Character and domestic issues dominate debate

By SANDY WIEGAND
Assistant News Editor

Questions of character and attention to the domestic front figured prominently in a debate between the Notre Dame College Democrats and College Republicans Wednesday, but political schedules interfered.

Junior Jerry Boyle and sophomore Kevin Schmidt represented the student Republican club, and sophomore Chris Setti and sophomore Andrew Holmgren represented the student Democrat club.

Panelists were government professors Suzanne Martinley, John Ross and Patsy Davis. Moderator was professor Sharon O'Brien, government chair.

Schmitt questioned Democratic nominee Bill Clinton's moral authority to lead the country through times of trial.

"Sometimes I think it is more patriotic to support the winner names scores of McCarthy War," said Steven Shapiro of the American law. None of the candidates has seemed to change dramatically the future of church-state relations.

But it retains enormous political resonance." Thomas Jipping of the conservative Free Congress Foundation agreed. "Federal courts face a far different future if Clinton rather than Bush is controlling judicial appointments," Jipping said.

Rally to educate campus about Clinton-Gore ticket

By DANA ANDERSON
News Writer

The College Democrats are attempting to educate the campus about the Clinton-Gore ticket by holding a political rally today which will include several speakers and three bands, according to club president Andrew Holmgren.

"People can cover topics including Bill Clinton, George Bush and 12 years of a Republican executive branch, said Holmgren. Rally with the bands and get constitutional protections recognized in Roe vs. Wade."

Sgt. Moon: Common sense necessary to avoid confrontations with S.U.D.S.

By COLLEEN KNIGHT
News Writer

Sgt. James Moon, of the South Bend Police Department and Sara Bewley, of the Indiana State Excise Police (left to right) discuss the S.U.D.S. task force and student responsibility in a program yesterday.

Power to shape judiciary ignored in campaign

WASHINGTON (AP) — The next president could choose to get a fast start on what may become his longest-lasting legacy — shaping the federal courts and, through them, molding American law. None of the candidates has seemed to notice.

About 100 of 828 federal judgeships are waiting to be filled, but three debates yielded not a single comment about how George Bush, Bill Clinton or Ross Perot would use such appointments to affect a generation of justice.

So what can be expected as the winner names scores of Supreme Court vacancies during each four-year presidential term? But he said, "With the court so deeply split on abortion and several other significant issues, one appointment takes on greater importance."

Abortion seems to be the only legal issue mobilizing voters. "The outcome of this election will determine whether the court will allow states to outlaw abortion," said Kate Michelman of the National Abortion Rights Action League. "This is not just a narrow change, but of critical importance to women for 40 years to come, an opportunity to secure the constitutional protections recognized in Roe vs. Wade."

By TERRY EASTLAND

"Police cannot use such freedoms, but they retain enormous political power in the future of church-state relations and police powers. "Whosever is president the next four years will be able to change dramatically the dynamics of the federal courts," said Steven Shapiro of the American Civil Liberties Union. "This was much more of an election issue four years ago, but it retains enormous political resonance."

The future of church-state relations and police powers. "Whosever is president the next four years will be able to change dramatically the dynamics of the federal courts," said Steven Shapiro of the American Civil Liberties Union. "This was much more of an election issue four years ago, but it retains enormous political resonance."

Terry Eastland of the conservative Ethics and Public Policy Center noted that, historically, an average of two Supreme Court vacancies occur during each four-year presidential term. But he said, "With the court so deeply split on abortion and several other significant issues, one appointment takes on greater importance."

Abortion seems to be the only legal issue mobilizing voters. "The outcome of this election will determine whether the court will allow states to outlaw abortion," said Kate Michelman of the National Abortion Rights Action League. "This is not just a narrow change, but of critical importance to women for 40 years to come, an opportunity to secure the constitutional protections recognized in Roe vs. Wade."

The future of church-state relations and police powers. "Whosever is president the next four years will be able to change dramatically the dynamics of the federal courts," said Steven Shapiro of the American Civil Liberties Union. "This was much more of an election issue four years ago, but it retains enormous political resonance."

Terry Eastland of the conservative Ethics and Public Policy Center noted that, historically, an average of two Supreme Court vacancies occur during each four-year presidential term. But he said, "With the court so deeply split on abortion and several other significant issues, one appointment takes on greater importance."

Abortion seems to be the only legal issue mobilizing voters. "The outcome of this election will determine whether the court will allow states to outlaw abortion," said Kate Michelman of the National Abortion Rights Action League. "This is not just a narrow change, but of critical importance to women for 40 years to come, an opportunity to secure the constitutional protections recognized in Roe vs. Wade."

Terry Eastland of the conservative Ethics and Public Policy Center noted that, historically, an average of two Supreme Court vacancies occur during each four-year presidential term. But he said, "With the court so deeply split on abortion and several other significant issues, one appointment takes on greater importance."

Abortion seems to be the only legal issue mobilizing voters. "The outcome of this election will determine whether the court will allow states to outlaw abortion," said Kate Michelman of the National Abortion Rights Action League. "This is not just a narrow change, but of critical importance to women for 40 years to come, an opportunity to secure the constitutional protections recognized in Roe vs. Wade."

By TERRY EASTLAND

"Police cannot use such freedoms, but they retain enormous political power in the future of church-state relations and police powers. "Whosever is president the next four years will be able to change dramatically the dynamics of the federal courts," said Steven Shapiro of the American Civil Liberties Union. "This was much more of an election issue four years ago, but it retains enormous political resonance."

Terry Eastland of the conservative Ethics and Public Policy Center noted that, historically, an average of two Supreme Court vacancies occur during each four-year presidential term. But he said, "With the court so deeply split on abortion and several other significant issues, one appointment takes on greater importance."

Abortion seems to be the only legal issue mobilizing voters. "The outcome of this election will determine whether the court will allow states to outlaw abortion," said Kate Michelman of the National Abortion Rights Action League. "This is not just a narrow change, but of critical importance to women for 40 years to come, an opportunity to secure the constitutional protections recognized in Roe vs. Wade."

Terry Eastland of the conservative Ethics and Public Policy Center noted that, historically, an average of two Supreme Court vacancies occur during each four-year presidential term. But he said, "With the court so deeply split on abortion and several other significant issues, one appointment takes on greater importance."

Abortion seems to be the only legal issue mobilizing voters. "The outcome of this election will determine whether the court will allow states to outlaw abortion," said Kate Michelman of the National Abortion Rights Action League. "This is not just a narrow change, but of critical importance to women for 40 years to come, an opportunity to secure the constitutional protections recognized in Roe vs. Wade."

By TERRY EASTLAND
An interesting phenomenon develops in the back of everyone's mind at certain times in their lives. People will not acknowledge the validity and importance of this phenomenon. Others will dismiss it while saying that they should not even worry about it. Still, others will ignore it, wishing that everything will get better on its own. Unfortunately, the only real way to deal with this phenomenon is to confront it head on.

For 10 years now, I have worked in many different corporations and organizations. Everywhere I go I see people who have this phenomenon in the back of their head. In some people it is very evident for other people it is very subtle; for a fortunate few it does not cause problems because they have answered the dilemma. Unfortunately, there are just not enough individuals in this world who have arrived at the point where they can say they understand what the phenomenon means and how they should deal with it.

The phenomenon occurs in individuals when they reach a peak where the work they are doing no longer has meaning for them anymore. They slowly come to realize that the activities, involvement, or employment they have maintained for some time now no longer contains the same amount of fulfillment that it used to. As the same activities that have done umpteen times before, they start to understand that the fun is not in the long run and it has now been replaced with a feeling of automated obligation. The spirit and enthusiasm initially got them involved has vanished in lieu of a heartless void feeling.

Someone compares themselves to someone else that they think is in a better position. They are not able to relax so that they are not overcome with negative emotions as a result of this thinking and go into a mild depression. These people concurrently have a feeling that they are not good enough. They also say, "If only I could be as committed as she is, I could then get to her position." The point here is that as long as they continue to have bouts with this thinking and go into this feeling, they will continue to have bouts with this thinking and go into this feeling.

Unfortunately, there are just not enough individuals in this world who can say they understand what the phenomenon means and how they should deal with it.

The Observer.

An interesting phenomenon develops in the back of everyone's mind at certain times in their lives. People will not acknowledge the validity and importance of this phenomenon. Others will dismiss it while saying that they should not even worry about it. Still, others will ignore it, wishing that everything will get better on its own. Unfortunately, the only real way to deal with this phenomenon is to confront it head on.

For 10 years now, I have worked in many different corporations and organizations. Everywhere I go I see people who have this phenomenon in the back of their head. In some people it is very evident for other people it is very subtle; for a fortunate few it does not cause problems because they have answered the dilemma. Unfortunately, there are just not enough individuals in this world who have arrived at the point where they can say they understand what the phenomenon means and how they should deal with it.

The phenomenon occurs in individuals when they reach a peak where the work they are doing no longer has meaning for them anymore. They slowly come to realize that the activities, involvement, or employment they have maintained for some time now no longer contains the same amount of fulfillment that it used to. As the same activities that have done umpteen times before, they start to understand that the fun is not in the long run and it has now been replaced with a feeling of automated obligation. The spirit and enthusiasm initially got them involved has vanished in lieu of a heartless void feeling.

Someone compares themselves to someone else that they think is in a better position. They are not able to relax so that they are not overcome with negative emotions as a result of this thinking and go into a mild depression. These people concurrently have a feeling that they are not good enough. They also say, "If only I could be as committed as she is, I could then get to her position." The point here is that as long as they continue to have bouts with this thinking and go into this feeling, they will continue to have bouts with this thinking and go into this feeling.

Unfortunately, there are just not enough individuals in this world who can say they understand what the phenomenon means and how they should deal with it.

The Observer.
Mock presidential debate an attempt to inform SMC students

By LAURA FERGUSON
News Writer

In an attempt to inform the student body and provide an arena to learn about election issues the Saint Mary's College Political Science Club sponsored the 1992 Presidential Mock Debate last night.

The format consisted of two students representing each candidate and a faculty panel representing various academic departments asking the bulk of the questions. Representing the Republican incumbent candidate George Bush were Katy Howe and Martha Conlin and representing Democratic candidate Bill Clinton were Julie Marsh and Suzanne Stachler.

Stachler said there was a need for a platform of change for new ideas and solutions to allow the government to grow in opening comments led by the Clinton team. She also said that the economy was stagnant under Bush.

Conlin said there have been "mammoth changes under the current administration including the reunification of Germany and the end to the Cold War. Further changes involving the scaling down, streamlining, reform and revitalization of government."

There was no representing team for the Ross Perot ticket because during the organizational stage of the debate no one volunteered so no Perot voice was established in the research.

A total of 10 questions were presented to the candidates' panels by the faculty panel. Among the most pressing topics were health care, Clinton's lack of military service and views on war, affirmative action programs, and ideas that Clinton would have applied if he had been in Bush's position for the previous presidential term.

Howe from the Bush team stated that the greatest problem in health care is rising costs and offered possible solutions to the problem. "Insurance should be affordable and available to everyone. We must find the least costly and most effective treatment possible," said Howe.

The Clinton panel also mandated insurance reforms and clinics for primary care functions.

