Bush proposes tax alternative to bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — On the verge of vetoing a family leave bill for the second time, President Bush on Wednesday belatedly proposed a $500 million tax credit alternative to the Democrats' compulsory proposal. Bush complained it was "very peculiar and highly political" for the Democrats to wait this late in the election year to renew the fight over whether businesses should be required to give workers unpaid time off to care for a newborn child or sick relative.

But Bush, who has positioned the GOP as the defender of family values, told the nation's voters a year ago that Democrats sat on their proposal for a year. "Unfortunately, they and my opponents believe in a government-dictated mandate that opponents believe in a government-dictated mandate," said Bush, referring to the birth of a child, adoption or a sickness in the family.

Bush's proposal would allow businesses with fewer than 500 workers to write off their taxes up to $20 per day for as many as 60 days of leave a year per worker, for a maximum of $1,200 per employee. The White House said Bush would require employers to give workers tax credits by cutting other spending. Rep. Newt Gingrich of Georgia, the minority whip, said Bush would propose trimming doctors' and hospitals' lab fees and other administrative costs paid for by the government.

Bush said at a meeting with GOP senators that "there's $60 billion that (the Office of Management and Budget) doesn't know about where we can allocate to this." Rep. Patricia Schroeder, D-Colo., called Bush's proposal "half-baked" and said if Bush knew where $60 billion is he should spend some of it on Head Start, immunization and nutrition programs for poor children.

White House Press Secretary Marlin Fitzwater said nine out of 10 workers in big- and medium-sized companies already have family leave plans.

"The great need is at the lower end," he said, but the Democrats' bill "doesn't apply to companies under 50 people.

Fitzwater said the White House made overtures before to the Democratic leaders, but they refused to discuss anything that was not mandated.

The family leave bill passed both chambers with bipartisan support, and Republican backers expressed skepticism at Bush's tax-credit proposal.

Rep. Marjorie叟kema, R-N.J., said the "somehow perplexed" by the timing of Bush's proposal. "It may be an interesting supplement, but it is not a substitute for this bill," she said.

Students cheered ND walk-on

By MICHELLE CROUCH

With one minute remaining in the Notre Dame-Georgia Tech game in 1972, one student started chanting "We want Rudy! We want Rudy!" Soon, the whole student section had picked up the chant.

The Irish were beating Georgia Tech 24-3 with 27 seconds remaining when walk-on Dan "Rudy" Ruettiger went on the game as defensive end.

Rutteiger played the first two downs of his college career, made one tackle for a five-yard-loss and was nd '76 football player to be subject of film shot on campus

By SARAH DORAN

The story of 1976 Notre Dame graduate and football player Daniel "Rudy" Ruettiger will be the subject of a feature film that will be shot entirely on campus later this fall, according to Richard Conklin, associate vice president for University relations.

The film, "Rudy," is not a football film, said Conklin. "It is an account of the human spirit, relationships, people having dreams, Blue Collar life and the dream of a son in a Catholic family of fourteen," he said.

Rutteiger came up with the idea for the film when he addressed a Notre Dame Club in 1990. Conklin said Rutteiger said by saying that his story should be told to the public, he said. He continued to speak to alumni centers, high schools and organizations that all reiterated the need for the account to be told on a larger basis, he said.

Throughout childhood and adolescence, students are continually sent messages to "Just Say No," he said in a lecture at Saint Mary's yesterday.

Thinking is what students need to do before making decisions about behavior, Keeling said. Ads such as Nike's "Just do it," and the "Just say no" campaign encourage this lack of thought.

"Don't say no, don't just do it," he said. "(Say) I must decide for myself what I am going to do. I've got to make this work for myself." We tend to model what we see," he continued. "Most cultures raise their children that way. We don't know what we are."

Using slides of popular advertisements for clothing, fragrance, athletic shoes, and beauty items to explain how image-oriented media plays on people's low self-concept, Keeling said that society and the media raise children to emulate what they see, and the college experience further adds a unique opportunity to be influenced by new models.

"We want to fit in," he said. "We've got a lot of people to watch. Where we once saw our own experience, we now watch..."
What does life have to offer? The phrase "ND family member is back" has been making its way through your vocabulary and thoughts during the last four months, but definitely one that will make a big appearance over the next eight.

It was an event that occurred 34 weeks ago late tonight that defined the scene for many of us.

On that night, the bus carrying the women's swim team and coaches after a meet at Northwestern slid to a premature halt that resulted in the deaths of two freshman swimmers and the serious injury of a third.

The way that this tragedy brought the University together is something that makes the heart glad. In any way, we mourned the loss of the two women and shared the grief of their families and of the team, we rallied around the recovery of Haley Scott, who suffered a grave spinal injury that shattered a portion of her backbone and left her temporarily paralyzed.

She was supported on her large scale by having each student, instructor, and musician, from the friends of the University and even from random well-wishers who knew nothing about her other than the gravity of her injury.

The campus supported her on a large scale by having each student, instructor, and musician, from the friends of the University and even from random well-wishers who knew nothing about her other than the gravity of her injury.

Any injury to the spine is an extremely serious one that, if one is able to recover from it, can take many years. What is making Scott's story all the more fantastic. She wiggled her toes the Tuesday after the accident. (The feeling of euphoria in her hospital room at the time was temporary paralyzed.

Haley pulled an enormous recovery and regained her mobility, helping in countless ways to alleviate the grief of the tragic accident.

Early this summer while most of Scott's peers were engaged in their summer jobs and relaxation, she underwent two additional surgeries to further correct her injury. Doctors predicted that her recovery would force her to stay at home for the fall semester. But, again, Haley pulled an enormous recovery and regained her mobility.

Throughout our lives we will encounter events that call for our support and aid. In the continuing recovery of Haley Scott, the "ND Family Name" has provided the means of support that is immediately connected to her incredible recovery.

But, more importantly, her character, attitude, determination and recovery has given the "ND Family Name" much more support and recognition than we could ever give her.

The views expressed are those of the author and not necessarily those of The Observer.

Today's Staff

News Alicia Reale Jennifer Habrych

Sports John Jensen

Viewpoint Cheryl Moser

Production Kim Massman Cheryl Moser

Systems Matt Carbone Chris Caracacolo

Accent Laurie Sessa Susan Marx

The Observer (USPS 598 2-4000) is published Monday through Friday except during exam and vacation periods. The Observer is a member of the Associated Press. All reproduction rights are reserved.

Today's Staff

News Alicia Reale Jennifer Habrych

Sports John Jensen

Viewpoint Cheryl Moser

Production Kim Massman Cheryl Moser

Systems Matt Carbone Chris Caracacolo

Accent Laurie Sessa Susan Marx

The Observer (USPS 598 2-4000) is published Monday through Friday except during exam and vacation periods. The Observer is a member of the Associated Press. All reproduction rights are reserved.

Today's Staff

News Alicia Reale Jennifer Habrych

Sports John Jensen

Viewpoint Cheryl Moser

Production Kim Massman Cheryl Moser

Systems Matt Carbone Chris Caracacolo

Accent Laurie Sessa Susan Marx

The Observer (USPS 598 2-4000) is published Monday through Friday except during exam and vacation periods. The Observer is a member of the Associated Press. All reproduction rights are reserved.
LONDON (AP) — Britain frantically tried to stabilize the weakening pound Wednesday by hiking interest rates, buying large amounts of the currency and suspending its foreign-exchange links to other European countries.

