9 a.m. and registration is free. The National People's Democratic Uhuru Movement is open to people of all nationalities. For more information, call (312) 776-7541 or (219) 334-9374.
Salvadoran rebels to participate in U.N. peace talks

NEW YORK (AP) — The Age of the Yuppie is dying. Faith in God is the most important part of Americans' lives, followed by good health and a happy marriage, according to a poll.

Forty percent of respondents said they valued their relationship with God above all else, while 2 percent said a job that pays well was the most important thing in their life.

That's an astounding set of figures, it seems to me, it suggests a re-orientation, a cultural shift," Wade Clark Roof, a professor of religion and society at the University of California, Santa Barbara, said Wednesday.

The responses are part of a growing body of survey data that deflates the notion built up in popular culture in the '70s and '80s that many Americans are mainly motivated by greed and personal ambition, according to a poll.

The telephone survey of 600 adults was conducted Jan. 17-20 for the Lifetime television network, which is scheduled to begin Thursday in U.S. markets.

"That's the number one thing we've never looked at in the public consciousness," said William McKinsey, dean of Hartford Seminary. "We're in some ways an incurably religious culture."

The respect of family was the most important thing in their lives, and 86 percent said it was either very important or fairly important.

Two recent books that have analyzed religious trends — "Religious Indicators" by professor-sociologist Andrew Greeley and "100 Questions and Answers: Religion in America" — published by the Princeton Religious Research Center — have concluded that there has been a remarkable level of stability in the personal religious faith of Americans.

"My sense is that this is a long-held fact of American life," added Colasanto, a former senior vice president of the Gallup Organization.

Professional goals ranked at the bottom of the things Americans said were most important in their lives, according to the poll.

In addition to the 40 percent who said faith in God was what they valued most, 29 percent cited good health and 21 percent said a happy marriage was most important.

Only 5 percent said a job that they enjoy was most important, while 2 percent said the money they make counted most. Two percent said the respect of people in their community was most important, and 1 percent said none of the values mentioned were most important.

Roel, who is working on a book on the "baby boom" generation of Americans in their 30s and 40s, said the survey results suggest the baby boomers are maturing.

"I am finding a kind of maturing effect. I see it as a kind of shift from a me-generation, me-first, to a more balanced set of concerns about self and others."
English author Graham Greene dies at age 86

GENEVA (AP) — Graham Greene, whose novels of dark intrigue and tense struggles for moral and physical survival brought him worldwide fame, died Wednesday. He was 86.

The British author died at La Providence Hospital in Vevey on Lake Geneva, where he had been admitted Sunday and been treated repeatedly since the fall, hospital director Robert Berzocy said. He did not give a cause of death.

Greene's career spanned more than half a century. He wrote 24 novels and several successful movie scripts, traveled widely and was drawn to political controversy throughout his career.

"The best of his novels will be remembered as literary perfection. Greene will be read and remembered as the ultimate chronicler of 20th-century man's consciousness and anxieties," said novelist William Golding.

"He was a great and magical writer, hard to fit into any pattern," said spy novelist John Le Carre, who described Greene as his "guiding star."

An Anglican convert to Roman Catholicism, Greene combined a passion for politics, exoticism and religion. He described writing as a way of "finding peace, though it is a very unpeaceful process of finding."

Some of his most acclaimed novels include "The Power and the Glory" and "The Heart of the Matter," which reflected Greene's inner conflicts over religion.

Greene wrote the movie script for the classic 1950 spy thriller "The Third Man" and also wrote children's books, plays and lighter novels such as "Our Man in Havana," a spy spoof.

He was honored by Queen Elizabeth II and the French government but never won a Nobel Prize despite several nominations by colleagues.

Greene was born in Berkhamsted, England, on Oct. 2, 1904. His father, Charles Henry Greene, was headmaster of Berkhamsted School, a prestigious boarding school for boys.

He ran away from school for a time and was sent to a psychoanalyst at 16. Shortly afterward, he flirted with suicide, trying out "Russian roulette" several times.

Afghan president seeks allies in Iran and Turkey

ISLAMABAD, Pakistan (AP) — Afghan President Najibullah on Wednesday accused Pakistan of direct military interference in his war-devastated country and asked Iran and Turkey to intercede, Radio Kabul reported.

In letters to Iranian President Hashemi Rafsanjani and Turkish President Turgut Ozal, Najibullah pleaded with them to warn Pakistan it faces "dangerous consequences" if it fails to distance itself from U.S.-backed rebels.

Najibullah's plea, reported by the radio in a broadcast monitored in Islamabad, came less than a week after Afghan rebels overran the heavily fortified garrison town of Khost in southeastern Afghanistan.

After two weeks of fierce fighting, the guerrillas captured the town, imprisoned at least 6,000 battle weary government soldiers and captured equipment that included helicopters, tanks and scores of trucks.

"We are holding undeniable documents and flagrant evidence that the Khost offensive was conducted under the direct supervision of Pakistani generals," Najibullah was quoted as saying in a letter to Rafsanjani, the Iranian leader.

Pakistan has routinely denied similar charges.

"We are asking you to stop Pakistan's aggression against Afghanistan, which can only have dangerous consequences," he said in his letter.

Both Iran and Turkey have strong economic ties with Pakistan. Iran, like Pakistan, is host to several million Afghan refugees who fled their homeland in 1979 when Soviet soldiers intervened to prop up their Communist ally in Kabul.

ATTENTION ALL GRADUATING STUDENTS

AN INVITATION TO GRADUATING SENIORS TO ATTEND

THE OFF-CAMPUS DINNER/DANCE

also called -

THE SENIOR SOLUTION

FRIDAY --- APRIL 19, 1991

7 p.m. to Midnight

at St. Hedwig's Memorial Hall

Western Ave. at Scott Street

-SIT DOWN, FAMILY STYLE DINNER
-DRINKS
-GREAT BANDS

THE COST: $25.00 A COUPLE

If you did not buy a bid to the Senior Formal, why not jump on this attractive alternative for a truly festive time?

tickets on sale at the
LAFORTUNE INFORMATION DESK

Measurements will be taken for Caps and Gowns

WEDNESDAY APRIL 3rd

THURSDAY APRIL 4th

Between 9:00 — 4:00

at the

NOTRE DAME BOOKSTORE
BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP) - A jury recommended Wednesday that a convicted drug kingpin become the first person in the nation sentenced to death under a 1988 federal law allowing capital punishment in drug-related killings.

David Ronald Chandler was tight-lipped but showed no emotion when the jurors made their unanimous recommendation after deliberating 90 minutes. His wife, Debbie, sitting in the front row of the courtroom, broke into tears.

The same jury on Tuesday convicted Chandler, 37, of Piedmont, of running a marijuana ring in Alabama and Georgia and protecting the operation by soliciting at least one murder and the disappearance of two other people.

Assistant U.S. Attorney Howell Davis told jurors there were enough aggravating circumstances for them to recommend death.

But defense attorney Drew Redden argued that death was not merited because Chandler had no prior felony convictions. "This would be a tremendous mistake to return a verdict of death," said Redden. He said he would seek a new trial.

U.S. District James Hancock told jurors that if they recommended capital punishment, the law required that he impose that sentence. He tentatively scheduled formal sentencing for May 14.

Chandler also could have been given a life sentence without parole and fines totaling $4 million.

In Congress in 1988 passed a law permitting capital punishment when drug activity results in an intentional killing. No one has received the death penalty under the law.

U.S. Attorney Frank Donaldson said the Federal Bureau of Prisons would have to decide the method and location if the death sentence is carried out.

"There's nothing in the law" to describe the method of execution, he said. "This is new to us. The details will have to be dealt with later."

Donaldson said it's possible the federal government would contract with the state to carry out the sentence at Holman Prison in southern Alabama, a state facility where eight prisoners have been electrocuted during the last decade.

The last civilian executed by the federal government was Victor Feuger, hanged in 1963 in Iowa for murder and kidnapping.

The jury deliberated four hours before convicting Chandler.

Chandler was accused of offering $500 to Charles Ray Jarrell to kill Marilyn Earl Shuler, described as a member of Chandler's operation who became an informant.

Jarrell testified he shot Shuler in the back and neck at a pond in 1990 but never collected the money.

Chandler also was convicted of involvement in the disappearances last fall of Patrick Burrows and Jeffrey Scott McFry. Chandler was said to have believed the men were stealing marijuana from his fields.

ACTION FOR WORK ABROAD

Work up to 6 months in Brazil, Ireland, France, Spain, Nepal, New Zealand, and Costa Rica. Council on Work Abroad programs, the only ones licensed in the U.S. under 1961 TVRA, through the red tape.

Call us FREE or write for program information, work at farms, language schools, and more.

