Kellogg Institute receives $2 million grant from Coca-Cola

In a collaboration that breaks new ground in the merger of business and academic worlds, the Coca-Cola Company has donated $2 million dollars to the University of Notre Dame's Kellogg Institute for International Studies to be used for a five-year program dealing with Latin American public policy.

The gift will be used to initiate a series of forums dealing with critical issues facing Latin America and to provide 15 four-year graduate fellowships for study at Notre Dame, according to Father Ernest Bartell, executive director of the Kellogg Institute.

Bartell said that Coca-Cola approached the University with the idea of a collaboration and called the move "a first" on their part.

Many of the ideas for the program originated in discussions with Pedro Pablo Diaz, director of external relations in Latin America for Coca-Cola.

"We don't expect this program to sell an additional bottle of Coca-Cola in the short run," Diaz told the people of Latin America. "But it is the right thing for a company like Coca-Cola to do at this time in Latin America. The issues addressed will effect the well-being of Latin America in the future."

"We are grateful to the Coca-Cola Company for this important and timely support," said Father James H. Evans, University President. "It will greatly enhance the University's involvement in a critical field of international study."

The forums of the program will address such issues as hemispheric free trade, poverty, human rights, the environment, U.S. foreign policy and public and private ethics. Bartell said.

They will feature major decision-makers within Latin America along with researchers in the academic field, including Notre Dame faculty members.

The forums are designed to reach a variety of audiences, including a popular audience through Latin American television, Bartell said. They will also reach academic and professional fields through the publication of monographs that will result from the research papers, seminars and workshops that will accompany the forums.

Work has already begun on the first forum, to be held in the spring and focus on hemispheric free trade. Bartell said.

Bartell said that Coca-Cola and the Federal Emergency Management Agency (FEMA) had distributed 80 checks totaling $16,000 by midday, said spokesman Edward Leon.

Thousands of others fumed in traffic jams as Miami-area businesses reopened, some for the first time since Hurricane Andrew hit. The stench of garbage could be smelled by people flying in a plane over one area.

The governor raised the estimate of hurricane-wrecked homes to 85,000. Estimates of the number of homeless people have ranged from 180,000 to 250,000. Chiles warned that if the federal government didn't pay for hurricane relief costs, "the state of Florida will be totally busted," Preliminary damage estimates have started at $15 billion.

White House spokesman Martin Fitzwater said Bush was "quite sympathetic" to Chiles' plea, but that no final decision had been made.

In fall 1993, new telephones will be installed with call waiting and three-digit local numbers and the campus phone system will accommodate more than 70,000 area phone numbers, according to Jim Lyhout, associate vice president for business affairs. An Army spokesman, Lt. Col. Bill Reynolds, said U.S. Transportation Secretary Elizabeth Dole was in charge.

But Chiles' chief of staff, Tom Henderson, insisted the state and federal agencies were leading their own programs. "There is no single boss of all bosses," he told reporters.

Many people in the relief pipeline have complained of a lack of coordination.

Marines construct first tent cities for victims of Hurricane Andrew HOMESTEAD, Fla. (AP) — Hundreds of Marines built the first tent cities for hurricane victims Monday, a full week after Andrew left thousands homeless, and the first two ships of a Navy convoy arrived to provide 15 four-year graduate fellowships for study at Notre Dame, according to Father Ernest Bartell, executive director of the Kellogg Institute.

Bartell said that Coca-Cola approached the University with the idea of a collaboration and called the move "a first" on their part.

"I'm shuffling here, there and there," said Mike Phipps, 49, who pedaled a bicycle to West Homestead Elementary School to collect Red Cross vouchers for food and clothing. "I go to the Army and ask for a tent, they say go to City Hall. I go to City Hall, they say see the Army."

The confusion has led to donated food spoiling and clothing being dumped in the trash after sitting in mud puddles. Health officials are worried about rat attacks and sanitary conditions. The stench of garbage could be smelled by people flying in a plane over 300 feet over one area.

University to install new telephone system

By BEVIN KOVALIK
News Writer

The University will install a new phone system next semester which will incorporate both students and the administration on one telephone system, according to Jim Lyhout, associate vice president for business affairs.

"Returning back from Christmas break, students will not notice anything different," Lyhout said, "except for a new method of charging to both the 283- and 239- exchanges."

The system enables people to use a five-digit telephone number to dial anywhere on campus. To dial student numbers from on-campus phones, one must dial '4' before the original four-digit number, and to dial intra-campus to the administration one must dial '1' before the four-digit number.

The system was created to accommodate the administration and alleviate increasing problems of the old system, including busy circuits and a shortage of numbers and switch parts, Lyhout said.

In fall 1993, new telephones will be installed with call waiting, Lyhout said. Call waiting will be either an optional feature available at an additional cost, or it will be incorporated into all telephones and added to the overall housing cost, according to Bill Reynolds, associate vice president for business affairs.

Mom... Dad... I got in!! I got accepted to Notre Dame!! O.K., just calm down, no need to panic. I visited the campus and read the brochures, so I already know all there is to know about the school... right? Great. Now I can get started polishing my mud charter for that nutty and wacky Spring festival that I keep hearing about. I'm going to follow right in my father's footsteps. German rightist extremist violence still continues

BERLIN (AP) - A wave of violence against people seeking political asylum showed no signs of abating today after about 150 rightist extremists tried for a third straight night to storm a home for refugees in southeast Germany.

The disturbance in Cottbus, where police turned back the rioters Sunday night, was part of a weekend of rightist, anti-refugee violence that has hit about 20 towns and cities.

Most of the affected cities are in the economically struggling east, where many people resent Germany's liberal asylum policies.

In Berlin, a bomb damaged a monument to Jews deported to Nazi concentration camps, police said.

The city's Jewish community said there was an "obvious connection" between the attack late Sunday and the wave of rightist terror that has been gripping German cities. Berlin authorities said an anti-terror squad was investigating.

The surge in rightist violence has coincided with a huge influx of refugees, which this year could double last year's record.

NAPLES, Idaho (AP) - A fugitive who held off a small army of law-enforcement officers for 11 days at his remote mountain cabin surrendered Monday, an intermediary said.

The fugee's son and wife and a U.S. marshal had died in shootings during the siege.