Britain's actions intensified a sense that cooperation among the powerful nations of Western Europe is splintering even as they are seeking to forge closer unity.

That added to the monetary turmoil gripping Europe and spread economic anxiety elsewhere, including the United States, which already is grappling with a stunted economy and an uncertain outlook.

Capping one of the most convulsive and frenetic trading days ever, the Treasury announced late Wednesday it would suspend the pound from the European exchange rate mechanism, which sets maximum fluctuation rates for major European currencies.

This means Britain no longer is obligated to use interest rate adjustments to keep the pound within limits specified by agreement with its European trading partners. The move allows the pound to reach whatever level is determined by the global currency market.

"The new exchange rate will depend on what the market likes," British Treasury spokesman Richard Evans said. "The market is so volatile, it's impossible to say what that might be now."

In New York, where financial markets were still open at the time of the announcement, the pound continued to plunge. It was quoted at $1.7990 half an hour after the announcement after falling from $1.8695 during the European trading day.

Earlier in the day, the Bank of England had announced two sharp increases in its base interest rate, from 10 percent to 12 percent. When that failed to lift the pound, the bank raised it a third time.

Amid the announcements Wednesday evening, the bank said it would continue to hike rates if necessary to keep the pound from falling.

Interest rates are a key tool countries use to defend the value of their currencies. Higher rates make a currency worth more but they stifle economic expansion by making it more expensive to borrow.

When one country raises rates, it puts pressure on others to do likewise.

Britain's move was only part of an increasingly chaotic economic situation in Europe that has unsettled financial markets in recent weeks.

Britain tries to stabilize the pound

Thursday, September 17, 1992 The Observer

Britain tries to stabilize the pound Wednesday by hiking interest rates, buying large amounts of the currency and suspending its foreign-exchange links to other European countries.

British actions intensified a sense that cooperation among the powerful nations of Western Europe is splintering even as they are seeking to forge closer unity.

That added to the monetary turmoil gripping Europe and spread economic anxiety elsewhere, including the United States, which already is grappling with a stunted economy and an uncertain outlook.

Capping one of the most convulsive and frenetic trading days ever, the Treasury announced late Wednesday it would suspend the pound from the European exchange rate mechanism, which sets maximum fluctuation rates for major European currencies.

This means Britain no longer is obligated to use interest rate adjustments to keep the pound within limits specified by agreement with its European trading partners. The move allows the pound to reach whatever level is determined by the global currency market.

"The new exchange rate will depend on what the market likes," British Treasury spokesman Richard Evans said. "The market is so volatile, it's impossible to say what that might be now."

In New York, where financial markets were still open at the time of the announcement, the pound continued to plunge. It was quoted at $1.7990 half an hour after the announcement after falling from $1.8695 during the European trading day.

Earlier in the day, the Bank of England had announced two sharp increases in its base interest rate, from 10 percent to 12 percent. When that failed to lift the pound, the bank raised it a third time.

Amid the announcements Wednesday evening, the bank said it would continue to hike rates if necessary to keep the pound from falling.

Interest rates are a key tool countries use to defend the value of their currencies. Higher rates make a currency worth more but they stifle economic expansion by making it more expensive to borrow.

When one country raises rates, it puts pressure on others to do likewise.

Britain's move was only part of an increasingly chaotic economic situation in Europe that has unsettled financial markets in recent weeks.

The Bring Your Buddy Barbecue

• Today •

on Haggar Terrace at Saint Mary's College from 5:30 - 8:00

Plastic cups will be sold at the door

$3 for one, $5 for two

• Live Music •

Palace Laundry

Everyone Welcome!
The Observer/Scott Schell

Bangladesh combats campus terror

DHAKA, Bangladesh (AP) — New anti-terrorism legislation will allow the government to quell riots that break out on university campuses with alarming frequency, Prime Minister Khaleda Zia said.

The bill was approved by the Cabinet on Monday and will be signed into law this week. Zia told The Associated Press.

An earlier attempt to pass anti-terrorism legislation met with stiff resistance from the opposition Awami League, which claimed the ruling party would use the law to suppress its critics.

The new plan will create special tribunals to try terrorist cases within three months of arrest. The courts can impose penalties ranging from the death sentence for murder to five years imprisonment for offenses such as harassing women.

The statute will be subject to approval later by Parliament, which is in recess until next month. Zia's Bangladesh Nationalist Party has a solid majority and passage is expected to be a formality.

Campuses in Bangladesh traditionally are breeding grounds for political activists.

Often, student leaders remain enrolled long after they finish their studies so they can carve out political careers.

In late 1990, the street demonstrations that drove President Hussain Mohammed Ershad from power were engineered from Dhaka University and other campuses around the country.

Keeling continued from page 1

The lives of a lot of other people.

He added that these ads give people conflicting messages, citing an ad for women's razors in which a woman sits in a chair as a man sits at her feet, touching her legs.

"Women get conflicting messages today," he said. "Be powerful, be assertive, don't let anything stand in your way, but when you go for a shave, you have alcohol to have a good time, but all the ads say it's fun," he said.

"The small act of ending the association between beer and sex will end sexually transmitted diseases," he said.

Programs urging students to abstain from alcohol and pressured sex make them aware of the involved dangers, but also conflict with what society tells them, Keeling said.

In this society of television images have spoiled the notion of free thinking for today's youth, Keeling said.

Keeling said that this lack of thinking is what puts this generation at risk for the dangers associated with uncontrolled alcohol consumption and unprotected sex.

A look inside

The coats of the firemen of the Notre Dame fire department hang in place inside the fire station until the firemen's next call.
Clinton describes revival plan in L.A. riot area

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Bill Clinton visited the area of last spring's riots Wednesday, joining students at a practice bank and describing a $1.5 billion program he said would nurture small business and help rebuild poor communities.

"We need to bring free enterprise to South Central Los Angeles" as well as to poor urban and rural communities across the country, he said. "We can move people from welfare to payrolls if we've got a system to do it."

The Democratic presidential candidate released what he described as his community development plan, a more detailed version of part of the economic program he unveiled in June. It included:

- Federal grants to create 100 community banks to provide loans and technical assistance to small entrepreneurs.
- Expansion of tax-deferred Individual Retirement Accounts so money could be withdrawn for business development, with federal matching funds aimed at helping in poor areas.
- A provision allowing people to hold up to $10,000 in assets before losing certain welfare benefits, such as Aid to Families with Dependent Children, compared to the current $1,500 limit.
- Stronger federal efforts to get commercial banks to lend money in poor areas.
- Up to 125 federal tax-reduced "enterprise zones" to attract business to areas with high unemployment, a Reagan administration concept.

"You can't have capitalism and free enterprise without capital," Clinton said. "We could revitalize South Central Los Angeles in a very short time" with the right business incentives, he said.

Bad checks, ethical lapses take toll on incumbents

WASHINGTON (AP) — Bad checks, ethical lapses and other questionable behavior are taking their toll on congressional candidates in a primary season that already has set a record for bounced incumbents.

Problem checks at the House bank played a significant role in the defeats Tuesday of Reps. Stephen Solarz, D-N.Y., and Chester Atkins, D-Mass.

