Softball clinches MCC crown

By GEORGE DOHRMANN

The Notre Dame softball team put the finishing touches on coach Liz Miller's first season with a 4-3 win over Loyola to claim the Midwestern Collegiate Conference championship at Indianapolis.

The win came in the strongest of ways as catcher Sara Hayes hit an RBI single scoring freshman Michele Cline in the bottom of the eighth inning.

"Sara got up there after not having a hit in the tournament and I told her that this is the spot you dream of being in and to take advantage of it," said Miller. "It only took one pitch. Sara loves being in those situations."

Hayes was Notre Dame's leading hitter during the regular season, but her and the rest of the top hitters' bats fell silent during the MCC Tournament allowing a number of unlikely heroes to step forward for the Irish.

One such player was second baseman Michele Cline who scored the winning run from second on Hayes single after freshman Jenna Knudson sacrificed to move her to second.

Hayes' game-winning hit may have never been if the Irish hadn't battled back to tie the score in the seventh. Designated hitter Casey McMurray singled to score senior Ronny Alvarez when the Irish were down 2-1 to their final out, sending the game into extra innings.

"We knew that if we got into extra innings we would win," said Miller. "It was just a matter of tying the score before we ran out of time."

Senior Staci Alfird earned the win on the mound after pitching her way from the bases loaded in one inning.

"I think Loyola knew at that moment they had forfeited the game," said Miller."

Freshman pitcher Stephanie Finter may have been a blessing in disguise.

"She (Finter) is the type of player that gets so mad because of the error that she takes it out on the ball," said Miller, in reference to the 4-4 performance Finter turned in after committing the early error.

Despite the performance of Finter the Irish were unable to get the key hits until Hayes' game winner. They stranded twelve runners on base and left the bases loaded in one inning.

Notre Dame advanced to the finals with a 4-0 win over Loyola earlier in the day behind freshman Terri Kobata's three-hit performance. It was Kobata's second shutout of the tournament and it included 13 strikeouts. She allowed only four hits in her two starts and piled up 24 strikeouts, earning tournament MVP honors.

The key to the first win over Loyola was Alvarez triple which thanks to an error turned into a run and a built the Notre Dame lead to 2-0. Alvarez joined Kobata on the all-tournament team.

"I thought Loyola knew at that moment that they had forfeited the game," said Miller."

Casey McMurray had a key RBI single in the seventh inning of the MCC finals, tying the score at 3-3.

Saint Mary's Hall of Fame taking shape

By NICOLE MCGRATH

Saint Mary's News Editor

Saint Mary's athletic program has come a long way from the days when it was still part of NAIA and Jo-Ann Nester became director of athletics and recreation.

Out of those days have arisen Saint Mary's transition into NCAA Division III and now the creation of the Saint Mary's College Hall of Fame.

"It's been 10 years in coming. It was something that was one of my original 10 goals when I got here," Nester said. "It's a way to get alumnae to support Saint Mary's athletics."

Nester's top three goals were laid out over her 10-year time at Saint Mary's. First, Nester hoped to build the sports program. Next, she said she wanted to provide something for our alumnae so they could take interest after graduation.,"said Nester. That 'something' began as the Saint Mary's monogram club and now the Saint Mary's College Athletic Hall of Fame.

Tammye Radke Raster, Class of 1988, and Sarah Gilmore Class of 1991, are the first inductees into the Saint Mary's College Athletic Hall of Fame. The ceremony took place at the annual Awards Banquet on April 27th.

Raster is only one of two Saint Mary's athletes to have her jersey retired. And with good reason. During her time playing basketball for the Belles, Raster scored a career 1,171 points. Quite a feat considering the three-point shot was in existence during Raster's playing career at Saint Mary's.

As a four-year starter, at the guard position, see SMC page 23

Colloquy 2000 recommends adding seats and revenue

By BRIAN POSNANSKI

News Writer

After careful consideration by the Colloquy for the Year 2000, the question of expanding Notre Dame Stadium echoed a step closer to an answer. But it is still just a question.

According to recommendation 13 of the Colloquy's final report, issued to the Board of Trustees on May 7, "The University administration should move forward with concrete plans to expand the present football stadium."

Over the next year the University will develop a plan subject to the approval of the Board of Trustees. "This is one more step forward," said Dennis Moore, director of Public Relations. "The next step would be to formalize things that have only been general to now."

A stadium expansion would probably provide 20,000 additional seats at a cost of about $40 million, according to Moore.

For the Board of Trustees to approve the concrete plans, the plans need to fulfill five criteria that the Colloquy set forth in University President Edward Malloy's final report.

The first and foremost problem is how to pay for expansion. "The cost of the project," states the final report, "must be borne by additional revenue generated for this specific purpose." None of the University's existing funds should be used in expansion.

The final report makes it clear that financing stadium expansion is not a problem, but the question is how to do it. The report of the Colloquy's Athletics subcommittee states that "even a most conservative financial plan would suggest that interim financing could proceed with tax-exempt bonds with the revenue generated by the stadium addition being used to retire the bonds."

"Notre Dame Alumni Association Director Charles Lennon agreed. "I think the best method is the bond."

Another option, although less likely, see STADIUM page 38 Stadium

continued from page 40

would be to "sell" the rights to the new seats before built. The final report also stated that an expansion's "additional income must not adversely affect fund raising for other crucial priorities of the University," if alumni thought the University was not honoring its promise to build academic strength the report suggests.

If alumni thought the University could go down, the report states. The University primarily, general contributions would go to the athletic stadium expansion (funds) shortfall, that would be disastrous."

Despite the possible negative publicity generated by a decision to expand, increased capacity would help rather than hinder Notre Dame's financial need. The final report stated that "additional revenues generated by an expanded stadium should be used to meet pressing academic and student needs."

The Subcommittee on Athletics report estimated that income from ticket sales would increase to $5 million per year if the stadium was expanded. "The increased revenue from the seats would be helpful," Father Edmund Joyce, vice-president emeritus, "Revenue is always helpful. Keep your tuition down."

The Colloquium report also urged that "fitting attention should be given to aesthetic, logistical and community relations factors."

Although the University might expect protests from purists about expanding the tradition-filled stadium, there are few. "You get more concern about tearing it down," Lennon said. Over the course of the next year, a committee will develop a specific plan for stadium expansion. The Board of Trustees will meet in May of 1994 to examine it.

There is no timetable for a decision about whether or not to expanded the stadium, according to Father E. William Beauchamp, University vice-president.

There's more to temporary work than just money. . . but it's not a bad place to start. The Choice for Staffing is looking for bright, professional, enthusiastic, college seniors and grad students who are interested in working at banks, accounting firms, law firms and consulting companies. Temporary work provides an excellent opportunity to experience the wide variety of corporate environments in Chicago. Receive skill development for automated offices. bridge the gap between school and first time career placement, and . . . make money. From marketing projects to setting up spreadsheets, to word processing, we have the assignments. Call (312) 372-4500 for more information about our benefit package (including paid lunch and holidays).

Football offers symbol of four years at Notre Dame

Four years ago the University of Notre Dame's class of 1993 entered the fall semester full of promise and enthusiasm. Part of that excitement, a very large part for many, was the dawning of a new football season.

Some members of the freshman class were a little more prominent than others, though. There were names like Rick Mirer and Demetrius Dubose, looking in from the outside at first, high school All-

Americans who came into a place filled with established stars like Tony Rice and Chris Zerich.

But now, four years later, that potential has been realized. After taking a year to learn the Notre Dame football system and find out what Notre Dame is all about, both Mirer and DuBose stepped into the lineup to begin making their presence felt. Against Michigan in the very first game of the season, Mirer illustrated the new position of the Class of '93. It was time to start making significant contributions. The realization made us giddy, like when Mirer finished off the Wolverines in that come-from-behind, roller-coaster of a win.

It wasn't always easy, for some more so than others. Not all of those who started with us will finish with us. Some, like Jake Kelchner, ran into problems and couldn't finish out their years here in South Bend.

Even this year, mistakes were made on and off the field. DuBose had his troubles with the NCAA, but it served to remind us that college seniors or not, a great deal of learning still remains.

As much as the football portion of our years seemed to end as the final seconds ticked off the clock at the end of the Cotton Bowl, the realization that an era had ended at Notre Dame came several weeks ago during the NFL draft.

The same people who entered the University just four short years ago were now, like most other seniors, finding out about their plans for next year. Instead of freshmen entering college somewhat unsure what the next few years would hold, classmate like Irv Smith, Reggie Brooks and Craig Hentrich, in addition to Mirer and Du-bouse, were on display, starting to enjoy the fruits of their labor. This scenario isn't a unique one by any means. In a few months the Class of 1997 will be on campus, just as enthusiastic and excited as we were. They too will have their own future stars. All-American quarterback Ron Powlus is in their class, just as Mirer was with us. Although Powlus won't have the same competition Mirer did in his freshman year, it will probably take him a year to learn the system and get a feel for Notre Dame.

And then Powlus will step into the starting line-up, taking the Class of '97 on their roller-coaster of memories. Like our class, that class will have a leader in one of the most visible positions in America. Like our class, the Class of '97 will have their football stars as a symbol of their four years at the University of Notre Dame.

Flanner Hall Congratulates its Class of 1993

E.J. Alaniz
Gerald Andersen
Jason Burnis
James Burrs
Jason Catania
Gary Chirhart
Kevin Chouinard
Darrell Clark
Lake Conway
Eric Cunningham
John DaCosta
Eric Dunapiliis
Christopher Degiorgio
Dennis Diaz
Christopher Donahue
Joseph Durand
William Finley
John Flanagan

Justin Fortier
Jacob Frost
David Fulton
Joseph Gallatin
Robert Girous
Eric Gregoire
Erick Hanson
Michael Hobbs
Michael Hochstetter
Michael Hnufford
Timothy Jaster
Michael Kane
John Kies
Kenneth Klechka
Bert Kocher
Gregory Koening
Lorenzo Lamarid

Christian Langlois
Daniel Langrell
John Larkin
Michael Lipoto
Michael McCarthy
Timothy McCarthy
David Michael
James Mixon
Michael Navaro
Brendan Nelligan
Kenneth Novak
Joseph Nunez
Michael Nuss
Jake Kelchner
John O'Callahan
Paul Pearson
John Prete
Robert Prock
Martin Pulido

Michael Raffa
Matthew Rimer
David Schumeter
Jason Shaw
Martin Spruill
DeShawn Stewart
Todd Stoker
David Sullivan
Christopher Swetonic
Richard Stahi
Michael Tartaglione
Stuart Tyner
Joe Vason
Limin Yan
Tae-suk Yoo
William Mattews-
Doctor of Law
William Pifer-
Master of Divinity

Notre Dame Club of Hawaii

Congratulations Our 1993 Island Graduates...
William Bates
Ryan de la Pena
Carolyn Ho
Carol Leong (MBA)
Gabriel Man
Trevor T. Murray
Robert "Matt" Smith
Jay Stone
Christopher Sukow
Taison Tanaka
Patrick Walsh
Diane Wong

Aloha Aku ia Oukou!(Farewell To You All!)
Russell says he was forced out
By JASON KELLY
Associate Sports Editor

Malik Russell is no longer a part of the Notre Dame basketball program, but he is still giving head coach John MacLeod headaches.

Russell, a 6-7 sophomore, told the South Bend Tribune that MacLeod forced him to transfer if he did not resign. When he said no, MacLeod suspended him for the final three games of the season because of academic difficulties.

Russell will enroll at South Carolina where former Vanderbilt coach Eddie Fogler recently accepted the head coaching position. Fogler recruited Russell when he was a high school senior. It appears that the move may be in the best interests of everyone involved.

"It wasn't a good fit from the beginning," Russell said. "There was a personality conflict between me and Coach MacLeod. He made an effort with me, we just never got along."

Despite the problems, Russell says he was planning to return to Notre Dame next year. "Even after everything that happened last season, I probably would have ended up staying here next year if I could have," Russell said. "I was told to transfer. It was the same thing with Nathion."

Gilmore, a 6-8 forward who saw limited action as a freshman, supports Russell's story. "I didn't think he had the right to do that."

MacLeod denies that an argument occurred, and he insists that he and his staff did as much as they could to help Russell reach his potential. "I, I, there was no argument," MacLeod said. "We bent over backwards for Malik Russell. We had six coaches working with him over a two-year period. We gave one individual more attention than the other players combined over the last two seasons."

Russell made his decision to transfer after the season amid reports of continuing conflicts with MacLeod. He was reportedly a repeat violator of team rules, and MacLeod suspended him for the final three games of the season because of academic difficulties.

"He brought up transferring on media day (last October) and kept putting the idea in my head," Gilmore said. "I was getting vibes he didn't want me around. I wanted to stay. Leaving Notre Dame was the farthest thing from my mind. He said maybe I should look elsewhere."

Gilmore announced his decision to leave one day before practice began, but MacLeod says that he didn't influence that decision.

"He came in and said 'Coach, I want to transfer,' and we said maybe we can work it out," MacLeod explained. "I called Texas and we arranged for it. We thought we had helped him."

Whatever the circumstances surrounding their departures, Gilmore and Russell appear to be ready to settle into their new environments.

"I guess it's for the best," Russell said. "I guess I'm glad to have a good start again."

Reminder for Seniors Doing Service Work Next Year

Volunteer Senior Send-Off
Saturday, May 15, 1993
Washington Hall
10:30 a.m.

Reception for family and friends immediately following at the Center for Social Concerns
Broski progresses slowly but steadily

By JASON KELLY

Freshman pitcher Terri Kobata

Kathy Slover will be 21 on June 2nd!

Happy Birthday!

Love,
Mom, Dad, Jim, Colette,
Brad & Gega

Kathy Slover

The Observer/Kyle Kusak

Lollapalooza '93

CONGRATULATIONS
Graduating Seniors

RecSports

Officials

First Aid

Instructors

Participants

THANKS FOR A GREAT YEAR!!!

Softball

continued from page 40

point that they were in trouble," said Miller. "They might have thought they could score one run off of Terri but there was no way they were going to get two."

The win boosted Notre Dame's final season record to 36-13, their second highest win total in the last five years and the fewest losses in that same span. The Irish also finished the year with a No. 5 regional ranking, their highest ranking of the season.

Notre Dame received an invitation to the National Invitational Tournament but decided earlier in the year not to participate as it would have violated the NCAA limit of 22 weeks a team can play.

"We know that if we played in the NIT that we would have to begin practice later and also that we would have been without six of our key players because they would be at graduation ceremonies," said Miller.

In the future the NIT may be the last of the worries for the Irish. There is a strong possibility that the NCAA Tournament field will expand to 36 for next season, including 16 bids to the National Invitational to help his family cover the medical costs. And a lithograph of the Notre Dame campus is being sold by the senior class for the same purpose.

It was the classes' idea to do something for Todd and we thought this would be the best way to help out," said senior class president Joe Huston.

Although he missed the final month of the school year, Broski will graduate with his class.

But bigger accomplishments lie ahead as Broski faces a struggle much greater than his four years at Notre Dame.

