Right to Life marking Roe ruling with events

By NANCY FENOCKETTI
News Writer

While members of the Notre Dame/ Saint Mary's College Right to Life (ND/SMC RTL) organization spent the actual anniversary of Roe v. Wade protesting in Washington, a week later they are marking the decision to legalize abortion with a series of events aimed at South Bend and its college communities.

Sponsored by ND/SMC RTL, Campus Ministry, the Children of Mary, and the Knights of the Immaculata, the two-day schedule focuses on the image of Our Lady of Guadalupe. Many pro-lifers have chosen this particular portrayal of Mary as a pregnant young Native American woman to symbolize the human rights of women to be able to initiate a comprehensive abortion policy.

As with all pro-life events, the purpose is to inform and educate, and not to anger. Sponsored by ND/SMC RTL, Campus Ministry, and the Children of Mary and the Knights of the Immaculata, the two-day schedule focuses on the image of Our Lady of Guadalupe. This particular portrayal of Mary is one that represents the human rights of women to be able to initiate a comprehensive abortion policy.

In any respect, the cutbacks were halted this week near the crash when the signal system detected a broken cable, an indication that the cable broke. Federal investigators say it was the same light that went out in Monday's incident. Although Parsons said it's likely there will be a stimulus package and an extension of unemployment benefits, House Speaker Tom Foley, meanwhile, said contemplation of a rather modest stimulus package — those once talked of at about the order of $60 billion — is "a reaction to the fact that we have a very heavy deficit."

The fact that the employment picture is still not rebounding fast enough is the reason for spending even more money, Foley added.

Trains are halted near crash site after a broken cable is discovered

WASHINGTON (AP) — Labor Secretary Robert Reich said today the Clinton administration likely will seek to extend jobless benefits, saying the latest wave of corporate layoffs shows the "employment picture is still very bad."

Reich said he was somewhat surprised by announcement of large cutbacks this week at Boeing and Sears but suggested some big companies "have used the recession to do what they should have been doing all along."

"I don't want to second-guess the management of a particular company ... but it seems to me that employers are鞮ving up a very large scale signal a management failure," he said during an interview on NBC's "Today" show.

In any respect, the cutbacks are yet another indication that even though "we technically are coming out of recession, the employment picture is still very bad," Reich added.

Reich said the administration had not yet made a final decision on the details of a short-term economic stimulus package, but insisted that "we are going to do whatever it takes" to create jobs.

He said that whether it is $15 billion to $20 billion — or $20 billion to $25 billion — in new spending "it's likely there will be a stimulus package and an extension of unemployment benefits." House Speaker Tom Foley, meanwhile, said contemplation of a rather modest stimulus package — those once talked of at about the order of $60 billion — is "a reaction to the fact that we have a very heavy deficit."

"The fact that the employment picture is still not rebounding fast enough is the reason for spending even more money, Foley added.

Saint Mary's presidential candidates to debate

By ELIZABETH QUINLAN
News Writer

Saint Mary's College continues its election week events with a debate between the candidates for the student body officer elections.

The debate was planned to help the students make a more informed decision in their choices for leadership in 1993-94 by giving them an opportunity to meet and question the candidates.

The format for the debate will include a two-minute opening statement by each presidential candidate, followed by a ten to fifteen question session alternating between the tickets, and finally an open floor for questioning.

The debate for the Saint Mary's College Student Body officers will be at 7 p.m. in the dining hall. It will be held on February 1, in the dining hall.

Sewing up a storm

Saint Mary's sophomore Lisa Fortman demonstrates her sewing skills by creating costumes for the Saint Mary's production "Oklahoma!" which will be performed Feb. 25-27.

WNDU-16 claims new evidence bus driver sped

Observer staff report

One year after a United Limo bus accident which took the lives of two Notre Dame women swimmers, WNDU-16 claimed Wednesday night to have new evidence that the driver of the bus was speeding at upwards of 55 mph — evidence which, if true, would contravene a St. Joseph County grand jury decision not to prosecute him.

During an 11 p.m. broadcast Wednesday, WNDU claimed to have obtained a copy of the official federal investigation into the accident which killed freshmen swimmers Margaret "Meghan" Beeler and Colleen Hipp and injured 32 others. The station reported that a
JPW gives us better view of our parents

The other day, I heard Harry Chapin’s “Cat’s in the Cradle” on the radio. Hearing that song, in which Chapin laments the difficulty of father-son relationships, and hearing my friends who are juniors talking about and planning for the upcoming JPW events got me thinking.

There are times in our lives in which our relationships with our parents take a turn, a moment where we realize that the delicate balance between giving and taking responsibility has changed. Growing up, going to college, moving out, visiting one’s parents as an adult and other ‘milestones’ all contain moments where our relationship with our parents is redfining. The moment could be a conversation, the opening of a gift, a special letter or anything else.

For me, a car ride during JPW was such a moment.

I remember all of the planning and preparation for this big weekend: the worries we all had about how the weekend would go (how our parents might act in front of everyone else’s parents, for example), the process of nailing down the precise schedule of events and other logistical matters.

When the weekend arrived, these concerns faded upon recognition of the fact that JPW was about scheduling details or ‘who’s going to sit where when I just please don’t tell that story again!’

No, JPW was and is about the most important relationships in our lives to date. Behind the parents, for example, the process of nailing down the precise schedule of events and other logistical matters.

The views expressed in the Inside Column are those of the author and not necessarily those of JPW.

FROM: Sandra Wiegand

WEATHER REPORT

Forecast for noon, Thursday, January 28

TOPIC:

TORONTO weather

Chilled AGL today with a chance of light rain or snow, and high around 40. Cold air Friday with a 50 percent chance of snow and high in the mid 20s.

City

H      L

Agawa   30
Algoma  43
Algorn  40
Dakin   43
Chicago 27
Cleveland 34
Italy   34
MOSS  54
North Bay 43
Ottawa  41
Quebec  43
London  32
Baltimore 53
Minneapolis 31
Bismarck 36
Mississippi 25
Boston  20
New York  20
San Francisco 30
Toronto  35
Washington, D.C. 37

PRES.

COLD

WARM

STATIONARY

SUN

KAU

TODAY AT A GLANCE

WORLD

Yeltsin signs agreements in India

NEW DELHI, India — Boris Yeltsin, the first Kremlin leader to visit India since the Soviet collapse, arrived Wednesday hoping to solve a nagging debt issue and revive sagging trade and military sales. Yeltsin told reporters he also wants to revive Moscow’s Soviet-era friendship with New Delhi as part of a broader effort to quiet Russian hard-liners, who accuse him of leading too far to the West. “I have been looking forward with great anticipation to my arrival on this sacred Indian soil,” the Russian president told reporters waiting on the tarmac. During the three-day visit, Yeltsin, Indian Prime Minister PV Narasimha Rao and their aides plan to sign at least 10 agreements, including a friendship pact to replace one between India and the former Soviet Union.

Head of Benetton provokes outrage

ROME — Clothesmaker Luciano Benetton, the head of the trendy Italian clothing manufacturer United Colors of Benetton has managed to upset Cuban-Americans, Italian charities and colleagues in the Italian senate. He has decided to open five stores in Cuba, by launching a campaign to collect used clothing for the world’s poor and by posing nude for an advertisement. Several senators asked the head of the upper house, in which Benetton has a seat, to pronounce whether the “absence of good taste is compatible with the sense of decorum and dignity” of an elected representative. Benetton, elected in April on a wave of protest against party regulars, seems to thrive on the controversies that have surrounded the company’s ad campaigns for years.

NATIONAL

Young mother intoxicates daughter

BAUSTIN, Texas — An 18-year-old mother is charged with injury to a child after feeding her 2-year-old son so much champagne the infant required hospital treatment, police said. “She’s a young mother, but the child’s figured it would help her go to sleep,” the child’s grandmother, Angela Duncan, said Tuesday. A felony arrest warrant was issued Monday for the mother, Trence Duncan, said Sgt. John Hardesty. If convicted, she faces up to life in prison and up to $10,000 in fines. Two hours after Emergency Medical Services workers took 2-year-old Jasmin to a hospital Jan. 6, her blood-alcohol content tested at 0.094 percent — just below the state’s definition of drunkenness, according to court records.

OF INTEREST

A cultural diversity seminar information session will be held today from 4 to 4:30 p.m. at the Center for Social Concerns. Applications are available at the CSC.

IND/SMC Right to Life and Children of Mary will sponsor a rosary service in front of the Women’s Pavilion, South Bend’s abortion clinic, tomorrow from 8 to 9 a.m. Rider will leave from the Main Circle at 8 a.m. and 9 a.m. The Missionary Image of Our Lady of Guadalupe will be present.

A Summer Service Project information meeting will be today from 5:30 to 6 p.m. at the Center for Social Concerns. Participants in the eight-week service project can earn a $1,400 tuition scholarship.

MARKET UPDATE

YESTERDAY’S TRADING

Thursday, January 28

VOLUME IN SHARES 276,941,765

NYSE INDEX 10.08 to 241.45

S&P COMPOSITE +1.64 to 438.11

DOW JONES INDUSTRIAL +7.56 to 2,912.39

GOLD $10.20 to $329.90

SILVER $0.02 to $1.62

ON THIS DAY IN HISTORY

In 1878: The first daily collegiate newspaper, the Yale News, began publication in New Haven, Conn.

In 1909: The United States ended direct control over Cuba.

In 1916: Louis Brandeis was appointed to the U.S. Supreme Court, becoming its first Jewish member.

In 1973: A cease-fire officially went into effect in the Vietnam War.

In 1986: The space shuttle Challenger exploded 73 seconds after liftoff from Cape Canaveral, Fla., killing all seven crew members, including schoolteacher Christa McAuliffe.

In 1988: The Supreme Court of Canada struck down the nation’s restrictive abortion law.
Clinton: Policy on gays will include code of conduct on sexual behavior

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Clinton, intent on reversing the military's ban on homosexuals despite intense opposition, will include in his policy a "strict code of conduct" governing sexual behavior of all troops, the White House said today.

As proponents of Clinton's policy lit up switchboards at the White House and on Capitol Hill, the administration geared up its lobbying effort, sending Defense Secretary Les Aspin to lobby members of Congress. Clinton himself called one powerful opponent, Senate Armed Services Committee Chairman Sam Nunn of Georgia.

In a speech on the Senate floor this afternoon, Nunn reiterated the need for extensive hearings on the issue and his opposition to lifting the ban, but did not repeat his previous criticisms of Clinton's handling of the issue.

"It's in everyone's interest to see if we can resolve this issue through consensus rather than confrontation," Nunn said. "There's always time for confrontation later if it cannot be solved by consensus, but perhaps it can.

Nunn remained steadfast in his belief that any change in the policy is the shared responsibility of the executive branch and Congress. He presented a series of provocative questions that must be answered before any action is taken, including whether separate living quarters or any changes in law on sodomy would be needed.

"I urge that the White House, the president and all his advisers, including the secretary of defense, think through these questions very carefully before they take any kind of action that could be perceived as final," he said.

"It's not simply the right of homosexuals at stake. It's also the right of all those men and women who serve in the military." Clinton spokesperson George Stephanopoulos said Clinton planned to detail his policy Thursday. The announcement had been scheduled today, but Clinton wanted at least one more day to lobby and consult lawmakers.

The president refused to answer reporters' questions on issues of gay in the military at a picture-taking session with top congressional leaders, insisting that the meeting was to focus solely on the economy.

Asked if the controversy was distracting him from being able to develop his economic program, Clinton snapped: "No, it's distracting you. It's not distracting me."

Democrats on the Senate Armed Services Committee were meeting with Clinton at the White House this evening. Again held a breakfast meeting at the beginning of the Oval Office meeting.

Aspin said he could meet a goal of cutting the deficit in four years by $145 billion with increasing taxes. Clinton said: "I don't know the answer to that. We're working on it.

"During the campaign, Clinton vowed to cut the deficit in half in four years. But since he made that pledge last winter, the deficit increased to an estimated record $327 billion.

Clinton earlier this month modified the promise, saying he didn't expect he could halve the deficit in either of the first years and merely hoped to be able to trim it by about $145 billion — roughly half of what the deficit was last January.

The president was asked if the controversy over his plan to lift the ban on homosexuals in the military was distracting him from focusing on the economy. "No, it's distracting you. It's not distracting me."

