The Notre Dame Law School ranked 20th in the latest News & World Report survey of the best graduate schools in the country. The magazine says the results appear in this week's issue of the magazine.

Up from 24th last year, Notre Dame made the biggest jump of any law school.

Assistance Dean William McLean said he was not surprised by the survey's results. "We meet all the criteria that they are looking for." The survey ranked 175 law schools on the basis of two surveys of deans, professors, lawyers, judges, and bar association presidents, as well as statistics measuring student selectivity, resources and placement success, McLean said.

Yale University was once the best law school in the U.S. News & World Report survey, followed by Harvard and Stanford Universities, the University of Chicago, John Marshall Law School and the University of Michigan. Notre Dame moved an overabundance of 44 percent of a possible 100 points in the survey.

McLean believes that, while it has always been a superb teaching institution, the Notre Dame Law School has recently had more influence on the country's legal educational system.

"Over time, that has gained us national attention," he said.

Welcome back, Domers! As spring break is over now, there have been some typical conversations overhead "round campus. "Hey (Domer), how was your break?" "Well, it wasn't too bad. The cloud cover kind was kind of intrusive, so I didn't really get the base I wanted, but the baby oil sorts made up for it. I look good, don't I?" "Okay, so not everyone comes back bronzed, but such is life. It is amazing to see how many people wear clothes that they normally wouldn't wear in this type of weather, just to accentuate that tan. Who really cares if you're uncomfortable, right? If you've got it, flaunt it."

Well, for all you people already planning next year's escape, I've got a tip on a hot new resort for you. Forget Cancun, Padre and the Bahamas. Bermuda is boring, and frankly, Daytona is just passe.

You're just dying to know what this place is aren't you. I can sense the excitement, and I...

Swedes protest arrival of professor

STOCKHOLM, Sweden — Elderly Jews and young neo-Nazis held counter demonstrations Tuesday against the arrival of a French professor who claims the Holocaust did not take place. Robert Faurisson was briefly questioned by police at Arlanda International Airport before being allowed to enter the country. Swedish students shouted at neo-Nazis at the airport, and about 200 elderly Jews protested outside Parliament, located in central Stockholm. Ahmed Rami, who heads an Islamic radio station that has been fined for spreading anti-Semitic propaganda, invited Faurisson to address several meetings in Sweden.

Helmsley sentencing approaches

NEW YORK — For two Helmsley, who says going to prison would kill her and her alliling, billionaire husband, Wednesday will be the day of reckoning. The 72-year-old, self-styled hotel queen faces resentencing in federal court on tax evasion charges. Should she be required to leave her usual luxury lodgings, chances are Helmsley would crawl into a spartan minimum-security women's facility, either in Danbury, Conn., or Lexington, Ky. Her lawyers held out hope that U.S. District Judge Thomas Grisera would set aside a prison term because of her poor health. They also asking that she remain free on $25 million bail while a request for a new trial is pending.

ND student places well in contest

NOTRE DAME — Budd Zipper, a first-year MBA student from Schaumburg, Ill., placed 31st out of more than 12,500 participants in the nationwide AT&T College Investment Challenge. The contest, which began November 1 and ended February 28, gave students an imaginary $500,000 portfolio with which to buy, sell or short any exchange-listed stock. Zipper's portfolio at the end of the contest was valued at $1.1 million. "This is the first time I've ever taken part in this kind of competition," Zipper said. "If that had been with real money, I'd be very happy."

Bush rejects Israeli loan plan
Offers alternative linked to settlement

WASHINGTON (AP) —President Bush on Tuesday rejected a congressional compromise on loan guarantees to Israel, effectively denying the president of the West Bank and Gaza. Israel has said it will not suspend the West Bank and Gaza. Israel has said it will not suspend everywhere for financial backing.

I'm frankly very, very disappointed," Sen. Patrick Leahy, D-Vt., said after meeting with Bush to discuss the proposed deal. "This language is not acceptable to the president."

Israel had requested $10 billion in loan guarantees over five years to help resettle some 400,000 refugees from the former Soviet Union and Ethiopia.

Bush met with lawmakers after saying that Israel settlements in disputed territories violated Washington's "longstanding policy that feels that settlements are counterproductive to peace."

"We have close, historic relations with Israel and they will always be that way. But we have a difference now, it appears, in terms of these settlements," Bush said. "The door is open," he said, but "U.S. policy must be accommodated."

The congressional proposal would give Israel around $800 million in loan guarantees immediately without linking them to a settlement freeze. It would give Bush authority to provide the rest of the guarantees if Israel restricted its settlement activity in the West Bank and Gaza. Congress would have the right to override a cutoff or suspension by a two-thirds vote.

Bush's counterproposal would put Israel on a much shorter lease. It would provide $300 million in the first phase. After that, the president retains full discretion to issue or not to issue the guarantees," White House spokesman Martin Fitzwater said.

"The president would have the discretion at any time to stop the funding or to not provide more funding if there is a violation of U.S. policy."