Their losses bring to 19 the number of House incumbents so far, one more than the record set in 1946. More defeats are certain in the few remaining primaries, with Louisiana's Oct. 3 open primary featuring two incumbent-vs.-incumbent races.

And even more lawmakers are expected to fall in Nov.

"It's not a surprise," author Suzanne Garment said of the latest primary results. "Americans have always hated politicians in general and have been quite tolerant of their own representatives."

"For the past 25 years, nothing has come out of Washington but scandal news..."

Mom sues to stop T.V. ads

JEFFERSONVILLE, Ind. (AP) — A woman has filed a lawsuit to stop four Louisville, Ky., television stations from broadcasting graphic anti-abortion ads sponsored by congressional candidate Michael Bailey.

Kathryn Copeland of Jeffersonville said she is "just a mom, trying to protect her kids" after she filed the lawsuit Monday in U.S. District Court in New Albany on behalf of her 8-year-old son, Christopher, and 7-year-old daughter, Katie.

Copeland is seeking Judge S. Hugh Dillin for an immediate injunction against the ads' airings.

Bailey's campaign ads are "no different from showing bodies from other atrocities." The lawsuit's claim that the spots are obscene will fail, he said, because they are not sexual in nature.
IMF predicts slow world economic growth over next two years

WASHINGTON (AP) — The International Monetary Fund said Wednesday that the world economy, having survived through the first year of a three-year recession, was still fragile and could be hurt by a slowdown in the U.S. or a pickup in inflation.

The IMF said the world economy was growing more slowly than expected and that the 1.5 percent annual growth in 1991, when the recession began, could drop to 1.2 percent this year. The agency, which will release its World Economic Outlook on Thursday, said a rebound in the U.S. economy could boost growth rates for 1993, but that a slowdown in the U.S. or elsewhere could still cause a global recession.

The IMF said the world economy was growing more slowly than expected and that the 1.5 percent annual growth in 1991, when the recession began, could drop to 1.2 percent this year. The agency, which will release its World Economic Outlook on Thursday, said a rebound in the U.S. economy could boost growth rates for 1993, but that a slowdown in the U.S. or elsewhere could still cause a global recession.

Lloyd Bentsen
dress the environmental shortcomings of the NAFTA in a forthright manner, the administration has essentially rejected to empty rhetoric, he said.

Sen. Tom Daschle explained the environmental impacts of the agreement, saying the president had not done enough to address environmental concerns.

Baucus has called on the administration to report treaties, including the NAFTA, that will impact the environment and worker retraining strategies.

"Rather than attempt to address the environmental issue - ensuring that all parties to the agreement, including Mexico, enforce adequate environmental standards - congressional leaders and their IMF's forecasting project, world growth prospects were being harmed by a "crisis of confidence" among consumers and businesses that their elected leaders will fail to deal with such problems as the trade deficit, budget deficit, and interest rates and currency values.

European officials urged Wednesday to cope with a current account crisis in a "very forthright manner," however, the IMF reported that the forecast was revised downward this year to 1.1 percent from

Trade deficit soars in second quarter

WASHINGTON (AP) — American's overall trade deficit soared from $21.7 billion from April through June last year, compared with $17.8 billion from April through June this year, the government said today.

The Commerce Department said the deficit had been the worst showing since the U.S. economy was in the midst of a recession in 1991. The deficit was the largest since a 22.9 billion deficit in the second quarter of 1985.

The Commerce Department said the deficit had been the worst showing since the U.S. economy was in the midst of a recession in 1991. The deficit was the largest since a 22.9 billion deficit in the second quarter of 1985.

The Commerce Department said the deficit had been the worst showing since the U.S. economy was in the midst of a recession in 1991. The deficit was the largest since a 22.9 billion deficit in the second quarter of 1985.

But many economists believe the deficit could shoot up to $25 billion in the second half of the year, compared with $21.7 billion in the second quarter of 1991.

But many economists believe the deficit could shoot up to $25 billion in the second half of the year, compared with $21.7 billion in the second quarter of 1991.

But many economists believe the deficit could shoot up to $25 billion in the second half of the year, compared with $21.7 billion in the second quarter of 1991.

"These economists say the deficit likely will widen because of shrinking export sales due to weak European economies and the completion of Persian Gulf war rearmament. Desert Storm contributed to $42.4 billion last year.

Any deterioration in the trade gap could hurt President Bush's re-election efforts. Democrats complain he has not done enough to open foreign markets to U.S. exports. But the deficit is considered the broadest measure of the nation's international competitiveness because it tracks not only trade in merchandise but also investment flows in a way that captures the gap in $23.6 billion in 1991.

But many economists believe the deficit could shoot up to $25 billion in the second half of the year, compared with $21.7 billion in the second quarter of 1991.

"These economists say the deficit likely will widen because of shrinking export sales due to weak European economies and the completion of Persian Gulf war rearmament. Desert Storm contributed to $42.4 billion last year.

Any deterioration in the trade gap could hurt President Bush's re-election efforts. Democrats complain he has not done enough to open foreign markets to U.S. exports. But the deficit is considered the broadest measure of the nation's international competitiveness because it tracks not only trade in merchandise but also investment flows in a way that captures the gap in $23.6 billion in 1991.

But many economists believe the deficit could shoot up to $25 billion in the second half of the year, compared with $21.7 billion in the second quarter of 1991.

"These economists say the deficit likely will widen because of shrinking export sales due to weak European economies and the completion of Persian Gulf war rearmament. Desert Storm contributed to $42.4 billion last year.

Any deterioration in the trade gap could hurt President Bush's re-election efforts. Democrats complain he has not done enough to open foreign markets to U.S. exports. But the deficit is considered the broadest measure of the nation's international competitiveness because it tracks not only trade in merchandise but also investment flows in a way that captures the gap in $23.6 billion in 1991.

But many economists believe the deficit could shoot up to $25 billion in the second half of the year, compared with $21.7 billion in the second quarter of 1991.

"These economists say the deficit likely will widen because of shrinking export sales due to weak European economies and the completion of Persian Gulf war rearmament. Desert Storm contributed to $42.4 billion last year.

Any deterioration in the trade gap could hurt President Bush's re-election efforts. Democrats complain he has not done enough to open foreign markets to U.S. exports. But the deficit is considered the broadest measure of the nation's international competitiveness because it tracks not only trade in merchandise but also investment flows in a way that captures the gap in $23.6 billion in 1991.

But many economists believe the deficit could shoot up to $25 billion in the second half of the year, compared with $21.7 billion in the second quarter of 1991.

"These economists say the deficit likely will widen because of shrinking export sales due to weak European economies and the completion of Persian Gulf war rearmament. Desert Storm contributed to $42.4 billion last year.

Any deterioration in the trade gap could hurt President Bush's re-election efforts. Democrats complain he has not done enough to open foreign markets to U.S. exports. But the deficit is considered the broadest measure of the nation's international competitiveness because it tracks not only trade in merchandise but also investment flows in a way that captures the gap in $23.6 billion in 1991.
Dear Editor:

I can't help but ask—did anyone else see the irony in the content and location of Governor Clinton's speech last Friday?

He cites the U.S. Catholic Bishop's letter on the economy "Economic Justice For All" and "Putting Children First" in order to advocateatholic policies for parental leave, health care reform and the provision of government subsidized child care centers.

Yet, the policies he hopes to enact for the national economy are not even applied on this most Catholic of campuses. Faculty and staff lack access to parental leave.

