Controversy emerges over SUB concert approval procedures

By PETER LOFTUS
Assistant News Editor

The Notre Dame Student Union Board (SUB) may have sidestepped proper procedures in obtaining approval to sponsor two recent concerts which resulted in a combined loss of over $50,000 in student money, according to student government officers.

Student Body Treasurer John Coffey, who is not a SUB member, said that he did not obtain Student Senate approval, as required by Student Body Constitution, before sending invitations--"bids"--to agents for rock acts The Cult and Lenny Kravitz, and comedian Howie Mandel.

"We issued the bids before any Student Senate meeting," Coffey said. "The SUB has been involved in some quirky business," said Coffey.

SUB controller Chris Weismantel said he believed SUB "showed everything" when SUB presented its cost estimates to Blanco and Florenzo in December. He added that he believed that Florenzo knew "what was involved" in sponsoring a concert since Florenzo has past SUB experience.

The Select/Music Manager Lynn Ramsay defended SUB, saying it obtained necessary approval from Blanco and Florenzo for the concerts. She also said most of SUB's programs are designed to sustain a financial loss, in order to give students discount prices on tickets.

"We have quality entertainment," she said. At yesterday's Senate meeting, Ramsay, a junior, was passed up for a second term as Board Manager in favor of Pat Reindl, the current Student Parliamentarian. Members of the Selection Committee said that leadership council deemed more than experience in their decision to select McCarthy, who has no SUB experience.

The Lenny Kravitz concert attracted only 2,066 tickets priced at $12 for students and $14 for the general public. About 900 students attended the concert. The J.A.C.C. has a concert capacity of about 7,000.

SUB lost $32,600 on The Cult concert, and about $30,000 on Howie Mandel, according to Joe Cassidy, director of Student Activities. About 50 percent, mostly students, attended the Mandel concert, with student tickets priced at $10 each. Florenzo questioned whether SUB followed proper procedures.

According to Florenzo, Ramsay approached Blanco and Florenzo during the final week of last semester, concerning the concert.

The estimated costs in bringing the artists to ND that were presented to Blanco and Florenzo were "grossly underestimated," said Coffey. Blanco and Florenzo gave Ramsay the green light to send out the bids.

Over Christmas vacation, the SUB commissioners sent out bids to "major" agents. According to Coffey, if an agent accepts a bid, it is, "for the most part, a legal contractual agreement." The SUB commissioners outbid other agents. According to Coffey, if an agent accepts a bid, it is, "for the most part, a legal contractual agreement." The SUB commissioners outbid other agents.

"There was a time when we were in the middle of the road," Florenzo said. "We are now at the other end of the road." He added that he believed Florenzo had "lost" an appeal to Blanco and Florenzo concerning the concerts.

"We are going to push the issue back," Florenzo said. "We are going to push the issue back." He added that he believed Florenzo had "lost" an appeal to Blanco and Florenzo concerning the concerts.

By MICHAEL SCHOLL
News Writer

Elections for the Student Senate were held in four districts yesterday, but the victors in these races will not be known until Wednesday.

In the District 1 (South Quad) election, Morrissey Hall freshman Tyler Farmer is the unofficial winner over Alumni Hall junior Dave Certo. However, Certo is challenging the result, claiming that Farmer violated campaign rules.

Elections commissioner Travis Reindl said the ethics committee of the Judicial Board will meet on Wednesday to determine whether Farmer committed any violations. Farmer may have to forfeit his victory if he is found guilty, Reindl said.

Neither Reindl nor the two Board member; and

• a non-returning SUB member who is the assistant director of Student Activities.

In the case of a board manager who wishes to return the following year, the student body treasurer will vote on that person's place, according to Florenzo. Florenzo added that "the manager may not sit on the Student Union Board Selection Committee for their position."

The new Official Constitution retains that the SUB Executive cannot vote on the commissioner's and assistant commissioner's for each Commission. In addition, the choices are subject to approval by a majority vote of the Student Senate.
INSIDE COLUMN

Media shows, not fixes problems

In the next few days you’ll see some Inside Columns from Observer editors who, like me, are in their last week on the job. Odds are they’ll be sentimental and sappy. But you won’t get any of that from me because I’m too much of a jerk to get sappy and my last Accent column isn’t until April 29 (Mark your calendar). Instead, I’d like to take a little of what I’ve learned in the classroom and share it with you.

One of my professors, Robert Schmuhl from the Department of American Studies, has pointed out that, in reality, the media can’t force anyone to do anything. For instance, if a politician is corrupt, the media can’t kick him out of office. They can, however, tell people what to think about. Maybe then the public will take the steps necessary to remedy the situation.

So to illustrate Schmuhl’s point, here are a few things I think about.

1) HPC is still eating dinners. Yeah, this is an old subject that’s been reheated, but what has been changed? Sure, we’ve heard how hall councils are now voting to approve the dinners, but what will the approval of these hall councils do?

If I can remember correctly from my on-room experience, hall councils were made up of (1) the hall president’s roommates, (2) the hall vice president’s roommates and (3) their friends. What will the approval of these hall councils do?

It makes you wonder: How many other Father James Burchalleas are there out there?

3) Still no word from William Hickey. But there has been one development since a certain John O’Brian was last heard from: the story of the bureaucracy that goes into covering the president’s roommates and their friends.

So I’m going to stick with the case of Father James Burchallea. It’s been almost four months since the scandal broke and still not a peep from under the Dome.

It makes you wonder: How many other Father James Burchalleas are there out there?

Crisis gives carnival somber tone

■ PORT AU-PRINCE, Haiti—Traditionally an orgy of rhythm and rum, Haiti’s pre-Lenten carnival has a somewhat subdued ambiance this year as a prolonged political crisis keeps many would-be celebrants sober. Despite heavy promotion by the military-backed government of the festival, similar to New Orleans’ Mardi Gras — appeared constrained when it started Sunday after weeks of work-up activities. In the capital, spectators crowded atop viewing stands to watch parades and celebrants danced, chantied or simply studied as police armed with automatic rifles patrolled. Some participants seemed mollified and many poor Haitians, who traditionally revel in the street celebrations, appeared to be staying home. Haiti’s poor majority supported President Jean-Bertrand Aristide, an activist Roman Catholic priest who held office less than eight months before a Sept. 30 military coup drove him into exile and plunged the nation into crisis.

Russian oil price controls to be lifted

■ MOSCOW — In the latest of Russia’s painful economic reforms, the government will lift domestic price controls on oil and oil products Monday and impose a 50 percent tax on them, an official said today. The moves are aimed at speeding Russia’s entry into the International Monetary Fund. Membership in the IMF will determine Russia’s creditworthiness for international loans and investment. The IMF wanted Russia to raise its oil prices by 10 to 15 times in order to increase government revenues, helping reduce the budget deficit, increase the value of the ruble and rein in inflation. The ITAR-Tass news agency, quoting unidentified sources, said under the plan, a ton of crude oil that sold for 350 rubles at the beginning of the year would go up to 2,000 to 2,500 rubles, excluding the tax, when prices were freed on April 15. One dollar is worth about 75 rubles at the floating exchange rate.

Senate approves 1992-93 nominations

By DAVID KINNEY
Associate News Editor

Student Senate approved the two nominations for 1992-93 Student Union Board (SUB) Executive Board positions, and debated the fate of student businesses under the proposed Student Body Constitution at a meeting last night.

Senate Parliamentarian Patrick McCarthy was approved as next year's board manager, replacing Lynn Ramsey. Matt Bomberger, Academic communities head, was selected director of programming. He will replace Beth Wittman.

The two were nominated by the SUB Selection Committee, consisting of Student Body President Joseph Blanco, Treasurer John Coffey, Student Senate President-elect Greg Buros. Bomberger was approved unanimously, with two abstentions.