Broski's teammates believe that he has the mental and physical strength to overcome this challenge.

"He's known for his toughness," said Knowlton. "If there's anyone who can get through something like this, he can."

In a ruck, the players col­

"Rugby is a very physical game, but it wasn't one of the more dangerous situations."

He was rushed to St. Joseph Medical Center before being transferred to a hospital closer to his Cleveland home.

Recovery from an injury of this magnitude is a slow process at best, but there has been definite progress. He underwent a tracheotomy two weeks ago and his breathing has progressed enough for him to be taken off a respirator.

Wednesday he was transferred for the second time, this time moving from Case Western Hospital in Cleveland to the Metro Rehabilitation Center. And also this week, doctors inserted a device that allows him to speak freely for the first time in a month.

"He's pretty happy about that," said senior Rugby Club member Justin Politi. "His spirits are still really high. A compassionate spirit has been really high around campus, as the University community rallies around Broski and his family.

Nearly $6,000 was raised in last weekend's Todd Broski Invitational to help his family cover the medical costs. And a lithograph of the Notre Dame campus is being sold by the senior class for the same purpose.

"It was the classes' idea to do something for Todd and we thought this would be the best way to help out," said senior class president Joe Huston.

Although he missed the final month of the school year, Broski will graduate with his class.

But bigger accomplishments lie ahead as Broski faces a struggle much greater than his four years at Notre Dame.

Broski's teammates believe that he has the mental and physical strength to overcome this challenge.

"He's known for his tough­ness," said Knowlton. "If there's anyone who can get through something like this, he can."

The Observer/Kyle Kusak

Primus
Alice in Chains
Dinosaur Jr.
Fishbone
Arrested Development
242
Babes in Toyland
Rage Against The Machine

ON SALE SATURDAY, JULY 2
MIDNIGHT
PICK YOUR LOCATION
RES. PAT. $27.50 LAWN $22.50
TICKETS AVAILABLE AT ALL MEMORIAL LOCATIONS OR CHARGE BY PHONE 349-4949

Miller Lite Where Great Taste Meets Great Music
Offense continues to lead Notre Dame on the diamond

By JENNY MARTEN
Associate Sports Editor

It has been a week of offensive fireworks for the Notre Dame baseball team. In their last five games, the Irish have scored 10 runs or more as they improved their record to 34-12.

Offense continues to lead Notre Dame on the diamond

It began with Monday's 20-9 shelling of Indiana State and continued Tuesday with a 19-6 romp over Illinois-Chicago.

Wednesday against Northwestern, the Irish got on the board in the first when Ed Hartwell scored from third on a double steal. In the third, they manufactured two runs without a hit, scoring on two hit-by-pitches and sacrifice flies from Ryan Topham and Bob Lisanti.

Eric Danapilis then put the game out of reach with a three-run home run to give the Irish a 10-1 lead.

Starting pitcher David Sinnes went five innings and struck out three on the way to his seventh win in his last eight games.

The bats continued to sizzle as the Notre Dame baseball team swept a doubleheader from Cleveland State Thursday, winning the opener 10-8 and the nightcap 10-4.

The top half of the batting order connected for 12 of Notre Dame's 13 hits, led by Hartwell, Danapilis and Matt Haas, who each had three hits.

Notre Dame put together a three-run rally in the first inning to set the tone for the offensive fireworks that would follow.

Cleveland State connected for four runs in the first and four innings against Irish starter Tim Krause, including a solo home run by Steve Horley.

Notre Dame took a 10-6 lead with three runs in the top of the seventh, but Cleveland State gave the Irish a scare after Sam Miller's two-run pinch-hit home run brought them to within two. But Chris Michalski shut the door, earning the win to improve to 9-3.

Notre Dame started slowly in the nightcap, falling behind 4-2 after three innings. But the Irish bounced back in the fourth, collecting three runs to take a 5-4 lead that they never relinquished.

Paul Failla's solo home run in the fifth extended the Irish lead, and they added another run in the sixth and three more in the seventh on Korey Wrobleski three-run home run to seal the sweep.

Notre Dame had six stolen bases in the nightcap, including a pair from Haas.

Dan Adams went to the mound in the fourth inning, and he allowed just two hits the rest of the way, striking out three to keep the Cleveland State offense handcuffed on the way to the save.

Starting pitcher Garrett Carlsson was the winner despite allowing four runs on six hits in 3 1/3 innings.

The Irish are at home for four games against Dayton, with doubleheaders slated for 1 p.m. Friday and Saturday. The regular season finale is set for Monday afternoon at Central Michigan, and the Midwestern Collegiate Conference tournament opens Tuesday at Covaleski Stadium.
Four Years in Review

Top 10 Sports Stories from 1989 - 1993

1. "Phelps ends 20-year tenure with ND hoops"
   Notre Dame basketball coach Digger Phelps resigned, ending months of speculation, after a lackluster season where he felt the pressure of the administration and alumni.
   April 16, 1991

2. "Wrestling program gets the axe"
   Athletic director Dick Rosenthal announced that the wrestling program would be eliminated amid rumors of NCAA violations and a personal conflict between Rosenthal and head coach Fran McCann.
   April 13, 1992

3. "Notre Dame signs five-year television contract with NBC"
   Notre Dame signed a five-year $35 million dollar contract with NBC to televise its home football games. It was the first contract of its kind, creating controversy within the College Football Association, of which Notre Dame was a member before signing the contract.
   Feb. 6, 1990

4. "ND, in 'classic,' defeats Miami"
   Notre Dame got the last laugh in the much-publicized series against Miami, winning the final 29-26 in a classic game at Notre Dame Stadium.
   Oct. 30, 1990

5. "Orange Bowl closes bizarre year"
   "Rocket" Ismail's dramatic last second punt return was eliminated because of a clipping penalty, ending Notre Dame's hopes of a second straight Orange Bowl victory over top-ranked Colorado.
   Jan. 16, 1991

6. "Heroes lift Irish over Penn State"
   Reggie Brooks' dramatic last minute two-point conversion catch lifted Notre Dame over Penn State 17-16. It marked the final game of the series because of Penn State's decision to join the Big 10.
   Jan 17, 1990

7. "MacLeod to be named coach of Notre Dame hoops"
   John MacLeod accepted the head coaching position vacated by "Digger" Phelps after it was turned down by Xavier coach Pete Gillen and Georgia Tech coach Bobby Cremins.
   May 3, 1991

8. "Cardinal rally ends Irish home win streak at 19"
   When Rick Mirer's pass slipped through Derek Brown's fingers in the final seconds, Stanford escaped with the 36-31 upset victory, ending Notre Dame's three-year home winning streak.
   Oct. 6, 1990

9. "Irish gel in finale, upset Gators 39-28"
   Notre Dame silenced the skeptics with a 39-28 win over heavily-favored Florida in the 1992 Sugar Bowl. Jerome Bettis paced the Irish attack with three second half touchdowns.
   Jan. 15, 1992

10. "Irish basketball shocks No. 2 UCLA"
    Add another upset to the storied basketball tradition at the Joyce ACC. Notre Dame stunned No. 2 UCLA 84-71 behind the leadership of seniors LaPhonso Ellis, Elmer Bennett and Daimon Sweet.
    Feb. 4, 1992

Editor's Note: Selections were made by members of The Observer sports department.
By JASON KELLY
Associate Sports Editor

With three freshman playing key roles, the Notre Dame women's tennis team looked at its first ever berth in the NCAA Championships as a learning experience.

Thursday against No. 2 Stanford, the Irish learned a tough lesson, but not before teaching Alabama a lesson of its own in a 5-0 opening-round win.

Miami was originally scheduled to face Notre Dame in the first round, but the Hurricanes were disqualified because they had only five players. Alabama was notified less than 24 hours before the match that it would take Miami's place.

A three-hour delay gave the Crimson Tide a little more time to prepare, but it may have worked more in Notre Dame's favor.

"I think the delay actually helped us loosen up a little bit," Notre Dame coach Jay Louderback said. "I don't think we were this loose all season. We had a lot of time to think about things and by the time we played, we knew exactly what we needed to do." Freshman Wendy Crabtree, ranked No. 61 in the latest Intercollegiate Tennis Association rankings, defeated No. 58 Jenny Whalen 7-5, 6-3 at No. 1 singles. It was her 11th win in her last 12 matches.

Classmate Holyn Lord continued her hot streak at No. 5 singles, defeating Amy Mascotti 6-4, 6-2 for her 22nd consecutive win. Lord hasn't lost a match since January 30.

Junior Christy Faustmann cruised at No. 3 singles, handing Lori Smith a 6-4, 6-2 loss and classmate Lisa Tholen beat Marouschka Van Dijk 6-4, 6-2 at No. 4.

Sophomore Laura Schwab closed out the match at No. 6 singles with a 6-4, 6-2 win over Chrissy Carter.

At No. 2 singles, Notre Dame freshman Sherri Vitale split the first two sets with Titis Wilmink, but the match was called after the team outcome had been determined.

Stanford gave Notre Dame a taste of its own medicine in the 5-0 second-round defeat.

The Cardinal, seeded No. 2 in this year's tournament, boasts six of the nation's top 65 players, including three of the top six. Stanford has won six of the last seven NCAA titles, and eight in the tournament's 11-year history.

Stanford's Laxmi Poruri, the nation's No. 2 singles player, knocked off Crabtree 6-3, 7-5, and it went downhill from there for the Irish.

Heather Wiliens, ranked 5th in the nation, handled Vitale 6-2, 6-1 at No. 2 singles, and sixth-ranked Kim Shasby defeated Faustmann 6-2, 6-4 at No. 3.

Kristine Kurth and Amy Chimisello were winners over Tholen and Schwab, respectively, to clinch the victory for the Cardinal.

Stanford advances to face Georgia in the quarterfinals.

Despite the loss, Louderback still believes the experience the young players gained this week will benefit them in the future.

"The bid to the championship is a real benchmark for our program," he said. "This was a very good experience for our younger players. This was a good opportunity for them to compete at a national level."

CRABTREE CONTINUES: Thursday's loss does not mean the end of the season for freshman Wendy Crabtree. She is one of 64 players who will compete in the singles competition slated for May 17-20. Lisa Tholen will join Crabtree in next week's doubles competition.
Freshman Holyn Lord won her 22nd consecutive match against Alabama on Wednesday.

NCAA WOMEN'S TENNIS CHAMPIONSHIP

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Brigham Young</th>
<th>Virginia</th>
<th>Florida</th>
<th>Arizona State</th>
<th>UCLA</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Clagam</td>
<td>Kansas</td>
<td>Texas</td>
<td>Southern Cal</td>
<td>Pepperdine</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>San Diego State</td>
<td>Mississippi</td>
<td>California</td>
<td>Indiana</td>
<td>Georgia</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Notre Dame</td>
<td>Miami (Fla)</td>
<td>Standard</td>
<td></td>
<td></td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

NCAA WOMEN'S TENNIS CHAMPIONSHIPS

Good Luck ’93

Now Serving the Finest Mexican and Italian Foods

Garden Open This Weekend

College Park Condominiums

Rental Units Now Available

- 1/4 Mile from Library
- Brand New Appliances
- 2 Bedrooms
- 2 Bathrooms
- Washer & Dryer Units
- Large Closets
- Covered Parking
- Security System
- Large Balconies

CALL NOW FOR APPOINTMENTS

272-0691

Going Quickly

$660.00 per month
NCAA MEN'S TENNIS CHAMPIONSHIPS

FIRST ROUND
Fri., May 14
- Harvard
- North Carolina
- Stanford
- New Mexico
- Colorado
- Florida
- Pepperdine
- TCU
- VCU

SECOND ROUND
Sat., May 15 USC
- Mississippi State
- Notre Dame
- Texas
- LSU
- Georgia
- Alabama
- UCLA

THIRD ROUND
Sun., May 16
- Fri.
- Sat.
- Sun.
By JENNIFER HABRYCH
Saint Mary's Editor

More than 400 Saint Mary's students will be awarded degrees at the University's 146th annual commencement ceremony on Sunday.

The ceremonies will begin at noon in the Courtyard of Le Mans Hall. Rain site for the commencement will be inside the Angela Athletic Facility.

United States Surgeon General Antonia Novello, the first woman and first Hispanic surgeon general, will deliver the commencement address and will also be awarded one of three honorary degrees conferred by the College. The 1993 valedictorian Beatriz Castillo, a French and Psychology major from Cuernavaca, Mexico, will deliver the valedictory address.

Novello, who will receive an honorary doctor of science degree, was sworn in as surgeon general of the U.S. Public Health Service (USPHS) in 1990. As surgeon general, she serves as an advisor on matters such as AIDS, nutrition, and health concerns related to smoking. She also advises on environmental health concerns, disease prevention and immunization.

Prior to her work at the USPHS, she worked in private pediatrics and nephrology practice.

Novello began work with the USPHS in 1978 in the National Institutes of Health (NIH). She served as the deputy director of the National Institute of Children's Health and Human Development where, among other responsibilities, she coordinated pediatric AIDS research.

She has also led a special work group in the recognition and revitalization of the USPHS, chaired the Department of Health and Human Services Task Force on Pediatric HIV/AIDS and co-chaired the NIH Advisory Committee on Women's Health issues.

While at the NIH, Novello has also made contributions to the drafting and enactment of the Organ Procurement Transplant Act of 1984 and also was involved in the drafting of warn labels concerning the health risks of cigarette smoking.

Honorary degrees will also be conferred upon Dorothy Leckey, executive director of Secretariat for Family, Laity, Women and Youth for the National Conference of Catholic Bishops and Christian Dawson Scott, British writer and editor, who will receive an

Boehnen to deliver ND valedictory

By SARAH DORAN
Associate News Editor

1993 valedictorian Scott Boehnen will leave the University of Notre Dame with a 3.93 cumulative grade point average and will deliver the valedictory address at the commencement ceremony on Sunday.

Boehnen, an English major from Medina, Ohio, said that his address will encourage his peers to take their Catholic education out into the world and apply it to current political issues and the way that they see these issues in their lives.

"Language is the central force that we as humans have at our disposal," he said. "In my address, I will call on them to take their Catholic language beyond the pulpit and engage in the issues.

Boehnen said that being the Valedictorian of his class was never a goal.

"There was never anything that consumed me to achieve this," he said. "Grades were always secondary.

"In fact, upon dropping me off at Notre Dame as a freshman, my parents said that they would be very pleased for me to achieve a C average," he added.

Boehnen will attend Stanford University next year to pursue a doctorate in English. He said he plans to be an English professor.

He was awarded an Andrew Mellon Fellowship in Humanistic Studies which will pay his tuition and fees in graduate school as well provide a $12,500 stipend. The fellowship is awarded to college seniors and recent graduates of outstanding promise with the objective of encouraging them to join the humanities faculties at American colleges and universities. This year 83 Mellon Fellows were selected from more than 1,100 applicants.

Outside of the classroom, Boehnen is a four year editorial fine arts editor of the Notre Dame student newspaper, The Observer.