"We also believe that preventative health care in the form of education is important as well as the need to simplify paperwork. Also there should be no coverage for unnecessary surgery," said Stachler.

In the area of military, both panels agreed that the U.S. military must maintain superiority among the world.

Howe from the Bush panel claimed that Bush was a strong, dedicated military leader while Clinton's representatives defended his lack of military experience.

"Clinton did not feel that the Vietnam War needed to be fought to hold the United States together so he did not participate," said Marsh. "However, world partnership is fundamental for global crises. He also believes that international sanctions should be used and he supports nuclear deterrent."

Concerning the question of affirmative action programs both panels were in favor of advances.

"Bush feels that quotas are a hindrance and the government needs to promote advancement so that all may share in the American dream and break the cycle of poverty," said Howe.

Stachler said that Clinton also is in favor of affirmative action programs and that the job market should mirror the population. She said Clinton also supports Title Nine, which prohibits sexual discrimination and the Equal Right Amendment.

In response to the inquiry of what Clinton would have done if put in the position of Bush, Stachler stated that Clinton would not have waited as long before acting on the economy.

"If elected, Clinton would make reduction of the deficit the first priority via spending cuts," Conlin responded that Clinton's figures for the economy didn't add up. She said that Bush purposed streamlining already but the answer lies in less bureaucracy and the need to cut government waste.

In conclusion for the Clinton panel, Marsh stated that Bush is out of ideas. "It is now time to put the people first, strive to develop industry, tap our own resources, and protect the right of women to choose."

"Cabinet closed by saying that the nation is not in a recession of the quarter and accused Clinton of taking any side of an issue and susceptibility. Among their closing ideas were a litany of less than impressive statistics concerning Arkansas including low state ranking in adult illiteracy.

Due to the informative only nature of the debate no winner was announced.

Professors: Bush's ND address ceremonial with political message

By HEIDI DECKELMANN
News Writer

President Bush's commencement address given last May at the University of Notre Dame was ceremonial in form but political in message, according to Carla Johnson and John Pauley professors of Communications at Saint Mary's College.

Pauley and Johnson followed a presentation of Bush's address with a critique of the political language and messages contained in the speech in a format that was similar to an earlier presentation on Gov. Bill Clinton's address given at the political rally earlier in the semester.

"The theme of Bush's commencement address, family values, later became one of the Republican campaign themes the speech would then be considered political," said Johnson.

Pauley said, "Bush blended a policy statement on the limits of the American Government with a charge to the graduates."

The presentation was, "informative, unbiased, and helped me view political speeches more effectively by ignoring candidates persuasive abilities," said Saint Mary's Senior, Val Klassen.

The presentation was cosponsored by the Department of Communications, Dance, and Theatre and The Popular Culture Group.

ATTENTION STUDENTS!
COME AND SUPPORT THE IRISH BY GETTING YOUR BASKETBALL SEASON TICKETS NEXT WEEK!!

STUDENT DISTRIBUTION IS
November 2-5 9AM-6PM
JACC Gate 10 Ticket Office
11 games for only $44.00 for both lower arena and bleachers
All student seats in the east endzone by the Notre Dame bench (Sections 13, 14, 15 & 16)

The games included in the student season are:
Nov. 23 - USA Vercich
Nov. 30 - Australian Nationals
Dec. 6 - Evansville
Dec. 8 - Indiana
Jan. 23 - LaSalle
Feb. 2 - St. Bonaventure
Feb. 6 - Duke
Feb. 13 - Kentucky
Feb. 17 - Marquette
Feb. 25 - Duquesne
Mar. 3 - Valparaiso

ATTENTION JUNIORS:
• Would your parents like to stay at the Morris Inn during JPW?
• Stop by the Junior Class Office in LaFortune to enter the lottery

TODAY or TOMORROW from 3-5 p.m.
S.U.D.S.

continued from page 1

for six months to a year. Second and subsequent offenses are subject to a court appearance and are punishable up to 60 days and $500, Moon added.

In the case of public intoxication, Moon explained that an officer may make a charge based on his own judgment of the student's behavior, regardless of whether they give a breathalyzer or not.

Students do not have the right to demand a breathalyzer test to prove their sobriety. It is decided in court if a conviction will result from the officer's charge of public intoxication.

Excise police enforce the laws concerning alcoholic beverages, according to Bewley. They enter bars dressed in civilian clothes when they suspect there are minors in the bar. Students are required by Indiana law to show proof of their identity to these officers. They raid if they suspect that there are minors in the bar. Students are required by Indiana law to show proof of their identity to these officers.

In regards to off-campus parties, Bewley emphasized the serious liability of hosts: "Social minors are present. hosts have the same responsibility as professional hosts," she said. They must therefore use common sense when under age people wish to attend their parties, for they will be held liable for furnishing alcohol to minors.

Finally, according to Moon, police officers have the right to search houses and apartments that they raid if they suspect minors are present.

Confiscated kegs are returned to law enforcement agencies, with refusing going to local or state alcohol programs.

Debate

continued from page 1

regaining public schools to a secondary form of education...You cannot reform public schools without money.

Boyle responded, "You don't throw money at a problem. (what is needed) is teachers and students who are willing to learn. You say what's going to happen to public schools? Of course they're going to close down because they don't want to do that." Boyle said the bill would have put an undue burden on small businesses.

"Family values: Holmgren questioned Bush's veto of the Family Leave Bill, calling it contradictory to the president's "family values" rhetoric. Boyle said the bill would have put an undue burden on small businesses.

"Health care: Boyle said, "If you ask people in health care which plan they like best, they say the Bush plan." Setti responded that the industry favors the president's plan because it allows them to continue to gouge customers.

"The North Atlantic Free Trade Agreement (NAFTA): Setti said without minimum wage and environmental policies in Mexico comparable to those in the United States, businesses would move southward. Boyle answered, "There's no reason why they can't go there right now..." He added that although it might take 10 years, Mexico eventually would raise its standards to U.S. levels without government prodding.

"Yugoslavia: Both sides said their candidate does not favor U.S. military action there, but Setti went on, "Waiting an watch and people die is not the way to run a foreign policy. If it comes down to military force, that might need to be used in a limited fashion." Setti said the U.S. should first try diplomacy, though. Boyle said, "You have to decide whether it's a just war or a war you can win." The war is "terrible," he said, but guerrilla warfare and the fact that boundary disputes go back so far would make a war especially bad.

"Deficit spending: Boyle said these tax cuts would increase revenue to help reduce the deficit. Setti said Clinton would cut 25 percent of the White House staff, $100 billion in defense, cut troops in Europe, and make Europe and Japan shoulder more of the cost of their own defense, to reduce the deficit.

Rally

continued from page 1

"Hopefully this rally will help motivate students to take more interest in the national affairs going on around them."

Besides planning this rally, the College Democrats have organized their 300 members to take part in a campus-wide canvas of Clinton material three or four days before the elections.

Members will campaign door to door throughout the dorms. In addition a group of the Democrats is tentatively headed to Arkansas for a victory party on November 3, pending the outcome of the election.

The CoMeDy Of ErRoRs

Performed by The National Shakespeare Company

Monday & Tuesday

November 2 & 3

Washington Hall 8:10 pm

Student Tickets $7

Sponsored by The Student Activities Office and Student Union Board

Tickets available at LaFortune Information Desk 239-8128

New CPR guidelines:

Call ambulance first

CHICAGO (AP) — Get to a phone and call the ambulance before you start cardiopulmonary resuscitation (CPR), experts say.

In a reversal, doctors and other experts now recommend that lone rescuers postpone CPR11 for a heart-attack victim before an ambulance arrives. "It is better to start CPR11 before an ambulance arrives, in the presence of bystanders, with refusal going to local or state alcohol programs.

National Conference on CPR and Emergency Cardiac Care.

"CPR was taught to lay people in the 1970s with a great deal of enthusiasm that it was saving a lot of lives," said Dr. John Paraskos, chairman of the conference of 512 professionals in February. "It turns out, it doesn't unless it's backed up by adequate emergency systems and advanced care."

Paraskos is director of diagnostic cardiology at the University of Massachusetts Medical Center in Worcester.

The retreat will conclude with a pizza supper for which there will be a $3.00 charge.

CALL BY FRIDAY NOVEMBER 6 TO RESERVE A PLACE.

Contact Fr. John Gerber, C.S.C., Fisher Residences 239-8406 or Sharon at Fisher Community Center 239-8607.

HALLOWEEN FRIGHT-NIGHT AT SMC

THURSDAY, OCTOBER 29 FROM 6:00-8:30

HAGGAR COLLEGE CENTER

PUMPKIN CARVING, APPLE-BOBBING, FOOD AND SPOOKY STORIES ON THE ISLAND

BY BOB MYERS OF THE STORY PEDDLERS

GRADUATE STUDENT MINI - RETREAT

Sunday, November 8

3:00 - 7:00 p.m.

A time of silence and reflections focused on biblical texts.

The Observer/John Bingham
Symposium important to business students

By NICK RIOS
News Writer

The up and coming Ethics of Global Sourcing and Technology in the 1990s club is hosting a Speaker Symposium on Friday that every student in business and those planning on studying business should not miss, according to Rich Dyer, one of the club vice presidents.

The Ethics of Global Sourcing and Technology in the 1990s club was established last year and is under the presidency of Tim Klaus.

"Our club is trying to bring in speakers who can give first hand advice about their experience in the business world," said Dyer.

Dyer added that the speakers making presentations on Friday will be addressing ethical values in business.

"One of the most important things our club is trying to get across to business students is that ethical values cannot be separated from business, and that we must have them in mind in every decision we make," said Dyer.

Among the speakers that will attend the Symposium on Friday are:

- George Gourlay, senior vice president of Coca-Cola Inc.
- Mark Schmid, vice president of Information Systems, Wal-Mart Inc.
- Steven Hronec, director of manufacturing, Arthur Andersen & Company Inc.
- Patrick Tesler, vice president Engineering, Bendix Auto System, North America
- Kerford Marchant, senior business development consultant, Amoco Chemical Co.
- Patrick Tesler, vice president Engineering, Bendix Auto System, North America
- Kerford Marchant, senior business development consultant, Amoco Chemical Co.
- Patrick Tesler, vice president Engineering, Bendix Auto System, North America
- Kerford Marchant, senior business development consultant, Amoco Chemical Co.
- Patrick Tesler, vice president Engineering, Bendix Auto System, North America
- Kerford Marchant, senior business development consultant, Amoco Chemical Co.

The speakers will address the decision-making process of a company that decides to go into an undeveloped country, and how the company's action affect the local people.

Schmid will talk about how he uses information in his computer to lower his product's cost and to produce a top-quality product.

"As students we need to be responsible in the future of turning the knowledge we receive in the classroom into smart decisions that will provide for a better tomorrow," Dyer said. "It is time we let the world know that as Notre Dame students we will carry our ethical values into every profession we go into the future."
French doctor in AIDS scandal is jailed in Paris

PARIS (AP) — The former di­rector of France's blood bank, who returned Wednesday to be jailed for his part in an AIDS scandal, denies responsibility for poisoning of hundreds of hemophiliacs with AIDS-tainted blood.

Dr. Michel Garretta was whisked away by police from Charles de Gaulle Airport after arriving from Boston, where he had worked for a medical equipment firm, to face a four­year prison sentence.

