Yugoslavia receives aid, no Sarajevo

SARAJEVO, Bosnia-Herzegovina (AP) — A U.N. convoy held up for days by hostile Serbs and mined roads finally delivered food to a besieged eastern town on Sunday, but there was still no aid distribution in shattered Sarajevo.

A unilateral, nationwide cease-fire called Saturday by Bosnia's Muslim president, Alija Izetbegovic, appeared to be holding around the capital, but already was fraying elsewhere.

As the commander of U.N. peacekeepers in Bosnia headed for consultations with Bosnian Serb leaders to try to consolidate the truce, at least 18 people were reported killed in fighting in northern and eastern Bosnia.

Muslims, Serbs and Croats were all reported to be moving troops or digging in for more fighting around the former Yugoslav republic.

Efforts to deliver aid to besieged enclaves in eastern Bosnia have come to a halt in elections within the United Nations and have been frustrated by political reasons by Serbs and the Muslim-led Bosnian government.

The U.N. high commissioner for refugees, Sadako Ogata, canceled a trip to most of Bosnia last week, frustrated that Serbs were blocking convoys in the east and that city authorities in Sarajevo were refusing to deliver relief unless U.N. convoys got past the Serbs.

On Friday, U.N. Secretary-General Boutros Boutros-Ghali rebuked Ogata and rescinded her order. Ogata said Sunday in Geneva she had received assurances from the warring factions that they would not hinder shipments.

Her office said full aid operations could be restored as early as Monday.

The U.N.-escorted convoy of 10 Belgian aid trucks carrying flour, other food and medicine arrived in Cetinje on Saturday afternoon to a "tumultuous welcome," said Tanja Land, head of U.N. relief operations in Sarajevo.

SMC participates in little siblings weekend

By LAURA FERGUSON
News Writer

While students on the Notre Dame campus participated in Junior Parents Weekend activities this past weekend, students on the Saint Mary's campus spent time with their younger brothers and sisters during Little Siblings Weekend.

This annual event, sponsored by the Residence Hall Association, gave students the opportunity to spend time with their younger brothers and sisters away from home, according to coordinator Katrina Winiacki.

Activities for the weekend included recreation time in the Angela Athletic Facility and the Regina swimming pool, t-shirt decorating, watching Saturday night movies, canoe trips to the marsh and a "Beauty and the Beast" and "The Sibs."
Diversity might be essential to ND's future

Is true cultural diversity possible at a university like Notre Dame?

Is it really possible for people of many races, traditions, and religions to build relationships that transcend the university's familiar Catholic, white, and male? A University that is in many ways prides itself in being just that?

At the heart of the discussion over cultural diversity issues lies the question of whether Notre Dame would lose something essential if the University were to become more diverse—a diversity in environment in which people of varied backgrounds can gather and live and learn together.

In fact, that is the core of what any university should be. Or at least what a national Catholic university should be.

In fact, Notre Dame has done much to increase minority enrollment over the past five years, from 8.9 percent of the freshman class in 1986 to 14 percent in 1989. Last year, almost 14 percent of all incoming freshmen were minorities.

But is the University any more diverse? Has this increase had any impact on the average Notre Dame student?

Notre Dame is pouring millions and millions of dollars into research, financial aid, and programs intended to promote diversity, but how has this investment affected students' attitudes?

There are programs organized to have such an impact. Take, for example, student government's prejudice reduction workshop for 75 students, faculty and staff, or the "Learning to Talk About Racism" retreat for 20 sophomores. These programs are part of a trend of smaller, voluntary programs that reach out to a only a few students.

The benefits are obvious. Smaller programs allow for intensive study of attitudes and create advocates for cultural diversity, allowing students to take what they can from the experience and spread it to others. And because they are voluntary, students are open to learn.

But the question remains. Can administrators or rectors or student leaders or cultural diversity forums change the attitudes of average students? Can random contact, financial aid and programs intended to promote diversity change the attitudes of students to the same forces as other Americans, and they bring what they have learned, good and bad, to the University community?

The fact is that a move toward diversity will change not only the University, but its tradition as well. It is not isolated from the rest of the nation. Its situation is similar to the same forces as other Americans, and they bring what they have learned, good and bad, to the University community.

In fact, the University community must be a leader in this area. It is not isolated from the rest of the nation. Its situation is similar to the same forces as other Americans, and they bring what they have learned, good and bad, to the University community.

The best the University can do is promote opportunities and create an environment in which questions can be asked. And, hopefully, answered.

All universities face a unique environment, it is not isolated from the rest of the nation. Its situation is similar to the same forces as other Americans, and they bring what they have learned, good and bad, to the University community.

The views expressed in the Inside Column are those of the author and not necessarily those of The Observer.
Elevated trains collide in Chicago, 35 injured

CHICAGO (AP) — Two Chicago Transit Authority trains collided inside a new tunnel Sunday on the first day of a route realignment, and 35 people were taken to hospitals, one with a serious injury.

CTA officials were inaugurating a $187 million realignment of train routes to connect two of the system's heavily used lines when the accident occurred at about mid-afternoon.

A southbound train on the new Howard-Dan Ryan line entered the 4,400-foot tunnel the Chinatown area on the South Side and rear-ended another train that was stopped inside a new tunnel, said CTA spokesman Jeff Stern.

Thirty-five people were taken to area hospitals, most with minor injuries.

"It was almost like a bump," Stern said.

He said the second train was traveling slowly. Both sustained only minor damage and moved out of the tunnel under their own power, Stern said.

He said the drivers of both trains were being questioned and tested for drugs and alcohol, as is routine. He refused to speculate on a cause for the crash.

A 22-year-old man was listed in serious condition at Northwestern Memorial Hospital with possible neck and back injuries, said nursing supervisor Shirley Jackson, who refused to give the man's until his family was notified.

Other train passengers were transported to various hospitals as a precautionary measure and were listed in fair to good condition.

Under the realignment, the CTA disconnected the heavily used Howard line on the North Side from the lesser used Jackson Park-Englewood line on the South Side and instead made the Howard line feed into the heavily used Dan Ryan line on the South Side.

Los Angeles (AP) — An internal police report on the videotaped beating of Rodney King says civilian witnesses reported seeing King comply with officers' orders before he was beaten, a newspaper reported Sunday.

Nine witnesses told investigators that King did not exhibit the bizarre behavior officers on the scene described, and that he did not appear to be uncontrollable as the police said.

"It seemed to me he was obeying orders," said Dorothy Shimes, a nurse who lives in an apartment building across the street from where King was stopped after leading officers on a freeway chase.

"They told him to get down on the ground, and I looked and saw him on the ground with his arms spread out," Shimes told the Pasadena Star-News.

Shimes lives in an apartment below George Holliday, who videotaped the beating in suburban Lake View Terrace. She said one of the officers appeared out of control to her.

"He was beating him like you'd use a broom to kill a mouse — taking baseball swings at him," she said.

Police spokeswoman Francine Spada declined to comment on the newspaper's account. She said she didn't have access to the police report, which was prepared by the department's internal affairs section.

Shimes' account matches that of other citizen witnesses, including a bus driver who was stopped behind the police cars that surrounded King after the freeway chase, the newspaper said.

"King went down to the ground without resistance and was giving himself up," driver Javier Martinez told the newspaper through an interpreter.

The contributions made by African Americans to our national culture and that of the world can be seen wherever we look. The Hammes Notre Dame Bookstore is proud to present a selection of books representing these contributions from precolonial Africa through slave narratives and the civil rights movements. We invite you to join us in sharing the experiences and inspirations of the African American people.

The Hammes NOTRE DAME BOOKSTORE
"on the campus"
Open Monday Through Saturday 9a.m. - 5p.m.

The Observer/Brian McDonough

Help, Call 911
Notre Dame students polish up their skills in the Basic Life Support class on Sunday night at Rockne Memorial. Classes are offered throughout the semester.
Toward integrating mind and body

Spend

Santa Monica.

of hope for decades, is now un­

try, which has been the decision was to boycott

dent Mustafa

ern Bosnian officials to end a

about the decision of stopping

Serb

Sarajevo despite appeals to the

Bush's government and east­

Princess

 Muslims are short of food in

Aid

apparently had enough of a

In

that emotional states play an important role in helps people with cancer understand the experience of

Wounded Healers

In the recovery process, and in leads physical health.

Webster University School of

The

model of medical care

The

is

FETZER

INSTITUTE

U.S. officials estimate 100,000

N.Y., Clinton said he backs a

The

broke in

The

We will think very seriously about the decision of stopping

City Council Pres­

land said that although get­

U.N. engineers were trying to

Serb
dominated Yugoslavia.

Serb
tells here for

 Serga last week despite

Bosnian government sources

depressed government forces.

Serb

Serb

Bosnia's secession from landed 40,000 troops to truce was called to help

The Observer

is now accepting applications for the following position:

Design Editor

Contact Jeanne Blasi

at 1-5303 for more information.

The mind... Is it all in your head?

Healing and the Mind with Bill Moyers

Premieres TONIGHT on WNIT Television

A new PBS series shows the scientific community grappling with the connection between mind and body. In addition, Fr. David Burrell moderates a local segment 10:30 pm on WNIT, Thursday at 6:30 pm at the Center for Continuing Education, watch an excerpt and join in the discussion following. For more information call 674-5961.

MONDAY, 9:00 - 11:00 pm
The Mystery of Chi In Beijing and Sanghai, explore traditional Chinese medicine. The Mind Body Connection Medical professionals struggle to understand how thoughts, emotions, and even personalities can affect physical health. TUESDAY, 10:00 - 11:30 pm Healing From Within: A profile of two therapies that involve neither drugs nor surgery. The Stress Reduction Clinic at the University of Chicago Medical Center teaches relaxation techniques to patients, while the Stanford University School of Medicine shows how group psychotherapy may prolong life. TUESDAY, 10:30 - 11:00 pm Healing and the Mind: A Michiana Perspective. David Burrell, CHA, Theodore Heschong PhD, and Geroy Stup, MD, lead health care professionals in a discussion about a new orientation in the medical field-- toward integrating mind and body in the recovery process, and in health maintenance. WEDNESDAY 9:00 - 11:00 pm The Art of Healing: A model of medical care based on the idea that emotional states play an important role in people’s vulnerability to disease. Wounded Healers Commonweal is a retreat in California that helps people with cancer understand the experience of illness as a part of life.