Scott Boehnen

Castillo named Saint Mary's valedictorian

By MARA DIVIS
News Writer

Beatriz Castillo has been named the first international valedictorian of a graduating class at Saint Mary's since 1979, according to Teresa Marcy, assistant to the vice president.

Castillo, a French and Psychology major from Cuernavaca, Mexico, holds a 3.9 GPA after seven semesters. She said that she is excited that this gives her the opportunity to address her friends in the class of 1993.

"I'm very pleased that I have the opportunity to address my classmates," she said. "I'd like to thank my friends for the sense of community we've created through the years and how that encouraged our growth.

An international student who attended a bilingual high school in Mexico, Castillo spoke both English and Spanish before coming to Saint Mary's. She spent her sophomore year in Angers, France, through Notre Dame's international studies program.

This gave her the chance to experience a second foreign culture and return to a home base in the United States, she said.

Over 2,300 Notre Dame students will receive degrees at the University's 148th Commencement ceremonies Sunday at 2 p.m. in the Joyce Athletic and Convocation Center (JACC).

Tom Brokaw, anchor and managing editor of "NBC Nightly News with Tom Brokaw," will address the graduates. He is joined by twelve others, including Governor Robert Casey of Pennsylvania, Archbishop of Armagh, Ireland Cardinal Cahal Daly and Minnesota Supreme Court justice Alan Page, who will receive honorary degrees from the university.

Degrees will be conferred to 1,768 undergraduates, 152 master's degree and doctoral students in the Graduate School, 216 master's degree students in the College of Business Administration, and 194 students in the Law School.

Scott Boehnen, the 1993 valedictorian, will deliver the valedictory address. Those unable to see the ceremonies in person can watch them on cable television in the Center for Continuing Education (CCE), the Oak Room in the South Dining Hall, and the main lounge of LaFayette Student Center. The Commencement telecast will begin at 1:30 p.m. During the ceremonies, Donald Keough, recently
Goodbye Linebacker Shoes

Sunday will be a day to remember for all of eternity. By 24-hour period I will become a college graduate and celebrate my 22nd birthday — two big hints that adulthood has arrived for an extended visit.

But what may be even more exasperating than the prospect of car payments is the sense you’ll talk I have dreaded for weeks. For come Sunday, against every ounce of my determination to hold onto the carefree days of college, I will retire my Linebacker shoes.

The Linebacker Lounge is to Saturday nights at Notre Dame as football games are to Saturday afternoons. And to leave this place without at least a dozen heart-wrenching memories and several pairs of ruined shoes is a tragedy.

You see, the Linebacker is what college is all about, a virtual anesthesia to all things civilized and mature. There’s the feeling that waiting in line for an hour just for the opportunity to have drinks spilled on you is something your parents and dry cleaner just wouldn’t understand.

Then there’s the risk-taking for the under-21 crowd, begging to get past the Commando bouncers, and the sense of satisfaction when they recognize your senior’s face.

More than anything, there’s the constant reminder that when you do enter the Linebacker, you’ve checked your pride at the door. But that’s okay, because so have the other 500,000 of us who have chosen to break the fire code just to hear Barry Manilow and Neil Diamond favorities all night. Among other things unprintable, it’s been said that dancing at the Lineback is like giving birth to triplets simultaneously.

So it comes as no surprise that the shoes I christened so long ago have become near and dear to my heart, just as the place itself has. They were at once a respectable pair of white sneakers. They are now black and crusty, and the stench.

Commando bouncers form the night someone sprayed mace on the crowd by the door. But that’s okay, because so have the other 500,000. The best of the best years of my life. They've shared countless good nights of my life. They've shared countless good memories squeezed into our family and friends. Reception following at the Cathedral.

Laux named Ind. employee of the year

■ NOTRE DAME — Nicole Laux, recently selected as Saint Mary’s Student Employee of the Year, has been named Indiana State Student Employee of the Year by the Mid-west Association of Student Employment Administrators (MASEA). Laux, a senior from Bryansville, Ind., has been employed by the Saint Mary’s Writing Center for over two years, where she has made significant contributions, according to Kathy Thomas, Saint Mary’s writing center coordinator. Laux was chosen as the Saint Mary’s student employee of the Year from a group of 10 finalists. MASEA made Laux their recipient on the basis of reliability, the quality of their work, their professionalism and uniqueness of contribution to her work. She will now enter the regional competition for Student Employee of the Year.

Andy Kudlow

Today's Staff

The Observer (USPS 599 2-4000) is published Monday through Friday except during exam and vacation periods. The Observer is a member of the Associated Press. All reproduction rights are reserved.

Meredith McCullough

Monica Yant

1992-93 Editor-in-Chief

Kathy Fong

Sneakers. They are now black and crusty, and the stench.
Colloquy lays out plans for ND's next ten years

By DAVID KINNEY

The University must strive for excellence in graduate education while maintaining and improving undergraduate programs, University President Father Edward Malloy wrote in the final report of the Colloquy for the Year 2000, submitted to the Board of Trustees May 7.

The report, which is the culmination of 18 months of university-wide discussion involving more than 100 faculty, staff, students and administrators, sets out the priorities for the University for the next decade. Malloy then molded the results into a personal vision.

The broad-based Colloquy includes 43 recommendations addressing academics, student life, University finances, athletics and other areas. The contents of the report will be reviewed, discussed and implemented by other committees and University committees, and will provide a basis for the next fund-raising campaign to begin in the fall of 1994.

Malloy held that graduate and undergraduate education go hand in hand. "Research invigorates teaching and teaching stimulates research."

In keeping with that balance, the report suggests that the University improve undergraduate education by adding 150 regular teaching and research faculty over 10 years, while seeking a $40 million endowment for the Graduate School for the recruitment and support of graduate students.

The University will also create a committee on teaching and research "to develop a comprehensive strategic plan for improving research and scholarship at Notre Dame," the report states.

Increasing financial aid to undergraduates and fellowships to graduates and professional students is another priority. The report recommends that the University strive to meet 100 percent of financial need without burdening students with loans and work. For the first time, merit scholarships were recommended.

Malloy said this is the only way the University can remain affordable and competitive for the best students.

The report addresses the need to sustain the Catholic character of the University, in particular by ensuring a faculty in which "dedicated and committed" Catholics predominate.

Malloy explained that, as a Catholic institution, Notre Dame must have an affirmative action policy in the hiring of Catholics, as well as women and minorities. But he said there has been a decline in willingness at the departmental level to seek out and hire Catholic faculty.

"If that continues, we will be a different kind of University in 10 years," he added. "I think that's unacceptable, and so do the trustees."

This aspect of the report received the most criticism from faculty members. At issue is the report's suggestion that Catholic faculty should "predominate," which some faculty believe implies quotas and a focus on numbers.

Although the senate agreed with the report's concern about Notre Dame's Catholic character, it held that the faculty should include only a proportion of Catholics sufficient to maintain the Catholic tradition.

The University will create four committees to further study areas of the report:

- A University-wide Curriculum committee will study the quality of undergraduate education, focusing on curriculum, courses of study, learning resources and campus environment.
- A Committee on architecture and the fine and performing arts will be charged with creating a mission statement and analyzing each discipline's curriculum and future.
- As part of an focus on international education, a University Committee on International Studies will create a mission statement for the overseas programs, examine their academic strength and plans for future growth.
- A Committee on University Libraries will address the need to coordinate the move toward video and electronic resources, the demand for more staff and locating space to store problems in the Hesburgh and individual college libraries.

Malloy emphasized that although the report will have a great impact on the discussions and plans for the coming decade, much discussion and debate remains. "Nothing is ever final at a University."
Ceremony continued from page 1

retired president, chief operating officer and director of The Coca-Cola Company and chairman emeritus of the Notre Dame board of trustees, will accept the University's Laetare Medal, the oldest and most prestigious award given to American Catholics. Notre Dame has presented the award annually since 1883.

Other recipients of University honorary degrees at the commencement include:

• Shirley Abrahamson, justice of Wisconsin Supreme Court. Abramson, who will receive an honorary doctor of laws degree, has been a member of the Notre Dame Board of Trustees since 1984.

• Blandina Cardenas-Ramirez, professor at Southwest Texas State University. Cardenas-Ramirez, who will receive and honorary doctor of laws degree, is a leading advocate for minority students in higher education.

• Robert Casey, governor of Pennsylvania. Casey, who will receive and honorary doctor of laws degree, is currently serving his second term as governor. He is the country's leading pro-life Democrat, making frequent speeches in opposition to the party's position on abortion.

• Thomas Coleman, senior partner of Adler, Coleman & Co. Coleman, who will receive and honorary doctor of laws degree, is considered the leading intellectual in the Catholic Church of Ireland for more than 20 years.

• Carla Hills, former secretary of housing and urban development (HUD) and former senior vice president of The Boeing Company. Hills, who will receive and honorary doctor of laws degree, is the university's 14th president.

• John Roberts, dean of the School of Law and former U.S. trade representative. Roberts, who will receive and honorary doctor of science degree, has conducted pioneering studies of organic reaction mechanisms and applications of carbon-13 and nitrogen-15 nuclear magnetic resonance spectroscopy to organic chemistry and biochemistry.

• Arnold Weber, president of Northwestern University. Weber, who will receive and honorary doctor of laws degree, is the university's 14th president. He is an expert on economic policy and industrial and labor relations.
Arthur Andersen
Welcomes the Following 1993
University of Notre Dame and Saint Mary's College Graduates to Our Firm

William A. Allen
Chicago
Jennifer L. Blanchet
Chicago
Maureen E. Brown
New York
Joseph S. Burke
Chicago
James A. Burkhardt Jr.
Cleveland
David D. Cathcart
Atlanta
William L. Dietz
Minneapolis
Patricia A. Fosmoe
Chicago
Thomas Hitselberger
Baltimore
Elizabeth M. Janz
Chicago
Scott D. Kamenick
Chicago
Maureen P. Kenny
Chicago
Susan M. Kurowski
Chicago
William D. LaFever
Chicago
R. Geoffrey Levy
Atlanta
Michael P. MacKinnon
Boston
Michael R. Malody Jr.
Los Angeles
Erin M. McCauley
Washington, D.C.
Kelly A. McDonough
Cleveland
Arthur R. Monaghan
Minneapolis

Melissa L. Mong
Houston
R. Patrick Murray II
Indianapolis
Kerry L. Norton
Chicago
Angela C. Pearson
Chicago
Kathleen M. Phares
Chicago
Richard M. Riley
Chicago
Eric A. Rojas
Boston
Kevin A. Rule
Chicago
Mark A. Schmidt
Atlanta
Robert M. Silveri
Stamford
Edward A. Smith
Long Island
Jeffrey G. Stark
Milwaukee
Tricia J. Tilford
Phoenix
Julie A. Vaccarella
Chicago
Lynn L. Vandermeulen
Chicago
Scott J. Vickman
Minneapolis
Kevin C. Weinman
Charlotte
Michael E. Wendowski
Indianapolis
Tina M. Wojciechowski
Chicago
Novello
continued from page 1

honorary doctor of letters degree, was an official advisor to the American Bishops at synods in Rome in 1980 and 1987. She has also served with public and private schools and colleges, on seminary faculties, in broadcasting, as a parish and diocesan consultant and as a conference and retreat leader. Scott will be awarded an honorary doctor of humanities degree in recognition of her work in keeping the writings of her father, historian Christopher Dawson, in print.

Boehnen
continued from page 1

Boehnen is a National Merit Scholar sponsored by the Stanley Works Corp., the Richard Hoffman Collins Scholar, and the Medina County Retired Teachers Association Scholarship winner. He also received the Mehnau Medal given by the University English department for best senior essay.

The other highest ranking graduates in the University’s colleges are Melissa Rodriguez, a finance major in the College of Business, Jason Wagner, a chemical engineering major in the College of Engineering, and Marcy Castillo, a biology and theology major in the College of Science.

Castillo
continued from page 1

said, “After France I was ready to come back to Saint Mary’s.” She said, “I missed it a lot. My junior and senior years were very reaffirming of how much I liked it here.”

Castillo is highly thought of in each of her departments, Marcy said. This stems from her interest in integrating the two fields, and her interest in the liberal arts. “I really like both fields,” Castillo said. “All my interest in language and culture led me to study French. Psychology gives you a better understanding of people.”

She has brought her international perspective to the classroom, and has added to discussion in both departments, according to Renee Kingcaid, associate professor of modern languages. “Whatever she had to say was coming from a different perspective and background,” she said. “She reads very thoughtfully and she’s able to bring her insights from her psychology major into literature courses.”

She added that the French department was not surprised that Castillo had been named number one in her class. “We were not at all surprised,” she said. “We were certainly delighted.”

Castillo plans a career in international education and is still waiting to hear from the International Educational Development, a foreign program through Columbia University.

Dawson’s writings on undergraduate education were used as a blueprint in establishing the College’s Christian Culture (renamed Humanistic Studies) program. Saint Mary’s became the first college in the United States to adopt Dawson’s undergraduate interdisciplinary education plan in 1956.

Scott has held editorial positions with many British publications and served as foreign society of Authors. She is the author of “A Historian and His World,” the biography of her father. Presently, Scott is the literary executor of Dawson’s estate which involves arranging for publications of his work throughout the world.

The President’s Medal for outstanding service to Saint

Mary’s and dedication to the local community will be presented to Mary McGehey Dwan, a resident of Washington, D.C.

Dwan has served as a grade school teacher and a Project Head Start director in Washington, as national chair of the Madeleva Society at Saint Mary’s and as a member of the College’s Board of Regents.

Castillo's college career included being a Freshman Writing representative to the freshman magazine, the 1991 provost’s student appointment to the Class Council, and the 1991 advisor to the freshmen. She was an official advisor to the freshmen in Rome in 1991.

Castillo is an honorary doctor of letters degree, was an official advisor to the American Bishops at synods in Rome in 1980 and 1987. She

Sir William and the Bishops of England. In 1987 she was awarded an honorary doctor of letters degree by the University of London and served as a volunteer tutor for the Saint Mary’s of the Angels Church in London.

Order your Subscription to The Observer now!

to the graduates—

Congrats &

Best Wishes ... time flies.

Gotcha!

Your “favorite”

yearbook

advisor

Remember the sports section?!?

Darcy Mehling & Steve Tann- PHS ’86-ND ’93

You’re A Sure Winner

When You Live At

Hickory Village

Save $240!

Hurry in. For a limited time on a one-year lease.

- Beautifully Landscaped Grounds
- Pool & Clubhouse
- Laundry Facilities
- Balcony or Patio
- Air Conditioning

What are you waiting for? Call or stop by today and we’ll show you why you can’t live at Hickory Village.

Efficiencies from only $560

1-Bedrooms from only $625

2-Bedrooms from $685

- 24-hour Emergency Maintenance Service
- Free Airconditioning
- Close To Shopping

272-1880

Hickory Village

Mon. - Fri. 9-6, Sat. 10-6, Sun. 12-4

Friday, may 14, 1993

The Observer

“Your off to Great Places

Today is your day

Your mountain is waiting

So...get on your way”

-Dr. Seuss

Congratulations to Melissa Lucke & all of her dear friends in the Class of ’93.

