Connolly wins '94 ticket; others to face run-off

By NANCY DUNN
News Writer

Class elections yesterday yielded a victory for the Dan Connolly ticket for the senior class and a run-off in the sophomore and junior class races.

Connolly, with Vice President Maura Cavanagh, Treasurer David Genel and Secretary Megan Junius, will continue to represent the class of 1994. The ticket won 63.7 percent of the vote and a majority of 20 of the 26 dorms.

A run-off will be held Wednesday between the junior class tickets of Bryan Corbett (37.1 percent of the vote) and Mia Wade (21.2 percent) and the sophomore tickets of Michaela Connolly (42.1 percent) and Tim Glener (36.2 percent).

A handful of ballots in dorms between 11 a.m. and 1 p.m. and from 5 to 7 p.m. off-campus will also be counted at the LaFortune Information Desk at the same time.

"It is a great honor to have our classmates feel that we have served them well and that they have faith in us to continue in the same manner for the next year," said Connolly.

"We are pleased that our class had enough confidence in us to re-elect us and we are ex­citement to have a great senior year," said Junius. "We are looking forward to continuing all the projects that we have al­ready started," added Genel.

In the junior class race, the third-place Mike McEvilly ticket objected to the results, arguing that Grace Hall ran out of ballots at 6:15 p.m. and judicial board members turned voters away. The ticket took 20.9 per­cent of the vote, four votes be­hind the second place Wade ticket.

McEvilly said his ticket will not appeal the decision in order to allow the election to proceed.

The election process was run poorly," McEvilly said. "It's the responsibility of the j-council to let them (j-board members) know what they should do.

The dorm's j-board members were told through their judicial council-presidents that they had the authority to create makeshift ballots, according to Judicial Council President Pete Castelli.

Run-off candidates are busy planning their campaign strategies for the Wednesday elections. "We're glad that we made the run-off, and we'd like to thank the people who cast their votes for us initially," said Wade.

Candidates involved in the run will win students another 24 hours to campaign starting at midnight today and ending midnight tomorrow. Candidates cannot spend over their $100 campaign allotment during this period.

Elections Committee Co-chair Andrea Sullivan said the elec­tions went smoothly and gen­erally created a lot of interest on cam­pus.

GSU revamps elections

By JASON WILLIAMS
News Writer

Major overhauls in the Grad­uate Student Union's (GSU) constitution last fall have re­sulted in major changes in election procedures for GSU officers this spring.

The most outstanding changes include mailing ballots and split tickets for the positions of president and vice president. Prior to this year, students could only run on double tickets and were only allowed to vote in their dorms between 11 a.m. and 1 p.m. and from 5 to 7 p.m. off-campus.

"It is a general operations schedule, according to Ullick Stafford, Chairman of the GSU Elections, Credentials and Procedures (ECP) Committee.

"There were a lot of times when we had students inter­ested in running for a position, but they could not find anyone to run with them," Stafford said. The opinion of the committee was that we should have two tickets. This way we will hopefully have a more var­ied group of candidates.

Although the voting booth in Hesburgh will still be available to graduate students interested in running for a position on election day, mail-in ballots will be circulated in the Grad-.

Carte Blanche' adds meal hours at SMC

By LAURA FERGUSON
News Writer

To better accommodate the needs of Saint Mary's students, Marriott Food Services recently announced plans to open the dining hall for 12 hours per day, beginning in the fall of 1993. The new serving hours will run from 7 a.m. to 7 p.m. on weekdays. Weekend hours have not yet been determined but they plan to extend them also. This new program, called "Carte Blanche," will include unlimited service for students throughout the day. Students may come in more than once per meal, according to Liz Bohike, Dining Hall Director.

The new plan will avoid scheduling conflicts and the current need for the box lunch program for students who attend class during dining hall hours.

It was put into action by the Marriott corporation, the BHA food committee, and the administration. Suggestions from the student suggestion board, which used for longer serving hours, were also used. It is unsure if there will be a cost increase for food services as a result of this change. However, Bohike feels that this plan represents the best value for their money.

A change in the number of meal plans would have been too expensive for students, according to Bohike. She said that the past system was a 19 meal per week plan. But the cost is based on a cost for less than 19 meals, accounting for the price of missed meals.

"We feel that the Carte Blanche program will improve the value and convenience for students.

We did consider changing the meal plan again, but we felt that this was the best option for students and the school."

