Senate axes Republican amendment to Clinton bill

Senator Kills GOP Amendment Trimming Clinton Jobs Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate reversed itself today and voted 55-42 to kill a Republican amendment to President Clinton's $16.3 billion jobs bill that would have forbidden financing of tennis courts and other projects the nation's mayors want. Undoing what had been an embarrassing blow to Clinton, lawmakers rejected the GOP proposal on a 52-48 vote. Just 14 hours earlier, the Senate had given preliminary approval to the amendment on a 48-44 vote.

Monday night, five Democrats had absolved their president and voted for the Republican provision, which was sponsored by Sen. Frank R. Lautenberg, D-N.J. But red-faced Senate leaders decided to try again today because seven other Democratic senators had missed the mid-evening vote.

"This is a fictitious list of programs that never were, never will be, never will be funded in the first place," said Sen. Robert Byrd, D-W.Va., the jobs measure's sponsor, before the Senate ignored his advice and gave preliminary assent to the GOP amendment. The jobs measure is a key leg of Clinton's economic recovery strategy, aimed at quickly providing jobs and providing a lift to the country's business climate. It would provide extra money for small business loans, summer jobs for teens and other employment-heavy programs.

The House approved a similar bill on March 19. Congressional leaders want to send the measure and a companion deficit-reduction plan to Clinton for his signature. See SENATE/ page 4

Outlaw: Subtle prejudice only small part of racism

By JOHN LUCAS
News Writer

Subtle forms of prejudice expressed in residential halls are a small part of a greater problem of racism on the Notre Dame campus, according to Iris Outlaw, Director of Minority Affairs.

"Racism at Notre Dame is alive and thriving in a very healthy state," she explained to a Zahn Hall forum last night.

Subtle forms of prejudice existing in residence halls often include racial jokes, stereotypes and off-color comments, according to Charles Bright, a African-American student, living in Zahn Hall.

"It's much more of a closet form of racism," he said.

Despite being subtle or "closed," racial jokes and comments still exist in just as much larger racial incidents, according to Dave Fuentes, a Hispanic-American student.

"When people make slurs like that, it hurts... it hurts a lot," he said. "I always want to ask 'I didn't do anything to you, why do you have a problem with me?'"

Citing that a majority of Notre Dame students come from communities where they have not had much experience around minorities, Outlaw suggested that this not be seen as a handicap, but a chance to both learn and dispel stereotypes.

"Many students here have never really had to interact with persons of color. This isn't a problem or an obstacle, but an opportunity to learn," she said.

Another common misconception that doubles as a subtle form of prejudice is the myth that mostly minorities are always athletes, Bright said.

"As much as I go home, people still ask if I play football. It's almost like people don't understand I'm intelligent... they think the only reason blacks are here is for sports," he said.

A Zahn Hall survey prepared for this forum indicated that 68 percent of respondents believe that racism exists in Zahn, which under 40 percent have been a witness or a victim of outright subtle or blatant forms of racism.

The fear that the subtler forms of prejudice produce could pervade everyday relations, according to Al Tarillo, an African-American living in Zahn.

"I often worry that people are talking about my color behind my back... I believe you really have to get to know the person behind the color, because the biggest problem is ignorance," he said.

Despite the results of the survey, Zahn has a unique situation.

"More subtle than obvious, the subtler and blatant forms of racism are not as prevalent, according to Car­roll Zahn."

"Zahn is a very special place where from the very first, we are all made to feel like one big family... we all have experience together," he said.

Even members of the Administration are not immune from subtle forms of racism, according to Outlaw, who observes racism in "some places.*

In order to get past the racist jokes and stereotypes that distort relationships between the races, Outlaw suggests more honest communication between people of different races.

"When people ask sincere questions, this is how a dialogue begins... and with that, we see experiences with people of color... and we can see the opportunities, because everyone has something to contribute." See OUTLAW/ page 4

Notre Dame, Saint Mary's students to stage 'Take Back the Night' march

By NICOLE MCGRAHT
St. Mary's News Editor

The third annual 'Take Back the Night' march will begin tonight at 7 p.m. in front of the Notre Dame administration building as part of Sexual Assault Awareness Week.

"It's a demonstration to reclaim a sense of security. It's a walk to raise awareness about dangerous places between Notre Dame and Saint Mary's," said Joan Straka, Campus Alliance for Rape Elimination (C.A.R.E.) co-chair.

According to Sypolt, the march was not scheduled to kick off Sexual Assault Awareness Week because sponsors, C.A.R.E. and Sexual Offense Services (S.O.S.) wanted the march to kick off the week's events.

"Maybe people will be more apt to do the march if they understand what it's all about," she said.

Events this week have included discussion panels about sexual assault and peer harassment. On Thursday, there will be a self-defense class taught on the second floor of LaFortune. Red ribbons will be distributed to attendees.

"The red ribbons...that tradi­tion started last year and which went over very well," said Sypolt.

There hasn't been total support over the years, according to Sypolt.

"In previous years, people have mocked students walking, but I hope they hear our message that people are affected by sexual violence," she said.

"It's an issue for both men and women because approximately 10 percent of sexual assaults victims are male," added Sypolt.

Although it may rain at the march, Sypolt hopes that many people will come out and support the walk. "With Sister Cheryl Massing, people may be more inclined to do the whole walk," she added.

At last year's march, approximately 40 students walked from the Main Building to the fieldhouse mall.

"The 'Take Back the Night' march originated in England during the 1970's," said Sypolt. The first United States march took place in San Francisco in 1978. Sexual Assault Awareness Week is sponsored by C.A.R.E. and S.O.S.
Deaths of two children may have ended numbness

It was rush hour in London. The tube station swelled with hundreds of exhausted individuals standing, shoulders to shoulder. A young woman shifted restlessly. A businesswoman casually checked her watch.

Ten minutes. Fifteen minutes.

Finally, a loud, but garbled voice announced: "Due to a security alert at Oxford Circus, the Central Line has terminated all eastbound and westbound services. Please take an alternate route."

For the London transport system, a "security alert" essentially means one of two things—either an absent-minded individual carelessly left a parcel unattended, or there is a bomb in the vicinity.

My heart skipped a beat. I'll admit, the thought of a bomb in the area frightened me. But a stranger to the country, I seemed to be the only one affected. The woman let out a sigh. The man continued to read.

There was no concern. No panic. It was business as usual in the London tube station. Nobody mentioned the possibility of a bomb. Nobody inquired if the 32,000 people who had been seriously injured in the ethnic struggle in Northern Ireland were affected.

It seems that after twenty years, the people of England and Ireland have grown numb. A bomb no longer represents one of the 200 individuals in Great Britain alone who have been killed as a result of this conflict, but merely an "alternate route" home.

It took two children to change that.

In Warrington, England last week, IRA bombs took two children to change that.

And two nations reacted. Citizens in both Great Britain and the Republic of Ireland stood shoulder to shoulder, put aside their passive acceptance and joined the peace movement. In Dublin yesterday, 20,000 Irish men and women gathered to promote peace and to denounce the IRA.

This is not the first time citizens have protested the conflict, but it is the first time that either country has put passive and collective voice and energy towards the IRA—the first time in twenty years.

While small violations like the IRA exacerbate the conflict, they do not represent the view of the majority—of Protestants and Catholics alike.

