Inauguration speech calls for responsibility

(AP) Clinton's inauguration marked a dramatic change in the nation's political compass. Clinton promised to have the government work to solve America's problems. Bush, and Ronald Reagan before him, tried to restrict government's hands.

"We know we have to face hard truths and take strong steps," Clinton said. "But we have not done so. Instead, we have drifted, and that drifting has eroded our resources, fractured our economy and shaken our confidence. Though described this multiparty election, the first in Kenya since 1992, it was not without its problems. The new Kenyan democracy has been waiting for, according to Orvis, "far from free and fair.

Moi, the president of Kenya since 1978 and the apparent winner of the 1992 elections, originally refused to hold elections, he thought he could control the situation. Moi announced that he believed the elections would cause much bloodshed between rival tribes, Orvis said. "It's exactly what Moi had been waiting for," said Orvis. "He knew that his base of support was too small to win. With the opposition vote now split, Moi thought he could control retained his power.

Moi's backers, entered a valley that was home to many ethnic groups and went on a rampage. This valley once had been controlled by whites, but when white settlers left, there had always been tension between the tribes. Orvis continued. "He made sure that his prophecy came true.

In what Orvis called, "a Kenyan version of ethnic cleansing," in May 1992, Moi's backers, entered a valley in central Kenya that was home to many ethnic groups and went on a rampage. This valley once had been controlled by whites, but when white settlers left, there had always been tension between the tribes. Orvis continued. "He made sure that his prophecy came true.

Labeled recycling bins in LaFortune greeted with a lukewarm response

By CHRISTY FREDERICK

Notre Dame Food Services has placed individually-la­abeled recycling bins at both the food court and student center. The project first focused on Food Services' kitchens with the goal of reducing cardboard and aluminum waste from food preparation, according to David Prenkotski, director of Food Services. "This was the next step to eliminating waste," said Prenkotski. "We need to educate the customers to use them.

The recycling program began in South Bend after the train traveling west, David Prentkowski said. "We developed an objective to recycle whatever and wherever we can and get the students to help," he explained.

The Observer: "[World reacts] page 7

"Let us resolve to reform our politics so that power and privi­lege no longer shout down the voices of ordinary people," Clinton said. "Let us put aside personal advantage so that we can feel the pain and see the promise of America."

His inauguration crowned a long journey from an Arkansas hamlet called Hope to the most powerful job in the world. Along the way, he was elected the youngest sitting governor at age 32 and left that office as the nation's longest-serving governor.

Moi, the president of Kenya since 1978 and the apparent winner of the 1992 elections, originally refused to hold elections, he thought he could control the situation. Moi announced that he believed the elections would cause much bloodshed between rival tribes, Orvis said. "It's exactly what Moi had been waiting for," said Orvis. "He knew that his base of support was too small to win. With the opposition vote now split, Moi thought he could control retained his power.

Moi's backers, entered a valley that was home to many ethnic groups and went on a rampage. This valley once had been controlled by whites, but when white settlers left, there had always been tension between the tribes. Orvis continued. "He made sure that his prophecy came true.

In what Orvis called, "a Kenyan version of ethnic cleansing," in May 1992, Moi's backers, entered a valley in central Kenya that was home to many ethnic groups and went on a rampage. This valley once had been controlled by whites, but when white settlers left, there had always been tension between the tribes. Orvis continued. "He made sure that his prophecy came true.

Labeled recycling bins in LaFortune greeted with a lukewarm response

By CHRISTY FREDERICK

Notre Dame Food Services has placed individually-la­abeled recycling bins at both the food court and student center. The project first focused on Food Services' kitchens with the goal of reducing cardboard and aluminum waste from food preparation, according to David Prenkotski, director of Food Services. "This was the next step to eliminating waste," said Prenkotski. "We need to educate the customers to use them.

The recycling program began in South Bend after the train traveling west, David Prentkowski said. "We developed an objective to recycle whatever and wherever we can and get the students to help," he explained.

The Observer: "[World reacts] page 7

"Let us resolve to reform our politics so that power and privi­lege no longer shout down the voices of ordinary people," Clinton said. "Let us put aside personal advantage so that we can feel the pain and see the promise of America."

His inauguration crowned a long journey from an Arkansas hamlet called Hope to the most powerful job in the world. Along the way, he was elected the youngest sitting governor at age 32 and left that office as the nation's longest-serving governor.

Moi, the president of Kenya since 1978 and the apparent winner of the 1992 elections, originally refused to hold elections, he thought he could control the situation. Moi announced that he believed the elections would cause much bloodshed between rival tribes, Orvis said. "It's exactly what Moi had been waiting for," said Orvis. "He knew that his base of support was too small to win. With the opposition vote now split, Moi thought he could control retained his power.

Moi's backers, entered a valley that was home to many ethnic groups and went on a rampage. This valley once had been controlled by whites, but when white settlers left, there had always been tension between the tribes. Orvis continued. "He made sure that his prophecy came true.

In what Orvis called, "a Kenyan version of ethnic cleansing," in May 1992, Moi's backers, entered a valley in central Kenya that was home to many ethnic groups and went on a rampage. This valley once had been controlled by whites, but when white settlers left, there had always been tension between the tribes. Orvis continued. "He made sure that his prophecy came true.

Labeled recycling bins in LaFortune greeted with a lukewarm response

By CHRISTY FREDERICK

Notre Dame Food Services has placed individually-la­abeled recycling bins at both the food court and student center. The project first focused on Food Services' kitchens with the goal of reducing cardboard and aluminum waste from food preparation, according to David Prenkotski, director of Food Services. "This was the next step to eliminating waste," said Prenkotski. "We need to educate the customers to use them.

The recycling program began in South Bend after the train traveling west, David Prentkowski said. "We developed an objective to recycle whatever and wherever we can and get the students to help," he explained.
SEARCHING FOR CATHOLICISM IN SOUTH BEND

Yesterday we witnessed the "passing of the torch" from one generation to another. The WW II generation and George Bush passed the reins of control to the Baby Boomers and Bill Clinton. Today we can witness the same thing happening in the Catholic Church. The old order is passing and the new generation is coming to task.

When we speak of the old order, I mean those that were Catholicized before Vatican II. The Catholic undergraduates of Notre Dame are the first of this new generation—those born after Vatican II. We come from a generation torn by divorce, crack, and the scourge of our era, AIDS.

We as Notre Dame and Saint Mary's undergraduates often have our values questioned by those on both sides. The world asks why we would choose a Catholic school, while others, even Catholics, question the values that our schools put to us. We have been even accused of being taught by dissenters and hypocrisies.