In other business:
- Senator David Certo tabled debate on the proposed Student Body Constitution after discussing a clause calling for the Student Senate to appoint three assistant treasurers.
- Kevin Roxas, SUB co-chair and manager of ND Video, proposed an amendment that would keep the current Student Business Board in the proposed Constitution. The amendment was defeated by a one-vote margin.
- The new system included in the amendment would create an associate treasurer to oversee Adworks, Irish Gardens and ND Video, the three student-run businesses. Each of the assistants would also be responsible for one of the three businesses. These four individuals and three student government representatives would compose a business council with which the businesses would work.

Coffey pointed out that the new system would allow businesses the same kind of personal attention afforded by the business board. In addition, the new system would increase accountability between Senate members, such a forum would provide for consultation between administrators and faculty members on important decisions.

In addition, members discussed how to establish better communication between members of the Board of Trustees and the Academic and Faculty Affairs committees of the Board of Trustees, and the Traffic and Appeals Board.

Saint Mary's room deposit deadline to be extended

By Amy Bennett

The Saint Mary's room deposit deadline will be extended to March 6, and the room pick lottery will be extended to the week of Monday, March 23, according to William F. Kelleher, director of residence life and housing at Saint Mary's.

"The reason for these extensions is the delayed release of a letter to students and parents from William Hickey, president of Notre Dame College, regarding financial aid next year. The letter states that students choosing to reside on campus will receive more aid than those living off-campus."

"The College's award process gives preference to students choosing to reside on campus," the letter explains. "This preference reflects both our firm commitment to the residential experience as well as the fact that we do not use institutional funds to help subsidize off-campus costs." Kelleher said the extensions were made to allow students to have all the information available before deciding whether to move off-campus. Currently 30 percent of the Saint Mary's senior class lives off-campus. A separate letter issued to students studying off campus before selection dates confirms that McCandless Hall will be in an experimental stage next year. The hall will be equipped with a card entry system and residents will be on an "hour system" similar to Augusta Hall and Regina Smith for senior visitation.

Kelleher said the decision to change McCandless was a reaction to a Residence Hall Association motion last year, in which Saint Mary's students expressed the desire to have an hour system. Due to its location and lack of tunnels connecting it to other residence halls, Kelleher said McCandless provides "a good opportunity to try something new."

"Although the goal of the changes in McCandless was to give juniors and seniors an alternative to leaving on a whim," Kelleher said McCandless will not be restricted to older students.

Another problem involved in the Cul/Lenny Kravitz concert was that the act had performed in nearby Merriville, Ind., on Feb. 23, before the J.A.C.C. concert. Merriville is only an hour's drive west of Notre Dame, and that's probably what siphoned off general public fans who may not otherwise have attended the J.A.C.C. concert.

In Sub's defense Ramsay said, "If it is the task of SUB to put on quality events at a discount to students, we have failed."

Weismantel agreed, saying SUB's function is to "subsidize" student programs in order to give students a cheaper price for entertainment.

Coffey was disappointed with SUB for additional reasons:

•SUB sponsored concerts involving acts which he felt posted only monetary incentives with students. "I have never even heard of the word of Carl or Lenny Kravitz," said Coffey.

•SUB scheduled the two concerts within 6 days of each other. "This was before spring break, a time when most students are concerned with studying for midterms and saving cash for spring break.

Ramsay defended SUB's decision to invite The Cult and Lenny Kravitz, saying that those acts were among the top choices the student senate last semester.

Weismantel said the $50,000 loss figure didn't take into account the fact that each SUB committee, including the ones that organized the concerts, has a beginning operating balance with which to finance such enterprises as concerts.

The SUB music committee, which sponsored The Cult concert, received about $15,000, according to Weismantel. The SUB concert committee, which sponsored the Mandel concert, has a beginning budget of $7,000.

The committee budgets can be used to bring the actual loss down in both concerts closer to $30,000.

SUB may have violated the following student constitution by-laws:

•No club or organization may enter into a legal contract greater than $5,000 without the approval of the Budget Committee and

•The event that approval is needed of the Budget Committee while school is not in session, the club seeking approval must notify the Student Body the week of the event. At such time, the Treasurer must contact and receive the approval of a majority of the members of the Budget Committee before granting approval to the club.

The Senate Budget Committee is chaired by William F. Kelleher, president of Notre Dame College and consists of Blanco, Florence, and representatives from HPS, Dist. Directors, student officers, the Club Coordination Council, and the Senate.

Student club expenditures are drawn from an annual budget of over $400,000, comprised of the student's $55 activity fee.
Taped beating case seats no black jury

SIMI VALLEY, Calif. (AP) - A jury with no blacks was seated Monday in the assault trial of four white Los Angeles police officers accused of beating a black motorist a year ago this week.

Most of those selected said they had seen the widely broadcast videotape of a crowd of officers beating Rodney King, but all promised to put aside preconceptions and look at the case anew.

"We believe they are going to be fair to us," said a juror, Theodore DeLuna, District At­­torney Thomas L. Pickering, who is black. "Fair and impartial knows no ethnic background or race group.

"I’m not surprised by the makeup of our jury," said defense attorney Michael Stone, who denied there was any de­­fense plan to exclude blacks from the jury.

J urors include one Asian and one Hispanic. The seven men and five women are middle aged and include a computer programmer, a housekeeper, an intensive care nurse and a park ranger. One man has a brother who is a retired police sergeant. Six alternates were be­­ing selected to step in if any juror has to leave the case.

Superior Court Judge Stanley Weisberg questioned prospective pane­llists for about two weeks. Opening statements were scheduled for Wednesday with court scheduled to be in­­side on Tuesday, the anniversary of the beating.

On March 3, 1991, King was clubbed, kicked, beaten and struck with a stun gun by a gang of officers who con­­verged on the scene after chas­ing his car for several miles.

An amateur cameraman who lived nearby taped the con­­frontation and sold the tape to a television station. National broadcasts caused a sensation, and led to nationwide in­­vestigation of police brutality and the planned resignation of Police Chief Daryl Gates.

Stg. Stacey Koon, 41, and of­­ficers Timothy Wind, 31, Theodore Briones, 39, and Laure­­nce Powell, 29, are charged with assault. Koon and Powell are awaiting charges with filing false reports on the beating. If convicted they could receive prison sentences ranging from four to eight years.

Wind, a rookie who had not completed probation, has been fired; the others have been sus­­pended.

The trial was moved to this bedroom community 35 miles northwest of Los Angeles be­­cause it was feared that the political aftershocks to the city’s law enforcement system could taint the trial.

Only one black was called into the jury box during the first stage of jury selection. The de­­fense removed her with a peremptory challenge because of her race but because of her responses to questions.

A few blacks were excused ear­­lier because they said they had already formed opinions about the case. The selection began with only a few blacks in a pool of some 500 prospects.

Ventura County has a much smaller black population than Los Angeles County, where the beating occurred, and the de­­fense cited demographics as the reason for the largely white jury.

Cosby pleads students in NYC to end violence

NEW YORK (AP) - Comedian Bill Cosby and Mayor David Dinkins went to a school Mon­­day where two students were shot to death. They called for an end to the violence they say has destroyed too many young lives.

"No matter how many detec­­tors and surveillance we pro­­vide, there are still going to be guns in the street and we’ve got to change that," Dinkins told 1,000 people outside Thomas Jefferson High School in Brooklyn’s crime-ridden East New York neighborhood.

"We need an anti-violence movement," he continued.

"We’ve got to stay away from guns and drugs. If we can sur­­vive 400 years of slavery, we ought to be able to handle our­selves now."

Dinkins in New York’s first black mayor, and most students at the school and residents of the neighborhood are black.