Randy Weaver came out of the cabin with his three surviving children, an infant daughter and two older girls, said James "Bo" Gritz, who has been an intermediary between Weaver and authorities since Friday. Gritz said federal authorities had agreed to let Weaver's girls stay with a family that lives in the area.

The situation is over because all of the family are out and they're all safe," Gritz told reporters and Weaver supporters gathered at a police barricade about three miles from the cabin.

Gritz extended his arm in a Nazi salute as he approached Weaver's supporters. He said Weaver asked him to make the gesture.

Gritz, a retired Army Special Forces lieutenant colonel and Populist Party candidate for president, said Weaver was put aboard a military helicopter and was being flown to Boise.

Gritz told reporters and Weaver supporters that federal authorities had agreed to let Weaver's girls stay with a family that lives in the area.

Federal officials at the scene didn't immediately confirm Gritz's account.

Weaver, 44, a devotee of the Christian Identity Movement that combines Old Testament, right-wing and supremacist beliefs, and his family were holed up in the cabin since February 1991, when he failed to appear in court on a federal weapons charge. He allegedly sold sawed-off shotguns to an undercover agent.

Authorities traced the family to the cabin and conducted periodic surveillance, saying they hesitated to risk a confrontation because of the children.

On Aug. 21, six deputy U.S. marshals ran into Weaver, his son and Weaver's friend Kevin Harris during a reconnaissance patrol near the cabin on Selkirk Mountain, about 40 miles south of the U.S.-Canadian border.

A shootout ensued, and Deputy Marshal William Degan and Weaver's 14-year-old son, Samuel, were killed.

Weaver's wife, Vicki, 43, was slain and Harris was wounded in a gun battle the next night. Harris, 24, surrendered Sunday to get treatment and was hospitalized in serious condition, authorities said.

More than 100 federal, state and local law enforcement officials and National Guardmen had surrounded the cabin since the siege began.

The mass-circulation Bild newspaper said today that television reporters from the United States and France paid young people in Rostock to give the Nazis' outstretched hand salute before TV cameras.

Primaries delayed because of Andrew

Miami (AP) — Florida's primary election can be delayed in hurricane-rav-ged Dade County but state officials cannot be forced to seal results in adjoining counties, the state Supreme Court ruled today.

The ruling came as candidelayed across the state, arguning that they weren't able to campaign and that many voters in South Florida won't be able to get to the polls Tuesday because of Hurricane Andrew.

The high court, in a one-page order issued upstate in Tallahasse, upheld Dade Circuit
Judge Leonard Rivkind's postponement of Tuesday's primary until Sept. 8 for Dade County only.

But the justices rejected Rivkind's order to postpone the release of results from multi-county races that include Dade.

last week. "We've almost turned the political campaign into a hurricane-relief campaign,"

"Murphy Brown''claims Emmys

PASADENA, Calif. (AP) — Hollywood's cultural elite showed Dan Quayle what's what by awarding "Murphy Brown" three Emmys, while "Northern Exposure," the ofrecast starring Ted Danson as a doctor in the Alaska boondocks, won CBS' "Northern Exposure," whose honors at Sunday's 44th annual Emmy Awards included best drama series, tied for most trophies with "Northern Exposure," which won all technical Emmys for voice work.

"Murphy Brown" — attacked by the vice president as glorifying unwed motherhood — was named best comedy series. Candice Bergen, who also played her best comedy actress for the second time, and Barnet Kellman was honored for directing.

"I would like to thank our sponsors for hanging in there through the hypochondriac Eve on New York," said best supporting comedy actress, for the second time, and Barnet Kellman was honored for directing.

"I would like to thank our sponsors for hanging in there when it was getting really dangerous," said Diane English, creator of the CBS series. To single parents, she said, "Don't let anyone tell you you're not a family.

Gergen got in a few digs at Quayle for his "potato" spelling, thanking English for "vertically oriented potatoes and spelling them correctly." CBS' "Northern Exposure" finally won an Emmy for Last in a New York best supporting comedy actress. The three-year sweep snub of Roseanne Arnold's No. 1-rated "Roseanne," about a 1980s sitcom, was named best television movie. It also was nominated for directing and for best supporting actress, for Amanda Plummer.

Political speeches were not limited to Quayle-bashing during the 3 1/2-hour show, broadcast by the Fox Network from the Pasadena Civic Auditorium. Bea Arthur won the miniseries actor award for her portrayal of presidential press secretary James Brady in "In the Line of Fire." She has, to some degree, thanked English for the pilot of CBS' "Til I Fly Away." Eric Laneuville was honored for drama series direction.

"Northern Exposure" was named best supporting actress in a dramatic series, and writers Andrew Schneider and DiFremont were honored for scripting. The series won three technical Emmys on Saturday.

Joshua Brand and John Falvey, who produce "Northern Exposure," earned a writing Emmy for the pilot of NBC's "Til I Fly Away."" Eric Laneuville was honored for drama series direction.

NBC's "The Tonight Show Starring Johnny Carson" was named best variety, music or comedy program. Bette Midler's tribute to Carson on his next-to-last show won her an Emmy for individual performance in a variety or music program.

Richard Dysart won his first Emmy for his dramatic supporting role as the law firm's patriarch in "L.A. Law." Gena Rowlands won best miniseries actress for "Face of a Stranger." Annette Bening noted her role as Ben in "No Man's Land" on ABC.

Tornado costs rise

WAUTOMA, Wis. (AP) — Damage estimates rose to $8.5 million Monday from a tornado that cut a 21-mile swath through central Wisconsin, damaging more than 500 homes and businesses.

One person was killed by the tornado, and another died later of a heart attack.

Waukesha County Sheriff Patrick Fox said about 150 homes and businesses remained without power Monday and some highways were closed so utility crews could work. It could be later this week before electricity is restored, he said.

Four tornadoes dramatically changed its shape by adding smaller stones randomly. Among Mabrouk's most significant insights is that the famous statue was carved into the shape of a sphinx and placed in a particular spot for a specific reason. The sculptor says the Pharaoh had a master plan for Giza Plateau from the pyramids to the Nile.

The big man came here and told his architects, 'I want a sphinx here,' Mabrouk said. "Egyptologists told the Pharaoh the rock was weak. He insisted the work proceed."