Another proposal would give Bush authority to provide $10 billion in loan guarantees over five years to help resettle some 400,000 refugees from the former Soviet Union and Ethiopia. Israel has said it will not suspend construction, even if it means looking elsewhere for financial backing.

The White House said it was not slamming the door on a compromise. "We feel there is a strong commitment and responsibility to the Russian immigrants and others who are moving into Israel," Fitzwater said. "We don't think the issue itself is dead. We'll continue to work with the Congress on the guarantee issue."

Israeli and U.S. officials insist relations remain strong despite sharp differences over the guarantees and Jewish settlements in territories Israel captured in the 1967 Six Day War. Bilateral troubles have been compounded by recent reports denied by Israel, that Israel has illegally transferred U.S. weapons technology to third countries.

Asked if there were any further hope of compromise, Leahy, chairman of the Senate Appropriations subcommittee responsible for foreign aid, said: "I don't know. Frankly I don't know."

South Africans vote on referendum

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP) — South African whites, bitterly divided over signing power-sharing talks, turned out in huge numbers Tuesday for a referendum on ending centuries of racial domination.

Most analysts forecast a victory for President FW de Klerk and his reforms, but exit polling was banned and the final results were not expected until Wednesday evening.

De Klerk, who has abolished major apartheid laws, needs a surge of voters shortly before the final election to claim full political rights to the 30 million black majority.

"Never in 40 years have I seen people vote like this," said Zach de Beer, leader of the Democratic Party, which supports the referendum.

If the referendum fails, de Klerk has promised to resign, clearing the way for a whites-only general election. Pro-apartheid parties would be favored to take power if de Klerk is defeated.

The heavy turnout was expected to favor de Klerk, since voter apathy in the past has been attributed mainly to English-speakers who tend to be more liberal than Afrikaners-speaking whites.

Analysis said many white vot­ers were undecided and were likely to decide the outcome. Private poll-takers reported many whites were refusing to say how they would vote, adding to the doubt.

Liberal whites, who have tra­ditionally opposed the government, provided de Klerk with a key block of votes, though some were less than enthusiastic.

Helen Joseph, a wheelchair­bound, 85-year-old anti­apartheid activist under virtual house arrest for years, carried a poster to her polling station that read, "I'm Voting For Ne­..."

It's like the search for the Holy Grail," said Dr. Alan Levine, chief of the cellular and molecular biology branch of the National Heart, Lung and Blood Institute.

The research was conducted at the Reno VA center, which is the only medical center with the necessary equipment, Zanjani said. "We're very excited about this," she said. Students spend break aiding Haitian refugees

MIAMI (AP) — More than three dozen law students gave up a traditional spring break of skiing or sunbathing to help Haitian refugees win political asylum.

Mike Ryan of Case Western Reserve University in Cleveland was among the 37 student volunteers who showed up Monday for a crash course in immigration law at Miami's Haitian Refugee Center.

"It's the most important thing I've ever done. I wish I had to go back to law school," he said.

Some 16,000 Haitians have fled the Caribbean nation since President Jean-Bertrand Aristide was overthrown Sept. 30 in a military coup. They were picked up at sea by Coast Guard cutters and taken to the U.S. naval base at Guantanamo Bay, Cuba.

The U.S. government has sent back about two-thirds of the grounds they are fleeing poverty, not persecution. But about a third had stories immigration authorities deemed credible enough for further consideration for asylum.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Three Cabinet officials acknowledged Tuesday they had written dozens of bad checks while in Congress, and the Bush administration involvement in the rubber check scandal that previously had enraged mostly House Democrats.

Defense Secretary Dick Cheney, Agriculture Secretary Edward Madigan and Labor Secretary Lynn Martin, all former Republican House members, said they had overdrafts at the now-closed House bank.

Cheney, who said he'd never been given an indication of trouble with his checks, declared himself "angry and frustrated." Madigan called his situation "an embarrassment to me, my family and friends.

Martin said she was donating $425 to charity, representing the charges a commercial bank would have imposed, so "someone at least should benefit from this embarrassing episode.

Cheney told reporters he wrote at least 21 "problem checks" and had been told by the ethics committee he should have been 25. Madigan said he over-drew 49 checks and Martin disclosed she had 16 overdrafts.

The disclosures could blunt any effort to paint the House rubber check mess as a primarily Democratic scandal, since Republicans still contend the epidemic of overdrafts resulted from decades of mismanagement by one party — the Democrats.

President Bush, traveling in Fayetteville, Ark., said, "It's an institutional problem." And Vice President Dan Quayle, in San Diego, spoke of "the arrogance of power of an institution that had for so long been too arrogant without serious challenge for nearly three years.

Bush, asked about his own vulnerability, said he couldn't find it in his own checks to the 1977-71 when he was in the House. "It's hard to believe I didn't do it, but I just don't know yet," he said.

The disclosures by the three Cabinet officials added a new dimension to the House scandal that until now had focused on Capitol Hill. A probe by the House ethics committee — it now know that hundreds of lawmakers overdrew their accounts at the bank that has been followed by an avalanche of public confessions.