He was taken under escort to La Sainte prison in southern Paris.

Garretta told the Agence France Presse (AFP) news agency on his flight home that he "absolutely refuses to as­sume the collective responsibility for contaminating hemophil­ics, which is a rumor and a lie."

This echoed the complaints of AIDS activists and the families of hemophiliacs, who consider Garretta a scapegoat and say top government officials were responsible.

While Syrians talk peace in D.C., hatred is at home

DAMASCUS, Syria (AP) — The Syrians may be participating in Arab-Israeli peace talks in Washington, but there are many who are shedding no tears over Israelis killed this week by Arab guerrillas.

"I teach my children that Is­rael is the enemy," said Mo­hammed Aziz Shukri, dean of Damascus University's law school and an expert on inter­national law.

"Israel has an expansionist appetite. It is well-documented that they consider Eretz Israel, the biblical land of the Jews, extends from the Nile to the Euphrates."

That comment from one of Syria's most distinguished and learned citizens epitomizes the feelings of most of his 12.5 mil­lion countrymen, who have been Israel's most implacable foes for 44 years.

For them, the recent attacks on Israel's self-designated "security zone" in south Lebanon, a border strip held in one form or another by the Is­raelis since 1978, are acts of legitimate resistance by the Le­banese against an occupying power.

So are attacks by Palestinians in the West Bank and Gaza Strip, captured by Israel in the 1967 war.

A senior Syrian official said it is "the inalienable right of an occupied people to resist those who occupy their land."

Moscow (AP) — President Boris Yeltsin went on the of­ensive Wednesday against his hard-line political foes, banning a new right-wing group and ordering an opposition-con­trolled security force dis­banded.

The one-two punch seemed designed to keep the hard-lin­ers off Russia's political cen­terstage, which Yeltsin is trying to hold as the economy slides into crisis and his re­forms move into doubt.

Yeltsin took the step after hard-line lawmakers rebuffed his request to delay the next parliamentary session and after weeks of criticism from many sides, including Mikhail Gor­bachev, the former Soviet president who is still unpopular at home but whose words carry weight abroad.

The ban hits the members of the parliament — the base of Yeltsin's opposition — who are determined to curb his powers and slow the pace of reforms during a session of Congress of People's Deputies set to begin Dec. 1.

Russian and former Soviet law­makers, including Sergei

Garretta, head of the National Center for Blood Transfusions in 1985 when the infected blood was supplied to hemophiliacs, said he returned to France to face justice.

"I wasn't running away, I never thought of avoiding the judicial system of my country," Garretta told AFP. "I feel at the same time deep injustice and total disgust."

Before leaving Boston, Gar­retta said reporters that the tragedy was the "collective fault of the system."

"The decisions I made were 1,200 hemophiliacs were infected with HIV."

Yeltsin goes on the offensive

Boris Yeltsin

Baburin and retired Gen. Albert Makashov, led about 1,000 people on Saturday in creating a "National Salvation Front" tooust Yeltsin and restore the former union.

The grouping of Russian na­tionals and Communists ac­tive in Yeltsin of destroying the national economy and polluting Russia's moral and social tradi­tions.

The group, while appearing well-organized, was comprised mostly of right-wing critics still believed to have limited influ­ence. It did not include any members of Civic Union, an in­fluential centrist bloc courted by Yeltsin.

Yeltsin said in a speech on Tuesday he would outlaw the Front, taking the harsh step for the first time since banning and dissolving the ruling Soviet Communist Party after the abortive 1991 coup.

The president said the group posed a "great danger" for Russia and made good on the threat on Wednesday, signing a decree ordering authorities to prevent all activities by the "anti-constitutional" group or any other "extremist" organi­zations, said spokesman Vy­acheslav Kostikov.

Alexander Prokhanov, one of the Front's leaders, had dis­missed Yeltsin's warning on Tuesday as "political gangster­ism, lunacy and idiocy."

Yeltsin also chose Wednesday to order the disbanding of the special 5,000-member police force controlled by legislative speaker Ruslan Khasbulatov, a powerful opponent of Yeltsin's government.

But the force's commander, Security Department chief Ivan Boiko, rejected Yeltsin's order and said he only would recogni­ze commands from Khasbu­latov or the legislative leader­ship, the Interfax news agency reported.

Yeltsin participates in a session of the Duma while Sobyanin and former Soviet law­makers, including Sergei

Yeltsin's opposition - who are determined to curb his powers and slow the pace of reforms during a session of Congress of People's Deputies set to begin Dec. 1.

"I don't think I'm taking responsibility," he said.

"I wasn't running away, I never thought of avoiding the judicial system of my country," Garretta told AFP. "I feel at the same time deep injustice and total disgust."

Before leaving Boston, Gar­retta said reporters that the tragedy was the "collective fault of the system."

"The decisions I made were always in the open and were always made with other people," he said. "To pick out one single person, or four people as in the trial, when there were dozens, even hundreds in­­olved, flies in the face of jus­tice."

Garretta was one of four former health officials tried for allowing the transfusions with contaminated blood to take place. Some 1,200 hemophiliacs were infected with HIV.

The Observer Thursday, October 29, 1992

A TED Global Equities Account.

At TIAA-CREF, our goal has always been to make your retirement dollars go farther. Now, they can go as far as any item.

A prospectus. Read the prospectus carefully before you invest or send money.

The CREF Global Equities Account expands the horizon for retirement savings.

The CREF Global Equities Account is an actively-managed portfolio of both foreign and domestic stocks selected for diversity and growth potential. As part of a wide range of annuity and investment alternatives already offered by TIAA-CREF, it can increase your ability to create a more balanced, well-rounded retirement plan.

To find out more about the CREF Global Equities Account or TIAA-CREF's other annuity and investment alternatives, send for our free brochure. Or call 1-800-842-2776.

You'll find that at TIAA-CREF, our world revolves around helping you build a secure and rewarding future.

SEND FOR OUR FREE BOOKLET THE CREF GLOBAL EQUITIES ACCOUNT EXPANDS THE HORIZON FOR RETIREMENT SAVINGS.

WE'VE PUT A NEW SPIN ON INVESTING WITH TIAA-CREF.

For a prospectus. Read the prospectus carefully before you invest or send money. These certificates are distributed by TIAA-CREF Individual and Institutional Services. For more complete information, including charges and expenses, call 1-800-842-3705, ext. 5059 for a prospectus. Read the prospectus carefully before you invest or send money.
Is the economy recovering or not?

NEW YORK (AP) — One day the government says the economy is robust again because consumer spending has improved. The next day it says consumer spending actually isn’t so strong.

Is the economy recovering or not?

Taken together, the numbers reported — Tuesday and Wednesday, like the jumble of Thursday, Democrats keep telling us that third the pace of any other recovering at less than one-per their expected pace, them.

The United States,” Bush said in economic stewardship hasn’t been so bad after all.

“We have now had six straight quarters of growth in the United States,” Bush said in a Tuesday speech. “And yet the Democrats keep telling us that everything is going to hell, and they’re wrong.”

Strategists for Bill Clinton countered that the economy is recovering at less than one-third the pace of any other postwar recovery, and that the third-quarter performance is not likely to be repeated soon.

Excluding the effects of the hurricane and farm subsidies, personal income rose 0.1 percent, after falling 0.6 percent in August.

Another significant contributor to the third-quarter growth was a surge in business inventories — more goods piling up. That is potentially bad news.

“Unless demand revives promptly, there will be some production cutbacks necessary, which will mean either fewer hours worked or fewer people working,” Jones said.

In another confusing sign, orders to factories for durable goods fell a seasonally adjusted 0.4 percent in September, the government reported Wednesday.

For the economy to turn decisively positive, consumers must feel confident that their incomes will grow or at least not fall, and they have to start buying, most economists agree.

The same day the Bush administration was hailing the third-quarter increase in economic growth, a widely followed measurement of consumer confidence in the economy showed a big drop in October, the fourth straight monthly decline.

Clearly, if there is a pickup in the economy, it’s not affecting consumers so far,” said Fabian Lindert, the Board’s head of consumer research.

New claims for state unemployment insurance have fallen for three consecutive weeks.

Report: Durable goods orders fall for the third consecutive month

WASHINGTON (AP) — Orders to U.S. factories for durable goods such as cars and computers fell in September for the third consecutive month, the government said Wednesday in a report taken as an ill omen for manufacturing employment.

The Commerce Department said orders fell a seasonally adjusted 0.4 percent to $118.9 billion last month. It was the first time orders fell three months in a row since January-March 1991, during the depths of the recession, and was the fourth decline in five months.

In two other reports, the government said Americans’ personal income rebounded in September from the effects of Hurricane Andrew and the federal budget deficit set a new record during the fiscal year ended Sept. 30.

The latest statistics came as President Bush and Bill Clinton clashed over the economy in separate television appearances just six days before Election Day.

“Our economy is doing better than the world economy,” Bush said on ABC’s “Good Morning America.” He cited a Tuesday report showing a 2.7 percent third quarter growth rate in the gross domestic product.

But Clinton countered on NBC’s “Today” show that the GDP report amounted to a one-time blip and said, “You can’t evaluate anyone on one three-month performance.”

Although much of the durable drop was concentrated in the volatile aircraft and defense industries, economists said it illustrated the stop-and-go nature of the economy’s long climb out of recession.

They were especially concerned that the backlog of unfilled orders for durable goods fell 1.3 percent, the 13th consecutive monthly decline, to $452.6 billion, the lowest level since December 1988.

That’s a sign that factories are easily keeping up with the flow of new orders with their current workforce, they said.

“Since last summer, what’s been going out the door in shipments is more than what’s been coming in the door in new orders,” said economist David Muro of High Frequency Economics, a New York consulting firm.

THE POINTE

WASHINGTON (AP) — Orders to U.S. factories for durable goods such as cars and computers fell in September for the third consecutive month, the government said Wednesday in a report taken as an ill omen for manufacturing employment.

The Commerce Department said orders fell a seasonally adjusted 0.4 percent to $118.9 billion last month. It was the first time orders fell three months in a row since January-March 1991, during the depths of the recession, and was the fourth decline in five months.

In two other reports, the government said Americans’ personal income rebounded in September from the effects of Hurricane Andrew and the federal budget deficit set a new record during the fiscal year ended Sept. 30.

The latest statistics came as President Bush and Bill Clinton clashed over the economy in separate television appearances just six days before Election Day.

“Our economy is doing better than the world economy,” Bush said on ABC’s “Good Morning America.” He cited a Tuesday report showing a 2.7 percent third quarter growth rate in the gross domestic product.

But Clinton countered on NBC’s “Today” show that the GDP report amounted to a one-time blip and said, “You can’t evaluate anyone on one three-month performance.”

Although much of the durable drop was concentrated in the volatile aircraft and defense industries, economists said it illustrated the stop-and-go nature of the economy’s long climb out of recession.

They were especially concerned that the backlog of unfilled orders for durable goods fell 1.3 percent, the 13th consecutive monthly decline, to $452.6 billion, the lowest level since December 1988.

That’s a sign that factories are easily keeping up with the flow of new orders with their current workforce, they said.