After artists outlined the face, stonecutters quarried rock around the Sphinx, fashioning building blocks for the pyramids and other nearby monuments. Architects used some of them to cover weaker areas of the rock that became the Sphinx's body.

Massive boulders then returned to give the face a Pharaoh's pompadour and its subtle smile — and, according to Mabrouk, a beard.

Clinton refutes GOP job claims

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP) — Bill Clinton on Tuesday dismissed Bush campaign efforts to ridicule the Democrat's plan for 8 million new jobs, saying Republicans lack credibility on the issue and are running the economy "into the ditch.

Clinton offered a reminder that Bush had promised to create 15 million jobs in his first four years. "And come up 14 million short," The Democrat's proposal to generate 8 million new jobs over the next four years is highlighted in a Clinton TV ad that began airing Monday.

Republicans "have no credibility to say anything about jobs," Clinton told reporters in Little Rock, where he was traveling to state business and meeting with Hispanic supporters on get-out-the-vote efforts.

"They don't know how to create jobs. All they know how to do is say give more money to the rich Americans, bankers, who run the economy and run the country," Clinton said. He noted that Bush four years ago promised 30 million new jobs over eight years. In Bush's first 3 1/2 years, the number of non-farm jobs increased by 293,000.

Clinton said just last two weeks with their repeated attacks on his tax record. "This week, we'll be talking about some different things," Clinton said. He noted that by some estimates, Bush would have to impose more than $3 trillion in spending cuts to finance an across-the-board tax cut and other campaign promises. Bush has not stated what areas would be cut.

"They want us to wait till January with bated breath to see what they're going to do," Clinton said.

Clinton said he welcomed a tax debate, because Arkansas voters had approved various tax increases for education and economic development.

"If they want to have this election on their tax record against mine, on whether people in this state are better off here as opposed to the national government, that's fine with me," Clinton said.

Clinton said, "There are only a few weeks left in the w.i., I think we ought to explore that this week.

The debate over taxes, jobs and economic growth also surfaced elsewhere on the campaign trail Monday.

"While President Bush was at the White House focusing on hurricane relief efforts, campaign chairman Roberta Tester took aim at the Democrats' ad touting Clinton's record as Arkansas governor. "We're very happy that Gov. Clinton appears to be willing to run on his record," Tester said at a Washington news conference. "Gov. Clinton's record is one of taking a state ... with some difficult problems and leading it nowhere."

"Democratic vice presidential candidate Al Gore, campaigning in California, said the Republicans were wrongly suggesting Americans must choose between jobs and protecting the environment. He added, "you can create jobs and have economic success while protecting the environment and leading the way toward environmental responsibility."

"Vice President Dan Quayle, campaigning in Alabama, repeated his assertion that electing Clinton would mean higher taxes, insisting the Democrat "thinks you create jobs by raising taxes."

Clinton said he welcomed a tax debate, because Arkansas voters had approved various tax increases for education and economic development.

"If they want to have this election on their tax record against mine, on whether people in this state are better off here as opposed to the national government, that's fine with me," Clinton said.

The Democratic vice president also defended his administration's efforts to circumvent the White House for claiming that Bush's economic record is "a record of human rights violations as long as your arm."

The Senate has yet to act on the legislation, but has passed similar bills before. However, Bush has vetoed every one of these measures in the past. He is yet to muster the two-thirds majority needed to overturn a Bush veto.

Oakland, Calif. (AP) — Vice President Dan Quayle hit Barack Obama on Monday, accusing the participants in the Harlem awards presentation of lying about their views toward single mothers.

"They said I attacked single mothers. That is a lie," Quayle told a crowd at the event that welcomed him to Alabama at the start of a 10-day campaign swing.

"They said that I believe single mothers and their children are out families. That is a lie."

"Alabama will be there, the South will be there and America will be there," Quayle told a crowd of people that consisted mainly of students supporting the well below voting age version. "Because of your work, your enthusiasm and because of your enthusiasm, we will win the election.

In criticizing "Murphy Brown," Quayle said the show and its lead character played by actress Candice Bergen, were glorifying single parenthood and traditional family values. He said repeated attacks on it he was not criticizing single parents.

The Observer is the independent newspaper published by the students of the University of Notre Dame to serve the Notre Dame Community. It does not necessarily reflect the policies of the administration of either institution. The newspaper is reputed as accurately and objectively as possible. Unpaid and elected representatives of the majority of the Editor-in-Chief, Managing Editor, News Editor, Viewpoint Editor, Sports Editor, Viewpoint Editor, Assistant Editor, and Notre Dame students (male and female) serve as editors, and the free expression of varying opinions on campus through letters is encouraged.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Prayer and worship keep family together
The American family has experienced dramatic changes since the end of World War II in mood, appearance and mobility. It has been estimated that only 1 percent of all American families today still function in days of yore. May these numbers increase and hopefully wisdom will return.

In my opinion, one of the changes affecting family life today has been the departure from the home of the father during the day in joining her family in the big city and employment there.

Family solidarity will be achieved in a realm of self-sacrifice, patience, forgiveness and a spirit of reconciliation in present. Every family has experienced hurts, slights, and misunderstandings and the like, for we are imperfect creatures living in a very imperfect world.

The values learned in the home are nurtured by the cooperation of church, synagogue and the school. One's development in the light of this concern, I say, is our individual destiny.

The family will love its local church and synagogue and will take an active interest in its ministry. The family has the nation's needs, respects its laws and will promote its prosperity and its peace.

Both the family and society are inter-dependent for an increase of life and of liberty. The world-wide importance of a universal faith in the value of family life is so obvious that it is so often taken for granted as we search for values, peace and the meaning of life in a very complex and dangerous world.

Every promise and every experience offers a new insight and a new mystery into the magnificent organization of the members of a family.

Special attention must be devoted to the welfare of our children by developing in them a profound esteem for their personal worth and dignity, and their innocence must be assiduously guarded and protected.

Children offer their own gifts and are a source of joy in the building and in the strength of the family and even the sanctification of the parents. We, as parents, are rightly concerned about the friends and the associates of our children and may inadvertently overlook what is beamed into our homes via TV, radio, the cinema and certain periodicals.

The innocence and the integrity of our children and our homes must be jealously guarded and protected from what parents consider to be unseemly, improper and not suitable family entertainment, and on the other hand, parents should support what is good, healthy, uplifting and wholesome for the some for the family.