List of the 24 worst offenders and then 331 other current and former House members with overdrafts are due out in the next few weeks.

Cheney and Madigan, who held separate news conferences, did not give the total value of their uncovered checks. Cheney said his largest overdraft was for $1,945, to American Express; Madigan said his biggest was for $5,125.20 and had been told by the ethics committee that until now had focused on Capitol Hill. United Way President taken off payroll after questions about compensation arise

ALEXANDRIA, Va. (AP) — Former United Way of America President William Aramony has been taken off the payroll of the nation’s largest charity and is no longer affecting his pension as being studied, the organization said Tuesday.

Aramony, president of the organization for 22 years, re- signed Monday after news reports that his compensation package including benefits totaled $463,000 a year. Questions were also raised about personnel and management practices.

Aramony disclosed Friday, during a teleconference linking the national charity and its local affiliates, that his salary of $390,000 was still being paid.

Tuesday’s announcement came in a memorandum to members of the United Way staff from Kenneth Dam, the organization’s interim president.

He said the executive committee of the group’s board of governors voted Monday to discontinue Aramony’s salary, effective immediately.

“The United Way will take no severance payment,” Dam said. “Distribution of pension benefits to Mr. Aramony requires resolution of legal questions about his retirement package. We will receive the same coverage as other retirees under UWOS’s group health plan.”

The organization also announced that it had terminated Thomas Merlo, chief financial officer, effective Monday. It said Merlo would receive no severance and is not eligible for retirement benefits.

Officials had said earlier that Merlo would be replaced. He was described as a longtime friend of Aramony, who hired him.

Officials lift emergency smog control measures in Mexico

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Winds pushed much of the air pollution out of the Valley of Mexico on Tuesday, enabling city officials to lift the most drastic emergency smog control measures ever imposed in the capital.

Isabel Penalosa of the smog control commission said the city had ordered Monday evening, were no longer in effect starting Monday (11 p.m. EST).

The valley slowly filled with a gray-brown haze after a clear dawn, but ozone levels peaked at 153, less than half the record 398 recorded Monday.

“Maybe it was a little better today without the cars,” said Juan Arozamena, who sells soft drinks from an ice-filled tub near Paseo de la Reforma, one of the capital’s busiest streets.

Yesterday people got headaches and their throats got dry. Business was beautiful.”

The greater Mexico City area, with about 17 million people, sits in a 7,000-foot-high valley ringed by mountains that trap pollutants.

Officials said new measures would be announced soon, but did not elaborate.

While ozone is invisible, the levels of other pollutants in the air rise with it.

Specialists at the National Autonomous University of Mexico say prolonged exposure to ozone, a major component in development of infantile infections, increases lead in blood and diminishes mental capacity. It can lead to lung problems such as emphysema, or make existing cases worse.

Some of the damage is irreversible.

Short-term exposure makes people’s noses run, eyes water, throats scratch and heads ache. However, ozone high up deflects radiation from the sun that can cause skin cancer.

A pollution scale reading of 100, which Mexico City reaches most days, can cause mild irritation among more susceptible elements of the population. A reading of 300 can make otherwise-healthy people ill.

Monday’s reading in some city areas peaked at 398, the highest ever, and for seven times the World Health Organization limit of exposure for one hour, once a year.

Housing starts surge to 9.6% in February

WASHINGTON (AP) — Housing starts surged a stronger-than-expected 9.6 percent in February, with the gains spread across every region of the country, the government said today.

The Commerce Department said builders started construction of single-family homes and apartments at a seasonally adjusted annual rate of 1.38 million units, the highest level in almost two years.

Not since March 1990 have builders been as active. The increase of 9.6 percent was the biggest jump in a year and followed a healthy 6.4 percent gain in January, revised up from a previous estimate of 5.5 percent.

In advance, analysts had expected only a very modest rise because heavy rains was thought to have depressed activity in Southern California and Texas.

The February gain was likely to reassure analysts who are looking for strength in housing to help shore up the recovery from the recession that began in July 1990.

Last year housing starts totaled just 1.01 million units, down 14.9 percent from 1990 and 17.6 percent higher than 1991.

The rise has occurred even though mortgage rates, which hit an 18-year low in early January, have since edged up by as much as half a percentage point.

All the February gain came in single-family home starts. They jumped 14.7 percent to 1.15 million units, the highest level since January 1989. That followed a 2.8 percent increase in January.

Apartment construction, which is highly volatile from month to month, fell 17.3 percent in February to 158,000 units after rising 30.8 percent in January.

By region, starts surged 14.3 percent in the Midwest to 285,000 units. They were 7.6 percent in the Northeast to 155,000 units and 6.8 percent in the South to 504,000 units.

Prosecution rests in black motorist assault

SIMI VALLEY, Calif. (AP) — The prosecution rested its assault case against four white policemen Tuesday without calling the black motorist they are accused of beating.