While it may be true that Notre Dame uses its denomination to assist its fund-raising efforts, that does not mean that it should alter its mission. Catholicism requires that, in order to be a man of faith, we must bear in mind that the Church is the product of two millenniums of God mixing with humankind. Even the Vicar of Christ is a man and bound to make mistakes. Gallion's recent exoneration is evidence that the Church can be wrong but takes steps to become right.

Faith is much more than going through holy mumbo-jumbo. We can be taught by dissenters and question by hypocrites. The values for which it was built.

It has not failed me or the Congregation and will, use its resources to strengthen the values for which it was built.

It is a man of faith, can be taught by dissenters and questioned by hypocrites.

The values for which it was built.

AIDS.

That does not mean that it should alter its mission. Catholicism requires that, in order to be a man of faith, we must bear in mind that the Church is the product of two millenniums of God mixing with humankind. Even the Vicar of Christ is a man and bound to make mistakes. Gallion's recent exoneration is evidence that the Church can be wrong but takes steps to become right.

Faith is much more than going through holy mumbo-jumbo. We can be taught by dissenters and question by hypocrites. The values for which it was built.

It has not failed me or the Congregation and will, use its resources to strengthen the values for which it was built.

It is a man of faith, can be taught by dissenters and questioned by hypocrites. The values for which it was built.

NOW, "Cafeteria Catholics" We cannot be, picking the tenants of our faith to follow without actually going against the Church. Becoming Catholic, however, is no longer solely a matter of religious conversion, but, rather, a matter of righteousness, both formed in context of Catholicism.

The Catholic Church, now, "Cafeteria Catholics" We cannot be, picking the tenants of our faith to follow without actually going against the Church. Becoming Catholic, however, is no longer solely a matter of religious conversion, but, rather, a matter of righteousness, both formed in context of Catholicism.

New, "Cafeteria Catholics" We cannot be, picking the tenants of our faith to follow without actually going against the Church. Becoming Catholic, however, is no longer solely a matter of religious conversion, but, rather, a matter of righteousness, both formed in context of Catholicism.

We must bear in mind that the Church is the product of two millenniums of God mixing with humankind. Even the Vicar of Christ is a man and bound to make mistakes. Gallion's recent exoneration is evidence that the Church can be wrong but takes steps to become right.

Notre Dame has not failed me or the Congregation and will, use its resources to strengthen the values for which it was built.

While it may be true that Notre Dame uses its denomination to assist its fund-raising efforts, that does not mean that it should alter its mission. Catholicism requires that, in order to be a man of faith, we must bear in mind that the Church is the product of two millenniums of God mixing with humankind. Even the Vicar of Christ is a man and bound to make mistakes. Gallion's recent exoneration is evidence that the Church can be wrong but takes steps to become right.

Faith is much more than going through holy mumbo-jumbo. We can be taught by dissenters and questioned by hypocrites. The values for which it was built.

It has not failed me or the Congregation and will, use its resources to strengthen the values for which it was built.

It is a man of faith, can be taught by dissenters and questioned by hypocrites. The values for which it was built.
Media still stereotype racial minorities, speaker says

By ROB ADAMS
News Writer

The media still present a stereotypical portrayal of racial minorities, according to Dr. Alice Tait, who spoke Wednesday on the portrayal of African-Americans, Hispanics, Asians and Native Americans.

She tried to demonstrate the effect that the media have on the American people. She asked the audience to describe Saddam Hussein, then George Bush.

Members of the audience described Hussein as "violent," "cruel," and "evil," but used words like "knowledgeable," and "manipulative," to describe Bush. Tait said, "If that is what the media can do to you in one year, think of what forty years can do."

She listed numerous eye-opening statistics focusing on how few minorities are actually on media staffs. She cited "Clark's Evolution of Minorities in Mass Media," written by Cedric Clark, a scholar of mass communications and its effects, and applied her theories to his stages of minority media development.

Clark's plan involves four stages which occur in this order once a system of mass media is created: invisibility, ridiculing, regulatory, and egalitarian.

The "invisibility" stage exhibits no representation of a minority whatsoever in the media, causing the people of the minority to lose identity. The "ridicule" stage presents the minority as a group of buffoons, but nonetheless satisfies the group because misrepresentation is better than no representation, she said.

The "regulatory" stage takes place as certain people of the minority group feel angry at being misrepresented and complain enough to have the media change the portrayal to good guys who maintain social norms. Tait said. The "egalitarian" stage occurs when a strong degree of assimilation is achieved but all ethnicity is lost.

Tait showed excerpts from movies, television programs, and commercials that exploited stereotypical views of minorities.

ND dining hall employee to get makeover from local salon

By KRISTIN MCGOWAN
News Writer

Beginning this afternoon, one of the familiar faces you see working in the dining hall each day will have a brand-new look.

As a participant in a program run by Logan Center, an organization which aids developmentally-disabled individuals such as herself, University Food Services employee Laura Bryant is going to get a complete makeover, compliments of We Care Hair salon on South Bend Ave.

Jill King, an assistant manager at the salon, said that the makeover would involve fixing Bryant's hair and makeup and discussing the importance of hygiene. The purpose of the makeover is "to give them more self-confidence by improving their appearance," she said.

The makeover is important in increasing self-esteem and "making them feel good," which is "very appropriate for being out in the community," said Sue Correa, the director of Bryant's program.

She said that events like Bryant's makeover are helpful in "bringing a community resource to our people and providing ... normalizing activities, so our people can be better involved."

Another purpose of the makeover is "to make the public aware that they do have jobs and can work," King said.

The program in which Bryant is involved is called Logan Employment Services, which has been in existence since 1986, according to Correa.

The goal of this program, Correa said, is to "help people with disabilities find jobs in the community." It also serves as "a support group for some of our people"—such as Bryant—"who have gone through placement and are working," she said. "We provide follow-up for as long as they're employed."

The makeover was arranged, according to Correa, when Pat McGraw, the owner of the block of stores in which We Care Hair salon is located and a board member at Logan Center, expressed "an interest in being more involved with the community."

"We wanted to do something to help Logan Employment Services," King said.

Mandatory Meeting for all those interested in performing at the INTERNATIONAL FESTIVAL on January 21st 1993 8:00 p.m. at the International Student Lounge Questions? Call Jeremy: 41770 or Siggy: 41877

SMC professor elected to business post

By KIM ST. CLAIR
Columnist

Saint Mary's business administration and economics professor William Shannon is now using his business knowledge to perform duties in two prominent posts.

Shannon recently was elected National Vice President for Entrepreneurship Education by the United States Association for Small Business and Entrepreneurship. He also was re-appointed to the District Advisory Council by the U.S. Small Business Administration, a branch of the federal government.