The demonstrators in Ireland and England have at least taken a step in the right direction. Though 20 years later, they are finally moving away from passive acceptance of the violence in a protesting presence that might force the governments on all sides to take decisive action.

But days after the two children were killed, loyalist paramilitaries retaliated by killing six Catholics—one only of whom was a confirmed IRA surrogate, Mary Beth Whitehead.

Hardly a promising advent to what many hope will be a new season of understanding.

The views expressed in the Inside Columns are those of the author and not necessarily those of The Observer.

The Accu-Weather forecast for noon, Wednesday, March 31.

The Observer (USPS 599 2-0000) is published Monday through Friday except during exam and vacation periods. The Observer is a member of the Associated Press. All reproduction rights are reserved.

FORECAST
Cloudy and cooler today with 90 percent chance of rain and highs around 50. Upper 30's tomorrow with possible snow.

TODAY AT A GLANCE

NATIONAL Weather

World

Bush will visit Kuwait for honor

KUWAIT—Former President Bush will visit the emirate April 13-15 and receive an honorary degree from Kuwait University. Kuwait's minister of education said Tuesday that Bush was invited by the ruling emir, Sheik Jaber Al-Ahmed Al-Sabah. Bush spokesman Andrew Maner confirmed the travel schedule in Houston. Similar honorary degrees have been given to former British Prime Minister Margaret Thatcher and to Javier Perez de Cuellar, the former secretary-general of the United Nations, for their roles in liberating Kuwait from seven months of Iraqi occupation.

Iraqi court rules for Scrolls scholar

JERUSALEM—In a landmark case, an Israeli judge ruled today that an American editor violated copyright laws by publishing a deciphered version of one of the Dead Sea Scrolls without permission. Defense attorneys said the case could have a chilling effect on other scholarly work related to the ancient documents, which include some of the earliest copies of biblical verses. The suit was filed in January 1992 after the Washington-based Scroll Society published "A Facsimile Edition of the Dead Sea Scrolls," including a transcription of a scroll known as JMM, and/or engineering according to their scholastic

OF INTEREST

A guest concert will be presented today at 3:30 P.M. in room 115 of the Crowley Music Hall by Linda Trotter, soprano, and Phyllis Rappeport, pianist, faculty members at Western Michigan University. They will perform Arnold (JASA) General Assembly will meet at 9 p.m. in the Multicultural Lounge on the second floor of LaFortune. The topic for the evening is "Shades of Hue—Beauty of the Nuhan Woman." For further information, call Sherida DuBose at 631-4934.

Just A Sister Away (JASA) General Assembly will meet at 9 a.m. in the Multicultural Lounge on the second floor of LaFortune. The topic for the evening is "Shades of Hue—Beauty of the Nuhan Woman." For further information, call Sherida DuBose at 631-4934.

Resume Expert Plus Lab will conduct two informational sessions on how to use Resume Expert Plus to create your resume are scheduled. They will feature on-screen instruction plus on-the-computer assistance with formatting. Please bring your Resume Expert Plus disk. These sessions will be held in room 228 (Delbartolo, Friday, April 2 from 3:30 to 5:00 P.M. and repeated on Tuesday, April 6 from 3:30 to 5:00 P.M. Since space is limited, please sign up one day in advance by calling Career and Placement Services (1-5200).

The South Bend Center for the Homeless is distributing applications for internships at the center. Deadlines are April 1 for summer internships, and April 15 for fall internships.

NATIONAL

Tuesday launch for space shuttle

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. — NASA will try to send space shuttle Discovery on an atmospheric research mission next week, pushing Columbia's German-sponsored science flight late into April if all goes well. Discovery would weigh off at 1:32 a.m. Tuesday on the eight-day flight. A nighttime launch is scheduled so orbital sunrises and sunsets at the right spots for ozone measurements. Columbia was supposed to be the next shuttle up, but a stuck valve could cause the launch to be scrubbed for three seconds before liftoff on March 28. NASA said Tuesday that Columbia will be launched no earlier than April 24.

CAMPUS

Students chosen for program

NOTRE DAME, Ind.—Saint Mary's junior Kelly Smith and sophomore Elizabeth Ge have been selected by the Northwest College and University Association for Science (NORCUS) for a 10-week summer research program at Battelle Memorial Institute's Pacific Northwest Laboratories in Richland, Wash. Smith, a biology major from Vaparraiso, Ind., will conduct a project in which she will research primary cells and toxicology. Go, a math major from South Bend, is still waiting for her final assignment. The program, which is administered by NORCUS for the U.S. Department of Energy, is designed for undergraduate students who possess the potential for a successful career in science and/or engineering according to their scholastic achievement, aptitude and interests.

MARKET UPDATE

YESTERDAY'S TRADING March 30

VOLUME IN SHARES 231,870,304

NYSE INDEX

+ 60 to 249.18

S&P COMPOSITE

+1.20 to 455.97

DOW JONES INDUSTRIALS

+2.17 to 2470.27

GOLD

+ $4.60 to $327.34

SILVER

+ $0.147 to $4.900.

© 1993 Accu-Weather, Inc.
Israel seals off West Bank

HADERA, Israel (AP) — Gunmen shot to death two Israeli traffic police sitting in a squad car Tuesday, and the government struck back by barring the West Bank’s 1 million Palestinians from entering Israel.

Police blamed militant Arabs for the pre-dawn slayings. The assassinations at an intersection near this town in Israel’s heartland appeared to escalate a wave of Arab attacks that has claimed 13 Israeli lives in March. Twenty-six Israelis also have been killed this month.

Facing a public outcry, Prime Minister Yitzhak Rabin went on television to implore his fellow Israelis to remain calm and to avoid the fighting. "Terrorism never defeated us and never will," said the 71-year-old former general.

Palestinians said the tough measure of sealing the occupied territories and barring 120,000 Palestinians from their jobs in Israel would damage peace prospects.

Rabin appealed to Israelis "not to lose faith that we will achieve peace." But the attack threatened his effort to defend the U.S.-sponsored peace process against demands from Israeli hard-liners to scrap it.

In Washington, White House spokesman George Stephanopoulos said the Clinton administration wants to keep the peace talks on track but said: "We’re obviously concerned by the escalating violence on all sides."

Members of media discuss career opportunities in their professions

By CHRISTINA CANNON
News Writer

A panel of four media professionals spoke on career opportunities in their fields and how to break into the media industry in a presentation held in St. Mary’s Stapleton Lounge last evening.

The panelists all agreed that media is an extremely hard field to break into. Elizabeth Butler, account manager for Family Circle magazine cited reasons for her success in finding a job in the media.

"You have to show enthusiasm for what you want to do and sell yourself," she said. "Another important thing is contacts. If you can make contacts with people in management positions you are ahead of the game."

In addition, one "should follow up contacts. If you do this people will start hearing your name over and over," she said.

Bruce Lee of J. Walter advertising, who has worked on such accounts as Huggies pull-ups training pants and Cheese Whiz, stresses persistence.

"The ones who really want it, get it," he said.

He added that being knowledgeable about the company to which you are interviewing gives you an added advantage. "The company will be impressed that you took the time to learn about them," he said. Brent Grischko, a media buyer who works for Foote-Cone on the account for Coors’ beer, owes his break into the media field to luck.