A general operations schedule of dining hall service includes the following:

- Breakfast from 7 to 9 a.m., including eggs, toast, grits, and breakfast meats.
- Lunch from 11 a.m. to 1:30 p.m.
- Dinner from 4:30 to 6 p.m.
- Snack hour from 6 p.m. to 8 p.m.
- Evening dinner from 8 p.m. to 9:30 p.m.
- Snack hour from 9:30 p.m. to 10 p.m.
- Breakfast from 7 to 9 a.m.
- Lunch from 11 a.m. to 1:30 p.m.
- Dinner from 4:30 to 6 p.m.
- Snack hour from 6 p.m. to 8 p.m.
- Evening dinner from 8 p.m. to 9:30 p.m.
- Snack hour from 9:30 p.m. to 10 p.m.

The mystery and meaning of the tanning salon

This last weekend I participated in a rather unpleasant phenomenon: I paid money to be exposed to radiation. Since I will be exposed to this pernicious ionizing radiation at South Padre Island sun for a few days this summer, I felt it would be appropriate that I consider the radiation and skin disease theory before I venture back to the white sands of South Padre again. A friend of mine convinced me that going to a tanning salon was in my best interests. Let me recount a little of my harrowing experience.

The radiation distributors first ask you how susceptible you are to burning. I stretched the truth a little, "Oh, I don't really burn that easily." From that answer and a little questionnaire the young woman who worked there determined what dose of radiation would be safe for me—two minutes.

She gave me a pair of goggles that made me look like Spiderman with long hair, and then led me into a dimly lit dressing room. Here she instructed me how to correctly microwave myself. I was in the booth, cradled to get even exposure, make sure to wear your goggles, and flip this switch when you're ready to enter the booth.

They don't flip the switch for you. The tanning exposure is completely self-induced. The tanning booth is similar in size to a telephone booth, but with long cylindrical tubes on the walls which light up green or purple. All I could think of was radioactive materials being sent through my body in a similar way as a microwave roaster, I tried to stay calm. The two tubes were surrounded in a metal casing. If the lamps didn't shut off in two minutes? What if I were locked in? I would surely be a human chimpanzee.

The experience made me think of the price of trying to look like a societally ideal image of what is desirable. Being tan is considered desirable, yet there is a general consensus in the medical community that there is no such thing as a safe tan, since exposure to UV rays (from the sun or lamps) lead to premature aging of skin and skin cancer.

Have you ever seen middle-aged men and women whose skin now has the texture of worn leather from tanning every year? Now, the people you continue to tan as long as it is considered an ideal of beauty and desirability is more likely to be a human chimpanzee than anyone you know.

In fact, Time magazine estimates that tanning salons are a $300-million a year business. And all of these people you continue to tan are at risk for skin cancer.

Why is tan beautiful? Why aren't people satisfied with their natural skin color? Is my desire to be tan tantamount to Michael Michnyak's desire to be a chicken nugget.

Gas tank explodes; eight injured

A gas tank exploded Monday, blasting debris more than 1,000 feet and injuring at least eight people, officials said. The blast also damaged cars and homes. Firemen in this Pacific coast resort city had gone to investigate a reported leak when the 130-gallon tank exploded, said Fire Department Capt. Jaime Espinosa Flores. Eight people were treated for burns, most of them not so serious, a Red Cross spokeswoman said. At least seven homes were damaged. About 500 families were evacuated. The accident occurred in a poor neighborhood overlooking Acapulco Bay, far from the city's main beach-side touristic area. Espinosa said.

HPC prepares ‘buy’ and ‘bail’

By COLLEEN KNIGHT
News Writer

Notre Dame and Saint Mary’s students will be able to “buy” the services of famous Notre Dame personalities and other students will be “arrested” or held for bail to raise money for the Beeler-Hipp Memorial Scholarship Fund, according to Lewis Hall co-president Heather Arnold.

Arnold and other members of the Hall Presidents’ Council (HPC) are now finalizing plans and administering sign-ups for the upcoming events, Buy a Domer and Bail a Domer. "Buy a Domer" is the name for the annual HPC auction that has featured such famous Domers as Rocket Ismail, University President Father Edward Malloy, and Lou Holtz, while "Bail a Domer" is a new event that has been created to increase awareness of the auction, Arnold said.

Last year, the auction had an overwhelming response, raising over $30,000 for the scholarship fund. Although HPC does not expect to raise quite that much money this year, Arnold said she has high expectations for the events.

"Members of HPC are very excited," she said, "especially for the Bail a Domer event."

From now until Thursday, students can sign up in their dorms to have one of their friends or roommates "arrested" on March 18. The prisoners will be brought to a holding area in LaFortune Student Center and will not be freed until their friends bring enough bail money, Arnold explained.

Bail will be set at a $10 minimum, and telephones will be held at holding areas so prisoners can call their friends, Arnold added. "HPC volunteers dressed as wardens will hold 20 or 25 students prisoner at time. It should be a lot of fun, and hopefully it will raise awareness of the auction that night," she said.

