Pangborn returns as female dorm

By DAVID KINNEY

The staff and new residents of Pangborn Hall are looking forward to "starting the year with an open attitude," said Rector Cathy Lohmuller, after the dorm was converted from a men's to a women's dorm this summer.

Among the 187 women moving into the dorm this week are 102 freshmen, 40 transfer students and 37 upperclassmen moving into the halls.

"We would like the opportunity to establish ourselves," she said. "Rector Bob said that will involve overcoming the difficulties of becoming a new tradition as a female dorm.

Some men who lived in Pangborn last year have come through the dorm in recent weeks, and Lohmuller said she expects a "whole spectrum of attitudes about the change" and wants to be sensitive to those feelings.

Assistant Rector Nicole Lamborne said some men who lived in Pangborn last year don't like the new residents, but are disappointed about the change since it was "an open attitude," said Rector Rowan, director of admission.

"I didn't look like their dorm anymore," she added. Some former residents now living in Pangborn said they want to come back and plan with the hall this year, said Lohmuller.

Lohmuller, who served as assistant rector in Lyons Hall in 1990-91, said she has received help from other rectors getting accustomed to the job. She has been converted from a men's to a women's dorm." No decision this year was influenced by the gender of the applicant," he added.

Eighty percent ranked in the top one out of the top five best class, and 39 percent were among the five top students of their class. The average freshwater fish scored 1210 on the Schoenfelds Aptitude Test.

Rowan said some minorities make up 14 percent of the incoming class, including the percent Hispanic students, four percent African American, five percent South American and less than one percent Native American.

The class of 1996 is also the first minority applications and attracted to the school.

New-look campus greets students to new semester

By JOHN ROCK
Managing Editor

Construction work was a familiar site in and around campus this summer as crews worked to complete projects before students returned.

The largest project undertaken was the completion of the DeBartolo Classroom Facility and construction of its accompanying quaduangle.

The DeBartolo building was declared "substantially complete" in the middle of July, said Michael Smith, director of facilities engineering. Minor work is still going on, but the building is ready to open.

To construct the quad, Dorr road was closed, removed and replaced by sidewalks. Trees and sod will soon be planted to complete the walking area, he said.

At the far end of the quad, construction will continue on a site feature, Smith said. The Sesquicentennial Commons are to be built just south of Fitzpatrick Hall of Engineering. It will be a column structure with fountains, a place for people to gather, he said.

The main circle also had to be modified, he said. It was widened to allow vehicles to turn around, since traffic can no longer be diverted down Dorr road.

According to Smith, other construction that went on include:

- The original limestone statue of St. Mary’s made a new gate replicated.
- The original was in the front of DeBartolo building.
- Sidewalks were poured in front of South Dining Hall at the request of the administration, he said. Steps were also put in between Morrissey and Lyons halls.
- Sand volleyball courts were built behind Lyons Hall and in front of Lewis Hall.
- Old Juniper road was resurfaced and curbs constructed from the Notre Dame Fire Station to the Library.
- Planner Hall was remodeled, which included painting, car parking, fixing the shower rooms and ceiling repairs.
- Pangborn Hall underwent construction of toilet fixtures in the rest rooms and was made wheelchair accessible. A ramp was all constructed outside the hall.
- Cavanaugh’s chapel was remodeled.
- The field for the new baseball stadium was certified and the university will soon award the contract for the stadium.
- The new stadium is to be built south of the football practice field and east of the J.A.C.C.
You're arrived, but the real trip has just begun.

It took 18 years and 13 hours in a Plymouth Voyager and a 12-hour layover, but you finally arrived. (Graduate and transfer students, adjust years accordingly.)

In less than 48 hours your parental units will be back on the road trying to find the Neil Diamond tapes you hid, your high school image will be shed in favor of inflated stories about SAT scores and athletic accomplishments and you'll be resting comfortably in your 9 ft. by 13 ft. dorm room with three other future Big Eight accountants looking for the meaning of life and the 20-yard lines seats to the Michigan game.

You've hit the big time, or so they say. And soon you'll find out that all of the people who told you the hard part was over were lying like a rug.

Because your roommate is, or at least appears to be, the princess of suburban Chicago, she brings enough jewelry and dry cleanable clothes to outfit her dorm, and her question about where to put the facial machine seems nearly as funny in front of their parish priest as the next time your brother's in a tree.

The group of guys you met last night were all named Mike, which you assume will make life easy. Your room is great. For a closet. The view right now looks like a window on the third floor of LaFortune Student Center.

