Dinner discussion

Eileen Deane and Diane Glennon (left to right), both seniors from Pangborn Hall, enjoy the atmosphere at the South Dining Hall after their move from Lewis Hall to Pangborn this fall.

---

Freshmen attend computer workshop

By ALEX MONTOYA

News Writer

Our Dame freshmen students taking English Composition and Literature will be required to attend a computer workshop to enhance their Macintosh skills for word processing, according to Edward Kline, Freshman Writing Program director.

The program aims to help freshmen become more familiar with Macintosh computers.

"I'm very enthusiastic about the program," said Kline. "We have critical faculty stating that the quality of writing has been dramatically better when students learn to use computers."

---

DAMAGE TO OUTDOOR EXHIBITS

By AMY GREENWOOD

News Writer

Damage to an outdoor exhibit at Saint Mary's forced the Moreau Gallery staff to remove the work from the Le Mans Hall lawn, according to Richard Chlebek, director of security.

Saint Mary's staff members discovered the damage to the smallest part of the work around 7:30 a.m. last Friday and "although no witnesses have been found, it appears that someone sat on the work or picked it up and dropped it," said Chlebek. Damage has been estimated at $5,000.

The four piece work, described as "lager-boulder-like formations," was created by Chicago sculptor Maria Kaplan.

According to Tyler, only one person, a staff member, directed the art department about the exhibit.

Artists who exhibit works for the gallery sometimes participate in a selection process. The steps are as follows:

1. The full prior to the exhibition season, artists submit a "proposal for exhibit" to the art directors, which consists of faculty members, students, and members of the community.

2. The Board then reviews the submissions to remove any work and select finalists.

3. The Board then meets to make a final decision among the remaining submissions and then invites those artists selected to exhibit their work.

According to Tyler, no exhibit has ever received such controversy in the 15 years that he has been at Saint Mary's.

---

BOSNIA AND HERZEGOVINA

By SARAH DORAN

News Writer

NATO has issued a statement on the use of the funds from the Aetna Foundation to purchase the GTE program that took place six years ago as the result of funding from the GTE Foundation.

The program allowed students to study the science and engineering program, which just finished its second year.

The program operates to help students who participated in the program in the summer of 1986 to pursue a program of study in the science and engineering fields.

In 1989, the GTE Foundation donated funds to the program in order to continue the program.

Funding for the program, which just finished its second year, is hoping to find money to continue its existence, said Chlebek.

---

Bosnian Serbs sign new death agreement

By SARAH DORAN

NATO has issued a statement on the use of the funds from the Aetna Foundation to purchase the GTE program that took place six years ago as the result of funding from the GTE Foundation.

The program allowed students to study the science and engineering program, which just finished its second year.

The program operates to help students who participated in the program in the summer of 1986 to pursue a program of study in the science and engineering fields.

In 1989, the GTE Foundation donated funds to the program in order to continue the program.

Funding for the program, which just finished its second year, is hoping to find money to continue its existence, said Chlebek.

---

DAMAGE TO OUTDOOR EXHIBITS

By AMY GREENWOOD

News Writer

Damage to an outdoor exhibit at Saint Mary's forced the Moreau Gallery staff to remove the work from the Le Mans Hall lawn, according to Richard Chlebek, director of security.

Saint Mary's staff members discovered the damage to the smallest part of the work around 7:30 a.m. last Friday and "although no witnesses have been found, it appears that someone sat on the work or picked it up and dropped it," said Chlebek. Damage has been estimated at $5,000.

The four piece work, described as "lager-boulder-like formations," was created by Chicago sculptor Maria Kaplan.

According to Tyler, only one person, a staff member, directed the art department about the exhibit.

Artists who exhibit works for the gallery sometimes participate in a selection process. The steps are as follows:

1. The full prior to the exhibition season, artists submit a "proposal for exhibit" to the art directors, which consists of faculty members, students, and members of the community.

2. The Board then reviews the submissions to remove any work and select finalists.

3. The Board then meets to make a final decision among the remaining submissions and then invites those artists selected to exhibit their work.

According to Tyler, no exhibit has ever received such controversy in the 15 years that he has been at Saint Mary's.
Living up to Notre Dame's standards

When Robert Kennedy made his presidential bid in 1968, he was criticized for challenging the very political machine that had secured his government career. By opposing the incumbent Lyndon Johnson, he was expressing displeasure with that existing Democratic party, therefore jeopardizing his own, promise to support you.

Kennedy cherished the opinions of his political associates, and witnessed America's cities burning, social intolerance reaching astronomical levels, and an administration unfolding in Vietnam, his commitment to the party was surpassed by a responsibility to the masses.

He saw his party neglecting the ideals and the people it purported to serve; his campaign was, in part, an attempt to salvage pride in the name "democratic."

"I have to do what feels natural to me," he said, "I can't be a hypocrite anymore."

In many ways, we are part of a structure like Kennedy's. We must recognize that the University of Notre Dame, in many ways, the "party" of 1960, needs us to keep its values in line.

Today we will be proud of our association with this school, we must challenge it to live up to its reputation, and us individuals, live up to the ideals of which it prides us. If Notre Dame does not have the respect of its own students, we are all living as hypocrites of the worst kind.

"I urge you, however, not to submit to the temptation security dangles before you. Be willing to sacrifice the comfortable future Notre Dame and its alumni have guaranteed you. If you utilize the proper channels for discussion convincingly and intelligently, Notre Dame will respect your effort for change more than your complaints and inaction.

And I think we all believe in this university enough to say that it will not renge on its promise to support you."

The views expressed in the Inside Column are those of the author and not necessarily those of The Observer.

MARKET UPDATE

YESTERDAY'S TRADING September 2

VOLUME IN SHARES 237,866

NYSE INDEX +0.99 to 230.01

S&P COMPOSITE 1,512.78

DOW JONES INDUSTRIALS +24.05 to 2,790.31

GOLD $20.30 to $399.40 oz

SILVER $.0022 to $.53.02 oz

© 1960 Acro Weather, Inc.
Tidal wave causes destruction

MASACHAPA, Nicaragua (AP) — Splintered huts and buildings littered a 200-mile swath of Nicaragua's coast Wednesday following a tidal wave that killed at least 40 people and left thousands homeless. Dozens were missing, and rescue workers expected the death toll to rise.

A major earthquake at sea caused a wall of water up to 30 feet high to sweep over most of the coast. It submerged islands and rolled more than a half mile inland in some spots, destroying beachfront homes and hotels and scattering wrecked boats and cars.

The surge of water sucked people and small buildings out to sea as it retreated. Nicaragua's government, already suffering severe economic problems and a political crisis dividing the government, appealed for international aid.

The U.S. Embassy in Managua released $25,000 to provide food, water and shelter to tidal wave victims.

The United States froze $104 million in aid to Nicaragua in the spring over charges that President Violeta Chamorro had failed to curtail the power of security officials from the leftist Sandinista movement, which Mrs. Chamorro defeated in 1990 elections.