Defense lawyers argued that the prosecution had not presented sufficient evidence to support a conviction of the officers. But Superior Court Judge Stanley Weisberg disagreed and denied motions for acquittal.

The defense said it would begin calling witnesses Wednesday.

Sgt. Stacey Koon, 41, and Officers Timothy Wind, 31, Theodore Briseno, 39, and Laurence Powell, 29, are charged with the March 3, 1991, beating of Rodney King, who had been stopped after a high-speed chase.

The beating was videotaped by a neighborhood resident and its broadcast sparked national outrage over police brutality. The case also heightened racial tensions in Los Angeles.

The prosecution's case, presented over nine days, is on the videotape. He was too busy getting his head pounded." The prosecution's witness list led to speculation that defense attorneys will call him as a hostile witness, trying to prove he incited the attack.

"The videotape is Rodney King's testimony," said Steven Lerman, King's attorney. "He can't add anything beyond what is on the videotape. He was too busy getting his head pounded."

The prosecution's case, presented over nine days, focused heavily on Powell, who is accused of striking most of the blows against King.

In the arguments for acquittal, lawyer William Kopeny, representing Briseno, said other officers at the scene were using excessive force while "Briseno was acting to protect King against excessive force from others."
Clinton victories may pave way to party nomination

Chicago (AP) — Bill Clinton tapped the support of black and blue-collar voters to round out his Democratic presidential campaign. With Paul Tsongas in the neutral territory of Illinois and Michigan, then set his sights on President Bush.

"Bush, Bush, Bush," was how Clinton deputy campaign manager George Stephanopoulos described the Arkansas governor's focus for upcoming primaries in Connecticut, Wisconsin and New York.

Clinton emerged as the prohibitive favorite for the Democratic presidential nomination with his strong Midwest showing. He easily outdistanced Jerry Brown and Tsongas in both states, with Brown running second in Michigan.

"The American people heard the voice of two states full of hard-working, mainstream Americans with too much unemployment ... too little hope," Clinton declared.

"They've voted for change," he said.

For Paul Tsongas to turn his campaign into a juggernaut, he will have to suppress the challenge of Brown, who scored a strong second place showing in Michigan and promoted himself as the alternative to Clinton.

The Clinton camp huddled throughout much of the day drafting a strategy to deal with Brown's relentless attacks while trying at the same time to focus more on a general-election message in the primaries to come.

"We've got the momentum, we've got the message and we've got the candidate," said Clinton campaign manager David Wilhelm. "We're going to win the nomination and then the White House.

"It's like running against a political terrorist," Stephanopoulos said, promising that Clinton would be more critical of Brown's record and proposals if necessary.

Many independent strategists predicted Brown would prove little more than a nuisance, provided Clinton steers clear of any additional major controversies.

Clinton entered the day with more than one-third of the delegates needed for nomination and would end it approaching the halfway point.

Dear Editor:

Reggie is a 6 foot, 9 inch junior. He has a nice book shot, he can really rebound, and he blocks everything which gets near the backboard. He is a high school basketball prodigy on one hand but his future is in doubt. High school basketball teams in the country, if a year of volunteer work, no motivation is offered, and negative reactions will not arise at school each day. Despite the perils of the Bronx, to bad reputation, and overpopulation, one of the first things we learned is that these boys in the Bronx have a completely acceptable reaction. They commented that this was something which could only be done now and that it should improve a person in the long run. In the end, they granted the job deferment with encouragement.

Looking back at six months' work, the images which recur are those of the many challenges we have faced. We could tell many more stories of students overcoming adversity, and we could tell equally compelling stories of young men who have already chose paths filled with hopelessness.

But these challenges and those stories have resulted in the most rewarding experience of our lives. The Archdiocese Volunteer Program is currently looking for 1992-1993 volunteers. If interested please talk with Mary Ann Hoerner at the CSC for details and an application.

I was in the situation recently of having a job offer but still feeling the strong call to volunteer. After much contemplation, I contacted the firm to inquire if a job deferment was possible. I was nervous that they would retract a job offer or perceive me as someone lacking motivation to work. Their reaction was exactly the opposite. They were very supportive. They commented that this was something which could only be done now and that it should improve a person in the long run. In the end, they granted the job deferment with encouragement.

There is no guarantee that all firms will resort in this way. The point is that refracted offers and negative reactions will not result from simply probing. The worst thing they can do is say no. I even know of one person who was granted a deferment after he had already accepted a job.

Whether you have solid future plans or not, if you have the motivation to volunteer, please look into it further. You may be surprised by some people's reactions. One final point; if money is keeping you from service work, consider that almost all loans can be deferred for a year of service.

If this letter speaks to you, please talk with Mary Ann Hoemer at the CSC or anyone at Career and Placement. They are more than willing to add in these types of decisions. And if a job deferment sounds like a good idea, do not be afraid of people's reactions. They can help put the answers to your questions in a clearer light. It may be one of the most important decisions of your life.