On Wednesday, Tyrone Sin­­gleter, 16, and his 17-year­­old friend Ian Moore died in a school hallway. Police arrested a 15-year-old student they said had a longstanding feud with Sinkler.

Hours later, another student, reportedly upset by the killings, shot himself at his home. Police ruled his death accidental.

Monday’s crowd cheered wildly for Cosby, who told lima, "Ladies and gentlemen, this situation does not just exist in your area. It’s all over the United States of America.

He told the crowd of hearing a voice while attending a church service after a shooting in his hometown of Philadel­­phia.

"The voice said, ‘Lord, there’s a stranger in the house. How the stranger got in nobody knows. But you’ve got to rid your house of the stranger be­­cause the stranger does no good. ’"

Wednesday’s killings came three months after another Thomas Jefferson student was killed and a teacher wounded in a balcony shooting during a fight.

Principal Carol Burt Beck said she has lost so many students to street violence — about 50 in recent years — that she has set up a grieving room for students.

Lent - A Time of Opportunity

"Ugh!" my friend said to me, "that’s right -- Lent starts soon, doesn’t it? What a drag." Haven’t we all felt this "ugh" at one time or another? Forty days of trying our best to give up a favorite treat or bad habit, of voicing our weaknesses, of our life of sin, of our efforts to serve or to pray. As much as we know that "it’s good for us," sometimes it’s hard to really believe that Lent is all that it’s cracked up to be.

Sunday morning was filled with reasons to celebrate all the joyful possibilities ahead of us this Lent. Sunday was a day of so much sunshine that, as if magnetized, we were all lugged out of buildings to (pretend to) study outside. The new energy and new life that we all felt that day was magnified even more for thirteen members of our community who will find this Lent to be filled with unfolding mysteries and questions, and more than anything, hope.

The men and women seek to become members of the Catholic Church through the Rite of Christian Initiation of Adults (RCIA).

This past Sunday at the 11:45 mass these thirteen went through a very public step in their process of becoming Catholic. The ceremony was beautiful, moving, and yet quite a challenge for them.

How would any of us who were baptized as infants feel if we were asked to stand before our hall liturgy communities or at Sacred Heart and publicly proclaim our faith? To state aloud before our friends, our neighbors and before strangers that we have truly listened to the Word of God in Scripture, felt their support of our brothers and sisters, reflected on our own baptism, joined with others in prayer and in love of service and love? The thirteen candidates and catechumens stood before everyone on the steps of the altar at Sacred Heart, and even though they said it made them feel "naked," and "exposed," and "terrified, thank you," they publicly proclaimed their desire to join the Catholic Church.

Perhaps we wouldn’t be too eager to make this kind of a public, ritual profession of our beliefs. And yet we already have! And we do, again and again, each time we "profess our faith" in the Nicene Creed at mass on Sundays, each time we join in "the communion of the Eucharist. We publicly proclaim that we will be the body of Christ, and to the extent that we live like we are the body of Christ after we say that we are, we also very publicly proclaim what our faith means to us. To profess, by our words and by our lives, that by our baptism we are called to follow Christ, is a joyful challenge but might, perhaps should,

New York City kids get guns easily

NEW YORK (AP) — If you’re 16 and want a gun — for protection, for respect, for revenge — there has never been a time and place more accommodating than New York City today.

You can lift one from your father’s drawer, borrow one from a friend or buy one for less than $100 at the bodega down the street, out of a car trunk or from Johnny up in 2B.

Gunrunners have given the city with the nation’s toughest gun law the nation’s biggest pile of illegal firearms, law enforcement authorities say. And kids are taking advantage of the wide selection and reasonable prices.

The latest reminder came last week, when two students at a Brooklyn high school were shot to death by a schoolmate. The suspect told police he had borrowed a 38-caliber gun from a friend. Police traced the gun and found it had been stolen from the car of a security guard in New Jersey some two years ago.

Metal detectors have been used once a week at about 20 city schools. Mayor David Dinkins on Sunday announced a $28 million program to use metal detectors daily at five of the most violent schools starting today. The practice will be extended to 35 more of the city’s 120 public high schools over the next year and a half.

Police patrol in and around those schools also will be increased, and security coordinators will be appointed.

Most of the illegal guns in New York are purchased at stores in four states with lax gun sales laws — Virginia, Florida, Ohio and Texas — and smuggled into the state.

New York City regulations forbid citizens from buying a handgun without first obtaining a police permit that requires a showing of need. For example, a pharmacist might be granted a permit because he transports medicine.

A state law requires a minimum sentence of a year behind bars for any gun possession violation. But because of loopholes, violators rarely go to jail.

There’s no Mr. Big among the gunrunners, just a lot of small entrepreneurs who buy the guns themselves with false ID’s or hire “straw buyers,” according to law enforcement authorities. The guns sell on New York streets for about twice the manufacturer’s suggested retail price.

Although guns are not sold as openly as drugs, almost everyone in the city’s poorest, most violent neighborhoods knows someone with a gun for sale, or someone who knows someone. Teen-age buyers are simply one part of the market.

“There’s no Fugnix out there selling specifically to kids,” said John O’Brien of the Federal Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco and Firearms.

“A kid can sell drugs for an evening,” said Jeremy Travis, a New York police deputy commissioner.

And the gunrunners keep getting younger. In 1985, Family Court had 118 cases of children under 16 charged with possession of a loaded firearm; last year there were more than 750 such cases.

“It’s the fastest rising offense in the system,” said Peter Reinhartz, a lawyer for the city. “It’s out of control.”

No one knows how many illegal guns are in the city, but police have estimated 2 million. Whatever the number, everyone agrees it is increasing fast.

Once a gun enters the city it often changes hands, but doesn’t leave.

Student loan plan pared to pilot project

WASHINGTON (AP) — Legislation designed to help millions of middle-income students get college loans is being pared drastically, partly because of heavy opposition from the banking lobby.

The idea was simple: Colleges and universities would act as depositories, borrowing money from banks and other financial institutions. The student’s pay-back schedule would be based on income, with the Internal Revenue Service collecting the payments.

And in this election year, members of Congress are showing little patience for time-consuming debate over an un­ proven program — even if it is an alternative to a student loan system that’s been described as bureaucratic and frustrating.

The Senate refused to consider the idea during debate on reauthorization of the Higher Education Act. But the main proponents of the plan — Sens. Paul Simon, D-Ill., and Dave Durenberger, R-Minn. — remain optimistic that a more modest version of it will be passed this year.

The original plan, which proposed to replace the entire student loan program, would have made loans available to all college students, the needy as well as the middle class. Current federal grant and loan pro­ grams are available only to needy students.

But the proposal has been scaled down to a test by 300 colleges and universities. Proponents want to offer the new version to the Senate Finance Committee when it begins a re­ view of a tax bill.

“We should be giving people alternatives to what we have now and to help middle-income students and families,” Simon said.

Many middle-income families are finding that their children are being priced out of a college education, even as the demand for a better-educated work force is increasing.

College tuition, when adjusted for inflation, grew at five times the rate the median family income from 1980 to 1987, one national survey showed. By 1989, the average tuition or fee for a year in a public college was $5,013; yearly tuition in a private institution was $16,356.

Although inflation was less than 4 percent last year, tuition and fees were up 12 percent at public four-year institutions.

Senators are attending the selected 300 schools could borrow up to $5,000 a year, with a total limit of $30,000.

The scaled-down pilot pro­ gram would work in parallel to Pell grants and guaranteed student loans. Any students atten­ ding the selected 300 schools could borrow up to $5,000 a year, with a total limit of $30,000.

Priest asks parish to boycott newspaper

ALAMEDA, Calif. (AP) — A Roman Catholic priest in a dispute with a local newspaper suggested that parishioners give up their subscriptions for Lent.

"Their concerns are not building up the community," the Rev. Patrick Goodwin of St. James Basilica said of the Alameda Times-Star. "Their concern is building up circulation."