No on-site child care center exists and according to a recent survey by the Catholic Student Union many married student families do not have health insurance for their spouses or children.

Will it take the election of a Southern Baptist to the presidency of the United States to make the Catholic social policy effective on the Notre Dame campus?

Reynold F. Nebbia
Off-campus
Sept. 12, 1992

Reaction to candidate shows hypocrisy

Dear Editor:

Having witnessed the manner in which the University community was treated, I am reminded of the proverbial "red carpet" for the visit of Mr. Bill Clinton (who is rumored to be some kind of political candidate) this year's valedictorian to the University (or elements thereof) with a certain reaction. The visit of one Mr. Bill Clinton last Friday (who is rumored to be some kind of political candidate) was to invite last year's valedictorian to the dais before his speech last Friday, immediately before his speech. Mr. Clinton's speech has left me perplexed, since Notre Dame's liberals have again protested yet another political candidate speeches in general and the Clinton endorsement of Bush is not.

I must contest such an overly hasty conclusion, since our liberals made it clear in both 1988 and prior to last year's graduation that they are opposed to candidate speeches in general on principle alone.

I refuse to doubt their word, since Notre Dame's liberals once again proved last week by failing to protest last week's campaign speech) that they are indeed honorable men and women, who "stick to their guns" with no hypocrisy and double standard whatsoever.

By I not I

(Paul Rowe)

The Observer is the independent newspaper published by the students of the University of Notre Dame du Lac and Saint Mary's College. It does not necessarily reflect the policies of the administration of either institution. The views of the editors of The Observer are not necessarily those of the editors of the university campus. Column space is available to all members of the community and the free expression of varying opinions on campus through letters is encouraged.

GARY TRUDEAU

QUOTE OF THE DAY

"Golden lads and girls all must, as chimney-sweepers, come to dust." —William Shakespeare
Drunkenness wastes lives

Jon-Paul Hurt
Guest Columnist

In the newspaper that a promising young life was destroyed because some mindless jerk drove home after slamming his brain with alcohol.

Even my life was almost taken when a drunk driver hit me one time while I was driving home. Luckily, I only had a broken left femur, left hand, and left clavicle.

Had I not been wearing my seat belt, I would not be typing this letter right now. But I'm still angry because six weeks of my life became a living hell because of therapy and rehabilitation. The worst was that nothing happened to the guy who hit me. He walked out of his car, failed every alcohol test given to him, spent a night in jail, and that was it. It makes me sick to think about it.

The negative effects of alcohol outweigh any positive aspects by a factor so great that it would be much better if alcohol didn't exist. But I realize that this would be impossible. I will remain in the quagmire and risk the consequences.

Drunkenness wastes lives.

Speaker to address economic issues

Dear Editor:

In Abraham Lincoln's Second Annual Message to Congress, Dec. 1, 1862, he wrote, "As our cases are extreme, we think anew and act anew." In American society today this challenge is particularly evident in an election year as citizens face the deeply rooted problems of modern America virtually every night on the evening news, in the daily newspapers, and in their own lives.

Throughout the 1992-93 school year, the Ideas and Issues Committee of the Student Union Board hopes to bring in lecturers who are compelling professors to reexamine the ways that we look at the world today. Such speakers would cover a wide variety of issues that affect the individual on different levels depending on what issues they deem of importance in today's world.

The entire series is entitled "Thinking Anew" and was developed chiefly by Prof. Joan Aldous and Prof. Lynn Spellman of Notre Dame's sociology department. The first speaker in the series will be Prof. Frank Levy. The title of his speech is "Economy and the 1992 Election" and will take place on Sept. 7, 1992 at 7:30 p.m. in the LaFollette Ballroom (formerly known as Theodores).

Prof. Levy is currently the Director of Research at the Bureau of Labor Statistics. His speech will cover the current economic issues in the Department of Urban Studies and Planning at Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

Prof. Levy specializes in trends in incomes and standards of living. Our committee invites the student body for what promises to be a very interesting and thought-provoking speech and a chance to meet the professor after his speech.

Dear Editor:

I was very interested in seeing and hearing Gov. Clinton Friday. I got in line at 10:20 a.m. behind perhaps 150 people. He had come quite early. By 11:55 the line snaked back and forth in front of the court house, then all the way over the basketball courts, but I was right behind the first bend in the line.

Then the doors were opened. I did not get in line at 11:25 or breakfast the day before. The Notre Dame students simply did not behave this way, that I tried to follow the line. I was naive. The people at the end of the line got in, including many who had just arrived. At 12:55 p.m. the doors were closed. I did not get in, nor did others who had come even earlier. We got to hear the speech only as a result of the students.

Jon-Paul Hurt is a sophomore in the College of Arts and Letters in Grace Hall.

'Peculiar octopus' engulfs sophomore class

Dear Editor:

As sophomores, we have an interest in the role of those elite few who rule our class council. Actually, this elite few is comprised of no less than thirty people.

We understand the need for a large number of people to manage the limited affairs of our class. Nevertheless, we cannot fathom any need for the group of thirty-nine, thirty people.

Nor can we begin to comprehend why putting together a Class Mass takes the concerted effort of seven intelligent individuals.

Can we begin to comprehend why putting together a Class Mass takes the concerted effort of seven intelligent individuals.

We cannot perform this task because the organization requires three chiefs of staff to function efficiently.

We also question a selection process that leads to the appointment of the two-roommates of the president, and three of the roommates of the vice-president to the class council.

We can understand the doling out of appointments to our friends, but bartering of this magnitude is entirely inapplicable.

We can understand the doling out of appointments to our friends, but bartering of this magnitude is entirely inapplicable.

We expect our sophomore class council to play an extensive role in planning activities, but the officers, by creating this "octopus," have restrained their ability to function as an efficient organization.

We feel that all the members are dedicated and interested students who cannot perform their duties in such a large framework.

Dear Editor:

I was very interested in seeing and hearing Gov. Clinton Friday. I got in line at 10:20 a.m. behind perhaps 150 people. He had come quite early. By 11:55 the line snaked back and forth in front of the court house, then all the way over the basketball courts, but I was right behind the first bend in the line.

Then the doors were opened. I did not get in line at 11:25 or breakfast the day before. The Notre Dame students simply did not behave this way, that I tried to follow the line. I was naive. The people at the end of the line got in, including many who had just arrived. At 12:55 p.m. the doors were closed. I did not get in, nor did others who had come even earlier. We got to hear the speech only as a result of the students.

Jon-Paul Hurt is a sophomore in the College of Arts and Letters in Grace Hall.

Tutoring program needs student volunteers

Dear Editor:

The Neighborhood Study Holp Program sponsors tutoring programs between tutors and students at South Bend area schools.

We provide the transportation.

If you can commit two hours a week, we will probably have a student from the South Bend area whom you can tutor.

Dear Editor:

I was very interested in seeing and hearing Gov. Clinton Friday. I got in line at 10:20 a.m. behind perhaps 150 people. He had come quite early. By 11:55 the line snaked back and forth in front of the court house, then all the way over the basketball courts, but I was right behind the first bend in the line.

Then the doors were opened. I did not get in line at 11:25 or breakfast the day before. The Notre Dame students simply did not behave this way, that I tried to follow the line. I was naive. The people at the end of the line got in, including many who had just arrived. At 12:55 p.m. the doors were closed. I did not get in, nor did others who had come even earlier. We got to hear the speech only as a result of the students.