Bush faces problems, but few legitimate challenges

Editor's Note: This is the first of a two-part column:

In the wake of a lukewarm State of the Union Address and a disappointing show of his political acumen, Maine Governor and former Secretary of Housing and Urban Development Jack Weatherford, a Republican, who is seeking the Senate seat vacated by the late Senator Edward M. Kennedy, and who is running in the March 18 primary, is facing a tough battle. The primary challenge to Weatherford comes from Maine Attorney General MOwn, who is seeking to unseat the incumbent. The race is expected to be one of the most closely watched in the state.

In other political news, the Republican National Committee has announced that it will not support former Vice President Dan Quayle for the presidency in 1992. The decision was made after extensive polling showed that Quayle is not a viable candidate. The RNC's move is viewed as a major blow to the conservative wing of the Republican Party, which had been hoping for a strong showing in the primaries.

In the world of entertainment, the Music Commissioner Joe Huston, who is responsible for the approval of concerts at the Student Union Building, has ruled that the upcoming concert by the band Lenny is not appropriate for the campus entertainment scene. The decision was made after a review of the band's past performances and their latest album, which contains lyrics that are considered to be offensive.

In sports news, the Portland Trail Blazers have signed former University of Oregon star and Olympic gold medalist track and field athlete Carl Lewis to a three-year contract. The signing is expected to boost the team's popularity and attendance, as well as improve the team's performance on the court.

In education news, the State Board of Education has approved the use of a new curriculum for high school students. The new curriculum, which is designed to better prepare students for college and career, is expected to be implemented in all schools by the fall of 1992.

In other news, the Federal Reserve has raised interest rates, indicating a tightening of monetary policy. The move is seen as a move to combat inflation, but it is also expected to slow economic growth.

In the environmental sector, the Environmental Protection Agency has announced a new plan to address the problem of acid rain. The plan, which includes the installation of new pollution control equipment at power plants, is expected to reduce the amount of acid rain falling on the Northeastern United States by 20%.

In foreign affairs, the United States has increased its military presence in the Middle East, as tensions rise between the United States and Iraq over the status of Kuwait.

In conclusion, while there are challenges facing the administration and the political landscape, the country is moving forward, and the future looks promising.
Under the weather? A week in review

Considering that it is the day after St. Patrick's Day and most of you are dealing with pounding heads, churning stomachs and bad gas, it would be inappropriate to have a column that is serious and burdensome.

No, you will find none of that here. Thanks to market research by the folks at USA Today, it is apparent that short, graphically-pleasing articles are more likely to be read than long, boring pieces of wombat dung.

So here is a potpourri of things, a myriad of vignettes or even a cornucopia of snippets (all of these are words that most English teachers hate, and since my English professor is giving an exam today, this sentence is dedicated to him.) It's a Rockne's Lovechild Lite-half the calories of the regular column and still not even remotely funny.

TOP TEN THINGS DYED GREEN IN HONOR OF ST. PATRICK'S DAY:

1. Tap water.
2. Your green-out roommate.
3. Beef and Provolone sandwiches in the Dining Hall.
4. Monk's hair.
5. Phlegm.
6. Toilet paper. (If your roommate is a true Irishman and Irishwoman: Carefully throw away any unopened sheets of toilet paper. They are dyed green and must be burned or flushed down the toilet. A gargantuan ice cream sundae will be placed in front of each team. The team that manages to polish off its sundae first will not only be filled with pride and satisfaction, but will earn $200 for each class' charity as well. Anyone who is still unfulfilled after the sundae race will also be able to feast on Ice Cream Sandwiches, Root Beer Floats and much, much more. Not since the last rare chicken strip meal will such contented smiles be seen on the faces of those exiting the South Dining Hall."

On Thursday night the scene will switch to Stopen Center, where Head Coach Lou Holtz will give a talk titled, "Trust, Love and Commitment." Besides getting a close look at the man they've been throwing their adoration at, fans will also get a chance to listen to Holtz speak on motivation, service and getting ahead.

Holtz's talk begins at 7 p.m. and should be over by 9 p.m.—allowing enough time for students to get over to Acoustics' Cafe in LaFortune's basement for a night of Irish music lasting until 1 a.m. Notre Dame professors Tom Dayhill and John Kennedy will be jamming out the Gaelic tunes. There will also be an open microphone for anyone else who would like to pay tribute to their heritage. On Friday night it's back to Stopen Center for an All-Night Movie Fest. Five dramatic classics will be shown, kicking off with "Fast Times at Ridgemont High" and coming to a conclusion with "Animal House." Popcorn and soda will be provided.

The movies will be shown from 9 p.m. to 5 a.m., and Pancenter encourages students to "bring their pillows and sleeping bags." Although chairs will be provided, sitting for this event is definitely frowned upon.

On Saturday morning the floor of Stopen will be swept clean of the popcorn and napping students left over from the previous night in preparation for Nazz, the annual battle of campus bands.

Twenty-four groups will play 15-minute sets from 6 p.m. to 12 a.m. in order to determine the champion. Along with well-known bands XYZ Affair and The Generics, students will get a chance to hear from bands like Victoria’s Real Secret and O’Malley.