Council on Work Abroad (U.S. Sponsor of the IVI Educational Exchange Program)
Efforts to rescue cave explorer move slowly

CARLSBAD, N.M. (AP) — The spirits of a spelunker whose broken leg has kept her in the nation’s deepest cave for four days began to sag a bit Wednesday as rescue efforts slowed.

"She's still in good spirits, but when you've been hauled around for 10 to 12 hours on your back, the spirits start to drop down," Park Ranger Dan Allre said of Emily Davis Mobley.

Mobley was more upbeat earli­er in the day, when she said the ordeal would not keep her from exploring caverns.

Rescuers moved rapidly through the cave with Mobley earlier Wednesday after using ropes and pulleys to scoop her across a 100-foot-deep chasm of Lechuguilla Cave in a remote area of Carlsbad Caverns Na­tional Park. But they began to tire by evening, Allre said.

Mobley broke her left leg early Sunday in a fall at a site about 1,000 feet beneath the surface and about two miles into the cave. The leg was splinted and she was moving toward the en­trance with the help of some of the nation's top cave and cave rescue experts, hobbling when she could, and used large holes called The Rift.

"There are a lot of vertical projections here," Mobley said. "If you would slip, you'd take a pretty substantial fall."

Rescuers used most of Tues­day to haul the 110-pound Mobley up a 250-foot slope known as The Great White Way. Mobley and the reporters, including a doctor, rested at the top of the chasm overnight.

Mobley told reporters she had been exploring caves since 1969 when a friend at the University of Denver introduced her to spelunking.

"The first time I went caving I thought it was the most exciting thing I've ever done," she said. "Ever since then, caving has been a major part of my life."

The cave is not open to the public but the National Park Service allows a limited number of experienced cave explorers, or spelunkers, in to explore and map the labyrinth of chambers and narrow passages. So far, 54.3 miles of cave have been mapped.

"This cave rescue couldn't be any better," Mobley said. "I'm comfortable at all times. I'm not being treated like a pack­age. I'm being treated like a person."

Rescuers were able to move Mobley through The Rift later in the day and expected to reach another formation known as Glacier Bay by early evening. After The Rift, rescuers faced another formation known as Glacier Bay, which Dennis Curry of the Hamilton County Cave Rescue Team in Chattanooga, Tenn., described as very difficult.

"It's a giant glacier of gypsum that is very crumbly," Curry said. "It's very fitted."

Rescuers earlier Wednesday moved Mobley across a 40-foot-long chasm known as Freakout Traverse, the longest in the cave, said rescuer Mark Rosbrook.

Rosbrook said ropes were anchored to two large boulders, Mobley, who was on a stretcher attached to pulleys, was pulled across the chasm.

"I'm feeling real good this morning. I'm being taken care of real well down here," said Mobley, a 22-year cave explorer known as The Great White Way. "I'm being treated like a person."

"I'm being taken care of real well down here," said Mobley, a 22-year cave explorer known as The Great White Way. "I'm being treated like a person."

"I'm being treated like a person," she said.

"The frrst time I went caving I thought it was the most exciting thing I've ever done," she said. "Ever since then, caving has been a major part of my life."

The cave is not open to the public but the National Park Service allows a limited number of experienced cave explorers, or spelunkers, in to explore and map the labyrinth of chambers and narrow passages. So far, 54.3 miles of cave have been mapped.

"I'm feeling real good this morning. I'm being taken care of real well down here," said Mobley, a 22-year cave explorer known as The Great White Way. "I'm being treated like a person."

"I'm being treated like a person," she said. "Ever since then, caving has been a major part of my life."

The cave is not open to the public but the National Park Service allows a limited number of experienced cave explorers, or spelunkers, in to explore and map the labyrinth of chambers and narrow passages. So far, 54.3 miles of cave have been mapped.

The matter is being referred to the Supreme Court for con­sideration, Wilzent said in a statement.

On March 25, Rivera went to Hudson County Special Civil Court to recover $300 from a check-cashing agency she ac­cused of shortchanging her. The judge ruled against her.

Kenny, retired since 1985 but working part time, was serving his one day a week on the bench. In the transcript, he admits asking irrelevant ques­tions but insists that Rivera an­swer them. He lectures her on her answers.

"That's all wrong, having children out-of-bedlock. Other people have to support them. Why can't you work?" Kenny said, "It's not relevant, but I'm asking you about it. Why?" He continued: "If you took a census of state prisons, you'd find that three-quarters are born out-of-bedlock. If I had the same upbringing they had, I would be down there myself — if I hadn't been shot years ago."

On Wednesday, Rivera, who has daughters 1 and 12 years old, said Kenny's scolding still bothered her.

Rivera's attorney, Seymour Goldstaub, said: "it's always sad to see anybody's career end with a cloud over it. At least it's a step toward public confi­dence."

Telephone calls to Wilzent were referred to Carl Golden, spokesman for the judiciary. Golden would not detail what in the tape upset Wilzent.

Kenny, whose telephone num­ber is unlisted, could not be reached for comment.

NOW HIRING for 1991-92

Positions are available in all staffed clusters: Architecture, Campus Security, CCMB 210, Hayes-Hayle, Hesburgh, LaFortune, and O'Shaughnessy.

Non-consulting positions also available.

For an application or further information, stop by 248 Hesburgh before 11 April 91
FDA officials subpoenaed in insider trading investigation

WASHINGTON (AP) — Food and Drug Administration officials have been subpoenaed in an investigation into possible insider stock trading on confidential information about drugs the agency regulates, government officials said Wednesday.

A joint investigation is under way by the Securities and Exchange Commission and the Inspector general of the Department of Health and Human Services, said Judy Holtz, a spokeswoman for the inspector general's office. She declined to characterize the nature of the investigation.

Two sources familiar with the probe said it centered on insider trading using confidential information about drugs regulated by the FDA. Pharmaceutical company stock prices can rise or fall sharply on news that a new drug has been approved by the FDA or on reports of negative FDA action related to drug companies.

One source said the investigation was focused on officials within the FDA's Office of Drug Evaluation and Research. Another said less than a dozen subpoenas had been issued.

"The agency is aware that several FDA employees have been asked to provide information to federal investigators about products regulated by the FDA," said FDA spokesman Jeff Nesbit. "The fact that information is being collected is vastly different than a charge that someone's done something wrong." Nesbit said he did not know the full nature of the investigation but that information and files had been sought through subpoenas delivered by agents of the HHS inspector general's office.

Published reports said more than a dozen FDA officials and five private individuals had received subpoenas issued by a federal grand jury in Baltimore.

Anti-smoking advocates want Marlboro Man to leave the Shea Stadium wall

NEW YORK (AP) — For the last nine seasons, the Marlboro Man has taken his position in the outfield at Shea Stadium as a larger-than-life figure on a billboard. Anti-smoking activists want him dropped from the lineup.

The protest is the latest in a string against tobacco companies' sponsorship of sporting events.

In an article last week in the New England Journal of Medicine, Baylor College of Medicine Dr. Alan Blum said cigarette makers' sponsorship of auto racing gives them "millions of dollars in low-cost national exposure." "The whole idea of tobacco sponsoring sporting events suggests that tobacco use is compatible with physical fitness and athletic performance when we know that the opposite is the case," said Dr. Ronald Davis, director of the Office on Smoking and Health for the U.S. Centers for Disease Control.

An anti-smoking group called Smokefree Educational Services has organized an opening day protest at the stadium next week to get the Marlboro Man benched.

MAY SEMINARS

APPALACHIAN SEMINAR
MAY 12-18

NOTRE DAME PANAMA SEMINAR
May 11-18

WORKING SIDE BY SIDE

THIS SEMINAR IS:
1-CREDIT THEOLOGY COURSE GRADED S/U ORIENTATION AND FOLLOW-UP DURING THE SEMESTER BREAK ONE WEEK IN KENTUCKY WORKING, LAUGHING, LEARNING COMMUNITY BUILDING

APPLICATION:
Available now at the Center for Social Concerns Applications are due: APRIL 12

THIS SEMINAR IS:
1-CREDIT THEOLOGY COURSE GRADED S/U ORIENTATION AND FOLLOW-UP 9 DAYS IN PANAMA SPANISH HELPFUL/ NOT REQUIRED COST: PLANE PLUS PERSONAL

APPLICATIONS:
Available now at the Center for Social Concerns Applications due: APRIL 12
Peralez defends integrity; rebuts campaign charges

Dear Editor:

During the Student Senate campaign, the constituents of district one learned that Paul Peralez does not mix words and that I am quite apt to grandstand—characteristics which undoubtedly afforded the decisive action of the Elections Committee. My goal was to win, not to charge my campaign with rules violations. Had it not been for the section elections commissioner that charged me, the constituents of my district would not have heard the lies. I was not arrested, and I am quite apt to demand that government disqualify my candidacy due to insufficiency of the ruling of the Elections Committee.