All proceeds from the bail money and from the auction will go toward the scholarship fund. Local businesses have donated prizes to be raffled off at the auction, and raffle tickets will be available in the dining halls the week after spring break.

The auction will be held the evening of March 18 in the LaFortune Ballroom. "Last year the event was a huge success," Arnold said. "We hope this year can be just as rewarding."

BOG plans woman’s day

By CHRISTINA CANNON
News Writer

Members of the Saint Mary’s Board of Governance (BOG) last night discussed the agenda for their Input Day to be held Saturday, March 20.

Speakers and activities will be featured throughout the day, said Saint Mary’s senior Martha Marzolf of Student Alliance for Women’s Colleges at Saint Mary’s. Activities include a performance by Sister Chain and a skit about the stereotypes of women’s colleges, which will be followed by a discussion, said Marzolf.

Members also discussed the possibility of changing the smoking policy on campus, said Saint Mary’s junior Melissa Whelan, Spiritual Life Commissioner. Faculty and administration are currently being asked for their input.

A decision will be made by the end of the semester as to whether Saint Mary’s becomes a smoke-free campus or will reserve certain buildings or limits to smokers.

On Tuesday, March 16, a proposal for an increased student activity fee will be presented before senior officials for consideration.

"If we increase the fee by 20 dollars our student activity fee will be at the lowest college average for a school our size," said student body president Tina Carrera.

Six hostage children released

Three people arrested after the shootout were charged Monday with attempted murder of a federal law enforcement officer and use of a firearm during commission of a violent crime, said Jim Beatty, a spokesman in the U.S. Attorney's office.

The FBI sent its elite Hostage Rescue Team to the scene Monday, said a federal law enforcement official who spoke on condition of anonymity.

The standoff began Sunday after a 45-minute gun battle with about 100 ATF agents, who were trying to serve arrest and search warrants on Koresh for federal firearms charges.

Student Senate approves survey

By KENYA JOHNSON
News Writer

Student Senate finalized a year-long goal by approving the 1993 Student Body Survey in last night's meeting.

"Everything's in the final stages," said Breen Phillips Hall McCarthy, Student Senate president last night's meeting. "We hope to have the entire approval process complete and the surveys distributed by March 19."

In other business, Pat McCarthy, Student Union Board (SUB) manager, presented the following nominations for next term's SUB executive board:

- Ellen Zahren as board manager
- Jamie Morris as controller
- Chris Liang as director of programming
- Betty Harikts as director of relations
- Kate Keckler as director of marketing.

All nominations were unanimously approved by senate.

McCarthy also sought approval from senate on funding events for AntoTantal totally over $5000, including the Bungee Run, Ladder Climb, Gyro (orbitron), Radar Speedpitch and Hi-Stricker. McCarthy will cost approximately $6400, but "will be something the students enjoy," according to McCarthy.

Greg Butrus, student body president, asked the senate to think of nominations of students and administrators for the Irish Clover award. "Two awards will be presented," explained Butrus. "One administrator will be awarded for their outstanding service to the student body, as will a student."

Senate will take considerations for the award at the next meeting after spring break, according to Butrus.

Considerations for the Frank A. O'Malley award, acknowledging a professors dedication to spectacular undergraduate teaching will also be accepted after break, according to Megan Sullivan, executive coordinator of intellectual life.

Students will nominate the professor they feel most deserve an award for their teaching, according to Sullivan.

Faculty Senate debates 'Catholic character' of ND

By JESSE BARRETT
News Writer

The Catholic character of Notre Dame and the extent to which it should affect academic life was the major issue debated last night at the Faculty Senate meeting.

Discussion focused on the Report of the Committee on Academic Life to the Colloquy for the Year 2000. Members of the Senate disagreed about the amount of importance placed on the University's Catholic character.

A number of faculty members feel that the reports emphasis on Catholic character.

"The Faculty Senate needs to support the report if they want to establish Notre Dame as the greatest Catholic University in the United States," said Professor Bill Miscamble, who is not a member of the Senate but was invited to the meeting.

"Notre Dame is not some secular university. We are a unique institution. We shouldn't be defensive about it but be creative and forthright in pursuing and creating a first-rate Catholic institution," added Miscamble.

"Notre Dame is supposed to be the place where the Catholic Church of America does its thinking," said Professor George Lopez. "This is where the Catholic Church of America does its bickering. We need to ask how we contribute to the thinking of the Church as a whole," he added.

Others were concerned that the report might compromise Notre Dame's academic quality.

"There is a great deal of emphasis placed on what will preserve our religious enterprise," said Professor Jean Porter. "We need to do more to protect our intellectual enterprise. There needs to be more discussion about preserving and enriching the academic character of the community," Porter said.