Laura Campbell

Editor

The Observer

Monday, February 22, 1993

Stalking charges filed against man who killed his wife

HAMBROOK, Ind. (AP) — Fear of her estranged husband drove Lori King to seek protection under Indiana's stalking law last fall. But the 39-year-old woman apparently had enough of a change of heart to meet him last Friday in Chicago Ridge to talk about visits with their children. Within an hour, she was dead.

Police said Wayne King, 30, killed his former wife with three .38-caliber bullets to the head while his 3-year-old son watched.

King killed himself early Saturday with a shotgun after being stopped by an Indiana state trooper in Hammond for driving too slowly on an

Chicago Ridge police. The handgun they believed was used to kill his wife was found in the car, police said.

The woman's family and friends said King had a record of threatening and assaulitng his former wife. The Cook County state's attorney's office filed stalking charges against the man in November. He was free on $200,000 bond, said his lawyer, Matthew Walsh.

"This could have been avoided if the courts would have done what they were supposed to do," said Peter Krull, the victim's father. "(His lawyer just made a mockery of the law, limited defense forces after continuance. And this is what it brings.

Lawyers say such delays are common. A case often takes six months to a year before coming to trial, said Reg Priestly.

Aid

continued from page 1

U.N. officials estimate 100,000 Muslims are short of food in eastern areas surrounding bySerbs.

No food was distributed in Sarajevo despite appeals to the city council by Tarzegovic, Bosnian's government and eastern Bosnian officials to end a boycott of U.N. aid called on

Feb. 12 in solidarity with the eastern enclaves.

"We will think very seriously about the decision of stopping the boycott," City Council Presdent Mustafa Pumuk said on

Bosnian radio before the convoys reached Zepa. "Our decision was to boycott deliveries until food gets to

Sibs

continued from page 1

Princess Bride" on video.

I think that the T-shirt

$76 billion in defense spending cuts every four years in his new economic package.

On finding ways to transform defense industries to civilian jobs, Clinton said: "I'm going to stop talking about conversion and start doing something about it."

Noting the Boeing layoffs in a speech Friday in Hyde Park,

N.Y., Clinton said he backs a

"new technology policy" to help revitalize industries that had been dependent on military contracts.

"We know that aerospace jobs are growing in number worldwide—high-wage jobs. And we eat here for 10 years and let

Europe put $26 billion into an

Airbus program, direct government subsidies, to throw Boeing workers, McDonnell

Douglas workers and ather aerospace workers in America out of work because we said, 'Well, we don't practice those kind of partnerships.'"

"So we've got to face the fact that we've taken a new direction," Clinton said, and hinted at new government-industry, corporations.

Serbian radio claimed Serb forces were massing troops

around western Sarajevo and the northeastern governmentfeld city of Tuzla, apparently in preparation for a major offen­sive.

Sources close to the Bosnian army's Sarajevo command said the few tanks that Serbs do have would not be able to move to the western suburbs to prevent any

Serb breakthrough in Stup, a key government position and a gateway to Sarajevo proper.

Tank barriers were erected around the city's television building.

There also were reports of clashes and rising tension between Bosnian Croats and Muslim-led government forces in parts of central Bosnia, underscoring the fragility of their alliance against the Serb forces.

The Observer

is now accepting applications for the following position:

Design Editor

Contact Jeanne Blasi

at 1-5303 for more information.

WHIT3 Television

Watch and experience

Healing and the Mind with Bill Moyers

Premieres TONIGHT on WNIT Television

A new PBS series shows the scientific community grappling with the connection between mind and body. In addition, Fr. David Burrell moderates a local segment 10:30 pm on WNIT, Thursday at 6:30 pm at the Center for Continuing Education, watch an excerpt and join in the discussion following. For more information call 674-5961.

MONDAY, 9:00 - 11:00 pm
The Mystery of Chi In Beijing and Sanghai, explore traditional Chinese medicine. The Mind Body Connection Medical professionals struggle to understand how thoughts, emotions, and even personalities can affect physical health. TUESDAY, 10:00 - 11:30 pm Healing From Within: A profile of two therapies that involve neither drugs nor surgery. The Stress Reduction Clinic at the University of Chicago Medical Center teaches relaxation techniques to patients, while the Stanford University School of Medicine shows how group psychotherapy may prolong life. TUESDAY, 10:30 - 11:00 pm Healing and the Mind: A Michiana Perspective. David Burrell, CHA, Theodore Heschong PhD, and Geroy Stup, MD, lead health care professionals in a discussion about a new orientation in the medical field— toward integrating mind and body in the recovery process, and in health maintenance. WEDNESDAY 9:00 - 11:00 pm The Art of Healing: A model of medical care based on the idea that emotional states play an important role in people's vulnerability to disease. Wounded Healers Commonweal is a retreat in California that helps people with cancer understand the experience of illness as a part of life.

Laura Campbell

Publisher
The Observer

Panetta doubts major changes will be made in Clinton's plan

WASHINGTON (AP) — White House Budget Director Leon Panetta said Sunday he expects Congress to alter President Clinton's deficit-reduction plan, but doubts lawmakers will offer any major spending cuts that have a chance of passing.

"There will be some changes," said Panetta, who heads the Office of Management and Budget. "But I think the fundamental principles that are built into the economic plan are going to hold together and pass the Congress."

Answering questions on NBC's "Meet the Press," Panetta, former chairman of the House Budget Committee, invited members of Congress to propose specific additional spending reductions if they don't think Clinton's plan goes far enough.

"But I think the problem is that people, deep down, in the Congress can talk a good line on deficit reduction, but won't propose anything specific that really has much chance of passing," he said.

Sen. Orrin H. Hatch, R-Utah, said on CNN's "Newsmaker Sunday" he has prepared a list of spending changes that would save $216 billion. He would not make the list public but said the biggest savings would come from Medicare, Medicaid, food stamps, Head Start and similar programs.

Clinton's plan, which he spelled out in a nationally broadcast address to Congress on Wednesday, includes business tax incentives and public spending to stimulate the economy in the short run. The strong medicine comes in the form of tax increases and spending cuts aimed at reducing the budget deficit by $325 billion over the next four years, including the $140 billion reduction Clinton pledged in 1997.

TALK OF THE PLAN

TREASURY SECRETARY Lloyd Bentsen raised the possibility that the proposed income tax increases might not be retroactive to Jan. 1, as the president said.

"We're not sure on that one," Bentsen said on ABC's "This Week With David Brinkley." He noted it will be difficult for Congress to complete action on the tax proposals before July, implying the increases might kick in then.

The income tax increases would hit only single people making over about $140,000 a year, couples above $180,000, the 20 percent of Social Security retirees with the highest incomes, and corporations.

The plan's only tax increase on middle-income families is a new levy on most energy sources, beginning July 1, 1994.

House Republican Whip Newt Gingrich of Georgia said on "Meet the Press" there is virtually no chance the plan will pass Congress intact. Democrats may be able to push it through the House, he said, but "by the time it gets to the Senate, the country will have rebelled so much, there will be so much anger and so many people seeing their senators, that large parts of this package will be taken apart."

Senate Republican Leader Bob Dole of Kansas said an initial display of strong public support for Clinton's program has vanished. "Our phone calls went from about 400 to 2-1 against the program," Dole said.

Money might create temporary jobs slots

WASHINGTON (AP) — People looking to snag one of the 50,000 to 60,000 jobs rebuilding the nation's cities under President Clinton's economic plan should be prepared to work for a short time, maybe for low pay.

Clinton's plan sets aside $2.5 billion in community development block grants, handed out by the Department of Housing and Urban Development. The money is to be used for public works projects tabbed by cash-poor local governments.

Those projects, according to Clinton's plan, would make enough work to give people a little extra spending money and boost the economy. It's up to the cities to decide which projects to spend the grant money on.

The mayors of 470 cities came up with 107,083 eligible projects, worth $3.5 billion. They say these projects could start within 120 days and be completed by December. Most of the projects would need small crews, mainly 25 people or fewer to work for about one month, the mayors say.

Many of these projects involve paving roads, rebuilding sidewalks and bus stops, sprucing up recreation centers and playgrounds — things that many cities could use public works employees to do.

Michael Nall, who monitors community development issues for the National Association of Housing and Redevelopment Officials in Washington, said the plan could mislead some people into thinking the projects will be a large number of full-time positions available.

"That's always the problem when you talk about job creation," Nall said. "They could be low- to moderate-income jobs, service workers. The monies could be used to support existing staff. Still, regardless of the types of jobs, there will be a ripple effect on the economy."

Housing Secretary Henry Cisneros said he wants to make sure that the cities use the money for new jobs, rather than other needs.

WASHINGTON (AP) — People looking to snag one of the 50,000 to 60,000 jobs rebuilding the nation's cities under President Clinton's economic plan should be prepared to work for a short time, maybe for low pay.

Clinton's plan sets aside $2.5 billion in community development block grants, handed out by the Department of Housing and Urban Development. The money is to be used for public works projects tabbed by cash-poor local governments.

Those projects, according to Clinton's plan, would make enough work to give people a little extra spending money and boost the economy. It's up to the cities to decide which projects to spend the grant money on.

The mayors of 470 cities came up with 107,083 eligible projects, worth $3.5 billion. They say these projects could start within 120 days and be completed by December. Most of the projects would need small crews, mainly 25 people or fewer to work for about one month, the mayors say.

Many of these projects involve paving roads, rebuilding sidewalks and bus stops, sprucing up recreation centers and playgrounds — things that many cities could use public works employees to do.

Michael Nall, who monitors community development issues for the National Association of Housing and Redevelopment Officials in Washington, said the plan could mislead some people into thinking the projects will be a large number of full-time positions available.

"That's always the problem when you talk about job creation," Nall said. "They could be low- to moderate-income jobs, service workers. The monies could be used to support existing staff. Still, regardless of the types of jobs, there will be a ripple effect on the economy."

Housing Secretary Henry Cisneros said he wants to make sure that the cities use the money for new jobs, rather than other needs.