Goodwin told about 250 people at a Sunday service that the Times-Star has joined what he called the media's tendency for "Catholic-bashing."

Goodwin and other church officials would like the 7,000-circulation daily paper to drop or modify its "Straight Talk" column, which lets people make anonymous comments. In his sermon, Goodwin described the column as "much gossip with little fact."

Times-Star editor Tom Tuttle recently wrote: "To say we take part in Catholic or community-bashing is both false and an example of blinding the message for reporting news events. It's Times-Star-bashing and strikes us as demagoguic, especially coming as it does from the pulpit."

The Times-Star, in an article Friday announcing a reader survey on the future of "Straight Talk," referred to a New Orleans meeting of St. Joseph officials and said they attacked the column. Church officials said they thought the meeting was confidential.

Friday's article also said the church's displeasure may have stemmed from a 2-year-old story about an associate pastor at the church who was arrested for investigation of drunken driving, an incident the paper learned about at the time and that它 comes to "Straight Talk."

February 13, 1992 - Notre Dame Community:

In my letter to you of March 27, 1991, I reviewed the concerns we all face with the health hazards of smoking. In that letter the formation of a task force to review the issue of smoking on our campus was announced. This task force included faculty, student and staff members of our community. Comprised of both workers and students, this task force is guided in its work by the information from institutions of higher education and other business entities. Many individuals from this campus shared their concerns and insights with the task force over the last several months.

After much deliberation, the task force accomplished its goal: the development of a smoking policy for the University. This policy was reviewed and approved by both the Environmental Issues Committee and the Officers of the University.

This policy will be distributed throughout the university community. Its implementation date is August 1, 1992.

Over the next several months and before this implementation date, the University will be offering numerous programs to assist members of our community in adapting to this smoking policy. I urge you to take advantage of these opportunities.

Knowing the personal concerns many of us have on this issue, I ask your cooperation in implementing this plan.

I wish to thank all those who invested their time and concern on this project, especially Dr. John Duman who so ably chaired the task force.

Cordially,
Edward A. Malloy, C.S.C., President

Rationale • Policy • General Guidelines

Long-standing, irrefutable demonstration proves smoking is harmful to the health of smokers. In addition, recent reports from the Surgeon General indicate that exposure to secondhand smoke can be a serious health hazard for non-smokers. Apart from these health issues, secondhand smoke is often physically and emotionally distressing to non-smokers. Consequently, the University of Notre Dame, in the interest of the health, safety and well-being of the members of the campus community, establishes the following policy.

Smoking is prohibited in all buildings, stadiums, and vehicles owned, leased or operated by the University of Notre Dame. Possible exceptions are noted below. (Item 7 of General Guidelines)

1. Sites where smoking is permitted must be fully enclosed, properly ventilated areas.
2. Sites where smoking is prohibited must be fully enclosed, ventilated areas.
3. Dormitory Rooms. Prior consent of all roommates is required. Therefore, smokers must make their desires known to the "Student Residence Office" and this office must match roommates appropriately.
4. Private Offices, not open to the public except by invitation. Note, however, that the status of a room is subject to change as private offices at times when non-smokers are present.
5. University-owned automobiles used by the University. This prohibition extends to the driver and all passengers in the vehicle. Smoking is not permitted in these automobiles.
6. University-owned recreational vehicles. Smoking is prohibited in all air areas of a building where smoking is allowed in those areas.
7. Complaints about indoor smoking should initially be brought to the attention of the individual responsible for the area in which the violation occurred. If this fails to halt the violation, the supervisor and/or the original complainant should contact the Risk Management and Safety office for assistance. If the situation is not resolved, then the issue will be referred to the appropriate authorities for corrective action.

1. The success of this policy depends upon the thoughtfulness, consideration, and cooperation of both smokers and non-smokers.
2. All approved smoking rooms shall display the following sign:

   No smoking in public areas, classrooms, lounges, cafeterias, athletic facilities, library, medical center, and laboratory areas.

The target areas for smoking enforcement are libraries, student lounges, student dormitories, and non-smoking athletic facilities. Under these guidelines the following areas are prohibited:

a) Private Offices, not open to the public except by invitation.
   b) Dormitory Rooms. Prior consent of all roommates is required.

Smoking must make their desires known to the "Student Residence Office" and this office must match roommates appropriately.

Litigation behind the curve at $30 billion

WASHINGTON (AP) — Despite the demise of the Soviet Union, the Bush Administration is proposing a mammoth intelligence budget near Cold War levels, according to sources inside and outside the administration.

Spending is estimated at $30 billion for the next year — about where it stood when Soviet communism was considered a major threat.

Some members of Congress, which will eventually debate the intelligence budget without revealing its contents, think the spies and analysts would better be cutting back the lines of those facing a nuclear threat. But the White House counters that intelligence activities will be all the more vital after the armed forces are cut.

Officials won't comment publicly on the intelligence budget. But Defense Secretary Dick Cheney asked that the intelligence cuts would equal those in defense, some officials said.

"Let's just say (CIA Director) Bob Gates is a happy man."

The administration proposed budget for next year does take a big cut in intelligence spending. But it is nowhere near as much as the 7 percent cut in the defense budget, much of which it is a part, according to officials.

Intelligence analysts at the Defense Intelligence Agency and the satellite intelligence agencies. And that's not sitting well with some lawmakers.

"The intelligence budget has got to be cut. It's a development in the world," said Sen. Howard Metzenbaum, D-Ohio. "There's a general feeling among congressmen that there should be some cuts," added Metzenbaum, chairman of the Senate Intelligence Committee.

Democrats believe the intelligence budget has grown, especially during the 1980s, so they should be shared as well as defense or 3 percent, bringing it closer to the defense cuts. Spending on spy satellites is a likely target, now that the former SovietUnion is dismantling many of its nuclear warheads, consolidating the rest.

Last year, Congress cut about 1 percent from the administration's requested spending. For fiscal 1993, which begins Oct. 1, lawmakers say they'll be less generous.

But the administration contends, in the words of one official, that "intelligence is a force multiplier," meaning that it can add up to the number of U.S. troops and weapons.

To feel confident that the United States can afford to close bases and take many troops and systems off alert, the administration must be able to rely on timely intelligence, he added, and be able to tolerate the condition of anonymity.

A warning now may save lives and early warning can be provided with less money.

The target areas for U.S. intelligence — such as the spread of nuclear weapons in the Third World, terrorism, acquisition, and the political fortunes of the former Soviet Union — are not important but not that expensive," he said.

John Pike, an official of the foundation National Security Archive, which tracks intelligence spending based on publicly released budget figures, said an intelligence analysis audience paid a "bottom line" of about $100 billion a year. Even hiring 1,000 new analysts would come to about one-tenth the cost of a $1 billion satellite.

CIA agent encourages Noriega meeting

MIAMI (AP) — A CIA agent testified Monday that Manuel Noriega and Cuban leader Fidel Castro agreed to meet to discuss guerrilla violence in Central America, not cocaine trafficking, as U.S. prosecutors charge.

"Fidel Castro was eager to discuss with General Noriega the situation that existed in Central America, particularly Nicaragua and El Salvador," said Donald Winters, who headed the agency's office in Panama from 1984 to 1986. Noriega even took CIA briefing papers to the meeting, and returned with Castro's agreement to make concessions on reducing arms to leftist insurgents in El Salvador, as well as go to Cuba because he had a mistress, you usually have a cover story," the agent responded.

Defense attorney Frank Rubino's examination of the witness and secret government documents also brought out that Noriega's cooperation with the CIA in the Caribbean and Central America at a time the United States was supporting the Contra rebels in Nicaragua.