The Romans and (Robin Williams) had a great way of dealing with traumatic experiences like going to college in South Bend, even though the idea of going to Rome and probably didn't come faster than you do. Be a freshman, a freshmanwoman or a freshperson—your choice.

The time to be angst-ridden will come faster than you think. Navy blue interview suits, engagement rings and GRE exams are just around the corner. Your roommates and McGinnr have a point. You've got today. Run with it. And if you're lucky, it won't be half the hassle.

FOOD SERVICES wins awards

NOTRE DAME — Notre Dame Food Services won two awards in this year's National Association of College and University Food Services annual menu contest. ND's Junior Parent's Weekend event won first place for large schools and dorms and for all schools in the category of Catering Special Events. The menu was among 80 entries across the country. Allegro, the cafe in LaFortune Student Center, received honorable mention for its entry in the specialty shop category.

NOTRE DAME sponsors Pan Am program

Edward Augustine, a 1987 Notre Dame graduate, a 1997 alum, has been named associate dean of graduate admissions at Notre Dame. Augustine will focus primarily on the recruitment and retention of minority students in the graduate school, according to Nathan Hatch, vice president for graduate studies and research. A graduate of the Program of Liberal Studies, he received a master's degree from New York University, where he later served as assistant director of admissions and financial aid for the university's graduate school of arts and sciences.

ND admits 160 transfers, readmits 30;
Housing offered to half of students on waiting list

BY DAVID KINNEY
News Editor

Notre Dame admitted 160 transfer students and re-admitted 30 students this year, according to Kevin Rooney, director of admissions.

The number, although down from last year, is in keeping with recent years, he said. The University received 450 transfer application and 60 re-admission offers last year, according to Kevin Rooney, director of admissions.

Rooney said that it is difficult to predict how many transfer students will eventually receive housing, because the number of available rooms is not stable. Once all students return, the office will be able to determine how many rooms remain.

Transfer students not receiving housing from the University must look for off-campus residence, she said.

Graduate Student Union sponsors grad orientation

Special to The Observer

The Graduate Student Union is sponsoring several events for new graduate students in the next week:

- University President Father Edward Malloy is among the speakers at an orientation brunch on Monday at 10 a.m. in the Center for Continuing Education's basement dining area.
- Nathan Hatch, dean of the graduate school, Sister Jean Lenz, assistant vice president for student affairs and GSU President Mike Kelly will also welcome the students.
- GSU is providing food, beverages and a band at an all graduate student cookout Wednesday from 4 to 8 p.m. at Stepan Field.

Saint Mary's preschool program starts

Special to The Observer

In an effort to improve the quality of preschool education in the Michiana area, Saint Mary's College, Early Childhood Development Inc., and WNIT Television, have begun a series of training sessions for local preschool teachers and child care operators.

The Preschool Educational Program Initiative (PPI) will be conducted by the College, ECDC, the on-campus preschool facility for children of Saint Mary's and Notre Dame faculty and staff, and WNIT, the area's public broadcasting outlet, in association with the Children's Television Workshop, creator of PBS' "Sesame Street."

The initial training sessions were held in July, with more than 30 local preschool educators attending. Additional sessions are scheduled for the fall. According to Becky Thompson, educational projects director for WNIT, CTW plans to use the local effort as a model program for PEP activities nationally.

Gilman appointed president of Holy Cross College

Special to The Observer

The Board of Trustees of Holy Cross College has announced the appointment of Brother Richard Gilman as its new president.

Gilman, 48, is currently a doctoral candidate at the University of Dayton in Dayton, Ohio. He arrived at Holy Cross in August after attending the General Chapter Meetings of the Congregation of Holy Cross in Le Mans, France. He succeeds Brother Raphael Wilson, who has served as acting president of the college since August 1990.

Gilman has served in various roles at secondary and post-secondary educational institutions. He most recently served as president of Archbishop Hoban High School in Akron, Ohio, for the 1990-91 academic year, before pursuing his doctoral degree. Prior to that, he was president and principal, associate principal and chairman of the mathematics department at the school.

During the six years that he served as president and principal, the enrollment at Archbishop Hoban High School increased by 13 percent at a time when other Catholic schools in the region suffered enrollment declines. Gilman also successfully increased the endowment of the school from some $400,000 to over $1.1 million. "We are happy to present a man of such talent and insight who will contribute to the growth and development of Holy Cross College," said Brother Thomas Moser, provincial of the Brothers of the Congregation of Holy Cross College, "and so happy to present a man of such talent and insight who will contribute to the growth and development of Holy Cross College." said Brother Thomas Moser, provincial of the Brothers of the Congregation of Holy Cross College.