I told her that this was the same Student Government thatPeralez had in 1989. My campaign had a purpose which 261 constituents responded with their votes. And in the high-handed abuse of authority, Student Senate denied the Peralez campaign its mandate.

The most emblematic moment of this campaign was when I was approached by a female student who claimed that she had requested $400 and received $200 from student government for a women's rights organization whose purpose and values were entirely consistent with our Catholic University. I told her that this was the same Student Government that was met with a demand from the Black Cultural Arts Council for $7500 and that had awarded the NAACP $3000 according to my sources. This deplorable behavior of the NAACP has staged considerable political and public support for the deplorable behavior of the NAACP...on this campus, impugned Catholicism as racist, and financed SUFF's propaganda efforts among minority students.

Moreover, the national NAACP has taken a conciliatory posture towards Louis Farrakhan, an anti-whites who preys upon blacks. I am quite apt to demand that government disqualify my candidacy due to insufficiency of the ruling of the Elections Committee.

Black organizations, student government disqualified my candidacy for similar reasons. Members of the black community, by some of whom I am routinely harassed and threatened, rallied around my opponent (who I remind you was never elected last year but ran unopposed) and exercised undue influence on the ruling of the Elections Committee and the subsequent election of the Student Senate.

Many of my supporters have spoken of an attempt to launch a write-in campaign to elect me to student government. To them I say: be patient and store your enthusiasm, I'll be back.

Paul Peralez
Dillon Hall
April 1, 1991

Why reserve college sports for only intelligent students?

Dear Editor:

I saw Father Hesburgh on public TV talking about honesty in college sports. What a phony your ex-president is. You're a Catholic school that uses non-Catholic people as coaches and players. No state-run school is that dishonest. Hesburgh must have in the past denied a good Catholic kid a spot on his football team because some non-Catholic coach found a non-Catholic kid who was faster than available Catholics. Did the non-Catholic convert?

Secondly, what is so important about education? Only 20 percent of any nation is smart. Are the rest of us just garbage that we can't play college sports? We can run, jump, pass, shoot, block, or whatever, but Hesburgh doesn't want us playing college levels. That is nuts.

Stupid kids could continue taking high school courses plus go to vocational schools while playing college football for a state college. The state college could pay for a stupid kid's technical education. Then the stupid kid could make a million dollars per year in the NFL, while the smart kids make $20,000 teaching school. I was a Catholic, but priests like Hesburgh are such phonies I quit the Church in 1970.

Guy R. Spitale
Truck Driver
Baton Rouge, LA
DEAR EDITOR:

Despite being no fan of "political correctness," I found back Acker's column, Observer, March 27, on the subject disturbing.

Acker seems to have made use of an article by Dinesh D'Souza from the March, 1991 issue of The Atlantic Monthly, "Illiberal Education," which bemoans the dismantling of the "traditional" liberal American college curriculum. Specifically, an example Acker employs to illustrate his point of "political correctness" is taken from D'Souza's article.

The question in Acker's piece from Devi Donoughue appears in D'Souza's article on page 78, that in his "teaching academics" a "recent conference" is on page 56, that from Annemarie Kolodny is on page 57, and the story about the Penn student's defense of individual freedom appears on page 53.

Now these items all have appeared in print, elsewhere so it is possible that Acker picked them himself. But Acker also quotes Barbara Herrnstein Smith of Yale, and this material is unique to D'Souza (page 58), who did special research at Yale. It seems clear that Acker has helped himself to D'Souza's research, at least the Smith quotation, without the courtesy of mentioning the debt.

But I won't accuse Acker of plagiarism. Although his examples may be borrowed, Acker's idea is at least (far as I know) D'Souza's article quotes briefly (and out of context) the thinkers he criticizes. This strategy is designed to move the reader forward, take a radical statement, quote it with "expert authority," and make it look perfectly ridiculous, and let readers draw their own conclusions. Those familiar with Acker's style, use often, and they don't expect anything more substantial from him.

Acker, on the other hand, is not content with this strategy and instead draws conclusions for us—and invalid ones. For instance, Smith says that "there is no knowledge, no standard, no choice that is objective." It does not follow from her claim that "all truth is lies," or that "any idea or theory that relies upon one or more 'truths' is false because all truth lies," as Acker holds. Smith denies the existence of objective truths: the "traditional" (nonexistence) things be lying or anything else.

Also, Acker reports that, "When a school focuses on issues of individual freedom we frustrate and obscure issues of group justice, say the politically correct." From this it is supposed to be: "When America's claim to promote justice and upholding freedom, they are really saying that they promote and uphold the de facto slavery of racism." This conclusion is vague. What is the "de facto slavery of racism"? Racism is an attitude, slavery an institution, and clearly someone could explicitly reject slavery and still be racist. Acker's conclusion seems to be either a false or an uninformative restatement of the premise.

Why is this disturbing? Because Acker's portrayal of the "politically correct" is as Orwellian as well as an "equitable" or an uninformative restatement of the premise.

Where's this disturbing? Because Acker's portrayal of the "politically correct" is as Orwellian as well as an "equitable" or an uninformative restatement of the premise.

The irony would be amusing if not for the fact that the liberal education Acker evidently cherishes is men is part in part to permit exposure of views like his as fallacious and shallow.

Michael Byron
Off-Campus
March 28, 1991

DEAR EDITOR:

To those students and faculty that voted here in the third district, I learned recently that our Representative to the House, Tim Roemer, voted against the use of force in the Gulf. He then defended his vote by saying that he thought this is what the majority of his constituents wanted. Did he not take a look at the polls coming out of the third district? The majority of his constituency were in favor of force in the Gulf, he was not.

He had access to this information before he cast his irresponsible vote. He also had knowledge of the situation that were taking place in Kuwait before he cast this vote. With this knowledge in hand, he proceeded to vote against the troops, and against the use of force or the lack of it. I am saying that Mr. Roemer is not representing us. His failure to vote responsibly shows that he really does not respect our decisions, and feels he can reject what we want and opt for a vote that has no legitimate end.

To those of you who had, or may, receive, friends, family and friends in the Persian Gulf, your Representative Tim Roemer did not support you or your mission. We, as the voter who ultimately put him in office, are going to need to watch this man very closely—he is not representative of the majority of the folks in the third district.

Anne Marie Crane
Off-Campus
April 2, 1991
Occasionally," writes New York Newsday, "a new band will come along to challenge the softness, bands such as Metallica, Guns N' Roses, and the newest contenders, BulletBoys."

This quote appeared in 1988, immediately following the release of the band's eponymously titled debut album. "BulletBoys" sold over a million copies in the United States alone and spawned the hits "Smooth Up In Ya" and "For The Love Of Money," a singing cover of the O'Jays classic which earned the band public plaudits from the O'Jays themselves. The album also invited comparisons to early Van Halen, a parallel which the BulletBoys rejected and ultimately dismissed as "a journalistic convenience" that arose because the band was discovered by former Van Halen producer Ted Templeman.

On their second Warner Brothers release, the Templeman produced "Freakshow," the BulletBoys have tirelessly attempted to forge their own sound while making which dominates much of the industry today. Even in its recording, "Freakshow" stands as a severe indictment of the formula-oriented approach to music-making which dominates much of the industry today. The BulletBoys actually recorded the album twice—once with an ear for potential hit singles before deciding to scrap everything and return to their original, soul-inspired rock 'n roll sound. "We like a lot of '60s Motown stuff," drummer Jimmy D'Anda said. "That music meant a lot to us as kids and influenced us as people in general. But we're a rock band, not a soul band."

In an age where record companies make decisions based on a record's potential to sell more influence over a band's sound than the band itself, the BulletBoys seem to enjoy a surprisingly wide range of artistic freedom. For example, there are no ballads on "Freakshow," a decision that many bands would consider a calculated risk. "When the time is right," D'Anda said, "we'll have a ballad. But we won't be forced into doing what we don't want to do."

What the album does have, though, is a live pulse which resonates through all 12 cuts and testifies to the power of imperfection in rock music. The album was recorded live in the studio and stands on its own without benefit of overdubs, polish, or fancy packaging. "Who says how you can or can't sound? That's up to us."

The approach seems to be working. The first single from the album, the cynical "THC Groove," which was advance-released on February 12, has already become a popular request on album-oriented rock stations. "Freakshow," which the band calls "a composite of life's idiocies," was inspired by the BulletBoys' observations and experiences culled from years of living and playing in Los Angeles. As lead singer Marq Torien said, "You can go to the circus and look at the freaks or you can put yourself in their cage."

There is no question where the BulletBoys would rather be. A lot of people take rock 'n roll too seriously nowadays," D'Anda said. "It shouldn't be used as a tool. That's why we vote. It should be used to forget about life's problems. We write about the aspects of life that make people happy. A lot of bands have forgotten that—it's become more of a selfish thing."