Earlier, White House spokesman George Stephanopoulos said that Clinton was working on the economic "friday every day" and some advisers were "working around the clock" to get it ready for Clinton's Feb. 17th speech to a joint session of Congress.

Clinton's decision to push his proposal to lift the ban on homosexuals in the military before submitting his economic plan to Congress does not signal lack of engagement on the economy, he said.

"It's only a small amount of time," President Clinton told reporters. "The answer to that. We're working on it.

"We've committed to passing a strong economic package," he added.

Stephanopoulos said Clinton anticipates "a spring filled with action on the economy and health care."
Thinking of doing a year of service? How about doing it for a lifetime?

Have you considered

THE HOLY CROSS CANDIDATE YEAR?

A one-year program at Moreau Seminary at the University of Notre Dame for college graduates interested in exploring the possibility of a lifetime of service as a Holy Cross priest or brother. Scholarship assistance is available.

Call or write for information:
Fr. John Conley, C.S.C.
Congregation of Holy Cross
Box 54
Notre Dame, Indiana 46556
(219) 239-6385

Why Over 50% of This Year's Entering Med School Class Came to KAPLAN.

Late Registration
Jan. 13- Feb. 4
Phone: 272-4135

No one prepares you for the MCAT better than KAPLAN. Our MCAT prep course teaches you exactly what the test covers and the test-taking skills you'll need to do your best on the exam. Test dates, home study notes, and audio review. Plus, no one else has a more extensive MCAT resource library than KAPLAN.
LOS ANGELES (AP) — Police want to buy more riot gear, the mayor plans to send peacekeepers door to door, and people in South Central are wary of trouble as the federal trial of four policemen in the Rodney King beating draws near.

"Anybody who tells you what is going to happen is simply guessing," said Deputy Mayor Mark Fabiani. "The mood is very tense. We're preparing for the worst, but hoping for the best."

Jury selection begins Wednesday in the trial of four white officers who were captured on videotape beating King, a black motorist, after a car chase in 1991. The officers were acquitted of assault in state court in April, touching off three days of riots in mostly black South Central Los Angeles. The violence left 53 people dead and 10,090 businesses destroyed. Damage was put at $1 billion.

The riots produced another videotaped beating and another trial with explosive implications: News helicopters captured the beating of Reginald Denny, a white truck driver who was dragged from his rig by a mob in the opening moments of the riots. Four black men have been charged in the attack. The trial of three of the men starts March 15 and could overlap the King case.

"There is great fear about the outcome of these trials," Fabiani said. "People in the African-American community are fearful that justice may again be denied, especially in the federal trial."

Mayor Bradley is organizing a "Neighbor-to-Neighbor" program, in which hundreds of volunteers will visit housing projects, schools and shopping centers to urge calm during the trials. Volunteers are being recruited. The Police Commission, at the request Police Chief Willie Williams, voted last week to ask the City Council for $1 million to spend on riot equipment, including rubber bullets, tear-gas hobs and police vans. The request is pending.

Williams, a soft-spoken black man and police reformer, succeeded Daryl Gates, who was forced out over the King controversy.

This week, people near the intersection of Florence and Normandie avenues — where Denny was attacked — said there could be more violence.

"People are saying they want justice. If there's no justice this time, there won't be no peace," said Lee Haylock, standing in his employer's auto parts store. At Art's Chili Dogs, a worker who refused to allow his name to be used predicted more violence.

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — A man wearing a business suit reportedly shouted "This is what you all get for firing me!" and opened fire in an office building cafe during lunchtime Wednesday, killing three people and wounding two. The man later was found dead in a nearby park, an apparent suicide.

The gunman, Paul Calden, 33, was a former employee of Fireman's Fund Insurance Co.'s local office, said Steve Cole, spokesman for the Tampa Police Department.

"It wasn't a matter of him going into the cafeteria and just spraying in every direction," Cole said. "It appears he targeted people at one or two tables, people he may have known, people he may have worked with."

A Firemen's Fund spokesman wouldn't say whether the victims were employees.

Police initially believed Calden might still be in the 12-story building after the shootings, and they made a room-by-room sweep as workers stayed inside their offices. But hours later Calden was found dead in a rental car in a park in nearby Clearwater. Police said he apparently shot himself.

Abraham Reid, whose wife was in the cafeteria when the shooting broke out, said she called him afterward and quoted the gunman as saying: "This is what you all get for firing me!"

Later, Sarah Reid, 33, said the man was an arm's length away from her when the shooting started in the Island Center office building's first-floor cafe.

"It's totally unbelievable. I just thank God he spared my life," she said. She said he "just shot all these people around this one table."

"It sounded like a firecracker and I thought it was a joke. I just looked up and all of a sudden I saw the man just shoot. Then everybody started screaming and we all just got up and knocked over the table and tried to run."

The cafeteria, a 20-table lunch spot, had some 25 diners during the lunchtime shooting.

MIAMI (AP) — Four federal agents were snared in a U.S. Customs sting aimed at uncovering lawmen who allegedly ripped off drug dealers and laundered the money, authorities said Wednesday.

It was believed to be the largest number of federal agents ever arrested at one time, said Leonard Freedman, regional internal affairs director for Customs.

One FBI and three Customs agents were charged with stealing and laundering $200,000, he said.

"We're not going to tolerate any of these characters working in law enforcement," Freedman said. "They are anomalies who stole and laundered money."

He said it was possible more agents were involved and that charges could be expanded after search warrants were served.

One Customs agent in Miami, Orlando White, 42, was the original target of the 18-month investigation, Freedman said. Customs internal affairs had received information White was "dirty," said Freedman, who refused to elaborate.

Freedman said the investigation of White led to the other agents — the FBI's Louis Revelz, 27, brother of NFL place kicker Fuad Reveiz of the Minnesota Vikings, and Customs agents Alcides Licona, 47, of Miami, and Ricardo Laurel, 37, of Houston.

"They were all friends," Freedman said. Deals were often sealed with gold Rolex watches and other expensive gifts, said a federal law enforcement source who spoke on condition of anonymity.

The four agents have been charged with theft of government property and money laundering.

The sting began in August 1991 when White was approached by a Customs informant with a plan to rip off $80,000 to $100,000 from a fictitious "black guy-career criminal," according to a federal affidavit.

White was reluctant, at first, but eventually went to the hotel room of the supposed trafficker and stole $82,000 agents had planted there, the affidavit said. Unknown to him, Customs videotaped the burglary. White allegedly kept $30,000 of the cash, said the affidavit.

Correction

In a story in yesterday's edition, The Observer incorrectly spelled the name of Dr. Sara Strickler of Saint Mary's Health Service. The Observer regrets the error.

DEBATES

Thursday, January 28

Haggard Parlor

Students are encouraged to meet the candidates

Our good customers care more about their money. We now offer a Good Student Discount

Call us for a quote

9 a.m. - 5 p.m.

289-1993

The Observer, January 28, 1993

page 5

The Observer
Freighter carrying fuel stops its perilous drift

WILMINGTON, N.C. (AP) — The crew of a battered, fuel-laden freighter with nearly 400,000 gallons of fuel lowered its anchors and instead manually tows the ship toward the shoals, the Coast Guard said.

The 600-foot Lyra broke loose from a tug offshore Tuesday morning as the container ship was being towed from Baltimore to New Orleans. No crew members were aboard for the trip.

A Marine helicopter dropped a cage of explosive charges Wednesday morning to try to put a tow line on the ship, the Coast Guard said.

The ship had no cargo but about 380,000 gallons of fuel, most of it heavy oil, the Coast Guard said.

The vessel's owners, Lykes Lines of New Orleans, "are very optimistic" that a wreck can be averted, spokesman Arldy Hammond said.

Bacteria in hamburger sicken scores, kill one

SEATTLE (AP) — It's one of the worst nightmares a parent can have. Deadly bacteria infiltrates hamburger. Undercooking at a fast-food chain fails to kill the bacteria. Scores of people get sick and some child dies.

A byproduct of others with dread through an incubation period as long as a week and a half after consumption to see if they will develop the disease. For most, that period ended only Wednesday.

The illness is called hemolytic uremic syndrome. It was traced to Jack in the Box outlets in Washington, Idaho, Nevada and possibly California. It has produced symptoms ranging from bloody diarrhea and intense abdominal pain to stroke-like bleeding in the brain and irreversible damage to intestines and kidneys.

"To think that something like this can come from hamburger meat," said Dean Forbes of Children's Hospital, where most of the most severely ill youngsters have been treated, "it's a nightmare for the parents."

The many as 40,000 burgers were sold from potentially contaminated shipments, company and health officials said.

As of Wednesday, Forbes said, 18 patients in the hospital were being treated for infection by the coliform bacteria E. coli 0157:H7, including 10 on kidney dialysis and one in critical condition. That is just one strain of the common E. coli bacteria.

Aundrea Dolan, 2 1/2, regained her health fairly quickly. Her sister, Mary, almost 4, recovered from a stroke and returned home Friday.

En route to a follow-up blood test, Aundrea saw a Jack in the Box and wanted to stop, recalled her father, Joseph Dolan of Kent.

Former colleagues predict Hillary Clinton will be 'idealistic,' 'pragmatic' in new post

LITTLE ROCK, Ark. (AP) — Hillary Rodham Clinton will be "idealistic and pragmatic" as she heads a presidential task force tackling the health care system, say those who recall her tenure as Arkansas' top education reformer.

In that post a decade ago, they say, she did not "pull rank" as Gov. Bill Clinton's wife-appointee but won consensus on sweeping changes that forced the hiring of thousands of new teachers and the merging of dozens of districts.

"She was a tireless worker," said Pat Roberts, then head of the state Education Department and now superintendent of the Fort Worth, Texas, schools. The standards Mrs. Clinton shepherded through "helped move Arkansas forward.

Not everyone agrees. Some educators are still smarting from the one-time teacher competency test, and conservative groups have complained that some of the reforms erode local control and aim to change children's values.

"I don't think we've really made progress in this state," said Marilyn Simmons of the group FLAG, or Family, Life, America, God. The organization is affiliated with Phyllis Schlafly's Eagle Forum.

LATE NIGHT OLYMPICS

Come out and cheer on your hall and help the St. Joseph County Special Olympics.

Even though sign-ups for the team events are over, you can still participate. LATE NIGHT runs from 8:00pm to 4:00am tomorrow.

There will be Open skating, a SLAM DUNK contest and the ND Alumni Association will have the 1989 Fiesta Bowl Cyclorama open.

Be on the lookout later this week for more information concerning the SLAM DUNK contest and the Fiesta Bowl Cyclorama.
Croatian clashes frustrate mediators

SARAJEVO. Bosnia-Herzegovina (AP) — Serbs unleashed their heaviest artillery bombardment of Sarajevo in weeks Wednesday as fighting also raged in neighboring Croatia, jeopardizing peace efforts for the whole region.

The clashes across Croatia and Bosnia-Herzegovina have frustrated peace mediators and increased concerns that ethnic warfare would spread deeper into the Balkans. A U.N. statement hinted that peacekeepers could be withdrawn from Croatia if the battles persist.

More than 27,000 people have been killed in the two former republics since fighting broke out in June 1991. A yearlong truce was broken last week in Croatia.

In the Bosnian capital, radio stations appealed for people to stay off the streets. But by sundown, hospital and morgue officials reported at least 17 people, including two children, had died and 17 were wounded.

Three of the victims were killed when a 120mm mortar shell slammed into a crowd waiting for a bus on Sarajevo's main east-west road.

Heavy fighting also was reported around the besieged city's western suburbs and the airport as the U.N. High Commissioner for Refugees, Sadako Ogata, made a one-day visit.

Ogata accused Croat militias in central Bosnia of blocking relief convoys, endangering hundreds of thousands of people dependent on aid. She said the renewed fighting in Croatia was unleashing a new wave of refugees.

Ethnic Serb militias in Croatia counterattacked in an attempt to dent Croatian military gains close to the Serbs' nerve center. Knin. Croatian forces had launched attacks on Friday, endangering a year-old U.N. peace agreement that ended Croatia's civil war in which 10,000 people died.

Yugoslavian farmers violate U.N. sanctions

BELGRADE, Yugoslavia (AP) — Farmers in Yugoslavia's eastern regions have abandoned their fields to join a small army of smugglers who are violating a U.N. embargo with panache.

A flotilla of six barges carrying crude oil from the Ukraine reached Yugoslav waters late Tuesday after its captain told Romanian and Bulgarian port authorities he would blow up the cargo if they stopped him.