Pam & George Lucke

You are warmly invited to attend the Senior volunteer

Send Off to be held

Saturday, May 15, 1993

at Washington Hall

For Seniors

doing volunteer work after graduation and their family and friends

Congratulations and Best Wishes to our

Graduating Seniors

Jeffrey Ajar

Andrea Auer

Jeffrey Bogemann

Brendan Blockiewicz

Thomas Buckley

Heather Cameron

Erica Chanan

Cleveland-Colston

Marilyn Crigan

Ira Dea.

Charles Day

Becky DeChellis

Brenda Drake

Adams Fails

Thomas Fearn

Vincent Fumenzella

Christopher Ford

Christopher Godino

Jabrielia Gonzell

Keith Grant

Chinetta Hart

Matthew Helminiak

Craig Henssh

Dylan Hignan

Jeffrey Holland

Jeanette Jacek

Adrian Jarrell

Timothy Kalamaros

Todd Karmerski

Dylan Lohonen

Adam Maisano

Karmeeleyah McGill

Matthew Helminiak - Outstanding Graduate in HRM/08

Adam Maisano - Outstanding Graduate in Computer Science

Jeffrey Ajar - Outstanding Graduate in Chemistry

Jeffrey Godino - Outstanding Graduate in Communications

Todd Kazmierski - Outstanding Graduate in Business

The Observer

Mon., May 14, 1993

page 6

from the Faculty and Staff of the Management Department

From the Faculty and Staff of the Management Department

Matthew Helminiak - Outstanding Graduate in HRM/08

Todd Kazmierski - Outstanding Graduate in Computer Science

Jeffrey Ajar - Outstanding Graduate in Chemistry

Jeffrey Godino - Outstanding Graduate in Communications

Todd Kazmierski - Outstanding Graduate in Business

The Observer

Mon., May 14, 1993

page 6

from the Faculty and Staff of the Management Department

Matthew Helminiak - Outstanding Graduate in HRM/08

Todd Kazmierski - Outstanding Graduate in Computer Science

Jeffrey Ajar - Outstanding Graduate in Chemistry

Jeffrey Godino - Outstanding Graduate in Communications

Todd Kazmierski - Outstanding Graduate in Business

The Observer

Mon., May 14, 1993

page 6
The Notre Dame Club of Cleveland

Congratulations
the Class of 1993

Saturday, May 14, 1993
Cleveland, Ohio

To Our Teacher-
Champagne Wishes & Caviar Dreams
May your Graduation Bubble with Excitement

Love,
Mom, Dad, Ellen, Chris,
DaDa & Grand-pa

Office of Residence Life and the Office of Student Affairs wishes to thank the 1992-93 Residence Hall Assistants for their hard work and dedication this year. Congratulations and Good Luck!

Joshua Shenk
Kira Shreward
Paul Shuga
Tina Slezis
Nick Spangler
Mary Sprankc
Patricia Stanford
DeShawn Stewart
Robin Stumpfl
Ryan Sweary
Jen Swise
Dave Tarantino
Joe Theby
John Thompson
Kimberly Trace
Joe Turbyville
Ann VeKamp
Scott Walker
Mike Warmenham
Kenna Weidner
Eddie Wetzel
Ken Wincko
Jennifer Witt
Andrea Wong
Glen Zubyed

Our deepest gratitude to the following AssistantRectors who are graduating this year.

Elizabeth A. Ahern
David J. Bianchi
Andrew H. Curoe
Patrick M. DeLong
Maria T. Fleming
Jacqueline A. Gallo
Thomas J. Quinan
Mary S. Hatch
Andrew H. Curoe
Timothy S. Hug
Andrew H. Curoe
Matthew C. Keating
Andrew H. Curoe
James F. Malloy
Andrew H. Curoe
Laura K. Malloy
Andrew H. Curoe
William W. Matthews
Andrew H. Curoe
Michael J. Messerly
William A. Pifer
Mary E. Reilly
Ann M. Schlaffman
Timothy J. Schorn
Mark G. VanRyne
Mary J. Yu

Our deepest gratitude to the following Rectors who are leaving us this year. Thank you so much for your service and caring commitment to the students of Notre Dame.

St. Mary Louise Gade, C.S.C.– Rector, Farley Hall
Ms. Laurie Brink– Rector, Pasquerilla West Hall
"Swim Team Bus Crashes"
Two members of the Notre Dame swim team were killed early Jan. 24th when a United Limo bus carrying the team overturned on the Indiana Toll Road. Freshmen Colleen Hipp and Meghan Beeler died and over 30 others were injured, including freshman Haley Scott, who remained in the hospital with serious back injuries for six weeks.

January 24, 1992

"Burtchaell to resign amid sexual misconduct charges"
Rumors surrounding Notre Dame theology professor Father Burtchaell have been confirmed by an article in this week's issue of the National Catholic Reporter (NCR) which states that Burtchaell has agreed to resign amid charges of sexual misconduct with male undergraduates.

Dec. 3, 1991

"SUFR stages day-long sit-in in Registrar's office"
A group of 60 students staged a day-long sit-in Wednesday in the Registrar's office demanding open negotiation with University President Father Edward Malloy regarding the demands raised by members of Students United For Respect (SUFR).

April 18, 1991

"St. Michael's destroyed in early morning blaze"
An explosive fire engulfed and destroyed St. Michael's Laundry in the early morning hours Thursday. By 2:30 a.m. flames could be seen burning through the roof, as inside of the building glowed brightly from the spreading flames.

Nov. 16, 1989

"CALL challenges University's pro-life commitment"
Close to 100 pro-life students challenged the University and its President Father Edward Malloy Friday, claiming that the University had failed to uphold Catholic teaching concerning abortion.

March 22, 1993

"Campus leaders react to war in Gulf"
The onset of the war in the Persian Gulf last night elicited varied reactions from campus leaders.

Jan. 17, 1990

"Loretto renovation certain; SMC community divided"
Renovation of the Church of Loretto at Saint Mary's is imminent, despite opposition from many in the Saint Mary's community, according to Mary Turgi, chairperson of the renovation committee.

Nov. 20, 1991

"Clinton speech stresses Catholic service, values"
Although drawing heavily from Catholic social teaching, Democratic presidential candidate Gov. Bill Clinton's Friday speech at Notre Dame was marked with pro-choice references directly opposite that of the Catholic Church.

Sept. 14, 1992

"Faculty, administration negotiating agreement"
Faculty and administrative representatives agreed to an April 15 settlement that will help resolve faculty concerns about their participation in the academic governance of the University.

April 22, 1992

"Sculptures ignite debate on campus"
Although Marcia Kaplan's controversial sculptures have been removed from Le Maes Hall lawn, the pieces continue to evoke questions about art exhibition on Saint Mary's campus.

Sept. 7, 1992

Editor's Note: Selections were made by members of The Observer news department.
The report suggested that the University allocate more funds for the Notre Dame Encounter (NDE), which has proven to be a valuable factor in improving gender relations.

"Expanding NDE had a very positive response and the University is more than ready to recognize the proposals," said Thomas Magill, an ex-officio trustee. "But it is important to remember that there was no proposal in terms of time scale to put the recommendations into action.”

The trustees also responded favorably to a recommendation that the University progress more quickly toward fulfilling the goals of the NCAW's Title IX, which calls for a proportional percentage of female and male athletic scholarships.

The report also recommended increasing the amount of 24 hour space on campus, which received a positive reaction from trustees. The board was opposed to a recommendation to implement co-residential housing as a five-year pilot project beginning in 1994-1995 in Siegfried Hall, Knott Hall, Pasquerilla West, Pasquerilla East or Grace Hall.

"The trustees wanted to see more student support for the co-ed housing proposal, perhaps in the form of a campus referendum," said Connelly. "They fell back on Notre Dame being a special place where co-ed housing did not belong. It was the only thing that we wanted to accomplish but couldn’t."

Other recommendations included:

- Increased marketing of female athletics;
- A push for gender equality in coverage of athletics by both on-campus and off-campus media groups;
- Expansion of University Health Services to include more gynecological care.

An extensive Health Services publicity campaign to inform students of the services they provide and the confidentiality of their care;

- The construction of an expanded student union housing facility;
- Opening the first floor of LaFortune 24 hours a day and increasing 24-hour space in dorms.

The report on the future of undergraduate education, "Futures Invention," was presented in an attempt to create a link between a desired future and a factual present in order to find new ways to meet the challenge of improving undergraduate education at the University," according to the report.

"The trustees were very receptive of our findings, especially the recommendations for improving the teaching of increasing faculty size and establishing a center for teaching," said Matthew Umhofer, committee chair.

The report was the third on undergraduate education in as many years. All three came to similar findings, according to Umhofer.

"It established the continuity of students’ concerns for undergraduate education," he said. "It showed that regardless of the approach we came up with the same report."

Compiling the report involved two workshops in which students described their perfect undergraduate education. It addresses components of an education, including classes, professors, graduate assistants, advising and the teacher-course evaluation system.

According to the report, the future of undergraduate education should include:

- Smaller classes as a way to facilitate interaction between faculty and students;
- A larger number of interdisciplinary courses offered;
- Removal of the DART system and implementation of registration through the advising system;
- A greater number of professors, and a greater incorporation of research into teaching;
- Improving teaching through the creation of a Center for Teaching;
- Reduced role for graduate assistants in determining the grades of students and actual teaching;
- A comprehensive advising system for each department;
- The addition of mid-semester course evaluations.
Graduation breaks-up Sister Chain, but not bonds

By MARA DIVIS News Writer

After two years of musical sisterhood, the women of Sister Chain, the campus' first all-female band, are graduating and planning for different paths. After their final performance for Notre Dame's Nazz band festival, the campus band will branch out, although their friendships will last after graduation, according to band members.

The members of Sister Chain have been together since they studied in the United States for a year or more. Because of their mutual interests in forming music and the friendships they formed, they decided to channel their energies toward forming a group, according to Meghan King, who sings and plays guitar.

King and Kate Beck, who also performs vocals and guitar, were friends in high school, and after playing music together their freshman year at Saint Mary's, planned to form a band when King returned from Ireland her junior year.

In Ireland, King and seniors Erin Hardin, Michelle Godwin, Erin Grefenstette, and Maureen Ireland her junior year.

"We always just played for fun," King said. "It's all timing and luck and hard work. We've been so lucky.

Since the group's start as a substitute for the opening act at the grand opening of Clárinas Dalloway's Coffeehouse in the fall of 1991, they have performed at various functions at Saint Mary's and Notre Dame, in addition to area clubs and bars, Beck said. This past spring their work led them to a third place award in Notre Dame's Nazz band festival.

His wide exposure led them to manager Mary Beth Bargar and Publicity Director Bridget McCourt as managerial staff.

We've gone way farther than we ever thought," Beck said. "We've had so much help from friends. So many people have called us about doing benefits.

Sister Chain's sound is different from the average campus band's heavy alternative twist, King said. Because they started in Ireland, they were influenced by the folk sound they encountered there.

Their sound encompasses folk, country, alternative, traditional Irish music and cover songs. In addition members write many of their own songs, although none of their work is copyrighted.

"We have a different sound," she said. "It's a lot of traditional Irish music. Our different tastes) all interwine, but we all have our own tendencies," King said.

This musical blending has taken place in their friendships, as well, according to Grefenstette, who sings and plays percussion. The presence of the friendships in this all-female band on campus has brought a sense of unity to the campus.

"We used to work as individuals, now we work as a band," she said. "The Irish music has really affected me. It's given me the confidence to go out and play music.

Beck said that because they are the first all-female band at Saint Mary's, they have brought a new tradition and identity to campus.

Sister Chain has given me a sense of artistic freedom," she said. "I thought that not enough people were taking a risk by trying something new. I never knew I could be a songwriter. I never wrote songs until Sister Chain.

Although the band has brought feelings of unity and friendship to campus, the bonds themselves together will last beyond graduation, although the band will no longer be together. Beck said.

"We have such a good chemistry," Beck said. "I do realize we have to move on. We're going to split off and do different things, but we may get back together and record.

King, an English major, hopes to continue with music after moving back to her home in Pittsburgh.

"I don't think I could survive if I weren't playing music," she said.

Grefenstette and Beck plan to move to Ann Arbor, Mich. to look for work and to explore the city's music scene.

Saying goodbye to their time together on campus will be hard because of the strong friendships they've formed and the good times they've had playing together, King said.

"It's really hard because we all love what we do and we all love music," she said. "But we're friends first and we will get back together. When we do, we'll probably play.”

Her friends in the band will be the hardest thing to leave at Saint Mary's, Beck said.

"The five of us have become really good friends," she said. "I'm ready to leave the school and the classroom and the campus, but not the friends I've made. When I'll look back on Saint Mary's, I'll think about Sister Chain.”

Hard to believe it's graduation time already.

Congratulations Brendan, we're proud of you.

Good luck in Belize next year.

Love,
Mom, Dad, Tim & Ladel
SMC seniors honor Walsh with azalea

By JENNIFER HABRYCH
Saint Mary's Editor

The Saint Mary’s Class of 1993, along with friends and family, have planted a living memorial in honor of Catherine (Kate) Walsh member of the class who died on April 4, 1993 of cardiac arrest.

The class, family, friends and residence halls made donations to the fund an azalea garden near the stone benches in the rock garden next to Lake Marian to serve as a living memorial to Walsh.

A group of Walsh’s friends along with Joanne Mackenzie, director of planned giving and special gifts, worked together to fund the garden which cost $250 for the planting and future upkeep.

“We met as a group and wanted to do something up here for Kate that we could visit since her grave is down in Texas,” said Robin Cochrane, a friend of Walsh who was in charge of the group who worked to fund the memorial.

“We wanted something tangible that would commemorate Kate and that we could visit when we came back to campus.”

The garden has been planted, but the plaque has not arrived, according to McKenzie. She said that the plaque should be in place for tomorrow’s commencement so that members of the class of the 1993 can visit the memorial before they leave the campus.
Tolerance subject of Brokaw's address

By DAVID KINNEY
Editor-in-Chief

Tom Brokaw, NBC Nightly News anchor, said he will address the urgent need for tolerance for others in American society during his speech at Notre Dame's 148th Commencement Exercises Sunday.

"I'm very concerned about how we're dividing ourselves up into single-unit groups," said Tom Brokaw.

Brokaw said Notre Dame's invitation was a great honor. Although he has no formal connections to the University, "it resonates in my childhood," says Irish poet Seamus Heaney, "Seamus Deane's creative writing has the same vertical take-off energy that marks his other work."

"The poetry is never lack-lustre—the intense emotional pressure is matched by a personal idiom that combines the intimate detail with a sidereal lexical extravagance."

The Keough professorship was established at ND with a gift from Donald Keough, chairman emeritus of the University's board of trustees, and his wife, Marilyn.

Congratulations Si(y)lpes!

"Can I straddle you? That's the only way I know how to do it!"