Jon-Paul Hurt is a sophomore in the College of Arts and Letters in Grace Hall.

Tutoring program needs student volunteers

Dear Editor:

The Neighborhood Study Holp Program sponsors tutoring programs between tutors and students at South Bend area schools.

We provide the transportation.

If you can commit two hours a week, we will probably have a student from the South Bend area whom you can tutor.

Dear Editor:

The Neighborhood Study Holp Program sponsors tutoring programs between tutors and students at South Bend area schools.

We provide the transportation.

If you can commit two hours a week, we will probably have a student from the South Bend area whom you can tutor.

Dear Editor:

I was very interested in seeing and hearing Gov. Clinton Friday. I got in line at 10:20 a.m. behind perhaps 150 people. He had come quite early. By 11:55 the line snaked back and forth in front of the court house, then all the way over the basketball courts, but I was right behind the first bend in the line.

Then the doors were opened. I did not get in line at 11:25 or breakfast the day before. The Notre Dame students simply did not behave this way, that I tried to follow the line. I was naive. The people at the end of the line got in, including many who had just arrived. At 12:55 p.m. the doors were closed. I did not get in, nor did others who had come even earlier. We got to hear the speech only as a result of the students.

Jon-Paul Hurt is a sophomore in the College of Arts and Letters in Grace Hall.
Irish influence

Irish band The Drovers will perform tonight at Club Shenanian's

By ROLANDO DE AGUIAR

Irish-influenced music has made big strides all over the world in recent years. Belated by the international phenomenon of U2, American audiences and record labels have latched on to many Irish acts. But the Chieftains, Pogues, and Waterboys have all been spreading the gospel of Dule and fiddle to the masses, enjoying varying levels of international success.

Tonight, Chicago's Drovers will bring their own brand of Irish-inspired rock to Club Shenanian, playing their first show in greater Chicagoland since an early 1991 appearance at Theodore's in LaFortune Student Center. The Drovers second album release, Waterboys will bring their own brand of Irish music as well as more traditional Irish music as well as entertaining Irish bands. The Drovers' ability to play both and the band draws to a song. A Drovers set runs for at least two solid hours, with the band drawing primarily from their own material, but also covering standards such as the Rolling Stones' "You Can't Always Get What You Want" and old Irish tunes.

The Drovers were first founded in 1988 by fiddle player Sean Cleland, who remains the heart of the trio. Beginning as last-minute fillers, the group has had music featured in the movie Backdraft, and has performed at the CMU Music Seminar in New York as well as the Grand Ole Opry.

The Drovers' ability to play both hard-core traditional Irish music as well as more rock-oriented songs gives the band the broad appeal which apparently enjoys. Drummer Jackie Moran is a frequent headbanger, too.

But according to all reports, the Drovers' strength is in their live show. A Drovers set runs for at least two solid hours, with the band drawing primarily from their own material, but also covering standards such as the Rolling Stones' "You Can't Always Get What You Want" and old Irish tunes.

The Drovers were first founded in 1988 by fiddle player Sean Cleland, who remains the heart of the trio. Beginning as last-minute fillers, the group has had music featured in the movie Backdraft, and has performed at the CMU Music Seminar in New York as well as the Grand Ole Opry.

The Drovers' ability to play both hard-core traditional Irish music as well as more rock-oriented songs gives the band the broad appeal which apparently enjoys. Drummer Jackie Moran is a frequent headbanger, too.

The Drovers (above) are performing their Irish influenced original music tonight at Club Shenanian's. Their second album release, World of Monsters (below), was released last spring on the group's own Tantrum Records.

Headbangers' ball

Tesla awakens audience at Joyce ACC

By PAUL PEARSON

Associate News Editor

Tesla isn't quite ready for the obituary page just yet.

The California-based hard rock band proved they can still rock like pros at their concert Wednesday at the Joyce ACC.

Tesla played most of the songs from its latest album, "Psychotic Supper." One of their new singles, "Song and a Prayer," sound like an actual romantic singer instead of the usual his caterwauling heaviness.

One of the main strengths of the show was the ongoing duel between guitarists Frank Hannon and Tommy Skeoch. The two musicians (for musicians they are) spent the night seeing who could belt out the loudest chords, play the quickest notes and make the instruments weep the saddest.

This battle had no casualties. It only produced good rock 'n' roll.

All of the songs seemed to be the products of musical teamwork between the guitarists, bassist Brian Wheat and drummer Troy Luccketta. Every musician seemed to know when to be loud and when to drop back into a supportive role.

Skeoch's effort was quite impressive, but Hannon clearly won the battle on the strength of a 5-minute bluesy acoustic interlude leading up to the song "What You Give."

"Love Song," Tesla's top ballad, seems to be designed so that Keith could sing it and sound like an actual romantic singer instead of the usual his caterwauling heaviness.

Tesla even broke a time-honored concert tradition. After finishing "Love Song," instead of hiding behind the amps and waiting for the audience to work itself into a frenzy before the encore, Keith simply asked the people "Are you satisfied? The way we see it, you either want to hear one more or you go."

Nothing revolutionary, but then again, nothing meriting an obituary either.

Tesla's opening act, Firehouse, displayed everything bad about MTV. They even look like the typical glam-rock, made-for-the-screen band: The bare-chested singer, the guitarist who played exclusively at the top octave, the bassist who played and shook his head rhythmically (nothing else) and the drummer who spent the show tossing sticks like a halftime baton-twirler.

It's too bad they couldn't play as well as they looked. In general, you cannot trust a band that measures itself by how loud they can play and sing. And they played as loud as they could, even on their ballad "Love of a Lifetime."

At one point, believe it or not, Firehouse's lead singer chided the people sitting down in the audience for symbolizing the "MTV-couch potato" generation. This struck me as a bit like biting the hand that feeds you. Gentlemen, would you be on a nationwide tour without the help of Music Television? From the show you put on Wednesday night, I sincerely doubt it.
Two of five fab ruled for payed players

The Observer, Thursday, September 10, 1992

ANN ARBOR, Mich. (AP) — Three Michigan basketball players — including standouts Stacey King and Chris Webber — have been declared ineligible until the NCAA decides whether to uphold the rules by which they were being paid for some appearances. Coach Lon Kruger and senior Eric Riley were declared ineligible for an indefinite period of time, said Percy Bates, the university's faculty representative to the NCAA.

The declaration was included in a report Michigan submitted to the NCAA late last week. The report answers questions that arose when the three were paid $300 each to appear in a basketball tournament in Holland last month.

The report, which Bates said was routine, also addressed questions about the appearance of three other players at summer camps. The report asks if the NCAA should restore the players' eligibility.

"This is a routine posture to take when reporting such matters," Bates said. "But we expect it to be a short order. It should not be an issue as far as games are concerned.

The NCAA could restore the players' eligibility, suspend them from some games, or levy other sanctions against the basketball program. It also could investigate its own regulations.

Janet Justus, the NCAA's director of eligibility, said Wednesday she expects a decision to be made in two to four weeks.

Webber, Roselle and Riley all played key roles in the Wolverines' national championship game last spring.