The U.N. sanctions were imposed last May to punish Belgrade leaders — particularly Slobodan Milosevic, the hard-line president of Serbia — for inciting the war in neighboring Bosnia-Herzegovina.

Western expectations that the sanctions would bring Yugoslavia to its knees have been frustrated.

Official spokesmen for the United States, Britain and France said they plan to ask the U.N. Security Council to enhance the sanctions if the embargoes are flouted again.

U.S. envoy: U.N. too slow taking control in Somalia

MOGADISHU, Somalia (AP) — A U.S. special envoy Robert Oakley accused the United Nations of Wednesday on "dragging its feet" on taking effective military action in Somalia from the United States.

He said the United States and other nations were pressing U.N. Secretary-General Boutros Boutros-Ghali to name a representative independent mediator to help Somalia's warring factions on the road to peace.

"There's a quiet, effective push to get Mr. Boutros-Ghali to do for Somalia what he seems to be comfortable with in Bosnia," said Oakley.

Boutros-Ghali appointed former U.S. Secretary of State Cyrus Vance last August to seek a negotiated settlement to the war in Somalia. Vance is working alongside Lord Owen, a former British foreign secretary who is the European Community's mediator.

"It doesn't have to be Vance and Owen, but someone of independent stature," Oakley said in an interview. "It would make the United Nations a lot more effective. And maybe it would garner the idea of having a military commander flying the U.N. flag there." The United Nations has had two special envoys to Somalia, a post currently held by Ismail Kittani, an Iraqi. It was not clear whether Oakley meant to implicate Kittani or Oakley, a former U.S. ambassador to Somalia, was brought in by President Bush to help oversee operation Restore Hope, launched to feed Somalia's starving.

Many relief officials also believe a commanding international figure is crucial to bringing a lasting peace to Somalia. An independent mediator would also help allay fears among many Somalis of another U.N. takeover of their country, which was a U.N. trusteeship from 1950 to 1960.

"I am all for it because I believe it's too big a job for the quality of U.N. personnel that are here," said Mike McDonough, field director for the Irish relief agency Concern.

Deported Palestinians offered phones on eve of court ruling

JERUSALEM (AP) — On the eve of a critical supreme court ruling, Israel offered Wednes­ day to give the deported Palesti­ nians in Lebanon cellular tele­ phones so they can consult their lawyers before their appeals.

The proposal was part of the government's response to a court query about how Israel intended to respect the expelled men's right to legal counsel, said Defense Ministry spokesman Oded Ben-Ami. He said the offer of phones bolsters Israel's contention that due process was not compromised by the expulsions.

The seven-justice supreme court panel is expected to rule Thursday on the legality of the deportations, the Justice Min­ istry said.

A key question before the court is the hurried way in which Israel expelled Dec. 17 from the occupied terri­ tories. Civil rights attorneys have argued that the deportees were denied their right to due process because they were not given a chance to appeal.

If the court rules against the deportations, the government appears to have no choice but to repatriate the Palestinians from their tent camp in Leb­anon, effectively ending the crisis and heading off possible U.N. penalties.

Prime Minister Yitzhak Rabin told Israel television "the government will carry out Supreme Court decisions." Israeli newspapers have re­ ported that some Cabinet min­ isters, dismayed at the way the affair has boomeranged against Israel in world opinion, are hoping the court will rule the deportations were illegal, thus giving Israel a face-saving way out.

A Lecture by Gerard Powers
Office of International Justice and Peace
U.S. Catholic Conference

"Sarajevo and Self-Determination: Building an Old New World Order?"

Co-Sponsored with the Social Justice Forum
Monday, February 1
Noon
Room 220, Law School Courtyard

"Quality without compromise"

CAMPUS VIEW APARTMENTS

LEASING NOW FOR AUGUST
1 And 2 Bedroom Apartments

Apartments available for your selection.

• 9 MONTH LEASES
• All utilities included
• Relaxed, Secure Environment

FOR INFORMATION CALL 272-1441

Attention Freshmen

SPW ESCAPE TO CHICAGO

February 20-21

There is a limited amount of space still available.

Tickets sold only through Friday.

Sign up ASAP at the Student Government office on the second floor of Lafortune.
Many people ask the question "Why do some people develop an eating disorder and others are not affected?" There is no simple answer to that question. The answer may be, at least in part, that environment plays an important role in the development and recovery from an eating disorder. Eating disorders can occur in families where an individual's self-esteem and autonomy are hampered through lack of appropriate affection, support and rigid expectations. A variety of related factors such as emotional deprivation, obesity, alcoholism, physical depression and other chronic illnesses, as well as sexual abuse can create an environment where individuals feel unsupported, neglected and out of control.

To date, we know that certain familial patterns are associated with eating disorders, but there is no single cause. The result of the Notre Dame survey supports this viewpoint. Those respondents who reported serious eating disorders reported significantly more problems with food in their family and were more likely to have been forced to have sexual contact against their will than those individuals with some symptoms or no symptoms of an eating disorder.

The risk for a family member developing an eating disorder is increased when: 1) the family places excessive importance on appearance and thinness; 2) the family supports the myth that weight can be controlled voluntarily and the responsibility for self-improvement belongs to the daughter or son; 3) family members model weight preoccupation in their own eating behavior; and 4) family members critically evaluate the daughter/son's weight, choice of friends, decisions, etc.; 5) the boundaries of the family are either too rigid (parents control everything and pamper their daughter/son dependent on them) or no boundaries exist.

Individuals often take on the role of the parent and receive little support or acknowledgment except when they perform a caretaking role.

The environment in which we live can either enhance recovery or contribute to the growing number of individuals who are obsessed with their weight and appearance. These individuals begin to engage in dangerous eating behaviors as the result of thinness which has become wrongly associated with happiness and social adjustment.

Every time someone makes a joke about fat chicks, lets out a howl when a woman goes up for ice cream in the dining hall or puts up posters/banners/signs that demean women by putting down their appearance or describing them as "well built," sends a message that people are only as good as they look.

The process of recovery from an eating disorder depends on a number of factors. The type of disorder, the severity, duration of the disorder, the personality characteristics, treatment adherence with the disorder and the availability of competent professional assistance all influence the process of recovery. While most persons with an eating disorder know there is a problem, attempts at self-treatment usually lead to repeated failures. Underlying these failures is a common belief about "getting better" because "getting better" might mean: 1) gaining or losing weight; 2) experiencing unwanted and perhaps painful feelings and thoughts; 3) having to learn alternative methods of reducing stress; 4) restructuring relationships with significant others; 5) finding a less harmful means of regulating self-esteem; and 6) finding healthier ways of competing and obtaining recognition from others.

In short, there are many changes which may need to occur and these changes can be very difficult to accomplish without the support of a competent professional.

The Notre Dame survey indicated that the respondents with eating problems were not receiving professional help. Eighty-seven percent of those with a serious eating disorder and 95 percent of those with symptoms of an eating disorder had not received any psychotherapeutic help.

Reasons given for not seeking help included not being sure they had a problem, not wanting to take action, and being embarrassed to admit their difficulties with food. Unfortunately, these women are struggling alone with the problem when professional help is readily available.

While there may be some variation in treatment approaches (e.g., behavioral or insight oriented therapy), the treatment will vary individually, in a group or with the family, joining a 12 step program such as Weightест Anonymous, etc., common therapeutic themes include helping the person with and eating disorder to: 1) establish a sense of identity which goes beyond body image; 2) regulate self-esteem in ways which are not so bound by the number on the scale; 3) experience and express painful emotional states in appropriate ways; 4) become more assertive; and 5) learn more about the origins of their eating disorder and how eating disorders started.

Many of these therapeutic goals are accomplished through individual and group counseling sessions. In addition, nutritional counseling and medical supervision are often included as part of treatment.

The process of recovery is difficult, long and slow. It takes a great deal of courage because the individual is giving up a coping style which leaves her/him feeling secure and alone while developing new coping strategies. However, the rewards are enormous because the individual experiences a new freedom when he/she is not hiding in the guilt and shame of his/her eating behavior and does not risk further physical problems which can range from minimal to life threatening.

Friends, roommates, boyfriends/girlfriends, siblings and parents often struggle with how they can be helpful when someone is struggling with an eating disorder. It is important to convey your concern in a caring and non-judgmental way. We direct and state why certain behaviors and attitudes you have observed concern you and suggest they may indicate some type of eating problem. Please recognize that patterns of behavior over time may suggest a problem while an isolated observation (e.g., seeing someone overeat at one meal) rarely suggests a need to intervene. Often individuals with eating disorders initially deny the problem because of the guilt and shame they feel. The individual may need some time before they will agree to seek help. Recognize that friends and relatives cannot cure the person you need to let the individual take responsibility for his/her recovery.

In summary, we do know that family and extended family dynamics have a significant influence on creating and maintaining eating disorders. We know that in order to be of help to those who experience eating disorders, we need to be sensitive to the ways in which we may contribute to the perpetuation of the "problem."

Successful treatment is available to those who have eating disorders. So, the choice becomes ours as to whether we want to create and be part of an environment which is either sensitive to the needs of those whose self-esteem is regulated by their weight or be part of an environment that reflects lack of knowledge, insensitivity and encourages eating disorders.

The author wishes to acknowledge psychologists Willis Bartlett, Ph. D and Marc Milhander, Ph.D. for their contribution to this article.

"Those who do not know how to weep with their whole heart don't know how to laugh either."

Golda Meir

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Environment can be key factor in eating disorders
Student disappointed by drama class

Dear Editor:

I recently completed a class entitled "Modern Drama," and while the professor who taught this class gave excellent and invigorating lectures, my disappointment was so great I feel compelled to address the editor.

This disappointment started on the first day of class upon perusal of the syllabus. For while the class's title appears to be relativelystraining toward there was a large disparity between the expected and the actual subject matter. The class's material consisted of twenty-seven plays all written by white males. I'd like to suggest that a class that calls itself "Modern Drama" and doesn't include a single play by a woman or minority is based on an oxymoronic premise.

As a result of recorded history, knowledge of literature written by white males has been considered the only knowledge worth having. Things written by any other group have been ignored, devalued, and pushed into the realm of the unacceptable, partly because these works were produced from a cultural framework that the intellectuals didn't understand and hence found devoid of meaning. This is the result of sexism.

I am aware, in lodging this complaint, that many of the classes I have taken are survey classes, and as such presuppose the need for comparisons. No class can be a complete and full analysis of modern drama or anything else.

Further, I do in no way wish to suggest that all of the members of the traditional canon usually studies be abandoned. It is true, however, that certain works were produced from a cultural framework that the intellectuals didn't understand and hence found devoid of meaning.

I assume the oversight was due to the professors from the class that this University. I am aware, in lodging this complaint, that many of the classes I have taken are survey classes, and as such presuppose the need for comparisons. No class can be a complete and full analysis of modern drama or anything else.

I do in no way wish to suggest that all of the members of the traditional canon usually studies be abandoned. It is true, however, that certain works were produced from a cultural framework that the intellectuals didn't understand and hence found devoid of meaning. This is the result of sexism.

The shepherd in me hopes to live up to their names.

Beth Ann Fennelly
Off-campus
Jan. 25, 1993

'Hillary' headline shows subtle sexism

Dear Editor:

I found Tuesday's Observer (Jan. 26, 1993) guilty of subtle sexism.

The headline called Mrs. Clinton by only her first name (page 5, "'Hillary in charge of health care'"). The Associated Press text which followed addressed the first lady as "Hillary Rodham Clinton" and "Mrs. Clinton." The Observer headline editor should have done the same.

Other news headlines in that issue which mention a person by name use surnames: "Brokaw talks to military... Packwood..." It was "Brokaw, Clinton,... and "Packwood, not Tom, Bill, or "Hobby B." But Mrs. Clinton got, simply, "Hillary." I assume the oversight was unintentional. Nevertheless, it is sexist to speak of a man by his title or surname but speak of a woman — even though we know who this woman is — by only her first name. (The pop star Madonna is an exception, of course.)

The point is subtle. Sexism usually is. Please be more careful.

Erik Sloan
Fischer Graduate Residents
Jan. 26, 1993

Neighborhood Council thanks Grace Hall

Dear Editor:

It is with thankful hearts that we publicly acknowledge the generous gift of over 1,500 which members of Grace Hall have contributed to us from their Annual Run. They have fulfilled this project for the past several years and we are most grateful.