Torien's interpretation of the BulletBoys sound stems from his Motown roots. The son of a trombone player in the Stan Kenton Orchestra, Torien has worked with the likes of Smokey Robinson, Stevie Wonder, The Temptations and Rick James at different stages in his career. As pervasive as Torien's influences, which range from classical to jazz to R&B to rock overhaul on the album, is a healthy sense of humor. The band's tongue-in-cheek perceptions arise on several of the album's tracks, particularly "Do Me Raw" and "GoodGirl." "GoodGirl" from that, too. We just took up where we left off with "Do Me Raw."

"Freakshow" also pays tribute to the BulletBoys' many influences, which range from classical to rock to R&B to jazz to rock. Tom Waits' acoustic number, "Hang On St. Christopher," receives a hard-rock overhaul on the album. "We did not want to rewrite the first album," D'Anda said. "We wanted to let people know that we have talent. Making this album was a lot more fun because we're more friends now. On the first album, we were still feeling each other out." Formed two and a half years ago, BulletBoys rose from the ashes of King Kobra, a band which featured former Vanilla Fudge drummer Carmine Appice. After three years of relative stagnation, the band split up and vocalist Torien, guitarist Mick Sweda and bassist Ronnie Vannucci joined D'Anda to form the BulletBoys in 1988.

The BulletBoys kicked off a 23-city tour with Great White and Steelheart on March 21 in Kalamaalo, Michigan. The band is scheduled to appear at the LaPorte Civic Auditorium on April 11. "A lot of bands have forgotten that we have talent. Making this album was a lot more fun because we're more friends now. On the first album, we were still feeling each other out."

Formed two and a half years ago, BulletBoys rose from the ashes of King Kobra, a band which featured former Vanilla Fudge drummer Carmine Appice. After three years of relative stagnation, the band split up and vocalist Torien, guitarist Mick Sweda and bassist Ronnie Vannucci joined D'Anda to form the BulletBoys in 1988. The BulletBoys kicked off a 23-city tour with Great White and Steelheart on March 21 in Kalamaalo, Michigan. The band is scheduled to appear at the LaPorte Civic Auditorium on April 11.

Festival continues to Jazz ND

Music lovers will be treated to a historical festival that was formed 33 years ago. The annual Collegiate Jazz Festival will be held at Stepdan Center with an evening showing this Friday April 3 and a matinee and evening showing Saturday April 4.

Chaired by ND senior Bill Graham in 1959, the Collegiate Jazz Festival was only intended to showcase the talent of Notre Dame students with hope that it would grow in content and popularity in a few years. In fact, it grew into a competition of bands from across the country. It has since become more solely a festival with less emphasis placed on the competition among the bands.

The number of famous judges in the festival's history is extensive, and includes Quincy Jones, Wynton Marsalis and Herbie Hancock to name a few. Several participants, including David Sanborn, have gone on to pursue professional music careers. A small dream of a few students grew into the most noted collegiate jazz festival in the country.

This year our own ND jazz band will be opening the festival for the 19th year. Father George Wiekinghoven will lead the band for the 32nd consecutive year. The band consists mostly of non-music majors. The judges have had a detailed history of musicianship with an impressive amount of success.

The judges perform in other events on campus including Junior Parent's Weekend and their spring "Jazz at Fresco" concert on the quad.

This year MIT, Purdue, Michigan State, and University of Illinois are some of the schools taking part in the Collegiate Jazz festival. There will be a special performance by the Air Force's premier jazz ensemble. It has been acclaimed as one of the finest big bands in the country with a history dating back to 1942. University of Illinois' performance will open Saturday evening's events at 7:30 p.m. with a tribute to John Garvey, the original organizer of the U of I Jazz Band in 1959, still leads the band and has greatly expanded the program, giving it an outstanding reputation with its many tours and performances across the country.

The 33rd annual Judge's Jam has become a favorite part of the College Jazz Festival. This gives the judges an opportunity to display their talents. There is a great history of jazz from in the country.

From recordings and performances with such greats as Sarah Vaughan, Stan Getz, Miles Davis to Steve Swrod, James Brown and Paul McCartney, the judges have had a detailed history of musicianship with an impressive amount of success. Tickets for either day's events may be purchased in advance at LaPorte Student Center or at the door of Stepdan Center.
The Whalers, who finished the season on a 0-5-2 slide, appeared headed for an early wipeout at Boston Garden when Jeff Lazaro scored 13 seconds into the game and Mark Hunter's major penalty for slashing 21 seconds later gave the Bruins a five-minute power play. But the Whalers allowed only one shot while killing off the penalty, tied the game at 14:11 on Pat Verbeek's power-play goal and maintained it to the second period on goals by Kevin Deene and Rob Brown. "We were able to score so early," Verbeek said. "We didn't think they'd have a power-play goal late in the second period to put the game away. "We were beaten," coach Mike Milbury said. "They outworked us. They took advantage of their opportunities. They had better defense. They had better goal-tending."

New Jersey was 0-0-4 for 14 tickets. After the Devils' second goal, a wraparound at 4:12 of the third period, broke a 1-1 tie. Laurie Bosman finished off a 2-on-1 breakaway 50 seconds later by beating Tom Barrasso over the left shoulder for a 3-1 lead.

Mario Lemieux gave the Penguins the lead with a power-play goal midway through the second period, but the Devils tied it that point in his last 12 regular-season games, tied the score at 15-42 by knocking in a rebound. The Devils put on an exhibition of defensive hockey that made their coach proud.

"It was that old-time hockey," Tom McVie said. "Old-time hockey in my book is hard hitting, checking and the fundamental game. I wasn't interested in this breakaway-type hockey. You won't win anything with that."
Elder Ryan gets fastball clocked at 92 mph in matchup vs. son.

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — Nolan Ryan figures his son Reid is a better 19-year-old pitcher than he was in the early 1960s as a skinny, wild fastballer.

"Reid is a much better pitcher than I was at that age," Nolan said. "He has better command of his pitches. He knows where he is throwing the ball. But I didn't.

"I had to curve and no change and he's done that. Reid came out second best to his future Hall of Fame father and learned a valuable lesson in the process Tuesday night when the Texas Rangers beat the Texas Longhorns 2-1."

"I don't think I'll ever be able to throw the ball as fast as he does," said Reid. "I realize now I have to become a pitcher not a thrower.

Ryan, a freshman at Texas, gave up four runs in two innings and trailed 4-1 to his dad when he left the game. Two of the runs came off broken bat and a pop fly single.

Nolan, who led 5-3 when he retired after throwing 111 pitches, went five innings giving up five hits and three runs. He walked three and struck out seven.

"I'm not happy with the way I pitched but I have to put it in perspective against who I was pitching against," Reid said.

"It was fun and something I'll always remember. It was frustrating because of some of the cheap hits they got against me. They didn't rip the ball.

It was the first known pitching duel between a major leaguer and his son. The only father-son combination to appear in the big leagues at the same time is Ken Griffey Sr. and Jr.

Nolan said he felt like Reid bested him.

"I was pleased with the way Reid threw and I thought he pitched better than I did," the senior Ryan said. "He got some bad breaks on a couple of those hits. He did a good job."

"My intensity level was not there, I think I was probably distracted watching him. It's two different mind sets and I prefer competing to being a spectator."

Nolan was clocked at 92 mph in the first inning, while Reid's best was 84 mph on the radar gun. "It was a fun, big thrill going against your son, but I'm re- lied on the ball," Nolan said. "I thought Reid really kept his composure. But I'm not sure I want to do this again next year."

Reid agreed.

"It was probably a bigger thrill for me than my dad," Reid said. "I enjoyed it and I'm sad it was over. But it will be nice to go to class without anybody following me around." Nolan opens the season for the Rangers next Monday night against Milwaukee.

"I was disappointed I didn't pitch a little better," the senior Ryan said. "I would have liked a little more peace of mind going into the regular season, but I guarantee you my intensity will be up then."

The senior Ryan won't pitch again until he faces the Mariners. He will rest at his house in Alvin, Texas, until next Friday when he resumes workouts in Arlington.

The Advertising Education Foundation Ambassador Program

and

The College of Business Administration's Department of Marketing

presents

Richard C. Ward

President, Ross Roy Communications, Inc.

"The Facts About Ethics in Advertising"

April 4, 1991 • 7:30 pm

Hayes-Healy Auditorium

GEOGETOWN UNIVERSITY

SUMMER SESSIONS 1991

AP Photo

Nolan Ryan and son Reid discuss their performances in an exhibition match between the Texas Rangers and the University of Texas Longhorns. The elder tossed 111 pitches in the first known mound duel between a major league pitcher and his son.
Bo signs with White Sox; not expected to play until 1992 season

SARASOTA, Fla. (AP) — Boston has its Bosox, but Chicago now has the Bo Sox.