WASHINGTON (AP) — People looking to snag one of the 50,000 to 60,000 jobs rebuilding the nation's cities under President Clinton's economic plan should be prepared to work for a short time, maybe for low pay.

Clinton's plan sets aside $2.5 billion in community development block grants, handed out by the Department of Housing and Urban Development. The money is to be used for public works projects tabbed by cash-poor local governments.

Those projects, according to Clinton's plan, would make enough work to give people a little extra spending money and boost the economy. It's up to the cities to decide which projects to spend the grant money on.

The mayors of 470 cities came up with 107,083 eligible projects, worth $3.5 billion. They say these projects could start within 120 days and be completed by December. Most of the projects would need small crews, mainly 25 people or fewer to work for about one month, the mayors say.

Many of these projects involve paving roads, rebuilding sidewalks and bus stops, sprucing up recreation centers and playgrounds — things that many cities could use public works employees to do.

Michael Nall, who monitors community development issues for the National Association of Housing and Redevelopment Officials in Washington, said the plan could mislead some people into thinking the projects will be a large number of full-time positions available.

"That's always the problem when you talk about job creation," Nall said. "They could be low- to moderate-income jobs, service workers. The monies could be used to support existing staff. Still, regardless of the types of jobs, there will be a ripple effect on the economy."

Housing Secretary Henry Cisneros said he wants to make sure that the cities use the money for new jobs, rather than other needs.

WASHINGTON (AP) — People looking to snag one of the 50,000 to 60,000 jobs rebuilding the nation's cities under President Clinton's economic plan should be prepared to work for a short time, maybe for low pay.

Clinton's plan sets aside $2.5 billion in community development block grants, handed out by the Department of Housing and Urban Development. The money is to be used for public works projects tabbed by cash-poor local governments.

Those projects, according to Clinton's plan, would make enough work to give people a little extra spending money and boost the economy. It's up to the cities to decide which projects to spend the grant money on.

The mayors of 470 cities came up with 107,083 eligible projects, worth $3.5 billion. They say these projects could start within 120 days and be completed by December. Most of the projects would need small crews, mainly 25 people or fewer to work for about one month, the mayors say.

Many of these projects involve paving roads, rebuilding sidewalks and bus stops, sprucing up recreation centers and playgrounds — things that many cities could use public works employees to do.

Michael Nall, who monitors community development issues for the National Association of Housing and Redevelopment Officials in Washington, said the plan could mislead some people into thinking the projects will be a large number of full-time positions available.

"That's always the problem when you talk about job creation," Nall said. "They could be low- to moderate-income jobs, service workers. The monies could be used to support existing staff. Still, regardless of the types of jobs, there will be a ripple effect on the economy."

Housing Secretary Henry Cisneros said he wants to make sure that the cities use the money for new jobs, rather than other needs.

WASHINGTON (AP) — People looking to snag one of the 50,000 to 60,000 jobs rebuilding the nation's cities under President Clinton's economic plan should be prepared to work for a short time, maybe for low pay.

Clinton's plan sets aside $2.5 billion in community development block grants, handed out by the Department of Housing and Urban Development. The money is to be used for public works projects tabbed by cash-poor local governments.

Those projects, according to Clinton's plan, would make enough work to give people a little extra spending money and boost the economy. It's up to the cities to decide which projects to spend the grant money on.

The mayors of 470 cities came up with 107,083 eligible projects, worth $3.5 billion. They say these projects could start within 120 days and be completed by December. Most of the projects would need small crews, mainly 25 people or fewer to work for about one month, the mayors say.

Many of these projects involve paving roads, rebuilding sidewalks and bus stops, sprucing up recreation centers and playgrounds — things that many cities could use public works employees to do.

Michael Nall, who monitors community development issues for the National Association of Housing and Redevelopment Officials in Washington, said the plan could mislead some people into thinking the projects will be a large number of full-time positions available.

"That's always the problem when you talk about job creation," Nall said. "They could be low- to moderate-income jobs, service workers. The monies could be used to support existing staff. Still, regardless of the types of jobs, there will be a ripple effect on the economy."

Housing Secretary Henry Cisneros said he wants to make sure that the cities use the money for new jobs, rather than other needs.
Heavy snow in Rockies, 5 missing

ATLANTA (AP) — The Federal Emergency Management Agency (FEMA) has released a new report on the extent of damage caused by Colorado avalanches this winter. According to the report, more than 650 people were injured in Colorado avalanches this season, the highest number of injuries in recent years. The report also notes that the cost of damages, including property and medical expenses, is estimated to be around $1 billion.

Weather Service looks to improve weather forecasts

WASHINGTON (AP) — The outlook for America's weather forecasts is improving, according to the National Weather Service. The agency said it has made significant improvements in its models and algorithms, and the accuracy of forecasts is expected to continue to rise in the coming years. The National Weather Service said it is working to incorporate new data and technologies, such as satellite imagery and remote sensing, to improve its forecasts.

Colorado is nation's worst avalanche area

DENVER (AP) — Beyond the groomed slopes of Colorado's ski resorts, undisturbed powder and ice promise a "natural high" for climbers, skiers, snowmobilers and others who want to test their skills against nature. But the Colorado backcountry also is the deadliest avalanche area in the nation, says Scott Toepfer of the Colorado Avalanche Information Center. The state is on its way to a record number of avalanche deaths this season, and that has renewed a debate over whether more restrictions should be placed on backcountry access in the winter.

The village of Hadar, Neb., about 10 miles northwest of Norfork, had gotten 13 inches of snow Friday night, and the National Weather Service said because snow on the mountainsides was so unstable, officials said.

"We can't risk more lives," said Debbie Kendrick of the Pikitkin County Sheriff's office. The missing skiers set out Sunday, camped overnight and were to return Saturday. Two others had left with them but took a different route. The backcountry also is the deadliest avalanche area in the nation, says Scott Toepfer of the Colorado Avalanche Information Center. The state is on its way to a record number of avalanche deaths this season, and that has renewed a debate over whether more restrictions should be placed on backcountry access in the winter.

The village of Hadar, Neb., about 10 miles northwest of Norfork, had gotten 13 inches of snow Friday night, and the National Weather Service said because snow on the mountainsides was so unstable, officials said.

"We can't risk more lives," said Debbie Kendrick of the Pikitkin County Sheriff's office. The missing skiers set out Sunday, camped overnight and were to return Saturday. Two others had left with them but took a different route. The backcountry also is the deadliest avalanche area in the nation, says Scott Toepfer of the Colorado Avalanche Information Center. The state is on its way to a record number of avalanche deaths this season, and that has renewed a debate over whether more restrictions should be placed on backcountry access in the winter.

The village of Hadar, Neb., about 10 miles northwest of Norfork, had gotten 13 inches of snow Friday night, and the National Weather Service said because snow on the mountainsides was so unstable, officials said. The missing skiers set out Sunday, camped overnight and were to return Saturday. Two others had left with them but took a different route.

The network includes a fleet of 100 hand-held radios built a bomb shelter at the Federal Emergency Management Agency had budgeted about $12 was spent on these equipment was stationed between Vail and Copper Mountain.

Five cross-country skiers were missing near Aspen, Colo., a day after two avalanches thundered down near the exclusive resort town, and dozens of people were stranded in crevasses.

The avalanche hazard was rated extreme Sunday for the mountains west of the Bridger Teton Pass and Crested Butte, according to the Colorado Avalanche Information Center. More than 268 avalanches had been reported Friday as a warning went into effect Saturday.

Blowing snow prevented an air rescue attempt of a man from being used in the search for the missing skiers. Ground teams could not venture into the area.

Report: FEMA ready for war, not disaster

ATLANTA (AP) — The Federal Emergency Management Agency (FEMA), responsible for providing aid during natural disasters, has spent a large portion of its money over the past decade on a top-secret program to enable the government to survive a nuclear attack, according to a report published Sunday. A six-month investigation by Cox Newspapers concluded that for every dollar FEMA spent on relief activities, $30 was spent on the secret program, which was built around a vast communications network. The network includes a fleet of 300 vehicles in five mobile units scattered from Washington state to Massachusetts and from Colorado to Georgia, according to the report, which appeared in the Atlanta Journal-Constitution.

A call to a FEMA spokesman for comment Sunday was not immediately returned.

National security programs accounted for 78 percent of FEMA's budget from 1982 to 1991, dwarfing the amount spent on natural disasters just 6.6 percent of the budget, the report said.

Yet the national security program money apparently appears as a single-line in FEMA's budget — "submitted under a separate package," according to the report, which was third of FEMA's 2,700 employees work in the project.

The report was also critical of FEMA's effort to provide relief after Hurricane Andrew devastated south Florida last fall. For example, it said, the city manager of Homestead, Fla., pleaded for 100 brand-new radios because the town had only one working telephone. Instead, FEMA sent high-tech vans capable of sending encrypted, multi-frequency radio messages to military aircraft halfway around the world.

The mobile communications units across the nation include generators capable of powering a three-story airport terminal, wristwatch radios, telephones and satellite gear is stored in custom-built trucks. In Thomasville, Ga., FEMA built a bomb shelter at the Federal Regional Center in 1971 when there was a threat of a Soviet nuclear attack. The agency spends millions of dollars each year maintaining it and other underground facilities.

Class Cents

Notre Dame Applications for Senior Formal Co-Chairperson are now available at the Junior Class Office (2nd floor of LaFortune).

Class Cents

Notre Dame Applications for Senior Formal Co-Chairperson are now available at the Junior Class Office (2nd floor of LaFortune).

Club Column

FEBRUARY 23, 1993

1) All clubs, budgeting and registration packets are available and are due March 3. They've been put into your mailboxes on the 2nd floor of LaFortune. Social service groups now have mailboxes outside the CCC Office (203 LaFortune). If you did not receive a packet, stop by the CCC office during the posted office hours. Questions, call the Club Coordination Council at 631-4078 or Jennifer White at 634-9475. Remember to check your mailboxes.

2) Graduate Clubs will be receiving registration packets after spring break and they will need to be returned in April. Watch for more information soon.

3) Last day to access all club funds is April 15, plan accordingly.

4) The Notre Dame Pom Pom Squad is holding an informational meeting regarding tryouts for the upcoming season on Wed., Feb. 24 at 7 p.m. in the Notre Dame Room in Lafortune. Any questions, please call Natalie Zbroz @ 284-5875 or Stacy McElroy @ 634-4030.