Nazz will bring the Sesquicentennial Student Week to a close. All the week's events are free of charge.

By KEVIN SULLIVAN

Accent Writer

Throughout this week, a host of late night events have been scheduled to give students suffering from Spring Break withdrawal a chance to ease back into the semester.

The "Sesquicentennial Student Week" chaired by Notre Dame student Katie Pamestier will give all those who are emotionally distraught by their light post-midterm work load something to do to fill up the hours between Chers reruns and trips to The Commons.

Student Week officially kicks off this Tuesday night. Strangely enough, no events are planned. Apparently it is assumed that students will find other ways to amuse themselves on St. Patrick's Day.

On Wednesday night, however, undergrads will find themselves drawn to the South Dining Hall. No, it's not Circus Lunch. It's the Ice Cream Olympics. For the main event, participants will be divided into two teams: Freshmen and Sophomores on one, and Juniors and Seniors on the other. The chamionship will be jammed out the Gaelic tunes. There will also be an open microphone for anyone else who would like to pay tribute to their heritage. On Friday night it's back to Stopen Center for an All-Night Movie Fest. Five dramatic classics will be shown, kicking off with "Fast Times at Ridgemont High" and coming to a conclusion with "Animal House." Popcorn and soda will be provided.

In the fall, the Irish were up and down all season, setting a school record one week and fal­tering a week later.
Over spring break the Irish traveled to the Northern Illinois Intercollegiate Invitational in Tampa, Florida and got on the roller coaster again.
In the first round last Thursday, the Irish bred a 324 at the Pebble Creek Golf Club, UCLA
the Bruins had their inside force capable of relieving pressure from Stephens.
A first-team All-American on UCLA's national champion volleyball team, Williams (21.6 ppg. 14.0 reg. 2.8 steals) led the Bruins in 15 of the 20 games she played in. When Stephens was sidelined, Williams picked up the scoring slack as well, averaging 25.5 points in UCLA's last six games.
She's been their go-to player down on the block," noted McGraw.
Senior DeDe Mosman (11.5 ppg) is the Bruins' top three-point shooting threat, hitting 39 percent from long distance. The rest of UCLA's starting lineup practice on some of Florida's best courses in the five days prior to the event. On three of those days the Irish played 18 holes and on the other two they played 36, so they may have simply been worn out by Friday. "We have no excuses," Hanlon commented. "It was just because, though, because I had visions of us getting close to the winners."
Central Florida was the easy winner, firing a 637 to finish 20 strokes ahead of second-place Iowa State. Liz Early paced the Knights, scoring Pebble Creek to finish with a four under par which was good for fifth place heading into Friday's final round.
Friday the 13th wasn't kind to the Irish, however, as they halted to a 349, to earn a disappointing 11th place finish. "We were really in good position to make a move (after the first round)," said Irish coach Tom Hanlon. "We just didn't play well in the second round."
Fatigue could have been a factor in the teams poor performance. The tournament wasn't until Thursday and Friday, so the team was able to head into Friday's final round. "We were really in good position heading into Friday's final round."

favor, the Irish could be inspired to victory.

1) The UCLA game

For myself and hopefully everyone else who went, the game was a thrill; college basketball at its finest. That is the way all the games should be, the crowd on its feet, the intensity high, and the stands full. At more traditional basketball powerhouse like Indiana and Duke, following where three teams has become a religion of sorts. That is the way it should be at Notre Dame too. I came from a high school where basketball was hot and seats in the gym were hard to come by and simply a footnote of sport it all.

2) John MacLeod

In his first year as head coach, MacLeod has done an incredible job turning Notre Dame into a faster paced basketball squad. So far this year, the Irish have been able to run and gun with the best of them: USC, North Carolina, and UCLA, to name a few. MacLeod deserves to be supported in his first post-season effort as a Notre Dame coach.

...and the number one reason to go to the NIT game tonight...

1) The seniors

Elmer Bennett, Daimon Sweet, LaPhonso Ellis, and Keith Towm have been thrilling crowds all year with their basketball skills. Several if not all these fine athletes will probably be selected in the upcoming NBA draft. This might be the last time to see them before they become big time stars. See the stars of tomorrow this Friday at the JACC today! Go to the Notre Dame-Western Michigan basketball game.

That's it. You may not agree with one or all of the reasons, but nonetheless, go to the game and support your Notre Dame team tonight.

Daimon Sweet

Due to the Broncos' lack of success in recent years, they have not drawn as much attention as some of the other MAC teams, such as Ball State and Eastern Michigan, who both reached the NCAA Sweet 16 as the conference's representative the past two years.

This could help Western Michigan tonight, as Notre Dame has struggled against lesser-known opponents. The most glaring example of this was the 72-70 loss to Detroit-Mercy on February 4 at the JACC.

However, MacLeod does not think this will happen to his team tonight.