Bo Jackson, again denying a serious hip injury has ended his two-sport career, signed a free-agent contract Wednesday with the Chicago White Sox. The one-year contract with options for 1992 and 1993 pays Jackson even if he doesn’t play this season.

Jackson, an All-Star outfielder who has also spent four years wearing the Los Angeles Raiders’ silver and black, promises he’ll wear the White Sox’s white and black — and soon.

"Right now, I feel like a caged animal, I can’t wait for them to open the chutes and let me go and do what I’ve been doing my whole life, and that’s running," Jackson said at a news conference, a Sox cap atop his head and a Sox jersey slung across his shoulder.

"It’s hard for me to get up in the morning and pick up my other set of legs (this crutches) to walk on. I’d rather throw them in the garbage."

Jackson, 28, is the only athlete of his generation who hascestfully paired All-Star careers in baseball and the NFL, injured his left hip while being tackled from being in a Raiders-Cincinnati Bengals playoff game on Jan. 13.

He has been on crutches since then, and, when waived by the Kansas City Royals last month, he was said to be suffering from avascular necrosis, the partial loss of blood supply to the ball in the ball-and-socket joint.

Doctors have speculated Jackson will never play football or baseball again, but Jackson’s physicians, sports specialist Dr. James Andrews of Birmingham, Ala., was critical of those “down and gloom” reports.

"We have had some very favorable information relative to the prognosis of Bo’s hip," Andrews said. "We think Bo has an excellent potential to heal... (and) the White Sox have been willing to accept the risk."

White Sox general manager Ron Schueler confirmed owner Jerry Reinfeldt’s week ago to spend considerable dough on the ailing Bo, saying, "Any time you can get an athlete of Bo’s caliber, you’ve got to take that gamble. If he can bounce back, we’ve made a great gamble."

Financial terms of the deal were not immediately available.

Doctors will decide at the All-Star break if Jackson can play this season, but “realistically, we don’t expect him until 1992," Schueler said.

"We won’t risk his condition just to meet some timetable," said Dr. James Boscardin, the White Sox’s orthopedic surgeon. "He’ll be on the field when his hip is ready."

"My prognosis has come a long way since the injury," Jackson said. "I’m able to walk better. I’ll hit better, they won’t let me go out and run — yet. But things are coming along great."

Jackson’s contract is structured so “he’ll be reimbursed very, very well,” when he plays, Schueler said. The agreement includes “shared risk by both parties” — i.e. Chicago will pay Jackson even if can’t play immediately.

The contract doesn’t bar Jackson, who has a year left on his $7.4 million Raiders’ contract, from playing football again.

"We can’t prevent that (Bo playing football), but we can protect ourselves, and we have," Schueler said.

Raiders executive assistant Al LoCascio said Wednesday the team expects Jackson at the “middle of the season, just as we have the past four seasons."

"The Raiders are confident he has the best medical advice and care possible. We expect he will play football again this fall, and be a major contributor to the Raiders in the second half of the season and help us return to the playoffs," Rich Woods, Jackson’s agent, said about half the teams in baseball contacted him after the Royals feared Jackson’s hip injury was career-ending, released him.

"My number one goal is to graduate from college. That’s why I’m here. I want to make it to the majors, but a lot of people get there, but don’t stay there. So if I don’t stay, at least I’ll have my degree to fall back on. A Notre Dame degree is very special to a lot of people, especially to me," says Danapilis.

"We have had some very favorable information relative to the prognosis of Bo’s hip," Andrews said. "We think Bo has an excellent potential to heal... (and) the White Sox have been willing to accept the risk."

"We won’t risk his condition just to meet some timetable," said Dr. James Boscardin, the White Sox’s orthopedic surgeon. "He’ll be on the field when his hip is ready."

"My prognosis has come a long way since the injury," Jackson said. "I’m able to walk better. I’ll hit better, they won’t let me go out and run — yet. But things are coming along great."

Irish

continued from page 24

takes them a year to get going," Danapilis concludes.

Danapilis grew up following the Detroit Tigers, but the player that he attempts to model himself after comes from a different era in baseball.

"The person I try to model after is Willie Mays. He’s a guy who could do everything in the outfield." According to Murphy, Danapilis is about as good a pro prospect as you will find.

Danapilis does not have a particular team that he desires to play for just one that is not heavily stacked with outfielders in their system. There are things that he feels he needs to work on, though, to be a solid major league.

"I’m a line drive hitter, but as a power hitter and learn to hit better, I’ll hit more home runs," he says. Although he has these great expectations, his attitude about life in refreshing in comparison to many of today’s college athletes.

"My number one goal is to graduate from college. That’s why I’m here. I want to make it to the majors, but a lot of people get there, but don’t stay there. So if I don’t stay, at least I’ll have my degree to fall back on. A Notre Dame degree is very special to a lot of people, especially to me," says Danapilis.

When one looks at Danapilis’ past success and the intensity with which he approaches life and baseball, there is little doubt that his goals will soon become reality.

With joy and thanksgiving the Congregation of Holy cross and the families of

John J. Donato, C.S.C.
David L. Guffey, C.S.C.
Paul V. Kollman, C.S.C.
Patrick M. Neary, C.S.C.
announce the ordination of our brothers and sons for service to the people of God

Through the ancient Christian signs of laying on of hands and the prayer of the Church the Office of the Presbyter will be conferred by The most Reverend Paul E. Waldschmidt, C.S.C., S.T.D. Auxiliary Bishop of Portland in oregon on saturday, April 6, 1991 at Sacred Heart Church Notre-Dame, Indiana

Rev. John Donato, CSC
Addison, Illinois
UND ‘86 ‘90

Rev. David Guffey, CSC
Mt. Carroll, Illinois
UND ‘84 ‘90

Rev. Paul Kollman, CSC
Cincinnati, Ohio
UND ‘84 ‘90

Rev. Patrick Neary, CSC
LaPorte, Indiana
UND ‘85
The Observer

looking for students interested in the paid position of Purchasing Agent

Freshman and sophomore business majors interested in gaining valuable business and managerial experience which could possibly lead to promotion within the business department should contact Gil Gomez at 239-7471 for more information.

SPRING POOL TOURNAMENT

April 08-09

MEN'S & WOMEN'S BRACKETS

GREAT PRIZES

LAST SIGN-UP DAY SAT APR. 06

GORCH GAMES ROOM
BASEMENT OF LAFORTUNE

HOUSTON (AP) — Hakeem Olajuwon had 22 points and 22 rebounds, and the Houston Rockets survived Dallas' third-quarter charge to beat the Mavericks 102-86 Wednesday night.

Olajuwon got 20-plus rebounds for the sixth time this season. Vernon Maxwell led Houston in scoring with 27 points as the Rockets won for the 15th time in 16 games and pulled within a half-game of first-place San Antonio in the Midwest Division.

The Mavericks, led by Rolando Blackman with 20 points, lost for the 12th time in 15 games and extended their road losing streak to seven.

Houston took charge with 17 points and 12 rebounds in the first half. Olajuwon, who never trailed, to a 52-35 advantage at halftime.

Houston increased the margin to 62-41 with 8:47 to go in the third period, but the Mavericks outscored Houston 20-6 to close to 68-61 with 2:21 left in the quarter. The Rockets overcame scoreless streaks of 2:20 and 2:19 to lead 77-61 at the end of the third period.

76ers 107, Pacers 104

Ron Anderson came off the bench to score 23 of his 27 points in the first half as Philadelphia, playing without Charles Barkley and Rick Mahorn, beat Indiana.

The 76ers handed the Pacers their 11th loss in 37 home games despite the absence of Barkley, out for at least two weeks with a sprained ankle, and Mahorn, who has a bruised right heel.

Indiana fell behind by 14 points early in the third quarter, but took an 89-87 lead on four straight points by Reggie Miller.

Philadelphia then scored the next five points to take the lead for good, 92-89, on a free throw by Hersey Hawkins with 5:29 remaining.

Attention

Sophomores and Juniors interested in the Rhodes and Marshall Scholarships

Prof. Walter Pratt, Jr. will have a meeting to inform you of deadline dates and the Fall application process on

Thursday, April 4, 1991

5:30 p.m.

101 Law School

If you are unable to attend this meeting, a sheet of information may be obtained in 102-B O'Shaughnessy Hall after the meeting date.

Deion Sanders will become the first player to hold a starting position in two different sports in the same city.

With that the 31-year-old Sanders, who was ultrasonic bone infection, said Schuerholz. "He's got a guy, obviously, who's hard working as a matter of fact, he's worked as hard as anybody in camp."