Shannon, a professor at Saint Mary's since 1983, is a leader in the education and promotion of small business and entrepreneurship on a national level and at Saint Mary's.

As an educator at a women's college, Shannon said he recognizes the need for entrepreneurial education among women.

"In the state of Indiana, women are creating small business enterprises at twice the rate of men," he said. "And nationally it's projected by the year 2000 women will own 45 percent to 50 percent of all businesses."

Domino's Pizza Happy Birthday Bri

Today Brian, the Manager of your Domino's, turns 25. He is celebrating by making this incredible offer. Call in and say, "Happy Birthday Bri" and receive an extra-large 1 topping pizza for only $4.99.

ND 271-0300 SMC 289-0033 Hours: 4:30-2 a.m. Sun.- Thurs. 4:30-3:30 a.m. Fri.- Sat.

Extra Large Pizza with your favorite topping $7.99 expires 1/24
Train
continued from page 1

His train stopped 250 feet from the end of the bridge and was sideswiped seconds later by a westbound train, Lauber said.

Riordan told investigators he had sunglasses on, Lauber said. The bridge is on a rise, so visibility is poor from both ends, Lauber said.

Investigators planned to run test trains Wednesday, partially to determine whether sunlight reduced visibility, he said. The NTSB also planned to complete checks today on electrical relays connecting signals. But Lauber said indications Tuesday were that all signals were "operating the way they were supposed to." He refused to say which train had the right of way.

In addition, there were no defects in the tracks, and the brakes on both trains were working, Lauber said. "In fact, our investigators described the cars as being in very good shape and very well maintained," he said.

Results of drug and alcohol tests on crew members were not expected until later this week. Such tests are routine after a crash.

Riordan had been disciplined on the first day of the crash, as has the engineer, said Gerald Hanas, the NTSB dispatcher during that crash. Hanas said.

On top of the displacements, Orvis explained, it has been rumored that Moi also tampered with the valve registration process. Kenya has an unusually high percentage of young people, and like most young people they do not support their government, Orvis said.

Because Moi realized that the youth vote could hurt him politically, it appears that anywhere from one to three million people may have been denied the right to vote, he said.

Moi is continuing as before, he said. "Anyone who is seen as a potential threat, nationally or internationally, is eliminated politically or maybe even physically," he added.

Some people are beginning to question the wisdom of forcing Kenya to hold these elections in the first place since they appear to have been staged, he said. The U.S. State Department, for its part, has denied that there have been "any problems." Kenyan officials say that 10 million people were registered to vote.

"We're not going to give up," said Linda Keefe of Prentkowski.

Apartments

Newly Remodeled
Notre Dame Apartments

Now available for the 2nd semester and '93 - '94 school year

Call 232 - 8256 for info and scheduled showings

Audrey Hepburn dies at 63

TOLOCHENAZ, Switzerland (AP) — Audrey Hepburn, the Oscar-winning actress beloved for her charm, elegance and aristocratic bearing in films such as "Roman Holiday" and "My Fair Lady," died Wednesday. She was 63.

Hepburn, who had undergone colon cancer surgery last year, died at her home in this small village on the shores of Lake Geneva, according to a relative who answered the door at the residence. She spoke on condition of anonymity.

Hepburn epitomized high-fashion elegance and inspired many designers with her beauty, but spent her last years traveling the globe in jeans and T-shirts working for needy children as a goodwill U.N. ambassador.

As a child, she had herself received help from the agency after surviving the last winter of World War II in Holland on a diet of mostly turnips.

"God has a most beautiful new angel," said actress Elizabeth Taylor in a statement.

Her death "is a painful and irreparable loss for her family, friends, for children everywhere and UNICEF," said UNICEF director James Grant.

"The children of the world have lost a true friend, and an important and eloquent advocate.

Actor George Peppard, her costar in the 1961 film "Breakfast At Tiffany's," said in a statement from Los Angeles: "It's very sad. A silver bell has been silenced."

Thursday, January 21, 1993
Detroit (AP) — Dr. Jack Kevorkian helped a man commit suicide Wednesday. It was the ninth suicide Kevorkian has assisted and comes two months before a temporary state law banning his work takes effect.

The man was Jack Elmer, Miller, 53, said Huron Township Police Chief James Caygill. He said Miller's girlfriend reported the death at Miller's Huron Township home this morning.

Miller, who had bone cancer, had inhaled carbon monoxide through a mask, said Geoffrey Fieger, Kevorkian's lawyer. Caygill said the death would be investigated as a homicide.

Miller is the ninth person assisted and comes two months before a temporary state law banning his work takes effect. Fieger, Kevorkian's lawyer.

Kevorkian helped another suicide Wednesday.

Last month, hours after Kevorkian helped two women end their lives using carbon monoxide, Gov. John Engler signed a bill outlawing assisted suicide for 15 months while the issue is studied. The law is to go into effect March 30.

Kevorkian has said he intends to ignore the law because he considers it immoral.

Fieger said Kevorkian might help someone else soon.

Ninth suicide

By 5 p.m. Thursday, January 21

Dr. Jack Kevorkian, 46, a Detroit physician who helped 12 people to commit suicide with a doctor's help.

Kevorkian helped two women end their lives using carbon monoxide, Gov. John Engler signed a bill outlawing assisted suicide for 15 months while the issue is studied. The law is to go into effect March 30.

Kevorkian has said he intends to ignore the law because he considers it immoral.

Fieger said Kevorkian might help someone else soon.

Doctor helps another suicide

Los Angeles (AP) — The deluge finally over, crews across the Southwest searched for bodies in receding floodwaters, tried to shore up unstable hillsides, fixed damaged homes and picked through those that were destroyed.

The 15 days of rain, wind and tornadoes that broke on Tuesday killed at least 41 people and caused more than $164 million in damage in Southern California, Arizona and northwestern Mexico.

Generally sunny skies were forecast across the West through Thursday.

"It's stopped raining!" said Shawn Hohensee of Fairbanks, Alaska, over and over Tuesday at the Arroyo Seco Golf Course in South Pasadena. "We can play golf!"

President Bush declared Arizona a disaster area, making federal aid available.

"California Gov. Pete Wilson proclaimed emergencies in three more counties, bringing the total to seven eligible for state help.

A foot of rain had fallen over most coastal areas and nearly 3 feet fell in some mountains regions of California, Arizona and Mexico.

An estimated 10,000 people remained homeless in Tus­c­ana, where 30 people were killed.

The Mexican army was flying in 50 tons of supplies daily, while more than 1,200 army troops patrolled Tijuana streets.