"I worked for a temporary agency in Chicago and I would fill in for secretaries who worked for advertising agencies," he said. "After a while there was a position open so I submitted a resume."

Majoring in business or advertising in college is not necessarily an advantage, he added. "I graduated with a degree in sociology," he said.

The pros and cons of a career in the industry were outlined by all the panelists. John Melkin, an account manager for MTV, said long hours, small entry level pay, and paper work are the biggest disadvantages.

"The business is very fun and very stable. There is a lot of winning and dining involved. You get to go to a lot of free parties, with free beer, and have clients do a lot of hoot-kissing," said Grischko.

The presentation was sponsored by the Saint Mary’s Marketing Club and hosted by Karen Koch, advertising pro-

Notre Dame Apartments

2 bedroom Apts.

NOW LEASING FOR NEXT SCHOOL YEAR

Apartments Available at $250 per month

Features include (in all units):

- New Carpet
- New Appliances
- New Cabintes
- New Security System
- New Landscaping
- Fenced Parking

Come see the changes we have made. You won’t be disappointed!

For more info call: 232-8256

Please conserve water

Conservative Student Coalition

(Formerly College Republicans)

Will be having a meeting on Thursday, April 1 in the Montgomery Theatre in LeFortune at 7:00pm

Dues will be collected and Pizza will be served!

ALL MEMBERS AND ANYONE INTERESTED IN JOINING ARE INVITED TO COME!
promises unfulfilled one year after peru

lima, peru (ap) - when president abelardo fujimori padlocked congress and the courts the night of april 5, 1992, he said he needed a free hand to fight terrorism, drug trafficking and corruption.

a year later, corruption has spread in the judiciary, the cocaine trade is growing faster than ever and the economy is suffering. nonetheless, fujimori's success in reducing terrorism has helped keep his public support high.

despite his failure in their living standards, 60 percent of peruvians continue to back fujimori, according to public opinion polls. he has won support by cracking down on leftist rebels, slashing inflation, privatizing money-losing state industries and winning new foreign loans for peru after years of insolvency.

"people see fujimori as a person who's trying to fix things, compared to the politicians who have left peru in the situation it is," said alfredo torres of the private polling firm apoyo.

fujimori continues to defend his power, which was widely criticized by foreign governments. "the step taken was on the mark and supported by the people," he said in a recent television interview.

his main triumph since then was the capture of shining path guerrilla leader abimael guzman, whose 13-year insurgency has claimed more than 25,000 lives on both sides.

on sept. 12, anti-terrorist police arrested guzman and three other rebel leaders at a lima safe-house in an operation so secret even fujimori was told beforehand.

despite guzman's capture, guerilla violence continues in the countryside, where the shining path's military might remains untouched. but the attacks have been on a smaller scale and appear less coordinated than before september.

fujimori also has restored order in prisons and universities for the first time in years.

he decreed life sentences for guerrillas and formed secret military courts to try them. courts have sentenced nearly 300 rebels since then.

but while fujimori concentrated on fighting the shining path, peru's $1 billion annual cocaine trade has grown.

farmers who grow the coca leaf, the raw material for cocaine, have moved deeper into the jungle to escape guerrilla violence and a crop fungus.

last year, fujimori ordered the air force to take control of nine main jungle airports to block drug traffickers from using them to smuggle out raw coca.

promises unfulfilled one year after peru

the observer wednesday, march 31, 1993

blimpie

subs • salads • pizza

daily specials for april

mon – 6” BOGO

(buy one 6” sub, get second one free)

tues – double punch day

wed – any cold sub and medium drink only $2.99

thurs – $1.00 off any combo meal

(6” bigger bite sub, medium drink, chips)

fri – free bag of chips with purchase of 6” sub and a medium drink sat – $1.00 off on any foot-long sub sun – double meal deal – two-foot-long subs, two medium drinks, two bags of chips – only $5.99 located at ironwood plaza north

s.r. 23 & ironwood

(near martin’s)

(219) 273-2234

fax: (219) 273-2445

once upon a time...

happy 21st birthday t.j. harris

love, mom, dad, and nikki best selection – best service

trek usa bridgestone

bike specialties (616) 683-3100

upcoming events

an international conference

"economic sanctions and international relations"

friday-sunday, april 2, 3 & 4, 1993

more than a dozen speakers will address the use and effects of sanctions on yugoslavia, iraq, haiti and south africa, including:

james ngobi, national security and sanctions committee

kimberly ann elliot, institute for international economics, author of economic sanctions rouen david curtis, president, fourth freedom forum visiting faculty fellow, university of notre dame

theodore wirth, the wirth institute

yugoslavian affairs

gary miller, executive director, the wright project on proliferation jennifer davis, executive director, american commission for human rights registration and more information:

peace institute; first floor flyeridge center

cosponsored by the fourth freedom forum

21 happy birthday jonathan

march 31, 1993

love, mom
PARIS (AP) — France's new prime minister, Edouard Balladur, took office Tuesday and named a conservative Cabinet with rightist foreign and interior ministers who could clash with Socialist President Francois Mitterrand.

But Balladur, who is considered a moderate and consensus-builder, named moderates to the ministries of defense, economics and social affairs.

Following a right-wing triumph over Mitterrand's Socialists in legislative elections ending Sunday, France's government will become a "cohabitation" of a prime minister and president from different political persuasions.

Foreign and defense policy are considered the domains of the presidency in the tradition of Charles de Gaulle, though the constitution is unclear about the division of power between the president and Cabinet on the issues.

Among the priorities of the conservative coalition is a cut in the 10.6 percent jobless rate, though perhaps not in time for presidential elections in 1995.

Balladur, 63, met throughout the day with leaders of his right-wing coalition that captured 484 of the 577 National Assembly seats.

On Tuesday evening he went to the Hotel Matignon, the prime minister's office, shaking hands and smiling with Socialist Prime Minister Pierre Mitterrand, then assumed power at the end of their meeting.

Balladur went to Elysees Palace, Mitterrand's residence, where the 90-member Cabinet lineup was announced on the palace steps.

"It balanced representation between the more right-wing Rally for the Republic of Paris Mayor Jacques Chirac, and the more moderate Union for French Democracy of former President Valery Giscard d'Estaing."

"A four-day emergency session of Congress failed to decide the power struggle between president and parliament, although it did erode Yeltsin's powers. His foes fell only 72 votes short of the 689 needed to remove him from office in a vote Sunday. The session ended Monday."

Bitter attacks on Yeltsin have become a habit with the 1,033-member body, dominated by Communist Party officials, factory directors and state farm chiefs elected before the Soviet collapse of 1991. They oppose Yeltsin's free-market reforms and Western-oriented foreign policy.

Yeltsin himself had proposed as an April 25 referendum a way to resolve the political crisis: Congress approved it but added a leader's option on whether Russians support the painful economic reforms he began 15 months ago. Many Russians do not.

Yeltsin's chief of staff, Sergei Filatov, told the daily Izvestia the Congress could not block the president from "carrying out his simplest and most democratic plan" — a parallel referendum. It would ask voters to approve the basic principles of a new constitution that would strengthen the presidency and replace the Congress with a smaller, bicameral legislature.