Crews improve SMC campus

By Jennifer Harych
News Writer

Security and interior building improvements were the focus of the Saint Mary's building and grounds crew this summer, according to John Marshall, superintendent of buildings and grounds.

Six new direct-to-security telephones were installed throughout the campus. The new phones were placed on the east end of the Angela Athletic Facility parking lot, outside of Havican Hall, on the south and north ends of Madeleva Hall, on the clubhouse, and at the intersection of Madeleva Drive and the Main Drive.

The building and grounds crew will continue to work on increasing lighting between Angela Athletic Facility and McCandless Hall, according to Marshall.

A new shuttle bus shelter was built on the southwest end of Le Mans Hall near Moreau Hall to allow for the new shuttle route. According to Dennis Andres, director of special events, the new schedule will modify the erratic route and make it safer and easier for students to ride the shuttle. The new route will make stops at Le Mans, Holy Cross, and Mccandless halls.

Mason named new NACUBO director

Special to the Observer

Thomas Mason, vice president for business affairs at Notre Dame, has been elected to a three-year term as a director of the National Association of College and University Business Officers (NACUBO).

With 2,200 members, NACUBO is American higher education's foremost organization of business and finance administrators.

Mason exercises overall control of Notre Dame's fiscal affairs, including the annual operating budget that now exceeds $300 million, the endowment of more than $650 million, 16th largest in American higher education; student financial aid disbursements approaching $50 million; and the annual construction budget of $10-20 million.

Since Mason's election by the Board of Trustees in 1976, Notre Dame has had 16 consecutive "in the black" budgets, has remained virtually debt-free, and is one of only nine universities in the nation with a AAA credit rating from Moody's investors service.

Prior to joining the executive ranks at Notre Dame, Mason had served at the University of Michigan for 10 years in various financial positions, including director of financial affairs of the university's hospital.

A certified public accountant, Mason received his undergraduate and M.B.A. degrees from the University of Detroit.

Active in committee work with NACUBO, Mason most recently has served on the Large Universities in the Nation and the Annual Meeting committees.

If you’re just a long-winded person, write a column.

Also, send quotes, an original cartoon, or a verse, which we will publish on Thursday.

What you send us becomes ours.

We don’t cater to anonymous opinions. If you believe something enough, you’ll put your name on it.

We don’t have to print anything we get, but we still print lots of it, because we’re very open-minded.

Moynihan award was an affront to the University

Dear Editor:

When I was a student at Notre Dame, there was great discussion on campus about the nature and extent of activities and clubs. Notre Dame students should be permitted to pursue. Commenting on this discussion in a speech at a Met Club Awards Dinner, Father Tom Brennan said, “Notre Dame students should be permitted to do whatever they do well so that when they go out into the world, where they all must go, they may do many things well.”

We have always maintained that the Notre Dame campus should be a place of opportunity and learning. We welcome the free expression of all ideas. Notre Dame is a place where ideas can be discussed, challenged and debated. It is a place where young minds learn and grow.

It is a Catholic University. But Notre Dame cannot lose sight of its faith and ideals. We in the Notre Dame family must never forget who we are and what we stand for.

We are Catholic. We believe our soul is given by God at conception, that all life is sacred and made in the image and likeness of God. We have dedicated ourselves to Christ through our blessed Mother. "And our hearts forever praise thee Notre Dame, and our hearts forever love thee Notre Dame."

How then can we as a University create an award designated as the highest honor we can give to a Catholic layperson and then award it to an individual such as Senator Moynihan whose avowed, documented, enthusiastic pro-abortion stand flies in the face of everything we hold sacred?

The awarding of the Laetare Medal to Senator Moynihan is an affront to Notre Dame and should be disavowed by every Notre Dame man and woman who believes in life.

Dear Mom and Dad,

Hope your trip home from Saint Mary's was ok.

Angie, Daniela, and I are putting the finishing touches on our room—you wouldn't even recognize it now. We have made some major changes—the scadsulous posters went up when you left. We bought a chenille bedspread and throw pillows to disguise our wellworn blanket sofa. Because we all brought our own rugs and they looked stupid thrown together, we made our first major group purchase—real carpeting. It looks good now, but I wonder how the cream color will last through any more carpet picnics.