Mudslides in Tijuana claimed two lives Tuesday.

Hundred were homeless in Arizona, where 850 homes have been damaged. The state's death toll rose to two Tuesday when the body of a woman was pulled from a pickup stuck in the overflowing Gila River over Sacsuameh.
Marines suffer third casualty in Somalia as hundreds fly home

MOGADISHU, Somalia (AP) — As hundreds more U.S. combat troops flew home Wednesday, the Marines reported their third casualty in Somalia, a reminder that this lawless land remains dangerous.

Despite the departure of the troops, about 25,000 American soldiers remain in Somalia. The U.S. military command announced that 3,000 Army engineers would spend the next six weeks building and repairing 1,200 miles of roads and bridges in this war-ravaged land.

The departing soldiers, members of a Marine battalion who left for Camp Pendleton, Calif., will probably be the last major unit to go until U.N. peacekeepers take over security in the country, said Marine Col. Fred Peck. More than 1,100 Marines have left for home in the past two days.

Peck suggested that U.S. forces would be ready to pass control to U.N. peacekeepers on Feb. 1, but U.N. officials indicated such a turnover could not be accomplished by then. Despite generally improved security, Chief Warrant Officer Gus Axelson of Las Cruces, N.M., was wounded in the right shoulder Tuesday night as the convoy he was with headed back to Marine headquarters at the former U.S. Embassy. Axelson was in good condition Wednesday and was walking around the temporary hospital set up at Mogadishu airport.

The convoy was traveling in an area where Marines have exchanged fire with Somalis several times.

Serbian peace move could be ploy

PALE, Bosnia-Hercegovina (AP) — An assembly of Bosnian Serbs on Wednesday accepted a plan to end Bosnia's civil war, but what appeared to be a step toward peace may be little more than a tactical maneuver.

While giving the international community the "yes" it sought for the peace plan, the Serbs also insisted on the right to self-determination — the key demand mediators have rejected.

The Serbs' foes, Bosnia's Muslims and Croats, have tentatively accepted the plan.

The international community had told Bosnia's Serbs to accept the plan unconditionally or risk further isolation and possible military intervention. Rejection would have doomed the peace talks and increased fighting, but the manner in which the Serbs accepted also raised doubts.

In any case, fighting was likely to continue for control of territory.

Warfare appeared to ease throughout Bosnia on Wednesday, but Muslim-led government forces captured the Jezero hill in eastern Bosnia after four days of bitter fighting. Serbs fighters had to withdraw over the Drina River into the neighboring republic of Serbia in what appeared to be a major Muslim victory, the Belgrade-based Tanjug news agency reported.

The Muslims can use the hill to control a large area on the Drina River border with Serbia. Bosnia's ethnic groups have been fighting since last February, when the republic's Serb minority rebelled against a Muslim-Croat vote for independence. The Serbs have captured about two-thirds of Bosnian territory.

Personal Assistant

to aid female student in wheelchair with daily life activities such as dressing, eating, and night routine. Hourly wage and training provided.

Please call Kim at 289-4831 for more information.

ST. EDWARD’S Hall Players present Out Of The Frying Pan

A comedy in three acts
Washington Hall January 21, 22, 23 8:10 p.m.
Tickets on sale at the LaFortune box office $38 students $48 non-students
500 greet Bush in Houston

HOUSTON (AP) — More than 500 well-wishers, many carrying signs, flags and balloons, greeted George Bush as he returned to his adopted hometown Wednesday as a private citizen.

"It's back to the real world for the Bushes," the former president said in a welcoming crowd of 500 citizen.

He arrived at Ellington Field, southwest of Houston, in a government jet about four hours after President Clinton was sworn in. The change from president to private citizen was readily apparent.

The normal security checkpoints were absent for those wishing to greet Bush. The traditional press pool that travels with the president also was absent, at Bush's request.

World reacts to Clinton's inauguration

(AP) The world watched from cafes in Kuwait and on big TV screens in the London Dorchester Hotel.

It was news in foxholes in Somalia and on the streets of Tel Aviv.

World leaders sent newly inaugurated President Clinton messages of caution, demands for meetings and promises for peace Wednesday as he became head of the last remaining superpower.

Ordinary people around the world wondered what impact Clinton could have on their lives.

Inaugural day messages ranged from a goodwill greeting from Roman Catholic Pope John Paul II, who urged the Baptist president "to build the edifice of world peace on the solid foundations of truth," to a strongly worded warning from Iran that future hostility would be met with the same.

Clinton's oath of office in Washington was a scene somewhat foreign to those watching the live broadcast at crowded cafes in Kuwait, a country that keeps princes in power until they die.

"You should not miss how the coronation works," Nasser Al-Salal, a 40-year-old civil servant, told his friends.

In the Haitian village of Leogane, a launching point for some of Haiti's boat people, Clinton's inaugural address squeaked out of Marie Rosey's beat-up transistor radio. She and many other Haitians hope he will press harder for the return of exiled President Jean-Bertrand Aristide.

At Ca Ira beach, about a mile away, boat-builders kept hammering.

Trade unionsists and Labor politicians hovered around large TV screens at the Dorchester in London.

"Just as Reagan and Thatcher have passed into history, so have their pale imitators, Bush and Major, will fall into oblivion," said John Edmonds, general secretary of the General, Municipal, Boilermakers union.

The Observer

is now accepting applications for the following position:

SMC Day Editor

who can work M,W,F afternoon at the SMC Observer office in Haggar. Applications will be taken until Friday at either office. Contact Anna Marie Tabor at 631-4540 for more information.

Business advice

Ron Johnson, a representative from Proctor & Gamble, discusses handling accounts yesterday at a presentation entitled, "Proctor & Gamble and Wal-Mart: A Partnership For Growth."
Clinton needs to address the U.S. policy towards Haiti

"Give us your tired, your poor, your huddled masses yearning to be free." Such words are found at the base of the Statue of Liberty. Every child in the U.S. learns them in elementary school. We are taught that they mean something, that the United States is a refuge for those looking for a better life. Yet, recent events have demonstrated once again that these words are mere rhetoric.

Kurt Mills
On the Other Hand

invoked for ideological reasons, and ignored most of the time. I am talking of course, about recent U.S. policy towards Haiti. Since the newly elected president, Father Aristide, was ousted in a coup, the military government has wreaked havoc in the country, engaging in widespread political oppression, and the economic situation has deteriorated drastically. The U.S. has done little to help remedy the situation.