Only days before an April 3-4 summit meeting with President Clinton to discuss Western aid, Yeltsin also had bad news on the economic front. The top representative of the International Monetary Fund in Moscow, Jean Pogilzze, said the IMF would not provide Russia the $24 billion in credits the government had agreed to provide in April 25 referendum, on the grounds that Russian law forbids referendums on specific economic policies.

"Most of the speakers said it would not be expedient to hold referendums according to the economic question," Izvestia reported that a parallel referendum on the 25th would force it.

It urged him to ask the Constitutional Court to strike the constitutional provision that Yeltsin held a strategy session with the IMF and Russia's leaders were battling over it.

IMF support is vital to Russia because the seven richest industrialized democracies have agreed to provide $24 billion in credits for the IMF and Russia can agree on an economic program.

Yeltsin reported that industrial production fell about 7 percent during the first quarter of 1993 compared to the same period last year — roughly twice as big a drop as the government forecast.

Yeltsin held a strategy session in the Kremlin with about 100 parliamentary supporters. They urged him to ask the Constitutional Court to strike out the economic question off the April 25 ballot, on the grounds that Russian law forbids referendums on specific economic policies.

First meeting was "substantive," Yeltsin said.

"We have a very good, fruitful discussion," DeGuerin said this morning before leaving for the second meeting.

FBI agent Bob Ricks sounded a similar note today, saying authorities "are cautiously optimistic that this will be one of the significant events" in ending the siege.

Koreish, a doomsday preacher who has claimed to be Jesus Christ, has been holed up with followers since a Feb. 28 gunfight that killed four federal agents and at least two cultists.

Koreish's count, 96 followers are still with him in the compound east of Waco.

Ricks said the FBI is neither directing DeGuerin nor listening to the calls. Following the first meeting Monday afternoon, federal agents moved 75 yards away from the porch where DeGuerin sat. For this morning's meeting, the compound inside the sect's compound.

DeGuerin said he was hopeful his discussions would bring a peaceful end to the stalemate.

He told federal agents that the first meeting was "substantive," Ricks said.

DeGuerin tried to visit the compound shortly after he was hired a month ago but was not allowed to.

His meetings Monday and Tuesday were the first time since shortly after the siege began that a third party had been allowed to communicate directly with cult members in the compound.

Federal authorities cut the cult's telephone communications with the outside world a month ago but have allowed the phone to be used only for talking with law enforcement officials.

DeGuerin wouldn't discuss any details of the Monday meeting, Koreish's health or the mood of other cult members, except to say that he also spoke with several of the cult members besides Koreish.
Two Serb soldiers convicted of war crimes

SARAJEVO, Bosnia-Herzegovina (AP) — Two Serb soldiers were sentenced Tuesday to death by firing squad for war atrocities that included raping Muslim women, taking them to a forest and shooting them.

The five-man military court that convicted Borislavlja Herak, 22, and Sreten Damjanovic, 31, set no date for their execution. Defense attorneys said they would appeal.

The commander of U.N. peacekeepers urged Bosnian authorities to turn the case —
Bosnia's first war crimes trial — over to an international tribu-tal to avoid inflaming ethnic passions.

Herak, his head slightly bowed as the sentence was read, confessed to killing 30 war prisoners and civilians, including a dozen young Muslims
he first raped.

Damjanovic claims he was tortured into falsely confessing to five murders and two rapes.
The only evidence against him,
his lawyer complained, is Herak's testimony.

Defense lawyers planned an appeal to the Bosnian supreme court, saying the trial produced no hard evidence and hinged on the disputed confession of one defendant.

Given a chance to speak after sentencing, Herak said, "I desire the death penalty. I would just like to see my father one more time and to have some cigarettes."

Damjanovic said bitterly, "I just want to thank the court for this."

Asked by Judge Zlatan
Tfedarajic to elaborate, Dam-janovic said, "This is not a fair judgment. I am not guilty. I'd like to have some cigarettes."

Both soldiers were convicted of crimes against civilians and genocide, based on Herak's testimony that he and Dam-janovic killed people during so-called "ethnic cleansing" oper-aions to purge Muslims from villages the Serbs took over.

Herak also was convicted of crimes against prisoners of war, based on his confession that he slit the throats of three POWs.

Where's the T
on your shirt
Massman?

Hope you find it and get rid of some of that dust
on your 21st
Love,
S, S, K & M

Finance Forum

"Venture Capital Investing and Entrepreneurism"

Mr. James C. Blair of Domain Capital
Ms. Jacqueline Morby of TA Associates

Wednesday, March 31 at 7 PM
Center for Continuing Education Auditorium

All encouraged to attend.
"Promises to be an informative and interesting night."
Reception to follow.
CLINIQUE

EXCLUSIVE FREE 7-PIECE GIFT
YOURS WITH ANY 13.50 OR MORE CLINIQUE PURCHASE

Your “Easy Perfection” bonus includes:
• Ginger Flower Re-Moisturizing Lipstick
• Gentle Exfoliator Rinse-Off Formula
• Dramatically Different Moisturizing Lotion
• Soft Pressed Eye Shadow Duo
• Special Hand and Body Lotion
• Handbag comb/mirror
• Clinique cosmetic bag

PLUS A SECOND FREE GIFT...

“ACHEEKY DEAL” DUO FACE POWDER BLUSHER
You’ll receive your second free gift when you return to the Clinique Counter April 18-May 8 for a complimentary makeup and skincare consultation. Book your appointment today and receive our New Clover/Honey Blush Young Face Powder Blusher.

FOR YOUR PURCHASE MAY WE SUGGEST
TURNAROUND CREAM
USE IT TONIGHT,
SEE PROGRESS TOMORROW
• Works with speed so dramatic that progress begins literally overnight.
• Visible lines and signs of past sun damage now taken firmly in hand.
• Turnaround Cream, 2 oz., 27.50.

FOR A FAST, FREE SKIN ANALYSIS,
MEET THE CLINIQUE COMPUTER

Programmed by a group of leading dermatologists, the Clinique Computer asks eight essential questions and analyzes the answers to determine skin type and the proper Clinique products and procedures.

SHOP WEDNESDAY 10 A.M.-9 P.M.
USE YOUR L.S. AYRES CHARGE & SHOP BY PHONE 24 HOURS A DAY 1-800-528-2345

YOUR EXCLUSIVE 7-PIECE GIFT

L.S. AYRES
Dear Editor:

Over spring break, we, like many others, found ourselves stranded in Atlanta in "the scariest of the century." We had already spent a night in a hotel only to see the rate double the next night. This left us with nothing to do after emptying our wallets from an eventful country trip.

Just when we thought all our options were exhausted one of us had the brilliant idea of calling the Atlanta Notre Dame Alumni Club. When we called the Alumni Association they gave us the number of Victor Miller, the president of the club. We figured that he would call a member of the club and see if they could accommodate us. Instead, Mr. Miller told us we would be able to stay with him as long as necessary. He headed over to his house and expected to feast on peanut butter and jelly sandwiches (which would have been a step up from our nACHos and salsa). But that's not what Mr. Miller had in mind.

He took us to the new Hard Rock Cafe in Atlanta and treated us to a great dinner and drinks. Then he drove us around the city and bought us videos. He wouldn't let us pay for anything. Then in the morning he left us with enough food to last us on our cross-country trip. It is times like these that exemplify what a great university we have. Mr. Miller truly represents the Notre Dame family. We can't thank him enough for his generous time and efforts to make a bad turn of events end up in great time. If in the future you are in a jam don't hesitate to turn to alumni. They play such an important part in making the Notre Dame experience memorable.