We'll suck it up without you!

Love,

AnnaFreder and Jenn

The College of Business Administration offers heartfelt congratulations and best wishes to our graduates of 1993

Bachelor of Business Administration
Master of Business Administration
Master of Science in Administration
KAREN FORDHAM

tracurricular activity—it has not been simply an ex-

Senior profiles

ing not as an obligation, but as life, not separate from it.

By MEREDITH

MCCULLOUGH

News

life, not separate from it

Kirsten Binda, social service

Binda strives to make service part of her

a responsibility," she said

"It

and looks forward to a career in class.

According to Binda, it was at the Center for the Homeless that she learned the to look beyond the term "homeless," to the people affected by homelessness. "Seeing this first hand," she said, "was more effective than taking a class.

Binda’s experiences at the Center combined with a Summer Service project, tutoring programs, and involvement with the Peace Institute, has peaked her interest in

"community building.

She has begun to concentrate on conflict resolution situations,

and looks forward to a career in which she can interact with different groups as a sort of li-sen to help find common ground between conflicting interests.

As of yet, her plans following graduation have not materialized, but Binda has not lost hope. "I don’t take the fact that I don’t yet have a job as a reflex-tion of my worth. All the places

I applied are not for profit," she said. "I’m waiting for grants," she added laughing. "That’s the story of my life.”

By JENNIFER HABRYCH

Fordham worked to improve campus living

When Karen Fordham began her education at Saint Mary’s four years ago the campus was quite different. Parietals did not begin until 4 p.m. on weekdays, males were required to leave picture identification between the term

days, males were required to leave picture identification between the term

Fordham has worked extensively on parietal reform efforts

at the College.

She has served as RHA pre-

ident, vice president, fundraising chairwoman, parietals

chairwoman and as the student representative for Le Mans Hall.

The Residence Hall Association

(RHA) things are very different.

Involved since its conception on campus at the beginning of the 1991-92 academic year,

Fordham has worked extensively on parietal reform efforts

at the College.

She has served as RHA pre-

ident, vice president, fundraising chairwoman, parietals

chairwoman and as the student representative for Le Mans Hall.

After a summer vacation,

"I wanted people to be involved in trying to make things on-campus better for themselves.”

After taking a break, Fordham

plans to search for a job in manufacturing.

Fordham said.

I hope people will remember that I tried to get people motivated and that I tried to get others involved,” Fordham said.

"I wanted people to be involved in trying to make things on-campus better for themselves.”

After taking a break, Fordham

plans to search for a job in manufacturing.
"Through what I have been involved in and the people I have met, it (ND) has changed all my priorities." — MIKE GRIFFIN

Griffin: A Notre Dame education is all about service

By SARAH DORAN
Associate News Editor

After four years of a Notre Dame education, senior Mike Griffin says he realizes that education should be about service.

"Notre Dame has been a total shift in my life," said the government major. "I've seen so much of liberal studies and government major. "Through what I have been involved in and the people that I have met, it has changed all my priorities."

"The biggest change is the way that I look at education," he added.

Griffin has been involved in many campus activities through student government as 1992-1993 chief of staff and through the dorms as 1991-1992 Morrissey vice-president. As chief of staff, Griffin oversaw student government commissions, including commissions of special projects, student life, social concerns, and reports to the Board of Trustees.

He was also involved with the ND for the Homeless Week. "It was basically a lot of interaction between Notre Dame and the center," he said. "We had staff members and guests of the center sleep in the dorms and a sleep out with the center also."

Griffin said serving in Morrissey was his most enjoyable work outside of student government. "It was great to work with people who are your good friends," he said.

Griffin won two awards recognizing his service to the University and outside community. the Irish Clover Award, which is presented by the student senate on behalf of the student body for outstanding service to the student body, and the John Gardner Award, which is presented by the University for leadership and service to the community beyond Notre Dame.

In the fall, Griffin will begin a one-year internship with the National Conference of Catholic Bishops/United States Catholic Conference in Washington, D.C. He will be working in the department of education conducting legislative research.

But he is unsure of his future plans after that. "I think I want to go into public service somehow, but I don't know if I want to go into politics," he said, adding that graduate school might be a possibility for him.

Sule socially concerned

By JENNIFER HABRYCH
Saint Mary's Editor

Social issues and social concerns have been the focus of Kerstin Sule's time and energy during her four years at Saint Mary's.

Sule, a senior political science/philosophy major and women's studies minor, has been involved in vast activities while at Saint Mary's. She hopes they have not only benefited her, but the community as well.

"I've really enjoyed my classes at Saint Mary's," Sule said. "I've enjoyed the students, the faculty and staff. I enjoy any opportunity we've had to get together."

Through her work on various projects, Sule has tried to bring together groups of students, professors and administrators to enhance all facets of the intellectual and social life on campus. She said that all of these groups have so much to offer and learn from one another.

Sule has attempted to foster these relationships through her membership on the Student Assembly council, the Popular Culture Group and the recycling effort on campus. She was also integral in forming discussion groups about the Gulf War and bringing lectures to campus concerning war. In addition she took part in the Urban Plunge in Pittsburgh, Pa. and worked with the St. Joseph County Literacy Council in a literary program in the area.

Sule said that while she was not involved in Student Government or other activities that people normally attribute to campus leaders, she hopes that she has left her mark as a leader on the campus.

"I hope that people remember me for my abilities to defend my beliefs and to communicate them effectively." Sule said.

In the classroom and outside of the classroom Sule has coordinated efforts between her classmates, faculty and staff in an attempt to bring about good communication and debate in the hopes that they will to learn to be confident in their beliefs as well.

Following her graduation tomorrow, Sule will return to Pittsburgh where she hopes to become involved in teaching or in development for a school system. In the next few years, she hopes to return to graduate school where she will study education and education policy.

Happy Birthday
Bryan
5-14-93 and
Congratulations on your Graduation!
5-16-93
We're very proud of you!
Love,
Mom, Dad, Kevin & Amy

Limited Edition Lithograph
Class of 93

Available at the LaFortune Information Desk

PROCEEDS GO TO THE FAMILY OF CLASSMATE TODD BROSKI

This watercolor lithograph, by senior David Colgan, captures the Dome, Sacred Heart, and Sorin Hall from a view near Burning Hall. Printed on high quality, low acid paper, this excellent watercolor will be something to cherish for many years to come.
CONGRATULATIONS
TO THE RECIPIENTS OF THE 1993 GRADUATE SCHOOL AWARDS

HUMANITIES

Robin Alan Collins, Ph.D., Philosophy
Dissertation Director:
Alvin Plantinga, O'Brien Professor of Philosophy

SOCIAL SCIENCES

Peter B. Berg, Ph.D., Economics
Dissertation Director:
Edward H. Lorenz, Assistant Professor of Finance & Business Economics

SCIENCE

Thomas A. Vihtelic, Ph.D., Biological Sciences
Dissertation Director:
David R. Hyde, Assistant Professor of Biological Sciences

ENGINEERING

Jean-Pascal Lebrat, Ph.D., Chemical Engineering
Dissertation Director:
Arvind Varma, Schmitt Professor of Chemical Engineering

The Graduate School Awards were established in 1990 to recognize superior academic achievement and research accomplishment of a graduating student in each of the Graduate School's four divisions.
Irish lacrosse opens tournament against Cavaliers

BY GEORGE DOHRMANN
Sports Writer

The return of the Notre Dame lacrosse team and reunion of its former school are the headline stories following the Irish as they travel to the University of Virginia for Saturday's opening round of the NCAA Tournament.

The Irish are ranked 15th with a 11-2 record and a No. 12 seed in the tournament. The Cavaliers carry a 9-4 mark and a No. 5 seed and ranking.

Notre Dame, established itself as the class of midwestern lacrosse and has also established itself as a national contender after earning its second consecutive tournament berth and third in the last four years.

"The Midwestern bid to the tournament has definitely done what it was supposed to do—spread the interest of lacrosse across the country," said Willie Scriggs, chair of the NCAA men's Lacrosse Committee. "Based on its play this year, Notre Dame very well may have been in contention for one of the at-large bids. Their level of play is certainly equal to the other five or six teams in consideration for those bids."

Last season the Irish fell to Johns Hopkins 13-7, and in their only other NCAA appearance in 1990 Harvard bested the Irish 9-4.

The game marks the return of Corrigan to the school where he played midfielder for three seasons and served as an assistant coach from 1987-1988. Corrigan was also considered for the Virginia head coaching position when it became available last year.

Dom Starsia was chosen to head the Virginia program and in his first year he has maintained the long tradition of success associated with Cavalier lacrosse.

Virginia has made the NCAA field 17 times, winning the title in 1972 and reaching the semifinals eight other times. "Being a No. 5 seed is very exciting for us," commented Starsia. "Everyone agreed that the top four seeds were pretty set. After not making the tournament last year, it is very exciting to earn such a high seed this year."

The Cavaliers 9-4 record is respectable, considering it includes wins over Duke, North Carolina, and Maryland. But the most important record for the Irish is the 8-0 mark the Cavaliers have posted at home this season.

"If we're going to do anything in the tournament we are going to have to learn to win on the road, but it helps having the first game at home," said Starsia.

Notre Dame is 5-1 on the road this season, coming April 9 at the hands of Duke, one of three shared opponents between the Cavaliers and the Irish. Notre Dame's 13-7 loss to Duke is countered by a 14-10 win by Virginia over the Blue Devils.

Both teams beat University of Maryland-Baltimore County, 16-4 by the Irish and 15-9 by the Cavaliers. Their only other common opponent was Hofstra, a 9-8 loser to Notre Dame but a 7-6 winner against Virginia.

"Three weeks ago I sent one of my assistants down to see Notre Dame play Duke, so we got a first hand look at what they can do," said Starsia. "They are a very young team, but beat a Hofstra team which beat us. It is going to be a tough game."

The Cavaliers are led by senior attackman Kevin Pelhke with 53 points including 30 goals. He is joined by six other Virginia players scoring in double figures, the most prominent being freshman attacker Tim Whiteley with 28 points, featuring 12 goals.

Notre Dame relies heavily on the skills of junior attacker Randy Colley who leads the team with 45 goals and 66 points. Bob Snyder is second on the team with 30 goals and 41 points.

"In a game like this, if we can keep a check on this kid Colley and play hard and well for 60 minutes I think we should have a good chance," Starsia said. The defense has been the strong point for both squads. Virginia boasts the skills of junior goalie James Ireland with a .710 save percentage. As a team they have allowed 8.6 goals per game. Ryan Jewell is set in goal after splitting time earlier in the year with senior Chris Parent. The sophomore has a .608 save percentage and has led Notre Dame to only a 7.1 goals against average.

Adding Notre Dame is the fact that Virginia is in the middle of exams and has had difficulty scheduling practices. The Irish finished exams last weekend and have had the benefit of an open slate.

---

CONGRATULATIONS
FISCHER, O'HARA-GRACE GRADUATES
(Ph.D.s, Masters, J.D.s, MBAs)

From,
FR. JENKY, SR. TRISH AND THE REST OF THE FOST STAFF

---

Monica Marcella Quirk
Thanks for all your great work and good times. We wish you the very best in the future.
-Team Commissary
LACROSSE CHAMPIONSHIPS

FIRST ROUND

- Mar. 6 at Hofstra
- Mar. 9 vs. Mt. St. Mary's W, 15-11
- Mar. 20 vs. UMBC W, 16-4

QUARTERFINALS

- Apr. 9 vs. Duke L, 7-13
- Apr. 15 vs. Air Force W, 12-9
- Apr. 17 vs. Ohio-Ohio State W, 11-7
- Apr. 24 vs. Ohio State W, 22-11

SEMIFINALS

- Apr. 3 vs. Geo-Town W, 13-10

FINALS

---

Congratulations to the Huddle's Graduating Seniors

David Appel, Charles Aragon, Laura Butlaan, Jeff Cabotaje, Diana Cespedes,
John DaCosta, Christian Darlington,
Eric Eschinger, John Flanagan,
Aey Hallenbeck, Deborah Johnson,
Jason Kaull, Erin Kenny, Aubee Loyd,
Juan Martinez, Darcy Mehling, Joe Reichert,
Jaime Ruiz, Christine Strick, Lisa Tako,
Agnes Taylor, Pat Thomas, Yolanda Turner,
Geoffrilyn Walker, and Kathleen Ziegler

GOOD LUCK!

---

CARERE OPPORTUNITY

Local weekly paper looking for someone to join the editorial department to write sports and learn all aspects of newspaper business. Computer, writing and photography experience helpful.

Call PennySaver Editor
Marcia Steffens
(219) 282-4457
2102 South Michigan St.
South Bend, IN 46613

---

"Just to be is a blessing, just to live is holy."
Abraham Heschel

Diane Abbey
Filipinas Aquino
Kathryn Albertini
Kristen Binda
Frances Biechini
Kelley Campanaro
Bridget Carroll
Elaine Cassidy
Peggy Crooks
Susam de Mink
Tyelese Dorsey
Julianne Feck
Sarah Fitzpatrick
Tara Gentile
Gabriela Gonzalez
Ann Marie Graven

Amy Hallenbeck
Amy Hardgrove
Jahmielle Harrigan
Karen Harris
Jennifer Kadlec
Christine Kavanagh
Kara Kenney
Christina Kerger
Mary King
Susan Kurkowski
Joleen Littig
Suzanne Lochner
Melissa Lucke
Kathy McDonough
Allison McCarthy
Mary McNeil

Kathleen Meaney
Angela Pearson
Ellen Permutits
Laura Pfouts
Christina Prask
Heather Rakocy
Sara Remick
Marta Roemer
Jennifer Schuster
Laurie Sessa
Margaret Smith
Robin Stumpf
Kristin TePas
Ann Verkamp
Elizabeth Vida
Diane Wong

May you be blessed.

Congratulations to all.
From the Women of Lyons Hall
Notre Dame heads to third straight NCAA Championship

By GEORGE DOHRMANN
Sports Editor

The Notre Dame men's tennis team looks to equal its performance of years past as it heads to its third straight NCAA Championships in Athens, Ga. Last season Dave DiLucia, ranked No. 1 in the nation, led the Irish to the final round play against Mississippi State in the Bulldogs' second round. The Irish faced the nation's top-ranked player at the time, but Will Forsyth's feat is even more impressive considering that Courcol was the most dominant player in collegiate tennis during the first part of the season. Courcol won both the ITA National Clay Court and the Volvo Tennis/College Championship, the first two legs of the ITA Collegiate Grand Slam. Chuck Coleman, Ron Rosas, and Mark Schmidt also posted wins earlier this year against the Bulldogs and will be looking to repeat their performance. Todd Wilson and Michael Sprouse will round out the singles participants for the Irish. Courcol (No. 3) and teammate Per Nilsson (No. 69) are the only Bulldogs ranked in the top-100 in the latest ITA Intercollegiate Rankings. Forsyth leads three Irish players ranked at the No. 16 slot. Coleman (No. 49) and Schmidt (No. 62) round out the Notre Dame players ranked.