Sanders, whose fondness for gold jewelry and expensive sports cars prompted some to question his attitude during his first season with the Falcons, has been relatively subdued with the Braves.

"He's been great," said Schuerholz. "He's hard working as a matter of fact, he's worked as hard as anybody in camp."

Sanders, who hit his first homer of the spring Tuesday, was batting .281 in 57 at-bats going into Wednesday's exhibition game.

"I've got a long way to go," said Sanders, who returned to Atlanta Thursday for a second opinion on his bunting, fielding and hitting the ball to left field.

Of more concern was the state of Sanders' father, Mims. The 48-year-old man was taken to the DeKalb County Jail Wednesday after Lee County, Fla., sheriff's detectives found crack cocaine on his tongue.

Detectives also discovered a rock of crack and a pipe for smoking the drug inside a black 1990 Corvette registered to Deion Sanders and parked at the North Fort Myers motel where Mims Sanders was staying, Lee County sheriff's spokeswoman Geraldine Poole said.

Deion Sanders could not immediately be reached.

Larry Nance scored 10 of his 22 points in the fourth quarter, leading Cleveland over New York.

The Cavaliers, who trailed by 16 points in the second quarter, took the lead at 65-63 on a jumper by Nance with 2:11 left in the third period. They stayed on top the rest of the way after a 3-pointer by Henry James broke a 6-6 tie with 50 seconds left in the quarter.

James hit another 3-pointer on Cleveland's next possession for a 71-67 lead going into the final 12 minutes.

Kiki Vandeweghe led the Knicks with 23 points, while Patrick Ewing added 15 points and 10 rebounds, but scored only one point in the fourth period.
Maradona says career finished
Argentinian soccer star still receiving great fan support

BUENOS AIRES, Argentina (AP) — Diego Maradona was quoted Wednesday as saying he will not play professional soccer again, and Argentina's president said that he would not make a quick judgment on the fallen star's future.

A day after Maradona returned home to Argentina, officials in Europe and South America continued to debate what should happen to the 30-year-old forward, who faces a suspension of six months to two years because of cocaine use.

In a interview published in Wednesday's Corriere della Sera, a daily newspaper in Milan, Italy, Maradona said his career was over.

"I had enough. I am tired of struggling. I am retiring for good," he said. The newspaper said Maradona made his remarks during an interview on his flight home.

"Now I want to enjoy life, I want to enjoy my daughters," Maradona said.

Meanwhile, dozens of fans gathered near Maradona's house and chanted his name as they used to when he played in Argentina. Argentina president Carlos Menem, who named Maradona his sports ambassador last year, said he would not rush to judgment.

"Until there is a legal sentence, you have to presume his innocence," Menem said. The president said that even if Maradona is suspended for having used a banned substance, "he shouldn't be crucified, but helped."

Antonio Alegre, president of Maradona's former club, Boca Juniors, wants a hero's reception for the most well-known Argentine in the world.

"I invited Maradona to the stadium Friday to be welcomed as he deserves," Alegre said.

Maradona played his first game for Argentina's national team at age 15. Five years later he led Boca Juniors to the Argentine League title, and in 1979 he took Argentina to the world youth championship.

"Maradona is an idol for every fan and they have to be at his side," said Julio Grondona, president of the Argentine Soccer Association.

Maradona's lawyer, Enzo Maria Siniscalchi, said he expects the minimum penalty for Maradona, saying cocaine can't be considered performance-enhancing if taken several hours before a game.

"We will not appeal the sentence if Maradona is given the minimum penalty," Siniscalchi told Gazzetta dello Sport, a Milan sports daily.

Juan Simon, a defender on several World Cup teams with Maradona, said the star's former teammates would defend him.

"All of us who every played with him give our support in this difficult moment," Simon said.

Even Maradona's former opponents rallied to his side.

"The bitter aspect of this case is that soccer has lost a protagonist," said Lothar Matthaeus, the captain of Germany's national team.

"He has been the greatest soccer player I ever saw in action," said Luca di Montezemolo, the head of the 1990 World Cup Organizing Committee. "I want to thank him for what he has done to soccer, whatever the outcome of this case can be."

Salary
continued from page 24

There is no instant replay to overrule the arbitrator. Bonds knew the risks if he didn't settle with the Pirates and gambled that he would win in arbitration.

As for Henderson, he really has nobody to blame but himself. He saw the salary escalation unfolding all around him, and still he signed the deal. And now that the A's expect him to live up to the contract, he walks out, demanding, essentially, that they bail him out of his own stupidity.

Wouldn't it be nice if we could walk in to our boss' office and say, "I didn't realize salaries would go up so quickly when I signed my contract. If you don't give me a raise, I walk." We all know what our boss' answer would be too. I can hear the laughter echoing in his/her office now.

But, then again, we're not Rickey Henderson, who is one of the five best players—if not the best—in baseball today.

Remember, though, he's old saying, "Pride goeth before the fall." If players' pride insists on driving salaries ever higher, baseball could face a situation similar to the NBA did a few years ago, with teams on the brink of bankruptcy and the league ready to fold.

To solve the problem, the NBA instituted a salary cap, in which players would receive a guaranteed minimum percentage of revenues, but the total team payroll could not exceed the cap—with certain exceptions. For example, a team may go beyond the cap to retain one of its own free agents.

The league has skyrocketed in popularity since then, with most teams now showing a profit. And it's not like NBA players are starving, either: the average NBA salary is around $700,000.

Instituting a salary cap would help end this destructive game of one-upmanship in baseball as well. And maybe we baseball fans can get back to reading about the sport itself.
SYRACUSE, N.Y. (AP) — The hiring of a former Syracuse player as a graduate assistant has been added to the alleged improper activities the university is investigating in its basketball program, a spokesman said.

Marys News Writers spokesman, said.

Byrnes said he returned to Syracuse in 1989 after 11 years as a professional player and completed the 15 credit hours he needed for an undergraduate degree.

But had he never applied to graduate school. Nor has he written a paper to receive his undergraduate degree.

"The epitome of laziness," Byrnes said.

Syracuse is adding to missteps is currently seeking Saint Mary's students who are interested in becoming involved as Saint Mary's News Writers. We will have an informational meeting April 10 at 8 p.m. in Room 304 Haggard Hall, Saint Mary's. If you have questions or are interested but cannot attend the meeting, contact Emily Willett at 284-5068, or Monica Yant at 239-5303.

DALLAS (AP) — Dallas Mavericks forward Roy Tarpley admitted he violated the NBA's drug policy on March 27, giving him 10 days' worth of drug provi­sions of his drug treatment after-care program by drinking on the night of his arrest on charges of drunken driving, but denied he was intoxicated.

Tarpley, who has twice violated the NBA's anti-drug policy and is recovering from a season-ending knee injury, also said he drank three beers before going out that night. Police said he was unrefused and refused a Breathalyzer on blood test, but failed five field sobriety tests.

"I was not drunk," Tarpley said after he was arrested with police, but was nervous and distracted because of the crowd of about 80 people watching the scene. He said that in one test he was standing solely on his injured leg, which caused him to wobble.

Tarpley's attorney, Jay Ellington, said he may file a complaint with the Police- Citizen Review Board and the police department's internal af­fairs division for the "misleading and incorrect" statements made by police officials about Tarpley's arrest.

In a statement issued Tuesday, Dallas Police Chief William Carter said: "We have filed this case with the district attorney's office. It is now appropriate to let the criminal justice process run its course. We have no intention of trying this case in the media."

Meanwhile, Mavericks owner Donald Carter said he supports the police and he and Tarpley "need to talk."

Carter, in his first comments about Tarpley's arrest, said Tuesday he would be upset if Tarpley and his lawyer tried to defame Dallas police.

"I don't know the facts yet, but I will support the Dallas Police Department," Carter said. "If he's been proven guilty, he (Tarpley) will get his day in court. ... The idea that they (the police) don't think they deserve any 'insulting or opprobrious' by any of our players "...

Drinking alcohol is a violation of Tarpley's after-care program. The Belles made the jump from NAIA Division III to NCAA Division II competition this season and Finco, who was an NAIA All-American as a sophomore, had to deal with tougher competition this year.

"The women's basketball program has been a success," Finco said. "But this is overshadowed by my excuisite care entering the new stadium. The new stadium is just a fabulous facility."

The site of the old park will become the baseball lodge. Rams will be provided so that fans can safely walk over a South Side city street to enter the new stadium.

Comiskey Park was named after the former Chicago White Sox owner Charles Comiskey who built the ballpark.

Old Comiskey also was the home of the former Chicago Bears football team as well as heavyweight champi­onship fights, rock concerts and the baseball All-Star Game in 1933.

Traffic congestion was a result of her Nov. 15, 1989, arrest for DWI. Tarpley re­ceives two years' probation, and faces a May 6 revocation hearing as a result of his latest arrest.