Smaller purchases are adding up quickly. There are so many things the three of us forgot, like a far, ironing board, a laundry rack, refilable mugs, a car, earplugs.

Okay, and in your care package (hint, hint) please send quarters. You know those $10 rolls? Send about eight of them. I've already gone through a lot on shuttle fare to and from ND, in vendoland, on my laundry (yes, laundry already).

Actually, any money in general will help. Late night Domino's pizza orders are starting to make a dent in my savings from my summer job at Cassal Corner. I'm beginning to miss those weekly paychecks.

The Snack Bar at Haggar is another place my newly-found friends and I like to eat. There's also a coffee house that we plan to check out that opened last year. Clarissa Dalloway has funky hours but I hear the espresso is out of this world and definitely worth making the effort to go.

Entertainment-wise, it looks like there will never be a dull moment. Poetry readings are held and campus bands perform all the time at Dalloway's.

Also, Saint Mary's has an outstanding cultural reputation and attracts big names from all branches of the performing arts. Ballets, plays, and concerts are held in O'Laughlin Auditorium and the Little Theatre in the Center.

Art displays adorn the halls of Moreau Art Gallery. The Popular Culture class had a series of discussions that follow—both students and professors attend, and I've heard the different perspectives are fascinating to hear.

If you're wondering where I'm getting this wonderful information, well, Angie and Daniela and I have gotten to know two sophomores across the hall named Megan and Anne. They're really nice and have all kinds of interesting freshman stories, and they promise we'll have plenty of SYR dates-from hell stories of our own to tell by the end of the year.

In case you don't know, SYR stands for "Screw Your Roommates," and you can take that any way you like. Don't worry, Dad—it's not meant to be taken literally.

Welcome to

A Saint Mary's student adjusts

by a lot about the faculty. Megan and Anne said they're really accessible here. Most of them give you their phone home numbers on their syllabus, they have office hours, and they are usually willing to stay after class to talk, can be seen milling around campus and the snack bar at any given time. Some have even been known to have parties in their homes. And you'll be happy to know it's not easy to skip class—not that I was ever thinking about it—because a lot of them learn names very quickly.

Studying is not going to be as easy as it was at home. There are just so many distractions, and "quiet hours," are regularly interrupted by pose conversations in the hallways and loud radios.

I was advised by a senior nursing major to try studying in Gushwa-Leighton Library, where I ended up catching up on some sleep. Next time I go to the library, I won't sit on such a quiet floor, which is any above the ground level where there are even more opportunities to munch.

Another thing I noticed on my own is how clean it is around here. Mom, you would be proud about environmental consciousness of the campus. Recycling bins for aluminum and glass are everywhere. Heaven help anyone who fails to dispose of recyclables properly. I've witnessed a student toss an empty can into the trash by the elevator only to have a student behind her fish it out and put it in a recycling bin. Impressive, huh?

There are special-interest groups to join all over the place. CARE is an organization to increase sexual awareness and make women aware. There are women's groups with particular subject interests, and there are all kinds of social groups, like the Environmentalists, Philosophy Club, and a bunch more.

I can't wait until Activities Night, where I know I'll sign up for ballroom dancing, gymnastics, and everything else that catches my eye. When will I have time for all of this? I probably won't, but it will be nice to have a full mailbox for a week or so.

Please write to me often. There's nothing more depressing than coming back from class to an empty mailbox. I'm not missing my friends from home as much as I thought I would. It's amazing, but it seems like I never need to go home as often as I thought I would.

Some other things that may not happen over this weekend:

There are alternatives on campus to eating at the dining halls:

- Clarissa Dalloway's Coffeehouse at Saint Mary's is open on some evenings. It is student-run so hours are subject to change.
- The Snack Bar at the Haggar College Center at Saint Mary's, is open 10:30 a.m.-11:30 p.m. Monday to Friday, and 10:30 a.m.-11:00 p.m. on weekends.
- Widdick's, located on the first floor of O'Shagnessy, is open 7 a.m.-4:45 p.m. Monday through Friday.
- The Huddle, located on the main floor of LaFortune Student Center, is open 7:30 a.m.-12 a.m. Monday through Friday, and 10 a.m.-1 a.m. on Saturday and Sunday, and Allegro (in the basement) is open until 1:30 a.m.
- The Huddle Convenience Store is open 7:30 a.m.-2 a.m. Monday through Friday, and 10 a.m.-2 a.m. Saturday and Sunday.
- Greenfield's Cafe, located in the Hesburgh Center for International Studies, is open 7:30 a.m.-2:30 p.m. Monday through Friday.
- The Oak Room located in South Dining Hall is open 7 a.m.-7 p.m. every day. During the evenings, the Oak Room comes The Nite Oak and is open 9 p.m.-1 a.m. Sunday through Thursday, and 9 p.m.-2 a.m. Friday and Saturday.