Rose, a point guard, led the team. Webber, a forward, was named the Big Ten's Freshman of the Year after becoming the first Big Ten freshman to win the Naismith Trophy in last season's rebaking. Riley was the Wolverines' top scorer.

Almost every classified ad follows the same routine posture to take when reporting such matters. "This is a routine posture to take when reporting such matters," Bates said. "But we expect it to be a short order. It should not be an issue as far as games are concerned.

The NCAA could restore the players' eligibility, suspend them from some games, or levy other sanctions against the basketball program. It also could investigate its own regulations.

Janet Justus, the NCAA's director of eligibility, said Wednesday she expects a decision to be made in two to four weeks.

Almost every classified ad follows the same routine posture to take when reporting such matters. "This is a routine posture to take when reporting such matters," Bates said. "But we expect it to be a short order. It should not be an issue as far as games are concerned.

The NCAA could restore the players' eligibility, suspend them from some games, or levy other sanctions against the basketball program. It also could investigate its own regulations.

Janet Justus, the NCAA's director of eligibility, said Wednesday she expects a decision to be made in two to four weeks.

Almost every classified ad follows the same routine posture to take when reporting such matters. "This is a routine posture to take when reporting such matters," Bates said. "But we expect it to be a short order. It should not be an issue as far as games are concerned.

The NCAA could restore the players' eligibility, suspend them from some games, or levy other sanctions against the basketball program. It also could investigate its own regulations.

Janet Justus, the NCAA's director of eligibility, said Wednesday she expects a decision to be made in two to four weeks.
Rugby

continued from page 16

football is constant action. It's scoring. Rugby's version of a touchdown, called a try, is between rugby and football is in finishing third in the Tournament. The winner of the tournament to decide the representatives to the national tournament.

In the last few years, the Notre Dame team has enjoyed a large measure of success in the CARFU the past two seasons, winning both tournaments by a composite score of 114-13, and finishing third in the Midwestern Tournament last year.

There are 15 players on the field for each team at any one time, divided into three groups. Eight guys play forward, which places a reliance on big, strong guys, of whom there are six. Three are backs, of whom there are eight. There are 15 players on the team.

The bigger, more experienced Wolverines beat Notre Dame 27-0, but the Irish hope to rebound at Bowling Green this weekend and home against Michigan State next weekend. The Irish composed against the University of Michigan this past weekend, a non-CARFU team.

On the weekend of October 3, the Irish will travel to Chicago for the CARFU Tournament. Once the fall season is over, the team takes a short break, and then begins preparing for its spring season.

Teams that qualify for Nationals this fall have the opportunity to compete for those championships.

"It's tremendous in the open field," quarterback Warren Moon said. "You wouldn't think he could move the way he does, but he has quick feet and can break the long one." White did just that in Sunday's 20-10 victory over Indianapolis, catching four passes for 106 yards, one a screen pass that he turned into a 69-yard touchdown play.

"If not only catches the ball, he makes players miss after the catch," Moon said. "I said before the season I wanted to get him the ball, and that's what we've been doing." After four years of struggling for status with the Oilers, White finally feels he's becoming an all-around running back.

In two games, White has rushed 30 times for 169 yards and he's caught seven passes for 130 yards. His 69-yard touchdown is his longest catch and he had a 44-yard run against Pittsburgh. Catching passes isn't a sudden phenomenon for White. He caught 39 in 1990 and 27 last year in 13 games.

"People always said, 'I didn't know you could catch the ball,'" White said. "That's because I never had to catch the ball before. But I can do it." He likes his new role.

"You have to be a complete running back," White said. "That's the title that I like, being able to do it all. But, criticizing myself, it was just an OK game. I blew a lot of assignments or I would have caught the ball more." White started the season with 13 games, catching four passes for 106 yards, one a screen pass that he turned into a 69-yard touchdown play.

"I like my new role. It's tremendous in the open field," quarterback Warren Moon said. "You wouldn't think he could move the way he does, but he has quick feet and can break the long one." White did just that in Sunday's 20-10 victory over Indianapolis, catching four passes for 106 yards, one a screen pass that he turned into a 69-yard touchdown play.

"If not only catches the ball, he makes players miss after the catch," Moon said. "I said before the season I wanted to get him the ball, and that's what we've been doing.” After four years of struggling for status with the Oilers, White finally feels he's becoming an all-around running back.

In two games, White has rushed 30 times for 169 yards and he's caught seven passes for 130 yards. His 69-yard touchdown is his longest catch and he had a 44-yard run against Pittsburgh. Catching passes isn't a sudden phenomenon for White. He caught 39 in 1990 and 27 last year in 13 games.

"People always said, 'I didn't know you could catch the ball,'" White said. "That's because I never had to catch the ball before. But I can do it." He likes his new role.

"You have to be a complete running back," White said. "That's the title that I like, being able to do it all. But, criticizing myself, it was just an OK game. I blew a lot of assignments or I would have caught the ball more." White started the season with 13 games, catching four passes for 106 yards, one a screen pass that he turned into a 69-yard touchdown play.

"I like my new role. It's tremendous in the open field," quarterback Warren Moon said. "You wouldn't think he could move the way he does, but he has quick feet and can break the long one." White did just that in Sunday's 20-10 victory over Indianapolis, catching four passes for 106 yards, one a screen pass that he turned into a 69-yard touchdown play.

"If not only catches the ball, he makes players miss after the catch," Moon said. "I said before the season I wanted to get him the ball, and that's what we've been doing.” After four years of struggling for status with the Oilers, White finally feels he's becoming an all-around running back.

In two games, White has rushed 30 times for 169 yards and he's caught seven passes for 130 yards. His 69-yard touchdown is his longest catch and he had a 44-yard run against Pittsburgh. Catching passes isn't a sudden phenomenon for White. He caught 39 in 1990 and 27 last year in 13 games.

"People always said, 'I didn't know you could catch the ball,'" White said. "That's because I never had to catch the ball before. But I can do it." He likes his new role.

"You have to be a complete running back," White said. "That's the title that I like, being able to do it all. But, criticizing myself, it was just an OK game. I blew a lot of assignments or I would have caught the ball more." White started the season with 13 games, catching four passes for 106 yards, one a screen pass that he turned into a 69-yard touchdown play.

"I like my new role. It's tremendous in the open field," quarterback Warren Moon said. "You wouldn't think he could move the way he does, but he has quick feet and can break the long one." White did just that in Sunday's 20-10 victory over Indianapolis, catching four passes for 106 yards, one a screen pass that he turned into a 69-yard touchdown play.

"If not only catches the ball, he makes players miss after the catch," Moon said. "I said before the season I wanted to get him the ball, and that's what we've been doing.” After four years of struggling for status with the Oilers, White finally feels he's becoming an all-around running back.

In two games, White has rushed 30 times for 169 yards and he's caught seven passes for 130 yards. His 69-yard touchdown is his longest catch and he had a 44-yard run against Pittsburgh. Catching passes isn't a sudden phenomenon for White. He caught 39 in 1990 and 27 last year in 13 games.

"People always said, 'I didn't know you could catch the ball,'" White said. "That's because I never had to catch the ball before. But I can do it." He likes his new role.

"You have to be a complete running back," White said. "That's the title that I like, being able to do it all. But, criticizing myself, it was just an OK game. I blew a lot of assignments or I would have caught the ball more." White started the season with 13 games, catching four passes for 106 yards, one a screen pass that he turned into a 69-yard touchdown play.