CHICAGO (AP) — The walk of old Comiskey Park came tumbling down today.

The mound was called swinging against the stadium — the majestic, old Comiskey Park — at 10 a.m. CST, marking the end of more than 80 years of baseball history, said:

Scores of Chicagoans — clad in business suits, work clothes and even a couple of costumes — stood nearby and watched the wrecking ball as it hit the stadium's southeast side, where the right-field stand met the first-base side.

"I'm a Cubs fan, ... but I hate to see this place go," said.

The demolition work got under way just hours before re­ports of a three-story house to be torn down to make way for the new Comiskey Park across the street.

The White Sox will play their first game in the new Comiskey Park on April 18 against the Detroit Tigers.

Old Comiskey was opened July 1, 1910. An upper deck was added in 1927.

Speedway Wrecking Co., the Chicago contractor hired to demolish the stadium, has been working inside the aging facility for about a month. "There's a definite mixed emotions," said Larry Kolko of Speedway. "But ... by the time we're through with the demol­ition, maybe we'll be playing a World Series across the street."

Speedway has been disman­dling parts of the stadium's in­terior since March 1, said Tim Romani, head of the Illinois Sports Facilities Authority. He said the wrecking would take six to eight months.

"I have a nostalgic feeling like most people," Romani said.

"But this is overshadowed by my excuisite care entering the new stadium. The new stadium is just a fabulous facility."

"The walls of Comiskey Park came tumbling down at Chicago's historic Comiskey Park yesterday, said.

Showed that she was getting tired."

Moreover, the season has to be viewed as a success for the junior from Beavercreek, Ohio. The Belles made the jump from NAIA Division III to NCAA Division II competition this season and Finco, who was an NAIA All-American as a sophomore, had to deal with tougher competition this year.

"This season was a tremendous success," Finco said. "But this is overshadowed by my excuisite care entering the new stadium. The new stadium is just a fabulous facility."

The site of the old park will become the baseball lodge. Rams will be provided so that fans can safely walk over a South Side city street to enter the new stadium.

Comiskey Park was named after the former Chicago White Sox owner Charles Comiskey who built the ballpark.

Old Comiskey also was the home of the former Chicago Bears football team as well as heavyweight champi­onship fights, rock concerts and the baseball All-Star Game in 1933.

Hobby continued from page 24
Irish hockey presents awards; Louder gets MVP

Special to the Observer

Freshman goalie Greg Louder garnered two of the Notre Dame hockey team's more prestigious awards this season. Louder was named both Rookie of the Year and Most Valuable Player of this year's squad.

L Louder, a fifth-round draft choice of the Edmonton Oilers in 1990, allowed 4.11 goals per game with a save percentage of .874. He also won the Most Improved Player—Scott Vickman, Best Defensive Forward—Sterling Black, Best Defenceman—Eric Gregoire and the Notre Dame club of St. Joseph County named Carl Piccirillo and Vickman its student-athlete award winners.

Brown upholds decision on Clemens suspension

WINTER HAVEN, Fla. (AP) — Roger Clemens was nowhere to be found Wednesday after he was confused and shocked by an umpire's report.

Hobby Brown's decision upholding a five-game suspension and a $10,000 fine for the pitcher's actions in Game 4 of the playoffs.

Declaring that Brown had "come down hard on me," the two-time Cy Young Award winner said he would carry his appeal to commissioner Fay Vincent.

"Let someone hear it that has a more open mind," Clemens said after allowing Pittsburgh just one hit in five scoreless innings in his final tuneup for Monday's season opener in Toronto. "I didn't expect it. I'm kind of surprised at some of the things in the statement." Brown upheld his suspension on Wednesday, saying Clemens' actions after he was ejected couldn't be condoned.

Brown charged umpires Terry Cooney and Jim Evans.

"Now, instead of the ejection it seems he's directing all the penalties toward what happened after the decision was made," Clemens said. "If the ejection had not happened, the other thing wouldn't have happened. I don't know how he expected me to do what he thought I was going to do. I'm sure Dr. Brown understands that, too, but he pretty much was married to his decision without knowing all the facts."

He also said: "I wasn't trying and there was fabrication in the umpire's report. That's the bottom line." Brown.

UNLV's Johnson snags Wooden Award

O'Neal second in voting for top college hoops award

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Admitting it was not the prize he wanted most, UNLV's Larry Johnson nevertheless called it a great honor when he was presented with the John Wooden Award as college basketball's player of the year Wednesday.

Johnson received the award, given by the Los Angeles Athletic Club, four days after the Runnin' Rebels lost to Duke 79-77 in the semifinals of the NCAA tournament. Duke went on to beat Kansas 72-65 to win the national championship.

"It's really a great honor; just being here is a great honor," Johnson said. "I'm just so happy to be on the team I've been on for the last two years."

"This might take the sting away for my family, but not for the university. Winning the national championship was basically what I set out to do, that was my goal. It's always going to hurt but life goes on, you have to get over it."

"I'd just like to congratulate Duke. I'm not too happy we lost, but I've got to give them credit." The loss to Duke broke UNLV's 46-game winning streak, covering the last 11 games last season and the first 34 this year. The Rebels lost the best Blue Devils 103-73 in the championship game last year.

Johnson, a 6-foot-7, 250-pound senior forward, was the Wooden Award winner in voting by 1,000 sports writers and broadcasters across the country. He finished with 1,464 points to 1,389 for Louisiana State sophomore Shaqueille O'Neal.

Johnson's teammate, senior forward Stacey Augmon, finished third with 1,156 points, followed by sophomore guard Kenny Anderson of Georgia Tech with 717 and junior forward Billy Owens of Syracuse with 621.

Wooden's, the 80-year-old former coach who led UCLA to 10 NCAA championships in a 12-year span ending in 1979, presented the award to Johnson.

O'Neal, Augmon and Owens also attended Wednesday's award ceremony along with UNLV coach Jerry Tarkanian, LSU coach Dale Brown and UNLV's senior center Patrick Ewing.

"He makes everybody play better," Tarkanian said of Johnson. "He brings everyone around him to a higher level. He's a great pro. Whatever team he's on is going to win. He'll make everybody happy, he'll make everybody play better.

"He's a great player, but he's even a better person."}

Johnson, who figures to be one of the top selections, if not the No. 1 pick, in this summer's NBA draft, said if he had his choice, he'd probably play with the Dallas Mavericks.

"That's because it's home," he said. ",,If someone asked who my favorite team, it's probably the Lakers or the Bulls. You have to take every thing in perspective, just to play in the NBA is a great thing."

"Playing in the NBA should be fun. I've talked to several people in the NBA. It should be hard. I'm not about anything but to do what's best for the team."

Johnson, who played two years at Odessa Junior College before transferring to UNLV last year, said he had no re- grets about passing up a rich one-hour contract to stay in school and play his senior year.

THE NOTRE DAME COUNCIL ON INTERNATIONAL BUSINESS DEVELOPMENT invites you to attend a special one hour SPRING FORUM on EASTERN EUROPE: THE TRANSITION TO A MARKET ECONOMY featuring PROFESSOR WOLODZIMIERZ SIWINSKI VICE PRINCIPAL OF THE UNIVERSITY OF WARSAW THURSDAY APRIL 4th 7:00 p.m. 124 HAYES-HEALY

Correction
An article in yesterday's Observer incorrectly reported that pole vaulter Greg Matteo finished third at the College Meeting of the Minds Invitational. Matteo won the event. Thank you to 16. The Observer regrets the error.
CAMPUS

11:30 a.m. Hospitality Lunch to benefit Catholic Worker House of South Bend. CSC.
12:15 p.m. Talk discussion with Theresa Gilaraducci. "The Economics of Sexism" Friday Forum at the CSC.
3:30 p.m. "Introduction to Resume Expert" Workshop Career and Placement Conference Room.
4 p.m. Antostal Mud Volleyball Tournament Sign-ups. SUB Office.
6:30 p.m. Presentation: "Sales Opportunities With Lionel, Inc." Mr. Sam DeMalo, District Manager, will talk about sales representative jobs within Northern Indiana and Chicago territories.
8 and 10:30 p.m. "The Princess Bride" Cushing Auditorium.

LECTURES

4 p.m. Colloquium in the History and Philosophy of Science, "The History and Philosophy of Science in Contemporary Science Education Reforms," Michael R. Matthews, University of New South Wales, Australia. Hesburgh Library Lounge.
7:30 p.m. - Roland Reiss, sculptor, Annenberg Auditorium, University Art Museum.
8 p.m. "The Pittston Strike" Gene Carroll, United Mine Workers, CSC.