"The sea took us by surprise. All of sudden, I was swimming inside my own home and all my furniture was floating around me," said Socorro Lopez, 47, who lost two grandchildren in Masachapa, a beach resort of about 2,000 people south of the capital, Managua.

"This huge wave swallowed us, house and all. Now I'll never be able to bring my grandchildren back," the woman said, sobbing, as the bodies of the 4-year-old boy and 2-year-old girl were laid out nearby.

Eight of the nine confirmed dead in Masachapa were children.

Civil Defense Lt. Norma Zepeda Valdez said 40 people were known dead, 49 missing and 2,825 forced to flee.

In Geneva, U.N. officials said the International Federation of Red Cross and Red Crescent Societies reported at least 64 dead. They said the United Nations would release $30,000 to help victims.

The missing included at least 12 fishermen lost at sea near Masachapa, Red Cross officials said.

LeMans to implement Card Access System

By HEIDI DECKELMANN

Le Mans Hall plans to install a Card Access System (CAS) to be implemented, "hopefully by the time students return from fall break," said Sherri Crahen, director of Residence Life.

The CAS is being installed as a safety measure, according to Richard Chlebek, director of Security.

Because Le Mans houses academic and administrative facilities as well as students, it is difficult to monitor visitors in the building, he said. After fall break, all doors leading to the residence hall area will be locked at all times and a card must be used to enter, according to Crahen. The elevator will run between the basement and first floor of the building, and a punch code will be given to the residents in order to access the upper floors of Le Mans.

Chlebek said, "Although there have been no major problems in Le Mans, the system is being installed as an extended security measure." Ann Marie Jordan, Residence Hall Director of Le Mans, said she feels CAS will benefit the students by "controlling who has access to the building."

Le Mans will still be governed under the campus policies for visitation, according to Crahen. Male guests will be required to leave as ID at the front desk.

"I am curious to see how the system will work in a building this size," said Jordan. "I would also like to see the students use the CAS responsibly."

Taco Bell Presents

AMERICA'S ROCK 'N' ROLL BAND

See them two ways, ELECTRIC...THEN ACOUSTIC!

Wednesday, September 16 7:30 p.m.
Joyce A.C.C.

Tickets available at U.S. Army University Book Hall, Richmond Hall, Campus Book Store, and at the door of the Joyce A.C.C.
Court rules MIT violated federal price-fixing ban

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Massachusetts Institute of Technology violated a federal ban on price fixing by sharing financial aid information with the Ivy League colleges, a judge ruled Wednesday.

Chief U.S. District Judge Louis C. Bechtle ruled MIT from "any combination or conspir­acy" with other colleges in setting education prices.

MIT President Charles M. Vest said the school would appeal.

For more than 35 years, the Cambridge, Mass., university and eight Ivy League schools — Harvard, Princeton, Pennsylvania, Yale, Brown, Columbia, Cornell and Dartmouth — belonged to the "Ivy Overlap Group."

The members agreed to offer financial aid based solely on need, and they met yearly to set the formula used in deter­mining aid.

If a student applied to more than one’s group, the members came up with a consensus offer. Students then would have only academic fac­tors to consider in making their choice of schools.

The Justice Department sued the schools. The trial was held in Philadelphia because the University of Pennsylvania was one of the original defendants, and was the closest to Washington, D.C., the Justice Department said.

The other eight settled out of court but denied wrongdoing, only MIT refused to settle.

Andrew's homeless victims trickle into huge tent cities

CHARLESTON, S.C. (AP) — The mayor of Charleston, which was devastated by Hurricane Hugo in 1989, said Wednesday the federal government, sharply criticized for its response to Hurricane Andrew, has run up to $30 billion, with Florida the hardest hit.

Deaths directly or indirectly attributed to the storm in the Bahamas, Florida and Louisiana totaled 39 on Wednesday.

Before Andrew hit, Charleston officials were already preparing to help, Riley said, and he added that the U.S. military should have been ready to do the same.

"Why in the world wasn't there a convoy headed down to Florida rather than this pitiful phase," Hale said.

Coretta Scott King, the widow of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., toured the poorest areas hurt by the hurricane and called for national assistance to rebuild the stricken communities.

Martin used to say America is a 10-day nation. When there's a crisis we get excited for about 10 days and then it's back to business as usual — I hope that this is not the case in South Florida and Louisiana, " she said.

The first arrivals at the tent camps were registered by the Red Cross, treated to a bag of toiletries and stationery, then escorted to their tents by luggage-toting men in uniforms.

"A Marine brought our stuff," marveled Ernest Guzman, who was settling into a camp in Homestead with his two children where showers had been connected. "We've got valet service.

The five tent cities — two run by the marines, two Army and one Navy — have room for 3,752 people, a tiny percentage of the tens of thousands left homeless by the ferocious hurri­cane that swept across southern Florida on Aug. 24.

Only a few dozen people moved in Tuesday night and Wednesday — the first days the tent cities were available, although they weren't officially opening until Thursday.

Still, they offered some of Andrew's victims a sign that the federal government, sharply criticized as sluggish and inefficient in the first days after the storm, was serious about providing help.

And, one day after Bush's second tour of the storm wreckage, three Cabinet-level secretaries were in the area.

Transportation Secretary Andrew Card, who has been in charge of the federal relief ef­forts and attended a news con­ference by Kemp and Health and Human Services Secretary Louis Sullivan.

If you see news happening, call The Observer at 239-5303 and tell us.

University Hair Stylists Welcomes You Back!

We are a full service salon and we carry a full line of Paul Mitchell and Nexxus products

239-5144 call or stop in

DEBBIE  MARY
Campus group criticizes Bush; praises Clinton

By PAUL PEARSON
Associate News Editor

The Notre Dame chapter of College Democrats criticized President Bush's education policy Wednesday while praising Bill Clinton's proposals concerning student loans.

"The cost of good education is at a nine-year high, it is tough for students to repay their student loans when there are few jobs for them to get after graduation," Holmgren said.

But Quayle did little to define what he meant by family values, except to list Bush administration proposals he said would help families and to praise single mothers who "often do a tremendous job against the odds.""'

Quayle's speech to Kansas City business leaders was billed as a focus many swing voters facing," Mrs. Clinton said. "To drop out, to break the law or to have babies out of wedlock." She said children raised without fathers are more likely to live in poverty than those with both parents at home.

Quayle held to his criticism that Hollywood and other media have veered from supporting traditional values, as he said they did when he was growing up in Huntington, Ind., to promoting "the views of an adversary culture." This is a culture that flinches at the word 'morality' and lashes out when it is challenged to discuss values.

For the Republicans, the issue of family values has proven an effective theme to promote education and opportunity while protecting families from the scourges of crime and drugs. Quayle's statements on the subject, however, suggest it is code for dividing traditional suburban families against single-parent households most often found in impoverished inner cities, or against homosexuals.

"I reject both of those views," Quayle said. "Family values" is neither meaningless nor mean spirited.

In his appeal to voters offended by his criticism of Murphy Brown, Quayle said, "I have nothing but respect for single mothers, yet Hollywood is determined to use the power of prime-time TV to twist my image of the stagnation that I am hostile to single mothers." He also criticized Hollywood, saying, "Hollywood is a stronghold of the adversary culture that is on the other side of the cultural divide from Huntington."