The contribution comes at a time when the need seems to be the greatest and the project is emerging at a more rapid rate.

Thanks, too, to all the stu­dents of Saint Mary's and Notre Dame who give of their time and talents to our school chil­dren in the Neighborhood Help Program. We are sure we speak for the children as well as for the Council when we send all involved a big THANK YOU!

Arthur J. Quigley, President and Members of the Board of Directors Northeast Neighborhood Council, Inc.
Jan. 23, 1993

The director of the Northeast Neighborhood Council, Inc., Renelda Robinson, receives a check from David Ring in the name of Grace Hall students.

Thursday's Verse

Grandmother

The pain never subsides in a day or two
How will I make it? I'm not sure I'll get through
The aching pain inside my heart
Overcomes me
I feel nothing else, but want
To simply feel nothing
In philosophy we deal with the existence of God
At church we discuss testing and punishment
How can I consider those topics When I can't even deal with My own existence or the end of yours?
You were an incredible woman, full of goodness
And we should celebrate your life
Instead we mourn that you are gone
But gone where, to a better place?
Full of white robed angels, singing praise to God?
Or just into the earth, lying in a wooden box
Next to your beloved husband
I only know that you touched my life
And I hope someday that I might affect someone
The way you affected me

- Anne M. Janson
Siegfried Hall

Editor's note: Funeral services for Mildred Janson were held this morning in West Covina, California.

chant to the ancestors... (for Mildred Janson) 01 24 93

be still my ancestors
and rest
for in me your spirit shall be revived
my ancestors rest and be still your spirit in me shall be revived revived in me your spirit shall be so rest
my ancestors
in me shall your spirit be revived
so dear sweet ancestors rest

revive, my ancestors, your spirit in me and rest revive your ancestors and know that in me your spirit shall be revived be still my restless ancestors for in me through me* in spite of me your spirit will be revived

-karsonya e. wise

Editor's note: There will be a memorial service for Thurgood Marshall at St. Joseph's Lake behind Columbia Hall at noon on Saturday, Jan. 30.

Karsonya E. Wise is a graduate student in International Peace Studies and will be participating in a poetry reading at the Sinte Museum on Saturday at 2:45 p.m. as part of the Sinte Day of Women.
Notre Dame professor enhances classroom lectures with self-edited books

By BEVIN KOVALIK
Accent Writer

What could be more beneficial than a professor who supplements some of his class lectures with books he has edited himself? Thomas Schlereth, a Notre Dame American studies professor has recently co-edited a volume entitled, "American Home Life, 1880-1930," which he uses in his class.

This volume, published by the University of Tennessee Press, examines the structural evolution of the American home and the way in which these transformations affected the behaviors of the people in the changing times surrounding the turn of the twentieth century, Schlereth said.

For example, one section of the book describes how "electric circuits and indoor plumbing along with the expansion of the parlor into the living room, as we presently refer to it," Notre Dame American Studies professor Thomas Schlereth recently co-edited a volume entitled, "American Home Life, 1880-1930," which he uses in his class.

Years of practice have made Schlereth a pro in compiling and editing books because "American Home Life" stemmed from another volume entitled "Victorian America," which he edited in 1985 as part of a series for Harper and Row.

A worthwhile hobby like this one allows Schlereth to transfer his knowledge of the changing American home to the classroom. He uses both volumes to enhance his lectures for American Studies 250, "American Thought and Culture." The class explores and historically analyzes the transformations in everyday life from 1870-1920, Schlereth said.

"My [American studies] class explores a spectrum of human experiences common in the everyday life of the working middle-class people living at the turn of the twentieth century," Schlereth added.

Perhaps on a roll or maybe just doing what he considers an enjoyable task which complements his teaching at ND, Schlereth already has plans underway for yet another new book. "I would most likely call it, "The High Art of Common Life','', he said, "because it will analyze paintings of everyday experiences and discuss understanding American culture through paintings."

"I am interested in exploring the reasons why artists are interested in depicting men and women in shops and the workplace during the 19th and 20th centuries," he said.

Schlereth is certainly keeping himself occupied these days, but "I am doing what I enjoy doing," he added.

Art professors display work at Faculty Art Show

By CHRIS HATTY
Accent Writer

Imagine a work of art that allows its viewer to more than simply look at it. Imagine a creation that can be experienced with the full range of the human senses. The Annual Faculty Art Show, starting at the end of this week, will heighten the senses and bring art to life.

The Environmental Wall, created by William Gorlaski and Ann Marie Conrado, is a featured piece. This work consists of eight thematic tiles that are meant to represent functional aspects of nature. These aspects are light, heat, coolness, odor, humidity, purification, and sound.

The show features the recent works of various faculty members. Some of the works exhibited in the show will be: black-and-white photography by Dick Stevens, work in fabric by Barbara Peterson, and digital prints created by John Sherman.

The show will also feature the work of some of the newer faculty in the art department.

Sally Brogden has an exhibit featuring her work with clay, and the cold-rolled steel and bronze sculpture of Jeffrey Adams will also be on display.

In addition to these newcomers, the Faculty Art Show will feature the work of two professors who have returned from leaves of absence. An exhibit in charcoal by James Flanigan, C.S.C. will be displayed and four oil paintings on canvas by Douglas Kinsey will be shown as well.

Other faculty artists whose work will be shown include Catherine Poole, Kevin Ferri, Richard Gray, Austin Collins, Jean A. Dibble, and Paul Bow Jr.

According to Lucille Brodie, staff executive at the Snite, the Faculty Art Show is a tradition that began 26 years ago. William Kremer, chairman of the Art Department, states that, "the faculty exhibition will be the focal point for a departmental symposium that will show individual artists, art historians, and designers an opportunity to talk about their current work and special interests."

The show will display works in various mediums such as drawing, painting, designing, printmaking, sculpture, photography, and fiber. The art show allows "the Notre Dame art students and community an opportunity to view the latest work of Notre Dame faculty artists and designers," states Kremer.

The annual shows, Kremer says, allow the faculty to see the current work of their colleagues. In addition, they provide a chance for longtime aficionados of the Snite Gallery to see how the talent of Notre Dame’s faculty is currently manifesting itself.

The Faculty Art Show will be on display from January 31 to April 4 in the O’Shaughnessy Galleries, West. While classes are in session, the Snite Museum is open from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. Tuesday through Saturday, Sunday from 1 p.m. until 4 p.m.; and Thursday from 10 a.m. to 8 p.m. Admission is free, and the public is encouraged to see, as Brodie says, "the range, diversity, and vitality of faculty artists’ creativity."
A year in revue

Accent

By MATT FOLEY

Accent Writer

It's late January on the Notre Dame campus, and that brings about the yearly sighting of the Keenan Revue. So put away your books, quit complaining about South Bend weather, and catch the spirit by seeing the show.

If you are in the mood to laugh, don't forget to mention being lucky enough to get tickets, head on over to Saint Mary's O'Laughlin Auditorium and enjoy.

Since this is a review of the Revue, here are some highlights of the show. The performance kicks off with an upbeat Elvis rendition and never slows down. Before the close of the first half, the Keenan players satirize everything from the unbelievable Dining Hall Security to our own Infirmary. In one scene, two announcers call a game between the stars of the Old and New Testament. One of the most memorable lines from this skit is: "Mary nails Jesus on a crossing pattern."

For the sake of fairness to the masses of the unfortunate who will miss this piece of campus entertainment, a description of one skit will be denoted.

We all remember the movie shot on campus last semester - the one with the security guards that would make old East German border guards look like really nice guys. Well, the Revue seeks to poke fun at the entire reason for our existence: "Rudy." The real story may be about inspiration and the human spirit, but the version the Revue offers us highlights a basic failure to grasp the obvious, as well as the incredible resistance to taking no for an answer. After an initial meeting with Lou where Rudy (the Revue changes it to Fruity) gets himself on the team, the actors proceed to practice football. Fruity's pathetic skills make themselves apparent when tested against real football players, but he survives.

Moving on to the famous game scene which took place during halftime of the Boston College game, Keenan sets the stage with appropriate slow motion and music similar to that of "Charriots of Fire." Fruity finally gets sent in when Lou determines that no serious damage can occur, and then proceeds to wave to his mother and accidentally run into the quarterback.

This is just one example of the many entertaining and amusing skits, but the whole performance is just packed with outstanding humor. Of particular mention are: the Battle of the Boss Twins, some incredible choreography in a parody of the SYR situation, a few potshots at the administration and the Irish Guard, as well as Dr. Jack Kevorkian in the Infirmary and a Laundry scene.

Another memorable performance took place in the second act. Here, a lone piano player appears to entertain the audience with a montage of Billy Joel hits, changing the words to satirize a member of the administration. This act alone is worth the trip over to Saint Mary's to get a glimpse of the Keenan Revue. Don't miss it.

The Keenan Revue will be held Thursday, Friday and Saturday nights at 7 p.m.

Above standards

Lewis Hall Players provide laughs in 'Eastern Standard'

By MATT CARBONE

Accent Writer

What do you say to someone who has just told you that "I'm going to be dead soon?"

This is but one of the problems facing the characters in "Eastern Standard," the most recent production by the Lewis Hall Players.

The speaker of the line above is Peter Kiddle (Gregg Winkins), who is informing his sister Phoebe (Stephanie Calmeiy) that he is dying of AIDS, which he has contracted through promiscuous homosexual sex.

Phoebe has problems of her own, torn between her sleazy, manipulative ex-boyfriend and New Wheeler (Scott Haugh), the insecure, dissatisfied architect whom she also loves. Then there is Stephen's artist friend (Charles Clarke), who is hopelessly in love with Peter.

All of these troubled characters meet when they are visited by an angel disguised as a homeless woman, May Logan (Sonja Millier), in the restaurant where they are dining.

For the next two hours we see these characters, along with Ellen (Alison McGarry), the waitress in the restaurant, come together as they attempt to resolve their problems.

"Eastern Standard" is a contemporary comedy by Richard Greenberg, first performed on Broadway in 1988. It is the third play performed by the Lewis Hall Players in as many years.

As with the Players' two previous productions, all proceeds from "Eastern Standard" will go to charity. This year, the Players have chosen to give the money to an AIDS awareness and education project sponsored by the Saint Joseph County Health Center.

Valerie Soledad, the Lewis Hall sophomore producer of "Eastern Standard," explains why the Players chose this charity. She states, "The play covers a lot of contemporary issues, notably AIDS...we thought we'd stick with the themes of the play."

Behrouzal for the play began after the October break. Until the Christmas break, the Players practiced five days a week for two hours a day. After break, the schedule became even more intense, with rehearsals seven days a week for three hours a day.

The hard work has paid off. "Eastern Standard" is an intelligent, engaging play which will also make you laugh. Much of this laughter will come after Clarke delivers his lines; making the sarcastic, flippanat Drew shine within the solid, talented cast. You will find yourself waiting for his witty remarks whenever another character finishes speaking.

Much of the entertainment comes from the play itself. Wit flows from many of the lines. For instance, in describing how conservative his mother is, Peter says that there "ain't a revolution in history that wouldn't have failed to execute her." Or when Drew describes the buttoned-down, Wall Street financier Phoebe to Stephen, he says, "She looks like she-breakfasts on tinker tape."

So if you would like to see a play that is intelligent, witty, and filled with good acting, "Eastern Standard" is for you. It begins tonight at Washington Hall and will continue through Sunday, January 31. All times are at 8:10 p.m., except for Sunday, which shows at 3:10 p.m.

The Lewis Hall Players rehearse for their upcoming play, 'Eastern Standard,' which will be presented Thursday through Sunday.
Cincinnati AEP — All Nick Van Exel could do for the first 7 1/2 minutes Wednesday night was write a towel in his hands and squirm in his chair. Chastened by his second disciplinary benching this season, Van Exel made up for lost time. He scored 15 points and polished off a decisive first-half run that helped No. 6 Cincinnati beat Xavier 74-69.

Bob Huggins kept Van Exel, the Bearcats’ leading scorer and playmaker, on the bench for reasons neither would divulge. Huggins has received raves with Van Exel’s effort at times.

Van Exel didn’t like his courtside seat.

“I was a little nervous sitting on the bench,” he said. “I was nervous when I got in. Then I got a feel for the game.

Van Exel hit his first 3-pointer, including a 30-footer at the first-half buzzer, on a 16-2 run that put Cincinnati (14-1) in line for its 11th straight win.