Getting off-campus:
- For those times that you are fortunate to get away and the weather is nice (chances are 1 in 1000), the Michigan Dunes is the perfect place. Just head north on U.S. 31 about 10-15 miles, turn left on U.S. 12 and go through a town called Three Oaks. After about 15-20 miles turn right onto Three Oaks Highway (an intersection with a stoplight). After about six miles turn right on Red Arrow Highway, and in minutes you'll see the sign for the Warren Dunes State Park.
- Another cheap and convenient escape is the Windsor City Shuttle. Approximately once a month a bus goes from the Main Circle to downtown Chicago for a day trip. Inquire at the Information Desk in LaFortune for the schedule.
- One more excursion that may not be as cheap is the outlet mall at Michigan City. Go west toward Chicago on Interstate 90-94 (the Toll Road) for approximately 40 minutes and follow the signs.

Some random information:
- Packages can be sent UPS at the Country Harvest located in LaFortune Student

Love Always,

Anna

P.S. Did you thank you for letting me come here?

Dear Mom and Dad,

Well, I've been on my own in the 'Bend now for a week and I'm still alive to tell about all the 'oriented.' I tend to disagree.

When in doubt just hand that cute little appearing to be the clueless new student. Center Office. Library. There's nothing worse than security guard everything in your hands.

Don't be a sucker for the first t-shirt you write yourself at the bookstore. Make sure you learn the proper place to study is almost as important as studying itself. For light studying and much socializing, the second important of these classes. Mine is called "Easy Spirit Pumps: Can You Really Play Basketball in Them?"-it definitely looks promising, and could greatly affect my future career. I'll keep you posted.

Rhonda finally showed up on Monday after you had left. She said she didn't need to be "oriented." I tend to disagree. She

I'm beginning to wonder if

I heard about this really cool bar located off-campus. It's called Bridget McGuire's Filling Station. Everyone's who cool goes to this bar. We may go there tonight, if we get in.

Speaking of off-campus, I went to my first O.C. party last night. About 25 of us called cabs and went together. We tried to be inconspicuous, but when the keg was dropped on Eunice's foot, she started crying, her glasses fogged up, she made a big scene and we had to leave.

I think I recognized a guy from my Biology class at the party. We did the five minute stare-and-look-away-recognize-you-butt-recognize-me-thing, but we never ended up talking to each other.

Everyone's talking about the Keeling Hall keg. I don't want to go to Med school-I want to be an American Studies major and study the importance of treehouses, so what am I doing with a cadaver?

My other classes are ok. Freshman Seminar is interesting. You've really got to wonder where they come up with some of the topics for these classes. Mine is called "Easy Spirit Pumps: Can You Really Play Basketball in Them?"-it definitely looks promising, and could greatly affect my future career. I'll keep you posted.

Activities Night was last night. I couldn't believe how many things there were to choose from. I think I made a mistake when I spontaneously signed up for synchronized swimming. It sounded so good at the time, but now I'm beginning to wonder.

Maybe the fact that I flunked the mandatory swim test has something to do with it. Anyway, Ballroom Dancing and the Young Democrats should be giving me a call any day now.

We can't wait to have our first 'social gathering' this weekend. We decided to invite everyone named Mike we met at orientation. Hopefully a lot of men will attend. Everyone who's cool goes to this bar. We can't wait to have our first 'social gathering' this weekend.

Jenny seems cool. Her sister is a senior, lives off-campus and has a car, so we've already gone out to Macri's and Chiili's for dinner this week. Macri's serves the best possible thing. The food is ok, but it was definitely better when the parents were here. I survive on plenty of bagels and yo-cream. I heard it's non-fat. I don't see how anyone could gain the freshman 15 with the food they serve here.

I can't wait for parents weekend. Send money and food.