5) The Hispanic American Association will have elections for the 1993-1994 school year on Monday, Feb. 22. The meeting will be at 7:30 p.m. in the Old Club Room on the 2nd floor of LaFortune.

6) The LULAC will be having an important meeting on Tues., Feb. 23 at 7 p.m. in the Old Club Room of Lafortune. Election of officers will be held. Refreshments will be provided.

All registered clubs may place short announcements of meetings and activities in the CLUB COLUMN. Entries are due in the Club Coordination Council Office by 5 p.m. on Wednesday.

The Observer

is now accepting applications for the following paid positions:

Associate News Editor

Assistant News Editor

Copy Editor

Day Chief

Please submit a two-page personal statement of interest and a résumé to Meredith McColough by 5 p.m., Monday, February 22, 1993. For questions about any of the positions, call Meredith at 631-5323.
New World Bank policy seeks higher rates, reforms

WASHINGTON (AP) — The World Bank wants power companies in poorer countries to shed government control, increase efficiency and generally charge higher rates to their customers.

A sweeping new bank energy policy unveiled during the weekend, intends to push countries in that direction. The world’s biggest lender laid down stringent guidelines for future energy projects.

“We have a new motto: no more business as usual. It’s a new world out there,” said Robert Saunders, chief of the bank’s energy division and primary author of two new bank policy papers — one on electrical power and one on energy efficiency.

The bank aims about 15 percent of its lending, or about $40 billion through last fiscal year, to energy projects in the developing world.

Some have failed, officials acknowledge, and most developing countries still have a single national electric utility operating as an often inefficient, poorly maintained and unprofitable public monopoly.

For three decades, the bank has helped fund and tried to improve such projects. Now, said Saunders, the developing world needs $100 billion annually to serve its growing power needs, and Eastern Europe and Central Asia need another $70 billion a year to upgrade inferior systems built under communism.

Countries like Korea, Malaysia, the Philippines in Asia; Argentina, Chile and Mexico in Latin America; Turkey and Eastern European countries, and Ivory Coast, Guinea and Ghana in Africa already are changing the way they generate and distribute electricity, said the policy paper on electric power.

But most countries “simply cannot cope” with spiraling energy demand, increasing costs, poor performance of existing systems and rising environmental concerns.

Power subsidies have sucked needed finances from poor governments, the report says, and politicians rather than independent managers have exercised too much control over power company decisions.

Over the 1980s, average charges for power in developing countries declined from 5.2 cents per kilowatt hour to 3.8 cents, the report said, so countries lowered power rates to ease poverty.

WABash (AP) — World Bank wants power companies in poorer countries to shed government control, increase efficiency and generally charge higher rates to their customers.

A sweeping new bank energy policy unveiled during the weekend, intends to push countries in that direction. The world’s biggest lender laid down stringent guidelines for future energy projects.

“We have a new motto: no more business as usual. It’s a new world out there,” said Robert Saunders, chief of the bank’s energy division and primary author of two new bank policy papers — one on electrical power and one on energy efficiency.

The bank aims about 15 percent of its lending, or about $40 billion through last fiscal year, to energy projects in the developing world.

Some have failed, officials acknowledge, and most developing countries still have a single national electric utility operating as an often inefficient, poorly maintained and unprofitable public monopoly.

For three decades, the bank has helped fund and tried to improve such projects. Now, said Saunders, the developing world needs $100 billion annually to serve its growing power needs, and Eastern Europe and Central Asia need another $70 billion a year to upgrade inferior systems built under communism.

Countries like Korea, Malaysia, the Philippines in Asia; Argentina, Chile and Mexico in Latin America; Turkey and Eastern European countries, and Ivory Coast, Guinea and Ghana in Africa already are changing the way they generate and distribute electricity, said the policy paper on electric power.

But most countries “simply cannot cope” with spiraling energy demand, increasing costs, poor performance of existing systems and rising environmental concerns.

Power subsidies have sucked needed finances from poor governments, the report says, and politicians rather than independent managers have exercised too much control over power company decisions.

Over the 1980s, average charges for power in developing countries declined from 5.2 cents per kilowatt hour to 3.8 cents, the report said, so countries lowered power rates to ease poverty.

ATTENTION: CINCINNATI AREA STUDENTS

The 1993 Xavier Summer Sessions Bulletin of Classes & Workshops is now available. Undergraduate and graduate level courses offered in the areas of Arts & Sciences, Business, Education, Professional Studies & Social Sciences. Session dates: May 17 - June 24 & July 6 - August 12 Call or write:

XAVIER UNIVERSITY

Summer Sessions
3800 Victory Parkway
Cincinnati, OH 45207-3120
513/745-4381

Xavier University is an academic community committed to equal opportunity for all persons regardless of age, sex, race, religion, handicap or national origin.

The Observer

is now accepting applications for the following positions:

Assistant Accent Editors

Accent Copy Editors

Please submit a one-page statement of intent and a résumé to Jennifer Habrych by 5 p.m., Thursday, February 25, 1993. Applications can be dropped off at either the Notre Dame Observer office or the Saint Mary’s Observer office. For more information about any of the positions, call Jennifer at 631-5303 or 284-4312.

Lee shows ‘Malcolm X’ to prison inmates

NEW YORK (AP) — Film director Spike Lee used Sunday's 25th anniversary of the assassination of Malcolm X to show his movie on the black Muslim leader to 600 prisoners and urge them to draw inspiration from the slain activist.

Lee reminded the inmates at the Rikers Island jail that Malcolm X was in prison when he turned to education and religion and turned his life around.

Lee said he was showing the film in the hopes of inspiring inmates to stay out of jail after their release.

In a guest appearance, Lee, who has been cast in several film roles and portrays the picture. He said "Scent of a Woman" will be forgotten in 40 years, but "Malcolm X" will last a lifetime. "I think history will bear us out," he said.

Lee, who is a devout Muslim, will open with portions of the videotape of the Rodney King beating, abduced to racial bias in the criminal justice system. He said it was "no coincidence" that most of his prison audience Sunday was black or Hispanic.

He said he was inspired to show the movie in prisons after boxer Mike Tyson, serving a sentence in Jamaica, asked to see it. Tyson loved the movie and is now reading several books a week.

The Observer

ACCENT DEPARTMENT

is now accepting applications for the following positions:

Assistant Accent Editors

Accent Copy Editors

Please submit a one-page statement of intent and a résumé to Kenya Johnson by 5 p.m., Wednesday, February 24, 1993. Contact Kenya at 631-4540 for more information about either position.

Breen Phillips Spring Fashion Show

Help the American Diabetes Association by modeling in the fashion show.

- NO EXPERIENCE NECESSARY
- Meet new people
- have fun and help charity

Monday February 22nd in the LaFortune Ballroom.
7:00 - 10:00 p.m.
Malthus' pessimistic prophecy may still come true

Long ago in Domerville I was a Franciscan tertiary. Spiritually, for the tertiarys, included activity, for the tertiaries, included their company valuable and removed from the human texts. They are, without question, members of my religious formation had my intellectual credentials, that's where they lie. They owe us something beyond injunctions to blind obedience They owe us a plan for continued escape from Malthus' prophecy: the wretched are naturally doomed.

The factors operative in the 19th century are vaporizing under the pressure of natural, historical and social-economic change. In 2025, the world population will fall somewhere between 8 and 14 billion, up from 6 billion at present. We get the lower figure if the heterosexual AIDS epidemic rages unchecked in Africa and spreads to Asia. At present, 30% of earth's human population enjoys standards of living common in developed economies (per capita Gross Domestic Product ranging from $15k to $36k), and 70% in developing economies, where population is likely to grow at rates doubling each decade. India might be the most populous.

In 2025 earth and economic history will be less kind to wretched human beings. Where will they emigrate? Their souls will not sustain intensified agrarian revolution or ruinously increased salinity. The citizens of developing economies will not profitably participate in the industrial revolutions of the 21st century because electronics and telecommunications will be controlled by multinational corporations not likely to provide safety nets for the wretched. Do the mollusks give a damn?

Edward Manier is a professor in the philosophy department at the University of Notre Dame.
By RICK DELVECCHIO
Accent Writer

For most seniors, graduation marks their official entrance into the "real world." For a few Notre Dame and Saint Mary's seniors, graduation marks the beginning of a one year plunge into a part of the real world that they may otherwise never know.

The Holy Cross Associates is a program of lay formation that places recent graduates in a one year experience which emphasizes service to the poor, community living, spiritual, and simple lifestyle.

Founded in 1978, the HCA program is celebrating its fifteenth anniversary this year. Over the years, Associates have worked with the homeless, the elderly, "at risk" teens, people with AIDS, developmentally disabled adults and children. The program focuses not only on what the Associates do, but the Associates themselves.

Mary Ann White, Assistant Director of the program, believes the program is, "a chance for graduates to put into action the values they learn at Notre Dame and Saint Mary's."

The primary goal of the program is the personal growth of the Associate community through the experience and understanding of service and community living. In other words, "It's not so much what Associates do, but what they become," explains White.

The individuals that enter the program were majors in everything from Accounting to Pre-Med. Similarly, after their experience, Associates go on to all walks of life from business to law to ministry.

The domestic program is located at six houses across the country - and each site makes for a strong Holy Cross community. There are houses in Portland, Oregon; Oakland, California; Phoenix, Arizona; Colorado Springs, Colorado; South Bend, Indiana and Brockton, Massachusetts.

Each year a total of approximately thirty-six associates are chosen to work at the six sites. The HCA program also offers a program of service in Chile, which requires just over a two year commitment.

Associates begin their adventure at Notre Dame. For one week in August, all the Associates for the domestic sites and Chile program meet at Morae Seminary for orientation. This allows all the Associates in meet and get to know one another before they spread out to their various destinations.

After orientation, transportation is provided to carry the Associates to their new home for the next year. Associates are given two weeks to settle to their new home and adjust to their new community, before beginning work. The community lifestyle is intended to stimulate discussion and personal examination. Associates are encouraged to question their faith, and "reflect on their experience in light of it," said White. While the experience is sometimes difficult, White believes it is a "beneficial challenge."