Quayle also dismissed the notion that Bush is trying to cut back Medicare payments to doctors. "There are no jobs for them to get after graduation," he said. This plan will "allow every American to get an education," Holmgren said.

Mike Glassett, a presidential advisor for student aid, said he "would like to know where Bill Clinton plans to get the money for the president's bill. He's going to have to raise taxes."'

Andrew Kirkpatrick, a professor in the ND philosophy department, said that Clinton's education Association. He said that Clinton's plan will "allow every American to get an education," Holmgren said.

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — Dan Quayle sought peace Wednesday with single mothers and others offended by his criticism of TV's Murphy Brown but derided Hollywood as captive to a culture that flinches when it hears the word "morality."'

Quayle's speech to Kansas City business leaders was billed for days as the vice president's attempt to redefine the campaign debate over family values after he criticized the fictional Murphy Brown's treatment of "morality."'

"The important thing in our society right now is to value families," the wife of Democratic presidential nominee Bill Clinton said at the Children's Museum here.

"I'm saying the same thing that I've said for 20 years, not just for 10 months," she said.

Mrs. Clinton also dismissed suggestions she had been keeping a low profile in response to attacks against her personal life, her writings at the Republican national convention last month.

"I'm concerned that our children are falling further behind because they're not getting the help they need, in large measure because our families are stressed by the terrible economic challenges they're facing," she said.

"That's what I want to work on and that's what I'm going to continue to speak out on," Mrs. Clinton said. "We have to do a tremendous job of reminding people that Hollywood and other media are not a focus many swing voters viewed as divisive and divisive because they're not undermining the idea of a family that's strong and secure.

In his appeal to voters offended by his criticism of Murphy Brown, Quayle said, "I have nothing but respect for single mothers, yet Hollywood is using the power of prime-time TV to twist my image of the stagnation that I am hostile to single mothers." He also criticized Hollywood, saying, "Hollywood is a stronghold of the adversary culture that is on the other side of the cultural divide from Huntington."

Quayle also dismissed the notion that Bush is trying to cut back Medicare payments to doctors. "There are no jobs for them to get after graduation," he said. This plan will "allow every American to get an education," Holmgren said.

Mike Glassett, a presidential advisor for student aid, said he "would like to know where Bill Clinton plans to get the money for the president's bill. He's going to have to raise taxes."'

Andrew Kirkpatrick, a professor in the ND philosophy department, said that Clinton's education Association. He said that Clinton's plan will "allow every American to get an education," Holmgren said.

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — Dan Quayle sought peace Wednesday with single mothers and others offended by his criticism of TV's Murphy Brown but derided Hollywood as captive to a culture that flinches when it hears the word "morality."'

Quayle's speech to Kansas City business leaders was billed for days as the vice president's attempt to redefine the campaign debate over family values after he criticized the fictional Murphy Brown's treatment of "morality."'

"The important thing in our society right now is to value families," the wife of Democratic presidential nominee Bill Clinton said at the Children's Museum here.

"I'm saying the same thing that I've said for 20 years, not just for 10 months," she said.

Mrs. Clinton also dismissed suggestions she had been keeping a low profile in response to attacks against her personal life, her writings at the Republican national convention last month.

"I'm concerned that our children are falling further behind because they're not getting the help they need, in large measure because our families are stressed by the terrible economic challenges they're facing," she said.

"That's what I want to work on and that's what I'm going to continue to speak out on," Mrs. Clinton said. "We have to do a tremendous job of reminding people that Hollywood and other media are not a focus many swing voters viewed as divisive and divisive because they're not undermining the idea of a family that's strong and secure.

In his appeal to voters offended by his criticism of Murphy Brown, Quayle said, "I have nothing but respect for single mothers, yet Hollywood is using the power of prime-time TV to twist my image of the stagnation that I am hostile to single mothers." He also criticized Hollywood, saying, "Hollywood is a stronghold of the adversary culture that is on the other side of the cultural divide from Huntington."

Quayle also dismissed the notion that Bush is trying to cut back Medicare payments to doctors. "There are no jobs for them to get after graduation," he said. This plan will "allow every American to get an education," Holmgren said.

Mike Glassett, a presidential advisor for student aid, said he "would like to know where Bill Clinton plans to get the money for the president's bill. He's going to have to raise taxes."'

Andrew Kirkpatrick, a professor in the ND philosophy department, said that Clinton's education Association. He said that Clinton's plan will "allow every American to get an education," Holmgren said.

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP) — Dan Quayle sought peace Wednesday with single mothers and others offended by his criticism of TV's Murphy Brown but derided Hollywood as captive to a culture that flinches when it hears the word "morality."'

Quayle's speech to Kansas City business leaders was billed for days as the vice president's attempt to redefine the campaign debate over family values after he criticized the fictional Murphy Brown's treatment of "morality."'

"The important thing in our society right now is to value families," the wife of Democratic presidential nominee Bill Clinton said at the Children's Museum here.

"I'm saying the same thing that I've said for 20 years, not just for 10 months," she said.

Mrs. Clinton also dismissed suggestions she had been keeping a low profile in response to attacks against her personal life, her writings at the Republican national convention last month.

"I'm concerned that our children are falling further behind because they're not getting the help they need, in large measure because our families are stressed by the terrible economic challenges they're facing," she said.

"That's what I want to work on and that's what I'm going to continue to speak out on," Mrs. Clinton said. "We have to do a tremendous job of reminding people that Hollywood and other media are not a focus many swing voters viewed as divisive and divisive because they're not undermining the idea of a family that's strong and secure.

In his appeal to voters offended by his criticism of Murphy Brown, Quayle said, "I have nothing but respect for single mothers, yet Hollywood is using the power of prime-time TV to twist my image of the stagnation that I am hostile to single mothers." He also criticized Hollywood, saying, "Hollywood is a stronghold of the adversary culture that is on the other side of the cultural divide from Huntington."

Quayle also dismissed the notion that Bush is trying to cut back Medicare payments to doctors. "There are no jobs for them to get after graduation," he said. This plan will "allow every American to get an education," Holmgren said.

Mike Glassett, a presidential advisor for student aid, said he "would like to know where Bill Clinton plans to get the money for the president's bill. He's going to have to raise taxes."'

Andrew Kirkpatrick, a professor in the ND philosophy department, said that Clinton's education Association. He said that Clinton's plan will "allow every American to get an education," Holmgren said.
"You know, it's so ridiculous. If I don't call my parents every Sunday at exactly 5 o'clock, they think I was kidnapped by aliens, or something. Anyway, one Sunday me and Mark, we decide to take off and checkout the city. So we're hanging out and I look at my watch. 5 o'clock. Alright, so my calling card and I head down to the local pool hall. (Which I happen to know has a payphone) And I tell the folks the Martians send their best."
California crisis ends
Gov. Wilson signs budget after 63-day delay

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) - Gov. Pete Wilson signed a austere $57.6 billion budget Wednesday, ending 63 days of financial wrangling in which the state had to pay its bills with IOUs for the first time since the Great Depression.