Professor Ed Vasta added, "We need a culture which will lead to greatness and this is not mentioned in the Colloquy."

The degree to which Notre Dame should promote a Catholic faculty was included in the discussion. Senate members agreed that the recruitment of Catholic faculty members is not easy.

"The experience of our department is that we don't get competitive Catholic applicants. If we stress the hiring of Catholic faculty, we will appoint faculty members who are not the most qualified," said Professor Michael DeLisle.

Notre Dame's prestige as a national university and the importance of the graduate school in establishing it was also discussed.

"We need intellectual intensity, and the small graduate school at Notre Dame greatly limits this. We don't understand the level of true intellectual greatness," Vasta said.

The Colloquy details every aspect of university life and procedure. It is broken into four areas which will be synthesized into a finished report. Last night's discussion will be considered in the formulation of the final document.

Investigators search for cause of explosion

NEW YORK (AP) — Investigators were trying to determine what caused a bomb that exploded New York City's psyche is being hampered by the instability of the two rulers who are running the World Trade Center.

Bridget, the 900-pound security sprinkler that was a target of the two rulers' barb of the summer nights, was shops collected from the perimeter of the 100-foot-wide crater punched out by the explosion in a parking garage. The sprinkler's site is five stories tall. Five were killed and more than 1,000 injured in the Friday night blast.

One person was missing Sunday morning. The police said a person was safely accounted for Sunday night, far from the blast site.

The towers, the world's second-largest buildings, will be closed for at least a week until safety and security are restored. Contractors are being called into the trade center's underground area to make it more secure.

The smoke-damaged New York Commodity Exchange Center, housed in one of the center's smaller buildings, got permission to stay open as the financial center limped back to work.

Law enforcement officials have said they found traces of nitrate, an ingredient in dynamite, at the blast site. Some, speaking on condition of anonymity, told The New York Times that investigators have found traces of chemicals associated with plastic explosives.

Determining what type of explosive was used and how it was triggered will help investigators trace its source. If it was a car bomb, authorities will attempt to reconstruct the vehicle, just as they did in the investigation of the Peavey brothers in the former Yugoslavia.

More than 50 telephone calls — from people claiming to represent everything from nationalists in the former Yugoslav republics to Colombian drug lords — have been received since the blast. Tapes from the call center will be analyzed for accents and other clues that might lead to those responsible.

The explosion two floors underground was in a strategic location that knocked out power, communications and security systems.

Port Authority executive director Stanley Brezenoff told reporters Sunday that a study done in 1985-86 had recommended parking lots underneath the World Trade Center be closed to the public because they were vulnerable to a bomb attack.

Brezenoff said the recommendation was rejected because it was felt parking was needed for the huge complex. But he said restrictions on parking would be reconsidered now.

A shaken city, meanwhile, is beefing up security at airports and at buildings public and private.

After rising much of the last 18 months, consumer confidence leveled off in January as Americans grew increasingly edgy about their financial security, according to a survey by the Conference Board, a New York business research group. Mac's to eliminate 11 more stores

Mac's Inc., said today it would eliminate 11 more stores, shrinking further in an effort to successfully reorganize after a more than a year under bankruptcy court protection. The world-famous retailer said it would shutter Mac's branches in Conn., N.J., and in downtown Los Angeles. The move is to cut back the stores, which are expected to close in several months. Mac will "see what it can do to place as many employees as possible in other locations," said Michael Freitag, a spokesman. The retailer has said for some time it expected to shut several under-performing stores. Asked about any further closings, Freitag said, "based on our current view," there are no plans for further cuts. But store's performance would continue to be reviewed, he said.

Regional banks replace local institutions

INDIANAPOLIS — Changes in the ownership of the state's largest banks marked the end of an era for one of the midwest's iconic banks Monday, said one banker. "We will still be an Indiana bank with a three-times-the-news service," said the second. "The third will keep customer base here," said Otto Frenzel, chairman of the former Merchants Bank National and now chairman of National City in Indianapolis. The mergers that have left Indiana's financial institutions under the ownership of regional superbanks also mean a break with the past, said Frenzel. However, while mergers may create more lending ability and services, but they also chip away at a bank's local presence, said Edward Metzgar, president of First Indiana Savings Bank, which remains independent.

The world-famous retailer said it would shutter Mac's branches in Conn., N.J., and in downtown Los Angeles. The move is to cut back the stores, which are expected to close in several months. Mac will "see what it can do to place as many employees as possible in other locations," said Michael Freitag, a spokesman. The retailer has said for some time it expected to shut several under-performing stores. Asked about any further closings, Freitag said, "based on our current view," there are no plans for further cuts. But store's performance would continue to be reviewed, he said.