“Since last summer, what’s been going out the door in shipments is more than what’s been coming in the door in new orders,” said economist David Muro of High Frequency Economics, a New York consulting firm.
On mischief night, city braces itself for annual arson spree

CAMDEN, N.J. (AP) — Bessie Trader has a personal stake in the city-wide drive to prevent another pre-Halloween arson spree.

After helplessly watching one of last year's 133 fires spread to her home, she repaired it and moved back in this spring. On Friday night, her home will be one of the many watched over by a volunteer neighborhood patrol.

"I hope I don't have to go through it again," Trader said as she stood outside her home of nearly 30 years.

Using 600 volunteers, along with extra police and firefighters, the city hopes to thwart vandals from torching buildings on the night before Halloween.

The annual tradition is known as "Mischief Night."

Once an occasion for tossing eggs and soaking windows, Oct. 30 has in recent years become a time to set fires in this economically depressed city of 87,000 residents, across the Delaware River from Philadelphia.

In 1990, vandals set 30 fires and police made 81 arrests. Last year's outbreak proved much worse.

"We were caught off guard," admitted police Sgt. Gilbert Wilson. "But we learned our lesson."

The mayor declared a state of emergency as the overwhelmed fire department struggled to extinguish the fires last year. Police arrested about 60 people, including 42 juveniles.

"It was terrible what happened last year," said community volunteer Roberto Vaden, 57. "I don't want to see that happen again."

The goal is modest: Reduce the number of fires by 25 percent. Camden has established an anti-arson task force and moved up a curfew for those under age 18 a to 6 p.m. from 11 p.m. The city also has appealed to businesses to close early.

The program is modeled after a neighborhood program in Detroit. Last year, Detroit used 36,000 volunteers to watch vacant buildings on what is known there as "Devil's Night," and the number of arson fires fell 44 percent.

Camden officials visited Detroit after the outbreaks to learn how to implement similar preventive measures this year.

Mayor Aaron Thompson said dousing the fires is crucial in revitalization of Camden, one of the nation's poorest cities.

"This city is struggling to stay alive," he told about 100 volunteers at an orientation meeting Tuesday.

"We have to show the world we're in control of our destiny."

The key to this year's effort, officials say, is the community-based volunteer program. "The people of Camden are going to take back their city," pledged the Rev. Wilfredo Rivera, task force co-chairman.

On Friday, volunteers using flashlights and radios will patrol on foot. Cab drivers and guards at a state prison in the city have joined in.

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Shopping malls statewide are gearing up for "Malloween" as more wary parents are skipping the neighborhoods and taking their little ghosts and goblins to the mall for Halloween trick-or-treating.

"It's a trend that's growing in popularity nationwide."

"Parents are scared of sending their kids out on the street," said Keith Foxe, a spokesman for the International Council of Shopping Centers. "They feel safer going to the mall where there is an organized program."

Four-thousand children from Indiana, Illinois and Kentucky are expected at Eastland Mall in Evansville on Saturday for Halloween fun.

All 150 stores will have candy for the children and other special events between 4 p.m. and 7 p.m., said spokeswoman Amy Petitjean.

We assume the parents would rather have their children roaming around the mall than roaming the city's streets," Petitjean added.

At Southtown Mall in Fort Wayne, the largest in the state with 177 stores, 3,000 trick-or-treaters are expected for candy, games and a costume contest.

"Halloween isn't quite what it used to be," said spokeswoman Shelly Greenwald, "and we're trying to keep everybody occupied until all they have to do is go home and go to sleep.

The fun at Southtown begins at 5 p.m. and continues through 9 o'clock, just as it has for several years, Greenwald said.

In Indianapolis, Castleton Square Mall has stocked up on 200,000 pieces of candy, spokesman Kurt Ashburn said.

"We bought extra candy this year so we don't run out," he said.

Jan Evras, a spokeswoman for Washington Square Mall in Evansville, said the 2,000 or so children expected there Saturday won't create a boost in sales for the merchants.

The Investment Banking Division of Goldman, Sachs & Co.

cordially invites University of Notre Dame undergraduates of all majors to attend an information session on the Financial Analyst Program

Goldman Sachs' Financial Analyst Program offers exposure to a broad range of industries and transactions, a high level of responsibility and client interaction in a collegial work environment. No other investment bank promotes the same degree of teamwork that has become one of the hallmarks of Goldman Sachs' success.

Goldman Sachs is committed to hiring undergraduates with outstanding achievements from all majors, including Arts and Letters, Engineering and Sciences, to join the analyst class for 1993.

Information Session on October 29 at 7:00 p.m.
The Notre Dame Room in LaFortune Student Center

The Observer Thursday, October 29, 1992

Berkeley campus crooner singer wins in court

BERKELEY, Calif. (AP) — A campus crooner had something to sing about Wednesday after a judge dismissed charges that his alfresco concerts were a breach of the peace.

"This is great," Rick Starr said after the hearing in Berkeley Municipal Court. "We're aiming for the Fairmont," he said of the swanky hotel and lounge on San Francisco's Nob Hill.

Starr, 46, was in court to face a charge of disturbing the peace.

Thomas Ventresco, administr­ator at the University of California at Berkeley, filed a complaint that Starr's serenades were striking a sour note. The stress of working 50 yards from Starr's off-key concerts "is causing me to lose sleep at night," he said.

Starr, who contended he was protected by the First Amend­ment, faced a possible sentence of 90 days or a $400 fine.

After prosecutors declined to take the case, Judge Julie Conger dismissed the charge and Starr was free to go.

He didn't waste time, treating a news conference to "I Will Wait for You," from the movie "Umbrellas of Cherbourg."

Still, Ventresco will have to do without Starr's vocal offerings because he won't be returning to his post at a university plaza.

"He's been kicked upstairs as far as we're concerned," said Flora Einstein, who describes herself as Starr's publicist-mother.

With thanks From West of Here

planning tonight
1 mile east of campus

The Notre Dame Room in LaFortune Student Center

page 8
ELECTION '92

Paper won't endorse Clinton

WASHINGTON—John Van Nys says the controversy surrounding Ross Perot's charges of Republican dirty tricks won't upset his plans to cast a protest vote for the Texas businessman in Tuesday's presidential election. Perot's conduct may raise questions about his temperament to be president, but that's irrelevant because "I don't think he is going to make it anyway," says the 53-year-old New Jersey health inspector. Van Nys, who attended Perot's rally last weekend near Flemington, N.J., is hoping that a strong vote for Perot "convinces some people to wake up a little bit" and face the nation's economic problems. After Perot's unsubstantiated campaign, most of these people said their opinions of the Texan had not changed.

Supporters cast protest vote

WASHINGTON—Ross Perot's charges of Republican smear operations cast doubt on the ability of his supporters to choose among other candidates in Tuesday's election.

The state parties injected millions to 1992 election

WASHINGTON (AP) — Republican and Democratic parties at the state level have quietly injected at least $35 million of their own money in a massive effort to mobilize and influence voters before Election Day, an Associated Press review of the 50 states has found.

In at least 14 states, local parties also have provided additional funds from unions and corporations, which are banned from directly contributing to federal campaigns, the AP found.

Democrats get reservations in D.C. for Inauguration Day

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Republicans are talking upset but it's the Democrats who are reserving the hotel suites along 16th Street and down Pennsylvania Avenue for Inauguration Day.

There's a lot more requests from Democrats," said Hotel Washington's Debbie Cochran, recalling four years ago when George Bush, and not Michael Dukakis, would lead the Jan. 20 inauguration parade.

She said Democratic backers of Bill Clinton are booking 50-room blocks at the hotel, located on the parade route, despite the advance, non-refundable payments. "They're the ones who are like gangbusters, getting their money in. They think they're going to win."

But hoteliers said Republicans and Ross Perot supporters are also undeterred by top rates, four-night stays minimums and up-front payments. Many hotels are deferring payments until after Nov. 3, when supporters of two candidates will realize that the rest of the GOP coalition that's dominated White House elections since 1980 is more fragmented.

The lackluster economy is the primary thing working against Bush this year. There are other factors aggravating his difficulties: Clinton's Southern background, economic focus and carefully crafted moderate image, and maverick Ross Perot's appeal to men and independents.

Bush's poll showings have been mired in the 30s for weeks, reflecting dissatisfaction among a variety of voting groups — women, young voters, independents, working-class ethnics, upper-income Americans and even Republicans.

"Four years ago the economy was a big magnet pulling all these voters toward the Republican Party," said Larry Hoglick, managing editor of the Gallup Poll. Many of them feel closer to the Democrats on social issues, he said.

State parties injected millions to 1992 election

WASHINGTON (AP) — Republican and Democratic parties at the state level have quietly injected at least $35 million of their own money in a massive effort to mobilize and influence voters before Election Day, an Associated Press review of the 50 states has found.

The state parties will likely spend millions more in this final week before Election Day, carrying about half the financial burden for a campaign that many people have assumed is the sole work of the national parties and the presidential campaigns.

The effort includes bankrolling get-out-the-vote drives, phone banks, generic ads, mass mailings and slate cards designed to influence voters to vote for the party's entire ticket, from the White House and Congress to the statehouse and city council.

Voters seem to be shifting their party allegiances

WASHINGTON (AP) — A Michigan county famous for its disillusioned blue-collar Democrats has helped put Republicans in the White House three times. But the failed "Reagan Democrats" of Macomb County are among the many voter groups that appear to be shifting allegiances this year.

From young people and independents to the upper-income Americans whose taxes he vows to raise, Democrat Bill Clinton is leading the field among groups his party lost or split in recent elections.

President Bush, who won the White House 54-46 percent over Democrat Michael Dukakis in 1988, is still favored among white Protestants and Southern white males. But the rest of the GOP coalition that's dominated White House elections since 1980 is more fragmented.

The lackluster economy is the primary thing working against Bush this year. There are other factors aggravating his difficulties: Clinton's Southern background, economic focus and carefully crafted moderate image, and maverick Ross Perot's appeal to men and independents.

Bush's poll showings have been mired in the 30s for weeks, reflecting dissatisfaction among a variety of voting groups — women, young voters, independents, working-class ethnics, upper-income Americans and even Republicans.

"Four years ago the economy was a big magnet pulling all these voters toward the Republican Party," said Larry Hoglick, managing editor of the Gallup Poll. Many of them feel closer to the Democrats on social issues, he said.
LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Farley responds to Siegfried

Dear Editor:

I am writing in reference to the article by the Siegfried Slammers football team (The Observer, Nov. 13, 1992).

First, they begin, "the outcome of the game was determined not by the players and their abilities, but by the referees." Well, I am sorry that they feel that way, but I know of at least 52 women on our team that feel otherwise.

Yes, the referees have a certain amount of power, but the power is determined not by their own opinion, but by the rules of the game.

On their second point, I totally agree with them. It is very hard to find people to referee these games reliably and with complete knowledge of the rules.

After one of our games, I requested that the referees be required to watch the rules video tape again (a refresher course, if you will) because we felt that they did not know even the basic of rules.

We can, have been bit by "bad officiating." In one of our victories, we were outreached nine to two. But after the fact, in, we overcame, and we came away with the win.

But now I guess I should move on to the point upon which they are entirely wrong. To be honest, as I write this letter I really don't even remember all of the "it was this way" or how many plays were run. But what I do remember is what they call a third time-out.