Tanya Bulakowski
Pasquerilla West

Dear Editor:

Last Friday the Observer published a student poll on interracial dating which seemed to reflect a general acceptance of judging people by the color of their skin. Fifty-nine percent of the students polled said they could not see themselves in an intercultural dating which seemed to reflect a general acceptance of judging people by the color of their skin. Fifty-nine percent of the students polled said they could not see themselves in an intercultural relationship, and apparently think there is nothing morally wrong with feeling this way. Could a society ever exist where children of different races grow up together, and opportunities aren't based on color—yet where a line is drawn in each mind that says "more than friends" is reserved for those who look like you? Forty-seven percent of the students polled said that society will never accept interracial relationships, so they must either think such a society is impossible, or think America will always be racist. I don't believe either of these. I feel that everyone who opposes interracial dating condones racism. Some people might claim I'm ignoring the real differences in backgrounds created by our society, but it is wrong to know you will never date a certain person without ever speaking to him/her solely because of the color of his/her skin. If we keep believing we can have an environment that is "separate but equal" there will always be men like my father who get scared when they see black men talking to their precious white daughters.

Kristen Bryant
Walsh Hall
March 29, 1993

"The rivalry of scholars increases wisdom."

Milton Steinberg

Increase our wisdom. Submit:
QUOTES, P.O. Box Q, N.D., IN 46556
Religion cannot be political 'litmus test'

Gary J. Caruso
Capitol Comments

Town is pathetic. This is pathetic for a community with 250,000 people. The Heers' group made few friends when they occupied ND's golden-domed Administration building demanding to speak with Father Malloy. I am certain that Fr. Malloy's disposition was not pleasant and low key as his manner. If I were Malloy, I would have told these people to rethinks their strategies. Crusaders tend to trivialize the rights of those with whom they disagree.

This nation is a pluralistic society with many religions as well as no religion. The sooner the Heers, Robertsons, O'Connors realize that religion cannot, and will not be the litmus test for political decisions, the better off we all will be.

The technology's being of Governor Cuomo's speaking at any church or school facility is ridiculous. If Cuomo represented a 100 percent Catholic constituency, maybe the Cardinal would have a point.

Robertson's use of the Bible and "born again" as being the only true Christian definition seems me out of time. But no, as well as those who produce what we would term as pornography, they have the right to express themselves. Let everyone decide individually in whom and how they believe. Let God make the final judgment on individuals rather than promoting the shooting of a doctor who performs abortions.

Every January 22nd thousands trek to Washington, DC to protest the Supreme Court's abortion decision, Roe v. Wade. This court has also been lumped together, but with those who have taken to such extraterritorial and inhumane acts as "fanatics" or "nutty people." I guess that when anyone in a cause uses war-like tactics, they deserve such labels.

The act of those protesters' hate and intolerance at times astounds me. In this country, anyone can protest abortion if they believe it is wrong, but so many times they do not remember the rights of those who disagree. Peter Heers gives every Christian a bad name whenever he lump all of us together in a stereotyped category for his political agenda. As a Christian, I do not agree with him associating me with his anti­factual approach to a very emotional and controversial issue in this country. In my opinion, I am the type of person who may start the next Waco, Texas incident.

All of us who are labeled as "Lukewarm Christians" who are also Catholic should petition our Church to require a specific prayer at every mass. It should be, "For all those who hate, that they may learn to love, we pray to the Lord..."

Gary J. Caruso is a graduate of the University of Notre Dame and now works in Washington, DC as a doctoral specialist for the United States House of Representatives. His column appears every other Wednesday.

Charles A. Weiss
Alumni Column

summer service project. These projects generally involve working with the poor and needy and are intended to provide Notre Dame students with an opportunity to address the injustices of poverty and oppression in the form of action policies, or policies, they remain steadfast in their support of the local community.

They are generous to the University. Our alumni annually run the top five alumni groups in the country in the percentage of gifts that make financial contributions each year to their university. More than 50 percent of our alumni each year contribute to the University in some way.

Our alumni are second in the country in the total amount of contributions made. Indeed, gifts is that, which is matched by alumni contributions. More than 5,000 alumni belong to the Sorin Society whose members contribute a minimum of $1,000 each year.

More than 100 alumni clubs throughout the country provide generous scholarships to students. Members of the University Alumni Association also contribute a minimum of $1,000 each year.

They are active in their parishes, communities, and professions. A safe bet that higher percentage of Notre Dame alumni, than alumni of any other college, are on their parish councils, as lay ministers — as parish athletic team coaches and on parish fund raising committees. As an opinion, if you want to find someone in the parish that you can count on, find a Notre Dame graduate.

They are supportive of one another. The Notre Dame network is widely recognized. Our alumni help one another. When looking for or in need of a job, a recommendation, advice, or simply some one to bounce an idea off of, you can count on your fellow Notre Dame alumni.

Most important, they are family. The bonds and friendships formed among classmates and roommates, and with faculty and staff, and the experiences of being a Notre Dame student unite our alumni into a national, and even global, family unit. Whatever one alumni meets another, even though he, she, or they, there is an immediate feeling of familiarity and comfort in knowing that both belong to the Notre Dame Family.

These are just some of the characteristics you will share as Notre Dame alumni.
Accent

Salvatore DiMaggio

Wednesday, March 31, 1993

ReseSports offers lessons in fishing
By BEVIN KOVALIK

Warm weather brings spring fishing fever, and so ReseSports will sponsor a five session Casting and Angling Mini course, taught by Dr. Tom Bucha, a casting instructor certified with the American Casting Association.

This is the second year this class will be offered, and "anyone with the smallest desire to learn how to cast either fly or bait fishing, will find this class to be the best way to learn to cast well," Bucha said. He stressed the importance of following the instructions of the supervisor and the instructor to prevent fishing accidents, like "hooking your fishing partner in the head."

At the end of the session, members of the class will take the three basic fishing techniques: fly fishing, bait fishing, and spin casting. Bucha will actually take this class members fishing in the two campus lakes on the last day of the course; however, no live bait will be used, just artificial lures.

"I teach a sportsmanlike attitude to fishing, so the class will be more in tune with the environment," explained Bucha. He added that they will throw any fish which may be caught back into the lake.

Because casting and angling is taught in the physical masterly-accurate manner, ReseSports is offering casting classes at 170 universities across the country.

Bucha felt Notre Dame could possibly offer some type of class. ReseSports sponsored the class last year and Bucha hopes that this might lead to a physical education class in the future.

"Notre Dame has beautiful facilities for teaching this type of sport," Bucha expressed. Besides being located in the heart of the Michiana, an excellent region for fishing, Notre Dame campuses lakes serve as ideal places to begin teaching the art of casting and angling.

"Fishing is a sport people can use for the rest of their lives and pass it on to their children," Bucha said. "Fishing is also something you can enjoy alone or with family and friends.

"If anyone has seen the movie "A River Runs Through It," which teaches the value of fly-casting, Bucha said members of the course will learn some of the same techniques as displayed in this movie.

Also, the movie introduced Bucha's two sons to the sport of casting and angling. "Notre Dame has the opportunity to learn the art of casting and angling," he said.