Love, your Domer

Hall of Fame headed to downtown South Bend

College Football museum spot chosen over four other cities

By MONICA YANT
Editor-in-Chief

Saturday, August 22, 1992

Football fans will have a second reason to visit South Bend when the National Football Foundation's College Hall of Fame is completed in 1994. The 50,000 square foot facility will be located at the corner of Washington and St. Joseph streets, directly across from the Century Center. The hall will house exhibits spanning the history of college football, beginning with the first game played between Rutgers and Princeton in 1865.

University officials maintained that securing the hall is a triumph for the city alone to savor. "We've got probably more Hall of Famers than anyone," said Father E. William Beauchamp, executive vice president. "It's a real tribute to the leadership in this community" and should not be viewed as a "University success."

Irish football coach Lou Holtz agrees. He said the decision is "a real tribute to the leadership in this community" and should not be viewed as a "University success."

"The city of South Bend is linked with the history of college football more than any other city in the country," said Mayor Joe Kernan. "The hall is hoping for the richest football heritage at the University will help attract fans," said Brian Boulac, assistant athletic director.

Notre Dame has bragging rights to the College Hall of Fame: 32 players, including the legendary George Gipp and the Four Horsemen, as well as five coaches. The 37 inductees are more than any other school in the country. Over 600 players and coaches have been inducted into the hall since it was founded in 1947.

"The location was, regretfully, almost fundamentally flawed by what everyone originally thought would be its greatest benefit—its location next to the amusement park," said the location, Fallon added, "became a distraction, more than an encouragement, to attendance." Averaging just 50,000 visitors per year, the King's Island facility did not come close to meeting the 300,000 projected annual attendance, Fallon said. He cited the "completeness and professionalism" of the city's proposal and said the financial package was "compelling."

South Bend will lead a fundraising effort to finance the $13.6 million project. Kernan said the hall stands to gain significantly from out-of-town business for South Bend hotels, restaurants and merchants.

The final design for the hall is still being developed, but Fallon indicated there will be a blending of permanent and travelling exhibits. He said the hall will not "highlight individual institutions as much as outstanding individuals at a variety of institutions in a variety of time periods."

The hall will open the Friday before the Michigan game in 1994.

Murphy could not just walk away from a part of his life

By MIKE SCRUDATO
Sports Editor

When students finished school in May, two things were expected from the Notre Dame baseball team. The Irish were going to have a successful trip to the NCAA Tournament, and Notre Dame coach Pat Murphy was going to accept an offer to become head coach at the University of Miami (Fla.). Fortunately, only the former came to be.

Notre Dame almost shocked the college baseball world with a trip to the Atlantic Regional of the tournament, which featured top-ranked Miami (Fla.).

After dropping their first game, the Irish defeated South Carolina, the Irish bounced back to defeat Miami, Delaware and Penn three wins left them just one game in the double-elimination tournament to get to top-ranked Miami (Fla.).

Murphy explained.

The Notre Dame program is indeed solid, as the Irish have compiled a 22-8-1 record in the three previous seasons. Despite the tremendous achievements of the Notre Dame program, Murphy "strongly considered" the offer from Miami, which would be one of the most successful programs in the country.

He had a chance to replace a college baseball legend in Rick Fraser, a three-time NCAA Coach of the Year and 1992 United States Olympic Coach, but Murphy opted to stay with the program that he has built into a national power.

"Money and weather aside, this is what is best for me. People can say that Murphy is scared of the big time, but all that I have to say is that we're in the big time.

We've beaten Miami five of nine times we've played them. Why should I go to a program that can't beat us?"

In addition to his team's impressive record against the Hurricanes, Murphy has more reasons to stay.

"The new stadium (which will be ready for the 1994 season) has me very excited," Murphy said. There are also the benefits of the Irish's post-season success.

"We will not forget how close we came (to Omaha)," the Irish coach commented.

He feels that will motivate his team throughout the off-season. The 1993 squad will have to replace five starters, nonetheless Murphy is confident.

"I could say that this is going to be a rebuilding year, but I honestly think this group will come together and be a good club.

This confidence is based on how hard I know they (the players) will work and the fact that we believe in ourselves."