At the same June 1984 meeting where Noriega discussed the Castro invitation with the CIA agent, the Panamanian leader gave the CIA two secret memos on the activities of Gallardo Arce, a military commander for Nicaragua's leftist Sandinista government.

Computer virus poised to strike millions Friday

SAN JOSE, Calif. (AP) — A potentially disastrous virus dubbed Michelangelo is set to trigger millions of computer crashes this week. But experts said Monday that practicing safe computing can protect machine memories.

The virus, named for the Italian Renaissance painter and sculptor, lies dormant in an estimated 5 million IBM-compatible personal computers worldwide, poised to erase hard disks on Friday — the artist's birthday.

"This is one of the most widespread viruses," said John McAfee, president of McAfee Associates, an anti-virus computer consulting firm in Santa Clara. "It's out there in a large way and could cause lots of damage if it isn't stopped."

Dataquest Inc., a market research company in San Jose, said its survey of 300 major businesses showed the Michelangelo infection rate rose from 1 percent at the beginning of 1991 to 18.2 percent at the end of January. The Michelangelo strain first appeared in Scandinavia in February 1991. Tracking the virus to its source is virtually impossible, McAfee and others said.

Companies like McAfee's, which make software programs that detect and eradicate computer viruses, can hardly keep up with requests to wipe out the virus. "If anyone has been ringing off the hook," said Sally Winship, spokeswoman for Microcom of Norwalk, Conn., and other maker of anti-viral programs.

Controversy put on hold as Mardi Gras parties continue

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — The city on Monday party toward Mardi Gras, leaving worries about a new anti-bias law behind — or for the future. The New Orleans planning commission Tuesday — Mardi Gras was "not Testified toward French — when 1 million people are expected to fill the streets in the final blowout before Ash Wednesday and the start of the 40-day Lenten period.

A sunny, spritely day like the 70s Monday offered a bally break from the parades, though most were set for nightmares. Also planned were a concert, fireworks and the ceremonial unloading of the Rex, King of Carnival. Early in the day Monday revelers poured into the French Quarter's narrow streets, wandering in and out of bars, T-shirt shops and souvenir stores.

Bawdy traditions were renewed. Men on Bourbon Street balconies dangled shiny plastic "people" to other men in masks who would buy them. The Archdiocese also of course, warned women on parades. Some women complained.

It was feared that a new anti-bias ordinance would dampen the fun, though the new rules weren't enforced until next year and may change before then. The ordinance would deny parades to organizations that exclude membership on the basis of race, sex, religion, national or sexual orientation.

Two carnival clubs, or krewes, canceled their parades this year in protest. And the rules' author, city Councilman William "But" Farrington, said the night after Mardi Gras was lampooned and depicted in caricatures on floats, T-shirts and protest buttons.

Americans are stuck on Presley

Dear Editor:

The U.S. Post Office has joined the ranks of the National Enquirer and painters everywhere who choose velvet as their medium. It has gone into the Elvis business.

The post office wants to make an Elvis Presley postage stamp, but it can't decide which one it likes best. On a Las Vegas stage last Monday, Postmaster General Anthony Frank narrowed the choices to two. He offered a thin, '70s-style Elvis, and a portly, '30s-style King. Now Frank wants the American people to choose.

From April 6-24, post offices around the country will carry free post cards featuring the two Elvises. Just check the version of the King whose back side you wish to lick in 1993 when the stamps will be issued. It sounds like a terrific contest. For a fact, it's the first of its kind. Americans get to pick a stamp. Heated discussions will erupt across dinner tables everywhere.

But there's a catch. For your vote to count, it must be mailed. The post cards may be free, but you supply the stamp. That's 19 cents.

Like so many soundfests who have come before it, the post office has realized that Americans have an appetite for the Elvis business. The post cards may be free, but like so many scoundrels who have sold their souls, the National Enquirer and painters everywhere have as many impersonators.

The post office wants in on the lucrative Elvis business. The post cards may be free, but for your vote to count, you must cast it in the mail. That's 19 cents.

Their tireless reporters always manage to uncover stories about Elvis sightings, and Elvis-shaped squash that esteemed painters everywhere swallow. Even newspapers such as the Indianapolis Star seem to overlook.

Now the post office wants in on the lucrative Elvis business. They plan to capitalize on this country's fascination with a dead man - a man who sang and swiveled his hips, then died of a drug overdose.

At 19 cents a pop, if just five percent of the country votes, the post office will probably make about $2.3 million. And like the rest of the mail, the votes will probably arrive late.

In this election, forget about civic duty. Don't vote.

Students are encouraged to attend dramatizations

Dear Editor:

The Ideas and Issues Committee of the Student Union Board would like to encourage all students, faculty, and staff to attend Wednesday's presentation entitled "An Evening with Langston and Martin." The show begins at 7:30 p.m. at Stepan Center. Tickets are $2 for Notre Dame and Saint Mary's students, $4 for the general public and may be purchased at the LaFortune Information Desk or at Stepan Center Wednesday night.

Mr. Danny Glover and Mr. Felix Justice will be performing dramatic readings by each of these outstanding African-Americans. Danny Glover will be "Langston," as in Langston Hughes, reading from the works of a poet who once was a prominent figure in the 1920's Harlem Renaissance and remains an important contributor to American literature. Felix Justice will be "Martin" as in Martin Luther King, reading from the civil rights leader's writings and making his words and example speak for themselves. Danny Glover will be familiar to audiences as the star of such movies as Platoon in the Vietnam War, The Color Purple, Lethal Weapon 1 & II and (the soon-to-be-released) III. He is currently a part of the ensemble cast of the critically lauded Grand Canyon. Mr. Felix Justice has been acting and directing for twenty-eight years. In 1981 his Prophecy in America premiered at the Lorraine Hansberry Theater in San Francisco. The one-man show featured Justice as Martin Luther King and toured throughout the United States and Africa.

A question and answer session will follow the performances. We hope you will join us for what promises to be an engaging and informative evening that combines aspects of theater and audience interaction.

Hypatia Day encourages young girls to keep an interest in the sciences

By CAROLINE CLARKE
Accent Writer

Saint Mary's hosted its second annual Hypatia Day on Saturday, February 29. The event was intended for selected seventh and eighth grade girls from the Michiana area who are interested in math and science.

The day long gathering was sponsored by the American Association of University Women. Approximately 130 middle school girls from seven Indiana counties were accompanied by their parents, teachers and counselors.

The day's events focused on presenting positive role models to young girls. Guest speakers included seven women whose careers entailed mathematics and the sciences. According to Miriam Cooney, professor of mathematics at Saint Mary's and one of the program's coordinators, the AAUW has contributed to investigative research that explores how stereotypes affect girls' interest in the sciences.

According to Cooney, girls' diminished interest in the sciences is not a trend but actually a continual process. Socialization and gender roles indeed play key roles in how young girls establish themselves in society.

"Girls don't completely lose interest in high school and college. As they move into careers, however, not as many women continue to pursue these subjects in graduate school," she noted. "Only 20 percent of women receive doctorates in math and science."

This statistic, known as the "leaky pipeline" theory, supports the assertion that there is a constant dropout of women in the math and science community. Another study conducted by the AAUW revealed the plummeting self esteem of girls in the sixth to eighth grade range. In a widely distributed questionnaire, grade school students were asked if they accepted themselves.

Results were evenly divided, both sexes responding positively. However, the results from the sixth grade respondents were staggered. Male self esteem was higher, with 38 percent of the boys and only 26 percent of girls were satisfied.

"We must begin in the home, and enlighten parents about what opportunities are available for their daughters," Cooney stated. "Today there are many more opportunities out there."

The events included first-hand experience for students in college laboratories, as well as computer workshops. Cooney further emphasized the need to foster an early interest in the sciences. "Such knowledge is a requisite for today's technical society, she said.