One of the Farley coaches had asked the referee "How much time?", which he interpreted as "Time!" The funny thing was that when the head ref signalised time-out, the signal really meant that the Siegfried team had called it.

Needless to say, we were all shocked that Siegfried coaches would call a time-out, and so we did "look a gift horse in the mouth."

The ref then informed us that we still had one time-out remaining, which we used to set up our fourth down play.

So now it was fourth and six, and the coach's protest brought about an unsportsmanlike penalty. There is not too much I can say here, except that obviously in the mind of referees, the Siegfried coach stepped out of line with his argument.

The Siegfried Slammers also wanted it to be "noted that the Farley coach was being just as vocal as our coach, as well as being verbally abusive to the coaches on the field. Perhaps this went unnoticed by the referees because of their closeness with one of the Farley coaches."

Yes, I will admit it. I was being vocal. Getting caught up in the last seconds of the game can get anyone's voice a few decibels higher. But the difference was that I was yelling from the sidelines and not from the middle of the field into the referee's face. And as far as being verbally abusive to the Siegfried sideline, what are they talking about? Was I calling their names or saying that they dressed funny? I do not think so.

The only person I yelled to on the Siegfried sideline was the person who held the down marker who, on four separate occasions, instead of listening to the referee's decision, took it upon himself to add or subtract a down.

And finally, I would love to know exactly which one of the Farley coaches knows and has the right to question the referees.

So to the Siegfried Slammers, you feel better after making up this incredible lie? Even further, where do you get your information? It is not, as you say, "obvious that Farley's victory was a direct result of the unfair officiating." Farley's victory was the result of hard play, a tough defense, good running, a great catch, and the will to come from behind and win.

By John Rock

DOONESBURY

Sure, it's now becoming clear that the U.S. has a secondary goal of building up Saddam Hussein prior to the Gulf War...

DOONESBURY

Why don't you have more respect for intelligence agencies that warn about the danger of developing nuclear weapons?

DOONESBURY

Sure, he's probably just doing his own people.

QUOTE OF THE DAY

'A few are riding. The rest have been run over.'

Henry David Thoreau

Send your unpublished poem to:
Thursday's Verse
P.O. Box Q
ND, IN 46556

I knew you rider, gonna submit:
QUOTES, P.O. Box Q, ND, IN 46556

Thursday's Verse

Standing on the edge of the precipice looking into the abyss down below gazing into the decisions he must face, of what to do or where to go, he does not know.

Taking a step back, breathing a sigh, starting again, wanting to meet the Creator, to figure out the questions, to ask why, he must stand before the bottomless crater.

The answers seem far away, much too far to see unless the help we seek comes from above, It is better off to be confused as we seek to understand the thing that is life, is love.

Money and power may try to fill the void inside, peace and justice may be what we seek, but unless we try to get it right, we ain't gonna be nothing but weak.

To climb the highest mountain, to overcome the lost, we must find out that it was only but hilled, running from hide to hide, traveling ghosts, to the soul of holy which needs be filled.

By John Rock
One fact becomes alarmingly clear as one drives around any major American city, particularly in the downtown area: the industry is in decline. The world's post-war economic expansion was due not so much to access to cheap labor due to the fact that the USA then was the only major investor to a flood of foreign goods. Our competitors, particularly in the Far East, have over the years developed much to free trade policies, but we cannot compete with these people as they've been surpassed. The industry is in decline. We are writing to you in the hope that we would hope that we would be able to make a reference to the article which was published in the Observer, Oct. 8, 1992. (Next time you decide to write an article about the Right to Life group, we would hope you would include the students at Saint Mary's who also participate.)

On Thursday, Oct. 8, three SMC students were at the same abortion clinic mentioned in the article. They actually were signed up to do through the ND/SMC Right to Life group. We saw no ND students standing in the cold rain, receiving obscene gestures and rude comments from pro-aborters. However, ND students were not.

SMC students participate in many ND/SMC clubs and activities, we feel that when article such as the one mentioned above appears in the Observer it should acknowledge that not only ND students participate in these clubs, but also SMC students.

We are sure that some SMC students participated in Friday's protest, and we know from experience that SMC students participated in Thursday's Right to Life weekend.

We simply feel that a good reporter would have given us also, and hopefully in the future you will researched your articles more thoroughly.

Kristen Artz
Kathleen Artz
Tracy Emery

Dear Editor:

I am writing in response to what I see as a severe oversight of the Observer's article titled "Letters to the Editor: Have you ever heard of the word 'prejudice'?" Since the beginning of the year, Saint Mary's College students have participated in the pro-life movement. The volunteers just happened to do the most visible work for the cause, as described in a book by John D. Workshop.

The American people need to recognize the importance of this movement and to support it. This movement is the only way to reverse the destruction of human life that has been going on for too long. We cannot stand by and watch as abortions become a part of our daily lives. We need to take a stand and fight for the unborn children who are dying every day.

The pro-life movement is a powerful force that is making a difference. We need to support it and encourage others to do the same.

Letters to the Editor:

Dear Editor:

I am writing in response to what I see as a severe oversight of the Observer's article titled "Letters to the Editor: Have you ever heard of the word 'prejudice'?" Since the beginning of the year, Saint Mary's College students have participated in the pro-life movement. The volunteers just happened to do the most visible work for the cause, as described in a book by John D. Workshop.

The American people need to recognize the importance of this movement and to support it. This movement is the only way to reverse the destruction of human life that has been going on for too long. We cannot stand by and watch as abortions become a part of our daily lives. We need to take a stand and fight for the unborn children who are dying every day.

The pro-life movement is a powerful force that is making a difference. We need to support it and encourage others to do the same.

Letters to the Editor:

Dear Editor:

I am writing in response to what I see as a severe oversight of the Observer's article titled "Letters to the Editor: Have you ever heard of the word 'prejudice'?" Since the beginning of the year, Saint Mary's College students have participated in the pro-life movement. The volunteers just happened to do the most visible work for the cause, as described in a book by John D. Workshop.

The American people need to recognize the importance of this movement and to support it. This movement is the only way to reverse the destruction of human life that has been going on for too long. We cannot stand by and watch as abortions become a part of our daily lives. We need to take a stand and fight for the unborn children who are dying every day.

The pro-life movement is a powerful force that is making a difference. We need to support it and encourage others to do the same.

Letters to the Editor:

Dear Editor:

I am writing in response to what I see as a severe oversight of the Observer's article titled "Letters to the Editor: Have you ever heard of the word 'prejudice'?" Since the beginning of the year, Saint Mary's College students have participated in the pro-life movement. The volunteers just happened to do the most visible work for the cause, as described in a book by John D. Workshop.

The American people need to recognize the importance of this movement and to support it. This movement is the only way to reverse the destruction of human life that has been going on for too long. We cannot stand by and watch as abortions become a part of our daily lives. We need to take a stand and fight for the unborn children who are dying every day.

The pro-life movement is a powerful force that is making a difference. We need to support it and encourage others to do the same.

Letters to the Editor:

Dear Editor:

I am writing in response to what I see as a severe oversight of the Observer's article titled "Letters to the Editor: Have you ever heard of the word 'prejudice'?" Since the beginning of the year, Saint Mary's College students have participated in the pro-life movement. The volunteers just happened to do the most visible work for the cause, as described in a book by John D. Workshop.

The American people need to recognize the importance of this movement and to support it. This movement is the only way to reverse the destruction of human life that has been going on for too long. We cannot stand by and watch as abortions become a part of our daily lives. We need to take a stand and fight for the unborn children who are dying every day.

The pro-life movement is a powerful force that is making a difference. We need to support it and encourage others to do the same.

Letters to the Editor:

Dear Editor:

I am writing in response to what I see as a severe oversight of the Observer's article titled "Letters to the Editor: Have you ever heard of the word 'prejudice'?" Since the beginning of the year, Saint Mary's College students have participated in the pro-life movement. The volunteers just happened to do the most visible work for the cause, as described in a book by John D. Workshop.

The American people need to recognize the importance of this movement and to support it. This movement is the only way to reverse the destruction of human life that has been going on for too long. We cannot stand by and watch as abortions become a part of our daily lives. We need to take a stand and fight for the unborn children who are dying every day.

The pro-life movement is a powerful force that is making a difference. We need to support it and encourage others to do the same.
Sea of Words perseveres in the music industry

By MEGHAN KING

"There's a lot of bullshit in the music business," says Joe Bregande, lead singer and songwriter for Sea of Words, which is now touring the Midwest. "If you're in it to make it, you might as well give up.

Unlike other groups that have already "made it," Sea Of Words does not have an Artist and Repertoire (A&R) supporter pushing their posters, selling their CDs, and requesting radio stations to play their music. According to Bregande, bands who are represented "can concentrate on what they do and not be concerned about writing and recording.

But A&R people are hard to get. They can receive up to 1000 tapes a week and are forced to listen to each tape for an average of 10 seconds before fast forwarding to the chorus. "They're lazy," says Bregande. "If they listen to the third song they probably like you already." Also, "you have to be real careful they're not going to rip you off," says the singer/songwriter.

Bregande remarks about the number of available management groups. "It's incredible, it seems overwhelming. At the same time, I take some consolation in how many shitty bands have contracts. The figures, I try not to believe them or else I'd quit."

According to Bregande, a great deal of making it in the music business relies on luck. "You gotta be real lucky and work your ass off," he says. "Say for some weird reason—some unknown reason—some A&R person walks into Clubhouse because he's passing through town or something. I don't know, he just came from a football game or something. And you're playing. You could be successful." Sea of Words plays frequently at Club 23 in South Bend where Bregende first heard guitarist Marc Conklin's former ND band, The Five O'Clock Shadows three years ago. Bregande invited the group to record in New York where he was getting his degree in sound recording, and told Conklin, "If you guys break up and still wanna play music, give me a call."

Conklin returned the call two years later, marking the beginning of Sea of Words. Since then, the group's originals is also for sale. In addition, the band, "focused on acoustic guitar. Paul Loughridge, a former member of Notre Dame's St. Paul and the Marys, plays drums, and John Fletcher from Notre Dame's Dysfunction on bass. The foursome create an upbeat and alternative sound, but their repertoire reflects a variety of musical influences, as shown in the bluesier tune "Ani" and a mellow rock number, "Rollin," sung by Conklin. Catchy lyrics, such as "My girlfriend lives in a magazine/She may be flat and glossy but she knows just what I need," give the band an added original flavor.

It's a quirky business to be in, and Bregande, like many musicians, says, "If I didn't have a love for music then I couldn't do it. It's really insane, the business. It's totally stupid. A lot of people think, 'Wow, dude, I'm gonna be a rock star,' but you can't have that attitude."

Bregande's game plan for Sea of Words is perseverance. "You have to keep going," he says. "If you think you're stupid, you should be stupid. A lot of people think, 'Wow, dude, I'm gonna be a rock star,' but you can't have that attitude."

"Bregande's game plan for Sea of Words is perseverance. "You have to keep going," he says. "If you think you're stupid or whatever, keep going and evaluate your stuff, then you just have to keep going or give up. If you love it, you keep going. I hate the idea that anything is going to stop you."

Bregande says Sea of Words plans to last "until someone decides—we all decide—we're not gonna make a living from it, which pretty much just means paying the rent."