It was a familiar script for Xavier (12-3), which has lost its last three against its cross-town rival. The Musketeers lack Van Exel’s bench strength, and simply could not beat Van Exel’s pressure defense.

Van Exel was fresh when UC started to pull away — he played less than 10 minutes off the bench the previous two weeks. Huggins also sat Van Exel down for much of a nine-point victory over Cleveland State on Jan. 13 because of poor effort.

Van Exel provided UC’s best moments of the first half, finishing this game after Van Exel guided the Bearcats ahead to stay 38-31 at the half.

“Exel has to be one of the best guards in the country,” Xavier coach Pete Gillen said.

Page 2 of 4

Van Exel exits dog house, helps No. 6 Cincinnati past Xavier, 87-67

The Observer

Thursday, January 29, 1993

CINNAMON MANIA — As Nick Van Exel could do for the first 7 1/2 minutes Wednesday night was write a towel in his hands and squirm in his chair. Chastened by his second disciplinary benching this season, Van Exel made up for lost time. He scored 15 points and polished off a decisive first-half run that helped No. 6 Cincinnati beat Xavier 74-69.

Bob Huggins kept Van Exel, the Bearcats’ leading scorer and playmaker, on the bench for reasons neither would divulge. Huggins has received raves with Van Exel’s effort at times.

Van Exel didn’t like his courtside seat.

“I was a little nervous sitting on the bench,” he said. “I was nervous when I got in. Then I got a feel for the game.

Van Exel hit his first 3-pointer, including a 30-footer at the first-half buzzer, on a 16-2 run that put Cincinnati (14-1) in line for its 11th straight win.

It was a familiar script for Xavier (12-3), which has lost its last three against its cross-town rival. The Musketeers lack Van Exel’s bench strength, and simply could not beat Van Exel’s pressure defense.

Van Exel was fresh when UC started to pull away — he played less than 10 minutes off the bench the previous two weeks. Huggins also sat Van Exel down for much of a nine-point victory over Cleveland State on Jan. 13 because of poor effort.

Van Exel provided UC’s best moments of the first half, finishing this game after Van Exel guided the Bearcats ahead to stay 38-31 at the half.

“Exel has to be one of the best guards in the country,” Xavier coach Pete Gillen said.

Page 2 of 4

Van Exel exits dog house, helps No. 6 Cincinnati past Xavier, 87-67

The Observer

Thursday, January 29, 1993

CINNAMON MANIA — As Nick Van Exel could do for the first 7 1/2 minutes Wednesday night was write a towel in his hands and squirm in his chair. Chastened by his second disciplinary benching this season, Van Exel made up for lost time. He scored 15 points and polished off a decisive first-half run that helped No. 6 Cincinnati beat Xavier 74-69.

Bob Huggins kept Van Exel, the Bearcats’ leading scorer and playmaker, on the bench for reasons neither would divulge. Huggins has received raves with Van Exel’s effort at times.

Van Exel didn’t like his courtside seat.

“I was a little nervous sitting on the bench,” he said. “I was nervous when I got in. Then I got a feel for the game.

Van Exel hit his first 3-pointer, including a 30-footer at the first-half buzzer, on a 16-2 run that put Cincinnati (14-1) in line for its 11th straight win.

It was a familiar script for Xavier (12-3), which has lost its last three against its cross-town rival. The Musketeers lack Van Exel’s bench strength, and simply could not beat Van Exel’s pressure defense.

Van Exel was fresh when UC started to pull away — he played less than 10 minutes off the bench the previous two weeks. Huggins also sat Van Exel down for much of a nine-point victory over Cleveland State on Jan. 13 because of poor effort.

Van Exel provided UC’s best moments of the first half, finishing this game after Van Exel guided the Bearcats ahead to stay 38-31 at the half.

“Exel has to be one of the best guards in the country,” Xavier coach Pete Gillen said.
The Northeast Neighborhood Revisited

Over the last year and a half, this space has been used, among other things, to call out the leprous logo to put down high-rise apartments, to challenge out-of-service students to sit down together more often for meals, and to proclaim the stupidity of getting your best friend totally wasted on his or her twenty-first birthday. Evidence would seem to indicate that none of these most excellent suggestions has yet had a very big impact on the standard operating procedures around here.

A September '91 column, titled "Our Lady of Sorrows," imagined that the Blessed Mother up on the Dome was saddened as she looked down Notre Dame Avenue and saw the apparent deterioration of the neighborhood. At the time, violence seemed to be escalation in the area, students were breaking leaves to move away from the danger, and the Notre Dame Park Apartments had taken on a particularly unsavory reputation. Long-time residents felt themselves under siege and the neighborhood was in jeopardy.

As it turned out, the Blessed Mother was not the only one from the Administration Building who was concerned about the situation. The Officers of the University were searching for a way to respond to the changing environment. Representatives from the Office of Community Relations, Business Affairs, Security, and the Center for Social Concerns had been forced into the complicated neighborhood issues with the local residents, and with the mayor's office, the police, and other concerned parties.

For years the main complaints of the neighbors in the area had concerned the boisterous drunkenness of students, with their loud parties and windblown plastic beer cups. Now the concerns were drive-by shootings and plummeting property values. The University was properly anxious to be involved in the concerns of its neighborhoods and to the same time wanted to protect the quality of its own front door.

From all the meetings and all the discussions, a strategy evolved and decisions were made. Notre Dame, the City of South Bend, Neighborhood Housing Services, and the St. Joseph Medical Center combined to hire an outside consultant to make recommendations and engage in the process of community organizing throughout the neighborhood. Large numbers of local residents, including Notre Dame off campus students, were gathered at Perley School on Eddy Street to voice their concerns and begin to work together towards solutions. That process goes on.

Notre Dame put a good amount of money behind a local investor, and the Notre Dame Apartments and the adjoining parcels of land between South Bend Avenue, Notre Dame Avenue, and Concord Street were purchased. In the last months the Apartments have been renovated, new sidewalks and landscaping have been added, and the triangle is being prepared as a sight for local governmental services. The neighborhood has taken on a more inviting appearance. Tom McDermott, C.S.C., is trying to induce Notre Dame students to return to the area. Security has seemed to improve, and the police are supposed to be more present.

I hope this initiative succeeds. There are so many benefits for everyone involved if this cooperation continues. The relationship of 'town and gown' is sometimes difficult, but in this case, it has a chance to really bring blessings to all concerned. Thank you's are in order for all those who have worked so hard to bring us this far.

If things can get back to where they were in the more peaceful days of some years ago, and students return to share in the life of the Notre Dame Avenue neighborhood, eventually there might even be enough good will left over to figure out what to do about the windblown plastic beer cups.

CAMPUS MINISTRY...

...CONSIDERATIONS

Weekend Presiders at Sacred Heart Basilica

SATURDAY

Sat. January 30 5:00 p.m. Rev. Daniel Jenky, C.S.C.

SUN. January 31 10:00 a.m. Rev. Daniel Jenky, C.S.C.

11:45 a.m. Rev. Thomas McDermott, C.S.C.

SCRIPTURE READINGs FOR THIS COMING SUNDAY

1ST READING

Zephaniah 2,3; 3, 12-13

2ND READING

1 Corinthians 1, 26-31

GOSPEL

Matthew 5, 1-12
INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — A former beauty pageant contestant whom Mike Tyson was convicted of raping denied Wednesday that she sought to profit from the case, saying she had a simple opportunity to accept money for her silence.

"The fact is they offered me the money to drop the charges," Destrie Washington said in a television interview.

"If I was after money all along, I could have taken the money when the ministers came, took me from my exam, and everything and offered me all that money," she said. A Baptist minister had been accused of perjuring himself when he denied offering Washington and her family $1 million.

Tyson, a former heavyweight boxing champion, was convicted a year ago of raping a 17-year-old woman in Cañon City, Colo. Tyson was sentenced to six years in the Indiana Youth Center.

An appeal of his case goes before the Indiana Court of Appeals on Feb. 15.

"It is noteworthy that she has now elected to give a television interview in Indianapolis when the appeal is pending," Tyson's Boston-based attorney, Harvard law graduate Alan Dershowitz, said in response to the interview.

Dershowitz has criticized Washington for allegedly withholding the fact that she had hired an attorney to negotiate rights to her story, and has accused her of profiting from the case.

Some members of Tyson's jury would have voted to acquit him had they known Washington shipping her story around, Dershowitz said. Washington has denied hiring an attorney for that purpose.

In June, Washington filed a civil lawsuit against Tyson seeking unspecified damages for assault, battery, false imprisonment and intentional and negligent infliction of emotional distress.

Washington's comments came during interviews in Boston and Rhode Island with WTHR-TV of Indianapolis. The series of reports continued Wednesday.

Washington did not name the source of the alleged bribe during the interview.

The Beef T. Jemison of Baton Rouge, La., faces a federal perjury charge. Prosecutors contend Jemison — the head of the National Baptist Convention U.S.A., the nation's largest black religious group — denied offering the $1 million while testifying during a fraud trial unrelated to the Tyson case.

Jemison, who has pleaded innocent, was scheduled to go to trial Wednesday, but his case was postponed until May 3.

Rose still a gamblin' man? MIAMI (AP) — Pete Rose says he hasn't resumed gambling. He doesn't say he's quit, either.

But he says he's concerned about the impression people get, and he says it's unfair to give the impression he's hanging around the tracks gambling at the same time he's seeking reinstatement to baseball.

"I do no illegal gambling," Rose said Wednesday in a telephone interview from his home in Boca Raton, Fla. "I'd be lying if I told you I didn't (gamble), because I went to the Kentucky Derby with the governor of Kentucky on his train last year."

The former Cincinnati Reds player and manager and career hits leader was permanently barred from baseball in 1989 for gambling. He said he has no plans to apply for reinstatement now, especially because there isn't a commissioner.

"Baseball's got plenty of other things to worry about," Rose said. "I don't want to prepare a letter asking for reinstatement and then have it sit on the back burner."

Rose took issue with a Cincinnati Post story which he said gives the wrong impression about his current activities. He said he hadn't read the story, but he has seen headlines that said he was seeking reinstatement to baseball at the same time he has resumed gambling.

Rose said he thought the story created the impression he was gambling all the time and actively seeking reinstatement. He told The Post that he went to the Kentucky Derby last year, but he does not go to the track regularly.

But he noted that he wouldn't go to the Derby just to watch the horses. "I can go to the farm to watch the horses," he said.

The newspaper also said he planned to apply for reinstatement "in the very near future."

Mark Tomaska, sports editor of the Cincinnati Post, said Wednesday that the Post story was accurate.

"We have Pete's interview on tape, we've had it on the tape several times," Tomaska said.

Daly hits links, not bottle

SCOTTSDALE, Ariz. (AP) — Having beaten alcohol through counseling and a program, John Daly wants to make consistency a hallmark of his game.

"I felt I'd more consistent. I'm sure I should," the 26-year-old said Tuesday, "if I guess if you work hard at something, you're going to get it right." Daly will make what he calls "my comeback" here Thursday in the Phoenix Open, getting a late start after 3 1/2 weeks in an alcohol rehabilitation clinic.

The tour's toughest hitter for two straight years, Daly has been accused of sacrificing accuracy for the excitement of crushing the ball. For example, while finishing first in driving distance last year (283.4 yards), he was 16th in fairway accuracy and 71st in hitting greens in regulation.

However, Daly said he believes his victory in the B.C. Open last fall shows that his short game has progressed.

"There were a lot of tournaments where I'd just go in and not even practice, just go out and birdie and sometimes I'd do well and sometimes I wouldn't, so I'm really more focused on somewhat of a schedule to go by and just work on my game a lot more than last year," Daly said.

Daly won the tournament's Long Drive Contest with a 315-yard blast. His first drive in the two-ball event was 311 yards.

"I'm hitting the driver real well," he said. "My long irons aren't where I'd like them to be and of course you always lose your putting stroke after being off so long." Daly sought treatment shortly after Christmas, he said, following a speech at the National Baptist Convention.

"I got more out of his speech than I thought I did out of the whole program," Daly said.
Pistons drop Boston behind Mills’ 25
AUBURN HILLS, Mich. (AP) — Terry Mills scored 21 of his 25 points in the second half.

NBA capsules

Wednesday night when the Detroit Pistons ended a six-game losing streak with a 103-94 victory over the Boston Celtics. The win was the first in 11 games for the Pistons this season without the NBA’s leading rebounder, Dennis Rodman, who is out with a leg injury. The Celtics led 47-44 at halftime, but Detroit started the third quarter with a 24-9 run that included 11 points from Mills, who also finished with 14 rebounds.