LAS VEGAS (AP) — The day before Jerry Tarkanian’s last game, UNLV was spent as expected, with the coach and school president Robert Maxson talking separately about the same thing.

Both men met the media Monday and instead of talk surrounding Tarkanian’s final game coaching the Runnin’ Rebels after 19 years, there was much more talk of resignation, independent investigations and the future.

Tarkanian, the winningest coach by percentage in college basketball history (624-122), called for an independent investigation after the university against him and his program, things which have been brought up many times such as media leaks and secret videotapes. He also defended his program’s academic record over the years and said the school’s overall record in that department paled by comparison.

A report on UNLV’s recent academic scandal, said a university official was appointed to cover everyone at the university and his program, things which have been brought up many times such as media leaks and secret videotapes. He also defended his program’s academic record over the years and said the school’s overall record in that department paled by comparison.

Tarkanian went on to list what he thought were improprieties by the university against him and his program, things which have been brought up many times such as media leaks and secret videotapes. He also defended his program’s academic record over the years and said the school’s overall record in that department paled by comparison.

"If there is any truth out there that hasn't come out I don't know about it," Maxson said.

"To my knowledge, everything is out in the open. The university has investigated and has reached out to the more people know."

Tarkanian resigned or anyone with any information about the program which has not been offered public record.

Maxson reiterated that he would be allowed to pass so the school can continue in its main objective of education.

Maxson, who termed the aca¬demic report as the school as bogus, accepted Tarkanian’s resignation last summer and agreed he should coach one more season.

"No one has felt worse about the bad publicity than I," Maxson said. "One more season is the only way it could go on."

Tarkanian resigned and it was agreed he would coach one more season. I definitely felt it was right for both he and the university. I thought of it as a victory lap, a parade down Main Street. It’s been a time of regret of the bad publicity as I have."

Maxson talked of the frustra¬tion of his faculty at the con¬ception the school has developed over the years with bas¬ketball first, academics second. "This has been a disastrous academic investigation with 29 allega¬tions, many regarding the recruiting of the work school¬boy star Lloyd Daniels who never attended the school after being arrested on drug charges.

Tarkanian admitted the ac¬ruiting of Daniels was "the biggest mistake I ever made."

Still, Tarkanian talked about how felt he was about the school whose administration has be¬come an adversary tougher and more successful than he ever imagined.

"I love UNLV. I spent 19 years, almost my whole career here. I had four kids go to school here."

"I want UNLV to win just as much as anyone."

Tarkanian said "I wish him a happy birthday, or send a

"Vegas will always be my home and UNLV will always be my university. I think I'd make an outstanding regimen."

Maxson had no reaction to the thought of Tarkanian suddenly becoming the school’s new coach, a scenario which would have been dismissed by Maxson’s policy-makers, but said he expected the physical transition of Tarkanian leaving his position on Wednesday to be one of the last things.

The school plans to have a ceremony after Tuesday night’s game vs. Tarkanian’s last opponent, the sixth-ranked Runnin’ Rebels (22-5) with Utah State. State and UNLV want to have one more reception and rallies planned throughout the city for Tarkanian.

"I never get to ceremonies," Tarkanian said. "It will be nice and they can do what they want. They will do one thing.

I was asked one last time if I have any plans for after Wednesday.

"I'll either go to Harvard or Yale," Tarkanian said.

"I'll be 62 next year. I want to go flower the flowers," he said.

Mike Powell wins Sullivan Award

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Mike Powell, who also owns a business in Bell, Calif., is the new 100-meter dash world record holder. Powell became the 36th track and field athlete to receive the Sullivan and the current resident of West Covina is the 23rd Californian to get the Sullivan, which an athlete can receive only once.

A leap of 29 feet, 4 1/2 inches in last year's World Championships earned Powell the Sullivan medal for 1991. He then received his medal before an audience of 2,500 people, including Los Angeles Mayor Goodman. Powell said at that time, "I'm kind of a lucky guy, and I'm just happy to be here." Powell said, "I'm very happy to be here, and I'm very thankful for this opportunity." He went on to say that he was looking forward to his future in track and field, "I'm looking forward to my future in track and field, and I'm looking forward to being with my family and friends." Powell said that he was looking forward to his future in track and field, and that he was looking forward to being with his family and friends.

The Sullivan was the second major award Powell has received, after the Jesse Owens International Trophy in New York last month. "It means a lot to me," Powell said of the Sullivan. "As far as being an American, the Sullivan is definitely the biggest in the United States." Powell received a record of recent winners, including Janet Evans, Jackie Joyner-Kersee, Lewis, and Thorpe. Powell said, "To me, this is a very special award, and I'm very thankful for this opportunity." He went on to say that he was looking forward to his future in track and field, and that he was looking forward to being with his family and friends.

Hit-and-run trial for Ex-Celt Smith underway

BOSTON (AP) — The trial of former Boston Celtic Charles Smith, charged in the hit-and-run deaths of two Boston University students nearly a year ago, begins today with the attorney calling the in­cident a "traumatic accident." "We concede that Charles Smith was driving the mini­ van and unfortunately, two women were killed as a result," Dennis Kelly said. But he said prosecutors will be unable to prove Smith was intoxicated at the time.

"What happened ... was a tragic accident. It wasn't an intentional act," Kelly said. "I think it's your duty to review shocking evidence without distortion (and) assess the evidence in light of the instructions you'll receive from the judge," he said.

Thomas Mundy, an assistant Suffolk County district attor­ ney, opened by describing what happened as an ordinary evening for the victims, Ad­ Trinh, 21, of Piacenza, Calif., and Michelle Dartley, 20, of Ridgewood, N.J.

On Monday that her father has not requested to see the book came out, her father had to finish. He was breaking down.

Because of his lawsuit against Smith, Taylor lost his job at the Dallas Times Herald, she said, and had to take a position as a newspaper editor. Smith's lawyer is the 23rd Californian to get the Sullivan, which an athlete can receive only once.

The ceremony also recognized 1993 as the 50th anniversary of T. Leslie MacMitchell and the 25th anniversary of Jim Ryan being selected as Sullivan winners.

The finalists who did not attend due to schedule conflicts were sprinter Michael Johnson, Duke's Christian Laettner and gymnast Kim Zmeskal.

The Anatome Athletic Union, which in 1930 created the award in recognition of founder James E. Sullivan, does not announce vote totals.

Journalist daughter testifies in Switzer trial

AUSTIN, Texas (AP) — A journalist's daughter testified Monday that her father had not been the same since former Oklahoma coach Barry Switzer linked him to a scheme of trying to get the silver behind home with the silver behind home and the silver behind home.

"My father's not the same," she said. "He's sad and melancholy all the time."

ball team will be without two of its top receivers for spring practices as Will Pollard is still recovering from shoulder surgery.

However, the Irish still have plenty of receiving talent. Ray Griggs, who started three games in 1991, and Clint Johnson, who saw extensive playing time last season, will be present.

Notre Dame will also have two receivers returning to action. Mike Miller, who was heralded as "The Rocket Jet," has come back to school after leaving following the Irish's 24-14 loss to Michigan.

Adrian Jarrell is back at 100 percent after recovering from a broken arm which sidelined him for the majority of 1991. Most Irish fans probably remember him for his game-winning catch in the 1990 Michigan State game.

Nonetheless, the Notre Dame receiving corps will still miss the sure handed Dawson this spring.

"We have enough talent to take up the slack," Griggs said. "At receiver there will be something missing. We are like a family, we are going to miss him as a personality and an athletic talent.

Mike Gartner, shown against the Flyers, displays the skills that have led him to numerous scoring records.

Gartner achieves yet another scoring milestone

EAST RUTHERFORD, N.J. (AP) — It's already been a big individual season for Mike Gartner. He hopes the best is yet to come.