Irish
DuBose, Miter and the Irish trampled the Hoosiers, 49-27. The Irish can only hope that DuBose will be able to come back for the 1992 Notre Dame debut on September 5 against Northwestern. Without this plug up the middle, the already-sus­pect Irish front seven becomes an even larger question mark.
Notre Dame’s line backers seemed solid with DuBose in the lineup, what with returning starters Devon McDonald and Pete Bereich cementing the foundation.
Eric Jones’ unexplained departure from the team took a hit when senior Junior Bryant and junior Bryant Young. The Irish will have to rely on Young, who started every game last year until a late-season injury against Air Force, and Bryant to anchor a line made up of young players with little game experience.
The situation in the Irish backfield is similar. With the departure of Tony Brooks and Rodney Cuver to the NFL, Notre Dame’s backfield position is in line for a restructuring.
Willie Clark has moved from the Irish secondary to tailback, where he began last season. Joining Clark there are Reggie Brooks and Lee Beeton, who showed their stuff to Irish fans last season.

STUDENT UNION BOARD

This opinion is not.

Depth in the Irish secondary has allowed Clark’s move to the offensive side of the ball. Much-maligned in 1990, and solid last season, Notre Dame’s secondary will make it difficult for opposing quarterbacks to find receivers this fall.

Junior Tom Carter, John Covington and Jeff Burris will likely return to their starting roles, while a host of others vie for the spot in the defensive backfield.

Competition is similarly torrid at wide receiver.

Ray Griggs and Adrian Jarrell are back for their senior sea­son, in which they hope to fi­nally have a chance to prove themselves. Lake Dawson has returned from a semester spent in the Pacific Northwest. Clint Johnson emerged in the spring as a soft-handed receiver who can do more than outrun tacklers on kickoff returns, while Mike Miller is now recog­nized as the fastest football player this side of Toronto.

But while Miller and Johnson run around and away from op­ponents’ defensive backs, Jerome Bettis will be running over their linemen and linebackers. Bettis has been called the best player, regardless of position, in college football. This opinion is debatable. That he is one of the scarcest is not.

This team provides a perfect complement to Miter’s cannon, and with the blocking of the Irish line, the Irish offense will put a lot of points on the board.

But how many points will the defense surrender? That ques­tion cannot be answered until DuBose’s fate is determined.

NOTRE DAME’S TURF SWEEPER

The Irish can only hope that Willie Clark and Junior Bryant Young.

ND men's XC better than decent

By JENNY MARTEN
Associate Sports Editor

In the words of Notre Dame cross country coach Joe Piane, the men's cross country team should be "pretty decent." Kind of modest for a team that returns two former cross country All-Americans in John Coyte and Mike McWilliams, solid seniors, juniors and sophomores and a bumper crop of talented freshman.

Several of the returning runners distinguished themselves during the 1992 track season. Senior Nick Radakewich went to the Intercollegiate Association of Amateur Athletes of America (IC4A) meet in the 10,000 meters. Sophomore John Cowan ran the second fastest steeplechase in recent Irish track history and Nate Ruder ran well during the indoor and outdoor track seasons.

The freshman class features a parade of cross country state champions in Andy Burns (Georgia), Joe Dunlap (New York) and Mike Smedly (Michigan). Also hoping to contribute will be Jeff Hojnacki, who finished fourth in Ohio and Derrick Sellings, who finished third in Pennsylvania and Eric Fassano, a promising runner from Quebec.

Piane knows that he lost two quality runners in Pat Kearns and Mike Drake. "Kearns is a big loss and Mike Drake was always solid. We won't be able to replace their personalities, but we can replace them as cross country runners," said Piane.

The Irish will open the season by hosting Georgetown on September 12, the National Catholic Invitational on September 25 and the Notre Dame Invitational on October 2.

Frosh help soccer team

Only five years ago, Notre Dame did not have a women's soccer team.

Just two years ago, the Irish were playing Division III powers such as Indiana University-South Bend and Calvin College.

Then last season, they burst upon the national scene by cracking the top 20 and narrowly missing an NCAA Tournament bid.

This season the Irish are setting their sights even higher.

"We will be a better team this year," Notre Dame coach Chris Petruccelli said. "We are more talented and more experienced than last year."

The additional talent comes from the talented freshman class, which has exceeded Petruccelli's high expectations thus far.

"You never know how freshmen will react until they get here, but they have made the adjustment to the next level. We will probably start four freshmen and have six or seven who play," Petruccelli said.

The Irish women look at their numbers, which include 12 seniors, eight sophomores, five freshmen and two sophomores, and are feeling strong about their chances to do something special.

"We're very excited about this season because we think we have a chance to do something big," Petruccelli said.

With five years of experience (four of which were spent in the Metro East) and two postgraduate years under her belt, Petruccelli has a wealth of experience that should pay off in the long run.