The budget was delayed for weeks between the Republican governor and the Democratic-controlled Legislature over how much to cut funds for education, welfare and local governments to avoid a $10.7 billion deficit.

The new budget reduces support for cities, counties and other local governments by $1.3 billion and cuts welfare grants by 5.8 percent. The welfare cuts are expected to help support a mother with two children.

Under a companion school spending bill the Legislature passed Wednesday, the same amount of money will be spent on pupils as last year, but by borrowing $973 million against future years.

"We have done this budget in a very difficult budget, not only difficult in getting to my desk but very difficult in that it presents the times we are experiencing - the worst since the Great Depression," Wilson said.

During the more than two months the state was without a budget, California issued more than $3.4 billion in IOUs to pay creditors and employees, the first time it had done so since 1936.

As the stalemate dragged on, hundreds of thousands of the IOUs, the state's credit rating plunged and all funding for nursing homes caring for 2,500 severely retarded people were cut out of the budget and threatened to close the homes.

St. Joseph's General David said Wednesday the IOUs could continue for another week before the state starts paying again with checks. The nursing homes that weren't getting anything will also get IOUs in the meantime, he said.

Davis spokesman Ed Fong said some banks that stopped paying IOUs would resume paying IOUs for the hospitals for the transition.

"My goal is to pay overdue bills as soon as possible so we can put people to work," he said. "It's not all of California history behind us, but it's definitely a step. Those facing the greatest hardship and need will be at the front of the list when the states gets to pay bills."

Hours after Wilson signed the budget, Democratic officials headed for San Francisco to arrange a short-term $3.5 billion loan from the state to help pay the IOUs. Fong said it would take six to eight days to get the money.

Washington (AP) - The delay lasted 63 days, but for the Lordstown plant, told the UAW it was not going to close the door.

Bargaining representatives from the various exhibits were available at Theodore's in Los Angeles, a Wal-Mart store, yesterday evening.

Negotiators make progress in GM strike
DETROIT (AP) - Negotiators made some progress in lengthy talks toward ending the Ohio pickup strike that has paralyzed assembly lines at seven General Motors factories, a union official confirmed Wednesday.

The strike by assembly plant workers in Ohio became the latest to close when it idled 5,000 workers Wednesday, a result of coming out of such parts as metal brake drums and engines. The parts are made at the Lordstown, Ohio plant, where 2,400 workers had been on strike for seven days ago.

About 32,200 GM assembly plant workers were idled by the Lordstown strike.

Wheat farmers welcome new subsidy
WASHINGTON (AP) - Wheat farmers on Wednesday welcomed President Bush's announcement that he is providing a $1 billion subsidy to push world prices higher, but some said the money should have come through the market.

"It's definitely good news," said Nancy Peterson of U.S. Wheat Associates in Washington-based office that represents wheat growers in international marketing.

But she said Bush's announcement that he is boosting up $1 billion from the Export Enhancement Program to help farmers "would have been better-placed for the immediate benefit to farmers or for the farmers as two or two." Bush made the announcement during a campaign stop in South Dakota.

"It's a huge boost for wheat," was harvested in June and July and farmers have already sold much of it for less than $3 a bushel, down about a dollar from the year previous.

Steve Pringle, a spokesman for the Texas Farm Bureau said producers in his state told him this week that they sold wheat cheaper than they expected.

"The numbers have reduced since then. We are getting alot of sales going again that is going to strengthen the market and help farmers get better returns," said Dan Meador of Oklahoma Wheat Growers. "Most of the state organizations like the Oklahoma Wheat Growers have been hanging on the door of the White House trying to get them to use the EEP." The Export Enhancement Program is a government subsidy that allows exporters to lower the price of U.S. wheat on the world market.

The program has two goals: It provides American wheat farmers with more income and makes the United States more competitive with other wheat growers around the world. Both Republican and Democratic members of Congress from the Midwest consistently pushed the Bush administration to take a more aggressive as a weapon against countries who heavily subsidize their exports to the United States.

Senate Republican Leader Bob Dole of Kansas, the nation's biggest wheat-growing state, said the president's announcement was "definitely good" and "a real player on the international scene, staying competitive in the face of heavy foreign subsidies."

Robert Dole for the Texas Farm Bureau said producers in his state told him this week that they sold wheat cheaper than they expected.

"The numbers have reduced since then. We are getting aloot of sales going again that is going to strengthen the market and help farmers get better returns," said Dan Meador of Oklahoma Wheat Growers. "Most of the state organizations like the Oklahoma Wheat Growers have been hanging on the door of the White House trying to get them to use the EEP." The Export Enhancement Program is a government subsidy that allows exporters to lower the price of U.S. wheat on the world market.

The program has two goals: It provides American wheat farmers with more income and makes the United States more competitive with other wheat growers around the world. Both Republican and Democratic members of Congress from the Midwest consistently pushed the Bush administration to take a more aggressive as a weapon against countries who heavily subsidize their exports to the United States.

Senate Republican Leader Bob Dole of Kansas, the nation's biggest wheat-growing state, said the president's announcement was "definitely good" and "a real player on the international scene, staying competitive in the face of heavy foreign subsidies."

Wheat farmers welcome new subsidy

WASHINGTON (AP) - Wheat farmers on Wednesday welcomed President Bush's announcement that he is providing a $1 billion subsidy to push world prices higher, but some said the money should have come through the market.

"It's definitely good news," said Nancy Peterson of U.S. Wheat Associates in Washington-based office that represents wheat growers in international marketing. But she said Bush's announcement that he is boosting up $1 billion from the Export Enhancement Program to help farmers "would have been better-placed for the immediate benefit to farmers or for the farmers as two or two." Bush made the announcement during a campaign stop in South Dakota.

"It's a huge boost for wheat," was harvested in June and July and farmers have already sold much of it for less than $3 a bushel, down about a dollar from the year previous. Steve Pringle, a spokesman for the Texas Farm Bureau said producers in his state told him this week that they sold wheat cheaper than they expected. The numbers have reduced since then. We are getting alot of sales going again that is going to strengthen the market and help farmers get better returns," said Dan Meador of Oklahoma Wheat Growers. "Most of the state organizations like the Oklahoma Wheat Growers have been hanging on the door of the White House trying to get them to use the EEP." The Export Enhancement Program is a government subsidy that allows exporters to lower the price of U.S. wheat on the world market.

The program has two goals: It provides American wheat farmers with more income and makes the United States more competitive with other wheat growers around the world. Both Republican and Democratic members of Congress from the Midwest consistently pushed the Bush administration to take a more aggressive as a weapon against countries who heavily subsidize their exports to the United States. Senate Republican Leader Bob Dole of Kansas, the nation's biggest wheat-growing state, said the president's announcement was "definitely good" and "a real player on the international scene, staying competitive in the face of heavy foreign subsidies."