Whereas, it has been ready to use military force on a grand scale to protect its oil supplies and return a human rights abusing government to power in Kuwait, and worked over the years to undermine legitimately elected governments all over the world, it has settled for a half-hearted support of a regime which has incalculable wealth and the economic situation has worsened in Haiti, and worked over the years to undermine legitimacy in Cuba, and thus entitled to asylum. This is a double standard which cannot be defended. The situation is much more drastic in Haiti than in Cuba, where Castro actually still enjoys much support from the people. Certainly people are not starving in Cuba the way they are in Haiti.

The same ideologically blinkered were applied to Central America in the 1980s, where Nicaraguans had a much better chance of receiving asylum than El Salvadorans, although the latter were much more likely to be fleeing persecution.

Mr. Bush has shown such contempt for the rule of law in his administration, and has shown so little compassion to those who are suffering all over the world (why did it take him more than a year to support any action in Somalia?) that such action is hardly surprising.

What is surprising is President Clinton's continuation of this policy in the face of his announced support of reversing Bush's illegal and immoral policy. Clinton says that he does not want the Haitians drowning in their barely seaworthy boats while he and others step up action to return Aristide to power.

This is a worthy sentiment, yet, the threats are immediate and real. If he truly wants to prevent the expected mass exodus from Haiti from drowning, he should, instead, be used to ferry the Haitians to a safe haven, increasing the ability of Haitians to apply for asylum in the island is not an option. Applying for asylum will only increase their chances of becoming targets of oppression. President Clinton has indicated that he wants U.S. actions to be based on the rule of law, and he has shown a greater interest in taking action in places where gross violations of human rights are occurring. The best way for him to demonstrate this new ethos is to alter U.S. policy in Haiti.

Kurt Mills is a doctoral candidate in the Department of Government and International Studies. His column appears every other Monday.

Thursday's Verse

Beat of the Rail
Got outta town, didn't look back
Hitched a freight on the railroad track
'Cause the school wasn't cool
And the high was so much higher
From the drug in his vein
On down the line, two days past
New York City comin' up fast
Maybe a woman would be there
Who'd heal the violent stare
in his eyes, in his soul
Bad luck then, worse luck now
Show me a man who can understand how
A world undone can still be home to those that feel
Both the spirit and the steel

Garry Trudeau

DOONSBURY

SO, JUANE, WILL 'HEAR FROM CHANCE.' OK ALL THE TIME?

SHES STILL TALKING, ANYTHING THAT ISN'T WHAT SHE SAYS IS CLEAR.

CLIVE, YES. SEEING HAM. SHE MARRIED WHAT, LADIES?

NO,texts shown up I'm not going to say anything.

HILL, HELL, WHAT IS THE MARRIED HER SPEAK?

M-MAYBE.

UM NO.

WELL, ME NEITHER BUT I'LL BET SHE LOVES DINNER?

Norman Vincent Peale

QUOTE OF THE DAY

"Think positively about yourself, keep your thoughts and your actions clean, ask God who made you to keep on reminding you."

Norman Vincent Peale
Accent

The play's the thing

French students bring language to life on stage

By JOHN FISCHER
Accent Writer

Last year the challenge for Professor Paul McDowell was to successfully initiate a new theatre tradition at Notre Dame. He succeeded, drawing a respectable crowd of 250 people to his first effort, La critique de l'ecola des femmes by Molliere, performed in the less-than-ideal theatrical atmosphere of Theodore's.

This year the challenge is different. The challenge McDowell faces this year is to direct 13 virtual non-actors in a play which the playwright never actually intended to be performed.

Oh, and the play is performed entirely in French.

"On ne batille pas avec l'amour," by Alfred de Musset, is the final product of a one-credit class offered last semester by the French department.

"Out of the Frying Pan," which is being presented by the St. Edward's Hall Players today through Saturday at Washington Hall.

The play, a comedy of three acts, looks like a combination of "A Star is Born," "The Producers," and "Three's Company.

It deals with six young people, three men (played by Steve Susco, Jim McKenna and Rob Ortiz) and three women (Michelle Avonlas, Jen Jermaino and Michelle Bresnaham), sharing a New York City apartment and hoping for their big break in the theatre.

They live in this particular apartment because the famous producer lives right below them, and they hope to attract his attention. The young actors-to-be agreed to live platonicly.

"The talent is definitely there," he says. "It really seems like they're living with each other."

Bob Maida, who produced the play along with E.L. Chaffee, said that the toughest part about putting this play on was the time involved. Casting for the play took place before October Break, and the cast has lost rehearsal time to October Break, Thanksgiving and Christmas. For the past nine days, the cast and crew have been working for five hours a day.

Maida said that the play was very realistic because all the characters are "exaggerated stereotypes," and because the play deals with the "intimacy" of an actor's life, which he saw reflected in the cast's intensity.

"You do see a resemblance between the actors and the characters, Maida claims.

Tickets for "Out of the Frying Pan" are still available at the door and at the LaFortune Information Desk. Tickets are $3.50 for non-students and $2.50 for non-students. The curtain goes up at 8:10 p.m. And so do the laughs.

---

Get heart smart

Exercise generosity at Badin Aerobathon

By ELIZABETH HEARD
Accent writer

Imagine being able to win fantastic prizes, have fun with your friends, get some exercise and help to raise money for a good cause.

All of this is possible at the second annual Badin Aerobathon which will be held Saturday, January 23rd from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. in Stepan Center.

"The money will go to the Women's Care Center," said Nikki Wellman, the co-president of Badin Hall and one of the coordinators of the event.

"Classes start every hour on the hour and after paying the $3 entry fee, a person can attend however many classes he or she wants to." There are going to be classes taught at different levels, ranging from high to low impact. "It's also an opportunity for people to keep their New Year's resolution to keep in shape," said Wellman.

Nikki Wellman and other instructors will lead various classes for the Aerobathon Saturday, January 23 in Stepan Center. Team present in case anyone gets hurt.

Besides being able to workout, several businesses have donated gift certificates which will be raffled off to participants. Some of the prizes include dinner for two at Spaghetti Works, pizza for ten from Papa John's, ten two-week memberships to Powerhouse Gym, and gift certificates from Taco Bell, Cameolet Music.

Many campus celebrities are scheduled to attend, Presidents from several dorms including Keenan, Stanford, Planner, and Howard are going to make their appearance throughout the day, and from 10 a.m. to 11 a.m. the men's and women's swim teams will be present.

"The Aerobathon is the brainchild of the hall presidents of last year," said Wellman. "And I think we made a lot of positive changes. I have a feeling that we are going to have a fairly large turnout. Hopefully, the people who went last year will tell their friends to come, and I hope we will make enough money to make a significant contribution."
NFL head coach rumors circulate

The New York Giants appear to be leaning toward Dan Reeves, and the New England Patriots are serious about Bill Parcells. That's where the NFL's coaching merry-go-round ends, though.