Parents are the natural teachers and role models for their children and will develop in them a sense of right and wrong conduct and the true meaning of freedom. Parents as well as children have a need for love, understanding and patience.

The criminal abuse of our women and children has reached epidemic proportions in the United States today and must be given the highest priority in its being addressed and corrected by the Federal, State and local governments and their interested agencies, which is the cause of so much sorrow, tragedy and disruption of family life.

One judge has characterized this tragic evil as commonplace today in the United States which is a very sad commentary indeed on the image of this country and the honor, respect, and invisibility we traditionally upheld for our women and children.

We may possess an arsenal of weaponry that the imagination and billions for defense but it will ill behove us if we are inadvertently embarked on a course of self-destruct.

The fall and the destruction of the once mighty Holy Roman Empire is one sad and tragic example of what befalls a society when the cancer of the right sets in within.

Finally, The American family has witnessed and weathered many a storm in her 200 year history. We as a family of nations will meet the challenges facing this nation as we enter the 21st century if we work together as brothers and sisters under the Fatherhood of God for the common welfare of all of our families.

The concept of "family" is a term ever new maxim is true today as it was 200 years ago that: 'The family that prays and worships together will stay together.'

Personal rights lost in opinionated smoke-screen
Dear Editor,

As many members of the Notre Dame community are aware, the Administration has banned smoking in the University buildings.

While many people are upset by this policy, it seems to have made others extremely happy. That you are one of the satisfied ones, Mr. Hegar, does not bother me in the least (The Observer, Aug. 25).

Your reasons for being in favor of the ban, however, seem somewhat smug and self-righteous.

You ignored the issue that the Administration and many other people consider most important: health.

While I agree that the rights of an individual extend only until they infringe upon the rights of another, I think that your evocation of Justice Holmes is quite out of place in your article.

That think that people who smoke are insignificant, but you claim that you are "not concerned about possible risks" to your health.

The restriction on free speech that you mention, though, is directly concerned with health. Shouting "fire" in a crowded is not only inconsiderate, but dangerous. Indeed, that people might dislodge an oxygen mask. Of course, all these things are subject to opinion, as is the description of cigarette smoke as bad smelling.

You, of course, fall back upon the argument that cigarette smoke is dangerous, in spite of your lack of concern for this aspect of it.

I hope, however, that such an attack is confined to smoking in enclosed public space. If you wish to extend the ban on smoking to outdoor areas, as the University is considering, neither opinion nor health can be cited as reasons to do so.

To cite these would mean a ban on automobiles, factories, and the ethanol plant we all know and love. In addition, you would sound a bit too much like the environmentalists you abhor.

I can do nothing but protest your attack on smoking in general. Opinion simply cannot be a basis for the removal of another person's rights.

That you would attempt to use your preference for just that, and that you go so far as to say that cigarette smoke disgusts you more than just about anything else, it is a sad indication of the mindset of the community.

MAKE THIS YEAR A JOURNEY INTO UNKNOWN TERRITORY

And the desire was as pure as the polar snows, to go, to see.

Ursula K. Le Guin

I read Ursula Le Guin’s short story “Sur,” just as this summer was coming to a close and I was thinking of my imminent return to campus. I am always amazed at how often the stories that I read seem relevant to my particular situation. I didn’t take me long to connect Le Guin’s story of nine women’s journey to the bottom of the world to my anticipation of the coming academic year. During the coming year we will encounter difficult terrain and we will be required to share the journey with unlikely traveling companions. We will, no doubt live through some long nights and see some spectacular views along the way.

So, we begin our expedition to go and to see. Le Guin’s story is full of the courage of the voyagers. They were not willing simply to connect Le Guin’s words became my end-of-summer challenge. I decided that I would make this year’s journey a special one by going a little farther and seeing a little more. I challenge all of you to do the same.

The Center for Social Concerns offers programs that will take you farther down the academic road to places that are not heavily traveled. We invite you to go into South Bend to meet fellow travelers who are full of important information and fascinating stories. There is most surely an excursion into our city that will suit your particular interest. You could help out at the Neighborhood Study Center or give us a call!

Just as Le Guin’s characters needed each other to provide warmth and companionship as they traveled into the Antarctic region, you will need companionship along the way. ACADEMIC COURSES/EXPERIENTIAL SEMINARS

URBAN PLUNGE

The Plunge is a 48-hour immersion into the kind of life most Notre Dame and Saint Mary’s students have never seen. 322 students made an Urban Plunge during early January 1992.

The purpose of the Plunge is to experience injustice, apathy and poverty; to increase awareness of people who are working to improve these situations; and to witness and reflect on ways to address Gospel concerns regarding the oppressed. (1 credit) An Information Meeting will be held at the Center on October 6 and October 14 (6:30-7:00 p.m.)

Working Side by Side: APPALACHIA SEMINAR

Each semester break approximately 90 students travel to the Appalachia region of Kentucky and West Virginia. Students spend the week working side by side with the people of the mountains. Through physical labor and person-to-person contacts, students experience the cultural richness of the area and begin to understand and analyze the social forces that influence the lives of the mountain people. (1 credit)

An Insider’s Look: WASHINGTON SEMINAR

Approximately 24 students travel each semester break to the nation’s capital to explore crucial issues of the day from a variety of perspectives. In Washington, they meet with the decision-makers, members of congress, ambassadors and church leaders. On-campus preparation, on-site experience and follow-up reflection combine to create a unique learning opportunity. (1 credit)

CULTURAL DIVERSITY SEMINAR

This seminar explores the rich cultural heritage of Chicago’s ethnic neighborhoods and immigrant tradition. The corresponding problems of urban life and racism also are examined during the semester break experience. (1 credit)

WOMEN, CHURCH AND SOCIETY SEMINAR

This seminar is designed to acquaint students (during a week of involvement in Chicago) with the challenges of women in society and the church. This seminar studies gender issues and commitment to community and service. (1 credit)

LEADERSHIP ISSUES SEMINAR

The Leadership Issues Seminar is designed for students working in a leadership capacity to promote community service as an act of conscience. This course offers a multidisciplinary examination of leadership and empowerment issues and the opportunity to examine personal leadership styles in the context of ministry/service. (1 credit)

ADDITIONAL EXPERIENTIAL LEARNING OPPORTUNITIES

... include, as resources allow, service-learning trips to the L’Arche Daybreak Community in Toronto, to the rural south, and to U.S. - Mexico border region. Student leadership plays a key role in developing unique learning opportunities.