Regional banks replace local institutions

INDIANAPOLIS — Changes in the ownership of the state's largest banks marked the end of an era for one of the midwest's iconic banks Monday, said one banker. "We will still be an Indiana bank with a three-times-the-news service," said the second. "The third will keep customer base here," said Otto Frenzel, chairman of the former Merchants Bank National and now chairman of National City in Indianapolis. The mergers that have left Indiana's financial institutions under the ownership of regional superbanks also mean a break with the past, said Frenzel. However, while mergers may create more lending ability and services, but they also chip away at a bank's local presence, said Edward Metzgar, president of First Indiana Savings Bank, which remains independent.

WTC businesses scramble to keep up after explosion

NEW YORK (AP) — From the big guns of other tenants to the commodities exchange that reopened with haphazard trading in the order of business Monday at the bombed World Trade Center to the local papers patrolled because the exchange alarms weren't functioning.

Traders said the day went without disruption as other tenants of the trade center tried to stitch together a plan to get up and running once more. About 200 people shivered in the morning cold as they lined up to enter a packed command center for an escort up to their offices, where many retrieved computer disks and files.

"We're in a very bad situation," said Al Live, executive vice president for Fomeroni Metals, a metals and minerals trading company with four employees.

Kamber, whose company lacks insurance for business interruptions, estimated he faced $100,000 this week in losses.

"We are going to lose a lot of money for a company our size," he said.

The twin towers' operator, the Port Authority of New York and New Jersey, announced a $5 million emergency loan program to some of the 300 small and medium businesses left out of the $100 million.

"We are being told that there is going to be a lot of money for a company like this," he said. US supports China's entrance to GATT.

A raft of statistics reported Monday, including a 0.5 percent increase in Americans' personal income in January, pointed to a moderate and sustained economic expansion this year. Income increased to a seasonally adjusted annual rate of $34.23 trillion, the third in a row. "Even though this report isn't a barn-burner, I'm taking heart from it. After all, it's about doing business. I'm happy that income and spending didn't fall," said economist Robert Wescott of the VERA Group, a Philadelphia-based forecasting service.
Sacrifice may lead to political ‘failure’

Dear Editor:

By now, most of us have heard about President Clinton’s proposed economic package and as part of the accompanying debate. This controversy is fundamentally not a discussion of economic policy, but rather, the argument centers around what sort of leader our new President will be. The keynote of candidate Clinton’s campaign was change from Republican government, change from economic apathy, and change which would ease the burden on working Americans.

Above all, Mr. Clinton portrayed himself as a change from the “traditional” Democrat. Throughout the campaign, he distanced himself from the liberal, “tax and spend” image of his party, from the failures of Carter, Mondale, and Dukakis. Here was a moderate, centrist version of the new Democratic organization.

Unfortunately, based on his economic package, it appears that Mr. Clinton is not the new personification of a new party as we were led to believe. Instead, he has returned to the policies which have doomed the Democrats to past failure and has faced the American nation with the frightening prospect of a government which, if he has his way, will greatly increase in scope and spending. The President’s proposed economic package cuts government spending in one area—defense. However, in the other major areas of government spending, he plans to significantly raise expenditures. This “new” Democratic plan is to increase the government budget by $300 billion over five years.

Central to the proposed plan is the claim that this package will cut the deficit. It is, however, that it is spending which brought about the deficit. Indeed, according to Martin Feldstein, former chairman of the president’s Council of Economic Advisers and professor of economics at Harvard, the proposed package provides virtually no reduction of the relative deficit over the next four years.

How does President Clinton plan to come up with the money to facilitate these increased expenditures? The answer is the old Democratic formula, taxes. For every dollar of increased spending there will be a $4 tax increase. The promise of a middle class tax cut is a mirage.

Marginal tax rates will jump by 37%. Taxes will increase on couples earning over $30,000 a year. The energy tax will raise taxes for 30% of Americans, by increasing the annual energy bill of a family of four earning $25,000 by $105. In short, the American public is asked to foot the bill for the government. Unfortunately, President Clinton’s economic package reveals that he has failed to grasp this concept, and this deficiency threatens to irrevocably link his administration with the failures of past Democrats.

The concept doesn’t make sense unless the suffering will produce tangible benefits. The American people are willing to do with less if it will benefit the economy and the nation. However, in order for the President to be a political success, the new Democratic formula must be redefined. The American people need to sacrifice in order for the government to reduce the deficit and spur a recovery from the recession. The sacrifice of the people must be accompanied by a sacrifice in government spending. The American public is asked to reduce the deficit while the government increases its own expenditures.