California governor Pete Wilson signed a budget Wednesday, ending two months of a state financial crisis. Wilson signed the budget bill just 30 minutes after the Legislature gave final approval to the school spending bill, which Wilson insisted was essential to balance the budget with no new taxes. The long impasse was blasted by Mike Muscatel, spokesman for the 100,000 member California State Employees Association.

"It's a lousy way to run California," he said. "State workers have been put through the ringer with the IOUs and with the chaos hanging over their heads in terms of possible layoffs.

Wilson has made no mention of layoffs, and Muscatel said his organization was reviewing the budget to learn exactly what impact it would have on state departments and their employees.

"We're trying to sift through the numbers to see what the hard numbers are," he said. California governor Pete Wilson signed a budget Wednesday, ending two months of a state financial crisis. Wilson signed the budget bill just 30 minutes after the Legislature gave final approval to the school spending bill, which Wilson insisted was essential to balance the budget with no new taxes. The long impasse was blasted by Mike Muscatel, spokesman for the 100,000 member California State Employees Association. "It's a lousy way to run California," he said. "State workers have been put through the ringer with the IOUs and with the chaos hanging over their heads in terms of possible layoffs." Wilson has made no mention of layoffs, and Muscatel said his organization was reviewing the budget to learn exactly what impact it would have on state departments and their employees. "We're trying to sift through the numbers to see what the hard numbers are," he said.
The Observer
P.O. Box Q, Notre Dame, Indiana 46556 (219) 239-5930
1992-93 General Board
Editor-in-Chief
Monica Tani
Managing Editor
John Raddick
News Editor
David Kirby
Viewpoint Editor
Joo Mooy
Sports Editor
Hannah Carr
Accident Editor
Janelle Harrigan
Photo Editor
Sarah Wente
Sant Mary's Editor
Anna Marie Tabor
Advertising Manager
Mike Holohan
Ad Design Manager
Kevin Hartman
Production Manager
Samantha Dunkin
Systems Manager
Parry Barth
Office Manager
Caroline Smith
Controller
David Beliveau

The Observer is the independent newspaper published by the students of the University of Notre Dame. It is intended to reflect the policies of the administration of either institution. The news is reported as accurately as possible. Opinions expressed in editorials, letters and inside Column present the views of the authors. Column space is available to any member of the community and the free expression of varying viewpoints on campus through letters is encouraged.

Bookstore: A bum trip for students

How does one begin to correct the abominable way the bookstores sell textbooks to students each semester? They, the bookstores, take the entire campus body, some ten thousand in all—so many that to register them, the registrar’s office spreads out under a dome of the Joyce A.C.C.—and they, the bookstores, cram all those students into a single room conning them that the location of the C., if not smaller, and already three-quarters filled with overloaded bookshelves.

They force those students to squeeze, squirm, crawl, and cram themselves past each other in search of books, and then to stand in lines that plug the aisles the length of the room. They squeeze, squirm, crawl, and cram themselves past each other in search of books, and then to stand in lines that plug the aisles the length of the room.

What kept me there was not merely disrespect for the powers that be: the bookstore-management, the student government, the faculty senate, the university provost and vice-presidents, and the president himself. No do rest, please, until this appalling imposition upon our students is banished from this campus.

Let me suggest that for NEXT SEMESTER, textbook orders be shipped by the bookstores directly to the Joyce A.C.C., or to the Stepan Center, or to some other roomy place.

During the first week of classes, let these books be set out in some spacious area and with at least double, perhaps triple, the cash registers now placed.

After the first week of classes, let the leftover texts be hauled to the bookstore for sales throughout the remainder of the semester.

For the long term, separate the textbook division from the general book sales.

Move it to another place with its own office near lots of flexible space.

And as for those authorities who for years have inflicted this inhuman torture on our students, present each one with a map leading to Fatima Retreat House, where they may undertake the long, patient labor required to seek forgiveness through prayer and penance.

Edward Vasta is a professor in Notre Dame's English department.

Edward Vasta Guest Columnist

Indianapolis—It’s the most important game of the season, and the stakes are highest. The home team is the Notre Dame Fighting Irish. The visiting team is the Michigan Wolverines. The game is the Notre Dame-Michigan game, on September 12, 1992.

I am not a Notre Dame fan. I am not a Michigan fan. I am not a football fan. I am a student who has attended the University of Notre Dame for three years. I have attended all but one home game at the Notre Dame Stadium, since I was a freshman.

The game is the most important game of the season for Notre Dame. The Wolverines visited South Bend in 1988 and 1989, and lost both games. The Wolverines also lost to Notre Dame in 1989, on the Notre Dame Band tradition of playing the visitor’s fight song during the pre-game show. I think that this is one of the classes acts in college football.

For the numerous away games that I have attended, I can remember the team receiving the same welcome only once—the ND-USC game at Los Angeles in 1976. One school that particularly enjoys our tradition is Michigan. The Michigan-Michigan game that I attended at South Bend in 1988 and 1990 pointed out this fact vividly.

The 5000 visitors sang their school song louder than the entire stadium of home team fans. My VCR replay also confirmed this after I got home. I don’t think we should give Michigan another opportunity to chip away at our home field advantage.

And I do think we should send the words of our fight song into those NBC microphones and out of people’s TV sets like they haven’t seen since the bouncing ball cartoons of the 1950’s.

On the day of the Michigan game in 1988, a banner near the bookstore said "Just say no to Bo!" Maybe for Sept. 13, 1992, the banner should read "Sing along with us!"
Passage to the past

The Princess offers a relaxing way to see South Bend

By LAURIE SESSA
Assistant Accent Editor

Looking for a way to take advantage of the nice weather in South Bend? The Princess can take you down the St. Joseph River for a relaxing steamboat ride and a history lesson that cannot be found in any classroom.

For only $7 for adults and $4.50 for children, anyone can take The Princess for an hour ride down the river with Captain Owen Lackey on any Tuesday through Sunday until mid-October. Group rates are also available at 10 percent off for groups of 20 or more passengers.

According to Lackey, The Princess is the only boat of its kind on the river today. The Princess in one among only four authentic power-driven steamboats in Indiana. Lackey said that most of the other boats on the river are fishing boats or occasional motorboat, but sometimes "weeks at a time pass without seeing anyone on the river."

The trip is a very tranquil and scenic ride down the river that separates downtown South Bend and Mishawaka. "You get the European canal feeling going through the middle of towns," said Lackey.

The ride offers a chance to see a side of South Bend that most people do not even know exists, according to Lackey. "We enjoyed it very much. We are ashamed that we didn't come sooner" said South Bend residents Helen and Ervin Minkielewicz.

The Princess passes under several arch bridges, and by sitting in the front with the captain, passengers can learn much about the history of the river and the bridges that cross it.

The gate at Howard Park, where The Princess docks, used to be in the middle of the trade route between South Bend, Elkhart and Benton Harbor in 1903. In the past it was a large center of commerce, and now "they have tried to put it back like it was 100 years ago" said Lackey.

Lackey has been running the steamboat rides for eight years, but The Princess itself was built in Michigan in 1957, and, according to Lackey, "it'll still be here when we're all gone."