Right now, Bregande says, "I really wanna get going." He wants to get to Minneapolis where there are a lot of clubs, a lot of venues, and a lot of bands. "This sucks. Here I am, pretty much out of money, hanging around, and I haven't eaten today."

Although the band did intend to be in South Bend this long, Bregande expects Sea of Words to be here until the spring. The band seems content gaining a local following, thanks to Club 23, which has been giving them good nights and helping them target the music scene. "We're lucky that way," says Bregande. "I love playing at Club 23."

Sea of Words is scheduled to play at Club 23 Halloween night, supported by another south Bend band, The Sister Chain. In addition, Sea of Words is scheduled to play in Chicago's Lincoln Top Room tonight. A tape of six of the group's originals is also for sale.
NEW YORK CAPI - The manager of boxer Riddick Bowe said Wednesday he was incensed that the World Boxing Council may refuse to recognize Bowe as heavyweight champion if he beats Evander Holyfield on Nov. 13. WBC president Joe Sulaiman said Tuesday that the Holyfield-Bowe winner would have to negotiate a title defense with the WBC, because the winner of Saturday's eliminator between Lennox Lewis of Britain and Claudia Rueda of Italy. If Bowe won and then failed to meet the Council's requirements, the WBC would install the Lewis-Rueda victor as its world champion.

"The WBC will recognize the winner of the Lewis-Rueda eliminator as the WBC champion of the world at the winner on Nov. 13 doesn't fight him," Sulaiman said.

Sulaiman said both Holyfield and Bowe had agreed in writing to defend the crown against the Lewis-Rueda winner if Bowe won November 13.

"The comments made by Sa

LONDON PROGRAM APPLICATIONS are due 5 p.m. Friday, October 30

Leroy St. #225

SUNDERLAND, England - British midfielder Alan Smith and forward Bryan Robson were named the England men's Player of the Year on Monday by the Football Writers' Association. Smith, who has scored 20 goals this season, was named the men's Player of the Year, while Robson, who has scored 15 goals, was named the men's Player of the Year in a 2-1 victory over Scotland. Smith, who has scored 20 goals this season, was named the men's Player of the Year, while Robson, who has scored 15 goals, was named the men's Player of the Year in a 2-1 victory over Scotland.

By John W. It may come as a surprise to many people, but the Best Buy in the world is actually located in the United States, not in Europe. The store is located in the city of Dearborn, Michigan, just outside of Detroit. The store is over 100,000 square feet and has everything from TVs and computers to small appliances and even cars!

By John W. The Best Buy in the world is actually located in the United States, not in Europe. The store is located in the city of Dearborn, Michigan, just outside of Detroit. The store is over 100,000 square feet and has everything from TVs and computers to small appliances and even cars!

By John W. The Best Buy in the world is actually located in the United States, not in Europe. The store is located in the city of Dearborn, Michigan, just outside of Detroit. The store is over 100,000 square feet and has everything from TVs and computers to small appliances and even cars!

By John W. The Best Buy in the world is actually located in the United States, not in Europe. The store is located in the city of Dearborn, Michigan, just outside of Detroit. The store is over 100,000 square feet and has everything from TVs and computers to small appliances and even cars!

By John W. The Best Buy in the world is actually located in the United States, not in Europe. The store is located in the city of Dearborn, Michigan, just outside of Detroit. The store is over 100,000 square feet and has everything from TVs and computers to small appliances and even cars!

By John W. The Best Buy in the world is actually located in the United States, not in Europe. The store is located in the city of Dearborn, Michigan, just outside of Detroit. The store is over 100,000 square feet and has everything from TVs and computers to small appliances and even cars!

By John W. The Best Buy in the world is actually located in the United States, not in Europe. The store is located in the city of Dearborn, Michigan, just outside of Detroit. The store is over 100,000 square feet and has everything from TVs and computers to small appliances and even cars!

By John W. The Best Buy in the world is actually located in the United States, not in Europe. The store is located in the city of Dearborn, Michigan, just outside of Detroit. The store is over 100,000 square feet and has everything from TVs and computers to small appliances and even cars!

By John W. The Best Buy in the world is actually located in the United States, not in Europe. The store is located in the city of Dearborn, Michigan, just outside of Detroit. The store is over 100,000 square feet and has everything from TVs and computers to small appliances and even cars!

By John W. The Best Buy in the world is actually located in the United States, not in Europe. The store is located in the city of Dearborn, Michigan, just outside of Detroit. The store is over 100,000 square feet and has everything from TVs and computers to small appliances and even cars!

By John W. The Best Buy in the world is actually located in the United States, not in Europe. The store is located in the city of Dearborn, Michigan, just outside of Detroit. The store is over 100,000 square feet and has everything from TVs and computers to small appliances and even cars!

By John W. The Best Buy in the world is actually located in the United States, not in Europe. The store is located in the city of Dearborn, Michigan, just outside of Detroit. The store is over 100,000 square feet and has everything from TVs and computers to small appliances and even cars!
NFL INDIVIDUAL STATS

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Player</th>
<th>NO</th>
<th>Yd</th>
<th>Avg</th>
<th>LG</th>
<th>TD</th>
<th>Recs</th>
<th>FG</th>
<th>FG LG</th>
<th>FG %</th>
<th>FG LG</th>
<th>FG %</th>
<th>FB</th>
<th>FB LG</th>
<th>FB %</th>
<th>Touchdowns</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>White, Hou.</td>
<td>77</td>
<td>1350</td>
<td>17.6</td>
<td>28</td>
<td>2</td>
<td>2</td>
<td>15</td>
<td>2</td>
<td>17.6</td>
<td>1</td>
<td>8.1</td>
<td>2.7</td>
<td>6</td>
<td>8.1</td>
<td>1.0</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Anderson, Atl.</td>
<td>68</td>
<td>1217</td>
<td>18.0</td>
<td>27</td>
<td>3</td>
<td>3</td>
<td>4</td>
<td>3</td>
<td>12.6</td>
<td>2</td>
<td>8.1</td>
<td>2.7</td>
<td>6</td>
<td>8.1</td>
<td>1.0</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>McMillan, NY-G</td>
<td>70</td>
<td>1340</td>
<td>19.2</td>
<td>28</td>
<td>4</td>
<td>4</td>
<td>2</td>
<td>2</td>
<td>17.6</td>
<td>1</td>
<td>8.1</td>
<td>2.7</td>
<td>6</td>
<td>8.1</td>
<td>1.0</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Montgomery, Den.</td>
<td>37</td>
<td>1038</td>
<td>27.2</td>
<td>28</td>
<td>4</td>
<td>4</td>
<td>2</td>
<td>2</td>
<td>17.6</td>
<td>1</td>
<td>8.1</td>
<td>2.7</td>
<td>6</td>
<td>8.1</td>
<td>1.0</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Givins, Hou.</td>
<td>87</td>
<td>1393</td>
<td>26.6</td>
<td>28</td>
<td>4</td>
<td>4</td>
<td>2</td>
<td>2</td>
<td>17.6</td>
<td>1</td>
<td>8.1</td>
<td>2.7</td>
<td>6</td>
<td>8.1</td>
<td>1.0</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Sanders, Atl.</td>
<td>70</td>
<td>1340</td>
<td>19.2</td>
<td>28</td>
<td>4</td>
<td>4</td>
<td>2</td>
<td>2</td>
<td>17.6</td>
<td>1</td>
<td>8.1</td>
<td>2.7</td>
<td>6</td>
<td>8.1</td>
<td>1.0</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Carter, K.C.</td>
<td>77</td>
<td>1350</td>
<td>17.6</td>
<td>28</td>
<td>4</td>
<td>4</td>
<td>2</td>
<td>2</td>
<td>17.6</td>
<td>1</td>
<td>8.1</td>
<td>2.7</td>
<td>6</td>
<td>8.1</td>
<td>1.0</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>McNally, Atl.</td>
<td>68</td>
<td>1217</td>
<td>18.0</td>
<td>27</td>
<td>3</td>
<td>3</td>
<td>4</td>
<td>3</td>
<td>12.6</td>
<td>2</td>
<td>8.1</td>
<td>2.7</td>
<td>6</td>
<td>8.1</td>
<td>1.0</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Touchdowns</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td>378</td>
<td>381</td>
<td>381</td>
<td>100</td>
<td>381</td>
<td>100</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
<td>37.8</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

TRANSACTIONS

- American League
  - Baltimore Orioles - Traded Eddie Murray to the Seattle Mariners.
  - Chicago White Sox - Traded Tony Phillips to the California Angels.
  - New York Yankees - Traded Dave Winfield to the Toronto Blue Jays.
  - Montreal Expos - Traded Tim Raines to the Minnesota Twins.

- Eastern League
  - Boca Raton - Traded Keith Lupien to the general manager.
  - Cape Cod League - Relisted Larry Marks acting general manager.

- BASKETBALL
  - National Basketball Association
    - Baltimore Bulls - Traded Keith Lupien to the general manager, and Joe Cowan to the Cleveland Cavaliers.
    - New Orleans Pelicans - Traded Bill Stewart to the Baltimore Bulls.

- CONTINENTAL BASEBALL LEAGUE
  - Chicago Dogs - Traded Warren Cooper to the Cleveland Indians.
  - San Diego Padres - Placed Ed Whitson on the reserve list.
  - Los Angeles Dodgers - Released Michael Willson.
  - New York Mets - Released Michael Willson.
  - Washington Nationals - Released Michael Willson.

- CBA
  - Reinstated Darren Guest, center.
  - Indianapolis Pacers - Waived Sean Baker.

- ALUMNI SENIOR CLUB
  - Morgan State University - Named Bill Berry general manager.
  - San Diego State University - Named Dave Jorn pitching coach of the International Hockey League.

- COLLEGE
  - Cornell University - Named Patty Sankey manager of the women's soccer team.
  - United States Soccer Committee
    - Columbia University - Named Tony Parke manager of the women's soccer team.

- HOCKEY
  - MONTREAL CANADIENS - Signed Tim Hulett, infielder.
  - Toronto Maple Leafs - Signed Tim Hulett, infielder.

RESULTS

- National League Manager of the Year
  - Terry Collins
  - Jeff French
  - BillERA
  - Steve Garvey
  - Mike Piazza
  - Barry Bonds
  - Kevin Coates
  - Bill Molitor

- American League Manager of the Year
  - Lou Piniella
  - Cal Ripken, Jr.
  - Tony La Russa
  - Joe Torre
  - Jackie Robinson

Halloween at the Alumni Senior Club

A night you’ll wish you could remember.

Prizes for best costumes

- Live disc jockey 9-2
- Costume a must!

must be 21
Leyland tabbed as NL Manager of the Year

NEW YORK (AP) — Jim Leyland, who guided the Pittsburgh Pirates to their third straight National League East title this season, was named NL Manager of the Year on Wednesday.

Leyland was voted first on 20 of 24 ballots and received 109 points overall to beat rookie manager Felipe Alou of the Montreal Expos. Alou, who took over in May for Tom Ruehls, was named on three first-place ballots and received 65 points. The other first-place vote went to Atlanta's Bobby Cox, who finished third with 29 points.

It was the second time in the three years that Leyland has been named Manager of the Year in voting by the Baseball Writers Association of America.