‘No new taxes’ means no real solutions

Dear Editor:

Associate Professional Specialist Barry Baumbaugh (Observer, Feb. 24) and his wife, Carole Havens, have a solution for that general political problem they should share it.

(1) Ridding county government of every semblance of nepotism and inefficiency is a long term process and the best facilitating strategy is for talented and virtuous people to run for County Commissioner or County Council. The implicit job description of those offices, however, deters altruistic office seekers. If Baumbaugh and Havens have a solution for that general politic problem they should share it.

(2) If we don’t have a county option tax, we won’t be able to build a much needed new county jail and reforest the land. If we do, the additional cost should be capitalized into the school bond issue and the bond issue they should share it.

"Lorenzo's Oil" is the true story of Augusto and Michaela Odone, who in a remarkable tale of faith and courage, successfully battled against time and the medical establishment to save their son's life.

Augusto Odone (Nick Nolte), a native of Italy, is an economist whose son, Michaela (Susan Sarandon), is an economist and George Miller's work is not as "uplifting" as Mitchell's. However, it's just e-mail. Boy was I wrong. Since that first day I have been in love with e-mail—for a while it took over my life. "People used to set up this e-mail stuff in a cluster to do e-mail; now it's quite common," added Dopke. "It used to be pretty rare that you'd see someone coming into a cluster to do e-mail, but now it's quite common," added Dopke. "People are realizing that all technology is at their disposal, and that they need to use it now so that it becomes more user-friendly." And students are realizing this seven or eight times a day.

Stanford Hall freshman John Keating is one of them. "It's wonderful to have a new, crisp in communication—thanks to a new and simplified user-friendly system, a highly skilled (and very patient) team of Office of University Computing (OUC) staff, and an effective mass marketing campaign. E-mail is not a new concept, according to John Dopke, manager of the DeBartolo Cluster, but it was not until second semester last year that Eudora (the nd.edu system) became available to students. Since then, the number of student users has increased "exponentially," said Dopke consultant Mark Falcione.

North Carolina becomes sixth No. 1 team

(AP) North Carolina regained the No. 1 ranking Monday, a place no more special than any of nine others to coach Dean Smith.

The Tar Heels (24-3) moved from third to first by beating Florida State after Indiana, Kentucky, last week’s 1-2, each lost a road game. It is the first time North Carolina has been No. 1 since early in the 1987-88 season.

"Polls don’t really mean anything until the final poll at the end of the year," Smith said then. "Then, if you finish in the Top Ten, that means you had an excellent season.

Smith’s teams have been no strangers to the Top Ten at season’s end. Last year’s No. 18 Kentucky, last week’s 1-2, each injured forward Alan Henderson, Smith.

Kentucky, moved up seven spots to fifth by beating last place Illinois. Twice, in 1982 and 1983, University of Michigan (22-4) each moved up one spot to third and fourth.

"We really feel good about our winning streak," Smith said. "We’re going to the Final Four, and that’s anything until that happens." The final poll was scheduled Tuesday.

Missouri (23-4), which has the nation’s best winning streak, beat North Carolina in the SEC championship game last Friday. Missouri lost to Tennessee, ending the number that did it in 1989-90. Since 1980, the most teams to hold the top spot in one season were the seven that did it in 1982-83.

Eric Montross and North Carolina became the sixth No. 1 team of the season in poll.

I was five ballots, while the Wolverines, who have lost their season games to Indiana, received three first-place votes. Kentucky (21-3), which lost at Tennessee the day after Indiana lost, dropped three places to fifth.

Duke jumped from ninth to sixth and was followed by VanDenburg, Kansas, Utah and Seton Hall.

North Carolina becomes the sixth team to hold the No. 1 ranking this season, joining Kansas, Minnesota, Texas, Duke, Kentucky, Michigan and Indiana, matching the number that did it in 1989-90. Since 1980, the most teams to hold the top spot in one season were the seven that did it in 1982-83.

Bulls facing toughest foe: injuries

CHICAGO (AP) — The Chicago Bulls are fighting an enemy relatively unfamiliar to them — injuries.

The two-time NBA champions find themselves with starters Bill Cartwright and John Paxson out. A number of other players are sporting bumps, bruises or swellings, most notably Michael Jordan's sprained ankle.

"We've never been in this situation before, where we had two or three guys that have been down who are starters and we had to bring people in," coach Phil Jackson said Monday. "We just go with what we have to go with and patch our team up as well as we can." Most recently, they acquired Ed Nealy in a trade with Golden State last Wednesday.

"I know I'm not going to come in here and take anybody's time away from them," said Nealy. "I'm going to have to earn it, but hopefully that will make them work much harder and keep their time."