SUMMER SERVICE PROJECTS

The Summer Service Projects are eight week sessions of community service facilitated by Alumni Clubs all over the country. 133 Notre Dame students took part this summer. A tuition scholarship is awarded to each participating student. The scholarships are provided by Notre Dame Alumni Clubs and the James F. Andrews Endowment. Every project is different: students work in shelters for the homeless, soup kitchens, homes for abused children, spousal abuse shelters, Headstart programs, camps for inner city children, etc. (2 credits) An Information Meeting for the 1993 SSP will be held at the Center on December 1 and January 20 (6:30-7:00 p.m.).

THEOLOGY COURSES

Don McNeill, C.S.C., Ph.D. and Staff - Reading and reflection on issues raised by service experiences. Courses include: "Church and Social Action," "Theology and Community Service," "Reflections on Service," "Theology and Social Ministry." (3 credits per course)

OTHER JUSTICE AND PEACE COURSES

- "Introduction to Peace Studies," "Peace Movements in America," "Women and Men. War and Peace," "Power and Change in America." (3 credits per course)

LATIN AMERICAN OPPORTUNITIES

Students study in Mexico for a semester in the Program in Global Community of Guanavaca. Also, in late May, the Center sponsors a one-credit Mexico Seminar.

PEACE AND JUSTICE PROGRAMMING

The Center sponsors or co-sponsors a variety of creative peace and justice programs throughout the year, including films, panels, invited speakers, performing arts and theme weeks (e.g., "A Call to Peacemaking"). Each opportunity focuses on an important issue of social concern (e.g., racism, poverty, the environment).

POST-GRADUATE SERVICE OPPORTUNITIES

Workshops, seminars and other meetings enable seniors to consider the integration of service into their chosen careers and/or the advantages of a year of two of volunteer service, e.g., Peace Corps, Holy Cross Associates. Contact Mary Ann Roemer (239-5293).

SENIOR RAP-UP GROUPS

Approximately 150 Notre Dame and Saint Mary’s seniors participate in senior rap-up groups. Notre Dame seniors are invited to join about eight to ten of their classmates to form a senior rap-up group. They gather approximately once a month in a faculty or staff home where they plan and prepare a meal followed by informal discussion that focuses on the plans and concerns that students have as they approach graduation. Contact Mary Ann Roemer (239-5293).

FROM THE EDITOR’S DESK

This four-page special on the Center for Social Concerns features on the student service and social action groups and social concerns programs and activities coordinated with the Center for Social Concerns. There are other programs and activities coordinated under the umbrellas of Service and Women’s groups.

Current information on Center programs and activities is available throughout the year to the observer and through the CRC newsletter mailed quarterly to Center alumni.

This paid advertisement is made possible through the cooperation of: The Observer staff who worked in the production.

- Notre Dame Student Government, which partially defrayed the cost.
- The student groups that provided a carte-bonne on their organization.
- Center staff who worked on their program.
- You, the reader, whose interest and support make all of this possible.

The Observer
The Facutly and Center Activities

Faculty participate in Center programs in two basic ways. First, they serve as resource personnel for many of our programs. Some are speakers in the FRIDAY FORUM series. Others serve as Urban Plunge facilitators for an evening discussion to provide students an opportunity to reflect on and begin their Urban Plunge experience. Some host the Senior Rap Up groups, groups that meet in the faculty's home four or five times in the spring semester to converse about their undergraduate years at Notre Dame and to examine how concerns are being integrated into their lives upon graduation. Others serve as advisors to the many service/social action groups, etc.

Second, they participate in programs held specifically for them. There is the FRIDAY FORUM series, a faculty-led talk discussion that meets three times each semester to talk about major themes. The fall seminar is focusing on "Aging in America." There is an annual faculty workshop, to be held this year on October 23-24, with the emphasis on "Option for the 90's: Experiential Education." Occasionally there are reading groups, Urban Plunges for faculty, and other opportunities.

Faculty interested in getting involved in any of these opportunities may contact Dr. Kathleen Maas Weigert (239-5319/5322).

Faith and Action: Collaboration with Campus Ministry

The desire for a deeper integration of faith and action in the lives of Notre Dame students has led Campus Ministry and the Center for Social Concerns to work towards a more creative and public collaboration. In moving towards this goal, Rev. H. Thomas McDermott, C.S.C., (right), serves as Campus Ministry's liaison with the Center, and Eugene McCloy as the Center's liaison with Campus Ministry.
Single White Female fails, not frightens, viewer

By PETER BEVACQUA

"Single White Female," a psychological thriller about two women who live with an unseen bargain intended to help both survive in the vast and often frightening canyons of New York City—a bargain that goes quickly and terrifyingly awry.

The film stars Bridget Fonda as twenty-something software expert Allie Carlson, who moves not only into the apartment, but into the most personal aspects of Allie’s life.

Barbet Schroeder’s ("Reversal of Fortune," "Barfly") latest endeavor at first sight would seem to appeal to the viewing public of mainstream 1990's America. It is a film which questions the plight of sanity throughout society, as well as the degradation of traditional social mores. The setting, New York City, is ideal: a fallen metropolis where everyone is a stranger in a strange land.

However, the film, despite a valiant effort from soon to be megastar Bridget Fonda, fails miserably. Schroeder’s effort of selling cheap thrills with pop psychology is not able to produce any degree of suspense.

Jennifer Jason Leigh’s character is noticeably deranged from her initial appearance on screen. Therefore, the viewer is not surprised when she begins her transformation into a murderous fiend. Leigh tries to replace the loss of her twin sister by forming a delicate symbiotic relationship with Fonda. The formation of this relationship is too obvious and too predictable.

Schroeder tries to use Freudian themes in a way which would enable him to produce a thriller the likes of Alfred Hitchcock’s "Vertigo," or Roman Polanski’s "Rosemary’s Baby." However, while cinematic psychological gurus such as Hitchcock and Polanski are able to stimulate the intellectual and rational curiosity of the viewer, Schroeder’s film appeals shamelessly to the basic instincts.