"Through the giving, I have received so much knowledge, wisdom, encouragement, and friendship," said Karen Pillar, Associate currently serving in Colorado.

The Holy Cross Associate program is open to all Notre Dame and Saint Mary's seniors. The program also draws students from Stonehill College in Massachusetts and the University of Portland in Oregon.

There will be an informational meeting Monday, March 1, 1993 at the Center for Social Concerns for all those interested in the program. Applications for the domestic program are due March 19, 1993. For more information contact Mary Ann White, Assistant Director of the program, at Morae Seminary.

O'Brien writes of Vietnam experience

By TONY POTTINGER
Accent Writer

O'Brien will read tonight as the second featured author of the 26th annual Sophomore Literary Festival. This evening, O'Brien will read from an as of yet unannounced selection of his and follow this with a question and answer session.

Joining the ranks of Edward Albee, Ralph Ellison, Arthur Miller, and Kurt Vonnegut, who have in the past spoken at this annual event designed to promote literary awareness and appreciation, the Minnesota native is being touted as one of the premier American writers of the past twenty years.

After graduating summa cum laude from Macalester College in St. Paul, Minnesota with a degree in political science, O'Brien was drafted into the Army in 1968. He postponed study at Harvard, where he had earned a full academic scholarship, to serve in Vietnam and while there won a Purple Heart while attaining the rank of sergeant.

O'Brien's wartime experiences have had the most influence on his development as an author. Though opposed to the war personally, he felt social obligation to serve his country. He reacted to his experiences through his first book, If I Die in a Combat Zone, Box Me Up and Ship Me Home which was published in 1973. A follow-up book, Northern Lights, has been compared to Hemingway's war time novel, The Sun Also Rises.

Most recently, O'Brien's "The Things They Carried," a short story often read in University English classes and the Freshman Writing Program, was nominated for a Pulitzer Prize and the National Book Critic's Circle Award.

Also, his Going After Cacciato, which is the odyssey of a Vietnam desertor who plans to travel overland through Asia to Paris, earned O'Brien the National Book Award in Fiction in 1978.

His stories have garnered the homes of being included in editions of Prize Stories. The O. Henry Awards and Best American Short Stories of the 80s. O'Brien, who has said that, "My passion as a human being is not as a poet or a person in Vietnam," earned somewhat from Vietnam in Nuclear Age, the story of a young boy dealing with the threat of nuclear war in the 1950s.

It is this diversity which Literary Festival Chairperson Kerry McArdle believes featuring O'Brien at the Festival so special. "He uses the Vietnam experience in a unique way because through this, he expresses many universal ideas."

O'Brien will read tonight at 8 p.m. in the Hesburgh Library Auditorium and will hold an informal discussion group tomorrow at noon in the Hesburgh Library Lounge.
Women's tennis team cruises against TCU and LSU

Irish dominate singles play, winning all matches

By RIAN AKEY

Sports Writer

In a season of high expectations for the Notre Dame women's tennis team, optimism and solid play have not always yielded positive results for the Irish.

Making the transition to weekend matches with Louisiana State and Texas Christian the Irish were only 2-5, but were confident that solid play and the home court advantage would add to victories to their record. This time, high expectations were met as the Irish cruised to victories in both contests.

Notre Dame did not lose a singles match against either team, pounding TCU 7-2.

“We played well this weekend,” said coach Joe Piane.

On the women's side, the Irish wore down the Tigers by scoring 6-0.

On the men's side, Dan Grenough reached 15'.25” in the pole vault, marking the second weekend in a row that Grenough has vaulted 15 feet.

While Notre Dame had some good performances in the Illinois Intercollegiates, the squad that went down to the Illini did not include many of Notre Dame's top performers. In fact, Coach Piane didn’t run seven of the top eight runners from the men's cross country team that finished 6th in the nation.

“Often times when you don't run any of your best people, the kids don't rise to the occasion like you’d like them to,” said Piane.

However Piane believes that the men were beneficial because it gave many of the younger runners a good opportunity to compete.

Looking ahead, the Irish come home on February 27 for the Alex Wilson Invitational.

“For the men, they realize that if they want to stand on the wall if they want to qualify for the NCAA,” Piane said.

The only blemish the Irish had against the Tigers was freshman Wendy Crabtree and junior Lisa Tholen matches were beaten 6-7, 3-6.

There were opportunities for 1st and Tholen to win the match, but LSU's number one team is very tough. They’re ranked sixteenth in the country.

Against TCU, the Irish netters flexed their muscle again in the singles matches. Junior Lisa Tholen was the player who needed three sets to overcome her opponent, beating Sammie Owen of the Tigers 6-4, 6-7, 6-7.

“Lisa really hung in there,” said Louderback. “She had blisters on her feet and had a cold, and then she got down 1-5 in the last set and it would have been very easy for her to give up, but she stuck it out.”

Tholen’s wins this weekend come on the heels of some discouraging losses earlier in the season.

“I have been having a little bit of a confidence problem,” she said, “but this may be a sign that I’m working through it.”

Louderback agreed that Tholen played differently in recent matches.

“Lisa has a style of playing long, tough matches where she grinds down her opponents,” he said. “Early in the year, she was coming out and hitting hard and trying to overpower her opponents and that’s not how she plays. Now she’s got her back into her style of play, and it shows.”

Another Irish player who had a tough weekend was sophomore Laura Schwab.

“Laura has been struggling, a bit lately, but she played much better this weekend, especially against TCU,” said Louderback.

Schwab, playing at number five beat the famed Toads’ Pam Cruz 6-4, 6-0.

The next match for the Irish comes this Wednesday when they travel to Northwestern.

---

Navratilova defeats Seles to win the Paris Open

PARI(S) (AP) — Martina Navratilova showed once again that she isn't finished playing top-level tennis.

Navratilova ended Monica Seles' 34-match winning streak with a 6-3, 4-6, 7-6 (7-3) victory Sunday in the final of the Paris Open. At 36 years, 3 months and 29 days, Navratilova became the oldest player to beat a No. 1-ranked player.

Billie Jean King was several weeks younger when she beat Navratilova in 1980.

“I was really overwhelmed after the match,” Navratilova said after beating 17-year-old Seles in the final on Sunday. “It was the first ginning of the week I thought I had no chance to win. But then I made myself believe I could do it. I will look back at this with undiluted pleasure today.”

Seles, whose previous loss was to Arantxa Sanchez last August at the Canadian Open, has won 10 of 17 matches against Navratilova. Seles had beaten Navratilova three straight times since a loss last August at Los Angeles.

In the second weekend in her third final in three weeks on three continents, had made seven straight finals. She lost to Seles last week at Chicago.

“For her age it's incredible,” Seles said. “But she is so much physically stronger than me. Her body is so different and can take it. But Martina just played a great match.”

---

Classifieds

NOTICES

TYPIST 297-4092

TYPAK 256-6657

Used Tens Chaps; Panty’s in the Bookmobile 12-4 only 233-2342 ND Ave & Howard

Rider sought returning from break in SPD/SAC area. Call Brian 877-889

FOR RENT

FOR SALE

ADDITIONAL

ADOPTED: were you misplaced when you found out you were pregnant? We want to put you out. If you thought you couldn't have children. We are a Catholic, non-secular, private family. We have a 21-year-old married couple. We have a 21-year-old married couple. They want a baby to grow up with parents in college, an extended family. 2-4 very sweet dogs, please call Mary and Michael.

9-13-83

FOR PERSONNEL

MORRISSEY LOAN SYSTEM

ADVANCE PAYMENT

ON-LINE/ADAPTIVE

ADVERTISING

from: MORRISSEY LOAN FUND

30 De Lave Date $525

FOR FUND raising

FUND.PERSONAL

1-800-759-6039.

FOR PERSONAL

FUND.PERSONAL

1-800-759-6039.

FOR PERSONAL

FUND.PERSONAL

1-800-759-6039.

FOR PERSONAL

FUND.PERSONAL

1-800-759-6039.

FOR PERSONAL

FUND.PERSONAL

1-800-759-6039.

FOR PERSONAL

FUND.PERSONAL

1-800-759-6039.

FOR PERSONAL

FUND.PERSONAL

1-800-759-6039.

FOR PERSONAL

FUND.PERSONAL

1-800-759-6039.

FOR PERSONAL

FUND.PERSONAL

1-800-759-6039.

FOR PERSONAL

FUND.PERSONAL

1-800-759-6039.

FOR PERSONAL

FUND.PERSONAL

1-800-759-6039.

FOR PERSONAL

FUND.PERSONAL

1-800-759-6039.

FOR PERSONAL

FUND.PERSONAL

1-800-759-6039.

FOR PERSONAL

FUND.PERSONAL

1-800-759-6039.

FOR PERSONAL

FUND.PERSONAL

1-800-759-6039.

FOR PERSONAL

FUND.PERSONAL

1-800-759-6039.

FOR PERSONAL

FUND.PERSONAL

1-800-759-6039.

FOR PERSONAL

FUND.PERSONAL

1-800-759-6039.

FOR PERSONAL

FUND.PERSONAL

1-800-759-6039.

FOR PERSONAL

FUND.PERSONAL

1-800-759-6039.

FOR PERSONAL

FUND.PERSONAL

1-800-759-6039.

FOR PERSONAL

FUND.PERSONAL

1-800-759-6039.

FOR PERSONAL

FUND.PERSONAL

1-800-759-6039.

FOR PERSONAL

FUND.PERSONAL

1-800-759-6039.

FOR PERSONAL

FUND.PERSONAL

1-800-759-6039.

FOR PERSONAL

FUND.PERSONAL

1-800-759-6039.

FOR PERSONAL

FUND.PERSONAL

1-800-759-6039.

FOR PERSONAL

FUND.PERSONAL

1-800-759-6039.

FOR PERSONAL

FUND.PERSONAL

1-800-759-6039.

FOR PERSONAL

FUND.PERSONAL

1-800-759-6039.

FOR PERSONAL

FUND.PERSONAL

1-800-759-6039.

FOR PERSONAL

FUND.PERSONAL

1-800-759-6039.

FOR PERSONAL

FUND.PERSONAL

1-800-759-6039.

FOR PERSONAL

FUND.PERSONAL

1-800-759-6039.