The Irish a No. 5 ranking, but the majority of teams it will face in Athens. Along with Mississippi State, the Irish have faced No. 1 USC, No. 3 Georgia, No. 6 LSU, No. 8 Alabama, No. 9 Tennessee, and No. 11 Pepperdine. Notre Dame also played Texas, Florida, North Carolina, Kentucky, Minnesota, San Diego and New Mexico all of which are ranked in the top-25. All but three are members of the 20-team field participating in the NCAA's. Following the team competition, Notre Dame will be well represented in the individual competition. Forsyth will try his hand in singles and will team with Coleman in the doubles. Coleman is loaded with experience in NCAA doubles competition after playing with DiLucia for the last three years. Forsyth teamed with Andy Zurcher in the 1991 doubles competition. The winner of Saturday's match will likely face top-seeded USC. The Trojans faced Notre Dame in the semifinals a year ago as the top seed, but fell 5-1.
Associate News Editor studies major. "But this is an African American and a psychology/African American senior profiles By as a struggle—not academically—but culturally and socially. "It was a struggle for cultural affirmation through isolated events that I experienced at Notre Dame," said Knight, who is an African American and a psychology/African American senior. "I was a co-founder of Habari Gani, the African American student newsletter. She was also active in the Students United for Respect (SURF) sit-ins in the administration building during her sophomore year and was a member of the task force on cultural diversity. "My opinion of the University does not include hate for it, rather a sense of betrayal," she said. "I feel that they elicit a lot of hypocritical rhetoric regarding their intent to become culturally diverse."

Knight has been involved with the African American Student Alliance (previously the Black Cultural Arts Council) since her freshman year, including serving as the Alliance's vice-president and president during her junior and senior years, and was a co-founder of Habari Gani, the African American student newsletter. She was also active in the Students United for Respect (SURF) sit-ins in the administration building during her sophomore year and was a member of the task force on cultural diversity. "My opinion of the University does not include hate for it, rather a sense of betrayal," she said. "I feel that they elicit a lot of hypocritical rhetoric regarding their intent to become culturally diverse."

Knight spent the spring semester in an exchange pro- gram at the predominantly African American Clark Atlanta University in Atlanta, Georgia. "I was fed up with Notre Dame," she said. "It had gotten to the point where I needed a different experience and it was one that I really enjoyed."

"My experience at Clark Atlanta was great, especially when combined with my experience at ND," she said. Knight cites Ken Durgans, the director of minority affairs, and the African American Studies Program as the most instrumental forces in her development at Notre Dame. "They both have contributed to my growth at Notre Dame a lot," she said. "But, like most areas in the school, (the African American Studies Pro- gram) still needs to be developed."

Next year Knight will participate in a rotating internship at the University of Chicago High School in Chicago as a teacher, counselor, and researcher. She will have a full class, but is unsure if she will work as a teaching assistant next year. "I will be doing different things in the internship, includ- ing counseling individual students," she said. "This way I can get a feel for what I want to do."

Congratulations to SARAH DORAN Congratulations to YOLANDA KNIGHT

By SARAH DORAN Associate News Editor

Congratulations Stacey & Dave!! We're proud of you. By JENNIFER HABRYCH St. Mary's Student News

College is a time to experi- "I've learned a lot at this ence with a little bit of every- school, a lot more than I thing— a time to become volved in a variety of projects to discover who you are. The ads of various activities and accomplishments is long and varied, but she said that she, along with the classroom experience, has taught her a lot about life. "You experiment with a little of everything in college," Young said. "You make a lot of mistakes and you learn from all of them—that's what college is all about."

While at Saint Mary's, Young was involved in the start up of the Avenue, a campus magazine that serves as a forum for opinion, literature, art work and poetry. She has served as the editor-in-chief of the Avenue, the co-editor-in-chief of Chimes, the campus literary magazine, and president of the English club. Young was also involved with Student Gov- ernment for three years, was a representative for the English department on the Student Academic Council and served on the Board of Regents Develop- ment Committee. Through all of her involve- ment she hopes that she has provided a forum for Saint Mary's students to voice their opinion. "I hope in some ways I have provided a voice, especially through the Avenue, for allowing students to voice their opin- ion," Young said.

Besides her involvement in with campus publications and student Young was a member of the Women's Alliance, Collegiate Choir and a member of SMC above Groovy Women, which organized lec-

For Young, college has been an dures and discussions that fo-

and it was one that I really enjoyed."

"My experience at Clark At- lanta was great, especially when combined with my expe- rience at ND," she said. Knight cites Ken Durgans, ex- director of minority affairs, and the African American Studies Program as the most instrumental forces in her de- velopment at Notre Dame. "They both have contributed to my growth at Notre Dame a lot," she said. "But, like most areas in the school, (the African American Studies Pro- gram) still needs to be developed."

Next year Knight will participate in a rotating internship at the University of Chicago High School in Chicago as a teacher, counselor, and researcher. She will have a full class, but is unsure if she will work as a teaching assistant next year. "I will be doing different things in the internship, includ- ing counseling individual students," she said. "This way I can get a feel for what I want to do."

Congratulations to SARAH DORAN Congratulations to YOLANDA KNIGHT

By SARAH DORAN Associate News Editor

Congratulations Stacey & Dave!! We're proud of you. By JENNIFER HABRYCH St. Mary's Student News

College is a time to experi- "I've learned a lot at this ence with a little bit of every- school, a lot more than I thing— a time to become volved in a variety of projects to discover who you are. The ads of various activities and accomplishments is long and varied, but she said that she, along with the classroom experience, has taught her a lot about life. "You experiment with a little of everything in college," Young said. "You make a lot of mistakes and you learn from all of them—that's what college is all about."

While at Saint Mary's, Young was involved in the start up of the Avenue, a campus magazine that serves as a forum for opinion, literature, art work and poetry. She has served as the editor-in-chief of the Avenue, the co-editor-in-chief of Chimes, the campus literary magazine, and president of the English club. Young was also involved with Student Gov- ernment for three years, was a representative for the English department on the Student Academic Council and served on the Board of Regents Develop- ment Committee. Through all of her involve- ment she hopes that she has provided a forum for Saint Mary's students to voice their opinion. "I hope in some ways I have provided a voice, especially through the Avenue, for allowing students to voice their opin- ion," Young said.

Besides her involvement in with campus publications and student Young was a member of the Women's Alliance, Collegiate Choir and a member of SMC above Groovy Women, which organized lec-

For Young, college has been an dures and discussions that fo-
SISTAR MEDIA Wishes Our '93 Seniors Good Luck & Thank You!

CAMPU MEDIA SERVICES
Co-Captains: Jeff Hoelscher, Mark Kozak
DeBARTOLO MEDIA SERVICES
Jeff Burns, Rebecca Krieg, Keith McKeon, Katie O'Shea, Bill Rosemann, Jennifer Schuster

OUR CLASS OF 1993

These students and faculty honor special recognition for their achievements and contributions.

SISTAR COLLEGE CONGRATULATES

David Appel
Joe Ashby
Mike Bailey
Pete Bevacqua
Brendan Blochowicz
Casey Brown
Ronan Brown
Chris Bruno
Jon Capacci
Matt Cassey
Archive Chaney
Lou Choppauke
John Creel
Tim Crowe
Shannon Cullinan
Dennis Danekul
Steve Deick
Bill Delit
Rich Dlurowa
Chris Estes
Mike Estes
Jim Gerth
Sean Goldrick
Will Gramann
Lou Hall
Jordan Hafer
Darin Hamisch
Chris Helgerson
Rob Hendel

Craig Hentrich
Eric Jones
Sean Kelley
Ali Kozak
Bryan Krayar
Mike MacKinnon
Mark Milcovich
Doug Montgomery
Chris Munen
Mike Murphy
Ed Policy
Bob Reilly
Jeff Rhodes
Doug Rice
Joe Roberts
Morgan Ryan
Sean P. Ryan
Ron Sgarlato
Jason Schrader
Ben Schwartz
Dan Spiegel
Eric Silk
Jeremy Smith
Jeff Soucy
P. J. Stettin
Mike Stravino
Tony Von Es
Doug Viglione
Aaron Warren
Mark Woodmansee

SORIN COLLEGE CONGRATULATES

OUR CLASS OF 1993

The Observer
Friday, May 14, 1993

Four student-faculty teams receive SISTAR awards

Special to the Observer

Four student-faculty teams have been chosen for this year's Student Independent Study and Research (SISTAR) Awards at Saint Mary's.

The SISTAR program, supported by a grant from the Miami-based Knights Foundation, is now in its third year. It provides funds to students and faculty for collaborative summer research projects. Each selected student receives $3,000, while faculty members are awarded $5,000 each. The program is designed to provide students with an appreciation for academic research outside the traditional classroom environment.

This year's winners and their respective projects are:

• Catherine Adams, a junior from Louisville, Ky., and Laura Haigwood, assistant professor of English. Adams' project is entitled "Elihu Allen Starr: The Romantic Roots of a Woman-Centered Art Pedagogy," while Haigwood will explore "The Romantic Link Between Feminine and Feminism: Gender and Ideology in Wordsworth and Coleridge's "Lyrdical Ballads."

• Maree Thorson, a junior from Morris, Ill., and Zae Munn, assistant professor of music. The pair will collaborate on "Composing Two Large-Scale Works: From Creative Inception to Public Access."

• Katherine Bumb, a junior from Mandan, N.D., and Patricia Sayre, assistant professor of philosophy. Bumb and Sayre will team up for a study on "Exploring Empathy: Wittgenstein and the Problem of Private Experience."

• Lisa Hardman, a junior from Pleasant Hill, Fla., and Gerald Weiss, professor of religious studies. Hardman will study "Paul's Letter to the Romans: Ethical Guidelines in a Diverse Community" and Weiss will examine "The Question of the Sabbath in the Epistles of Paul." Student-faculty research programs at other institutions usually are restricted to the sciences, according to Saint Mary's associate dean of faculty Patrick White, coordinator of the program. The SISTAR program involves students from all academic disciplines and emphasizes a closer working relationship between the students and faculty members found in other research programs.

Saint Mary's students and faculty honored by awards

Special to the Observer

Awards for Saint Mary's faculty and students were announced at the College's annual honors convocation, Sunday, May 2.

Anne Loux, associate professor of English, was presented with the Speo Unica Award for excellence in teaching and dedicated service to the College over an extended period of time.

Joanne Snow, associate professor of mathematics, received the Maria Felia Award for excellence in teaching freshman and sophomore-level courses.

Dawson, who joined the faculty at Saint Mary's in 1983, teaches courses in calculus and analysis.

Melissa Whelan, a junior from Gaithersburg, Md., was awarded the Saint Catherine Medal, presented each year to an underclassman demonstrating high standards of personal excellence, outstanding scholarship and a strong commitment to Christian ideals.

College-wide awards, presented to students, include:

• Sister M. Franziata Kane Writing Award—Krystle Cassel, Ascendido, Calif.; Amy Schulz, Winston-Salem, N.C. and Renee Young, Muscatine, Iowa.

• Dorothy Manier Writing Award—Alexa Fugate, Richmond, Va.; Shiloh, Kan. and Jan Jenkins, South Bend.

• Helen Ceullar Award in Religious Studies—Libby Gray, South Bend.

• Sister Annice Donovan Prize for Philosphical Writing—Philip McGaughr, Dunwoody, Ga.

• Women's Studies Prize—Renee Young.

• Art—St. Luke's Award, Frances Mcmahon, Crown Point, Ind. and Sister Edna Service Award, Susan Wyffels, Geneseo, Ill.

• Biology—Mother Rose Elizabeth Award, Nicole Brunette, Granger, Ind. and George and Juanda Bick Nature Award, Kimberly Simons, Youngstown, Ohio; Accounting Award, Terri Ames, Reston, Va.; Economics Award, Cheryl Fortunak, North Liberty, Ind.; Finance Award, Jennifer Hay, St. Clair, Mich.; International Business Award, Kristina Perry, Warsaw, Ind.; Management Award, Julie Jedliniski, Wood Dale, Ill. and Marketing Award, Sandra Conner, South Lake, Wis.

• Business administration and economics—Wall Street Journal and Academic Achievement awards, Daniel Rine, Cadiz, Ohio; Frank A. Yeendel Service Award, Kimberly Simons, Youngstown, Ohio; Accounting Award, Terri Ames, Reston, Va.; Economics Award, Cheryl Fortunak, North Liberty, Ind.; Finance Award, Jennifer Hay, St. Clair, Mich.; International Business Award, Kristina Perry, Warsaw, Ind.; Management Award, Julie Jedliniski, Wood Dale, Ill. and Marketing Award, Sandra Conner, South Lake, Wis.

• Communication, dance and theatre—Communication Award, Karen Melchert, Bartlett, Ill. and Danielle Miller, Merrillville, Ind.; Excellence in Student leaders receive awards

By JENNIFER HABRYCH
Saint Mary's Editor

Efforts to create cultural awareness and diversity on the Saint Mary's campus have come a long way since the Class of 1993 entered the College their freshman year, according to Tina Buchanan, a graduating leader in the diversity movement on campus.

"The Office of Minority, International and Non-Traditional (M.I.N.T.) students began operation four years ago and with the office support great strides, have been made according to Buchanan.

"You can tell the College is moving toward the right direction," Buchanan said. "The effort has been there, but it is a long process."

The students who have taken on leadership roles during the past four years have served as role models for the students who will take their places, said Marcela Ramirez, M.I.N.T. director.

"They have played a critical role in changing the college," Ramirez said.

Buchanan, along with Delia Garcia, the new-disbanded FUERZA, Michelle Hill, of Sisters of the Neferetti and Janet Yuen, of the Pacific Basin Society have served as leaders and new models for a movement which neither Buchanan nor Ramirez think will die out in their absence.

"There are some really good up-and-coming students who will take over where we've left off," Buchanan said. She added that the ethnic diversity movement has encountered the same problems that other campus groups have.

"You have to keep students motivated," Buchanan said. "The difference is that the base of students to work with is a lot smaller to begin with."

Buchanan and Ramirez both said that in the future M.I.N.T. must reach out to all students, not just minority students.

"We want to take a real comprehensive approach to diversity on campus," Ramirez said. "We are not just an office that serves minority students, but we need to serve what you would call majority students as well."

Buchanan agrees that education is the role of the M.I.N.T. and the ethnic groups on campus.

"Through club activities and discussion groups we are getting people to understand that other groups exist outside of the homogenous community of Saint Mary's," Buchanan said. "We want to educate, not separate or cause tensions. We want to create an awareness between all groups of people on campus."

Buchanan said that the creation of M.I.N.T. at the beginning of her freshman year at Saint Mary's illustrated that the administration was moving in the direction of diversity.

"The College was at least recognizing the need for such an office," she said. "It has been great to have an office there as someone to turn to."

Ramirez agreed that Saint Mary's has made strides, but she said that nothing is perfect. Through the M.I.N.T. office she will continue to work to educate the entire campus on issues of diversity.