Trent Tucker, who shot 9 for 9 in the Bulls' 112-92 win over Atlanta on Saturday, seems secure.

Doubtful Dunston gives Sanchez hope

MESA, Ariz. (AP) — Doubts about how healthy Chicago Cubs shortstop Shawon Dunston will be this season are providing an opportunity for newcomer Rey Sanchez. Sanchez sparkled in the field for the Cubs last summer, playing 74 games and giving Chicago some solid defense.

But he says he isn’t taking anything for granted and still isn’t counting Dunston out.

“I can’t worry about that kind of stuff,” Sanchez said. “Whatever happens, happens. I only know I’m healthy and I’m ready to play. That’s all that matters to me right now. Those other things I can’t control.”

“I’m not competing with Shawon. If they want him and he’s healthy, then he will play. I don’t feel like they owe me anything. I will take whatever they give me. Whatever they tell me to do, I will do.”

Sanchez suffered from a bulging disc last summer, but did not have to undergo surgery. Dunston did have surgery for a herniated disc, and is still hurting.

“I respect Shawon a lot,” Sanchez said. “Give the man credit. He’s played a long time and he’s an all-star. He’s not looking over his shoulder. I admire Shawon. He’s a great player.

“You have to make a name for yourself in this game and you don’t do that until you’ve played for a while. Until then, you just play ball and wait your turn. I don’t feel like I’ve accomplished anything yet.”

“Shawon is experiencing pain and we are concerned about his morale. He’s never been hurt before and he’s frustrated.” Cubs manager Jim Lefebvre said. “We just have to let nature take its course.”

“He’s just frustrated. But I want to see him smile. When he smiles, the whole team lights up.”

Sanchez also suffered from a herniated disc during surgery for a herniated disc last summer, but did not have to undergo surgery.

DALLAS (AP) — Quinn Buckner was a winner as a player at Indiana University and with the Milwaukee Bucks and Boston Celtics.

Winning will be an imposing task if he takes on another challenge — coach of the Dallas Mavericks.

Team sources have told The Dallas Morning News that the Mavericks will offer a coaching job to Buckner, who has no coaching experience. Club officials have said they are confident he’ll accept.

The Mavericks want to hire Buckner before the end of the season so he can be on board for the June 30 draft, the newspaper reported Sunday.

But the 38-year-old Buckner, now an NBA analyst for NBC, would not take over as coach until next season, the sources said. That would leave interim coach Gar Heard in charge for the rest of this season.

The Mavericks were 4-48 after Sunday’s 110-96 loss to Indiana, and are on pace to finish with the worst record in NBA history. Dallas won one game in November, one in December, one in January and one in February.

Buckner emphasized Saturday that he has not yet been offered the job.

“I don’t know if I will be offered the job this week. We’ll see what happens. I don’t speculate on anything that hasn’t happened,” Buckner said. “But I am interested, and I’m still listening.”

A source, insisting on anonymity, said Mavericks owner Don Carter “is definitely leaning toward hiring Buckner.” He added, “This week we’re going to work out the details of the contract.”

Another team source told The Morning News: “We want to get Quinn named this week. We’re planning on offering him the job, announcing it and getting this all taken care of. That’s how far along this is.”

Mavericks vice president Rick Carlisle said, “I’m hoping to get our coach named this week.”

Buckner is one of a handful of players who have won an NCAA championship, NBA title and Olympic gold medal. He was captain of Indiana’s 1976 NCAA championship team, played on the U.S. gold medal team at the 1976 Olympics, and was with the Celtics when they won the 1984 NBA title.

He has been Sun’s No. 1 choice since Aduobato was fired on Jan. 13.

Buckner and Sun have a relationship dating back 17 years, when Buckner was a rookie in Milwaukee and Sun was a member of the Bucks’ front office.

Buckner reportedly is insisting on a four-year deal to take over the Mavericks.

For more information about the Mavericks, call 1-800-665-1111.
The Notre Dame fencing squad roared into the postseason with a first-place finish at the Midwest Intercollegiate Championships at Michigan State University.

The Irish finished in the top two spots in all four weapons, collecting 500 points while their closest competitor, Ohio State, finished with 425 points.

"This was a team effort all the way," remarked men's head coach Mike DeGisco. "We took giant steps towards our goal in all four weapons."

As expected, the full squad performed well, tying Illinois for first place by collecting 120 points. Senior captain Jeff Piper, who was undefeated against midwestern opponents during the dual season, won the individual foil competition. Foilists Jordan Maggio, Jon S. Brenner, and Brian Girard finished fifth, ninth, and eleventh, respectively.