"Especially for such a small cost of $8 as opposed to hundreds of dollars for some of the bigger lakes," he said. "People interested in participating can register with ReseSports. The cost is $8 for the five session course, which is open to all students and members of the Notre Dame community. The course is being held Wednesday from 6 to 7:30 p.m. and Saturday from 10 a.m. to 11:30 a.m. Equipment will be provided, but Dan Bucha urges participants to bring their own if possible.

Beauty of God found in Moreau Seminary
By ELIZABETH CLARKE

Within the serene beauty of the Notre Dame/Saint Mary's community lies Moreau Seminary, nestled away behind the tranquility of the campus of Mary's lake. The seminary serves as a quiet solitude for seminarians to discern faith in its fullness and in an incredibly authoritative and informative manner.

In typical Greyhound fashion, we got nowhere fast. But, I knew I would be ready for Greyhound's adity uttlerlity: character, and if you fall off the dog you have to get right back on.

At last, the time had come. Sitting in the bus terminal, located in the cozy Michiana Airport, I anxiously awaited the arrival of my manhood to take Greyhound.

The road to Chicago was rather enjoyable. Although Greyhound hospitality left us with no room for our luggage, we found that it fit nicely into the bathroom. However, nature had called half the bus by the time we had reached Chicago. The whole experience was scarifying because I was too tired to care about the rest of the world. Too exhausted to care about the world, I set about making my way to the bus.

At the Greyhound terminal in Chicago, we were once again greeted like dogs. Tom couldn't leave until 5:45 a.m., and I was stuck there until 7:30 a.m. "Can I just go to the men's room and have a smoke?" Tom asked, his cigarette dangling from the corner of his mouth. I couldn't leave. I had to go. I had to indulge ourselves at the Greyhound Gourmet, but at $4.99 even a chicken burrito exceeded our monetary limits. Tom almost purchased a $1.85 bowl of cereal (without milk), but we both settled for $0.25 "Coca Cola" soft drinks.

Pleased with our purchase, we ventured into the bus and after the usual social interaction, Tom sat next to a woman who used his leg as a head rest as she changed her baby's diaper. Faire brought us to the paintball range, which I only discovered after the weekend winding in Chicago. Scarred for life, Tom and I will live forever with this. The road to Chicago was rather enjoyable.

At the Greyhound terminal in Chicago, we were once again greeted like dogs. Tom couldn't leave until 5:45 a.m., and I was stuck there until 7:30 a.m. "Can I just go to the men's room and have a smoke?" Tom asked, his cigarette dangling from the corner of his mouth. I couldn't leave. I had to go. I had to indulge ourselves at the Greyhound Gourmet, but at $4.99 even a chicken burrito exceeded our monetary limits. Tom almost purchased a $1.85 bowl of cereal (without milk), but we both settled for $0.25 "Coca Cola" soft drinks.

Pleased with our purchase, we ventured into the bus and after the usual social interaction, Tom sat next to a woman who used his leg as a head rest as she changed her baby's diaper. Faire brought us to the paintball range, which I only discovered after the weekend winding in Chicago. Scarred for life, Tom and I will live forever with this. The road to Chicago was rather enjoyable.

At the Greyhound terminal in Chicago, we were once again greeted like dogs. Tom couldn't leave until 5:45 a.m., and I was stuck there until 7:30 a.m. "Can I just go to the men's room and have a smoke?" Tom asked, his cigarette dangling from the corner of his mouth. I couldn't leave. I had to go. I had to indulge ourselves at the Greyhound Gourmet, but at $4.99 even a chicken burrito exceeded our monetary limits. Tom almost purchased a $1.85 bowl of cereal (without milk), but we both settled for $0.25 "Coca Cola" soft drinks.

Pleased with our purchase, we ventured into the bus and after the usual social interaction, Tom sat next to a woman who used his leg as a head rest as she changed her baby's diaper. Faire brought us to the paintball range, which I only discovered after the weekend winding in Chicago. Scarred for life, Tom and I will live forever with this. The road to Chicago was rather enjoyable.

At the Greyhound terminal in Chicago, we were once again greeted like dogs. Tom couldn't leave until 5:45 a.m., and I was stuck there until 7:30 a.m. "Can I just go to the men's room and have a smoke?" Tom asked, his cigarette dangling from the corner of his mouth. I couldn't leave. I had to go. I had to indulge ourselves at the Greyhound Gourmet, but at $4.99 even a chicken burrito exceeded our monetary limits. Tom almost purchased a $1.85 bowl of cereal (without milk), but we both settled for $0.25 "Coca Cola" soft drinks.

Pleased with our purchase, we ventured into the bus and after the usual social interaction, Tom sat next to a woman who used his leg as a head rest as she changed her baby's diaper. Faire brought us to the paintball range, which I only discovered after the weekend winding in Chicago. Scarred for life, Tom and I will live forever with this. The road to Chicago was rather enjoyable.
Interhall lacrosse action heats up as favorites prosper

Sorin, Zahm, Carroll post wins in Gold league

By TIMOTHY SEYMOUR
Sports Writer

High powered offenses, outstanding goalkeeping, and aggressive play characterized the beginning of the regular season in the men's interhall lacrosse Gold League, with Sorin and Zahm both jumping out to undefeated records, closely pursued by Carroll.

Carroll was able to improve to 2-1 with a 6-3 victory in a match against Stanford Monday night. Carroll jumped to the early lead, and then relied on the stellar play of goalie Eric Kurowski to preserve the win.

Most of the scoring punch was provided by the sophomore tandem of Mike Zilvites and Pat McMonagle, both of whom netted two goals.

Stanford attempted to mount a rally numerous times, but Kurowski always seemed to come up with the big save when needed. "This wasn't one of our stronger efforts, but their goalie came up with the big saves to make the difference," commented Stanford captain Mike Engels. Stanford was able to cut the lead to one, but the 6-3 win preserved the win.

Zahm moved to 2-0 after a 6-1 trouncing of Keenan at 8 p.m. at Loftus, with both teams trying to pick up their first victory of the season.

Sorin took the early lead in the division, improving to 3-0 after a fortuitous goal by Cavanaugh. In its other two wins, Sorin has relied on a tandem of freshmen for scoring punch.

"Our team has a lot of players who played in high school," noted Pett. "And then we have a lot of hustlers.

Zahm got on the board minutes later with John Kilocone getting a goal to cut the lead to one.

The action was fast and furious in Flanner's 6-3 win over previously undefeated Morrissey.

"Our team has a lot of talent," said Pett. "But we're experienced and have a lot of talent."
squeezed a goal past Duba scoring on a beautiful feed from Nicholson. Team Setti was not one to back down, as they finally cracked the Habs' defense with a slapshot goal from senior and leading scorer Dylan Hogan. However, the 7-1 score did not last long, as Duba and Hegarty completed their hat tricks to make it 9-1 before Team Setti had long to celebrate.

Nicholson then made it 10-1 with his fourth goal, slipping it right over Cahill's right shoulder.

Just when it had seemed that Team Setti was ready to pack it in, they went on a scoring spurt that showed why they made it to the semifinals of the 21-team league. Junior John Bradshaw, senior Keith Jarosik, and Robinson all scored to push it to 10-3, with two outs in the fifth, because of Carrie Miller's injury. The absence of senior pitcher Staci Alford from the Irish lineup left Notre Dame without a relief pitcher when Brandenburg experienced trouble in the eighth. Alford was admitted to the infirmary with the flu yesterday morning.