Lackey commands a respect for the steamboat that he feels is necessary in his business. "You just don't get in and run. You've got to love the hell out of them to keep them going - like a woman," he said.

He gets a lot of pleasure out of doing his job, and often blows the horn at children playing on the banks or on the bridges. "A correspondence course in waving is part of the captain's itinerary," Lackey said.

According to Lackey, a wide variety of passengers come to take a ride, but on the public cruises, "it is very family oriented. We also get a lot of school classes." Lackey also mentioned that he would be teaching a navigation class on The Princess in the future.

The Princess is also available to charter for private functions for $400 per two hours. In the past, groups such as the University Food Services and Student Government groups from Notre Dame and Saint Mary's have chartered The Princess. "It works well for meetings or parties where you want to get away from the world for a while," Lackey said.

The Princess is docked at the 100 Center in Mishawaka and leaves at 2 p.m., 4 p.m., 7 p.m., and 9 p.m. When docked at Howard Park in South Bend, The Princess runs at 2:45 p.m. and 7:45 p.m. Passengers should call 229-6800 to find where the boat is docked on any particular day.

Artistically speaking

Several contemporary artists display their work at Saint Mary's College

By JENNIFER HABRYCH
Accent Writer

Artists and art lovers can now view the current art exhibition opening Friday, Sept. 4 at the Moreau Galleries at Saint Mary's College.

Photographs by Barbara Shinn, drawings by Cheryl O'Neill, and a series of sculptural installations on the campus grounds by Marcia Kaplan are the first featured events in this year's season.

Shinn, a New York City resident, has been publicly exhibiting her work since 1985. Shinn works with color and light-sensitivity of the photographic paper in most of her work.

The result is photographs which reflect the characteristics of the exposure and development of the photographic paper. This process is done in an uncontrolled environment, free from the technological advances in processing which have taken place over the past 40 years.

Recently, Shinn has combined three-dimensional objects with the prints. O'Neill, another featured artist, specializes in large drawings interconnecting text with image. This medium allows O'Neill to examine ideas through their relationships in space rather than time.

"The piece constructed for the Saint Mary's exhibit explores the silent space between seeing and perceiving, the void of五官所体验到的感觉像死亡, but in fact is the essence of life," according to O'Neill.

Art exhibits featuring photographs by Barbara Shinn and drawings by Cheryl O'Neill are on display at the Moreau Art Galleries at Saint Mary's. Paintings by John Kech and an exhibition of videos by video artists, will be on display from Jan. 22-Feb. 19.

Regular gallery hours are Tuesday through Friday, 10 a.m.-12 p.m. and 1-4 p.m.; Saturday, 10 a.m.-12 p.m.; and Sunday, 1-3 p.m.

A reception for the artists, open to the public and free of charge, will open the exhibits on Friday, Sept. 4 from 7 to 9 p.m. The Moreau Gallery is located just off the lobby of Moreau Hall, feature the work of contemporary artists. There is no admission charge for any of the exhibits during the season.

Other exhibits during the year include sculpture by Vrinsley Tyrrell and fiber works by Lillian Tyrrell, Oct. 9 through Nov. 6. A fiber show by Julie Tourell, assistant professor of art at Saint Mary's, and Frances McMahon, a Saint Mary's student, will take place from Dec. 4-Jan. 15.

The galleries, located just to the past of the Moreau Art Galleries at Saint Mary's, offer the work of contemporary artists. There is no admission charge for any of the exhibits during the season.

The Princess runs at 2:45 p.m. and 7:45 p.m. Passengers should call 229-6800 to find where the boat is docked on any particular day.

The galleries, located just to the past of the Moreau Art Galleries at Saint Mary's, feature the work of contemporary artists. There is no admission charge for any of the exhibits during the season.

The Princess runs at 2:45 p.m. and 7:45 p.m. Passengers should call 229-6800 to find where the boat is docked on any particular day.

The galleries, located just to the past of the Moreau Art Galleries at Saint Mary's, feature the work of contemporary artists. There is no admission charge for any of the exhibits during the season.

The Princess runs at 2:45 p.m. and 7:45 p.m. Passengers should call 229-6800 to find where the boat is docked on any particular day.
WANTED HELP:
I really need a ride home to CLEVELAND or surrounding area this weekend, Sept. 10. Can have anything in the afternoon.

Are you heading my way?? Please can help with gas costs.

Call Molly 284-4377.

NEED TO SELL MRI STUDENT and 2 BYU GA's.

Call Molly 284-4377.

NEED 2 CISCO TIX FOR MICH. GA'S.

Call Joe at 283-1161.

Can't get help with gas costs.

NEED TO SELL 2 MICH. GA'S.

Call Joe at 283-1161.

NEED 2 MICH. GA'S. PLEASE HELP!!!

Call Julie 283-1161.

NEED 2 MICH. GA'S. PLEASE HELP!!!

Call Julie 283-1161.

NEED a ride to Mich this weekend!!!

Call Mike 283-1161.

NEED 2 MICH. GA'S.

Call Joe at 283-1161.

NEED 2 MICH. GA'S.

Call Joe at 283-1161.

WE ARE ACCEPTING YOUR TIX FOR SALE, 9/27 and 10/4, at Michigan games. All tix are available.

TICKETS:

NORTHWESTERN FOR SALE FACE VALUE NOT ENDZONE

MICH. 200-250

NORTHWESTERN FOR SALE CALL A135 AT 1-2-3

MICH. 200-250

NEED MICHIGAN STUDENT TICKETS AND BYU GA's.

Call MOLLY 284-4377.

NEED NO FOOTBALL TIX.

Call JERRY 282-6836.

TWO USC TICKETS FOR SALE CALL A135 AT 1-2-3

MICH. 200-250
The Direction of our Lives

As followers of the simple man of Nazareth, we must stand in constant against these trends. As educated, privileged Christians we need seek for ways to move our world to holier purpose. And those of us who profess publicly the vows of traditional religious life, we particularly need to be seen as clearer signs of contradiction to the sad values of our fragmented world and the false hopes of our dead-end promises.

In the end, we guess we need not apologize for where we come from, or be embarrassed by what we have been given. But we surely do need to speak more honestly with one another about what we are doing with our many gifts and where we are going with the direction of our lives.

Tom McDermott, C.S.C.

OPENING MEETINGS

Saturday, Sept. 5, 5:00 p.m.
Sunday, Sept. 6, 11:00 a.m.
Rev. Robert Plaske, C.S.C.
Rev. John Pearson, C.S.C.
Rev. Thomas Gaughan, C.S.C.

OPENING MEETING FOR THOSE INTERESTED IN BAPTISM AND FULL COMMUNION WITH THE CATHOLIC CHURCH

4:00 p.m. Sunday
September 13

OPENING MEETING FOR THOSE INTERESTED IN CONFIRMATION IN THE CATHOLIC CHURCH

5:00 p.m. Sunday
September 13
Summer

Failla gained something important from his summer league experience.

"I got more confidence," said Failla. "Playing there puts you more at ease with your ability."