The sabremen scored 112 points, just three short of Ohio State, as they were led by fifth place finisher senior Bernie Baez. Sophomore Chris McQuade turned in a strong performance taking seventh, and fellow sophomore Chris Hajnack took ninth.

The epee squad followed the lead of the foilists by tying Illinois for first place with 116 points. Senior Geoff Pechinsky led all Notre Dame epeists. Gregorz Wosnick, who led the Irish all season, placed fifth. The women's team contributed 152 points, edging Ohio State by two. The victory over Ohio State avenged a 12-4 loss suffered earlier this season. Freshman Claude deJeuvin took a third place finish as the Irish's top individual. Senior Kathleen Vogt placed fifth, junior Kimberly Arndt finished eighth, and freshman Mindi Kalogerakos eleven placed for the Irish women.

"The team is peaking at the right time," said DeGisco. "Next week is another hurdle, and we need to concentrate on qualifying for the NCAA Championships."

Next weekend, the team travels to Cleveland State for the NCAA Midwest Regional Qualifier. Both the men and women will have to place in the top two spots or receive one at-large bid in order to qualify for the NCAA Championships.

Dubbles play spakrs men’s tennis team

By JONATHAN JENSEN

The Notre Dame men’s tennis team got a reprieve of sorts last weekend, as they took a break from the nation’s toughest schedule to face two Big Ten teams in Northwestern and Illinois at the Eck Tennis Pavilion.

Saturday’s change of pace was appreciated, as the Irish got some much-needed rest and were able to use the weekend to relax and focus on their upcoming match against Cleveland State.

“Everything is going well,” Head Coach Randy Julian said. “We’re looking forward to the match against Cleveland State this weekend.”

While the Irish won comfortably against the Wildcats, they were still able to push through some tough losses against the Fighting Illini. But with the weekend off, they were able to regroup and come out strong against the Spartans.

“The team is really excited for the match against Cleveland State,” Julian said. “We’ve been working hard all week and are looking forward to getting back out there.”

The Irish were able to win both singles and doubles against the Spartans, with Freshman Matthew Kostick and Senior Jacko Houtz leading the way with their 6-2, 6-4 win.

“We’re really happy to get the win,” Kostick said. “We’ve been working hard all week and it paid off today.”

The team now sets its sights on the ACC Championships, which take place later this month.

“This weekend was just a warm-up,” Julian said. “Now we’re looking forward to the ACC Championships.”

Women’s swim team dominates to win third straight MCC title

By HALEY SCOTT

The Irish swim well enough to win, but not as fast as they had hoped. The women’s swim team continued their reign as the Midwestern Collegiate Conference champions by capturing their sixth straight title this past weekend.

The Irish scored 1183 points, ahead of second place Evansville who totaled 891 points. La Salle (770), Butler (518), Bowling Green (427), Xavier (405) rounded out the conference.

Senior co-captain Susan Bohdan swam one of the best meets of her four-year career with the Irish, and was encouraged by the team’s performance. “I was pleased with how we swam and how we finished. We won a good amount of events.”

Notre Dame did not only win events. Head coach Tim Welsh was named MCC women’s coach of the year, and freshman Jessica Peterson was newcomer of the year.

The Irish started their domination with four victories and a second place on the first day of the meet. Kay Bruderick, a senior from Waynesville, Ill., won the 200-yard individual medley with a time of 2:14.11, to break her own MCC record. Notre Dame’s Rachel Thurston, Cara Garvey, and Kelly Walsh placed first, second, and third respectively, in the 20-yard freestyle. Freshman Mary Wendell joined the winning trio in the 200-yard medley relay.

The 400-yard medley relay of Bruderick, Peterson, Lisa Manzoni, and Bohdan also placed first. Dunnishoff of the first three days of competition was Peterson, who placed the highest for the Irish in the 500-yard freestyle taking second with a time of 5:05.18.

Notre Dame continued to prove themselves a dominant team throughout the second day of competition. In the 200-yard medley relay, the team of Garvey, and freshmen Alisa Springman, Walsh, and Thurston placed first with a MCC meet record time of 1:50.99, two seconds faster than the record set by Notre Dame last year.

Boband won the first of two events with a time of 1:55.50, in the 200-yard freestyle. She later went on to win the 100-yard freestyle, followed by Thurston at second and Peterson in third.

Junior Kristie Heath was also a double winner, placing first in the 400-yard individual medley and the 100-yard freestyle. "I think I looked really strong," said Bohdan.

The mile and the 100-yard freestyle were the only events Notre Dame won on the third day, but the head they built on the previous days was enough to win.

Assistant head coach Randy Julian said "The weather this season was very good. The team played well and the climate was favorable. We were able to win the title and have a good team performance."