The Denver Broncos have narrowed their coaching list to four, and one of the candidates is former Patriots coach Dave Shula.

Browns owner Pat Bowlen expects to name a successor for the fired Reeves next week. On Tuesday, Reeves interviewed defensive coordinator Wade Phillips for more than four hours. Phillips already has spoken to defensive coordinators Ray Rhodes of Green Bay and Steve Sidwell of New Orleans.

San Francisco 49ers offensive coordinator Mike Shanahan, considered the front-runner for the job, was the last to interview. Shanahan, 40, is a former offensive coordinator who already has spun much credit for the development of quarterback John Elway.

The Denver Aeroballon will be held January 23 at Staple Center. All Classes will begin every hour on the hour, and there will be lots of high impact and a combination of high and low impact aerobics. The fee is $5 for unlimited classes and all proceeds go to the Women's Center in South Bend.

The Badin Aeroballon will be held January 23 at Staple Center. All Classes will begin every hour on the hour, and there will be lots of high impact and a combination of high and low impact aerobics. The fee is $5 for unlimited classes and all proceeds go to the Women's Center in South Bend.

The Notre Dame Martial Arts league will be having beginners practices on Tuesday from 6:30-8:30 p.m. and Sunday from 6:30-8:30 p.m., in 219 Rockn. No experience necessary. All are welcome. Advanced classes are on Friday from 6-10 a.m. If you have questions, please call Laurie at 631-5699.

The Ultimate season is finally getting started. Practices are going to be held from 10-11 a.m. in Loftus on Wednesdays starting this Wednesday. January 27 will be a official tryout. All are welcome.

Late Night Olympics Deadline for team signups is 9 p.m. in the JAMS Above. Questions? Call Matt Zitno 634-1777.

Competitive volleyball is being held on block from Monday from 12-1:15 p.m. If you want to play, please call Mike at 631-5699.

Lost: "Kubiake H.S." listing and many gold neck chains during the time of the sidewalk sale most likely South of upper Houston Avenue. REWARD Please call Ray-1694.

Found: Laspes watch in 127 N.D. at 11-13:00. Call 323-605-0620 to identify.

Lost: Silver Pendant wash last Thursday of February around Oceanfront. 101 lost please contact Jane at 323-5620.

Lost: Cardi Glass ring About a 4 1/2. 578-3542. Ring is black.

Lost: HANOWA watch at BRIDGET on Sunday of final week's week—black band. small second hand. IF FOUND, CALL TERRY at X1643.

WANTED

DRUKES DAYS NOW MAKING $2000+ month with travel (Mexico, Puerto Rico, the Caribbean, etc.) Holiday, Summer and Carrier employees available. No experience necessary. For further information, call 634-6024 or cell 634-6992.

Lost: Need key box sale to 69490.

SUMMER EMPLOYMENT—START NOW

SUMMER EMPLOYMENT—CONSTRUCTION/INDUSTRIAL company interviewing now for part time and full time opportunities. Call 232-7760 for details.

DRUMMER needed to play at the following around of music. Call Zone 4 at 332-5744.

Student Panama is looking for highly motivated students to fill van driver, management training, credit checking, and a full support earning per $8,000 on the most recent $2,000. Call 1-800-543-3700 as soon as Tom Smith.

HELP WANTED! The New York Times is seeking a restaurant staff.

FOR SALE

1990 Nissan Serena SE, ZDR, 5 SPD, WITH AM/FM STEREO, AC, M.T., $5995. Call 277-4501 after 5PM.

FURNITURE MUST SELL CALL 634-3324

100 Watt speakers with receiver and subwoofer: Excellent condition, perfect condition. call 277-1443

Sanity at $230.20

KENTUCKY GAME 5/16/93 $6500059655 CAL MVG 11/179

I need DUKE & KENTUCKY l.q. of Student or Call Chris X1235.

I need 1/2 or 4 GA or student tickets for the game. Call Nicole at X1616.

NEED 1 TICKET TO THE DUKES PLEASE CALL PAULA X2951

HELP ME

NEED 3 DUKE TIX

WILL PAY OR TRADE. T.T.

CALL X3969

NEED 2 DUKE TIX DAKIN 11017

FOR SALE

NEED 2 TICKETS DARRIN 11017

For One way ticket to Tampa Florida. Cost for one year. Best offer. Call Chris @ 634-1101.

I need help I duke ticket call X2735

I NEED 2 DUKE TIX SRTS

NEED 2 DUKE TIXS

HELP WANTED!

The Observer Thursday, January 21, 1993 - page 10

SPOlTS BRIEFS

Cross Country ski equipment may be rented from RecSports at the Rock Thursday from 4-8 p.m. and Saturday from 12-1:30 p.m. and Sunday from 4:30-5:30. For information, call RecSports at 631-6100.

Entries are being taken for the second indoor meet for men and women, budhinton doubles for men and women, and volleyball and the intramural swim relays are due January 57.

The Badin Aeroballon will be held January 23 at Staple Center. All Classes will begin every hour on the hour, and there will be lots of high impact and a combination of high and low impact aerobics. The fee is $5 for unlimited classes and all proceeds go to the Women's Center in South Bend.

The Badin Aeroballon will be held January 23 at Staple Center. All Classes will begin every hour on the hour, and there will be lots of high impact and a combination of high and low impact aerobics. The fee is $5 for unlimited classes and all proceeds go to the Women's Center in South Bend.
Results

Brazil, Krajicek, Oliver, catcher, National Basketball Association.

Jamie, SPOKANE INDIANS-Named Fort Moorhead, starting at 1 Tuesday, January 26.

Ponte manager, on a 3-6, Uruguay, 7-5, &-1, &-2, &-4.

.... del. John Anders Jarryd, assistant coach of the.

Franca, del. Kimlko Date, 7-5, &-4.

Rutledge, 8:30 p.m.

Miami 10-4 7:30 p.m.

Phoenix 13-7 11:30 p.m.

Salem 11-4 8:30 p.m.

San Francisco 10-4 7:30 p.m.

Spokane 13-7 11:30 p.m.

Washington 10-4 7:30 p.m.

Scientific and Food Services

The concert is free and open to the public.

Thursday's Games

The Department Of Music Presents

Christine Rutledge and William Cerny

in a faculty Viola and Piano Recital

Sunday, January 24, 1993, 2:00 p.m.

Annenberg Auditorium, The Snite Museum of Art

The concert is free and open to the public.