"We've done a lot in four years," said Ramirez who cited the increase in minority, international and non-traditional students as one the College's accomplishments.

Buchanan said these efforts need to be continued to carry out the work that has been accomplished during her four years at Saint Mary's.

"We need to educate about the differences, but also the similarities," she said. "We need to celebrate and work together. We never make a point to be exclusive."
Dear Editor:

During the current school year, I have noticed the Notre Dame and St. Mary's campuses through The Observer. My success as an athlete may be due to my being the father of an ND freshman.

I am not sure what sort of observing mechanism that your newspaper provides. A prism? A binocular? A mirror? A glass darkly? What I have perused has produced a range of feelings from pleasure and amusement to anger and disgust.

The Catholic character of Notre Dame seems to have gathered the most prolific and multifaceted treatment. Why St. Mary's is not highlighted in the context of its Catholic character, I do not know.

In your issue of April 19, Dr. Eugene Diamond spoke about some politically correct issues that would not receive discussion on the South Bend campus despite the administration's posture of presenting both sides of any argument. I am sure that some dogmatic issues would also be excluded: the Trinity includes four persons; Jesus Christ is true man but not true God; the Pope is not infallible; faith and morals. However, I believe that the success of Notre Dame has depended, continues to depend, and will forever depend upon its adherence to and projection of a truly Catholic character.

We parents recently received an "apologia" from Father Edward Malloy about the 7.5 percent increase in tuition and living charges for the fall. The increase does not offend this parent. However, I am really disappointed that the letter made no reference to the Catholic character of Notre Dame. That character figured prominently in the decision of my son becoming a Domer. Tell me that the money is needed to make our Lady of the Lake a better university and a better Catholic university. Any president of a secular university could have penned Father Mal­lroy's letter.

Notre Dame needs to generate a powerful effort to ex­ pand opportunities for its un­ dergraduates. They need the chance to participate in an ex­ panded array of available courses conducted by faculty committed to Catholicism as well as academic values.

Notre Dame seems to be embroiled in even understanding what its Catholic character means in terms of its faculty. A publication of Creighton University, the Creighton Identi­ ty, under a chapter on its be­ ing Catholic announces, "A critical function of the Catholic University is to examine that promotion in contempo­ rate society and to judge them according to Gospel norms. . . . the faculty are moral, as well as intellectual role models."

While Creighton values its faculty who are not Catholic, it also states that the university expects from all faculty "a recognition of and a respect for the Catholic identity of the uni­ versity. This Catholic identity implies, if not an acceptance of Catholic teaching on faith and morals, at least an expectation of refraining from public and public opposition to it."

The university could benefit from examining values pre­ dominant in contemporary so­ ciety and judging them ac­ cording to Catholic faith and morals. The blatant boasting in vulgar language in your newspaper about drunkenness and sexual activity among the unmarried might be one place to begin the debate.

Notre Dame can be greater as a university and as Catholic, I expect excellence in both realms so that my son can find the help he needs to mature into an intelligent and produc­ tive member of society and the Church.

Edward L. Bode
Jefferson City, MO
April 28, 1993

The Observer
NOTRE DAME OFFICE: P.O. Box 6, Notre Dame, IN 46560. Telephone: 219-631-7471

1993-94 General Board
Editor-in-Chief: David Kiniry
Managing Editor: Kevin Horan
Newspaper Editor: Meredith McCollough
Viewpoint Editor: Rolando de Aguila
Sports Editor: George Oltmann Accord Editor: Kenja Johnson
Photo Editor: Jake Peters
Contact Editor: Jennifer Instruth

Business Manager: Brian Kennedy
Advertising Manager: Anne Herron

Editorial: Kevin Horan
Sales: Paul Bracken
Production: Kathy Fong

The Observer is the independent newspaper published by the students of the University of Notre Dame du Lac and Saint Mary's College. It does not necessarily reflect the policies of the administration of either institution. The news is reported as accurately and objectively as possible. Unverified anecdotes represent the opinion of the majority of the Editor-in-Chief, Managing Editor, News Editor, Viewpoint Editor, Accord Editor, Photo Editor, Sports Editor, and Saint Mary's Editor. Comments, letters and inside columns present the views of the authors, and not necessarily those of The Observer. Viewpoint space is available to all members of the Notre Dame/Saint Mary's community and to all readers. The free expression of varying opinions through The Observer is encouraged.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Observing newspaper's character

Dear Editor:

I am not sure what sort of observing mechanism that your newspaper provides. A prism? A binocular? A mirror? A glass darkly? What I have perused has produced a range of feelings from pleasure and amusement to anger and disgust.

The Catholic character of Notre Dame seems to have gathered the most prolific and multifaceted treatment. Why St. Mary's is not highlighted in the context of its Catholic character, I do not know.

In your issue of April 19, Dr. Eugene Diamond spoke about some politically correct issues that would not receive discussion on the South Bend campus despite the administration's posture of presenting both sides of any argument. I am sure that some dogmatic issues would also be excluded: the Trinity includes four persons; Jesus Christ is true man but not true God; the Pope is not infallible; faith and morals. However, I believe that the success of Notre Dame has depended, continues to depend, and will forever depend upon its adherence to and projection of a truly Catholic character.

We parents recently received an "apologia" from Father Edward Malloy about the 7.5 percent increase in tuition and living charges for the fall. The increase does not offend this parent. However, I am really disappointed that the letter made no reference to the Catholic character of Notre Dame. That character figured prominently in the decision of my son becoming a Domer. Tell me that the money is needed to make our Lady of the Lake a better university and a better Catholic university. Any president of a secular university could have penned Father Mal­lroy's letter.

Notre Dame needs to generate a powerful effort to ex­ pand opportunities for its un­ dergraduates. They need the chance to participate in an ex­ panded array of available courses conducted by faculty committed to Catholicism as well as academic values.

Notre Dame seems to be embroiled in even understanding what its Catholic character means in terms of its faculty. A publication of Creighton University, the Creighton Identi­ ty, under a chapter on its be­ ing Catholic announces, "A critical function of the Catholic University is to examine that promotion in contempo­ rate society and to judge them according to Gospel norms. . . . the faculty are moral, as well as intellectual role models."

While Creighton values its faculty who are not Catholic, it also states that the university expects from all faculty "a recognition of and a respect for the Catholic identity of the uni­ versity. This Catholic identity implies, if not an acceptance of Catholic teaching on faith and morals, at least an expectation of refraining from public and public opposition to it."

The university could benefit from examining values pre­ dominant in contemporary so­ ciety and judging them ac­ cording to Catholic faith and morals. The blatant boasting in vulgar language in your newspaper about drunkenness and sexual activity among the unmarried might be one place to begin the debate.

Notre Dame can be greater as a university and as Catholic, I expect excellence in both realms so that my son can find the help he needs to mature into an intelligent and produc­ tive member of society and the Church.

Edward L. Bode
Jefferson City, MO
April 28, 1993

DOONESBURY

What do you mean? You only have 4 graduation tickets! You've got 4 civilian siblings!!

The Problem of Catholic Contraception at Notre Dame Graduation

May Our Lady watch over you in the future

Dear Graduates:

I would like to take this op­ portunity to extend my prayers and best wishes to the members of the Class of 1993. Commencement is a time for many mixed emotions. Pride in your achievements, excitement and apprehension about new beginnings, happiness and sadness come together as you prepare to leave.

For those of you who are graduating Seniors, I hope that we have achieved our goal of providing you with an education that integrates the life of the mind with the life of the heart. May your commitment to your faith in God and to service of His people match your dedication to your chosen vocation and profession.

Notre Dame has high expectations of its graduates. The tremendous contribution that our alumni make to society and to the Church is a testament to the importance of these high expectations. For those of you leaving with graduate and professional degrees, I hope that you will carry with you the best of the traditions as they relate to your discipline. If you bring to your chosen field a strong set of ethi­ cal convictions and a commit­ ment to justice, you will repre­ sent the very best of Notre Dame.

Finally, a note of gratitude to all of you. You not only take from here; you also give. You have made a variety of contrib­ utions to your colleagues, to the institution and to those of us who remain behind to assist students who will follow you.

May Our Lady, Notre Dame, continue to watch over you in the years ahead. We are blessed to have you as mem­ bers of the Notre Dame family.

Patricia A. O'Hara
Vice President for Student Affairs
May 11, 1993

QUOTE OF THE DAY

"Nobody's ever taught you how to live out on the street. Now, you're gonna have to get used to it."

Bob Dylan
Pass here, you're on the road to heaven.

QUOTES, P.O. Box Q, N. D., IN 46556
Catholic Smart alec, in the coronatoll of us and jab aplainations, I have started to think about the golden Dome during sunset, of Touchdown Jesus on the Golden Dome during cold December night. Where are the typical images, like the green cherry blossoms on the Main Hall, the #1 on top of Grace Hall, and the sight of Mosesממorial Triumph, as the #1. Where the typical images are cowering in fear of the current state of the university. The word "Catholic" has a meaning that organic chemistry is left unfulfilled, but rather a presence" with whom one is inspired, and moves and has one's being. In the university's endeavor as the "Notre Dame Family" remains a catchy, pleasant little slogan. What I call "May I have your attention, Shirley giving a speech" and "You shook us with a basement full of people, and twice on Sunday. Notre Dame means putting up with four years of DART, pariats, meatless baked ziti, the bookstore, Amer­ ican Studies jokes and the Commons. So, it also means becoming a part of the community, of the university, at its heart, care about its secularity it hardly matters. Therefore, a toast to the Class of 1993. Here's to our many happy returns to this campus, wearing plaid pants and complaining about how homies have it so easy compared to when we were here.

As the chant goes, we are ND.

Paul Pearson will graduate from Notre Dame this Sunday with a bachelor's degree in history. This letter was previously an Associate News Editor for The Observer.
EVENTS
Plain and Fancy, Amish Acres, 773-4188, $3 p.m. and 8 p.m.
Volunteer Senior Send-Off, Washington Hall, 10:30 a.m.
By CHRISTY FLEMING
Assistant Accent Editor

In a mere 48 hours some 2,500 Notre Dame and Saint Mary's students will be transformed into alumni. However, most of the class of 1993 are chasing careers in business. For those who haven't found jobs or simply want specialized education, graduate school is the primary option. Yet, there are a few who opt to forgo financial success by focusing on the improvement of others who are less fortunate instead. Quite a few seniors choose post-graduate service for one or two years—some even make it a lifetime.

One Notre Dame graduate found a worthwhile career by "going beyond his own circle of friends and family to reach out to others who are in need." Lou Nanni, 1984 graduate of Notre Dame, is currently the director of the Center for the Homeless. Nanni initially had aspirations for a career in law. Yet as many freshman do, Nanni's ideas began to change.

In his sophomore year he decided to pursue two majors: liberal studies and government. During this time he also became involved in various social service programs with the help of the Center for Social Concerns. Through the Big Brother Little Brother program Nanni developed a close relationship with an eight-year-old, African American boy, an experience which "had a transforming effect on my life," said Nanni.

"Developing a rapport with this child allowed me to open my eyes and my heart even more to those in desperate need—not just in need of my services, but of my support and care."

The summer between his sophomore and junior year, Nanni had the opportunity to work with the Senate in Washington, D.C. This too had a significant effect on Nanni's life. "I saw the corrupt goals of many people I encountered," he said. "In order to avoid this same selfishness, I vowed to use the limited talents given to me in order to help others, not hurt them."

"After graduating in '84, Nanni participated in the Holy Cross Associates program in Chile. "I wanted to see the United States through the eyes of shanty town dwellers." Two and a half years later, Nanni returned to the United States, "a changed man." In August he continued his service career by entering the Masters International Scholars program, originally started by Father Theodore Hesburgh.

Under this program Nanni and few other selected students lived and worked together while trying to develop a thesis for a solution to the peace problem. After he completed the masters program in June of 1988, Nanni continued to dedicate his life to service by becoming the director of the World Mission Office in Orlando, Florida for the Catholic Disease.

The purpose for this program was to promote global awareness and Nanni did so by associating the Orlando office with a sister program in the Dominican Republic.

Three years later he was appointed the National Director for the Advisory Council for Church Life at Notre Dame which was followed by his promotion to the Board of Trustees. During one of his meetings for his council duties, he visited the Center for the Homeless and decided the center would "sufficiently challenge him as a person."

"I felt fortunate to be able to attempt to rid our society of the homeless problem and offer compassion and help to a solution to the problem," said Nanni.

In March of 1991 he received the job of Executive Director of the Center and has remained ever since. Nanni also works as an adjunct professor, teaching a seminar on homelessness at Notre Dame.

Nanni is a prime example of a devoted individual who choose service not simply as temporary experience, but a life-long career.

"Many people are in great need and are often never afforded the best resources our society has to offer," said Nanni. "I hope that the recent alumni focus on being helpful to what they believe instead of worrying about being financially successful. It is much more important to focus on what we do and how we do it, than what we have and how we get it."
what?

Graduates find work abroad

By KENYA JOHNSON
Accent Editor

Christine Korchnak preferred working in a pizza parlor in Ox­ford, Ohio, to “being a ‘real’ job” in Lafayette, Indiana. She broke a record when she graduated from Purdue University, and is one of many who participated in “Work in Britain” after college.

"Work in Britain" was established 27 years ago as a part of a reciprocal arrangement between the United States and United Kingdom. Participants take a variety of jobs ranging from hotel staff in the Scottish Highlands, to blue-collar or secretarial work in New York, but most pursue work overseas in London as a marketing assistant with D'Arcy Masius, Benton & Bowles, one of Europe’s premier advertising agencies.

"I felt that I achieved full integration with British life, getting to know the way people live and how they think," said Jeff Martin, a graduate of Pittsburg State University. "It’s no more difficult finding similar work at home in America." Greenwood first participated in “Work in Britain” in the summer of 1990, and then re­entered the program after she graduated from college.

She explained that she was not "too fuzzy" about finding a job the first time, but after graduation she had professional aspirations. Greenwood is currently working in London as a marketing assistant with D’Arcy Masius, Benton & Bowles.

"I felt that I achieved full integration with British life, getting to know the way people live and how they think," he added.

"Although working at a pub might not sound like the most educational experience possible, for me it was more rewarding than my studies," said Jeff Martin, a graduate of Pittsburg State University.

"I felt that I achieved full integration with British life, getting to know the way people live and how they think," he added.

"Most have concerns about jobs, some do have to think about being a minority in these different cultures. Roberts English is an African-American graduate of Northwestern University’s School of Journalism. Although she had aspirations of being a news reporter or editor, English decided to work as a waitress at The Rock Garden in London for a year instead.

"Work in Britain," she immediately participated in the "Work in Ireland" program. As an African-American travelling abroad, English was worried about racism she might face.

"I always wanted to spend a lengthy time overseas, and working was the best way to really connect with the locals and make the trip affordable," she said.

"But as a woman of color I was concerned about possible discrimination. My concerns were based on what I heard on television or from other people."}

English claimed, however, that she hadn’t experienced any problems or experienced any discrimination in Ireland or Britain.