CROSSWORD

ACROSS
1 Bartone Gorin
5 A rival of ABC
8 Vessel; sea
12 Shade of green
14 Askew
15 Tatsum or Ryan
17 Chew on wood, as some horses
18 Jacob's twin
19 Vocation
20 What a Mississippian might be
23 Shoe saver
24 Of an important period
25 Sabia's bed
26 Anecdotall collection

CROSSWORD ANSWER

DOWN
1 Purveyor of yore
2 Hern in
3 Mushmash
4 Answered a debater
5 Greek side
6 Count who played winning numbers
7 Musical or Getz
8 Former South African president
9 Ready the red carpet
10 Paper measure
11 Actress
12 Thompson
13 City in S France
14 Aiming at
15 Improving the breed
16 Type of goose
17 World of yore
18 Pope and toots
19 Charles is its prince
20 Cushing Auditorium
21 Brothers in arms
22 Cost of an express delivery
23 Wobbly
24 Steiners
25 Business
26 Lagoon holder
27 Shoulder piece
28 Maintains
29 Dome-shaped hut
30 Descent
31 Lock
32 Lowered the lights
33 Pathogenic bacterium
34 Finnish aviator: 1898-1976
35 Strength: Lat.
36 Shade
37 Hedonism
38 Birthplace of Ampere
39 Miro
40 Steam-engine pioneer
41 Yogis
42 Chet in Cag Harvey
43 Yokes
44 Buck
45 Hosts on TV shows
46 Rhetorician

ANSWER TO PREVIOUS PUZZLE

CHEESE TREE

CAMEL MINE

THE FAR SIDE

BREED

SPLEUNKER

JAY HOSLER

The Observer page 23

THE 1991 Collegiate Jazz Festival
Come be a part of the oldest and finest tradition in collegiate jazz
April 5th and 6th
Stegean Center
University of Notre Dame
Tickets may be purchased at the door or in advance at Lafortune Student Center.

ANTOSTAL MUD VOLLEYBALL TOURNAMENT!!

SIGN-UPS:
Thursday and Friday, April 4th and 5th
5 U.C. Office
4-6 P.M.
5 dollars per team
Hurry!!! There's a 64 team max.

Thursday, April 4, 1991

Cushing Auditorium 8:00 p.m. and 10:30 p.m.
$2

Commissioner Applications can be picked up at 2nd Floor Secretary's desk in Lafortune.
Deadline is Friday, April 5.

STUDENT UNION BOARD
Salary cap necessary to keep egos to a minimum

Recently, 1990 National League MVP Barry Bonds of the Pittsburgh Pirates and his manager, Jim Leyland, had a heated argument which made the nightly news for an entire week. At the same time, American League MVP Rickey Henderson walked out of the rules of baseball at Oakland Athletics’ camp, protesting that A’s management didn’t appreciate his talents. After a few days, he possibly touched by the “Rickey Henderson Appreciation Fund” his teammates started, he returned to camp and resumed preparations for the 1991 season.

What sparked all the fun, you might ask? Well, in one word, money. Or better yet, a different word: pride.

Bonds is upset because for the second straight year, he lost to the Pirates in an arbitration hearing to determine his 1991 salary. The poor fellow will earn only $2.3 million this season.

Henderson, meanwhile, is angry because he wants to renegotiate his four-year, $12-million contract with the A’s. At the time he signed it, Henderson was atop the salary ladder in major league baseball. Now, however, he’s only 40, and he is embarrassed.

Off hand, it’s easy to see why everyone thinks the problem is about money. It is the root of all evil, isn’t it?

But neither of them deserve it. Bonds and Henderson look at the same way—vaguely embarrassed, simple. Both Bonds and Henderson feel slighted. Each believes he is the best player in the respective leagues and should be paid accordingly. And when their teams refuse to give them salaries which they feel reflect their worth, they pout, mouth off, or walk out of camp.

It’s not about increasing their purchasing power, but about increasing their own perceived power. These superstars simply want their egos massaged, that’s all.

But neither of them deserve it.

Bonds, even though he is the best player in baseball, is not eligible for free agency. His only recourse, if he and the Pirates cannot agree on a new contract, is arbitration. The arbitrator, an impartial outsider takes the player’s and the team’s offers and decides between the two based on evidence presented.

The 1991 Bonds lost again this season, this means either he could not argue his case very well or an independent arbitrator feels that’s a big part. Nobody be believes in themselves that they can compete on this level. It

see SALARY / page 20

Irish men's golf finishes 24th in shortened tourney

By JENNIFER MARTEN

Sports Writer

Old man winter dealt a cruel, cold blow to the Notre Dame men’s golf tour over Easter Break. The team was devastated by the snow, wind, rain, and sleet it encountered at the University of Kentucky—Johnnie Owens Invitational in Lexington, Kentucky.

The Johnny Owens tournament is a fine way to warm up, " said Notre Dame coach George Thomas.

The University of Kentucky's spring weather is so bad that the final rounds of the tournament were played in inclement weather. The standings and scores were only based on 18 holes of golf.

The Notre Dame squad finished a disappointing 24th out of 25 teams in a very competitive field that included teams from Ohio University, Michigan State, and Wake Forest.

Kent State won the team competition with a total score of 302 (-8). In fact, the course of Wisconsin claimed the individual tournament with a first place finish of 208 (-8). Coach Thomas commented the 18 hole tournament to a basketball game.

"It would be like playing the first quarter of a basketball game. So as a result, we had a first quarter and never had a chance to recover," said Thomas.

Individually, the scores were very high because the weather was so difficult on the golfers. Junior Mike O’Connell posted the lowest Irish score with an 80.

"Mike had an admirable round under the conditions," said Thomas.

Other Irish scores include junior Mike Grinnan and senior Paul Nolla’s 83. Sophomore Dan Cummins and sophomore Joe Dennen both finished with an 18 hole total of 88.

"Individually, it was the worst performance we have ever had at any tournament we’ve played at," said Thomas. This tournament was very difficult on the guys because they had not played much that in the bad weather. They played very, very conservatively, the course and the weather intimidated them a little bit," said Thomas.

The team hopes to put this tournament in the back of their minds and continue playing solid golf.

see SPIRIT / page 20

Danapilis leads team by example

Irish slugger using positive outlook to continue progress

By RICHARD MATHURIN

Sports Writer

When a player bats .429 in his freshman year, people tend to con­clude that his biggest asset is his great physical skills, but ac­cording to Irish rightfielder Eric Danapilis, he thrives on a different aspect of the game.

"Coach Murphy labeled me a Kirk Gibson type," said Danapilis. "I think that part of my game is the competitiveness.

While Danapilis has not received the media attention of other team members, it has be­come apparent through his first two years that he has become the heart and soul of the team.

Besides batting .429 last year, Danapilis also hit five home runs, 30 doubles, 88 total bases, 18 home runs, 63 runs batted in, 70 runs scored, and had a batting average of .390.

\n"People say, 'He's big, how can he be a lead-off hitter?' His swing is the prettiest. It isn't Will Clark's swing. I feel you have to be big to do it," said Danapilis. "And then I go out and prove it.""

see SPIRIT / page 18

Cummins diving toward perfection

By KEN TIYASC

Sports Writer

South Bend, Ind.

Saint Mary’s diver Carrie Cummins is very proficient in her hobby.

Cummins is the Saint Mary’s record holder in both the one-meter and three-meter diving events. This season she qualified for the NCAA Division III diving championships, placing third in the one-meter competition and third in the three-meter competition.

Still, the Belles’ top diver doesn’t consider herself to be hell bent on competition. "I’ve always been a hobby," Cummins says. "I didn’t even dive competitively until I got to college, so competition isn’t incredibly important to me."

"Everyone who loves to dive," says Belles diving coach Dan Slattery. "She does it for the enjoyment of it. She wants to do well because it is satisfying..."

"I don’t get much money, Cummins admits. "It was really hard, because there were so many divers at the competition that I had to wait 45 minutes between dives. That really took the edge off my diving, and that is why my performance was down.

"She started early in the morning with the one-meter competition, Slattery adds, "and by the time she got to the three-meter, which is her strong point, she had gone through quite a few dives during the day. Kind of

Robinson named District IV All-American

Special to the Observer

Senior Kirk Robinson has been named to the 1991 USWBA District IV All-American team for the second straight year she has received this honor. The 5-6 guard from Turnersville, N.J., averaged 16.8 points and 5.0 assists per game for the 23-9 Railsplitters in the regular season. She also became Notre Dame’s all-time leading scorer with 1,590 points. The two-time Midwestern Conference Player of the Year finished atop five career lists and second in two others during her stellar career.

Also, "At the Rim," a photograph book for Ireland’s women’s collegiate basketball, scheduled for publication in August, features the Irish women’s basketball team in action. "The Railsplitters Classic in December is sponsored by Eastman Kodak and Thomas-Gram, Inc., and produced in cooperation with the Basketball Coaches Association.

see HOBBY / page 21