FOR PERSONAL

FUND.PERSONAL

1-800-759-6039.
Bouts

Continued from page 16

minute the opening bell sounded. Hall, who has lost a quarterfinal bout in two years, came out throwing and landed a series of combinations.

The second round brought more of the same. After the referee gave Hartzell an eight count, Hall landed a flurry of combinations which ended the round. Terence Saumain was no match for the sophisticated Ohio native, who knocked the bloodied Saumain to the canvas at :42 in the second.

"I didn't expect it to be that easy. I had never seen him fight before, so I didn't know what to expect," said Goddard. "Things are going to be a lot tougher from here. I watched some of the other fighters and they look really tough."

A near upset came in the 150-lb. division where 1991 champion Joe Carrigan found trouble in the form of Greg Marks.

Carrigan sat out last year due to an injury and showed a little rust. The first round was spent feeling each other out. But the second, saw the two fighters go toe-to-toe. Both landed right hooks and strong jabs, leaving the winner of the bout to be settled in the final round.

Although Marks hung tough, Carrigan seemed to have a bit more energy saved for the final two minutes, using late punches to score points and advance to the semifinals with a split decision.

"Mars was a strong fighter, better than I expected," commented Carrigan. "He landed some good shots. There is no way that he should have been the last seed in the division. I hope things get easier in the next fight."

The crowd was one of the largest for the quarterfinal bouts in recent history. The crowd of over two-hundred nearly doubled last year's quarterfinal attendance. The move from the JACC Fieldhouse to the Arena may have had a good deal to do with it, but also the popularity of the Bouts has soared since last year.

"I think the Bouts have really grown in popularity over the last year," said Goddard. "People are talking more about it and students are coming out in large groups to support their friends. It really is important because it means more money for the mission."

Now Open!

Blimpie
Subs • Salads • Pizza
FREE

Regular 6" BLIMPIE Sub Sandwich with the purchase of any Sub Sandwich of equal or greater value.

Please present this coupon before ordering. Not valid if altered or duplicated. One per order per customer. One coupon per customer per visit. Costumes and sales tax are excluded. Not valid in conjunction with any other offer. Cash value 1/100 of 1¢. Expires 3/31/93.

at Martin's
Ironwood Plaza North
S.R. 23 & Ironwood
(219) 273-2234
Fax: (219) 273-2445

Graduate Student Union Elections

The Elections, Credentials, and Procedures Committee announces the Graduate Student Union General Election to be held on Thursday March 18, 1993. Nominations for the positions of President and Vice-president will be accepted until the GSC meeting at 7:10pm on March 3. Registered graduate students interested in being a candidate for either of these positions should submit a letter declaring their candidacy to the ECP Committee, c/o GSU, LaFortune Student Center. The letter must include your name, student ID#, Department, the position for which you are running, and the signatures of five (5) registered graduate students (with ID# and department name) in support of the nomination.

The duties of the officers are described in the constitution available from the GSU office, but Article IV §2.3, which describe the positions are included here for convenience:

(IV.2) The President is responsible for the day-to-day operations of the Graduate Student Union. The President is an ex-officio member of the Graduate and all General Student Council Committees. The President and Vice-President shall present twice a year a report on graduate student life and issues to the University's Board of Trustees. The President appoints and oversees the graduate representatives to the Graduate Council, Academic Council, Faculty Senate, and other policy making bodies of the University, subject to Council ratification. The President shall ensure that the appointees to these committees makes a report to Council. The President is responsible for the fulfillment of all constitutional duties by the Officers.

(3) The Vice-President shares with the President the responsibility for day-to-day operations of the Graduate Student Union. The Vice-President shall oversee the formation and ordinary workings of all GSU committees and Professional Development Programs. The Vice-President shall assume the duties of the President in the latter's absence. In the event that the President is unable to fulfill the duties of the Office, the Vice-President shall assume the President's duties for the duration of the Presidential term. The Vice-president is an ex-officio member of all Graduate Student Council Committees.

The President and Vice-President usually receive a significant stipend (4 figure). Separate elections will be held for these positions.
SALT LAKE CITY (AP) — Utah Jazz stars Karl Malone and John Stockton gave the NBA All-Star game a local note while the world watched Shaquille O'Neal.

The spectacular popular Salt Lake City duo sent the hometown fans home happy with a grand display of teamwork Sunday, leading the West to a 135-132 overtime victory over the East.

"I'll throw out a country slang you city-slickers might not understand," Malone said. "You can't have the chicken without the egg."

Malone and Stockton shared the Most Valuable Player award, the second time in All-Star history that co-VPWs were named.

Malone had 28 points on 11-for-17 shooting and Stockton 15 assists and nine points, including two baskets and two assists in overtime. They joined 1959 co-VPWs Elgin Baylor and Bob Pettit.

"If you wrote a movie, that's how it would end," Malone said. "You definitely want to do well in an All-Star game at home. But every time I play, I just want to play well."

It's the third year since 1987 that Malone has been named an MVP award, and the 11th time in All-Star history. Tom Chambers did it in Seattle in 1987 and Michael Jordan in Chicago in 1988.

Malone, as usual, got plenty of support from Stockton, who's averaging more assists per game than any player in NBA history. Seven of Stockton's 15 assists went to Malone, who also won the MVP in 1989.

West coach Paul Westphal, in his first season as coach of the Phoenix Suns, said he took his cue from Jazz coach Jerry Sloan.

"Give coach Sloan credit, I just stole his plays," Westphal said. "But you can't do wrong no matter who you put in. The people of Utah were rooting for them, and that may have helped them play their best. But there would have been MVPs no matter where the game was."

"Coach Westphal ran our play, and that had a lot to do with it," Stockton said.

"He ran it to death," Malone said of Stockton's pass play to Malone.

Despite the electricity surrounding Magic Johnson's appearance after he tested positive for HIV, the 1992 game was a 40-point rout.

With the spotlight on O'Neal, the spectacular rookie, and other players, the 1993 version was far more competitive, with 15 lead changes and no double-digit deficits.

"The so-called older group really competed," Stockton said.

"It was a lot of fun," Jordan, the leading scorer in All-Star history with a 22.1 average, finished with 30 points, while Mark Price scored all of his 19 after halftime for the East.

O'Neal scored 28 points for the West, and Jordan had 27 for the East.

"I play. I just have fun with it and do what I want," said O'Neal, among the NBA leaders in scoring, rebounding, blocked shots and shooting percentage.

"I had a lot of fun. Shaq will be back. Don't worry," he said. "Next year, when I come back, I'll know what to expect."

Ewing scored six of his 15 points in overtime, but the East never recovered from Jordan's off-balance 3-pointer in the game's final seconds.

"It was a lot of fun," Jordan said. "It's the third year since I've played in the West."

Jordan's off-balance 3-pointer with 25 seconds left pulled the East to 133-130. But it didn't threaten again despite four missed free throws by the West in the final seconds.

"But every time I play, I just want to play well," Malone said. "It was a good experience, and I thought I did all right," said O'Neal, among the NBA leaders in scoring, rebounding, blocked shots and shooting percentage.

"I had a lot of fun. Shaq will be back. Don't worry," he said. "Next year, when I come back, I'll know what to expect."

Ewing scored six of his 15 points in overtime, but the East never recovered from Jordan's off-balance 3-pointer in the game's final seconds.

"It was a lot of fun," Jordan said. "It's the third year since I've played in the West."

Jordan's off-balance 3-pointer with 25 seconds left pulled the East to 133-130. But it didn't threaten again despite four missed free throws by the West in the final seconds.

"But every time I play, I just want to play well," Malone said. "It was a good experience, and I thought I did all right," said O'Neal, among the NBA leaders in scoring, rebounding, blocked shots and shooting percentage.

"I had a lot of fun. Shaq will be back. Don't worry," he said. "Next year, when I come back, I'll know what to expect."

Career and Volunteer Options With Nonprofit Organizations will share their experiences and suggestions.

Wednesday, February 24th 4:30 - 5:30 p.m. The Center For Social Concerns

Mary Ann Roemer, The Center For Social Concerns
Judy Goebel, Career and Placement Services

The Observer Monday, February 22, 1993

Page 12

Sports Briefs

Interhall floor hockey referees are needed. Anyone interested should call the RecSports office at 631-6160.

Spring break trips to Steamboat, CO are still available for all interested. For more information, call Chris Bone at the NSI Ski Club at 273-2958.

Interhall lacrosse entries are due by February 24 at the RecSports office and there will be a captains meeting February 25 at 5 p.m. in the JACC Auditorium.

The ND/SMC Equestrian Club will have a meeting February 22 at 7:30 p.m. in 222 Jesup Library. If you have questions, call Megan at 634-2744.

ND/SMC women's lacrosse club will have practice on Sundays from 3-5 p.m. at Lansing.

Cross country ski rental is available in the Rockne Golf Shop. Check out times are 4:30-5:30 p.m. on Thursday, Friday, and Saturday and 12-1 p.m. on Saturday. Check in times are 4:30-5:30 p.m. Friday, Saturday and Sunday and 12-1 on Saturday.

The Notre Dame Pom Pom squad will be holding an informational meeting regarding tryouts for the upcoming season on February 24 at 7 p.m. in the Notre Dame Room of LaFortune. If you have any questions, please call Natalie Brohi at 344-4279 or Stacey Tischler at 634-4030.

The Observer
Sports Department

is now accepting applications for the following paid positions:

Associate Sports Editor
Assistant Sports Editor
Copy Editor

Please submit a two-page personal statement of intent and a résumé to George Dohrmann by 5 p.m. Monday, February 22, 1993. Contact George at 631-4543 for more information about any position.

T e c h n o l o g y f o r a c a d e m i a

The Office of University Computing invites the Notre Dame, St. Mary's, and Holy Cross communities to attend this Spring series of presentations on the educational uses of computer and media technologies.

Spring Series

Faculty Projects at Notre Dame Using Toolbook for Classroom Presentation and Student Reference
February 26th, 1993 3:30pm - 5:00pm DeBartolo Hall, Room 138

Asymetrix's Toolbook is an authoring tool that can be used to create presentations for the classroom and interactive materials that can be used independently. Two projects will be demonstrated and the process of creating them will be discussed by Notre Dame faculty members.
Water polo wins tourney

By MIKE NORBUT
Sports Writer

The Roll's Aquatic Center was the site this weekend for the first ever Mid-American Water Polo Conference tournament, featuring strong teams from the midwest that will soon rival teams the likes of the Big Ten.