Reggie Lewis led Boston with 22 points, while Isiah Thomas added 23 points and 13 assists for the Pistons.

Pacers 127, 76ers 125 OT
Dreis Schremph scored 31 points, and his two free throws broke a tie with 2.6 seconds remaining in overtime, giving Indiana a victory over Philadelphia.

With the score tied 125-125, the Sixers’ Tim Perry blocked a shot by Pooh Richardson under the basket and Schremph was fouled by Clarence Weatherspoon in a scruffle for the ball. After the two free throws, Perry’s desperate shot at the buzzer never had a chance, giving the Pacers a 3-0 record against the Sixers this season.

Reggie Miller scored 19 points and George McCloud 17 for the Pacers, who didn’t have a turnover in the second half after trailing by 16 at halftime.

Hersey Hawkins had the first triple-double of his four-year career with 28 points, 13 rebounds and 10 assists for Philadelphia.

Hornets 117, Kings 107
Rookie Alonzo Mourning scored all of his 23 points in the second half, keeping Charlotte in control against Sacramento.

The Hornets also got 21 points from Johnny Newman, 19 from Dell Curry and 17 points and 15 rebounds from Larry Johnson to even their home record at 9-9 and their overall mark at 19-19.

The Kings, losers of seven of nine games, were led by Lionel Simmons with 26 points and Mitch Richmond with 23.

Training Tables for Late Night Olympics

Thursday, January 28

4:45 - 6:45PM

North and South Dining Halls

COME BY THE LATE NIGHT OLYMPICS TRAINING TABLES AND EAT DINNER WITH THE MEMBERS OF YOUR LATE NIGHT OLYMPICS TEAM, BOTH FROM YOUR HALL AND FROM THE OTHER HALLS ON YOUR TEAM.

CHECK WITH YOUR HALL’S LATE NIGHT REP TO SEE WHEN YOUR TEAM WILL BE ATTENDING TRAINING TABLES AND AT WHICH DINING HALL.

Important

TEAM PACKETS WITH SCHEDULES, T-SHIRTS AND OTHER INFORMATION WILL BE PASSED OUT AT THE TRAINING TABLE DINNER.

Richter’s 31 saves give Rangers

NEW YORK (AP) — New York goaltender Mike Richter made his first start since a five-game conditioning stint in the minors and had 31 saves to lead the Rangers to a 5-2 victory over the Winnipeg Jets on Wednesday night.

NHL capsules

The Rangers, who ended Winnipeg’s 10-game unbeaten streak, lost defensemen Jay Wells and Patrick Prince to sprained knees in the first period. New York said star defenseman Brian Leetch would be sidelined for six more weeks because of nerve damage to his left shoulder.

Sabres 4, Capitals 3
Dale Hawerchuk scored his 10th goal of the season to cap a comeback from a 3-1 deficit, Buffalo, which won for the fourth time in five games, tied the score on goals by Pat Verbeek, who scored his 16th goal.

Whalers 6, Canadiens 5

Pat Verbeek scored into an open net with 43 seconds left, taking advantage of a misplay by Montreal’s Patrick Roy. The goaltender mishandled a puck behind his net, and Patrick Poulin checked the puck clear of Verbeek, who scored his 16th goal.

Zarley Zalapski, Mark Janssens, Poulin, Yvon Corriveau and Nick Kypreos also scored for the Whalers, who won for the second time in nine road games.

Ainge’s last second OT basket extends Suns’ win streak to 14

MINNEAPOLIS (AP) — Danny Ainge, who missed a 3-pointer with 8.6 seconds to play, scored on a rebound with 0.7 seconds left in overtime Wednesday night, lifting the Phoenix Suns to their 14th consecutive victory over Minnesota, 117-116.

Chuck Person missed a 20-footer at the buzzer as the Tim­berwolves blow a 21-point lead to lose for the 22nd time in 25 games since the start of December.

Charles Barkley had 35 points for the Suns, and his season-high 24th rebound followed Ainge’s missed 3-pointer, giving Phoenix another chance. After Kevin Johnson missed a 15-footer, Ainge grabbed the rebound in the lane and hit a 5-footer, just his fourth basket in 14 attempts for the game.

The Suns, the NBA’s best team with a 29-8 record, trailed by 21 points in the first half. They finished a six-game road trip with their fourth straight victory and will play 27 of their last 45 games at home.

Person scored 28 points and Doug West 20 for Minnesota, which is 7-29 and hasn’t beaten the Suns since joining the league in 1989-90.

The Timberwolves, who have blown double-digit, first-half leads four times during their current five-game losing streak, are 0-31 against Pacific Division teams since a Dec. 19, 1991 victory over the Los Angeles Lakers.

Person tied Tony Campbell’s team record for points in a quarter, getting 20 in the first as the Timberwolves went up 10-0 in the first quarter.

Mikeal Williams had nine of his 15 assists in the period, during which Minnesota shot 77 percent to the Suns’ 32 percent. Phoenix coach Paul Westphal benched all five starters for the quarter’s final 8:06.

Big Ten continued from page 20

Michigan State, Minnesota, Ohio State and Illinois have seen time in the polls and now stand in the infamous "others receiving votes" category. Don’t be surprised if they all return.

Ohio State, co-Big Ten champ (tied with IU) for the past two seasons, is struggling through a rebuilding year after losing nearly their entire starting lineup from last season: Jimmy Jackson, Perry Carter, Mark Baker and Chris Jenet. Not surprisingly, Lawrence Funderburke has toppled under the pressure.

Once a football powerhouse, the Big Ten features Prime Time action on the hardwood every night.

Chances are, the Big Ten Champ... OHIO...GO...ALL...the Way! That is, if they don’t flat-out collapse before season’s end.

Clarification:

The South Bend Tribune contributed to yesterday’s story about Willie Clark. The Observer regrets the error.
EL SEGUNDO, Calif. (AP) — He's accomplished more than most in the world of sports could possibly imagine. Yet, at age 63, Al Davis wants more. He wants to just win again, badly.

And he believes he will. Davis' beloved Los Angeles Raiders didn't win this past season, going 7-9 and missing the playoffs for the first time since 1989. And that wasn't all. It was a turmoil-filled four months for owner and team.

Following his induction into the NFL Hall of Fame last summer, it should have been a season, going 7-9 and missing the playoffs for the first time since 1989. And that wasn't all. It was a turmoil-filled four months for owner and team.

This year and we were being hit too. As long as I play something I can't go on winning every game. I'm going to have to be," Sabatini said.

After losing their first four games, the Raiders won three straight, including a 20-3 victory over the AFC champion Buffalo Bills. Two weeks after beating the Bills, they lost to Dallas 26-24 after leading 13-7 in the third quarter.

Monica only nine of 42 games in the first three years of the American Football League. Since then, the Raiders have a 285-146-11 regular-season record, they're the only team to play in Super Bowls in the 1960s, 1970s and 1980s, and they've won three of pro football's biggest games, most recently nine years ago. An AFC team hasn't won since.

"I want to win. The flame that burns brightest in me will always be the will to win," Davis said. "I want to fight back. The will to win is there. Why? I don't know. I was going to play in the Super Bowl again. When you dominate in every decade, the expectations worldwide are so great, everyone expects us to win every year and win big. And when we don't, oh, boy.

"We lost the first four games this year and we were being hit from all sides. There were two key games and we just couldn't break through — the Dallas game and the San Diego game down there."

After losing their first four games, the Raiders won three straight, including a 20-3 victory over the AFC champion Buffalo Bills. Two weeks after beating the Bills, they lost to Dallas 26-24 after leading 13-7 in the third quarter.

Monica only nine of 18 regular-season games. She was taken care of 15 days later when they lost to the Bills.

"It was at halftime of the Miami game, on a Monday night, great start running back Marcus Allen in a tackle-up ended at 1:45 a.m."

Davis smiled when asked about people who say he coaches the Raiders, not Shell. "I'm not interested in a brush fire over here. I'm not looking to win these battles. That's not what we do," Davis said. "We spoke more openly on several other issues."

"They said it about John Madden, they said it about Tom Flores, and I say it now," Davis said. "But I don't. I've gone through this. I've been through this. We're totally wrong. There's no any outsider could coach the team. It's just ludicrous.

"I'm involved. I make suggestions from time to time, obviously. If I were coaching the team, I would tell you, I make suggestions on the game plans. Sometimes they don't listen to me."

"With a laugh, he said, "The only times I've coached is in those three Super Bowl wins.""

"About his team's quarterback situation, Davis said, "It's pretty

Familiar faces in Women's Australia

MELBOURNE, Australia (AP) — Monica Seles, Gabriela Sabatini and Arantxa Sanchez Vicario. They've become such fixtures at the Grand Slam semifinals that any tennis fan knows them by their first names.

They took 12 of the 16 semifinal spots at the Grand Slam events last year, and they will be facing off again Thursday at the Australian Open, where they're the top four seeds.

Selese, the top seed and defending champion, will be among the four top returnees to this year's Australian Open Women's tournament. Monica Seles, the top seed and defending champion, will be among the four top returnees to this year's Australian Open Women's tournament.

They took 12 of the 16 semifinal spots at the Grand Slam events last year, and they will be facing off again Thursday at the Australian Open, where they're the top four seeds.

Sabanatini knows that Seles' two-fisted blasts and ability to concentrate will be even tougher this year.

"I'm really looking forward to this match," Sabatini said. "I can't wait. I'm going to play against Monica. I'm going to have to be very aggressive and just try to play each point because that's how she plays."

"Seles leads 8-3 in their head-to-head meetings and has won the last three, although she was down 9-7 in the third set.

The Yugoslav-born Florida resident surpassed $7 million in career earnings with her three-set victory over the 10th-seeded Sabatini of Argentina, while No. 5 Capriati of Italy, who's ranked below Seles in the world rankings, is the only player who's upset in the quarterfinals, a match that showed an attacking style can pressure Seles.

But the ability to raise Seles' game when necessary, demonstrated by her remarkable seven straight final appearances in Grand Slams, is the intangible that has taken Seles to the top and kept her there.

Although the oddsmakers have installed her as the strong favorite here, she says the players ranked below her are capable of winning and providing constant pressure.

"I can't go on winning every tournament," Seles said. "I don't want that pressure on myself. If I do win it, that's great. If it doesn't, that's great too, as long as I play something I can't go on winning every game."

Seles leads 8-3 in their head-to-head meetings and has won the last three, although she was down 9-7 in the third set.

The Yugoslav-born Florida resident surpassed $7 million in career earnings with her three-set victory over the 10th-seeded Sabatini of Argentina, while No. 5 Capriati of Italy, who's ranked below Seles in the world rankings, is the only player who's upset in the quarterfinals, a match that showed an attacking style can pressure Seles.

But the ability to raise Seles' game when necessary, demonstrated by her remarkable seven straight final appearances in Grand Slams, is the intangible that has taken Seles to the top and kept her there.

Although the oddsmakers have installed her as the strong favorite here, she says the players ranked below her are capable of winning and providing constant pressure.

"I can't go on winning every tournament," Seles said. "I don't want that pressure on myself. If I do win it, that's great. If it doesn't, that's great too, as long as I play something I can't go on winning every game."

"Seles leads 8-3 in their head-to-head meetings and has won the last three, although she was down 9-7 in the third set.

The Yugoslav-born Florida resident surpassed $7 million in career earnings with her three-set victory over the 10th-seeded Sabatini of Argentina, while No. 5 Capriati of Italy, who's ranked below Seles in the world rankings, is the only player who's upset in the quarterfinals, a match that showed an attacking style can pressure Seles.

But the ability to raise Seles' game when necessary, demonstrated by her remarkable seven straight final appearances in Grand Slams, is the intangible that has taken Seles to the top and kept her there.

Although the oddsmakers have installed her as the strong favorite here, she says the players ranked below her are capable of winning and providing constant pressure.

"I can't go on winning every tournament," Seles said. "I don't want that pressure on myself. If I do win it, that's great. If it doesn't, that's great too, as long as I play something I can't go on winning every game."

"Seles leads 8-3 in their head-to-head meetings and has won the last three, although she was down 9-7 in the third set.

The Yugoslav-born Florida resident surpassed $7 million in career earnings with her three-set victory over the 10th-seeded Sabatini of Argentina, while No. 5 Capriati of Italy, who's ranked below Seles in the world rankings, is the only player who's upset in the quarterfinals, a match that showed an attacking style can pressure Seles.