"Until you make the effort to learn someone else’s culture and likewise teach them about yours, you are as much to blame as they are for any ignorance which exists between the two.

"Students may participate in "Work in Britain," or similar programs during the summer, but most pursue overseas after college graduation.

Details and applications can be obtained by writing to Council on International Educational Exchange, 305 East 42nd Street, New York, New York, 10017.

"I always wanted to spend a lengthy time overseas, and working was the best way to really connect with the locals and make the trip affordable," she said.

"But as a woman of color I was concerned about possible discrimination. My concerns were based on what I heard on television or from other people."}

English claimed, however, that she hadn’t experienced any problems or experienced any discrimination in Ireland or Britain.

"Until you make the effort to learn someone else’s culture and likewise teach them about yours, you are as much to blame as they are for any ignorance which exists between the two.

"Students may participate in "Work in Britain," or similar programs during the summer, but most pursue overseas after college graduation.

Details and applications can be obtained by writing to Council on International Educational Exchange, 305 East 42nd Street, New York, New York, 10017.

"I always wanted to spend a lengthy time overseas, and working was the best way to really connect with the locals and make the trip affordable," she said.

"But as a woman of color I was concerned about possible discrimination. My concerns were based on what I heard on television or from other people."}

English claimed, however, that she hadn’t experienced any problems or experienced any discrimination in Ireland or Britain.

"Until you make the effort to learn someone else’s culture and likewise teach them about yours, you are as much to blame as they are for any ignorance which exists between the two.

"Students may participate in "Work in Britain," or similar programs during the summer, but most pursue overseas after college graduation.

Details and applications can be obtained by writing to Council on International Educational Exchange, 305 East 42nd Street, New York, New York, 10017.

"I always wanted to spend a lengthy time overseas, and working was the best way to really connect with the locals and make the trip affordable," she said.

"But as a woman of color I was concerned about possible discrimination. My concerns were based on what I heard on television or from other people."}

English claimed, however, that she hadn’t experienced any problems or experienced any discrimination in Ireland or Britain.

"Until you make the effort to learn someone else’s culture and likewise teach them about yours, you are as much to blame as they are for any ignorance which exists between the two.

"Students may participate in "Work in Britain," or similar programs during the summer, but most pursue overseas after college graduation.

Details and applications can be obtained by writing to Council on International Educational Exchange, 305 East 42nd Street, New York, New York, 10017.
Bashers should come to pray, not scoff

Father Robert Griffin
Letters to a Lonely God

who never saw the Dome. Some of them stay so busy asking, "How Catholic is Notre Dame anyway?" the question should be turned into a board game like Monopoly.

The bashers show up here with axes to grind, not even dimly aware that they are standing on the Gettysburg of a battlefield of an ancient Faith. In March, a group of pro-life activists, members of the national pro-life organization, College Activists for a Liberal Life (CALL), came on campus to hold a peaceful seven-hour sit-in outside University President Monk Malloy's office. The chutzpah of CALL founder Peter Heers shows how arrogant holy zeal can become, if it is allowed to run amok. He said: "The University of Notre Dame has not done anything to follow the teaching of the Catholic Church on abortion." Monk emphasized to CALL that Notre Dame is a pro-life institution and always has been.

"President Malloy has an obligation as a Catholic leader. He must stand in solidarity with the victims of crime."

The only thing they asked of Notre Dame was to pray at a location where abortions are being performed," replied Monk. "I gave them no commitment." Malloy was polite and kind, according to Heers, but his response was disingenuous. "President Malloy said they are content with the present course. He said he is doing other things in other areas. We will take our advice and think about it."

Call to President

We did what we wanted to do which was talk to Father Malloy with love in our heart. Praise God we got the meeting, but PRAY FOR FATHER MALLOY." One wishes that the college student who founded CALL had trusted Notre Dame to be Catholic enough to know what its appropriate response to the abortion crisis should be. If he ever wakes up and smells the coffee, he may wish that he had kept his pompous backside off the Notre Dame campus, and stayed home in bed that March day.

At the end of May, Medjugorje will import alleged visionaries from the Sundance country to speak at a convention in the Joyce Center. The Grotto is Notre Dame's own doorstep between heaven, where moral miracles are performed nightly, like Domino's pizza, to students asking for help in the darkness. Medjugorje has become famous as the watering-hole of the trusting where rosaries are turned to gold.

Even if the likelihood of that improbable event, I'd still remember what Father Hesburgh told the entire Notre Dame family on closed-circuit television in the springtime he retired. The Mother of God may now visit to Lourdes, Fatima, and those other world-famous shrines, but he has it figured out that Our Lady makes her home at Notre Dame.

If Father Hesburgh believes that, so do I, and so should you. Every night when he was on campus, keeping the night watch as President, he used to visit the Grotto, and I felt it was where he got his marching orders. Now Monk, as his successor, shows up there too, as though this was a responsibility that comes with being the University President.

The Catholic Church has been waiting for a long time for the Catholic Salks and Oppen-heimer's able to do homework for the Pope in matters of genetics and human reproduction; so much of the modern research in these fields has become Catholicism's stumbling block.

A campus on which 200 Masses are said every day, generating spiritual energy as a driving powerhouse of grace, could have a scientific mission to push through the darkness surrounding the human condition.

So have the bashers mounted a campaign to keep Notre Dame narrow in its pursuit of truth, like a demure national collegiate in the Bible Belt? If any of them should come here this weekend to scoff, I hope that instead of bashing, he will remain here to pray.
The Observer Sports Staff

Congratulations to the senior editors:

Jim Vogl
Assistant Sports Editor

Rich Kurz
Associate Sports Editor

The Observer Sports Staff congratulates its graduating seniors.

The Observer accepts class ads every business day from 9:10 to 11:30 am at the circulation office, 244 Lafontaine Ave. Classified Advertising, Dept. for opening status on 12th. All classifieds must be prepaid. The charge is $5.00 per column inch, in multiples of one inch.
SMC Class of '93 leaves hard spots to fill

By NICOLE MCCRATH
Saint Mary's News Editor

When it's all said and done, the Belles' Class of 1993 seniors were a crop of leaders and their spots will be hard to fill in the future.

Kristin Crowley
"Whatever season I was in, that was the sport I dedicated myself to," said Crowley. Crowley started all four years as a soccer forward and a basketball guard. She was co-captain for soccer and basketball and was co-president of the Student Athletic Council. In basketball, she was nationally ranked No. 3 in three-point shooting percentage by the NCAA Division III. She shot 50 percent from the floor. She was the second highest scorer on the team (286 points) and was the floor leader.

Crowley was nominated for Athlete of the Year. She received the Coaches' Award in soccer and was voted MVP in basketball. She also won this year's 1992-93 Director's Award.

According to Jo-Ann Nester, director of athletics and recreation, Crowley came back after two knee surgeries. "She's a real leader. She came back from near career-ending injuries," added Nester.

For Crowley, two moments stand out in her mind from her playing soccer and basketball. Beating St. Joseph College in soccer at St. Joseph's because they are Division II, she said. It was a tough battle, a physical game this past year. "I'm going to miss Stacy Winget and Megan Dalsaso. They are good friends and co-captains with me."

In basketball, it was defeating Bethel College in overtime, Crowley had her career high in that game. Her junior year, they beat St. Francis in the last five seconds of the game. "The Cougars missed a free throw. A Belles' forward got the ball, passed to me and I shot from the top of the key. Hit the three-pointer and we won," she said.

"The whole senior year will stick out in my mind. I'll miss everyone basically but mostly the seniors like Kim Holmes and Julie Snyder," Crowley added.

Crowley will be going to her alma mater, Monroe College, this summer and taking physics at U.C.L.A. She plans on playing for the MAAC's in September and then applying to medical or graduate schools. "It's been an excellent four years. The whole attitude of going to an all-women's college benefitted me for going into the real world."

"I'm very happy with my decision to go here. I'm not afraid to go out in the real world. I'm ready. I've been thinking about it a lot. It's been a positive four years at Saint Mary's." said Stacy Winget.

"Kristin (Crowley) and I are moving to California after graduation. I want to work somewhere in sports marketing. We hope to have a good time for a few years and then move back to the Midwest," said the business administration major.

As co-captain of the volleyball team, she was selected to the NCAA Division III All-Regional Team. Lorton was also selected to the All-Tournament Team at the Baldwin-Wallace tournament. She was ranked No. 1 in the nation in Division III in hitting percentage and No. 2 in the nation in kills per game. Lorton set two new school records in hitting percentage and kills per game. She also set new school records with 1243 total kills, kill average, total hitting attempts, hitting percentage, .963 serve percentage and total digs.

Lorton started in every game while playing both front row and back row. She also co-presided of the Student Athletic Council.

According to Nester, Lorton was honored this summer with the Baldwin-Wallace Award. She is also a tri-captain in an overall season and back row. She also co-presided of the Student Athletic Council.

"She's a four-year starter and a very talented player. She has always given a lot to the program," said Nester.

This year, Winget was the second highest scorer on the team. She also was one of the two leaders in their senior year. She is a four-year starter and a very talented player. She has always given a lot to the program," said Nester.

Stacy Winget
"I'm very happy with my decision to go here. I'm not afraid to go out in the real world. I'm ready. I've been thinking about it a lot. It's been a positive four years at Saint Mary's."

Karen Lorton
"Kristin (Crowley) and I are moving to California after graduation. I want to work somewhere in sports marketing. We hope to have a good time for a few years and then move back to the Midwest," said the business administration major.

As co-captain of the volleyball team, she was selected to the NCAA Division III All-Regional Team. Lorton was also selected to the All-Tournament Team at the Baldwin-Wallace tournament. She was ranked No. 1 in the nation in Division III in hitting percentage and No. 2 in the nation in kills per game. Lorton set two new school records in hitting percentage and kills per game. She also set new school records with 1243 total kills, kill average, total hitting attempts, hitting percentage, .963 serve percentage and total digs.

Lorton started in every game while playing both front row and back row. She also co-presided of the Student Athletic Council.

According to Nester, Lorton was honored this summer with the Baldwin-Wallace Award. She is also a tri-captain in an overall season and back row. She also co-presided of the Student Athletic Council.

According to Nester, Lorton was honored this summer with the Baldwin-Wallace Award. She is also a tri-captain in an overall season and back row. She also co-presided of the Student Athletic Council.

"She's a four-year starter and a very talented player. She has always given a lot to the program," said Nester.

This year, Winget was the second highest scorer on the team. She also was one of the two leaders in their senior year. She is a four-year starter and a very talented player. She has always given a lot to the program," said Nester.
Dear Seniors of Zahm,

The past four years, sadly enough, have come and gone. However, the memories that both you and the remaining residents of this hall share with one another will last long after you depart from here, your home away from home. Each one of you has made a lasting impression upon this university, this hall, and those who proudly refer to themselves as Zahmbies.

From the time of Freshman Orientation and those nerve-wracking days and nights spent feeling the wrath of ODIN, through four years of home football weekends (and numerous pre-game festivities, for those of you who can remember them), ZITS, the Decade Dance, SYR’s, community gatherings for prayer at Mass in our chapel, Zahm athletic contests, late night conversations with Keenan and Cavanaugh Halls, and other unique activities that are not fit for print, and now concluding with this final and most special weekend, you have been a part of an experience that is unique to Notre Dame and Zahm Hall.

We want to thank you for gladly sharing these special moments with us. Through these moments and your presence in our everyday lives, you have provided us with an example to follow as we continue on our own paths toward commencement. All the advice, time, memories, and fun that you shared will remain with us along the way and long afterward.

All of us hope that as you embark on the rest of your lives, you leave here full of those same memories. We wish you the best of luck in all of your future pursuits, that success and happiness may be found wherever you go. Please remember where you came from and that you will always have a home within the cozy confines of Zahm. Be proud of who you are and what you have achieved thus far. May God bless you.

Love,
The Men of Zahm

P.S. SEE YUH!
Irish athletes looking to qualify for NCAAs

By JASON KELLY
Sports Writer

It will be an end for some and a beginning for others when the men's and women's track teams travel to the Illini Twilight Meet tonight in Champaign, Illinois.

For most of the athletes on both teams, tonight's meet will mark the end of the season, but for others it is just the first step on the road to the NCAA Championships.

"The runners finishing up their season are just trying to end with their best time," said sophomore distance runner Stefanie Jensen. "But some other runners are looking to improve their times enough to qualify for the NCAAs."

Jensen is one of those runners. Already a provisional qualifier in the 5000 along with classmate Sarah Riley, Jensen will use tonight's meet as a warmup for next week's Santa Monica Distance Classic, where she and Riley will look to solidify a spot in the NCAA field. Riley will sit out tonight's meet to rest up for next week's race.

Both Jensen and Riley have run a 16:42, three seconds better than the NCAAs' provisional qualifying time. But the automatic qualifying time is 16:25, so they would like to shave a few seconds off their time to improve their chances of joining the field in New Orleans on June 2.

"We need to run in the low 16:30s to ensure a spot in the NCAAs," Jensen said.

Emily Husted also has an outside chance to reach the NCAAs. She remains eight seconds off the provisional pace in the 1500, and a great race tonight could get her into the field.

On the men's side, the field events dominate the NCAA hopes. John Smirek and Stuart Tyner each have a shot to join the field in the discus, while Todd Herman is already a provisional qualifier in the high jump.

John Coyle and Nate Ruder will anchor the distance events and John Cowan will look to continue his assault on the steeplechase competition.

The men's team is coming off an impressive second-place finish in the Central Collegiate Championships, where Cowan took the steeplechase crown and Coyle and Ruder eclipsed the competition in the 5000 meter run.

GOOD LUCK TO THE CLASS OF 1993 from the
ND CLUB OF ATLANTA
P.O. BOX 11772
ATLANTA, GA 30355
(404) 242-4487

FOR THE SIX OUT OF TEN PEOPLE WHO DIDN'T VOTE FOR BILL CLINTON

Yours for only $8, plus $3 shipping and handling.
(Regularly $10).
Use the order form below or call collect 219/287-8730 and say you saw it in The Observer.

TO: Maingate Enterprises*Box 915*Notre Dame, IN 46556

Name/Company/Organization

Street/P.O. Box

City, State, Zip

Quantity

Large

XLarge

XXLarge

Good luck and Good dreams to the Seniors of Pasquerilla West.

We'll miss you!

-Pasquerilla West Community-

TO OUR SON, TOM
BALLYMACELLIGOTT TO
NOTRE DAME DU LAC
THE DREAM CONTINUES:
LOVE, MOM AND DAD

Szechuan Garden
Chinese Restaurant
Open 7 Days A Week
Sun-Thu: 11:30 a.m.-9:30 p.m.
Fri & Sat: 11:30 a.m.-10:30 p.m.
Mon-Sat Lunch Special: 11:30 a.m.-3 p.m.
Sunday Buffet: 11:30 a.m.-3 p.m.
• Carry Out Service
• Largest Dine-In Chinese Restaurant In Town
• 2 Separate Banquet Rooms

255-6868
313 W. McKinley Ave.
Mishawaka