The New York Rangers' right wing has scored his 500th goal and 1,000th point this season, and last month became only the third player in NHL history to record 13 consecutive 30-goal seasons.

On Monday night, Gartner inched closer to tying Frank Mahovlich for No. 11 on the NHL all-time goal-scoring list. He tied Mahovlich by scoring twice in a 1:26 span of the first period to lead the Rangers to their fifth straight win, a 7-1 rout of the slumping New Jersey Devils.

"Everything seems to be happening this year," said Gartner, who has 34 goals this season and 532 for his career — one less than Mahovlich. "I just hope it culminates with the big one at the end of the year."

For all his regular-season achievements, playing on a Stanley Cup winner has been the one blanks in Gartner's career. The Rangers snapped a three-game losing streak in the last 13 visits.

LANDOVER, Md. (AP) — The Washington Capitals acquired right wing Paul MacDermid from the Winnipeg Jets on Monday for defenseman Mike Lalor.

Lalor, 28, moved to Washington last season from St. Louis. He has five goals and seven assists for 12 points. MacDermid, 29, has been with the Jets since December 1989, when he was acquired from Hartford. In 69 games with Winnipeg last season he had 15 goals and 21 assists for 36 points. For this season, he has had 10 goals and 11 assists for 21 points and has 100 goals and 125 assists in 545 NHL games.

MacDermid sent to Caps in exchange for Lalor

"It's always tough trading away a classy individual like Paul," Winnipeg GM Mike Smith said. "He has been a good addition over the last few years. However, our need for a good, stay-at-home, solid defenseman has become critical."

The Jets have been relying on defensemen like Phil Housely, Fredrik Olausson and Teppo Numminen for most of their offense this season.

Housley (72 points) and Olausson (51) are 1-2 in scoring on the Jets.

Housley's absence due to an abdominal injury was felt Sunday when Winnipeg lost 4-2 to the Edmonton Oilers. He isn't expected to return for at least another week.

Goalie Bill Ranford of the Edmonton Oilers, who won all three of his decisions last week, was named on Monday as the NHL Player of the Week.

Ranford had a 1.67 goals-against average and a .937 save percentage in the three games.

Left wing Luc Robitaille of the Los Angeles Kings was runner-up after scoring 4 goals and 8 points in three games.

Defense, Sealy leads St. John's to share of Big East title

NEW YORK (AP) — St. John's head coach Carnesecca says its biggest key to winning the Big East title was defense and clenching at least a tie for its first Big East crown since 1986.

The Redmen held the 17th-ranked Hoyas to 37 points, fewer than in any of their last six contests, and more than seven minutes in the second half Monday night and won 65-49 behind Malik Sealy's 21 points.

Carnesecca, fourth in the nation defensively by holding the opposition to 39.5 percent shooting, said, "It's the first time the seniors have been in this position."

"We have a great feeling of emotion and jubilation and now we have to keep going," coach Lou Carnesecca said.

St. John's, which fell out of the top 25 rankings after losing to Notre Dame on Saturday, has now won eight consecutive conference games. Before that, the Redmen lost five of seven, including a 61-48 defeat at Georgetown on Jan. 30 that was their last Big East loss.

"At that point, we were just trying to stay alive, just staying afloat," Carneesecca said. "I knew we could come back, but I didn't know if we could come back to this extent." The Hoyas came into last Seton Hall on Saturday to win the Big East outright in their final regular-season game, while Georgetown could tie with a victory over Pittsburgh and a loss by St. John's.

Chucky Sproling scored 14 points for the Redmen. 18-8 overall and 12-5 in conference play. Alonzo Mourning had 19 points and six blocked shots for Georgetown (18-8, 11-6).

Lamont Middleton, scoreless in the first half, gave St. John's a 37-27 lead with a jumper two minutes into the second half.

Lonnie Harrell's 3-pointer then started a 9-2 spurt that pulled Georgetown to 39-36 with 14:29 left in the game.

But the Hoyas didn't score again until the 6:59 mark while St. John's scored 10 consecutive points, including two baskets each by Sealy and Middleton. The Redmen missed three straight free throws during the run, preventing them from extending the margin further.

But Georgetown couldn't muster a comeback, scoring just eight points from the 14-minute mark to the one-minute mark.

"I don't think we can play better than we did in the second half," Carneesecca said. "This was a night we played the adjustment to the big guy being out," Thompson said. "They had to make not only a physical adjustment, but an emotional adjustment."

The score was 19-19, the seventh tie of the first half, before a book shot by Shawnelle Scott started a 13-4 run that gave the Redmen a 32-25 lead.

Jason Buchanan's 3-pointer with 25 seconds left completed the spurt, and Robert Churchwell's jumper just before the buzzer closed Georgetown within seven at halftime.

Sproling, averaging 7.8 points, had 11 in the first half for St. John's, including two three-point plays.

Robert Smith

set to return to Buckeyes in '92

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio State running back Robert Smith is returning to the Buckeye football team, a newspaper reported.

The Columbus Dispatch reported in Tuesday's editions that Smith would come back to the team Tuesday. Smith, who broke Archie Griffin's school rushing record for freshmen in 1989, quit the team in August in a dispute with coaches over his studies.

Smith said he and head coach John Cooper had decided during a meeting three weeks ago that Smith would return. Smith met separately with Cooper and Uzelac.

"We agreed I would come back the next day and talk to the team and we'd take it from there," Smith told the Dispatch. "We'd basically all agreed we'd forget about the past, and go ahead and be mature about the thing."

"In those minutes later, coach Uzelac [in an one-on-one meeting with Smith], opened up a tape recorder and started doing what he said he wasn't going to do five minutes earlier. So that pretty much just delayed things for me.

"I think it's sad that people think the issues are so closely related — coach Uzelac leaving and me coming back — but I had already agreed to come back to the team."

Neither Smith nor Cooper could be reached for comment Monday night. Telephone calls to Smith's residence were not answered. Cooper was not available for comment, his wife said. Uzelac's home phone number is unlisted.

Smith, a two-time Ohio Mr. Football at Euclid High School, rushed for 1,126 yards in his freshman season and was selected Big Ten Freshman of the Year.

Straw stirs controversy with new autobiography

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Darryl Strawberry lets loose in his soon-to-be-released autobiography, criticizing the New York Mets organization for insensitivity to black players and detailing his own battles with alcohol.

He also says he wouldn't be surprised if then-teammate Dwight Gooden used cocaine during the 1986 National League playoffs, which Gooden has denied using cocaine during the '86 postseason.

"Strawberry also criticized the Mets organization for insensitivity to black players," he writes in his autobiography, written with Art Wilson Jr., and scheduled for release in Tuesday's Los Angeles Times.

"This was stuff I felt needed to be told," Strawberry said Monday from the Los Angeles Dodgers' spring training site in Vero Beach, Fla. "I wanted to tell what really happened in New York."

In the book, "Darryl," Strawberry tells of the 1986 Mets during their NL playoffs against the Houston Astros.

"I was also drinking to blot out the physical pain of having to go out there every night and work muscles that were past the point of strain, I don't know how the other guys were but mine had been abusing which substances, but months later Doc Gooden went to Smithers to recover from cocaine addiction. If he was using cocaine during that series, I wouldn't have been surprised in the least because there were no tests."

Gooden entered the Smithers center April 2, 1987, one day after his drug program was revealed by a test.

Darryl Strawberry, shown while still a member of the Mets, has stirred up controversy with his autobiography.

"I began to think that all of my real emotional hang-ups were made even worse because I was a black player on the Mets at a time when they weren't especially sensitive to black players' issues, let alone my own personal needs."

"I looked around me on the Mets and I saw black players come and go and I noticed that all of the same problems. Nobody was talking about Keith's Hernandez acknowledgment of his drug problems back in St. Louis, but they sure were talking about Mookie's Wilson attitude problems," he writes in his autobiography.