"Our players learned their lesson. They are aware of how important it is to be 100 percent ready no matter who the opponent is," MacLeod explained.

"We better be ready for Western Michigan because we can't afford not to be."
Notre Dame places three wrestlers in NCAA tourney

By JIM VOGL
Assistant Sports Editor

For a few Notre Dame wrestlers, spring break will come a week late. Marcus Gowens, J.J. McGrew and Chuck Weaver left yesterday for their home state for the NCAA Championships in Oklahoma City on Thursday, Friday and Saturday.

The three advanced past the West Regionals in Cedar Falls, Iowa on March 7, for being first-place finishers in their respective weight classes. All-American status goes to the top eight.

"In a way, it helps out that we're going home for nationals," said Weaver. "It gives incentive in front of my family and friends and the hometown crowd." Irish head coach Frank McCann concurred, "it's great for our Oklahoma kids going back home. It's important to them and their families.

Gowens and Weaver, both first-place finishers in the final round, are one point away from winning their matches in the Regional finals. As far as that goes, that's probably the best we've done," McCann said. "But we were disappointed in the fact that we didn't get more people to the finals.

Junior Jamie Boyles (at 142) and seniors Todd Tomazic (177) and Tom Salvino (285) were all one point away from winning their matches in the Regional finals.

Also, freshman Brain Murphy finished second in the Region but was jilted by the selection committee. "The kid he lost to was runner-up in the NCAA's a fifth-year kid from Northern Iowa. We thought Brian had the ability and the desire," said McCann.

But Murphy, who was 8-4 in limited action on the season, fell victim to lack of recognition and the politics that traditionally work against true freshmen.

McCann feels confident that his three wrestlers will be ready both mentally and physically. "All this break we've been doing sprints at five p.m. and we've been going hard in the afternoon.

"But at this stage in the game, everybody's equal now. It all comes down to who has the biggest heart and the most desire." McCann hopes their homecoming will be the deciding edge.

Gowens comes in with more confidence and motivation compared to last year, when he lost to the eventual runner-up, Iowa's Terry Brands. Brands will be the favorite this season, coming in with a 29-0 record. All nine of his Buckeye teammates also qualified for the finals this year.

"I felt the kid should have been disqualified for stalling because he kept backing off," said McCann in explaining the deceptively low score. "He's in good shape. We put him through hard practice and he's got some good guys to work with.

McGrew, a 177-pound sophomore, finished second in the regionals and will be making his second NCAA Championship appearance.

"It's hard going there for the first time with 15,000 people screaming and 12 plus going. Experience always pays," said McGrew, who admitted being a bit intimidated last year. He won his first match, but lost the next three.

In team standings at the Regionals, the Irish placed nine wrestlers in the top four in their divisions, and finished second to host Northern Illinois.

"As far as that goes, that's probably the best we've done," McCann said. "But we were disappointed in the fact that we didn't get more people to the finals.

Gowens returns for the third straight year after defeating sixth-ranked Mike Psado of Marquette, 6-4. The match was a sign of progress for Gowens, who lost to Psado earlier in the year.

Gowens and Weaver, both first-place finishers in the six weight classes, are one point away from winning their matches in the Regional finals. As far as that goes, that's probably the best we've done," McCann said. "But we were disappointed in the fact that we didn't get more people to the finals.

Linn (4-4) surrendered only three hits and three walks in nine innings. Simmons allowed the duration, scattering seven hits while walking one. She also credited her defensive support, "We have a solid defensive team, and they really showed up today." Co-captains Amy Fulsom and Ruth Kmak turned in outstanding defensive plays at catcher and shortstop, respectively.

While Bowling Green committed seven errors in the second game alone, the Irish were charged with only one miscue all day, that coming after the winning run had scored.

"I never proposed to the governors to hold it in another city but we had to consider that possibility," said Michael Hugni, a WLAF vice president. "We could have had it in New York and it would have cost less because the league offices are already there.

"This will be a unique opportunity for Montreal. We've invited the owners of the NFL teams and we expect all 28 to be there. Montreal could take advantage of that to establish business contacts or to use their cause for any future NFL expansion."

The Machine begins its second season on Saturday against the Riders at San Antonio. They will play their first home game March 28 against the Orlando Thunder.
Lacrosse to face Lake Forest following dissapointing road trip

By George Dohrmann
Sports Writer

The Notre Dame lacrosse team returns home tomorrow to face Lake Forest after dropping three of their last four on their East Coast road trip.

Lake Forest proved to be an easy challenge for the Irish as they jumped ahead 8-6, while Bowling Green evened its record at 3-3. All three of their wins have come at home as well. The Irish offense has dominated the series since its inauguration, and will be looking for their twelfth win in eleven tries.

Lake Forest could give the Irish more trouble this season, due to the fragile emotional state that the Irish are in after dropping three straight on the East coast.

"Hopefully we will be able to bounce back against Lake Forest," said sophomore Randy Colley. "It will be a real test of our character if we can come back with a win."