Schroeder’s previous works have created memorable Hollywood personas (i.e. Mickey Rourke’s performance in "Barfly"). With "Single White Female," Schroeder is at the mercy of the Hollywood “system.” Candidly revealing all the subtleties, which if hidden would have allowed for a better film, he creates a predictable and tiresome tale of social hysteria.

The viewer never needs to question throughout the film, nor is the psyche of Leigh’s character analogous — this creates a psychological thriller without questions and ambiguities is analogous to a Western without six-shooters and horses.

Two bright spots shine in this otherwise dismal portrayal of recent Hollywood impotency. Bridget Fonda and Luciano Tovoli. Bridget Fonda’s work is of merit, but even Michael Jordan needs four other warm bodies out there with him.

The best element of "Single White Female" is the camera work of Luciano Tovoli. Tovoli is the cinematographer for New York City apartment building where all the action takes place into a gothic artifice which conveys through its mere presence an air of menacing distortion. It is a shame the camera ever goes inside.

Notre Dame Magazine celebrates 20 years of educating alumni and friends

By SARAH DORAN

Accent Writer

Most alumni magazines are designed to keep their readers abreast of what is going on on campus. More heavily focused on staged photos of big donors presenting checks and of old grads enjoying reunions. For two decades, Notre Dame Magazine has informed alumni with articles that go beyond campus events by addressing issues relevant to the lives of their readers.

"Our purpose is to provide continuing education to alumni and friends of the university," said the magazine’s Editor Walton Collins, a 1962 alumnus. "That gives us the opportunity to do a lot of different things. As well as being about the University, we feel our hunting ground, so to speak, is any issue that well educated men and women would find interesting."

"We try to remind them of the feeling they felt when they were in school and at the same time try to address what people are encountering in their lives," said Collins.

The quarterly magazine, which celebrated its 20th anniversary last spring, addresses issues by attempting to deal with the moral dimensions of contemporary issues. The issues that are featured in the magazine can be as far-ranging as television in society to the place of women in Catholicism to "Woody Allen and the Meaning of Life."

The magazine has a full time staff of three editors, a writer, and an art director. Collins and his staff of four produce the 80-plus pages of the magazine from their fourth floor office in the main Administration building. It features a great deal of material from freelance writers, but gives preferences to alumni contributors, Collins said.

Among those who have contributed to the magazine in the past are Charles Kuralt, William PFA, James Reston, Max Lerner and Ira Berkow.

The four sections of the magazine are Notre Dame stories relating freely to the university, the features section (the largest of the sections), the alumni section, which includes both the classnotes and an alumni profile, and the perspectives section.

Notre Dame Magazine’s formula has produced quite a winning combination, Collins said. Its accomplishments have been noted by numerous awards, including last year’s silver medal for general excellence in university magazines, gold medal in writing which were both awarded by the Council for the Advancement and Support of Education (CASE).

The magazine has also won the Sibley Award from CASE as the outstanding alumni magazine in the country and in addition the Catholic Periodical Press Association’s Best Catholic magazine award.

The keys to success are simple, Collins said. "A dozen universities produce this kind of magazine," he said. "To do it, you need first a vice president for university relations who is committed to this kind of publication. Second, you need a president who is tolerant of a magazine that presents the institution in an honest light. We’re not out looking for a scandal, but we will tell people what this place is about and they can then make their own judgments."

Collins has been the Editor of the magazine for the past nine years. He had been employed in the journalistic field prior to coming to the helm of the magazine. During his stay, he has seen the magazine grow and change but also has seen it stick to its goals of informing well-educated readers of interesting topics in a morally influenced way, he said.

One hundred fifteen thousand copies of the magazine are printed each quarter and distributed free of charge primarily to alumni, friends of the University, benefactors and parents of students, he said.
Cooper preparing Ohio St. for opener against Louisville

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Despite a 2-9 record a year ago, question marks don’t run and snap up all the tar and feathers in town for tips on what coach Howard Schnellenberger.

John Cooper is pretty sure he would have found a way to hold onto at least one key player had Ohio State fans if the same thing happened here.

"I think that would be, I wouldn’t be coaching here," Cooper said with a laugh during his first weekly news conference of the season Monday night at the football someplace, I guess.

Cooper’s 17th-ranked Buckeyes are Saturday night in the season-opener for both teams. A year ago, Ohio State escaped a late surge by the Cardinals to win 23-15.

"They had a good quarterback." Brohm, who broke his leg nine days earlier in a loss to Tuskegee in the fifth.

Senior Erik Watts stepped in and passed for 303 yards and two touchdowns.

Now Brohm, a farmhand with baseball’s Cleveland Indians during the summer, is back and Louisville is titching to prove last year was a fluke. The sixteenth starters join him for a fresh start.

"Last year was a disappointing year for them," Cooper said.

"The things that we’re going to miss the fifty-five-year-old Ohio State coach is most concerned about is his own team. Expectations are high, with 1990 Big Ten champions Ohio State returning to the fold along with 14 starters.

"The way we’re going to miss it up a little more on offense, he said. "We want to pass the ball more effectively and make sure that the rest of the running game, the running back, get up on us like they were doing last season. We had to have the ability to throw the ball.

That means fifth-year senior Kirk Herbstreit, who has started two games in his career, must have a big season.

Cooper also said that he would use his depth at receiver to add more of a free rein to harass the opposing quarterback.

"We’re going to learn to turn the linenmen a little bit more effective and make some things happen. So if we can get more, particularly more chances than a disappointing statistic, we only got 13 interceptions last season. Hopefully we can do a better job with that.

Opposing quarterbacks won’t be happy about that. A year ago, inside linebacker Jason Simmons set school season marks for tackles for loss (18.5), sacks (10.5) and lost yardage (103).

Raymond Harris, penciled in as the starter at tackle, is nursing a broken hand and hasn’t practiced the last nine days.

Cooper said if Harris isn’t back for next week, Smith would likely get the call.

Smith bolted from the team a year ago after changing Cooper and assistant coach Elliott Uzelac, perhaps a search for more chance for academics or play- ers who may have been denied. After running track last winter for Ohio State, Smith re- joined the Buckeyes three weeks after Uzelac resigned after the loss.