"We should improve," said Notre Dame's Director of Cross Country Joe Piane. "Last year, they were very naive. Each meet was a new experience. Now they know exactly what to do."

We Love You, Happy 21st Birthday Kim Candella
Some of the kids get intimidated about playing collegiate soccer," Van Meter said. "I hope at least a couple of them change their minds.

The Belles are a good bet for a Division III postseason tournament bid because "the potential is definitely there if we can stay away from injury," according to Van Meter.

The 1992-93 season opener is September 11, when the Belles host Loyola (Chicago). Monday morning will find Julie Schroeder-Biek carrying an 8-15 record into her second year as SMC volleyball coach. The opening game will be September 5 at Kalamazoo College Tournament.

Schroeder-Biek has some key players returning. Karen Lorton, senior, established herself among the nation's best at 2,894 blocks per game, earning second place, and 4357 hits, ranking fourth.

The team was ranked third at the end of last year and Lorton would "like to see us ranked in at least four categories throughout and at the end of the year as a team."

Lorton said the team's success "will depend on the freshmen coming in. "Lorton continued that in order to face a highly competitive schedule, "we're going to have to win games faster—we're not aggressive enough. We need to get on right away and win three (games) instead of going for four or five."

SMC soccer and volleyball preparing for seasons

By ANNA MARIE TABOR
Saint Mary's Editor

Whoever said Monday mornings are a time to dread? Certainly not the SMC soccer and volleyball teams, which both begin their seasons this Monday.

Practice for Tom Van Meter, head soccer coach, begins early August 24 on the dewy soccer field. As he enters his sixth year at SMC with an overall record of 50-26-9, Van Meter said the loss of three four-year starters could hurt the team.

Last year, SMC soccer was ranked 19th in the country. Van Meter credits Kelly Cook, a Division III All-American defender; Greer Gilliland, forward; and Anne Hartzel, forward, with "establishing the team and says the seniors left tough shoes to fill."

One of the senior shoe-fillers, junior forward Megan Dalsaso is at the top of the list. According to Van Meter, Dalsaso "only needs four goals to be the biggest scorer in Saint Mary's history."

Last year she set the single season record with 14 goals and one less goal than Dalsaso, and

There is more than football under the Golden Dome

As students return to campus one thing on everyone's mind is football, but let me remind you that it is not the only team with national title aspirations.

The men's soccer team is ranked 20th in Soccer America's preseason Top 20 and opens its season a week from today with an exhibition contest against fifth-ranked Indiana. The tough early season will continue the following weekend with the MET Classic in Bloomington, where the Irish will face fourth-ranked UCLA and thirteenth-ranked Duke.

Notre Dame then begins Midwestern Collegiate Conference play. The Irish lost the NCAA championship game 2-0 to Evansville in 1991, but are the favorites to take the conference crown and automatic NCAA Tournament bid this season.

The women's soccer team is also favored to win the MCC title. Unfortunately, they will not receive an automatic bid if they do so. However, with an impressive freshman class and a lot of experienced players, do not be surprised if Irish capture the large bid which narrowly alluded them last year.

A third Notre Dame team which should contend for an NCAA title is the volleyball team which returns four top seniors from 1991's 26-10 team. The cross-country team could also produce some NCAA participants. Eva Flood should contend for the women, while former All-Americans John Coyle and Mike McWilliams will attempt to earn the honor again.

Although all these sports head into season with high promise, the highest ranked is still the football team, which is ranked third in the USA Today/Coaches Poll.

This season, for the first time in a while, the Irish have virtually their entire defense back and two Heisman Trophy candidates, Jerome Bettis and Rick Mirer, on offense, but for the first time in several years, they have the schedule they want.

It's not an easy schedule, but it's one you can win a national championship with.

Gone from it are bowl teams Indiana, Air Force and Tennessee, as well as the vacation to Hawaii. They are replaced with perennial Big 10 doormat, Northern Illinois, Duquesne, DePaul, St. Bonaventure, Young and an up-and-coming Boston College squad.

Early season tests loom for young men's soccer team

By JASON KELLY

Last year, the Notre Dame men's soccer team proved that it could play with the nation's best teams. This year, Soccer America agrees.

For the first time ever, the Irish enter a campaign ranked among the nation's elite. But third-year coach Mike Berticelli doesn't put much faith in his team's 26th ranking.

"I think of it like my math classes in high school," he said. "I know I had an A at the beginning of the year, but after a few tests I know where I really stood. We're concerned with where we are at the end of the season, not the beginning.