On March seventh Notre Dame defeated Villanova, and nearly pulled a stunning upset. After jumping out to a quick 4-1 lead, Villanova closed the gap to 7-6 at the midway point. The lead didn’t last, as Villanova exploded in the second half, scoring ten goals to net a 14-10 win. The Irish tied the score at ten with 7:38 remaining, but the Wildcats reeled off four goals for the win.

Following the loss to the Wildcats was a matchup against a scrappy University of Maryland Baltimore-County squad. UMBC supplied the Irish 13-7, despite strong offensive efforts by Brian Mayglothing, who had a hand in all but one of Notre Dame's goals. The junior scored three goals and tallied three assists.

The final game of the road trip, placed the Irish up against a young Georgetown team. The Irish wasted three goals by Sullivan, falling 10-6 to the Hoyas and to 1-3 on the season.

"It was a long frustrating week," said Colley. "We're a young team and it showed in the games."

The Lake Forest match takes place at 3:00 pm at Loftus.

Irish softball drops two at home

By JIM VOGL

Frozen, solid—that explains the Notre Dame softball team's offensive and defensive performance Tuesday, as Bowling Green dropped the Irish season record to 8-6, while Bowling Green evened its record at 3-3. All three of their wins have come against Notre Dame.

In the first game, the Irish offense managed only two hits off Falcon senior Jody Record, who also shut out Notre Dame in the season opener two weeks ago.

Notre Dame threatened only twice. Third baseman Debbie Boulatc bounced to third in the third inning, then lifted out to center in the fifth, both with two outs and runners on second and third.

"We hit the ball hard all night, but right to them," said Lisa Miller.

Bowling Green jumped ahead with two runs in the first off two goals and an assist. The Irish have dominated the series since its inauguration, and will be looking for their eleventh win in eleven tries.

Lacrosse meets Lake Forest at 7 p.m. tonight at the JACC. There are plenty of seats available. Don’t be fooled, these tickets are selling fast so get yours now! (But) there is absolutely no pressure on us in the NCAAs. We’ve got nothing to lose—these tickets are selling fast so get yours now! (But) there is absolutely no pressure on us in the NCAAs. We’ve got nothing to lose—these tickets are selling fast so get yours now!

9) The Western Michigan fans will lead.

Obviously, there’s been a lot about this game. The students of Western Michigan purchased 650 tickets for the game and will fill up three entire sections of the JACC. Wouldn’t we like really, really stupid if they had more fans than we did?

10) Why Not?

The basketball season is quickly shaping up to be a close and tonight’s game will give everyone another chance to see the 1991-92 Notre Dame basketball team play at home. The JACC is conveniently located on campus providing easy access to the students. With a few exceptions, there are no convincing reasons not to go to the game.

11) To the game.

The basketball team seems to play the whole field. At the beginning of the school year, obvious ads began appearing in The Observer proclaiming the wonders of the Thunderdome. This has proven to be false advertising. There are plenty of seats abounding at many of the home games this year and decibel levels in the arena hovering around that of a small rumble. It is time to make the JACC a true Thunderdome. If everyone comes out ready to vocally support the Irish, this advertising strategy may become a reality.

7) Tickets are cheap and easier to come by tonight.

For students with ID, tickets are $4 at the Gate 10 ticket window, both dining halls, and through Ticketmaster. That’s less than the price of a movie in the local cinema, and you get a ticket. There are plenty of seats available. Don’t be fooled, these tickets are selling fast so get yours now!

6) It’s a Wednesday night.

What else is there to do on a cold Wednesday night in March in the Bend? (Don’t forget, Basix is open!) Is the game trusted before tonight?

10) It’s a post-season play.

Not everyone could be in the NCAAs. (If we were in a conference, we might have gotten in like Mississippi Valley State or Murray State.) We weren’t invited to a post-season tournament last year, but were this year due to the other team’s loss. Who knows when the next one will be, maybe next year or maybe not until we are all gone.

4) The team likes big crowds.

The basketball team seems to play better in pressure situations and in big games. Packing the house tonight would help raise the intensity level of the players. With a large crowd in their Marten’s Top ten reasons to support the Irish tonight.

1) The Irish will do something that almost no one would have believed they would do when they were 1-5 in early January—play a post-season game.

2) Notre Dame taken on Western Michigan (21-8) in the first round of the National Invitational Tournament at 7:30 p.m. at the Joyce ACC.

3) They are a small, but quick team that plays tenacious defense.

Irish coach John MacLeod said Western Michigan’s forwards Virgil Grayson and Leon Moore are only six-foot-four and six-foot-two respectively, while its guards Ebon Sanders and Darrick Braxton are only five-foot-eight and six foot.

Despite the tremendous height differential MacLeod believes the Irish will have to work for their points. "The size advantage, but they are the Broncos are going to help each other, double team and try to cling things up," MacLeod commented. "We are going to have to be patient. We can’t force things inside when they are not there.

The Western Michigan the NIT birth is the crowning achievement of their Cinderella season. Last year the Broncos struggled to a 2-23 record, and this is only the