"This is a real pleasuring to me," Leyland said at a news conference in Pittsburgh. "Nobody wants to sit at the table like they're boasting, but I think it was my best year. We had to do some month-end things, and everything happened to work out."

The Pirates finished 96-66 and beat the Expos by nine games. It was a surprising success for Pittsburgh after losing outfielder Bobby Bonilla to free agency and trading pitcher John Smiley just before the start of the season for financial reasons.

Leyland's regular-season success, however, was once again spoiled in the playoffs as the Pirates lost to the NL West champion for the third straight year. This time, there was particularly painful as Atlanta rallied for three runs in the bottom of the ninth inning of Game 7 to keep Leyland and the Pirates out of the World Series again.

"A lot of people think that (Game 7) is going to be lasting and we won't go away, but 1992 is going to be a good memory for me," Leyland said. "I'm safe for our community and safe for the organization, but 1992 was a great year for the Pittsburgh Pirates. We won 96 games — 99 if you count the playoffs. We came back from 3-1 down in the playoffs and we were ahead 2-0 in the ninth inning of Game 7. How could that be a bad year?"

In 1991, the Braves soared from last place to the World Series, only to lose to the Minnesota Twins in seven games. This year the Toronto Blue Jays beat the Braves in six games.

"It was nothing like last year, but that was the first time," said Braves second baseman Mark Lemke after the one-hour "Grand Slam Salute" at the 50,000-seat stadium under a cloudy sky and temperature in the 70s. "But this was nice."

It was more than nice for Cox, who was suspended for drug-use in September of last year and missed the NL playoffs and World Series, spending his time in a rehabilitation center rather than with his teammates.

"It's just a great feeling standing here today. It's hard for me to put into words what this means," said Nixon, who was honored the two-time National League All-Star with a statue of himself outside the stadium and a plaque in the dugout.

The festivities got under way in a cloud and temperature in the 80s, with a strong wind blowing salads from Fort Benning landing in short right field. After several local high school bands marched and Tom Braxton sang the National Anthem, a five-minute video of the Braves' season was shown, bringing the roaring crowd to its feet.

Then it was time to introduce the coaches and players.

Francisco Cabrera, who won Game 7 of the World Series against Pittsburgh with a ninth-inning single that sent the Braves into the World Series, received one of the loudest ovations from the crowd.

Mayor Maynard Jackson presented the Braves with a time capsule containing tickets to the World Series and a plaque from the Piedmont Parks and Recreation Department for the 1991 World Series.

"This is real pleasing to me," said Nixon, who was honored the two-time National League All-Star with a statue of himself outside the stadium and a plaque in the dugout.

The festivities got under way in a cloud and temperature in the 80s, with a strong wind blowing salads from Fort Benning landing in short right field. After several local high school bands marched and Tom Braxton sang the National Anthem, a five-minute video of the Braves' season was shown, bringing the roaring crowd to its feet.

Then it was time to introduce the coaches and players.

Francisco Cabrera, who won Game 7 of the World Series against Pittsburgh with a ninth-inning single that sent the Braves into the World Series, received one of the loudest ovations from the crowd.

Mayor Maynard Jackson presented the Braves with a time capsule containing tickets to the World Series and a plaque from the Piedmont Parks and Recreation Department for the 1991 World Series.

"This is real pleasing to me," said Nixon, who was honored the two-time National League All-Star with a statue of himself outside the stadium and a plaque in the dugout.

The festivities got under way in a cloud and temperature in the 80s, with a strong wind blowing salads from Fort Benning landing in short right field. After several local high school bands marched and Tom Braxton sang the National Anthem, a five-minute video of the Braves' season was shown, bringing the roaring crowd to its feet.

Then it was time to introduce the coaches and players.

Francisco Cabrera, who won Game 7 of the World Series against Pittsburgh with a ninth-inning single that sent the Braves into the World Series, received one of the loudest ovations from the crowd.

Mayor Maynard Jackson presented the Braves with a time capsule containing tickets to the World Series and a plaque from the Piedmont Parks and Recreation Department for the 1991 World Series.

"This is real pleasing to me," said Nixon, who was honored the two-time National League All-Star with a statue of himself outside the stadium and a plaque in the dugout.

The festivities got under way in a cloud and temperature in the 80s, with a strong wind blowing salads from Fort Benning landing in short right field. After several local high school bands marched and Tom Braxton sang the National Anthem, a five-minute video of the Braves' season was shown, bringing the roaring crowd to its feet.

Then it was time to introduce the coaches and players.

Francisco Cabrera, who won Game 7 of the World Series against Pittsburgh with a ninth-inning single that sent the Braves into the World Series, received one of the loudest ovations from the crowd.

Mayor Maynard Jackson presented the Braves with a time capsule containing tickets to the World Series and a plaque from the Piedmont Parks and Recreation Department for the 1991 World Series.

"This is real pleasing to me," said Nixon, who was honored the two-time National League All-Star with a statue of himself outside the stadium and a plaque in the dugout.

The festivities got under way in a cloud and temperature in the 80s, with a strong wind blowing salads from Fort Benning landing in short right field. After several local high school bands marched and Tom Braxton sang the National Anthem, a five-minute video of the Braves' season was shown, bringing the roaring crowd to its feet.
McKay, MacLean help Devils sink Whalers

HARTFORD, Conn. (AP) — Randy McKay scored 48 seconds into overtime and John MacLean scored his first two goals since the 1990-91 season as the New Jersey Devils beat the Hartford Whalers 4-3 on Wednesday.

Scott Stevens passed just to the right of the net to McKay, who skated out, wheeled around and fired a wrist shot past Frank Pietrangelo.

Bill Guerin got the other Devils’ score, his first regular-season goal. Steve Konroyd, Nick Kyperos and Patrick Poulin scored for the Whalers, who squandered a 40-save effort by Pietrangelo.

The Devils appeared to have the game well in hand when they jumped to a 2-0 lead in the first period as they thoroughly outplayed the Whalers. But Hartford, which was 2-3-2-4 last season when falling two goals behind, tied the score 2-2 in the second period.

MacLean, who scored 40 goals three straight seasons before missing all of last season with a knee injury, gave the Devils the 3-2 lead a minute into the third period.

Poulin tied the score for the Whalers, picking up the rebound of Robert Petrovicky’s wrist shot and flipping an off-balanced shot past Frank Ranford.

Although it was one of the few Whalers home games not televised locally, only 8,207 fans attended — the sixth-smallest crowd in Hartford history. The Whalers are averaging a 9,360 fans a game, down 1,609 a game through the first five games of the season.

MacLean, playing in his 556th game to tie Kirk Muller for second on the Devils career list, scored in the first period — his first goal since March 23, 1991 against Montreal.

The Devils, second in the league on the power play, moved the puck around the Whalers’ zone with four quick passes. Bobby Holik, a former Whaler, found Bruce Driver in the slot. Driver partially fanned the shot, but MacLean spun into the slot and beat Pietrangelo gloveiside with a wrist shot.

The Whalers cut the lead to 2-1 on Konroyd’s goal. Tim Kerr slipped a pass past Ken Daneyko and Konroyd fired it past Billington.

Kyperos tied it at 9:31 of the second period.

Canadians 4, Lightning 3

MONTREAL — Brian Bellows scored two goals as the Montreal Canadiens stretched their unbeaten string to six games with a 4-3 win over the Tampa Bay Lightning on Wednesday night.

Patrice Brisebois and Eric Desjardins also scored for Montreal (6-3-2-2), which moved one point ahead of Boston for the Adams Division lead.

The Lightning closed within a goal of Montreal on third-period goals from Rob Ramage and Chris Kontos.

Bryan Bradley scored in the first period for Tampa Bay (4-6-1), which was coming off a 4-3 loss in Quebec on Tuesday night.

Red Wings 4, Sharks 3

DETROIT — San Jose’s losing streak reached an end with a goal from Nicklas Lidstrom’s power-play goal at 1:34 of the third period that broke a tie and lifted the Detroit Red Wings to a 4-3 victory over the Sharks.

Lidstrom’s first goal of the season, with David Brace off for a high-sticking Dino Ciccarelli, came from just inside the blue line. It beat Brian Hayward on the stick side, just under the crossbar.

The Sharks (1-9-0) have lost every game since the first week of the season on a 4-3 overtime victory over Winnipeg in their season opener.

The Devils also were 1-9-0 after 10 games last season and didn’t earn their second victory until their 17th game, which ended a 13-game losing streak.

Sabres 4, Maple Leafs 4

TORONTO (AP) — Doug Bodger scored with 46 seconds left in regulation to give the Buffalo Sabres a 4-4 tie with the Toronto Maple Leafs.

The Buffalo defensman drifted in from the blue line to take a pass out of a corner from Dave Andreychuk and lift a drive inside the post and behind goaltender Felix Potvin.

Alexander Mogilny scored twice and Brad May added a goal for Buffalo (5-3-1). Joe Sacco scored twice and Rob Pearson and Doug Gilmour each once for Toronto (5-3-2), which extended its unbeaten streak to four games, including three wins.

Saturday, October 23, 1992

7 Day Delivery Flowers Balloons Gift & Fruit Baskets

Clocktower Square (219) 277 - 1291
Order 24 hrs a day

MISA EN ESPAÑOL
Spanish Mass

domingo, 1 de Noviembre de 1992
10:30 p.m.
Breen-Phillips Chapel

Todos Estan Invitados
All Are Welcome

Celebrante
Padre Tim Scully, C.S.C.

7-150
150 Anniversary Celebration of Notre Dame University
University of Notre Dame
Notre Dame, Indiana 46556

Arendt, James H.

October 20, 1992

To the Editor of the Observer:

As the major filming of the movie “Buddy” gets underway, may I remind the Notre Dame community that some minor inconveniences will come with it.

Budding Stars Productions has renewed its contract with the University of Notre Dame for spring 1991. We will be entering into a larger role of the campus in summer 1991.

Theaters will be closed and other production facilities used.

Members of the production company and others involved in the movie are very appreciative of the hospitality thus far extended them, and they hope to make their own small contribution to the educational endeavor here, principally through lectures and a Department of Art, Art History and Design and the Department of Communication and Theater.

Please understand, however, that some minor disruption of campus routine is inevitable. You may not be able to use a customary sidewalk on a given afternoon, or find a roadway briefly closed or a parking lot temporarily off-limits. The producers are committed to keeping these to a minimum, but they ask your forbearance and patience in advance.

Richard W. Hadley
Dear Notre Dame / Saint Mary's Community:

This is an exciting time for all of us as the start of the basketball season is just a few weeks away. We are looking forward to continuing where we left off last year and hope all of our fans are too. The surge we made last year was partly due to the increased fan support from all of you. We have been working very hard during the off-season and are anxious to begin a new season.

We have a tough and exciting home season ahead of us and we are certain that you will see some of the best basketball in the nation right here on campus. Defending National Champion Duke, as well as perennial national powers Indiana and Kentucky, will be visiting the JACC this season. We also will be hosting top rivals Evansville, Marquette and Dayton. It certainly will be a season that you will not want to miss.