But the ability to raise Seles' game when necessary, demonstrated by her remarkable seven straight final appearances in Grand Slams, is the intangible that has taken Seles to the top and kept her there.

Although the oddsmakers have installed her as the strong favorite here, she says the players ranked below her are capable of winning and providing constant pressure.

"I can't go on winning every tournament," Seles said. "I don't want that pressure on myself. If I do win it, that's great. If it doesn't, that's great too, as long as I play something I can't go on winning every game."

"Seles leads 8-3 in their head-to-head meetings and has won the last three, although she was down 9-7 in the third set.

The Yugoslav-born Florida resident surpassed $7 million in career earnings with her three-set victory over the 10th-seeded Sabatini of Argentina, while No. 5 Capriati of Italy, who's ranked below Seles in the world rankings, is the only player who's upset in the quarterfinals, a match that showed an attacking style can pressure Seles.

But the ability to raise Seles' game when necessary, demonstrated by her remarkable seven straight final appearances in Grand Slams, is the intangible that has taken Seles to the top and kept her there. Although the oddsmakers have installed her as the strong favorite here, she says the players ranked below her are capable of winning and providing constant pressure.

"I can't go on winning every tournament," Seles said. "I don't want that pressure on myself. If I do win it, that's great. If it doesn't, that's great too, as long as I play something I can't go on winning every game."

"Seles leads 8-3 in their head-to-head meetings and has won the last three, although she was down 9-7 in the third set.

The Yugoslav-born Florida resident surpassed $7 million in career earnings with her three-set victory over the 10th-seeded Sabatini of Argentina, while No. 5 Capriati of Italy, who's ranked below Seles in the world rankings, is the only player who's upset in the quarterfinals, a match that showed an attacking style can pressure Seles.

But the ability to raise Seles' game when necessary, demonstrated by her remarkable seven straight final appearances in Grand Slams, is the intangible that has taken Seles to the top and kept her there. Although the oddsmakers have installed her as the strong favorite here, she says the players ranked below her are capable of winning and providing constant pressure.

"I can't go on winning every tournament," Seles said. "I don't want that pressure on myself. If I do win it, that's great. If it doesn't, that's great too, as long as I play something I can't go on winning every game."

"Seles leads 8-3 in their head-to-head meetings and has won the last three, although she was down 9-7 in the third set.

The Yugoslav-born Florida resident surpassed $7 million in career earnings with her three-set victory over the 10th-seeded Sabatini of Argentina, while No. 5 Capriati of Italy, who's ranked below Seles in the world rankings, is the only player who's upset in the quarterfinals, a match that showed an attacking style can pressure Seles.

But the ability to raise Seles' game when necessary, demonstrated by her remarkable seven straight final appearances in Grand Slams, is the intangible that has taken Seles to the top and kept her there. Although the oddsmakers have installed her as the strong favorite here, she says the players ranked below her are capable of winning and providing constant pressure.
COWBOYS’ NO-NAME ‘D’ PREPARES TO STOP BILLS

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Just call it the “no-no” Super Bowl. It will be the Dallas Cowboys’ no-name defense against the Buffalo Bills’ no-huddle offense Sunday in the Rose Bowl.

“We’re famous for not being famous,” is the way linebacker Ken Norton Jr. puts it.

And that certainly holds true for the Cowboys’ tough defensive line, which shuttles players in and out to keep them fresh. The only “star” on the Dallas defense is pass rusher Charles Haley, who didn’t make the Pro Bowl either.

“We’re just a lot of blue collar workers on this team,” said Haley. “We’re into the team concept. We have a bunch of young players who don’t care about being big names."

The starting lineup, left end to right end, is: Tony Tolbert, left tackle Casillas, right tackle Russell Maryland and right end Haley. Then quickly coming in to provide fresh legs are Leon Lett, Jimmie Jones and Jim Jefco.

The Buffalo offensive line has seen the tapes and faces a tough 60 minutes.

“Everyone calls them small, but I don’t call 270-pound men small,” said Buffalo tackle Will Wolford. “They are quick and fast. They don’t hesitate. They come at you. They don’t say, ‘Hey, run over us.’ They keep moving.”

Casillas said the Cowboys don’t worry about a national recognition problem.

“We don’t care whether anybody recognizes our defense as long as we get size 11 Super Bowl rings after Sunday,” Casillas said. "It’s a fact we have the number one defense in the league. Someone must have done something right before we made the playoffs.”

Casillas said the August addition of Haley helped make the Cowboys click.

“He’s a great player and his presence on our team makes him a force,” Casillas said. "He brings the heat.”

Casillas said the lack of respect for the Dallas defense has been sort of a "slap in the face. But we know we’re for real.”

Casillas said he was most impressed with the Bills’ offensive line.

“They get bodies on bodies,” he said. “I think they do a great job.”

Although Maryland was a No. 1 draft pick, he has had trouble gaining respect.

“It doesn’t bother me,” Maryland said. “I lot of critics said I was undersized, but Coach (Dave) Wannstedt had confidence in me. He kept encouraging me. I think I’ve had my best games in the playoffs. I like being known as a playoff type of player.”

Dallas coach Jimmy Johnson is worried what the no-huddle offense might do to his defensive line.

“I noticed in the TV copy of the game against Miami there in the third quarter that the Miami players on defense were really gapping for air,” Johnson said. “It can absolutely wear down a defense because you’re not accustomed to going at that pace.”

Jeffcoat said the Cowboys’ defense wind up helping it contend against an aggressive Bills offensive line.

“We’re not going to get worn out,” Jeffcoat said. “In fact, I think we can wear down the Buffalo offensive line with our substitutions. Buffalo can’t just focus on Haley or Tolbert. I think this is an advantage we have.”

Wolford said he noticed the Cowboys play with fresh legs.

“They rotate a lot of players in and out, and when that ball moves they just fly across the line,” Wolford said.

IOWA CITY, IOWA (AP) — Iowa coach Tom Davis isn’t sure what to expect from his players, who are recovering from the death of forward Chris Street while getting ready to play Michigan State on Thursday night.

“How they respond to this is anybody’s guess,” Davis said. “We’ve just got to make some changes. You just don’t replace an individual like that.”

Street, a 6-foot-8 junior, was Iowa’s leading rebounder and No. 3 scorer. He was killed Jan. 19 in a traffic accident after a team meal at a local restaurant.

The 11th-ranked Hawkeyes (12-3 overall, 1-2 Big Ten) postponed games with Northwestern and Penn State last week. They haven’t played since a 65-56 loss at Duke on Jan. 16.

Davis said he may have to change his coaching style as he helps the players through their ordeal.

“I think I have to be just as calm as they can be. I want to drive them hard, push them hard and yet be understanding when they’re drifting and they can’t focus,” he said.

Michigan State (10-4, 2-3) is coming off a 67-66 loss to Wisconsin. Coach Jud Heathcote said his team also must put Street’s death aside and concentrate on finishing the season.

“Our share of the grief has been handled,” Heathcote said. "I don’t want to say that in an uncaring way. Chris was a coaches’ dream and a true competitor with a blue-collar work ethic.

“The players’ sorrow and grief occurred last week, and it really shook our guys up. I just talked with Tom Davis, and he said this has been a nightmare. But now it’s time to get back at what we need to do."}

Iowa leads the nation in rebounding and has a 15.9 scoring average. They haven’t played since a 65-56 loss at Duke on Jan. 16.

Davis said he’ll start 6-5 Wade Lookingbill or 6-8 Jay Webb, both seniors, in Street’s former spot. Lookingbill averages 4.9 points and 1.9 rebounds. Webb is 6-3 and 4.2.

The Iowa coach also said he’ll play 6-10 redshirt freshman Russ Millard, who is academically eligible this semester after sitting out 1 1/2 seasons.

Davis is looking for more production from 6-10 center Actie Earl. Earl leads the Hawkeyes with a 15.9 scoring average, but he’s averaging only 13.3 points and shooting just 37 percent over the last four games.

Davis said he even though he has enough players, Street still will be difficult to replace.

“We may not rebound as well. We may not play man-to-man as well,” he said. “I’ll have to see.”

Shawd Respert, Michigan State’s leading scorer with a 19.9 average, said he thinks Iowa will be emotionally ready to play.

“They’re going to come in and play hard for their reasons and we have to play hard for our reasons,” Respert said.

IOWA survives on Street’s spirit

IOWA CITY, IOWA (AP) — Iowa coach Tom Davis isn’t sure what to expect from his players, who are recovering from the death of forward Chris Street while getting ready to play Michigan State on Thursday night.

“How they respond to this is anybody’s guess,” Davis said. “We’ve just got to make some changes. You just don’t replace an individual like that.”

Street, a 6-foot-8 junior, was Iowa’s leading rebounder and No. 3 scorer. He was killed Jan. 19 in a traffic accident after a team meal at a local restaurant.

The 11th-ranked Hawkeyes (12-3 overall, 1-2 Big Ten) postponed games with Northwestern and Penn State last week. They haven’t played since a 65-56 loss at Duke on Jan. 16.

Davis said he may have to change his coaching style as he helps the players through their ordeal.

“I think I have to be just as calm as they can be. I want to drive them hard, push them hard and yet be understanding when they’re drifting and they can’t focus,” he said.

Michigan State (10-4, 2-3) is coming off a 67-66 loss to Wisconsin. Coach Jud Heathcote said his team also must put Street’s death aside and concentrate on finishing the season.

“Our share of the grief has been handled,” Heathcote said. "I don’t want to say that in an uncaring way. Chris was a coaches’ dream and a true competitor with a blue-collar work ethic.

“The players’ sorrow and grief occurred last week, and it really shook our guys up. I just talked with Tom Davis, and he said this has been a nightmare. But now it’s time to get back at what we need to do."
Cross Country ski equipment may be rented from RecSports at the Rock Thursday and Friday from 4:30-5:30 p.m. on Saturdays from 12-1 p.m. and Sunday 4:30-5:30 p.m. For more information, call RecSports at 631-6100.

The Notre Dame Martial Arts Institute will be having beginners practices on Thursday from 7-9 p.m. and Sunday from 12-1 p.m. at the Rock. No experience necessary. All are welcome. Advanced classes are Friday 6-8 p.m. and Saturday from 10-12 a.m. If you have questions, please call Laurie 634-4992.

Notre Dame Tae Kwon Do Club will be held Mondays and Thursdays at 7:30 in the JACC above Gae 4. Questions? Call Mark 634-7177.

Competitive volleyball is being played at the Rock on Mondays from 12-1:15 p.m. If you have questions, please call Mike 631-5899.

Cheerleading and leprechaun tryouts information meeting will be held February 8 at 7:30 p.m. in the Football Auditorium. The clinics start February 15.

The Cycling Team will hold an important meeting on February 2 in 123 Nieuwland at 9 p.m. Anyone interested in information is welcome. If you have questions, call Jean Carroll at 634-3438.

Fellowship of Christian Athletes will hold its weekly meeting tonight at 7 p.m. in the basement of Farley. All are welcome. Call E.D. at 634-1276 with questions.

P.E., B.P. undefeated in women's IH

By JEFF ENES
Sports Writer

Led by captain Kristina Rod- erick and point guard Angie Kueck, Pasquerilla East's women's inter-hall basketball team remained undefeated Tuesday night, beating Lewis 42-33. PEE moves to 30-0, while Lewis falls to 2-2.

In other games in the Blue division, Knott A spoiled Farley's attempts for their first victory, beating them 46-33. With the victory, Knott moves into second-place with a 3-1 record.

Bol's wife hits jackpot

NEW YORK (AP) — Manute Bol said his wife wanted to leave the casino just before she won nearly $500,000 on a "High Rollers" slot machine at the Trump Taj Mahal at Atlantic City, N.J.

"She played for awhile and was not winning, so she didn't want to play anymore," Bol said Tuesday night. "I gave her some $5 pieces and told her to keep playing. She was the first one to hit that machine. People had been playing it for more than a year, and she hit it.

Along Bol won $456,000 and a Mercedes-Benz, which was declined, giving her an additional $30,000. 76ers spokesperson Jody Silverman said Tuesday. The money will be paid over 20 years.

"High Rollers" is a game in which 33 slot machines at eight casinos are linked electronically. Chips worth $5 are needed to play the slot machine.