As the water calmed and the waves subsided Notre Dame, the host team, found themselves with their first tournament victory in both the newly formed conference and their season thus far.

"It was great to play for the home crowd," said freshman water polo Morrisey. "Considering in our last tournament, we took fourth with only eight healthy players available, we feel pretty good about our performance, and we're happy to get a tournament victory under our belt."

The Irish opened the tournament against a fast, well-disciplined team from Bowling Green University. Strong team defense, led by sophomore goalkeeper and captain Brian Loughlin, was the key for Notre Dame's 11-7 victory. Bowling Green later went on to defeat Northern Illinois 24-11.

DEAR MICHELLE,

NOW THAT YOU'RE AT NOTRE DAME, WE CAN FINALLY CHANGE YOUR ROOM.

HAPPY 20TH.

WE LOVE YOU

MOM & DAD

---

Valvano returns to N.C.State

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP) — It was almost like nothing had changed at North Carolina State.

There was Jim Valvano on Sunday, giving an inspirational talk to 12,400 Wolfpack fans. He waved to fans and posed for a picture with cheerleaders.

It wasn't 1983, the year his team beat the odds as well as Houston and won the NCAA basketball championship.

It was nearly 10 years later, and the coach and his team were being honored in ceremonies prior to Duke's 91-82 victory over N.C. State. Valvano wasn't the same either.

His body wracked with cancer, he didn't display that familiar swagger which was a fixture whenever the Wolfpack played the court, or whenever he was making an appearance throughout North Carolina and the country. His steps were slow and halting, and he was slightly bent at the waist. Valvano's swagger which was a fixture on a chair to hug Thurl Bailey.

Nonetheless, it was his day, and despite rumors that his health wouldn't let him join in the celebration, Valvano made the show. Evenly, he was the show.

"I'm at a loss for words," Valvano said, adding, "You know that's not true."

With his wife, Pam, at his side, Valvano hugged each of the players who guided the Wolfpack to that title. He stood on a chair to hug Thurl Bailey. He also took time to greet another group of former players that included Chuckie Brown and Charles Shackleford, as well as Northwestern coach Bill Foster, who coached Valvano at Rutgers, and the man who succeeded Valvano, Les Robinson.

Football coach Dick Sheridan, who Valvano hired in 1986, gave an introduction that was punctuated by applause.

"We are honoring more than this magnificent accomplishment," Sheridan said. "We are honoring the pride and talent that characterizes this team."

Then Valvano took the floor. Standing at center court in the red-and-white jump circle, he started by hugging the Wolfpack fight song, to which the crowd responded, "Go, State!" In fact, he did it twice, thrusting his right fist into the air each time.

The Valvano humor was instant, too.

"When I'm at airports and I do that, they take me away," he said.

Valvano hasn't seen his team play in person at home since he coached the Wolfpack in the trouble-plagued season of 1990.

One month after that season ended, Valvano reached an agreement with school officials to step down from the job. It ended a two-year saga which started with allegations of preferential treatment, though.

Although the Valvano name has been mentioned in an electronic exile from Reynolds Coliseum, Valvano got around the dust jacket of the book, "Personal Fouls," which was published last spring.

"It began an odyssey through the mail which has discouraged some followers, Reynolds Coliseum quickly filled up for the special moment, nearly one hour ahead of the opening tap.

There were no posters, no special signs. There were only 12,400 people, most of which were Wolfpack red, trying to get a glimpse of the man who combined his brand of wit and heady basketball program to a new prominence in the 1980s.

Dubbed "the coach with no limits," Valvano said the memories of that 1983 team will carry him through his illness. It was the "Survive and Advance" slogan that has stuck along with N.C. State that championship year.

"I'm going to be here to see those things happen.""He said the memories of that 1983 team will carry him through his illness. It was the "Survive and Advance" slogan that has stuck along with N.C. State that championship year.

"That team taught me that persistence, the idea of never giving up," he said, his voice rising to the moment. "Don't ever quit."

Valvano said he missed the atmosphere, the school officials, and most of all he missed the people who adopted the bumper sticker adorning cars throughout the Raleigh area which said "Jimmy V. Don't Give Up!"

He praised Robinson, and told the crowd that at some point, he will have a championship banner to celebrate.

"I promise you, I will never give up my fight," he said. "And no one will be here to see those things happen."

Having gone through a season in which he has said he would retire, Reynolds Coliseum quickly filled up for the special moment, nearly one hour ahead of the opening tap.

There were no posters, no special signs. There were only 12,400 people, most of which were Wolfpack red, trying to get a glimpse of the man who combined his brand of wit and heady basketball program to a new prominence in the 1980s.

The Valvano era featured members of the 1983 team that began an odyssey through the mail which has discouraged some followers, Reynolds Coliseum quickly filled up for the special moment, nearly one hour ahead of the opening tap.

There were no posters, no special signs. There were only 12,400 people, most of which were Wolfpack red, trying to get a glimpse of the man who combined his brand of wit and heady basketball program to a new prominence in the 1980s.

The Valvano era featured members of the 1983 team that began an odyssey through the mail which has discouraged some followers, Reynolds Coliseum quickly filled up for the special moment, nearly one hour ahead of the opening tap.

There were no posters, no special signs. There were only 12,400 people, most of which were Wolfpack red, trying to get a glimpse of the man who combined his brand of wit and heady basketball program to a new prominence in the 1980s.

The Valvano era featured members of the 1983 team that began an odyssey through the mail which has discouraged some followers, Reynolds Coliseum quickly filled up for the special moment, nearly one hour ahead of the opening tap.

There were no posters, no special signs. There were only 12,400 people, most of which were Wolfpack red, trying to get a glimpse of the man who combined his brand of wit and heady basketball program to a new prominence in the 1980s.

The Valvano era featured members of the 1983 team that began an odyssey through the mail which has discouraged some followers, Reynolds Coliseum quickly filled up for the special moment, nearly one hour ahead of the opening tap.

There were no posters, no special signs. There were only 12,400 people, most of which were Wolfpack red, trying to get a glimpse of the man who combined his brand of wit and heady basketball program to a new prominence in the 1980s.

The Valvano era featured members of the 1983 team that began an odyssey through the mail which has discouraged some followers, Reynolds Coliseum quickly filled up for the special moment, nearly one hour ahead of the opening tap.

There were no posters, no special signs. There were only 12,400 people, most of which were Wolfpack red, trying to get a glimpse of the man who combined his brand of wit and heady basketball program to a new prominence in the 1980s.

The Valvano era featured members of the 1983 team that began an odyssey through the mail which has discouraged some followers, Reynolds Coliseum quickly filled up for the special moment, nearly one hour ahead of the opening tap.

There were no posters, no special signs. There were only 12,400 people, most of which were Wolfpack red, trying to get a glimpse of the man who combined his brand of wit and heady basketball program to a new prominence in the 1980s.

The Valvano era featured members of the 1983 team that began an odyssey through the mail which has discouraged some followers, Reynolds Coliseum quickly filled up for the special moment, nearly one hour ahead of the opening tap.

There were no posters, no special signs. There were only 12,400 people, most of which were Wolfpack red, trying to get a glimpse of the man who combined his brand of wit and heady basketball program to a new prominence in the 1980s.

The Valvano era featured members of the 1983 team that began an odyssey through the mail which has discouraged some followers, Reynolds Coliseum quickly filled up for the special moment, nearly one hour ahead of the opening tap.
Men's tennis falls to USC and Georgia, beats Texas

By JONATHAN JENSEN
Sports Writer

"We found it was a whole different level when you get up there... Those were the sentiments of Irish senior Chris Wojtalik, after he and the rest of the Notre Dame men's tennis team fought just how tough it is to compete with the top ten teams in the nation at this weekend's National Indovision Championships, as they were overwhelmed by #1 USC and #3 Georgia after advancing with a win over #10

DePaul continued from page 16 after halftime. "We were just not working the ball in our offense," explained Malik Russell, who contributed seven points coming off the bench. "Everybody was trying to take over and take the quick shot. We need to have patience, run the offense and look for the open shots."

Noire Dame's dynamic duo, Ryan Hoover and Monty Williams, continued to struggle, bringing in just 11- of-30 from the field. Hoover led the Irish with 18, while Williams had 14.

Junior co-captain Brooks Boyer gave the Irish a boost with a career-high 13 points.

"After we had the lead, we got a little bit cocky, and we didn't want to win," said Boyer, who logged 21 minutes in the absence of Texas on Thursday. The Irish ended up tying for seventh place in the prestigous tournament.

The losses dropped the Irish's record to 4-4, with the other losses coming off #11 Kentucky and #8 North Carolina.

However, after being awarded a by in the first round on the strength of their number-six ranking, the Irish disposed of a deep Longhorn squad, highlighted by an 8-3 trouncing at one-doubles by seniors Chuck Coleman and Will Forsyth over the number-one ranked doubles team of Anders Eriksen and Trey Phillips.

However, after the Texas win, the Irish stepped into the big time, as they challenged top-ranked USC for the first time in years. "It was just a case of a superior team flexing its muscles for an Irish team that has yet to pull all of its experience and talent together into a cohesive unit, according to number-five singles player Wojtalik.

So far Friday's loss, the Irish tried their luck against another team they upset on the way to the finals last year, third-ranked Georgia.

Again their luck ran out, losing a 5-2 decision to a Bulldog team stacked with individual talent. The Irish picked up wins by Mark Schmidt and Wojtalik at four and five-singles, Schmidt outlasting 33-ranked Bobby Martincheck in 4-6, 6-4, 6-4, and Wojtalik taking Hector Nevares by a score of 6-3, 7-6-7.3 but in the rest of the matches it was all Georgia.

The Bulldogs started by sweeping the three doubles matches, and in the process picking up the all-important double points. The Irish knew going in that the doubles matches would be key and faltered against the Trojans and the Bulldogs, despite wholesale changes instituted by Irish coach Bob Bylais.