"I like my new role. It's tremendous in the open field," quarterback Warren Moon said. "You wouldn't think he could move the way he does, but he has quick feet and can break the long one." White did just that in Sunday's 20-10 victory over Indianapolis, catching four passes for 106 yards, one a screen pass that he turned into a 69-yard touchdown play.

"If not only catches the ball, he makes players miss after the catch," Moon said. "I said before the season I wanted to get him the ball, and that's what we've been doing.” After four years of struggling for status with the Oilers, White finally feels he's becoming an all-around running back.
CINCINNATI (AP) — Rookie linebacker Ricardo McDonald, brother of Notre Dame linebacker Devon McDonald, is to start for the Cincinnati Bengals on Sunday at Green Bay because a knee injury may have cost veteran Ray Bentley the rest of his season.

McDonald, a fourth-round draft choice from the University of Pittsburgh, took over in the first quarter of Sunday’s 24-21 victory over the Los Angeles Raiders after Bentley suffered torn ligaments in his left knee in two games.

McDonald contributed eight tackles, tying for the team high, and one tipped pass as the Bengals are now unbeaten in two games.

Coach Dave Shula said the loss of Bentley, signed as a free agent after six years with the Los Angeles Raiders after Bentley suffered torn ligaments in his left knee defending against a running play.

McDonald called signals for the defense, a job that now falls to rookie linebacker Kevin Walker. But McDonald is regarded as a promising young player.

"We feel that Rico has a real bright future as a linebacker in this league for many years to come," Shula said. "His education will now go full force, as far as on-the-field, on-the-job training."

On Tuesday, the Bengals replaced Bentley on the roster by signing former New York Giants linebacker Gary Reasons, including the 1986 and 1990 Super Bowl champions. He lost his starting job in the Giants' pre-season this year to Steve DeBaise, then strained a knee ligament and was released on an injury settlement. That meant the Giants could not sign him for four weeks, and he was free to sign with any other team.

Reasons said he is glad to be with the Bengals, who have overhauled their defense under Shula and defensive coordinator Ron Lynn.

"I think they thought my knee was worse than it was," Reasons said of the Giants. "I'm healthy. I'm ready to play.

"This is a good opportunity," he said. "It's a team with a new defense that's doing well. I'm excited." Also with the Bengals is corner back Mitchell Price, who missed the Giants' pre-season and the season's first two games because of a contract holdout. He was paid $90,000 last year as a punt returner and backup corner back.

The sixth annual Notre Dame-Fallon Invitational Tennis Tournament will be held from Friday, Sept. 18 through Sunday, Sept. 20 at the University of Notre Dame.

The 16-team tournament will feature 10 nationally ranked college teams represented at the event will be: Army, Cincinnati, Colorado, Michigan, Michigan State, Montana, Nebraska, Pennsylvania, Southern Illinois-Carbondale and West Virginia.

It’s time to show the whole world Ali! Happy Belated 21st!

Love, Your Roomies

ONE-DOZEN
STUPEFENDOUS
SPAGHETTI SAUCES

$3.95 To $5.50

If you can’t decide on just one of our meat, seafood or cheese sauces, choose any two of a dozen delectable choices. Being indecisive has never been so rewarding.

If you can’t decide on just one of our meat, seafood or cheese sauces, choose any two of a dozen delectable choices. Being indecisive has never been so rewarding.
You Are Invited to Attend

"Strategic Focus"

A Procter & Gamble Presentation on the Key to Keeping Businesses Strong Forever

Featuring

Mike Milligan
Senior Vice President

Monday, September 21
6:00 p.m.
Center for Continuing Education Auditorium

Reception immediately following.
Food and beverage will be served.
Dress is casual.
Students from all majors welcome.

Meet P&G managers from:
• Finance
• Sales
• Management Systems
• Product Development
• Product Supply
• Brand Management
SPORTS BRIEFS

ND/SMC women's lacrosse is still looking for members. Questions? Call Heather at 284-5103 or Cathy at 283-4998.

The campus 2-person golf scramble will take place on September 27. The tournament is open to all students, faculty and staff. Sign up as an individual or in pairs. Entries and entry fees due by September 22.

Women's Off-Campus football will meet at Cartier Field at 7:15 p.m. on Thursday for an 8:00 p.m. scrimmage. Questions? Call Theresa or Mariane at 273-2388.

Ohio State QB Herbstreit responds to boo birds

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The boos from Ohio State fans are getting to quarterback Kirk Herbstreit. That's why he is happy the Buckeyes will be on the road Saturday, playing No. 8 Syracuse.

"It's unfortunate you're in your own stadium and you're getting booed," Herbstreit said this week. "I don't know if they're booing me or if they're booing the offense or if they're booing coach (John) Cooper.

"I'm actually looking forward to getting on the road and getting away from our crowd." Ohio State, No. 21 in the rankings, has won both of its games, both before crowds in excess of 89,000 at Ohio Stadium.

Despite being favored by 17 points, the Buckeyes survived a 20-19 scare against Louisville in the opener. The outcome was not sealed until the Cardinals, 2-9 a year ago, threw an incomplete pass on a two-point conversion with 33 seconds left.

Then, last Saturday, Ohio State struggled before beating in-state rival Bowling Green 17-6. For the second game in a row, the Buckeyes were outgained in total offense. Herbstreit suffered a sprained ankle on the first series against Bowling Green. He sat out two other series in the first half, but returned to help the Buckeyes overcome a 6-0 second-quarter deficit.

Herbstreit, who was on crutches Monday and used a cane Tuesday, expects to play Saturday against Syracuse, which beat Ohio State 24-17 in the Hall of Fame Bowl on New Year's Day.

Ohio State, No. 21 in the rankings, has won both of its games, both before crowds in excess of 89,000 at Ohio Stadium.

Despite being favored by 17 points, the Buckeyes survived a 20-19 scare against Louisville in the opener. The outcome was not sealed until the Cardinals, 2-9 a year ago, threw an incomplete pass on a two-point conversion with 33 seconds left. Then, last Saturday, Ohio State struggled before beating in-state rival Bowling Green 17-6. For the second game in a row, the Buckeyes were outgained in total offense. Herbstreit suffered a sprained ankle on the first series against Bowling Green. He sat out two other series in the first half, but returned to help the Buckeyes overcome a 6-0 second-quarter deficit.

Herbstreit, who was on crutches Monday and used a cane Tuesday, expects to play Saturday against Syracuse, which beat Ohio State 24-17 in the Hall of Fame Bowl on New Year's Day.

Ohio State QB Herbstreit responds to boobirds

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The boos from Ohio State fans are getting to quarterback Kirk Herbstreit. That's why he is happy the Buckeyes will be on the road Saturday, playing No. 8 Syracuse.

"It's unfortunate you're in your own stadium and you're getting booed," Herbstreit said this week. "I don't know if they're booing me or if they're booing the offense or if they're booing coach (John) Cooper.

"I'm actually looking forward to getting on the road and getting away from our crowd." Ohio State, No. 21 in the rankings, has won both of its games, both before crowds in excess of 89,000 at Ohio Stadium.