"St. John's is playing with poise now and they've made the adjustment to the big guy being out," Thompson said. "They had to make not only a physical adjustment, but an emotional adjustment."

Tanya Williams heads to Indianapolis next week to race in America's most competitive swimming meet, the Olympic Trials.

Williams will compete for a spot on the Olympic team in the 100 and 200 meter backstrokes as well as the 200 individual medley.

The trials will not have relays, team scores or awards. Only the top two finishers in each event become members of the U.S. Olympic Team. Although Swimming World has named favorites in each event, each performance matter at the Olympic Trials.

Four years ago, Williams placed fifth and seventh in the 200 and 400 individual medleys as well as ninth in the 200 butterfly. Her participation at the 1988 Olympic Trials not only established her position in the field, but also proved helpful because it's easier than getting money from your parents!"

"Tanya's practices during the last two weeks have continued to show speed every day," said Welsh. "She is recovered and ready to rest at a lifetime best level."

Although Williams will not compete without her Notre Dame teammates, they have not forgotten her. A seventeen-story banner wishing her luck runs alongside the pool at Rolfs Aquatic Center.

Williams begins competition on Tuesday with the 100 backstroke. The 200 individual medley takes place on Thursday, followed by the 200 backstroke on Friday.

"She's more than a normal swimmer. It's more than her freshness as an athlete. However, they have not forgotten her. A seventeen-story banner wishing her luck runs alongside the pool at Rolfs Aquatic Center.

The Tigers were able to withstand the pressure of having to perform up to a four-million-dollar contract. This would probably regret the experience of top flight ball players. Just look at what happened to Don Mattingly. Who dreamed of making it big, but probably worries about performing your best."

The seniors know it is their last hurrah, and they want to go out on a high note," Bennett said. "I'll always love Notre Dame and the fans. We'd like to go out and give them one more good season."

Notre Dame's tenth-ranked men's tennis team dis-strated its dominance over regional foes last weekend, defeating Northwestern and Illinois on the road.

The Irish, who are 4-0 in regional play, played the two dual matches without second-ranked David DiLucia, who watched from the sidelines, hampered by a groin injury. But the senior was supplanted by a lineup which may be a preview of next year's Irish squad and the juni-or-dominated team thrashed the Huskies 7-2 and the Fighting Illini 4-2.

"We expected to win, but it's nice to do it when Dave's out," said Irish coach Bayliss. "This was next year's team. Depending on the freshmen we get, this could be the singles lineup next fall."

With 36th-ranked Andy
Zurcher at number-one singles, the Irish swept three matches over the two days, and lost only one set Sunday afterno-

noon against Illinois 6-2.)
The wins were especially important for the team because of their regional status. Teams can qualify for the NCAA tournament in May by virtue of a regional championship or an at-large bid.

"We've won the (Midwest) region the last two years," said Bayliss. "But we have never gone undefeated in the region, and that has always been a goal."

This weekend's performance, coupled with Notre Dame's third-place finish at the National Team Indoor's last weekend, may propel the Irish from number ten into the top five when the new national(ranks are released March 24.

"The new rankings are com-about them," said Bayliss. "Not until the end of the season."

DiLucia-less Irish find success

Women's tennis falls to 3-4, after winless weekend at Eck Pavilion

It was not all smooth sailing at the Eck Pavilion this weekend as the Notre Dame women's tennis team fell to Kentucky 4-2.

Against the 21st-ranked Wildcats, the Irish 4-0, who have lost three in a row, quickly fell behind 3-0 in singles play.

Kentucky's Lora Suttile pulled the score at 4-2 after a tough 4-6, 7-5, 6-4 win, and that has always been a goal."

Dawson due to miss spring practice for personal reasons

By MIKE SCRUDATO

What is going on with Lake Dawson?

This question has been asked all over the Notre Dame campus throughout the past two weeks. His absence from classes has led to speculation of his status as a student and a member of the football team.

Unconfirmed rumors are circulating that Dawson has been expelled or suspended from the University for engaging in cheating on an accounting exam.

However, no one has verified this. What little substantive information made available has come from Dawson himself.

In a phone interview Monday from his home in Federal Way, Washington, Dawson stated that it was his decision to leave school for the spring semester.

"I had to take care of some personal problems here, at home," Dawson said.

He refused to comment on the nature of the problems. However, neither Dawson's Notre Dame football nor academic career is over.

He will not be participating in the upcoming spring drills, but Dawson plans to return to Notre Dame.

"I will be back in school in June, and I will be back with the team in the fall," Dawson added.

Jim Davie, associate sports information director, confirmed that Dawson had left school for personal reasons, but he believes that Dawson is attending classes at a school in Washington.

If he meets the requirements, he can come back in the fall," Davie added.

Neither the athletic department nor the football office could be reached for comment on the situation.

The fact that Dawson is at home for the remainder of the semester means that the foot-

Irish host Xavier in seniors' farewell

According to Notre Dame coach John MacLeod the NCAA Tournament is not the main concern of the men's basketball team.

"Right now, our only thought is Xavier. Whatever happens later will happen," MacLeod commented.

"We must take care of our business first. A couple weeks ago, we got ahead of ourselves.

Despite MacLeod's feelings, a lot of Notre Dame fans will have the tourney on their minds when they come to the Joyce ALC at 7:30 p.m. for tonight's contest.

For any hopes of an NCAA bid to remain, the Irish must get past the EJ-9 Musketeers, which will not be an easy task.

"This is another very good Xavier team," MacLeod said.

"Xavier has a lot of explosive offensive ability and a great offensive rebounding team.

"Defensively, they present a lot of problems because they use multiple defensive schemes.

"The Musketeers are currently tied with Evansville for first place in the Midwesten Conference. Notre Dame defeated Dayton on the road, 72-56, on Saturday.

"Xavier has compiled a 7-2 record in the MGC, while the Irish are only 2-3 against MCC foes.

"We have not matched well (against MCC teams)," MacLeod commented. "We have not been ready for them.

"The MCC teams are very good clubs. They see HOOPS/page 17

Eleventh-ranked Irish take Service Academies Classic

The Notre Dame baseball team opened its season by taking the third annual Service Academies Classic in Millington, Tennessee.

The 11th-ranked Irish took the title by compiling a 4-0 record in the tournament. Notre Dame outscored their opponents 31-11, and outhit the four teams they faced 27-20.

The greatest display of Notre Dame's dominance came in the championship game against Memphis State.

The fighting Irish poured in the first inning when Notre Dame exploded for eight runs.

Damon Swatt, shown here against UCLA, will be one of four seniors competing in their last game at the JACO Arena.

The pitching wasn't as impressive in the second game. Notre Dame and Army had three pitchers apiece, and the two staffs combined to allow fifteen hits.

"I think going up early made it easier for Pat (Leathy) to go out there and attack batters," said Counsell. "We hadn't had a big offensive day in the previous three games and we were due to explode.

The Irish did not dominate the three games leading up to the matchup with Memphis State, but still looked impressive.

In the first game of Friday's doubleheader, Irish pitcher Chris Michalak out-dueled Army's Lance Boyle allowing only four hits over seven innings, in Notre Dame's 2-1 victory.

In the first game of Friday's doubleheader, Irish pitcher Chris Michalak out-dueled Army's Lance Boyle allowing only four hits over seven innings, in Notre Dame's 2-1 victory.

The pitching wasn't as impressive in the second game. Notre Dame and Army had three pitchers apiece, and the two staffs combined to allow fifteen hits.

"I think going up early made it easier for Pat (Leathy) to go out there and attack batters," said Counsell. "We hadn't had a big offensive day in the previous three games and we were due to explode.

The Irish did not dominate the three games leading up to the matchup with Memphis State, but still looked impressive.