Wojtalik was replaced by junior Ron Rosas at second doubles with Mark Schmidt, making room for freshman Mike Sprouse to join Jason Pun against Texas and and junior Hector Nevares against Texas and Georgia.

"We still haven't pieced all of the pieces together with the doubles side," said Wojtalik. "Coach Bylais tried some different combinations, and I don't think we're done experimenting." In the first two singles slots, fourth-ranked Wade McGuire beat 19th-ranked Forsyth 6-2, 6-1, and sixth-ranked Mike Sill downs Chuck Coleman 6-4, 7-6, 7-6, setting the stage for the clinching match at four-singles.

It was there that Nary Patel beat Ron Rosas 6-3, 6-4, which made Craig Baskin's 7-5, 6-3 win over No. 7-singles the icing on the cake.

"I was disappointed personally with my play," said Wojtali, as he echoed the sentiments of most of the team.

Despite those losses, Bylais was encouraged by Forsyth and Coleman's big win against Texas, and Rosas and Schmidt's victory over the Longhorns' David Draper and Ian Williams.

And the Irish are still confident they can rebound and carry on with possibly the nation's most difficult schedule.
Monday, February 22, 1993

SPELUNKER

IT'S WORKING! THE RUNCINGMOUTH P R O D U C T
HAS LOCKED ON TO GUS'S SOUL IN THE AFTERLIFE.

CALVIN AND HOBBES

"WHAT THE-- ARE YOU DOING HERE?"

"YOU'RE FINALE MOICHIN!"

"LOOK, I'M NOT TRYING TO INTERFERE--"

"THE LADIES HAVE
INVITED ME TO THEIR AFFAIR!"

CALVIN AND HOBBES

"WANTS IN THE BIG BAG?"

"NEEDING ANYTHING
BESIDES THAT?"

"MULL IT OVER,
TELL ME."

"WELL, LET'S JUST
ASSUME THERE'S SOMETHING
THAT MIGHT COME IN HANDY
TODAY."

"DON'T WANT WHAT HAPPENS
TODAY."

"WE'RE JUST A
HISTORICAL TEST,
REMEMBER?"

"SO WHAT DID YOU BRING?"

"WOULD YOU AND
THE PRINCIPAL
BOTH LIKE TO KNOW?"

BILL WATTERSON

CROSSWORD

ACROSS
1 Drivel:
twaddle
5 Frosh-rushing groups
10 Happy
14 Tops
15 Attack
16 Burt's mate
17 Vehicle with skilike runners
19 Teen's bane
20 Hair colorings
21 Kind of
needlework
23 Era and r.b.i.
26 "The Sun
Also"
27 Judge's seat
31 -tern
32 Begone start
33 Bread spread

34 Super Bowl
M.V.P.: Dawson
35 Raid
36 "Dallas"
37 More
metaphorically
38 Wrestling pad
39 Baseball's
Matt
40 Popped
41 Pub drink
42 Thoroughly
soaked
43 Wrestling pad
45 Baseball's
Matty
46 Posed
47 Pub drink
48 Yin-and-
49 Leaves
hurriedly
50 Hair colorings
51 Kind of
needlework
52 Transferred picture
53 Hither and-
54 Eyeball
covers
55 Sacred image
56 Cubs' number
57 Steep slope

ANSWER
TO PREVIOUS PUZZLE

ANSWER
TO PREVIOUS PUZZLE

1 Super Bowl
M.V.P.: Dawson
2 Raid
3 "Dallas"
4 More
metaphorically
5 Wrestling pad
6 Baseball's
Matt
7 Popped
8 Pub drink
9 Thoroughly
soaked
10 Wrestling pad
11 Baseball's
Matty
12 Popped
13 Pub drink
14 Yin-and-
15 Leaves
hurriedly
16 Hair colorings
17 Kind of
needlework
18 Transferred
picture
19 Hither and-
20 Eyeball
covers
21 Sacred
image
22 Cubs' number
23 Steep slope

CAMPUS

Monday
7 p.m. Film: "Citizen Kane." Annenberg Auditorium.
9:15 p.m. Film: "Avant Garde Movies." Annenberg Auditorium.

LECTURES

Monday
8 p.m. The 26th Sophomore Literary Festival Readings, Tim O'Brien, novelist. Auditorium, Hesburgh Library. Sponsored by SUB.

MENU

Notre Dame
Roast Turkey
Chinese Bar
... Kleeoas & Kraut
St Pat's Rib
... Potato Pancakes

Saint Mary's
Grilled Swordfish

Sophomore Literary Festival

featuring...

• Feb. 21 Nikki Giovanni
• Feb. 22 Tim O'Brien
• Feb. 23 Gloria Naylor
• Feb. 24 Marge Piercy
• Feb. 25 Edward Albee

All readings will be held in the Hesburgh Library
Auditorium.

A small reception in the library lounge follows each reading.

THE KING'S MANOR

6 course meal and 2 1/2 hour show
Complete with Knights in Shining
Armor, Fair Maidens, and Jousting.

Saturday, Feb. 27
Tickets $30 at
LeFortune Info. Desk

Get answers to any three clues
by touch-tone phone: 1-900-420- 5656 (75¢ each minute). No. 0111
Sports

Blue Demons outlast the Irish, 70-62

By JIM VOGL
Assistant Sports Editor

ROSEMONT, III.–It was a carbon-copy of so many frustrating losses for the Notre Dame basketball team this season.

At De Paul on Sunday, the Irish scrapped their way to an early lead, only to let it slip away around the eight-minute mark in the second-half. With the 70-62 debacle in front of 15,000 hostile fans at the Rosemont Horizon, Notre Dame (9-14) has dropped nine out of their last eleven games. "They really pressured us," said Irish coach John MacLeod, haunted by recent losses to the likes of Marquette, Kentucky and Duke.

"Their defense forced us to play a scatter game. We took quick shots and turned the ball over," said MacLeod. "Then we tried to play catchup ball, and that's tough to do against a good team." The Irish offense showed control and patience early on, as a Jon Ross lay-in 12:24 into the game put his team ahead 20-13. Meanwhile, De Paul finished the first half with a horrendous 8- for-32 shooting performance. "I wasn't sure whether we were using an oversized half or an undersized hoop, because none of our shots were falling in the first half," said Blue Demon coach Joey Meyer, whose team failed to convert on all 13 shots in the paint. "But Tommie Kleinschmidt carried us," Meyer said.

Kleinschmidt poured in 18 of De Paul's 25 points in the first period, including three of three from three-point range. Then his teammates-in particular Brandon Cole and Bryant Bowden—showed up.

Cole spearheaded the comeback efforts, scoring all 18 of his points in the second period after going 0-for-7 from the field in the first half. Bowden scored 12 (eight in the second half) and grabbed nine rebounds.

But Meyer pointed to defense as the key to his team's turnaround. "Brandon got a couple of easy shots in the paint, which we needed to relax," said Meyer. "And we made him relax, by keeping the game around us. The transition basket opportunities were created by our defense.

On the flipside, the Irish lost their shooting touch (10-for-31) and many rebounds.

By JONATHAN JENSEN
Sports Writer

Chicagoland prep stars important in the rivalry

By JIM VOGL
Assistant Sports Editor

ROSEMONT, III.—Yesterday's Notre Dame-Boston College matchup at the Rosemont Horizon in suburban Chicago took on a decidedly Chicago flavor, naturally.

As John MacLeod attempts to build the Irish into a national contender, he has vowed to build up a strong recruiting base in Chicago and the talent-rich suburban area.

So after Notre Dame nabbed guard Lamarr Justice and forward Billy Taylor from the western suburbs, Boston College's Mike Lawson was hired, and he inked former Rockton Hononegah star Ryan Hoover to keep the string intact.

Hoover has since become a key player for the Irish this season and their second-leading scorer. On Sunday Hoover collected a team-high 18 points, including four threes, but with the Irish struggling supporting cast Hoover could not lead the Irish over De Paul's dynamic duo from Chicago, sophomore guards Tom Kleinschmidt and Brandon Cole.

Kleinschmidt was a high school All-American and one of the nation's most coveted guards out of Gordon Tech High School on the West side of the city. The Kentucky Wildcats especially coveted the 6-5 shooter, but Kleinschmidt decided to give something back to the city he grew up in by signing with the hometown Blue Demons.

Coming out of a solid first season, graduation made Kleinschmidt De Paul's top returner and he has led the young Blue Demons all year. Yesterday was no exception, as he scored a game-high 28 points, scoring 18 in the first half and then leading De Paul's second-half surge.

"He carried us on his back in the first half," noted Demon coach Joey Meyer. "We know we had to get the ball to him and we did." The Blue Demons were down by three at halftime, and Kleinschmidt set the tone for the second half in the first twenty seconds, driving the length of the court on two Irish defenders, scoring on a driving layup while collecting a foul from Jon Heus.

"Kleinschmidt had a big game," said coach MacLeod. "We had difficulties with him throughout the game." After the layup, the fiesty sophomore and emotional leader thrust his fists in the air and exhorted his teammates to take control of the ball game.

They must have been listening, as they broke away from the Irish, outscoring see STARS/Page 12

Favorites avoid upsets in the quarterfinals of Bengal Bouts

By GEORGE DOHRMANN
Sports Writer

It was a big day for the favorites as the 63rd Bengal Bouts got underway at the Joyce ACC Arena Sunday.

Five upsets climbed into the ring during the 31 bouts on the card. The enthusiastic crowd on hand had a large dose of boisterousness as all but three bouts went the distance. Last year seven fights were settled before the final bell.

The first fight was hardly exemplary of the bouts to come. Two-time champion Jeff Garber disposed of quarterfinal foe John Bradshaw midway through the third round.

A strong combination prompted the referee to administer a standing eight count to Bradshaw. When boxing resumed Bradshaw landed a right which seemed only to anger Gerber, who responded with a series of combinations, resulting in the stopping of the fight at the 1:30 in the third.

The crowd was riled after Gerber's display, but the emotion fell for the next bout, as the following seven fights went the distance with four by unanimous decision.

The crowd entered back into the picture at the start of the 145-lb. division when favorite Lou Hall pounded into the ring. His opponent, freshman Joe Hartwell, was overwhelmed as

see BOUTS/ Page 11