Despite being favored by 17 points, the Buckeyes survived a 20-19 scare against Louisville in the opener. The outcome was not sealed until the Cardinals, 2-9 a year ago, threw an incomplete pass on a two-point conversion with 33 seconds left. Then, last Saturday, Ohio State struggled before beating in-state rival Bowling Green 17-6. For the second game in a row, the Buckeyes were outgained in total offense. Herbstreit suffered a sprained ankle on the first series against Bowling Green. He sat out two other series in the first half, but returned to help the Buckeyes overcome a 6-0 second-quarter deficit.

Herbstreit, who was on crutches Monday and used a cane Tuesday, expects to play Saturday against Syracuse, which beat Ohio State 24-17 in the Hall of Fame Bowl on New Year's Day.

Ohio State, No. 21 in the rankings, has won both of its games, both before crowds in excess of 89,000 at Ohio Stadium.

Despite being favored by 17 points, the Buckeyes survived a 20-19 scare against Louisville in the opener. The outcome was not sealed until the Cardinals, 2-9 a year ago, threw an incomplete pass on a two-point conversion with 33 seconds left. Then, last Saturday, Ohio State struggled before beating in-state rival Bowling Green 17-6. For the second game in a row, the Buckeyes were outgained in total offense. Herbstreit suffered a sprained ankle on the first series against Bowling Green. He sat out two other series in the first half, but returned to help the Buckeyes overcome a 6-0 second-quarter deficit.

Herbstreit, who was on crutches Monday and used a cane Tuesday, expects to play Saturday against Syracuse, which beat Ohio State 24-17 in the Hall of Fame Bowl on New Year's Day.
Today

THINK NEW ELECTION YEAR

Professor Frank Levy
From M.I.T. will be speaking on:

The Economy and the 1992 Election

7:30 p.m. Thursday, September 17
LaFortune Ballroom (formerly Theodore’s)

---

SPLEUNKER

THE FAR SIDE

CALVIN AND HOBBES

---

CROSSWORD

ACROSS

1. Basket type
2. Dress code
10. Cautious conjunction
11. Rice dish
12. German river
14. Rice dish connective
16. Olive
17. Monad
18. Hefty book
19. A memorable
20. He wouldn’t be without it
23. Geometric school center
24. Plant's establishment in a new habitat
25. Ancient war engine
26. Old Baltic coins
27. Animal
28. Dark brown
29. Elevating to a bireptile
30. Accustomed
31. Immature years
32. Favored
33. Make proud
34. Covers a wall
35. Negative
36. Deeds' needs.
37. Slate-trimming tools
38. Some compounds of element #30
39. Honshu bay
40. Like some roofs
47. N.F.L. offenses
48. Taxi exaction
49. Butterine
50.Suffix with Ham
51. Moundsmen's mistake
52. Rum portions
53. Condoms
54. Pub.-company pileup
55. Olympic heavy’s throw
56. Commit perjury
57. Caen connections

DOWN

1. W.W. II agency.
2. Tire site
3. Seine sight
4. Pinch
5. Mexican rubber plant
6. Hades flower
7. Repute
8. Turned into an evil spirit
9. Hermits
10. Less constraining
11. Sailor's saint
12. Baseball feature
13. Biblical weed
14. Dol. parts
15. Singable verses
16. Plant's establishment in a new habitat
17. Marinated Flank Steak
18. Carrying bag
19. Ancient war engine
20. Old Baltic coins
21. Conning lines
22. Accustomed
23. Immature years
24. Favored
25. Proceeding by leaps
26. Old Baltic coins
27. Animal
28. Dark brown
29. Elevating to a bireptile
30. Accustomed
31. Immature years
32. Favored
33. Make proud
34. Covers a wall
35. Negative
36. Deeds' needs.
37. Slate-trimming tools
38. Some compounds of element #30
39. Honshu bay
40. Like some roofs
47. N.F.L. offenses
48. Taxi exaction
49. Butterine
50.Suffix with Ham
51. Moundsmen's mistake
52. Rum portions
53. Condoms
54. Pub.-company pileup
55. Olympic heavy’s throw
56. Commit perjury
57. Caen connections

---

ANSWER TO PREVIOUS PUZZLE

---

LECTURES

Thursday

---

MENU

Notre Dame

Baked Pollack
Apple Cheddar Quiche
Pasta Bar

Saint Mary’s

Italian Bar
Wings & Things
Marinated Flank Steak

---

THANK YOU
Expansion teams long on history, short on wins

The Florida Marlins and Colorado Rockies will cast their fortunes in the major leagues for the first time this year, having been drawn to these two new cities by the National League. The teams will look to add to the history of baseball in the cities of Miami and Denver, the Rockies will be better off to familiar territory-dead last. To obscure the fact that the Rockies would be better off to familiar territory-dead last. To obscure the fact that the Rockies would be better off to familiar territory-dead last.

In each of the first two rounds, each team was allowed to sign one competitive free agent. The Rockies, the Florida Marlins, and the Colorado Rockies, the Florida Marlins, and the Colorado Rockies were among the teams that bid for nationals. Last year they were ranked nineteenth in the nation, but failed to get a bid after their final game was canceled due to snow.

Rugby real treat for players and fans

In rugby, there's a lot to play for. Players like Tony Fernandez, Fred Maryfield, and Dan McNeive have all enjoyed it. They think it's fun to watch the ball, make tackles and kick the ball through the uprights. But these guys play on St. Mary's, not in Notre Dame. It's a very violent sport, like football, but in rugby you need more quickness and dribbling ability to create great scoring opportunities. He also add that the growth potential of the team helped him decide to come to Notre Dame.

Rugby's perception is that of a very violent sport, like football without the pads. After all, it's not every game that has participants commonly tape their ears to their head so they don't get ripped off, but that isn't all there is to the game.

"It's not as dangerous as it looks," Lyman said. "It's not like a crazy game, but there are a lot of rules and it's pretty organized."

The Notre Dame team is listed as a club sport, the highest level rugby has achieved. The team has been in existence since 1960. The Irish compete in the Chicago Area Rugby Football Union (CARFU), which consists of 10 teams, including colleges like Northwestern, Northern Illinois and the University of Chicago.

Although the game resembles football at first glance, there's a lot more to it than being a relative to football. "In rugby you need more conditioning (than in football)," said Dan McNeive, a senior rugby player who played football in high school. "It's a more fluid game, but just as hard-hitting. The biggest difference between rugby and soccer is that you have to deal with the ball all the time."

"I want to push each player to accel so that the team can feel more a part of the action."

They feed off of one another and encourage quality play.

They feed off of one another and encourage quality play. They feed off of one another and encourage quality play.

Both are talented and creative around the ball," said Belles coach Tom VanMeter. "They also have great attitudes. They lead by example through their hard work."

The two are beginning their third year together, and if the last two years are any indication of what the Belles can expect, it should be a successful season. "We don't have to talk anymore. She knows I'll be there and I know she'll be there. "It's good because if you talk too much on offense, the defenders can take advantage of that."

"I know where she is at all times. I am confident in giving her the ball."

"I know where she is at all times. I am confident in giving her the ball."

Dalsasso and Winget perfect one-two punch for SMC Soccer

In sports, it takes both talent and a positive attitude to succeed. The Saint Mary's soccer team has found both qualities in senior forward Stacy Winget and junior forward Megan Dalsasso.

They feed off of one another and encourage quality play. They feed off of one another and encourage quality play. They feed off of one another and encourage quality play.

"They feed off of one another and encourage quality play."