SMC comeback falls short vs. Albion

By NICOLE McGrath
Saint Mary's Sports Editor

So much for dramatic comebacks.

With the Belles losing by as much as 17 points, they recovered their fighting attitude only to lose to the Alban Britons, 64-62, in the last three minutes of the game.

"Our heads weren't in the game," said co-captain Kristen Crowdy.

Problems started for the Belles with Albion's defense closing down the inside lane forcing Saint Mary's to shoot outside, but the shots would not drop.

Freshman forward Jennifer Taubenheim was two-for-seven at the half. Meanwhile, Crowdy shot three-for-nine as the Belles' defense kept the score to 30-33 at the half.

Mary's fell behind late in the game and needed a free throw from Paul Horner to send the game to the extra period.

Falling behind quickly by four in the extra session, SMC dropped their first game of the season.

SMC comeback falls short vs. Albion

By NICOLE McGrath
Saint Mary's Sports Editor

So much for dramatic comebacks.

With the Belles losing by as much as 17 points, they recovered their fighting attitude only to lose to the Alban Britons, 64-62, in the last three minutes of the game.

"Our heads weren't in the game," said co-captain Kristen Crowdy.

Problems started for the Belles with Albion's defense closing down the inside lane forcing Saint Mary's to shoot outside, but the shots would not drop.

Crowdy shot three-for-nine as the Belles' defense kept the score to 30-33 at the half.

Mary's fell behind late in the game and needed a free throw from Paul Horner to send the game to the extra period.

Falling behind quickly by four in the extra session, SMC dropped their first game of the season.

SMC comeback falls short vs. Albion

By NICOLE McGrath
Saint Mary's Sports Editor

So much for dramatic comebacks.

With the Belles losing by as much as 17 points, they recovered their fighting attitude only to lose to the Alban Britons, 64-62, in the last three minutes of the game.

"Our heads weren't in the game," said co-captain Kristen Crowdy.

Problems started for the Belles with Albion's defense closing down the inside lane forcing Saint Mary's to shoot outside, but the shots would not drop.

Freshman forward Jennifer Taubenheim was two-for-seven at the half. Meanwhile, Crowdy shot three-for-nine as the Belles' defense kept the score to 30-33 at the half.

Mary's fell behind late in the game and needed a free throw from Paul Horner to send the game to the extra period.

Falling behind quickly by four in the extra session, SMC dropped their first game of the season.

SMC comeback falls short vs. Albion

By NICOLE McGrath
Saint Mary's Sports Editor

So much for dramatic comebacks.

With the Belles losing by as much as 17 points, they recovered their fighting attitude only to lose to the Alban Britons, 64-62, in the last three minutes of the game.

"Our heads weren't in the game," said co-captain Kristen Crowdy.

Problems started for the Belles with Albion's defense closing down the inside lane forcing Saint Mary's to shoot outside, but the shots would not drop.

Freshman forward Jennifer Taubenheim was two-for-seven at the half. Meanwhile, Crowdy shot three-for-nine as the Belles' defense kept the score to 30-33 at the half.

Mary's fell behind late in the game and needed a free throw from Paul Horner to send the game to the extra period.

Falling behind quickly by four in the extra session, SMC dropped their first game of the season.

SMC comeback falls short vs. Albion

By NICOLE McGrath
Saint Mary's Sports Editor

So much for dramatic comebacks.

With the Belles losing by as much as 17 points, they recovered their fighting attitude only to lose to the Alban Britons, 64-62, in the last three minutes of the game.

"Our heads weren't in the game," said co-captain Kristen Crowdy.

Problems started for the Belles with Albion's defense closing down the inside lane forcing Saint Mary's to shoot outside, but the shots would not drop.

Freshman forward Jennifer Taubenheim was two-for-seven at the half. Meanwhile, Crowdy shot three-for-nine as the Belles' defense kept the score to 30-33 at the half.

Mary's fell behind late in the game and needed a free throw from Paul Horner to send the game to the extra period.

Falling behind quickly by four in the extra session, SMC dropped their first game of the season.

SMC comeback falls short vs. Albion

By NICOLE McGrath
Saint Mary's Sports Editor

So much for dramatic comebacks.

With the Belles losing by as much as 17 points, they recovered their fighting attitude only to lose to the Alban Britons, 64-62, in the last three minutes of the game.

"Our heads weren't in the game," said co-captain Kristen Crowdy.

Problems started for the Belles with Albion's defense closing down the inside lane forcing Saint Mary's to shoot outside, but the shots would not drop.

Crowdy shot three-for-nine as the Belles' defense kept the score to 30-33 at the half.

Mary's fell behind late in the game and needed a free throw from Paul Horner to send the game to the extra period.

Falling behind quickly by four in the extra session, SMC dropped their first game of the season.

SMC comeback falls short vs. Albion

By NICOLE McGrath
Saint Mary's Sports Editor

So much for dramatic comebacks.

With the Belles losing by as much as 17 points, they recovered their fighting attitude only to lose to the Alban Britons, 64-62, in the last three minutes of the game.

"Our heads weren't in the game," said co-captain Kristen Crowdy.

Problems started for the Belles with Albion's defense closing down the inside lane forcing Saint Mary's to shoot outside, but the shots would not drop.

Crowdy shot three-for-nine as the Belles' defense kept the score to 30-33 at the half.

Mary's fell behind late in the game and needed a free throw from Paul Horner to send the game to the extra period.

Falling behind quickly by four in the extra session, SMC dropped their first game of the season.

SMC comeback falls short vs. Albion

By NICOLE McGrath
Saint Mary's Sports Editor

So much for dramatic comebacks.

With the Belles losing by as much as 17 points, they recovered their fighting attitude only to lose to the Alban Britons, 64-62, in the last three minutes of the game.

"Our heads weren't in the game," said co-captain Kristen Crowdy.

Problems started for the Belles with Albion's defense closing down the inside lane forcing Saint Mary's to shoot outside, but the shots would not drop.

Crowdy shot three-for-nine as the Belles' defense kept the score to 30-33 at the half.

Mary's fell behind late in the game and needed a free throw from Paul Horner to send the game to the extra period.

Falling behind quickly by four in the extra session, SMC dropped their first game of the season.
CALVIN AND HOBBES

The secret to making great hot chocolate is to put the tiny marshmallows in first.

So they can't melt faster.

No, so you can't eat it.

This way. The hot chocolate just fills in the cracks.

I wondered why you eat it with a fork.

Also I don't use milk. I just melt the syrup.

"You're not fooling me, Ned... Taking a long walk on the beach sounds romantic, but I know you're just looking for crustaceans."

---

ANSWER TO PREVIOUS PUZZLE

CROSSWORD

ACROSS

32 Dawn goddess 34 Lounge 35 Tony's cousin 36 Peter the pianist 39 Bishop's manager 41 Entry for song or gait 42 Historic time 43 ——-— ordinate 44 What action de... to shining 45 Lab burner 46 Turnover of songbird 47 Fabric stretcher? 48 Evidences of... in a way 49 Ovid's... Lady of Guadalupe, 50 Robert of comedy 51 Ade's snowshopper 52 Lab burner 53 Fox path lead in 54 Describing 43 Across 58 What a buffet is 62 Prescription

DOWN

1 Zulu band 2 Assless analw 3 Delivery man 4 So there! 5 Sandy utterance 6 Less upright 7 Sometimes... the trees hide it 8 Rescued words 9 Cuts off 10 "Essay on Man" author 11 Type of tenderloin 12 —— once 13 Cattle kicker 14 Johnathan snowshopper 15 Thirty days 16 Squares of a sort 17 TV undesirable effect 18 Explosive 19 Burning coal 20 Path lead in 21 Describing 43 Across

CAMPUS

LECTURES

THE FAR SIDE

STUDENT UNION BOARD

Acoustic Cafe

Every Thursday night

9:00 pm - midnight

Lafortune basement lounge

Notre Dame

Hawaiian Beach Bash

Marinated Pork Loin

Pasta Primavera

Saint Mary's

Chicken in the Pot

Yankeet Pot Roast

Turbot Almondine
Missouri dumps Notre Dame, 73-57

COLUMBIA, Mo. (AP) — Mark Atkins came off the bench to score 17 iris, and key a second-half rally as Missouri defeated cold-shooting Notre Dame 73-57 Wednesday night.

Atkins, who lost his starting job after going 0-for-11 against Memphis State last Thursday, had 10 of his points after halftime as Missouri (13-4) pulled away from a two-point lead. Atkins has scored in double figures in both games since losing his starting job, getting 10 points against Oklahoma State on Sunday.

Jevon Crudup added 16 points and Melvin Booker had 13 as Missouri won with its 10th different starting lineup of the season.

Billy Taylor had 15 points for Notre Dame (8-5). Monty Williams, Notre Dame's leading scorer with a 78-point average, had the Irish's first six points but didn't score again until late in the second half and finished with only 11.

Missouri coach Norm Stewart is 5-1 against Notre Dame.

Notre Dame shot only 31.1 percent (19-61). The Irish, playing its eighth game in 11 games, have lost three of their last four.

Missouri led 33-31 at the half and was ahead only 43-42 with 12:08 to play when Atkins and Booker hit consecutive 3-pointers to start a 11-0 run. A turnaround jumper by Crudup with 9.50 to play and 54-42 and Notre Dame never got any closer than nine points of the rest of the way.

Notre Dame took an early 10-6 lead before Atkins scored seven points in its next four possessions.

Missouri stretched the lead to 29-18 before Notre Dame scored 10 straight points to make it close at the half.

Women's hoops hopes to bounce back vs. Evansville

In college basketball, there is no time to dwell on a tough loss. Another game, another opportunity is right around the corner.

That's the situation the Notre Dame women's basketball team faces tonight. After a 71-55 loss to DePaul on Monday, the Irish had to rebound quickly for tonight's Midwestern Collegiate Conference game at Evansville.

The Irish played ten minutes of brilliant basketball to erase a big DePaul lead in the second half on Monday. But they faltered down the stretch and the Blue Demons handed them a stinging defeat.

"The second half run (against DePaul) gave us some confidence," Irish coach Muffet McGraw said. "If we put it together for 40 minutes we can beat anyone."

They will need 40 minutes of good play to knock off MCC rival Evansville. The Purple Aces are 12-4 overall and 3-2 in the conference, just one game behind Notre Dame.

Evansville sophomore Tricia Delfondell gave the Irish fits last season... Notre Dame easily won both contests, but the 5'7" guard averaged 16 points against Gardner-Webb.

Senior Christy Greis, a daunting presence inside at 6'4", is the MCC's rebounding and blocked shots leader, averaging 13.1 boards per game and 2.5 blocks per game.

Junior guard Amy Lefever balances Greis' outside attack with a 44 percent clip from behind the three-point line to lead the MCC.

"They are a very balanced team," McGraw said. "They have some big people inside and they shoot the three very well and they shoot it a lot."

Loisia Brown, Notre Dame's main inside threat, is hobbled with a bruised foot and senior guard Coquese Washington is nursing a knee problem. Both are expected to play, but they haven't been able to practice in recent days.

The Irish won't have any time to rest after the Evansville game. MCC leader Butler, who lost only by six to No. 25 Kentucky, awaits on Saturday.

"Butler is another team with great balance," McGraw explained. "It is difficult to play down there and they will be ready for us."

Forsyth invited to Rolex Tennis Championships

Senior Will Forsyth has been invited to the 1993 Rolex National Indoor Intercollegiate Championships, the third leg of the Intercollegiate Tennis Association (ITA) Collegiate Grand Slam.

Forsyth, who is currently ranked 19th in the ITA National Rankings, qualified for the tournament by finishing 10th in the Rolex Midwest Regional singles title last fall.

"Will's definitely earned it," said Irish coach Bobby Bayliss.

The tournament is the premiere of the winter collegiate season and will be played Feb. 4-7 in Minneapolis.

The field consists of 32 singles players and 16 doubles teams. Invitations were based on Regional winners, last year's top ranked players, winners of the first two Collegiate Grand Slam events and at-large and wild-card selections.

"Will's game is well suited for this tournament," said Bayliss. "He's got a penetrating forehand and a strong lefty serve. He likes the pace of indoor tennis."

Nine of the top ten players in the country will be in the tournament, including top-ranked Daniel Couriel of Mississippi State.

Dave Dittrich, a '92 Notre Dame graduate, played in the tournament the past two seasons.

The event was inaugurated in 1978 and will be played in Minneapolis for the sixth straight year.