"We probably will have only two of our pitchers, so we're going to have to step up in other areas," said coach Miller.

Western Michigan. The absence of Alford and Carrie Miller will force Kobata and Brandenburg to go to the hill again for the Irish. "We probably will have only two of our pitchers, so we're going to have to step up in other areas," said coach Miller.

Western comes into the game ranked fifth in the midwest region. They are led by pitcher Denise Taliecki, and senior Keri Wallace, a .277 hitter.

The Habs then got a third goal from Nicholson and two from Hegarty, including a slapshot right before the half to push it to 10-4 with 2:45 left to go in the half.

However, all chances for a miracle were thwarted as the clock wound down and the Habs secured a place in the finals with the 11-5 thrashing. "None of us had ever played hockey before," said captain Chris Setti. "So we were pretty proud of the way we played." "We probably let down a little at the end," noted Hegarty. "Our defense was a little lack-lustre in the second half.

Hegarty, a North Oaks, Minnesota native, noted that although their team is named after the Montreal Canadiens' popular nickname, he is playing for the fallen Minnesota North Stars of the NHL, who have moved south to Dallas for next season.

"I guess if they never win the Cup at least maybe we can," said Hegarty.

In the finals tonight, the Habs will match up against the winner of the other semifinal between Grace 5D and Team Muzzy.

"Guess who's 21 today?" Jennifer (Jen) is!

CAPS & GOWNS
Tuesday and Wednesday
March 30th and 31st
Stop in and order your caps and gowns at....

"Give a Hoot. Don't Pollute.

Computer Applications Honor Society presents
Andersen Consulting
Wednesday, March 31 1993
Hesburgh Library Lounge
7 - 8 pm

Pat Van Wert and Mary Welch will be on hand to discuss employment opportunities at their company.

All are welcome to attend!!

Latin Expressions • CALIENTE ’93! •

Friday, April 2nd 7:30pm - Library Auditorium
Come see Notre Dame’s largest Hispanic cultural event of the year featuring:
• hilarious skits
• dramatic acts
• live bands
• cultural dancing
AND MUCH MUCH MORE!
BUY YOUR TICKETS:
$2 Pre-sale at Lafortune Box Office
$3 at the door

A great pre-SYR event for you and your date and a fantastic time for ALL!

* BE THERE! *
Happy 21st Birthday Rabbit!

HAVE A GREAT DAY!

love, your roomies

Attention: Student Summer Storage

Your safest, most secure, and conveniently located storage facility since 1990 has a FREE RENT special for STUDENTS ONLY. Call for details.

- Resident Manager
- Security System
- Call Now for Reservations
  Located on Douglas Rd.
  Between St. Rd. 23 & Grape Rd.

Notre Dame baseball travels to face Indiana

By JENNY MARTEN
Associate Sports Editor

After winning four games over the weekend, the Notre Dame baseball team (7-6) is back in action today. The Irish, led by Kevin Orie (.360, 10 HR, 21 RBI), and Joe Cotton (.404, 10 HR, 17 RBI), are confident heading into today's game.

"I think we'll win," predicted Murphy. "We'll show up and play well. I think we'll win," predicted Murphy.

The Irish have been on a home run kick with 29 hits leaving the park in just 13 games. Last year, the team hit 45 over the course of the 63 game season. Over half of those home runs came from players who are not on the team this year. Leading the team are Eric Danapilis and Craig DeSensi with five each while freshman Ryan Topham has four.

On the mound for the Irish will be Chris Michalak (4-0) while Marty DeCrafft and A.J. Jones will be ready if relief is needed.

The Irish will be without the services of shortstop Paul Failla who will remain in South Bend for spring baseball practice. Freshman Robbie Kent will fill in for him. Kent played both games on Saturday for Failla and was solid in the field.

Topham will likely be the designated hitter and Greg Layson will play despite a foot injury.

Indiana lost a bulk of their offense from last year to graduation and the major league draft. Five Hoosiers turned professional following last season. Leading this year’s crew are Jason Cotton (404, 10 RBI), Orie (.360, 21 RBI), and Joe Sturtz (.308, 17 RBI).

Indiana comes into the game with a four-game win streak including three wins over Penn State last night. The Hoosiers were led by Kevin Orie (2 for 4, 2 RBI), Dave Snedden (2 for 4, 3 runs), and Clint Hickman (2 for 4, 2 RBI). Nonetheless the Irish will be ready.

"We'll show up and play well. I think we'll win," predicted Murphy.

Indiana comes into the game off a 10-7 win over Indiana State last night. The Hoosiers were led by Kevin Orie (2 for 4, 2 RBI), Dave Snedden (2 for 4, 3 runs), and Clint Hickman (2 for 4, 2 RBI). Nonetheless the Irish will be ready.

"We'll show up and play well. I think we'll win," predicted Murphy.

The Irish have been on a home run kick with 29 hits leaving the park in just 13 games. Last year, the team hit 45 over the course of the 63 game season. Over half of those home runs came from players who are not on the team this year. Leading the team are Eric Danapilis and Craig DeSensi with five each while freshman Ryan Topham has four.

On the mound for the Irish will be Chris Michalak (4-0) while Marty DeCrafft and A.J. Jones will be ready if relief is needed.

The Irish will be without the services of shortstop Paul Failla who will remain in South Bend for spring baseball practice. Freshman Robbie Kent will fill in for him. Kent played both games on Saturday for Failla and was solid in the field.

Topham will likely be the designated hitter and Greg Layson will play despite a foot injury.

Indiana lost a bulk of their offense from last year to graduation and the major league draft. Five Hoosiers turned professional following last season. Leading this year’s crew are Jason Cotton (404, 10 RBI), Orie (.360, 21 RBI), and Joe Sturtz (.308, 17 RBI).

Indiana comes into the game with a four-game win streak including three wins over Penn State last night. The Hoosiers were led by Kevin Orie (2 for 4, 2 RBI), Dave Snedden (2 for 4, 3 runs), and Clint Hickman (2 for 4, 2 RBI). Nonetheless the Irish will be ready.

"We'll show up and play well. I think we'll win," predicted Murphy.

The Irish have been on a home run kick with 29 hits leaving the park in just 13 games. Last year, the team hit 45 over the course of the 63 game season. Over half of those home runs came from players who are not on the team this year. Leading the team are Eric Danapilis and Craig DeSensi with five each while freshman Ryan Topham has four.

On the mound for the Irish will be Chris Michalak (4-0) while Marty DeCrafft and A.J. Jones will be ready if relief is needed.

The Irish will be without the services of shortstop Paul Failla who will remain in South Bend for spring baseball practice. Freshman Robbie Kent will fill in for him. Kent played both games on Saturday for Failla and was solid in the field.

Topham will likely be the designated hitter and Greg Layson will play despite a foot injury.

Indiana lost a bulk of their offense from last year to graduation and the major league draft. Five Hoosiers turned professional following last season. Leading this year’s crew are Jason Cotton (404, 10 RBI), Orie (.360, 21 RBI), and Joe Sturtz (.308, 17 RBI).