During the off-season, several changes were made with you, the fan, in mind. First, we were thrilled with the student participation during last year's NIT tournament and have decided to make those seating arrangements permanent. This year, all student seats will be in the east end court near our bench (Sections 13, 14, 15, & 16) starting on the floor in the lower arena and extending up to the bleachers. What is even more exciting is that all student seats, regardless of location, are only $4.00 per game. So, the entire 11 game season can be purchased for just $44.00. Do not forget that this year's student ticket distribution will take place Monday, November 2 through Thursday, November 5 from 9 AM to 6 PM at the JACC Gate 10 Box Office.

We've also made some off-season changes with the Notre Dame/Saint Mary's community in mind. The biggest change comes in the form of the "Fast Break" ticket package. This six-game package offers bleacher seats to six of the premier games this season and includes Indiana, Duke, and Kentucky. This option is available to all Irish basketball fans for only $60.00.

Take a look at the photo included at the bottom of this letter. The photo was taken immediately after the Irish upset #1 ranked North Carolina back in 1987 right here in the Joyce Center. This is what we hope the Joyce Center will look like again this year. While I can't make any promises about wins and losses, I can guarantee you EXCITEMENT, and hope to see all of you in the Joyce Center this season.

Sincerely,

John MacLeod
Men's Head Basketball Coach
The playoffs have finally arrived for the final eight teams in the interhall football league, as the top four teams of each of the two divisions will play cross-sectional games for the first time this season.

A single elimination playoff format will decide which dorm earns the right to call itself number one.

Zahm(4-0) vs. Dillon (2-2)
Zahm, which emerged undefeated from the Blue Division, enters the playoffs as the top seed from there and will compete against Dillon, the fourth seed from the Gold Division. Zahm proved to be one of the most explosive teams in the regular season, as its offense is stacked with a variety of weapons.

The offense is led by quarterback Chris Hammond, a threat to both run and pass. His favorite target is Pete Couri, who may be the most dangerous offensive player in the league, capable of breaking off big plays on either pass receptions or kick returns.

Where Zahm breezed through its schedule, Dillon arrived in the playoffs by a more indirect route, as it was forced to beat Stanford, coming back in overtime for a come-from-behind 8-6 victory.

Flanner, Zahm favored in IH football

By TIMOTHY SEYMOUR
Sports Writer

The women’s basketball team will hold an informational meeting for anyone interested in trying out on October 28 at 5 p.m. at the basketball office. If unable to attend, call Sarah at 239-5420.

The men’s basketball team will be holding walk-on tryouts on October 29 in the Fencing Gym at 7:30 p.m. If you have questions, call Tim Kalamaros at 277-6797.

SMC varsity basketball open gym will last only three more days on October 26, 27 and 29 from 8-10 p.m. Everyone is strongly encouraged to attend.

ND Ski Club/team will have a mandatory meeting on November 3 at 12 Nieuwland at 5 p.m. Final payments for the Aspen trip will be taken at that time. Trips are still available so bring interested friends. If you have questions, call Chris Boone at 273-2958.

ND Tee Kwon Do Club will be holding pretesting on October 29 in the Fencing Gym at 7:30 p.m. If you have questions, call Tim Kalamaros at 277-6797.

SMC Varsity Basketball tryouts begin November 1 at 3:30 p.m. at Angela Athletic Facility. Tryouts are open to all interested participants.

The soccer final of the Grad/Faculty/Staff league will take place November 1. Les Miz and Rehab of the MBA will play each other in the final.

Fellowship of Christian Athletes will hold its weekly meeting tonight at 7 p.m. in the basement of Farley. All are welcome. Please call E.D. at 283-1276 with questions.
BRIAN KUBICKI

Sports

Thursday, October 29, 1992

Alumni wins second straight IH soccer crown, 2-0

By KEVIN JANICKI
Sports Writer

In the wake of some tournament controversy, the men’s interhall championship game was played yesterday at Stepan. Alumni took home its second straight championship by defeating Carroll 2-0.

Carroll appeared in the championship game only after semifinal winner Zahn A was declared ineligible by a RecSport protest board before fall break for using ineligible players. But with the controversy behind them, Alumni and Carroll did battle in an extremely physical game.

This was definitely one of the more physical games of the season,” remarked Carroll captain Tony Yang. Despite being out-shot 6-1 in the first half, Carroll denied excellent offensive play by Alumni’s Greg Borkowski and Mark O’Neill thanks mainly to several remarkable saves by goalkeeper Mark Vives. And fifteen minutes into the game, Carroll was called back for a foul on Andrew Finney. After a scoreless first half, Alumni was finally able to capitalize on two attacks in the second half.

EIGHTEEN minutes into the second half of play, Borkowski put a hard right-footed shot into the upper left corner of the net. And three minutes later, senior midfielder Eric Horvath volleyed a shot off the left goalpost and into the net to seal the victory for Alumni.

Alumni finished the season unscored upon, moving confidently to an undefeated regular season and through the playoffs.

“Experience is a big part of it,” remarked team captain Volker Blankenstein, “we had a lot of senior leadership.”

Specifically, Blankenstein emphasized the load-taking of seniors Tony Zwerda and Jim Kusen on defense and senior midfielders Bill Farabaugh and Bill Blum.

Alumni co-captains Blankenstein and Horvath also noted the importance of the Alumni students who supported the team all year long. In an effort to create a home field atmosphere for themselves, Alumni sponsored a pre-game cookout for Alumni fans.

But Carroll more than held their own in the spectator department. A spirited group of Carroll students in the bleachers had the football team turned out to lend support to the talented Carroll squad.

But it was not to be for Carroll this year as team captain Yang noted, “Alumni is an excellent team. They played a great game.”

A lot has changed for Irish hoops

By MIKE SCRUDATO
Sports Editor

John MacLeod sounded like a president at yesterday’s men’s basketball media day. The second-year coach spent a lot of time talking about change.

However, the changes with the Notre Dame basketball team have already been noticed by the Spartans.

“We are a much different team,” MacLeod said. “We have four new starters, a new assistant coach, new uniforms, a player coming back (Monty Williams), and two new freshmen (Ryan Hoover and Keith Kurowski).”

MacLeod still plans to begin practice on Sunday with the same starting five reported in The Observer two weeks ago.

Lamarr Justice and Brooks Boyer will have the arduous task of replacing the high-scoring backcourt of Elmer Bennett and Daimon Sweet.

Boyer is looking forward to the challenge, and the junior feels he is off his off-season training.

“I played a lot against Elmer and Daimon this summer, and that helped me a lot defensively. You’re not going to find too many guards as quick as Elmer or as physical as Daimon,” Boyer explained.

Defensively, MacLeod plans to continue the up-tempo style he implemented last year, but he also plans to make a few changes.

The biggest of which is the Irish’s use of the three-point shot.

“I hope to shoot more threes and have a better percentage from there,” MacLeod commented.

This philosophy is fine with Boyer, who will serve as captain along with Carl Cozen and Billy Taylor.

“I love the idea,” Boyer said with a smile. “I worked on my shot over the summer, and I concentrated on the three. Not only the stationary shot, but also the catch and off the dribble as well.”

Up front the Irish return their lone senior from last year, center Joe Ross. I am very excited about this year,” said Ross. “I worked with our assistant coach Carl Bell and Billy Taylor. I worked on my shot over the summer, and I concentrated on the three. Not only the stationary shot, but also the catch and off the dribble as well.”

The Irish return their lone senior from last year, center Joe Ross. I am very excited about this year,” said Ross. “I worked with our assistant coach Carl Bell and Billy Taylor. I worked on my shot over the summer, and I concentrated on the three. Not only the stationary shot, but also the catch and off the dribble as well.”

As Monty and Joe Ross will have to step up for the graduated LaPhonso Ellis and Keith Blum.

“We are a small team compared to last year,” MacLeod said. “I think we will have a better percentage from the three.”

As Ellis and Keith Blum.

“We are a small team compared to last year,” MacLeod said. “I think we will have a better percentage from the three.”

Williams and Ross will have to step up for the graduated LaPhonso Ellis and Keith Blum.

“We are a small team compared to last year,” MacLeod said. “I think we will have a better percentage from the three.”

The Irish return their lone senior from last year, center Joe Ross. I am very excited about this year,” said Ross. “I worked with our assistant coach Carl Bell and Billy Taylor. I worked on my shot over the summer, and I concentrated on the three. Not only the stationary shot, but also the catch and off the dribble as well.”

As Ellis and Keith Blum.

“We are a small team compared to last year,” MacLeod said. “I think we will have a better percentage from the three.”

Williams and Ross will have to step up for the graduated LaPhonso Ellis and Keith Blum.

“We are a small team compared to last year,” MacLeod said. “I think we will have a better percentage from the three.”

The Irish return their lone senior from last year, center Joe Ross. I am very excited about this year,” said Ross. “I worked with our assistant coach Carl Bell and Billy Taylor. I worked on my shot over the summer, and I concentrated on the three. Not only the stationary shot, but also the catch and off the dribble as well.”

As Ellis and Keith Blum.

“We are a small team compared to last year,” MacLeod said. “I think we will have a better percentage from the three.”

Williams and Ross will have to step up for the graduated LaPhonso Ellis and Keith Blum.

“We are a small team compared to last year,” MacLeod said. “I think we will have a better percentage from the three.”

The Irish return their lone senior from last year, center Joe Ross. I am very excited about this year,” said Ross. “I worked with our assistant coach Carl Bell and Billy Taylor. I worked on my shot over the summer, and I concentrated on the three. Not only the stationary shot, but also the catch and off the dribble as well.”

As Ellis and Keith Blum.

“We are a small team compared to last year,” MacLeod said. “I think we will have a better percentage from the three.”

Williams and Ross will have to step up for the graduated LaPhonso Ellis and Keith Blum.

“We are a small team compared to last year,” MacLeod said. “I think we will have a better percentage from the three.”

The Irish return their lone senior from last year, center Joe Ross. I am very excited about this year,” said Ross. “I worked with our assistant coach Carl Bell and Billy Taylor. I worked on my shot over the summer, and I concentrated on the three. Not only the stationary shot, but also the catch and off the dribble as well.”

As Ellis and Keith Blum.

“We are a small team compared to last year,” MacLeod said. “I think we will have a better percentage from the three.”

Williams and Ross will have to step up for the graduated LaPhonso Ellis and Keith Blum.

“We are a small team compared to last year,” MacLeod said. “I think we will have a better percentage from the three.”

The Irish return their lone senior from last year, center Joe Ross. I am very excited about this year,” said Ross. “I worked with our assistant coach Carl Bell and Billy Taylor. I worked on my shot over the summer, and I concentrated on the three. Not only the stationary shot, but also the catch and off the dribble as well.”

As Ellis and Keith Blum.

“We are a small team compared to last year,” MacLeod said. “I think we will have a better percentage from the three.”

Williams and Ross will have to step up for the graduated LaPhonso Ellis and Keith Blum.

“We are a small team compared to last year,” MacLeod said. “I think we will have a better percentage from the three.”

The Irish return their lone senior from last year, center Joe Ross. I am very excited about this year,” said Ross. “I worked with our assistant coach Carl Bell and Billy Taylor. I worked on my shot over the summer, and I concentrated on the three. Not only the stationary shot, but also the catch and off the dribble as well.”

As Ellis and Keith Blum.

“We are a small team compared to last year,” MacLeod said. “I think we will have a better percentage from the three.”

Williams and Ross will have to step up for the graduated LaPhono...