Two other Irish players joined Failla in the Cape Cod League. Sophomore John Chelmo played with Failla for the Chatham Xs. Junior Bob Lisanti of the Western Washington Notre Dame Alumni Club, and his wife is a former Notre Dame Sophomore catcher Bob Lisanti said.

"All I could see was a lengthy suspension coming up if it got ugly, so I pulled him away and he turned on me," Torborg said Wednesday. "It's unfortunate ... just another part of a very strange year."

The league was studying the incident, NL spokesman Katy Rosenthal and the league's counsel of the Major League Baseball Players Association said it will file a grievance challenging the team's two-day ban, which will cost Coleman $31,868.13.

Following the incident, DuBose continued from page 16

of the Western Washington Notre Dame Alumni Club, and his wife is a former Notre Dame admissions officer.

A friendship developed long before Notre Dame recruiters called, and the Courties named DuBose as godfather to their newborn child, DuBose said.

"No one will ever be able to understand how close we are,"

he said. "You just can't put a price tag on that friendship."

The NCAA agreed, concluding in a statement that "it does not appear that the relationship occurred or that the benefits were provided for athletics reasons."

"I think they're making a mountain out of a molehill," Courtney told the South Bend Tribune.

Athletic director Dick Rosenthal could shed no light on who tipped the NCAA to the liaison. Rosenthal and the NCAA said DuBose cooperated fully during the investigation.

Fulbright Competition 1993-1994

Seniors interested in Pursuing Graduate Study Abroad are invited to an informational meeting with advisor, John Welle (7204) on Thursday, September 3rd at 7:15 p.m.in the Center for Social Concerns
Once you've had your birthday present, Jimmy Connors could have waited at the U.S. Open. Nothing would have pleased Connors more than taking the stadium court Wednesday night against Brazil's Jaime Osins after a first-round loss by Lendl, seeded to meet the winner in the second round.

Lendl did his best, or worst, to fulfill that birthday wish by playing nearly 4 1/2 hours against another Jaime, Peru's Jaime Yzaga, before winning 7-2 (7-2), 6-1, 7-5, 4-6, 6-3. Lendl stretched out the agony, falling on four match points in the last two games, until he clinched it with his 17th ace.

The long match briefly delayed the night session, but Jennifer Capriati didn't make the crowd wait much longer than necessary for Connors as she rushed past Sandrine Testud 6-2, 6-1, 6-2. A loss by Lendl would have meant a seedless path for Connors to at least the fourth round, similar to the route he took a year ago in his dramatic surge to the semifinals.

Stephan Edberg, all of 26, shuddered at the thought of another 14 years on the nonstop tour after he began defense of his U.S. Open title Wednesday with a smooth 7-5, 7-5, 6-2 victory over Luiz Mattar.

"I don't think I will be playing at that stage," Edberg said. "He is very exceptional. He has been lucky, hasn't had too many injuries. He has a very light body, and he has been able to keep going, having the motivation. I don't think I can. It would be too tough.""No, I don't think I will be playing at that stage," Edberg said. "I am very exceptional. He has been lucky, hasn't had too many injuries. He has a very light body, and he has been able to keep going, having the motivation. I don't think I can. It would be too tough.""Selos, the women's defending champion and top seed, reached the third round by beating NCAA champion Lisa Raymond, 7-5, 6-0, then smiled about the notion of playing to 40, a lifetime away.

Chang, 20 years old and already a pro for five years, couldn't imagine sticking around another 20 years.

"I honestly feel that it would be difficult," said Chang, the

It is a quieter Open this year

NEW YORK (AP) — Once a noisy, raucous place that drove players to distraction, the National Tennis Center is undergoing an image transplant.

Welcome to the happy-go-lucky U.S. Open, a kinder, gentler tournament where this year’s logo ought to be a smiley face.

Now understand, this is a place where planes once zoomed overhead perilously close, it seemed, to the action, a place where fans often ignore the chair umpire’s plea “Silence, please,” a place player Kevin Curren once suggested bombing into oblivion.

The planes are gone, their flight patterns changed for the second straight year at the best of Mayor David Dinkins, a tennis enthusiast.

The fans remain the fans.

"No way," said Kevin Curren, a tennis enthusiast. "No way. They are just really enthusiastic and tossed like so much red meat to Martina Navratilova in the first round.

Stefan Edberg, shown here at the match at the U.S. Open with a 7-5, 7-5, 6-2 win over Luis Mattar and tossed like so much red meat to Martina Navratilova in the first round.

"They are just really enthusiastic in the New York way," said Curren. "The visitors would be greeted warmly. There are, you see, no strangers and no jeers here. Just grins all around. Win or lose, everybody is happy to be here. Northwest was that more obvious than with Shawn Stafford, ranked No. 160 in the world Masters, won his second round and tossed like so much red meat to Martina Navratilova in the first round.

Stafford laughed her way through three sets, coming close to upsetting the Grand Dame of women’s tennis. She laughed when she made points and she laughed when she missed points.

Dave Fish Photo

NEW YORK (AP) — Ivan Lendl offered, then took back, the best 40th birthday present Jimmy Connors could have wanted at the U.S. Open.

Nothing would have pleased Connors more than taking the stadium court Wednesday night against Brazil’s Jaime Osins after a first-round loss by Lendl, seeded to meet the winner in the second round.

Lendl did his best, or worst, to fulfill that birthday wish by playing nearly 4 1/2 hours against another Jaime, Peru’s Jaime Yzaga, before winning 7-2 (7-2), 6-1, 7-5, 4-6, 6-3. Lendl stretched out the agony, falling on four match points in the last two games, until he clinched it with his 17th ace.

The long match briefly delayed the night session, but Jennifer Capriati didn’t make the crowd wait much longer than necessary for Connors as she rushed past Sandrine Testud 6-2, 6-1, 6-2. A loss by Lendl would have meant a seedless path for Connors to at least the fourth round, similar to the route he took a year ago in his dramatic surge to the semifinals.

Stephan Edberg, all of 26, shuddered at the thought of another 14 years on the nonstop tour after he began defense of his U.S. Open title Wednesday with a smooth 7-5, 7-5, 6-2 victory over Luiz Mattar.

"No, I don’t think I will be playing at that stage," Edberg said. "I am very exceptional. He has been lucky, hasn’t had too many injuries. He has a very light body, and he has been able to keep going, having the motivation. I don’t think I can. It would be too tough.""Selos, the women’s defending champion and top seed, reached the third round by beating NCAA champion Lisa Raymond, 7-5, 6-0, then smiled about the notion of playing to 40, a lifetime away.

Chang, 20 years old and already a pro for five years, couldn’t imagine sticking around another 20 years.

"I honestly feel that it would be difficult," said Chang, the

Edberg, Chang have easier time

Notre Dame Accounting Association

Informational Meeting

Thurs. September 3

7:00 P.M.

RM. 027 Hayes Healy

Agenda:

Discuss Upcoming Events
Collect $5 dues for year

All Students Are Welcome

J.CREW FACTORY STORE

701 Lighthouse Place
Michigan City, IN (219) 873-9292

*Offer valid two weeks from publication date. Available in limited colors and sizes.
Vincent’s fate in hands of baseball owners

NEW YORK (AP) — Baseball owners will gather Thursday afternoon at an airport hotel outside Chicago to discuss Gay Vincent, but it’s still unclear if they will pressure him to quit as commissioner or attempt to fire him.