Earn $$$$ for SPRING BREAK

Waiters, Waitresses and Food Services

help needed for JPW Catering Events

February 15-21

Sign Ups will start

Monday, January 25

10 a.m.- 4 p.m.

Basement of SDH

JPW 1993
Tar Heels blow past previously unbeaten Virginia

The Tar Heels (15-1, 5-0 Atlantic Coast Conference) extended their own winning streak to seven games with the help of some unlikely sources. Forward Kevin Salvadori, averaging 4 points per game, finished with 14 as a result of North Carolina's inside push, and Henrik Rodl hit three 3-pointers and scored all 11 of his points in the first half.

Michigan 80, Minn. 73

MINNEAPOLIS—Chris Webber, wearing a face mask to protect a broken nose, and Jalen Rose sparked a 21-12 second-half run as No. 5 Michigan handed Minnesota its first home loss of the season Wednesday night.

Webber capped the spurt, which gave Michigan a 65-52 lead with 5:32 to go, with two spectacular dunks. The first was on an alley-oop pass from Rose. The second came after he blocked Randy Carter's shot, got the rebound, dribbled down court, beat two defenders with a behind-the-back move and powered in a two-handed slam.

Vanderbilt 102, Arkansas 89

NASHVILLE, Tenn.—Nolan Richardson, who had never coached a game in Vanderbilt's Memorial Gym, still hasn't lost.

—ND is ranked 10th in the CCHA standings. Miami leads the league with a 15-6-3 record.

—Janicke is 3rd in the CCHA with 8 power play goals.

—Chris Brooks, a freshman left wing from Western Michigan University, is the CCHA Offensive Player of the Week for his performance last weekend.

—Steve Shields, a junior goaltender for Michigan, has been selected CCHA Defensive Player of the Week for his performance last weekend.

CAMPUS MINISTRY...

...CONSIDERATIONS

To Renew the Heritage

The poet Maya Angelou presented an evocative poem before the nation and the world yesterday, on the occasion of the inauguration of William Jefferson Clinton as President of the United States of America. She called upon all the spirits of all the peoples who have come and lived in this country, to now bind together and draw new hope from the deep promises of life carried by our spiritual and political heritages.

The Reverend Doctor Billy Graham was also on that stage, as he so often is on such occasions, and he prayed for the new President and for his government. He did his job well. He too asked for healing and for hope for our country and our world, and he asked God to use the newly chosen leaders to achieve these lofty and long-sought purposes.

At one point in the television broadcast, the network cameras focused on the smiling face of Nelson Mandela, chairman of the African National Congress in turbulent South Africa, as he stood amongst the crowd. He was an invited guest to the festivities. The commentators spoke of how he had been swamped all morning by members of congress, anxious to shake his hand and wish him well. They spoke of how he had been imprisoned in his country for twenty-seven long years and of how even now he struggles for the liberation of the majority population of his country. They spoke of how the American system of government, and particularly our ability to hand-over power peacefully from one leader to another, is the envy of many a nation. The commentators imagined that Nelson Mandela himself would surely wish that the gathering of a few preachers and poets would be enough to bring some peaceful political turmoil to an end and achieve a just transfer of power.

When I lived in East Africa during the 1980's, on several occasions I was put in situations where the police or the army or some other governmental functionary was something of a threat to my life or, more often, to the lives of my friends and my neighbors. It was normal in such an environment for people to regard members of the army or the police as the enemy, and to fear them. All of us knew that in many ways, these people were not accountable to any responsible higher authority and so they could get away with any brutality they chose to use upon the citizens. They were the "upclose" experience of a crude dictatorship. When poor men were coming home late at night on the bus, the police would swoop through the neighborhood and pick up anyone they chose.

Such experiences have led me, an anti-authority, child of the sixties, to re-appreciate the rule of law. Such experiences deepened my gratitude for our country's political heritage, which I believe seeks to guarantee the rights of all people and to protect the dignity of all our citizens.

Yet a great sadness seems to be that for others of our citizens, the high political ideals of democracy have been left hollow and distant because of harsh economic realities. The rule of law may be a fine thing for those who come from the right kind of backgrounds, but to those whose life struggle has been fought in neighborhoods of poverty and crime, the ideals can seem far from realized and the police can seem far from friendly.

Perhaps that's why eloquent words of hope and an invitation to new life are so strong when proclaimed by a woman like Maya Angelou. A survivor, a healer, a lover of life - she rises through the long pain of her past, escaping her prison with a fidelity like Nelson Mandela, and preaching her call to newness with a conviction like Billy Graham.

May the preacher and the poet guide the President, and may all the people know peace. New hope is important for the quality of our national life. New hope is important for the quality of our witness to the watching world.

Fr. Tom McDermott, C.S.C.

Scripture Readings for This Coming Sunday

1ST READING
Isaiah 8-23 - 9, 3

2ND READING
1 Corinthians 1, 10-13. 17

GOSPEL
Matthew 4, 12-23
Parish, Celtics control boards and Hawks

BOSTON (AP) — The Boston Celtics got the boards and the blocks, and one very big reason — ailing 7-footer Kevin Willis — was sitting in street clothes on the Atlanta Hawks bench.

Boston posted season highs of 62 rebounds and 13 blocked shots, broke the game open in a 31-15 third period, and routed the Hawks 123-106 Wednesday night.

"The Celtics hit a stretch in the third quarter where everything was going down," Atlanta coach Bob Weiss said. "If they missed, they got the boards and put it back in.

"Willis would've helped cut down the Celtics' offensive boards.

But after starting all 35 Atlanta games, the NBA's third leading rebounder sat out the 36th with a sore back. He was averaging 13 rebounds. His replacement in the starting lineup, Duane Ferrell, had one.

Boston rallied in the third quarter behind Robert Parish's 13 rebounds, two less than Bill Russell's single-quarter club record, and Xavier McDaniel's 11 points to turn a 63-62 half-time deficit into a 93-78 lead.

The lead ranged from 11 to 20 points the rest of the way.

"Robert is our anchor. He handles all our defensive assignments and he's our key rebounder," Boston coach Chris Ford said.

The Celtics had 17 more rebounds than Atlanta and a 27-10 advantage in the third period in which they had 14 offensive rebounds.

"What's been killing us is the offensive glass and making turnovers," said Reggie Lewis.

Blazers 110, T-Wolves 94

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Cliff Robinson had 22 points, 14 rebounds and a career-high eight assists to lead Portland past Minnesota.

Robinson, who also had four blocked shots and three steals, helped cover the absence of starting center Kevin Duckworth, who missed the game with a respiratory illness.