Bengals Rookie Klingler could get starting nod

CINCINNATI (AP) — The Cincinnati Bengals say they aren’t going to pressure their quarterback of the future to make a big impact in the present. The Bengals ended four months of negotiations by signing first-round pick David Klingler on Sunday night. General manager Mike Brown said the record-setting quarterback from the University of Houston will be given plenty of time to show what he can do.

“We took him for the long haul, not the short term,” Brown said. “This year will be a learning experience for him. David will get a chance to be our starting quarterback at some point and we believe he can do it.”

Asked if Klingler might challenge Don Hollas this year for the backup job, Brown said, “He’s out at number two now, and we’ll leave it to him to prove where he should be as things go along.”

Klingler joins starter Boomer Esiason, Hollas and four-year veteran Erik Wilhelm at quarterback. The Bengals are not likely to carry four quarterbacks on the roster. They do not have to do anything about Klingler for two weeks because he is on exempt roster status.

But it was considered likely that Klingler’s arrival would lead to Wilhelm’s departure in today’s final roster cuts.

Senior Brown, Klingler nor his agent, Leigh Steinberg, would give details of Klingler’s contract. But it was reported to be worth about $7 million over four years.

The only higher-paid Bengal would be Esiason, who earns an estimated $3 million per year.

Klingler was the sixth overall pick in April’s NFL draft. His NCAA records including most touchdown passes in one game (11) and in one season (54).

“I didn’t expect it would take this long,” Klingler said of negotiations with the Bengals. “Obviously, I’m behind. But I’ve been through in Houston to anybody who would catch it, even my wife in the front yard a couple times. And at least I had four weeks of learning the offense” in minicamps and voluntary camps.

match against them in a spring tournament and expect them to be a good team.”

Ball State returns three starters, including 5-foot-10 setter Lorie Vandenburg, who logged a school-record 1,224 assists last year. Hitters Lisa Hadorn and April Hloetke are also back, while sophomore transfer Carin Zielinski, a Mishawaka native, will make a big impact after fully recovered from a shoulder injury.

Tonight’s match is the first of the season for both teams. Brown doesn’t believe that will be a problem for Notre Dame.

“There are always first-game jitters, but we can overcome that,” said Brown. “The team we start is experienced. I expect them to be a little nervous for the first few points, but that will go away.”

Will Bears close door on the Fridge?

LAKE FOREST, Ill. (AP) — There were no surprises today when the Chicago Bears cut nine players to get down to the 47-man roster for the upcoming NFL season.

Wide receiver Glen Kozlowski and defensive back Maurice Douglass were among those cut but both were expected to be recalled Tuesday when several players are expected to go on injured reserve.

Others cut were linebackers Mike Stonebreaker (formerly of Notre Dame) and Jim Schwantz; quarterback Paul Justin; wide receiver Eric Wright; tight end Todd Harrison; defensive end Eric Kumerow and fullback James House.

Defensive tackle William “The Fridge” Perry, who remains unsigned, made an appearance at camp. Perry appeared to be close to the 320 pounds that Ditka demanded before he would allow Perry to rejoin the team.

The Bears have insisted that Perry’s contract be structured with weight clauses.

Asked if he was going to play with the Bears, Perry said “I’m going home to play with my son.”

New York (AP) — Monica Seles looked like, well, Monica Seles today as she began the defense of last year's U.S. Open title by crushing Audra Keller 6-1, 6-0.

Putting to rest at least momentarily the rumors that she might be ripe for an upset, Seles needed only 45 minutes to dispatch her bright red-clad opponent on the opening day of the year's final Grand Slam tournament.

In other early first-round matches on the hard courts at the National Tennis Center, 11th-seeded Michael Stich of Germany, the 1991 Wimbledon champion, defeated Olivier Delaure of France 6-4, 6-3, 6-4 and No. 7 Mary Joe Fernandez stumbled before stopping fellow American Donna Faber 3-6, 6-0, 6-4.

Both Seles and Courier want to believe that Wimbledon was just an unscheduled bump in their rush to being named players of the year. After all, both won the singles on the rubberized hard courts of the Australian Open in January, then grabbed the second of the four Grand Slam crowns by winning on the slow, red clay at the French Open. That was before the slippery grass courts of Wimbledon ended their chances at being the first Grand Slam winner since Steffi Graf performed the all-winning feat in 1988.

Seles, ranked No. 1 in the world and seeded No. 1, is in the unique position of having to defend her record. She has, after all, lost her last three trips to the final — to Graf at 5 in the world.

Chopped liver, they're not. Still, the questions come. "It's a bit surprising to me that Monica's lost three finals, but I really don't think that will affect her in the Open," Graf said. "I would say she has a big chance there."

The third battle on Stadium Court will be a rematch of Marc Rosset of Switzerland against fifth-seeded Goran Ivanisevic of Croatia. Rosset upset the heavily favored Ivanisevic at the Barcelona Olympics, and went on to capture the gold medal. Ivanisevic, runnerup at Wimbledon, had to settle for a bronze medal and hints he might not last too long at the U.S. Open.

"When you've played too much tennis, you come to the point where you hate to see the court, hate to see the other guy across the net," Ivanisevic said.

"I have to get over that or I'm going nowhere."

Then comes the Courier-O'Brien match.

While Courier is expected to advance easily in face of the winner of the Pablo Albano-Andrei Chesnokov match, he knows that another NCAA champion from Stanford, John McEnroe, made an impact on the U.S. Open just after winning his NCAA title in 1978, reaching the semifinals in the inaugural year at Flushing Meadow.

If the seedings hold, Courier will meet McEnroe, a four-time U.S. Open champion, in the fourth round.

"This is the one where you have to really bear down mentally," Courier said of the U.S. Open, where the crowd, noise and heat can easily distract a player's concentration. "You have to be fit to begin with, and you always know there's going to be at least one match over the course of two weeks where you aren't going to be at your best but you've still got to figure out how to win it. And for a player who's never done that, it can be overwhelming."

Pro Volleyball Players Kiraly, Timmons to visit Mishawaka

Special to the Observer

Karch Kiraly and Steve Timmons, two of the greatest volleyball players in the world, will be at Outpost Sports, which is located at 1602 North Grape Road in Mishawaka, on Wednesday at 5:30 p.m. according to owner J.V. Peacock.