It appeared Wednesday that representatives of all 26 teams would attend the special meeting, called by the league presidents last week over Vincent’s objection. The commissioner will not attend because he says the Major League Agreement prohibits discussion of the terms and duties of the incumbent.

“I really don’t expect that he will be fired on Thursday,” Chicago White Sox owner Jerry Reinsdorf said. “I just don’t know what’s going to happen. We have a lot of things to talk about.”

It appeared 13 or 14 teams were against Vincent and that 10-12 were supporting him. The views of the San Diego Padres and Detroit Tigers were unclear.

“I know that there’s a majority that’s not going to be behind him,” Philadelphia Phillies owner Bill Giles said. “How many, I don’t know.”

Because the Major League Agreement doesn’t have a mechanism for firing a commissioner, it also was unclear what options were available to the disenfranchised owners. An attempted firing would lead to a court fight that could tie up baseball’s administration for a lengthy time.

The anti-Vincent group, by many accounts, is led by Reinsdorf, Bud Selig of the Milwaukee Brewers, Stanton Cook of the Chicago Cubs and Peter O’Malley of the Los Angeles Dodgers.

“Doesn’t the board of directors fire its chairman or its president if it’s not satisfied that the chairman or the president is (not) doing what the board of directors wants done?” Reinsdorf asked. “These franchises are owned by the owners, so to speak, and the commissioner is the employee of the owners. And if the commissioner is not doing a good job for the owners, then he ought to be dismissed.”

Reinsdorf’s view has changed completely from the early morning of March 19, 1990, when he praised Vincent’s role in the four-year agreement between the clubs and the Major League Baseball Players Association.

Irish

continued from page 16

outside hitter who logged 32 kills last year. With only these two plus six freshmen on the published roster, inexperience is a concern for the coach.

“We’ll go to Javonne as much as possible,” Bertoli said, “but her supporting cast has to contribute, and I think they will. Our new players are stronger all around than the ones we lost from last year.”

The match is the first ever between the two schools.
THE FAR SIDE

Indispensable workers on any porcupine ranch, these amazing dogs will sometimes run across the backs of their charges.

CAMPUS

Thursday, September 3, 1992

8 a.m. - 3:30 p.m. "Dirty Book Sale." Concourse, Hesburgh Library. Admission Free. Sponsored by University of Notre Dame Press.

8 p.m. and 10:30 p.m. Film: "Crazy People," Cushing Auditorium.

SAINT MARY'S NOTRE DAME

Baked Potato Bar
Veal Parmesan Grinder
Chinese Bar
Pasta Primavera
Roast Beef
Whipped Potatoes

American Heart Association

Controlling your blood pressure can reduce your chances of heart disease. Have your blood pressure checked. And keep it in check for life.
Sports

Irish volleyball to face seasoned killer

Brooks to lead New Orleans against Notre Dame at JACC

By DAN PIER
Sports Writer

After disposing of a balanced Ball State squad in the season opener, the Notre Dame volleyball team will try its hand against a one-woman wrecking crew tonight as All-America candidate Javonne Brooks leads the University of New Orleans to a 1-0 record in the NCAA's South Central Region.

After three seasons, Brooks, an outside hitter, stands 11th on the NCAA all-time career kills list. She could vault into the number one spot with 714 kills this season, a mark she surpassed in both her freshman and sophomore campaigns. Brooks broke the school and Sun Belt Conference records with 5.0 kills per game last year. She holds the school season, career season and blocking and hitting records, along with the career record.

Irish head coach Debbie Brown has never seen Brooks play, but is impressed with the senior's statistics.

"She had 1,197 attack attempts last year," Brown said. "Do you think she'll get some swings? She also had a high attack percentage (.345) with that many attempts. We need to work on our blocking." While Brooks is a concern, Brown feels that playing their own game is more important for the Irish. She cited a lack of spirit as a problem in Tuesday night's game.

"We need to play with more enthusiasm and emotion," the coach told her team. "We really need to celebrate good plays. The level of emotion was significantly less than in last year's opener against Purdue." Brown also expects her team to improve its execution in tonight's match.

"We did not reach our goal for team hitting percentage against Ball State," Brown noted. "When you're playing against teams that aren't nationally ranked, it's not easy to be up, but you still need to execute well." The Irish enter the match at 1-0 for the season after finishing last year 26-10. New Orleans played its first match last night at Illinois State. Head coach Jim Bertolli led the Buc-kettes to a 17-16 record in 1991, his first season at the helm. New Orleans finished fourth in the Sun Belt West division.

The Buc-kettes have only one returning letter-winner in Brooks' supporting cast. Jennifer Pokraka is a sophomore, while senior out-fielder Grant and Rose Courtney, while a junior, was named Pitcher of the Year in his summer league for his play for the Champaign County Chamois.

The Observer/Jake Peters

ND baseball players hone skills

By MATT BOWER
Sports Writer

While many athletes look forward to the summer months as an opportunity to relax, Irish baseball players bus themselves by competing in numerous summer leagues. Summer leagues are important for college players hoping to improve according to Notre Dame baseball coach Pat Murphy.

"Summer leagues are an unwritten requirement for college players. They provide a relaxed environment where players can work on their games," Murphy said.

In order to build upon Notre Dame's 11th place finish in the NCAA tournament, several players chose to participate in leagues throughout the country.

Some players, like senior outfielder Edwin Hartwell, played in leagues in the Northeast. Hartwell earned all-league honors playing in Northeastern Collegiate Baseball League. Other, more adventurous, players chose to journey as far away as Alaska in order to hone their skills. Sophomore Craig Allen, junior Greg Lasson, and senior Eric Danapilis all spent their summer playing for the Anchorage Glacier Pilots.

Three Irish players spent the summer playing in the Cape Cod League. Sophomore shortstop Paul Failla ended the season batting .225 in the league noted for its strong pitching. "It will help us out a lot in the spring," said Failla, "Playing every day and seeing great pitching every day." The Observer/Jake Peters

DuBose responds to suspension

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (AP) — Demetrius DuBose is ready to take his lumps for accepting a $600 loan from a Seattle couple with ties to the university. But he's dead certain he doesn't deserve them.

"I was a young man," said DuBose, a junior, following his first hearing before the student conduct board on Wednesday. "I was a young man and I made a mistake." DuBose is accused of stealing $4,000 from the student loan fund.

"I still feel I was wrongly accused," he said. "I really don't feel I did anything wrong. A situation like this, you learn who your real friends are, and you learn a lot of things aren't fair." DuBose said he needed the money for "spending, casual spending — pizza, those kinds of things."

He noted Notre Dame's "upper middle class environment" and said, "For a young athlete to be from a lower income family, it's hard to really take some of the financial burdens."

DuBose said he met the couple, Grant and Rose Courtney, while a sophomore at Bishop O'Dea High School in Seattle. Courtney is president of Sports