Portland (25-11) had four others score in double figures as it continued its domination of expansion teams. The Blazers improved to an NBA-best 41-3 against the league's four newest teams, including a 12-1 record vs. Minnesota.

Portland's Clyde Drexler had 20 points and Rod Strickland 16 points and nine assists off the bench.

Minnesota (7-26) has lost 10 of its last 12 at home and is 0-11 against Pacific Division teams. Doug West led the Wolves with 20 points and Michael Williams finished with 13 points and 12 assists.

76ers 115, Heat 112

MIAMI (AP) — Philadelphia became the latest team to take advantage of Miami's overtime failures, with Jeff Hornacek hitting a pair of crucial 3-point baskets Wednesday night to help the 76ers to a 115-112 victory.

The 76ers outlasted Miami in triple overtime in November when the teams last met. The frustrated Heat have lost four games in a row, three in overtime, while Philadelphia has gone into overtime in three of its last four games, winning two of them.

Philadelphia trailed 104-97 with 47 seconds left in the fourth quarter, but Hornacek and Andrew Lang hit 3-point baskets and Miami missed 4 of 6 free throws. Philadelphia's Clarence Weatherspoon then hit 2 free throws with 13.6 seconds left to tie the game at 106 and force the overtime.

Hornacek's 3-pointer gave the 76ers a 112-108 lead, and they held on for their third consecutive victory.

Hornacek scored 27 points and Hersey Hawkins 23 for Philadelphia, which hit its first 22 free throws and wound up 32 for 36 at the line.
Iowa community mourns loss of Street

Iowa City, Iowa (AP) - Iowa basketball players and coaches struggled with feelings of grief and shock Wednesday as they mourned the death of Chris Street, their fiery leader.

Players huddled with coach Tom Davis to try to cope with the loss of the 6-foot-8 junior, regarded as the heart and soul of the 14th-ranked Hawkeyes.

Street, the team's top rebounder and third-leading scorer, died in a traffic accident Tuesday night.

Efforts to remember him began quickly. Both Iowa and a tournament in Puerto Rico said they would name awards after Street.

"I cannot begin to describe the deep feelings of Chris Street's teammates and coaches. We all loved him and we all will miss him very much," Davis said in a statement.

"Chris represented all that is good about the Midwest and the state of Iowa. He was open, caring, honest, loving and lived life to the fullest every day."

Street, 20, died when his car was struck by a snow plow, then by another car. Kimberly Vinton, Street's girlfriend, also was in the car but managed to crawl from the wreckage. She was in stable condition at University Hospitals and Clinics.

The accident happened after Street and Vinton, also 20, had left a team meal at a restaurant on the northeast edge of Iowa City. Street was returning to campus for a night class.

Iowa athletic officials, deluged with sympathetic telephone calls from across the nation, postponed Wednesday night's Big Ten game with Northwestern and Saturday's game at Penn State.

The university has established a memorial fund in Street's name and announced that beginning with this season's banquet, the basketball team will present an annual award to a player who "represents the spirit, enthusiasm and intensity of Chris Street."

---

Finance Club Meeting

Thursday, January 21
7:00 p.m.
223 Hayes-Healy

-to discuss events for this semester-

NOTRE DAME OLYMPIC SPORTS
CATCH 'EM

IRISH HOCKEY
Friday
vs UIC 7:00 PM*
JACC Ice Rink
Saturday
vs Michigan 7:00 PM*
JACC Ice Rink

#20 WOMEN'S TENNIS
Saturday vs Duke
12:00 PM Eck Pavilion
FREE Admission

*Free admission with Blue & Gold Card

---

Mass in memory of
Colleen Hipp and Meghan Beeler

January 24, 1993
11:45 a.m.
Sacred Heart

Rev. E. William Beauchamp, C.S.C., President

All are welcome to come give thanks for the lives of Meghan and Colleen and to pray for the continued healing of their families and friends

---

Organizational Meeting
Volunteers Needed!

Thursday, January 21
7:00 p.m.
Library Auditorium

Do Your Family Proud
Impress Your Friends

---

AnTostal
Duquesne transfers out of shrinking MCC conference

Observer Staff Report

The Midwestern Collegiate Conference lost its second member in two months yesterday, as Duquesne University has decided to return to the Atlantic 10 effective July 1, 1983.

Duquesne joins Dayton as the only team in the conference for the past three years. Dayton announced it was leaving for the Great Midwest Conference in December.

The Dukes, who along with La Salle entered the MCC this season, are going back to the conference which they were a part of from 1982-83 through last season. The Atlantic 10 will now consist of nine teams: Massachusetts, George Washington, Rutgers, Saint Bonaventure, West Virginia, Towson, Saint Joseph's, Rhode Island and Duquesne.

The MCC is now facing a potential problem, as its stability has been damaged with the loss of two schools. The conference has twenty-six full-time members remaining: Butler, Detroit Mercy, Evansville, La Salle, Loyola (Ill.) and Xavier.

Notre Dame also belongs to the conference in the addition of a men's basketball team, which the Irish compete as an independent. Editor's note: Tomorrow's Observer will take a closer look on what this means for the future of the MCC and Notre Dame Olympic sports.

Janicke scores big in leadership role

By DOMINIC AMOROSA
Sports Writer

The Notre Dame hockey team has had a tough season thus far. However, every Test to success the team has had, has not been without personal sacrifices and dedication from the players.

Senior Curtis Janicke has led the Irish throughout his career, ranking seventh all-time in assists and closing in on the top-ten in scoring.

Anthony Goddard and the strong play of third-year goalie Jimmy Martin have helped the Irish to post three wins against the top-20 teams in the country. Janicke's leadership has been key to the Irish's success on the ice and in the classroom.

Janicke describes himself as a "fiesty type of player who values the puck." He adds, "I'm a real competitor who doesn't accept defeat well." In his last 11 games, Janicke is on a tear with 7 goals and 13 assists. The team has struggled with turnovers, but Janicke has stepped up to lead the Irish back into winning form.

Janicke's performance has been recognized with academic all-conference honors. He recently earned the Dean's List for his performance during the fall semester. He enrolled in the College of Business Administration and has a 3.105 GPA throughout his four years at Notre Dame. As a result of his academic work, Janicke is a strong candidate for academic all-conference honors.

"Playing a sport helps me manage my time a lot better and it keeps me focused in the classroom," he says. Janicke isn't the only Irish player who excels in the classroom, as thirteen Irish players have a GPA of 3.0 or higher.

The MCC will now consist of nine schools, with the addition of La Salle and Saint Joseph's. This move will surely be formidable going into the future. Janicke's leadership will be a key to the Irish's success in the future.