Indiana comes into the game with a four-game win streak including three wins over Penn State last night. The Hoosiers were led by Kevin Orie (2 for 4, 2 RBI), Dave Snedden (2 for 4, 3 runs), and Clint Hickman (2 for 4, 2 RBI). Nonetheless the Irish will be ready.

"We'll show up and play well. I think we'll win," predicted Murphy.
Today

SPELUNKER

- In a nervous mood?ament gap, in the twilight sea?

CALVIN AND HOBBES

- Calvin's memories of a six-year-old

- My life has been a fascinating series of amazing exploits, about which I have many profound insights.

- But family, name of it is one of these green business, so wait out the end.

- We're not careful, society will throw out people to heck.

CROSSWORD

ACROSS

- Grassol
- Accuser's heavy
- Bivouac
- Garn of films
- Walkway
- Plant used in treating burns
- Quiet's partner
- Bubble
- Kind of bargain
- Significant period
- Unenclosed waters
- Hot time in Paris
- Kale or O'Day
- Scavengers
- Stannum
- Halting place, in Sevres
- Ceremonies
- Fulmars' kin
- Particular point of time

- Fire
- Play involving watchful waiting
- Town
- Early U.S. coin
- To (precisely)
- Employment
- Goose genus
- North Sea feeder
- Victor at Saratoga: 1777
- Seize power
- Some scavengers
- Tex. shrine
- Weasel-like mammal
- Particular point of time

DOWN

- 1 Victor at Saratoga: 1777
- 2 Seize power
- 3 Some scavengers
- 4 Stannum
- 5 Halting place, in Sevres
- 6 Ceremonies
- 7 Pour
- 8 Fulmars' kin
- 9 Particular point of time

- Fire
- Play involving watchful waiting
- Town
- Early U.S. coin
- To (precisely)
- Employment
- Goose genus
- North Sea feeder
- Victor at Saratoga: 1777
- Seize power
- Some scavengers
- Tex. shrine
- Weasel-like mammal
- Particular point of time

ANSWER TO PREVIOUS PUZZLE

- 32 Girasol
- 34 Rocker's heavy
- 36 Bivouac
- 40 Italian wine
- 41 Walkway
- 43 Garn of films
- 44 Plant used in treating burns
- 46 Quiet's partner
- 49 Fire
- 50 Play involving watchful waiting
- 51 Town
- 52 Early U.S. coin
- 53 To (precisely)
- 54 Employment
- 55 Goose genus
- 56 North Sea feeder
- 57 Victor at Saratoga: 1777
- 58 Seize power
- 59 Some scavengers
- 60 Stannum
- 61 Halting place, in Sevres
- 62 Ceremonies
- 63 Pour
- 64 Fulmars' kin
- 65 Particular point of time

THE FAR SIDE

CAMPUS

- Wednesday
  - 8 p.m. African Film Festival, "Master Harold and the Boys," Montgomery Theatre, LaFortune Student Center

LECTURES

- Wednesday

MENU

- Notre Dame Cantonese Barbecue Rice
  - Gyro
  - Lemony Pepper Catfish
  - Cheesecake
  - Fresh Chinese and Bread Bar

THE CLUB

- Don't Forget Friday Lunch
  - 12-2
  - Great Lenten Specials
  - Must Be 21
By DOMINIC AMOROSA
Sports Writer

The Notre Dame softball team (10-7) opened their new complex yesterday with a double header split against Indiana. The Irish won the first game 7-1, but dropped the second game 5-1 in eight innings.

Just an hour before game time, last minute adjustments were still being made. The field was well manicured and a record number of spectators came out to watch.

"It felt good to play on the new field because we were able to get into the ballgame," said Irish coach Liz Miller. "A lot of people were out here which made it really nice."

"It was definitely a good feeling."

This is a beautiful complex," said Indiana coach Diana Simpich. "They have a great foundation for a nice facility."

"We were excited about playing at home after so many away games and rainouts," commented Irish senior outfielder Lisa Miller.

Notre Dame dominated the first game behind a record breaking performance by freshman pitcher Terri Kobata. Kobata struck out an Irish record 15 batters, including a record ten in a row from the third through the fourth inning. She improved her record to 4-2 while yielding only two hits and three runs apiece. Sophomore Sara Hayes, junior Stephanie Piter, and senior Casey McMurray produced the remaining RBI's for the Irish.

"We came out intense and hit the ball well," said Lisa Miller.

"We were very aggressive," added coach Miller. "We stayed right on them throughout."

"My ballclub was tired because we've played so many games in the past week combined with the four hour trip up here," Stephenson. "In the second game, we were able to reach down and pull it out."

After a 15 minute break between games, the teams squared off in an extra inning defensive battle. Carrie Miller pitched four and a third scoreless innings for the win, until a finger injury sidelined her. Indiana freshman Gina Ugo held the Irish to three hits and one run in a complete game performance.

"We hit everything right at them," said coach Miller. "We couldn't generate as much offense as in the first game."

"Our hitting was off," commented Lisa Miller. "We lost our intensity and became flat."

The Irish did break out on top see SOFTBALL/page 12

---

Morrissey's Habs enter hockey finals

By JONATHAN JENSEN
Associate Sports Editor

Action in the semifinals of the Interhall Floor Hockey playoffs heated up last night, as the favorites for the crown, Morrissey's Habs, were challenged by Cavanaugh's Team Setti, in a David and Goliath-type matchup.

This year, however, the Giant crushed the Cinderellas from Cavanaugh, as the Habs cruised with an 11-5 win. The Habs were led by the trio of senior Keith Nicholson, and juniors Chris Duba and Cullen Heggarty, as each had hat tricks, with Nicholson picking up four goals.

"I've never scored that many goals in my life," said Nickelson. "It must be late St. Patrick's Day luck."

"They obviously had more experience," said junior Pat Robinson of the Habs. "They were really tough."

Team Setti was overmatched from the get-go, as Nicholson opened up the scoring with the Habs' first two goals with six minutes left in the half. Team Setti goalie Sean Cahill had outplayed the Habs big guns for the first fourteen minutes with over ten saves, but when Duba

see HABS/page 12

---

Serpentine names make Bookstore

Well, if you haven't noticed, it's Bookstore Basketball time again. (The throngs of people populating every basketball court on campus are a big clue.) That means it is also time for the annual Bookstore names column.

This year's crop of names features some clever ones, some random ones and some truly tasteless ones.

Notre Dame varsity athletes also come under fire in a few names. As usual, the men's basketball team gets a friendly ribbing, but one of the more tasteless varsity athlete names is "Tom Carter, Jerome Bettis and Three Other Guys Who Pull Out Early." In the ever popular Ross brother category: "Thank you...they're not triplets" is the best. First is also a hot topic with "5 Guys With Heart-Shaped Nuggests" being the most creative use of dining hall fare. After having a roommate from the Middle East, I could truly appreciate "The Flying Sukh," but I'm curious as to how sukhok if they're real.

Once again, there are plenty of favorites in the "teams I wish my team played in the first round." These include: "Movement is Painful," "The Vertically Challenged," "Horizontally Thrown," "You may beat us, but we're drunk," and "Ponky Brewer: The Chelsea Clinton Story," and "Wave. You're the Mckinley." And my favorite Bookstore name this year is "But honor, get honor, stay honor."