Kiraly and Timmons anchored the USA to gold medals in the 1984 and 1988 Olympics. Timmons was also on the 1992 bronze medal winning team, and both are accomplished two-man beach volleyball players.

The former roommates are the sport's first million dollar players, and last team up to bring an Italian League championship to the USA. Meehan had Kiraly and Timmons as his first unit in 39 years in May, 1991.

Kiraly's most recent accomplishments have come on the beach, where he and partner Randy Stoklos equaled a record of 13 straight wins. Timmons is best known for revolutionizing the indoor game. Playing opposite the setter, his right back attacks from behind the 10 foot line gave the Americans a decided edge in international competition for 12 years.

After a free clinic and auto­graph session, Timmons will team with Penn High School coaching staff. Erickson has been juggling his time between football and personal matters — arranging accommodations for his family and repairs on his house.

"It's kind of tracked," he said, "but we're in a lot better shape than probably a couple of hundred thousand other people. At least we can rebuild the house."

Erickson, his wife and their two sons waited out the worst of the storm in a closet at the home of an assistant coach.

Reggie Brooks and Lee Beaton have both shown the talent needed at the collegiate level, but neither have much experience. And if something should happen to either one, the depth drops off consider­ably. Thus, Clark gives the coaches a tough choice to make, but one that many pro­grams wish they had to make.

In the two weeks since the Los Angeles Times broke the story of the NCAA investigation of Demetrius DuBose, the NCAA has yet to hand down a judgment. As the first game approaches, the Irish defense is facing the very real possibility that their captain may not be on the field when the Irish face Northwestern on Saturday.

Erickson's not overlooking Buckeyes back from Largo, Fla., has taken turns with the first unit defense, coming in on obvious passing situations as a nickel back, sharing that responsibility with junior LeShane Saddler.

After junior tight end Oscar McRide broke his jaw in Friday's scrimmage, which required him to have the jaw wired shut, Pete Chryplewicz, a 19-year-old player from Lakeshore Heights, Mich., has moved into the second-string role at tight­end.

Other freshmen who have played well in practice and will likely contribute to the Irish defense include safety Bobby Taylor and defensive lineman Paul Gramann.

VERO BEACH, Fla. (AP) — For University of Miami coach Dennis Erickson, Hurricane Andrew has diminished the importance of football, particularly Saturday night's season opener at Louisville.

"I think the whole thing is less significant," Erickson said Monday. "We all in our lives get carried away with things that supposedly are important to us, but when you face something like this ... it's a game. It's not a life-and-death situation."

"But we have a lot of pride, and we're going up there to win the game."

Irish Northwestern on Saturday.

The top-ranked Hurricanes have struggled to concentrate on preparations for Iowa. Following their first victory at Dottszontown last Thursday, Erickson angrily complained that the players were dis­tracted.

"On Monday, his tone was dif­ferent. Obviously their complete focus isn't on football, and it shouldn't be," he said. "We have practiced good at times, and not so good at times. We've all put football in perspective with life in the last week or so."

Like other members of the of that group are poised to make a contribution to this year's team.

Brian Magee, a defensive back from Largo, Fla., has taken turns with the first unit defense, coming in on obvious passing situations as a nickel back, sharing that responsibil­ity with junior LeShane Saddler.

Clark, DuBose now in limbo for Irish

By RICH KURZ
Associate Sports Editor

It appears that Willie Clark's quest for a permanent position isn't over just yet. Not long after announcing that Clark, who was moved to tailback after last season, was going to move back to the secondary, he was back practicing on offense again.

Clark has begun all three of his seasons as a tailback, but in the last two he has been pressed into emergency duty as a defensive back and has ended up starting. The last move to offense was expected to be his last. Recently, however, Clark decided he wanted to go back to hitting people instead of being hit. But in the past few days, Clark was back where he began—tailback.

Ironically, part of the difficulty in keeping him at one spot stems from his tremendous talent. His speed and moves with the ball are unquestionable, and after bulkling up to over 180 lbs., he seems more durable. But at the same time, his speed and his desire for the physical part of the game makes him a nightmare for receivers.

Given Holtz's preference for a backfield by committee, Clark poses a dilemma for the coaching staff. Keeping him on offense means he won't be on the field as much as he would as a full-time defensive back, but moving him to defense means the tailback spot would be left to two unproven contributors.

Further complicating matters is the stability of the defensive backfield, which looks pretty much set. Jeff Burriss and John Covington man the safeties with Tom Carter and Greg Lane at the corners. It's difficult to see any of those players losing their roles to Clark, especially with Leshane Saddler and freshman Brian Magee pushing those four.

Volleyball set to open season against BSU

After a preseason of fierce competition for starting spots, the Notre Dame women's volleyball team is ready to open intercollegiate competition. Head Coach Debbie Brown believes the practices have prepared her team well for tonight's 7:30 match against Ball State at the Joyce ACC.

"We had a good preseason," said Brown. "It was so competitive that it was very difficult to select a starting lineup. I think we're ready for the opener!"

The six players Brown selected all saw a lot of action last year. Janelle Karlan will start at setter; captain Alicia Turner and Christy Peters will be the outside hitters; Jessica Fiebelkorn and Cynthia May will be the middle blockers; and Marilyn Cragin will round out the starting lineup. As the preseason competition proved, however, the Irish are deep.

"Molly Stark and Nicole Coates will see a lot of court time tonight and throughout the season," said Brown. "They could be starting before the season is over."

Brown is also impressed with first-year players Brett Hensel and Shannon Tuttle. "Brett will play tonight, in the back row at least, and possibly more than that," commented the coach. "Chasii's set well in the preseason. We won't hesitate to use her if Janelle struggles." The Irish will face a formidable opponent as they begin their quest to improve upon last year's 26-10 record. Ball State compiled a 19-9-1 record in 1991 and tied for second in the Mid-American Conference, earning head coach Randy Litchfield MAC Coach of the Year honors.

"I only hope that what we did last year gives the whole team a huge amount of self-confidence," Litchfield said. "I thoroughly expect this team to be the best ball-handling team I've had here." Brown concurred with Litchfield's assessment of his team.

"As a team, they have excellent defensive and ball-handling skills," she said of the Cardinals. "We had a good season last year and hope to improve this year, as well."
